PART V.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Third Publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 19th January, 1882, and was referred to a Select Committee:—

No. 3 of 1882.

A Bill to amend the Code of Civil Procedure.

For the purpose of amending the Code of Civil Procedure; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

1. In the proviso to section 266 of the said Code, for clause (h), the following shall be substituted, namely:—“(h) the salary of a public officer, or of any servant of a railway company, when such salary does not exceed twelve rupees per mensem, and one moiety of the salary of any such officer or servant, when his salary exceeds that amount;”

2. In section 434 of the said Code, line 3, before the word “Courts”, and in section 650A of the said Code, line 1, before the word “Court”, the words “Civil or Revenue” shall be inserted; and the following words shall be added to the latter section, namely:—“The Governor General in Council may by like notification cancel any notification made under this section, but not so as to invalidate the service of any summons previously served.”

3. In section 539 of the said Code, after the word “charitable” the words “or religious” shall be inserted; in clauses (a) and (b) of the same section, for the words “of the charity,” the words “under the trust” shall be substituted, and in the last paragraph of the same section, before the word “exercised” the words “with the previous sanction of the Local Government” shall be inserted.

4. The following section shall be inserted after section 645 of the said Code (namely):—

“645A. In any Admiralty or Vice-Admiralty cause of salvage, towage or collision, the Court, whether it be exercising its original or its appellate jurisdiction, may if it think fit, and upon request of either party to such cause shall, summon to its assistance, in such manner as the Court may by rule, from time to time, direct, two competent assessors; and such assessors shall attend and assist accordingly.

“Every such assessor shall receive such fees for his attendance as the Court by rule prescribes. Such fees shall be paid by such of the parties as the Court in each case may direct.”

5. Act No. X of 1840, section two, and Act No. VII of 1880, section eighty-five, are hereby repealed.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The object of this Bill is to make two or three small amendments of the Code which the experience of the last three years has shewn to be desirable. Section 266 of the Code now exempts from attachment a moiety of the salaries of Government servants and Railway servants. It is now proposed to exempt entirely the salaries of such servants when below a certain small amount, say Rs. 12 per mensem. The proposed legislation is supported by the Local Governments of Bombay, Madras and the North-Western Provinces. The object of course is to benefit the public by providing (as far as the law can do so) that its servants shall not be reduced to a state of inefficiency by the action of their creditors.

The learned Advocate-General of Bengal has held that in section 539, which provides for suits relating to public charities, the word “charitable” does not include, as it would do in England, “religious”; there seems, therefore, no means of getting the Court to settle a scheme for the administration of a public religious endowment, and great inconvenience has been felt in consequence both in the Lower Provinces and the Panjáb. The second object of the Bill is therefore to amend this section by inserting after “charitable” the words “or religious”; and section 2 of Act No. X of 1840, which might impede the framing of a scheme for the endowment to which it relates, will be repealed.

Doubts, again, have been raised as to whether sections 434 and 650 A refer to Revenue, as well as to Civil, Courts, and whether a notification issued under the latter section can be cancelled. The Bill will preclude these doubts.

Lastly, the opportunity has been taken to transfer to its proper place in the Code the section (85) in Act VII of 1880, providing for the assistance of assessors in certain causes in Courts exercising Admiralty or Vice-Admiralty jurisdiction.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Third Publication.]

The following Report of a Select Committee, together with the Bill as settled by them, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 19th January 1882:—

We, the undersigned Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to Criminal Procedure was referred, have the honour to report that we have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the Schedule annexed to this Report.

We have made in the Bill only three important amendments:—

First, we think that the present law gives too great latitude to the Courts with regard to the examination of an accused person. The object of such examination is to give the accused an opportunity of explaining any circumstances which may tend to criminate him, and thus to enable the Court, in cases where the accused is undefended, to examine the witnesses in his interest. It was never intended that the Court should examine the accused with a view to elicit from him some statement which would lead to his conviction. We have therefore limited the power of interrogating the accused by adding to the first paragraph of section 342 the words "for the purpose of enabling the accused to explain any circumstances appearing in the evidence against him." We think the accused should always have this opportunity of explaining, and we have therefore required the Court to question him generally for that purpose before he enters on his defence.

Next, we have amended the law as to whipping. We have provided, in section 32, that no Magistrate of the second class shall pass a sentence of whipping unless specially empowered in that behalf by the Local Government. We have also provided, in section 392, that whipping shall be inflicted with a light ratan not less than half an inch in diameter, and we have abolished whipping with a cat-of-nine-tails. We have also added a clause containing the provisions of section 7 of Act VI of 1864, and in addition thereto we have prohibited the infliction of whipping on any person whom the Court considers to be more than 45 years of age.

Thirdly, we are of opinion that it is unnecessary and inexpedient to retain in section 423 the power which Appellate Courts have at present of enhancing sentences on appeals presented by convicted persons, and we have accordingly withdrawn it.

We have also made the following minor amendments in the Bill:—

CHAPTER I.—Preliminary.

At the suggestion of Colonel Weldon, the Chief Magistrate of Madras, we have omitted Madras from the saving provisions of clause (a), section 1. The Bill will thus apply to the police in the town of Madras, and we have, therefore, repealed so much of Madras Act VIII of 1867, and the Coroners' Act, 1881, as declared what provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure were applicable to the police of Madras. As, however, it is inexpedient to displace the Coroners' Act, IV of 1871, we have added a clause (e) providing that the provisions contained in sections 175 to 177 of the Bill, both inclusive, relating to inquests, shall not apply to the police in the town of Madras.

NOTE.—The chapters and sections referred to in the report are the chapters and sections of the Bill as introduced.

We have altered the definition of "complaint" so as to show that the allegation made to the Magistrate may be either oral or in writing.

We have re-drawn section 5 so as to provide clearly that an offence punishable under a law other than the Indian Penal Code is to be tried in accordance with the provisions of the Bill, but subject to any enactment regulating the manner or place of inquiring into or trying such offence.

CHAPTER II.—Constitution of Criminal Courts and Offices.

In the first paragraph of section 17 we have added words giving the District Magistrate power to make rules as to the distribution of business among the Magistrates and Benches in his district. We have also, in the third paragraph, given the Sessions Judge a similar power with regard to the distribution of business among Assistant Sessions Judges.

In section 21 we have added words expressly declaring that every Chief Magistrate shall exercise in the Presidency-town to which he is appointed all the powers conferred on him by this Code.

CHAPTER III.—Powers of Courts.

In section 31, third paragraph, we have given an Assistant Sessions Judge power to pass a sentence of transportation for a term not exceeding seven years. The Bill, following section 18 of the present Code, gave the Assistant Sessions Judge no power to pass a sentence of transportation. As the Code gives him power to pass a sentence of seven years' imprisonment, which under section 59, Indian Penal Code, he could commute to transportation for seven years, it would seem that the omission of the power of passing a sentence of transportation was merely due to an oversight in drafting.

At the suggestion of the Government of Bengal we have omitted section 38, conferring police powers on Magistrates. We consider that it is inexpedient to invest Magistrates with such powers or to make their connection with the Police more close than it is at present.

We have confined to the Local Government the power, given by section 41, of withdrawing powers conferred under the Code. Powers once conferred should not be lightly withdrawn, and we consider it expedient that District Magistrates should not be able to withdraw powers already conferred on their subordinates.

CHAPTER IV.—Aid and Information to the Magistrates, &c.

We have amended section 42 so as to provide that a person is only bound to assist a Magistrate or police-officer who reasonably demands his aid.

In clause (b) of the same section we have included attempts to injure telegraphs in the list of offences which persons are bound to assist in preventing.

Clause (d), requiring persons to assist the police in extinguishing fires, does not, we think, properly belong to a Code of Criminal Procedure, and we have therefore omitted it.

Section 45 renders it incumbent on native officers who are employed in the collection of revenue or rent of land on the part of Government or the Court of Wards to give information of certain matters to the Magistrate or police-officer. We see no reason why this duty should not also be imposed on all officers so employed, whether they are, or are not, natives of India. We have, therefore, omitted the word "native."

CHAPTER V.—Of Arrest, Escape and Re-taking.

We have made the last paragraph of section 46 run thus:—"Nothing in this section gives a right to cause the death of a person who is not accused of an offence punishable with death."

In section 52 we have provided that, when it is necessary to cause a woman to be searched, the search shall be made by another woman and with strict regard to decency.

To the persons who, under the provisions of section 54 may be arrested without warrant, we have added "any person having in his possession without lawful excuse any implement of house-breaking."

At the suggestion of the Madras Government we have provided in section 59 that any private person may arrest any person who has been proclaimed as an offender.

In section 62 we have provided that the police shall report to the Magistrate the cases of all persons detained under section 57 for refusing to give their names and addresses.

In section 67 we have added section 49 (as to breaking open doors for purposes of liberation) to the provisions applicable in cases when a person arrested, under section 66, another person who has escaped from lawful custody.

CHAPTER VI.—Processes to compel Appearance.

We have provided that section 68, which prescribes the form of summons and the persons by whom it is to be served, shall apply to the Presidency-towns.

In section 70 we allow a summons to be served in a Presidency-town by leaving a duplicate with a servant residing with the person summoned.

Section 75 required that a warrant should be sealed by the presiding officer of the Court issuing it. This, it is represented, will cause needless trouble to the presiding officer, and we have, therefore, said that the warrant shall bear the seal of the Court.

We have declared that section 85, which provides for the case of warrants directed to a police-officer, and which are to be executed beyond the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court issuing them, shall apply to the police in the towns of Calcutta and Bombay.

In the last clause of section 95, providing for the issue of a summons to produce a document or other thing, we have provided that nothing in the section shall be deemed to affect the Indian Evidence Act, sections 123 and 124—sections which regulate the giving of evidence as to affairs of State and the disclosure of official communications.

In section 104, directing search to be made in the presence of witnesses, we have provided that the list of things found in the search shall specify the place or places in which they are respectively found, and that a copy of the list, signed by the witnesses, shall be delivered to the occupant or person in charge of the place searched, if he so request.

CHAPTER VIII.—Of Security for keeping the Peace and for Good Behaviour.

The extension in section 108 of the term, for which a Magistrate may in the case of unconvicted persons require security to keep the peace, to three years is objected to. We are of opinion that the term of one year allowed by the present Code is sufficiently long, and have accordingly amended the section.

We agree with the Government of the North-Western Provinces that first class Magistrates should not be allowed to require security for good behaviour under section 111 unless they have been specially empowered in that behalf by the Local Government. We have amended the section accordingly.

To the first paragraph of the section (111) we have added words so as to allow of security for good behaviour being required from persons who habitually commit extortion, or, in order to the committing of extortion, habitually put or attempt to put persons in fear of injury. In the North-Western Provinces there is a class of bad characters who habitually extort money from respectable people by threatening to insult or beat them; and we have added this provision at the request of the Government of those Provinces, in order to enable Magistrates to protect the public against such a system of extortion.

To the first paragraph of section 118 we have added words to show that the Magistrate may, besides proceeding to inquire into the truth of the information upon which he has acted, also take such further evidence as may appear necessary.

In section 124, which provides for imprisonment in default of security, we have allowed the person so imprisoned to give the security required to the officer in charge of the jail wherein he is confined, as well as to the Court or Magistrate requiring the security.

In section 126 we have required the District Magistrate to record in writing his reasons for cancelling a bond for keeping the peace.

To the first paragraph of section 127 we have added words to show that a Magistrate can only exercise the power of discharging sureties in the case of a bond executed within the local limits of his jurisdiction.

CHAPTER X.—Public Nuisances.

We concur with the majority of officers consulted in objecting to the addition, in the third paragraph of this section, of the words "offensive to the religious feelings of any considerable section thereof," and we have accordingly struck them out.

CHAPTER XII.—Disputes as to Immoveable Property.

To section 146 we have added a paragraph to the effect that nothing in the section is to prevent a party who is called on to attend the Court from showing that no dispute exists or has existed, and that in such case the Magistrate shall cancel his order, and further proceedings shall be stayed.

To section 149 we have added a paragraph giving the Magistrate power to make orders as to the payment of costs incurred by parties to proceedings under chapter XII.

CHAPTER XIV.—Information to the Police and their Powers to investigate.

We have made the rule contained in section 163 as to statements made to the police expressly subject to the provisions of section 27 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872.

In section 167, second paragraph (when the officer in charge of a police-station may require another to issue search-warrant), we have omitted, as unnecessary, the provisions for the case where the thing searched for is found in a different district.

The last part of the first paragraph of section 168, which provides that the accused need not be forwarded to the Magistrate if the police-officer thinks that he should not be so forwarded, has been objected to on the ground that it leaves too great a discretion to the police—a discretion which it is feared they will abuse. We concur with this objection, and have therefore altered the section so as to leave the present law unchanged.

CHAPTER XV.—Jurisdiction of Criminal Courts in Enquiries and Trials.

We have amended the second paragraph of section 193 so as to authorize the District Magistrate to empower a Magistrate of the first class who has taken cognizance of a case to transfer it for enquiry or trial to any other specified and competent Magistrate.

Where a subordinate Court has refused its sanction to a prosecution for any offence mentioned in section 196, we have given power to the superior Court to grant such sanction.

CHAPTER XVI.—Complaints to Magistrates.

In section 203 we have provided that, when a Magistrate decides on postponing the issue of process and directing a local investigation, he must first record his reasons for distrusting the truth of the complaint.

We have authorized a Magistrate so postponing the issue of process to inquire into the case himself; and have also made it clear that he may order the local investigation to be made by a person not being a Magistrate or police-officer.

CHAPTER XVII.—Commencement of Proceedings before Magistrates.

In section 205 the Bill provided that, "if the case appears to be one in which according to that column a warrant should issue in the first instance, the Magistrate shall ordinarily issue his warrant." We think that it should be made clear that the Magistrate may in his discretion issue either a summons or warrant in the first instance, and have, therefore, made the sentence run thus:—"he may issue a warrant, or, if he thinks fit, a summons, for causing the accused to be brought or to appear," &c.

In the second paragraph of section 206 we have authorized the Magistrate inquiring into or trying the case, instead of the Magistrate issuing a summons, to direct the personal attendance of the accused.

CHAPTER XIX.—Of the Charge.

To section 235, which provides that three offences of the same kind within one year may be charged together, we have added a clause to show the meaning of the words "offences of the same kind."

We have made section 236, paragraph III, run thus:—"If several acts, of which one or more than one would by itself or themselves constitute an offence, constitute, when combined, a different offence, the person accused of them may be charged with and tried at one trial for the offence constituted by such acts when combined, or for any offence constituted by any one or more of such acts."

CHAPTER XXI.—Trial of Warrant-cases by Magistrates.

In section 258 we have added words to show that where an accused applies to the Magistrate to summon a witness his application can only be refused on the ground that it is made for the purpose of vexation or delay, or for defeating the ends of justice, and that, if so refused, the Magistrate shall record the ground of refusal in writing.

CHAPTER XXII.—Of Summary Trials.

We have given power to try cases summarily under section 261 to any Bench of Magistrates invested with the powers of a Magistrate of the first class, and specially empowered in this behalf by the Local Government.

To section 263 we have added a clause providing that no sentence of imprisonment for a term exceeding three months shall be passed in the case of any conviction on a summary trial.

CHAPTER XXIII.—Trials before High Courts and Courts of Session.

Section 274 gives any Judge power to enter on a charge that there is no legal evidence to sustain it, and that such entry shall have the effect of staying proceedings on the charge. It is objected that this power, which is now given only to High Court Judges, will enable a Sessions Judge to quash a commitment. We have altered the section accordingly and made it accord with the present law.

In section 283, which provides for the procedure when a juror refuses to attend, we have added a provision to meet the case of a juror not understanding the language in which evidence is given or interpreted.

To section 290 we have added a paragraph to authorize the Court to record a finding, or direct a jury to return a verdict of not guilty in a case where the accused says that he means to adduce evidence in his defence, but the Court is of opinion that there is no evidence that the accused committed the offence.

After section 310 we have inserted a section providing that, when an accused is charged with a previous conviction, that charge shall not be read out to the jurors or assessors until the accused has pleaded guilty to, or been convicted of, the substantive offence for which he is to be tried.

We have altered section 326, which provides for the summoning of assessors, so as to preclude a doubt as to whether the law requires sessions to be held on dates fixed beforehand at the commencement of each year.

To section 333 we have added words empowering the Judge to direct that the discharge, when the Advocate General stays the prosecution, shall amount to an acquittal.

CHAPTER XXIV.—General Provisions as to Inquiries and Trials.

Opinions are much divided as to the change of the law in section 337, which permits a Magistrate to tender a pardon to an accused person in any warrant case. On the whole, we are of opinion that no such change should be made, and we have accordingly amended the section.

In cases where a pardon is tendered and accepted by a person, and such person gives evidence before a Magistrate in a preliminary inquiry, we consider that he should not be forced to adhere to that evidence in a subsequent trial, through fear of being prosecuted on an alternative charge of giving false evidence either before the Magistrate or the Judge. It might happen that he was wrongly induced or coerced into giving evidence before the Magistrate. We have accordingly provided in section 339 that no prosecution for giving false evidence in a statement made under promise of pardon shall be entertained without the sanction of the High Court.

We have removed sections 337 and 338 of the Indian Penal Code from the table of compoundable offences in section 345, and placed them in the second paragraph of that section, thereby making the consent of the Court necessary to the compounding of offences under those sections.

We have added to the same table section 298, Indian Penal Code (uttering words, &c., with deliberate intent to wound religious feelings), and section 355 of the same Code (assault with intent to dishonour a person).

We have struck out the offence of cheating under section 417, Indian Penal Code, from the list of compoundable offences, in deference to almost unanimous opinion on the subject.

We have substituted the words "after hearing the evidence for the prosecution and the accused" for the words "upon concluding a trial" in the first paragraph of section 349; and we have extended the section to the case where the Magistrate trying the accused considers that he ought to be required to execute a bond to keep the peace.

CHAPTER XXV.—Mode of Taking and Recording Evidence.

We have made the provisions of section 356, as to the record of evidence, applicable to cases under chapter XII (disputes as to immoveable property).

We have exempted the Chief Court of the Panjab from the rule, contained in section 364, as to the mode of recording the examination of an accused person.

We have also provided that, when the accused does not understand the language in which his examination is recorded, it is to be interpreted to him.

CHAPTER XXVI.—Of the Judgment.

We think that, when the original judgment is recorded in a different language from that of the Court, a translation need not under section 372 be filed with the record, except when the accused so requires; and we have amended the section accordingly.

Section 373, which provides that the Court of Session shall forward a copy of its judgment to the District Magistrate, is objected to as involving unnecessary labour. We have therefore, following the present Code (section 302), required the Court to forward only a copy of the finding and sentence.

CHAPTER XXVII.—Submission of Sentences for Confirmation.

In section 375 we have given the High Court power to make or order a further inquiry to be made, as well as to take or order additional evidence to be taken, in the case of capital sentences submitted to it for confirmation.

CHAPTER XXVIII.—Of Execution.

We have amended section 388 so as to show that it is intended to allow the Court, in a case when an offender has been sentenced to fine only and to imprisonment in default of payment of fine, to suspend the execution of the sentence of imprisonment and release him on his furnishing security. We have also provided that, in the event of the fine not being realized, the Court may direct the sentence of imprisonment to be carried into effect.

Section 395 provides that, where a sentence of whipping cannot be executed, the offender shall not be sentenced in lieu of the whipping to a longer term of imprisonment than three months. This term has been generally objected to as inadequate, and we have, therefore, altered it to twelve months.

We have also provided that the section shall not be deemed to authorize a Court to inflict imprisonment for a term exceeding that to which the accused is liable by law, or that which the Court is competent to inflict.

CHAPTER XXIX.—Suspensions, Remissions and Commutations.

Instead of requiring a Judge to furnish a statement of the facts proved on a trial, and of any facts having reference to the propriety of granting an application for the suspension or remission of a sentence, we think it will be enough to require him to state his opinion as to whether the application shall be granted or refused, together with his reasons for such opinion, and we have altered section 401 accordingly.

In the last paragraph of section 402, which gives power to the Governor General in Council or the Local Government to commute sentences, we have, to remove doubts, added after the words "rigorous imprisonment" the words "for a term not exceeding that to which he might have been sentenced." We have also added after the words "simple imprisonment" the words "for a like term." It has been supposed that the corresponding section (322) of the present Code gave the Government power to commute a sentence of transportation, for instance, to a sentence of imprisonment exceeding that for which the offender was liable under the law under which he was convicted. The words we have added will, it is hoped, prevent such a misunderstanding for the future. We have also added "fine" as one of the punishments for which a sentence may be commuted.

CHAPTER XXXI.—Of Appeals.

In the last proviso to section 423 we have authorized a Court to alter or reverse the verdict of a jury if it is of opinion that such verdict is erroneous owing to a misunderstanding, on the part of the jury, of the law as laid down by the Judge.

To section 424, regulating the judgment of subordinate Appellate Courts, we have added a proviso that, unless the Appellate Court otherwise directs, the accused shall not be brought up or required to attend to hear judgment delivered.

We have in section 426 given the High Court power, in the case of an appeal by a convicted person to a Court subordinate to the High Court, to suspend the sentence and release the convicted person on bail.

In section 439 we have added to the powers of revision which may be exercised by the High Court the powers conferred on a Court of Appeal by section 196 (granting or revoking sanction to prosecute in certain cases) or on a Court by section 338 (power to direct tender of pardon) and the power of enhancing a sentence.

We have also provided that nothing in this section applies to an entry on an unsustainable charge made under section 274 by a Judge of a High Court, or shall be deemed to authorize a High Court to convert an order of acquittal into one of conviction.

CHAPTER XXXV.—Proceedings in Case of certain Offences affecting the Administration of Justice.

In section 476 (procedure in contempt cases) we have said that the Court may send the case for enquiry or trial to "the nearest Magistrate of the first class" instead of "to the District Magistrate."

We have added to section 480 (procedure in certain cases of contempt) a paragraph declaring that section 443, which says that certain Magistrates only can try European British subjects, does not apply to this section.

In section 486 we have made the whole of the chapter (XXXI) on appeals, so far as it is applicable, apply to appeals from convictions in contempt cases.

CHAPTER XXXVI.—Maintenance of Wives and Children.

We have amended the third paragraph of section 488 (order for maintenance of wives and children) so as to show that imprisonment is to be awarded only when the allowance remains unpaid after the execution of the warrant of distress.

We have added to the section a paragraph giving the Magistrate power to cancel an order for maintenance when it is proved that the wife is living in adultery, or without sufficient reason refuses to live with her husband, or that they are living separately by mutual consent.

We have also provided that evidence under this chapter shall be recorded in the presence of the husband or father, as the case may be, and in the manner prescribed in the case of summons cases.

CHAPTER XXXVII.—State-Prisoners.

This chapter has, in accordance with the wishes of the Secretary of State, been omitted from the Bill; the enactments which this chapter consolidated have been struck out of the schedule of repeals; and the form of warrant of commitment under section 491 has been omitted from schedule V.

CHAPTER XLII.—Special Rules of Evidence.

We have omitted the rule contained in section 521 as to presuming good faith in certain cases, as it conflicts with section 105 of the Indian Evidence Act.

CHAPTER XLIV.—Disposal of Property.

In the second paragraph of section 528 we have said that the High Court or Court of Session may direct the District Magistrate, instead of the committing Magistrate, to carry into effect its order for the disposal of property. The committing Magistrate might be transferred before the order was made.

We have excepted perishable property from the rule, contained in the third paragraph, that no order for the disposal of property shall be carried out till the period of appeal has elapsed, or, if an appeal is presented, till the appeal has been dismissed.

Section 532 authorizes the Court on a conviction for certain offences to order all the copies of the thing in respect of which the conviction was had, and which remain in the possession or power of the convicted person, to be destroyed. We have extended this power to copies which are in the custody of the Court.

CHAPTER XLVI.—Irregular Proceedings.

Before clause (d), section 541 (irregularities which vitiate proceedings), we have added the case where a Magistrate not being empowered by law in this behalf tries an offender.

In section 544, which provides for the case where the confession or statement of an accused person has not been duly recorded, it is provided that "unless the error injures the accused as to his defence on the merits, it shall not affect the admissibility of the statement." For this provision we have substituted the following:—"and notwithstanding anything contained in the Indian Evidence Act, section 91, such statement shall be admitted, if the error has not injured the accused as to his defence on the merits."

To the irregularities mentioned in section 548, which are not to justify the setting aside of a finding, sentence or order of a Court of competent jurisdiction, we have added irregularities in the warrant, and have included irregularities in any inquiry or other proceeding under the Code as well as irregularities in a trial.

We have also added "the omission to revise any list of jurors or assessors in accordance with section 324."

CHAPTER XLVII.—Miscellaneous.

We have amended section 560, which regulates the delivery to the military authorities of persons liable to be tried by court-martial, and given the Governor General in Council power to make rules, consistent with the Code, the Army Act, 1881, and any similar law for the time being in force, as to the cases in which persons subject to military law shall be tried by a Court constituted under the Code or by court-martial.

We have modified section 564, which gives power to the High Courts to make certain rules, and have provided that the rules for regulating the practice of High Courts not established by Royal Charter and of Courts subordinate to such Courts shall be made with the previous sanction of the Local Government. We have also added a power to make, with the like sanction, rules for regulating the execution of warrants issued under the Code for the levy of fines.

After section 565 we have added a section providing that no Judge or Magistrate shall, except with the permission of the Appellate Court to which an appeal from his judgment lies, try any case to or in which he is a party or personally interested, and that no Judge or Magistrate shall hear an appeal from an order made by himself.

Schedule I.

We think that the power which Act V of 1861, section 24, expressly confers on the police, to lay informations and apply for summonses and other legal processes, should remain intact, and we, therefore, propose to repeal only the last nine words of that section.

Schedule II.

At the request of the Government of Bombay we have made offences under section 19 of the Indian Arms Act, 1878, bailable.

Schedule III.

To the ordinary powers of Magistrates of the third class we have added the power to restore attached property (section 90).

To the ordinary powers of a Magistrate of the first class we have added the power to issue search-warrants for persons unlawfully confined (section 101), and the power to stop proceedings where there is no complaint (section 250).

To the ordinary powers of a Sub-divisional Magistrate we have added the power to direct warrants to landholders (section 78).

To the ordinary powers of a District Magistrate we have added the power to cancel bonds for keeping the peace (section 126).

Schedule IV.

We have re-arranged and amended this schedule, adding a division as to the powers with which a Sub-divisional Magistrate may be invested.

Schedule V.

We have shortened several of the forms contained in this schedule, omitted others as unnecessary, and given a form of a charge after a previous conviction.

We have made several verbal amendments in the body of the Bill. It has been duly published, and we recommend that it be passed as now amended; but first we think that it should be published thrice in the Gazette of India.

OF PROCESSES TO COMPEL APPEARANCE.

A.—Summons.

68. Every summons issued by a Court under this Code shall be in writing in duplicate signed and sealed by the presiding officer of such Court, or by such other officer as the High Court may from time to time by rule direct.

Such summons shall be served by a Police-officer; or, subject to such rules consistent with this Code as the Local Government may prescribe in this behalf, by an officer of the Court issuing it.

This section applies to the police in the towns of Calcutta and Bombay.

69. The summons shall if practicable be served personally on the person summoned, by delivering or tendering to him one of the duplicates of the summons.

Every person on whom a summons is so served shall, if so required by the serving officer, sign a receipt therefor on the back of the other duplicate.

70. Where the person summoned cannot by the exercise of due diligence be found, the summons may be served by leaving one of the duplicates for him with some adult male member of his family, or, in a Presidency-town, with his servant residing with him; and the person with whom the summons is so left shall, if so required by the serving officer, sign a receipt therefor on the back of the other duplicate.

71. If the signature mentioned in sections 69 and 70 cannot by the exercise of due diligence be obtained, the serving officer shall affix one of the duplicates of the summons to some Act X, 1872, s. 153, proviso.

72. Where the person summoned is in the active service of the Government or of a Railway Company, the Court issuing the summons shall ordinarily send it in duplicate to the head of the office in which such person is employed; and such head shall thereupon cause the summons to be served in manner provided by section 69, and shall return it to the Court with the endorsement required by that section.

73. When a Court desires that a summons issued by it shall be served at any place outside the local limits of its jurisdiction, it shall ordinarily send such summons in duplicate to a Magistrate within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the person summoned resides or is, to be there served.

74. When a summons issued by a Court is served outside the local limits of its jurisdiction, and in any case where the officer who has served a summons is not present at the hearing of the case, an affidavit, purporting to be made before a Magistrate, that such summons has been served, and a duplicate of the summons purporting to be endorsed (in manner provided by section 69 or section 70) by the person to whom it was delivered or tendered or with whom it was left, shall be admissible in evidence, and the statements made therein shall be deemed to be correct unless and until the contrary is proved.

The affidavit mentioned in this section may be attached to the duplicate of the summons and returned to the Court.

B.—Warrant of Arrest.

75. Every warrant of arrest issued by a Court under this Code shall be in writing, signed by the presiding officer, or, in the case of a Bench of Magistrates, by any member of such Bench, and shall bear the seal of the Court.

Every such warrant shall remain in force until it is cancelled by the Court which issued it, or until it is executed.

76. Any Court issuing a warrant for the arrest of any person may in its discretion direct by endorsement on the warrant that, if such person execute a bond with sufficient sureties for his attendance before the Court at a specified time and thereafter until otherwise directed by the Court, the officer to whom the warrant is directed shall take such security and shall release such person from custody.

The endorsement shall state (a) the number of sureties, (b) the amount in which they and the person for whose arrest the warrant is issued are to be respectively bound, and (c) the time at which he is to attend before the Court.

Whenever security is taken under this section, the officer to whom the warrant is directed shall forward the bond to the Court.

77. A warrant of arrest shall ordinarily be directed to one or more Police-officers, and, when issued by a Presidency Magistrate, shall always be so directed; but any other Court issuing such a warrant may, if its immediate execution is necessary and no Police-officer is immediately available, direct it to any other person or persons, and such person or persons shall execute the same.

When a warrant is directed to more officers or persons than one, it may be executed by all, or by any one or more, of them.

78. A District Magistrate or Sub-divisional Magistrate may direct a warrant to any landholder, farmer or manager of land within his district or sub-division for the arrest of any escaped convict, proclaimed offender or person who has been accused of a non-bailable offence, and who has eluded pursuit.

Such landholder, farmer or manager shall acknowledge in writing the receipt of the warrant, and shall execute it if the person for whose arrest it was issued is in, or enters on, his land or farm, or the land under his charge.

When the person against whom such warrant is issued is arrested, he shall be made over with the warrant to the nearest Police-officer, who shall cause him to be taken before a Magistrate having jurisdiction in the case, unless security is taken under section 76.

79. A warrant directed to any Police-officer may also be executed by any other Police-officer whose name is endorsed upon the warrant by the officer to whom it is directed or endorsed.

80. The Police-officer or other person executing a warrant of arrest shall notify the substance thereof to the person to be arrested and, if so required, shall show him the warrant.

81. The Police-officer or other person executing a warrant of arrest shall (subject to the provisions of section 76 as to security) without unnecessary delay bring the person arrested before the Court before which he is required by law to produce such person.

Act IV, 1877, s. 64, paras. 5, 6, 7. Such Magistrate or Police-officer shall endorse his name thereon, and such endorsement shall be sufficient authority to the Police-officer to whom the warrant is directed to execute the same within such limits, and the local police shall if so required assist such officer in executing such warrant.

Whenever there is reason to believe that the delay occasioned by obtaining the endorsement of the Magistrate or Police-officer within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the warrant is to be executed will prevent such execution, the Police-officer to whom it is directed may execute the same without such endorsement in any place beyond the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court which issued it.

This section applies to the Police in the towns of Calcutta and Bombay.

Act X, 1872, s. 169. 85. When a warrant of arrest is executed outside the district in which it was issued, the person arrested shall, unless the Court which issued the warrant is within twenty miles of the place of arrest, or is nearer than the Magistrate or Commissioner of Police within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the arrest was made, or unless security is taken under section 76, be taken before such Magistrate or Commissioner.

Act IV, 1877, s. 65, para. 1. 86. C.—Proclamation and Attachment.

87. If any Court has reason to believe (whether after taking evidence or not) that any person against whom a warrant has been issued by it has absconded or is concealing himself so that such warrant cannot be executed, such Court may publish a written proclamation requiring him to appear at a specified place and at a specified time not less than thirty days from the date of publishing such proclamation.

The proclamation shall be published as follows:—

(a) it shall be publicly read in some conspicuous place of the town or village in which such person ordinarily resides;

(b) it shall be affixed to some conspicuous part of the house or homestead in which such person ordinarily resides, or to some conspicuous place of such town or village; and

(c) a copy thereof shall be affixed to some conspicuous part of the Court-house.

A statement by the Court issuing the proclamation to the effect that the proclamation was duly published on a specified day shall be conclusive evidence that the requirements of this section have been complied with, and that the proclamation was published on such day.

88. The Court may, after issuing a proclamation under section 87, order the attachment of any property, moveable or immovable, or both, belonging to the proclaimed person.

Such order shall authorize the attachment of any property belonging to such person within the district in which it is made; and it shall authorize the attachment of any property belonging to such person without such district, when endorsed by the District Magistrate within whose district such property is situate.

If the property ordered to be attached be debt or other moveable property, the attachment under this section shall be made—

(a) by seizure; or
(b) by the appointment of a receiver; or
(c) by an order in writing prohibiting the delivery of such property to the proclaimed person or to any one on his behalf; or

(d) by all or any two of such methods, as the Court thinks fit.

If the property ordered to be attached be immovable, the attachment under this section shall, in the case of land paying revenue to Government, be made through the Collector of the District in which the land is situate, and in all other cases—

(e) by taking possession; or
(f) by the appointment of a receiver; or
(g) by an order in writing prohibiting the payment of rent or delivery of property to the proclaimed person or to any one on his behalf; or

(h) by all or any two of such methods, as the Court thinks fit.

The powers, duties and liabilities of a receiver appointed under this section shall be the same as those of a receiver appointed under Chapter XXXVI of the Code of Civil Procedure.

If the proclaimed person does not appear within the time specified in the proclamation, the property under attachment shall be at the disposal of Government; but it shall not be sold until the expiration of six months from the date of the attachment, unless it is subject to speedy and natural decay, or the Court considers that the sale would be for the benefit of the owner, in either of which cases the Court may cause it to be sold whenever it thinks fit.

Act X, 1872, ss. 173, 354. 89. If, within two years from the date of the attachment, any person whose property is or has been at the disposal of Government Act X, 1875, s. 83. under the last paragraph of section 88 appears voluntarily or is apprehended and brought before the Court by whose order the property was attached, and proves to the satisfaction of such Court that he did not abscond or conceal himself for the purpose of avoiding execution of the warrant, and that he had not such notice of the proclamation as to enable him to attend within the time specified therein, such property, or, if the same has been sold, the nett proceeds of the sale, or if part only thereof has been sold, the nett proceeds of the sale and the residue of the property, shall, after satisfying thereout all costs incurred in consequence of the attachment, be delivered to him.

D.—Other rules regarding processes.

Act X, 1872, s. 173, 354. 90. A Court may, in any case in which it is empowered by this Code to issue a summons or warrant in addition to the appearance of any person other than a juror or assessor, issue, after recording its reasons in writing, a warrant for his arrest—

Act IV, 1877, s. 140. (a) if either before the issue of such summons, or after the issue of the same but before the time fixed for his appearance, the Court sees reason to believe that he has absconded or will not obey the summons; or

(b) if at such time he fails to appear and the summons is proved to have been duly served in time to admit of his appearing in accordance therewith and no reasonable excuse is offered for such failure.

Act IV, 1877, s. 140. 91. When any person for whose appearance or arrest the officer presiding in any Court is empowered to issue a summons or warrant is present in such Court, such officer may require such person to execute a bond with or without sureties for his appearance in such Court.

Act X, 1872, s. 208, para. 2. 92. When any person who is bound by any bond taken under this Code to appear before a Court does not so appear, the officer

Any person required under this section merely to produce a document or other thing shall be deemed to have complied with the requisition if he cause such document or thing to be produced instead of attending personally to produce the same.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to affect the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, sections 123 and 124, or to apply to a letter, post-card, telegram or other document in the custody of the Postal or Telegraph Department.

95. If any document in such custody is, in the opinion of any District Magistrate, Chief Presidency Magistrate, High Court or Court of Session, wanted for the purpose of any investigation, inquiry, trial or other proceeding under this Code, such Magistrate or Court may require the Postal or Telegraph Department, as the case may be, to deliver such document to such person as such Magistrate or Court directs.

If any such document is, in the opinion of any other Magistrate or of any Commissioner of Police, or District Superintendent of Police, wanted for any such purpose, he may require the Postal or Telegraph Department, as the case may be, to cause search to be made for and to detain such document, pending the orders of any such District Magistrate, Chief Presidency Magistrate or Court.

(a) to enter, with such assistance as may be required, such place, and

(b) to search the same in manner specified in the warrant, and

(c) to take possession of any property, documents, seals, stamps or coins therein found which he reasonably suspects to be stolen, unlawfully obtained, forged, false or counterfeit, and also any such instruments and materials as aforesaid, and

(d) to convey such property, documents, seals, stamps, coins, instruments or materials before a Magistrate, or to guard the same on the spot until the offender is taken before a Magistrate, or otherwise to dispose thereof in some place of safety, and

(e) to take into custody and carry before a Magistrate every person found in such place who appears to have been privy to the deposit, sale, or manufacture or keeping of any such property, documents, seals, stamps, coins, instruments or materials, knowing or having reasonable cause to suspect the said property to have been stolen or otherwise unlawfully obtained, or the said documents, seals, stamps, coins, instruments or materials to have been forged, falsified or counterfeited, or the said instruments or materials to have been or to be intended to be used for counterfeiting coin or for forging.

99. When, in the execution of a search-warrant at any place beyond the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court which issued the same, any of the things for which search is made are found, such things, together with the list of the same prepared under the provisions hereinafter contained, shall be immediately taken before the Court issuing the warrant, unless such place is nearer to the Magistrate having jurisdiction therein than to such Court, in which case the list and things shall be immediately taken before such Magistrate; and, unless there be good cause to the contrary, such Magistrate shall make an order authorizing them to be taken to such Court.

C.—Discovery of persons wrongfully confined.

100. If any Presidency Magistrate, Magistrate of the first class or Sub-divisional Magistrate has reason to believe that any person is confined under such circumstances that the confinement amounts to an offence, he may issue a search-warrant, and the person to whom such warrant is directed may search for the person so confined; and such search shall be made in accordance therewith, and the person if found shall be immediately taken before a Magistrate, who shall make such order as in the circumstances of the case seems proper.

D.—General Provisions relating to searches.

101. The provisions of sections 43, 75, 77, 79, 82, 83 and 84 shall, so far as may be, apply to all search-warrants issued under section 96, section 98, or section 100.

102. Whenever any place liable to search or inspection under this chapter is closed, any person residing in, or being in charge of, such place shall, on demand of the officer or other person executing the warrant and on production of the warrant, allow him free ingress thereto, and afford all reasonable facilities for a search therein.

If ingress into such place cannot be so obtained, the officer or other person executing the warrant may proceed in manner provided by section 48.

103. Before making a search under this chapter, the officer or other person about to make it shall call upon two or more respectable inhabitants of the locality in which the place to be

The search shall be made in their presence, and a list of all things seized in the course of such search and of the places in which they are respectively found shall be prepared by such officer or other person and signed by such witnesses, but no person witnessing a search under this section shall be required to attend the Court as a witness of the search unless specially summoned by it.

The occupant of the place searched, or some occupant of place person in his behalf, shall, in every instance, be permitted to attend during the search, and a copy of the list prepared under this section, signed by the said witnesses, shall be delivered to such occupant or person at his request.

PART IV.

PREVENTION OF OFFENCES.

CHAPTER VIII.

OF SECURITY FOR KEEPING THE PEACE AND FOR GOOD BEHAVIOUR.

A.—Security for keeping the Peace on Conviction.

Act X, 1872, s. 489, para. 1, 490, clause 140.
Act IV, 1877, s. 208.
106. Whenever any person accused of rioting, assault or other breach of the peace, or of abetting the same, or of assembling armed men or taking other unlawful measures with the evident intention of committing the same, or any person accused of committing criminal intimidation by threatening injury to person or property, is convicted of such offence before a High Court, a Court of Session or the Court of a Presidency Magistrate, a District Magistrate, a Sub-divisional Magistrate or a Magistrate of the first class, and such Court is of opinion that it is necessary to require such person to execute a bond for keeping the peace, such Court may, at the time of passing sentence on such person, order him to execute a bond for a sum proportionate to his means, with or without sureties, for keeping the peace during such period not exceeding three years as it thinks fit to fix.

If the conviction is set aside on appeal or otherwise, the bond so executed shall become void.

B.—Security for keeping the Peace in other Cases and Security for Good Behaviour.

Act X, 1872, s. 491, 502, last para.
Act IV, 1877, s. 215, 231.
107. Whenever a Presidency Magistrate, a District Magistrate, a Sub-divisional Magistrate or a Magistrate of the first class receives information that any person is likely to commit a breach of the peace, or to do any wrongful act that may probably occasion a breach of the peace, within the local limits of such Magistrate's jurisdiction, or that there is within such limits a person who is likely to commit a breach of the peace or do any wrongful act as aforesaid in any place beyond such limits, the Magistrate may, in manner hereinafter provided, require such person to show cause why he should not be ordered to execute a bond, with or without sureties, for keeping the peace for such period not exceeding one year as the Magistrate thinks fit to fix.

108. When any Magistrate not empowered to proceed under section 107, or a Court of Session or High Court, has reason to believe that any person is likely to commit a breach of the peace or to do any wrongful act that may probably occasion a breach of the peace, and that such breach of the peace cannot be prevented otherwise than by detaining such person in custody, such Magistrate or Court may issue a warrant for his arrest (if he is not already in custody or before the Court), and may send him before a Magistrate empowered to deal with the case under section 107.

A Magistrate before whom a person is sent under this section may in his discretion detain such person in custody until the completion of the enquiry hereinafter prescribed.

109. Whenever a Presidency Magistrate, District Magistrate, Sub-divisional Magistrate or Magistrate of the first class receives information—

(a) that any person is taking precautions to conceal his presence within the local limits of such Magistrate's jurisdiction, and that there is reason to believe that such person is taking such precautions with a view to committing an offence, or

(b) that there is within such limits a person who has no ostensible means of subsistence, or who cannot give a satisfactory account of himself, such Magistrate may, in manner hereinafter provided, require such person to show cause why he should not be ordered to execute a bond, with sureties, for his good behaviour for such period not exceeding six months as the Magistrate thinks fit to fix.

110. Whenever a Presidency Magistrate, District Magistrate, Sub-divisional Magistrate or Magistrate of the first class specially empowered in this behalf by the Local Government receives information that any person within the local limits of his jurisdiction is an habitual robber, housebreaker or thief, or an habitual receiver of stolen property knowing the same to have been stolen, or that he habitually commits extortion, or in order to the committing of extortion habitually puts or attempts to put persons in fear of injury, such Magistrate may, in manner hereinafter provided, require such person to show cause why he should not be ordered to execute a bond, with sureties, for his good behaviour for such period not exceeding three years as the Magistrate thinks fit to fix.

111. The provisions of sections 109 and 110 do not apply to European British subjects in cases where they may be dealt with under the European Vagrancy Act, 1874.

112. When a Magistrate acting under section 107, section 109 or section 110 deems it necessary to require any person to show cause under such section, he shall make an order in writing, setting forth the substance of the information received, the amount of the bond to be executed, the term for which it is to be in force, and the number, character and class of sureties (if any) required.

113. If the person in respect of whom such order is made is present in court, it shall be read over to him or, if he so desires, the substance thereof shall be explained to him.

114. If such person is not present in court, the Magistrate shall issue a summons requiring him to appear, or, when such person is in custody, a warrant directing the officer in whose custody he is to bring him, before the Court:

Provided that, whenever it appears to such Magistrate, upon the report of a Police-officer or upon other information (the substance of which report or information shall be recorded by the Magistrate), that there is reason to fear the commission of a breach of the peace, and that such breach of the peace cannot be prevented otherwise than by the immediate arrest of such person, the Magistrate may at any time issue a warrant for his arrest.

115. Every summons or warrant issued under section 114 shall be accompanied by a copy of the order made under section 112, and such copy shall be delivered by the officer serving or executing such summons or warrant to the person served with, or arrested under, the same.

116. The Magistrate may, if he sees sufficient cause, dispense with the personal attendance of any person called upon to shew cause why he should not be ordered to execute a bond for keeping the peace, and may permit him to appear by a pleader.

117. When an order under section 112 has been read or explained under section 113, to a person present in Court, or when any person appears or is brought, before a Magistrate in compliance with, or in execution of, a summons or warrant issued under section 114, the Magistrate shall proceed to enquire into the truth of the information upon which he has acted, and to take such further evidence as may appear necessary.

Such enquiry shall be made, as nearly as may be practicable, where the order requires security for keeping the peace, in the manner hereinafter prescribed for conducting trials in summons-cases; and where the order requires security for good behaviour, in the manner hereinafter prescribed for conducting trials in warrant-cases, except that no charge need be framed.

For the purposes of this section the fact that a person is an habitual offender may be proved by evidence of general repute or otherwise.

118. If, upon such inquiry, it is proved that it is necessary for keeping the peace or maintaining good behaviour, as the case may be, that the person in respect of whom the inquiry is made should execute a bond with or without sureties, the Magistrate shall make an order accordingly:

Provided—
Firstly—that no person shall be ordered to give security of a nature different from, or of an amount larger than, or for a period longer than, that specified in the order made under section 112:

Secondly—that the amount of every bond shall be fixed with due regard to the circumstances of the case and shall not be excessive:

Thirdly—that when the person in respect of whom the enquiry is made is a minor, the bond shall be executed only by his sureties.

119. If, on an enquiry under section 117, it is not proved that it is necessary for keeping the peace or maintaining good behaviour, as the case may be, that the person in respect of whom the inquiry is made should execute a bond, the Magistrate shall make an entry on the record to that effect, and, if such person is in custody only for the purposes of the inquiry, shall release him, or, if such person is not in custody, shall discharge him.

C.—Proceedings in all Cases subsequent to Order to furnish Security.

120. If any person in respect of whom an order requiring security is made under section 106 or section 118 is, at the time such order is made, sentenced to, or undergoing a sentence of, imprisonment, the period for which such security is required shall commence on the expiration of such sentence.

In other cases such period shall commence on the date of such order.

121. The bond to be executed by any such person shall bind him to keep the peace or to be of good behaviour, as the case may be, and in the latter case the commission or attempt to commit, or the abetment of, any offence punishable with imprisonment, wherever it may be committed, is a breach of the bond.

122. A Magistrate may refuse to accept any surety for good behaviour offered under this chapter, on the ground that, for reasons to be recorded by the Magistrate, such surety is an unfit person.

123. If any person ordered to give security under section 106 or section 118 does not give such security on or before the date on which the period for which such security is to be given commences, he shall, except in the case next hereinafter mentioned, be committed to prison, or, if he is already in prison, be detained in prison, until such period expires or until within such period he gives the security to the Court or Magistrate which or who made the order requiring it, or to the officer in charge of the jail in which the person so ordered is detained.

When such person has been ordered by a Magistrate to give security for a period exceeding one year, such Magistrate shall, if such person does not give such security as aforesaid, issue a warrant directing him to be detained pending the orders of the Court of Session, or, if such Magistrate be a Presidency Magistrate, pending the orders of the High Court; and the proceedings shall be laid, as soon as conveniently may be, before such Court.

Such Court, after examining such proceedings and requiring any further information or evidence which it thinks necessary, may pass such order on the case as it thinks fit: Provided that the period (if any) for which any person is imprisoned for failure to give security shall not exceed three years.

Imprisonment for failure to give security for keeping the peace shall be simple.

Imprisonment for failure to give security for good behaviour may be rigorous or simple as the Court or Magistrate in each case directs.

124. Whenever the District Magistrate or a Presidency Magistrate is of opinion that any person imprisoned for failing to give security under this chapter, whether by the order of such Magistrate or that of his predecessor in office, or of some subordinate Magistrate, may be released without hazard to the community or to any other person, he may order such person to be discharged.

Whenever the District Magistrate or a Presidency Magistrate is of opinion that any person imprisoned for failing to give security under this chapter as ordered by the Court of Session or High Court may be released without such hazard, such Magistrate shall make an immediate report of the case for the orders of the Court of Session or High Court, as the case may be, and such Court may, if it thinks fit, order such person to be discharged.

125. The District Magistrate may at any time, for sufficient reasons to be recorded in writing, cancel any bond for keeping the peace executed under this chapter by order of any Court in his District not superior to his Court.

126. Any surety for the peaceable conduct or good behaviour of another person may at any time apply to a Presidency Magistrate, District Magistrate, Sub-divisional Magistrate or Magistrate of the first class to cancel any bond executed under this chapter within the local limits of his jurisdiction.

On such application being made, the Magistrate shall issue his summons or warrant, as he thinks fit, requiring the person for whom such surety is bound to appear or to be brought before him.

When such person appears or is brought before the Magistrate, such Magistrate shall cancel the bond, and shall order such person to give, for the unexpired portion of the term of such bond, fresh security of the same description as the original security. Every such order shall, for the purposes of sections 121, 122, 123 and 124, be deemed to be an order made under section 106 or section 118, as the case may be.

CHAPTER IX.

UNLAWFUL ASSEMBLIES.

127. Any Magistrate or officer in charge of a Police-station may command any unlawful assembly, or any assembly of five or more persons likely to cause a disturbance of the public peace, to disperse; and it shall thereupon be the duty of the members of such assembly to disperse accordingly.

This section applies to the Police in the towns of Calcutta and Bombay.

128. If, upon being so commanded, any such assembly does not disperse, or if without being so commanded it conducts itself in such a manner as to show a determination not to disperse, any Magistrate or officer in charge of a Police-station, whether within or without the Presidency-towns, may proceed to disperse such assembly by force, and may require the assistance of any male person, not being an officer or soldier in Her Majesty's Army or a Volunteer enrolled under the Indian Volunteers Act, 1869, and acting as such, for the purpose of dispersing such assembly, and, if necessary, arresting and confining the persons who form part of it, in order to disperse such assembly or that they may be punished according to law.

129. If any such assembly cannot be otherwise dispersed, and if it is necessary for the public security that it should be dispersed, the Magistrate of the highest rank who is present may cause it to be dispersed by military force.

130. When a Magistrate determines to disperse any such assembly by military force, he may require any Commissioned or Non-commissioned officer in command of any soldiers in Her Majesty's Army or of any Volunteers enrolled under the Indian Volunteers Act, 1869, to disperse such assembly by such force, and to arrest and confine such persons forming part of it as the Magistrate may direct, or as it may be necessary to arrest and confine in order to disperse the assembly, or that they may be punished according to law.

Every such officer shall obey such requisition in such manner as he thinks fit; but in so doing he shall use as little force, and do as little injury to person and property, as may be consistent with dispersing the assembly and arresting and detaining such persons.

Act X, 1872, s. 487. 131. When the public security is manifestly endangered by any such assembly, and when no Magistrate can be communicated with, any commissioned officer of Her Majesty's Army may disperse such assembly by military force, and may arrest and confine any persons forming part of it, in order to disperse such assembly, or that they may be punished according to law; but, if while he is acting under this section, it becomes practicable for him to communicate with a Magistrate, he shall do so, and shall thenceforward obey the instructions of the Magistrate as to whether he shall or shall not continue such action.

Power of commissioned Military officers to disperse assembly.

Act X, 1872, s. 488. 132. No prosecution against any Magistrate, Military officer, Police-officer, soldier or volunteer for any act purporting to be done under this chapter shall be instituted in any Criminal Court, except with the sanction of the Governor General in Council; and Protection against prosecution for acts done under this chapter.

Act X, 1872, ss. 488, 489, 490. (a) no Magistrate or Police-officer acting under this chapter in good faith,

(b) no officer acting under section 131 in good faith,

(c) no person doing any act in good faith in compliance with a requisition under section 128 or section 130, and

(d) no inferior officer, or soldier, or volunteer, doing any act in obedience to any order which under military law he was bound to obey, shall be deemed to have thereby committed an offence.

CHAPTER X.

PUBLIC NUISANCES.

Act X, 1872, s. 521, substituting "way" for "thoroughfare." 133. Whenever a District Magistrate, a Sub-divisional Magistrate or, when empowered by the Local Government in this behalf, a Magistrate of the first class, considers, on receiving a report or other information and on taking such evidence (if any) as he thinks fit, that any unlawful obstruction or nuisance should be removed from any way, river or channel which is or may be lawfully used by the public, or from any public place, or that any trade or occupation, or the keeping of any goods or merchandise, by reason of its being injurious to the health or physical comfort of the community, should be suppressed or removed or prohibited, or that the construction of any building, or the disposal of any substance as likely to occasion conflagration or explosion, should be prevented or stopped, or that any building is in such a condition that it is likely to fall and thereby cause injury to persons living or carrying on business in the neighbourhood or passing by, and that in consequence its removal, repair or support is necessary, or that any tank, well or excavation adjacent to any such way or public place should be fenced in such a manner as to prevent danger arising to the public,— such Magistrate may make a conditional order requiring the person causing such obstruction or nuisance, or carrying on such trade or occupation, or keeping any such goods or merchandise, or owning, possessing or controlling such building, substance, tank, well or excavation, within a time to be fixed in the order, to remove such obstruction or nuisance; or to suppress or remove such trade or occupation; or to remove such goods or merchandise; or to prevent or stop the construction of such building; or to remove, repair or support it; or to alter the disposal of such substance; or to fence such tank, well or excavation, as the case may be; or to appear before himself or some other Magistrate of the first or second class, at a time and place to be fixed by the order, and move to have the order set aside or modified in manner herein-after provided.

No order duly made by a Magistrate under this section shall be called in question in any Civil Court.

EXPLANATION.—A "public place" includes also property belonging to the State, camping grounds, and grounds left unoccupied for sanitary and recreative purposes.

134. The order shall, if practicable, be served on the person against whom it is made in manner herein provided for service of a summons.

Service or notification of order.

If such order cannot be so served, it shall be notified by proclamation, published in such manner as the Local Government may by rule direct, and a copy thereof shall be stuck up at such place or places as may be fittest for conveying the information to such person.

135. The person against whom such order is made shall—

(a) perform, within the time specified in the order, the act directed thereby; or

(b) appear in accordance with such order and either show cause against the same, or apply to the Magistrate by whom it was made to appoint a jury to try whether the same is reasonable and proper.

140. When an order has been made absolute under section 136, section 137, or section 139, the Magistrate shall give notice of the same to the person against whom the order was made, and shall further require him to perform the act directed by the order within a time to be fixed in the notice, and inform him that, in case of disobedience, he will be liable to the penalty provided by section 188 of the Indian Penal Code.

If such act is not performed within the time fixed, the Magistrate may cause it to be performed, and may recover the costs of performing it, either by the sale of any building, goods or other property removed by his order, or by the distress and sale of any other moveable property of such person within or without the local limits of such Magistrate's jurisdiction. If such other property is without such limits, the order shall authorize its attachment and sale when endorsed by the Magistrate within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the property to be attached is found.

No suit shall lie in respect of anything done in good faith under this section.

141. If the applicant by neglect or otherwise prevents the appointment of the jury, or if from any cause the jury appointed do not return their verdict within the time fixed or within such further time as the Magistrate may in his discretion allow, the Magistrate may pass such order as he thinks fit, and such order shall be executed in the manner provided by section 140.

142. If a Magistrate making an order under section 133 considers that immediate measures should be taken to prevent imminent danger or injury of a serious kind to the public, he may, whether a jury is to be, or has been, appointed or not, issue such an injunction to the person against whom the order was made as is required to obviate or prevent such danger or injury.

In default of such person forthwith obeying such injunction, the Magistrate may himself use, or cause to be used, such means as he thinks fit to obviate such danger or to prevent such injury.

No suit shall lie in respect of anything done in good faith by a Magistrate under this section.

TEMPORARY ORDERS IN URGENT CASES OF NUISANCE.

144. In cases where, in the opinion of a District Magistrate, a Sub-divisional Magistrate, or of any other Magistrate specially empowered by the Local Government or the District Magistrate to act under this section, immediate prevention or speedy remedy is desirable, such Magistrate may, by a written order stating the material facts of the case and served in manner provided by section 134, direct any person to abstain from a certain act or to take certain order with certain property in his possession, or under his management, if such Magistrate considers that such direction is likely to prevent, or tends to prevent, obstruction, annoyance or injury, or risk of obstruction, annoyance or injury, to any persons lawfully employed, or danger to human life, health or safety, or a riot or an affray.

An order under this section may be directed to a particular individual, or to the public generally when frequenting or visiting a particular place.

Any Magistrate may rescind or alter any order made under this section by himself or any Magistrate subordinate to him or by his predecessor in office.

CHAPTER XII.

DISPUTES AS TO IMMOVEABLE PROPERTY.

145. Whenever a District Magistrate, Sub-divisional Magistrate or Magistrate of the first class is satisfied from a police report or other information that a dispute likely to cause a breach of the peace exists concerning any tangible immoveable property, or the boundaries thereof, within the local limits of his jurisdiction, he shall make an order in writing stating the grounds of his being so satisfied, and requiring the parties concerned in such dispute to attend his Court, in person or by pleader, within a time to be fixed by such Magistrate, and to put in written statements of their respective claims as respects the fact of actual possession of the subject of dispute.

The Magistrate shall then, without reference to the merits of the claims of any of such parties to a right to possess the subject of dispute, peruse the statements so put in, hear the parties, receive the evidence produced by them respectively, consider the effect of such evidence, take such further evidence (if any) as he thinks necessary, and, if possible, decide whether any and which of the parties is then in such possession of the said subject.

If the Magistrate decides that one of the parties is then in such possession of the said subject, he shall issue an order declaring such party to be entitled to retain possession thereof until evicted therefrom in due course of law, and forbidding all disturbance of such possession until such eviction.

Nothing in this section shall preclude any party so required to attend from showing that no such dispute as aforesaid exists or has existed, and in such case the Magistrate shall cancel his said order, and all further proceedings thereon shall be stayed.

146. If the Magistrate decides that none of the parties is then in such possession, or is unable to satisfy himself as to which of them is then in such possession, of the subject of dispute, he may attach it until a competent Civil Court has determined the rights of the parties thereto, or the person entitled to possession thereof.

147. Whenever any such Magistrate is satisfied as aforesaid that a dispute likely to cause a breach of the peace exists concerning the right to do or prevent the doing of anything in or upon any tangible immoveable property situate within the local limits of his jurisdiction, he may inquire into the matter; and may, if it appears to him that such right exists, make an order permitting such thing to be done, or directing that such thing shall not be done, as the case may be, until the person objecting to such thing being done or claiming that such thing may be done, obtains the decision of a competent Civil Court, adjudging him to be entitled to prevent the doing of, or to do, such thing, as the case may be:

Provided that no order shall be passed under this section permitting the doing of anything where the right to do such thing is exerciseable at all times of the year, unless such right has been exercised within three months next before the institution of the inquiry; or, where the right is exerciseable only at particular seasons, unless the right has been exercised during the season next before such institution.

148. Whenever a local inquiry is necessary for the purposes of this chapter, any District Magistrate or Sub-divisional Magistrate may depute any Magistrate subordinate to him to make the inquiry, and may furnish him with such written instructions consistent with the law for the time being in force as may seem necessary for his guidance, and may declare by whom the whole or any part of the necessary expenses of the inquiry shall be paid.

The report of the person so deputed may be read as evidence in the case.

When any costs have been incurred by any party to a proceeding under this chapter for witnesses' or pleaders' fees or both, the Magistrate passing a decision under section 145, section 146 or section 147 may direct by whom such costs shall be paid, whether by such party or by any other party to the proceeding, and whether in whole or in part or proportion. All costs so directed to be paid may be recovered as if they were fines.

CHAPTER XIII.

PREVENTIVE ACTION OF THE POLICE.

149. Every Police-officer may interpose for the purpose of preventing, and shall to the best of his ability prevent, the commission of any cognizable offence.

150. Every Police-officer receiving information of a design to commit any cognizable offence shall communicate such information to the Police-officer to whom he is subordinate, and to any other officer whose duty it is to prevent or take cognizance of the commission of any such offence.

151. A Police-officer knowing of a design to commit any cognizable offence may arrest, without orders from a Magistrate and without a warrant, the person so designing, if it appears to such officer that the commission of the offence cannot be otherwise prevented.

Act X, 1872, s. 98, para. 1.

152. A Police-officer may of his own authority interpose to prevent any injury attempted to be committed in his view to any public property, moveable or immoveable, or the removal or injury of any public land-mark, or buoy or other mark used for navigation.

Act X, 1872, s. 381.

153. Any officer in charge of a Police-station may, without a warrant, enter any place within the limits of such station for the purpose of inspecting or searching for any weights or measures, or instruments for weighing, used or kept therein, whenever he has reason to believe that there are in such place any weights, measures or instruments for weighing which are false.

If he finds in such place any weights, measures or instruments for weighing which are false, he may seize the same, and shall forthwith give information of such seizure to a Magistrate having jurisdiction.

PART V.

INFORMATION TO THE POLICE AND THEIR POWERS TO INVESTIGATE.

CHAPTER XIV.

Act X, 1872, s. 112, Penal Code, s. 180.

154. Every information relating to the commission of a cognizable offence, if given orally to an officer in charge of a Police-station, shall be reduced to writing by him or under his direction, and be read over to the informant; and every such information, whether given in writing or reduced to writing as aforesaid, shall be signed by the person giving it, and the substance thereof shall be entered in a book to be kept by such officer in such form as the Local Government may prescribe in this behalf.

Act X, 1872, s. 113.

155. When information is given to an officer in charge of a Police-station of the commission within the limits of such station of a non-cognizable offence, he shall enter in a book to be kept as aforesaid the substance of such information and refer the informant to the Magistrate.

Act X, 1872, s. 110.

No Police-officer shall investigate a non-cognizable case without the order of a Magistrate of the first or second class having power to try such case or commit the same for trial, or of a Presidency Magistrate.

Act X, 1872, s. 109, 114, para. 2; v. infra, s. 183.

Any Police-officer receiving such order may exercise the same powers in respect of the investigation (except the power to arrest without warrant) as an officer in charge of a Police station may exercise in a cognizable case.

Act X, 1872, s. 109, 114, para. 2; v. infra, s. 183.

156. Any officer in charge of a Police-station may, without the order of a Magistrate, investigate any cognizable case which a Court having jurisdiction over the local area within the limits of such station would have power to enquire into or try under the provisions of Chapter XV relating to the place of inquiry or trial.

No proceeding of a Police-officer in any such case shall at any stage be called in question on the ground that the case was one which such officer was not empowered under this section to investigate.

Act X, 1872, s. 114, last para.

157. If, from information received or otherwise, an officer in charge of a Police-station has reason to suspect the commission of an offence which he is empowered under section 156 to investigate, he shall forthwith send a report of the same to a Magistrate empowered to take cognizance of such offence upon a police report, and shall proceed in person, or shall depute one of his subordinate officers to proceed, to the spot to investigate the facts and circumstances of the case, and to take such measures as may be necessary for the discovery and arrest of the offender:

(a) when any information as to the commission of any such offence is given against any person by name and the case is not of a serious nature, the officer in charge of a Police-station need not proceed in person or depute a subordinate officer to make an investigation on the spot:

(b) if it appear to the officer in charge of a Police-station that there is no sufficient ground for entering on an investigation, he shall not investigate the case.

In each of the cases mentioned in clauses (a) and (b) the officer in charge of the Police-station shall state in his said report his reasons for not fully complying with the requirements of the first paragraph of this section.

158. Every report sent to a Magistrate under section 157 shall, if the Local Government so directs, be submitted through such superior officer of Police as the Local Government, by general or special order, appoints in that behalf.

Such superior officer may give such instructions to the officer in charge of the Police-station as he thinks fit, and shall, after recording such instructions on such report, transmit the same without delay to the Magistrate.

159. Such Magistrate, on receiving such report, may, if he thinks fit, at once proceed, or depute any Magistrate subordinate to him to proceed, to hold an investigation or preliminary inquiry into, or otherwise to dispose of, the case in manner provided in this Code.

160. Any Police-officer making an investigation under this chapter may, by order in writing, require the attendance before himself of any person being within the limits of his own or

161. Any Police-officer making an investigation under this chapter may examine orally any person supposed to be acquainted with the facts and circumstances of the case, and may reduce into writing any statement made by the person so examined.

Such person shall be bound to answer truly all questions relating to such case put to him by such officer, other than questions the answers to which would have a tendency to expose him to a criminal charge or to a penalty or forfeiture.

162. No statement, other than a dying declaration, made by any person to a Police-officer in the course of an investigation under this chapter shall, if reduced into writing, be signed by the person making it, or be used as evidence against the accused.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to affect the provisions of section 27 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872.

164. Any Magistrate not being a Police-officer may record any statement or confession made to him in the course of an investigation under this chapter, or at any time afterwards before the commencement of the inquiry or trial.

f. L. R., 1 Bom. 219.

Such statements shall be recorded in such of the manners hereinafter prescribed for recording evidence as is in his opinion best fitted for the circumstances of the case. Such confessions shall be recorded and signed in the manner provided in section 364, and shall then be forwarded to the Magistrate by whom the case is to be inquired into or tried.

No Magistrate shall record any such confession unless, upon questioning the person making it, he has reason to believe that it was made voluntarily; and when he records any confession he shall make a memorandum at the foot of such record to the following effect:—

"I believe that this confession was voluntarily made. It was taken in my presence and hearing, and was read over to the person making it and admitted by him to be correct, and it contains a full and true account of the statement made by him.

"(Signed) A. B.,
"Magistrate."

165. Whenever an officer in charge of a Police-station, or a Police-officer making an investigation, considers that the production of any document or other thing is necessary to the conduct of an investigation into any offence which he is authorized to investigate, and there is reason to believe that a person to whom a summons or order under section 94 has been or might be issued will not or would not produce such document or other thing as directed in the summons or order, or when such document or other thing is not known to be in the possession of any person, such officer may search, or cause search to be made, for the same, in any place within the limits of the station of which he is in charge, or to which he is attached.

Such officer shall, if practicable, conduct the search in person.

If he is unable to conduct the search in person, and there is no other person competent to make the search present at the time, he may require any officer subordinate to him to make the search, and he shall deliver to such subordinate officer an order in writing, specifying the document or other thing for which search is to be made, and the place to be searched; and such subordinate officer may thereupon search for such thing in such place.

The provisions of this Code as to search-warrants shall, so far as may be, apply to a search made under this section.

Act X, s. 380.

166. An officer in charge of a Police-station may require an officer in charge of another Police-station, whether in the same or a different District, to cause a search to be made in any place, in any case in which the former officer might cause such search to be made within the limits of his own station.

Such officer, on being so required, shall proceed according to the provisions of section 165, and shall forward the thing found, if any, to the officer at whose request the search was made.

167. Whenever it appears that any investigation under this chapter cannot be completed within the period of twenty-four hours fixed by section 61, and there are grounds for believing that the accusation is well-founded, the officer in charge of the Police-station shall forthwith transmit to the nearest Magistrate a copy of the entries in the diary hereinafter prescribed relating to the case, and shall at the same time forward the case, and shall forward the case to such Magistrate.

Act X, 1872, s. 124, para. 2, 3 and 4.

The Magistrate to whom a case is forwarded under this section may, whether he has or has not jurisdiction to try the case, from time to time authorize the detention of the accused in such custody as such Magistrate thinks fit, for a term not exceeding fifteen days. If he has not jurisdiction to try the case or commit it for trial, and considers further detention unnecessary, he may order the accused to be forwarded to a Magistrate having such jurisdiction.

A Magistrate authorizing under this section detention in the custody of the police shall record his reasons for so doing.

If such order be given by a Magistrate other than the District Magistrate or Sub-divisional Magistrate, he shall forward a copy of his order, with his reasons for making it, to the Magistrate to whom he is immediately subordinate.

Act X, 1872, s. 123, para. 2.

168. When any subordinate Police-officer has made any investigation under this chapter, he shall report the result of such investigation to the officer in charge of the Police-station.

Act X, 1872, s. 125.

169. If, upon an investigation under this chapter, it appears to the officer in charge of the Police-station that there is not sufficient evidence or reasonable ground of suspicion to justify the forwarding of the accused to a Magistrate, such officer shall, if such person is in custody, release him on his executing a bond, with or without sureties, as such officer may direct, to appear, if and when so required, before a Magistrate empowered to take cognizance of the offence on a police report and to try the accused or commit him for trial.

Act X, 1872, ss. 123, para. 1, 12, para. 1, 130, para. 1 to 4.

170. If, upon an investigation under this chapter, it appears to the officer in charge of the Police-station that there is sufficient evidence or reasonable ground as aforesaid, such officer shall forward the accused under custody to a Magistrate empowered to take cognizance of the offence upon a police report, and to try the accused or commit him for trial; or if the offence is bailable and the accused is able to give security, shall take security from him for his appearance before such Magistrate on a day fixed and for his attendance from day to day before such Magistrate until otherwise directed.

When the officer in charge of a Police-station forwards an accused person to a Magistrate or takes security for his appearance before such Magistrate under this section, he shall send to such Magistrate any weapon or other article which it may be necessary to produce before him, and shall require the complainant, if any, and so many of the persons who appear to such officer to be acquainted with the circumstances of the case as he may think necessary, to execute a bond to appear before the Magistrate and prosecute or give evidence (as the case may be) in the matter of the charge against the accused.

If the Court of the District Magistrate or Sub-divisional Magistrate be mentioned in the bond, such Court shall be held to include any Court to which such Magistrate may refer the case for inquiry or trial, provided reasonable notice of such reference be given to such complainant or persons.

The day fixed under this section shall be the day whereon the accused person is to appear, if security for his appearance has been taken, or the day on which he may be expected to arrive at the Court of the Magistrate, if he is to be forwarded in custody.

The officer in whose presence the bond is executed shall deliver a copy thereof to one of the persons who executed it, and shall then send to the Magistrate the original with his report.

171. No complainant or witness on his way to the Court of the Magistrate shall be required to accompany a Police-officer, or shall be subjected to unnecessary restraint or inconvenience, or required to give any security for his appearance other than his own bond:

Act X, 1872, s. 131, para. 1.

Provided that, if any complainant or witness refuses to attend or to execute the bond as directed in section 170, the officer in charge of the Police-station may forward him under custody to the Magistrate, who may detain him in custody until he executes such bond, or until the hearing of the case is completed.

Act X, 1872, s. 131, para. 2.

172. Every Police-officer making an investigation under this chapter shall day by day enter his proceedings in the investigation in a diary, setting forth the time at which the information reached him, the time at which he began and closed his investigation, the place or places visited by him, and a statement of the circumstances ascertained through his investigation.

Any Criminal Court may send for the police-diaries of a case under inquiry or trial in such Court, and may use such diaries not as evidence in the case but to aid it in such inquiry or trial. Neither the accused nor his agents shall be entitled to call for such diaries, nor shall he or they be entitled to see them merely because they are referred to by the Court; but if they are used by the Police-officer who made them to refresh his memory, or if the Court uses them for the purpose of contradicting such Police-officer, the provisions of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, section 161 or section 145, as the case may be, shall apply.

173. Every investigation under this chapter shall be completed without unnecessary delay, and, as soon as it is completed, the officer in charge of the Police-station shall forward to a Magistrate empowered to take cognizance of the offence on a police report a report in the form prescribed by the Local Government, setting forth the names of the parties, the nature of the information and the names of the persons who appear to be acquainted with the circumstances of the case, and stating whether the accused person has been forwarded in custody, or has been released on his bond, and, if so, whether with or without sureties.

Where a superior officer of police has been appointed under section 158, the report shall be submitted through him, and he may, pending the orders of the Magistrate, direct the officer in charge of the Police-station to make further investigation.

Whenever it appears from a report forwarded under this section that the accused has been released on his bond, the Magistrate shall make such order for the discharge of such bond or otherwise as he thinks fit.

Act X, 1872, s. 133.

174. Every officer in charge of a Police-station, Police to inquire and on receiving information that report on suicide, &c. a person—

(a) has committed suicide, or
(b) has been killed by another, or by an animal, or by machinery, or by an accident, or

(c) has died under circumstances raising a reasonable suspicion that some other person has committed an offence,

This power may be exercised so as to save Military Courts of Inquiry.

shall immediately give intimation thereof to the nearest Magistrate empowered to hold inquests, and, unless otherwise directed by any rule prescribed by the Local Government, or by any general or special order of the District or Sub-divisional Magistrate, shall proceed to the place where the body of such deceased person is, and there, in the presence of two or more respectable inhabitants of the neighbourhood, shall make an investigation, and draw up a report of the apparent cause of death, describing such wounds, fractures, bruises and other marks of injury as may be found on the body, and stating in what manner, or by what weapon or instrument (if any) such marks appear to have been inflicted.

The report shall be signed by such Police-officer and other persons, or by so many of them as concur therein, and shall be forthwith forwarded to the District Magistrate or the Sub-divisional Magistrate.

When there is any doubt regarding the cause of death, or when for any other reason the Police-officer considers it expedient so to do, he shall, subject to such rules as the Local Government may prescribe in this behalf, forward the body, with a view to its being examined, to the nearest Civil Surgeon, or other medical officer appointed in this behalf by the Local Government, if the state of the weather and the distance admit of its being so forwarded without risk of such putrefaction on the road as would render such examination useless.

In the Presidencies of Fort St. George and Bombay, investigations under this section may be made by the Head of the village, who shall then report the result to the nearest Magistrate authorized to hold inquests.

The following Magistrates are empowered to hold inquests; namely, any District Magistrate or Sub-divisional Magistrate, and any Magistrate specially empowered in this behalf by the Local Government or the District Magistrate.

175. An officer in charge of a Police-station may, by order in writing, summon two or more persons as aforesaid for the purpose of the said investigation, and any other person who appears to be acquainted with the facts of the case. Every person so summoned shall be bound to attend and to answer truly all questions other than questions the answers to which would have a tendency to expose him to a criminal charge, or to a penalty or forfeiture.

If the facts do not disclose a cognizable offence to which section 170 applies, such persons shall not be required by the Police-officer to attend a Magistrate's Court.

176. When any person dies while in the custody of the police, the nearest Magistrate empowered to hold inquests shall, and in any other case mentioned in section 174, clauses (a), (b) and (c) any Magistrate so empowered may, hold an inquiry into the cause of death, either instead of, or in addition to, the investigation held by the Police-officer; and if he does so, he shall have all the powers in conducting it which he would have in holding an inquiry into an offence. The Magistrate holding such an inquiry shall record the evidence taken by him in connection therewith in any of the manners hereinafter prescribed, according to the circumstances of the case.

Whenever such Magistrate considers it expedient to make an examination of the dead body of any person who has been already interred, in order to discover the cause of his death, the Magistrate may cause the body to be disinterred and examined.

Inquiry by Magistrate into cause of death.

Power to disinter corpse.

Power to order cases to be tried in different Sessions Divisions.

179. When a person is accused of the commission of any offence by reason of anything which has been done, and of any consequence which has ensued, such offence may be inquired into or tried by a Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction any such thing has been done, or any such consequence has ensued.

(a) A is wounded within the local limits of the jurisdiction of Court X and dies within the local limits of the jurisdiction of Court Z. The offence of the culpable homicide of A may be inquired into and tried either by X or Z.

(b) A is wounded within the local limits of the jurisdiction of Court X, and is, during ten days within the local limits of the jurisdiction of Court Y, and during ten days more within the local limits of the jurisdiction of Court Z, unable in the local limits of the jurisdiction of either Court Y or Court Z to follow his ordinary pursuits. The offence of extortion committed on A may be inquired into and tried either by X or Y.

180. When an act is an offence by reason of its relation to any other act which is also an offence, or which would be an offence if the doer were capable of committing an offence, a charge of the first-mentioned offence may be inquired into and tried by a Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction either act was done.

(a) A charge of abetment may be inquired into and tried either by the Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the abetment was committed, or by the Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the offence abetted was committed.

(b) A charge of receiving or retaining stolen goods may be inquired into and tried either by the Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the goods were stolen, or by any Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction any of them were at any time dishonestly received or retained.

(c) A charge of wrongfully concealing a person known to have been kidnapped may be inquired into and tried by the Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the wrongful concealing, or by the Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the kidnapping, took place.

181. The offence of being a thug, of being a thug and committing murder, of dacoity, of dacoity with murder, of having belonged to a gang of dacoits, or of having escaped from custody, may be inquired into and tried by a Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the person charged is.

The offence of criminal misappropriation or of criminal breach of trust may be inquired into and tried by a Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction any part of the property which is the subject of the offence was received by the accused person, or the offence was committed.

The offence of stealing anything may be inquired into or tried by a Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction such thing was stolen or was possessed by the thief or by any person who receives or retains the same knowing or having reason to believe it to be stolen.

182. When it is uncertain in which of several local areas an offence was committed, or where an offence is committed partly in one local area and partly in another, or where an offence is continuing one, and continues to be committed in more local areas than one, or where it consists of several acts done in different local areas, it may be inquired into and tried by a Court having jurisdiction over any of such local areas.

183. An offence committed whilst the offender is in the course of performing a journey or voyage may be inquired into and tried by a Court through or into the local limits of whose jurisdiction the offender, or the person against whom, or the thing in respect of which, the offence was committed, passed in the course of that journey or voyage.

184. All offences against the provisions of any law for the time being in force relating to Railways, Telegraphs, the Post-office, or Arms and Ammunition may be inquired into and tried in a Presidency-town, whether the offence is stated to have been committed within such town or not: Provided that the offender and all the witnesses necessary for his prosecution are to be found within such town.

185. Whenever any doubt arises as to the Court by which any offence should under the preceding provisions of this chapter be inquired into or tried, the High Court within the local limits of whose appellate criminal jurisdiction the offender actually is may decide by which Court the offence shall be inquired into or tried.

In British Burma, when the offender is a European British subject, the Recorder of Rangoon, and in all other cases the Judicial Commissioner, shall for the purposes of this section be deemed to be the High Court.

186. When a Presidency Magistrate, a District Magistrate, a Sub-divisional Magistrate or, if he is specially empowered in this behalf by the Local Government, a Magistrate of the first class, sees reason to believe that any person within the local limits of his jurisdiction has committed without such limits (whether within or without British India) an offence which cannot, under the provisions of sections 177 to 184 (both inclusive), or any other law for the time being in force, be inquired into or tried within such local limits, but is under

When there are more Magistrates than one having such jurisdiction and the Magistrate acting under this section cannot satisfy himself as to the Magistrate to or before whom such person should be sent, or bound to appear, the case shall be reported for the orders of the High Court.

187. If the person has been arrested under a warrant issued under section 186 by a Magistrate other than a Presidency Magistrate or District Magistrate, such Magistrate shall send the person arrested to the District Magistrate to whom he is subordinate, unless the Magistrate having jurisdiction to inquire into or try such offence issues his warrant for the arrest of such person, in which case the person arrested shall be delivered to the Police-officer executing such warrant, or shall be sent to the Magistrate by whom such warrant was issued.

If the offence which the person arrested is alleged or suspected to have committed is one which may be inquired into or tried by any Criminal Court in the same district other than that of the Magistrate acting under section 186, such Magistrate shall send such person to such Court.

188. When a European British subject commits an offence in the dominions of a Prince or State in India in alliance with Her Majesty, or ting the Explanations.

214. If any person (being an European British subject) is accused before a Magistrate other than a Presidency Magistrate of having committed an offence jointly with an European British subject who is about to be committed for trial, or to be tried, before the High Court on a similar charge arising out of the same transaction, and the Magistrate finds that there are sufficient grounds for committing the accused for trial, he shall commit him for trial before the High Court, and not before the Court of Session.

215. A commitment once made under section 213 or 214 by a competent Magistrate can be quashed by the High Court only, and only on a point of law.

216. When the accused has given in any list of witnesses under section 211 and has been committed for trial, the Magistrate shall summon such of the witnesses included in the list as have not appeared before himself, to appear before the Court to which the accused has been committed:

Provided that where the accused has been committed to the High Court, the Magistrate may in his discretion leave such witnesses to be summoned by the Clerk of the Crown, and such witnesses may be summoned accordingly:

Provided also that if the Magistrate thinks that any witness is included in the list for the purpose of vexation or delay, or of defeating the ends of justice, he may refuse to summon the witness (recording his reasons for such refusal), or may before summoning him require such sum to be deposited as such Magistrate thinks necessary to defray the expense of obtaining the attendance of the witness.

217. Complainants and witnesses for the prosecution and defence, whose attendance before the Court of Session or High Court is necessary, and who appear before the Magistrate, shall execute before him bonds binding themselves to be in attendance when called upon at the Court of Session or High Court, to prosecute or to give evidence, as the case may be.

If any complainant or witness refuses to attend before the Court of Session or High Court, or to execute the bond above directed, the Magistrate may detain him in custody until he executes such bond, or until his attendance at the Court of Session or High Court is required, when the Magistrate shall send him in custody to the Court of Session or High Court, as the case may be.

Detention in custody in case of refusal to attend or to execute bond.

CHAPTER XIX.

OF THE CHARGE.

Form of Charges.

Act X, 1872, s. 439, paras. 1 to 6. 221. Every charge under this Code shall state the offence with which the accused is charged.

Act IV, 1877, s. 94. If the law which creates the offence gives it any specific name, the offence may be described in the charge by that name only.

If the law which creates the offence does not give it any specific name, so much of the definition of the offence must be stated as to give the accused notice of the matter with which he is charged.

The law and section of the law against which the offence is said to have been committed shall be mentioned in the charge.

The fact that the charge is made is equivalent to a statement that every legal condition required by law to constitute the offence charged was fulfilled in the particular case.

In the Presidency-towns the charge shall be written in English; elsewhere it shall be written either in English or in the language of the Court.

If the accused has been previously convicted of any offence, and it is intended to prove such previous conviction for the purpose of affecting the punishment which the Court is competent to award, the fact, date and place of the previous conviction must be stated in the charge. If such statement is omitted, the Court may add it at any time before sentence is passed.

Illustrations.

(a) A is charged with the murder of B. This is equivalent to a statement that A's act fell within the definition of murder given in sections 299 and 300 of the Indian Penal Code; that it did not fall within any of the general exceptions of the same Code; and that it did not fall within any of the five exceptions to section 300, or that, if it did fall within Exception 1, one or other of the three provisos to that exception applied to it.

(b) A is charged, under section 326 of the Indian Penal Code, with voluntarily causing grievous hurt to B, by means of an instrument for shooting. This is equivalent to a statement that the case was not provided for by section 335 of the Indian Penal Code, and that the general exceptions did not apply to it.

(c) A is accused of murder, cheating, theft, extortion, adultery or criminal intimidation, or using a false property-mark. The charge may state that A committed murder, or cheating, or theft, or extortion, or adultery, or criminal intimidation, or that he used a false property-mark, without reference to the definitions of those crimes contained in the Indian Penal Code; but the sections under which the offence is punishable must, in each instance, be referred to in the charge.

(d) A is charged, under section 184 of the Indian Penal Code, with intentionally obstructing a sale of property offered for sale by the lawful authority of a public servant. The charge should be in those words.

222. The charge shall contain such particulars as to the time and place of the alleged offence, and the person (if any) against whom, or the thing (if any) in respect of which, it was committed, as are reasonably sufficient to give the accused notice of the matter with which he is charged.

223. When the nature of the case is such that the particulars mentioned in sections 221 and 222 do not give the accused sufficient notice of the matter with which he is charged, the charge shall also contain such particulars of the manner in which the alleged offence was committed as will be sufficient for that purpose.

Illustrations.

(a) A is accused of the theft of a certain article at a certain time and place. The charge need not set out the manner in which the theft was effected.

(b) A is accused of cheating B at a given time and place. The charge must set out the manner in which A cheated B.

(c) A is accused of giving false evidence at a given time and place. The charge must set out that portion of the evidence given by A which is alleged to be false.

(d) A is accused of obstructing B, a public servant, in discharge of his public functions at a given time and place. The charge must set out the manner in which A obstructed B in the discharge of his functions.

(e) A is accused of the murder of B at a given time and place. The charge need not state the manner in which A murdered B.

(f) A is accused of disobeying a direction of the law with intent to save B from punishment. The charge must set out the disobedience charged and the law infringed.

Act XVIII, 1862, s. 28. 224. In every charge words used in describing an offence shall be deemed to have been used in the sense attached to them respectively by the law under which such offence is punishable.

Words in charge taken in sense of law under which offence is punishable.

Act X, 1872, s. 448. 225. No error in stating either the offence or the particulars required to be stated in the charge, and no omission to state the offence or those particulars, shall be regarded at any stage of the case as material, unless the accused was misled by such error or omission.

Illustrations.

(a) A is charged, under section 242 of the Indian Penal Code, with "having been in possession of counterfeit coin, having known at the time when he became possessed thereof that such coin was counterfeit," the word "fraudulently" being omitted in the charge. Unless it appears that A was in fact misled by this omission, the error shall not be regarded as material.

(b) A is charged with cheating B, and the manner in which he cheated B is not set out in the charge, or is set out incorrectly. A defends himself, calls witnesses, and gives his own account of the transaction. The Court may infer from this that the omission to set out the manner of the cheating is not material.

(c) A is charged with cheating B, and the manner in which he cheated B is not set out in the charge. There were many transactions between A and B, and A had no means of knowing to which of them the charge referred, and offered no defence. The Court may infer from such facts that the omission to set out the manner of the cheating was, in this case, a material error.

(d) A is charged with the murder of Khoda Baksh on the 21st January, 1882. In fact, the murdered person's name was Haidar Baksh, and the date of the murder was the 20th January, 1882. A was never charged with any murder, but one, and had heard the inquiry before the Magistrate, which referred exclusively to the case of Haidar Baksh. The Court may infer from these facts that A was not misled, and that the error in the charge was immaterial.

(e) A was charged with murdering Haidar Baksh on the 20th January, 1882, and Khoda Baksh (who tried to arrest him for that murder) on the 21st January, 1882. When charged for the murder of Haidar Baksh, he was tried for the murder of Khoda Baksh. The witnesses present in his defence were witnesses in the case of Haidar Baksh. The Court may infer from this that A was misled, and that the error was material.

226. When any person is committed for trial without a charge, or with an imperfect or erroneous charge, the Court, or, in the case of a High Court, the Clerk of the Crown, may frame a charge, or add to or otherwise alter the charge, as the case may be, having regard to the rules contained in this Code as to the form of charges.

227. Any Court may alter any charge at any time before judgment is pronounced, or, in the case of trials before the Court of Session or High Court, before the verdict of the jury is returned or the opinions of the assessors are expressed.

Every such alteration shall be read and explained to the accused.

228. If the charge framed or alteration made under Section 226 or Section 227 is such that the trial is not likely, in the opinion of the Court, to prejudice the accused in his defence or the prosecutor in the conduct of the case, the Court may in its discretion, after such charge or alteration has been framed or made, proceed with the trial as if the new or altered charge had been the original charge.

229. If the new or altered charge is such that the trial is likely, in the opinion of the Court, to prejudice the accused or the prosecutor as aforesaid, the Court may either direct a new trial or adjourn the trial for such period as may be necessary.

230. If the offence stated in the new or altered charge is one for the prosecution of which previous sanction is necessary, the case shall not be proceeded with until such sanction is obtained, unless sanction has been already obtained for a prosecution on the same facts as those on which the new or altered charge is founded.

231. Whenever a charge is altered by the Court after the commencement of the trial, the prosecutor and the accused shall be allowed to recall or re-summon, and examine with reference to such alteration, any witness who may have been examined.

232. If any Appellate Court, or the High Court in the exercise of its powers of revision or of its powers under Chapter XXVII, is of opinion that any person convicted of an offence was misled in his defence by the absence of a charge or by an error in the charge, it shall direct a new trial to be had upon a charge framed in whatever manner it thinks fit.

If the Court is of opinion that the facts of the case are such that no valid charge could be preferred against the accused in respect of the facts proved, it shall quash the conviction.

Illustration.

Act XI, 1874, s. 40. A is convicted of an offence under section 196 of the Indian Penal Code, upon a charge which omits to state that he knew the evidence which he corruptly used or attempted to use as true or genuine was false or fabricated. If the Court thinks it probable that A had such knowledge, and that he was misled in his defence by the omission from the charge of the statement that he had it, it shall direct a new trial upon an amended charge; but if it appears probable from the proceedings that A had no such knowledge, it shall quash the conviction.

Joinder of Charges.

Act X, 1872, s. 452. 233. For every distinct offence of which any person is accused there shall be a separate charge, and every such charge shall be tried separately, except in the cases mentioned in sections 234, 235, 236 and 239.

Illustration.

A is accused of a theft on one occasion, and of causing grievous hurt on another occasion. A must be separately charged and separately tried for the theft and the causing grievous hurt.

Act X, 1872, s. 453. 234. When a person is accused of more offences than one of the same kind, committed within the space of twelve months from the first to the last of such offences, he may be charged with, and tried at one trial for, any number of them not exceeding three.

Act X, 1872, s. 454, omitting illustrations. (e), (h), (i) and (k). 235. I.—If, in one series of acts so connected together as to form the same transaction, more offences than one are committed by the same person, he may be charged with, and tried at one trial for, every such offence.

Act X, 1875, s. 19. II.—If the acts alleged constitute an offence falling within two or more separate definitions of any law in force for the time being by which offences are defined or punished, the person accused of them may be charged with and tried at one trial for each of such offences.

III.—If several acts, of which one or more than one would by itself or themselves constitute an offence, constitute when combined a different offence, the person accused of them may be charged with and tried at one trial for the offence constituted by such acts when combined, or for any offence constituted by any one, or more, of such acts.

Nothing contained in this section shall affect the Indian Penal Code, section 71.

Illustrations

to paragraph I—
(a) A rescues B, a person in lawful custody, and in so doing causes grievous hurt to C, a constable in whose custody B was. A may be charged with and tried for offences under sections 225 and 333 of the Indian Penal Code.

(b) A commits house-breaking by day with intent to commit adultery, and commits, in the house so entered, adultery with B's wife. A may be separately charged with, and convicted of, offences under sections 454 and 497 of the Indian Penal Code.

(c) A entices B, the wife of C, away from C, with intent to commit adultery with B, and then commits adultery with her. A may be separately charged with, and convicted of, offences under sections 498 and 497 of the Indian Penal Code.

(d) A has in his possession several seals knowing them to be counterfeit and intending to use them for the purpose of committing several forgeries punishable under section 466 of the Indian Penal Code. A may be separately charged with, and convicted of, the possession of each seal, under section 473 of the Indian Penal Code.

(e) With intent to cause injury to B, A institutes a criminal proceeding against him, knowing that there is no just or lawful ground for such proceeding; and also falsely accuses B of having committed an offence knowing that there is no just or lawful ground for such charge. A may be separately charged with, and convicted of, two offences under section 211 of the Indian Penal Code.

(f) A, with intent to cause injury to B, falsely accuses him of having committed an offence, knowing that there is no just or lawful ground for such charge. On the trial, A gives false evidence against B, intending thereby to cause B to be convicted of a capital offence. A may be separately charged with, and convicted of, offences under sections 211 and 194 of the Indian Penal Code.

(g) A, with six others, commits the offences of rioting, grievous hurt, and of assaulting a public servant endeavouring in the discharge of his duty as such to suppress the riot. A may be separately charged with, and convicted of, offences under sections 147 and 325 and 152 of the Indian Penal Code.

(h) A threatens B, C and D at the same time with injury to their persons with intent to cause alarm to them. A may be separately charged with, and convicted of, each of the three offences under section 506 of the Indian Penal Code.

The separate charges referred to in illustrations (a) to (h) respectively may be tried at the same time.

to paragraph II—

(i) A wrongfully strikes B with a cane. A may be separately charged with, and convicted of, offences under sections 352 and 323 of the Indian Penal Code.

(j) Several stolen sacks of corn are made over to A and B, who know they are stolen property, for the purpose of concealing them. A and B thereupon voluntarily assist each other to conceal the sacks at the bottom of a grain-pit. A and B may be separately charged with, and convicted of, offences under sections 411 and 414 of the Indian Penal Code.

(k) A exposes her child with the knowledge that she is thereby likely to cause its death. The child dies in consequence of such exposure. A may be separately charged with, and convicted of, offences under sections 317 and 304 of the Indian Penal Code.

(l) A dishonestly uses a forged document as genuine evidence, in order to convict B, a public servant, of an offence under section 167 of the Indian Penal Code. A may be separately charged with, and convicted of, offences under sections 471 (read with 468) and 196 of the same Code.

to paragraph III—

(m) A commits robbery on B, and, in doing so, voluntarily causes hurt to him. A may be separately charged with, and convicted of, offences under sections 323, 392 and 394 of the Indian Penal Code.

Act X, 1872, s. 455. 236. If a single act or series of acts is of such a nature that it is doubtful which of several offences the facts which can be proved will constitute, the accused may be charged with having committed all or any of such offences, and any number of such charges may be tried at once; or he may be charged in the alternative with having committed some one of the said offences.

Illustration.

A is accused of an act which may amount to theft, or receiving stolen property, or criminal breach of trust or cheating. He may be charged with theft, receiving stolen property, criminal breach of trust and cheating, or he may be charged with having committed theft, or receiving stolen property, or criminal breach of trust, or cheating.

Act X, 1872, s. 456. 237. If, in the case mentioned in section 236, the accused is charged with one offence, and it appears in evidence that he committed a different offence for which he might have been charged under the provisions of that section, he may be convicted of the offence which he is shown to have committed, although he was not charged with it.

Illustration.

A is charged with theft. It appears that he committed the offence of criminal breach of trust, or that of receiving stolen goods. He may be convicted of criminal breach of trust, or of receiving stolen goods (as the case may be), though he was not charged with such offence.

Act X, 1872, s. 457. 238. When a person is charged with an offence consisting of several particulars, a combination of some only of which constitutes a complete minor offence, and such combination is proved but the remaining particulars are not proved, he may be convicted of the minor offence, though he was not charged with it.

When a person is charged with an offence and facts are proved which reduce it to a minor offence, he may be convicted of the minor offence although he is not charged with it.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to authorize a conviction of any offence referred to in section 198 or section 199 when no complaint has been made as required by that section.

Illustrations.

(a) A is charged, under section 407 of the Indian Penal Code, with criminal breach of trust in respect of property entrusted to him as a carrier. It appears that he did commit criminal breach of trust under section 406 in respect of the property, but that it was not entrusted to him as a carrier. He may be convicted of criminal breach of trust under section 406.

Or. (b) A is charged under section 325 of the Indian Penal Code with causing grievous hurt. He proves that he acted on grave and sudden provocation. He may be convicted under section 335 of that Code.

239. When more persons than one are accused of the same offence, or of different offences committed in the same transaction, or when one person is accused of committing any offence, and another of abetment of, or attempt to commit, such offence, they may be charged and tried together or separately, as the Court thinks fit; and the provisions contained in the former part of this chapter shall apply to all such charges.

Illustrations.

(a) A and B are accused of the same murder. A and B may be charged and tried together for the murder.

(b) A and B are accused of a robbery, in the course of which A commits a murder with which B has nothing to do. A and B may be tried together on a charge, charging both of them with the robbery, and A alone with the murder.

(c) A and B are both charged with a theft, and B is charged with two other thefts committed by him in the course of the same transaction. A and B may be both tried together on a charge, charging both with the one theft, and B alone with the two other thefts.

240. When more charges than one are made against the same person, and when a conviction has been had on one or more of them, the complainant, or the officer conducting the prosecution, may, with the consent of the Court, withdraw the remaining charge or charges, or the Court of its own accord may stay the inquiry into, or trial of, such charge or charges. Such withdrawal shall have the effect of an acquittal on such charge or charges, unless the conviction be set aside, in which case the said Court (subject to the order of the Court New setting aside the conviction) may proceed with the inquiry into or trial of the charge or charges so withdrawn.

CHAPTER XX.

OF THE TRIAL OF SUMMONS-CASES BY MAGISTRATES.

241. The following procedure shall be observed by Magistrates in the trial of summons-cases. Act X, 1872, s. 203, para. 1.

242. When the accused appears or is brought before the Magistrate, the particulars of the offence of which he is accused shall be stated to him, and he shall be asked if he has any cause to show why he should not be convicted; but it shall not be necessary to frame a formal charge. Act X, 1872, s. 203, para. 2, first clause, 206, para. 1. Act IV, 1877, s. 119.

243. If the accused admits that he has committed the offence of which he is accused, his admission shall be recorded as nearly as possible in the words used by him; and if he shows no sufficient cause why he should not be convicted, the Magistrate shall convict him accordingly. Act IV, 1877, s. 120.

244. If the accused does not make such admission, the Magistrate shall proceed to hear the complainant (if any), and take all such evidence as Act X, 1872, s. 207. Act IV, 1877, s. 121.

may be produced in support of the prosecution, and also to hear the accused and take all such evidence as he produces in his defence.

The Magistrate may, if he thinks fit, on the application of the complainant or accused, issue process to compel the attendance of any witness or the production of any document or other thing.

The Magistrate may, before summoning any witness on such application, require that his reasonable expenses, incurred in attending for the purposes of the trial, be deposited in Court.

245. If the Magistrate upon taking the evidence referred to in section 244 and such further evidence (if any) as he may, of his own motion, cause to be produced, and (if he thinks fit) examining the accused, finds the accused not guilty, he shall record an order of acquittal.

If he finds the accused guilty, he shall pass sentence upon him according to law.

246. A Magistrate may, under section 243 or section 245, convict the accused of any offence triable under this chapter which from the facts admitted or proved he appears to have committed, whatever may be the nature of the complaint or summons.

247. If the summons has been issued on complaint, and upon the day appointed for the appearance of the accused or any day subsequent thereto to which the hearing may be adjourned the complainant does not appear, the Magistrate shall, notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, acquit the accused, unless for some reason he thinks proper to adjourn the hearing of the case to some other day.

248. If a complainant, at any time before a final order is passed in any case under this chapter, satisfies the Magistrate that there are sufficient grounds for permitting him to withdraw his complaint, the Magistrate may permit him to withdraw the same, and shall thereupon acquit the accused.

249. In any case instituted otherwise than upon complaint, a Presidency Magistrate, a Magistrate of the first class, or, with the previous sanction of the District Magistrate, any other Magistrate, may, for reasons to be recorded by him, stop the proceedings at any stage without pronouncing any judgment either of acquittal or conviction, and may thereupon release the accused.

250. If in any case instituted upon complaint a Magistrate acquits the accused under section 245 or section 247, and is of opinion that the complaint was frivolous or vexatious, he may, in his discretion, by his order of acquittal, direct the complainant to pay to the accused, or to each of the accused where there are more than one, such compensation, not exceeding fifty rupees, as the Magistrate thinks fit.

The sum so awarded shall be recoverable as if it were a fine: Provided that, if it cannot be realized, the imprisonment to be awarded shall be simple and for such term, not exceeding thirty days, as the Magistrate directs.

At the time of awarding compensation in any subsequent civil suit relating to the same matter, the Court shall take into account any sum paid or recovered as compensation under this section.

CHAPTER XXI.

OF THE TRIAL OF WARRANT-CASES BY MAGISTRATES.

251. The following procedure shall be observed by Magistrates in the trial of warrant-cases.

252. When the accused appears or is brought before a Magistrate, such Magistrate shall proceed to hear the complainant (if any) and take all such evidence as may be produced in support of the prosecution.

The Magistrate shall ascertain, from the complainant or otherwise, the names of any persons likely to be acquainted with the facts of the case, and to be able to give evidence for the prosecution, and shall summon to give evidence before himself such of them as he thinks necessary.

253. If upon taking all the evidence referred to in section 252, and such examination (if any) of the accused as the Magistrate thinks necessary, he finds that no case against the accused has been made out which if un rebutted would warrant his conviction, the Magistrate shall discharge him.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to prevent a Magistrate from discharging the accused at any previous stage of the case if, for reasons to be recorded by such Magistrate, he considers the charge to be groundless.

254. If, when such evidence and examination have been taken, the Magistrate is of opinion that there is ground for presuming that the accused has committed an offence triable under this chapter, which such Magistrate is competent to try, and which, in his opinion, could be adequately punished by him, he shall frame in writing a charge against the accused.

255. The charge shall then be read and explained to the accused, and he shall be asked whether he is guilty or has any defence to make.

If the accused pleads guilty, the Magistrate shall record the plea, and may in his discretion convict him thereon.

Act X, 1872,
s. 218.
Act IV, 1877,
s. 121.

256. If the accused refuses to plead or does not plead, or claims to be tried, he shall be called upon to enter upon his defence and to produce his evidence, and shall, at any time while he is making his defence, be allowed to recall and cross-examine any witness for the prosecution present in the Court or its precincts.

If the accused puts in any written statement, the Magistrate shall file it with the record.

257. If the accused applies to the Magistrate for process for compelling the attendance of any witness (whether he has or has not been previously examined in the case) for the purposes of examination or cross-examination, or the production of any document or other thing, the Magistrate shall issue such process unless he considers that such application should be refused on the ground that it is made for the purpose of vexation or delay, or for defeating the ends of justice. Such ground shall be recorded by him in writing.

The Magistrate may, before summoning any witness on such application, require that his reasonable expenses incurred in attending for the purposes of the trial be deposited in Court.

258. If in any case under this chapter in which a charge has been framed the Magistrate finds the accused not guilty, he shall record an order of acquittal.

If in any such case the Magistrate finds the accused guilty, he shall pass sentence upon him according to law.

259. When the proceedings have been instituted upon complaint and upon any day fixed for the hearing of the case the complainant is absent and the offence may be lawfully compounded, the Magistrate may, in his discretion, notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, at any time before the charge has been framed, discharge the accused.

CHAPTER XXII.

260. Notwithstanding anything contained in this Code, (1) the District Magistrate, (2) any Magistrate of the first class specially empowered in this behalf by the Local Government, and (3) any Bench of Magistrates invested with the powers of a Magistrate of the first class and specially empowered in this behalf by the Local Government may try in a summary way all or any of the following offences:—

Provided that no case in which a District Magistrate exercises the special powers conferred by section 34 shall be tried in a summary way.

261. The Local Government may confer on any Bench of Magistrates invested with the powers of a Magistrate of the second or third class power to try summarily all or any of the following offences:—

(a) Offences against the Indian Penal Code, sections 277, 278, 279, 285, 286, 289, 290, 292, 293, 294, 323, 334, 336, 341, 352, 426 and 447;

(b) Offences against Municipal Acts, and the conservancy-clauses of Police Acts, punishable only with fine, or with imprisonment for a term not exceeding one month;

(c) Abetment of any of the foregoing offences;

(d) An attempt to commit any of the foregoing offences, when such attempt is an offence.

262. In trials under this chapter, the procedure prescribed for summons-cases shall be followed in summons-cases, and the procedure prescribed for warrant-cases shall be followed in warrant-cases, except as hereinafter mentioned.

No sentence of imprisonment for a term exceeding three months shall be passed in the case of any conviction under this chapter.

263. In cases where no appeal lies, the Magistrate or Bench of Magistrates need not record the evidence of the witnesses or frame a formal charge; but he or they shall enter in such form as the Local Government may direct the following particulars:—

- the serial number;
- the date of the commission of the offence;
- the date of the report or complaint;
- the name of the complainant (if any);
- the name, parentage and residence of the accused;
- the offence complained of and the offence (if any) proved, and in cases coming under (d), (e) or (f) of section 260 the value of the property in respect of which the offence has been committed;
- the plea of the accused and his examination (if any);
- the finding, and, in the case of a conviction, a brief statement of the reasons therefor;

s. 228.

- (2) the sentence or other final order; and
(3) the date on which the proceedings terminated.

264. In every case tried summarily by a Magistrate or Bench in which an appeal lies, such Magistrate or Bench shall, before passing sentence, record a judgment embodying the substance of the evidence and also the particulars mentioned in section 263.

Such judgment shall be the only record in cases coming within this section.

s. 229.

265. Records made under section 263 and judgments recorded under section 264 shall be written by the presiding officer, either in English or in the language of the Court, or, if the Court to which such presiding officer is immediately subordinate so directs, in such officer's mother-tongue.

Act X, 1872,
s. 230.

The Local Government may authorize any Bench of Magistrates empowered to try offences summarily to prepare the said record or judgment by means of an officer appointed in this behalf by the Court to which such Bench is immediately subordinate, and the record or judgment so prepared shall be signed by each member of such Bench present taking part in the proceedings.

CHAPTER XXIII.

OF TRIALS BEFORE HIGH COURTS AND COURTS OF SESSION.

A.—Preliminary.

Act X, 1875,
s. 3.

266. In this chapter, except in section 307, the expression "High Court" means a High Court of Judicature established or to be established under the twenty-fourth and twenty-fifth of Victoria, chapter 104, and includes the Chief Court of the Panjab, and such other Courts as the Governor General in Council may from time to time, by notification in the Gazette of India, declare to be High Courts for the purposes of this chapter.

Act X, 1875,
s. 32.

Trials before High Court to be by jury.

267. All trials under this chapter before a High Court shall be by jury; and, notwithstanding anything herein contained, in all criminal cases transferred to a High Court under this Code or under the Letters Patent of any High Court established under the twenty-fourth and twenty-fifth of Victoria, chapter 104, the trial may, if the High Court so direct, be by jury.

Act X, 1872,
s. 232.

Trials before Sessions Court to be by jury or with assessors.

268. All trials before a Court of Session shall be either by jury, or with the aid of assessors.

Act X, 1872,

1 and 2.

269. The Local Government may by order in the official Gazette direct that the trial of all offences, or of any particular class of offences, before any Court of Session, shall be by jury in any District, and from time to time revoke or alter such order.

When the accused is charged at the same trial with several offences of which some are and some are not triable by jury, he shall be tried by jury for all such offences.

270. In every trial before a Court of Session, the prosecution shall be conducted by a Public Prosecutor.

B.—Commencement of Proceedings.

271. When the Court is ready to commence the trial, the accused shall appear or be brought before it, and the charge shall be read out in Court and explained to him, and he shall be asked whether he is guilty of the offence charged, or claims to be tried.

If the accused pleads guilty, the plea shall be recorded, and he may be convicted thereon.

272. If the accused refuses to, or does not, plead, or if he claims to be tried, the Court shall proceed to choose jurors or assessors as hereinafter directed and to try the case:

Provided that, subject to the right of objection hereinafter mentioned, the same jury may try, or the same assessors may aid in the trial of, as many accused persons successively as the Court thinks fit.

273. In trials before the High Court when it appears to the High Court at any time before the commencement of the trial of the person charged, that any charge or any portion thereof is clearly unsustainable, the Judge may make on the charge an entry to that effect.

Such entry shall have the effect of staying proceedings upon the charge or portion of the charge, as the case may be.

Effect of entry.

C.—Choosing a Jury.

274. In trials before the High Court the jury shall consist of nine persons.

In trials by jury before the Court of Session, the jury shall consist of such uneven number not being less than three, or more than nine, as the Local Government, by order applicable to any particular district or to any particular class of offences in that district, may direct.

275. In a trial by jury, before the Court of Session, of a person not being an European or an American, a majority of the jury shall, if he so desires, consist of persons who are neither Europeans nor Americans.

Jury for trial of persons not Europeans or Americans before Court of Session.

276. The jurors shall be chosen by lot from the persons summoned to act as such, in such manner as the High Court may from time to time by rule direct:

Act X, 1875,
s. 35.

Trials before special jurors.

Provided that—

1st, pending the issue under this section of rules for any Court, the practice now prevailing in such Court in respect to the choosing of jurors shall be followed;

2nd, in case of a deficiency of persons summoned, the number of jurors required may, with the leave of the Court, be chosen from such other persons as may be present; and

3rd, in the Presidency-towns—

(a) if the accused person is charged with having committed an offence punishable with death, or

(b) if in any other case a Judge of the High Court so directs, the jurors shall be chosen from the special jury list hereinafter prescribed.

Act X, 1872,
s. 243,
paras. 1 & 2.Act X, 1875,
s. 53.

Names of jurors to be called.

277. As each juror is chosen, his name shall be called aloud, and upon his appearance, the accused shall be asked if he objects to be tried by such juror.

Objection may then be taken to such juror by the accused or by the prosecutor, and the grounds of objection shall be stated:

Act X, 1875,

Provided that, in the High Court, objections without grounds stated shall be allowed to the number of eight on behalf of the Crown and eight on behalf of the person or all the persons charged.

Act X, 1872,
s. 244, 405,
406.Act X, 1875,
s. 47, 54.

278. Any objection taken to a juror on any of the following grounds, if made out to the satisfaction of the Court, shall be allowed:—

(a) some presumed or actual partiality in the juror;

(b) some personal ground, such as alienage, deficiency in the qualification required by any law or rule having the force of law for the time being in force, or being under the age of twenty-one or above the age of sixty years;

(c) his having by habit or religious vows relinquished all care of worldly affairs;

(d) his holding any office in or under the Court;

(e) his executing any duties of police or being entrusted with police-duties;

(f) his having been convicted of any offence which, in the opinion of the Court, renders him unfit to serve on the jury;

Act X, 1872,
s. 245.Act X, 1875,
s. 57.

(g) inability to understand the language in which the evidence is given, or, when such evidence is interpreted, the language in which it is interpreted;

(h) any other circumstance which, in the opinion of the Court, renders him improper as a juror.

279. Every objection taken to a juror shall be decided by the Court, and such decision shall be recorded and be final.

If the objection is allowed, the place of such juror shall be supplied by any other juror attending in obedience to a summons and chosen in manner provided by section 276; or, if there is no such other juror present, then by any other person present in the Court whose name is on the list of jurors, or whom the Court considers a proper person to serve on the jury, provided that no objection to such juror or other person is taken under section 278 and allowed.

280. When the jurors have been chosen, they shall appoint one of their number to be foreman.

The foreman shall preside in the debates of the jury, deliver the verdict of the jury, and ask any information from the Court that is required by the jury or any of the jurors.

If a majority of the jury do not, within such time as the Judge thinks reasonable, agree in the appointment of a foreman, he shall be appointed by the Court.

281. When the foreman has been appointed, the jurors shall be sworn under the Indian Oaths Act, 1873.

282. If, in the course of a trial by jury, at any time before the return of the verdict, any juror, from any sufficient cause, is prevented from attending throughout the trial, or if any juror absents himself, and it is not practicable to enforce his attendance, or if it appears that any juror is unable to understand the language in which the evidence is given, or, when such evidence is interpreted, the language in which it is interpreted, a new juror shall be added, or the jury shall be discharged and a new jury chosen.

In each of such cases the trial shall commence anew.

283. The Judge may also discharge the jury whenever the prisoner becomes incapable of remaining at the bar.

Discharge of jury in case of sickness of prisoner.

284. When the trial is to be held with the aid of assessors, two or more shall be chosen, as the Judge thinks fit, from the persons summoned to act as such.

285. If, in the course of a trial with the aid of assessors, at any time before the finding, any assessor is, from any sufficient cause, prevented from attending throughout the trial, or absents himself, and it is not practicable to enforce his attendance, the trial shall proceed with the aid of the other assessor or assessors. If all the assessors are prevented from attending, or absent themselves, the proceedings shall be stayed, and a new trial shall be held with the aid of fresh assessors.

E.—Trial to Close of Cases for Prosecution and Defence.

286. When the jurors or assessors have been chosen, the prosecutor shall open his case by reading from the Indian Penal Code or other law the description of the offence charged, and stating shortly by what evidence he expects to prove the guilt of the accused. The prosecutor shall then examine his witnesses.

287. The examination of the accused duly recorded by or before the committing Magistrate shall be tendered by the prosecutor and read as evidence.

288. The evidence of a witness duly taken in the presence of the accused before the committing Magistrate may, in the discretion of the presiding Judge, if such witness is produced and examined, be treated as evidence in the case.

289. When the examination of the witnesses for the prosecution and examination (if any) of the accused are concluded, the accused shall be asked whether he means to adduce evidence.

If he says that he does not, the prosecutor may sum up his case; and if the Court considers that there is no evidence that the accused committed the offence, it may then, in a case tried with the aid of assessors, record a finding, or, in a case tried by a jury, direct the jury to return a verdict, of not guilty.

If the accused or any one of several accused says that he means to adduce evidence and the Court considers that there is no evidence that the accused committed the offence, the Court may then, in a case tried with the aid of assessors, record a finding, or, in a case tried by a jury, direct the jury to return a verdict, of not guilty.

If the accused, or any one of several accused says that he means to adduce evidence, and the Court considers that there is evidence that he committed the offence, or if, on his saying that he does not mean to adduce evidence, the prosecutor sums up his case and the Court considers that there is evidence that the accused committed the offence, the Court shall call on the accused to enter on his defence.

290. The accused or his pleader may then open his case, stating the facts or law on which he intends to rely, and making such comments as he thinks necessary on the evidence for the prosecution. He may then examine his witnesses (if any) and after their cross-examination and re-examination (if any) may sum up his case.

291. The accused shall be allowed to examine any witness not previously examined by him, if such witness is in attendance; but he shall not, except as provided in sections 211 and 231, be entitled of right to have any witness summoned, other than the witnesses named in the list delivered to the Magistrate by whom he was committed for trial.

292. If the accused, or any of the accused, has stated, when asked under section 289, that he means to adduce evidence, the prosecutor shall be entitled to reply.

293. Whenever the Court thinks that the jury or assessors should view the place in which the offence charged is alleged to have been committed, or any other place in which any other transaction material to the trial is alleged to have occurred, the Court shall make an order to that effect, and the jury or assessors shall be conducted in a body, under the care of an officer of the Court, to such place, which shall be shown to them by a person appointed by the Court.

Such officer shall not, except with the permission of the Court, suffer any other person to speak to, or hold any communication with, any of the jury or assessors, and, unless the Court otherwise directs, they shall, when the view is finished, be immediately conducted back into Court.

294. If a juror or assessor is personally acquainted with any relevant fact, it is his duty to inform the Judge that such is the case, whereupon he may be sworn, examined, cross-examined and re-examined in the same manner as any other witness.

295. If a trial is adjourned, the jury or assessors shall attend at the adjourned sitting, and at every subsequent sitting, until the conclusion of the trial.

296. The High Court may from time to time make rules as to keeping the jury together during a trial before such Court lasting for more than one day, and, subject to such rules, the presiding Judge may order whether and in what manner the jurors shall be kept together under the charge of an officer of the Court, or whether they shall be allowed to return to their respective homes.

F.—Conclusion of Trial in Cases tried by Jury.

297. In cases tried by jury, when the case for the defence, and the prosecutor's reply (if any) are concluded, the Court shall proceed to charge the jury, summing up the evidence for the prosecution and defence, and laying down the law by which the jury are to be guided.

298. In such cases, it is the duty of the Judge—

(a) to decide all questions of law arising in the course of the trial, and especially all questions as to the relevancy of facts which it is proposed to prove, the admissibility of evidence or the propriety of questions asked by or on behalf parties, and, in his discretion, to prevent the production of inadmissible evidence, whether it is or is not objected to by the parties;

Trials before High Courts and Courts of Session.

(b) to decide upon the meaning and construction of all documents given in evidence at the trial;

(c) to decide upon all matters of fact which it may be necessary to prove in order to enable evidence of particular matters to be given;

(d) to decide whether any question which arises is for himself or for the jury, and upon this point his decision shall bind the jurors.

The Judge may, if he thinks proper, in the course of his summing up, express to the jury his opinion upon any question of fact, or upon any question of mixed law and fact, relevant to the proceeding.

Illustrations.

(a) It is proposed to prove a statement made by a person not being a witness in the case on the ground that circumstances are proved which render evidence of such statement admissible.

It is for the Judge, and not for the jury, to decide whether the existence of those circumstances has been proved.

(b) It is proposed to give secondary evidence of a document the original of which is alleged to have been lost or destroyed.

It is the duty of the Judge to decide whether the original has been lost or destroyed.

299. It is the duty of the jury—

(a) to decide which view of the facts is true, and then to return the verdict which under such view ought, according to the direction of the Judge, to be returned;

(b) to determine the meaning of all technical terms (other than terms of law) and words used in an unusual sense which it may be necessary to determine, whether such words occur in documents or not;

(c) to decide all questions which according to law are to be deemed questions of fact;

(d) to decide whether general indefinite expressions do or do not apply to particular cases, unless such expressions refer to legal procedure, or unless their meaning is ascertained by law, in either of which cases it is the duty of the Judge to decide their meaning.

Illustrations.

(a) A is tried for the murder of B.

It is the duty of the Judge to explain to the jury the distinction between murder and culpable homicide, and to tell them under what views of the facts A ought to be convicted of murder, or of culpable homicide, or to be acquitted.

It is the duty of the jury to decide which view of the facts is true, and to return a verdict in accordance with the direction of the Judge, whether that direction is right or wrong, and whether they do or do not agree with it.

(b) The question is whether a person entertained a reasonable belief on a particular point,—whether work was done with reasonable skill or due diligence.

Each of these is a question for the jury.

300. In cases tried by jury, after the Judge has finished his charge, the jury may retire to consider their verdict.

Except with the leave of the Court, no person other than a juror shall speak to, or hold any communication with, any member of such jury.

301. When the jury have considered their verdict, the foreman shall inform the Judge what is their verdict, or what is the verdict of a majority.

302. If the jury are not unanimous, the Judge may require them to retire for further consideration. After such a period as the Judge considers reasonable, the jury may deliver their verdict, although they are not unanimous.

303. Unless otherwise ordered by the Court, the jury shall return a verdict on all the charges on which the accused is tried, and the Judge may ask them such questions as are necessary to ascertain what their verdict is.

Such questions and the answers to them shall be recorded.

304. When by accident or mistake a wrong verdict is delivered, the jury may, before or immediately after it is recorded, amend the verdict, and it shall stand as ultimately amended.

305. When in a case tried before a High Court the jury are unanimous in their opinion, or when as many as six are of one opinion and the Judge agrees with them, the Judge shall give judgment in accordance with such opinion.

When in any such case the jury are satisfied that they will not be unanimous, but six of them are of one opinion, the foreman shall so inform the Judge.

If the Judge disagrees with the majority, he shall at once discharge the jury.

If there are not so many as six who agree in opinion, the Judge shall, after the lapse of such time as he thinks reasonable, discharge the jury.

306. When in a case tried before the Court of Session the Judge does not think it necessary to express disagreement with the verdict of the jurors or of a majority of the jurors, he shall give judgment accordingly.

If the accused is acquitted, the Judge shall record judgment of acquittal. If the accused is convicted, the Judge shall pass sentence on him according to law.

307. If in any such case the Sessions Judge disagrees with the verdict of the jurors, or of a majority of the jurors, on all or any of the charges on which the accused has been tried, so completely that he considers it necessary for the ends of justice to submit the case to the High Court, he shall submit the case accordingly, recording the grounds of his opinion and, when the verdict is one of acquittal, stating the offence which he considers to have been committed.

Whenever the Judge submits a case under this section, he shall not record judgment of acquittal or of conviction on any of the charges on which the accused has been tried, but he may either remand the accused to custody or admit him to bail.

In dealing with the case so submitted the High Court may exercise any of the powers which it may exercise on an appeal; but it may acquit or convict the accused of any offence of which the jury could have convicted him upon the charge framed and placed before it; and, if it convicts him, may pass such sentence as might have been passed by the Court of Session.

G.—Re-trial of Accused after Discharge of Jury.

Act X, 1875, s. 100.

308. Whenever the jury is discharged, the accused shall be detained in custody or on bail (as the case may be), and shall be re-tried by another jury, unless the Judge considers that he should not be re-tried, in which case the Judge shall make an entry to that effect on the charge, and such entry shall operate as an acquittal.

H.—Conclusion of Trial in Cases tried with Assessors.

Act X, 1872, s. 355, para. 1, sub. 302.

309. When, in a case tried with the aid of assessors, the case for the defence and the prosecutor's reply (if any) are concluded, the Court may sum up the evidence for the prosecution and defence, and shall then require each of the assessors to state his opinion orally, and shall record such opinion.

The Judge shall then give judgment; but in doing so shall not be bound to conform to the opinions of the assessors.

If the accused is convicted, the Judge shall pass sentence on him according to law.

I.—Procedure in Case of Previous Conviction.

New.

310. In the case of a trial by jury or with the aid of assessors, where the accused is charged with an offence committed after a previous conviction, for any offence, the procedure laid down in sections 271, 286, 305, 306 and 309 shall be modified as follows:—

(a) The part of the charge stating the previous conviction shall not be read out in Court, nor shall the accused be asked whether he has been previously convicted as alleged in the charge, unless and until he has either pleaded guilty to, or been convicted of, the subsequent offence.

(b) If he pleads guilty to, or is convicted of, the subsequent offence, he shall then be asked whether he has been previously convicted as alleged in the charge.

(c) If he answers that he has been so previously convicted the Judge may proceed to pass sentence on him accordingly; but, if he denies that he has been so previously convicted, or refuses to, or does not answer such question, the jury or the Court and the assessors (as the case may be) shall then inquire concerning such previous conviction, and in such case (where the trial is by jury) it shall not be necessary to swear the jury again.

J.—List of Jurors for High Court, and summoning Jurors for that Court.

311. In each Presidency-town, the jurors' book for the year current when this Code comes into force shall be taken as containing a correct list of persons liable to serve as jurors under this chapter; and those persons whose names are entered in the said book as being liable to serve on special juries only shall be deemed to be persons privileged and liable to serve only as special jurors under this chapter during the year for which the said list has been prepared.

312. The names of not more than two hundred persons shall at any one time be entered in the special jurors' list.

313. The Clerk of the Crown shall, before the first day of April in each year, and subject to such rules as the High Court from time to time prescribes, prepare—

- (a) a list of all persons liable to serve as common jurors; and
- (b) a list of persons liable to serve as special jurors only.

Regard shall be had, in the preparation of the latter list, to the property, character and education of the persons whose names are entered therein.

No person shall be entitled to have his name entered in the special jurors' list merely because he may have been entered in the special jurors' list for a previous year.

The Governor General in Council in the case of the High Court at Calcutta, and, in the case of other High Courts, the Local Government, may exempt any salaried officer of Government from serving as a juror.

The Clerk of the Crown shall, subject to such rules as aforesaid, have full discretion to prepare the said lists as seems to him to be proper, and there shall be no appeal from, or review of, his decision.

314. Preliminary lists of persons liable to serve as common jurors and as special jurors, respectively, signed by the Clerk of the Crown, shall be published once in the local official Gazette before the fifteenth day of April next after their preparation.

Revised lists of persons liable to serve as common jurors and special jurors, respectively, signed as aforesaid, shall be published once in the local official Gazette before the first day of May next after their preparation.

Copies of the said lists shall be affixed to some conspicuous part of the Court-house.

315. Out of the persons named in the revised lists aforesaid, there shall be summoned for each sessions in each Presidency-town at least twenty-seven of those who are liable to serve on special juries, and fifty-four of those who are liable to serve on common juries.

No person shall be so summoned more than once in six months unless the number cannot be made up without him.

If, during the continuance of any sessions, it appears that the number of persons so summoned is not sufficient, such number as may be necessary of other persons liable to serve as aforesaid shall be summoned for such sessions.

Act X, 1875, s. 50.

316. Whenever a High Court has given notice of its intention to hold sittings at any place outside the Presidency-towns for the exercise of its original criminal jurisdiction, the Court of Session at such place shall, subject to any direction which may be given by the High Court, summon a sufficient number of jurors from its own list in the manner hereinafter prescribed for summoning jurors to the Court of Session.

Act X, 1875, s. 51.

317. In addition to the persons so summoned as jurors, the said Court of Session shall, if it think needful, after communication with the Commanding Officer, cause to be summoned such number of commissioned and non-commissioned officers in Her Majesty's Army resident within ten miles of its place of sitting, as the Court considers to be necessary to make up the juries required for the trial of persons charged with offences before the High Court as aforesaid.

All officers so summoned shall be liable to serve on such juries notwithstanding anything contained in this Code; but no such officer shall be summoned whom his Commanding Officer desires to have excused on the ground of urgent military duty, or for any other special military reason.

Act X, 1875, s. 46.

318. Any person summoned under section 315, 316 or 317, who without lawful excuse fails to attend as required by the summons, or who, having attended, departs without having obtained the permission of the Judge, or fails to attend after an adjournment of the Court after being ordered to attend, shall be deemed guilty of a contempt and be liable by order of the Judge to such fine as he thinks fit; and, in default of payment of such fine, to imprisonment in the civil jail until the fine is paid.

K.—List of Jurors and Assessors for Court of Session, and summoning Jurors and Assessors for that Court.

Act X, 1872, s. 404.

319. All male persons between the ages of twenty-one and sixty shall, except as next hereinafter mentioned, be liable to serve as jurors or assessors at any trial held within the District in which they reside.

Act X, 1872, s. 405, 406, para. 1.

320. The following persons are exempt from liability to serve as jurors or assessors, namely:—

- (a) Officers in civil employ superior in rank to a District Magistrate;
- (b) Judges;
- (c) Commissioners and Collectors of Revenue or Customs;
- (d) Persons engaged in the Preventive Service in the Customs Department;

(e) Persons engaged in the collection of the revenue whom the Collector thinks fit to exempt on the ground of official duty;

(f) Persons actually officiating as priests or ministers of their respective religions;

(g) Persons in Her Majesty's Army, except when, by any law in force for the time being, they are specially made liable to serve as jurors or assessors;

(h) Surgeons and others who openly and constantly practise the medical profession;

(i) Persons employed in the Post-office and Telegraph Departments;

(j) Persons exempted from personal appearance in Court under the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure, sections 640 and 641.

(k) Other persons exempted by the Local Government from liability to serve as jurors or assessors.

321. The Sessions Judge and the Collector of the District, or such other officer as the Local Government appoints in this behalf, shall prepare and make out in alphabetical order a list of persons liable to serve as jurors or assessors and qualified in the judgment of the Sessions Judge and Collector or other officer as aforesaid to serve as such, and not likely to be successfully objected to under section 278, clauses (b) to (k), both inclusive. The list shall contain the name, place of abode and quality or business of every such person; and if the person is an European or an American, the list shall mention the race to which he belongs.

322. Copies of such list shall be stuck up in the office of the Collector or other officer as aforesaid, and in the Court-houses of the District Magistrate and of the District Court, and in some conspicuous place in the town or towns in or near which the persons named in the list reside.

323. To every such copy shall be subjoined a notice stating that objections to the list will be heard and determined by the Sessions Judge and Collector or other officer as aforesaid, at the Sessions Court-house, and at a time to be mentioned in the notice.

324. For the hearing of such objections, the Sessions Judge shall sit with the Collector or other officer as aforesaid, and shall, at the time and place mentioned in the notice, revise the list and hear the objections (if any) of persons interested in the amendment thereof, and shall strike out the name of any person not suitable in their judgment to serve as a juror or as an assessor, or who may establish his right to any exemption from service given by section 320, and insert the name of any person omitted from the list whom they deem qualified for such service.

In the event of a difference of opinion between the Collector or other officer as aforesaid and the Sessions Judge, the name of the proposed juror or assessor shall be omitted from the list.

A copy of the revised list shall be signed by the Sessions Judge and Collector or other officer as aforesaid and sent to the Court of Session.

Any order of the Sessions Judge and Collector or other officer as aforesaid in preparing and revising the list shall be final.

the original criminal jurisdiction of the High Court.

336. The High Court may direct that all European British subjects and persons liable to be tried by it under section 214, who have been committed for trial by it within certain specified districts or during certain specified periods of the year, shall be tried at the ordinary place of sitting of the Court, or direct that they shall be tried at a particular place named.

CHAPTER XXIV.

GENERAL PROVISIONS AS TO INQUIRIES AND TRIALS.

337. In the case of any offence triable exclusively by the Court of Session or High Court the District Magistrate, a Presidency Magistrate, any Magistrate of the first class inquiring into the offence, or, with the sanction of the District Magistrate, any other Magistrate, may, with the view of obtaining the evidence of any person supposed to have been directly or indirectly concerned in, or privy to, the offence under inquiry, tender a pardon to such person on condition of his making a full and true disclosure of the whole of the circumstances within his knowledge relative to such offence, and to every other person concerned, whether as principal or abettor, in the commission thereof.

Every person accepting a tender under this section shall be examined as a witness in the case.

Such person, if not on bail, shall be detained in custody until the termination of the trial by the Court of Session or High Court, as the case may be.

Every Magistrate, other than a Presidency Magistrate, who tenders a pardon under this section, shall record his reasons for so doing; and when any Magistrate has made such tender and examined the person to whom it has been made, he shall not try the case himself although the offence which the accused appears to have committed may be triable by such Magistrate.

338. At any time after commitment, but before judgment is passed, the Court to which the commitment is made may, with the view of obtaining on the trial the evidence of any person supposed to have been directly or indirectly concerned in, or privy to, any such offence, tender, or order the committing Magistrate or the District Magistrate to tender, a pardon on the same condition to such person.

339. Where a pardon has been tendered under section 337 or 338, and any person who has accepted such tender has, either by wilfully concealing anything essential or by giving false evidence, not complied with the condition, on which the tender was made, he may be tried for the offence in respect of which the pardon was so tendered, or for any other offence of which he appears to have been guilty in connection with the same matter.

The statement made by a person under pardon may be given in evidence against him when the pardon has been withdrawn under this section.

No prosecution for the offence of giving false evidence in respect of such statement shall be entertained without the sanction of the High Court.

340. Every person accused before any Criminal Court may of right be defended by a pleader.

341. If the accused, though not insane, cannot be made to understand the proceedings, the Court may proceed with the inquiry or trial; and in the case of a Court other than a High Court, if such inquiry results in a commitment, or if such trial results in a conviction, the proceedings shall be forwarded to the High Court with a report of the circumstances of the case, and the High Court shall pass thereon such order as it thinks fit.

342. For the purpose of enabling the accused to explain any circumstances appearing in the evidence against him, the Court may, at any stage of any inquiry or trial, without previously warning the accused, put such questions to him as the Court considers necessary, and shall, for the purpose aforesaid, question him generally on the case after the witnesses for the prosecution have been examined, and before he is called on for his defence.

The accused shall not render himself liable to punishment by refusing to answer such questions, or by giving false answers to them; but the Court and the jury (if any) may draw such inference from such refusal or answers as it thinks just.

The answers given by the accused may be taken into consideration in such inquiry or trial, and put in evidence for or against him in any other inquiry into, or trial for, any other offence which such answer may tend to show he has committed.

No oath shall be administered to the accused.

343. Except as provided in sections 337 and 338, no influence, by means of any promise or threat or otherwise, shall be used to an accused person to induce him to disclose or withhold any matter within his knowledge.

General Provisions as to Inquiries and Trials.

344. If, from the absence of a witness or any other reasonable cause, it becomes necessary or advisable to postpone the commencement of, or adjourn, any inquiry or trial, the Court may, by order in writing, stating the reasons therefor, from time to time postpone or adjourn the same on such terms as it thinks fit, for such time as it considers reasonable, and by a warrant remand the accused if in custody:

Provided that no Magistrate shall remand an accused person to custody under this section for a term exceeding fifteen days at a time.

Every order made under this section by a Court other than a High Court shall be in writing signed by the presiding Judge or Magistrate.

EXPLANATION.—If sufficient evidence has been obtained to raise a suspicion that the accused may have committed an offence, and it appears likely that further evidence may be obtained by a remand, this is a reasonable cause for a remand.

345. The offences punishable under the sections of the Indian Penal Code described in the first two columns of the Table next following may be compounded by the persons mentioned in the third column of that Table:—

Offence.	Sections of Indian Penal Code applicable.	Person by whom offence may be compounded.

The offence of voluntarily causing hurt, voluntarily causing grievous hurt, causing hurt by an act which endangers life, or causing grievous hurt by an act which endangers life, punishable under section 324, section 335, section 337, or section 338 of the Indian Penal Code may, with the permission of the Court before which any prosecution for such offence is pending, be compounded by the person to whom the hurt has been caused.

When any offence is compoundable under this section, the abetment of such offence or an attempt to commit such offence (when such attempt is itself an offence) may be compounded in like manner.

When the person who would otherwise be competent to compound an offence under this section is a minor, an idiot or a lunatic, any person competent to contract on his behalf may compound such offence.

The composition of an offence under this section shall have the effect of an acquittal of the accused.

No offence not mentioned in this section shall be compounded.

General Provisions as to Inquiries and Trials.

346. If, in the course of an inquiry or trial before a Magistrate in any district outside the Presidency-towns, the evidence appears to him to warrant a presumption that the case is one which should be tried or committed for trial by some other Magistrate in such district, he shall stay proceedings and submit the case, with a brief report explaining its nature, to any Magistrate to whom he is subordinate, or to such other Magistrate, having jurisdiction, as the District Magistrate directs.

The Magistrate to whom the case is submitted may, if so empowered, either try the case himself, or refer it to any Magistrate subordinate to him having jurisdiction, or commit the accused for trial.

347. If in any inquiry before a Magistrate, or in any trial before a Magistrate before signing judgment, it appears to him at any stage of the proceedings that the case is one which ought to be tried by the Court of Session or High Court, and if he is empowered to commit for trial, he shall stop further proceedings and commit the accused under the provisions hereinbefore contained.

If such Magistrate is not empowered to commit for trial, he shall proceed under section 346.

348. Whoever, having been convicted of an offence punishable under Chapter XII or XVII of the Indian Penal Code with imprisonment for a term of three years or upwards, is again accused of any offence punishable under either of those chapters with imprisonment for a term of three years or upwards, shall ordinarily, if the Magistrate before whom he is accused considers him an habitual offender, be committed to the Court of Session or High Court, as the case may be; or, in districts in which the District Magistrate has been invested with powers under section 30, placed on his trial before such Magistrate.

349. Whenever a Magistrate of the second or third class, having jurisdiction, is of opinion after hearing the evidence for the prosecution and the accused that the accused is guilty, and that he ought to receive a punishment different in kind from, or more severe than, that which such Magistrate is empowered to inflict, or that he ought to be required to execute a bond under section 106, he may record the opinion and submit his proceedings, and forward the accused to the District Magistrate or Sub-divisional Magistrate to whom he is subordinate.

The Magistrate to whom the proceedings are submitted may, if he thinks fit, examine the parties and recall and examine any witness who has already given evidence in the case; and may call for and examine further evidence, and shall pass such sentence or order in the case as he thinks fit, and as is according to law: Provided that he shall not inflict a punishment more severe than he is empowered to inflict under sections 32 and 33.

350. Whenever any Magistrate, after having heard the whole or any part of the evidence in an inquiry or trial, ceases to exercise jurisdiction therein, and is succeeded by another Magistrate who has and who exercises such jurisdiction, the Magistrate so succeeding may act on the evidence so recorded by his predecessor, or partly recorded by his predecessor and partly recorded by himself; or he may re-summon the witnesses and re-commence the inquiry or trial:

(a) In any trial the accused may, when the second Magistrate commences his proceedings, demand that the witnesses or any of them be re-summoned and re-heard:

(b) The High Court, or, in cases tried by Magistrates subordinate to the District Magistrate, the District Magistrate, may, whether there be an appeal or not, set aside any conviction passed on evidence not wholly recorded by the Magistrate before whom the conviction was had, if such Court or District Magistrate is of opinion that the accused has been materially prejudiced thereby; and may order a new inquiry or trial.

Nothing in this section applies to cases in which proceedings have been stayed under section 346.

351. Any person attending a Criminal Court, although not under arrest or upon a summons, may be detained by such Court for the purpose of examination, for any offence of which such Court can take cognizance and which, from the evidence, he may appear to have committed; and may be proceeded against as though he had been arrested or summoned.

When the detention takes place in the course of an inquiry under Chapter XVIII, or after a trial has been begun, the proceedings in respect of such person shall be commenced afresh and the witnesses re-heard.

352. The place in which any Criminal Court is held for the purpose of inquiring into or trying any offence shall be deemed an open Court, to which the public generally may have access, so far as the same can conveniently contain them:

Provided that the presiding Judge or Magistrate may, if he thinks fit, order at any stage of any inquiry into, or trial of, any particular case that the public generally, or any particular person, shall not have access to or be in, the room or building used by the Court.

OF THE MODE OF TAKING AND RECORDING EVIDENCE IN INQUIRIES AND TRIALS.

Act X, 1872, s. 191, para. 1.
Act IV, 1878, s. 83, para. 1.
353. Except as otherwise expressly provided, all evidence taken under Chapters XVIII, XX, XXI, XXII and XXIII shall be taken in the presence of the accused, or, when his personal attendance is dispensed with, in presence of his pleader.

Act X, 1872, s. 332.
354. In inquiries and trials (other than summary trials) under this Code by or before a Magistrate (other than a Presidency Magistrate) or Sessions Judge, the evidence of the witnesses shall be recorded in the following manner.

Act X, 1872, s. 222, s. 333.
355. In summons-cases tried before a Magistrate, other than a Presidency Magistrate, and in cases of the offences mentioned in section 260, clauses (b) to (k), both inclusive, when tried by a Magistrate of the first or second class, the Magistrate shall make a memorandum of the substance of the evidence of each witness as the examination of the witness proceeds.

Such memorandum shall be written and signed by the Magistrate with his own hand, and shall form part of the record.

If the Magistrate is prevented from making a memorandum as above required, he shall record the reason of his inability to do so, and shall cause such memorandum to be made in writing from his dictation in open Court, and shall sign the same; and such memorandum shall form part of the record.

Act X, 1872, s. 334.

No exception of cases in which no appeal lies. 11 Ben. Appx. 6.
356. In all other trials before Courts of Session and Magistrates (other than Presidency Magistrates) and in all inquiries under Chapters XII and XVIII, the evidence of each witness shall be taken down in writing in the language of the Court, by the Magistrate or Sessions Judge, or in his presence and hearing and under his personal direction and superintendence, and shall be signed by the Magistrate or Sessions Judge.

* When the evidence of such witness is given in English, the Magistrate or Sessions Judge may take it down in that language with his own hand, and, unless the accused is familiar with English, or the language of the Court is English, an authenticated translation of such evidence in the language of the Court shall form part of the record.

In cases in which the evidence is not taken down in writing by the Magistrate or Sessions Judge, he shall, at the examination of each witness proceeds, make a memorandum of the substance of what such witness deposes; and such memorandum shall be written and signed by the Magistrate or Sessions Judge with his own hand, and shall form part of the record.

If the Magistrate or Sessions Judge is prevented from making a memorandum as above required, he shall record the reason of his inability to make it.

357. The Local Government may direct that in any district or part of a district, or in proceedings before any Court of Session, or before any Magistrate or class of Magistrates, the evidence of each witness shall in the cases referred to in section 356 be taken down by the Sessions Judge or Magistrate with his own hand and in his mother-tongue, unless he is prevented by any sufficient reason from taking down the evidence of any witness, in which case he shall record the reason of his inability to do so, and shall cause the evidence to be taken down in writing from his dictation in open Court.

The evidence so taken down shall be signed by the Sessions Judge or Magistrate, and shall form part of the record:

Provided that the Local Government may direct the Sessions Judge or Magistrate to take down the evidence in the English language, or in the language of the Court, although such language is not his mother-tongue.

358. In cases of the kind mentioned in section 355, the Magistrate may, if he thinks fit, take down the evidence of any witness in the manner provided in section 356, or, if within the local limits of the jurisdiction of such Magistrate the Local Government has made the order referred to in section 357, in the manner provided in the same section.

359. Evidence taken under section 356 or 357 shall not ordinarily be taken down in the form of question and answer, but in the form of a narrative.

The Magistrate or Sessions Judge may in his discretion take down, or cause to be taken down, any particular question and answer.

360. As the evidence of each witness taken under section 356 or 357 is completed, it shall be read over to him in the presence of the accused, if in attendance, or of his pleader, if he appears by pleader, and shall, if necessary, be corrected.

If the witness deny the correctness of any part of the evidence when the same is read over to him, the Magistrate or Sessions Judge may, instead of correcting the evidence, make a memorandum thereon of the objection made to it by the witness, and shall add such remarks as he thinks necessary.

If the evidence be taken down in a language different from that in which it has been given, and the witness does not understand the language in which it is taken down, the evidence so taken down shall be interpreted to him in the language in which it was given, or in a language which he understands.

361. Whenever any evidence is given in a language not understood by the accused or his pleader, it shall be interpreted to him in open Court in a language understood by him.

If he appears by pleader and the evidence is given in a language other than the language of the Court, and not understood by the pleader, it shall be interpreted to such pleader in that language.

When documents are put in for the purpose of formal proof, it shall be in the discretion of the Court to interpret as much thereof as appears necessary.

362. In every case in which a Presidency Magistrate imposes a fine exceeding two hundred rupees, or imprisonment for a term exceeding six months, he shall either take down the evidence of the witnesses with his own hand, or cause it to be taken down in writing from his dictation in open Court. All evidence so taken down shall be signed by the Magistrate and shall be part of the record.

Evidence so taken down shall ordinarily be recorded in the form of a narrative, but the Magistrate may, in his discretion take down, or cause to be taken down, any particular question or answer.

Sentences passed under section 35 on the same occasion shall, for the purposes of this section, be considered as one sentence.

363. When a Sessions Judge or Magistrate has recorded the evidence of a witness he shall also record such remarks (if any) as he thinks material respecting the demeanour of such witness whilst under examination.

364. Whenever the accused is examined by any Magistrate or by any Court other than a High Court established by Royal Charter or the Chief Court of the Panjab, the whole of such examination, including every question put to him and every answer given by him, shall be recorded in full, in the language in which he is examined, or, if that is not practicable, in the language of the Court or in English; and such record shall be shown to him, or if he does not understand the language in which it is written, shall be interpreted to him in a language which he understands, and he shall be at liberty to explain or add to his answers.

When the whole is made conformable to what he declares is the truth, the record shall be signed by the accused and the Magistrate or Judge of such Court, and such Magistrate or Judge shall certify under his own hand that the examination was taken in his presence and hearing, and that the record contains a full and true account of the statement made by the accused.

In cases in which the examination of the accused is not recorded by the Magistrate or Judge himself, he shall be bound, unless he is a Presidency Magistrate, as the examination proceeds, to make a memorandum thereof in the language of the Court or in English, if he is sufficiently acquainted with the latter language; and such memorandum shall be written and signed by the Magistrate or Judge with his own hand, and shall be annexed to the record. If the Magistrate or Judge is unable to make a memorandum as above required, he shall record the reason of such inability.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to apply to the examination of an accused person under section 263.

365. Every High Court established by Royal Charter and the Chief Court of the Panjab may from time to time by general rule prescribe the manner in which evidence shall be taken down in cases coming before the Court, and the Judges of such Court shall take down the evidence or the substance thereof in accordance with the rule (if any) so prescribed.

CHAPTER XXVI.

OF THE JUDGMENT.

366. The judgment in every trial in any Criminal Court of original jurisdiction shall be pronounced in open Court either immediately or at some subsequent time of which due notice shall be given to the parties or their pleaders; and the accused shall, if in custody, be brought up, or if not in custody shall be required to attend, to hear judgment delivered, except where his personal attendance during the trial has been dispensed with and the sentence is one of fine only, in which case it may be pronounced in the presence of his pleader.

367. Every such judgment shall, except as otherwise expressly provided by this Code, be written by the presiding officer of the Court, or in English; and shall contain the point or points for determination, the decision thereon, and the reasons for the decision; and shall be dated and signed by the presiding officer in open Court at the time of pronouncing it.

Act X, 1872, ss. 461, cl. 1, 464, para. 1. It shall specify the offence (if any) of which, and the section of the Indian Penal Code or other law under which, the accused is convicted, and the punishment to which he is sentenced.

Act X, 1872, s. 461, cl. 2. When the conviction is under the Indian Penal Code, and it is doubtful under which of two sections, or under which of two parts of the same section, of that Code the offence falls, the Court shall distinctly express the same, and pass judgment in the alternative.

If it be a judgment of acquittal, it shall state the offence of which the accused is acquitted and direct that he be set at liberty.

Act X, 1872, s. 287, para. 2. If the accused is convicted of an offence punishable with death, and the Court sentences him to any punishment other than death, the Court shall in its judgment state the reason why sentence of death was not passed:

Provided that, in trials by jury, the Court need not write a judgment, but the Court of Session shall record the heads of the charge to the jury.

Act X, 1872, s. 321. 368. When any person is sentenced to death, the sentence shall direct that he be hanged by the neck till he is dead.

Act X, 1872, s. 319. No sentence of transportation shall specify the place to which the person sentenced is to be transported.

Act X, 1872, s. 464, para. 1, second sentence. 369. No Court other than a High Court when it has signed its judgment shall alter or review the same, except as provided in section 395 or to correct a clerical error.

Act IV, 1877, s. 114. 370. Instead of recording a judgment in manner hereinbefore provided, a Presidency Magistrate shall record the following particulars:—

- the serial number of the case;
- the date of the commission of the offence;
- the name of the complainant (if any);
- the name of the accused person, and (except in the case of an European British subject) his parentage and residence;
- the offence complained of or proved;
- the plea of the accused and his examination (if any);
- the final order;
- the date of such order; and
- in all cases in which the Magistrate inflicts imprisonment, or fine exceeding two hundred rupees, or both, a brief statement of the reasons for the conviction.

Act XI, 1874, s. 41, para. 1. 371. The judgment shall be explained to the accused, and on his application a copy of the judgment, or, when he so desires, a translation in his own language, if practicable, or in the language of the Court, shall be given to him without delay. Such copy shall, in any case other than a summons-case, be given free of cost.

In trials by jury in a Court of Session, a copy of the heads of the charge to the jury, and the application of the accused, be given to him without delay and free of cost.

When the accused is sentenced to death by a Sessions Judge, such Judge shall further inform him of the period within which, if he wishes to appeal, his appeal should be preferred.

372. The original judgment shall be filed with the record of proceedings, and where the original is recorded in a different language from that of the Court, and the accused so requires, a translation thereof into the language of the Court shall be added to such record.

373. In cases tried by the Court of Session, the Court shall forward a copy of its finding and sentence (if any) to the District Magistrate within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the trial was held.

CHAPTER XXVII.

OF THE SUBMISSION OF SENTENCES FOR CONFIRMATION.

374. When the Court of Session passes sentence of death, the proceedings shall be submitted to the High Court, and the sentence shall not be executed unless it is confirmed by the High Court.

375. If when such proceedings are submitted the High Court thinks that a further inquiry should be made into, or additional evidence taken upon, any point bearing upon the guilt or innocence of the convicted person, it may make such inquiry or take such evidence itself or direct it to be made or taken by the Court of Session.

Such inquiry shall not be made nor shall such evidence be taken in the presence of jurors or assessors, and, unless the High Court otherwise directs, the presence of the convicted person and be dispensed with when the same is made or taken. The result of such inquiry and the evidence when it is not made or taken by the High Court shall be certified to such Court.

376. In any case submitted under section 374, whether tried with the aid of assessors or by jury, the High Court—

- may confirm the sentence, or pass any other sentence warranted by law, or
- may annul the conviction, and convict the accused of any offence of which the Sessions Court might have convicted him, or order a new trial on the same or an amended charge, or
- may acquit the accused person:

Provided that no order of confirmation shall be made under this section until the period allowed for preferring an appeal has expired, or, if an appeal is presented within such period, until such appeal is disposed of.

Act X, 1872, s. 290. 377. In every case so submitted, the confirmation of the sentence or any new sentence or order passed by the High Court, shall, when such Court consists of two or more Judges, be made, passed, and signed by at least two of them.

Act X, 1872, s. 291 B. 378. When any such case is heard before a Bench of Judges and such Judges are equally divided in opinion, the case, with their opinions thereon, shall be laid before another Judge, and such Judge, after such examination and hearing as he thinks fit, shall deliver his opinion, and the judgment or order shall follow such opinion.

379. In cases submitted by the Court of Session to the High Court for the confirmation of a sentence of death, the proper officer of the High Court shall, without delay, after the order of confirmation or other order has been made by the High Court, send a copy of the order, under the seal of the High Court, and attested with his official signature, to the Court of Session.

380. When a sentence passed by an Assistant Sessions Judge or by a District Magistrate acting under section 34 is submitted to a Sessions Judge for confirmation, such Sessions Judge—

- may confirm the sentence, or pass any other sentence which the lower Court might have passed;
- may annul the conviction, and convict the accused of any offence of which the lower Court might have convicted him, or order a new trial on the same or an amended charge; or
- may acquit the accused; or
- if he thinks further inquiry or additional evidence upon any point bearing upon the guilt or innocence of the accused to be necessary, he may make such inquiry or take such evidence himself or direct such inquiry or evidence to be made or taken.

Unless the Sessions Court otherwise directs, the presence of the convicted person may be dispensed with when such inquiry is made or evidence taken; and when the sentence has been submitted by an Assistant Sessions Judge, such inquiry shall not be made, nor shall such evidence be taken, in the presence of jurors or assessors.

The result of such evidence shall be certified to the Sessions Court.

OF THE EXECUTION.

381. When a sentence of death passed by a Court of Session is submitted to the High Court for confirmation, such Court of Session shall, on receiving the order of confirmation or other order of the High Court thereon, cause such order to be carried into effect by issuing a warrant or taking such other steps as may be necessary.

382. If a woman sentenced to death be found to be pregnant, the High Court shall order the execution of the sentence to be postponed, and may commute the sentence to transportation for life.

383. Where the accused is sentenced to transportation or imprisonment in cases other than those provided for by section 381, the Court passing the sentence shall forthwith forward a warrant to the jail in which he is to be confined, and, unless the accused is already confined in such jail, shall forward him to such jail, with the warrant.

384. Every warrant for the execution of a sentence of imprisonment shall be directed to the officer in charge of the jail or other place in which the prisoner is, or is to be, confined.

385. When the prisoner is to be confined in a jail, the warrant shall be lodged with the jailor.

386. Whenever an offender is sentenced to pay a fine, the Court passing the sentence may, in its discretion, issue a warrant for the levy of the amount by distress and sale of any moveable property belonging to the offender, although the sentence directs that, in default of payment of the fine, the offender shall be imprisoned.

387. Such warrant may be executed within the local limits of the jurisdiction of such Court, and it shall authorize the distress and sale of any such property without such limits, when endorsed by the District Magistrate or Chief Presidency Magistrate within the local limits of whose jurisdiction such property is found.

388. When an offender has been sentenced to fine only, and to imprisonment in default of payment of the fine, and the Court issues a warrant under section 386, it may suspend the execution of the sentence of imprisonment and may release the offender on his executing a bond, with or without sureties, as the Court thinks fit, conditioned for his appearance before such Court on the day appointed for the return to such warrant, such day not being more than fifteen days from the time of executing the bond; and in the event of the fine not having been realized the Court may direct the sentence of imprisonment to be carried into execution at once.

Act X, 1872, s. 307, last para. Who may issue warrant. Act IV, 1877, s. 185, last sentence. 389. Every warrant for the execution of any sentence may be issued by the Judge or Magistrate who passes the sentence or by his successor in office.

Act X, 1872, s. 302A, cl. 2. Execution of sentence of whipping only. Act IV, 1877, s. 183. 390. Where the accused is sentenced to whipping only, the sentence shall be executed at such place and time as the Court may direct.

Act X, 1872, s. 310. Act IV, 1877, s. 187. 391. When the accused is sentenced to whipping in addition to imprisonment in a case which is subject to appeal, the whipping shall not be inflicted until fifteen days from the date of the sentence, or, if an appeal be made within that time, until the sentence is confirmed by the appellate Court: but the whipping shall be inflicted as soon as practicable after the expiry of the fifteen days, or, in case of an appeal, as soon as practicable after the receipt of the order of the appellate Court confirming the sentence.

Act X, 1872, s. 311, para. 2. Act XI, 1874, s. 32, para. 1. The whipping shall be inflicted in the presence of the officer in charge of the jail: unless the Judge or Magistrate orders it to be inflicted in his own presence.

Act X, 1872, s. 311, para. 2. Act X, 1875, s. 108. Act IV, 1877, s. 188. 392. In the case of a person of or over sixteen years of age, whipping shall be inflicted with a light ratan not less than half an inch in diameter, in such mode, and on such part of the person, as the Local Government directs; and in the case of a person under sixteen years of age, it shall be inflicted in the way of school-discipline with a light ratan.

Act X, 1872, s. 311, para. 2. In no case shall such punishment exceed thirty stripes.

Act X, 1872, s. 312, para. 3. Act IV, 1877, s. 190. 393. No sentence of whipping shall be executed by instalments; and none of the following persons shall be punishable with whipping: namely,—

- females;
- males sentenced to death, or to transportation, or to penal servitude, or to imprisonment for more than five years;
- males whom the Court considers to be more than forty-five years of age.

Act X, 1872, s. 312, paras. 1 and 2. Whipping not to be inflicted if offender not in fit state of health. Act XI, 1874, s. 32, para. 2. Act X, 1875, s. 108. Act IV, 1877, s. 189. 394. The punishment of whipping shall not be inflicted unless a Medical Officer, if present, certifies, or, if there is not a Medical Officer present, unless it appears to the Magistrate or officer present, that the offender is in a fit state of health to undergo such punishment.

If, during the execution of a sentence of whipping, a Medical Officer certifies, or it appears to the Magistrate or officer present, that the offender is not in a fit state of health to undergo the remainder of the sentence, the whipping shall be stopped.

395. In any case in which, under section 394, Act X, 1872, a sentence of imprisonment, wholly or partly suspended from being executed, the offender shall be kept in custody till the Court which passed the sentence can revise it; and the said Court may, at its discretion, either remit such sentence, or sentence the offender in lieu of whipping, or in lieu of so much of the sentence of whipping as was not executed, to imprisonment for any term not exceeding twelve months, which may be in addition to any other punishment to which he may have been sentenced for the same offence.

Procedure if punishment cannot be inflicted under the last section. Nothing in this section shall be deemed to authorize any Court to inflict imprisonment for a term exceeding that to which the accused is liable by law, or that which the said Court is competent to inflict.

396. When sentence is passed under this Code on an escaped convict, such sentence, if of death, fine or whipping, shall, subject to the provisions hereinbefore contained, take effect immediately, and if of imprisonment, penal servitude or transportation, shall take effect according to the following rules, that is to say:—

If the new sentence is severer in its quality than the sentence which such convict was undergoing when he escaped, the new sentence shall take effect immediately.

When the new sentence is not severer in its quality than the sentence the convict was undergoing when he escaped, the new sentence shall take effect after he has suffered imprisonment, penal servitude or transportation, as the case may be, for a further period equal to that which, at the time of his escape, remained unexpired of his former sentence.

EXPLANATION.—For the purpose of this section—

(a) a sentence of transportation or penal servitude shall be deemed severer than a sentence of imprisonment;

(b) a sentence of imprisonment with solitary confinement shall be deemed severer than a sentence of the same description of imprisonment without solitary confinement; and

(c) a sentence of rigorous imprisonment shall be deemed severer than a sentence of simple imprisonment with or without solitary confinement.

397. When a person already undergoing a sentence of imprisonment, penal servitude or transportation is sentenced to imprisonment, penal servitude or transportation, such imprisonment, penal servitude or transportation shall commence at the expiration of the imprisonment, penal servitude or transportation to which he has been previously sentenced:

Provided that if he is undergoing a sentence of imprisonment, and the sentence on such subsequent conviction be one of transportation, the Court may, in its discretion, direct that the latter sentence shall commence immediately, or at the expiration of the imprisonment to which he has been previously sentenced.

Act X, 1872, s. 317, proviso. 398. Nothing in section 396 or section 397 shall be held to excuse any person from any part of the punishment to which he is liable upon his former or subsequent conviction.

Act X, 1872, s. 318. Act X, 1875, s. 112. 399. When any person under the age of sixteen years is sentenced by any Criminal Court to imprisonment for any offence, the Court may direct that such person, instead of being imprisoned in a criminal jail, shall be confined in any reformatory established by the Local Government as a fit place for confinement, in which there are means of suitable discipline and of training in some branch of useful industry, or which is kept by a person willing to obey such rules as the Local Government prescribes with regard to the discipline and training of persons confined therein.

All persons confined under this section shall be subject to the rules so prescribed.

Act X, 1875, s. 305. 400. When a sentence has been fully executed, the officer executing it shall return the warrant to the Court from which it issued, with an endorsement under his hand certifying the manner in which the sentence has been executed.

CHAPTER XXIX.

OF SUSPENSIONS, REMISSIONS AND COMMUTATIONS OF SENTENCES.

Act X, 1872, s. 322, para. 2. 401. When any person has been sentenced to punishment for an offence, the Governor General in Council, or the Local Government, may at any time, without conditions, or upon any conditions which the person sentenced accepts, suspend the execution of his sentence or remit the whole or any part of the punishment to which he has been sentenced.

Whenever an application is made to the Governor General in Council or the Local Government for the suspension or remission of a sentence, the Governor General in Council or the Local Government, as the case may be, may require the presiding Judge of the Court before or by which the conviction was had or confirmed to state his opinion as to whether the application should be granted or refused, together with his reasons for such opinion.

Persons in whose favour a sentence has been suspended or remitted fails to fulfil the conditions prescribed by the Governor General in Council or the Local Government, the Governor General in Council or the Local Government, as the case may be, may cancel such suspension or remission, whereupon such person may, if at large, be arrested by any Police-officer without warrant and remanded to undergo the unexpired portion of the sentence.

Nothing hereby contained shall be deemed to interfere with the right of Her Majesty to grant pardons, reprieves, respites, or remissions of punishment.

402. The Governor General in Council, or the Local Government, may without the consent of the person sentenced commute any one of the following sentences for any other mentioned after it:—

death, transportation, penal servitude, rigorous imprisonment for a term not exceeding that to which he might have been sentenced, simple imprisonment for a like term, fine.

CHAPTER XXX.

OF PREVIOUS ACQUITTALS OR CONVICTIONS.

403. A person who has once been tried by a Court of competent jurisdiction for an offence and convicted or acquitted of such offence shall, while such conviction or acquittal remains in force, not be liable to be tried again for the same offence, nor on the same facts for any other offence for which a different charge from the one made against him might have been made under section 236, or for which he might have been convicted under section 237.

A person acquitted or convicted of any offence may be afterwards tried for any distinct offence for which a separate charge might have been made against him on the former trial under section 235, paragraph one.

A person convicted of any offence constituted by any act causing consequences which, together with such act, constituted a different offence from that of which he was convicted, may be afterwards tried for such last-mentioned offence, if the consequences had not happened, or were not known to the Court to have happened, at the time when he was convicted.

A person acquitted or convicted of any offence constituted by any acts may, notwithstanding such acquittal or conviction, be subsequently charged with, and tried for, any other offence constituted by the same acts which he may have committed, if the Court by which he was first tried was not competent to try the offence with which he is subsequently charged.

Act X, 1872, ss. 147, 195, Expln. 2, 216, Expln. 2, Act X, 1875, s. 14.

EXPLANATION.—The dismissal of a complaint, the stopping of proceedings under section 249, the discharge of the accused, or any entry made upon a charge under section 273, is not an acquittal for the purposes of this section.

Illustrations.

(a) A is tried upon a charge of theft and acquitted. He cannot afterwards, while the acquittal remains in force, be charged with the same offence, or upon the same facts, with theft simple or with criminal breach of trust.

(b) A is tried upon a charge of murder and acquitted. There is no charge of robbery; but it appears from the facts that A committed robbery at the time when the murder was committed; he may afterwards be charged with, and tried for, robbery.

(c) A is tried for causing grievous hurt and convicted. The person injured afterwards dies. A may be tried again for culpable homicide.

(d) A is charged before the Court of Session and convicted of the culpable homicide of B. A may not afterwards be tried on the same facts for the murder of B.

(e) A is charged by a Magistrate of the first class with, and convicted by him of, voluntarily causing hurt to B. A may not afterwards be tried for voluntarily causing grievous hurt to B on the same facts, unless the case comes within paragraph three of this section.

(f) A is charged by a Magistrate of the second class with, and convicted by him of, theft of property from the person of B. A may be subsequently charged with, and tried for, robbery on the same facts.

(g) A, B and C are charged by a Magistrate of the first class with, and convicted by him of, robbing D. A, B and C may afterwards be charged with, and tried for, dacoity on the same facts.

PART VII.

OF APPEAL, REFERENCE AND REVISION.

CHAPTER XXXI.

OF APPEALS.

Act X, 1872, ss. 282, 286, omitting the illustrations, Act IV, 1877, s. 180.

404. No appeal shall lie from any judgment or order of a Criminal Court except as provided for by this Code or by any other law for the time being in force.

Act X, 1872, ss. 286, omitting the illustrations, Act IV, 1877, s. 180.

405. Any person whose application under section 89 for the delivery of property or the proceeds of the sale thereof has been rejected by any Court, may appeal to the Court to which appeals ordinarily lie from the sentences of the former Court.

Act X, 1872, s. 207.

406. Any person required by a Magistrate, other than the District Magistrate or a Presidency Magistrate to give security for good behaviour under section 113, may appeal to the District Magistrate.

Act X, 1872, ss. 286, omitting the illustrations, Act IV, 1877, s. 180.

407. Any person convicted on a trial held by any Magistrate of the second or third class, or any person sentenced under section 349, by a Sub-divisional Magistrate of the second class, may appeal to the District Magistrate.

The District Magistrate may direct that any appeal under this section, or any class of such appeals, shall be heard by any Magistrate of the first class subordinate to him, and empowered by the Local Government to hear such appeals, and thereupon such appeals of appeals shall be presented to such Magistrate, or if already presented to the District Magistrate shall be transferred to such Subordinate Magistrate. The District Magistrate may withdraw from such Magistrate any appeal or class of appeals so presented or transferred.

408. Any person convicted on a trial held by an Assistant Sessions Judge, a District Magistrate or other Magistrate of the first class, or any person sentenced under section 349 by a Magistrate of the first class, may appeal to the Court of Session:

Provided as follows:—

(a) when in any case an Assistant Sessions Judge or a District Magistrate passes any sentence which is subject to the confirmation of the Sessions Court, every appeal in such case shall lie to the High Court, but shall not be presented until the case has been disposed of by the Sessions Court;

(b) any European British subject so convicted may at his option appeal either to the High Court or the Court of Session.

409. An appeal to the Court of Session or Sessions Judge shall be heard by the Sessions Judge or by an Additional or Joint Sessions Judge.

410. Any person convicted on a trial held by a Sessions Judge, or Additional or Joint Sessions Judge, may appeal to the High Court.

411. Any person convicted on a trial held by a Presidency Magistrate may appeal to the High Court if the Magistrate has sentenced him to imprisonment for a term exceeding six months or to fine exceeding two hundred rupees.

412. Notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, where an accused person has pleaded guilty and has been convicted by a Court of Session or a Presidency Magistrate on such plea, there shall be no appeal except as to the extent or legality of the sentence.

413. Notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, there shall be no appeal by a convicted person in cases in which a Court of Session or the District Magistrate or other Magistrate of the first class passes a sentence of imprisonment not exceeding one month only, or of fine not exceeding fifty rupees only, or of whipping only.

EXPLANATION.—There is no appeal from a sentence of imprisonment passed by such Court or Magistrate in default of payment of fine when no substantive sentence of imprisonment has been passed.

414. Notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, there shall be no appeal by a convicted person in cases tried summarily in which the Magistrate empowered to act under section 413 or 414 by which any two or more of the punishments therein mentioned are combined, but no sentence which would not otherwise be liable to appeal shall be appealable merely on the ground that the person convicted is ordered to find security to keep the peace.

415. Nothing in sections 413 and 414 applies to appeals from sentences passed under Chapter XXXIII on European British subjects.

416. The Local Government may direct the Public Prosecutor to present an appeal to the High Court from an original or appellate order of acquittal passed by any Court other than a High Court.

417. An appeal may lie on a matter of fact as well as a matter of law, except where the trial was by jury, in which case the appeal shall lie on a matter of law only.

EXPLANATION.—The alleged severity of a sentence shall for the purposes of this section be deemed to be a matter of law.

418. Every appeal shall be made in the form of a petition in writing presented by the appellant or his pleader, and every such petition shall (unless the Court to which it is presented otherwise directs) be accompanied by a copy of the judgment or order appealed against, and in cases tried by a jury a copy of the heads of the charge recorded under section 367.

419. If the appellant is in jail, he may present his petition of appeal, and the copies accompanying the same, to the officer in charge of the jail, who shall thereupon forward such petition and copies to the proper Appellate Court.

420. On receiving the petition and copy under section 419 or section 420, the Appellate Court shall peruse the same, and if it considers that there is no sufficient ground for interfering, it may reject the appeal summarily: Provided that no appeal presented under section 419 shall be dismissed unless the appellant or his pleader has had a reasonable opportunity of being heard in support of the same.

421. Whenever a case is decided on appeal by the High Court under this chapter, it shall certify its judgment or order to the Court by which the finding, sentence or order appealed against was recorded or passed. If the finding, sentence or order was recorded or passed by a Magistrate other than the

422. The Appellate Court shall then send for the record of the case, if such record is not already in Court. After perusing such record, and hearing the appellant or his pleader, if he appears, and the Public Prosecutor, if he appears, the Court may, if it considers there is no sufficient ground for interfering, dismiss the appeal or may—

(a) in an appeal from an order of acquittal, reverse such order and direct that further inquiry be made, or that the accused be retried or committed for trial, as the case may be, or find him guilty and pass sentence on him according to law;

(b) in an appeal from a conviction (1) reverse the finding and sentence, and acquit or discharge the accused, or order him to be retried by a Court of competent jurisdiction subordinate to such Appellate Court, or committed for trial, or (2) alter the finding, maintaining the sentence, or, with or without altering the finding, reduce the sentence, or (3) with or without such reduction, and with or without altering the finding, alter the nature of the sentence, but not so as to enhance the same;

(c) in an appeal from any other order, alter or reverse such order;

(d) Nothing herein contained shall authorize the Court to alter or reverse the verdict of a jury, unless it is of opinion that such verdict is erroneous owing to a misdirection by the Judge, or to a misunderstanding on the part of the jury of the law as laid down by him.

423. The rules contained in Chapter XXVI as to the judgment of a Criminal Court of original jurisdiction shall apply, so far as may be practicable, to the judgment of any Appellate Court other than a High Court:

Provided that, unless the Appellate Court otherwise directs, the accused shall not be brought up, or required to attend, to hear judgment delivered.

424. Whenever a case is decided on appeal by the High Court under this chapter, it shall certify its judgment or order to the Court by which the finding, sentence or order appealed against was recorded or passed. (c) in an appeal from any other order, alter or reverse such order;

(d) Nothing herein contained shall authorize the Court to alter or reverse the verdict of a jury, unless it is of opinion that such verdict is erroneous owing to a misdirection by the Judge, or to a misunderstanding on the part of the jury of the law as laid down by him.

424. The rules contained in Chapter XXVI as to the judgment of a Criminal Court of original jurisdiction shall apply, so far as may be practicable, to the judgment of any Appellate Court other than a High Court:

Provided that, unless the Appellate Court otherwise directs, the accused shall not be brought up, or required to attend, to hear judgment delivered.

425. Whenever a case is decided on appeal by the High Court under this chapter, it shall certify its judgment or order to the Court by which the finding, sentence or order appealed against was recorded or passed. The power conferred by this section on an Appellate Court may be exercised also by the High Court in the case of any appeal by a convicted person to a Court subordinate thereto.

When the appellant is ultimately sentenced to imprisonment, penal servitude or transportation, the time during which he is so released shall be excluded in computing the term for which he is so sentenced.

When the additional evidence is taken by the Court of Session or the Magistrate, it or he shall certify such evidence to the Appellate Court, and such Court shall thereupon proceed to dispose of the appeal.

CHAPTER XXXII.

OF REFERENCE AND REVISION.

432. A Presidency Magistrate may, if he thinks fit, refer for the opinion of the High Court any question of law which arises in the hearing of any case pending before him, or may give judgment in any such case subject to the decision of the High Court on such reference; and, pending such decision, may either commit the accused to jail, or release him on bail to appear for judgment when called upon.

433. When a question has been so referred, the High Court shall pass such order thereon as it thinks fit, and shall cause a copy of such order to be sent to the Magistrate by whom the reference was made, who shall dispose of the case conformably to the said order.

The High Court may direct by whom the costs of such reference shall be paid.

434. When any person has, in a trial before a Judge of a High Court consisting of more Judges than one and acting in the exercise of its original criminal jurisdiction, been convicted of an offence, the Judge, if he thinks fit, may reserve and refer for the decision of a Court consisting of two or more Judges of such Court any question of law which has arisen in the course of the trial of such person, and the determination of which would affect the event of the trial.

If the Judge reserves any such question, the person convicted shall, pending the decision thereon, be remanded to jail or, if the Judge thinks fit, be admitted to bail.

and the High Court shall have power to review the case, or such part of it as may be necessary, and finally determine such question, and thereupon to alter the sentence passed by the Court of original jurisdiction, and to pass such judgment or order as the High Court thinks fit.

435. The High Court or any Court of Session or District Magistrate, or any Sub-divisional Magistrate empowered by the Local Government in this behalf, may call for and examine the record of any proceeding before any inferior Criminal Court situate within the local limits of its or his jurisdiction, for the purpose of satisfying itself or himself as to the correctness, legality or propriety of any finding, sentence or order recorded or passed, and as to the regularity of any proceedings of such inferior Court.

If any Sub-divisional Magistrate acting under this section considers that any such finding, sentence or order is illegal or improper, or that any such proceedings are irregular, he shall forward the record, with such remarks thereon as he thinks fit, to the District Magistrate.

Orders made under sections 143 and 144 and proceedings under section 176 are not proceedings within the meaning of this section.

436. When, on examining the record of any case under section 435 or otherwise, the Court of Session or District Magistrate considers that such case is triable exclusively by the Court of Session, and that an accused person has been improperly discharged by the inferior Court, the Court of Session or District Magistrate may cause him to be arrested, and may thereupon, instead of directing a fresh inquiry, order him to be committed for trial upon the matter of which he has been, in the opinion of the Court of Session or District Magistrate, improperly discharged:

Provided as follows—

(a) that the accused has had an opportunity of showing cause to such Court or Magistrate why the commitment should not be made:

(b) that, if such Court or Magistrate thinks that the evidence shows that some other offence has been committed by the accused, such Court or Magistrate may direct the inferior Court to inquire into such offence.

437. On examining any record under section 435 or otherwise, the High Court or Court of Session may direct the District Magistrate by himself or by any of the Magistrates subordinate to him to make, and the District Magistrate may himself make, or direct any subordinate Magistrate to make, further inquiry into any complaint which has been dismissed under section 203, or into the case of any accused person who has been discharged.

438. The Court of Session or District Magistrate may, if it or he thinks fit, on examining under section 435 or otherwise the record of any proceeding, report for the orders of the High Court the results of such examination, and when such report contains a recommendation that a sentence be reversed, may order that the execution of such sentence be suspended, and if the accused is in confinement that he be released on bail or on his own bond.

439. In the case of any proceeding the record of which has been called for by itself, or which has been reported for orders, or which otherwise comes to its knowledge, the High Court may, in its discretion, exercise any of the powers conferred on a Court of appeal by sections 195, 423, 426, 427 and 428, or on a Court by section 338, and may enhance the sentence, and when the Judges composing the Court of revision are equally divided in opinion, the case shall be disposed of in manner provided by section 429.

No order under this section shall be made to the prejudice of the accused unless he has had an opportunity of being heard either personally or by pleader in his own defence. Where the sentence dealt with under this section has been passed by a Magistrate acting otherwise than under section 30, the Court shall not inflict a greater punishment for the offence which, in the opinion of such Court, the accused has committed, than might have been inflicted for such offence by a Presidency Magistrate or a Magistrate of the first class.

Nothing in this section applies to an entry made under section 476 or shall be deemed to authorize a High Court to convert a finding of acquittal into one of conviction.

440. No party has any right to be heard either personally or by pleader before any Court when exercising its powers of revision: Provided that the Court may, if it thinks fit, when exercising such powers, hear any party either personally or by pleader.

441. When the record of any proceeding of any Presidency Magistrate is called for by the High Court under section 435, the Magistrate may submit with the record a statement setting forth the grounds of his decision or order and any facts which he thinks material to the issue; and the Court shall consider such statement before overruling or setting aside the said decision or order.

442. When a case is revised under this chapter by the High Court it shall certify its decision or order to the Court by which the finding, sentence or order revised was recorded or passed, and the Court or Magistrate to which the decision or order is so certified shall thereupon make such orders as are conformable to the decision so certified, and, if necessary, the record shall be amended in accordance therewith.

PART VIII.

SPECIAL PROCEEDINGS.

CHAPTER XXXIII.

CRIMINAL PROCEEDINGS AGAINST EUROPEANS AND AMERICANS.

443. No Magistrate, unless he is a Justice of the Peace, and (except in the case of a Presidency Magistrate) unless he is a Magistrate of the first class and an European British subject, shall inquire into or try any charge against an European British subject.

444. No Judge presiding in a Court of Session shall exercise jurisdiction over an European British subject unless he himself is an European British subject; and if he is an Assistant Sessions Judge, unless he has held the office of Assistant Sessions Judge for at least three years, and has been specially empowered in this behalf by the Local Government.

445. Nothing in section 443 or section 444 shall prevent any Magistrate from taking cognizance of an offence committed by any European British subject in any case in which he could take cognizance of a like offence if committed by another person:

Provided that, if he issues any process for the purpose of compelling the appearance of an European British subject accused of an offence, such process shall be made returnable before a Magistrate having jurisdiction to inquire into or try the case.

446. Notwithstanding anything contained in section 32 or section 34, no sentence on an European British subject other than imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months, or fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or both.

447. When an European British subject is accused of an offence before a Magistrate, and such offence cannot, in the opinion of such Magistrate, be adequately punished by him, and is not punishable with death or with transportation for life, such Magistrate shall, if he thinks that the accused ought to be committed, commit him to the Court of Session or, in the case of a Presidency Magistrate, to the High Court.

When the offence which appears to have been committed is punishable with death or transportation for life, the commitment shall be to the High Court.

448. Where any person committed to the High Court under section 447 is charged with several offences of which one is punishable with death or transportation for life and the others with a less punishment, and the High Court considers that he should not be tried for the offence punishable with death or transportation, the High Court may nevertheless try him for the other offences.

449. Notwithstanding anything contained in section 31, no Court of Session shall pass on any European British subject any sentence other than a sentence of imprisonment for a term which may extend to one year, or fine, or both.

If, at any time after the commitment and before signing judgment, the presiding Judge finds his powers inadequate, or the offence which appears to be proved cannot be adequately punished by such a sentence, he shall record his opinion to that effect and transfer the case to the High Court. Such Judge may either himself bind over, or direct the committing Magistrate to bind over, the complainant and witnesses to appear before the High Court.

450. If the Judge of the Sessions Division within which the offence is ordinarily triable is not an European British subject, the case shall be reported by the committing Magistrate for the orders of the highest Court of criminal appeal for the province within which such division is situate.

In British Burma the Court of the Recorder of Rangoon shall, for the purposes of this section, be deemed to be the highest Court of criminal appeal.

451. In trials of European British subjects before a High Court or Court of Session, if before the first juror is called and accepted, or the first assessor is appointed, as the case may be, any such subject requires to be tried by a mixed jury, or by a mixed set of assessors, not less than half the number of the jurors or assessors shall be Europeans or Americans, or both Europeans and Americans.

452. In any case in which an European British subject is jointly tried with a person being an European British subject, and such European British subject is committed for trial before a High Court or Court of Session, such persons may be tried together, and the procedure on the trial shall be the same as it would have been had the European British subject been tried separately:

Provided that, if the European British subject requires under section 451 to be tried by a mixed jury, or by a mixed set of assessors, and the person not being an European British subject requires that he shall be tried separately, the latter person shall be tried separately in accordance with the provisions of Chapter XXIII.

453. When any person claims to be dealt with as an European British subject, he shall state the grounds of such claim to the Magistrate before whom he is brought for the purposes of the inquiry or trial; and such Magistrate shall inquire into the truth of such statement, and allow the person making it a reasonable time within which to prove that it is true, and shall then decide whether he is or is not an European British subject, and shall deal with him accordingly. If any such person is convicted by such Magistrate and appeals from such conviction, the burden of proving that the Magistrate's said decision was wrong shall lie upon him.

When any such person is committed by the Magistrate for trial before the Court of Session, and such person before such Court claims to be dealt with as an European British subject, such Court shall after such further enquiry, if any, as it thinks fit, decide whether he is or is not an European British subject, and shall deal with him accordingly. If he is convicted by such Court and appeals from such conviction, the burden of proving that the Court's decision was wrong shall lie upon him.

When the Court before which any person is tried decides that he is not an European British subject, such decision shall form a ground of appeal from the sentence or order passed in such trial.

454. If an European British subject does not claim to be dealt with as such by the Magistrate before whom he is tried or by whom he is committed, or if, when such claim has been made before, and disallowed by, the committing Magistrate, it is not again made before the Court to which he is committed, he shall be held to have relinquished his right as such European British subject, and shall not assert it in any subsequent stage of the same case.

Unless the Magistrate has reason to believe that any person brought before him is not an European British subject, the Magistrate shall ask such person whether he is such a subject or not.

455. Where a person who is not an European British subject is dealt with as such under this chapter, and does not object, the inquiry, commitment, trial or sentence (as the case may be) shall not, by reason of such dealing, be invalid.

456. When any European British subject is unlawfully detained in custody by any person, such European British subject or any person on his behalf may apply to the High Court which would have jurisdiction over such European British subject in respect of any offence committed by him at the place where he is detained, or to which he would be entitled to appeal from any conviction for any such offence, for an order directing the person detaining him to bring him before the High Court to abide such further order as it may pass.

457. The High Court, if it thinks fit, may, before issuing such order, inquire, on affidavit or otherwise, into the grounds on which it is applied for, and grant or refuse such application; or it may issue the order in the first instance and, when the person applying for it is brought before it, it may make such further order in the case as it thinks fit, after such inquiry (if any) as it thinks necessary.

458. The High Court may issue such orders throughout the territories within the local limits of its appellate criminal jurisdiction, and such other territories as the Governor General in Council may from time to time direct.

459. Unless there be something repugnant in the context, all enactments heretofore or hereafter made by the Governor General in Council, which confer on Magistrates or on the Court of Session jurisdiction over offences, shall be deemed to apply to European British subjects, although such persons be not expressly referred to therein.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to authorize any Court to exceed the limits prescribed by this chapter as to the amount of punishment which it may inflict on an European British subject, or to confer jurisdiction on any Magistrate not being a Justice of the Peace or on any Magistrate or Sessions Judge outside the Presidency-towns not being an European British subject.

460. In every case triable by jury or with the aid of assessors, in which an European (not being an European British subject) or an American is the accused person, or one of the accused persons, not less than half the number of jurors or assessors shall, if practicable and if such European or American so claims, be Europeans or Americans.

461. Whenever an European or American is charged before the Court of Session jointly with a person not an European or American, and in compliance with a claim made under section 460 is tried by a jury or with the aid of a set of assessors, of which at least one-half consists of Europeans and Americans, the latter person shall, if he so claims, be tried separately.

462. When a trial is to be held before the Court of Session in which the accused person, or one of the accused persons, is entitled to be tried by a jury constituted under the provisions of section 451, or section 460, the Court shall, three days at least before the day fixed for holding such trial, cause to be summoned, in the manner hereinbefore prescribed, as many European and American jurors as are required for the trial.

The Court shall also at the same time in like manner cause to be summoned the same number of other persons named in the revised list, unless such number of such other persons has been already summoned for trials by jury at that session.

From the whole number of persons returned, the jurors who are to constitute the jury shall be chosen by lot in the manner prescribed in section 276, until a jury containing the proper number of Europeans or Americans, or a number approaching thereto as nearly as possible, has been obtained:

Provided that in any case in which the proper number of Europeans and Americans cannot otherwise be obtained, the Court may in its discretion, for the purpose of constituting the jury, summon any person excluded from the list on the ground of his being exempted under section 320.

463. Criminal proceedings against European British subjects, Europeans not being European British subjects, and Americans, before the Court of Session and High Court, shall, except as otherwise expressly provided, be conducted according to the provisions of this Code.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

LUNATICS.

464. When a Magistrate holding an inquiry or a trial has reason to believe that the accused is of unsound mind and consequently incapable of making his defence, the Magistrate shall inquire into the fact of such unsoundness, and shall cause such person to be examined by the Civil Surgeon of the District or such other medical officer as the Local Government directs, and thereupon shall examine such Surgeon or other officer as a witness, and shall reduce the examination to writing.

If such Magistrate is of opinion that the accused is of unsound mind and consequently incapable of making his defence, he shall postpone further proceedings in the case.

Act X, 1872, s. 425. 465. If any person committed for trial before a Court of Session or a High Court appears to the Court at his trial to be of unsound mind and consequently incapable of making his defence, the jury or the Court with the aid of assessors shall, in the first instance, try the fact of such unsoundness and incapacity, and, if satisfied of the fact, shall pass judgment accordingly, and thereupon the trial shall be postponed.

Act X, 1875, s. 120. Procedure in case of person committed before Court of Session or High Court being lunatic. The trial of the fact of the unsoundness of mind and incapacity of the accused shall be deemed to be part of his trial before the Court.

Act X, 1872, s. 426. 466. Whenever an accused person is found to be of unsound mind and incapable of making his defence, the Magistrate or Court, as the case may be, if the case is one in which bail may be taken, may release him on sufficient security being given that he shall be properly taken care of and shall be prevented from doing injury to himself or to any other person, and for his appearance when required before the Magistrate or Court or such officer as the Magistrate or Court appoints in this behalf.

I. L. R., 2 Cal., 356. If the case is one in which bail may not be taken, or if sufficient security is not given, the Magistrate or Court shall report the case to the Local Government, and the Local Government may order the accused to be confined in a lunatic asylum or other suitable place of safe custody, and the Magistrate or Court shall give effect to such order.

Act X, 1872, s. 427. 467. Whenever an inquiry or trial is postponed under section 464 or section 465, the Magistrate or Court, as the case may be, may at any time resume the inquiry or trial, and require the accused to appear or be brought before such Magistrate or Court.

When the accused has been released under section 466, and the sureties for his appearance produce him to the officer whom the Magistrate or Court appoints in this behalf, the certificate of such officer that the accused is capable of making his defence shall be receivable in evidence.

Act X, 1872, s. 428. 468. If, when the accused appears or is again brought before the Magistrate or the Court, as the case may be, the Magistrate or Court considers him capable of making his defence, the inquiry or trial shall proceed.

If the Magistrate or Court considers the accused person to be still incapable of making his defence, the Magistrate or Court shall again act according to the provisions of section 464 or section 465, as the case may be.

469. When the accused appears to be of sound mind at the time of inquiry or trial, and the Magistrate is satisfied from the evidence given before him that there is reason to believe that the accused committed an act which, if he had been of sound mind, would have been an offence, and that he was at the time when the act was committed, by reason of unsoundness of mind, incapable of knowing the nature of the act or that it was wrong or contrary to law, the Magistrate shall proceed with the case and, if the accused ought to be committed to the Court of Session or High Court, send him for trial before the Court of Session or High Court, as the case may be.

470. Whenever any person is acquitted upon the ground that, at the time at which he is alleged to have committed an offence, he was, by reason of unsoundness of mind, incapable of knowing the nature of the act alleged as constituting the offence, or that it was wrong or contrary to law, the finding shall state specifically whether he committed the act or not.

471. Whenever such judgment states that the person acquitted an accused person committed such ground to be kept in safe custody, the Magistrate or Court before whom or which the trial has been held shall, if such act would, but for the incapacity found, have constituted an offence, order such person to be kept in safe custody in such place and manner as the Magistrate or Court thinks fit, and shall report the case for the orders of the Local Government.

The Local Government may order such person to be confined in a lunatic asylum, jail or other suitable place of safe custody.

472. When any person is confined under the provisions of section 466 or section 471, the Inspector General of Prisons, if such person is confined in a jail, or the visitors of the lunatic asylums or any two of them, if he is confined in a lunatic asylum, may visit him in order to ascertain his state of mind; and he shall be visited once at least in every six months by such Inspector General or by two of such visitors as aforesaid; and such Inspector General or visitors shall make a special report to the Local Government as to the state of mind of such person.

473. If such person is confined under the provisions of section 466, and such Inspector General or visitors shall certify that, in his or their opinion, such person is capable of making

If such person is confined under the provisions of section 466 or section 471, and such Inspector General or visitors shall certify that, in his or their judgment, he may be discharged without danger of his doing injury to himself or to any other person, the Local Government may thereupon order him to be discharged, or to be detained in custody, or to be transferred to a public lunatic asylum if he has not been already sent to such an asylum; and in case it orders him to be transferred to an asylum, may appoint a commission, consisting of a judicial and two medical officers.

Act X, 1875, s. 128. 475. Whenever any relative or friend of any person confined under the provisions of section 466 or section 471 desires that he shall be delivered over to his care and custody, the Local Government, upon the application of such relative or friend, and on his giving security to the satisfaction of such Government that the person delivered shall be properly taken care of and shall be prevented from doing injury to himself or to any other person, may order such person to be delivered to such relative or friend.

Act X, 1872, s. 434. 476. When any Civil, Criminal or Revenue Court is of opinion that there is ground for enquiring into any offence referred to in section 195, and committed before it or brought under its notice in the course of a judicial proceeding, such Court, after making any preliminary inquiry that may be necessary, may send the case for inquiry or trial to the nearest Magistrate of the first class, and may send the accused in custody, or take sufficient security for his appearance, Whenever such person is so delivered, it shall be upon condition that he shall be produced for the inspection of such officer and at such times as the Local Government directs.

The provisions of sections 472 and 474 shall, mutatis mutandis, apply to persons delivered under the provisions of this section; and the certificate of the inspecting officer appointed under this section shall be receivable as evidence.

CHAPTER XXXV.

PROCEEDINGS IN CASE OF CERTAIN OFFENCES AFFECTING THE ADMINISTRATION OF JUSTICE.

Act X, 1872, s. 471, 477. 476. When any Civil, Criminal or Revenue Court is of opinion that there is ground for enquiring into any offence referred to in section 195, and committed before it or brought under its notice in the course of a judicial proceeding, such Court, after making any preliminary inquiry that may be necessary, may send the case for inquiry or trial to the nearest Magistrate of the first class, and may send the accused in custody, or take sufficient security for his appearance, before such Magistrate; and may bind over any person to appear and give evidence on such trial or inquiry.

Such Magistrate shall thereupon proceed according to law, and may, if he is authorized under section 192 to transfer cases, transfer the inquiry or trial to some other competent Magistrate.

477. Subject to the provisions of section 444, a Court of Session may charge a person for any offence referred to in section 195 and committed before it, or brought under its notice in the course of a judicial proceeding, and may commit, or admit to bail and try, such person upon its own charge.

Such Court may direct the Magistrate to cause the attendance of any witnesses for the purposes of the trial.

478. When any such offence is committed before any Civil or Revenue Court, or brought under the notice of any Civil or Revenue Court in the course of a judicial proceeding, and the case is triable exclusively by the High Court or Court of Session, or such Civil or Revenue Court may, instead of sending the case under section 476 to a Magistrate for inquiry, itself complete the inquiry, and commit or hold to bail the accused person to take his trial before the High Court or Court of Session, as the case may be.

For the purposes of an inquiry under this section, the Civil or Revenue Court may, subject to the provisions of section 443, exercise all the powers of a Magistrate; and its proceedings in such inquiry shall be conducted as nearly as may be in accordance with the provisions of Chapter XVIII, and shall be deemed to have been held by a Magistrate.

479. When any such commitment is made by a Civil or Revenue Court, the Court shall send the charge with the order of commitment and the record of the case to the Presidency Magistrate, District Magistrate or other Magistrate authorized to commit for trial; and such Magistrate shall bring the case before the High Court or Court of Session, as the case may be, together with the witnesses for the prosecution and defence.

480. When any such offence as is described in section 175, 178, 179, 180, or 228 of the Indian Penal Code is committed in the view or presence of any Civil, Criminal or Revenue Court, the Court may cause the offender, whether he is an European British subject or not, to be detained in custody; and at any time before the rising of the Court on the same day* may, if it thinks fit, take cognizance of the offence and sentence the offender to fine not

Nothing in section 443 shall be deemed to apply to proceedings under this section.

481. In every such case, the Court shall record the facts constituting the offence, with the statement (if any) made by the offender, as well as the finding and sentence.

If the offence is under section 228 of the Indian Penal Code, the record must show the nature and stage of the judicial proceeding in which the Court interrupted or insulted was sitting, and the nature of the interruption or insult offered.

The Magistrate to whom any person is forwarded under this section shall proceed to hear the complaint against him in manner hereinbefore provided.

485. If any witness before a Court refuses to answer such questions as are put to him or to produce any document in his possession or power which the Court requires him to produce, and does not offer any reasonable excuse for such refusal, such Court may, for reasons to be recorded in writing, sentence him to simple imprisonment, or by warrant under the hand of the presiding Magistrate or Judge commit him to the custody of an officer of the Court, for any term not exceeding seven days, unless in the meantime such person consents to be examined and to answer, or to produce the document. In the event of his persisting in his refusal, he may be dealt with according to the provisions of section 480 or 482, and in the case of a Court established by Royal Charter shall be deemed guilty of a contempt.

486. Any person convicted by any Court under section 480 or section 485 may, notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, appeal to the Court to which decrees or orders made in such Court are ordinarily appealable.

The provisions of Chapter XXXI shall, so far as they are applicable, apply to appeals under this section, and the Appellate Court may alter or reverse the finding or sentence appealed against.

An appeal from such conviction by a Court of Small Causes in a Presidency-town shall lie to the High Court, and an appeal from such conviction by any other Court of Small Causes shall lie to the Court of Session for the Sessions Division within which such Court is situate.

An appeal from such conviction by any officer as Registrar or Sub-Registrar appointed as aforesaid may, when such officer is also Judge of a Civil Court, be made to the Court to which it would, under the preceding portion of this section, be made if such conviction were a decree by such officer in his capacity as such Judge, and in other cases may be made to the District Judge, or, in the Presidency-towns, to the High Court.

487. Except as provided in sections 477, 480 and 485, no Judge of a Criminal Court or Magistrate other than a Judge of a High Court, the Recorder of Rangoon, and the Presidency Magistrates, shall try any person for any offence referred to in section 195, when such offence is committed before himself or in contempt of his authority, or is brought under his notice as such Judge or Magistrate in the course of a judicial proceeding.

Nothing in section 476 or 482 shall prevent a Magistrate empowered to commit to the Court of Session or High Court from himself committing any case to such Court, or shall prevent a Presidency Magistrate from himself disposing of any case instead of sending it for inquiry to another Magistrate.

Such allowance shall be payable from the date of the order.

If any person so ordered wilfully neglects to comply with the order, any such Magistrate may, for every breach of the order, issue a warrant for levying the amount due in manner hereinbefore provided for levying fines, and may sentence such person, for the whole or any part of each month's allowance remaining unpaid after the execution of the warrant, to imprisonment for a term which may extend to one month:

No wife shall be entitled to receive an allowance from her husband under this section if she is living in adultery or if, without any sufficient reason, she refuses to live with her husband, or if they are living separately by mutual consent.

On proof that any wife in whose favour an order has been made under this section is living in adultery, or that without sufficient reason she refuses to live with her husband, or that they are living separately by mutual consent, the Magistrate shall cancel the order.

491. Any of the High Courts of Judicature at Fort William, Madras and Bombay may, whenever it thinks fit, direct—

(a) that a person within the limits of its ordinary original civil jurisdiction be brought up before the Court to be dealt with according to law;

When any person other than a person accused of a non-bailable offence is arrested or detained without warrant by an officer in charge of a Police-station, or appears or is brought before a Court, and is prepared at any time while in the custody of such officer or at any stage of the proceedings before such Court to give bail, such person shall be released on bail: Provided that such Court, if he or it thinks fit, may, instead of taking bail from such person, discharge him on his executing a bond without sureties for his appearance as hereinafter provided.

497. When any person accused of any non-bailable offence is arrested or detained without warrant by an officer in charge of a Police-station or appears or is brought before a Court, he may be released on bail, but he shall not be so released if there appear reasonable grounds for believing that he has been guilty of the offence of which he is accused.

If it appears to such officer or Court at any stage of the investigation, inquiry or trial, as the case may be, that there are not reasonable grounds for believing that the accused has committed such offence, but that there are sufficient grounds for further inquiry into his guilt, the accused shall, pending such inquiry, be released on bail, or, at the discretion of such officer or Court, on the execution by him of a bond without sureties for his appearance as hereinafter provided.

Any Court may, at any subsequent stage of any proceeding under this Code, cause any person who has been released under this section to be arrested, and may commit him to custody.

498. The amount of every bond executed under this chapter shall be fixed with due regard to the circumstances of the case, and shall not be excessive; and the High Court or Court of Session may in any case, whether there be an appeal on conviction or not, direct that any person be admitted to bail, or that the bail required by a Police-officer or Magistrate be reduced.

499. If the case so require, the bond shall also bind the person released on bail to appear when called upon at the High Court, Court of Session or other Court to answer the charge.

500. As soon as the bond has been executed, the person for whose appearance it has been executed shall be released; and when he is in jail the Court admitting him to bail shall issue an order of release to the officer in charge of the jail, and such officer on receipt of the order shall release him.

Nothing in this section, section 496 or section 497 shall be deemed to require the release of any person liable to be detained for some matter other than that in respect of which the bond was executed.

If, through mistake, fraud or otherwise, insufficient sureties have been accepted, or if they afterwards become insufficient, the Court may issue a warrant of arrest directing that the person released on bail be brought before it, and may order him to find sufficient sureties, and on his failing so to do may commit him to jail.

On the appearance of such person pursuant to the warrant, or on his voluntary surrender, the Magistrate shall direct the bond to be discharged either wholly or so far as relates to the applicants, and shall call upon such person to find other sufficient sureties, and if he fails to do so, may commit him to custody.

CHAPTER XL.

OF COMMISSIONS FOR THE EXAMINATION OF WITNESSES.

Act X, 1872, s. 330, paras. 1 & 2. Act X, 1876, s. 76, para. 1. Act IV, 1877, s. 157. Act IV, 1877, s. 158. 503. Whenever, in the course of an inquiry, trial or other proceeding under this Code, it appears to a Presidency Magistrate, a District Magistrate, a Court of Session or the High Court that the examination of a witness is necessary for the ends of justice, and that the attendance of such witness cannot be procured without an amount of delay, expense or inconvenience which, under the circumstances of the case, would be unreasonable, such Magistrate or Court may dispense with such attendance and may issue a commission to any District Magistrate or Magistrate of the first class, within the local limits of whose jurisdiction such witness resides, to take the evidence of such witness.

When the witness resides in the dominions of any Prince or State in alliance with Her Majesty in which there is an officer representing the British Indian Government, the commission may be issued to such officer.

The Magistrate or officer to whom the commission is issued, or, if he is the District Magistrate, he or such Magistrate of the first class as he appoints in this behalf, shall proceed to the place where the witness is, or shall summon the witness before him, and shall take down his evidence in the same may for this purpose exercise the same powers as in trials of warrant-cases under this Code.

504. If the witness is within the local limits of the jurisdiction of any Presidency Magistrate, the Magistrate or Court issuing the commission may direct the same to the said Presidency Magistrate, who thereupon may compel the attendance of, and examine, such witness as if he were a witness in a case pending before himself.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to affect the power of the High Court to issue commissions under the thirty-ninth and fortieth of Victoria, chapter 46, section 3.

505. The parties to any proceeding under this Code in which a commission is issued may respectively forward any interrogatories in writing which the Magistrate or Court directing the commission may think relevant to the issue, and the Magistrate or officer to whom the commission is directed shall examine the witness upon such interrogatories.

Any such party may appear before such Magistrate or officer by pleader or, if not in custody, in person, and may examine, cross-examine and re-examine (as the case may be) the said witness:

506. Whenever, in the course of an inquiry or trial or other proceeding under this Code before any Magistrate other than a Presidency Magistrate or District Magistrate, it appears that a commission ought to be issued for the examination of a witness whose evidence is necessary for the ends of justice, and that the attendance of such witness cannot be procured without an amount of delay, expense or inconvenience which, under the circumstances of the case, would be unreasonable, such Magistrate shall apply to the District Magistrate, stating the reasons for the application; and the District Magistrate may either issue a commission in the manner hereinbefore provided or reject the application.

507. After any commission issued under section 503 or section 506 has been duly executed, it shall be returned, together with the deposition of the witness examined thereunder, to the Court out of which it issued; and the commission, the return thereto and the deposition shall be open at all reasonable times to inspection of the parties, and may, subject to all just exceptions, be read in evidence in the case by either party, and shall form part of the record.

508. In every case in which a commission is issued under section 503 or section 506, the inquiry, trial or other proceeding may be adjourned for a specified time reasonably sufficient for the execution and return of the commission.

CHAPTER XLI.

SPECIAL RULES OF EVIDENCE.

509. The deposition of a Civil Surgeon or other medical witness, taken and attested by a Magistrate in the presence of the accused, may be given in evidence in any inquiry, trial or other proceeding under this Code, although the deponent is not called as a witness.

The Court may, if it thinks fit, summon and examine such deponent as to the subject-matter of his deposition.

510. Any document purporting to be a report under the hand of the Chemical Examiner or Assistant Chemical Examiner to Government, upon any matter or thing duly submitted to him for examination or analysis and report in the course of any proceeding under this Code, may be used as evidence in any inquiry, trial or other proceeding under this Code.

511. In any inquiry, trial or other proceeding under this Code a previous conviction or acquittal may be proved, in addition to any other mode provided by any law for the time being in force,—

(a) by an extract certified under the hand of the officer having the custody of the records of the Court in which such conviction or acquittal was had to be a copy of the sentence or order; or

(b) in case of a conviction, either by a certificate signed by the officer in charge of the jail in which the punishment or any part thereof was inflicted, or by production of the warrant of commitment under which the punishment was suffered;

(c) together with in each of such cases, evidence as to the identity of the accused person with the person so convicted or acquitted.

512. If it be proved that an accused person has absconded, and that there is no immediate prospect of arresting him, the Court competent to try or commit for trial such person for the offence complained of may, in his absence, examine the witnesses (if any) produced on behalf of the prosecution, and record their depositions. Any such deposition may, on the arrest of such person, be given in evidence against him on the inquiry into or trial for the offence with which he is charged, if the deponent is dead or incapable of giving evidence or his attendance cannot be procured without an amount of delay, expense or inconvenience which, under the circumstances of the case, would be unreasonable.

CHAPTER XLII.

PROVISIONS AS TO BONDS.

513. When any person is required by any Court or officer to execute a bond, with or without sureties, such Court or officer may, except in the case of a bond for good behaviour, permit him to deposit a sum of money or Government promissory notes to such amount as the Court or officer may fix in lieu of executing such bond.

514. Whenever it is proved to the satisfaction of the Court by which a bond under this Code has been taken, or of the Court of a Presidency Magistrate or Magistrate of the first class, or, when the bond is for appearance before a Court, to the satisfaction of such Court, that such bond has been forfeited, the Court shall record the grounds of such proof, and may call upon any person bound by such bond to pay the penalty thereof, or to show cause why it should not be paid.

If sufficient cause is not shown and the penalty is not paid, the Court may proceed to recover the same by issuing a warrant for the attachment and sale of the moveable property belonging to such person.

Such warrant may be executed within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court which issued it; and it shall authorize the distress and sale of any moveable property belonging to such person without such limits, when endorsed by the District Magistrate within the local limits of whose jurisdiction such property is found.

If such penalty be not paid and cannot be recovered by such attachment and sale, the person so bound shall be liable, by order of the Court which issued the warrant, to imprisonment in the civil jail for a term which may extend to six months.

The Court may at its discretion remit any portion of the penalty mentioned and enforce payment in part only.

515. All orders passed under section 514 by any Magistrate other than a Presidency Magistrate or District Magistrate shall be appealable to the District Magistrate, or, if not so appealed, may be revised by him.

516. The High Court or Court of Session may, on the application of such purchaser and on the production of the stolen property to the person entitled to the possession thereof, order that out of such money a sum not exceeding the price paid by such purchaser be delivered to him.

520. Any Court of appeal, confirmation, reference or revision may direct any order under section 517, I. L. R., 3 Cal., 379, to be stayed pending consideration by the former Court; and may modify, alter or annul such order.

521. On a conviction under the Indian Penal Code, section 292, 293, 501 or 502, the Court may order the destruction of all the copies of the thing in respect of which the conviction was had, and which are in the custody of the Court or remain in the possession or power of the person convicted.

The Court may in like manner, on a conviction under the Indian Penal Code, section 272, 273, 274 or 275, order the food, drink, drug or medical preparation in respect of which the conviction was had to be destroyed.

522. Whenever a person is convicted of an offence attended by criminal force, and it appears to the Court that, by such force, any person has been dispossessed of any immovable property, the Court may, if it thinks fit, order such person to be restored to the possession of the same.

No such order shall prejudice any right or interest to or in such immovable property which any person may be able to establish in a civil suit.

523. The seizure by any Police-officer of property taken under section 51, or alleged or suspected to have been stolen, or found under circumstances which create suspicion of the commission of any offence, shall be forthwith reported to a Magistrate, who shall make such order as he thinks fit respecting the delivery of such property to the person entitled to the possession thereof, or, if such person cannot be ascertained, respecting the custody and production of such property.

If the person so entitled is known, the Magistrate where the property was seized may order the property to be delivered to him on such conditions (if any) as the Magistrate thinks fit. If such person is unknown, the Magistrate may detain it, and shall, in such case, issue a proclamation specifying the articles of which such property consists, and requiring any person who may have a claim thereto to appear before him and establish his claim within six months from the date of such proclamation.

CHAPTER XLIII.

OF THE DISPOSAL OF PROPERTY.

517. When an inquiry or trial in any Criminal Court is concluded, the Court may make such order as it thinks fit for the disposal of any document or other property produced before it regarding which any offence appears to have been committed, or which has been used for the commission of any offence.

When a High Court or a Court of Session makes such order and cannot through its own officers conveniently deliver the property to the person entitled thereto, such Court may direct that the order be carried into effect by the District Magistrate.

When an order is made under this section in a case in which an appeal lies, such order shall not (except when the property is livestock or subject to speedy and natural decay) be carried out until the period allowed for presenting such appeal has passed, or, when such appeal is presented within such period, until such appeal has been disposed of.

EXPLANATION.—In this section the term "property" includes, in the case of property regarding which an offence appears to have been committed, not only such property as has been originally in the possession or under the control of any party, but also any property into or for which the same may have been converted or exchanged, and anything acquired by such conversion or exchange, whether immediately or otherwise.

518. In lieu of itself passing an order under section 517, the Court may direct the property to be delivered to the District Magistrate or to a Sub-divisional Magistrate, who shall in such cases deal with it as if it had been seized by the police and the seizure had been reported to him in the manner hereinafter mentioned.

519. When any person is convicted of any offence which includes, or amounts to theft or receiving stolen property, and it is proved that any other person has bought the stolen property from him without knowing, or having reason to believe, that the same was stolen, and that any money has on his arrest been taken out of the possession of the convicted person, the Court may,

524. If no person within such period establishes his claim to such property, and if the person in whose possession such property was found is unable to show that it was legally acquired by him, such property shall be at the disposal of the Government, and may be sold under the orders of the Presidency Magistrate, District Magistrate or Sub-divisional Magistrate or of a Magistrate of the first class empowered by the Local Government in this behalf.

In the case of every order passed under this section, an appeal shall lie to the Court to which appeals against sentences of the Court passing such order would lie.

525. If the person entitled to the possession of such property is unknown or absent, and the property is subject to speedy and natural decay, or the Magistrate is of opinion that its sale would be for the benefit of the owner, the Magistrate may at any time direct it to be sold; and the provisions of sections 523 and 524 shall, as nearly as may be practicable, apply to the net proceeds of such sale.

526. Whenever it is made to appear to the High Court—

(a) that a fair and impartial inquiry or trial cannot be had in any Criminal Court subordinate thereto, or

(b) that some question of law of unusual difficulty is likely to arise, or

(c) that a view of the place in or near which any offence has been committed may be required for the satisfactory enquiry into or trial of the same, or

(d) that an order under this section will tend to the general convenience of the parties or witnesses, it may order—

(1) that any offence be enquired into or tried by any Court not empowered under sections 177 to 184, but in other respects competent to enquire into or try such offence;

(2) that any particular criminal case or appeal, or class of such cases or appeals, be transferred from a Criminal Court subordinate to its authority to any other such Criminal Court of equal or superior jurisdiction; or

(3) that any particular criminal case or appeal be transferred to and tried before itself.

When the High Court withdraws for trial before itself any case from any Court other than the Court of a Presidency Magistrate, it shall, except as provided in section 267, observe in such trial the same procedure which that Court would have observed if the case had not been so withdrawn.

Every application for the exercise of the power conferred by this section shall be made by motion which shall, except when the applicant is the Advocate General, be supported by affidavit or affirmation.

When an accused person makes an application under this section, the High Court may direct him to execute a bond, with or without sureties, conditioned that he will, if convicted, pay the costs of the prosecutor.

Every accused person making any such application shall give to the Public Prosecutor notice in writing of the application, together with a copy of the grounds on which it is made; and no order shall be made on the merits of the application unless at least twenty-four hours have elapsed between the giving of such notice and the hearing of the application.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to affect any order made under section 197.

527. The Governor General in Council may, by notification in the Gazette of India, direct the transfer of any particular criminal case or appeal from one High Court to another High Court, or from any Criminal Court subordinate to one High Court to any other Criminal Court of equal or superior jurisdiction subordinate to another High Court, whenever it appears to him that such transfer will promote the ends of justice, or tend to the general convenience of parties or witnesses.

The Court to which such case or appeal is transferred shall deal with the same as if it had been originally instituted in, or presented to, such Court.

528. Any District Magistrate or Sub-divisional Magistrate may withdraw any case from, or recall any case which he has made over to, any Magistrate subordinate to him, and may inquire into or try such case himself, or refer it for inquiry or trial to any other such Magistrate competent to inquire into or try the same.

The Local Government may authorize the District Magistrate to withdraw from the Magistrate subordinate to him either such classes of cases as he thinks proper, or particular classes of cases.

Power to authorize District Magistrate to withdraw classes of cases.

CHAPTER XLV.

OF IRREGULAR PROCEEDINGS.

529. If any Magistrate not empowered by law to do any of the following things, namely:—

(a) to issue a search-warrant, under section 98;

(b) to order, under section 155, the police to investigate an offence;

(c) to hold an inquest under section 176;

(d) to issue process, under section 186, for the apprehension of a person within the local limits of his jurisdiction who has committed an offence outside such limits;

(e) to take cognizance of an offence under section 191, clause (a) or clause (b);

(f) to transfer a case under section 192;

(g) to tender a pardon under section 387 or section 388;

(h) to sell property under section 524 or section 525; or

(i) to withdraw a case and try it himself under section 528;

erroneously in good faith does that thing, his proceedings shall not be set aside merely on the ground of his not being so empowered.

530. If any Magistrate, not being empowered by law in this behalf, does any of the following things (namely):—

(a) passes a sentence under section 349, on proceedings recorded by another Magistrate;

(b) takes cognizance under section 191, clause (a), of an offence;

(c) attaches and sells property under section 524;

(d) tries an offender;

(e) tries an offender summarily;

(f) decides an appeal;

(g) calls under section 435 for proceedings;

(h) issues a search-warrant for a letter in the Post-office, or a telegram in the Telegraph Department;

(i) revises under section 515 an order passed under section 514;

(j) demands security to keep the peace;

(n) makes an order under section 133 as to a local nuisance;

(p) prohibits under section 143 the repetition or continuance of a public nuisance;

(q) makes an order under Chapter XII; or

(r) makes an order for maintenance; his proceedings shall be void.

531. No finding, sentence or order of any Criminal Court shall be set aside merely on the ground that the inquiry, trial or other proceeding in the course of which it was arrived at or passed took place in a wrong Sessions Division, District, Sub-division or other local area, unless it appears that such error occasioned a failure of justice.

532. If any Magistrate or other authority purporting to exercise powers duly conferred, which were not so conferred, commits an accused person for trial before a Court of Session or High Court, the Court to which the commitment is made may, after perusal of the proceedings, accept the commitment if it considers that the accused has not been injured thereby, unless during the inquiry and before the order of commitment, objection was made on behalf either of the accused or of the prosecution to the jurisdiction of such Magistrate or other authority.

If such Court considers that the accused was injured, or if such objection was so made, it shall quash the commitment, and direct a fresh inquiry by a competent Magistrate.

533. If any Court before which a confession or other statement of an accused person recorded under section 164 or 364 is tendered in evidence finds that the provisions of such section have not been fully complied with by the Magistrate recording the statement, it shall take evidence that such person duly made the statement recorded; and notwithstanding anything contained in the Indian Evidence Act, section 91, such statement shall be admitted if the error has not injured the accused as to his defence on the merits.

534. An omission to ask any person whether he is an European British subject in a case to which the second clause of section 454 applies shall not affect the validity of any proceeding.

535. No finding or sentence pronounced or passed shall be deemed invalid merely on the ground that no charge was framed, unless, in the opinion of the Court of appeal or revision, a failure of justice has been occasioned thereby.

If the Court of appeal or revision thinks that a failure of justice has been occasioned by an omission to frame a charge, it shall order that a charge shall be framed, and that the trial be recommenced from the point immediately after the framing of the charge.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[First Publication.]

The following Report of a Select Committee, together with the Bill as settled by them, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 26th January, 1882:—

WE, the undersigned Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill for the further amendment of the law relating to Merchant Shipping was referred, have the honour to report that we have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin.

2. To meet a doubt that has arisen we have provided, in section 5 of the Bill as introduced (now section 4), that nothing in the Bill shall apply to any ship belonging to or in the service of the Government of India.

3. We have made the provisions of clauses (a) and (c) of section 6 of the Bill as introduced (now section 137) apply only to cases where material damage has been caused. We have also, at the suggestion of the Board of Trade, limited the application of clauses (d) and (e) of the same section to British ships.

4. At the suggestion of the same Board we have, in section 9 of the Bill as introduced (now section 140), given to the Court making an investigation power to inquire into charges against Masters, Mates or Engineers whether they are certificated or not. We have also provided that in every case in which any charge of incompetency, misconduct, wrongful act or default arises, the Court shall, before the commencement of the enquiry, furnish the Master, Mate or Engineer concerned with a copy of the report or statement of the case upon which the investigation has been directed.

5. We have amended the fourth paragraph of section 12 (now section 143) in the manner recommended by the Board of Trade, and required the Court in cases involving any question as to the cancellation or suspension of the certificate of a Master, Mate or Engineer to constitute as its assessors two persons having experience in the merchant service. This amendment will bring the section into harmony with Imperial legislation, and in cases where it is not practicable to procure on the spot the attendance of two assessors so qualified, the Local Government will no doubt be able to send a duly qualified assessor from some other place.

6. In section 16 of the Bill as introduced (now section 147) we have provided that the certificate granted in lieu of a cancelled or suspended certificate shall be of a grade lower than the one cancelled or suspended. We have also, in accordance with the opinion expressed by the Local Governments, empowered them to grant under that section certificates without being advised by the Court to do so.

7. At the suggestion of the Board of Trade, we have, in section 17 of the Bill as introduced (now section 14), made it clear that the Local Government cannot suspend or cancel, in the cases mentioned in that section, certificates granted under the Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869. It is, however, unnecessary to limit the words "any Local Government" in that section by adding the words "in British India," as recommended by the Board. The expression "Local Government" is defined in the General Clauses Act, 1868, to mean the person authorized by law to administer Executive Government in the part of British India in which the Act containing such expression shall operate.

8. At the request of the Bengal Government, we have called the officer who may be appointed under section 28 of the Bill as introduced (now section 153) the Health-officer, and have given him the powers conferred on a Shipping-master by the Merchant Shipping Act, I of 1859. We have also modified clause (b) of that section so as to confine the power to medically examine persons on board to the medical examination of seamen or apprentices.

9. The provisions of section 18B in section 28 of the Bill as introduced have been generally objected to on the ground that they permit unnecessary interference between Masters and Seamen, and we have accordingly omitted them.

10. The Bill as introduced repealed and re-enacted the Merchant Shipping Acts of 1875 and 1878. In compliance with the wishes of many persons concerned with merchant shipping, we have carried the process of consolidation somewhat further, and now propose to repeal and re-enact the unrepealed portions of the following enactments:—

IV of 1875.

XIII of 1876.

XIII of 1878.

VII of 1880, Chapter III.

We have taken the opportunity to make a few amendments in the law so dealt with. Thus in section 13, corresponding with Act I of 1859, section 10, we have given the Local Governments power, with the previous sanction of the Government of India, to fix the fees payable by candidates for examination for certificates as masters or mates.

11. In section 14, corresponding with section 11 of the same Act, we have given Local Governments the power, conferred on the Board of Trade by section 134 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, of requiring the further examination of persons reported by the examiners to be qualified for certificates.

12. The punishment which can be awarded under section 79 of the same Act is imprisonment for two years. We have made it (section 106) fine which may extend to Rs. 1,000, or imprisonment which may extend to two years, or both.

13. The publication ordered by the Council has been made. We think that the Bill has been so altered as to require republication, and we recommend that its passing be deferred till the mercantile community and the Board of Trade have had an opportunity of expressing their opinions on the measure.

26. In the case of such agreements with lascars or other Native seamen, the scale of the provisions agreed to be furnished to each of such seamen shall not be less than a scale to be from time to time fixed and published by the Local Government with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council.

Any master entering into an agreement with any lascar or other Native seaman for a scale of pro-

Act IV of 1875, s. 26.

27. Whenever it is agreed that the service of any lascar or other Native seaman shall end at any port not in British India, the agreement shall, in addition to the particulars specified in section twenty-five, contain a stipulation that fit employment shall be provided for him on board some other ship bound to the port at which he was shipped, or such other port in British India as may be agreed on; or that a passage shall be provided for him to some port in British India free of charge, or on such other terms as may be agreed on; and every such stipulation shall be signed by the owner of the ship, or by the master on his behalf.

EXPLANATION.—In this section the word "seaman" includes also a Native of British India carried to sea from any port in British India as one of the crew of a ship.

Act IV of 1875, s. 7.

Act I of 1859, s. 23.

29. In the case of all foreign-going ships, in whatever part of Her Majesty's dominions the same are registered, the following rules shall be observed with respect to agreements; (that is to say)—

(a) Every agreement made in any port in British India (except in such cases of agreements with substitutes as are hereafter specially provided for) shall be signed by each seaman in the presence of a shipping master.

(b) Such shipping master shall cause the agreement to be read over and explained to each seaman, in a language understood by him, or shall otherwise ascertain that each seaman understands the same before he signs it, and shall attest each signature.

(c) When the crew is first engaged the agreement shall be signed in duplicate, and one part shall be retained by the shipping master, and the other part shall contain a special place or form for the descriptions and signatures of substitutes or persons engaged subsequently to the first departure of the ship, and shall be delivered to the master.

(d) In the case of substitutes engaged in the place of seamen who have duly signed the agreement and whose services are lost within twenty-four hours of the ship's putting to sea by death, desertion or other unforeseen cause, the engagement shall, when practicable, be made before some shipping master duly appointed in the manner hereinbefore specified; and whenever such last-mentioned engagement cannot be so made, the master shall, before the ship puts to sea, if practicable, and if not, as soon afterwards as possible, cause the agreement to be read over and explained to the seamen; and the seamen shall sign the same in the presence of the shipping master, who shall attest their signatures.

30. In the case of foreign-going ships making voyages averaging less than six months in duration, running agreements with the crew may be made to extend over two or more voyages, so that no such agreement shall extend beyond the next following thirtieth day of June or thirty-first day of December, or the first arrival of the ship at her port of destination in British India after such date, or the discharge of cargo consequent upon such arrival; and every person entering into such agreement, whether engaged upon the first commencement thereof or otherwise, shall enter into and sign the same in the manner hereby required for other foreign-going ships; and every person engaged thereunder, if discharged in any port in British India, shall be discharged in the manner hereby required for the discharge of seamen belonging to other foreign-going ships.

31. The master of every foreign-going ship for which such a running agreement as aforesaid is made shall, upon every return to any port in British India before the final termination of the agreement, discharge or engage before the shipping master at such port any seaman whom he is required by law so to discharge or engage; and shall upon every such return endorse on the agreement a statement (as the case may be) either that no such discharges or engagements have been made or are intended to be made before the ship again leaves port, or that all such discharges or engagements have been duly made as hereinbefore required; and shall deliver the agreement so endorsed to the shipping master. Any master who wilfully makes a false statement in such endorsement shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees. The shipping master shall also sign an endorsement on the agreement to the effect that the provisions of this Act relating to such agreement have been complied with, and shall re-deliver the agreement so endorsed to the master.

32. For the purpose of determining the fees to be paid upon the engagement and discharge of seamen belonging to foreign-going ships which have running agreements as aforesaid, the crew shall be considered to be engaged when the agreement is first signed, and to be discharged when the agreement finally terminates; and all intermediate engagements and discharges shall be considered to be engagements and discharges of single seamen.

33. In the case of home-trade ships of a burden exceeding three hundred tons, crews or single seamen may, if the master thinks fit, be engaged before a shipping master in the manner hereinbefore directed with respect to foreign-going ships; and in every case in which the engagement is not so made, the master shall, before the ship puts to sea, if practicable, and if not, as soon afterwards as possible, cause the agreement to be read over and explained to each seaman, and the seaman shall thereupon sign the same in the presence of a witness, who shall attest his signature.

Act I of 1859, s. 27. 34. In cases where several home-trade ships belong to the same owner, the agreement with the seamen may, notwithstanding anything herein contained, be made by the owner instead of by the master, and the seamen may be engaged to serve in any two or more of such ships, provided that the names of the ships and the nature of the service are specified in the agreement; but, with the foregoing exception, all provisions herein contained which relate to ordinary agreements for home-trade ships shall be applicable to agreements made in pursuance of this section.

Act I of 1859, s. 28. 35. If in any case a master carries any seaman to sea without entering into an agreement with him in the form and manner and at the place and time hereby in such case required, the master shall for each such offence be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

Act I of 1859, s. 29. 36. CHAPTER V.

WAGES.

A.—Regulation of Advances.

47. No advance of wages shall be made or advanced-note given to any person but the seaman himself; and no advance of wages shall be made or advanced-note given for any greater sum than the amount of one month's wages, nor unless the agreement contains a stipulation for the same and an accurate statement of the amount thereof, and no advance-note shall be given to any seaman who signs the agreement before a shipping master, unless in the presence of such shipping master.

48. If any advance of wages is made or advanced-note given to any seaman in any such manner as to constitute a breach of any of the above provisions, the wages of such seaman shall be recoverable by him as if no such advance had been made or advanced-note given, and in the case of any advance-note so given, no person shall be sued thereon under the provisions hereinafter contained unless he was in person or by his agent a party to the irregular or improper manner of giving the same.

B.—Allotment of Wages.

49. All stipulations for the allotment of any part of the wages of a seaman during his absence, which are made at the commencement of the voyage, shall be inserted in the agreement, and shall state the amounts and times of the payments to be made. All allotment-notes shall be in forms sanctioned by the Local Government, and shall be made for the benefit only of a relative of the seaman or some member of his family to be named in the note, and shall be payable to the shipping master on account of such relative of the seaman or member of his family. Such allotment shall not in any case exceed one-third of the wages of the seaman.

The seaman shall be presumed to be duly earning his wages, unless the contrary is shown to the satisfaction of the Court or Magistrate, either by the official statement of the change in the crew caused by his absence made and signed by the master, as by this Act is required, or by a duly certified copy of some entry in the official log-book, to the effect that he has died or left the ship, or by a credible letter from the master of the ship to the same effect, or by such other evidence, of whatever description, as the Court or Magistrate trying the case considers sufficient to show satisfactorily that the seaman has ceased to be entitled to the wages out of which the allotment is to be paid.

Suits on allotment-notes.

contrary is shown to the satisfaction of the Court or Magistrate, either by the official statement of the change in the crew caused by his absence made and signed by the master, as by this Act is required, or by a duly certified copy of some entry in the official log-book, to the effect that he has died or left the ship, or by a credible letter from the master of the ship to the same effect, or by such other evidence, of whatever description, as the Court or Magistrate trying the case considers sufficient to show satisfactorily that the seaman has ceased to be entitled to the wages out of which the allotment is to be paid.

Act I of 1859, s. 40. 51. The shipping master, on receiving any such Receipts and payments sum as aforesaid, shall pay it over to the person named in the allotment-note. All such receipts and payments shall be entered in a book, and all entries in the said book shall be authenticated by the signature of the shipping master or his deputy; and the said book shall be at all times open to the inspection of the parties concerned.

C.—Discharge and Payment of Wages.

Act I of 1859, s. 41. 52. All seamen discharged from any foreign-going ship at any port in British India in whatever part of Her Majesty's dominions the ship is registered, shall be discharged and receive their wages in the presence of a shipping master duly appointed under this Act, except in cases where some competent Court otherwise directs; and any master or owner of any such ship who discharges any seaman belonging thereto, or, except as aforesaid, pays his wages in any other manner, shall be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees; and in the case of home-trade ships of a burden exceeding three hundred tons, seamen may, if the owner or master so desires, be discharged and receive their wages in like manner.

Act I of 1859, s. 42. 53. Every master shall, not less than twenty-four hours before paying off or discharging any seaman, deliver to him, or, if he is to be discharged before a shipping master, to such shipping master, a full and true account, in a form sanctioned by the Local Government, of his wages and of all deductions to be made therefrom on any account whatever, and in default shall for each offence be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees. No deduction from the wages of any seamen (except in respect of any matter happening after such delivery) shall be allowed unless it is included in the account so delivered; and the master shall during the voyage enter the various matters in respect of which such deductions are made, with the amounts of the respective deductions as they occur, in a book to be kept for that purpose, and shall, if required, produce such book at the time of the payment of wages and also upon the hearing before any competent authority of any complaint or question relating to such payment.

54. Upon the discharge of any seaman or upon payment of his wages, the master shall sign and give him a certificate of his discharge, in a form sanctioned by the Local Government, specifying the period of his service and the time and place of his discharge; and if any master fails to sign and give to any such seaman such certificate of discharge, he shall for each such offence be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees; and the master shall also upon the discharge of every certificated mate, whose certificate of competency or service has been delivered to and retained by him, return such certificate, and shall in default be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees.

55. Every shipping master shall hear and decide any question whatever between a master or owner and any of his crew which both parties agree in writing to submit to him; and every award so made by him shall be binding on both parties, and shall in any legal proceeding which may be taken in the matter before any Court or Magistrate, be deemed to be conclusive as to the rights of the parties; and any document purporting to be such submission or award shall be prima facie evidence thereof.

An award made by a shipping master under this section may be enforced by a Magistrate in the same manner as an order for the payment of wages made by such Magistrate under the provision of section sixty-seven.

56. In any proceeding relating to the wages, claims, or discharge of any seaman carried on before any shipping master under the provisions of this Act, such shipping master may call upon the owner or his agent, or upon the master or any mate or other member of the crew, to produce any log-books, papers, or other documents in their respective possession or power relating to any matter in question in such proceeding, and may call before him and examine any of such persons being then at or near the place on any such matter.

Every owner, agent, master, mate or other member of the crew who, when called upon by the shipping master, does not produce any such paper or document as aforesaid if in his possession or power, or does not appear and give evidence, shall, unless he shows some reasonable excuse for such default, for each such offence be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

Act I of 1859, s. 6.

57. The following rules shall be observed with respect to the settlement of wages; (that is to say)—

(a) Upon the completion before a shipping master of any discharge and settlement, the master or owner and each seaman shall respectively, in the presence of the shipping master, sign, in a form sanctioned by the Local Government, a mutual release of all claims in respect of the past voyage or engagement, and the shipping master shall also sign and attest the release and shall retain the same.

(b) Such release so signed and attested shall operate as a mutual discharge and settlement of all demands between the parties thereto in respect of the past voyage or engagement.

(c) A copy of such release, certified under the hand of such shipping master to be a true copy, shall be given by him to any party thereto requiring the same, and such copy shall be receivable in evidence upon any future question touching such claims as aforesaid, and shall have all the effect of the original of which it purports to be a copy.

(d) In cases in which discharge and settlement before a shipping master are hereby required, no payment, receipt, settlement, or discharge otherwise made shall operate or be admitted as evidence of the release or satisfaction of any claim.

(e) Upon any payment being made by a master before a shipping master, the shipping master shall, if required, sign and give to such master a statement of the whole amount so paid, and such statement shall, as between the master and his employer, be received as evidence that he has made the payments therein mentioned.

Act XIII of 1876, s. 4.

58. No seaman or apprentice not shipped in British India shall be discharged without the previous sanction in writing of such officer as the Local Government appoints in this behalf, and such sanction shall be given or withheld at the discretion of the officer so appointed; but whenever it is withheld, the reasons for so withholding it shall be recorded by him in writing.

Any person discharging a seaman or apprentice in wilful disobedience to the prohibition contained in this section, shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months, or with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or with both.

Act I of 1859, s. 47.

59. A seaman's right to wages and provisions shall be taken to commence either at the time at which he commences work, or at the time specified in the agreement for his commencement of work or presence on board, whichever first happens.

Act I of 1859, s. 48.

60. No seaman shall by any agreement forfeit his lien upon the ship or be deprived of any remedy for the recovery of his wages to which he would otherwise have been entitled; and every stipulation in any agreement inconsistent with any provision of this Act, and every stipulation by which any seaman consents to abandon his right to wages in the case of the loss of the ship or to abandon any right which he may have or obtain in the nature of salvage, shall be wholly inoperative.

61. No right to wages shall be dependent on the earning of freight; and every seaman and apprentice who would be entitled to demand and recover any wages if the ship in which he has served had earned freight, shall, subject to all other rules of law and conditions applicable to the case, be entitled to claim and recover the same notwithstanding that freight has not been earned; but in all cases of wreck or loss of the ship, proof that he has not exerted himself to the utmost to save the ship, cargo, and stores shall bar his claim.

62. If any seaman or apprentice to whom wages are due under the last preceding section dies before the same are paid, they shall be paid and applied in the manner hereinafter specified with regard to the wages of seamen who die during a voyage.

63. In cases where the service of any seaman terminates before the period contemplated in the agreement by reason of the wreck or loss of the ship, and also in cases where such service terminates before such period as aforesaid by reason of his being left on shore at any place abroad under a certificate of his unfitness or inability to proceed on the voyage granted under the provisions of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, such seaman shall be entitled to wages for the time of service prior to such termination as aforesaid, but not for any further period.

64. No seaman or apprentice shall be entitled to wages for any period during which he unlawfully refuses or neglects to work when required, whether before or after the time fixed by the agreement for his beginning work; nor unless the Court or Magistrate hearing the case otherwise directs, for any period during which he is lawfully imprisoned for any offence committed by him.

65. The master or owner of every ship shall pay to every seaman his wages within three days after the cargo has been delivered, or within five days after the seaman's discharge, whichever first happens; and the seaman shall at the time of his discharge be entitled to be paid on account a sum equal to one-fourth part of the balance due to him; and every master or owner who neglects or refuses to make payment in manner aforesaid without sufficient cause, shall pay to the seaman a sum not exceeding the amount of two day's pay for each of the days not exceeding ten days during which payment is delayed beyond the respective periods aforesaid; and such sum shall be recoverable as wages.

66. When any monies are payable in British India to any seaman or apprentice for wages or otherwise under any agreement wherein such monies are expressed to be payable in British currency, the seaman or apprentice shall be entitled to demand and recover, in the current coin of British India, the amount due to him estimated according to the rate of exchange for the time being fixed by the Secretary of State for India in Council with the concurrence of the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury for the adjustment of financial transactions between the Imperial and the Indian Governments.

E.—Mode of recovering Wages.

Act I of 1859, s. 55. 67. Any seaman or apprentice or any person duly authorized on his behalf may sue, in a summary manner, before any Magistrate acting in or near to the place at which the service has been terminated or at which any person upon whom the claim is made is or resides, for any amount of wages due to such seaman or apprentice not exceeding five hundred rupees.

Every order made by such Magistrate in the matter shall be final.

Act I of 1859, s. 56. 68. When an order for the payment of wages is made by a Magistrate under the last preceding section and the wages are not paid at the time and in the manner prescribed, the sum mentioned in the order, with such further sum as may be thereby awarded for costs, shall be levied by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the person directed to pay the same under a warrant to be issued for that purpose by the Magistrate.

Act I of 1859, s. 57. 69. No suit or proceeding for the recovery of wages under the sum of five hundred rupees shall be instituted by or on behalf of any seaman or apprentice in any Court of Admiralty or Vice-Admiralty or in any Court of civil jurisdiction other than the Court of Small Causes, where such Court exists, unless the owner of the ship is adjudged bankrupt or declared insolvent, or unless the ship is under arrest or is sold by the authority of any such Court, or unless the Magistrate, acting under the authority of this Act, refers the case to be adjudged by such Court.

Act I of 1859, s. 58. 70. Every master of a ship shall, so far as the case permits, have the same rights, liens, and remedies for the recovery of his wages which by this Act or by any law or custom any seaman, not being a master, has for the recovery of his wages; and if, in any proceeding in any Court of Admiralty or Vice-Admiralty touching the claim of a master to wages, any right of set-off or counter-claim is set up, it shall be lawful for such Court to enter into and adjudicate upon all questions, and to settle all accounts then arising or outstanding and unsettled between the parties to the proceeding, and to direct payment of any balance which is found to be due.

Act I of 1859, s. 59. 71. In cases where any wages or expenses recoverable under section 213 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, or under section 16 of the Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1855, are, under the same sections, a charge upon any ship, or recoverable from any master, owner or other person, within the jurisdiction of any Court in British India, the Governor General in Council may from time to time, by notification in the Gazette of India, authorize, either generally or specially, such persons as he thinks fit to sue for and recover, in manner in the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, section 213, provided, such wages or expenses.

Every person so authorized shall be entitled to sue and recover accordingly in any such Court, and shall be deemed to be a person filling a public office within the meaning of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, section 57, clause 7.

All suits and proceedings under this section shall be instituted and carried on in the name of the Secretary of State for India in Council.

CHAPTER VI.

WAGES AND EFFECTS OF DECEASED SEAMEN.

72. Whenever a seaman or apprentice, on a voyage which is to terminate at any port in British India dies during such voyage, the master shall take charge of all money, clothes and effects which he leaves on board, and shall enter in the official log-book a statement of the amount of money and a description of the effects left by the deceased, and in case of a sale of such effects, the sum received for each article sold.

73. The master shall, within forty-eight hours after his arrival at his port of destination in British India, deliver any such effects as aforesaid, and pay any money which he has taken charge of or received, and also the wages due to deceased, to the shipping master at such port, and shall give to such shipping master an account of the effects, money, and wages so to be delivered, and paid; and no deductions claimed in such accounts shall be allowed unless verified, if there is an official log-book, by the entry therein herein before required, and also by such other vouchers (if any) as may be reasonably required by the shipping master to whom the account is rendered.

74. If the master fails to take such charge of the money or other effects of a seaman or apprentice dying during a voyage, or to make such entries in respect thereof, or to make such payment or delivery, or to give such account as hereinbefore respectively directed, he shall be accountable for the money, wages, and effects of the seaman or apprentice to the shipping master as aforesaid, and shall pay and deliver the same accordingly; and such master shall in addition be punished with fine which may extend to treble the value of the money or effects, or if such value is not ascertained, to five hundred rupees.

All money, wages and effects of any seaman or apprentice dying during a voyage shall be recoverable in the same Courts and by the same modes of proceeding by which seamen are hereby enabled to recover wages due to them.

75. When money or effects left by or due to any deceased seaman or apprentice, are paid or delivered to a shipping master, then, subject to such deductions for expenses incurred in respect of the seaman or apprentice or of his said money and effects as the shipping master thinks proper to allow, the shipping master may pay and deliver the said money and effects to any claimants who can prove themselves to the satisfaction of the said shipping master to be entitled thereto, and the said shipping master shall be thereby discharged from all further liability in respect of the money and effects so paid and delivered; or if he think fit so to do the shipping master may require probate or letters of administration or a certificate under Act XXVII of 1860 (for facilitating the collection of debts on successions, and for the security of parties paying debts to the representatives of deceased persons) to be taken out, and thereupon pay and deliver the said money and effects to the legal representative of the deceased.

Act I of 1859, s. 63. 76. In cases of wages or effects of deceased seamen or apprentices received by any shipping master to which no claim is substantiated within one year from the receipt thereof by such shipping master, it shall be the duty of the shipping master to cause such effects to be sold and to pay the proceeds of the sale and the unclaimed wages into the public treasury. If any subsequent claim is made to such money and is established to the satisfaction of the shipping master, the amount or so much as shall appear to be due to the claimant, shall be paid out of the public treasury. If the claim is not established to the satisfaction of the shipping master, the claimant may apply by petition to the High Court, and such Court, after taking evidence, either orally or on affidavit, shall make such order on the petition as seems just: Provided that, after the expiration of six years from the receipt of such wages or effects by the shipping master, no such claim shall be entertained without the sanction of the Local Government.

CHAPTER VII.

PROVISIONS, HEALTH AND ACCOMMODATION.

Act I of 1859, s. 64. 77. Any three or more of the crew of any ship registered at, trading with, or being at any port or place in British India, may complain to any shipping master or other officer duly appointed in this behalf by the Local Government that the provisions or water for the use of the crew are at any time of bad quality, unfit for use, or deficient in quantity. Such officer may thereupon examine the said provisions or water, or cause them to be examined; and if, on examination, such provisions or water are found to be of bad quality and unfit for use, or to be deficient in quantity, the person making such examination shall signify the same in writing to the master of the ship.

If such master does not thereupon provide other proper provisions or water in lieu of any so signified to be of a bad quality and unfit for use, or does not procure the requisite quantity of any so signified to be insufficient in quantity, or uses any provisions or water which have been so signified as aforesaid to be of a bad quality and unfit for use, he shall in every such case be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees.

Upon every such examination as aforesaid, the officers making or directing the same shall enter a statement of the result of the examination in the official log, and shall send a report thereof to the shipping master, and such report, if produced out of the custody of such shipping master, shall be received in evidence in any legal proceeding.

78. If the officer to whom any such complaint as last aforesaid is made, certifies in such statement as aforesaid that there was no reasonable ground for such complaint, each of the parties so complaining shall be liable to forfeit to the owner out of his wages a sum not exceeding one week's wages.

Allowance for short or bad provisions. 79. In the following cases (that is to say):—

(a) if during a voyage the allowance of any of the provisions which any seaman has by his agreement stipulated for, is reduced (except in accordance with any regulations for reduction by way of punishment contained in the agreement, and also except for any time during which such seaman wilfully and without sufficient cause refuses or neglects to perform his duty or is lawfully under confinement for misconduct, either on board or on shore),

(b) if it is shown that any of such provisions are or have during the voyage been bad in quality and unfit for use, the seaman shall receive by way of compensation for such reduction or bad quality, according to the time of its continuance, the following sums, to be paid to him in addition to and to be recoverable as wages (that is to say):—

(1) If his allowance is reduced by any quantity not exceeding one-third of the quantity specified in the agreement, a sum not exceeding three annas in the case of a European seaman or other person shipped on the same footing as a European seaman, or one anna in the case of a lascar or Native seaman:

(2) If his allowance is reduced by more than one-third of such quantity, six annas in the case of a European seaman or other person shipped on the same footing as a European seaman, or two annas in the case of a lascar or Native seaman:

(3) In respect of such bad quality as aforesaid, a sum not exceeding eight annas in the case of a European seaman or other person shipped on the same footing as a European seaman, or three annas in the case of a lascar or Native seaman.

But if it is shown to the satisfaction of the Court or Magistrate trying the case, that any provisions, the allowance of which has been reduced, could not be procured or supplied in proper quantities, and that proper and equivalent substitutes were supplied in lieu thereof, such Court or Magistrate shall take such circumstances into consideration and shall modify or refuse compensation as the justice of the case may require.

80. All foreign-going ships and all home-trade ships of a burden exceeding three hundred tons shall have always on board a sufficient supply of medicines and appliances, suitable for diseases and accidents likely to happen on sea voyages, according to such scale as shall be from time to time issued by the Local Government with the approval of the Governor General in Council, and published at Calcutta, Madras and Bombay in the local official Gazettes, and in default thereof, the owner or master of every such ship shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees: Provided, however, that this section shall not apply to ships

Proviso. navigating from the United Kingdom and coming within the provisions of section 224 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854.

Act I of 1859, s. 68. 81. Every master shall keep on board proper weights and measures for the purposes of determining the quantities of the several provisions and articles served out, and shall allow the same to be used at the time of serving out such provisions and articles in the presence of a witness whenever any dispute arises about such quantities, and in default shall for every offence be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

Act I of 1859, s. 69. 82. Whenever the master or any seaman of any ship registered at any place in British India shall receive any hurt or injury in the service of the ship, the expense of providing the necessary surgical and medical advice and attendance with medicines, and of his subsistence, until he shall be cured or shall be brought back to the port from which he was shipped or other port agreed upon, shall be defrayed, with the cost of his conveyance to such port, by the owner of the ship without any deduction on that account from the wages of such master, officer, or seaman; and if paid by himself, may be recovered as part of his wages; and if paid or allowed out of any monies forming part of the revenues of British India, shall be a charge upon the ship, and may be recovered with full costs of suit by the Secretary of State for India in Council.

Act I of 1859, s. 70. 83. A place or places of shelter shall be provided below a well caulked and substantial deck for the men engaged under this Act; such place or places shall be so arranged as to allow for the men the following spaces:—

(a). For each European seaman or apprentice or other person shipped on the same footing as a European seaman, ten superficial feet if the place be not less than six feet in height from deck to deck; or sixty cubic feet if the height from deck to deck be less than six feet.

(b). For each lascar or Native seaman or other person shipped on the same footing as a lascar, six superficial and thirty-six cubic feet; and if the place allotted be under the top-gallant fore-castle, such fore-castle deck shall be not less than four feet six inches above the one below it.

Every such place shall be kept free from stores or goods of any kind, not being the personal property of the crew in use during the voyage; and if any such place in any ship is not in the whole sufficiently large to give such space for each seaman and apprentice as hereinbefore required, or is not properly constructed and in all other respects securely and properly constructed and well ventilated, the owner shall, for every such failure to comply with the provisions of this section, be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees; and if any such space as aforesaid is not kept free from goods and stores as aforesaid, the master shall, for every such failure to comply with the provisions of this section, be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

84. The shipping-master at any port in British India, by himself or his deputy, may enter at any time on board of any ship upon which seamen have been shipped at such port, and inspect the provisions and water provided for the use of the crew, and the medicines and appliances and the accommodation for seamen prescribed by this Act or by the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854.

Shipping master, &c., may enter on board any ship and inspect provisions, &c. Procedure if provisions, &c., are found to be bad. If on inspection the provisions or water are found to be of bad quality and unfit for use or to be deficient in quantity, the shipping-master shall proceed as provided in section seventy-seven, and the penalty prescribed in the said section shall be incurred by any default of the master of the ship in respect of such provisions or water.

CHAPTER VIII.

POWER TO MAKE COMPLAINTS.

85. If any seaman or apprentice, whilst on board any ship, states to the master that he desires to make complaint to a Magistrate against the master or any of the crew, the said master shall, if the ship is then at a place where there is a Magistrate, so soon as the service of the ship will permit, and if the ship is not then at such a place, so soon after her first arrival at such a place as the service of the ship will permit, allow such seaman to go ashore, or send him ashore in proper custody, so that he may be enabled to make such complaint, and shall, in default, be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

CHAPTER IX.

PROTECTION OF SEAMEN FROM IMPOSITION.

86. No wages due or accruing to any seaman or apprentice shall be subject to attachment from any Court; and every payment of wages to a seaman shall be valid in law, notwithstanding any previous sale or assignment of such wages or of any incumbrance thereon; and no assignment or sale of such wages, or of salvage made prior to the accruing thereof, shall bind the party making the same; and no power-of-attorney or authority for the receipt of any such wages or salvage shall be irrevocable.

87. No debt exceeding in amount three rupees incurred by any seaman after he has engaged to serve, shall be recoverable until the service agreed for is concluded.

88. If any person demands or receives from any seaman or apprentice payment in respect of his board or lodging in the house of such person for a longer period than such seaman or apprentice has actually resided or boarded therein, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

Act I of 1859, s. 76.

89. If any person receives or takes into his possession or under his control any monies, documents, or effects of any seaman or apprentice, and does not return the same or pay the value thereof when required by such seaman or apprentice, subject to such deduction as may be justly due to him from such seaman or apprentice in respect of board or lodging or otherwise, or absconds therewith, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees; and any Magistrate may, besides inflicting such penalty by summary order, direct the amount or value of such monies, documents or effects, subject to such deduction as aforesaid, to be forthwith paid to such seaman or apprentice.

Act I of 1859, s. 77.

90. Every person who, not being in the service of Her Majesty and not being duly authorized by law for the purpose, goes on board any ship about to arrive at the place of her destination before her actual arrival at the place of her discharge, without the permission of the master, shall for every such offence be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees; and the master or person in charge of such ship may take any such person so going on board as aforesaid into custody, and deliver him up forthwith to any Police-officer, to be by him taken before a Magistrate to be dealt with according to the provisions of this Act.

Act I of 1859, s. 78.

91. If, within twenty-four hours after the arrival of any ship at any port in British India, any person then being on board such ship solicits any seaman to become a lodger at the house of any person letting lodgings for hire, or takes out of such ship any effects of any seaman, except under his personal direction and with the permission of the master, he shall for every such offence be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

CHAPTER X.

DISTRESSED SEAMEN.

Act VII of 1880, s. 54.

92. Nothing in this chapter applies to seamen or apprentices to whom the provisions of section 211 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, or of section 16 of the Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1855, apply.

In this chapter "local authority" means such person as the Local Government may from time to time, subject to the control of the Governor General in Council, appoint by name or in virtue of his office to exercise the powers conferred, and to perform the duties imposed, on the local authority under this chapter.

Every person so appointed may be suspended or dismissed by the Local Government which appointed him.

Act VII of 1880, s. 55.

93. The local authority may, subject to the rules hereinafter mentioned, provide for the subsistence—

(a) of all seamen and apprentices, being Native Indian subjects of Her Majesty, who have been shipwrecked, discharged or left behind at any place in British India, whether from any British ship employed in the merchant-service, or from any of

Her Majesty's ships, or who have been engaged by any person acting either as principal or agent to serve in any ship belonging to any foreign power, or to the subject of any foreign State, and who are in distress in any such place; and

(b) of all seamen and apprentices not being Native Indian subjects who have been shipwrecked, discharged or left behind at any place in British India from any British ship registered in British India and who are in distress in any such place, until such time as such authority is able to provide them with a passage as hereinafter provided.

94. Subject as aforesaid, the local authority may cause such seamen or apprentices to be put on board some ship belonging to any subject of Her Majesty which is in want of men to make up its complement, and is bound—

(a) in the case of seamen or apprentices who are Native Indian subjects of Her Majesty, to their home or to a port in British India near their home; (b) in the case of other British seamen or apprentices, to any port in the United Kingdom or the British possession to which they belong (as the case requires); and (c) in the case of seamen or apprentices not being subjects of Her Majesty, to such place as the local authority, subject to the control of the Governor General in Council, may in each case determine.

95. In default of any such ship, the local authority may, subject as aforesaid, provide such seamen or apprentices with a passage in any ship (whether British or foreign) bound as aforesaid.

96. The local authority shall indorse on the agreement of any British ship on board of which any seaman or apprentice is sent under section ninety-four or section ninety-five, the name of every person so sent on board thereof, with such particulars concerning the case as the Governor General in Council may from time to time by rule prescribe.

97. The master of every British ship bound as aforesaid shall receive and afford a passage and subsistence to all seamen and apprentices whom he is required to take on board his ship under the provisions of section ninety-four or section ninety-five, not exceeding one for every fifty tons burden, and shall, during the passage, provide every such seaman or apprentice with a proper berth or sleeping-place effectually protected against sea and weather.

98. If the master of any such ship fails or refuses to receive on board his ship, or to give a passage or subsistence to, or to provide for, any such seaman or apprentice contrary to the provisions of section ninety-seven, he shall, for each seaman and apprentice with respect to whom he so fails or refuses, be punished with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or, when he is tried at any place beyond the limits of British India, to the equivalent of one thousand rupees in the currency of such place.

99. If the master of any such ship fails or refuses to receive on board his ship, or to give a passage or subsistence to, or to provide for, any such seaman or apprentice contrary to the provisions of section ninety-seven, he shall, for each seaman and apprentice with respect to whom he so fails or refuses, be punished with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or, when he is tried at any place beyond the limits of British India, to the equivalent of one thousand rupees in the currency of such place.

100. If the master of any such ship fails or refuses to receive on board his ship, or to give a passage or subsistence to, or to provide for, any such seaman or apprentice contrary to the provisions of section ninety-seven, he shall, for each seaman and apprentice with respect to whom he so fails or refuses, be punished with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or, when he is tried at any place beyond the limits of British India, to the equivalent of one thousand rupees in the currency of such place.

101. If the master of any such ship fails or refuses to receive on board his ship, or to give a passage or subsistence to, or to provide for, any such seaman or apprentice contrary to the provisions of section ninety-seven, he shall, for each seaman and apprentice with respect to whom he so fails or refuses, be punished with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or, when he is tried at any place beyond the limits of British India, to the equivalent of one thousand rupees in the currency of such place.

102. If the master of any such ship fails or refuses to receive on board his ship, or to give a passage or subsistence to, or to provide for, any such seaman or apprentice contrary to the provisions of section ninety-seven, he shall, for each seaman and apprentice with respect to whom he so fails or refuses, be punished with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or, when he is tried at any place beyond the limits of British India, to the equivalent of one thousand rupees in the currency of such place.

103. If the master of any such ship fails or refuses to receive on board his ship, or to give a passage or subsistence to, or to provide for, any such seaman or apprentice contrary to the provisions of section ninety-seven, he shall, for each seaman and apprentice with respect to whom he so fails or refuses, be punished with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or, when he is tried at any place beyond the limits of British India, to the equivalent of one thousand rupees in the currency of such place.

104. If the master of any such ship fails or refuses to receive on board his ship, or to give a passage or subsistence to, or to provide for, any such seaman or apprentice contrary to the provisions of section ninety-seven, he shall, for each seaman and apprentice with respect to whom he so fails or refuses, be punished with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or, when he is tried at any place beyond the limits of British India, to the equivalent of one thousand rupees in the currency of such place.

Every offence punishable under this section may be tried in any district or Presidency-town in which the offender is found, as well as in any district or Presidency-town in which it might be tried under the law relating to criminal procedure for the time being in force.

99. When any master of a British ship has conveyed a seaman or apprentice in excess of the number (if any) wanted to make up the complement of his crew to any place in accordance with the requisition of a local authority under this chapter, such master shall be entitled to be paid by the Secretary of State for India in Council in respect of the subsistence and passage of such seaman or apprentice such sum per diem as the Governor General in Council from time to time appoints:

Provided that no payment shall be made under this section except on the production of the following documents (that is to say):—

(a) a certificate signed by the local authority by whose direction such seaman or apprentice was received on board, specifying the name of such seaman or apprentice, and the time when he was received on board; and

(b) a declaration in writing by such master made and verified in manner hereinafter provided, and stating—

- (1) the number of days during which such seaman or apprentice received subsistence and was provided for as aforesaid on board his ship;
- (2) the number of men and boys forming the complement of his crew;
- (3) the number of seamen and apprentices employed on board his ship during the time such seaman or apprentice was on board; and
- (4) every variation (if any) of such number.

The declaration required by this section shall, in the case of a ship conveying Native Indian subjects of Her Majesty to a port in British India, be made before a shipping master or such other officer as the Local Government may appoint. In other cases such declaration shall be made and verified in the same manner as declarations made under section 212 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854.

Act VII of 1880, s. 62.

100. (a) If any seaman or apprentice, being a Native Indian subject of Her Majesty and belonging to any British ship, is discharged or left behind at any place in British India without full compliance on the part of the master with all the provisions in that behalf of the law for the time being in force, and becomes distressed and is relieved under the provisions of this chapter; or the wages (if any) due to such seaman or apprentice, and all expenses incurred for his subsistence, necessary clothing, conveyance home, and, in case he should die before reaching home, for his burial, shall be a charge upon the ship, whether British or foreign, to which he so belonged as aforesaid.

(b) if any such seaman or apprentice, after having been engaged by any person (whether acting as principal or agent) to serve in any ship belonging to any foreign power or to the subject of any foreign power, becomes distressed and is relieved as aforesaid; or

101. All such wages and expenses shall be recoverable with costs either from the master of such ship or from the person who is owner thereof for the time being, or in the case of an engagement for service in a foreign ship, from such master or owner, or from the person by whom such engagement was so made, in the same manner as other debts due to the Secretary of State for India in Council, or in the same manner and by the same form and process in which wages due to the seaman or apprentice would be recoverable by him.

102. The Local Government may from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, authorize, either generally or specially, such persons as it thinks fit to sue for any such wages and expenses and recover the same.

And every person so authorized shall be entitled to sue and recover accordingly, and shall be deemed to be a person filling a public office within the meaning of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, section 57, clause (7).

103. When any such wages and expenses are due to or in respect of a seaman or apprentice mentioned in section one hundred, clause (c), they may, instead of being recovered by a person authorized under section one hundred and two, be recovered by the Board of Trade in manner provided by the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, section 213, and when so recovered shall be paid by the said Board to the Secretary of State for India in Council.

104. In all proceedings under this chapter, whether in British India or elsewhere, the production of a certificate signed by the local authority by which any seaman or apprentice named therein was relieved, or any expenses were incurred, under this chapter, to the effect that such seaman or apprentice was in distress, and that such expenses were incurred in respect of such seaman or apprentice, shall be sufficient evidence that he was relieved, conveyed home or buried (as the case may be) at the expense of the revenues of British India.

105. The Governor General in Council may, from time to time, make rules to determine under what circumstances and subject to what conditions seamen or apprentices may be relieved and provided with passages under this chapter, and generally to carry out the provisions of this chapter.

All such rules shall be published in the Gazette of India, and shall thereupon have the force of law.

CHAPTER XI.

DISCIPLINE.

106. Any master of, or any seaman or apprentice belonging to, any ship registered at, trading with, or being at, any port or place in British India who, by wilful breach of duty, or by neglect of duty, or by reason of drunkenness, does any act tending to the immediate loss, destruction, or serious damage of such ship, or tending immediately to endanger the life or limb of any person belonging to or on board of such ship, or who by wilful breach of duty, or by neglect of duty, or by reason of drunkenness, refuses or omits to do any lawful act proper and requisite to be done by him for preserving such ship from immediate loss, destruction, or serious damage, or for preserving any person belonging to or on board of such ship from immediate danger to life or limb, shall for every such offence be punished with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or with imprisonment for a term which may extend to two years, or with both.

107. Any Court having admiralty jurisdiction in British India may, upon application by the owner of any ship being within the jurisdiction of such Court, or by the part-owner or consignee, or by the agent of the owner, or by any certificated mate, or by one-third or more of the crew, of such ship, and upon proof on oath to the satisfaction of such Court that the removal of the master of such ship is necessary, remove him accordingly; and may also, with the consent of the owner or his agent, or the consignee of the ship, or if there is no owner or agent of the owner or consignee of the ship within the jurisdiction of the Court, then, without such consent, appoint a new master in his stead, and may also make such order and may require such security in respect of costs in the matter as it thinks fit.

The powers conferred by this section may, at any port in British India where there is no Court having admiralty jurisdiction, be exercised by the principal Court of ordinary criminal jurisdiction at such port.

108. Whenever any seaman who has been lawfully engaged, or any apprentice to the sea-service, commits any of the following offences, he shall be punished summarily as follows; (that is to say)—

(a) For desertion he shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to twelve weeks, and shall also be liable to forfeit all or any part of the clothes and effects he leaves on board, and all or any part of the wages or emoluments which he has then earned, and also, if such desertion takes place at any port or place not in British India, at the discretion of the Court, to forfeit all or any part of the wages or emoluments he may earn in any other ship in which he may be employed until his next return to any port or place in British India, and to satisfy any excess of wages paid by the master or owner of the ship from which he deserts, to any substitute engaged in his place at a higher rate of wages than the rate stipulated to be paid to him.

(b) For neglecting or refusing, without reasonable cause, to join his ship, or to proceed to sea in his ship, or for absence without leave at any time within twenty-four hours of the ship's sailing from any port, either at the commencement or during the progress of any voyage, or for absence at any time without leave and without sufficient reason from his ship or from his duty not amounting to desertion or not treated as such by the master, he shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to ten weeks, and shall also, at the discretion of the Court, be liable to forfeit out of his wages a sum not exceeding the amount of two days' pay, and in addition for every twenty-four hours of absence either a sum not exceeding six days' pay, or any expenses which have been properly incurred in hiring a substitute.

(c) For quitting the ship without leave after her arrival at her port of delivery and before she is placed in security, he shall be liable to forfeit out of his wages a sum not exceeding one month's pay.

(d) For wilful disobedience to any lawful command he shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to four weeks, and shall also be liable, at the discretion of the Court, to forfeit out of his wages a sum not exceeding two days' pay.

(e) For continued wilful disobedience to lawful commands, or continued wilful neglect of duty, he shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to twelve weeks, and shall also be liable, at the discretion of the Court, to forfeit for every twenty-four hours' continuance of such disobedience or neglect, either a sum not exceeding six days' pay, or any expenses which have been properly incurred in hiring a substitute.

(f) For assaulting any master or mate he shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to twelve weeks.

(g) For combining with any other or others of the crew to disobey lawful commands, or to neglect duty, or to impede the navigation of the ship or the progress of the voyage, he shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to twelve weeks.

(h) For wilfully damaging the ship, or embezzling or wilfully damaging any of her stores or cargo, he shall be liable to forfeit out of his wages a sum equal in amount to the loss thereby sustained, and also, at the discretion of the Court, to imprisonment for a term which may extend to twelve weeks.

(i) For any act of smuggling of which he is convicted, and whereby loss or damage is occasioned to the master or owner, he shall be liable to pay to such master or owner such a sum as is sufficient to reimburse the master or owner for such loss or damage; and the whole or a proportionate part of his wages may be retained in satisfaction or on account of such liability, without prejudice to any further remedy.

(j) For any act of smuggling of which he is convicted, and whereby loss or damage is occasioned to the master or owner, he shall be liable to pay to such master or owner such a sum as is sufficient to reimburse the master or owner for such loss or damage; and the whole or a proportionate part of his wages may be retained in satisfaction or on account of such liability, without prejudice to any further remedy.

109. Upon the commission of any of the offences enumerated in the last preceding section, an entry thereof shall be made in the official log-book, and shall be signed by the master and also by the mate or one of the crew. The offender, if still in the ship, shall, before the next subsequent arrival of the ship at any port, or if she is at the time in port before her departure therefrom, either be furnished with a copy of such entry or have the same read over distinctly and audibly to him, and may thereupon make such reply thereto as he thinks fit. A statement that a copy of the said entry has been so furnished, or that the same has been so read over as aforesaid, and the reply (if any) made by the offender shall likewise be entered and signed in manner aforesaid. In any subsequent legal proceeding, the entries hereinbefore required shall, if practicable, be produced or proved, and in default of such production or proof, the Court hearing the case may, at its discretion, refuse to receive evidence of the offence.

Act I of 1859,
s. 85.

110. Every seafaring person whom the master of any ship is, under the authority of this Act or any law, compelled to take on board and convey, and every person who goes to sea in any ship without the consent of the master or owner or other person entitled to give such consent, shall, so long as he remains in such ship, be subject to the same laws and regulations for preserving discipline, and to the same penalties and punishments for offences constituting or tending to a breach of discipline, to which he would be subject if he were a member of the crew and had signed the agreement.

Act I of 1859,
s. 86.

111. Whenever, either at the commencement or during the progress of any voyage, any seaman or apprentice neglects or refuses to join, or deserts from, or refuses to proceed to sea in, any ship in which he is duly engaged to serve, or is found otherwise absenting himself therefrom without leave, the master or any mate, or the owner, ship's husband, or consignee, may, with or without the assistance of Police-officers who are hereby directed to give the same if required, apprehend him without first procuring a warrant; and thereupon in any case, and shall, in case he so requires and it is practicable, convey him before some Court capable of taking cognizance of the matter, to be dealt with according to law; and may, for the purpose of conveying him before such Court, detain him in custody for a period not exceeding twenty-four hours or such shorter time as may be necessary, or may, if he does not so require, or if there is no such Court at or near the place, at once convey him on board.

If any such apprehension appears to the Court before which the case is brought to have been made on improper or on insufficient grounds, the master, owner, ship's husband or consignee, who makes the same or causes the same to be made, shall be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees; but such fine, if inflicted, shall be a bar to any action for false imprisonment or for such apprehension.

Act I of 1859,
s. 87.

112. Whenever any seaman or apprentice is brought before any Court on the ground of his having neglected or refused to join, or to proceed to sea in any ship in which he is engaged to serve, or of having deserted or otherwise absented himself therefrom without leave, such Court may, if the master or the owner or his agent so requires, instead of committing the offender to prison, cause him to be conveyed on board for the purpose of proceeding on the voyage, or deliver him to the master or any mate of the ship, or the owner or his agent, to be by them so conveyed, and may in such case order any costs and expenses properly incurred by or on behalf of the master or owner by reason of the offence, to be paid by the offender, and if necessary to be deducted from any wages which he has then earned, or which by virtue of his then existing engagement he may afterwards earn.

1876, s. 8.

113. Whenever any seaman or apprentice not shipped in British India deserts or otherwise absents himself without leave from any ship in which he is engaged to serve, the master of the ship shall, within forty-eight hours of discovering such desertion or absence, report the same to such officer as the Local Government appoints in this behalf, unless in the meantime the deserter or absentee returns.

Any master wilfully neglecting to comply with the provisions of this section shall be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees, or with imprisonment for a term which may extend to one month, or with both.

s. 88.

114. If any seaman or apprentice is imprisoned on the ground of his having neglected or refused to join, or to proceed to sea in, any ship in which he is engaged to serve, or of having deserted or otherwise absented himself therefrom without leave, or of his having committed any other breach of discipline, and if during such imprisonment and before his engagement is at an end his services are required on board his ship, any Magistrate may, at the request of the master or of the owner or his agent, cause such seaman or apprentice to be conveyed on board his said ship for the purpose of proceeding on the voyage, or to be delivered to the master or any mate of the ship or to the owner or his agent, to be by them so conveyed notwithstanding that the termination of the period for which he was sentenced to imprisonment has not arrived.

1876, s. 9.

115. If any seaman or apprentice not shipped in British India is imprisoned for any offence for which he has been sentenced to imprisonment for a term not exceeding one month, any Magistrate may deal with him in the same way as he may deal with a seaman or apprentice imprisoned on any of the grounds mentioned in section one hundred and fourteen.

Act XIII of
1876, s. 9.

116. If any seaman or apprentice not shipped in British India is imprisoned on a complaint made by or on behalf of the master or owner of the ship in which he is engaged to serve, on any of the grounds mentioned in section one hundred and fourteen or for any offence which he has been sentenced to imprisonment for a term exceeding one month, the following rules shall be observed:—

(a) No person shall, while such imprisonment lasts, without the previous sanction in writing of the Local Government or of such officer as it appoints in this behalf, engage any Native of India to serve as a seaman on board such ship:

(b) the Local Government, or such officer as it appoints in this behalf, may tender such seaman or apprentice to the master or owner of the ship in which he is engaged to serve, and if such master or owner, without assigning reasons satisfactory to the Local Government or to such officer as aforesaid refuse to receive him on board, may require such master or owner to deposit in the local shipping office (1) the wages due to such seaman or apprentice, and his money, clothes and other effects, and (2) such sum as may in the opinion of the Local Government or of such officer as aforesaid be sufficient to defray the cost of the passage of the said seaman or apprentice to the port at which he was shipped, according to the scale of cost usual in the case of distressed seamen.

Whoever wilfully disobeys the prohibition contained in clause (a) of this section shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months, or with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or with both.

Any master or owner refusing or neglecting to deposit such wages, money, clothes and other effects, or such sum as aforesaid, shall be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, and in default of payment of such fine, with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months.

Act I of 1859,
s. 89.

117. In all cases of desertion from any ship registered at a port or place in British India while such ship is at any place out of British India, the master shall produce the entry of such desertion in the official log-book to the person or persons required by the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, to endorse on the agreement a certificate of such desertion; and such person or persons shall thereupon make and certify a copy of such entry and also a copy of the said certificate of desertion. The master shall forthwith transmit such copies to the shipping master at the port where such seaman was engaged, who shall, if required, cause the same to be produced in any legal proceeding; and such copies, if purporting to be so made and certified as aforesaid, shall in any legal proceeding relating to such desertion be received as evidence of the entries therein appearing.

Act I of 1859,
s. 90.

118. Whenever a question arises whether the wages of any seaman or apprentice are forfeited for desertion, it shall be sufficient for the party insisting on the forfeiture to show that such seaman or apprentice was duly engaged in, or that he belonged to, the ship from which he is alleged to have deserted, and that he quitted such ship before the completion of the voyage or engagement, or if such voyage was to terminate at any port or place in British India, and the ship has not returned, that he is absent from her, and that an entry of the desertion has been duly made in the official log-book. Thereupon the desertion shall, so far as relates to any forfeiture of wages or emoluments under the provisions hereinbefore contained, be deemed to be proved, unless the seaman or apprentice can produce a proper certificate of discharge or can otherwise show to the satisfaction of the Court that he had sufficient reasons for leaving his ship.

Act I of 1859,
s. 91.

119. Whenever in any proceeding relating to seamen's wages it is shown that any seaman or apprentice has in the course of the voyage been convicted of any offence by any competent tribunal and rightfully punished therefor by imprisonment or otherwise, the Court hearing the case may direct a part of the wages due to such seaman, not exceeding thirty rupees, to be applied in reimbursing any costs properly incurred by the master in procuring such conviction and punishment.

Act I of 1859,
s. 92.

120. Whenever any seaman contracts for wages by the voyage or by the run or by the share, and not by the month or other stated period of time, the amount of forfeiture to be incurred under this Act shall be taken to be an amount bearing the same proportion to the whole wages or share as a month or other the period hereinbefore mentioned in fixing the amount of such forfeiture (as the case may be) bears to the whole time spent in the voyage; and if the whole time spent in the voyage does not exceed the period for which the pay is to be forfeited, the forfeiture shall extend to the whole wages or share.

Act I of 1859,
s. 93.

121. All clothes, effects, wages, and emoluments which under the provisions hereinbefore contained are forfeited for desertion, shall be applied in the first instance in or towards the reimbursement of the expenses occasioned by such desertion to the master or owner of the ship from which the desertion has taken place, and may, if earned subsequently to the desertion, be recovered by such master or by the owner or his agent in the same manner as the deserter might have recovered the same if they had not been forfeited; and in any legal proceeding relating to such wages, the Court may order the same to be paid accordingly; and, subject to such reimbursement, the same shall be paid into the public treasury and carried to the account of Government. In all other cases of forfeiture of wages under the provisions hereinbefore contained, the forfeiture shall, in the absence of any specific directions to the contrary, be for the benefit of the master or owner by whom the wages are payable.

Act I of 1859,
s. 94.

122. Any question concerning the forfeiture of wages or deductions from the wages of any seaman or apprentice, may be determined in any proceeding lawfully instituted with respect to such wages, notwithstanding that the offence in respect of which such question arises, though hereby made punishable by imprisonment as well as forfeiture, has not been made the subject of any criminal proceeding.

Act I of 1859,
s. 95.

123. If any seaman, on or before being engaged, wilfully and fraudulently makes a false statement of the name of his last ship, or last alleged ship, or wilfully and fraudulently makes a false statement of his own name, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees, and such fine may be deducted from any wages he may earn by virtue of such engagement as aforesaid, and shall, subject to reimbursement of the loss and expenses (if any) occasioned by any previous desertion, be paid and applied in the same manner as other fines payable under this Act.

Act I of 1859, s. 96.
M. S. Act, 1854, s. 256.

124. Whenever any seaman commits an act of misconduct for which his agreement imposes a fine, and which it is intended to punish by enforcing such fine, an entry thereof shall be made in the official log-book, and a copy shall be read over to the offender, and an entry of such reading over and of the reply (if any) made by the offender shall be made, in the manner and subject to the conditions hereinbefore specified with respect to the offences against discipline specified in and punishable under this Act.

Such fine shall be deducted and paid over as follows (that is to say), if the offender is discharged at any port or place in British India, and the offence, and such entries in respect thereof as aforesaid, are proved, in the case of a foreign-going ship to the satisfaction of the shipping master before whom the offender is discharged, and in the case of a home-trade ship to the satisfaction of the shipping master at or nearest to the place at which the crew is discharged, the master or owner shall deduct such fine from the wages of the offender and pay the same over to such shipping master; and if before the final discharge of the crew in British India, any such offender as aforesaid enters into any of Her Majesty's ships or is discharged at any place not in British India, and the offence and such entries as aforesaid are proved to the satisfaction of the officer in command of the ship into which he so enters or of the consular officer, officer of customs, or other person by whose sanction he is so discharged, the fine shall thereupon be deducted as aforesaid, and an entry of such deduction shall then be made in the official log-book (if any) and signed by such officer or other person; and on the return of the ship to British India, the master or owner shall pay over such fine, in the case of foreign-going ships to the shipping master before whom the crew is discharged, and in the case of home-trade ships to the shipping master at or nearest to the place at which the crew is discharged.

If any master or owner neglects or refuses to pay over any such fine in manner aforesaid, he shall for each such offence be punished with fine which may extend to six times the amount of the fine retained by him:

Provided that no act of misconduct for which any such fine as aforesaid has been inflicted and paid shall be otherwise punished under the provisions of this Act.

Act I of 1859, s. 97.

125. Every person who by any means whatever persuades or attempts to persuade any seaman or apprentice to neglect or refuse to join or proceed to sea in or to desert from his ship, or otherwise to absent himself from his duty, shall for each such offence in respect of each such seaman or apprentice be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees; and every person who wilfully harbours or secretes any seaman or apprentice who has deserted from his ship or who has wilfully neglected or refused to join or has deserted from his ship, knowing or having reason to believe such seaman or apprentice to have so done, shall for every such seaman or apprentice so harboured or secreted be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

126. Any person who secretes himself and goes to sea in any ship without the consent of either the owner, consignee, or master, or of a mate, or of any person in charge of such ship, or of any other person entitled to give such consent, shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees, or with imprisonment for a term which may extend to four weeks.

127. If during the progress of a voyage the master of any ship registered at any port or place in British India, is superseded or for any other reason quits the ship and is succeeded in the command by some other person, he shall deliver to his successor the various documents relating to the navigation of the ship and to the crew thereof which are in his custody; and shall in default be punished with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees; and such successor shall, immediately on assuming the command of the ship, enter in the official log a list of the documents so delivered to him.

CHAPTER XII. OFFICIAL LOGS.

128. An official log-book of every ship registered at any port or place in British India, except home-trade ships of a burden not exceeding three hundred tons, shall be kept in a form sanctioned by the Local Government; and such official log may, at the discretion of the master or owner, either be kept distinct from the ordinary ship's log or united therewith, so that in all cases all the blanks in the official log be duly filled up.

129. Every entry in every official log shall be made as soon as possible after the occurrence to which it relates, and if not made on the same day as the occurrence to which it relates shall be made and dated so as to show the date of the occurrence, and of the entry respecting it; and in no case shall any entry therein in respect of any occurrence happening previously to the arrival of the ship at her final port of discharge be made more than twenty-four hours after such arrival.

130. Every master of a ship for which an official log-book is hereby required shall make or cause to be made therein entries of the following matters; (that is to say)—

131. The entries hereby required to be made in the official log-books shall be signed as follows; (that is to say) every such entry shall be signed by the master and by the mate or some other of the crew, and every entry of illness, injury, death, or birth shall be also signed by the surgeon or medical practitioner on board (if any); and every entry of wages due to, or of the sale of the effects of, any seaman or apprentice who dies shall be signed by the master and by the mate and some other member of the crew, and every entry of wages due to any seaman who enters Her Majesty's service, shall be signed by the master and by the seaman or by the officer authorized to receive the seaman into such service.

132. The following offences in respect of official log-books shall be punishable as hereinbefore mentioned; (that is to say)—

(a) If in any case an official log-book is not kept in the manner hereby required, or if any entry hereby directed to be made in any such log-book is not made at the time and in the manner hereby directed, the master shall for each such offence incur the specific penalty herein mentioned in respect thereof, or where there is no such specific penalty, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

(b) Every person who makes or procures to be made or assists in making any entry in an official log-book, in respect of any occurrence happening previously to the arrival of the ship at her final port of discharge in British India, more than twenty-four hours after such arrival, shall for each such offence, be punished with fine which may extend to three hundred rupees.

(c) Every person who wilfully destroys or mutilates or renders illegible any entry in any official log-book, or who wilfully makes or procures to be made or assists in making any false or fraudulent entry or omission in any such log-book, shall for each such offence be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to one year.

133. All entries made in any official log-book as hereinbefore directed shall be received in evidence in any proceeding in any Court of Justice, subject to all just exceptions.

134. The master of every foreign-going ship shall, within forty-eight hours after the ship's arrival at her final port of destination in British India, or upon the discharge of the crew, whichever first happens, deliver to the shipping master before whom the crew is discharged, the official log-book of the voyage; and the master or owner of every home-trade ship of a burden exceeding three hundred tons shall, within twenty-one days after the thirtieth day of June and the thirty-first day of December in every year, transmit or deliver to some shipping master in British India the official log-book for the preceding half year; and every master or owner who refuses or neglects to deliver his official log-book, as hereby required, shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees.

135. If any ship ceases, by reason of transfer of ownership or change of employment, to fall within the operation of section one hundred and twenty-eight, the master or owner thereof shall, if such ship is then in any port in British India, within one month, and if she is elsewhere, within six months, deliver or transmit to the shipping master at the port to which the ship belonged, the official log-book duly made out to the time at which she ceased to be within such operation, and in default shall for each offence be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees; and if any ship is lost or abandoned, the master or owner thereof shall, if practicable, and as soon as possible, deliver or transmit to the shipping master at the port to which the ship belonged, the official log-book (if any) duly made out to the time of such loss or abandonment, and in default shall for each offence be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

CHAPTER XIII.

INVESTIGATIONS INTO CASUALTIES.

136. Nothing in this chapter affects the powers conferred by section 240 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, on Courts having Admiralty jurisdiction in India.

137. Whenever any Magistrate, or any officer appointed by the Local Government in this behalf, receives credible information that—

(a) any ship has been lost, abandoned, stranded or materially damaged on or near the coasts of British India; or

See Act IV of 1875, s. 23; Act XV of 1863, s. 10; Act XXVIII of 1861, s. 2.

Report of casualties to be made to Local Government.

wards became Act VII of 1880, Cf. M. S. Act, 1854, s. 432.

(b) by reason of any casualty happening to or on board of any ship on or near such coasts, loss of life has ensued; or

(c) any ship has caused loss or material damage to any other ship on or near such coasts; or

(d) any such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty has happened elsewhere to any British ship, and any competent witnesses thereof have arrived or are to be found at any place in British India; or

(e) any British ship is supposed to have been lost, and any evidence can be obtained in British India as to the circumstances under which she proceeded to sea or was last heard of;

he shall forthwith report in writing such information to the Local Government.

In the cases mentioned in clauses (a), (b) and (c), the master, pilot, harbour-master or other person in charge of the ship or (where two ships are concerned) in charge of each ship, at the time of such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty, and in cases under clause (d), where the master of the ship concerned, or (except in case of a loss) where the ship concerned, proceeds to any place in British India from the place where such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty has occurred, the master of such ship, shall, on arriving in British India, give immediate notice of such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty to the nearest Magistrate, or, when he arrives at a port in British India, to the officer appointed at such port as aforesaid.

Any person bound to give notice under this section and wilfully failing to give the same shall be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, and, in default of payment, to simple imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months.

See Act IV of 1875, s. 4.

138. If in any such case a formal investigation into the facts mentioned in section one hundred and thirty-seven, clause (a), (b), (c), (d) or (e), appears to the Local Government to be requisite or expedient, the Local Government (whether such notice be given or not) may appoint a special Court, consisting of not less than two nor more than four persons, and direct such Court to make such investigation, and may fix the place for making the same.

One of such persons shall be a Magistrate acting in or near the place where the investigation is made: another shall be some person conversant with maritime affairs: the other or others (if any) shall be conversant with either maritime or mercantile affairs.

See Act IV of 1875, s. 5.

139. Every Court having admiralty jurisdiction in British India, and the principal Court of ordinary criminal jurisdiction at every port of British India where there is no Court having admiralty jurisdiction, is hereby authorized, when so directed by the Local Government, to make the investigations referred to in section one hundred and thirty-eight.

140. Any Court making an investigation under section one hundred and thirty-eight or section one hundred and thirty-nine may inquire into any charge of incompetency or misconduct against any master, mate or engineer as well as into any charge of a wrongful act or default on his part causing any such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty as aforesaid.

In every case in which any such charge, whether of incompetency or misconduct, or of a wrongful act or default, as aforesaid, arises against a master, mate or engineer in the course of an investigation, the Court shall before the commencement of such inquiry cause to be furnished to him a copy of the report or statement of the case upon which the investigation has been directed.

141. If the Local Government has reason to believe that there are grounds for charging any master, mate or engineer holding a certificate granted by the Board of Trade or a Local Government with incompetency or misconduct, otherwise than in the course of an investigation under section one hundred and thirty-eight or section one hundred and thirty-nine, it may transmit a statement of the case to any Court mentioned in section one hundred and thirty-nine, at or nearest to the place at which it may be convenient for the parties and witnesses to attend, and may direct such Court to make an investigation into such charge.

Before commencing such investigation, the Court shall cause the master, mate or engineer so charged to be furnished with a copy of the statement so transmitted by the Local Government.

142. For the purpose of an investigation under this chapter into any charge against a master, mate or engineer, the Court may summon him to appear, and shall give him full opportunity of making a defence, either in person or otherwise.

143. For the purpose of any investigation under this chapter, the Court making the investigation, so far as relates to compelling the attendance and examination of witnesses and the production of documents and the regulation of the proceedings, shall have—

(a) if such Court is a special Court, the same powers as are exercisable by the principal Court of ordinary criminal jurisdiction for the place at which the investigation is made;

(b) if such Court is a Court having admiralty jurisdiction or a principal Court of ordinary criminal jurisdiction, the same powers as are exercisable by such Court in the exercise of such admiralty or criminal jurisdiction (as the case may be).

When any investigation involves or appears likely to involve any question as to the cancelling or suspension of the certificate of a master, mate or engineer, the Court making such investigation shall constitute as its assessors for the purpose of the investigation two persons having experience in the merchant-service; and in every other investigation the Court making it may, if it think fit, constitute as its assessor for the purposes of the investigation any person conversant with maritime affairs and willing to act as such assessor.

Such persons shall attend during the investigation and deliver their opinions in writing, to be recorded on the proceedings. But the exercise of all powers conferred on the Court by this Act or any other enactment for the being in force shall rest with the Court.

Act IV of 1875, s. 15.

144. If any Court making an investigation under this chapter thinks it necessary for obtaining evidence that any person should be arrested, it may issue a warrant for his arrest, and may, for the purpose of effecting such arrest, authorize any officer (subject, nevertheless, to any general or special instructions from the Local Government) to enter any vessel.

Any officer so authorized may, for the purpose of enforcing such entry, call to his aid any officers of police or customs, or any other persons, and may seize and detain the vessel for such time as is reasonably necessary to effect the arrest; and every such officer or other person shall be deemed to be a public servant within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code, section 186.

No person shall be detained by virtue of this section for more than forty-eight hours.

Act IV of 1875, s. 16.

145. Whenever, in the course of any such investigation, it appears that any person has committed within the jurisdiction of any Court in British India an offence punishable under any law in force in British India, the Court making the investigation may (subject to such rules consistent with this Act as the High Court may from time to time prescribe) cause him to be arrested, or commit him or hold him to bail to take his trial before the proper Court; and may bind over any person to give evidence at such trial, and may, for the purposes of this section, exercise all the powers of a Magistrate of the first class or of a Presidency Magistrate.

And whenever in the course of such trial the testimony of any witness is required in relation to the subject-matter, any deposition previously made by him in relation to the same subject-matter before any Court making an investigation under this chapter shall, if authenticated by the signature of the Magistrate or presiding Judge, be admissible in evidence on proof—

(a) that the witness cannot be found within the jurisdiction of the Court before which the trial is held; and

(b) that it was made in the presence of the person accused and that he had an opportunity of cross-examining such witness.

A certificate by the Magistrate or presiding Judge that the deposition was made in the presence of the accused and that he had such opportunity shall, unless the contrary be proved, be sufficient evidence that it was so made.

For the purposes of this section the Recorder of Rangoon shall, within the local limits of his ordinary civil jurisdiction, be deemed to be the High Court.

Act IV of 1875, s. 11 and 12.

146. The Court shall, in the case of all investigations under this chapter, transmit to the Local Government a full report of the conclusions at which it has arrived, together with the evidence.

In cases in which, under the Merchant Shipping Acts, 1854 to 1880, the Court is required to send a report to the Board of Trade, such report shall be sent through the Local Government, and the transmission of such report to the Local Government shall be a sufficient compliance with this section.

CHAPTER XIV

Suspension, &c., of Certificates.

147. Nothing herein contained shall affect the powers conferred by the Merchant Shipping Acts, 1854 to 1880, on the Courts conducting investigations or inquiries under sections one hundred and thirty-eight, one hundred and thirty-nine, one hundred and forty and one hundred and forty-one of this Act, to cancel or suspend certificates granted under any of the said Merchant Shipping Acts, or certificates to which the provisions of any such Act have been made applicable under the Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869.

When any such Court cancels or suspends any such certificate, it may, in its report to the Local Government, advise such Government to grant, without examination, to the holder of such certificate, when such certificate is a certificate as master, a certificate as mate; and, when such certificate is a certificate as mate or engineer, a certificate as mate or engineer, as the case may be of a grade lower than that which he held at the time of such cancellation or suspension; and such Local Government, if it thinks fit, and if it is empowered by any enactment of a British Indian legislature for the time being in force to grant such certificate, may grant it under such enactment, but without examination. A certificate so granted shall have the same effect as if it had been granted after examination, but shall not have the effect of a certificate granted under the Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869, or of any order in Council under the said Act.

The power to grant a certificate conferred by this section may be exercised by the Local Government even though the Court has not advised it so to do.

148. Any certificate (whether of competency or service) which has been granted by any Local Government to any master, mate or engineer, but has not been granted under the provisions of the Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869, or of any order in Council under the said Act, may be suspended or cancelled, by that or any other Local Government, in the following cases, that is to say:—

(a) if, upon any investigation made under this Act, the Court reports that the loss, stranding or abandonment of, or damage to, any ship, or loss of life, has been caused by his wrongful act or default, or that he is incompetent, or has been guilty of any gross act of drunkenness, tyranny or other misconduct;

(b) if, upon any investigation made under the provisions of the Merchant Shipping Acts, 1854 to 1880, or upon any investigation made by any Court or tribunal for the time being authorized by the legislative authority in any British possession to make enquiry into charges of incompetency or misconduct on the part of masters, mates or engineers of ships, or as to shipwrecks or other casualties affecting ships, the Court or tribunal reports that such master, mate or engineer is incompetent, or has been guilty of any gross act of misconduct, drunkenness or tyranny, or that the loss, stranding or abandonment of, or damage to, any ship, or loss of life, has been caused by his wrongful act or default ; any Naval Court constituted as provided by the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, or by any other law for the time being in force:

Provided that, in any case in which an investigation has been made into a charge against any master, mate or engineer, no certificate shall be suspended or cancelled under clause (a) unless the Local Government is satisfied that the holder of the certificate has been furnished before the commencement of the investigation with the copy of the report or statement required by section one hundred and forty, or section one hundred and forty-one, as the case may be.

of 1876, s. 19.

149. Every master, mate or engineer whose certificate is cancelled or suspended under section one hundred and forty-eight, shall, before he is permitted to deliver any certificate.

of 1875, s. 20.

150. If the Local Government which cancels or suspends, under section one hundred and forty-eight a certificate of a master, mate, or engineer, is not the Local Government that granted the same, the Local Government so cancelling or suspending the certificate shall report the proceedings, and the fact of cancelment or suspension, to the Local Government which granted such certificate.

of 1875, s. 21.

151. Every Local Government cancelling or suspending, under section one hundred and forty-eight, the certificate of a master, mate or engineer shall, as soon as may be practicable, report to the Board of Trade the fact of such cancellation or suspension.

of 1875, s. 22.

152. Any Local Government may, at any time, revoke any order of cancellation or suspension which it may have made under section one hundred and forty-eight or grant, without examination, to any person, whose certificate it has so cancelled, a new certificate of the same or of any lower grade.

Power to grant new certificate.

A certificate so granted shall have the same effect as if it had been granted after examination, but shall not have the effect of a certificate granted under the Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869, or of any order in Council under the said Act.

A certificate of competency for a home-trade ship under this Act shall be deemed, for the purposes of this section, to be of a lower grade than a certificate of competency for a foreign-going ship under the same Act.

CHAPTER XV.

HEALTH-OFFICERS.

153. The Local Government may, from time Bill, chap. v.
Appointment and to time, appoint, at any a. 23.
powers of Health-officer. port subject to the Indian Ports Act, 1875, an officer to be called the Health-officer, and may suspend or remove from office any officer so appointed.

Such officer shall, subject to the control of the Local Government, have the following powers within the limits of the port for which he is appointed, that is to say :—

(b) power to enter on board any ship and medically examine all or any of the seamen or apprentices on board such ship;

(d) power to call before him and examine for such purpose all or any of such persons, and to require answers to any inquiries he thinks fit to make;

(e) power to require any person so examined by him to make and subscribe a declaration of the truth of the statements made by such person.

CHAPTER XVI.

MISCELLANEOUS.

154. Whenever in the course of any legal proceedings instituted at any port or place in British India before any Judge or Magistrate, depositions to be received in evidence when witnesses cannot be produced.

Provided that, if the proceeding is criminal, such deposition shall not be admissible unless it was made in the presence of the person accused, and the fact that it was so made is certified by the Justice Magistrate or consular officer.

amendment of the law relating to Merchant Shipping was referred, have the honour to report that we have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin.

2. To meet a doubt that has arisen we have provided, in section 5 of the Bill as introduced (now section 4), that nothing in the Bill shall apply to any ship belonging to or in the service of the Government of India.

3. We have made the provisions of clauses (a) and (c) of section 6 of the Bill as introduced (now section 137) apply only to cases where material damage has been caused. We have also, at the suggestion of the Board of Trade, limited the application of clauses (d) and (e) of the same section to British ships.

4. At the suggestion of the same Board we have, in section 9 of the Bill introduced (now section 140), given to the Court making an investigation power to inquire into charges against Masters, Mates or Engineers whether they are certificated or not. We have also provided that in every case in which any charge of incompetency, misconduct, wrongful act or default arises, the Court shall, before the commencement of the enquiry, furnish the Master, Mate or Engineer concerned with a copy of the report or statement of the case upon which the investigation has been directed.

5. We have amended the fourth paragraph of section 12 (now section 143) in the manner recommended by the Board of Trade, and required the Court in cases involving any question as to the cancellation or suspension of the certificate of a Master, Mate or Engineer to constitute as its assessors two persons having experience in the merchant service. This amendment will bring the section into harmony with Imperial legislation, and in cases where it is not practicable to procure on the spot the attendance of two assessors so qualified, the Local Government will no doubt be able to send a duly qualified assessor from some other place.

6. In section 16 of the Bill as introduced (now section 147) we have provided that the certificate granted in lieu of a cancelled or suspended certificate shall be of a grade lower than the one cancelled or suspended. We have also, in accordance with the opinion expressed by the Local Governments, empowered them to grant under that section certificates without being advised by the Court to do so.

7. At the suggestion of the Board of Trade, we have, in section 17 of the Bill as introduced (now section 14), made it clear that the Local Government cannot suspend or cancel, in the cases mentioned in that section, certificates granted under the Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869. It is, however, unnecessary to limit the words "any Local Government" in that section by adding the words "in British India," as recommended by the Board. The expression "Local Government" is defined in the General Clauses Act, 1868, to mean the person authorized by law to administer Executive Government in the part of British India in which the Act containing such expression shall operate.

8. At the request of the Bengal Government, we have called the officer who may be appointed under section 28 of the Bill as introduced (now section 153, the Health-officer, and have given him the powers conferred on a Shipping-master by the Merchant Shipping Act, I of 1859. We have also modified clause (b) of that section so as to confine the power to medically examine persons on board to the medical examination of seamen or apprentices.

9. The provisions of section 18B in section 28 of the Bill as introduced have been generally objected to on the ground that they permit unnecessary interference between Masters and Seamen, and we have accordingly omitted them.

10. The Bill as introduced repealed and re-enacted the Merchant Shipping Acts of 1875 and 1878. In compliance with the wishes of many persons concerned with merchant shipping, we have carried the process of consolidation somewhat further, and now propose to repeal and re-enact the unrepealed portions of the following enactments:—

Act I of 1859.
IV of 1875.
XIII of 1876.
XIII of 1878.
VII of 1880, Chapter III.

We have taken the opportunity to make a few amendments in the law so dealt with. Thus in section 13, corresponding with Act I of 1859, section 10, we have given the Local Governments power, with the previous sanction of the Government of India, to fix the fees payable by candidates for examination for certificates as masters or mates.

11. In section 14, corresponding with section 11 of the same Act, we have given Local Governments the power, conferred on the Board of Trade by section 134 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, of requiring the further examination of persons reported by the examiners to be qualified for certificates.

12. The punishment which can be awarded under section 79 of the same Act is imprisonment for two years. We have made it (section 106) fine which may extend to Rs. 1,000, or imprisonment which may extend to two years, or both.

13. The publication ordered by the Council has been made. We think that the Bill has been so altered as to require republication, and we recommend that its passing be deferred till opinions on the measure.

And each of such certificates of service shall contain particulars of the name and of the length and nature of the previous service of the person to whom it is delivered; and the Local Government or such other authority as aforesaid shall deliver such certificates of service to the various persons so respectively entitled thereto upon their proving themselves to have attained such rank or to have served as aforesaid, and upon their giving a full and satisfactory account of the particulars aforesaid.

16. No foreign-going ship or home-trade ship of a burden exceeding three hundred tons shall go to sea from any port in British India unless the master and one officer besides the master have obtained and possess valid and appropriate certificates either of competency or service under this Act or under the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854; and whoever, having been engaged to serve as master or mate, goes to sea as aforesaid as such master or mate without being at the time entitled to and possessed of such a certificate as hereinbefore required, and whoever employs any person as such master or mate without ascertaining that he is at the time entitled to and possessed of such certificate, shall for each such offence be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

17. Every certificate of competency for a foreign-going ship shall be deemed to be of a higher grade than the corresponding certificate for a home-trade ship, and shall entitle the lawful holder thereof to go to sea in the corresponding grade in such last-mentioned ship; but no certificate for a home-trade ship shall entitle the holder to go to sea as master or mate of a foreign-going ship.

Act I of 1859, s. 15. 18. All certificates, whether of competency or service, shall be made in duplicate; and one part shall be delivered to the person entitled to the certificate, and the other shall be kept and recorded as the Local Government shall direct. A note of all orders made for cancelling, suspending, altering or otherwise affecting any certificate in pursuance of the powers herein contained shall be entered in the record of certificates.

Act I of 1859, s. 16. 19. Whenever any master or mate proves to the satisfaction of the Local Government or such other authority as aforesaid that he has, without fault on his part, lost or been deprived of any certificate already granted to him, a copy of the certificate to which by the record so kept as aforesaid he appears to be entitled shall be delivered to him, and shall have all the effect of the original.

Act IV of 1875, s. 7. 20. Sections twelve to nineteen (both inclusive) shall not apply to ships registered under Act No. X of 1841 and trading between ports in British India and the coasts of Arabia, when such ships are navigated and manned exclusively by Arabs, lascars or other Asiatic masters and seamen.

CHAPTER IV.

ENGAGEMENT OF SEAMEN.

Act I of 1859, s. 18. 21. The Local Government, or any board or officer duly authorized by the Local Government in that behalf, may grant to such persons as may be deemed fit licenses to engage or supply seamen for ships, to continue for such periods, to be upon such terms and to be revocable upon such conditions as the Local Government thinks fit.

Act I of 1859, s. 19. 22. The following offences shall be punishable as hereinafter mentioned; (that is to say)—
(a) If any person not licensed as aforesaid, other than the owner or master or mate of the ship, or some person who is bona fide the servant and in the constant employ of the owner, or a shipping master duly appointed as aforesaid, engages or supplies any seaman to be entered on board any ship, he shall for each seaman so engaged or supplied be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

(b) If any person employs any unlicensed person, other than persons so excepted as aforesaid, for the purpose of engaging or supplying any seaman to be entered on board any ship, he shall for each seaman so engaged or supplied be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees, and, if licensed, shall in addition forfeit his license.

(c) If any person knowingly receives or accepts to be entered on board any ship any seaman who has been engaged or supplied contrary to the provisions of this Act, he shall for every seaman so engaged or supplied be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

23. If any person demands or receives, either directly or indirectly, from any seaman, or from any person seeking employment as a seaman, or from any person on his behalf, any remuneration whatever, other than the fees hereby authorized, for providing him with employment, he shall for every such offence be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees, and, if licensed as aforesaid, shall in addition forfeit his license.

24. The master of every ship, except ships of burden not exceeding three hundred tons employed only in the home-trade, shall enter into an agreement with every seaman whom he engages in, and carries to sea from, any port in British India as one of his crew, in the manner hereinafter mentioned.

25. Every such agreement shall be in a form sanctioned by the Governor General in Council, and shall be dated at the time of the first signature thereof, and shall be signed by the master before any seaman signs the same, and shall contain the following particulars as terms thereof, that is to say:—

(a) either the nature and, as far as practicable, the duration of the intended voyage or engagement, or the maximum period of the voyage or engagement, and the places or parts of the world, if any, to which the voyage or engagement is not to extend;

(b) the number and description of the crew, specifying how many are engaged as sailors;

(c) the time at which each seaman is to be on board or to begin work;

(d) the capacity in which each seaman is to serve;

(e) the amount of wages which each seaman is to receive;

(f) a scale of the provisions which are to be furnished to each seaman; and

(g) any regulations as to conduct on board, and as to fines, short allowance of provisions or other lawful punishments for misconduct, which have been sanctioned by the Governor General in Council as regulations proper to be adopted, and which the parties agree to adopt.

And every such agreement shall be so framed as to admit of stipulations to be adopted at the will of the master and seaman in each case (not being inconsistent with the provisions of any enactment for the time being in force relating to merchant shipping), as to advance of wages and supply of warm clothing, and may contain any other stipulations which are not contrary to law.

26. In the case of such agreements with lascars or other Native seamen, the scale of the provisions agreed to be furnished to each of such seamen shall not be less than a scale to be from time to time fixed and published by the Local Government with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council.

Any master entering into an agreement with any lascar or other Native seaman for a scale of provisions less than the scale so fixed and published shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees.

Act IV of 1875, s. 26.

27. Whenever it is agreed that the service of any lascar or other Native seaman shall end at any port not in British India, the agreement shall, in addition to the particulars specified in section twenty-five, contain a stipulation that fit employment shall be provided for him on board some other ship bound to the port at which he was shipped, or such other port in British India as may be agreed on; or that a passage shall be provided for him to some port in British India free of charge, or on such other terms as may be agreed on;

and every such stipulation shall be signed by the owner of the ship, or by the master on his behalf.

EXPLANATION.—In this section the word "seaman" includes also a Native of British India carried to sea from any port in British India as one of the crew of a ship.

28. If the master of any ship belonging to the United Kingdom or any British possession has an agreement with his crew, made in due form according to the law of the place to which such ship belongs, or in which her crew were engaged, and engages a single seaman, not being a lascar or other Native seaman, in any port in British India, such seaman may sign the agreement so made, and it shall not be necessary for him to sign an agreement under this Act.

Act IV of 1875, s. 7.

Act I of 1859, s. 22. 29. In the case of all foreign-going ships, in whatever part of Her Majesty's dominions the same are registered, the following rules shall be observed with respect to agreements; (that is to say)—

(a) Every agreement made in any port in British India (except in such cases of agreements with substitutes as are hereafter specially provided for) shall be signed by each seaman in the presence of a shipping master.

(b) Such shipping master shall cause the agreement to be read over and explained to each seaman, in a language understood by him, or shall otherwise ascertain that each seaman understands the same before he signs it, and shall attest each signature.

(c) When the crew is first engaged the agreement shall be signed in duplicate, and one part shall be retained by the shipping master, and the other part shall contain a special place or form for the descriptions and signatures of substitutes or persons engaged subsequently to the first departure of the ship, and shall be delivered to the master.

(d) In the case of substitutes engaged in the place of seamen who have duly signed the agreement and whose services are lost within twenty-four hours of the ship's putting to sea by death, desertion or other unforeseen cause, the engagement shall, when practicable, be made before some shipping master duly appointed in the manner hereinafter specified; and whenever such master mentioned engagement cannot be so made, the master shall, before the ship puts to sea, if practicable, and if not, as soon afterwards as possible, cause the agreement to be read over and explained to the seamen; and the seamen shall thereupon sign the same in the presence of a witness, who shall attest their signatures.

Act I of 1859, s. 23. 30. In the case of foreign-going ships making voyages averaging less than six months in duration, running agreements with the crew may be made to extend over two or more voyages, so that no such agreement shall extend beyond the next following thirtieth day of June or thirty-first day of December, or the first arrival of the ship at her port of destination in British India after such date, or the discharge of cargo consequent upon such arrival; and every person entering into such agreement, whether engaged upon the first commencement thereof or otherwise, shall enter into and sign the same in the manner hereby required for other foreign-going ships; and every person engaged thereunder, if discharged in any port in British India, shall be discharged in the manner hereby required for the discharge of seamen belonging to other foreign-going ships.

Act I of 1859, s. 24. 31. The master of every foreign-going ship for which such a running agreement as aforesaid is made shall, upon every return to any port in British India before the final termination of the agreement, discharge or engage before the shipping master at such port any seaman whom he is required by law so to discharge or engage; and shall upon every such return endorse on the agreement a statement (as the case may be) either that no such discharges or engagements have been made or are intended to be made before the ship again leaves port, or that all such discharges or engagements have been duly made as hereinbefore required; and shall deliver the agreement so endorsed to the shipping master. Any master who wilfully makes a false statement in such endorsement shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees. The shipping master shall also sign an endorsement on the agreement to the effect that the provisions of this Act relating to such agreement have been complied with, and shall re-deliver the agreement so endorsed to the master.

Act I of 1859, s. 25. 32. For the purpose of determining the fees to be paid upon the engagement and discharge of seamen belonging to foreign-going ships which have running agreements as aforesaid, the crew shall be considered to be engaged when the agreement is first signed, and to be discharged when the agreement finally terminates; and all intermediate engagements and discharges shall be considered to be engagements and discharges of single seamen.

Act I of 1859, s. 26. 33. In the case of home-trade ships of a burden exceeding three hundred tons, crews or single seamen may, if the master thinks fit, be engaged before a shipping master in the manner hereinbefore directed with respect to foreign-going ships; and in every case in which the engagement is not so made, the master shall, before the ship puts to sea, if practicable, and if not, as soon afterwards as possible, cause the agreement to be read over and explained to each seaman, and the seaman shall thereupon sign the same in the presence of a witness, who shall attest his signature.

Act I of 1859,
s. 27.

34. In cases where several home-trade ships belong to the same owner, the agreement with the seamen may, notwithstanding anything herein contained, be made by the owner instead of by the master, and the seamen may be engaged to serve in any two or more of such ships, provided that the names of the ships and the nature of the service are specified in the agreement; but, with the foregoing exception, all provisions herein contained which relate to ordinary agreements for home-trade ships shall be applicable to agreements made in pursuance of this section.

Act I of 1859,
s. 28.

35. If in any case a master carries any seaman to sea without entering into an agreement with him in the form and manner and at the place and time hereby in such case required, the master shall for each such offence be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

Act I of 1859,
s. 29.

36. The master of every foreign-going ship, of which the crew has been engaged before a shipping master, shall, before finally leaving British India, sign and send to the nearest shipping master a full and accurate statement, in a form sanctioned by the Governor General in Council, of every change which takes place in his crew before finally leaving British India, and in default shall for each offence be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees, and such statement shall be admissible in evidence subject to all just exceptions.

Act I of 1859,
s. 30.

37. For the purpose of preventing any seamen from being shipped at any port in British India contrary to the provisions of this Act, the shipping master by himself or his deputy may enter at any time on board any ship upon which he shall have reason to believe that seamen have been shipped, and may muster and examine the several seamen employed therein; and any person who shall obstruct the said shipping master or deputy in such duty shall be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

Act I of 1859,
s. 115.

38. When the master of a foreign ship being at any port in British India engages any lascar or other Native seaman to proceed to any port out of British India, he shall enter into an agreement with such seaman, and the agreement shall be made before a shipping master in the manner hereinbefore provided for the making of agreements in the case of foreign-going ships, and all the provisions of sections twenty-five, twenty-six, twenty-seven and twenty-nine respecting the form of such agreements and the stipulations to be contained in them and the making and signing of the same, shall be applicable to the engagement of such seaman; and the master of such foreign ship shall give to the shipping master a bond with the security of some approved person resident in British India for an amount calculated at the rate of one hundred rupees for every such seaman and conditioned for the due performance of the said agreement and stipulations.

39. The fees fixed under section eight shall be payable in respect of every such engagement, and deductions from the wages of seamen so engaged may be made to the extent and in the manner allowed by section nine.

40. If any lascar or other Native seaman is engaged by the master of any foreign ship otherwise than is allowed in the two last preceding sections, such master shall be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees for every such seaman so engaged. The shipping master, by himself or his deputy, may enter on board any foreign ship upon which he has reason to believe that any such seaman has been shipped, and the provisions of section thirty-seven shall be applicable in respect of every such ship.

41. The following rules shall be observed with respect to the production of agreements and certificates of competency or service for foreign-going ships (that is to say):—

(a) The master of every foreign-going ship shall, on signing the agreement with his crew, produce to the shipping master before whom the same is signed, the certificates of competency or service which the said master and his mate are hereby required to possess; and upon such production being duly made, and the agreement being duly executed as hereby required, the shipping master shall sign and give to the master a certificate to that effect.

(b) In the case of running agreements for foreign-going ships, the shipping master shall before the second and every subsequent voyage made after the first commencement of the agreement, sign and give to the master, on his complying with the provisions herein contained with respect to such agreements, and producing to the shipping master the certificate of competency or service of any mate then first engaged by him, a certificate to that effect.

(c) The master of every foreign-going ship shall before proceeding to sea, produce the certificate so to be given to him by the shipping master as aforesaid to the collector of customs, or, if there be no collector of customs, to the officer whose duty it is to grant a port-clearance. No officer of customs or other officer shall clear any such ship outwards without such production; and if any such ship attempts to go to sea without a clearance, any such officer may detain her until such certificate as aforesaid is produced.

(d) The master of every foreign-going ship shall, within forty-eight hours after the ship's arrival at her final port of destination in British India, or upon the discharge of the crew, whichever first happens, deliver such agreement to a shipping master at the place; and such shipping master shall thereupon give to the master a certificate of such delivery; and no officer of customs or other officer shall clear any foreign-going ship inwards without the production of such certificate.

And if the master of any foreign-going ship fails to deliver the agreement to a shipping master at the time and in the manner hereby directed, he shall for every default be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

Act I of 1859,
s. 32.

42. The following rules shall be observed with respect to the production of agreements and certificates of competency or service for home-trade ships of a burden exceeding three hundred tons; (that is to say)—

(a) No such agreement shall extend beyond the next following thirtieth day of June or thirty-first day of December, or the first arrival of the ship at her final port of destination in British India after such date, or the discharge of cargo consequent upon such arrival.

(b) The master or owner of every such ship shall, within twenty-one days after the thirtieth day of June and the thirty-first day of December in every year, or (if the ship is not at any port in British India within twenty-one days after either the thirtieth day of June or the thirty-first day of December in any year) within forty-eight hours after her next arrival at any port in British India, transmit or deliver to some shipping master in British India every agreement made within the six months next preceding such days respectively, and shall also produce to the shipping master the certificates of competency or service which the said master and his mate are hereby required to possess.

(c) The shipping master shall thereupon give to the master or owner a certificate of such delivery and production; and no officer of customs or other officer authorized to grant a port-clearance shall grant a clearance for any such ship without the production of such certificate; and if any such ship attempts to go to sea without such clearance, any such officer may detain her until the said certificate is produced.

And if the agreement for any home-trade ship is not delivered or transmitted by the master or owner to a shipping master at the time and in the manner hereby directed, such master or owner shall for every default be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

Act I of 1859,
s. 33.

43. Every erasure, interlineation, or alteration in any such agreement with seamen as is required by this Act (except additions so made as hereinbefore directed for shipping substitutes or persons engaged subsequently to the first departure of the ship) shall be wholly inoperative, unless proved to have been made with the consent of all the persons interested in such erasure, interlineation, or alteration by the written attestation (if made in Her Majesty's dominions) of some shipping master, justice, officer of customs, or other public functionary, or (if made out of Her Majesty's dominions) of a British consular officer, or where there is no such officer, of two respectable British merchants.

Act I of 1859,
s. 34.

44. The master shall, at the commencement of every voyage or engagement, be made accessible to the crew, a copy of the agreement, and, if necessary, a translation thereof in a language understood by the majority of the crew (omitting the signatures), to be placed or posted up in such part of the ship as to be accessible to the crew, and in default shall for each offence be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

Act I of 1859,
s. 35.

45. Any seaman who has signed an agreement, and is afterwards discharged before the commencement of the voyage or before one month's wages are earned, without fault on his part justifying such discharge and without his consent, shall be entitled to receive from the master or owner, in addition to any wages he may have earned, due compensation for the damage thereby caused to him, not exceeding one month's wages, and may, on adducing such evidence as the Court or Magistrate hearing the case deems satisfactory, of his having been so improperly discharged as aforesaid, recover such compensation as if it were wages duly earned.

month's wages are earned, without fault on his part justifying such discharge and without his consent, shall be entitled to receive from the master or owner, in addition to any wages he may have earned, due compensation for the damage thereby caused to him, not exceeding one month's wages, and may, on adducing such evidence as the Court or Magistrate hearing the case deems satisfactory, of his having been so improperly discharged as aforesaid, recover such compensation as if it were wages duly earned.

46. The Local Government, or such officer as it appoints in this behalf, may, by order in writing signed by its secretary or by such officer, prohibit any person from engaging in the territories subject to the said Government, or in any specified portion of such territories, any Native of India to serve as a seaman on board any ship specified in such order; but in all such cases the reasons for the prohibition shall be stated in writing.

Whoever wilfully disobeys the prohibition contained in this section shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months, or with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or with both.

CHAPTER V.

WAGES.

A.—Regulation of Advances.

47. No advance of wages shall be made or advanced-note given to any person but the seaman himself; and no advance of wages shall be made or advanced-note given for any greater sum than the amount of one month's wages, nor unless the agreement contains a stipulation for the same, and an accurate statement of the amount thereof, and no advance-note shall be given to any seaman who signs the agreement before a shipping master, unless in the presence of such shipping master.

48. If any advance of wages is made or advanced-note given to any seaman in any such manner as to constitute a breach of any of the above provisions, the wages of such seaman shall be recoverable by him as if no such advance had been made or advanced-note given, and in the case of any advance-note so given, no person shall be sued thereon under the provisions hereinafter contained unless he was in person or by his agent a party to the irregular or improper manner of giving the same.

B.—Allotment of Wages.

49. All stipulations for the allotment of any part of the wages of a seaman during his absence, which are made at the commencement of the voyage, shall be inserted in the agreement, and shall state the amounts and times of the payments to be made. All allotment-notes shall be in forms sanctioned by the Local Government, and shall be made for the benefit only of a relative of the seaman or some member of his family to be named in the note, and shall be payable to the shipping master on account of such relative of the seaman or member of his family. Such allotment shall not in any case exceed one-third of the wages of the seaman.

Act I of 1859,
s. 39.

50. The owner or any agent who has authorized the drawing of an allotment-note shall pay to the shipping master on demand the sums allotted by the note, when and as the same are made payable, unless the seaman is shown in manner hereinafter mentioned to have forfeited or ceased to be entitled to the wages out of which the allotment is to be paid; and in the event of such sums not being paid to the shipping master on demand, the shipping master may sue for and recover them with costs. The seaman shall be presumed to be duly earning his wages, unless the contrary is shown to the satisfaction of the Court or Magistrate, either by the official statement of the change in the crew caused by his absence made and signed by the master, as by this Act is required, or by a duly certified copy of some entry in the official log-book, to the effect that he has died or left the ship, or by a credible letter from the master of the ship to the same effect, or by such other evidence, of whatever description, as the Court or Magistrate trying the case considers sufficient to show satisfactorily that the seaman has ceased to be entitled to the wages out of which the allotment is to be paid.

contrary is shown to the satisfaction of the Court or Magistrate, either by the official statement of the change in the crew caused by his absence made and signed by the master, as by this Act is required, or by a duly certified copy of some entry in the official log-book, to the effect that he has died or left the ship, or by a credible letter from the master of the ship to the same effect, or by such other evidence, of whatever description, as the Court or Magistrate trying the case considers sufficient to show satisfactorily that the seaman has ceased to be entitled to the wages out of which the allotment is to be paid.

Act I of 1859,
s. 40.

51. The shipping master, on receiving any such sum as aforesaid, shall pay it over to the person named in the allotment-note. All such receipts and payments shall be entered in a book, and all entries in the said book shall be authenticated by the signature of the shipping master or his deputy; and the said book shall be at all times open to the inspection of the parties concerned.

C.—Discharge and Payment of Wages.

Act I of 1859,
s. 41.

52. All seamen discharged from any foreign-going ship at any port in British India in whatever part of Her Majesty's dominions the ship is registered, shall be discharged and receive their wages in the presence of a shipping master duly appointed under this Act, except in cases where some competent Court otherwise directs; and any master or owner of any such ship who discharges any seaman belonging thereto, or, except as aforesaid, pays his wages in any other manner, shall be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees; and in the case of home-trade ships of a burden exceeding three hundred tons, seamen may, if the owner or master so desires, be discharged and receive their wages in like manner.

Act I of 1859,

53. Every master shall, not less than twenty-four hours before paying off or discharging any seaman, deliver to him, or, if he is to be discharged before a shipping master, to such shipping master, a full and true account, in a form sanctioned by the Local Government, of his wages and of all deductions to be made therefrom on any account whatever, and in default shall for each offence be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees. No deduction from the wages of any seamen (except in respect of any matter happening after such delivery) shall be allowed unless it is included in the account so delivered; and the master shall during the voyage enter the various matters in respect of which such deductions are made, with the amounts of the respective deductions as they occur, in a book to be kept for that purpose, and shall, if required, produce such book at the time of the payment of wages and also upon the hearing before any competent authority of any complaint or question relating to such payments.

54. Upon the discharge of any seaman or upon payment of his wages, the master shall sign and give him a certificate of his discharge, in a form sanctioned by the Local Government, specifying the period of his service and the time and place of his discharge; and if any master fails to sign and give to any such seaman such certificate of discharge, he shall for each such offence be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees; and the master shall also upon the discharge of every certificated mate, whose certificate of competency or service has been delivered to and retained by him, return such certificate, and shall in default be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees.

On discharge, masters to give seamen certificates of discharge, and return certificates of competency or service to mates.

55. Every shipping master shall hear and decide any question whatever between a master or owner and any of his crew which both parties agree in writing to submit to him; and every award so made by him shall be binding on both parties, and shall in any legal proceeding which may be taken in the matter before any Court or Magistrate, be deemed to be conclusive as to the rights of the parties; and any document purporting to be such submission or award shall be prima facie evidence thereof.

Shipping master may decide questions which parties refer to him.

56. In any proceeding relating to the wages, claims, or discharge of any seaman carried on before any shipping master under the provisions of this Act, such shipping master may call upon the owner or his agent, or upon the master or any mate or other member of the crew, to produce any log-books, papers, or other documents in their respective possession or power relating to any matter in question in such proceeding, and may call before him and examine any of such persons being then at or near the place on any such matter.

An award made by a shipping master under this section may be enforced by a Magistrate in the same manner as an order for the payment of wages made by such Magistrate under the provision of section sixty-seven.

Master and others to produce ship's papers to shipping masters, and give evidence.

57. The following rules shall be observed with respect to the settlement of wages; (that is to say)—
(a) Upon the completion before a shipping master of any discharge and settlement, the master or owner and each seaman shall respectively, in the presence of the shipping master, sign, in a form sanctioned by the Local Government, a mutual release of all claims in respect of the past voyage or engagement, and the shipping master shall also sign and attest the release and shall retain the same.
(b) Such release so signed and attested shall operate as a mutual discharge and settlement of all demands between the parties thereto in respect of the past voyage or engagement.
(c) A copy of such release, certified under the hand of such shipping master to be a true copy, shall be given by him to any party thereto requiring the same, and such copy shall be receivable in evidence upon any future question touching such claims as aforesaid, and shall have all the effect of the original of which it purports to be a copy.
(d) In cases in which discharge and settlement No other receipt to be before a shipping master are hereby required, no payment, receipt, settlement, or discharge otherwise made shall operate or be admitted as evidence of the release or satisfaction of any claim.
(e) Upon any payment being made by a master before a shipping master, the shipping master shall, if required, sign and give to such master a statement of the whole amount so paid, and such statement shall, as between the master and his employer, be received as evidence that he has made the payments therein mentioned.

Every owner, agent, master, mate or other member of the crew who, when called upon by the shipping master, does not produce any such paper or document as aforesaid if in his possession or power, or does not appear and give evidence, shall, unless he shows some reasonable excuse for such default, for each such offence be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

Act I of 1859,
s. 43.

57. The following rules shall be observed with respect to the settlement of wages; (that is to say)—

(a) Upon the completion before a shipping master of any discharge and settlement, the master or owner and each seaman shall respectively, in the presence of the shipping master, sign, in a form sanctioned by the Local Government, a mutual release of all claims in respect of the past voyage or engagement, and the shipping master shall also sign and attest the release and shall retain the same.

(b) Such release so signed and attested shall operate as a mutual discharge and settlement of all demands between the parties thereto in respect of the past voyage or engagement.

(c) A copy of such release, certified under the hand of such shipping master to be a true copy, shall be given by him to any party thereto requiring the same, and such copy shall be receivable in evidence upon any future question touching such claims as aforesaid, and shall have all the effect of the original of which it purports to be a copy.

(d) In cases in which discharge and settlement No other receipt to be before a shipping master are hereby required, no payment, receipt, settlement, or discharge otherwise made shall operate or be admitted as evidence of the release or satisfaction of any claim.

(e) Upon any payment being made by a master before a shipping master, the shipping master shall, if required, sign and give to such master a statement of the whole amount so paid, and such statement shall, as between the master and his employer, be received as evidence that he has made the payments therein mentioned.

1878, s. 4.

58. No seaman or apprentice not shipped in British India shall be discharged without the previous sanction in writing of such officer as the Local Government appoints in this behalf, and such sanction shall be given or withheld at the discretion of the officer so appointed; but whenever it is withheld, the reasons for so withholding it shall be recorded by him in writing.

Any person discharging a seaman or apprentice in wilful disobedience to the prohibition contained in this section, shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months, or with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or with both.

D.—Legal Right to Wages.

Act I of 1859,
s. 47.

59. A seaman's right to wages and provisions shall be taken to commence either at the time at which he commences work, or at the time specified in the agreement for his commencement of work or presence on board, whichever first happens.

Act I of 1859,

60. No seaman shall by any agreement forfeit his lien upon the ship or be deprived of any remedy for the recovery of his wages to which he would otherwise have been entitled; and every stipulation in any agreement inconsistent with any provision of this Act, and every stipulation by which any seaman consents to abandon his rights to wages in the case of the loss of the ship or to abandon any right which he may have or obtain in the nature of salvage, shall be wholly inoperative.

61. 63. In cases where the service of any seaman terminates before the period contemplated in the agreement by reason of the wreck or loss of the ship, and also in cases where such service terminates before such period as aforesaid by reason of his being left on shore at any place abroad under a certificate of his unfitness or inability to proceed on the voyage granted under the provisions of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, such seaman shall be entitled to wages for the time of service prior to such termination as aforesaid, but not for any further period.

In case of death, such wages to be paid as after mentioned.

Act I of 1859, s. 57. 69. No suit or proceeding for the recovery of wages under the sum of five hundred rupees shall be instituted by or on behalf of any seaman or apprentice in any Court of Admiralty or Vice-Admiralty or in any Court of civil judicature other than the Court of Small Causes, where such Court exists, unless the owner of the ship is adjudged bankrupt or declared insolvent, or unless the ship is under arrest or is sold by the authority of any such Court, or unless the Magistrate, acting under the authority of this Act, refers the case to be adjudged by such Court.

CHAPTER VI.

WAGES AND EFFECTS OF DECEASED SEAMEN.

72. Whenever a seaman or apprentice, on a voyage which is to terminate at any port in British India, dies during such voyage, the master shall take charge of all money, clothes and effects which he leaves on board, and shall enter in the official log-book a statement of the amount of money and a description of the effects left by the deceased, and in case of a sale of such effects, the sum received for each article sold.

73. The master shall, within forty-eight hours after his arrival at his port of destination in British India, deliver any such effects as aforesaid, and pay any money which he has taken charge of or received, and also the wages due to deceased, to the shipping master at such port, and shall give to such shipping master an account of the effects, money, and wages so to be delivered and paid; and no deductions claimed in such accounts shall be allowed unless verified, if there is an official log-book, by the entry therein hereinbefore required, and also by such other vouchers (if any) as may be reasonably required by the shipping master to whom the account is rendered.

74. If the master fails to take such charge of the money or other effects of a seaman or apprentice dying during a voyage, or to make such entries in respect thereof, or to make such payment or delivery, or to give such account as hereinbefore respectively directed, he shall be accountable for the money, wages, and effects of the seaman or apprentice to the shipping master as aforesaid, and shall pay and deliver the same accordingly; and such master shall in addition be punished with fine which may extend to treble the value of the money or effects, or if such value is not ascertained, to five hundred rupees.

All money, wages and effects of any seaman or apprentice dying during a voyage shall be recoverable in the same Courts and by the same modes of proceeding by which seamen are hereby enabled to recover wages due to them.

75. When money or effects left by or due to any deceased seaman or apprentice, are paid or delivered to a shipping master, then, subject to such deductions for expenses incurred in respect of the seaman or apprentice or of his said money and effects as the shipping master thinks proper to allow, the shipping master may pay and deliver the said money and effects to any claimants who can prove themselves to the satisfaction of the said shipping master to be entitled thereto, and the said shipping master shall be thereby discharged from all further liability in respect of the money and effects so paid and delivered; or if he think fit so to do the shipping master may require probate or letters of administration or a certificate under Act XXVII of 1860 (for facilitating the collection of debts on successions, and for the security of parties paying debts to the representatives of deceased persons) to be taken out, and thereupon pay and deliver the said money and effects to the legal representative of the deceased.

Act I of 1859, s. 63.

76. In cases of wages or effects of deceased seamen or apprentices received by any shipping master to which no claim is substantiated within one year from the receipt thereof by such shipping master, it shall be the duty of the shipping master to cause such effects to be sold and to pay the proceeds of the sale and the unclaimed wages into the public treasury. If any subsequent claim is made to such money and is established to the satisfaction of the shipping-master, the amount or so much as shall appear to be due to the claimant, shall be paid out of the public treasury. If the claim is not established to the satisfaction of the shipping master, the claimant may apply by petition to the High Court, and such Court, after taking evidence, either orally or on affidavit, shall make such order on the petition as seems just: Provided that, after the expiration of six years from the receipt of such wages or effects by the shipping master, no such claim shall be entertained without the sanction of the Local Government.

CHAPTER VII.

PROVISIONS, HEALTH AND ACCOMMODATION.

Act I of 1859, s. 64.

77. Any three or more of the crew of any ship registered at, trading with, or being at any port or place in British India, may complain to any shipping master or other officer duly appointed in this behalf by the Local Government that the provisions or water for the use of the crew are at any time of bad quality, unfit for use, or deficient in quantity. Such officer may thereupon examine the said provisions or water, or cause them to be examined; and if, on examination, such provisions or water are found to be of bad quality and unfit for use, or to be deficient in quantity, the person making such examination shall signify the same in writing to the master of the ship.

If such master does not thereupon provide other proper provisions or water in lieu of any so signified to be of a bad quality and unfit for use, or does not procure the requisite quantity of any so signified to be insufficient in quantity, or uses any provisions or water which have been so signified as aforesaid to be of a bad quality and unfit for use, he shall in every such case be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees.

Upon every such examination as aforesaid, the officers making or directing the same shall enter a statement of the result of the examination in the official log, and shall send a report thereof to the shipping-master, and such report, if produced out of the custody of such shipping master, shall be received in evidence in any legal proceeding.

78. If the officer to whom any such complaint as last aforesaid is made, certifies in such statement as aforesaid that there was no reasonable ground for such complaint, each of the parties so complaining shall be liable to forfeit to the owner out of his wages a sum not exceeding one week's wages.

79. In the following cases (that is to say):—

(a) if during a voyage the allowance of any of the provisions which any seaman has by his agreement stipulated for, is reduced (except in accordance with any regulations for reduction by way of punishment contained in the agreement, and also except for any time during which such seaman wilfully and without sufficient cause refuses or neglects to perform his duty or is lawfully under confinement for misconduct, either on board or on shore),

(b) if it is shown that any of such provisions are or have during the voyage been bad in quality and unfit for use, the seaman shall receive by way of compensation for such reduction or bad quality, according to the time of its continuance, the following sums, to be paid to him in addition to and to be recoverable as wages (that is to say):—

(1) If his allowance is reduced by any quantity not exceeding one-third of the quantity specified in the agreement, a sum not exceeding three annas in the case of a European seaman or other person shipped on the same footing as a European seaman, or one anna in the case of a lascar or Native seaman:

(2) If his allowance is reduced by more than one-third of such quantity, six annas in the case of a European seaman or other person shipped on the same footing as a European seaman, or two annas in the case of a lascar or Native seaman:

(3) In respect of such bad quality as aforesaid, a sum not exceeding eight annas in the case of a European seaman or other person shipped on the same footing as a European seaman, or three annas in the case of a lascar or Native seaman.

But if it is shown to the satisfaction of the Court or Magistrate trying the case, that any provisions, the allowance of which has been reduced, could not be procured or supplied in proper quantities, and that proper and equivalent substitutes were supplied in lieu thereof, such Court or Magistrate shall take such circumstances into consideration and shall modify or refuse compensation as the justice of the case may require.

80. All foreign-going ships and all home-trade ships of a burden exceeding three hundred tons shall have always on board a sufficient supply of medicines and appliances, suitable for diseases and accidents likely to happen on sea voyages, according to such scale as shall be from time to time issued by the Local Government with the approval of the Governor General in Council, and published at Calcutta, Madras and Bombay in the local official Gazettes, and in default thereof, the owner or master of every such ship shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees: Provided, however, that this section shall not apply to ships navigating from the United Kingdom and coming within the provisions of section 224 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854.

Act I of 1859, s. 68. 81. Every master shall keep on board proper weights and measures for the purposes of determining the quantities of the several provisions and articles served out, and shall allow the same to be used at the time of serving out such provisions and articles in the presence of a witness whenever any dispute arises about such quantities, and in default shall for every offence be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

Act I of 1859, s. 69. 82. Whenever the master or any seaman of any ship registered at any place in British India shall receive any hurt or injury in the service of the ship, the expense of providing the necessary surgical and medical advice and attendance with medicines, and of his subsistence, until he shall be cured or shall be brought back to the port from which he was shipped or other port agreed upon, shall be defrayed, with the cost of his conveyance to such port, by the owner of the ship, without any deduction on that account from the wages of such master, officer, or seaman; and if paid by himself, may be recovered as part of his wages; and if paid or allowed out of any monies forming part of the revenues of British India, shall be a charge upon the ship, and may be recovered with full costs of suit by the Secretary of State for India in Council.

Act I of 1859, s. 70. 83. A place or places of shelter shall be provided below a well caulked and substantial deck for the men engaged under this Act; such place or places shall be so arranged as to allow for the men the following spaces:—

(a). For each European seaman or apprentice or other person shipped on the same footing as a European seaman, ten superficial feet if the place be not less than six feet in height from deck to deck; or sixty cubic feet if the height from deck to deck be less than six feet.

(b). For each lascar or Native seaman or other person shipped on the same footing as a lascar, six superficial and thirty-six cubic feet; and if the place allotted be under the top-gallant fore-castle, such fore-castle deck shall be not less than four feet six inches above the one below it.

Every such place shall be kept free from stores or goods of any kind, not being the personal property of the crew in use during the voyage; and if any such place in any ship is not in the whole sufficiently large to give such space for each seaman and apprentice as hereinbefore required, or is not properly caulked and in all other respects securely and properly constructed and well ventilated, the owner shall, for every such failure to comply with the provisions of this section, be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees; and if any such space as aforesaid is not kept free from goods and stores as aforesaid, the master shall, for every such failure to comply with the provisions of this section, be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

84. The shipping-master at any port in British India, by himself or his deputy, may enter at any time on board of any ship upon which seamen have been shipped at such port, and inspect the provisions and water provided for the use of the crew, and the medicines and appliances and the accommodation for seamen prescribed by this Act or by the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854. Procedure if provisions, &c., are found to be bad. If on inspection the provisions or water are found to be of bad quality and unfit for use or to be deficient in quantity, the shipping-master shall proceed as provided in section seventy-seven, and the penalty prescribed in the said section shall be incurred by any default of the master of the ship in respect of such provisions or water.

CHAPTER VIII.

POWER TO MAKE COMPLAINTS.

85. If any seaman or apprentice, whilst on board any ship, states to the master that he desires to make complaint to a Magistrate against the master or any of the crew, the said master shall, if the ship is then at a place where there is a Magistrate, so soon as the service of the ship will permit, and if the ship is not then at such a place, so soon after her first arrival at such a place as the service of the ship will permit, allow such seaman to go ashore, or send him ashore in proper custody, so that he may be enabled to make such complaint, and shall, in default, be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

CHAPTER IX.

PROTECTION OF SEAMEN FROM IMPOSITION.

86. No wages due or accruing to any seaman or apprentice shall be subject to attachment from any Court; and every payment of wages to a seaman shall be valid in law, notwithstanding any previous sale or assignment of such wages or of any incumbrance thereon; and no assignment or sale of such wages, or of salvage made prior to the accruing thereof, shall bind the party making the same; and no power-of-attorney or authority for the receipt of any such wages or salvage shall be irrevocable.

87. No debt exceeding in amount three rupees incurred by any seaman after he has engaged to serve, shall be recoverable until the service agreed for is concluded.

88. If any person demands or receives from any seaman or apprentice payment in respect of his board or lodging in the house of such person for a longer period than such seaman or apprentice has actually resided or boarded therein, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

Act I of 1859, s. 76. 89. If any person receives or takes into his possession or under his control any monies, documents, or effects of any seaman or apprentice, and does not return the same or pay the value thereof when required by such seaman or apprentice, subject to such deduction as may be justly due to him from such seaman or apprentice in respect of board or lodging or otherwise, or absconds therewith, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees; and any Magistrate may, besides inflicting such penalty by summary order, direct the amount or value of such monies, documents or effects, subject to such deduction as aforesaid, to be forthwith paid to such seaman or apprentice.

Act I of 1859, s. 77. 90. Every person who, not being in the service of Her Majesty and not being duly authorized by law for the purpose, goes on board any ship about to arrive at the place of her destination before her actual arrival at the place of her discharge, without the permission of the master, shall for every such offence be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees; and the master or person in charge of such ship may take any such person so going on board as aforesaid into custody, and deliver him up forthwith to any Police-officer, to be by him taken before a Magistrate to be dealt with according to the provisions of this Act.

Act I of 1859, s. 78. 91. If, within twenty-four hours after the arrival of any ship at any port in British India, any person then being on board such ship solicits any seaman to become a lodger at the house of any person letting lodgings for hire, or takes out of such ship any effects of any seaman, except under his personal direction and with the permission of the master, he shall for every such offence be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

CHAPTER X.

DISTRESSED SEAMEN.

Act VII of 1880, s. 54. 92. Nothing in this chapter applies to seamen or apprentices to whom the provisions of section 211 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, or of section 16 of the Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1855, apply.

In this chapter "local authority" means such person as the Local Government may from time to time, subject to the control of the Governor General in Council, appoint by name or in virtue of his office to exercise the powers conferred, and to perform the duties imposed, on the local authority under this chapter.

Every person so appointed may be suspended or dismissed by the Local Government which appointed him.

Act VII of 1880, s. 55. 93. The local authority may, subject to the rules hereinafter mentioned, provide for the subsistence—

(a) of all seamen and apprentices, being Native Indian subjects of Her Majesty, who have been shipwrecked, discharged or left behind at any place in British India, whether from any British ship employed in the merchant-service, or from any

Her Majesty's ships, or who have been engaged by any person acting either as principal or agent to serve in any ship belonging to any foreign power, or to the subject of any foreign State, and who are in distress in any such place; and

(b) of all seamen and apprentices not being Native Indian subjects who have been shipwrecked, discharged or left behind at any place in British India from any British ship registered in British India and who are in distress in any such place, until such time as such authority is able to provide them with a passage as hereinafter provided.

Act VII of 1880, s. 56. 94. Subject as aforesaid, the local authority may cause such seamen or apprentices to be put on board some ship belonging to any subject of Her Majesty which is in want of men to make up its complement, and is bound—

(a) in the case of seamen or apprentices who are Native Indian subjects of Her Majesty, to their home or to a port in British India near their home;

(b) in the case of other British seamen or apprentices, to any port in the United Kingdom or the British possession to which they belong (as the case requires); and

(c) in the case of seamen or apprentices not being subjects of Her Majesty, to such place as the local authority, subject to the control of the Governor General in Council, may in each case determine.

Act VII of 1880, s. 57. 95. In default of any such ship, the local authority may, subject as aforesaid, provide such seamen or apprentices with a passage in any ship (whether British or foreign) bound as aforesaid.

Act VII of 1880, s. 58. 96. The local authority shall indorse on the agreement of any British ship on board of which any seaman or apprentice is sent under section ninety-four or section ninety-five, the name of every person so sent on board thereof, with such particulars concerning the case as the Governor General in Council may from time to time by rule prescribe.

Act VII of 1880, s. 59. 97. The master of every British ship bound as aforesaid shall receive and afford a passage and subsistence to all seamen and apprentices whom he is required to take on board his ship under the provisions of section ninety-four or section ninety-five, not exceeding one for every fifty tons burden, and shall, during the passage, provide every such seaman or apprentice with a proper berth or sleeping-place effectually protected against sea and weather.

Act VII of 1880, s. 6. 98. If the master of any such ship fails or refuses to receive on board his ship, or to give a passage or subsistence to, or to provide for, any such seaman or apprentice contrary to the provisions of section ninety-seven, he shall, for each seaman and apprentice with respect to whom he so fails or refuses, be punished with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or, when he is tried at any place beyond the limits of British India, to the equivalent of one thousand rupees in the currency of such place.

Every offence punishable under this section may be tried in any district or Presidency-town in which the offender is found, as well as in any district or Presidency-town in which it might be tried under the law relating to criminal procedure for the time being in force.

99. When any master of a British ship has conveyed a seaman or apprentice in excess of the number (if any) wanted to make up the complement of his crew to any place in accordance with the requisition of a local authority under this chapter, such master shall be entitled to be paid by the Secretary of State for India in Council in respect of the subsistence and passage of such seaman or apprentice such sum per diem as the Governor General in Council from time to time appoints:

Provided that no payment shall be made under this section except on the production of the following documents (that is to say):—

(a) a certificate signed by the local authority by whose direction such seaman or apprentice was received on board, specifying the name of such seaman or apprentice, and the time when he was received on board; and

(b) a declaration in writing by such master made and verified in manner hereinafter provided, and stating—

(1) the number of days during which such seaman or apprentice received subsistence and was provided for as aforesaid on board his ship;

(2) the number of men and boys forming the complement of his crew;

(3) the number of seamen and apprentices employed on board his ship during the time such seaman or apprentice was on board; and

(4) every variation (if any) of such number.

Act VII of 1880, s. 62.

100. (a) If any seaman or apprentice, being a Native Indian subject of Her Majesty and belonging to any British ship, is discharged or left behind at any place in British India without full compliance on the part of the master with all the provisions in that behalf of the law for the time being in force, and becomes distressed and is relieved under the provisions of this chapter; or the wages (if any) due to such seaman or apprentice, and all expenses incurred for his subsistence, necessary clothing, conveyance home, and, in case he should die before reaching home, for his burial, shall be a charge upon the ship, whether British or foreign, to which he so belonged as aforesaid.

(b) if any such seaman or apprentice, after having been engaged by any person (whether acting as principal or agent) to serve in any ship belonging to any foreign power or to the subject of any foreign power, becomes distressed and is relieved as aforesaid; or

101. All such wages and expenses shall be recoverable with costs either from the master of such ship or from the person who is owner thereof for the time being, or in the case of an engagement for service in a foreign ship, from such master or owner, or from the person by whom such engagement was so made, in the same manner as other debts due to the Secretary of State for India in Council, or in the same manner and by the same form and process in which wages due to the seaman or apprentice would be recoverable by him.

102. The Local Government may from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, authorize, either generally or specially, such persons as it thinks fit to sue for any such wages and expenses and recover the same.

And every person so authorized shall be entitled to sue and recover accordingly, and shall be deemed to be a person filling a public office within the meaning of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, section 57, clause (7).

103. When any such wages and expenses are due to or in respect of a seaman or apprentice mentioned in section one hundred, clause (c), they may, instead of being recovered by a person authorized under section one hundred and two, be recovered by the Board of Trade in manner provided by the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, section 213, and when so recovered shall be paid by the said Board to the Secretary of State for India in Council.

104. In all proceedings under this chapter, whether in British India or elsewhere, the production of a certificate signed by the local authority by which any seaman or apprentice named therein was relieved, or any expenses were incurred, under this chapter, to the effect that such seaman or apprentice was in distress, and that such expenses were incurred in respect of such seaman or apprentice, shall be sufficient evidence that he was relieved, conveyed home or buried (as the case may be) at the expense of the revenues of British India.

105. The Governor General in Council may, from time to time, make rules to determine under what circumstances and subject to what conditions seamen or apprentices may be relieved and provided with passages under this chapter, and generally to carry out the provisions of this chapter.

All such rules shall be published in the Gazette of India, and shall thereupon have the force of law.

CHAPTER XI.

DISCIPLINE.

Act I of 1859, s. 79. 106. Any master of, or any seaman or apprentice belonging to, any ship registered at, trading with, or being at, any port or place in British India who, by wilful breach of duty, or by neglect of duty, or by reason of drunkenness, does any act tending to the immediate loss, destruction, or serious damage of such ship, or tending immediately to endanger the life or limb of any person belonging to or on board of such ship, or who by wilful breach of duty, or by neglect of duty, or by reason of drunkenness, refuses or omits to do any lawful act proper and requisite to be done by him for preserving such ship from immediate loss, destruction, or serious damage, or for preserving any person belonging to or on board of such ship from immediate danger to life or limb, shall for every such offence be punished with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or with imprisonment for a term which may extend to two years, or with both.

Act I of 1859, s. 80. 107. Any Court having admiralty jurisdiction in British India may, upon application by the owner of any ship being within the jurisdiction of such Court, or by the part-owner or consignee, or by the agent of the owner, or by any certificated mate, or by one-third or more of the crew, of such ship, and upon proof on oath to the satisfaction of such Court that the removal of the master of such ship is necessary, remove him accordingly; and may also, with the consent of the owner or his agent, or the consignee of the ship, or if there is no owner or agent of the owner or consignee of the ship within the jurisdiction of the Court, then, without such consent, appoint a new master in his stead, and may also make such order and may require such security in respect of costs in the matter as it thinks fit.

Act IV of 1875, s. 23, para. 2. The powers conferred by this section may, at any port in British India where there is no Court having admiralty jurisdiction, be exercised by the principal Court of ordinary criminal jurisdiction at such port.

Act I of 1859, s. 83. 108. Whenever any seaman who has been lawfully engaged, or any apprentice to the sea-service, commits any of the following offences, he shall be punished summarily as follows; (that is to say)—

(a) For desertion he shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to twelve weeks, and shall also be liable to forfeit all or any part of the clothes and effects he leaves on board, and all or any part of the wages or emoluments which he has then earned, and also, if such desertion takes place at any port or place not in British India, at the discretion of the Court, to forfeit all or any part of the wages or emoluments he may earn in any other ship in which he may be employed until his next return to any port or place in British India, and to satisfy any excess of wages paid by the master or owner of the ship from which he deserts, to any substitute engaged in his place at a higher rate of wages than the rate stipulated to be paid to him.

(b) For neglecting or refusing, without reasonable cause, to join his ship or to proceed to sea in his ship, or for absence without leave at any time within twenty-four hours of the ship's sailing from any port, either at the commencement or during the progress of any voyage, or for absence at any time without leave and without sufficient reason from his ship or from his duty not amounting to desertion or not treated as such by the master, he shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to ten weeks, and shall also, at the discretion of the Court, be liable to forfeit out of his wages a sum not exceeding the amount of two days' pay, and in addition for every twenty-four hours of absence either a sum not exceeding six days' pay, or any expenses which have been properly incurred in hiring a substitute.

(c) For quitting the ship without leave after her arrival at her port of delivery and before she is placed in security, he shall be liable to forfeit out of his wages a sum not exceeding one month's pay.

(d) For wilful disobedience to any lawful command he shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to four weeks, and shall also be liable, at the discretion of the Court, to forfeit out of his wages a sum not exceeding two days' pay.

(e) For continued wilful disobedience to lawful commands, or continued wilful neglect of duty, he shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to twelve weeks, and shall also be liable, at the discretion of the Court, to forfeit for every twenty-four hours' continuance of such disobedience or neglect, either a sum not exceeding six days' pay, or any expenses which have been properly incurred in hiring a substitute.

(f) For assaulting any master or mate he shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to twelve weeks.

(g) For combining with any other or others of the crew to disobey lawful commands, or to neglect duty, or to impede the navigation of the ship or the progress of the voyage, he shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to twelve weeks.

(h) For wilfully damaging the ship, or embezzling or wilfully damaging any of her stores or cargo, he shall be liable to forfeit out of his wages a sum equal in amount to the loss thereby sustained, and also, at the discretion of the Court, to imprisonment for a term which may extend to twelve weeks.

(i) For any act of smuggling of which he is convicted, and whereby loss or damage is occasioned to the master or owner, he shall be liable to pay to such master or owner such a sum as is sufficient to reimburse the master or owner for such loss or damage; and the whole or a proportionate part of his wages may be retained in satisfaction or on account of such liability, without prejudice to any further remedy.

Act I of 1859,

109. Upon the commission of any of the offences enumerated in the last preceding section, an entry thereof shall be made in the official log-book, and shall be signed by the master and also by the mate or one of the crew. The offender, if still in the ship, shall, before the next subsequent arrival of the ship at any port, or if she is at the time in port before her departure therefrom, either be furnished with a copy of such entry or have the same read over distinctly and audibly to him, and may thereupon make such reply thereto as he thinks fit. A statement that a copy of the said entry has been so furnished, or that the same has been so read over as aforesaid, and the reply (if any) made by the offender shall likewise be entered and signed in manner aforesaid. In any subsequent legal proceeding, the entries hereinbefore required shall, if practicable, be produced or proved, and in default of such production or proof, the Court hearing the case may, at its discretion, refuse to receive evidence of the offence.

Act I of 1859,
s. 85.

110. Every seafaring person whom the master of any ship is, under the authority of this Act or any law, compelled to take on board and convey, and every person who goes to sea in any ship without the consent of the master or owner or other person entitled to give such consent, shall, so long as he remains in such ship, be subject to the same laws and regulations for preserving discipline, and to the same penalties and punishments for offences constituting or tending to a breach of discipline, to which he would be subject if he were a member of the crew and had signed the agreement.

Act I of 1859,
s. 86.

111. Whenever, either at the commencement or during the progress of any voyage, any seaman or apprentice neglects or refuses to join, or deserts from, or refuses to proceed to sea in, any ship in which he is duly engaged to serve, or is found otherwise absented himself therefrom without leave, the master or any mate, or the owner, ship's husband, or consignee, may, with or without the assistance of Police-officers who are hereby directed to give the same if required, apprehend him without first procuring a warrant; and thereupon in any case, and shall, in case he so requires and it is practicable, convey him before some Court capable of taking cognizance of the matter, to be dealt with according to law; and may, for the purpose of conveying him before such Court, detain him in custody for a period not exceeding twenty-four hours or such shorter time as may be necessary, or may, if he does not so require, or if there is no such Court at or near the place, at once convey him on board.

If any such apprehension appears to the Court before which the case is brought to have been made on improper or on insufficient grounds, the master, mate, owner, ship's husband or consignee, who makes the same or causes the same to be made, shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees; but such fine, if inflicted, shall be a bar to any action for false imprisonment in respect of such apprehension.

112. Whenever any seaman or apprentice is brought before any Court on the ground of his having neglected or refused to join or to proceed to sea in any ship in which he is engaged to serve, or of having deserted or otherwise absented himself therefrom without leave, such Court may, if the master or the owner or his agent so requires, instead of committing the offender to prison, cause him to be conveyed on board for the purpose of proceeding on the voyage, or deliver him to the master or any mate of the ship, or the owner or his agent, to be by them so conveyed, and may in such case order any costs and expenses properly incurred by or on behalf of the master or owner by reason of the offence, to be paid by the offender, and if necessary to be deducted from any wages which he has then earned, or which by virtue of his then existing engagement he may afterwards earn.

113. Whenever any seaman or apprentice not shipped in British India deserts or otherwise absents himself without leave from any ship in which he is engaged to serve, the master of the ship shall, within forty-eight hours of discovering such desertion or absence, report the same to such officer as the Local Government appoints in this behalf, unless in the meantime the deserter or absentee returns.

Any master wilfully neglecting to comply with the provisions of this section shall be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees, or with imprisonment for a term which may extend to one month, or with both.

114. If any seaman or apprentice is imprisoned on the ground of his having neglected or refused to join, or to proceed to sea in, any ship in which he is engaged to serve, or of having deserted or otherwise absented himself therefrom without leave, or of his having committed any other breach of discipline, and if during such imprisonment and before his engagement is at an end his services are required on board his ship, any Magistrate may, at the request of the master or of the owner or his agent, cause such seaman or apprentice to be conveyed on board his said ship for the purpose of proceeding on the voyage, or to be delivered to the master or any mate of the ship or to the owner or his agent, to be by them so conveyed notwithstanding that the termination of the period for which he was sentenced to imprisonment has not arrived.

115. If any seaman or apprentice not shipped in British India is imprisoned for any offence for which he has been sentenced to imprisonment for a term not exceeding one month, any Magistrate may deal with him in the same way as he may deal with a seaman or apprentice imprisoned on any of the grounds mentioned in section one hundred and fourteen.

116. If any seaman or apprentice not shipped in British India is imprisoned on a complaint made by or on behalf of the master or owner of the ship in which he is engaged to serve, on any of the grounds mentioned in section one hundred and fourteen or for any offence for which he has been sentenced to imprisonment for a term not exceeding one month, the following rules shall be observed:—

(a) No person shall, while such imprisonment lasts, without the previous sanction in writing of the Local Government or of such officer as it appoints in this behalf, engage any Native of India to serve as a seaman on board such ship;

(b) the Local Government, or such officer as it appoints in this behalf, may tender such seaman or apprentice to the master or owner of the ship in which he is engaged to serve, and if such master or owner, without assigning reasons satisfactory to the Local Government or to such officer as aforesaid, refuse to receive him on board, may require such master or owner to deposit in the local shipping office (1) the wages due to such seaman or apprentice, and his money, clothes and other effects, and (2) such sum as may in the opinion of the Local Government or of such officer as aforesaid be sufficient to defray the cost of the passage of the said seaman or apprentice to the port at which he was shipped, according to the scale of cost usual in the case of distressed seamen.

Whoever wilfully disobeys the prohibition contained in clause (a) of this section shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months, or with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or with both.

Any master or owner refusing or neglecting to deposit such wages, money, clothes and other effects, or such sum as aforesaid, shall be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, and in default of payment of such fine, with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months.

117. In all cases of desertion from any ship registered at a port or place in British India while such ship is at any place out of British India, the master shall produce the entry of such desertion in the official log-book to the person or persons required by the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, to endorse on the agreement a certificate of such desertion; and such person or persons shall thereupon make and certify a copy of such entry and also a copy of the said certificate of desertion. The master shall forthwith transmit such copies to the shipping master at the port where such seaman was engaged, who shall, if required, cause the same to be produced in any legal proceeding; and such copies, if purporting to be so made and certified as aforesaid, shall in any legal proceeding relating to such desertion be received as evidence of the entries therein appearing.

118. Whenever a question arises whether the wages of any seaman or apprentice are forfeited for desertion, it shall be sufficient for the party insisting on the forfeiture to show that such seaman or apprentice was duly engaged in, or that he belonged to, the ship from which he is alleged to have deserted, and that he quitted such ship before the completion of the voyage or engagement, or if such voyage was to terminate at any port or place in British India, and the ship has not returned, that he is absent from her, and that an entry of the desertion has been duly made in the official log-book. Thereupon the forfeiture of wages or emoluments under the provisions hereinbefore contained, be deemed to be proved unless the seaman or apprentice can produce a proper certificate of discharge or can otherwise show to the satisfaction of the Court that he had sufficient reasons for leaving his ship.

119. Whenever in any proceeding relating to seamen's wages it is shown that any seaman or apprentice has in the course of the voyage been convicted of any offence by any competent tribunal and rightfully punished therefor by imprisonment or otherwise, the Court hearing the case may direct a part of the wages due to such seaman, not exceeding thirty rupees, to be applied in reimbursing any costs properly incurred by the master in procuring such conviction and punishment.

120. Whenever any seaman contracts for wages by the voyage or by the run or by the share, and not by the month or other stated period of time, the amount of forfeiture to be incurred under this Act shall be taken to be an amount bearing the same proportion to the whole wages or share as a month or other the period hereinbefore mentioned in fixing the amount of such forfeiture (as the case may be) bears to the whole time spent in the voyage; and if the whole time spent in the voyage does not exceed the period for which the pay is to be forfeited, the forfeiture shall extend to the whole wages or share.

121. All clothes, effects, wages, and emoluments which under the provisions hereinbefore contained are forfeited for desertion, shall be applied in the first instance in or towards the reimbursement of the expenses occasioned by such desertion to the master or owner of the ship from which the desertion has taken place, and may, if earned subsequently to the desertion, be recovered by such master or by the owner or his agent in the same manner as the deserter might have recovered the same if they had not been forfeited; and in any legal proceeding relating to such wages, the Court may order the same to be paid accordingly; and, subject to such reimbursement, the same shall be paid into the public treasury and carried to the account of Government. In all other cases of forfeiture of wages under the provisions hereinbefore contained, the forfeiture shall, in the absence of any specific directions to the contrary, be for the benefit of the master or owner by whom the wages are payable.

122. Any question concerning the forfeiture of or deductions from the wages of any seaman or apprentice, may be decided in suits for wages, and may be determined in any proceeding lawfully instituted with respect to such wages, notwithstanding that the offence in respect of which such question arises, though hereby made punishable by imprisonment as well as forfeiture, has not been made the subject of any criminal proceeding.

123. If any seaman, on or before being engaged, wilfully and fraudulently makes a false statement of the name of his last ship, or last alleged ship, or wilfully and fraudulently makes a false statement of his own name, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees, and such fine may be deducted from any wages he may earn by virtue of such engagement as aforesaid, and shall, subject to reimbursement of the loss and expenses (if any) occasioned by any previous desertion, be paid and applied in the same manner as other fines payable under this Act.

Act I of 1859, s. 96.
M. S. Act, 1854, s. 256.

124. Whenever any seaman commits an act of misconduct for which his agreement imposes a fine, and which it is intended to punish by enforcing such fine, an entry thereof shall be made in the official log-book, and a copy of such entry shall be furnished or the same shall be read over to the offender, and an entry of such reading over and of the reply (if any) made by the offender shall be made, in the manner and subject to the conditions hereinbefore specified with respect to the offences against discipline specified in and punishable under this Act.

Such fine shall be deducted and paid over as follows (that is to say), if the offender is discharged at any port or place in British India, and the offence, and such entries in respect thereof as aforesaid, are proved, in the case of a foreign-going ship to the satisfaction of the shipping master before whom the offender is discharged, and in the case of a home-trade ship to the satisfaction of the shipping master at or nearest to the place at which the crew is discharged, the master or owner shall deduct such fine from the wages of the offender and pay the same over to such shipping master; and if before the final discharge of the crew in British India, any such offender as aforesaid enters into any of Her Majesty's ships or is discharged at any place not in British India, and the offence and such entries as aforesaid are proved to the satisfaction of the officer in command of the ship into which he so enters or of the consular officer, officer of customs, or other person by whose sanction he is so discharged, the fine shall thereupon be deducted as aforesaid, and an entry of such deduction shall then be made in the official log-book (if any) and signed by such officer or other person; and on the return of the ship to British India, the master or owner shall pay over such fine, in the case of foreign-going ships to the shipping master before whom the crew is discharged, and in the case of home-trade ships to the shipping master at or nearest to the place at which the crew is discharged.

If any master or owner neglects or refuses to pay over any such fine in manner aforesaid, he shall for each such offence be punished with fine which may extend to six times the amount of the fine retained by him:

Provided that no act of misconduct for which any such fine as aforesaid has been inflicted and paid shall be otherwise punished under the provisions of this Act.

Act I of 1859, s. 97.

125. Every person who by any means whatever persuades or attempts to persuade any seaman or apprentice to neglect or refuse to join or proceed to sea in or to desert from his ship, or otherwise to absent himself from his duty, shall for each such offence in respect of each such seaman or apprentice be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees; and every person who wilfully harbours or secretes any seaman or apprentice who has deserted from his ship or who has been punished or refused to join or has deserted from his ship, knowing or having reason to believe such seaman or apprentice to

126. Any person who secretes himself and goes to sea in any ship without the consent of either the owner, consignee, or master, or of a mate, or of any person in charge of such ship, or of any other person entitled to give such consent, shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees, or with imprisonment for a term which may extend to four weeks.

127. If during the progress of a voyage the master of any ship registered at any port or place in British India, is superseded or for any other reason quits the ship and is succeeded in the command by some other person, he shall deliver to his successor the various documents relating to the navigation of the ship and to the crew thereof which are in his custody; and shall in default be punished with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees; and such successor shall, immediately on assuming the command of the ship, enter in the official log a list of the documents so delivered to him.

CHAPTER XII. OFFICIAL LOGS.

128. An official log-book of every ship registered at any port or place in British India, except home-trade ships of a burden not exceeding three hundred tons, shall be kept in a form sanctioned by the Local Government; and such official log may, at the discretion of the master or owner, either be kept distinct from the ordinary ship's log or united therewith, so that in all cases all the blanks in the official log be duly filled up.

129. Every entry in every official log shall be made as soon as possible after the occurrence to which it relates, and if not made on the same day as the occurrence to which it relates shall be made and dated so as to show the date of the occurrence, and of the entry respecting it; and in no case shall any entry therein in respect of any occurrence happening previously to the arrival of the ship at her final port of discharge be made more than twenty-four hours after such arrival.

130. Every master of a ship for which an official log-book is hereby required shall make or cause to be made therein entries of the following matters; (that is to say) —

131. The entries hereby required to be made in official log-books shall be signed as follows; (that is to say) every such entry shall be signed by the master and by the mate or some other of the crew, and every entry of illness, injury, death, or birth shall be also signed by the surgeon or medical practitioner on board (if any); and every entry of wages due to, or of the sale of the effects of, any seaman or apprentice who dies shall be signed by the master and by the mate and some other member of the crew, and every entry of wages due to any seaman who enters Her Majesty's service, shall be signed by the master and by the seaman or by the officer authorized to receive the seaman into such service.

Act I of 1859, s. 107.

132. The following offences in respect of official log-books shall be punishable as hereinafter mentioned; (that is to say) —

(a) If in any case an official log-book is not kept in the manner hereby required, or if any entry hereby directed to be made in any such log-book is not made at the time and in the manner hereby directed, the master shall for each such offence incur the specific penalty herein mentioned in respect thereof, or where there is no such specific penalty, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

(b) Every person who makes or procures to be made or assists in making any entry in an official log-book, in respect of any occurrence happening previously to the arrival of the ship at her final port of discharge in British India, more than twenty-four hours after such arrival, shall for each such offence be punished with fine which may extend to three hundred rupees.

(c) Every person who wilfully destroys or mutilates or renders illegible any entry in any official log-book, or who wilfully makes or procures to be made or assists in making any false or fraudulent entry or omission in any such log-book, shall for each such offence be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to one year.

133. All entries made in any official log-book as aforesaid shall be received in evidence in any proceeding in any Court of Justice, subject to all just exceptions.

134. The master of every foreign-going ship shall, within forty-eight hours after the ship's arrival at her final port of destination in British India, or upon the discharge of the crew, whichever first happens, deliver to the shipping master before whom the crew is discharged, the official log-book of the voyage; and the master or owner of every home-trade ship of a burden exceeding three hundred tons shall, within twenty-one days after the thirtieth day of June and the thirty-first day of December in every year, transmit or deliver to some shipping master in British India the official log-book for the preceding half year; and every master or owner who refuses or neglects to deliver his official log-book, as hereby required, shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees.

135. If any ship ceases, by reason of transfer of ownership or change of employment, to fall within the operation of section one hundred and twenty-eight, the master or owner thereof shall, if such ship is then in any port in British India, within one month, and if she is elsewhere, within six months, deliver or transmit to the shipping master at the port to which the ship belonged, the official log-book duly made out to the time at which she ceased to be within such operation, and in default shall for each offence be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees; and if any ship is lost or abandoned, the master or owner thereof shall, if practicable, and as soon as possible, deliver or transmit to the shipping master at the port to which the ship belonged, the official log-book (if any) duly made out to the time of such loss or abandonment, and in default shall for each offence be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

CHAPTER XIII.

INVESTIGATIONS INTO CASUALTIES.

136. Nothing in this chapter affects the powers conferred by section 240 of 1875, s. 23; of certain Admiralty the Merchant Shipping Act, 1863, s. 10; Courts, 1854, on Courts having admiralty jurisdiction in India. of 1861, s. 3.

137. Whenever any Magistrate, or any officer appointed by the Local Government in this behalf, receives credible information that —

- (a) any ship has been lost, abandoned, stranded or materially damaged on or near the coasts of British India; or

(b) by reason of any casualty happening to or on board of any ship on or near such coasts, loss of life has ensued; or

(c) any ship has caused loss or material damage to any other ship on or near such coasts; or

(d) any such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty has happened elsewhere to any British ship, and any competent witnesses thereof have arrived or are to be found at any place in British India; or

(e) any British ship is supposed to have been lost, and any evidence can be obtained in British India as to the circumstances under which she proceeded to sea or was last heard of;

he shall forthwith report in writing such information to the Local Government.

In the cases mentioned in clauses (a), (b) and (c), the master, pilot, harbour-master or other person in charge of the ship or (where two ships are concerned) in charge of each ship, at the time of such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty, and in cases under clause (d), where the master of the ship concerned, or (except in case of a loss) where the ship concerned, proceeds to any place in British India from the place where such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty has occurred, the master of such ship, shall, on arriving in British India, give immediate notice of such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty to the nearest Magistrate, or, when he arrives at a port in British India, to the officer appointed at such port as aforesaid.

Any person bound to give notice under this section and wilfully failing to give the same shall be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, and, in default of payment, to simple imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months.

See Act IV of 1875, s. 4. 138. If in any such case a formal investigation into the facts mentioned in section one hundred and thirty-seven, clause (a), (b), (c), (d) or (e), appears to the Local Government to be requisite or expedient, the Local Government (whether such notice be given or not) may appoint a special Court, consisting of not less than two nor more than four persons, and direct such Court to make such investigation, and may fix the place for making the same.

One of such persons shall be a Magistrate acting in or near the place where the investigation is made: another shall be some person conversant with maritime affairs: the other or others (if any) shall be conversant with either maritime or mercantile affairs.

See Act IV of 1875, s. 5. 139. Every Court having admiralty jurisdiction in British India, and the principal Court of ordinary criminal jurisdiction at every port of British India where there is no Court having admiralty jurisdiction, is hereby authorized, when so directed by the Local Government, to make the investigations referred to in section one hundred and thirty-eight.

Other Courts authorized to investigate casualties.

When any investigation involves or appears likely to involve any question as to the cancelling or suspension of the certificate of a master, mate or engineer, the Court making such investigation shall constitute as its assessors for the purpose of the investigation two persons having experience in the merchant-service; and in every other investigation the Court making it may, if it think fit, constitute as its assessor for the purposes of the investigation any person conversant with maritime affairs and willing to act as such assessor.

Act XIII of 1875, s. 2. 140. Any Court making an investigation under section one hundred and thirty-eight or section one hundred and thirty-nine may inquire into any charge of incompetency or misconduct arising in the course of such investigation, against any master, mate or engineer as well as into any charge of a wrongful act or default on his part causing any such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty as aforesaid.

In every case in which any such charge, whether of incompetency or misconduct, or of a wrongful act or default, as aforesaid, arises against any master, mate or engineer in the course of an investigation, the Court shall before the commencement of such inquiry cause to be furnished to him a copy of the report or statement of the case upon which the investigation has been directed.

141. If the Local Government has reason to believe that there are grounds for charging any master, mate or engineer holding a certificate granted by the Board of Trade or a Local Government with incompetency or misconduct, otherwise than in the course of an investigation under section one hundred and thirty-eight or section one hundred and thirty-nine, it may transmit a statement of the case to any Court mentioned in section one hundred and thirty-nine, at or nearest to the place at which it may be convenient for the parties and witnesses to attend, and may direct such Court to make an investigation into such charge.

Before commencing such investigation, the Court shall cause the master, mate or engineer so charged to be furnished with a copy of the statement so transmitted by the Local Government.

142. For the purpose of an investigation under this chapter into any charge against a master, mate or engineer, the Court may summon him to appear, and shall give him full opportunity of making a defence, either in person or otherwise.

143. For the purpose of any investigation under this chapter, the Court making the investigation, so far as relates to compelling the attendance and examination of witnesses and the production of documents and the regulation of the proceedings, shall have—

(a) if such Court is a special Court, the same powers as are exercisable by the principal Court of ordinary criminal jurisdiction for the place at which the investigation is made;

(b) if such Court is a Court having admiralty jurisdiction or a principal Court of ordinary criminal jurisdiction, the same powers as are exercisable by such Court in the exercise of such admiralty or criminal jurisdiction (as the case may be).

When any investigation involves or appears likely to involve any question as to the cancelling or suspension of the certificate of a master, mate or engineer, the Court making such investigation shall constitute as its assessors for the purpose of the investigation two persons having experience in the merchant-service; and in every other investigation the Court making it may, if it think fit, constitute as its assessor for the purposes of the investigation any person conversant with maritime affairs and willing to act as such assessor.

Such persons shall attend during the investigation and deliver their opinions in writing, to be recorded on the proceedings. But the exercise of all powers conferred on the Court by this Act or any other enactment for the time being in force shall rest with the Court.

144. If any Court making an investigation under this chapter thinks it necessary for obtaining evidence that any person should be arrested, it may issue a warrant for his arrest, and may, for the purpose of effecting such arrest, authorize any officer (subject, nevertheless, to any general or special instructions from the Local Government) to enter any vessel. Any officer so authorized may, for the purpose of enforcing such entry, call to his aid any officers of police or customs, or any other persons, and may seize and detain the vessel for such time as is reasonably necessary to effect the arrest; and every such officer or other person shall be deemed to be a public servant within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code, section 186.

No person shall be detained by virtue of this section for more than forty-eight hours.

Act IV of 1875, s. 15.

CHAPTER XIV.

SUSPENSION, &c., OF CERTIFICATES.

147. Nothing herein contained shall affect the powers conferred by the Merchant Shipping Acts, 1854 to 1880, on the Courts conducting investigations or inquiries under sections one hundred and thirty-eight, one hundred and thirty-nine, one hundred and forty and one hundred and forty-one of this Act, to cancel or suspend certificates granted under any of the said Merchant Shipping Acts, or certificates to which the provisions of any such Act have been made applicable under the Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869.

When any such Court cancels or suspends any such certificate, it may, in its report to the Local Government, advise such Government to grant, without examination, to the holder of such certificate, when such certificate is a certificate as master, a certificate as mate; and, when such certificate is a certificate as mate or engineer, a certificate as mate or engineer, as the case may be of a grade lower than that which he held at the time of such cancellation or suspension; and such Local Government, if it thinks fit, and if it is empowered by any enactment of a British Indian legislature for the time being in force to grant such certificate, may grant it under such enactment, but without examination. A certificate so granted shall have the same effect as if it had been granted after examination, but shall not have the effect of a certificate granted under the Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869, or of any order in Council under the said Act.

The power to grant a certificate conferred by this section may be exercised by the Local Government even though the Court has not advised it so to do.

148. Any certificate (whether of competency or service) which has been granted by any Local Government to any master, mate or engineer, but has not been granted under the provisions of the Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869, or of any order in Council under the said Act, may be suspended or cancelled, by that or any other Local Government, in the following cases, that is to say:—

(a) if, upon any investigation made under this Act, the Court reports that the loss, stranding or abandonment of, or damage to, any ship, or loss of life, has been caused by his wrongful act or default, or that he is incompetent, or has been guilty of any gross act of drunkenness, tyranny or other misconduct;

(b) if, upon any investigation made under the provisions of the Merchant Shipping Acts, 1854 to 1880, or upon any investigation made by any Court or tribunal for the time being authorized by the legislative authority in any British possession to make enquiry into charges of incompetency or misconduct on the part of masters, mates or engineers of ships, or as to shipwrecks or other casualties affecting ships, the Court or tribunal reports that such master, mate or engineer is incompetent, or has been guilty of any gross act

144. If any Court making an investigation under this chapter thinks it necessary for obtaining evidence that any person should be arrested, it may issue a warrant for his arrest, and may, for the purpose of effecting such arrest, authorize any officer (subject, nevertheless, to any general or special instructions from the Local Government) to enter any vessel. Any officer so authorized may, for the purpose of enforcing such entry, call to his aid any officers of police or customs, or any other persons, and may seize and detain the vessel for such time as is reasonably necessary to effect the arrest; and every such officer or other person shall be deemed to be a public servant within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code, section 186.

No person shall be detained by virtue of this section for more than forty-eight hours.

Act IV of 1875, s. 16.

145. Whenever, in the course of any such investigation, it appears that any person has committed within the jurisdiction of any Court in British India an offence punishable under any law in force in British India, the Court making the investigation may (subject to such rules consistent with this Act as the High Court may from time to time prescribe) cause him to be arrested, or commit him or hold him to bail to take his trial before the proper Court; and may bind over any person to give evidence at such trial, and may, for the purposes of this section, exercise all the powers of a Magistrate of the first class or of a Presidency Magistrate.

And whenever in the course of such trial the testimony of any witness is required in relation to the subject-matter, any deposition previously made by him in relation to the same subject-matter before any Court making an investigation under this chapter shall, if authenticated by the signature of the Magistrate or presiding Judge, be admissible in evidence on proof—

(a) that the witness cannot be found within the jurisdiction of the Court before which the trial is held; and

(b) that it was made in the presence of the person accused and that he had an opportunity of cross-examining such witness.

A certificate by the Magistrate or presiding Judge that the deposition was made in the presence of the accused and that he had such opportunity shall, unless the contrary be proved, be sufficient evidence that it was so made.

For the purposes of this section the Recorder of Rangoon shall, within the local limits of his ordinary civil jurisdiction, be deemed to be the High Court.

146. The Court shall, in the case of all investigations under this chapter, transmit to the Local Government a full report of the conclusions at which it has arrived, together with the evidence.

In cases in which, under the Merchant Shipping Acts, 1854 to 1880, the Court is required to send a report to the Board of Trade, such report shall be sent through the Local Government, and the transmission of such report to the Local Government shall be a sufficient compliance with this section.

Act IV of 1875, ss. 11 and 12.

Report by Court to Local Government.

147. Nothing herein contained shall affect the powers conferred by the Merchant Shipping Acts, 1854 to 1880, on the Courts conducting investigations or inquiries under sections one hundred and thirty-eight, one hundred and thirty-nine, one hundred and forty and one hundred and forty-one of this Act, to cancel or suspend certificates granted under any of the said Merchant Shipping Acts, or certificates to which the provisions of any such Act have been made applicable under the Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869, or of any order in Council under the said Act.

When any such Court cancels or suspends any such certificate, it may, in its report to the Local Government, advise such Government to grant, without examination, to the holder of such certificate, when such certificate is a certificate as master, a certificate as mate; and, when such certificate is a certificate as mate or engineer, a certificate as mate or engineer, as the case may be of a grade lower than that which he held at the time of such cancellation or suspension; and such Local Government, if it thinks fit, and if it is empowered by any enactment of a British Indian legislature for the time being in force to grant such certificate, may grant it under such enactment, but without examination. A certificate so granted shall have the same effect as if it had been granted after examination, but shall not have the effect of a certificate granted under the Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869, or of any order in Council under the said Act.

The power to grant a certificate conferred by this section may be exercised by the Local Government even though the Court has not advised it so to do.

See Act IV of 1875, s. 16.

148. Any certificate (whether of competency or service) which has been granted by any Local Government to any master, mate or engineer, but has not been granted under the provisions of the Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869, or of any order in Council under the said Act, may be suspended or cancelled, by that or any other Local Government, in the following cases, that is to say:—

(a) if, upon any investigation made under this Act, the Court reports that the loss, stranding or abandonment of, or damage to, any ship, or loss of life, has been caused by his wrongful act or default, or that he is incompetent, or has been guilty of any gross act of drunkenness, tyranny or other misconduct;

(b) if, upon any investigation made under the provisions of the Merchant Shipping Acts, 1854 to 1880, or upon any investigation made by any Court or tribunal for the time being authorized by the legislative authority in any British possession to make enquiry into charges of incompetency or misconduct on the part of masters, mates or engineers of ships, or as to shipwrecks or other casualties affecting ships, the Court or tribunal reports that such master, mate or engineer is incompetent, or has been guilty of any gross act of misconduct, drunkenness or tyranny, or that the loss, stranding or abandonment of, or damage to, any ship, or loss of life, has been caused by his wrongful act or default;

Act IV of 1875, s. 18, c. (d).

(c) if he is proved to have been convicted of any offence which, if committed in British India, would be non-bailable, or, if committed in England, would be a felony; and

(d) if (in the case of a master) he has been superseded by the order of any Admiralty Court, or of any Naval Court constituted as provided by the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, or by any other law for the time being in force:

Provided that, in any case in which an investigation has been made into a charge against any master, mate or engineer, no certificate shall be suspended or cancelled under clause (a) unless the Local Government is satisfied that the holder of the certificate has been furnished before the commencement of the investigation with the copy of the report or statement required by section one hundred and forty, or section one hundred and forty-one, as the case may be.

Act IV of 1875, s. 19.

149. Every master, mate or engineer whose certificate is cancelled or suspended under section one hundred and forty-eight shall deliver it to the shipping-master, or to such other person as the Local Government which cancelled or suspended the certificate directs, and in default of such delivery shall, for each offence, be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

Act IV of 1875, s. 20.

150. If the Local Government which cancels or suspends, under section one hundred and forty-eight, a certificate of a master, mate, or engineer, is not the Local Government that granted the same, the Local Government so cancelling or suspending the certificate shall report the proceedings, and the fact of cancellation or suspension, to the Local Government which granted such certificate.

Act IV of 1875, s. 21.

151. Every Local Government cancelling or suspending, under section one hundred and forty-eight, the certificate of a master, mate or engineer shall, as soon as may be practicable, report to the Board of Trade the fact of such cancellation or suspension.

Act IV of 1875, s. 22.

152. Any Local Government may, at any time, revoke any order of cancellation or suspension which it may have made under section one hundred and forty-eight or grant, without examination, to any person, whose certificate it has so cancelled, a new certificate of the same or of any lower grade.

A certificate so granted shall have the same effect as if it had been granted after examination, and shall not have the effect of a certificate granted under the Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869, or of any order in Council under the said Act.

A certificate of competency for a home-trade ship under this Act shall be deemed, for the purpose of this section, to be of a lower grade than a certificate of competency for a foreign-going ship.

CHAPTER XV.

HEALTH-OFFICERS.

153. The Local Government may, from time to time, appoint, at any port subject to the Indian Ports Act, 1875, an officer to be called the Health-officer, and may suspend or remove from office any officer so appointed.

Such officer shall, subject to the control of the Local Government, have the following powers within the limits of the port for which he is appointed, that is to say:—

- with respect to any ship, the powers conferred by section eighty-four on a shipping-master;
- power to enter on board any ship and medically examine all or any of the seamen or apprentices on board such ship;
- power to require and enforce the production of the log-book and any other books, papers or documents which he thinks necessary for the purpose of enquiring into the health and medical condition of the persons on board such ship;
- power to call before him and examine for such purpose all or any of such persons, and to require answers to any enquiries he thinks fit to make;
- power to require any person so examined by him to make and subscribe a declaration of the truth of the statements made by such person.

CHAPTER XVI.

MISCELLANEOUS.

154. Whenever in the course of any legal proceedings instituted at any port or place in British India before any Judge or Magistrate or before any person authorized by law or by consent of parties to receive evidence, the testimony of any witness is required in relation to the subject-matter of such proceeding, any deposition that such witness may have previously made in relation to the same subject-matter before any Justice or Magistrate in Her Majesty's dominions (including all parts of British India other than those subject to the same Local Government as the port or place where such proceedings are instituted), or any British consular officer elsewhere, shall, if authenticated by the signature of the Justice, Magistrate or consular officer, be admissible in evidence on due proof that such witness cannot be found within the jurisdiction of the Court in which such proceedings are instituted.

Provided that, if the proceeding is criminal, such deposition shall not be admissible unless it was made in the presence of the person accused, and the fact that it was so made is certified by the Justice, Magistrate or consular officer.

It shall not be necessary in any case to prove the signature or official character of the person appearing to have signed any such deposition; and in any criminal proceeding, such certificate as aforesaid shall, unless the contrary is proved, be sufficient evidence of the accused having been present in manner thereby certified.

Act I of 1859, s. 113.

155. In all cases where any Court or Magistrate has power to make an order directing payment to be made of any seaman's wages, penalties or other sums of money, then if the party so directed to pay the same is the master or owner of a ship and the same is not paid at the time and in manner prescribed in the order, the Court or Magistrate who made the order may, in addition to any other powers which such Court or Magistrate may have for the purpose of compelling payment, direct the amount remaining unpaid to be levied by distress and sale of the said ship, her tackle, furniture and apparel.

See Act IV of 1875, s. 30.

156. In sections 2, 15, 17 and 23 of the said Act No. X of 1841, for the words "on information in any Court of Her Majesty or the East India Company by the Advocates General of the respective Presidencies," "by information as aforesaid," "upon information as aforesaid," in each of the places where they occur, the following words shall be substituted, namely:—"on conviction before a Presidency Magistrate or a Magistrate of the first class."

Act XIII of 1876, s. 3.

157. A certificate signed by a Secretary to the Local Government, or by such other officer as it appoints in this behalf, to the effect that any seaman named therein is distressed, shall, in all proceedings under sections 211, 212 and 213 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, be conclusive evidence that such seaman is distressed within the meaning of the same sections; and any master of a British ship refusing to accept such seaman as a distressed seaman under the provisions of the said sections shall, for each seaman with respect to whom he so refuses, be punished with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees.

as introduced (now section 140), given to the Court making an investigation power to inquire into charges against Masters, Matees or Engineers whether they are certificated or not. We

Bill for the further amendment of the law relating to Merchant Shipping was referred, have the honour to report that we have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin.

2. To meet a doubt that has arisen we have provided, in section 5 of the Bill as introduced (now section 4), that nothing in the Bill shall apply to any ship belonging to or in the service of the Government of India.

3. We have made the provisions of clauses (a) and (c) of section 6 of the Bill as introduced (now section 137) apply only to cases where material damage has been caused. We have also, at the suggestion of the Board of Trade, limited the application of clauses (d) and (e) of the same section to British ships.

4. At the suggestion of the same Board we have, in section 9 of the Bill have also provided that in every case in which any charge of incompetency, misconduct, wrongful act or default arises, the Court shall, before the commencement of the enquiry, furnish the Master, Mate or Engineer concerned with a copy of the report or statement of the case upon which the investigation has been directed.

5. We have amended the fourth paragraph of section 12 (now section 143) in the manner recommended by the Board of Trade, and required the Court in cases involving any question as to the cancellation or suspension of the certificate of a Master, Mate or Engineer to constitute, as its assessors two persons having experience in the merchant service. This amendment will bring the section into harmony with Imperial legislation, and in cases where it is not practicable to procure on the spot the attendance of two assessors so qualified, the Local Government will no doubt be able to send a duly qualified assessor from some other place.

6. In section 16 of the Bill as introduced (now section 147) we have provided that the certificate granted in lieu of a cancelled or suspended certificate shall be of a grade lower than the one cancelled or suspended. We have also, in accordance with the opinion expressed by the Local Governments, empowered them to grant under that section certificates without being advised by the Court to do so.

7. At the suggestion of the Board of Trade, we have, in section 17 of the Bill as introduced (now section 14), made it clear that the Local Government cannot suspend or cancel, in the cases mentioned in that section, certificates granted under the Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869. It is, however, unnecessary to limit the words "any Local Government" in that section by adding the words "in British India," as recommended by the Board. The expression "Local Government" is defined in the General Clauses Act, 1868, to mean the person authorized by law to administer Executive Government in the part of British India in which the Act containing such expression shall operate.

8. At the request of the Bengal Government, we have called the officer who may be appointed under section 28 of the Bill as introduced (now section 153) the Health-officer, and have given him the powers conferred on a Shipping-master by the Merchant Shipping Act, I of 1859. We have also modified clause (b) of that section so as to confine the power to medically examine persons on board to the medical examination of seamen or apprentices.

9. The provisions of section 18B in section 28 of the Bill as introduced have been generally objected to on the ground that they permit unnecessary interference between Masters and Seamen, and we have accordingly omitted them.

10. The Bill as introduced repealed and re-enacted the Merchant Shipping Acts of 1875 and 1878. In compliance with the wishes of many persons concerned with merchant shipping, we have carried the process of consolidation somewhat further, and now propose to repeal and re-enact the unrepealed portions of the following enactments:—

Act I of 1859.
IV of 1875.
XIII of 1876.
XIII of 1878.
VII of 1880, Chapter III.

We have taken the opportunity to make a few amendments in the law so dealt with. Thus in section 13, corresponding with Act I of 1859, section 10, we have given the Local Governments power, with the previous sanction of the Government of India, to fix the fees payable by candidates for examination for certificates as masters or mates.

11. In section 14, corresponding with section 11 of the same Act, we have given Local Governments the power, conferred on the Board of Trade by section 134 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, of requiring the further examination of persons reported by the examiners to be qualified for certificates.

12. The punishment which can be awarded under section 79 of the same Act is imprisonment for two years. We have made it (section 106) fine which may extend to Rs. 1,000, or imprisonment which may extend to two years, or both.

13. The publication ordered by the Council has been made. We think that the Bill has been so altered as to require republication, and we recommend that its passing be deferred till the mercantile community and the Board of Trade have had an opportunity of expressing their opinions on the measure.

Provided that the Local Government may, in any case in which it has reason to believe that such report has been unduly made, require, before granting a certificate, a re-examination of the applicant or a further inquiry into his testimonials and character.

16. No foreign-going ship or home-trade ship of a burden exceeding three hundred tons shall go to sea from any port in British India unless the master and one officer besides the master have obtained and possess valid and appropriate certificates either of competency or service under this Act or under the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854; and whoever, having been engaged to serve as master or mate, goes to sea as aforesaid as such master or mate without being at the time entitled to and possessed of such a certificate as hereinbefore required, and whoever employs any person as such master or mate without ascertaining that he is at the time entitled to and possessed of such certificate, shall for each such offence be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

17. Every certificate of competency for a foreign-going ship shall be deemed to be of a higher grade than the corresponding certificate for a home-trade ship, and

Act I of 1859, s. 15. 18. All certificates, whether of competency or service, shall be made in duplicate; and one part shall be delivered to the person entitled to the certificate, and the other shall be kept and recorded as the Local Government shall direct. The Local Government, or any board or officer duly authorized by the Local Government in that behalf, may grant to such persons as may be deemed fit licenses to engage or supply seamen for ships, to continue for such periods, to be upon such terms and to be revocable upon such conditions as the Local Government thinks fit.

(b) If any person employs any unlicensed person, other than persons so excepted as aforesaid, for the purpose of engaging or supplying any seaman to be entered on board any ship, he shall for each seaman so engaged or supplied be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees, and, if licensed, shall in addition be liable to the penalty of the license.

24. The master of every ship, except ships of burden not exceeding three hundred tons employed only in the home-trade, shall enter into an agreement with every seaman whom he engages in, and carries to sea from, any port in British India as one of his crew, in the manner hereinafter mentioned.

25. Every such agreement shall be in a form sanctioned by the Governor General in Council, and shall be dated at the time of the first signature thereof, and shall be signed by the master before any seaman signs the same, and shall contain the following particulars as terms thereof, that is to say:—

(a) either the nature and, as far as practicable, the duration of the intended voyage or engagement, or the maximum period of the voyage or engagement, and the places or parts of the world, if any, to which the voyage or engagement is not to extend;

And every such agreement shall be so framed as to admit of stipulations to be adopted at the will of the master and seaman in each case (not being inconsistent with the provisions of any enactment for the time being in force relating to merchant shipping), as to advance of wages and supply of warm clothing, and may contain any other stipulations which are not contrary to law.

26. In the case of such agreements with lascars or other Native seamen, the scale of the provisions to be furnished to each of such seamen shall not be less than that to be from time to time fixed and published by the Local Government with the approval of the Governor General in Council.

Any master entering into an agreement with any lascar or other Native seaman for a scale of provisions less than the scale so fixed and published shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees.

visions less than the scale so fixed and published shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees.

27. Whenever it is agreed that the service of any lascars or other Native seaman shall end at any port not in British India, the agreement shall, in addition to the particulars specified in section twenty-five, contain a stipulation that fit employment shall be provided for him on board some other ship bound to the port at which he was shipped, or such other port in British India as may be agreed on; or that a passage shall be provided for him to some port in British India free of charge, or on such other terms as may be agreed on; and every such stipulation shall be signed by the owner of the ship, or by the master on his behalf.

EXPLANATION.—In this section the word "seaman" includes also a Native of British India carried to sea from any port in British India as one of the crew of a ship.

28. If the master of any ship belonging to the United Kingdom or any British possession has an agreement with his crew, made in due form according to the law of the place to which such ship belongs, or in which her crew were engaged, and engages a single seaman, not being a lascar or other Native seaman, in any port in British India, such seaman may sign the agreement so made, and it shall not be necessary for him to sign an agreement under this Act.

29. In the case of all foreign-going ships, in whatever part of Her Majesty's dominions the same are registered, the following rules shall be observed with respect to agreements:—

(a) Every agreement made in any port in British India (except in such cases of agreements with substitutes as are hereafter specially provided for) shall be signed by each seaman in the presence of a shipping master.

(b) Such shipping master shall cause the agreement to be read over and explained to each seaman, in a language understood by him, or shall otherwise ascertain that each seaman understands the same before he signs it, and shall attest each signature.

(c) When the crew is first engaged the agreement shall be signed in duplicate, and one part shall be retained by the shipping master, and the other part shall contain a special place or form for the descriptions and signatures of substitutes or persons engaged subsequently to the first departure of the ship, and shall be delivered to the master.

(d) In the case of substitutes engaged in the place of seamen who have duly signed the agreement and whose services are lost within twenty-four hours of the ship's putting to sea by death, desertion or other unforeseen cause, the engagement shall, when practicable, be made before some shipping master duly appointed in the manner hereinafter specified; and whenever such last-mentioned engagement cannot be so made, the master shall, before the ship puts to sea, if practicable, and if not, as soon afterwards as possible, cause the agreement to be read over and explained to the seamen; and the seamen shall thereupon sign the same in the presence of a witness, who shall attest their signatures.

30. In the case of foreign-going ships making voyages averaging less than six months in duration, running agreements with the crew may be made to extend over two or more voyages, so that no such agreement shall extend beyond the next following thirtieth day of June or thirty-first day of December, or the first arrival of the ship at her port of destination in British India after such date, or the discharge of cargo consequent upon such arrival; and every person entering into such agreement, whether engaged upon the first commencement thereof or otherwise, shall enter into and sign the same in the manner hereby required for other foreign-going ships; and every person engaged thereunder, if discharged in any port in British India, shall be discharged in the manner hereby required for the discharge of seamen belonging to other foreign-going ships.

31. The master of every foreign-going ship for which such a running agreement as aforesaid is made shall, upon every return to any port in British India before the final termination of the agreement, discharge or engage before the shipping master at such port any seaman whom he is required by law so to discharge or engage; and shall upon every such return endorse on the agreement a statement (as the case may be) either that no such discharges or engagements have been made or are intended to be made before the ship again leaves port, or that all such discharges or engagements have been duly made as hereinbefore required; and shall deliver the agreement so endorsed to the shipping master. Any master who wilfully makes a false statement in such endorsement shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees. The shipping master shall also sign an endorsement on the agreement to the effect that the provisions of this Act relating to such agreement have been complied with, and shall re-deliver the agreement so endorsed to the master.

32. For the purpose of determining the fees to be paid upon the engagement and discharge of seamen belonging to foreign-going ships which have running agreements as aforesaid, the crew shall be considered to be engaged when the agreement is first signed, and to be discharged when the agreement finally terminates; and all intermediate engagements and discharges shall be considered to be engagements and discharges of single seamen.

33. In the case of home-trade ships of a burden exceeding three hundred tons, crews or single seamen may, if the master thinks fit, be engaged before a shipping master in the manner hereinafter directed with respect to foreign-going ships; and in every case in which the engagement is not so made, the master shall, before the ship puts to sea, if practicable, and if not, as soon afterwards as possible, cause the agreement to be read over and explained to each seaman, and the seaman shall thereupon sign the same in the presence of a witness, who shall attest his signature.

Act I of 1859,
s. 27.

34. In cases where several home-trade ships belong to the same owner, the agreement with the seamen may, notwithstanding anything herein contained, be made by the owner instead of by the master, and the seamen may be engaged to serve in any two or more of such ships, provided that the names of the ships and the nature of the service are specified in the agreement; but, with the foregoing exception, all provisions herein contained which relate to ordinary agreements for home-trade ships shall be applicable to agreements made in pursuance of this section.

Act I of 1859,
s. 28.

Act I of 1859,
s. 29.

36. The master of every foreign-going ship, of which the crew has been engaged before a shipping master, shall, before finally leaving British India, sign and send to the nearest shipping master a full and accurate statement, in a form sanctioned by the Governor General in Council, of every change which takes place in his crew before finally leaving British India, and in default shall for each offence be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees; and such statement shall be admissible in evidence subject to all just exceptions.

Act I of 1859,
s. 30.

37. For the purpose of preventing any seamen from being shipped at any port in British India contrary to the provisions of this Act, the shipping master by himself or his deputy may enter at any time on board any ship upon which he shall have reason to believe that seamen have been shipped, and may muster and examine the several seamen employed therein; and any person who shall obstruct the said shipping master or deputy in such duty shall be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

Act I of 1859,
s. 31.

38. When the master of a foreign ship being at any port in British India engages any lascar or other Native seaman to proceed to any port out of British India, he shall enter into an agreement with such seaman, and the agreement shall be made before a shipping master in the manner hereinbefore provided for the making of agreements in the case of foreign-going ships; and all the provisions of sections twenty-five, twenty-six, twenty-seven and twenty-nine respecting the form of such agreements and the stipulations to be contained in them and the making and signing of the same, shall be applicable to the engagement of such seaman; and the master of such foreign ship shall give to the shipping master a bond with the security of some approved person resident in British India for an amount calculated at the rate of one hundred rupees for every such seaman and for the due performance of the said agreement and stipulations.

40. 48. If any advance of wages is made or any advanced-note given to any seaman in any such manner as to constitute a breach of any of the above provisions, the wages of such seaman shall be recoverable by him as if no such advance had been made or advanced-note given, and in the case of any advanced-note so given, no person shall be sued thereon under the provisions hereinafter contained unless he was in person or by his agent a party to the irregular or improper manner of giving the same.

The seaman shall be presumed to be duly earning his wages, unless the contrary is shown to the satisfaction of the Court or Magistrate, either by the official statement of the change in the crew caused by his absence made and signed by the master, as by this Act is required, or by a duly certified copy of some entry in the official log-book, to the effect that he has died or left the ship, or by a credible letter from the master of the ship to the same effect, or by such other evidence, of whatever description, as the Court or Magistrate trying the case considers sufficient to show satisfactorily that the seaman has ceased to be entitled to the wages out of which the allotment is to be paid.

Act I of 1859, s. 40. 51. The shipping master, on receiving any such sum as aforesaid, shall pay it over to the person named in the allotment-note. Every master shall keep on board proper weights and measures for the purposes of determining the quantities of the several provisions and articles served out, and shall allow the same to be used at the time of serving out such provisions and articles in the presence of a witness whenever any dispute arises about such quantities, and in default shall for every offence be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

Act I of 1859, s. 69. 82. Whenever the master or any seaman of any ship registered at any place in British India shall receive any hurt or injury in the service of the ship, the expense of providing the necessary surgical and medical advice and attendance with medicines, and of his subsistence, until he shall be cured or shall be brought back to the port from which he was shipped or other port agreed upon, shall be defrayed, with the cost of his conveyance to such port, by the owner of the ship without any deduction on that account from the wages of such master, officer, or seaman; and if paid by himself, may be recovered as part of his wages; and if paid or allowed out of any monies forming part of the revenues of British India, shall be a charge upon the ship, and may be recovered with full costs of suit by the Secretary of State for India in Council.

Act I of 1859, s. 70. 83. A place or places of shelter shall be provided below a well caulked and substantial deck for the men engaged under this Act; such place or places shall be so arranged as to allow for the men the following spaces:—

(a). For each European seaman or apprentice or other person shipped on the same footing as a European seaman, ten superficial feet if the place be not less than six feet in height from deck to deck; or sixty cubic feet if the height from deck to deck be less than six feet.

(b). For each lascar or Native seaman or other person shipped on the same footing as a lascar, six superficial and thirty-six cubic feet; and if the place allotted be under the top-gallant fore-castle, such fore-castle deck shall be not less than four feet six inches above the one below it.

Every such place shall be kept free from stores or goods of any kind, not being the personal property of the crew in use during the voyage; and if any such place in any ship is not in the whole sufficiently large to give such space for each seaman and apprentice as hereinbefore required, or is not properly constructed and well ventilated, the owner of such ship shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees; and if any such space as aforesaid is not kept free from goods as aforesaid, the master shall, for every offence to comply with the provisions of this section, be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

Act I of 1859, s. 71. 84. The shipping-master at any port in British India, by himself or his deputy, may enter at any time on board of any ship upon which seamen have been shipped at such port, and inspect the provisions and water provided for the use of the crew, and the medicines and appliances and the accommodation for seamen prescribed by this Act or by the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854. If on inspection the provisions or water are found to be of bad quality and unfit for use or to be deficient in quantity, the shipping-master shall proceed as provided in section seventy-seven, and the penalty prescribed in the said section shall be incurred by any default of the master of the ship in respect of such provisions or water.

CHAPTER VIII.

POWER TO MAKE COMPLAINTS.

Act I of 1859, s. 72. 85. If any seaman or apprentice, whilst on board any ship, states to the master that he desires to make complaint to a Magistrate against the master or any of the crew, the said master shall, if the ship is then at a place where there is a Magistrate, so soon as the service of the ship will permit, and if the ship is not then at such a place, so soon after her first arrival at such a place as the service of the ship will permit, allow such seaman to go ashore, or send him ashore in proper custody, so that he may be enabled to make such complaint, and shall, in default, be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

CHAPTER IX.

PROTECTION OF SEAMEN FROM IMPOSITION.

Act I of 1859, s. 73. 86. Act I of 1859, s. 74. 87. No debt exceeding in amount three rupees incurred by any seaman after he has engaged to serve, shall be recoverable until the service agreed for is concluded.

Act I of 1859, s. 75. 88. Act I of 1859, s. 76. 89. Any person receives or takes into his possession or under his control any monies, documents, or effects of any seaman or apprentice, and does not return the same or pay the value thereof when required by such seaman or apprentice, subject to such deduction as may be justly due to him from such seaman or apprentice in respect of board or lodging or otherwise, or absconds therewith, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees; and any Magistrate may, besides inflicting such penalty by summary order, direct the amount or value of such monies, documents or effects, subject to such deduction as aforesaid, to be forthwith paid to such seaman or apprentice.

Act I of 1859, s. 77. 90. Every person who, not being in the service of Her Majesty and not being duly authorized by law for the purpose, goes on board any ship about to arrive at the place of her destination before her actual arrival at the place of her discharge, without the permission of the master, shall for every such offence be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees; and the master or person in charge of such ship may take any such person so going on board as aforesaid into custody, and deliver him up forthwith to any Police-officer, to be by him taken before a Magistrate to be dealt with according to the provisions of this Act.

Act I of 1859, s. 78. 91. If, within twenty-four hours after the arrival of any ship at any port in British India, any person then being on board such ship solicits any seaman to become a lodger at the house of any person letting lodgings for hire, or takes out of such ship any effects of any seaman, except under his personal direction and with the permission of the master, he shall for every such offence be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

CHAPTER X.

DISTRESSED SEAMEN.

Act VII of 1880, s. 54. 92. Nothing in this chapter applies to seamen or apprentices to whom the provisions of section 211 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, or of section 18 of the Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1855, apply.

In this chapter "local authority" means such person as the Local Government may from time to time, subject to the control of the Governor General in Council, appoint by name or in virtue of his office to exercise the powers conferred, and to perform the duties imposed, on the local authority under this chapter.

Every person so appointed may be suspended or dismissed by the Local Government which appointed him.

Act VII of 1880, s. 55. 93. The local authority may, subject to the rules hereinafter mentioned, provide for the subsistence—

(a) of all seamen and apprentices, being Native Indian subjects of Her Majesty, who have been shipwrecked, discharged or left behind at any place in British India, whether from any British ship employed in the merchant-service, or from any of

Her Majesty's ships, or who have been engaged by any person acting either as principal or agent to serve in any ship belonging to any foreign power, or to the subject of any foreign State, and who are in distress in any such place; and

(b) of all seamen and apprentices not being Native Indian subjects who have been shipwrecked, discharged or left behind at any place in British India from any British ship registered in British India and who are in distress in any such place, until such time as such authority is able to provide them with a passage as hereinafter provided.

Act VII of 1880, s. 56. 94. Subject as aforesaid, the local authority may cause such seamen or apprentices to be put on board some ship belonging to any subject of Her Majesty which is in want of men to make up its complement, and is bound—

(a) in the case of seamen or apprentices who are Native Indian subjects of Her Majesty, to their home or to a port in British India near their home; (b) in the case of other British seamen or apprentices, to any port in the United Kingdom or the British possession to which they belong (as the case requires); and

(c) in the case of seamen or apprentices not being subjects of Her Majesty, to such place as the local authority, subject to the control of the Governor General in Council, may in each case determine.

Act VII of 1880, s. 57. 95. In default of any such ship, the local authority may, subject as aforesaid, provide such seamen or apprentices with a passage in any ship (whether British or foreign) bound as aforesaid.

Act VII of 1880, s. 58. 96. The local authority shall indorse on the agreement of any British ship on board of which any seaman or apprentice is sent under section ninety-four or section ninety-five, the name of every person so sent on board thereof, with such particulars concerning the case as the Governor General in Council may from time to time by rule prescribe.

Act VII of 1880, s. 59. 97. The master of every British ship bound as aforesaid shall receive and afford a passage and subsistence to all seamen and apprentices whom he is required to take on board his ship under the provisions of section ninety-four or section ninety-five, not exceeding one for every fifty tons burden, and shall, during the passage, provide every such seaman or apprentice with a proper berth or sleeping-place effectually protected against sea and weather.

Act VII of 1880, s. 60. 98. If the master of any such ship fails or refuses to receive on board his ship, or to give a passage or subsistence to, or to provide for, any such seaman or apprentice contrary to the provisions of section ninety-seven, he shall, for each seaman and apprentice with respect to whom he so fails or refuses, be punished with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or, when he is tried at any place beyond the limits of British India, to the equivalent of one thousand rupees in the currency of such place.

Every offence punishable under this section may be tried in any district or Presidency-town in which the offender is found, as well as in any district or Presidency-town in which it might be tried under the law relating to criminal procedure for the time being in force.

99. When any master of a British ship has conveyed a seaman or apprentice in excess of the number (if any) wanted to make up the complement of his crew to any place in accordance with the requisition of a local authority under this chapter, such master shall be entitled to be paid by the Secretary of State for India in Council in respect of the subsistence and passage of such seaman or apprentice such sum per diem as the Governor General in Council from time to time appoints:

Provided that no payment shall be made under this section except on the production of the following documents (that is to say):—

(a) a certificate signed by the local authority by whose direction such seaman or apprentice was received on board, specifying the name of such seaman or apprentice, and the time when he was received on board; and

(b) a declaration in writing by such master made and verified in manner hereinafter provided, and stating—

(1) the number of days during which such seaman or apprentice received subsistence and was provided for as aforesaid on board his ship;

(2) the number of men and boys forming the complement of his crew;

(3) the number of seamen and apprentices employed on board his ship during the time such seaman or apprentice was on board; and

(4) every variation (if any) of such number.

Act VII of 1880, s. 62.

100. (a) If any seaman or apprentice, being a Native Indian subject of Her Majesty and belonging to any British ship, is discharged or left behind at any place in British India without full compliance on the part of the master with all the provisions in that behalf of the law for the time being in force, and becomes distressed and is relieved under the provisions of this chapter; or the wages (if any) due to such seaman or apprentice, and all expenses incurred for his subsistence, necessary clothing, conveyance home, and, in case he should die before reaching home, for his burial, shall be a charge upon the ship, whether British or foreign, to which he so belonged as aforesaid.

(b) if any such seaman or apprentice, after having been engaged by any person (whether acting as principal or agent) to serve in any ship belonging to any foreign power or to the subject of any foreign power, becomes distressed and is relieved as aforesaid; or

101. All such wages and expenses shall be recoverable with costs either from the master of such ship or from the person who is owner thereof for the time being, or in the case of an engagement for service in a foreign ship, from such master or owner, or from the person by whom such engagement was so made, in the same manner as other debts due to the Secretary of State for India in Council, or in the same manner and by the same form and process in which wages due to the seaman or apprentice would be recoverable by him.

102. The Local Government may from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, authorize, either generally or specially, such persons as it thinks fit to sue for any such wages and expenses and recover the same.

And every person so authorized shall be entitled to sue and recover accordingly, and shall be deemed to be a person filling a public office within the meaning of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, section 57, clause (7).

103. When any such wages and expenses are due to or in respect of a seaman or apprentice mentioned in section one hundred, clause (c), they may, instead of being recovered by a person authorized under section one hundred and two, be recovered by the Board of Trade in manner provided by the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, section 213, and when so recovered shall be paid by the said Board to the Secretary of State for India in Council.

104. In all proceedings under this chapter, whether in British India or elsewhere, the production of a certificate signed by the local authority by which any seaman or apprentice named therein was relieved, or any expenses were incurred, under this chapter, to the effect that such seaman or apprentice was in distress, and that such expenses were incurred in respect of such seaman or apprentice, shall be sufficient evidence that he was relieved, conveyed home or buried (as the case may be) at the expense of the revenues of British India.

105. The Governor General in Council may, from time to time, make rules to determine under what circumstances and subject to what conditions seamen or apprentices may be relieved and provided with passages under this chapter, and generally to carry out the provisions of this chapter.

All such rules shall be published in the Gazette of India, and shall thereupon have the force of law.

CHAPTER XI.

DISCIPLINE.

Act I of 1859, s. 79.

106. Any master of, or any seaman or apprentice belonging to, any ship registered at, trading with, or being at, any port or place in British India who, by wilful breach of duty, or by neglect of duty, or by reason of drunkenness, does any act tending to the immediate loss, destruction, or serious damage of such ship, or tending immediately to endanger the life or limb of any person belonging to or on board of such ship, or who by wilful breach of duty, or by neglect of duty, or by reason of drunkenness, refuses or omits to do any lawful act proper and requisite to be done by him for preserving such ship from immediate loss, destruction, or serious damage, or for preserving any person belonging to or on board of such ship from immediate danger to life or limb, shall for every such offence be punished with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or with imprisonment for a term which may extend to two years, or with both:

Act I of 1859, s. 80.

107. Any Court having admiralty jurisdiction in British India may, upon application by the owner of any ship being within the jurisdiction of such Court, or by the part-owner or consignee, or by the agent of the owner, or by any certificated mate, or by one-third or more of the crew, of such ship, and upon proof on oath to the satisfaction of such Court that the removal of the master of such ship is necessary, remove him accordingly; and may also, with the consent of the owner or his agent, or the consignee of the ship, or if there is no owner or agent of the owner or consignee of the ship within the jurisdiction of the Court, then, without such consent, appoint a new master in his stead, and may also make such order and may require such security in respect of costs in the matter as it thinks fit.

Act IV of 1875, s. 23, para. 3.

The powers conferred by this section may, at any port in British India where there is no Court having admiralty jurisdiction, be exercised by the principal Court of ordinary criminal jurisdiction at such port.

Act I of 1859, s. 82.

108. Whenever any seaman who has been lawfully engaged, or any apprentice to the sea-service, commits any of the following offences, he shall be punished summarily as follows; (that is to say)—

(a) For desertion he shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to twelve weeks, and shall also be liable to forfeit all or any part of the clothes and effects he leaves on board, and all or any part of the wages or emoluments which he has then earned, and also, if such desertion takes place at any port or place not in British India, at the discretion of the Court, to forfeit all or any part of the wages or emoluments he may earn in any other ship in which he may be employed until his next return to any port or place in British India, and to satisfy any excess of wages paid by the master or owner of the ship from which he deserts, to any substitute engaged in his place at a higher rate of wages than the rate stipulated to be paid to him.

(b) For neglecting or refusing, without reasonable cause, to join his ship or to proceed to sea in his ship, or for absence without leave at any time within twenty-four hours of the ship's sailing from any port, either at the commencement or during the progress of any voyage, or for absence at any time without leave and without sufficient reason from his ship or from his duty not amounting to desertion or not treated as such by the master, he shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to ten weeks, and shall also, at the discretion of the Court, be liable to forfeit out of his wages a sum not exceeding the amount of two days' pay, and in addition for every twenty-four hours of absence either a sum not exceeding six days' pay, or any expenses which have been properly incurred in hiring a substitute.

(c) For quitting the ship without leave after her arrival at her port of delivery and before she is placed in security, he shall be liable to forfeit out of his wages a sum not exceeding one month's pay.

(d) For wilful disobedience to any lawful command he shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to four weeks, and shall also be liable, at the discretion of the Court, to forfeit out of his wages a sum not exceeding two days' pay.

(e) For continued wilful disobedience to lawful commands, or continued wilful neglect of duty, he shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to twelve weeks, and shall also be liable, at the discretion of the Court, to forfeit for every twenty-four hours' continuance of such disobedience or neglect, either a sum not exceeding six days' pay, or any expenses which have been properly incurred in hiring a substitute.

(f) For assaulting any master or mate he shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to twelve weeks.

(g) For combining with any other or others of the crew to disobey lawful commands, or to neglect duty, or to impede the navigation of the ship or the progress of the voyage, he shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to twelve weeks.

(h) For wilfully damaging the ship, or embezzling or wilfully damaging any of her stores or cargo, he shall be liable to forfeit out of his wages a sum equal in amount to the loss thereby sustained, and also, at the discretion of the Court, to imprisonment for a term which may extend to twelve weeks.

(i) For any act of smuggling of which he is convicted, and whereby loss or damage is occasioned to the master or owner, he shall be liable to pay to such master or owner such a sum as is sufficient to reimburse the master or owner for such loss or damage; and the whole or a proportionate part of his wages may be retained in satisfaction or on account of such liability, without prejudice to any further remedy.

Act I of 1859,
s. 84.

109. Upon the commission of any of the offences enumerated in the last preceding section, an entry thereof shall be made in the official log-book, and shall be signed by the master and also by the mate or one of the crew. The offender, if still in the ship, shall, before the next subsequent arrival of the ship at any port, or if she is at the time in port before her departure therefrom, either be furnished with a copy of such entry or have the same read over distinctly and audibly to him, and may thereupon make such reply thereto as he thinks fit. A statement that a copy of the said entry has been so furnished, or that the same has been so read over as aforesaid, and the reply (if any) made by the offender shall likewise be entered and signed in manner aforesaid. In any subsequent legal proceeding, the entries hereinbefore required shall, if practicable, be produced or proved, and in default of such production or proof, the Court hearing the case may, at its discretion, refuse to receive evidence of the offence.

Act I of 1859,
s. 85.

110. Every seafaring person whom the master of any ship is, under the authority of this Act or any law, compelled to take on board and convey, and every person who goes to sea in any ship without the consent of the master or owner or other person entitled to give such consent, shall, so long as he remains in such ship, be subject to the same laws and regulations for preserving discipline, and to the same penalties and punishments for offences constituting or tending to a breach of discipline, to which he would be subject if he were a member of the crew and had signed the agreement.

Act I of 1859,
s. 86.

111. Whenever, either at the commencement or during the progress of any voyage, any seaman or apprentice neglects or refuses to join, or deserts from, or refuses to proceed to sea in, any ship in which he is duly engaged to serve, or is found otherwise absenting himself therefrom without leave, the master or any mate, or the owner, ship's husband, or consignee, may, with or without the assistance of Police-officers who are hereby directed to give the same if required, apprehend him without first procuring a warrant; and thereupon in any case, and shall, in case he so requires and it is practicable, convey him before some Court capable of taking cognizance of the matter, to be dealt with according to law; and may, for the purpose of conveying him before such Court, detain him in custody for a period not exceeding twenty-four hours or such shorter time as may be necessary, or may, if he does not so require, or if there is no such Court at or near the place, at once convey him on board.

If any such apprehension appears to the Court before which the case is brought to have been made on improper or on insufficient grounds, the master, mate, owner, ship's husband or consignee, who makes the same or causes the same to be made, shall be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees, but such fine, if inflicted, shall not be a bar to any action for false imprisonment or for such apprehension.

Act I of 1859,
s. 87.

112. Whenever any seaman or apprentice is brought before any Court on the ground of his having neglected or refused to join or to proceed to sea in any ship in which he is engaged to serve, or of having deserted or otherwise absented himself therefrom without leave, such Court may, if the master or the owner or his agent so requires, instead of committing the offender to prison, cause him to be conveyed on board for the purpose of proceeding on the voyage, or deliver him to the master or any mate of the ship, or the owner or his agent, to be by them so conveyed, and may in such case order any costs and expenses properly incurred by or on behalf of the master or owner by reason of the offence, to be paid by the offender, and if necessary to be deducted from any wages which he has then earned, or which by virtue of his then existing engagement he may afterwards earn.

Act XIII of 1876, s. 8.

113. Whenever any seaman or apprentice not shipped in British India deserts or otherwise absents himself without leave from any ship in which he is engaged to serve, the master of the ship shall, within forty-eight hours of discovering such desertion or absence, report the same to such officer as the Local Government appoints in this behalf, unless in the meantime the deserter or absentee returns.

Any master wilfully neglecting to comply with the provisions of this section shall be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees, or with imprisonment for a term which may extend to one month, or with both.

s. 88.

114. If any seaman or apprentice is imprisoned on the ground of his having neglected or refused to join, or to proceed to sea in, any ship in which he is engaged to serve, or of having deserted or otherwise absented himself therefrom without leave, or of his having committed any other breach of discipline, and if during such imprisonment and before his engagement is at an end his services are required on board his ship, any Magistrate may, at the request of the master or of the owner or his agent, cause such seaman or apprentice to be conveyed on board his said ship for the purpose of proceeding on the voyage, or to be delivered to the master or any mate of the ship or to the owner or his agent, to be by them so conveyed notwithstanding that the termination of the period for which he was sentenced to imprisonment has not arrived.

Act XIII of 1876, s. 7.

115. If any seaman or apprentice not shipped in British India is imprisoned for any offence for which he has been sentenced to imprisonment for a term not exceeding one month, any Magistrate may deal with him in the same way as he may deal with a seaman or apprentice imprisoned on any of the grounds mentioned in section one hundred and fourteen.

Act XIII of 1876, s. 7.

116. If any seaman or apprentice not shipped in British India is imprisoned on a complaint made by or on behalf of the master or owner of the ship in which he is engaged to serve, on any of the grounds mentioned in section one hundred and fourteen or for any offence for which he has been sentenced to imprisonment for a term not exceeding one month, the following rules shall be observed:—

(a) No person shall, while such imprisonment lasts, without the previous sanction in writing of the Local Government or of such officer as it appoints in this behalf, engage any Native of India to serve as a seaman on board such ship:

(b) the Local Government, or such officer as it appoints in this behalf, may tender such seaman or apprentice to the master or owner of the ship in which he is engaged to serve, and if such master or owner, without assigning reasons satisfactory to the Local Government or to such officer as aforesaid refuse to receive him on board, may require such master or owner to deposit in the local shipping office (1) the wages due to such seaman or apprentice, and his money, clothes and other effects, and (2) such sum as may in the opinion of the Local Government or of such officer as aforesaid be sufficient to defray the cost of the passage of the said seaman or apprentice to the port at which he was shipped, according to the scale of cost usual in the case of distressed seamen.

Whoever wilfully disobeys the prohibition contained in clause (a) of this section shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months, or with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or with both.

Any master or owner refusing or neglecting to deposit such wages, money, clothes and other effects, or such sum as aforesaid, shall be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, and in default of payment of such fine, with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months.

Act I of 1859,
s. 89.

117. In all cases of desertion from any ship registered at a port or place in British India while such ship is at any place out of British India, the master shall produce the entry of such desertion in the official log-book to the person or persons required by the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, to endorse on the agreement a certificate of such desertion; and such person or persons shall thereupon make and certify a copy of such entry and also a copy of the said certificate of desertion. The master shall forthwith transmit such copies to the shipping master at the port where such seaman was engaged, who shall, if required, cause the same to be produced in any legal proceeding; and such copies, if purporting to be so made and certified as aforesaid, shall in any legal proceeding relating to such desertion be received as evidence of the entries therein appearing.

Act I of 1859,
s. 90.

118. Whenever a question arises whether the wages of any seaman or apprentice are forfeited for desertion, it shall be sufficient for the party insisting on the forfeiture to show that such seaman or apprentice was duly engaged in, or that he belonged to, the ship from which he is alleged to have deserted, and that he quitted such ship before the completion of the voyage or engagement, or if such voyage was to terminate at any port or place in British India, and the ship has not returned, that he is absent from her, and that an entry of the desertion has been duly made in the official log-book. Thereupon the desertion shall, so far as relates to any forfeiture of wages or emoluments under the provisions hereinbefore contained, be deemed to be proved, unless the seaman or apprentice can produce a proper certificate of discharge or can otherwise show to the satisfaction of the Court that he had sufficient reasons for leaving his ship.

Act I of 1859,
s. 91.

119. Whenever in any proceeding relating to seamen's wages it is shown that any seaman or apprentice has in the course of the voyage been convicted of any offence by any competent tribunal and rightfully punished therefor by imprisonment or otherwise, the Court hearing the case may direct a part of the wages due to such seaman, not exceeding thirty rupees, to be applied in reimbursing any costs properly incurred by the master in procuring such conviction and punishment.

Act I of 1859,
s. 92.

120. Whenever any seaman contracts for wages by the voyage or by the run or by the share, and not by the month or other stated period of time, the amount of forfeiture to be incurred under this Act shall be taken to be an amount bearing the same proportion to the whole wages or share as a month or other the period hereinbefore mentioned in fixing the amount of such forfeiture (as the case may be) bears to the whole time spent in the voyage; and if the whole time spent in the voyage does not exceed the period for which the pay is to be forfeited, the forfeiture shall extend to the whole wages or share.

Act I of 1859,
s. 93.

121. All clothes, effects, wages, and emoluments which under the provisions hereinbefore contained are forfeited for desertion, shall be applied in the first instance in or towards the reimbursement of the expenses occasioned by such desertion to the master or owner of the ship from which the desertion has taken place, and may, if earned subsequently to the desertion, be recovered by such master or by the owner or his agent in the same manner as the deserter might have recovered the same if they had not been forfeited; and in any legal proceeding relating to such wages, the Court may order the same to be paid accordingly; and, subject to such reimbursement, the same shall be paid into the public treasury and carried to the account of Government. In all other cases of forfeiture of wages under the provisions hereinbefore contained, the forfeiture shall, in the absence of any specific directions to the contrary, be for the benefit of the master or owner by whom the wages are payable.

Act I of 1859,
s. 94.

122. Any question concerning the forfeiture of wages or deductions from the wages of any seaman or apprentice, may be determined in any proceeding lawfully instituted with respect to such wages, notwithstanding that the offence in respect of which such question arises, though hereby made punishable by imprisonment as well as forfeiture, has not been made the subject of any criminal proceeding.

Act I of 1859,
s. 95.

123. If any seaman, on or before being engaged, wilfully and fraudulently makes a false statement of the name of his last ship, or last alleged ship, or wilfully and fraudulently makes a false statement of his own name, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees, and such fine may be deducted from any wages he may earn by virtue of such engagement as aforesaid, and shall, subject to reimbursement of the loss and expenses (if any) occasioned by any previous desertion, be paid and applied in the same manner as other fines payable under this Act.

Act I of 1850, s. 96.
M. S. Act, 1854, s. 256.

124. Whenever any seaman commits an act of misconduct for which his agreement imposes a fine, and which it is intended to punish by enforcing such fine, an entry thereof shall be made in the official log-book, and a copy of such entry shall be furnished or the same shall be read over to the offender, and an entry of such reading over and of the reply (if any) made by the offender shall be made, in the manner and subject to the conditions hereinbefore specified with respect to the offences against discipline specified in and punishable under this Act.

CHAPTER XIII.

INVESTIGATIONS INTO CASUALTIES.

136. Nothing in this chapter affects the powers conferred by section 240 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, on Courts having admiralty jurisdiction in India.

137. Whenever any Magistrate, or any officer appointed by the Local Government in this behalf, receives credible information that—

wards became Act VII of 1860. Cf. M. S. Act, 1854, s. 432.

(b) by reason of any casualty happening to or on board of any ship on or near such coasts, loss of life has ensued; or

(c) any ship has caused loss or material damage to any other ship on or near such coasts; or

(d) any such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty has happened elsewhere to any British ship, and any competent witnesses thereof have arrived or are to be found at any place in British India; or

(e) any British ship is supposed to have been lost, and any evidence can be obtained in British India as to the circumstances under which she proceeded to sea or was last heard of;

he shall forthwith report in writing such information to the Local Government.

In the cases mentioned in clauses (a), (b) and (c), the master, pilot, harbour-master or other person in charge of the ship or (where two ships are concerned) in charge of each ship, at the time of such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty, and in cases under clause (d), where the master of the ship concerned, or (except in case of a loss) where the ship concerned, proceeds to any place in British India from the place where such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty has occurred, the master of such ship, shall, on arriving in British India, give immediate notice of such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty to the nearest Magistrate, or, when he arrives at a port in British India, to the officer appointed at such port as aforesaid.

Any person bound to give notice under this section and wilfully failing to give the same shall be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, and, in default of payment, to simple imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months.

See Act IV of 1875, s. 4.

138. If in any such case a formal investigation into the facts mentioned in section one hundred and thirty-seven, clause (a), (b), (c), (d) or (e), appears to the Local Government to be requisite or expedient, the Local Government (whether such notice be given or not) may appoint a special Court, consisting of not less than two nor more than four persons, and direct such Court to make such investigation, and may fix the place for making the same.

One of such persons shall be a Magistrate acting in or near the place where the investigation is made; another shall be some person conversant with maritime affairs: the other or others (if any) shall be conversant with either maritime or mercantile affairs.

See Act IV of 1875, s. 5.

139. Every Court having admiralty jurisdiction in British India, and the principal Court of ordinary criminal jurisdiction at every port of British India where there is no Court having admiralty jurisdiction, is hereby authorized, when so directed by the Local Government, to make the investigations referred to in section one hundred and thirty-eight.

140. Any Court making an investigation under section one hundred and thirty-eight or section one hundred and thirty-nine may inquire into any charge of incompetency or misconduct against any master, mate or engineer as well as into any charge of a wrongful act or default on his part causing any such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty as aforesaid.

In every case in which any such charge, whether of incompetency or misconduct, or of a wrongful act or default, as aforesaid, arises against any master, mate or engineer in the course of an investigation, the Court shall before the commencement of such inquiry cause to be furnished to him a copy of the report or statement of the case upon which the investigation has been directed.

141. If the Local Government has reason to believe that there are grounds for charging any master, mate or engineer holding a certificate granted by the Board of Trade or a Local Government with incompetency or misconduct, otherwise than in the course of an investigation under section one hundred and thirty-eight or section one hundred and thirty-nine, it may transmit a statement of the case to any Court mentioned in section one hundred and thirty-nine, at or nearest to the place at which it may be convenient for the parties and witnesses to attend, and may direct such Court to make an investigation into such charge.

Before commencing such investigation, the Court shall cause the master, mate or engineer so charged to be furnished with a copy of the statement so transmitted by the Local Government.

142. For the purpose of an investigation under this chapter into any charge against a master, mate or engineer, the Court may summon him to appear, and shall give him full opportunity of making a defence, either in person or otherwise.

143. For the purpose of any investigation under this chapter, the Court making the investigation, so far as relates to compelling the attendance and examination of witnesses and the production of documents and the regulation of the proceedings, shall have—

(a) if such Court is a special Court, the same powers as are exercisable by the principal Court of ordinary criminal jurisdiction for the place at which the investigation is made;

(b) if such Court is a Court having admiralty jurisdiction or a principal Court of ordinary criminal jurisdiction, the same powers as are exercisable by such Court in the exercise of such admiralty or criminal jurisdiction (as the case may be).

When any investigation involves or appears likely to involve any question as to the cancelling or suspension of the certificate of a master, mate or engineer, the Court making such investigation shall constitute as its assessors for the purpose of the investigation two persons having experience in the merchant-service; and in every other investigation the Court making it may, if it think fit, constitute as its assessor for the purposes of the investigation any person conversant with maritime affairs and willing to act as such assessor.

Such persons shall attend during the investigation and deliver their opinions in writing, to be recorded on the proceedings. But the exercise of all powers conferred on the Court by this Act or any other enactment for the time being in force shall rest with the Court.

Act IV of 1875, s. 15.

144. If any Court making an investigation under this chapter thinks it necessary for obtaining evidence that any person should be arrested, it may issue a warrant for his arrest, and may, for the purpose of effecting such arrest, authorize any officer (subject, nevertheless, to any general or special instructions from the Local Government) to enter any vessel.

Any officer so authorized may, for the purpose of enforcing such entry, call to his aid any officers of police or customs, or any other persons, and may seize and detain the vessel for such time as is reasonably necessary to effect the arrest; and every such officer or other person shall be deemed to be a public servant within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code, section 186.

No person shall be detained by virtue of this section for more than forty-eight hours.

Act IV of 1875, s. 16.

145. Whenever, in the course of any such investigation, it appears that any person has committed within the jurisdiction of any Court in British India an offence punishable under any law in force in British India, the Court making the investigation may (subject to such rules consistent with this Act as the High Court may from time to time prescribe) cause him to be arrested, or commit him or hold him to bail to take his trial before the proper Court; and may bind over any person to give evidence at such trial, and may, for the purposes of this section, exercise all the powers of a Magistrate of the first class or of a Presidency Magistrate.

And whenever in the course of such trial the testimony of any witness is required in relation to the subject-matter, any deposition previously made by him in relation to the same subject-matter before any Court making an investigation under this chapter shall, if authenticated by the signature of the Magistrate or presiding Judge, be admissible in evidence on proof—

(a) that the witness cannot be found within the jurisdiction of the Court before which the trial is held; and

(b) that it was made in the presence of the person accused and that he had an opportunity of cross-examining such witness.

A certificate by the Magistrate or presiding Judge that the deposition was made in the presence of the accused and that he had such opportunity shall, unless the contrary be proved, be sufficient evidence that it was so made.

For the purposes of this section the Recorder of Rangoon shall, within the local limits of his ordinary civil jurisdiction, be deemed to be the High Court.

Act IV of 1875, ss. 11 and 12.

146. The Court shall, in the case of all investigations under this chapter, transmit to the Local Government a full report of the conclusions at which it has arrived, together with the evidence.

In cases in which, under the Merchant Shipping Acts, 1854 to 1880, the Court is required to send a report to the Board of Trade, such report shall be sent through the Local Government, and the transmission of such report to the Local Government shall be a sufficient compliance with this section.

CHAPTER XIV.

SUSPENSION, &c., OF CERTIFICATES.

147. Nothing herein contained shall affect the powers conferred by the Merchant Shipping Acts, 1854 to 1880, on the Courts conducting investigations or inquiries under sections one hundred and thirty-eight, one hundred and thirty-nine, one hundred and forty and one hundred and forty-one of this Act, to cancel or suspend certificates granted under any of the said Merchant Shipping Acts, or certificates to which the provisions of any such Act have been made applicable under the Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869.

When any such Court cancels or suspends any such certificate, it may, in certificates in lieu of its report to the Local Government, advise such Government to grant, without examination, to the holder of such certificate, when such certificate is a certificate as master, a certificate as mate; and, when such certificate is a certificate as mate or engineer, a certificate as mate or engineer, as the case may be of a grade lower than that which he held at the time of such cancellation or suspension; and such Local Government, if it thinks fit, and if it is empowered by any enactment of a British Indian legislature for the time being in force to grant such certificate, may grant it under such enactment, but without examination. A certificate so granted shall have the same effect as if it had been granted after examination, but shall not have the effect of a certificate granted under the Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869, or of any order in Council under the said Act.

The power to grant a certificate conferred by this section may be exercised by the Local Government even though the Court has not advised it so to do.

148. Any certificate (whether of competency or service) which has been granted by any Local Government to any master, mate or engineer, but has not been granted under the provisions of the Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869, or of any order in Council under the said Act, may be suspended or cancelled, by that or any other Local Government, in the following cases, that is to say:—

(a) if, upon any investigation made under this Act, the Court reports that the loss, stranding or abandonment of, or damage to, any ship, or loss of life, has been caused by his wrongful act or default, or that he is incompetent, or has been guilty of any gross act of drunkenness, tyranny or other misconduct;

(b) if, upon any investigation made under the provisions of the Merchant Shipping Acts, 1854 to 1880, or upon any investigation made by any Court or tribunal for the time being authorized by the legislative authority in any British possession to make enquiry into charges of incompetency or misconduct on the part of masters, mates or engineers of ships, or as to shipwrecks or other casualties affecting ships, the Court or tribunal reports that such master, mate or engineer is incompetent, or has been guilty of any gross act of misconduct, drunkenness or tyranny, or that the loss, stranding or abandonment of, or damage to, any ship, or loss of life, has been caused by his wrongful act or default;

Act IV of 1875, s. 18, cl. (d).

(c) if he is proved to have been convicted of any offence after conviction of any offence:

(d) if (in the case of a master) he has been superseded by the order of any Admiralty Court, or of any Naval Court constituted as provided by the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, or by any other law for the time being in force:

Provided that, in any case in which an investigation has been made into a charge against any master, mate or engineer, no certificate shall be suspended or cancelled under clause (a) unless the Local Government is satisfied that the holder of the certificate has been furnished before the commencement of the investigation with the copy of the report or statement required by section one hundred and forty, or section one hundred and forty-one, as the case may be.

See Act IV of 1875, s. 19.

149. Every master, mate or engineer whose certificate is cancelled or suspended under section one hundred and forty-eight shall deliver it to the shipping-master, or to such other person as the Local Government which cancelled or suspended the certificate directs, and in default of such delivery shall, for each offence, be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

See Act IV of 1875, s. 20.

150. If the Local Government which cancels or suspends, under section one hundred and forty-eight a certificate of a master, mate, or engineer, is not the Local Government that granted the same, the Local Government so cancelling or suspending the certificate shall report the proceedings, and the fact of cancellation or suspension, to the Local Government which granted such certificate.

See Act IV of 1875, s. 21.

151. Every Local Government cancelling or suspending, under section one hundred and forty-eight, the certificate of a master, mate or engineer shall, as soon as may be practicable, report to the Board of Trade the fact of such cancellation or suspension.

See Act IV of 1875, s. 22.

152. Any Local Government may, at any time, revoke any order of cancellation or suspension which it may have made under section one hundred and forty-eight or grant, without examination, to any person, whose certificate it has so cancelled, a new certificate of the same or of any lower grade.

A certificate so granted shall have the same effect as if it had been granted after examination, but shall not have the effect of a certificate granted under the Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869, or of any order in Council under the said Act.

A certificate of competency for a home-trade ship under this Act shall be deemed, for the purpose of this section, to be of a lower grade than a certificate of competency for a foreign-going ship under the same Act.

CHAPTER XV.

HEALTH-OFFICERS.

153. The Local Government may, from time to time, appoint, at any time, subject to the Indian Ports Act, 1875, an officer to be called the Health-officer, and may suspend or remove from office any officer so appointed.

Such officer shall, subject to the control of the Local Government, have the following powers within the limits of the port for which he is appointed, that is to say:—

- with respect to any ship, the powers conferred by section eighty-four on a shipping master;
- power to enter on board any ship and medically examine all or any of the seamen or apprentices on board such ship;
- power to require and enforce the production of the log-book and any other books, papers or documents which he thinks necessary for the purpose of enquiring into the health and medical condition of the persons on board such ship;
- power to call before him and examine for such purpose all or any of such persons, and to require answers to any enquiries he thinks fit to make;
- power to require any person so examined by him to make and subscribe a declaration of the truth of the statements made by such person.

CHAPTER XVI.

MISCELLANEOUS.

154. Whenever in the course of any legal proceedings instituted at any port or place in British India before any Judge or Magistrate or before any person authorized by law or by consent of parties to receive evidence, the testimony of any witness is required in relation to the subject-matter of such proceeding, any deposition that such witness may have previously made in relation to the same subject-matter before any Justice or Magistrate in Her Majesty's dominions (including all parts of British India other than those subject to the same Local Government as the port or place where such proceedings are instituted), or any British consular officer elsewhere, shall, if authenticated by the signature of the Justice, Magistrate or consular officer, be admissible in evidence on due proof that such witness cannot be found within the jurisdiction of the Court in which such proceedings are instituted.

Provided that, if the proceeding is criminal, such deposition shall not be admissible unless it was made in the presence of the person accused, and the fact that it was so made is certified by the Justice, Magistrate or consular officer.

It shall not be necessary in any case to prove the signature or official character of the person appearing to have signed any such deposition; and in any criminal proceeding, such certificate as aforesaid shall, unless the contrary is proved, be sufficient evidence of the accused having been present in manner thereby certified.

Act I of 1859, s. 113.

155. In all cases where any Court or Magistrate has power to make an order directing payment to be made of any seaman's wages, penalties or other sums of money, then if the party so directed to pay the same is the master or owner of a ship and the same is not paid at the time and in manner prescribed in the order, the Court or Magistrate who made the order may, in addition to any other powers which such Court or Magistrate may have for the purpose of compelling payment, direct the amount remaining unpaid to be levied by distress and sale of the said ship, her tackle, furniture and apparel.

See Act IV of 1875, s. 20.

156. In sections 2, 15, 17 and 23 of the said Act Amendment of Act X No. X of 1841, for the words "on information in any Court of Her Majesty or the East India Company by the Advocates General of the respective Presidencies," "by information as aforesaid," "on information as aforesaid," in each of the places where they occur, the following words shall be substituted, namely:—"on conviction before a Presidency Magistrate or a Magistrate of the first class."

Act XIII of 1875, s. 3.

157. A certificate signed by a Secretary to the Local Government, or by such other officer as it appoints in this behalf, to the effect that any seaman named therein is distressed, shall, in all proceedings under sections 211, 212 and 213 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, be conclusive evidence that such seaman is distressed within the meaning of the same sections; and any master of a British ship refusing to accept such seaman as a distressed seaman under the provisions of the said sections shall, for each seaman with respect to whom he so refuses, be punished with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees.

with the amendments proposed in the Bill. At the same time, we have taken the opportunity to make some amendments in the present law, which have been suggested to us by the Financial Department.

8. The most important of these amendments are the following :—

First.—In section 5 of the Bill, as amended, we have empowered the Governor General in Council to establish, in any Circle of Issue, an office to be called a Currency Agency. For each such office, an officer, to be called the Currency Agent, is to be appointed (section 6), who is to be subordinate to the Head Commissioner, Commissioner or Deputy Commissioner of the Circle in which his office is situate. We have, in section 9, provided for the supply of currency notes to Currency Agents, and, in section 11, empowered the Agent to issue notes, if he thinks fit to do so. The notes so issued from a Currency Agency will be payable at the office, and a legal tender within the Circle of Issue, at and within which they would have been payable, and a legal tender, had they been issued from the town of Issue for the Circle in which the Agency is established. We have inserted these provisions merely with the object of removing all doubts as to the legality of the existing practice.

Secondly.—We have repealed the provisions of the Act which related to the issue of currency notes in exchange for bullion or foreign coin. The effect of the present law is, that importers of bullion instead of having to wait until their bullion can be converted under the Indian Coinage Act, into coin, can at once obtain the equivalent in coin, at the expense of the Currency Reserve; that is, they can transfer, from themselves to the Currency Department, the inconvenience of having to hold their importation, pending coinage, in a form which is not legal tender. The rush of silver bullion which occurred in 1877, showed that this might be carried to such an extent as to sensibly diminish, for a time, the value of the Currency Reserve as a security for the due encashment of currency notes. It has, therefore, been considered advisable to abolish those provisions of the law which might divert the Currency Reserve from its primary use as a Reserve for the encashment of notes. In order to give the public notice of this change in the law, we have provided that this repeal shall not take effect till the first of July next.

4. We have also made the following minor amendments. We have adopted the designation “the Department of Paper Currency” for the designation “the Department of Issue,” which is used in the Paper Currency Act, and have made a similar change in the titles of the Head Commissioner, Commissioners and Deputy Commissioners of the Department.

We have provided, in section 11 of the Bill, that notes shall be issued in exchange for the amount thereof in current silver coin made under the Portuguese Convention Act, 1881, or in current silver coin made under the Native Coinage Act, 1876, as to which a declaration has been made under that Act that a tender of payment of money, if made in such coin, shall be a legal tender in British India.

6. The publication ordered by the Council has been made; but, in view of the changes made in the present law by the Bill, we consider that it should be re-published in the Gazette of India.

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 16th February, 1882, and was referred to a Select Committee:—

No. 4 OF 1882.

A Bill to amend the Indian Railway Act, 1879.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Indian Railway Act, 1879, in manner Hereinafter appearing; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

1. This Act may be called "The Indian Railway Act, 1882;" and it shall come into force at once.

2. For section five of the said Act the following sections shall be substituted, namely:—

"5. No Railway, or portion or extension of, or addition to, a Railway, shall be opened for the public conveyance of passengers until the Railway Administration has given to the Governor General in Council notice in writing of the intention of opening the same, and until the Governor General in Council has by an order in writing sanctioned the opening of the same.

"No such sanction shall be given until an officer, appointed by the Governor General in Council to inspect such Railway, portion, extension or addition, has, after inspection thereof, reported in writing to the Governor General in Council that in his opinion the opening of the same would not be attended with danger to the public using the same.

"Notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, the Governor General in Council may, in any particular case, by a special order in writing, confer on any officer so appointed power to sanction the opening of such Railway, portion, extension or addition, if in such officer's opinion the opening of the same will not be attended with danger to the public using the same.

"In such case it shall not be necessary to make the report required by the second paragraph of this section.

"5A. The Governor General in Council may at any time cause any Railway which has been opened for the public conveyance of passengers, or any portion thereof, to be inspected by an officer appointed by him to make such inspection.

"5B. Every officer so appointed shall, for the purpose of such inspection, and subject to the control of the Governor General in Council, have the following powers, namely:—

"(a) he may enter on and inspect the Railway or portion thereof which he has been appointed to inspect;

"(b) he may by summons under his hand require the attendance of any Railway-servant whom he thinks fit to call before him and examine for the said purpose, and may require such servant to answer, or furnish returns regarding, such inquiries for the said purpose as he thinks fit to make;

"(c) he may require and enforce the production of all books, papers and documents belonging to or in the possession of any Railway Administration which in his opinion are necessary for the said purpose.

"5C. Whenever any officer so appointed to inspect any Railway or portion thereof reports in writing to the Governor General in Council that in his opinion the use of such Railway or portion will be attended with danger to the public using the same, the Governor General in Council may, by an order in writing, direct such Railway or portion thereof to be closed for the public conveyance of passengers.

"5D. No Railway or portion thereof which has been closed under section 5C shall be re-opened for the public conveyance of passengers unless and until such Railway or portion has been inspected, and the opening thereof sanctioned, in accordance with the provisions of section five."

2. In section eight of the said Act, in clause (d), Amendment of, and the word "and" shall be addition to, section 8., omitted, and after clause (d) the following clause, shall be, and be deemed to have always been, inserted:—

"(dd) for regulating the conduct of the Railway-servants, and".

3. For section twenty-one of the said Act the following section shall be substituted:—

"21. Any Railway Administration opening, in contravention of section five, any Railway, or any portion or extension of, or addition to, a Railway, or re-opening in contravention of section 5D any Railway or portion thereof, or keeping any Railway or portion thereof open in contravention of an order of the Governor General in Council under section 5C, shall forfeit to Government the sum of one thousand rupees for every day during which the same remains open in contravention of such section or of such order of the Governor General in Council, as the case may be."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE object of this Bill is to make one or two amendments of the Indian Railway Act, 1879, which the experience of the last three years has shown to be desirable.

Section 5 of the Act, as it stands at present, does not show as clearly as it should that the sanction of the Governor General in Council is necessary before any railway or portion or extension of, or addition to, a railway is opened for the public conveyance of passengers. To remedy this defect, the section has been recast by the Bill, which makes it clear that the Government Inspector has of himself authority only to inspect and report on the line for the orders of the Governor General in Council. In order, however, to prevent inconvenience in special cases, an addition has been made to the section enabling the Governor General in Council to delegate to the inspecting officer in special cases the powers of sanctioning the opening of a railway conferred on the Governor General in Council by the section.

The Act does not now empower the Governor General in Council to inspect a line after it has once been opened for the public conveyance of passengers. At present, the absence of such a power is not of much importance, as the Government has full right under its contracts with the various Railway Companies to make what inspections it likes; but, if private enterprise hereafter starts railways independent of Government, it may be seriously inconvenient to be unable to inspect such lines and ascertain whether they are being maintained in a safe and efficient state. Certain provisions have, therefore, been inserted after section 5 of the Act which empower Government to cause a line to be inspected by an officer to be appointed for the purpose, define his powers for the purpose of such inspection, authorise the Government to close any line reported not to be in a safe state for the public conveyance of passengers, and provide for the re-opening of such line only after its opening has been declared to be possible without danger to the public. An addition has also been made to section 21 imposing a penalty on any Railway Administration which does not close a railway in compliance with an order by Government to that effect, or re-opens a railway which has been closed without the sanction of Government.

Lastly, the Act, as it stands at present, does not empower Railway Administrations to impose fines by their bye-laws on their servants who may be guilty of breach of duty. This power is essential for the enforcement and maintenance of discipline on railways, and the Bill (here following the English Companies Clauses Act, 1845, sections 124, 125) confers the requisite authority.

Penalty for opening or re-opening Railway in contravention of sections 5 and 5D, and keeping open after order under section 5C.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The object of this Bill is to make one or two amendments of the Indian Railway Act, 1879, which the experience of the last three years has shown to be desirable.

Section 5 of the Act, as it stands at present, does not show as clearly as it should that the sanction of the Governor General in Council is necessary before any railway or portion or extension of, or addition to, a railway is opened for the public conveyance of passengers. To remedy this defect, the section has been recast by the Bill, which makes it clear that the Government Inspector has of himself authority only to inspect and report on the line for the orders of the Governor General in Council. An addition has also been made to section 21 imposing a penalty on any Railway Administration which does not close a railway in compliance with an order by Government to that effect, or re-opens a railway which has been closed without the sanction of Government.

Lastly, the Act, as it stands at present, does not empower Railway Administrations to impose fines by their bye-laws on their servants who may be guilty of breach of duty. This power is essential for the enforcement and maintenance of discipline on railways, and the Bill (here following the English Companies Clauses Act, 1845, sections 124, 125) confers the requisite authority.

A Bill to provide for the inspection of Steam-boilers and Prime-movers attached thereto in British Burma.

WHEREAS it is expedient to provide for the inspection of steam-boilers and prime-movers attached thereto in British Burma; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

I.—Preliminary.

1. This Act may be called "The British Burma Steam-boilers and Prime-movers Act, 1882"; and it shall come into force on such day as the Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, may direct by notification in the British Burma Gazette.

It extends in the first instance to the towns of Rangoon, Maulmain, Akyab and Bassein; and the Local Government may, by notification in the British Burma Gazette, extend it, from such date as may be specified in the notification, to any other local area in the territories administered by such Government.

Nothing herein contained shall apply to any locomotive engine used upon a railway or to any engine on board of a ship, launch or boat.

2. In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context,—

"Boiler" includes any vessel used for generating steam under pressure;

"Prime-mover" includes any steam-engine, and, when attached to any such engine, a fly-wheel, first driving shaft or pulley;

"Owner" includes also any person using any boiler or prime-mover as agent of the owner thereof, and any person using a boiler or prime-mover which he has hired from the owner thereof.

"Inspector" means a person appointed under this Act to be an Inspector.

II.—Inspectors and Engineers.

3. The Local Government may from time to time appoint such persons to be Inspectors as it thinks fit, and suspend or remove any person so appointed.

Such persons shall, within such local area as the Local Government may from time to time direct, exercise the powers, and perform the duties, conferred and imposed by this Act on an Inspector.

4. The Local Government may from time to time make rules regulating the examination of, and the grant of certificates to, the examination of, and the grant (with or without examination) of certificates to, persons to act as engineers of the first or second class under this Act, and the cancellation of certificates so granted.

III.—Inspection of Boilers, &c.

5. No boiler or prime-mover shall be used unless and until a license authorizing such use, has been granted hereunder, and unless such boiler or prime-mover is in charge of an engineer to whom a certificate has been granted in accordance with the rules made under section four.

6. When the owner of any boiler or primemover desires to obtain a license in respect thereof, he shall give notice of his intention to use the same to the Inspector for the local area within which the boiler or primemover is situated. On receipt of such notice, the Inspector shall appoint a day and time, after sunrise and before sunset, for the inspection of such boiler or primemover.

The day so appointed shall be a day, if the boiler or prime-mover is situate in Rangoon, not later than seven days, and if it is situate elsewhere, not later than thirty days, from the day on which such notice is received. On the day and at the time so appointed, the Inspector shall carefully examine such boiler or prime-mover, and every part thereof; and the owner or person in charge thereof shall afford to such Inspector all reasonable facilities for such examination and all such information regarding such boiler or prime-mover as he may reasonably require.

When any boiler or prime-mover is in charge of an engineer who has obtained under section four a certificate as engineer of the first class, the Local Government may appoint such engineer to be Inspector with regard to such boiler or prime-mover, and in that case no other Inspector shall examine such boiler or prime-mover.

7. If, on making the examination under section six, the Inspector is of opinion that the boiler or prime-mover requires any alteration or addition, he shall refuse to grant a license until such alteration or addition is made, and shall serve on the owner of the boiler or prime-mover a written notice of such refusal specifying the alteration or addition which in such Inspector's opinion is required.

8. If the Inspector is satisfied that such boiler or prime-mover is in good condition, and not so exposed as to be likely to be dangerous, When Inspector to grant license.

and, when a notice has been served under section seven, that the alteration or addition specified in such notice has been properly made, such notice has been properly made, and that such boiler or prime-mover is in charge of an engineer to whom a certificate has been granted in accordance with the rules made here-

He shall give to the owner thereof a written receipt signed by him in the form in the schedule hereto annexed, on payment, by such owner, of such fee as the Local Government may by rule prescribe.

Such license shall state the period for which such boiler or prime-mover may be used, and shall cease to be in force on the expiration of such period.

9. Any person authorized by the Chief Commissioner in this behalf may revoke or suspend any license granted under this Act in respect of any boiler or prime-mover when he has reason to believe—

(a) that such license has been fraudulently obtained, or has been granted erroneously, or without sufficient examination;

(b) that the boiler or prime-mover in respect of which it has been granted is not in charge of an engineer to whom a certificate has been granted hereunder or is not in good condition, or has, since the granting of such license, sustained injury.

10. The owner of any boiler or prime-mover may appeal against refusal, appeal from any order made revocation or suspension hereunder refusing to grant, of license. or revoking or suspending, a license. Such appeal shall, within seven days from the day on which such owner received the order appealed against, be presented to some person authorized by the Chief Commissioner to hear appeals hereunder. Every such person shall be deemed to be a public servant within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code, and may, if he thinks fit, summon to his assistance, in such manner as the Local Government may from time to time direct, two competent assessors, and such assessors shall attend and assist accordingly.

If such person is satisfied that such owner is entitled to such license, he shall, on payment of the fee, grant a license in the form in the schedule hereto annexed, or shall cancel the order revoking or suspending the license, as the case may be.

If such person is of opinion that the order appealed against is right, he shall dismiss the appeal, and the costs of the appeal incurred by Government and certified by him shall be recoverable from the appellant as a fine by any Magistrate having jurisdiction in the place where the boiler or prime-mover is situate.

11. Except as provided in section six, any Inspector may at any time enter into any place or building, where he has reason to believe that a boiler or prime-mover is used, for the purpose of inspecting and examining the same.

12. Every owner, or person in charge, of any boiler or prime-mover who uses the same in contravention of the provisions of section five, and every such owner or person who uses any boiler or prime-mover and who fails to produce the license granted hereunder in respect thereof, when called upon at any reasonable time to do so by any Magistrate having jurisdiction in the place in which such boiler or prime-mover is situate, or by any person authorized in writing by such Magistrate to demand the production of such license, and every person who prevents an Inspector from entering, under section eleven, any place or building, shall be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

13. No charge of an offence under this Act shall be brought against any person before such day as the Local Government may, by notification in the British Burma Gazette, appoint in this behalf, or without the previous sanction of an Inspector, or after the expiration of six months from the date of the commission of the offence.

14. The Local Government may, from time to time, define what shall be deemed to be for the purposes of this Act the local limits of the towns of Rangoon, Maulmain, Akyab and Bassein, respectively.

15. The Local Government may from time to time make rules consistent with this Act for all or any of the following purposes, that is to say—

- (a) for the appointment, suspension or removal of Inspectors;
- (b) for prescribing the powers and duties of Inspectors;
- (c) for fixing the fees payable on account of licenses granted hereunder;
- (d) for determining the time for which such licenses shall be in force;
- (e) for regulating the procedure on hearing appeals; and generally
- (f) for carrying out the purposes of this Act.

The Local Government may from time to time cancel or vary any rule made by it hereunder.

All such rules shall be published thrice in the British Burma Gazette, and shall come into force on the day on which they are last so published, or on such later day as may be specified in the notification publishing them.

SCHEDULE.

FORM OF LICENSE.

[illegible]

I, the undersigned, certify that I have examined the above-named boiler (or prime-mover), and, to the best of my judgment, the boiler (or prime-mover), as shown in the above statement, is in good condition, and is not so exposed as to be likely to be dangerous. The engineer in charge is possessed of a certificate of competency or service [and (in case alterations or additions have been required) the alterations (or additions) required by me have been properly made].

A. B., Inspector.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE recent increase in the use of steam-power in British Burma for rice-mills, sawing timber and other purposes is considerable, and will probably continue. Where the steam-engines are under the control of competent European workmen, there is not much danger of accidents; but, in Rangoon and other towns in that Province, steam-engines are sometimes placed in charge of persons who have no knowledge of steam or the steam-engine. Unless while working they are tended by skilled workmen, boilers and prime-movers are liable to speedy decay through wear and tear and neglect, and become dangerous. There is also danger from repairs to boilers and prime-movers being executed by unskilled workmen.

At present, the Government has no power of ascertaining that proper precautions are taken to prevent accidents, and it is obviously desirable, in the interests of workmen and others employed in connection with steam-engines, that such power should be given. The present Bill has accordingly been prepared on the lines of Bengal Act No. III of 1879, which provides for the periodical inspection of steam-boilers and prime-movers in the town and suburbs of Calcutta and in Howrah. It empowers the Local Government to appoint an inspector to examine boilers and prime-movers and to grant licenses authorizing their use; and it prohibits the use of boilers and prime-movers for which licenses have not been granted, and which are not in charge of engineers to whom certificates have been given. The Bill also gives power to the Local Government to provide for the examination of, and the grant of certificates to, persons to act as engineers of the first or second class. Where boilers and prime-movers are in charge of a first class engineer, the Bill provides that he may be appointed inspector of such boilers and prime-movers, which will not in that case be liable to any other inspection.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Third Publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 16th February, 1882, and was referred to a Select Committee:—

No. 4 OF 1882.

A Bill to amend the Indian Railway Act, 1879.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Indian Railway Act, 1879, in manner hereinafter appearing; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

1. This Act may be called "The Indian Railway Act, 1882;"
Short title. and it shall come into force at once.
Commencement.

2. For section five of the said Act the following sections shall be substituted, namely:—

"5. No Railway, or portion or extension of, or addition to, a Railway, shall be opened for the public conveyance of passengers until the Railway Administration has given to the Governor General in Council notice in writing of the intention of opening the same, and until the Governor General in Council has by an order in writing sanctioned the opening of the same.

"No such sanction shall be given until an officer, appointed by the Governor General in Council to inspect such Railway, portion, extension or addition, has, after inspection thereof, reported in writing to the Governor General in Council that in his opinion the opening of the same would not be attended with danger to the public using the same.

"Notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, the Governor General in Council may, in any particular case, by a special order in writing, confer on any officer so appointed power to sanction the opening of such Railway, portion, extension or addition, if in such officer's opinion the opening of the same will not be attended with danger to the public using the same.

"In such case it shall not be necessary to make the report required by the second paragraph of this section.

"5A. The Governor General in Council may at any time cause any Railway which has been opened for the public conveyance of passengers, or any portion thereof, to be inspected by an officer appointed by him to make such inspection.

"5B. Every officer so appointed shall, for the purpose of such inspection, and subject to the control of the Governor General in Council, have the following powers, namely:—

"(a) he may enter on and inspect the Railway or portion thereof which he has been appointed to inspect;

"(b) he may by summons under his hand require the attendance of any Railway-servant whom he thinks fit to call before him and examine for the said purpose, and may require such servant to answer, or furnish returns regarding, such inquiries for the said purpose as he thinks fit to make;

"(c) he may require and enforce the production of all books, papers and documents belonging to or in the possession of any Railway Administration which in his opinion are necessary for the said purpose.

"5C. Whenever any officer so appointed to inspect any Railway or portion thereof reports in writing to the Governor General in Council that in his opinion the use of such Railway or portion will be attended with danger to the public using the same, the Governor General in Council may, by an order in writing, direct such Railway or portion thereof to be closed for the public conveyance of passengers.

"5D. No Railway or portion thereof which has been closed under section 5C shall be re-opened for the public conveyance of passengers unless and until such Railway or portion has been inspected, and the opening thereof sanctioned, in accordance with the provisions of section five."

2. In section eight of the said Act, in clause (d), the word "and" shall be omitted, and after clause (d) the following clause shall be, and be deemed to have always been, inserted:—

"(dd) for regulating the conduct of the Railway-servants, and."

New section to be substituted for section 21 of Act IV of 1879.

"21. Any Railway Administration opening, in contravention of section five, any Railway, or any portion or extension of, or addition to, a Railway, or re-opening in contravention of section 5D any Railway or portion thereof, or keeping any Railway or portion thereof open in contravention of an order of the Governor General in Council under section 5C, shall forfeit to Government the sum of one thousand rupees for every day during which the same remains open in contravention of such section or of such order of the Governor General in Council, as the case may be."

3. For section twenty-one of the said Act the following section shall be substituted:—

Any Railway Administration opening, in contravention of section five, any Railway, or any portion or extension of, or addition to, a Railway, or re-opening in contravention of section 5D any Railway or portion thereof, or keeping any Railway or portion thereof open in contravention of an order of the Governor General in Council under section 5C, shall forfeit to Government the sum of one thousand rupees for every day during which the same remains open in contravention of such section or of such order of the Governor General in Council, as the case may be."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The object of this Bill is to make one or two amendments of the Indian Railway Act, 1879, which the experience of the last three years has shown to be desirable.

Section 5 of the Act, as it stands at present, does not show as clearly as it should that the sanction of the Governor General in Council is necessary before any railway or portion or extension of, or addition to, a railway is opened for the public conveyance of passengers. To remedy this defect, the section has been recast by the Bill, which makes it clear that the Government Inspector has of himself authority only to inspect and report on the line for the orders of the Governor General in Council. In order, however, to prevent inconvenience in special cases, an addition has been made to the section enabling the Governor General in Council to delegate to the inspecting officer in special cases the powers of sanctioning the opening of a railway conferred on the Governor General in Council by the section.

The Act does not now empower the Governor General in Council to inspect a line after it has once been opened for the public conveyance of passengers. At present, the absence of such a power is not of much importance, as the Government has full right under its contracts with the various Railway Companies to make what inspections it likes; but, if private enterprise hereafter starts railways independent of Government, it may be seriously inconvenient to be unable to inspect such lines and ascertain whether they are being maintained in a safe and efficient state. Certain provisions have, therefore, been inserted after section 5 of the Act which empower Government to cause a line to be inspected by an officer to be appointed for the purpose, define his powers for the purpose of such inspection, authorise the Government to close any line reported not to be in a safe state for the public conveyance of passengers, and provide for the re-opening of such line only after its opening has been declared to be possible without danger to the public. An addition has also been made to section 21 imposing a penalty on any Railway Administration which does not close a railway in compliance with an order by Government to that effect, or re-opens a railway which has been closed without the sanction of Government.

Lastly, the Act, as it stands at present, does not empower Railway Administrations to impose fines by their bye-laws on their servants who may be guilty of breach of duty. This power is essential for the enforcement and maintenance of discipline on railways, and the Bill (here following the English Companies Clauses Act, 1845, sections 124, 125) confers the requisite authority.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[First Publication.]

The following further Report of a Select Committee, together with the Bill as settled by them, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 16th March, 1882:—

We, the undersigned members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to provide for the Relief of Encumbered Estates in the Jhānsi Division of the North-Western Provinces was referred, have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin, and have the honour to present this further report.

The Bill, as amended by us, was laid before the Council, with our report dated 4th February, 1881, and was sent to the Local Government for opinion.

The Government of the North-Western Provinces replied in their Secretary's letter, No. 629, dated 25th April, 1881. In that letter, the Lieutenant-Governor suggested an entirely new plan for dealing with the Jhānsi question, and forwarded a memorandum prepared by Mr. Bazett Colvin, and the rough draft of a new Bill.

It is this new Bill which we have now had under consideration.

The chief points of the present scheme, as laid down by Mr. Colvin, are as follows:—

- (1). The indebted zamindār, or an officer appointed for the purpose by the Local Government, may apply to the Commissioner of the Division, stating the debts and liabilities of such zamindār.
- (2). The Commissioner may refer the application to an officer styled "the Special Judge", who is to be appointed for this purpose, and who may, if the Local Government pleases, be one of the District staff.
- (3). On the receipt of an application by the Special Judge, all claims against the indebted zamindār are to be called in.
- (4). In dealing with the claims, the Special Judge is to have powers similar to those conferred on the Courts by the Dekkhan Agriculturists' Relief Act, No. XVII of 1879.
- (5). All proceedings, of whatever kind, taken in other Courts against the indebted zamindār, are to be for ever stayed; and he is to be disabled from contracting fresh liabilities, until certain conditions have been fulfilled.
- (6). The Special Judge will determine the amount of the debts and liabilities of the zamindār, and will ascertain the nature and amount of property possessed by him, other than his proprietary rights in land.
- (7). If the value of such property, other than as aforesaid, is sufficient to pay the debts, the Special Judge will give the creditors decrees, which they may execute through the ordinary Civil Courts.
- (8). If such value is not so sufficient, the Special Judge will submit to the Commissioner a report showing the amount of the debts due by the zamindār, and detailing the property, other than proprietary rights in land, belonging to such zamindār.

- (9). An arbitrary value is then to be put on the zamindar's proprietary rights in land; (1), for the purpose of a loan from Government, a sum equal to eight times the nett annual profits derived from such rights; (2), for the purchase of such rights by Government, a sum equal to sixteen times and two-thirds such nett annual profits.
- (10). If the debts certified by the Special Judge can be met by the proceeds of such other property as the indebted zamindar possesses, together with a sum equal to the loan value of his proprietary rights in land, the zamindar is to be asked if he will accept a loan from Government. If he accepts, the money is to be advanced from the public treasury, and the debts are to be paid. If he declines, the Commissioner may sell his proprietary rights by auction, to the extent necessary to meet the claims certified by the Special Judge.
- (11). When the zamindar accepts a loan, the Government will have a lien on his land. If he fails to repay the loan within the time laid down for that purpose by the Commissioner, his proprietary rights, or such part of them as may be necessary to cover the unpaid portion of the loan, shall vest in the Secretary of State for India in Council.
- (12). When the debts certified by the Special Judge, exceed in amount the aggregate value of the zamindar's other property and of his proprietary rights in land as estimated for the purpose of a loan, the zamindar is to be declared to be insolvent, and his proprietary rights in land are to be sold by auction.
- (13). Such rights will be put up for sale at the upset price of sixteen times and two-thirds the nett annual profits, and sold to the highest bidder above that sum. If there is no bid, the Commissioner will pay to the insolvent's estate a sum equal to sixteen times and two-thirds the nett annual profits. The debts will be paid off, so far as may be practicable, and the insolvent's proprietary rights in land will vest in the Secretary of State for India in Council.
- (14). In all cases in which the proprietary rights shall vest in the Secretary of State for India in Council, the zamindar will continue to hold his sir-land as an ex-proprietary tenant. And the same consequence ensues, as a matter of course, when his rights are sold on his refusal to accept a loan.
- (15). On the final completion of any of these proceedings, that is to say, when the zamindar's proprietary rights have been sold, or when they have vested in the Secretary of State for India in Council, or when the loan has been re-paid, the Commissioner will declare the disabilities imposed on the zamindar to be removed.

The zamindar then will be in this position. If he has taken a loan, he will be liable for the repayment of the loan, by instalments, with interest. He will have to pay these sums in addition to his land-revenue, but they will probably be less than the sums extracted from him by his creditors. He will have his sir-land to live upon, together with whatever remains to him out of his rental, after the payments of instalments of the loan, interest thereon, land-revenue and rates. He will be freed from all other liabilities and encumbrances, and, after the loan is re-paid, will be restored to the full enjoyment of his rights.

If he refuses the loan, he will lose his proprietary rights, in whole or in part, but he will be completely freed from debt, and will continue to hold his sir-land as an ex-proprietary tenant. Such also will be his position if he is declared an insolvent.

We have made the following material alterations in the Bill, as drafted by Mr. Bazett Colvin:—

Firstly, Mr. Colvin provided that, if the debts, as found by the Special Judge, could be met by the proceeds of the sale of the zamindar's property, other than his proprietary rights in land, the Special Judge should give the creditors decrees and leave them to get satisfaction in ordinary course of law. He provided also that, in such case, the zamindar's disabilities were to cease.

It appears to us that the result of this proceeding would be to start the zamindar on a fresh career, with decrees hanging over him, to meet which he would probably raise fresh loans.

We have provided, therefore, that in these cases also the Special Judge shall send a report to the Commissioner, who will cause the property enumerated in the Special Judge's report, or a portion of it, to be sold. If the proceeds are sufficient to pay the debts as determined by the Special Judge, the Commissioner will pay such debts, and the zamindar will thereupon be discharged from all liabilities.

If the proceeds are not so sufficient, the Commissioner will cause the valuation of the zamindar's proprietary rights to be made, and the case will go on as contemplated by Mr. Colvin.

Secondly, we think that the value proposed to be put upon the zamindar's interest in the land is too high. It is probably three times as much as property of the kind in Jhansi would fetch at public auction. We assent to the principle that the zamindar's creditors, whose contracts we propose to override, should be generously dealt with; but we do not think it is safe to advance more than six times the nett annual profits of the property as a loan, or to give more than ten times such profits for the purchase of such property.

The interest chargeable on loans advanced by Government under the Bill has been fixed at five per cent. simple interest, with the assent of the Financial Department. The Bill has been amended accordingly.

Thirdly, we think that, when the debts of the zamindar can be met with a loan, it is unnecessary to provide that his proprietary rights in land shall, on his failure to repay the loan, vest in the Secretary of State for India in Council.

The necessary corollary of this provision is that, when part of the loan has been re-paid, part only of the proprietary rights shall be forfeited. The result will be, that small parts of villages or shares in villages will belong to Government and much trouble will be given to the administration.

It seems to us better to provide that, on the occurrence of a default in the payment of any instalment of principal or interest, the whole sum due shall be deemed to be an arrear of land-revenue, and shall be recoverable as such.

This provision will give the Deputy Commissioner ample power to take possession of the defaulter's land, and, if necessary, will enable Government to sell the defaulter's proprietary rights under the land-revenue law.

The objection taken to this amendment is, that it will compel the district-officer to manage the land. But in any case, whether he assumes possession for a term of years as we propose, or whether the proprietary rights of the defaulter are vested in the Secretary of State for India in Council, some arrangement will have to be made for the management of the land and the collection of the rents. There will be no more difficulty in the one case than in the other.

The Bill appears to us now to be put in as simple a shape as is practicable. We recommend that the Bill, as now amended, be published in the Gazette of India and in the local official Gazette.

- Short title. and it shall come into force on the passing thereof.
- Commencement.
- Interpretation-clause. 2. In this Act—
- "zamindār" means a proprietor of land or of any share in land assessed to revenue, and includes an ubāridār;
- "sir-land" means—
- (a) land recorded as sir at the last settlement or revision of settlement of the district in which it is situate, and continuously so recorded since;
- (b) land continuously cultivated for twelve years by the proprietor himself with his own stock or by his servants, or by hired labour;
- (c) land recognized by village-custom as the special holding of a co-sharer, or treated as such in the distribution of profits or charges among the co-sharers.

CHAPTER II.

APPOINTMENT OF OFFICERS.

3. The Local Government may, from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, appoint, for any local area in the Jhānsī Division, a special Judge, who shall exercise the powers conferred, and perform the duties imposed, by this Act on such officer.
- The Local Government may, at any time, by a like notification, suspend or remove any special Judge so appointed.
- Power to suspend or remove special Judge.

CHAPTER III.

OF THE APPLICATION AND PRELIMINARY INQUIRY.

4. At any time within twelve months after a special Judge is appointed for any local area, any zamindār owning land in such area, or such officer as the Local Government may, from time to time, appoint in this behalf, may apply, in writing, to the Commissioner of the Jhānsī Division, stating that such zamindār is subject to debts or liabilities other than debts due, or liabilities incurred, to Government, or that his immoveable property is encumbered with debts and liabilities other than as aforesaid, and requesting that the provisions of this Act be applied to him:

Provided that, when such zamindār is a disqualified proprietor within the meaning of section 194 of the North-Western Provinces Land-revenue Act, 1873, such application shall be made—

- (a) when his property is under the superintendence of the Court of Wards, by the manager of his property, with the consent of that Court; and
- (b) when his property is not under such superintendence, by the Deputy Commissioner of the district in which such property is situate.

The Local Government may, from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, extend the time for making applications under this section.

5. When any such application is made in the case of any zamindār, the Commissioner shall direct an inquiry to be made by the special Judge—

(a) into the nature and amount of such debts and liabilities other than debts due, and liabilities incurred to Government; and

(b) into the sufficiency of such zamindār's property, whether moveable or immoveable, (exclusive of the property mentioned in the first proviso to section 266 of the Code of Civil Procedure), to discharge such debts and liabilities other than as aforesaid.

6. When an inquiry has been directed under section five, the applicant shall, within a period to be fixed by the Commissioner, submit to the special Judge a statement duly verified by the said applicant, or by some other competent person, in the manner required by law for the verification of plaints.

Such statement shall contain, so far as may be practicable,—

- (a) such particulars as the special Judge may require respecting the debts and liabilities, other than as aforesaid, to which the zamindār is subject, or with which his immoveable property or any part thereof is encumbered;

(b) the nature and value of the zamindār's property (exclusive of his proprietary rights in land and the property mentioned in the first proviso to section 266 of the Code of Civil Procedure); and

(c) the names and residences of his creditors, so far as they are known to, or can be ascertained by, such zamindār.

If any such statement contains any averment which the person making the verification knows or believes to be false, or does not know or believe to be true, he shall be deemed to have intentionally given false evidence within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code:

Provided that, when the application is made by an officer appointed under section four, or by the Deputy Commissioner, it shall not be necessary to verify such statement; but the zamindār shall, so far as may be practicable, within a period to be fixed by the special Judge, furnish such information regarding the matters mentioned in section six, clauses (a), (b) and (c), as such Judge may require.

CHAPTER IV.

PROOF OF DEBTS AND PROCEDURE OF SPECIAL JUDGE.

7. When the duly verified statement or the information referred to in section six has been submitted or furnished, the special Judge shall publish in the official Gazette, a notice in the vernacular language of the district, calling upon all persons having claims against the person or the property of the zamindār, by, or with respect to, whom the application was made, under section four, to present to the special Judge, within two months from the date of such publication, a written statement of such claims.

Provided that, when the claimant satisfies the special Judge that he had sufficient cause for not presenting such statement within such period, the special Judge may receive such statement within a further period of two months from the expiration of the original period.

The special Judge shall also cause copies of such notice to be exhibited at his own office, at the offices of the Commissioner of the Jhānsī Division and the Deputy Commissioner of the district in which the land of such zamindār is situate, and at some conspicuous place in the village where such zamindār resides.

8. After the publication of such notice, the following consequences shall ensue (namely):—

(a) all proceedings then pending in any civil or revenue Court in British India, in respect of all debts and liabilities, other than as aforesaid, to which the zamindār is subject, or with which his immoveable property is encumbered, shall be for ever stayed; and all processes, executions and attachments issued by any such Court, and then in force, in respect of any such debt or liability, shall become null and void;

(b) in respect of such debts and liabilities, no fresh proceedings, processes, executions or attachments shall, except as hereinafter provided, be instituted in, or issued by, any civil or revenue Court in British India;

(c) until the Commissioner has declared, as hereinafter provided, that the zamindār has ceased to be subject to the disabilities mentioned in this clause, such zamindār shall be incompetent to sell, mortgage, exchange, give or, without the consent of the Commissioner, lease, his proprietary rights in land or any part thereof.

9. Every claimant referred to in section seven shall, in the written statement of his claim, present full particulars thereof.

Every document on which the claimant founds his claim, or on which he relies in support thereof, shall be delivered to the special Judge along with such written statement.

If the document be an entry in any book, the claimant shall produce the book to the special Judge together with a copy of the entry on which he relies. The special Judge shall mark the book, for the purpose of identification, and, after examining and comparing the copy with the original, shall return the book to the claimant.

If any document in the possession, or under the control, of the claimant is not delivered or produced by him, as required by this section, the special Judge may refuse to receive such document in evidence on the claimant's behalf, at the investigation of the case.

10. Every such claim (other than claims of the Government), not made within the time and in the manner hereby required, shall be deemed, for all purposes, and on all occasions, to have been duly discharged.

11. The special Judge shall hear the zamindār, or, when the application has been made on behalf of a disqualified proprietor, shall hear the manager of his property, or the Deputy Commissioner, as the case may be, in answer to each claim so made; and, if the amount of any such claim (other than a claim decreed by a competent Court) is disputed, shall inquire into the history and merits thereof from the commencement of the transactions between the parties, and shall, as hereinafter provided, determine the amount (if any) justly due to the claimant.

12. When the special Judge inquires, under section eleven, into the history and merits of a claim, he shall—notwithstanding any agreement between the zamindār and the claimant, or the persons (if any) through whom they claim, as to allowing compound interest, or as to setting off the profits of mortgaged property in lieu of interest without an account, or otherwise determining the manner of taking the account, and notwithstanding any statement or settlement of account, or any contract purporting to close previous dealings and create a new obligation, open the account from the commencement of the transactions between the parties, and take that account according to the following rules (that is to say) :—

(a) separate accounts of principal and interest shall be taken ;

(b) in the account of principal, there shall be debited to the zamindar such money as may, from time to time, have been actually received by him, or on his account, from the claimant, and the price of goods (if any) sold to him by the claimant, as part of the transactions between them ;

(c) in the account of principal, there shall not be debited to the zamindar any money which he may have agreed to pay in contravention of section 257A of the Code of Civil Procedure ;

(d) in the account of principal, there shall not be debited to the zamindar any accumulated interest which has been converted into principal at any statement or settlement of account, or by any contract made in the course of the transactions, unless the special Judge, for reasons to be recorded by him in writing, deems such debit to be reasonable ;

(e) in the account of interest, there shall be debited to the zamindar monthly simple interest on the balance of principal for the time being outstanding, at the rate allowed by the special Judge as hereinafter provided ;

(f) all money paid by, or on account of, the zamindar to the claimant or on his account, and all profits, service, or other advantages of every description received by the claimant in the course of the transactions, shall be credited first in the account of interest ; and, when any payment is more than sufficient to discharge the balance of interest due at the time it is made, the residue of such payment shall be credited to the zamindar in the account of principal :

Explanation—The advantages mentioned in this clause shall be estimated, if necessary, at such money-value as the special Judge may determine in his discretion, or with the aid of arbitrators appointed by him ;

(g) the accounts of principal and interest shall be made up to the date of making the claim ; and the aggregate of the balances (if any) appearing due on both such accounts against the zamindar at that date, shall be deemed to be the amount due at that date, except when the balance appearing due on the account of interest exceeds that appearing due on the account of principal, in which case double the latter balance shall be deemed to be the amount then due.

13. The interest to be awarded in taking an account, according to the rules set forth in section twelve, shall be—

(a) the rate (if any) agreed upon between the zamindar and the claimant, or the persons (if any)

through whom they respectively claim, unless such rate is deemed by the special Judge to be unreasonable ; or

(b) if such rate is deemed by the special Judge unreasonable, or if no rate was agreed upon ; or, when any agreement to set off profits in lieu of interest without an account, entered into between the zamindar and the claimant, or the persons (if any) through whom they respectively claim, has been set aside by the special Judge, such rate as the special Judge deems reasonable.

14. If the amount so determined to be due cannot, in the opinion of the special Judge, be paid at once, he shall then proceed to rank the claims according to the order in which they shall be paid or discharged, and to fix the interest (if any) to be paid on the amounts thereof respectively from the date of the final decision thereon to the date of the payment and discharge thereof.

15. When the amount of the claims has been finally determined in the manner hereinbefore prescribed, the special Judge shall submit a report to the Commissioner, showing the nature and amount of the claims so determined, and also the nature and amount of all the zamindar's property (exclusive of his proprietary rights in land and the property mentioned in the first proviso to section 266 of the Code of Civil Procedure), which may be available for the payment or discharge of the claims.

CHAPTER V. PROCEDURE OF COMMISSIONER AND MODE OF LIQUIDATION.

16. On receiving such report, the Commissioner shall direct that the property reported by the special Judge, as available for the discharge of the claims determined by him, or any specified portion of such property, be sold by public auction, and, from the proceeds thereof, shall pay or discharge, so far as practicable, the amount of the said claims.

If such proceeds are not sufficient to pay or discharge in full such amount, the Commissioner shall direct the value of the zamindar's proprietary rights in land, to be ascertained in the manner following :—

For the purposes of a loan, the value of such rights shall be estimated to be a sum amounting to six times the nett annual profits of such zamindar.

For the purposes of purchase by Government, the value of such rights shall be estimated to be a sum amounting to ten times such nett annual profits.

Explanation—The expression "nett annual profits" means the aggregate amount—

(a) of the rents which a zamindar is entitled to receive as such annually from his tenants ;

(b) of all profits received by him as zamindar, and of the rent which he would have to pay for his sir-land (if any), if he were an expropriary tenant thereof, after deducting, from such aggregate amount, the Government revenue and all rates payable by him, under the North-Western Provinces Local Rates Act, 1878, or any other Act for the time being in force.

17. When the value of the zamindar's proprietary rights has been ascertained as directed in section sixteen, the Commissioner shall proceed as follows :—

(a) If the sum at which the zamindar's proprietary rights in land have been valued for the purposes of a loan, is sufficient to pay or discharge the balance of the said claims, the Commissioner may, with the consent of the zamindar, direct such sum as may be necessary, not being more than the amount of such valuation, to be advanced from the public treasury as a loan to the zamindar, and shall, from the sum so advanced, pay or discharge in full the balance of the said debts and liabilities.

(b) If the zamindar does not consent to accept such loan, the Commissioner may direct that any portion, or, if necessary, the whole, of such rights, shall be sold in the manner hereinafter prescribed, in order to discharge such balance. Out of the proceeds of such sale, the Commissioner shall, so far as practicable, discharge such balance.

(c) If the sum at which the zamindar's proprietary rights in land have been valued, for the purposes of a loan, is not sufficient to discharge the balance of the said debts and liabilities, the Commissioner may order his proprietary rights in land to be sold, in the manner hereinafter prescribed.

The purchaser, under this section, of the zamindar's proprietary rights shall take the same free of all encumbrances created by such zamindar, or the person through whom he claims.

18. When an order for the sale of the proprietary rights of any zamindar has been made hereunder, the Commissioner may order such rights to be attached and taken under the management of the Deputy Commissioner, who shall have, for this purpose, the same powers as are conferred, for the management of a mahal, on a Collector by the North-Western Provinces Land-revenue Act, 1873, section one hundred and fifty-five.

Such management shall continue until such rights are sold hereunder.

19. All sales, under this Act, of proprietary rights in land, shall be made by public auction in the manner prescribed by the said North-Western Provinces Land-revenue Act, 1873, for the sale of immoveable property for arrears of land-revenue.

If, at the public auction of any zamindar's proprietary rights in land, any bid be made for such rights above the sum at which they have been valued for the purposes of purchase by Government, such rights shall be sold to the highest bidder ; and the proceeds of such sale shall be paid to the Deputy Commissioner or such officer as the Commissioner may direct. If no such bid be made, the Commissioner shall direct a sum of money equal to the amount of such valuation to be paid from the public treasury to the Deputy Commissioner or such officer.

20. The Deputy Commissioner or such officer, as the case may be, shall thereupon, subject to the control of the Commissioner,— firstly—pay, from the money which he has received under section nineteen, the debts, fines and liabilities (if any) due or incurred by the zamindar to the Government ;

secondly—pay all costs awarded against the zamindar by the special Judge or Commissioner ;

thirdly—out of the balance of such money, pay or discharge, so far as may be practicable, the claims against the zamindar determined by the special Judge in the order in which they are ranked under section fourteen by such Judge ;

fourthly—pay the surplus (if any) to the zamindar.

21. When a sum of money has been lent, under section seventeen, to a zamindar, and applied in payment or discharge of the claims against him the following consequences shall ensue (namely) :—

(a) his proprietary rights in land shall be deemed to be mortgaged to the Secretary of State for India in Council, until such loan shall have been fully paid off ;

(b) he shall be bound to repay the amount of such loan, with interest thereon at the rate of five per cent. per annum, by yearly instalments, within such term, not exceeding ten years, as the Commissioner may prescribe ;

(c) in the event of his failing to pay any such instalment of principal or interest on the day fixed for the payment thereof, the whole sum remaining due on account of principal or interest, or both, shall be recoverable as an arrear of land-revenue due by him.

22. When a sum of money has been paid from the public treasury, as provided in section nineteen, and applied towards paying or discharging the claims against a zamindár, the following consequences shall ensue (namely):—

(a) his proprietary rights in land shall vest in the said Secretary of State in Council;

(b) in respect of his sir-land, the proprietary rights in which are, under this section, vested in the said Secretary of State in Council, the zamindár shall be deemed to be an ex-proprietary tenant holding such land directly under the Government.

Power to declare that zamindár has ceased to be subject to disabilities.

23. In each of the following cases (namely):—

(a) when the amount lent, under section seventeen, to a zamindár has been repaid, together with the interest due thereon, or

(b) when such amount has been recovered from him as an arrear of land-revenue or has been remitted, in whole or in part, by the Local Government, or

(c) when the whole, or, where it is necessary to sell only a portion, such portion, of his proprietary rights in land has been sold under this Act to the highest bidder, or such rights have vested in the said Secretary of State in Council, under section twenty-two;

the Commissioner shall declare that such zamindár has ceased to be subject to the disabilities mentioned in section eight, clause (c):

Provided that in cases coming under clause (b) of this section, no such declaration shall be made without the previous sanction of the Local Government.

CHAPTER VI.

OF APPEAL AND REVISION.

24. An appeal against any decision or order, under this Act, of the special Judge shall lie to the Commissioner, Appeals. if preferred within one month from the date of such decision or order:

Provided that when the Appellant satisfies the Commissioner that he had sufficient cause for not presenting the appeal within such period, such appeal may be admitted after the period prescribed by this section.

Subject to the power of revision next herein-after provided, the decision of the Commissioner on an appeal, under this section, shall be final.

25. The Board of Revenue or the Commissioner may, of its or his own motion, or on the application of any person concerned, call for the proceedings in any case under this Act, and pass such order thereon, consistent with the provisions herein contained, as it or he thinks fit:

Provided that nothing in this section shall empower the Commissioner to pass any order reversing or modifying an order previously passed by the Board of Revenue.

CHAPTER VII.

MISCELLANEOUS.

26. The Local Government may, from time to time, make rules consistent with this Act—

(a) to regulate the procedure in all cases under this Act;

(b) to declare what shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be the vernacular language of any specified district; and

(c) generally to carry out the provisions of this Act.

Such rules shall be published in the official Gazette, and, when so published, shall have the force of law.

27. Every investigation conducted by the special Judge, with reference to any claim made to him under this Act, or to any matter connected with such claim, shall be deemed to be a judicial proceeding within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code; and the special Judge shall be deemed to be a public servant within the meaning of the said Code.

28. For the purposes of compelling the attendance of witnesses and the production of documents the special Judge shall have the powers conferred on a Civil Court by the Code of Civil Procedure.

29. No suit or other proceeding shall be maintained against any person in respect of anything done by him in good faith pursuant to this Act.

commended by this Committee have received the unqualified support of the Chief Commissioner. They are of such a nature as to render it necessary to re-draft the Bill.

3. We have, accordingly, amended and re-cast the Bill, but the majority of us desire to reserve our opinion as to the expediency of making these amendments until the Bill has been republished in its present shape, and subjected to further criticism. The most important amendments, and those to which we desire to attract particular attention, are as follows :—

(1).—The Bill, as introduced, withdrew the power of making a distraint for rent, and practically compelled the landlord to sue a tenant on the produce of whose holding he wished to retain a lien for arrears of rent.

The Bill, as now amended, gives no right to distraint, but it maintains the landlord's lien on the produce for rent, and directs a Court executing a decree, other than for rent, by attachment and sale of the produce of a tenant's holding, to pay to the landlord, out of the proceeds of the sale, and before satisfying the decree-holder, any arrear of rent that may be due by the tenant, and likewise the instalment of rent falling due next after the usual date of harvesting the produce attached and sold.

It also allows a landlord, when an arrear is due to him, to prohibit the tenant, for a period of twenty-eight days, from removing the produce of the holding on which the rent is due. It is intended by this provision to give the landlord time to institute a suit and apply to the Court for an order to attach the produce. These provisions do not apply to rent due for a longer period than one year.

(2).—The Bill, as introduced, took away the right conferred at the settlement on those tenants who are known as absolute occupancy-tenants, of transferring their holdings.

and amend the law relating to Agricultural Tenancies in the Central Provinces was referred, have the honour to report that we have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin.

2. The Bill introduced on the 6th August, 1880, met with much criticism in the Central Provinces. In May, 1881, the Chief Commissioner's report has been now under consideration.

The amendments re-

The amended Bill maintains this class of tenants exactly in the position given to it at settlement.

(3.)—The amended Bill stops the future growth of occupancy-right by operation of the twelve-year rule, but maintains in the enjoyment of that right those tenants who, at the passing of the Act, have acquired it.

(4.)—The Bill, as introduced, established a class of protected tenants, the condition of protection being, inter alia, residence and cultivation of land in the village for five years. Tenants, who had not so qualified, it left to the landlord's discretion.

The amended Bill protects all ordinary tenants (i. e., all tenants who have not absolute occupancy or occupancy-rights and are not sub-tenants) from capricious eviction.

(5.)—The Bill, as introduced, provided for the determination of the rent of occupancy-tenants primarily on the basis of the settlement-rates and the customary rates paid by tenants of the same class; and fixed the rents so determined for the term of settlement, subject to enhancement or abatement on account of change in the value of the produce or in the productive power of the land.

It left the rent of protected tenants to be determined, in case of dispute, by the Courts, with reference to the rent paid by ordinary tenants. A rent so determined was only fixed from year to year.

The amended Bill adopts, for the determination of the rent of ordinary tenants, the principle of compensation for disturbance, giving the tenant from whom an increase of rent is demanded the option of agreeing to the enhancement, in which case his rent will be fixed for seven years, or of leaving the land, taking, as compensation, ten times the sum demanded as enhancement.

It provides that the rents of absolute occupancy-tenants shall not be raised during settlement.

It provides that the rents of occupancy-tenants, i. e., those who have acquired rights under the twelve-year rule, shall be fixed at twenty-five per cent. below the rent paid by ordinary tenants for like land, and that, when the rent of such tenants has been fixed, it shall not be enhanced till after the expiry of a period of ten years.

In the case of all classes of tenants, the landlord is, at any time, entitled to an increase of rent if the productive power of the land has been increased by improvements made by such landlord, or if the area of the holding has been added to.

4. We recommend that the Bill, as now amended, be re-published in the Gazette of India and sent to the Local Government for publication in the local Gazette and translation into the vernacular languages; and that its re-consideration be postponed for a period of two months.

No. II.

A Bill to Consolidate and amend the law relating to Agricultural Tenancies in the Central Provinces.

WHEREAS it is expedient to consolidate and amend the law relating to agricultural tenancies in the Central Provinces; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

1. This Act may be called "The Central Provinces Tenancy Act, 1882":
Short title.

It extends to all the territories for the time being administered by the Chief Commissioner of the Central Provinces, except those specified in the Scheduled Districts Act, 1874, Schedule I, Part VI;
Local extent.

and it shall come into force on such day as the said Chief Commissioner, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, may by notification in the local official Gazette direct.

2. On and from such day the Acts mentioned in the schedule hereto annexed, shall be repealed so far as they relate to the territories to which this Act extends.
Acts repealed.

But nothing contained in this Act, or in any Act hereby repealed, shall affect the rights or liabilities of tenants or landlords in the districts of Nimár, Chánda and Sambalpúr, so far as such rights or liabilities have been determined by any order of the Governor General in Council made at the settlement of any such district.
Saving of certain settlement conditions in the Chánda, Nimár and Sambalpúr districts.

All suits or applications instituted or made under any Act hereby repealed, and which, when this Act comes into force, are pending before any officer, before whom they would have been instituted or made, if this Act had been in force, shall, so far as may be, be deemed to have been respectively instituted or made hereunder.
Pending suits and applications.

3. In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context,— Interpretation-clause.

(1) "land" means land which is let or occupied for agricultural purposes or for purposes subservient to agriculture, and includes the sites of buildings appertenant to such land:
"land":

(2) "tenant" means a person who holds land of another person, and is, or, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, would be, liable to pay rent for such land to such other person. But it does not include a mortgagee or a person who takes a lease of unoccupied land for the purpose of sub-letting it, or of land already in the occupation of cultivators.

Where such person, at the time of taking a New lease of such land, is a tenant of any land included therein, he does not by reason only of such lease cease to be a tenant of the land so included:

(3) "landlord" means the person of whom a tenant holds land, and to whom such tenant is, or, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, would be, liable to pay rent therefor; but when the right to receive rent or any other right which a landlord is entitled as such to exercise, is, for the time being, vested in a person other than the person of whom the land is held, such other person shall be deemed to be the landlord in respect of the right so vested:

(4) "rent" means whatever is paid, delivered or rendered, in money, kind or service, by a tenant on account of the use or occupation of land let to him:
"rent":

(5) "pay" and "payable" used with reference to rent, include "deliver" and "deliverable":
"pay" and "payable":

(6) "arrear" means an instalment of rent which is not paid on or before the date on which it is payable:
"arrear":

(7) "holding" means a parcel of land held by a tenant of a landlord under one lease or agreement:
"holding":

(8) "improvement" means, with reference to a holding, any work which adds to the letting-value of such holding, without diminishing the value of any other part of the estate of the landlord of whom such holding is held; which is suitable to such holding and consistent with the purpose for which it was let; and which, if not executed on the holding, is either executed directly for its benefit or is, after execution, made directly beneficial to it:
"improvement":

It includes the reclaiming, enclosing or clearing of lands for agricultural purposes; but it does not include such embankments, temporary wells, and water-channels as are ordinarily made by tenants.

Explanation.—A work which benefits several holdings may be deemed to be, with respect to each of them, an improvement:

(9) "Revenue-officer" means any Revenue-officer appointed under the Central Provinces Land-revenue Act, 1881, not being below the rank of Tahsildár, and includes also a Settlement-officer:
"Revenue-officer":

(10) "agricultural year" means the year commencing on the first day of June, or on such other date as the Chief Commissioner may, in the case of any specified District or Districts, from time to time, appoint:

(11) "sir-land" means (a) land recorded as "sir" in the papers of the last preceding settlement of the local area in which such land is situate; and (b) land not so recorded, but which has been cultivated by the proprietor or one of the proprietors thereof for a period of not less than twelve consecutive years; and (c) waste land which has been broken up by the proprietor or one of the proprietors thereof and cultivated by him for a period of not less than six consecutive years; and (d) in Sambalpūr, includes also "bhogra" land.

Explanation.—Land which has, after the date of such settlement, or the expiry of such period of twelve years, or six years (as the case may be), been for a period of six consecutive years unoccupied by such proprietor is not sir-land. Land is not unoccupied by the proprietor when it is leased out by him with an express reservation of his sir-rights.

(12) "mahāl" means any local area held under a separate engagement for the payment of the land-revenue direct to Government, and includes also any local area declared, under the provisions of the Central Provinces Land-revenue Act, 1881, to be a mahāl:

(13) "village" includes any tract of land which, at the last settlement of such land, has been recognized as a village, or which the Chief Commissioner declares to be a village for the purposes of the Central Provinces Land-revenue Act, 1881:

(14) "lambardār" means a person appointed under the Central Provinces Land-revenue Act, 1881, to represent the proprietary body of a mahāl in its relations with the Government:

(15) "record-of-rights" includes the supplementary administration-paper prepared at or after the time of making a settlement before the Central Provinces Land-revenue Act, 1881, came into force.

CHAPTER II.

OF THE CLASSES OF TENANTS, AND THEIR ORDINARY RIGHTS AND LIABILITIES.

Classes of tenants.

4. There shall be four classes of tenants:—

- (1)—Absolute occupancy-tenants:
- (2)—Occupancy-tenants:
- (3)—Ordinary tenants:
- (4)—Sub-tenants.

A.—Rights and Liabilities common to all Classes of Tenants.

5. In all suits and proceedings between landlord and tenant, the rent payable for any year by a tenant, in respect of his holding, shall be deemed to be the rent payable, in respect of such holding, in the year immediately preceding such year, unless a different rent has been agreed upon, in writing, by the landlord and the tenant, or has been fixed by an order under this Act. Bill, ss. 4, 66.

6. When the rent of a holding is fixed by any order under this Act, such order shall take effect from the commencement of the agricultural year next following the date of the application upon which such order is made. Provided that, if such application is made on the ground of an increase, or diminution, of the area of a holding, the order shall take effect from such date as the officer making it may direct. Bill, s. 5.

7. Rents shall be payable in such instalments and on such dates as the Chief Commissioner may, from time to time, by rule prescribe, and in the absence of such rule, according to local usage. Bill, 6.

8. In the absence of any person duly appointed to act on behalf of several persons who are joint proprietors of a mahāl, the lambardār shall be deemed to be, for the purpose of this Act, the sole person entitled to grant leases to tenants, or enter into agreements with tenants as such, of the land held jointly by such proprietors, or to give receipts for the rent of such land, or to issue any notice, make any application, or being any suit, under this Act, to, in respect of, or against, any tenant of such land. Bill, s. 46.

9. When two or more persons are the joint landlords of any tenant, such tenant, subject to any rule which the Chief Commissioner may, from time to time, make in this behalf, shall not be compelled to pay part of the rent of his holding to one of such persons and part to another or others; and such persons shall, if the tenant so desires, appoint one of their number, or some other person, to receive the rent of such holding. Bill, s. 47.

10. When any landlord refuses to accept any instalment of rent payable in money when tendered to him by a tenant, and Bill, s. 7.

when any tenant, in the case mentioned in section nine, desires the appointment of a person to receive rent payable in money and no such appointment is made within a reasonable time, and when any tenant in any other case is doubtful as to the person entitled to receive such rent from him, such tenant may apply to a Revenue-officer for permission to deposit in his Court the amount of rent which he believes to be due; and such officer shall receive such deposit, if it appears to him, after examining the applicant, that he had reasonable grounds for making the application and that it was made in good faith.

Bill s. 8.

11. When any deposit has been so received, it shall be deemed to be a payment made by the tenant to his landlord on account of rent due.

The officer receiving such deposit may pay the amount thereof to any person appearing to him to be entitled to receive the same, or may, if he thinks fit, retain the deposit pending the decision of a Civil Court as to the person so entitled.

No suit or other proceeding shall be instituted against the Secretary of State for India in Council, or against any officer of the Government, in respect of anything done by a Revenue-officer under this section; but nothing herein contained shall prevent any person entitled to receive the amount of any such deposit from recovering the same from a person to whom it has been paid by a Revenue-officer.

Bill, s. 9.

12. Every tenant, from whom any sum is levied by his landlord in excess of the rent specified in his lease, or payable under the provisions of this Act, shall be entitled to recover from such landlord a sum not exceeding double the amount so levied.

Bill, s. 9.

13. When any landlord refuses a receipt for rent paid by a tenant, or grants such receipt but refuses or neglects to specify therein the period or crop in respect of which the payment is made, such tenant shall be entitled to recover from such landlord a sum not exceeding double the amount of the rent so paid.

Bill, s. 89, cl. (b).

14. Notwithstanding anything contained in this Act, or in the conditions of settlement, the rent of any tenant may, on the application of the landlord, be enhanced on the ground that the productive power of the tenant's holding has been increased through the agency or at the expense of the landlord. Such enhancement shall bear the same proportion to such rent as the increase so effected in the productive power of the holding bears to the productive power of the holding as it was immediately before such increase was effected.

The rent of an absolute-occupancy tenant shall not be enhanced under this section when the productive power of the holding has been increased by an improvement made by a landlord in contravention of any rule made hereunder.

Bill, s. 89, cl. (d).

15. When the area of a holding is increased or diminished by encroachment, fluvial action or otherwise, a Revenue-officer may, by order, on the application of the landlord or of the tenant, fix the rent payable in respect of such holding with reference to such increase or diminution:

Provided that such order shall not bar the landlord's claim to enhance the rent of such holding on other grounds allowed by this Act.

16. The rent of land assessed to land-revenue Bill, s. 54. shall not be fixed for a term exceeding the period of the settlement of such land.

All agreements made in contravention of this section shall, as regards the amount of rent, be voidable at the will of either party.

17. In all cases in which a tenant has paid rent in kind, or on the estimated value of a portion of the crop, or by rates varying with the crop, or partly in one of such ways and partly in another or others, the landlord or tenant may apply to commute such rent to a fixed money rent. Such application shall be made, while the settlement of the district in which such tenant's holding is situate is in progress, to a Settlement-officer; and, at any other time, to any revenue-officer specially empowered by the Chief Commissioner in this behalf.

On the receipt of such application, such officer shall determine the sum to be paid as money rent and shall order that the tenant shall pay the sum so determined. If the application is opposed, such officer may, for reasons to be recorded by him in writing, refuse to grant the same.

18. Any tenant not holding under a lease for a fixed period may, at the end of any agricultural year, surrender his holding, or, with the consent of his landlord, any part thereof. But notwithstanding such surrender he shall continue to be liable for the year next following the date of such surrender for the rent of the holding or part surrendered, unless—

- he gives to his landlord, at least thirty days before the end of such agricultural year, notice in writing of such surrender; or
- he takes a new holding in the same village from the same landlord; or
- he ceases, at least thirty days before the end of such year, to reside in the village in which the surrendered holding is situate; or
- the landlord himself cultivates such holding or lets it to another tenant.

19. The produce of a holding in the occupation of a tenant shall be hypothecated for the rent payable in respect thereof, and, if such produce is attached and sold in execution of a decree, the Court executing the decree shall apply the nett proceeds of the sale in the first instance to satisfy the landlord's claim (if any) for sums due to him in respect of the rent of such holding for the year immediately preceding the attachment, and for the instalment of rent which falls due next after the usual period of harvesting the produce attached.

20. Where an arrear is due from any tenant in respect of his holding, the landlord may, by notice, prohibit removal of the produce of such holding.

Act XII, 1881, s. 58.

No such prohibition shall be made in respect of any sum claimed in excess of the rent payable by the tenant for such holding in the preceding year, unless the rent has been enhanced in accordance with the provisions of this Act, nor in respect of an arrear which has been due for a longer period than one year.

No such prohibition shall be made more than once in respect of the same produce.

21. Every notice under section twenty, shall be in writing, and shall specify the amount of the arrear claimed, the period for which, and the holding in respect of which, it is said to be due, and, when a sum in excess of the rent payable by the tenant in the last preceding year is claimed, the decree, order or agreement, as the case may be, for the payment of such sum.

The notice shall be served on the tenant, or other person who may be in charge of the produce on his behalf, and shall remain in force until the rent specified in such notice is paid, or, if such rent is not paid, until the expiry of twenty-eight days after such notice is so given.

22. Notwithstanding such notice, the tenant may reap, gather or store the produce of his holding, and do all other such acts as may be necessary for the due preservation of the same.

23. Any tenant on whom a notice in respect of the produce of his holding has been served under section twenty, and who, except for any of the purposes mentioned in section twenty-two, while such notice is in force, removes, attempts to remove, or abets the removal of, such produce from the place where it was standing, deposited or stored when such notice was served, and any landlord who distrains or attempts to distrain the produce of any holding, or prevents, or attempts to prevent, otherwise than in accordance with this Act, the removal of any produce of a holding by the tenant thereof, shall be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

Act XII, 1881, s. 48; B.L., s. 13.

24. Whenever rent is taken by division of the produce, or by estimate or appraisal of the crop, if either the landlord or the tenant neglects to attend, either personally or by agent, at the proper time for making such division, estimate or appraisal, or if there is a dispute regarding the division of the said produce, or the quantity or value of the crop, a Revenue-officer may, on the application of either party, issue a commission to such person as such officer thinks fit, directing him to divide, estimate or appraise the crop.

25. When a Revenue-officer appoints a Commissioner for any of the purposes mentioned in section twenty-four, such officer may, in his discretion, direct such Commissioner to associate with himself any other persons as assessors, and may give him instructions regarding the number, qualifications and mode of selecting such assessors (if any), and the procedure to be followed in making such division, estimate or appraisal.

The Commissioner so appointed shall make the division, estimate or appraisal, in accordance with such instructions.

26. When a crop has been estimated or appraised under the foregoing provisions, such estimate or appraisal shall be reduced to writing and signed by the Commissioner making the same, and shall be submitted to the Revenue-officer by whom the commission was issued. Such Revenue-officer shall consider the Commissioner's report, and after such hearing and enquiry (if any), as he may think necessary, shall pass order thereon either confirming or varying the estimate or appraisal, and the rent shall be payable in accordance with such order.

27. In sections nineteen to twenty-four (both inclusive) the produce of a holding means—

- crops and other products of the earth standing or ungathered on such holding;
- crops and other products of the earth which have been grown on the holding and have been reaped or gathered and are deposited on such holding or a threshing-ground, or stored in the homestead of the village in which such holding is situate, or in which the tenant, whose holding it is, resides.

B.—Of Absolute Occupancy-tenants.

28. All tenants who, on the day when this Act comes into force, occupy any holding in respect of which they have been recorded in any record-of-rights made before such day as "absolute occupancy-rायats," or in terms equivalent thereto, shall be deemed to be absolute occupancy-tenants of such holding.

29. The rent of the holding of every absolute occupancy-tenant shall be fixed by the Settlement-officer at the settlement of the district in which such holding is situate, and the rent so fixed, shall not be enhanced during the currency of such settlement, except under the provisions of section fourteen or section fifteen.

The rent payable in respect of his holding by any such tenant, when this Act comes into force, shall be deemed to have been fixed at the last preceding settlement of the district in which his holding is situate.

New:
Bill, no. 81,
82.

30. The right of an absolute occupancy-tenant in his holding shall devolve as if it were land, and shall be transferable by mortgage or sale or gift. Any mortgage of such right for a longer period than fourteen years made, after this Act comes into force, shall be deemed for the purposes of this Act to be a sale.

If an absolute occupancy-tenant intends to transfer his right in his holding by sale or gift, he shall give to his landlord a written notice of such intention, and the landlord may thereupon—

(a) within one month from the receipt of such notice, claim to purchase such right, at a price equal to five times the yearly rent payable in respect of the holding; or

(b) permit the sale or gift, in which case he shall be entitled to a sum equal to such rent for one year, and such sum shall be a charge on the holding sold.

Any transfer made in contravention of this section shall be void.

New.

31. An absolute occupancy-tenant shall not be liable to be ejected from his holding by his landlord as such for an arrear of rent or for any cause.

The right of such tenant in his holding shall be deemed to be hypothecated to the landlord for the rent thereof.

New.

32. When the right of an absolute occupancy-tenant in his holding is sold by order of a Civil Court in execution of a decree other than a decree obtained by his landlord, the landlord shall, in respect of such holding, have the same rights as are reserved to him by section thirty in the case of a private sale.

C.—Of Occupancy-tenants.

Bill, no. 75.

33. All tenants who, when this Act comes into force, have held the same land continuously for twelve years, otherwise than as absolute occupancy-tenants or sub-tenants, have a right of occupancy in, and shall be deemed to be occupancy-tenants of, such land; Provided that such land is not

- (a) sir-land, or
- (b) held in lieu of wages, or
- (c) held under a written lease in which it is agreed that a right of occupancy in such land shall not be acquired, or that the tenant shall quit the land at the termination of such lease.

Explanation I.—The occupation of the person from whom the tenant inherited his holding shall, for the purposes of this section, be deemed to be the occupation of the tenant.

Explanation II.—When, by the custom of any village the holdings of tenants are, or have been, liable to periodical re-distribution, land which a tenant or any person under whom he claims has, in accordance with such custom, from time to time, received in exchange for land previously held by him shall, for the purpose of calculating, under this section, the period of twelve years, be deemed to be the same land as the land which he held prior to such exchange.

34. When the rent of the holding of an occupancy-tenant has been fixed by agreement or under this Act, or under any Act hereby repealed, such rent shall not be enhanced until the expiry of ten years from the day on which it was so fixed, except when the settlement of the district in which such holding is situate is in progress, or under the provisions of section fourteen or section fifteen.

35. When any occupancy-tenant dies, his right in his holding shall devolve as if it were land: Provided that no collateral relative of such tenant shall be entitled to inherit such right, unless at the death of such tenant he was a co-sharer in the holding.

No right of occupancy shall be transferable in execution of a decree or otherwise than by voluntary transfer between persons in favour of whom, as co-sharers, such right originally arose, or who have become, by succession, co-sharers therein.

36. Subject to the provisions of section thirty-four, the rent payable by an occupancy-tenant may be fixed on the application either of the tenant or his landlord,

(a) when the settlement of the district in which such holding is situate is in progress, to a Settlement-officer;

(b) during the currency of the settlement of such district, to a Revenue-officer.

On such application the Settlement or Revenue-officer, as the case may be, may fix the rent at a rate, not more than three-fourths of the rate usually paid by ordinary tenants of holdings situate in the same or adjoining tahsils, for land of similar quality with like advantages.

When the land in respect of which an application is made under this section, has been improved in accordance with this Act by the agency or at the expense of the tenant of such land, the quality and advantages of such land shall, for the purposes of this section, be deemed to be the quality and advantages had and enjoyed by such land immediately before such improvements were made.

PART V.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Second Publication.]

The following further Report of a Select Committee, together with the Bill as settled by them, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 16th March, 1882:—

We, the undersigned members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to provide for the Relief of Encumbered Estates in the Jhānsī Division of the North-Western Provinces was referred, have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin, and have the honour to present this further report.

The Bill, as amended by us, was laid before the Council, with our report dated 4th February, 1881, and was sent to the Local Government for opinion.

The Government of the North-Western Provinces replied in their Secretary's letter, No. 629, dated 25th April, 1881. In that letter, the Lieutenant-Governor suggested an entirely new plan for dealing with the Jhānsī question, and forwarded a memorandum prepared by Mr. Bazett Colvin, and the rough draft of a new Bill.

It is this new Bill which we have now had under consideration.

The chief points of the present scheme, as laid down by Mr. Colvin, are as follows:—

- (1). The indebted zamindār, or an officer appointed for the purpose by the Local Government, may apply to the Commissioner of the Division, stating the debts and liabilities of such zamindār.
- (2). The Commissioner may refer the application to an officer styled "the Special Judge," who is to be appointed for this purpose, and who may, if the Local Government pleases, be one of the District staff.
- (3). On the receipt of an application by the Special Judge, all claims against the indebted zamindār are to be called in.
- (4). In dealing with the claims, the Special Judge is to have powers similar to those conferred on the Courts by the Dekkhan Agriculturists' Relief Act, No. XVII of 1879.
- (5). All proceedings, of whatever kind, taken in other Courts against the indebted zamindār, are to be for ever stayed; and he is to be disabled from contracting fresh liabilities, until certain conditions have been fulfilled.
- (6). The Special Judge will determine the amount of the debts and liabilities of the zamindār, and will ascertain the nature and amount of property possessed by him, other than his proprietary rights in land.
- (7). If the value of such property, other than as aforesaid, is sufficient to pay the debts, the Special Judge will give the creditors decrees, which they may execute through the ordinary Civil Courts.
- (8). If such value is not so sufficient, the Special Judge will submit to the Commissioner a report showing the amount of the debts due by the zamindār, and detailing the property, other than proprietary rights in land, belonging to such zamindār.

- (9). An arbitrary value is then to be put on the zamindar's proprietary rights in land; (1), for the purpose of a loan from Government, a sum equal to eight times the nett annual profits derived from such rights; (2), for the purchase of such rights by Government, a sum equal to sixteen times and two-thirds such nett annual profits.
- (10). If the debts certified by the Special Judge can be met by the proceeds of such other property as the indebted zamindar possesses, together with a sum equal to the loan value of his proprietary rights in land, the zamindar is to be asked if he will accept a loan from Government. If he accepts, the money is to be advanced from the public treasury, and the debts are to be paid. If he declines, the Commissioner may sell his proprietary rights by auction, to the extent necessary to meet the claims certified by the Special Judge.
- (11). When the zamindar accepts a loan, the Government will have a lien on his land. If he fails to repay the loan within the time laid down for that purpose by the Commissioner, his proprietary rights, or such part of them as may be necessary to cover the unpaid portion of the loan, shall vest in the Secretary of State for India in Council.
- (12). When the debts certified by the Special Judge, exceed in amount the aggregate value of the zamindar's other property and of his proprietary rights in land as estimated for the purpose of a loan, the zamindar is to be declared to be insolvent, and his proprietary rights in land are to be sold by auction.
- (13). Such rights will be put up for sale at the upset price of sixteen times and two-thirds the nett annual profits, and sold to the highest bidder above that sum. If there is no bid, the Commissioner will pay to the insolvent's estate a sum equal to sixteen times and two-thirds the nett annual profits. The debts will be paid off, so far as may be practicable, and the insolvent's proprietary rights in land will vest in the Secretary of State for India in Council.
- (14). In all cases in which the proprietary rights shall vest in the Secretary of State for India in Council, the zamindar will continue to hold his sir-land as an ex-proprietary tenant. And the same consequence ensues, as a matter of course, when his rights are sold on his refusal to accept a loan.
- (15). On the final completion of any of these proceedings, that is to say, when the zamindar's proprietary rights have been sold, or when they have vested in the Secretary of State for India in Council, or when the loan has been re-paid, the Commissioner will declare the disabilities imposed on the zamindar to be removed.

The zamindar then will be in this position. If he has taken a loan, he will be liable for the repayment of the loan, by instalments, with interest. He will have to pay these sums in addition to his land-revenue, but they will probably be less than the sums extracted from him by his creditors. He will have his sir-land to live upon, together with whatever remains to him out of his rental, after the payments of instalments of the loan, interest thereon, land-revenue and rates. He will be freed from all other liabilities and encumbrances, and, after the loan is re-paid, will be restored to the full enjoyment of his rights.

If he refuses the loan, he will lose his proprietary rights, in whole or in part, but he will be completely freed from debt, and will continue to hold his sir-land as an ex-proprietary tenant. Such also will be his position if he is declared an insolvent.

We have made the following material alterations in the Bill, as drafted by Mr. Bazett Colvin:—

Firstly, Mr. Colvin provided that, if the debts, as found by the Special Judge, could be met by the proceeds of the sale of the zamindar's property, other than his proprietary rights in land, the Special Judge should give the creditors decrees and leave them to get satisfaction in ordinary course of law. He provided also that, in such case, the zamindar's disabilities were to cease.

It appears to us that the result of this proceeding would be to start the zamindar on a fresh career, with decrees hanging over him, to meet which he would probably raise fresh loans.

We have provided, therefore, that in these cases also the Special Judge shall send a report to the Commissioner, who will cause the property enumerated in the Special Judge's report, or a portion of it, to be sold. If the proceeds are sufficient to pay the debts as determined by the Special Judge, the Commissioner will pay such debts, and the zamindar will thereupon be discharged from all liabilities.

If the proceeds are not so sufficient, the Commissioner will cause the valuation of the zamindar's proprietary rights to be made, and the case will go on as contemplated by Mr. Colvin.

Secondly, we think that the value proposed to be put upon the zamindar's interest in the land is too high. It is probably three times as much as property of the kind in Jhansi would fetch at public auction. We assent to the principle that the zamindar's creditors, whose contracts we propose to override, should be generously dealt with; but we do not think it is safe to advance more than six times the nett annual profits of the property as a loan, or to give more than ten times such profits for the purchase of such property.

The interest chargeable on loans advanced by Government under the Bill has been fixed at five per cent. simple interest, with the assent of the Financial Department. The Bill has been amended accordingly.

Thirdly, we think that, when the debts of the zamindar can be met with a loan, it is unnecessary to provide that his proprietary rights in land shall, on his failure to repay the loan, vest in the Secretary of State for India in Council.

The necessary corollary of this provision is that, when part of the loan has been re-paid, part only of the proprietary rights shall be forfeited. The result will be, that small parts of villages or shares in villages will belong to Government and much trouble will be given to the administration.

It seems to us better to provide that, on the occurrence of a default in the payment of any instalment of principal or interest, the whole sum due shall be deemed to be an arrear of land-revenue, and shall be recoverable as such.

This provision will give the Deputy Commissioner ample power to take possession of the defaulter's land, and, if necessary, will enable Government to sell the defaulter's proprietary rights under the land-revenue law.

The objection taken to this amendment is, that it will compel the district-officer to manage the land. But in any case, whether he assumes possession for a term of years as we propose, or whether the proprietary rights of the defaulter are vested in the Secretary of State for India in Council, some arrangement will have to be made for the management of the land and the collection of the rents. There will be no more difficulty in the one case than in the other.

The Bill appears to us now to be put in as simple a shape as is practicable.

We recommend that the Bill, as now amended, be published in the Gazette of India and in the local official Gazette.

(a) land recorded as sīr at the last settlement or revision of settlement of the district in which it is situate, and continuously so recorded since;

(c) land recognized by village custom as the special holding of a co-sharer, or treated as such in the distribution of profits or charges among the co-sharers.

CHAPTER II.

APPOINTMENT OF OFFICERS.

3. The Local Government may, from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, appoint, for any local area in the Jhānsī Division, a special Judge, who shall exercise the powers conferred, and perform the duties imposed, by this Act on such officer.

The Local Government may, at any time, by a like notification, suspend or remove any special Judge so appointed.

CHAPTER III.

OF THE APPLICATION AND PRELIMINARY INQUIRY.

4. At any time within twelve months after a special Judge is appointed for any local area, any zamīndār owning land in such area, or such officer as the Local Government may, from time to time, appoint in this behalf, may apply, in writing, to the Commissioner of the Jhānsī Division, stating that such zamīndār is subject to debts or liabilities other than debts due, or liabilities incurred, to Government, or that his immoveable property is encumbered with debts and liabilities other than as aforesaid, and requesting that the provisions of this Act be applied to him:

Provided that, when such zamīndār is a disqualified proprietor within the meaning of section 194 of the North-Western Provinces Land-revenue Act, 1873, such application shall be made—

(a) when his property is under the superintendence of the Court of Wards, by the manager of his property, with the consent of that Court;

(b) when his property is not under such superintendence, by the Deputy Commissioner of the district in which such property is situate.

The Local Government may, from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, extend the time prescribed for making applications under this section.

5. When any such application is made in the case of any zamīndār, the Commissioner shall direct an inquiry to be made by the special Judge—

(a) into the nature and amount of such debts and liabilities other than debts due, and liabilities incurred to, Government; and

(b) into the sufficiency of such zamīndār's property, whether moveable or immoveable, (exclusive of the property mentioned in the first proviso to section 266 of the Code of Civil Procedure), to discharge such debts and liabilities other than as aforesaid.

6. When an inquiry has been directed under section five, the applicant shall, within a period to be fixed by the Commissioner, submit to the special Judge a statement duly verified by the said applicant, or by some other competent person, in the manner required by law for the verification of plaints.

Such statement shall contain, so far as may be practicable,—

(a) such particulars as the special Judge may require respecting the debts and liabilities, other than as aforesaid, to which the zamīndār is subject, or with which his immoveable property or any part thereof is encumbered;

(b) the nature and value of the zamīndār's property (exclusive of his proprietary rights in land and the property mentioned in the first proviso to section 266 of the Code of Civil Procedure); and

(c) the names and residences of his creditors, so far as they are known to, or can be ascertained by, such zamīndār.

If any such statement contains any averment in which the person making the verification knows or believes to be false, or does not know or believe to be true, he shall be deemed to have intentionally given false evidence within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code:

Provided that, when the application is made by an officer appointed under section four, or by the Deputy Commissioner, it shall not be necessary to verify such statement; but the zamīndār shall, so far as may be practicable, within a period to be fixed by the special Judge, furnish such information regarding the matters mentioned in section six, clauses (a), (b) and (c), as such Judge may require.

CHAPTER IV.

PROOF OF DEBTS AND PROCEDURE OF SPECIAL JUDGE.

When the duly verified statement or the information referred to in section six has been submitted or furnished, the special Judge shall publish in the official Gazette, a notice in the vernacular language of the district, calling upon all persons having claims against the person or the property of the zamīndār, by, or with respect to, whom the application was made, under section four, to present to the special Judge, within two months from the date of such publication, a written statement of such claims.

Provided that, when the claimant satisfies the special Judge that he had sufficient cause for not presenting such statement within such period, the special Judge may receive such statement within a further period of two months from the expiration of the original period.

The special Judge shall also cause copies of such notice to be exhibited at his own office, at the offices of the Commissioner of the Jhānsī Division and the Deputy Commissioner of the district in which the land of such zamīndār is situate, and at some conspicuous place in the village where such zamīndār resides.

8. After the publication of such notice, the following consequences shall ensue (namely):—

(a) all proceedings then pending in any civil or revenue Court in British India, in respect of all debts and liabilities, other than as aforesaid, to which the zamīndār is subject, or with which his immoveable property is encumbered, shall be for ever stayed; and all processes, executions and attachments issued by any such Court, and then in force, in respect of any such debt or liability, shall become null and void;

(b) in respect of such debts and liabilities, no fresh proceedings, processes, executions or attachments shall, except as hereinafter provided, be instituted in, or issued by, any civil or revenue Court in British India;

(c) until the Commissioner has declared, as hereinafter provided, that the zamīndār has ceased to be subject to the disabilities mentioned in this clause, such zamīndār shall be incompetent to sell, mortgage, exchange, give or, without the consent of the Commissioner, lease, his proprietary rights in land or any part thereof.

9. Every claimant referred to in section seven shall, in the written statement of his claim, present full particulars thereof.

Every document on which the claimant founds his claim, or on which he relies in support thereof, shall be delivered to the special Judge along with such written statement.

If the document be an entry in any book, the claimant shall produce the book to the special Judge, together with a copy of the entry on which he relies. The special Judge shall mark the book, for the purpose of identification, and, after examining and comparing the copy with the original, shall return the book to the claimant.

If any document in the possession, or under the control, of the claimant is not delivered or produced by him, as required by this section, the special Judge may refuse to receive such document in evidence on the claimant's behalf, at the investigation of the case.

10. Every such claim (other than claims of the Government), not made within the time and in the manner hereby required, shall be deemed, for all purposes, and on all occasions, to have been duly discharged.

11. The special Judge shall hear the zamīndār, or, when the application has been made on behalf of a disqualified proprietor, shall hear the manager of his property, or the Deputy Commissioner, as the case may be, in answer to each claim so made; and, if the amount of any such claim (other than a claim decreed by a competent Court) is disputed, shall inquire into the history and merits thereof from the commencement of the transactions between the parties, and shall, as hereinafter provided, determine the amount (if any) justly due to the claimant.

12. When the special Judge inquires, under section eleven, into the history and merits of a claim, he shall—notwithstanding any agreement between the zamīndār and the claimant, or the persons (if any) through whom they claim, as to allowing compound interest, or as to setting off the profits of mortgaged property in lieu of interest without an account, or otherwise determining the manner of taking the account, and notwithstanding any statement or settlement of account, or any contract purporting to close previous dealings and create a new obligation,

open the account from the commencement of the transactions between the parties, and take that account according to the following rules (that is to say) :—

(a) separate accounts of principal and interest shall be taken ;

(b) in the account of principal, there shall be debited to the zamindar such money as may, from time to time, have been actually received by him, or on his account, from the claimant, and the price of goods (if any) sold to him by the claimant, as part of the transactions between them ;

(c) in the account of principal, there shall not be debited to the zamindar any money which he may have agreed to pay in contravention of section 257A of the Code of Civil Procedure ;

(d) in the account of principal, there shall not be debited to the zamindar any accumulated interest which has been converted into principal at any statement or settlement of account, or by any contract made in the course of the transactions, unless the special Judge, for reasons to be recorded by him in writing, deems such debit to be reasonable ;

(e) in the account of interest, there shall be debited to the zamindar monthly simple interest on the balance of principal for the time being outstanding, at the rate allowed by the special Judge as hereinafter provided ;

(f) all money paid by, or on account of, the zamindar to the claimant or on his account, and all profits, service, or other advantages of every description received by the claimant in the course of the transactions, shall be credited first in the account of interest ; and, when any payment is more than sufficient to discharge the balance of interest due at the time it is made, the residue of such payment shall be credited to the zamindar in the account of principal :

Explanation—The advantages mentioned in this clause shall be estimated, if necessary, at such money value as the special Judge may determine in his discretion, or with the aid of arbitrators appointed by him ;

(g) the accounts of principal and interest shall be made up to the date of making the claim ; and the aggregate of the balances (if any) appearing due on both such accounts against the zamindar at that date, shall be deemed to be the amount due at that date, except when the balance appearing due on the account of interest exceeds that appearing due on the account of principal, in which case double the latter balance shall be deemed to be the amount then due.

13. The interest to be awarded in taking an account, according to the rules set forth in section twelve, shall be—

(a) the rate (if any) agreed upon between the zamindar and the claimant, or the persons (if any),

through whom they respectively claim, unless such rate is deemed by the special Judge to be unreasonable ; or

(b) if such rate is deemed by the special Judge unreasonable, or if no rate was agreed upon, or when any agreement to set off profits in lieu of interest without an account, entered into between the zamindar and the claimant, or the persons (if any) through whom they respectively claim, has been set aside by the special Judge, such rate as the special Judge deems reasonable.

14. If the amount so determined to be due cannot, in the opinion of the special Judge, be paid at once, he shall then proceed to rank the claims according to the order in which they shall be paid or discharged, and to fix the interest (if any) to be paid on the amounts thereof respectively from the date of the final decision thereon to the date of the payment and discharge thereof.

15. When the amount of the claims has been finally determined in the manner hereinbefore prescribed, the special Judge shall submit a report to the Commissioner, showing the nature and amount of the claims so determined, and also the nature and amount of all the zamindar's property (exclusive of his proprietary rights in land and the property mentioned in the first proviso to section 268 of the Code of Civil Procedure), which may be available for the payment or discharge of the same.

CHAPTER V.

PROCEDURE OF COMMISSIONER AND MODE OF LIQUIDATION.

16. On receiving such report, the Commissioner shall direct that the property reported by the special Judge, as available for the discharge of the claims determined by him, or any specified portion of such property, be sold by public auction, and, from the proceeds thereof, shall pay or discharge, so far as practicable, the amount of the said claims.

If such proceeds are not sufficient to pay or discharge in full such amount, the Commissioner shall direct the value of the zamindar's proprietary rights in land, to be ascertained in the manner following :—

For the purposes of a loan, the value of such rights shall be estimated to be a sum amounting to six times the nett annual profits of such zamindar.

For the purposes of purchase by Government, the value of such rights shall be estimated to be a sum amounting to ten times such nett annual profits.

Explanation—The expression "nett annual profits" means the aggregate amount—

(a) of the rents which a zamindar is entitled to receive as such annually from his tenants ;

(b) of all profits received by him as zamindar, and of the rent which he would have to pay for his sir-land (if any), if he were an exproprietary tenant thereof,

after deducting, from such aggregate amount, the Government revenue and all rates payable by him, under the North-Western Provinces Local Rates Act, 1878, or any other Act for the time being in force.

17. When the value of the zamindar's proprietary rights has been ascertained as directed in section sixteen, the Commissioner shall proceed as follows :—

(a) If the sum at which the zamindar's proprietary rights in land have been valued for the purposes of a loan, is sufficient to pay or discharge the balance of the said claims, the Commissioner may, with the consent of the zamindar, direct such sum as may be necessary, not being more than the amount of such valuation, to be advanced from the public treasury as a loan to the zamindar, and shall, from the sum so advanced, pay or discharge in full the balance of the said debts and liabilities.

(b) If the zamindar does not consent to accept such loan, the Commissioner may direct that any portion, or, if necessary, the whole, of such rights, shall be sold in the manner hereinafter prescribed, in order to discharge such balance. Out of the proceeds of such sale, the Commissioner shall, so far as practicable, discharge such balance.

(c) If the sum at which the zamindar's proprietary rights in land have been valued, for the purposes of a loan, is not sufficient to discharge the balance of the said debts and liabilities, the Commissioner may order his proprietary rights in land to be sold, in the manner hereinafter prescribed.

The purchaser, under this section, of the zamindar's proprietary rights shall take the same free of all encumbrances created by such zamindar, or the person through whom he claims.

18. When an order for the sale of the proprietary rights of any zamindar has been made hereunder, the Commissioner may order such rights to be attached and taken under the management of the Deputy Commissioner, who shall have, for this purpose, the same powers as are conferred, for the management of a mahal, on a Collector by the North-Western Provinces Land-revenue Act, 1873, section one hundred and fifty-five.

Such management shall continue until such rights are sold hereunder.

19. All sales, under this Act, of proprietary rights in land, shall be made by public auction in the manner prescribed by the said North-Western Provinces Land-revenue Act, 1873, for the sale of immoveable property for arrears of land-revenue.

If, at the public auction of any zamindar's proprietary rights in land, any bid be made for such rights above the sum at which they have been valued for the purposes of purchase by Government, such rights shall be sold to the highest bidder ; and the proceeds of such sale shall be paid to the Deputy Commissioner or such officer as the Commissioner may direct. If no such bid be made, the Commissioner shall direct a sum of money equal to the amount of such valuation to be paid from the public treasury to the Deputy Commissioner or such officer.

20. The Deputy Commissioner or such officer, as the case may be, shall thereupon, subject to the control of the Commissioner,—

firstly—pay, from the money which he has received under section nineteen, the debts, fines and liabilities (if any) due or incurred by the zamindar to the Government ;

secondly—pay all costs awarded against the zamindar by the special Judge or Commissioner ;

thirdly—out of the balance of such money, pay or discharge, so far as may be practicable, the claims against the zamindar determined by the special Judge in the order in which they are ranked under section fourteen by such Judge ;

fourthly—pay the surplus (if any) to the zamindar.

21. When a sum of money has been lent, under section seventeen, to a zamindar, and applied in payment or discharge of the claims against him, the following consequences shall ensue (namely) :—

(a) his proprietary rights in land shall be deemed to be mortgaged to the Secretary of State for India in Council, until such loan shall have been fully paid off ;

(b) he shall be bound to repay the amount of such loan, with interest thereon at the rate of five per cent. per annum, by yearly instalments, within such term, not exceeding ten years, as the Commissioner may prescribe ;

(c) in the event of his failing to pay any such instalment of principal or interest on the day fixed for the payment thereof, the whole sum remaining due on account of principal or interest, or both, shall be recoverable as an arrear of land-revenue due by him.

22. When a sum of money has been paid from the public treasury, as provided in section nineteen, and applied towards paying or discharging the claims against a zamindár, the following consequences shall ensue (namely) :—

(a) his proprietary rights in land shall vest in the said Secretary of State in Council;

(b) in respect of his áir-land, the proprietary rights in which are, under this section, vested in the said Secretary of State in Council, the zamindár shall be deemed to be an ex-proprietary tenant holding such land directly under the Government.

Power to declare that zamindár has ceased to be subject to disabilities.

23. In each of the following cases (namely) :—

(a) when the amount lent, under section seventeen, to a zamindár has been repaid, together with the interest due thereon, or

(b) when such amount has been recovered from him as an arrear of land-revenue or has been remitted, in whole or in part, by the Local Government, or

(c) when the whole, or, where it is necessary to sell only a portion, such portion, of his proprietary rights in land has been sold under this Act to the highest bidder, or such rights have vested in the said Secretary of State in Council, under section twenty-two;

the Commissioner shall declare that such zamindár has ceased to be subject to the disabilities mentioned in section eight, clause (c) :

Provided that in cases coming under clause (b) of this section, no such declaration shall be made without the previous sanction of the Local Government.

CHAPTER VI.

OF APPEAL AND REVISION.

24. An appeal against any decision or order, under this Act, of the special Judge shall lie to the Commissioner, if preferred within one month from the date of such decision or order.

Provided that when the Appellant satisfies the Commissioner that he had sufficient cause for not presenting the appeal within such period, such appeal may be admitted after the period prescribed by this section.

Subject to the power of revision next herein after provided, the decision of the Commissioner on an appeal, under this section, shall be final.

25. The Board of Revenue or the Commissioner may, of its or his own motion, or on the application of any person concerned, call for the proceedings in any case under this Act, and pass such order thereon, consistent with the provisions herein contained, as it or he thinks fit :

Provided that nothing in this section shall empower the Commissioner to pass any order reversing or modifying an order previously passed by the Board of Revenue.

CHAPTER VII.

MISCELLANEOUS.

26. The Local Government may, from time to time, make rules consistent with this Act—

(a) to regulate the procedure in all cases under this Act ;

(b) to declare what shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be the vernacular language of any specified district ; and

(c) generally to carry out the provisions of this Act.

Such rules shall be published in the official Gazette, and, when so published, shall have the force of law.

reported by this Committee have received the unqualified support of the Chief Commissioner. They are of such a nature as to render it necessary to re-draft the Bill.

3. We have, accordingly, amended and re-cast the Bill, but the majority of us desire to reserve our opinion as to the expediency of making these amendments until the Bill has been republished in its present shape, and subjected to further criticism. The most important amendments, and those to which we desire to attract particular attention, are as follows :—

(1.)—The Bill, as introduced, withdrew the power of making a distraint for rent, and practically compelled the landlord to sue a tenant on the produce of whose holding he wished to retain a lien for arrears of rent.

The Bill, as now amended, gives no right to distraint, but it maintains the landlord's lien on the produce for rent, and directs a Court executing a decree, other than for rent, by attachment and sale of the produce of a tenant's holding, to pay to the landlord, out of the proceeds of the sale, and before satisfying the decree-holder, any arrear of rent that may be due by the tenant, and likewise the instalment of rent falling due next after the usual date of harvesting the produce attached and sold.

It also allows a landlord, when an arrear is due to him, to prohibit the tenant, for a period of twenty-eight days, from removing the produce of the holding on which the rent is due. It is intended by this provision to give the landlord time to institute a suit and apply to the Court for an order to attach the produce. These provisions do not apply to rent due for a longer period than one year.

(2.)—The Bill, as introduced, took away the right conferred at the settlement on those tenants who are known as absolute occupancy-tenants, of transferring their holdings.

The amended Bill maintains this class of tenants exactly in the position given to it at settlement.

(3.)—The amended Bill stops the future growth of occupancy-right by operation of the twelve-year rule, but maintains in the enjoyment of that right those tenants who, at the passing of the Act, have acquired it.

(4.)—The Bill, as introduced, established a class of protected tenants, the condition of protection being, inter alia, residence and cultivation of land in the village for five years. Tenants, who had not so qualified, it left to the landlord's discretion.

The amended Bill protects all ordinary tenants (i. e., all tenants who have not absolute occupancy or occupancy-rights and are not sub-tenants) from capricious eviction.

(5.)—The Bill, as introduced, provided for the determination of the rent of occupancy-tenants primarily on the basis of the settlement-rates and the customary rates paid by tenants of the same class; and fixed the rents so determined for the term of settlement, subject to enhancement or abatement on account of change in the value of the produce or in the productive power of the land.

It left the rent of protected tenants to be determined, in case of dispute, by the Courts, with reference to the rent paid by ordinary tenants. A rent so determined was only fixed from year to year.

The amended Bill adopts, for the determination of the rent of ordinary tenants, the principle of compensation for disturbance, giving the tenant from whom an increase of rent is demanded the option of agreeing to the enhancement, in which case his rent will be fixed for seven years, or of leaving the land, taking, as compensation, ten times the sum demanded as enhancement.

It provides that the rents of absolute occupancy-tenants shall not be raised during settlement.

It provides that the rents of occupancy-tenants, i. e., those who have acquired rights under the twelve-year rule, shall be fixed at twenty-five per cent. below the rent paid by ordinary tenants for like land, and that, when the rent of such tenants has been fixed, it shall not be enhanced till after the expiry of a period of ten years.

In the case of all classes of tenants, the landlord is, at any time, entitled to an increase of rent if the productive power of the land has been increased by improvements made by such landlord, or if the area of the holding has been added to.

4. We recommend that the Bill, as now amended, be re-published in the Gazette of India and sent to the Local Government for publication in the local Gazette and translation into the vernacular languages; and that its re-consideration be postponed for a period of two months.

No. II.

A Bill to Consolidate and amend the law relating to Agricultural Tenancies in the Central Provinces.

WHEREAS it is expedient to consolidate and amend the law relating to agricultural tenancies in the Central Provinces; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

1. This Act may be called "The Central Provinces Tenancy Act, 1882":

It extends to all the territories for the time being administered by the Chief Commissioner of the Central Provinces, except those specified in the Scheduled Districts Act, 1874, Schedule I, Part VI;

and it shall come into force on such day as the said Chief Commissioner, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, may by notification in the local official Gazette direct.

2. On and from such day the Acts mentioned in the schedule hereto annexed, shall be repealed so far as they relate to the territories to which this Act extends.

But nothing contained in this Act, or in any Act hereby repealed, shall affect the rights or liabilities of tenants or landlords in the districts of Nimár, Chánda and Sambalpúr, so far as such rights or liabilities have been determined by any order of the Governor General in Council made at the settlement of any such district.

All suits or applications instituted or made under any Act hereby repealed, and which, when this Act comes into force, are pending before any officer, before whom they would have been instituted or made, if this Act had been in force, shall, so far as may be, be deemed to have been respectively instituted or made hereunder.

3. In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context,—

(1) "land" means land which is let or occupied for agricultural purposes or for purposes subservient to agriculture, and includes the sites of buildings appurtenant to such land:

(2) "tenant" means a person who holds land of another person, and is, or, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, would be, liable to pay rent for such land to such other person. But it does not include a mortgagee or a person who takes a lease of unoccupied land for the purpose of sub-letting it, or of land already in the occupation of cultivators.

Where such person, at the time of taking a New lease of such land, is a tenant of any land included therein, he does not by reason only of such lease cease to be a tenant of the land so included:

(3) "landlord" means the person of whom a tenant holds land, and to whom such tenant is, or, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, would be, liable to pay rent therefor; but when the right to receive rent or any other right which a landlord is entitled as such to exercise, is, for the time being, vested in a person other than the person of whom the land is held, such other person shall be deemed to be the landlord in respect of the right so vested:

(4) "rent" means whatever is paid, delivered or rendered, in money, kind or service, by a tenant on account of the use or occupation of land let to him:

(5) "pay" and "payable" used with reference to rent, include "deliver" and "deliverable":

(6) "arrear" means an instalment of rent which is not paid on or before the date on which it is payable:

(7) "holding" means a parcel of land held by a tenant of a landlord under one lease or agreement:

(8) "improvement" means, with reference to a holding, any work which adds to the letting-value of such holding, without diminishing the value of any other part of the estate of the landlord of whom such holding is held; which is suitable to such holding and consistent with the purpose for which it was let; and which, if not executed on the holding, is either executed directly for its benefit or is, after execution, made directly beneficial to it:

It includes the reclaiming, enclosing or clearing of lands for agricultural purposes; but it does not include such embankments, temporary wells, and water-channels as are ordinarily made by tenants.

Explanation.—A work which benefits several holdings may be deemed to be, with respect to each of them, an improvement:

(9) "Revenue-officer" means any Revenue-officer appointed under the Central Provinces Land-revenue Act, 1881, not being below the rank of Tahsildár, and includes also a Settlement-officer:

(10) "agricultural year" means the year commencing on the first day of June, or on such other date as the Chief Commissioner may, in the case of any specified District or Districts, from time to time, appoint:

(11) "sir-land" means (a) land recorded as "sir" in the papers of the last preceding settlement of the local area in which such land is situate; and (b) land not so recorded, but which has been cultivated by the proprietor or one of the proprietors thereof for a period of not less than twelve consecutive years; and (c) waste land which has been broken up by the proprietor or one of the proprietors thereof and cultivated by him for a period of not less than six consecutive years; and (d) in Sambalpur, includes also "bhogra" land.

Explanation.—Land which has, after the date of such settlement, or the expiry of such period of twelve years, or six years (as the case may be), been for a period of six consecutive years unoccupied by such proprietor is not sir-land. Land is not unoccupied by the proprietor when it is leased out by him with an express reservation of his sir-rights.

(12) "mahál" means any local area held under a separate engagement for the payment of the land-revenue direct to Government, and includes also any local area declared, under the provisions of the Central Provinces Land-revenue Act, 1881, to be a mahál:

(13) "village" includes any tract of land which, at the last settlement of such land, has been recognized as a village, or which the Chief Commissioner declares to be a village for the purposes of the Central Provinces Land-revenue Act, 1881:

(14) "lambardár" means a person appointed under the Central Provinces Land-revenue Act, 1881, to represent the proprietary body of a mahál in its relations with the Government:

(15) "record-of-rights" includes the supplementary administration-paper prepared at or after the time of making a settlement before the Central Provinces Land-revenue Act, 1881, came into force.

CHAPTER II.

OF THE CLASSES OF TENANTS, AND THEIR ORDINARY RIGHTS AND LIABILITIES.

Classes of tenants.

4. There shall be four classes of tenants:—

- (1)—Absolute occupancy-tenants:
- (2)—Occupancy-tenants:
- (3)—Ordinary tenants:
- (4)—Sub-tenants.

A.—Rights and Liabilities common to all Classes of Tenants.

5. In all suits and proceedings between landlord and tenant, the rent payable for any year by a tenant, in respect of his holding, shall be deemed to be the rent payable, in respect of such holding, in the year immediately preceding such year, unless a different rent has been agreed upon, in writing, by the landlord and the tenant, or has been fixed by an order under this Act.

6. When the rent of a holding is fixed by any order under this Act, such order shall take effect from the commencement of the agricultural year next following the date of the application upon which such order is made. Provided that, if such application is made on the ground of an increase, or diminution, of the area of a holding, the order shall take effect from such date as the officer making it may direct.

7. Rents shall be payable in such instalments and on such dates as the Chief Commissioner may, from time to time, by rule prescribe, and in the absence of such rule, according to local usage.

8. In the absence of any person duly appointed to act on behalf of several persons who are joint proprietors of a mahál, the lambardár shall be deemed to be, for the purpose of this Act, the sole person entitled to grant leases to tenants, or enter into agreements with tenants as such, of the land held jointly by such proprietors, or to give receipts for the rent of such land, or to issue any notice, make any application, or bring any suit, under this Act, to, in respect of, or against, any tenant of such land.

9. When two or more persons are the joint landlords of any tenant, such tenant, subject to any rule which the Chief Commissioner may, from time to time, make in this behalf, shall not be compelled to pay part of the rent of his holding to one of such persons and part to another or others; and such persons shall, if the tenant so desires, appoint one of their number, or some other person, to receive the rent of such holding.

10. When any landlord refuses to accept any instalment of rent payable in money when tendered to him by a tenant, and when any tenant, in the case mentioned in section nine, desires the appointment of a person to receive rent payable in money and no such appointment is made within a reasonable time, and when any tenant in any other case is doubtful as to the person entitled to receive such rent from him, such tenant may apply to a Revenue-officer for permission to deposit in his Court the amount of rent which he believes to be due; and such officer shall receive such deposit, if it appears to him, after examining the applicant, that he had reasonable grounds for making the application and that it was made in good faith.

Bill s. 8.

11. When any deposit has been so received, it shall be deemed to be a payment to the landlord on account of rent due.

The officer receiving such deposit may pay the amount thereof to any person appearing to him to be entitled to receive the same, or may, if he thinks fit, retain the deposit pending the decision of a Civil Court as to the person so entitled.

No suit or other proceeding shall be instituted against the Secretary of State for India in Council, or against any officer of the Government, in respect of anything done by a Revenue-officer under this section; but nothing herein contained shall prevent any person entitled to receive the amount of any such deposit from recovering the same from a person to whom it has been paid by a Revenue-officer.

Bill, s. 9.

12. Every tenant, from whom any sum is levied by his landlord in excess of the rent specified in his lease, or payable under the provisions of this Act, shall be entitled to recover from such landlord a sum not exceeding double the amount so levied.

Bill, s. 9.

13. When any landlord refuses a receipt for rent paid by a tenant, or grants such receipt but refuses or neglects to specify therein the period or crop in respect of which the payment is made, such tenant shall be entitled to recover from such landlord a sum not exceeding double the amount of the rent so paid.

Bill, s. 89, cl. (d).

14. Notwithstanding anything contained in this Act, or in the conditions of settlement, the rent of any tenant may, on the application of the landlord, be enhanced on the ground that the productive power of the tenant's holding has been increased through the agency or at the expense of the landlord. Such enhancement shall bear the same proportion to such rent as the increase so effected in the productive power of the holding bears to the productive power of the holding as it was immediately before such increase was effected.

The rent of an absolute-occupancy tenant shall not be enhanced under this section when the productive power of the holding has been increased by an improvement made by a landlord in contravention of any rule made hereunder.

15. When the area of a holding is increased or diminished by encroachment, fluvial action or otherwise, a Revenue-officer may, by order, on the application of the landlord or of the tenant, fix the rent payable in respect of such holding with reference to such increase or diminution:

Provided that such order shall not bar the landlord's claim to enhance the rent of such holding on other grounds allowed by this Act.

16. The rent of land assessed to land-revenue shall not be fixed for a term exceeding the period of the settlement of such land.

All agreements made in contravention of this section shall, as regards the amount of rent, be voidable at the will of either party.

17. In all cases in which a tenant has paid rent in kind, or on the estimated value of a portion of the crop, or by rates varying with the crop, or partly in one of such ways and partly in another or others, the landlord or tenant may apply to commute such rent to a fixed money rent. Such application shall be made, while the settlement of the district in which such tenant's holding is situate is in progress, to a Settlement-officer; and, at any other time, to any revenue-officer specially empowered by the Chief Commissioner in this behalf.

On the receipt of such application, such officer shall determine the sum to be paid as money rent, and shall order that the tenant shall pay, in lieu of paying his rent in kind or as aforesaid, the sum so determined. If the application is opposed, such officer may, for reasons to be recorded by him in writing, refuse to grant the same.

18. Any tenant not holding under a lease for a fixed period may, at the end of any agricultural year, surrender his holding, or, with the consent of his landlord, any part thereof. But notwithstanding such surrender he shall continue to be liable for the year next following the date of such surrender for the rent of the holding or part surrendered, unless—

- he gives to his landlord, at least thirty days before the end of such agricultural year, notice in writing of such surrender; or
- he takes a new holding in the same village from the same landlord; or
- he ceases, at least thirty days before the end of such year, to reside in the village in which the surrendered holding is situate; or
- the landlord himself cultivates such holding or lets it to another tenant.

19. The produce of a holding in the occupation of a tenant shall be hypothecated for the rent payable in respect thereof, and, if such produce is attached and sold in execution of a decree, the Court executing the decree shall apply the net proceeds of the sale in the first instance to satisfy the landlord's claim (if any) for sums due to him in respect of the rent of such holding for the year immediately preceding the attachment, and for the instalment of rent which falls due next after the usual period of harvesting the produce attached.

20. Where an arrear is due from any tenant in respect of his holding, the landlord may, by notice to the tenant, prohibit the removal of the produce of such holding.

Act XII, 1881, s. 5.

No such prohibition shall be made in respect of any sum claimed in excess of the rent payable by the tenant for such holding in the preceding year, unless the rent has been enhanced in accordance with the provisions of this Act, nor in respect of an arrear which has been due for a longer period than one year.

No such prohibition shall be made more than once in respect of the same produce.

21. Every notice under section twenty, shall be in writing, and shall specify the amount of the arrear claimed, the period for which, and the holding in respect of which, it is said to be due, and, when a sum in excess of the rent payable by the tenant in the last preceding year is claimed, the decree, order or agreement, as the case may be, for the payment of such sum.

The notice shall be served on the tenant, or other person who may be in charge of the produce on his behalf, and shall remain in force until the rent specified in such notice is paid, or, if such rent is not paid, until the expiry of twenty-eight days after such notice is so given.

22. Notwithstanding such notice, the tenant may reap, gather or store the produce of his holding, and do all other such acts as may be necessary for the due preservation of the same.

23. Any tenant on whom a notice in respect of the produce of his holding has been served under section twenty, and who, except for any of the purposes mentioned in section twenty-two, while such notice is in force, removes, attempts to remove, or abets the removal of, such produce from the place where it was standing, deposited or stored when such notice was served, and any landlord who distrains or attempts to detain the produce of any holding, or prevents, or attempts to prevent, otherwise than in accordance with this Act, the removal of any produce of a holding by the tenant thereof, shall be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

Act XII, 1881, s. 43: s. 13.

24. Whenever rent is taken by division of the produce, or by estimate or appraisal of the crop, if either the landlord or the tenant neglects to attend, either personally or by agent, at the proper time for making such division, estimate or appraisal, or if there is a dispute regarding the division of the said produce, or the quantity or value of the crop, a Revenue-officer may, on the application of either party, issue a commission to such person as such officer thinks fit, directing him to divide, estimate or appraise the crop.

25. When a Revenue-officer appoints a Commissioner for any of the purposes mentioned in section twenty-four, such officer may, in his discretion, direct such Commissioner to associate with himself any other persons as assessors, and may give him instructions regarding the number, qualifications and mode of selecting such assessors (if any), and the procedure to be followed in making such division, estimate or appraisal.

The Commissioner so appointed shall make the division, estimate or appraisal, in accordance with such instructions.

26. When a crop has been estimated or appraised under the foregoing provisions, such estimate or appraisal shall be reduced to writing and signed by the Commissioner making the same, and shall be submitted to the Revenue-officer by whom the commission was issued. Such Revenue-officer shall consider the Commissioner's report, and after such hearing and enquiry (if any), as he may think necessary, shall pass order thereon either confirming or varying the estimate or appraisal, and the rent shall be payable in accordance with such order.

27. In sections nineteen to twenty-four (both inclusive) the produce of a holding means—

- crops and other products of the earth standing or ungathered on such holding;
- crops and other products of the earth which have been grown on the holding and have been reaped or gathered and are deposited on such holding or a threshing-ground, or stored in the homestead of the village in which such holding is situate, or in which the tenant, whose holding it is, resides.

B.—Of Absolute Occupancy-tenants.

28. All tenants who, on the day when this Act comes into force, occupy any holding in respect of which they have been recorded in any record-of-rights made before such day as "absolute occupancy-raiyats," or in terms equivalent thereto, shall be deemed to be absolute occupancy-tenants of such holding.

29. The rent of the holding of every absolute occupancy-tenant shall be fixed by the Settlement-officer at the settlement of the district in which such holding is situate, and the rent so fixed, shall not be enhanced during the currency of such settlement, except under the provisions of section fourteen or section fifteen.

The rent payable in respect of his holding by any such tenant, when this Act comes into force, shall be deemed to have been fixed at the last preceding settlement of the district in which his holding is situate.

30. The right of an absolute occupancy-tenant in his holding shall devolve as if it were land, and shall be transferable by mortgage or sale or gift. Any mortgage of such right for a longer period than fourteen years made, after this Act comes into force, shall be deemed for the purposes of this Act to be a sale.

If an absolute occupancy-tenant intends to transfer his right in his holding by sale or gift, he shall give to his landlord a written notice of such intention, and the landlord may thereupon—

(a) within one month from the receipt of such notice, claim to purchase such right, at a price equal to five times the yearly rent payable in respect of the holding; or

(b) permit the sale or gift, in which case he shall be entitled to a sum equal to such rent for one year, and such sum shall be a charge on the holding sold.

Any transfer made in contravention of this section shall be void.

31. An absolute occupancy-tenant shall not be liable to be ejected from his holding by his landlord as such for an arrear of rent or for any cause.

The right of such tenant in his holding shall be deemed to be hypothecated to the landlord for the rent thereof.

32. When the right of an absolute occupancy-tenant in his holding is sold by order of a Civil Court in execution of a decree other than a decree obtained by his landlord, the landlord shall, in respect of such holding, have the same rights as are reserved to him by section thirty in the case of a private sale.

C.—Of Occupancy-tenants.

33. All tenants who, when this Act comes into force, have held the same land continuously for twelve years, otherwise than as absolute occupancy-tenants or sub-tenants, have a right of occupancy in, and shall be deemed to be occupancy-tenants of, such land; Provided that such land is not

(a) sir-land, or

(b) held in lieu of wages, or

(c) held under a written lease in which it is agreed that a right of occupancy in such land

34. When the rent of the holding of an occupancy-tenant has been fixed by agreement or under this Act, or under any Act hereby repealed, such rent shall not be enhanced until the expiry of ten years from the day on which it was so fixed, except when the settlement of the district in which such holding is situate is in progress, or under the provisions of section fourteen or section fifteen.

35. When any occupancy-tenant dies, his right in his holding shall devolve as if it were land: Provided that no collateral relative of such tenant shall be entitled to inherit such right, unless at the death of such tenant he was a co-sharer in the holding.

On such application the Settlement or Revenue-officer, as the case may be, may fix the rent at a rate, not more than three-fourths of the rate usually paid by ordinary tenants of holdings situate in the same or adjoining tahsils, for land of similar quality with like advantages.

When the land in respect of which an application is made under this section, has been improved in accordance with this Act by the agency or at the expense of the tenant of such land, the quality and advantages of such land shall, for the purposes of this section, be deemed to be the quality and advantages had and enjoyed by such land immediately before such improvements were made.

38. A tenant having a right of occupancy in land situate in a village in which the holdings of tenants are by custom liable to periodical re-distribution, and exchanging such land in accordance with such custom for other land situate in the same village, shall be deemed to have a right of occupancy in the land so taken in exchange.

Bill, s. 77.

39. If a tenant having a right of occupancy in any land ceases to hold such land, and thereupon commences to hold other land of the same landlord, under circumstances from which it may be inferred that such tenant has accepted such other land in lieu of, and on the same conditions as, the land which he has ceased to hold, he shall, in the absence of a written agreement to the contrary, be deemed to have a right of occupancy in the land which he so commences to hold.

D.—Of Sub-tenants.

(c) any ground mentioned in section thirty-seven clause (a) or clause (b).

46. An ordinary tenant who is ejected, under New. clause (a) or clause (b) of section forty-five from his holding shall be entitled to receive from his landlord compensation for disturbance.

49. Every tenant who is ejected from his holding shall be entitled to compensation for improvements made by him or the persons under whom he claims, and for which compensation has not already been made.

Whenever a Court makes a decree or order for the ejectment of a tenant, it shall determine the amount of compensation due under this section to such tenant for improvements, and shall make the order of ejectment conditional on the payment of such amount to the tenant.

No compensation under this section for an improvement, shall be claimable in any of the following cases, namely:—

(a) where the tenant has made the improvement in contravention of any rule made under section forty-eight and for the time being in force;

(b) where the tenant, having contracted not to make such improvement without giving the landlord reasonable notice to make it, has made it without giving such notice.

Improvements made by a tenant before this Act comes into force, in lands other than sir-land, shall be deemed to have been made in accordance with rules made under section forty-eight, unless it is shown that the landlord forbade the tenant to make the improvement, and was ready to make it himself.

Bill, s. 41.

50. In estimating the compensation to be awarded under section forty-nine for an improvement, the Court shall have regard—

(a) to the labour and capital expended by the tenant in making such improvement;

(c) to the amount for which the improvement could have been made by the landlord; and

(d) to any reduction or remission of rent made by the landlord to the tenant in consideration of such improvement.

Bill, s. 42.

51. Compensation for improvements may be made in such manner as may be agreed upon by the landlord and the tenant, or may be paid in money by such instalments (if any) as the Court thinks fit.

Bill, s. 102.

59. (a) the amount or value of the subject-matter of the suit exceeds one hundred rupees; or

(b) a question relating to a title to land, or some interest in land, has been determined as between parties having conflicting claims thereto.

No process of execution shall be issued on a decree under this Act after three years from the date of such decree, or, in the case of a decree for money, after three years from the date on which the money, to recover which execution is applied for, became payable under the decree.

65. If a decree for an arrear of rent is passed against a tenant other than an absolute occupancy-tenant, and remains unsatisfied at the end of the agricultural year in which such decree was passed, the landlord may apply to the Court, having authority to execute such decree, to eject such tenant; and the Court may thereupon cause a notice to be served on such tenant, informing him that if he does not pay the amount due under the decree within thirty days from the receipt of the notice, he will be ejected from his land.

If such amount be not so paid, the Court may, on proof of the service of such notice, eject such tenant from the land in respect of which the amount is due, or may allow the tenant such further period not exceeding thirty days as to it seems fit and may on the expiry of such further period, if such amount be not paid, eject him.

In making such decree the Court shall have regard to—

(a) the value of the produce of the holding for the whole agricultural year in which the arrear accrued;

(b) the proportion which the amount of rent payable for such year by the tenant bears to such value.

If in any such suit it appears that the land-revenue of the village in which such holding is situate has been suspended or remitted on account of drought or other calamity in respect of the period for which the arrear is claimed, the Court shall presume, until the contrary is shown, that, in the case of suspension, the produce of the holding has been diminished, and, in the case of remission, that such produce has been destroyed, by such calamity.

67. Whenever a decree is given for the ejectment of a tenant or the cancellation of his lease, on account of any act or omission by which the land in his occupation has been damaged, or which is inconsistent with the purpose for which the land has been let, the Court may, if it thinks fit, allow him to repair such damage within one month from the date of the decree, or order him to pay such compensation within such time, or may make such other order in the case, as the Court thinks fit. If such damage be so repaired or compensation so paid, or order obeyed, the decree shall not be executed.

When a landlord wishes to eject, under section forty-five, clause (b), an ordinary tenant, or to enhance his rent without his consent, such landlord shall serve through the Civil Court a notice on such tenant, on or before the thirty-first day of December next preceding the agricultural year in which such landlord desires to take possession of the land, or in which the enhancement is to take effect.

69. When a Civil Court passes under clause (b) of section forty-five a decree for the ejectment of an ordinary tenant, it shall in its decree state the amount payable to the tenant as compensation under section forty-six, and such decree shall not be executed until the sum so payable has been deposited in Court by the landlord.

New.

New.

71. When an ordinary tenant, on whom a notice of enhancement of rent has been served under section sixty-eight, refuses to agree to pay the enhanced rent, the landlord may institute a suit for ejectment in the Civil Court on or before the fifteenth day of March next after the date of such refusal.

Thereupon the Court shall fix a date for hearing the case, and shall issue a notice to the tenant, summoning him to appear on such date, and stating the yearly increase of rent asked by the landlord and the sum payable to the tenant as compensation under section forty-six, clause (a).

New.

72. On the appearance of the parties on the date fixed, the Court shall require the tenant to agree, or refuse to agree, to pay the enhanced rent.

If he agrees to pay such rent, his agreement shall thereupon be recorded, and he shall be liable to pay the enhanced rent from the commencement of the agricultural year next following the date of such agreement.

If he refuses, the Court shall pass a decree for his ejectment on condition that within fifteen days from the date of the decree the landlord deposits in Court the sum payable to the tenant as compensation under section forty-six, clause (a).

73. If such sum is so deposited, the order of ejectment shall be made absolute and the sum deposited shall be paid to the tenant. If such sum is not so deposited, the decree shall become null and void, and the tenant shall remain in occupation of his holding at the rent previously paid by him.

(a) when the tenant has, previous to the date of his ejectment, sown or planted crops in any land comprised in such holding he shall be entitled, at the option of the landlord, either to retain possession of such land and to use it for the purpose of tending and gathering in such crops; or to receive from the landlord the estimated value of the labour and capital expended by the tenant in preparing such land and sowing, planting and tending such crops;

(b) when the tenant has, previous to the date of his ejectment, prepared for sowing any land comprised in his holding, but has not sown or planted crops in such land, he shall be entitled to receive from the landlord the estimated value of the labour and capital expended by him in so preparing such land:

Provided that no tenant shall be entitled to retain possession of any land or receive any sum in respect thereof under this section when, after proceedings had been taken by the landlord for his ejectment, he has cultivated or prepared such land contrary to local usage.

75. When a landlord elects, under section seventy-four, clause (a), to allow a tenant to retain possession of any land for the purpose specified in that clause, such tenant shall pay to such landlord, for the use and occupation of such land during the period for which he is allowed to retain possession of the same, such rent as the Court may deem reasonable.

76. Notwithstanding the provisions of section sixty-one, in all suits for ejectment, the Court shall inquire into and determine all claims under this Act, by the landlord against such tenant, or by such tenant against the landlord.

Account to be taken generally between landlord and tenant.

Bill, s. 35.

77. When it appears to a Court making such inquiry that the amount payable under this Act by the landlord to the tenant exceeds the amount so payable by the tenant to the landlord, it shall, unless the landlord and tenant come to an arrangement regarding the payment of such excess sum, fix a time within which it must be paid into Court.

If such payment is made within the time fixed, the Court shall eject the tenant; and if such payment is not so made within such time, it shall refuse to eject the tenant.

Bill.

78. All decrees for ejectment under this Act shall take effect from the beginning of the agricultural year next following the date of the order or decree, and shall be made subject to the conditions specified in sections forty-nine and seventy-four.

Bill, s. 53.

79. If any landlord or tenant desires that the extent of any holding should be ascertained, or that evidence relating to any improvement made in respect thereof, or to the state of such holding at any specified time, should be recorded, he may apply to a Revenue-officer, and such officer shall thereupon make, or cause to be made, such inquiry as he thinks fit, with a view to ascertaining the extent of the holding, or shall record such evidence, as the case may be:

Provided that no action shall be taken by any Revenue-officer under this section if he considers that there are no reasonable grounds for making the application, or if the subject-matter thereof is under inquiry in a Civil Court.

18. If, by such decision as aforesaid, the pilot is found not guilty of the charge or charges made against him, the President shall declare him acquitted of the same.

19. Every sentence passed, under section seven, by the President shall be subject to the confirmation by the Chief Commissioner, to whom the proceedings of the Court shall be submitted by the President.

20. The Chief Commissioner may, in his discretion, remit the whole or any part of such sentence, or direct the substitution of any mitigated punishment in lieu of the punishment awarded by the said Court.

21. If the President is of opinion that the decision of the majority of the members of the Court is manifestly contrary to the evidence, or that the investigation is otherwise insufficient, the President, instead of passing sentence on the pilot charged, or declaring him acquitted, as the case may be, may certify such opinion to the Chief Commissioner, and the Chief Commissioner may thereupon either order a new investigation before other assessors, or acquit the said pilot, as he thinks fit.

22. Notwithstanding the provisions herein contained, when a charge of misconduct or incompetency is made against any pilot licensed hereunder, the Chief Commissioner may, without holding an investigation under this Act into such charge, pass such orders thereon as he thinks proper, and may sentence such pilot to such penalty as he might be sentenced to under section seventeen.

23. The Chief Commissioner may, from time to time, make rules to carry into effect the provisions of this Act, with respect to the Court for making investigations into charges against pilots, and in particular with respect to—
(a) the mode in which the President shall, under section eleven, summon the assessors;
(b) the amount of the fees to be paid to the assessors; and
(c) the procedure of the said Court.
All such rules shall be published in the British Burma Gazette, and shall thereupon have the force of law.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE Pilot Rules at present in force at the ports of British Burma have not the force of law. So far as they relate merely to the appointment and duties of pilots, the want of legal sanction does not appear to be of importance, as these matters can be arranged for executively. The rules, however, provide also for the holding of courts for the trial and punishment of pilots guilty of misconduct in the performance of their duties, and in so far as they relate to such matters require something more than the authority of mere executive orders for their due enforcement. At Calcutta, where the subject of the appointment and duties of pilots has, as in Burma, been provided for executively, the subject of the trial and punishment of pilots has been dealt with by the Legislature, in a special Act (XII of 1859). It seems desirable that in Burma, also, this subject should be similarly dealt with.

The present Bill has, therefore, been prepared. It provides for the holding of investigations into charges of misconduct on the part of pilots. The constitution of the Courts of Enquiry, and the manner of selecting the members, are duly provided for, and power is given to the Chief Commissioner to make rules for conducting the proceedings. The authority of the Courts, and the confirmation required for their findings and orders, are also suitably defined. The Bill also prohibits any person from acting as a pilot in any port in British Burma, or in any navigable river or channel leading to any such port, unless he holds a license to act as a pilot granted by the Chief Commissioner. This seems desirable, as under the present law there is nothing to prevent a person from acting as a pilot without a license, except in ports to which section 38 of the Indian Ports Act, 1875, has been specially extended.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Third Publication.]

The following further Report of a Select Committee, together with the Bill as settled by them, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 16th March, 1882:—

WE, the undersigned members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to provide for the Relief of Encumbered Estates in the Jhānsi Division of the North-Western Provinces was referred, have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin, and have the honour to present this further report.

The Bill, as amended by us, was laid before the Council, with our report dated 4th February, 1881, and was sent to the Local Government for opinion.

The Government of the North-Western Provinces replied in their Secretary's letter, No. 629, dated 25th April, 1881. In that letter, the Lieutenant-Governor suggested an entirely new plan for dealing with the Jhānsi question, and forwarded a memorandum prepared by Mr. Bazett Colvin, and the rough draft of a new Bill.

It is this new Bill which we have now had under consideration.

The chief points of the present scheme, as laid down by Mr. Colvin, are as follows:—

- (1) The indebted zamindar, or an officer appointed for the purpose by the Local Government, may apply to the Commissioner of the Division, stating the debts and liabilities of such zamindar.
- (2) The Commissioner may refer the application to an officer styled "the Special Judge," who is to be appointed for this purpose, and who may, if the Local Government pleases, be one of the District staff.
- (3) On the receipt of an application by the Special Judge, all claims against the indebted zamindar are to be called in.
- (4) In dealing with the claims, the Special Judge is to have powers similar to those conferred on the Courts by the Dekkhan Agriculturists' Relief Act, No. XVII of 1879.
- (5) All proceedings, of whatever kind, taken in other Courts against the indebted zamindar, are to be for ever stayed; and he is to be disabled from contracting fresh liabilities, until certain conditions have been fulfilled.
- (6) The Special Judge will determine the amount of the debts and liabilities of the zamindar, and will ascertain the nature and amount of property possessed by him, other than his proprietary rights in land.
- (7) If the value of such property, other than as aforesaid, is sufficient to pay the debts, the Special Judge will give the creditors decrees, which they may execute through the ordinary Civil Courts.
- (8) If such value is not so sufficient, the Special Judge will submit to the Commissioner a report showing the amount of the debts due by the zamindar, and detailing the property, other than proprietary rights in land, belonging to such zamindar.

- (9). An arbitrary value is then to be put on the zamindar's proprietary rights in land; (1), for the purpose of a loan from Government, a sum equal to eight times the nett annual profits derived from such rights; (2), for the purchase of such rights by Government, a sum equal to sixteen times and two-thirds such nett annual profits.
- (10). If the debts certified by the Special Judge can be met by the proceeds of such other property as the indebted zamindar possesses, together with a sum equal to the loan value of his proprietary rights in land, the zamindar is to be asked if he will accept a loan from Government. If he accepts, the money is to be advanced from the public treasury, and the debts are to be paid. If he declines, the Commissioner may sell his proprietary rights by auction, to the extent necessary to meet the claims certified by the Special Judge.
- (11). When the zamindar accepts a loan, the Government will have a lien on his land. If he fails to repay the loan within the time laid down for that purpose by the Commissioner, his proprietary rights, or such part of them as may be necessary to cover the unpaid portion of the loan, shall vest in the Secretary of State for India in Council.
- (12). When the debts certified by the Special Judge, exceed in amount the aggregate value of the zamindar's other property and of his proprietary rights in land as estimated for the purpose of a loan, the zamindar is to be declared to be insolvent, and his proprietary rights in land are to be sold by auction.
- (13). Such rights will be put up for sale at the upset price of sixteen times and two-thirds the nett annual profits, and sold to the highest bidder above that sum. If there is no bid, the Commissioner will pay to the insolvent's estate a sum equal to sixteen times and two-thirds the nett annual profits. The debts will be paid off, so far as may be practicable, and the insolvent's proprietary rights in land will vest in the Secretary of State for India in Council.
- (14). In all cases in which the proprietary rights shall vest in the Secretary of State for India in Council, the zamindar will continue to hold his sir-land as an ex-proprietary tenant. And the same consequence ensues, as a matter of course, when his rights are sold on his refusal to accept a loan.
- (15). On the final completion of any of these proceedings, that is to say, when the zamindar's proprietary rights have been sold, or when they have vested in the Secretary of State for India in Council, or when the loan has been re-paid, the Commissioner will declare the disabilities imposed on the zamindar to be removed.

The zamindar then will be in this position. If he has taken a loan, he will be liable for the repayment of the loan, by instalments, with interest. He will have to pay these sums in addition to his land-revenue, but they will probably be less than the sums extracted from him by his creditors. He will have his sir-land to live upon, together with whatever remains to him out of his rental, after the payments of instalments of the loan, interest thereon, land-revenue and rates. He will be freed from all other liabilities and encumbrances, and, after the loan is re-paid, will be restored to the full enjoyment of his rights.

If he refuses the loan, he will lose his proprietary rights, in whole or in part, but he will be completely freed from debt, and will continue to hold his sir-land as an ex-proprietary tenant. Such also will be his position if he is declared an insolvent.

We have made the following material alterations in the Bill, as drafted by Mr. Bazett Colvin:—

Firstly, Mr. Colvin provided that, if the debts, as found by the Special Judge, could be met by the proceeds of the sale of the zamindar's property, other than his proprietary rights in land, the Special Judge should give the creditors decrees and leave them to get satisfaction in ordinary course of law. He provided also that, in such case, the zamindar's disabilities were to cease.

It appears to us that the result of this proceeding would be to start the zamindar on a fresh career, with decrees hanging over him, to meet which he would probably raise fresh loans.

We have provided, therefore, that in these cases also the Special Judge shall send a report to the Commissioner, who will cause the property enumerated in the Special Judge's report, or a portion of it, to be sold. If the proceeds are sufficient to pay the debts as determined by the Special Judge, the Commissioner will pay such debts, and the zamindar will thereupon be discharged from all liabilities.

If the proceeds are not so sufficient, the Commissioner will cause the valuation of the zamindar's proprietary rights to be made, and the case will go on as contemplated by Mr. Colvin.

Secondly, we think that the value proposed to be put upon the zamindar's interest in the land is too high. It is probably three times as much as property of the kind in Jhansi would fetch at public auction. We assent to the principle that the zamindar's creditors, whose contracts we propose to override, should be generously dealt with; but we do not think it is safe to advance more than six times the nett annual profits of the property as a loan, or to give more than ten times such profits for the purchase of such property.

The interest chargeable on loans advanced by Government under the Bill has been fixed at five per cent. simple interest, with the assent of the Financial Department. The Bill has been amended accordingly.

Thirdly, we think that, when the debts of the zamindar can be met with a loan, it is unnecessary to provide that his proprietary rights in land shall, on his failure to repay the loan, vest in the Secretary of State for India in Council.

The necessary corollary of this provision is that, when part of the loan has been re-paid, part only of the proprietary rights shall be forfeited. The result will be, that small parts of villages or shares in villages will belong to Government and much trouble will be given to the administration.

It seems to us better to provide that, on the occurrence of a default in the payment of any instalment of principal or interest, the whole sum due shall be deemed to be an arrear of land-revenue, and shall be recoverable as such.

This provision will give the Deputy Commissioner ample power to take possession of the defaulter's land, and, if necessary, will enable Government to sell the defaulter's proprietary rights under the land-revenue law.

The objection taken to this amendment is, that it will compel the district-officer to manage the land. But in any case, whether he assumes possession for a term of years as we propose, or whether the proprietary rights of the defaulter are vested in the Secretary of State for India in Council, some arrangement will have to be made for the management of the land and the collection of the rents. There will be no more difficulty in the one case than in the other.

The Bill appears to us now to be put in as simple a shape as is practicable.

We recommend that the Bill, as now amended, be published in the Gazette of India and in the local official Gazette.

WHEREAS many zamīndārs in the Jhānsī Division of the North-Western Provinces are in debt, and their immoveable property is subject to encumbrances, and it is expedient to provide for their relief in manner hereinafter appearing; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

1. This Act may be called "The Jhānsī Encumbered Estates Act, 1882":

Short title. and it shall come into force on the passing thereof.

Commencement. Interpretation-clause. 2. In this Act—
"zamīndār" means a proprietor of land or of any share in land assessed to revenue, and includes an ubāridār:

"sir-land": and "sir-land" means—

(a) land recorded as sir at the last settlement or revision of settlement of the district in which it is situate, and continuously so recorded since;

(b) land continuously cultivated for twelve years by the proprietor himself with his own stock or by his servants, or by hired labour;

(c) land recognized by village-custom as the special holding of a co-sharer, or treated as such in the distribution of profits or charges among the co-sharers.

CHAPTER II.

APPOINTMENT OF OFFICERS.

3. The Local Government may, from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, appoint, for any local area in the Jhānsī Division, a special Judge, who shall exercise the powers conferred, and perform the duties imposed, by this Act on such officer.

The Local Government may, at any time, by a like notification, suspend or remove any special Judge so appointed.

CHAPTER III.

OF THE APPLICATION AND PRELIMINARY INQUIRY.

4. At any time within twelve months after a special Judge is appointed for any local area, any zamīndār owning land in such area, or such officer as the Local Government may, from time to time, appoint in this behalf, may apply, in writing, to the Commissioner of the Jhānsī Division, stating that such zamīndār is subject to debts or liabilities other than debts due, or liabilities incurred, to Government, or that his immoveable property is encumbered with debts and liabilities, other than as aforesaid, and requesting that the provisions of this Act be applied to him:

Provided that, when such zamīndār is a disqualified proprietor within the meaning of section 194 of the North-Western Provinces Land-revenue Act, 1873, such application shall be made—

(a) when his property is under the superintendence of the Court of Wards, by the manager of his property, with the consent of that Court; and
(b) when his property is not under such superintendence, by the Deputy Commissioner of the district in which such property is situate.

The Local Government may, from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, extend the time prescribed for making applications under this section.

5. When any such application is made in the case of any zamīndār; the Commissioner shall direct an inquiry to be made by the special Judge—

(a) into the nature and amount of such debts and liabilities other than debts due, and liabilities incurred to, Government; and

(b) into the sufficiency of such zamīndār's property, whether moveable or immoveable, (exclusive of the property mentioned in the first proviso to section 266 of the Code of Civil Procedure), to discharge such debts and liabilities other than as aforesaid.

6. When an inquiry has been directed under section five, the applicant shall, within a period to be fixed by the Commissioner, submit to the special Judge a statement duly verified by the said applicant, or by some other competent person, in the manner required by law for the verification of plaints.

Contents of statement. Such statement shall contain, so far as may be practicable,—

(a) such particulars as the special Judge may require respecting the debts and liabilities, other than as aforesaid, to which the zamīndār is subject, or with which his immoveable property or any part thereof is encumbered;

(b) the nature and value of the zamīndār's property (exclusive of his proprietary rights in land and the property mentioned in the first proviso to section 266 of the Code of Civil Procedure); and

(c) the names and residences of his creditors, so far as they are known to, or can be ascertained by, such zamīndār.

If any such statement contains any averment which the person making the verification knows or believes to be false, or does not know or believe to be true, he shall be deemed to have intentionally given false evidence within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code:

False averments in statement.

Provided that, when the application is made by an officer appointed under section four, or by the Deputy Commissioner, it shall not be necessary to verify such statement; but the zamīndār shall, so far as may be practicable, within a period to be fixed by the special Judge, furnish such information regarding the matters mentioned in section six, clauses (a), (b) and (c), as such Judge may require.

CHAPTER IV.

PROOF OF DEBTS AND PROCEDURE OF SPECIAL JUDGE.

7. When the duly verified statement or the information referred to in section six has been submitted or furnished, the special Judge shall publish in the official Gazette, a notice in the vernacular language of the district, calling upon all persons having claims against the person or the property of the zamīndār, by, or with respect to, whom the application was made, under section four, to present to the special Judge, within two months from the date of such publication, a written statement of such claims.

Provided that, when the claimant satisfies the special Judge that he had sufficient cause for not presenting such statement within such period, the special Judge may receive such statement within a further period of two months from the expiration of the original period.

The special Judge shall also cause copies of such notice to be exhibited at his own office, at the offices of the Commissioner of the Jhānsī Division and the Deputy Commissioner of the district in which the land of such zamīndār is situate, and at some conspicuous place in the village where such zamīndār resides.

8. After the publication of such notice, the following consequences shall ensue, (namely):—

(a) all proceedings then pending in any civil or revenue Court in British India, in respect of all debts and liabilities, other than as aforesaid, to which the zamīndār is subject, or with which his immoveable property is encumbered, shall be for ever stayed; and all processes, executions and attachments issued by any such Court, and then in force, in respect of any such debt or liability, shall become null and void;

(b) in respect of such debts and liabilities, no fresh proceedings, processes, executions or attachments shall, except as herein-after provided, be instituted in, or issued by, any civil or revenue Court in British India;

(c) until the Commissioner has declared, as hereinafter provided, that the zamīndār has ceased to be subject to the disabilities mentioned in this clause, such zamīndār shall be incompetent to sell, mortgage, exchange, give or, without the consent of the Commissioner, lease, his proprietary rights in land or any part thereof.

9. Every claimant referred to in section seven shall, in the written statement of his claim, present full particulars thereof.

Every document on which the claimant founds his claim, or on which he relies in support thereof, shall be delivered to the special Judge along with such written statement.

If the document be an entry in any book, the claimant shall produce the book to the special Judge, together with a copy of the entry on which he relies. The special Judge shall mark the book, for the purpose of identification, and, after examining and comparing the copy with the original, shall return the book to the claimant.

If any document in the possession, or under the control, of the claimant is not delivered or produced by him, as required by this section, the special Judge may refuse to receive such document in evidence on the claimant's behalf, at the investigation of the case.

10. Every such claim (other than claims of the Government), not made within the time and in the manner hereby required, shall be deemed, for all purposes, and on all occasions, to have been duly discharged.

11. The special Judge shall hear the zamīndār, or, when the application has been made on behalf of a disqualified proprietor, shall hear the manager of his property, or the Deputy Commissioner, as the case may be, in answer to each claim so made; and, if the amount of any such claim (other than a claim decreed by a competent Court) is disputed, shall inquire into the history and merits thereof from the commencement of the transactions between the parties, and shall, as hereinafter provided, determine the amount (if any) justly due to the claimant.

12. When the special Judge inquires, under section eleven, into the history and merits of a claim, he shall—notwithstanding any agreement between the zamīndār and the claimant, or the persons (if any) through whom they claim, as to allowing compound interest, or as to setting off the profits of mortgaged property in lieu of interest without an account, or otherwise determining the manner of taking the account, and notwithstanding any statement or settlement of account, or any contract purporting to close previous dealings and create a new obligation,

open the account from the commencement of the transactions between the parties, and take that account according to the following rules (that is to say) :—

(a) separate accounts of principal and interest shall be taken ;

(b) in the account of principal, there shall be debited to the zamindár such money as may, from time to time, have been actually received by him, or on his account, from the claimant, and the price of goods (if any) sold to him by the claimant, as part of the transactions between them ;

(c) in the account of principal, there shall not be debited to the zamindár any money which he may have agreed to pay in contravention of section 257A of the Code of Civil Procedure ;

(d) in the account of principal, there shall not be debited to the zamindár any accumulated interest which has been converted into principal at any statement or settlement of account, or by any contract made in the course of the transactions, unless the special Judge, for reasons to be recorded by him in writing, deems such debit to be reasonable ;

(e) in the account of interest, there shall be debited to the zamindár monthly simple interest on the balance of principal for the time being outstanding, at the rate allowed by the special Judge as hereinafter provided ;

(f) all money paid by, or on account of, the zamindár to the claimant or on his account, and all profits, service, or other advantages of every description received by the claimant in the course of the transactions, shall be credited first in the account of interest ; and, when any payment is more than sufficient to discharge the balance of interest due at the time it is made, the residue of such payment shall be credited to the zamindár in the account of principal :

Explanation—The advantages mentioned in this clause shall be estimated, if necessary, at such money-value as the special Judge may determine in his discretion, or with the aid of arbitrators appointed by him ;

(g) the accounts of principal and interest shall be made up to the date of making the claim ; and the aggregate of the balances (if any) appearing due on both such accounts against the zamindár at that date, shall be deemed to be the amount due at that date, except when the balance appearing due on the account of interest exceeds that appearing due on the account of principal, in which case double the latter balance shall be deemed to be the amount then due.

13. The interest to be awarded in taking an account, according to the rules set forth in section twelve, shall be—

(a) the rate (if any) agreed upon between the zamindár and the claimant, or the persons (if any)

through whom they respectively claim, unless such rate is deemed by the special Judge to be unreasonable ; or

(b) if such rate is deemed by the special Judge unreasonable, or if no rate was agreed upon, or, when any agreement to set off profits in lieu of interest without an account, entered into between the zamindár and the claimant, or the persons (if any) through whom they respectively claim, has been set aside by the special Judge, such rate as the special Judge deems reasonable.

14. If the amount so determined to be due cannot, in the opinion of the special Judge, be paid at once, he shall then proceed to rank the claims according to the order in which they shall be paid or discharged, and to fix the interest (if any) to be paid on the amounts thereof respectively from the date of the final decision thereon to the date of the payment and discharge thereof.

15. When the amount of the claims has been finally determined in the manner hereinbefore prescribed, the special Judge shall submit a report to the Commissioner, showing the nature and amount of the claims so determined, and also the nature and amount of all the zamindár's property (exclusive of his proprietary rights in land and the property mentioned in the first proviso to section 266 of the Code of Civil Procedure), which may be available for the payment or discharge of the same.

CHAPTER V.

PROCEDURE OF COMMISSIONER AND MODE OF LIQUIDATION.

16. On receiving such report, the Commissioner shall direct that the property reported by the special Judge, as available for the discharge of the claims determined by him, or any specified portion of such property, be sold by public auction, and, from the proceeds thereof, shall pay or discharge, so far as practicable, the amount of the said claims.

If such proceeds are not sufficient to pay or discharge in full such amount, the Commissioner shall direct the value of the zamindár's proprietary rights in land, to be ascertained in the manner following :—

For the purposes of a loan, the value of such rights shall be estimated to be a sum amounting to six times the nett annual profits of such zamindár.

For the purposes of purchase by Government, the value of such rights shall be estimated to be a sum amounting to ten times such nett annual profits.

Explanation—The expression "nett annual profits" means the aggregate amount—

(a) of the rents which a zamindár is entitled to receive as such annually from his tenants ;

(b) of all profits received by him as zamindár, and of the rent which he would have to pay for his sir-land (if any), if he were an expropriary tenant thereof,

after deducting, from such aggregate amount, the Government revenue and all rates payable by him, under the North-Western Provinces Local Rates Act, 1878, or any other Act for the time being in force.

17. When the value of the zamindár's proprietary rights has been ascertained as directed in section sixteen, the Commissioner shall proceed as follows :—

(a) If the sum at which the zamindár's proprietary rights in land have been valued for the purposes of a loan, is sufficient to pay or discharge the balance of the said claims, the Commissioner may, with the consent of the zamindár, direct such sum as may be necessary, not being more than the amount of such valuation, to be advanced from the public treasury as a loan to the zamindár, and shall, from the sum so advanced, pay or discharge in full the balance of the said debts and liabilities.

(b) If the zamindár does not consent to accept such loan, the Commissioner may direct that any portion, or, if necessary, the whole, of such rights, shall be sold in the manner hereinafter prescribed, in order to discharge such balance. Out of the proceeds of such sale, the Commissioner shall, so far as practicable, discharge such balance.

(c) If the sum at which the zamindár's proprietary rights in land have been valued, for the purposes of a loan, is not sufficient to discharge the balance of the said debts and liabilities, the Commissioner may order his proprietary rights in land to be sold, in the manner hereinafter prescribed.

The purchaser, under this section, of the zamindár's proprietary rights shall take the same free of all encumbrances created by such zamindár, or the person through whom he claims.

18. When an order for the sale of the proprietary rights of any zamindár has been made hereunder, the Commissioner may order such rights to be attached and taken under the management of the Deputy Commissioner, who shall have, for this purpose, the same powers as are conferred, for the management of a mahál, on a Collector by the North-Western Provinces Land-revenue Act, 1873, section one hundred and fifty-five.

Such management shall continue until such rights are sold hereunder.

19. All sales, under this Act, of proprietary rights in land, shall be made by public auction in the manner prescribed by the said North-Western Provinces Land-revenue Act, 1873, for the sale of immoveable property for arrears of land-revenue.

If, at the public auction of any zamindár's proprietary rights in land, any bid be made for such rights above the sum at which they have been valued for the purposes of purchase by Government, such rights shall be sold to the highest bidder ; and the proceeds of such sale shall be paid to the Deputy Commissioner or such officer as the Commissioner may direct. If no such bid be made, the Commissioner shall direct a sum of money equal to the amount of such valuation to be paid from the public treasury to the Deputy Commissioner or such officer.

20. The Deputy Commissioner or such officer, as the case may be, shall thereupon, subject to the control of the Commissioner,— firstly—pay, from the money which he has received under section nineteen, the debts, fines and liabilities (if any) due or incurred by the zamindár to the Government ;

secondly—pay all costs awarded against the zamindár by the special Judge or Commissioner ;

thirdly—out of the balance of such money, pay or discharge, so far as may be practicable, the claims against the zamindár determined by the special Judge in the order in which they are ranked under section fourteen by such Judge ;

fourthly—pay the surplus (if any) to the zamindár.

21. When a sum of money has been lent, under section seventeen, to a zamindár, and applied in payment or discharge of the claims against him, the following consequences shall ensue (namely) :—

(a) his proprietary rights in land shall be deemed to be mortgaged to the Secretary of State for India in Council, until such loan shall have been fully paid off ;

(b) he shall be bound to repay the amount of such loan, with interest thereon at the rate of five per cent. per annum, by yearly instalments, within such term, not exceeding ten years, as the Commissioner may prescribe ;

(c) in the event of his failing to pay any such instalment of principal or interest on the day fixed for the payment thereof, the whole sum remaining due on account of principal or interest, or both, shall be recoverable as an arrear of land-revenue due by him.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Third Publication.]

The following Report of a Select Committee, together with the Bill, as settled by them, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 16th March, 1882 :—

WE, the undersigned Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to Agricultural Tenancies in the Central Provinces was referred, have the honour to report that we have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin.

2. The Bill introduced on the 6th August, 1880, met with much criticism in the Central Provinces. In May, 1881, the Chief Commissioner referred the Bill to a Committee composed of officers* belonging to the Central Provinces, whose report has been now under consideration. The amendments recommended by this Committee have received the unqualified support of the Chief Commissioner. They are of such a nature as to render it necessary to re-draft the Bill.

3. We have, accordingly, amended and re-cast the Bill, but the majority of us desire to reserve our opinion as to the expediency of making these amendments until the Bill has been republished in its present shape, and subjected to further criticism. The most important amendments, and those to which we desire to attract particular attention, are as follows :—

(1.)—The Bill, as introduced, withdrew the power of making a distraint for rent, and practically compelled the landlord to sue a tenant on the produce of whose holding he wished to retain a lien for arrears of rent. The Bill, as now amended, gives no right to distrain, but it maintains the landlord's lien on the produce for rent, and directs a Court executing a decree, other than for rent, by attachment and sale of the produce of a tenant's holding, to pay to the landlord, out of the proceeds of the sale, and before satisfying the decree-holder, any arrear of rent that may be due by the tenant, and likewise the instalment of rent falling due next after the usual date of harvesting the produce attached and sold. It also allows a landlord, when an arrear is due to him, to prohibit the tenant, for a period of twenty-eight days, from removing the produce of the holding on which the rent is due. It is intended by this provision to give the landlord time to institute a suit and apply to the Court for an order to attach the produce. These provisions do not apply to rent due for a longer period than one year.

(2.)—The Bill, as introduced, took away the right conferred at the settlement on those tenants who are known as absolute occupancy-tenants, of transferring their holdings.

The amended Bill maintains this class of tenants exactly in the position given to it at settlement.

(3.)—The amended Bill stops the future growth of occupancy-right by operation of the twelve-year rule, but maintains in the enjoyment of that right those tenants who, at the passing of the Act, have acquired it.

(4.)—The Bill, as introduced, established a class of protected tenants, the condition of protection being, inter alia, residence and cultivation of land in the village for five years. Tenants, who had not so qualified, it left to the landlord's discretion.

The amended Bill protects all ordinary tenants (i. e., all tenants who have not absolute occupancy or occupancy-rights and are not sub-tenants) from capricious eviction.

(5.)—The Bill, as introduced, provided for the determination of the rent of occupancy-tenants primarily on the basis of the settlement-rates and the customary rates paid by tenants of the same class; and fixed the rents so determined for the term of settlement, subject to enhancement or abatement on account of change in the value of the produce or in the productive power of the land.

It left the rent of protected tenants to be determined, in case of dispute, by the Courts, with reference to the rent paid by ordinary tenants. A rent so determined was only fixed from year to year.

The amended Bill adopts, for the determination of the rent of ordinary tenants, the principle of compensation for disturbance, giving the tenant from whom an increase of rent is demanded the option of agreeing to the enhancement, in which case his rent will be fixed for seven years, or of leaving the land, taking, as compensation, ten times the sum demanded as enhancement.

It provides that the rents of absolute occupancy-tenants shall not be raised during settlement.

It provides that the rents of occupancy-tenants, i. e., those who have acquired rights under the twelve-year rule, shall be fixed at twenty-five per cent. below the rent paid by ordinary tenants for like land, and that, when the rent of such tenants has been fixed, it shall not be enhanced till after the expiry of a period of ten years.

In the case of all classes of tenants, the landlord is, at any time, entitled to an increase of rent if the productive power of the land has been increased by improvements made by such landlord, or if the area of the holding has been added to.

4. We recommend that the Bill, as now amended, be re-published in the Gazette of India and sent to the Local Government for publication in the local Gazette and translation into the vernacular languages; and that its re-consideration be postponed for a period of two months.

SCHEDULE.—ACTS REPEALED.

No. II.

A Bill to Consolidate and amend the law relating to Agricultural Tenancies in the Central Provinces.

WHEREAS it is expedient to consolidate and amend the law relating to agricultural tenancies in the Central Provinces; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

1. This Act may be called "The Central Provinces Tenancy Act, 1882".

It extends to all the territories for the time being administered by the Chief Commissioner of the Central Provinces, except those specified in the Scheduled Districts Act, 1874, Schedule I, Part VI;

and it shall come into force on such day as the said Chief Commissioner, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, may by notification in the local official Gazette direct.

2. On and from such day the Acts mentioned in the schedule hereto annexed, shall be repealed so far as they relate to the territories to which this Act extends.

But nothing contained in this Act, or in any Act hereby repealed, shall affect the rights or liabilities of tenants or landlords in the districts of Nimár, Chánda and Sambalpúr, so far as such rights or liabilities have been determined by any order of the Governor General in Council made at the settlement of any such district.

All suits or applications instituted or made under any Act hereby repealed, and which, when this Act comes into force, are pending before any officer, before whom they would have been instituted or made, if this Act had been in force, shall, so far as may be, be deemed to have been respectively instituted or made hereunder.

3. In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context,—

(1) "land" means land which is let or occupied for agricultural purposes or for purposes subservient to agriculture, and includes the sites of buildings appurtenant to such land:

(2) "tenant" means a person who holds land of another person, and is, or, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, would be, liable to pay rent for such land to such other person. But it does not include a mortgagee or a person who takes a lease of unoccupied land for the purpose of sub-letting it, or of land already in the occupation of cultivators.

Where such person, at the time of taking a New lease of such land, is a tenant of any land included therein, he does not by reason only of such lease cease to be a tenant of the land so included:

(3) "landlord" means the person of whom a tenant holds land, and to whom such tenant is, or, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, would be, liable to pay rent therefor; but when the right to receive rent or any other right which a landlord is entitled as such to exercise, is, for the time being, vested in a person other than the person of whom the land is held, such other person shall be deemed to be the landlord in respect of the right so vested:

(4) "rent" means whatever is paid, delivered or rendered, in money, kind or service, by a tenant on account of the use or occupation of land let to him:

(5) "pay" and "payable" used with reference to rent, include "deliver" and "deliverable":

(6) "arrear" means an instalment of rent which is not paid on or before the date on which it is payable:

(7) "holding" means a parcel of land held by a tenant of a landlord under one lease or agreement:

(8) "improvement" means, with reference to a holding, any work which adds to the letting-value of such holding, without diminishing the value of any other part of the estate of the landlord of whom such holding is held; which is suitable to such holding and consistent with the purpose for which it was let; and which, if not executed on the holding, is either executed directly for its benefit or is, after execution, made directly beneficial to it:

It includes the reclaiming, enclosing or clearing of lands for agricultural purposes; but it does not include such embankments, temporary wells, and water-channels as are ordinarily made by tenants.

Explanation.—A work which benefits several holdings may be deemed to be, with respect to each of them, an improvement:

(9) "Revenue-officer" means any Revenue-officer appointed under the Central Provinces Land-revenue Act, 1881, not being below the rank of Tahsildár, and includes also a Settlement-officer:

(10) "agricultural year" means the year commencing on the first day of June, or on such other date as the Chief Commissioner may, in the case of any specified District or Districts, from time to time, appoint:

(11) "sir-land" means (a) land recorded as "sir" in the papers of the last preceding settlement of the local area in which such land is situate; and (b) land not so recorded, but which has been cultivated by the proprietor or one of the proprietors thereof for a period of not less than twelve consecutive years; and (c) waste land which has been broken up by the proprietor or one of the proprietors thereof and cultivated by him for a period of not less than six consecutive years; and (d) in Sambalpúr, includes also "bhogra" land.

Explanation.—Land which has, after the date of such settlement, or the expiry of such period of twelve years, or six years (as the case may be), been for a period of six consecutive years unoccupied by such proprietor is not sir-land. Land is not unoccupied by the proprietor when it is leased out by him with an express reservation of his sir-rights.

(12) "mahál" means any local area held under a separate engagement for the payment of the land-revenue direct to Government, and includes also any local area declared, under the provisions of the Central Provinces Land-revenue Act, 1881, to be a mahál:

(13) "village" includes any tract of land which, at the last settlement of such land, has been recognized as a village, or which the Chief Commissioner declares to be a village for the purposes of the Central Provinces Land-revenue Act, 1881:

(14) "lambardár" means a person appointed under the Central Provinces Land-revenue Act, 1881, to represent the proprietary body of a mahál in its relations with the Government:

(15) "record-of-rights" includes the supplementary administration-paper prepared at or after the time of making a settlement before the Central Provinces Land-revenue Act, 1881, came into force.

CHAPTER II.

OF THE CLASSES OF TENANTS, AND THEIR ORDINARY RIGHTS AND LIABILITIES.

4. There shall be four classes of tenants:—

- (1)—Absolute occupancy-tenants:
- (2)—Occupancy-tenants:
- (3)—Ordinary tenants:
- (4)—Sub-tenants.

A.—Rights and Liabilities common to all Classes of Tenants.

5. In all suits and proceedings between land- Bill s. 4, 66.

Presumptions as to lord and tenant, the rent payable for any year by a tenant, in respect of his holding, shall be deemed to be the rent payable, in respect of such holding, in the year immediately preceding such year, unless a different rent has been agreed upon, in writing, by the landlord and the tenant, or has been fixed by an order under this Act.

6. When the rent of a holding is fixed by any Bill, s. 5.

order under this Act, such order shall take effect from the commencement of the agricultural year next following the date of the application upon which such order is made. Provided that, if such application is made on the ground of an increase, or diminution, of the area of a holding, the order shall take effect from such date as the officer making it may direct.

7. Rents shall be payable in such instalments Bill, 6.

and on such dates as the Chief Commissioner may, from time to time, by rule prescribe, and in the absence of such rule, according to local usage.

8. In the absence of any person duly appointed Bill s. 46.

Lambardár to be to act on behalf of several deemed sole landlord in persons who are joint proprietors of a mahál, the lambardár shall be deemed to be, for the purpose of this Act, the sole person entitled to grant leases to tenants, or enter into agreements with tenants as such, of the land held jointly by such proprietors, or to give receipts for the rent of such land, or to issue any notice, make any application, or being any suit, under this Act, to, in respect of, or against, any tenant of such land.

9. When two or more persons are the joint Bill, s. 47.

landlords of any tenant, such tenant, subject to any rule which the Chief Commissioner may, from time to time, make in this behalf, shall not be compelled to pay part of the rent of his holding to one of such persons and part to another or others; and such persons shall, if the tenant so desires, appoint one of their number, or some other person, to receive the rent of such holding.

10. When any landlord refuses to accept any Bill, s. 7.

instalment of rent payable in money when tendered to him by a tenant, and when any tenant, in the case mentioned in section nine, desires the appointment of a person to receive rent payable in money and no such appointment is made within a reasonable time, and when any tenant in any other case is doubtful as to the person entitled to receive such rent from him, such tenant may apply to a Revenue-officer for permission to deposit in his Court the amount of rent which he believes to be due; and such officer shall receive such deposit, if it appears to him, after examining the applicant, that he had reasonable grounds for making the application and that it was made in good faith.

Bill s. 8.

11. When any deposit has been so received, it shall be deemed to be a payment made by the tenant to his landlord on account of rent due.

The officer receiving such deposit may pay the amount thereof to any person appearing to him to be entitled to receive the same, or may, if he thinks fit, retain the deposit pending the decision of a Civil Court as to the person so entitled.

No suit or other proceeding shall be instituted against the Secretary of State for India in Council, or against any officer of the Government, in respect of anything done by a Revenue-officer under this section; but nothing herein contained shall prevent any person entitled to receive the amount of any such deposit from recovering the same from a person to whom it has been paid by a Revenue-officer.

Bill, s. 9.

12. Every tenant, from whom any sum is levied by his landlord in excess of the rent specified in his lease, or payable under the provisions of this Act, shall be entitled to recover from such landlord a sum not exceeding double the amount so levied.

Bill, s. 9.

13. When any landlord refuses a receipt for rent paid by a tenant, or grants such receipt but refuses or neglects to specify therein the period or crop in respect of which the payment is made, such tenant shall be entitled to recover from such landlord a sum not exceeding double the amount of the rent so paid.

Bill, s. 89, cl. (b).

14. Notwithstanding anything contained in this Act, or in the conditions of settlement, the rent of any tenant may, on the application of the landlord, be enhanced on the ground that the productive power of the tenant's holding has been increased through the agency or at the expense of the landlord. Such enhancement shall bear the same proportion to such rent as the increase so effected in the productive power of the holding bears to the productive power of the holding as it was immediately before such increase was effected.

The rent of an absolute-occupancy tenant shall not be enhanced under this section when the productive power of the holding has been increased by an improvement made by a landlord in contravention of any rule made hereunder.

Bill, s. 89, cl. (d).

15. When the area of a holding is increased or diminished by encroachment, fluvial action or otherwise, a Revenue-officer may, by order, on the application of the landlord or of the tenant, fix the rent payable in respect of such holding with reference to such increase or diminution:

Provided that such order shall not bar the landlord's claim to enhance the rent of such holding on other grounds allowed by this Act.

16. The rent of land assessed to land-revenue shall not be fixed for a term exceeding the period of the settlement of such land.

All agreements made in contravention of this section shall, as regards the amount of rent, be voidable at the will of either party.

17. In all cases in which a tenant has paid rent in kind, or on the estimated value of a portion of the crop, or by rates varying with the crop, or partly in one of such ways and partly in another or others, the landlord or tenant may apply to commute such rent to a fixed money rent. Such application shall be made, while the settlement of the district in which such tenant's holding is situate is in progress, to a Settlement-officer; and, at any other time, to any revenue-officer specially empowered by the Chief Commissioner in this behalf.

On the receipt of such application, such officer shall determine the sum to be paid as money rent and shall order that the tenant shall pay, in lieu of paying his rent in kind or as aforesaid, the sum so determined. If the application is opposed, such officer may, for reasons to be recorded by him in writing, refuse to grant the same.

18. Any tenant not holding under a lease for a fixed period may, at the end of any agricultural year, surrender his holding, or, with the consent of his landlord, any part thereof. But notwithstanding such surrender he shall continue to be liable for the year next following the date of such surrender for the rent of the holding or part surrendered, unless—

- he gives to his landlord, at least thirty days before the end of such agricultural year, notice in writing of such surrender; or
- he takes a new holding in the same village from the same landlord; or
- he ceases, at least thirty days before the end of such year, to reside in the village in which the surrendered holding is situate; or
- the landlord himself cultivates such holding or lets it to another tenant.

19. The produce of a holding in the occupation of a tenant shall be hypothecated for the rent payable in respect thereof, and, if such produce is attached and sold in execution of a decree, the Court executing the decree shall apply the nett proceeds of the sale in the first instance to satisfy the landlord's claim (if any) for sums due to him in respect of the rent of such holding for the year immediately preceding the attachment, and for the instalment of rent which falls due next after the usual period of harvesting the produce attached.

20. Where an arrear is due from any tenant in respect of his holding, the landlord may, by notice to the tenant, prohibit the removal of the produce of such holding.

Act XII, 1881, s. 53.

No such prohibition shall be made in respect of any sum claimed in excess of the rent payable by the tenant for such holding in the preceding year, unless the rent has been enhanced in accordance with the provisions of this Act, nor in respect of an arrear which has been due for a longer period than one year.

No such prohibition shall be made more than once in respect of the same produce.

21. Every notice under section twenty, shall be in writing, and shall specify the amount of the arrear claimed, the period for which, and the holding in respect of which, it is said to be due, and, when a sum in excess of the rent payable by the tenant in the last preceding year is claimed, the decree, order or agreement, as the case may be, for the payment of such sum.

The notice shall be served on the tenant, or other person who may be in charge of the produce on his behalf, and shall remain in force until the rent specified in such notice is paid, or, if such rent is not paid, until the expiry of twenty-eight days after such notice is so given.

22. Notwithstanding such notice, the tenant may reap, gather or store the produce of his holding, and do all other such acts as may be necessary for the due preservation of the same.

23. Any tenant on whom a notice in respect of the produce of his holding has been served under section twenty, and who, except for any of the purposes mentioned in section twenty-two, while such notice is in force, removes, attempts to remove, or abets the removal of, such produce from the place where it was standing, deposited or stored when such notice was served, and any landlord who distrains or attempts to detain the produce of any holding, or prevents, or attempts to prevent, otherwise than in accordance with this Act, the removal of any produce of a holding by the tenant thereof, shall be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

Act XII, 1881, s. 43: Bill, s. 18.

24. Whenever rent is taken by division of the produce, or by estimate or appraisal of the crop, if either the landlord or the tenant neglects to attend, either personally or by agent, at the proper time for making such division, estimate or appraisal, or if there is a dispute regarding the division of the said produce, or the quantity or value of the crop, a Revenue-officer may, on the application of either party, issue a commission to such person as such officer thinks fit, directing him to divide, estimate or appraise the crop.

25. When a Revenue-officer appoints a Commissioner for any of the purposes mentioned in section twenty-four, such officer may, in his discretion, direct such Commissioner to associate with himself any other persons as assessors, and may give him instructions regarding the number, qualifications and mode of selecting such assessors (if any), and the procedure to be followed in making such division, estimate or appraisal.

The Commissioner so appointed shall make the division, estimate or appraisal, in accordance with such instructions.

26. When a crop has been estimated or appraised under the foregoing provisions, such estimate or appraisal shall be reduced to writing and signed by the Commissioner making the same, and shall be submitted to the Revenue-officer by whom the commission was issued. Such Revenue-officer shall consider the Commissioner's report, and after such hearing and enquiry (if any), as he may think necessary, shall pass order thereon either confirming or varying the estimate or appraisal, and the rent shall be payable in accordance with such order.

27. In sections nineteen to twenty-four (both inclusive) the produce of a holding means—

- crops and other products of the earth standing or ungathered on such holding;
- crops and other products of the earth which have been grown on the holding and have been reaped or gathered and are deposited on such holding or a threshing-ground, or stored in the homestead of the village in which such holding is situate, or in which the tenant, whose holding it is, resides.

B.—Of Absolute Occupancy-tenants.

28. All tenants who, on the day when this Act comes into force, occupy any holding in respect of which they have been recorded in any record-of-rights made before such day as "absolute occupancy-riyats," or in terms equivalent thereto, shall be deemed to be absolute occupancy-tenants of such holding.

29. The rent of the holding of every absolute occupancy-tenant shall be fixed by the Settlement-officer at the settlement of the district in which such holding is situate, and the rent so fixed, shall not be enhanced during the currency of such settlement, except under the provisions of section fourteen or section fifteen.

The rent payable in respect of his holding by any such tenant, when this Act comes into force, shall be deemed to have been fixed at the last preceding settlement of the district in which his holding is situate.

If an absolute occupancy-tenant intends to transfer his right in his holding by sale or gift, he shall give to his landlord a written notice of such intention, and the landlord may thereupon—

(b) during the currency of the settlement of such district, to a Revenue-officer.

On such application the Settlement or Revenue-officer, as the case may be, may fix the rent at a rate, not more than three-fourths of the rate usually paid by ordinary tenants of holdings situate in the same or adjoining tahsils, for land of similar quality with like advantages.

When the land in respect of which an application is made under this section, has been improved in accordance with this Act by the agency or at the expense of the tenant of such land, the quality and advantages of such land shall, for the purposes of this section, be deemed to be the quality and advantages had and enjoyed by such land immediately before such improvements were made.

Bill, s. 77.

39. If a tenant having a right of occupancy in any land ceases to hold such land, and thereupon commences to hold other land of the same landlord, under circumstances from which it may be inferred that such tenant has accepted such other land in lieu of, and on the same conditions as, the land which he has ceased to hold, he shall, in the absence of a written agreement to the contrary, be deemed to have a right of occupancy in the land which he so commences to hold.

Bill, s. 55.

E.—Of Ordinary Tenants.

43. All tenants who are not absolute occupancy-tenants or occupancy-tenants, are ordinary tenants.

Bill, s. 66.

Vic., c. 46,
s. 4.

49. Every tenant who is ejected from his holding shall be entitled to compensation for improvements payable to tenants on ejection made by him or the persons under whom he claims, and for which compensation has not already been made.

Whenever a Court makes a decree or order for the ejection of a tenant, it shall determine the amount of compensation due under this section to such tenant for improvements, and shall make the order of ejection conditional on the payment of such amount to the tenant.

No compensation under this section for an improvement, shall be claimable in any of the following cases, namely:—

(a) where the tenant has made the improvement in contravention of any rule made under section forty-eight and for the time being in force;

(b) where the tenant, having contracted not to make such improvement without giving the landlord reasonable notice to make it, has made it without giving such notice.

Improvements made by a tenant before this Act comes into force, in lands other than sir-land, shall be deemed to have been made in accordance with rules made under section forty-eight, unless it is shown that the landlord forbade the tenant to make the improvement, and was ready to make it himself.

Bill, s. 41.

50. In estimating the compensation to be awarded under section forty-nine for an improvement, the Court shall have regard—

(a) to the labour and capital expended by the tenant in making such improvement;

(b) to the amount by which the letting value, or the produce of the holding or the value of such produce is increased by such improvement;

(c) to the amount for which the improvement could have been made by the landlord; and

(d) to any reduction or remission of rent made by the landlord to the tenant in consideration of such improvement.

Bill, s. 43.

51. Compensation for improvements may be made in such manner as may be agreed upon by the landlord and the tenant, or may be paid in money by such instalments (if any) as the Court thinks fit.

CHAPTER IV.

JURISDICTION AND PROCEDURE.

Bill, s. 98.

52. No Court other than the Court of a Revenue-officer shall take cognizance of any dispute or matter in which any application of the nature mentioned in this section might be made namely:—

(g) applications to fix the rent payable by an occupancy-tenant (section thirty-six);

(h) applications relating to such other matters as Revenue-officers are empowered to deal with under this Act.

On any such application being made to the Court of a Revenue-officer it may, subject to the provisions herein contained, grant such relief as the nature of the case requires.

53. In disposing of the matters referred to in section fifty-two, Revenue-officers shall, as nearly as may be practicable, exercise the same powers and follow the same procedure as they exercise and follow under the Central Provinces Land-revenue Act, 1881.

From every order passed by a Revenue-officer in respect of any such matter, an appeal shall lie as if such order had been passed by such officer under the said Land-revenue Act.

54. Applications to fix the rent of an occupancy-tenant may be made, subject to the provisions of section thirty-four, at any time during the period of such tenant's occupation.

All other applications may be made at any time during the occupation of his holding by the tenant by or in respect of whom such applications are made.

55. In suits under this Act, the Code of Civil Procedure shall apply, as far as may be, to all proceedings for which no special procedure is herein provided.

56. Deputy Commissioners shall, as such, exercise all the powers conferred on a Revenue-officer by this Act.

The Chief Commissioner may, from time to time, confer upon any other Revenue-officer, either by name or by virtue of his office, all or any of such powers.

Bill, s. 100.

57. Except as provided in section fifty-two, Jurisdiction of Civil Courts shall have jurisdiction in all suits or proceedings between landlord and tenant: Provided that—

(a) no Judge of a Civil Court of original jurisdiction shall, unless he is also a Revenue-officer, hear any suit between a landlord and a tenant regarding any matter dealt with by this Act; and

(b) such suits shall be heard and determined only in such Courts, competent to try the same, as the Chief Commissioner may, from time to time, direct.

Bill, s. 101.

58. The Chief Commissioner may, from time to time, direct, that all suits, or any specified class of suits, between landlord and tenant shall not be registered in the registers kept under the Code of Civil Procedure for the registration of civil suits, but in such other separate registers as he may prescribe.

59. In suits under this Act between landlord and tenant, the plaintiff shall, in addition to the matters mentioned in section fifty of the Code of Civil Procedure, specify the area of the land, and, where the fields, comprised in the holding to which the suit relates, have been numbered in a Government survey, the number of each such field; and, in the case of suits for an arrear, the amount of the yearly rent and the instalments in which such rent is payable; and, in suits for compensation for improvements, an accurate valuation and description of the improvements.

When the land to which the suit relates comprises parts of numbered fields, or has not been divided into numbered fields, an accurate and sufficient description of such land and its boundaries shall be given in the plaint.

Bill, s. 103.

60. In suits and applications under this Act, the fees of a legal practitioner shall not be allowed as costs, unless the Court considers, for reasons to be recorded by it in writing, that such fees ought to be allowed.

Bill, s. 107.

61. No set-off shall be allowed in any suit under this Act, unless the amount claimed as a set-off has been determined by a decree or order of a competent Court.

Bill, s. 108.

62. In suits under this Act, for arrears of rent, interest on such arrears may be allowed up to judgment, at such rate not exceeding twelve per cent. per annum as the Court thinks fit.

Bill, s. 110.

63. When any such suit is decided, whether on appeal or otherwise, by a Judge of a Civil Court exercising powers not less than those of an Assistant Commissioner of the first class, as defined in the Central Provinces Courts' Act, 1865, the decision shall not be subject to appeal, unless—

(a) the amount or value of the subject-matter of the suit exceeds one hundred rupees; or

(b) a question relating to a title to land, or some interest in land, has been determined as between parties having conflicting claims thereto.

64. No suit for an arrear of rent shall be instituted after three years from the date when the arrear became due; and no other suit under this Act shall be instituted after one year from the date when the cause of action accrued.

No process of execution shall be issued on a decree under this Act after three years from the date of such decree, or, in the case of a decree for money, after three years from the date on which the money, to recover which execution is applied for, became payable under the decree.

65. If a decree for an arrear of rent is passed against a tenant other than an absolute occupancy-tenant, and remains unsatisfied at the end of the agricultural year in which such decree was passed, the landlord may apply to the Court, having authority to execute such decree, to eject such tenant; and the Court may thereupon cause a notice to be served on such tenant, informing him that if he does not pay the amount due under the decree within thirty days from the receipt of the notice, he will be ejected from his land.

If such amount be not so paid, the Court may, on proof of the service of such notice, eject such tenant from the land in respect of which the amount is due, or may allow the tenant such further period not exceeding thirty days as to it seems fit and may on the expiry of such further period, if such amount be not paid, eject him.

66. Where, in answer to a suit for an arrear of rent, the tenant admits that the arrear is due, but pleads that the produce of his holding during the period for which the arrear is claimed has been diminished or destroyed by drought, hail or other calamity beyond his control, the Court in its decree may make such deduction from the amount claimed by the landlord, and direct payment of the amount decreed in such instalments (if any), as it may think fit, and may order that such decree shall not be executed by ejection of the tenant from his holding.

In making such decree the Court shall have regard to—

(a) the value of the produce of the holding for the whole agricultural year in which the arrear accrued;

(b) the proportion which the amount of rent payable for such year by the tenant bears to such value.

If in any such suit it appears that the land-revenue of the village in which such holding is situate has been suspended or remitted on account of drought or other calamity in respect of the period for which the arrear is claimed, the Court shall presume, until the contrary is shown, that, in the case of suspension, the produce of the holding has been diminished, and, in the case of remission, that such produce has been destroyed, by such calamity.

Bill, s. 10.

Rent Act,
s. 149.

67. Whenever a decree is given for the ejectment of a tenant or the cancellation of his lease, on account of any act or omission by which the land in his occupation has been damaged, or which is inconsistent with the purpose for which the land has been let, the Court may, if it thinks fit, allow him to repair such damage within one month from the date of the decree, or order him to pay such compensation within such time, or may make such other order in the case, as the Court thinks fit. If such damage be so repaired or compensation so paid, or order obeyed, the decree shall not be executed.

New.

68. When a landlord wishes to eject, under section forty-five, clause (b), an ordinary tenant, or to enhance his rent without his consent, such landlord shall serve through the Civil Court a notice on such tenant, on or before the thirty-first day of December next preceding the agricultural year in which such landlord desires to take possession of the land, or in which the enhancement is to take effect.

New.

69. When a Civil Court passes under clause (b) of section forty-five a decree for the ejectment of an ordinary tenant, it shall in its decree state the amount payable to the tenant as compensation under section forty-six, and such decree shall not be executed until the sum so payable has been deposited in Court by the landlord.

New.

70. If an ordinary tenant has been ejected under clause (b) of section forty-five from his holding, and the landlord within one year from the date of such ejectment fails to use proper diligence in the execution of the work for which such holding was taken, the Court, on the application of such tenant and on his refunding the sum paid to him under section forty-six as compensation, or so much of it as the Court may direct, shall reinstate him in the holding.

New.

71. When an ordinary tenant, on whom a notice of enhancement of rent has been served under section sixty-eight, refuses to agree to pay the enhanced rent, the landlord may institute a suit for ejectment in the Civil Court on or before the fifteenth day of March next after the date of such refusal.

Thereupon the Court shall fix a date for hearing the case, and shall issue a notice to the tenant, summoning him to appear on such date, and stating the yearly increase of rent asked by the landlord and the sum payable to the tenant as compensation under section forty-six, clause (a).

New.

72. On the appearance of the parties on the date fixed, the Court shall require the tenant to agree, or refuse to agree, to pay the enhanced rent.

If he agrees to pay such rent, his agreement shall thereupon be recorded, and he shall be liable to pay the enhanced rent from the commencement of the agricultural year next following the date of such agreement.

If he refuses, the Court shall pass a decree for his ejectment on condition that within fifteen days from the date of the decree the landlord deposits in Court the sum payable to the tenant as compensation under section forty-six, clause (a).

73. If such sum is so deposited, the order of ejectment shall be made absolute and the sum deposited shall be paid to the tenant. If such sum is not so deposited, the decree shall become null and void, and the tenant shall remain in occupation of his holding at the rent previously paid by him.

74. The following rules shall be applicable in the case of every tenant ejected from a holding in accordance with the provisions of this Act—

(a) when the tenant has, previous to the date of his ejectment, sown or planted crops in any land comprised in such holding he shall be entitled, at the option of the landlord, either to retain possession of such land and to use it for the purpose of tending and gathering in such crops; or to receive from the landlord the estimated value of the labour and capital expended by the tenant in preparing such land and sowing, planting and tending such crops;

(b) when the tenant has, previous to the date of his ejectment, prepared for sowing any land comprised in his holding, but has not sown or planted crops in such land, he shall be entitled to receive from the landlord the estimated value of the labour and capital expended by him in so preparing such land;

Provided that no tenant shall be entitled to retain possession of any land or receive any sum in respect thereof under this section when, after proceedings had been taken by the landlord for his ejectment, he has cultivated or prepared such land contrary to local usage.

75. When a landlord elects, under section seventy-four, clause (a), to allow a tenant to retain possession of any land for the purpose specified in that clause, such tenant shall pay to such landlord, for the use and occupation of such land during the period for which he is allowed to retain possession of the same, such rent as the Court may deem reasonable.

76. Notwithstanding the provisions of section sixty-one, in all suits for ejectment, the Court shall inquire into and determine all claims under this Act, by the landlord against such tenant, or by such tenant against the landlord.

Bill, s. 35.

77. When it appears to a Court making such inquiry that the amount payable under this Act by the landlord to the tenant exceeds the amount so payable by the tenant to the landlord, it shall, unless the landlord and tenant come to an arrangement regarding the payment of such excess sum, fix a time within which it must be paid into Court.

If such payment is made within the time fixed, the Court shall eject the tenant; and if such payment is not so made within such time, it shall refuse to eject the tenant.

Bill, s. 60.

78. All decrees for ejectment under this Act shall take effect from the beginning of the agricultural year next following the date of the order or decree, and shall be made subject to the conditions specified in sections forty-nine and seventy-four.

Bill, s. 53.

79. If any landlord or tenant desires that the extent of any holding should be ascertained, or that evidence relating to any improvement made in respect thereof, or to the state of such holding at any specified time, should be recorded, he may apply to a Revenue-officer, and such officer shall thereupon make, or cause to be made, such inquiry as he thinks fit, with a view to ascertaining the extent of the holding, or shall record such evidence, as the case may be:

Provided that no action shall be taken by any Revenue-officer under this section if he considers that there are no reasonable grounds for making the application, or if the subject-matter thereof is under inquiry in a Civil Court.

It extends to the territories for the time being administered by the Chief Commissioner of British Burma; and it shall come into force at once.

2. In this Act—

"Port" means any port, or any part of a navigable river or channel, in which the Indian Ports Act, 1875, is for the time being in force.

Licensing of Pilots.

3. The Chief Commissioner may, from time to time, appoint competent persons for the purpose of examining the qualifications of persons desirous of acting as pilots at any port, and to make rules for the licensing of pilots.

(a) for the conduct of such examinations and for the qualifications to be required;

(b) for the grant to qualified persons of licenses to act as pilots; and

Investigations into charges against Pilots.

6. The Chief Commissioner may, from time to time, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, by notification in the British Burma Gazette, make rules to regu-

Any such rule may contain a provision that a pilot committing a breach of such rule shall be punished with the suspension or cancellation of his license, or with the change of his license from a higher to a lower grade.

7. If the Chief Commissioner has reason to believe that there are grounds for charging any pilot licensed hereunder with incompetency or misconduct in the discharge of his duties as such pilot, or with any act or omission in breach of a rule made under section six, he may direct a Court to be constituted, under this Act, at a port at or nearest to the place at which it may be convenient for the parties and witnesses to attend, and shall then transmit a statement of such grounds to such Court and direct such Court to make an investigation into such charge.

The Chief Commissioner may, from time to time, by notification in the British Burma Gazette, delegate the powers conferred on him by this section to any person at any port.

All proceedings of any person in exercise of the powers so delegated shall be subject to the confirmation of the Chief Commissioner.

8. Every Court constituted under this Act shall consist of a President sitting with three assessors.

9. The President shall be such person as the Chief Commissioner, by notification in the British Burma Gazette, appoints in this behalf, either generally or for any specified case.

Bill (No. 111),
s. 142.
14. For the purpose of an investigation under this Act the Court may summon such pilot to appear before it and shall give him full opportunity of making a defence, either in person or otherwise.

Draft s. 18 :
Cf. I. M. S.
Bill (No. 111),
s. 143.
15. For the purpose of any investigation under this Act the Court shall, so far as relates to compelling the attendance, and to the examination, of witnesses, the production of documents, and the regulation of the proceedings, have the same powers as are exercisable by the principal Court of original criminal jurisdiction for the place at which the investigation is made.

Draft s. 21.
16. Upon the completion of the investigation the Court shall give its decision. Such decision shall be according to the opinion of the majority of the members of the Court, or, if the Court is equally divided, according to the opinion of the President and the member with whom he concurs. In the latter case, any member who does not concur in the decision of the Court may separately record his opinion.

Draft s. 22.
17. If, by such decision, the pilot is found guilty of the charge, or of the accused be found guilty. charges, made against him, the President shall sentence him,
(a) if the act or omission of which the pilot has been found guilty is an act or omission in breach of a rule made under section six, to such penalty as may be prescribed by such rule, or
(b) if the act or omission of which the pilot has been found guilty is any other act or omission, to such penalty, by way of suspension or cancellation of license, or by way of change of license from a higher to a lower grade, as the President thinks fit.

18. If, by such decision as aforesaid, the pilot is found not guilty of the charge or charges made against him, the President shall declare him acquitted of the same.

19. Every sentence passed, under section seven-teen, by the President shall be subject to the confirmation by the Chief Commissioner, to whom the proceedings of the Court shall be submitted by the President.

20. The Chief Commissioner may, in his discretion, remit the whole or any part of such sentence, or direct the substitution of any mitigated punishment in lieu of the punishment awarded by the said Court.

21. If the President is of opinion that the decision of the majority of the members of the Court is manifestly contrary to the evidence, or that the investigation is otherwise insufficient, the President, instead of passing sentence on the pilot charged, or declaring him acquitted, as the case may be, may certify such opinion to the Chief Commissioner, and the Chief Commissioner may thereupon either order a new investigation before other assessors, or acquit the said pilot, as he thinks fit.

22. Notwithstanding the provisions herein contained, when a charge of misconduct or incompetency is made against any pilot licensed hereunder, the Chief Commissioner may, without holding an investigation under this Act into such charge, pass such orders thereon as he thinks proper, and may sentence such pilot to such penalty as he might be sentenced to under section seventeen.

23. The Chief Commissioner may, from time to time, make rules to carry into effect the provisions of this Act, with respect to the Court for making investigations into charges against pilots, and in particular with respect to—
(a) the mode in which the President shall, under section eleven, summon the assessors;
(b) the amount of the fees to be paid to the assessors; and
(c) the procedure of the said Court.
All such rules shall be published in the British Burma Gazette, and shall thereupon have the force of law.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE Pilot Rules at present in force at the ports of British Burma have not the force of law. So far as they relate merely to the appointment and duties of pilots, the want of legal sanction does not appear to be of importance, as these matters can be arranged for executively. The rules, however, provide also for the holding of courts for the trial and punishment of pilots guilty of misconduct in the performance of their duties, and in so far as they relate to such matters require something more than the authority of mere executive orders for their due enforcement. At Calcutta, where the subject of the appointment and duties of pilots has, as in Burma, been provided for executively, the subject of the trial and punishment of pilots has been dealt with by the Legislature, in a special Act (XII of 1859). It seems desirable that in Burma, also, this subject should be similarly dealt with.

The present Bill has, therefore, been prepared. It provides for the holding of investigations into charges of misconduct on the part of pilots. The constitution of the Courts of Inquiry, and the manner of selecting the members, are duly provided for, and power is given to the Chief Commissioner to make rules for conducting the proceedings. The authority of the Courts, and the confirmation required for their findings and orders, are also suitably defined. The Bill also prohibits any person from acting as a pilot in any port in British Burma, or in any navigable river or channel leading to any such port, unless he holds a license to act as a pilot granted by the Chief Commissioner. This seems desirable, as under the present law there is nothing to prevent a person from acting as a pilot without a license, except in ports to which section 38 of the Indian Ports Act, 1875, has been specially extended.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Second publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 31st May, 1882:—

No. 7 of 1882.

A Bill to modify temporarily certain provisions of the Petroleum Act, 1881.

WHEREAS there is reason to doubt whether the mode of testing petroleum prescribed by the Petroleum Act, 1881, is in all cases to be relied on in India, and it is therefore expedient, pending the removal of that doubt, or the adoption of an improved mode of testing petroleum, to afford, in respect of petroleum imported under certain guarantees as to its quality, some relief from the difficulties under which, owing to the said doubt, persons dealing in such petroleum might otherwise labour; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title.

1. This Act may be called the Petroleum Act, 1882.

It shall come into force at once, and shall continue in force only until the first day of January, 1883, or such later date as the Governor General in Council may, from time to time, by notification in the Gazette of India, fix in this behalf, and as long as it continues in force shall be read with, and taken as part of, the Petroleum Act, 1881.

2. Whenever it appears to the Governor General in Council that certificates of any description are commonly granted in any place beyond the limits of British India in respect of petroleum exported from that place to British India and that a certificate of that description is sufficient to prove that the petroleum therein referred to would, if tested in the manner prescribed by the Petroleum Act, 1881, at the place from which it is exported, have a flashing point not below seventy-three degrees of Fahrenheit's thermometer, the Governor General in Council may direct that petroleum imported from that place and covered by a certificate of that description shall not be deemed to be dangerous petroleum.

While any such direction continues in force, petroleum to which it applies shall not be deemed to be dangerous petroleum.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

COMMUNICATIONS received by the Government of India by telegraph within the last two or three weeks afford ground for apprehending that petroleum which, when tested in America and elsewhere in the manner prescribed by the Petroleum Act, 1881, flashes at a point above 73° Fahrenheit may, when tested in the same manner on its arrival here, flash at a point below 73° Fahrenheit, and consequently have to be placed under the restrictions to which dangerous petroleum is subject. It has been suggested that this is probably due not to any want of care on the part of those applying the test in either country, but to the difference of climate. Steps have been taken with a view to having the matter fully inquired into; but as this will take some time, and as it is but fair that importers should in the meanwhile be relieved from the hardship to which they are exposed, it is proposed for the present to exclude from the class of dangerous petroleum all petroleum covered by a certificate granted at the place of export and of such a description that, in the opinion of the Governor General, it may be accepted as proving that the petroleum it refers to, if tested at the place of export according to our method, would be found to have a flashing point above 73° Fahrenheit.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

IN the year 1869 the Governor General in Council was pleased, in accordance with the recommendations of the Lieutenant-Governor of the Panjáb, and in part fulfilment of the wishes of a large number of the chiefs, nobles and influential classes of the Panjáb, to sanction the establishment at Lahore of an institution, then styled the Lahore University College, but subsequently styled the Panjáb University College. The special objects of this College, as stated by its statutes, were as follows :—

- (1) to promote the diffusion of European science as far as possible through the medium of the vernacular languages of the Panjáb, and to improve and extend vernacular literature generally ;
- (2) to afford encouragement to the enlightened study of Eastern classical languages and literature ; and
- (3) to associate the learned and influential classes of the Province with the officers of Government in the promotion and supervision of popular education.

It was, however, at the same time laid down that every encouragement should be afforded to the study of the English language and literature, and that in all subjects which could not be completely taught in the Vernacular the English language would be regarded as the medium of examination and instruction.

At the time of the establishment of this College, promises were held out by Government that, if attended with due success, it might eventually be raised to the status of a University ; and large sums of money have been, from time to time, given to the College by the chiefs and influential classes of the Panjáb, who have long looked forward to the fulfilment of these promises. As the College has, in the opinion of Government, been attended with due success, it has been determined to carry out what is believed to be the almost universal wish of the Natives of the Panjáb who are interested in education, and constitute the College a University.

2. The present Bill has, therefore, been prepared. Section 2 establishes the University, and confers on it all the powers of a body corporate. Section 3 provides for the transfer to the University of all the property at present held by or in trust for the University College. Sections 4 to 8 deal with the constitution of the University, and provide for a Chancellor, who is to be the Lieutenant-Governor of the Panjáb for the time being, a Vice-Chancellor to be appointed by the Chancellor, and a body of Fellows.

The Fellows will be of four classes, namely : (1) the holders for the time being of certain offices, who are to be ex-officio Fellows ; (2) persons appointed by the Chancellor as being eminent benefactors of the University, original promoters of the movement in favour of the Panjáb University College, or persons distinguished for attainments in literature, science or art, or by zeal in the cause of education ; (3) persons chosen by the Senate and approved by the Chancellor ; and (4) the representatives for the time being with the Government of the Panjáb of such independent Native chiefs as the Lieutenant-Governor may by notification in the Gazette specify. The schedule annexed to the Act contains a list of the persons who are to be deemed to be the first Fellows. Sections 10, 11 and 12 provide for a Senate and matters connected therewith. Section 13 empowers the Senate to appoint and remove all examiners, officers and servants of the University. Section 14 empowers it to confer certain degrees, but restricts the exercise of the power to confer the degrees of Bachelor of Laws, Bachelor of Medicine, Doctor of Medicine and Master of Civil Engineering until the Governor General in Council has given his assent thereto ; and section 15 gives it power to confer like degrees in the case of persons who may have passed during the year 1882 such examinations of the Panjáb University College as may correspond to the degree examinations of the University. Section 16 empowers the Senate to confer honorary degrees in certain cases ; section 17 to levy fees ; and section 18 to make rules generally in all matters regarding the University.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

IN the year 1869 the Governor General in Council was pleased, in accordance with the recommendations of the Lieutenant-Governor of the Panjáb, and in part fulfilment of the wishes of a large number of the chiefs, nobles and influential classes of the Panjáb, to sanction the establishment at Lahore of an institution, then styled the Lahore University College, but subsequently styled the Panjáb University College. The special objects of this College, as stated by its statutes, were as follows:—

- (1) to promote the diffusion of European science as far as possible through the medium of the vernacular languages of the Panjáb, and to improve and extend vernacular literature generally;
- (2) to afford encouragement to the enlightened study of Eastern classical languages and literature; and
- (3) to associate the learned and influential classes of the Province with the officers of Government in the promotion and supervision of popular education.

It was, however, at the same time laid down that every encouragement should be afforded to the study of the English language and literature, and that in all subjects which could not be completely taught in the Vernacular the English language would be regarded as the medium of examination and instruction.

At the time of the establishment of this College, promises were held out by Government that, if attended with due success, it might eventually be raised to the status of a University; and large sums of money have been, from time to time, given to the College by the chiefs and influential classes of the Panjáb, who have long looked forward to the fulfilment of these promises. As the College has, in the opinion of Government, been attended with due success, it has been determined to carry out what is believed to be the almost universal wish of the Natives of the Panjáb who are interested in education, and constitute the College a University.

2. The present Bill has, therefore, been prepared. Section 2 establishes the University, and confers on it all the powers of a body corporate. Section 3 provides for the transfer to the University of all the property at present held by or in trust for the University College. Sections 4 to 8 deal with the constitution of the University, and provide for a Chancellor, who is to be the Lieutenant-Governor of the Panjáb for the time being, a Vice-Chancellor to be appointed by the Chancellor, and a body of Fellows.

The Fellows will be of four classes, namely: (1) the holders for the time being of certain offices, who are to be ex-officio Fellows; (2) persons appointed by the Chancellor as being eminent benefactors of the University, original promoters of the movement in favour of the Panjáb University College, or persons distinguished for attainments in literature, science or art, or by zeal in the cause of education; (3) persons chosen by the Senate and approved by the Chancellor; and (4) the representatives for the time being with the Government of the Panjáb of such independent Native chiefs as the Lieutenant-Governor may by notification in the Gazette specify. The schedule annexed to the Act contains a list of the persons who are to be deemed to be the first Fellows. Sections 10, 11 and 12 provide for a Senate and matters connected therewith. Section 13 empowers the Senate to appoint and remove all examiners, officers and servants of the University. Section 14 empowers it to confer certain degrees, but restricts the exercise of the power to confer the degrees of Bachelor of Laws, Bachelor of Medicine, Doctor of Medicine and Master of Civil Engineering until the Governor General in Council has given his assent thereto; and section 15 gives it power to confer like degrees in the case of persons who may have passed during the year 1882 such examinations of the Panjáb University College as may correspond to the degree examinations of the University. Section 16 empowers the Senate to confer honorary degrees in certain cases; section 17 to levy fees; and section 18 to make rules generally in all matters regarding the University.
