THE CHIEF COMMISSIONER OF COORG.

NOTIFICATION.

Bangalore, the 3rd June 1884.

No. 6.—The following rules for the sale of waste land in the District of Coorg having been approved* by the Governor General in Council, are hereby published for general information:—

* Vide letter No. 316R., dated the 10th May 1884, from the Secretary to the Government of India, Revenue and Agricultural Department.

Rules for the Sale of Waste Land in the District of Coorg.

Waste lands in which no rights of private proprietorship or exclusive occupancy exist, and which may not be reserved as hereinafter† provided, will, until further notice, be sold under the following rules:—

† Rule XXIV.

I.—Applications for land under these rules shall be addressed to the Commissioner of Coorg, and shall comprise the following particulars:—

(a) The estimated area of the lot applied for.

(b) The situation of the lot and its boundaries, as accurately as can be stated.

II.—No lot shall exceed 500 acres. Within the limits of the towns the maximum extent of a lot shall be ten acres. But any person may apply for several contiguous lots, each not exceeding the above limit.

III.—Every lot shall be compact, and shall include no more than one tract of land capable of being surrounded by a ring fence, and when the lot touches a public road, the length of the road frontage shall not exceed one-half of the depth of the lot.

IV.—Every application for land shall be accompanied by an eye-sketch of the land, which should clearly define the boundaries and give the names of the adjoining proprietors, if any. It should likewise show the position and estimated extent of any unculturable ground included in the land applied for. The position of streams and Government roads, with any belts of forest to be reserved on either side, should also be shown in the sketch.

V.—On receipt of application, the Commissioner will take such measures as are necessary to have the eye-sketch furnished by the applicant verified, and the general limits of the tract as pointed out by him roughly but clearly marked, and will also have a rough measurement made of the tract so marked out. This should be ordinarily done by the subedar of the taluk, or by the parpattigar of the Nad or Hobli, accompanied by the patel in the presence of the applicant or his agent, who shall put up any marks that are required for the rough demarcation.

The eye-sketch, when verified and, if necessary, amended, shall be signed by the applicant and the patel, and transmitted to the Commissioner with a statement of the rough measurement, and with a report as to the mode in which it was effected. With these papers the subedar or parpattigar will also submit a full report of all objections made to the grant by the ryots of surrounding holdings or others, and his opinion as to whether these objections are valid in respect to the whole tract or any part thereof, and as to whether any other reasons exist for not allowing the grant in whole or part.

VI.—On receipt of this report the Commissioner may, if he thinks right, reject the application, in whole or part, recording his reasons in writing. An appeal shall lie from such order of rejection to the Chief Commissioner, whose decision shall be final.

If, however, the Commissioner is of opinion that the application should be granted, in whole or part, or if his objection has been overruled by the Chief Commissioner, he shall forward the application, together with the verified eye-sketch and statement of rough measurement, to the Forest Officer, who shall arrange for an examination of the land in company with the subedar or any subordinate official deputed to point out the ground; the attendance of the applicant or his agent during such examination, though desirable, is not absolutely necessary, if the verification of the proposed limits has been duly carried out in the first instance.

VII.—The Forest Officer, after inspecting the land, shall return the eye-sketch and rough measurement papers, with a report containing his opinion. The report shall state whether the sketch and measurements are, in his opinion, sufficiently accurate and shall describe any corrections which he has found it necessary to make. It shall also give an account of the position of the land, of its surroundings, soil, water-supply, drainage, and the forest growing upon it. Should the Forest Officer recommend that the grant be refused, he will give his reasons in full. Should he recommend that it be granted, his report shall also contain—

(1) a determination and description of the width of the belts of jungle, if any, to be reserved and excluded from the grant on either side of any stream or public road, and of any other plots in the tract marked out, which the Forest Officer, for special reasons, proposes to exclude;

(2) a valuation of all the timber and sandalwood in the tract which the Forest Officer recommends to be granted. This valuation shall be made in accordance with such rules as may from time to time be made by the Chief Commissioner.

VIII.—If the Forest Officer recommends the grant should be refused and the Commissioner agrees, the Commissioner may refuse the grant. An appeal shall lie from such order to the Chief Commissioner. If the Commissioner disagrees and thinks the grant should be made, he may report the case for the orders of the Chief Commissioner. If the Forest Officer recommends the grant being made, or if the Chief Commissioner, on a reference by the Commissioner, orders it to be made, the Commissioner will first call upon the applicant to deposit ₹2 per acre on the estimated area for expenses of survey, &c., and a sum not exceeding one-tenth of the Forest Officer's valuation of timber as earnest-money.

IX.—If the applicant fails to deposit the sum required under rule VIII within six weeks from the date of demand, his application shall be rejected.

X.—On receipt of the deposit money, the Commissioner will arrange for the survey of the land.

XI.—On the completion of the survey, the applicant and patel will be called on to sign certificates regarding the survey and demarcation in the forms D and E appended.

XII.—Within six months from the date on which the purchaser is placed in possession of the land, all marketable sandalwood trees shall, so far as conveniently may be, be cut and removed by the Forest Officer, and their value shall be deducted from the amount of purchase-money to be paid by the purchaser.

XIII.—On receipt of the bill for timber and sandalwood, the Commissioner will advertise the lot for sale on a given day to be fixed, so as to admit of the notice required in the following rule being given.

XIV.—The advertisement shall be in English and in Kanarese, and shall specify the locality, extent, and boundaries of the lot, the upset price, the value of timber and sandalwood, the annual assessment, and the place, time, and conditions of sale. It shall be posted for three months at least on the land itself, as well as in the neighbouring villages, in the offices of the Commissioner and the subedar of the taluk, and the nearest police office. The Commissioner shall, at his discretion, fix the time and place of sale, and may alter both if necessary, provided that not less than 14 days' notice be publicly given of every such alteration, and that no land be sold until it has been advertised as aforesaid for three full months at least.

XV.—The Commissioner shall send written notice of the place and time of sale, as also of any alteration under the provisions of rule XIV, to the applicant; but no sale shall be disturbed in consequence of the non-receipt of such notice, or delayed in consequence of the non-appearance of the applicant.

XVI.—An applicant withdrawing his application prior to the sale of the lot will not be entitled to a refund of the money deposited by him; but if any claim preferred under the provisions of rule XIX be established, and the sale of the land or any portion of the land applied for be in consequence stopped, the Commissioner may refund the amount deposited by the applicant, or such portion thereof as, under the special circumstances of the case, he may consider right.

XVII.—On the withdrawal of an application, it shall be discretional with the Commissioner to proceed with the sale of the lot or not, as he considers best for the public interests.

XVIII.—The upset price shall be in all cases two rupees three annas an acre, with, in addition thereto, the price of timber and sandalwood standing on the lot at the time of sale, as estimated under rule VII, and such fee for engrossing the title-deeds as the Local Government may from time to time prescribe. If the original applicant be the purchaser, he shall receive credit for his deposit in payment; otherwise the amount of deposit shall be repaid to him from the sale-proceeds.

XIX.—If, before the time of sale, a claim of private proprietorship or of exclusive occupancy, or of any other right incompatible with the sale of the land under these rules, shall be preferred by suit in the Civil Court to the lot, or any part of it, the Commissioner shall postpone the sale of the lot until such claim shall be disposed of in due course of law.

XX.—When the lot as advertised shall be put up to auction, it shall be sold to the highest bidder above the upset price, subject to an annual assessment, after four years from the date of sale, of one rupee an acre, and after twelve years of two rupees an acre, on the whole area: provided that such annual assessment shall not be levied on barren and uncultivable land, which shall, after the said period of four years, be assessed under the provisions of rule VI for the assessment of coffee lands in Coorg, which is as follows:—

"Barren and uncultivable land included in a coffee holding may be retained by the tenant exempt from assessment if the extent is not more than one-fourth of the whole area of the estate. If in excess of this proportion, the excess will, if retained by the tenant, be subject to a fixed assessment of one rupee an acre. Exemption or reduced assessment, as above described, will be claimable only on the proprietor producing a certificate of the extent of the barren land on his estate furnished by a surveyor approved by the Superintendent."

XXI.—The successful bidder shall, immediately on the sale being declared, pay down 10 per cent. of the price of the land and of the value of the timber and sandalwood, and sign an acknowledgment in the form A hereto annexed. The residue of the purchase-money shall be paid in full within thirty days. Provided that, whenever the value of the timber and sandalwood exceeds ₹10 per acre, the Commissioner may, at his discretion, allow payment for such timber and sandalwood to be made within two years by two annual instalments.

XXII.—The sale shall be conducted under, and subject to, the following conditions of sale:—

(1) The highest bidder above the upset price shall be the purchaser of the lot; and if any dispute arise between two or more bidders at the same price, the lot shall be immediately put up again at the last preceding undisputed bidding and be resold.

(2) If the purchaser shall pay to the Commissioner the residue of his purchase-money, he shall thereupon be placed in possession of the lot.

(3) All persons desirous of becoming purchasers are to satisfy themselves as to the identity, as well as to the correct description, surveyed or estimated area, and boundaries of the lot previous to the sale; and after the sale is closed, no objections by the purchaser, ensuing out of any informality or error in the description or other particulars of the lot, shall be admissible.

(4) If the purchase-money or the residue thereof remains unpaid on the date fixed by or under rule XXI for the payment of the same, interest shall be payable at the rate of ₹12 per cent. per annum, to be computed on such purchase-money or residue from that date until final payment, unless the sale is rescinded in manner provided in the following condition.

(5) If the purchaser does not pay the purchase-money or the residue thereto before the expiration of three months from the date fixed by or under rule XXI for the payment of the same, or fails to comply with the above conditions, or any of them, his deposit money shall be forfeited and retained by Government, and the Commissioner of Coorg shall be at liberty to resume the lot, or to re-sell it either by public auction or private contract, without the necessity of previously tendering a conveyance to the purchaser; and the deficiency, if any, arising from such re-sale, together with all expenses attending it, shall be chargeable to the defaulting purchaser as liquidated damages.

Provided that in any case the Chief Commissioner shall have the power to remit, for good cause shown, all or any of the penalties imposed by this rule.

XXIII.—If in any case the applicant, after paying the deposit as required by rule VIII, desires to have the land put up for sale in anticipation of the survey, in accordance with the conditions hereinafter described, the Commissioner may, if no special objection is apparent, accede to the request and proceed to advertise the land for sale on a given day to be fixed so as to admit of the notice required in rule XV being given. In such case the advertisement required by rule XV will give the estimated extent and assessment, and shall declare that the assessment will be finally fixed after the survey is completed. When a sale is ordered to be made in anticipation of survey under this rule, the procedure will in all other respects be the same as if the survey had already been completed.

The Commissioner will arrange for the survey being made after the sale is effected, or before that time if this can be conveniently arranged. On the completion of the survey, the estimate of assessment will be revised and fixed in accordance with the system of assessment described in rule XX. No increase or abatement of the auction price of land and of the valuation of trees will be made because the area by survey is found to differ from the estimated area. No deed of grant will be given to the purchaser till after the survey has been completed; nor will the purchaser be allowed to redeem the annual assessment till it has been fixed after survey.

XXIV.—Land demarcated as Government forest or reserved forest under the Coorg Government Forest Rules or such other rules as may from time to time be in force, reserves of grazing land, of land for the growth of firewood, for building sites, and of land required for other special purposes, are not to be sold under these rules, without the express sanction of the Government.

XXV.—A grant as provided in rule XXVII shall be made to the purchaser, provided he shall have paid his purchase-money in full within the prescribed time.

XXVI.—The annual assessment on lands sold under these rules may at any time be redeemed by the owner, by payment of a sum equal to 25 times the annual assessment of two rupees an acre on the whole area, and the land so redeemed shall thereafter be for ever free from all demand on the part of the State on account of land revenue. On payment of the redemption money, the owner of the land shall be furnished with a deed as provided in rule XXVII.

XXVII.—Subject to the condition expressed in rule XXV, the grant shall be made to the purchaser—

(a) if he does not redeem the annual assessment at the time of purchase in form B (1) annexed to these rules;

(b) if he redeems the annual assessment under rule XXVI at the time of purchase in form B (2) so annexed;

(c) if the owner of the land redeems the annual assessment under rule XXVI at any time subsequent to receiving a grant in form B (1), he shall be entitled to a deed in form C annexed to these rules.

XXVIII.—Arrears of annual assessment shall be recoverable under the provisions of Regulation III of 1880.

XXIX.—Lands sold or redeemed under these rules shall continue subject to all general taxes and local rates payable by law or custom.

XXX.—The existing and customary rights of Government, of other proprietors, and of the public in existing roads and paths and in streams running through or bounding lands sold under these rules are reserved, and in no way affected by the sale of such lands under these rules.

XXXI.—Nothing contained in these rules shall be held to debar the Government from granting waste land on patta, kaul, or otherwise at its discretion, as heretofore.

XXXII.—The Government reserves certain rights in respect of all sandalwood which may now or hereafter be growing upon any land sold under these rules, in the manner and to the extent hereinafter provided.

The purchaser may remove, damage, or destroy boná fide for purposes of coffee cultivation, or in executing works of improvement, any sandalwood trees which may now or hereafter be growing on land purchased by him.

The purchaser may not sell or remove, except as provided in the preceding clause, the wood of any sandal trees which may now or hereafter be growing on any land sold to him under these rules, except for the purpose of sale or surrender to Government, and with the permission of Government.

XXXIII.—The Government may appoint any officer to control and protect the sandalwood growing on any land sold under these rules. Such officer may enter upon such land, and may tend and cut any sandalwood trees growing on such land. For all sandalwood cut upon and removed from such land by the Forest Officer, the Government engage to pay to the purchaser of the land a sum of money equal to the estimated net amount realised by the sale of such wood, less a royalty the rate of which shall be fixed from time to time by the Chief Commissioner, but which shall not exceed 25 per cent. on such net amount. The amount thus payable by Government will be determined by the Forest Officer, subject to appeal to the Chief Civil Officer of Coorg, whose decision in this matter shall be final.

XXXIV.—All sandalwood, timber, or other forest produce on any land sold under these rules, cut or removed in contravention of these rules, may be seized and sold on behalf of Government by the Forest Officer or any officer empowered under this rule.

XXXV.—All mines and minerals lying in or under any land sold under these rules shall be reserved to the Secretary of State for India in Council. And the said Secretary of State or his assigns and his or their lessees may at all times enter upon the said land to search for, get, dress, and carry away the said minerals, and may erect any engines or machinery thereon, and may do all acts necessary and convenient for getting, working, dressing, and carrying away the said minerals, making compensation to the owners of such surface for damage to the surface of the land. Such damages to be claimed, ascertained, and awarded, as nearly as may be, in accordance with the procedure of Act X of 1870.

BENGAL CIVIL FUND.

At a Meeting of the Subscribers to the Bengal Civil Fund held at the Town Hall, Calcutta, on Monday, the 28th January, at 10 A.M.

PRESENT:—H. A. Cockerell, Esq., C.S.I.; the Hon'ble Mr. Justice Tottenham; the Hon'ble J. W. Quinton; the Hon'ble Mr. Justice Field; the Hon'ble H. Beverley; D. R. Lyall, Esq.; the Hon'ble Mr. Justice O'Kinealy; J. Westland, Esq.; E. V. Westmacott, Esq.; W. H. Grimley, Esq.; J. G. Charles, Esq.; J. Scobell Armstrong, Esq.; H. J. S. Cotton, Esq.; A. Forbes, Esq.; C. A. Wilkins, Esq.; the Hon'ble C. P. L. Macaulay; C. E. Buckland, Esq.; T. W. Holderness, Esq.; H. M. Kisch, Esq.; W. D. Blyth, Esq.; C. S. Bayley, Esq.; O. T. Barrow, Esq.; H. F. T. Maguire, Esq.

The Hon'ble J. W. Quinton in the Chair.

THE Managers presented the following report for the half-year ending on the 31st December 1883:—

REPORT.

1. The Managers submit the proceedings for the past half-year for the consideration and sanction of the Meeting.

2. Subject to the approval of the Subscribers, they have admitted to the benefits of the Fund the following families:—

Mrs. Oldham	...	...	£225
Mrs. Martin	...	...	£300
Mrs. Colvin	...	...	£300

The widow of the late Mr. W. Oldham, Annuitant of 1877, who died on the 2nd October 1883. Mr. Oldham on retirement secured three-fourths benefits only.

The widow of the late Mr. G. L. Martin, Annuitant of 1861, who died on the 5th October 1883.

The widow of the late Mr. Elliot Colvin, who died at Saharanpur on the 3rd November 1883.

Under Article V of the Rules Mr. J. J. Livesay has incurred the penalty of the exclusion of his son from the benefits of the Fund by failure to report his birth within the prescribed six months. Mr. Livesay states that the omission was the result of oversight. The admission of the child to Fund benefits is dependent upon the decision of a General Meeting of Subscribers, and the Managers submit the case accordingly. They recommend that the child be admitted on payment of the minimum fine of Rs. 100, as required by the Rules. Subscriptions have been deducted from Mr. Livesay's pay bills since the birth of the child.

Mr. A. H. Benton has applied for the remission of the fine of Rs. 50 incurred under Article V of the Rules for failure to report the birth of his son within the prescribed time. The child was born on the 17th September 1883. Mr. Benton states that he was informed by telegram in London on the 18th September of the birth of a son, but the telegram did not state the date of birth. He also received a letter on the following day, shortly before he embarked for India, but the letter did not mention the date of birth. He sailed for Bombay on the 19th September, arrived at midnight on the 17th October, and travelled to Delhi, whence he reported the birth on the 21st October. Mr. Benton states that he ascertained the date of the birth of his son from a "blurred stamp mark on the cover of the telegram."

Mr. Benton urges that he is not liable to the penalty on the following grounds:—

That he was travelling when he received the intimation and continued travelling until the day he reported.

That he was travelling by the mail steamer which would have carried the report if it had been made in London.

That, as a matter of fact, the report reached the Fund Office three weeks earlier than it would have done had he remained in England and reported thence by letter within the month.

The practice of the Fund Office is to accept the date of the letter reporting the birth of a child and not that of its receipt in the office. If Mr. Benton had reported the birth of his child by letter as soon as he ascertained the date of birth, he would have been within the prescribed time. It was also within Mr. Benton's power while in England to report the fact of birth, leaving the exact date to be reported subsequently. The case is submitted to the Meeting for decision at the request of Mr. Benton.

Mr. A. M. Markham has incurred the penalty prescribed in Article XXXVII of the Rules by neglect, for more than one year, to pay the necessary subscriptions to the Fund on his furlough allowance. Mr. Markham states that he was under the impression that these subscriptions were always allowed to remain in abeyance during absence on furlough and were adjusted upon return. As Mr. Markham has now paid all arrears of subscription together with 8 per cent. interest as required by the Rules, the Managers recommend his case to the favourable consideration of the Meeting.

Mr. D. B. Allen has incurred the penalty prescribed in Article XXXVII of the Rules by neglect, for more than one year, to pay the necessary subscriptions to the Fund on his furlough allowance. Mr. Allen states that he had left funds in India for the payment of these subscriptions. As all arrears of subscription have now been paid together with interest at 8 per cent. as required by the Rules, the Managers recommend Mr. Allen's case to the favourable consideration of the Meeting.

Mr. G. Hughes has incurred the penalty prescribed in Article XXXVII of the Rules by neglect, for more than one year, to pay the necessary subscriptions to the Fund on his furlough allowance. Mr. Hughes states that his neglect to pay was due to imperfect knowledge of the Rules and ill-health. As all arrears of subscription have now been paid together with interest at 8 per cent., the Managers recommend Mr. Hughes' case to the favourable consideration of the Meeting.

Mr. J. D. Gael has incurred the penalty prescribed in Article XXXVII of the Rules by neglect for more than one year to pay his subscriptions to the Fund on his annuity. Mr. Gael states that he was under the impression that he would receive an intimation from the Fund Office stating the amount of subscriptions due. Not having received this intimation, he made enquiries from the Agents in London, who were unable to state the amount. Immediately on receipt of a letter from the Fund Office informing him that he had incurred a penalty he made the payment to the Agents, hoping thus to repair the delay. As all arrears of subscription, together with 8 per cent interest, have now been paid, the Managers recommend Mr. Gael's case to the favourable consideration of the Meeting.

Mr. J. Wetherill, Head Assistant, who has been employed for more than thirty years in the Civil Fund Office, has applied for a good service pension of Rs. 150 per mensem, payable through the Agents of the Fund in London at the exchange of 2 shillings to the rupee.

The establishment of the Fund Office have never been promised or led to expect the privilege of pension, but pensions have been granted to Mr. Edmonds and Babu Tinkauri Ray, employés in the office. If Mr. Wetherill were in the service of Government he would be entitled to receive a pension equivalent to half his salary of Rs. 300, on account of his service of over 25 years in the Civil Fund Office. The Managers recommend the grant to him of a pension of Rs. 150 per mensem at the current rate of exchange.

The votes of the Subscribers on the resolutions passed at the last General Meeting for the amendment of Article XXIX of the Rules have been scrutinised with the following result:—

For.	Against.
88	Nil.

The Managers will propose:—

That the Subscribers consider that the Secretary of State should be asked on the grounds set forth in the Managers' minute dated the 12th September 1883 and already circulated to all Subscribers to grant, in addition to the remission of annuitants' subscriptions, a further pension of £30 a year to each widow, present and future, and that in accordance with clause 6 of the Act of Parliament, 45 and 46 Vic. Cap. 45, they authorize the Managers to transfer the Fund at once if the Secretary of State consents to their proposal.

The following letter has been received from Subscribers in England with reference to the Circular No. 583 of the 12th September 1883 on the subject of the transfer of the Fund to the Secretary of State:—

TREASURER'S HOUSE, GUY'S HOSPITAL,
London, the 28th December 1883.

To C. S. BAYLEY, ESQ.,
Secretary to the Bengal Civil Fund.

SIR,

WITH reference to the circular from the the Managers of the Civil Fund, dated 12th September 1883, we have the honour to inform you that a meeting of Subscribers to the Fund was held on the 18th instant at Willis' Rooms, King Street, St. James', London, at which the Subscribers named in the margin were present.

2. Sir E. C. Bayley having been voted to the chair, after some discussion, the following resolution was proposed by J. Scarlett Campbell, Esq, seconded by R. B. Chapman, Esq., and carried by a large majority, viz. :—

"That this meeting places confidence in the Managers of the Bengal Civil Fund, and accepts their views as set forth in their circular of the 12th September 1883, and would decline to surrender the management of the Bengal Civil Fund to the Secretary of State, unless the Secretary of State unreservedly accepts the terms suggested by the Managers in their circular under acknowledgment."

3. We are directed to add that while the majority were actuated by a wish to determine a serious and painful controversy by any reasonable compromise, a strong feeling prevailed that the terms proposed by the Managers are the least favourable on which the service ought to surrender the management of the Fund, and that they do not fully represent the conditions which the service might justly require in exchange for the surrender of the Fund, while they omit any reference to their claims on the generosity of the Secretary of State to place them on a more equal footing with the Subscribers to the Civil Funds of Madras and Bombay.

4. We are also to suggest, for the consideration of the Managers, whether supposing the Secretary of State were to accede to the terms proposed by the Managers, it might be expedient to provide a special tribunal for the settlement of such cases as require settlement from time to time under the rules of the Fund, and which are now decided by the Managers or by the votes of the service. Such a tribunal was provided in the surrender of the Bengal Military Fund, and is composed partly of officials attached to the East India Office and partly of Subscribers to the Fund itself.

BENGAL CIVIL FUND OFFICE;
The 28th January 1883.

E. E.
CHAS. S. BAYLEY,
Secretary and Accountant.

3 b

For convenience of discussion it was agreed that the first business taken by the Meeting should be the consideration of the Resolution proposed by the Managers regarding the transfer of the Civil Fund to the Government.

Mr. Cockerell moved—

"That the subscribers consider that the Secretary of State should be asked on the grounds set forth in the Managers' minute, dated the 12th September 1883, and already circulated to all subscribers, to grant, in addition to the remission of annuitants' subscriptions, a further pension of £30 a year to each widow, present and future, and that in accordance with clause 6 of the Act of Parliament, 45 and 46 Vic., Cap. 45, they authorize the Managers to transfer the Fund at once if the Secretary of State consents to their proposal."

Mr. Westland in seconding the motion observed that the subject of the transfer of the Fund to Government was one which had been for a long time before subscribers, and on which much discussion had taken place both verbally and in writing. It was therefore unnecessary to treat it now in detail, but Mr. Westland would be happy to give any information in his power which any subscriber might wish to have. The present position of affairs was briefly this. The Secretary of State had offered a settlement of the questions between himself and the three Civil Funds on the following basis. In the first place, he accepted the status quo of the 1st April 1875, that is, both he and the Funds would start from the balances shown on the books of the Funds as existing on the 1st April 1875; in the second place he laid down certain principles as those on which the Funds should from and after that date be managed. These terms, if accepted, settled all matters in dispute, but the Secretary of State further offered to the subscribers to the several Funds the alternative of continuing to manage the Funds themselves, or of making them over to the Government. The subscribers to the Bombay Civil Fund had transferred their Fund to the Government on certain terms which he would explain subsequently, and the subscribers to the Madras Fund were considering the terms on which a transfer should be made. In the case of the Bengal Fund, the Managers had had much discussion with the Secretary of State, in the course of which they had, without going into details of the matters affecting the settlement of the Bengal Fund in particular, urged generally on the Government the special claims of their Fund for favourable consideration. The Secretary of State had admitted that the subscribers to the Bengal Civil Fund had paid more to the State and had received smaller benefits from it than the subscribers to the Madras and Bombay Funds, and the Managers had therefore claimed that they should be treated with at least as much consideration as the subscribers to the Bombay Fund and receive equally favourable terms. To this claim the Secretary of State had constantly demurred. He had taken as his basis an arbitrary standpoint—the position of the three Funds on the 1st April 1875, and the practical effect of his so doing was to concede to the Madras and Bombay Funds all they wanted and to give the Bengal Fund nothing at all. Had the starting-point been taken ten years earlier the position of things would, as regards the Bengal Civil Fund, have been practically what it now is, while that of the other Funds would have been very different. Owing to the method of distributing expenditure adopted by the Trustees of those Funds, very large balances had been accumulated to their credit in the intervening ten years, at the expense of the Government, while in the Bengal Fund the Managers had scrupulously observed almost the same restrictions for which the Secretary of State now contended, and had thus for these ten years a practically clear account with the Government. The Bengal subscribers could not, absolutely speaking, make claim against the Secretary of State that he should give them better terms as the starting-point of the settlement than were shewn in their own statements of account, but they certainly could claim that, the starting-point having been so taken as to give them absolutely no advantage in respect of the transactions that occurred before it, while it abandoned to the Madras and the Bombay subscribers almost all that the Secretary of State on his own principles could claim from them, they should in respect of the settlement of matters subsequent to that starting-point receive very favourable consideration. These were the general considerations which the Managers had been pressing upon the Secretary of State, and though he had made some concessions in the correspondence, yet he practically declined discussion, and merely refused to admit the Bengal Fund to the same favourable terms as the others, being apparently full of the notion that the Bengal Fund, like the others, had already received great condonation in the acceptance of its accounts up till 1875. The Secretary of State therefore had refused to discuss the matter further, except as it referred to the Bengal Fund taken by itself, and it was from this point of view that the Managers had now taken up the question and had laid heir views at length before the Service.

The Secretary of State and the Managers of the Bengal Fund were almost at one as to the principles on which the Fund should be managed, so that accepting the year 1875 as a starting-point and adjusting the transactions of the Fund forward from that date, there was not very much difference between the present balances as the Secretary of State would claim them and the present balances as the Managers would claim them. A settlement upon these points would determine all matters actually in controversy, and if no new questions had been raised no difficulty would probably be found in coming to terms.

But besides these matters which had to be settled, the Secretary of State had opened a new one, which admittedly entirely depended upon the consent of subscribers, in his offer to take over the Fund with all its assets and liabilities. Now for the discussion of this new question the Managers were willing to take as a starting-point the full acceptance by the Service of the Secretary of State's claims in respect of the preliminary and necessary matters. They reserved their right to fall back on their own opinion if necessary, and protest against the notion that the settlement and consequent adjustment can be forced upon them otherwise than by their own consent or by the action of a Court of law; but for present purposes they accepted the views of the Secretary of State and the adjustment of balances consequent upon them.

This left the subscribers the option of continuing to manage the Fund as their own on the accepted principles, or of handing it over to the Secretary of State; only it was obvious that to persuade them to the latter course, the Secretary of State must consent to the admission of benefits at least equal to those they could expect from the former course. The Managers had therefore carefully examined what standard of benefits they could calculate on if the Fund, adjusted in accordance with the Secretary of State's claims, remained under direct management; and the conclusion they had come to was that they were in a position to continue to the families of subscribers and to annuitants all benefits which had been given up to the present time. There were some slight differences between the figures at which Mr. Westland, after an investigation of the subject, had arrived regarding the assets and liabilities of the Fund, and those which had been adopted on General Hannyngton's calculations by the Secretary of State. The calculation of the position of the Fund depended mostly on facts but partly also on matters which involved opinion, and this accounted for such differences as did exist. General Hannyngton had made a great number of very prudent calculations, which as a matter of the safe management of the Fund would be quite admissible, but which, when applied to the question of its transfer to the Government, were quite irrelevant. Besides this, it was found by actual calculation that for certain reasons, the adjusted Fund was in a much better position in 1880 than General Hannyngton found it to be in 1875. In considering the question whether it was expedient to make the transfer it must be borne in mind that, other things being equal, it was to the interest of the subscribers to keep the management of the Fund in their own hands. It was more satisfactory that all cases that might arise should be decided by the subscribers, and the families of subscribers were likely to prefer consideration at the hands of subscribers to consideration at those of the Government. On the other hand, it was to the interest of the Secretary of State to get the Funds under his control. In the case of the Madras and Bombay Funds the Government had lost more lakhs of rupees than could now be calculated, and to a small extent loss had been incurred in dealing with the Bengal Fund, to which many years ago concessions had been made, which although made deliberately at the time, certainly shewed that the Secretary of State had not in those days fully understood the obligations he was accepting. As it was, the Secretary of State was under an obligation which was legally binding to pay 8 per cent. on a large portion of the Fund's accumulations, and this was an obligation of which it would well pay the State to be rid as experience had shewn the very great difficulty of properly limiting it. For this reason, and from the favourable terms which the subscribers to the Bombay Fund had received, the subscribers to the Bengal Fund had reason to anticipate that they would receive something as the price of the transfer of the Fund. In that case the subscribers had asked for an addition of £40 to the pension which the Fund was calculated to be able to afford to each widow, and this concession the Secretary of State had made without demur, a special clause being introduced into the Act of Parliament authorizing the transfer to enable him to do so. The clause ran as follows:—"Provided that nothing in this Act contained shall be held to preclude the Secretary of State for India in Council from assigning to the incumbents on, and subscribers to, the said Fund, or to any such widow or child as aforesaid, any benefits in addition to those secured to them by this Act, if on considering the assets and liabilities of the said Fund the Secretary of State for India in Council shall deem it reasonable so to do." The proposal of the Managers was that the subscribers should ask only for the same concession as the Bombay Fund had in this respect received. But as the Service consider themselves pledged to remit the remaining part of annuitants' subscriptions, the Managers proposed to make a slight change in the form of the concession. It had been calculated that the remission of the subscriptions still levied from annuitants was equivalent to a pension of £10 to each widow, present and future, and this remission plus an additional pension of £30 to each widow would therefore be equivalent to the terms granted to the Bombay Fund. From the Managers' point of view this addition to their benefits was practically a discounting of the extensions they might reasonably hope to obtain if the Fund remained under its present management, and they had reason to believe that from the Secretary of State's point of view it would be a price he would be willing to pay for a final settlement of the whole matter. It was true that in the last despatch received—that dated the 12th July 1883 - the Secretary of State had written in a very peremptory manner requesting that the Managers might be informed that His Lordship must decline to entertain any further applications for better terms. This broke off negociations with the Managers upon the basis upon which the discussions then were proceeding, namely, general claims founded on the comparative treatment of all the Funds; but it was in the Managers' opinion quite open to the subscribers to state in the form of definite proposals, based upon definite considerations arising out of the condition of the Bengal Fund itself, the terms on which they would be prepared to transfer the Fund. In fact they had been specially invited to do so, for in paragraph 11 of his penultimate despatch No. 12, dated the 9th November 1882, the Secretary of State, while expressing his opinion that the offer previously made by him to take over the Fund should have been submitted to the subscribers for their consideration, added—"If the subscribers are dissatisfied with the terms, it is open to them to state the grounds on which they claim a larger surplus than that which is brought out in General Hannyngton's valuation." It could not therefore be expected that the Secretary of State should now say that he would not listen to further discussion of the question thus arising.

The Managers were now at last in a position to submit the matter definitely for the decision of the subscribers, and they hoped to get definite instructions to place the matter distinctly before the Secretary of State. The general sense of the subscribers had been taken on the subject, and so far as replies had been received, it appeared that subscribers both active and retired were prepared to support the view taken by the Managers, and the question of the surrender of the Fund would now, if the meeting accepted the Managers' proposal, be submitted, as required by the Act of Parliament, to the votes of the Service and annuitants. It should be observed that the subscribers had one object to gain in transferring the Fund to the Government, namely, that the Fund having ceased to take in new subscribers was in one sense in a moribund condition, and would, some 25 years hence, be left with no one to manage it.

Mr. Macaulay enquired whether there would be any objection to the addition to the motion of a clause in the sense of paragraph 4 of the letter received from the annuitants in England, providing for a special tribunal for the settlement of such cases as require settlement from time to time under the rules of the Fund. Mr. Macaulay did not wish to bring this forward as an amendment to the Managers' proposal, but he would be glad if the Managers thought fit to adopt the suggestion.

Mr. Westland said that a demand for a concession of this kind had been made in the case of the Bombay Fund, but the Government had been unwilling to sanction the constitution of a formally elected body to represent the Service in the matter of Civil Funds. But a committee had with the permission of Government been formed to decide certain cases of advances to subscribers going on leave, &c., which did not occur under the rules of the Bengal Civil Fund. The Bombay Civil Fund Transfer Act, clause 4, specially bound the Secretary of State to decide all cases now decided by Managers or subscribers in accordance with precedent. As a matter of fact, the Secretary of State would not be likely to take too strict a view. A case had actually occurred in Bombay in which an annuitant who had ceased to subscribe being attracted by the favourable terms offered after the transfer, had desired to subscribe again, and had been permitted to do so. There could be little doubt that the Managers of the Fund would not have permitted this. Mr. Westland had no objection to the addition of such a clause as that proposed by Mr. Macaulay, but he suggested that it should be put as a separate substantive resolution.

The Chairman then put the Managers' proposal to the meeting, and it was carried unanimously.

Mr. Macaulay proposed—

"That the subscribers are disposed to view favourably the proposal of the subscribers in England regarding the provision of a special tribunal for the disposal of cases requiring settlement under the rules of the Fund, and request that the Managers will give due consideration to it in making their representation to the Secretary of State."

He said that he understood that this matter had not yet been officially considered by the Managers. It would be observed, however, that his proposal would not in any way bind them. At the same time he considered it desirable to elicit an expression of the views of the Service at large upon the point. For himself he entertained an indifferent opinion of official generosity in dealing with questions of this nature, and he would be glad to see some such arrangement made as was proposed by the home subscribers.

The motion was seconded by Mr. Justice O'Kinealy and carried, Mr. Cotton dissenting.

Some discussion then arose as to the effect of the proviso in Rule XVI, requiring all votes on new general questions or questions involving any essential addition to, or alterations in, the Rules and principles of the Fund to be given within two months after the date of issuing the notice of the decision of a General Meeting, which would be to exclude the votes of annuitants in England whose answers could not be received within two months. On the suggestion of Mr. Justice Field it was ultimately decided that Messrs. Coutts & Co. should be requested to issue the notices in London on a date to be fixed by the Managers, and that answers should be sent in to Calcutta within two months, notices being issued in India on the same date as in London.

Proposed by Mr. Lyall and seconded by Mr. Macaulay—

That the Managers' proceedings in admitting the families of the late Messrs. W. Oldham, G. L. Martin, and Elliot Colvin to the benefits of the Fund be confirmed.

Carried unanimously.

Proposed by Mr. Westmacott and seconded by Mr. Wilkins—

That the name of Mr. J. J. Livesay's son be brought on the books of the Fund on payment by Mr. Livesay of the minimum fine of Rs. 100.

Carried unanimously.

Proposed by Mr. Justice Field and seconded by Mr. Lyall—

That Mr. Benton be informed that the rule as to fine for failure to report birth being absolute, the Meeting regret that the fine imposed upon him cannot be remitted.

Carried unanimously.

Proposed by Mr. Blyth and seconded by Mr. Kisch—

That Messrs. A. M. Markham, D. B. Allen, G. Hughes, and J. D. Gael be restored to the rights of subscribers.

Carried unanimously.

That in consideration of the excellent service rendered for many years by Mr. Wetherill while Head Assistant in the office of the Bengal Civil Fund, he be admitted, subject to the confirmation of the subscribers, to a good-service pension of Rs. 150 per mensem, payable at the current rate of exchange.

Carried unanimously.

Proposed by Mr. Westmacott and seconded by Mr. Holderness—

That the accounts for the year 1882-83 be approved.

The said Grantee shall be liable for any loss, damage or injuries that any person or persons may sustain by reason of any defect or want of repairs in any of the plant, rolling-stock or other properties of the said Grantee, or by reason of any carelessness, neglect or misconduct of his agents or servants in the management, construction or use of the said tramways or any portion thereof, or in the exercise of the power given by clauses 6, 7, 8, and 11; the same shall be made good by the said Grantee, and in the event of any suit being instituted against the said Committee in respect of any of the matters hereinbefore mentioned the said Grantee shall, within fourteen days from the receipt of a notice thereof from the said Committee, settle the same; but if the said Grantee choose to defend such suit he shall be at liberty to do so upon his undertaking to indemnify the said Committee against all losses, damages and expenses in respect thereof: provided always that, if the said Grantee fail to settle such suit or to indemnify the said Committee as is hereinbefore provided, it shall be lawful for the said Committee to settle the same without any consent or concurrence on the part of the said Grantee, and the sums which they shall have to pay in making such settlement, together with interest thereon at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum from the date of payment, and with all expenses which they may be put to, shall be recoverable as a debt from the said Grantee.

13. Nothing in this agreement shall be construed to prevent the said Committee from taking up any of the public streets or roads traversed by the said tramway for the purposes for which the said Committee may lawfully take up the same, and the said Grantee shall have no right to claim cost from the said Committee for obstructing the tramway or causing delay in the traffic so long as the delay shall not be unreasonable for the work to be performed.

14. If the said Committee shall hereafter alter the level of any street, road or bridge along or across which any tramway by this agreement authorized is laid or authorized to be laid, the Grantee shall alter or (as the case may be) lay his rails to suit the altered level of such street, road or bridge: provided always that any such alteration as aforesaid shall be so made as to interfere as little as possible with the safe and convenient working of the said tramways, and in any case so as not to stop or prevent the free use or working thereof.

15. If at any time after the opening of any tramway for traffic the said Grantee shall discontinue the working of such tramway or any part thereof for the space of six calendar months (such discontinuance not being occasioned by circumstances beyond the control of the said Grantee), it shall be lawful for the said Committee, without any previous notice to the said Grantee, to remove the tramway or part of the tramway so discontinued, and the said Grantee shall pay to the said Committee the cost of such removal and of the making good of the street, road or bridge, and the certificate of the said Committee or of their Engineer as to such cost shall be conclusive.

16. The provisions of this agreement shall remain and be in force for a term not less than twenty-one (21) years from the date thereof. The said Committee shall have the right of purchasing the said tramways, with the plant, stores, rolling-stock, sheds, depôts and yards, and everything connected therewith, after the expiration of the said twenty-one (21) years upon declaring its intention so to do within six months after the expiration of the said twenty-one (21) years; the amount to be paid in the event of such purchase shall be the actual bonâ fide value at the termination of this agreement, exclusive of any compensation for goodwill, premium on compulsory sale or other consideration whatever of the tramways and of the work and materials connected therewith, and of the lands and buildings and all the other property of the Grantee, such value to be decided by mutual agreement or by arbitration as hereinafter provided.

17. The provisions hereinbefore contained shall, so far as applicable, apply to all tramways to be constructed by the said Grantee by any route or routes to be hereafter sanctioned by the said Committee, and to the works connected with or incidental to such tramways, it being agreed that in the event of the municipality failing to declare its intention as above provided to purchase the property of the said Grantee the terms of this contract shall continue in force during the period of six months from the date of the determination of these presents and for a further period of six months, and if the said Committee shall not within that time exercise the option of purchase hereby given, the said Committee and the said Grantee shall enter into a fresh agreement.

18. The said Grantee will, if required by the said Committee, before opening up the roadway of any street, road or bridge, deposit with the Bank of Bengal in the name of the said Committee the sum of rupees five thousand (5,000) or, in their option, promissory notes of the Government of India of the nominal value of rupees five thousand (5,000), and the same will remain so deposited until the completion by the said Grantee of the above mentioned lines of tramway herein sanctioned for construction. All interest accruing on the said sum, or the said notes, shall be credited to the said Grantee, and, subject as next hereinafter mentioned, be paid to him as the same accrues due. The said Committee shall be entitled to deduct all fines recoverable by the said Committee and all monies to which they may be entitled under any clause or clauses of these presents out of the sum so deposited, or the interest accruing on the said sum or notes, or out of the proceeds of sale of a portion of the said notes on completion of the tramways herein sanctioned for immediate construction.

19. In consideration of the concession herein granted, the said Grantee undertakes on behalf of himself, his heirs, executors, administrators and assigns that he will pay to the said Committee a yearly rent of rupees three thousand (3,000) per mile of double track or line and rupees two thousand (2,000) per mile of single track or line, payable half-yearly; the date on which such rent on each line of tramway shall begin to accrue shall be the date on which such line of tramways is open for public traffic.

20. It is agreed that the tramway or tramways from the Strand Road along Barr Street and Shafraz Road round the Public Buildings and back to the Strand Road should not be included, and that no sidings, turnouts or tracks necessary to connect the traffic lines with the carriage-sheds engine-sheds, factories, depôts, yards or other property or properties of the said Grantee shall be included in the mileage on which rent is to be paid, the tramway or tramways more particularly described in this paragraph, and such sidings, turnouts and necessary connecting tracks or lines, being free of rent.

21. The sleepers, rails, materials and implements and other erections placed and erected by the said Grantee on the streets, bridges or roads under the powers hereby granted shall be and remain the property of the said Grantee, and the said Grantee shall have the exclusive use of his tramway or tramways for carriages with flanged wheels or other wheels suitable only to run on the prescribed rail.

22. The prescribed rail is that known as the box-rail introduced by Mr. Robinson Souttar, to be made of Bessemer steel of the weight of sixty pounds to the yard, or such other rail of such weight as may be approved by the said Committee.

23. The said Grantee shall have the exclusive right of laying and using tramways within the limit of the Rangoon Municipality on the terms herein stated; but in the event of the said Grantee refusing to lay down any line when the said Committee may consider it necessary, the said Committee shall be at liberty to grant the right of laying and using such line to any other party.

24. Unless the said Grantee shall have commenced the work of laying down the said tramways within twelve months from the date of the execution of these articles of agreement, the said Committee shall be at liberty to cease and determine this contract and to enter into arrangements with any other person or persons for the construction of tramways; it being agreed, however, that these conditions of contract are subject to the sanction of Government, and that, in the event of their being executed prior to such sanction being given, the said 12 months shall date from the day on which notice of such sanction is given to the said Grantee: provided also that any delay in commencing the work beyond 12 months shall not have been due to any cause beyond the control of the said Grantee.

25. If any doubt, difference or dispute shall arise between the said Grantee and the said Committee touching the construction of these presents or anything herein contained, or touching or concerning any other matter or thing relating to these presents, then and in every such case such doubt, difference or dispute shall be referred to the arbitration of two persons, one to be chosen by the said Grantee and the other by the said Committee within one calendar month after either of them shall have made to the other a requisition to that effect, and should the arbitrators fail to agree they shall refer the question or questions at issue to the decision of an umpire to be chosen by the said arbitrators, and the decision of such arbitrators if they agree, or of such umpire if they disagree, shall be final; and in case either party shall neglect or refuse to appoint an arbitrator within the specified time, the arbitrator appointed by the other party shall make a decision alone, and the decision of such arbitrators, umpire or arbitrator, as the case may be, shall be effectual and binding upon both parties.

26. The said Grantee is to be at liberty to form a Company or Limited Liability Company for the purpose of constructing, maintaining and working the tramways authorized by or hereafter to be authorized under the terms of this agreement. The words "the said Grantee" used in this agreement shall include such Company or Limited Liability Company so formed as aforesaid.

27. The words "the said Committee" used in this agreement shall include the present Committee and their successors, and also persons empowered by the said Committee or their successors or by other duly constituted authority to do any act or thing or exercise any powers or authorities which the said Committee are hereinbefore authorized or empowered to do or exercise.

"(2) When any such trial before a Court of Session would in the ordinary course be with the aid of assessors, the European British subject accused, or, where there are several European British subjects accused, all of them jointly, may, instead of claiming to be tried by a mixed jury under sub-section (1), require that not less than half the number of the assessors shall be Europeans or Americans or both Europeans and Americans."

"(8) Nothing in this section shall affect the power of the Magistrate to commit an accused person for trial under section 347 or section 447."

Transfer to another Court in certain cases.

"451*B*. (1) If an accused person claims to be tried by jury under section 451*A*, and in the opinion of the District Magistrate there is reason to believe that a jury composed in manner prescribed by section 451 cannot be constituted for the trial before himself, or cannot be so constituted without an amount of delay, expense or inconvenience which under the circumstances of the case would be unreasonable, he may, instead of issuing orders for the trial before himself under section 451*A*, transfer the case for trial to such other District Magistrate or to such Sessions Judge as the High Court may, from time to time, by rules made by it in this behalf and approved by the Local Government, or by special order, direct.

"(2) When a case is transferred under this section to a Sessions Judge or District Magistrate, he shall with all convenient speed try it with the same powers (including the power of commitment) and according to the same procedure as if he were a District Magistrate acting under section 451*A*."

X of 1879.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Northern India Takkavi Act, 1879 and provide for its extension to any part of British India; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

[Act X of 1879, s. 1].

1. (1) This Act may be called the Agriculturists' Loans Act, 1884; and

2. (1) This section and section 3 extend to the whole of British India.

Local extent.

(2) The rest of this Act extends in the first instance only to the territories respectively administered by the Lieutenant-Governors of the North-Western Provinces and the Panjáb, and the Chief Commissioners of Oudh, the Central Provinces, Assam and Ajmer.

(3) But any other Local Government may, from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, extend the rest of this Act to the whole or any part of the territories under its administration.

X of 1879.

3. (1) On and from the day on which this Act comes into force, the Northern India Takkávi Act, 1879, shall, except as regards the recovery of advances made before this Act comes into force, be repealed.

Repeal of Act X of 1879.

(2) All rules made under that Act shall be deemed to be made under this Act.

4. (1) The Local Government may, from time to time, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, make rules as to loans to be made to owners and occupiers of arable land, for the relief of distress, the purchase of seed or cattle, or any other purpose not specified in the Land Improvement Loans Act, 1883, but connected with agricultural objects.

Power for Local Government to make rules.

XIX of 1883.

(2) All such rules shall be published in the local official Gazette.

5. Every loan made in accordance with such rules, all interest (if any) chargeable thereon, and costs (if any) incurred in making or recovering the same, shall, when they become due, be recoverable from the person to whom the loan was made, or from any person who has become surety for the repayment thereof, as if they were arrears of land-revenue due by the person to whom the loan was made or by his surety.

[Cf. Act X of 1879, s. 4].

Recovery of loans.

6. When a loan is made under this Act to the members of a village-community or to any other persons on such terms that all of them are jointly and severally bound to the Government for the payment of the whole amount payable in respect thereof, and a statement showing the portion of that amount which as among themselves each is bound to contribute is entered upon the order granting the loan and is signed by each of them and by the officer making the order, that statement shall be conclusive evidence of the portion of that amount which as among themselves each of those persons is bound to contribute.

[Cf. Act XIX of 1883, s. 9.]

Liability of joint borrowers as among themselves.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE object of this Bill is to repeal the Northern India Takkáví Act and re-enact it with certain amendments which appear to be desirable.

First.—The existing law makes no provision for the recovery as an arrear of land-revenue of interest on loans made under it and of the costs (if any) incurred by the Government in making loans. Section 3 of Act X of 1879 only provides for the recovery in this way of the principal sum advanced. Section 5 of the Bill supplies this omission by providing that interest and costs (if any) may be recovered as an arrear of land-revenue in the same manner as the principal.

Secondly.—Act X of 1879 extends only to certain limited areas, namely, the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, the Panjáb, the Central Provinces, Assam and Ajmer. At present, there is no law in force in Bengal or Coorg under which advances of the nature of those with which the Act deals can be made. There are provisions relating to such advances in the laws in force in Bombay, Madras and British Burma; but the Local Governments of Bombay and Madras are prepared to accept the extension of the Northern India Act to their provinces; and the Chief Commissioner of British Burma says that, if that Act is not extended to his province, it will be necessary to amend the law at present in force there in order to provide for the recovery of interest on advances. Provision has, therefore, been made in section 2 of the Bill empowering any Local Government, if it thinks fit, to extend the Act to the whole or any part of the territories under its administration.

Thirdly.—A new section (6) has, at the request of the Panjáb Government, been inserted in the Bill, similar to section 9 of the Land Improvement Loans Act, 1883, recognizing the principle of making loans on the joint responsibility of village-communities.

Lastly.—As the term "Takkáví" is, it is understood, applied in some parts of India to advances of the nature of those to which the Land Improvement Loans Act relates, it is proposed to alter the present title and to style the new Act "the Agriculturists Loans Act."

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[First publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 18th January 1884, and was referred to a Select Committee:—

No. 2 OF 1884.

A Bill for the validation of decisions passed on appeal by certain Settlement-officers in the Panjáb.

of 1865. WHEREAS section 21 of the Panjáb Courts Act, 1865, provided that the Local Government might, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, invest any special officer in any district in which a settlement of land-revenue might be in progress with the civil powers of a Commissioner, Deputy Commissioner, Assistant Commissioner or Tahsíldár, as defined in that Act, for the purpose of deciding suits with respect to land, or the rent, revenue or produce of land, such powers to be exercised on the Revenue side;

and whereas, under that section, the Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, invested the Settlement Commissioner with the civil powers of a Commissioner, and invested certain Settlement-officers, Assistant Settlement-officers and Extra Assistant Settlement-officers with the civil powers of a Deputy Commissioner, for the purpose of deciding suits of the description hereinbefore mentioned in certain districts in which a settlement of land-revenue was in progress;

and whereas the officers so invested heard and determined appeals in such suits in the belief that they were duly empowered to hear and determine the same;

and whereas doubts have recently been raised as to whether those officers had power to hear and determine such appeals;

1877. and whereas section 49 of the Panjáb Courts Act, 1877, provides that the Local Government may from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, invest any officer making or controlling a settlement of land-revenue in any local area with all or any of the powers of any Court constituted under that Act, for the purpose of trying all or any specified class of suits and appeals relating to land, or the rent, revenue or produce of land, arising in that local area;

and whereas, by notifications published under that section, the Local Government invested the Financial Commissioner with the powers of the Chief Court, the Settlement Commissioner with the powers of a Commissioner, and certain Settlement-officers and Extra Assistant Settlement-officers with the powers of a Deputy Commissioner, for the purpose of trying certain classes of suits relating to land, or the rent, revenue and produce of land, in certain local areas in which a settlement of land-revenue was in progress, but no power to hear appeals was expressly given by those notifications;

and whereas the officers named in those notifications have heard and determined appeals in the belief that they were duly empowered by those notifications to hear and determine the same;

and whereas, where certain officers making or controlling settlements of land-revenue have exercised certain appellate powers, their successors in office have continued to exercise the like powers under the belief that they were entitled by mere operation of law to exercise the same;

and whereas it is apprehended that certain officers making or controlling settlements of land-revenue have exercised their judicial powers when at places beyond the local limits of their jurisdiction;

and whereas, for the quieting of titles and the avoidance of litigation, it is expedient that the decisions passed on appeal by officers engaged in making or controlling settlements in suits of the nature mentioned in section 21 or section 22 of the Panjáb Courts Act, 1865, and in section 49 of the Panjáb Courts Act, 1877, should not be impeached for want of authority in such officers, and that the validity of such decisions should be affirmed; XIX of 1865. XVII of 1877.

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Validation of appellate decisions passed by officers invested with powers under section 21 of Act XIX of 1865 or section 49 of Act XVII of 1877.

1. (a) When any special officer invested under section 21 of the Panjáb Courts Act, 1865, with the civil powers of a Commissioner or Deputy Commissioner as defined in that Act for the purpose of deciding suits with respect to land, or the rent, revenue or produce of land, or XIX of 1865.

(b) when any officer making or controlling a settlement of land-revenue in any local area and invested under section 49 of the Panjáb Courts Act, 1877, for the purpose of trying all or any specified class of suits of the nature referred to in that section, with all or any of the powers of any Court constituted under that Act, XVII of 1877.

and possessing appellate powers,

has heard and determined an appeal in any such suit, the decision shall not be deemed invalid or be deprived of any of its effect by reason of the objection that the officer who heard the appeal was not authorized to hear the same.

Validation of appellate decisions by successors of certain officers exercising appellate powers.

2. When any officer controlling a settlement of land-revenue has heard and determined an appeal and his decision thereon would, if it had been passed by his predecessor in office, be deemed valid, the decision shall not be deemed invalid or deprived of any of its effect by reason of the objection that the officer who heard the appeal was not expressly authorized to hear the same.

Validation of decisions pronounced beyond local limits of jurisdiction.

3. When the decision of an officer making or controlling a settlement of land-revenue would be deemed valid if it had been passed by him within a specified local area, it shall not be deemed invalid or deprived of any of its effect by reason of the objection that at the time when he passed it he was beyond the limits of that local area.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

BEFORE the passing of Act XIX of 1865 it was the practice to invest Settlement-officers in the Panjáb with judicial powers in land-suits both original and appellate. All such suits were heard on the Revenue side of the Courts, and the final appeal lay to the Financial Commissioner. The settlements of some districts were under the control of a Settlement Commissioner, and in those districts appeals from judicial decisions passed by Settlement-officers lay to him instead of to the Commissioner of the division.

Sections 21 and 22 of Act XIX of 1865 made provision for the continuance of this practice in districts under settlement, if Government should so direct; and the former section provided for special officers being invested with the powers of a Commissioner, Deputy Commissioner, Assistant Commissioner or Tahsíldár "for the purpose of deciding suits in respect to land, or the rent, revenue or produce of land." No reference was made to the appellate jurisdiction of such officers, but as the latter section expressly provided for the final appeal to the Financial Commissioner, and as the civil powers of a Commissioner or Deputy Commissioner included the power to hear appeals, it was probably thought that officers invested with these powers would have authority to hear appeals, and it was not foreseen that the words "for the purpose of deciding suits" might give rise to any difficulty in this respect, the appeal being regarded as simply one stage in the suit.

2. In a recent criminal judgment (published as No. 36 in Panjáb Record for 1882), it has been held by a Division Bench of the Chief Court that power to decide suits did not include power to hear appeals, and that section 21 of Act XIX of 1865 therefore did not enable the Government to invest Settlement-officers with the powers of a Deputy Commissioner for the purpose of hearing appeals. Many Settlement-officers, Assistant Settlement-officers and Extra Assistant Settlement-officers had been invested with the powers of Deputy Commissioners under that section, and the Settlement Commissioner had been invested with the powers of a Commissioner in a number of districts, and all these officers had heard and determined appeals in land-suits in the exercise of those powers. There are thus thousands of appellate decisions, many of which have been confirmed or modified on final appeal, on the validity of which a doubt has been cast by the decision of the Chief Court in Criminal Judgment No. 36 of 1882.

3. In the case of the Settlement Commissioner, there may be room for a further doubt. Like the Commissioner of a division, he had a number of districts under him, for the purpose of controlling settlement-operations, and he exercised the powers of Commissioner both for this purpose and for the decision of appeals in land-suits, either at his head-quarters, or in any district the settlement of which was under his control in which he might be on tour at the time. Appeals were thus frequently disposed of by him in districts other than that in which the land was situate, and it is desirable to put the regularity of this beyond dispute.

4. Act XVII of 1877 repealed Act XIX of 1865, and section 49, which took the place of sections 21 and 22 of the latter Act, empowered the Local Government, by notification in the official Gazette, to invest any officer making or controlling a settlement of land-revenue with all or any of the powers of any Court constituted under the Act, for the purpose of trying all or any specified class of suits and appeals relating to land, or the rent, revenue or produce of such land arising in the area declared to be under settlement. It is under this section that the Financial Commissioner, Settlement Commissioner and Settlement-officers of all classes have since been invested with civil judicial powers, and it expressly enables Government to confer the power to try appeals upon such officers. But it is clear that a notification under this section would not invest any officer with the power of trying appeals in such cases, unless that power was conferred in express terms. In the districts of Ludiána and Jalandhar, Settlement-officers and Extra

Assistant Settlement-officers have been invested with the powers of a Deputy Commissioner for the trial of certain classes of suits relating to land, or the rent, revenue or produce of such land, by notifications published under this section (specified in the margin), which did not expressly empower them to hear appeals. Similarly, the Settlement Commissioner was invested with the powers of Commissioner, and the Financial Commissioner with the powers of the Chief Court, for the trial of certain classes of suits in the Ludiána district, by notifications Nos. 217 and 220, dated 25th February, 1879, and No. 1237, dated 17th November, 1879, but these notifications did not expressly empower them to hear appeals. The effect of these omissions was overlooked, and in consequence many appeals have been heard and decided by the officers so empowered to try suits.

Ludiána, No. 216, dated 25th February, 1879; No. 1237, dated 17th November, 1879.
Jalandhar, No. 161, dated 18th February, 1880.
The last of these notifications was afterwards amended by notification No. 35, dated 20th February, 1883, which added the words "and appeals" after "suits".

5. Doubts also exist in connection with the civil appellate jurisdiction of certain of the Financial Commissioners. The powers conferred under Act XIX of 1865, section 22, were, in accordance with what was understood to be the intention of that section, conferred upon the Financial Commissioner as such, and it was therefore thought unnecessary, while that Act remained in force, to invest by any express order the successors in office of the Financial Commissioner, upon whom these powers were conferred, with the like powers. But the language of section 49 of Act XVII of 1877 evidently contemplated that all powers conferred under that section should be conferred upon specified officers; and, though section 2 provided that powers conferred under Act XIX of 1865 should, as far as may be, be deemed to have been conferred under Act XVII of 1877, it may be argued that this would only save the powers then held by officers under the former Act, and would not give similar powers to their successors in office. However, the opposite view was acted on, for on the death of the Financial Commissioner in 1879, the new Financial Commissioner continued to hear appeals, though no notification had been issued investing him with power to do so; and a new Settlement Commissioner having been appointed at the same time, he was instructed to regard his predecessor's powers as attached to the office and not as personal, and no notification empowering him to hear appeals such as his predecessor had been empowered to hear was issued.

6. Many titles depend on the appellate decisions of officers whose jurisdiction is, owing to the circumstances above stated, liable to be called in question, and, though it is not known that the jurisdiction of these officers has been impugned, either in appeal from their decisions or by suits brought to recover the property affected by those decisions, it is desirable to prevent the risk of the objection of want of jurisdiction being hereafter raised.

The present Bill has accordingly been framed to declare the validity of such decisions, and prevent the litigation which might arise from their being supposed to have been passed without jurisdiction.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE object of this Bill is to repeal the Northern India Takkáví Act and re-enact it with certain amendments which appear to be desirable.

First.—The existing law makes no provision for the recovery as an arrear of land-revenue of interest on loans made under it and of the costs (if any) incurred by the Government in making loans. Section 3 of Act X of 1879 only provides for the recovery in this way of the principal sum advanced. Provision has, therefore, been made in section 2 of the Bill empowering any Local Government, if it thinks fit, to extend the Act to the whole or any part of the territories under its administration.

Thirdly.—A new section (6) has, at the request of the Panjáb Government, been inserted in the Bill, similar to section 9 of the Land Improvement Loans Act, 1883, recognizing the principle of making loans on the joint responsibility of village-communities.

Lastly.—As the term "Takkáví" is, it is understood, applied in some parts of India to advances of the nature of those to which the Land Improvement Loans Act relates, it is proposed to alter the present title and to style the new Act "the Agriculturists Loans Act."

and possessing appellate powers,

Validation of appellate decisions by successors of certain officers exercising appellate powers.

2. When any officer controlling a settlement of land-revenue has heard and determined an appeal and his decision thereon would, if it had been passed by his predecessor in office, be deemed valid, the decision shall not be deemed invalid or deprived of any of its effect by reason of the objection that the officer who heard the appeal was not expressly authorized to hear the same.

Validation of decisions pronounced beyond local limits of jurisdiction.

3. When the decision of an officer making or controlling a settlement of land-revenue would be deemed valid if it had been passed by him within a specified local area, it shall not be deemed invalid or deprived of any of its effect by reason of the objection that at the time when he passed it he was beyond the limits of that local area.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

BEFORE the passing of Act XIX of 1865 it was the practice to invest Settlement-officers in the Panjáb with judicial powers in land-suits both original and appellate. All such suits were heard on the Revenue side of the Courts, and the final appeal lay to the Financial Commissioner. The settlements of some districts were under the control of a Settlement Commissioner, and in those districts appeals from judicial decisions passed by Settlement-officers lay to him instead of to the Commissioner of the division.

Sections 21 and 22 of Act XIX of 1865 made provision for the continuance of this practice in districts under settlement, if Government should so direct; and the former section provided for special officers being invested with the powers of a Commissioner, Deputy Commissioner, Assistant Commissioner or Tahsíldár "for the purpose of deciding suits in respect to land, or the rent, revenue or produce of land." No reference was made to the appellate jurisdiction of such officers, but as the latter section expressly provided for the final appeal to the Financial Commissioner, and as the civil powers of a Commissioner or Deputy Commissioner included the power to hear appeals, it was probably thought that officers invested with these powers would have authority to hear appeals, and it was not foreseen that the words "for the purpose of deciding suits" might give rise to any difficulty in this respect, the appeal being regarded as simply one stage in the suit.

2. In a recent criminal judgment (published as No. 36 in Panjáb Record for 1882) it has been held by a Division Bench of the Chief Court that power to decide suits did not include power to hear appeals, and that section 21 of Act XIX of 1865 therefore did not enable the Government to invest Settlement-officers with the powers of a Deputy Commissioner for the purpose of hearing appeals. Many Settlement-officers, Assistant Settlement-officers and Extra Assistant Settlement-officers had been invested with the powers of Deputy Commissioners under that section, and the Settlement Commissioner had been invested with the powers of a Commissioner in a number of districts, and all these officers had heard and determined appeals in land-suits in the exercise of those powers. There are thus thousands of appellate decisions, many of which have been confirmed or modified on final appeal, on the validity of which a doubt has been cast by the decision of the Chief Court in Criminal Judgment No. 36 of 1882.

3. In the case of the Settlement Commissioner, there may be room for a further doubt. Like the Commissioner of a division, he had a number of districts under him, for the purpose of controlling settlement-operations, and he exercised the powers of Commissioner both for this purpose and for the decision of appeals in land-suits, either at his head-quarters, or in any district the settlement of which was under his control in which he might be on tour at the time. Appeals were thus frequently disposed of by him in districts other than that in which the land was situate, and it is desirable to put the regularity of this beyond dispute.

4. Act XVII of 1877 repealed Act XIX of 1865, and section 49, which took the place of sections 21 and 22 of the latter Act, empowered the Local Government, by notification in the official Gazette, to invest any officer making or controlling a settlement of land-revenue with all or any of the powers of any Court constituted under the Act, for the purpose of trying all or any specified class of suits and appeals relating to land, or the rent, revenue or produce of such land arising in the area declared to be under settlement. It is under this section that the Financial Commissioner, Settlement Commissioner and Settlement-officers of all classes have since been invested with civil judicial powers, and it expressly enables Government to confer the power to try appeals upon such officers. But it is clear that a notification under this section would not invest any officer with the power of trying appeals in such cases, unless that power was conferred in express terms. In the districts of Ludiána and Jalandhar, Settlement-officers and Extra Assistant Settlement-officers have been invested with the powers of a Deputy Commissioner for the trial of certain classes of suits relating to land, or the rent, revenue or produce of such land, by notifications published under this section (specified in the margin), which did not expressly empower them to hear appeals. Similarly, the Settlement Commissioner was invested with the powers of Commissioner, and the Financial Commissioner with the powers of the Chief Court, for the trial of certain classes of suits in the Ludiána district, by notifications Nos. 217 and 220, dated 25th February, 1879, and No. 1237, dated 17th November, 1879, but these notifications did not expressly empower them to hear appeals. The effect of these omissions was overlooked, and in consequence many appeals have been heard and decided by the officers so empowered to try suits.

Ludiána, No. 216, dated 25th February, 1879; No. 1237, dated 17th November, 1879.
Jalandhar, No. 161, dated 18th February, 1880.
The last of these notifications was afterwards amended by notification No. 35, dated 20th February, 1883, which added the words "and appeals" after "suits".

5. Doubts also exist in connection with the civil appellate jurisdiction of certain of the Financial Commissioners. The powers conferred under Act XIX of 1865, section 22, were, in accordance with what was understood to be the intention of that section, conferred upon the Financial Commissioner as such, and it was therefore thought unnecessary, while that Act remained in force, to invest by any express order the successors in office of the Financial Commissioner, upon whom these powers were conferred, with the like powers. But the language of section 49 of Act XVII of 1877 evidently contemplated that all powers conferred under that section should be conferred upon specified officers; and, though section 2 provided that powers conferred under Act XIX of 1865 should, as far as may be, be deemed to have been conferred under Act XVII of 1877, it may be argued that this would only save the powers then held by officers under the former Act, and would not give similar powers to their successors in office. However, the opposite view was acted on, for on the death of the Financial Commissioner in 1879, the new Financial Commissioner continued to hear appeals, though no notification had been issued investing him with power to do so; and a new Settlement Commissioner having been appointed at the same time, he was instructed to regard his predecessor's powers as attached to the office and not as personal, and no notification empowering him to hear appeals such as his predecessor had been empowered to hear was issued.

6. Many titles depend on the appellate decisions of officers whose jurisdiction is, owing to the circumstances above stated, liable to be called in question, and, though it is not known that the jurisdiction of these officers has been impugned, either in appeal from their decisions or by suits brought to recover the property affected by those decisions, it is desirable to prevent the risk of the objection of want of jurisdiction being hereafter raised.

The present Bill has accordingly been framed to declare the validity of such decisions, prevent the litigation which might arise from their being supposed to have been passed without jurisdiction.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Third publication.

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 18th January, 1884, and was referred to a Select Committee :—

No. 1 OF 1884.

A Bill to amend and provide for the extension of the Northern India Takkavi Act, 1879.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Northern India Takkavi Act, 1879 and provide for its extension to any part of British India; It is hereby enacted as follows :— X of 1879.

[Act X of 1879, s. 1].

Short title. Commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Agriculturists' Loans Act, 1884; and

(2) It shall come into force on the first day of June, 1884.

Local extent.

2. (1) This section and section 3 extend to the whole of British India.

(2) The rest of this Act extends in the first instance only to the territories respectively administered by the Lieutenant-Governors of the North-Western Provinces and the Panjáb, and the Chief Commissioners of Oudh, the Central Provinces, Assam and Ajmer.

(3) But any other Local Government may, from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, extend the rest of this Act to the whole or any part of the territories under its administration.

Repeal of Act X of 1879. X of 1879.

3. (1) On and from the day on which this Act comes into force, the Northern India Takkávi Act, 1879, shall, except as regards the recovery of advances made before this Act comes into force, be repealed.

(2) All rules made under that Act shall be deemed to be made under this Act.

Power for Local Government to make rules. [Act X of 1879, s. 3].

4. (1) The Local Government may, from time to time, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, make rules as to loans to be made to owners and occupiers of arable land, for the relief of distress, the purchase of seed or cattle, or any other purpose not specified in the Land Improvement Loans Act, 1883, but connected with agricultural objects. XIX of 1883.

(2) All such rules shall be published in the local official Gazette.

Recovery of loans. [Cf. Act X of 1879, s. 4].

5. Every loan made in accordance with such rules, all interest (if any) chargeable thereon, and costs (if any) incurred in making or recovering the same, shall, when they become due, be recoverable from the person to whom the loan was made, or from any person who has become surety for the repayment thereof, as if they were arrears of land-revenue due by the person to whom the loan was made or by his surety.

Liability of joint borrowers as among themselves. [Cf. Act XIX of 1883, s. 9.]

6. When a loan is made under this Act to the members of a village-community or to any other persons on such terms that all of them are jointly and severally bound to the Government for the payment of the whole amount payable in respect thereof, and a statement showing the portion of that amount which as among themselves each is bound to contribute is entered upon the order granting the loan and is signed by each of them and by the officer making the order, that statement shall be conclusive evidence of the portion of that amount which as among themselves each of those persons is bound to contribute.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE object of this Bill is to repeal the Northern India Takkáví Act and re-enact it with certain amendments which appear to be desirable.

First.—The existing law makes no provision for the recovery as an arrear of land-revenue of interest on loans made under it and of the costs (if any) incurred by the Government in making loans. Section 3 of Act X of 1879 only provides for the recovery in this way of the principal sum advanced. Section 5 of the Bill supplies this omission by providing that interest and costs (if any) may be recovered as an arrear of land-revenue in the same manner as the principal.

Secondly.—Act X of 1879 extends only to certain limited areas, namely, the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, the Panjáb, the Central Provinces, Assam and Ajmer. At present, there is no law in force in Bengal or Coorg under which advances of the nature of those with which the Act deals can be made. There are provisions relating to such advances in the laws in force in Bombay, Madras and British Burma; but the Local Governments of Bombay and Madras are prepared to accept the extension of the Northern India Act to their provinces; and the Chief Commissioner of British Burma says that, if that Act is not extended to his province, it will be necessary to amend the law at present in force there in order to provide for the recovery of interest on advances. Provision has, therefore, been made in section 2 of the Bill empowering any Local Government, if it thinks fit, to extend the Act to the whole or any part of the territories under its administration.

Thirdly.—A new section (6) has, at the request of the Panjáb Government, been inserted in the Bill, similar to section 9 of the Land Improvement Loans Act, 1883, recognizing the principle of making loans on the joint responsibility of village-communities.

Lastly.—As the term "Takkáví" is, it is understood, applied in some parts of India to advances of the nature of those to which the Land Improvement Loans Act relates, it is proposed to alter the present title and to style the new Act "the Agriculturists Loans Act."

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 18th January 1884, and was referred to a Select Committee:—

No. 2 OF 1884.

A Bill for the validation of decisions passed on appeal by certain Settlement-officers in the Panjáb.

XIX of 1865.

WHEREAS section 21 of the Panjáb Courts Act, 1865, provided that the Local Government might, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, invest any special officer in any district in which a settlement of land-revenue might be in progress with the civil powers of a Commissioner, Deputy Commissioner, Assistant Commissioner or Tahsíldár, as defined in that Act, for the purpose of deciding suits with respect to land, or the rent, revenue or produce of land, such powers to be exercised on the Revenue side;

and whereas, under that section, the Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, invested the Settlement Commissioner with the civil powers of a Commissioner, and invested certain Settlement-officers, Assistant Settlement-officers and Extra Assistant Settlement-officers with the civil powers of a Deputy Commissioner, for the purpose of deciding suits of the description hereinbefore mentioned in certain districts in which a settlement of land-revenue was in progress;

and whereas the officers so invested heard and determined appeals in such suits in the belief that they were duly empowered to hear and determine the same;

and whereas doubts have recently been raised as to whether those officers had power to hear and determine such appeals;

XVII of 1877.

and whereas section 49 of the Panjáb Courts Act, 1877, provides that the Local Government may from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, invest any officer making or controlling a settlement of land-revenue in any local area with all or any of the powers of any Court constituted under that Act, for the purpose of trying all or any specified class of suits and appeals relating to land, or the rent, revenue or produce of land, arising in that local area;

and whereas, by notifications published under that section, the Local Government invested the Financial Commissioner with the powers of the Chief Court, the Settlement Commissioner with the powers of a Commissioner, and certain Settlement-officers and Extra Assistant Settlement-officers with the powers of a Deputy Commissioner, for the purpose of trying certain classes of suits relating to land, or the rent, revenue and produce of land, in certain local areas in which a settlement of land-revenue was in progress, but no power to hear appeals was expressly given by those notifications;

and whereas the officers named in those notifications have heard and determined appeals in the belief that they were duly empowered by those notifications to hear and determine the same;

and whereas, where certain officers making or controlling settlements of land-revenue have exercised certain appellate powers, their successors in office have continued to exercise the like powers under the belief that they were entitled by mere operation of law to exercise the same;

and whereas it is apprehended that certain officers making or controlling settlements of land-revenue have exercised their judicial powers when at places beyond the local limits of their jurisdiction;

and whereas, for the quieting of titles and the avoidance of litigation, it is expedient that the decisions passed on appeal by officers engaged in making or controlling settlements in suits of the nature mentioned in section 21 or section 22 of the Panjáb Courts Act, 1865, and in section 49 of the Panjáb Courts Act, 1877, should not be impeached for want of authority in such officers, and that the validity of such decisions should be affirmed; XIX of 1865. XVII of 1877.

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Validation of appellate decisions passed by officers invested with powers under section 21 of Act XIX of 1865 or section 49 of Act XVII of 1877.

1. (a) When any special officer invested under section 21 of the Panjáb Courts Act, 1865, with the civil powers of a Commissioner or Deputy Commissioner as defined in that Act for the purpose of deciding suits with respect to land, or the rent, revenue or produce of land, or XIX of 1865.

(b) when any officer making or controlling a settlement of land-revenue in any local area and invested under section 49 of the Panjáb Courts Act, 1877, for the purpose of trying all or any specified class of suits of the nature referred to in that section, with all or any of the powers of any Court constituted under that Act, XVII of 1877

and possessing appellate powers,

has heard and determined an appeal in any such suit, the decision shall not be deemed invalid or be deprived of any of its effect by reason of the objection that the officer who heard the appeal was not authorized to hear the same.

Validation of appellate decisions by successors of certain officers exercising appellate powers.

2. When any officer controlling a settlement of land-revenue has heard and determined an appeal and his decision thereon would, if it had been passed by his predecessor in office, be deemed valid, the decision shall not be deemed invalid or deprived of any of its effect by reason of the objection that the officer who heard the appeal was not expressly authorized to hear the same.

Validation of decisions pronounced beyond local limits of jurisdiction.

3. When the decision of an officer making or controlling a settlement of land-revenue would be deemed valid if it had been passed by him within a specified local area, it shall not be deemed invalid or deprived of any of its effect by reason of the objection that at the time when he passed it he was beyond the limits of that local area.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

BEFORE the passing of Act XIX of 1865 it was the practice to invest Settlement-officers in the Panjáb with judicial powers in land-suits both original and appellate. All such suits were heard on the Revenue side of the Courts, and the final appeal lay to the Financial Commissioner. The settlements of some districts were under the control of a Settlement Commissioner, and in those districts appeals from judicial decisions passed by Settlement-officers lay to him instead of to the Commissioner of the division.

Sections 21 and 22 of Act XIX of 1865 made provision for the continuance of this practice in districts under settlement, if Government should so direct; and the former section provided for special officers being invested with the powers of a Commissioner, Deputy Commissioner, Assistant Commissioner or Tahsíldár "for the purpose of deciding suits in respect to land, or the rent, revenue or produce of land." No reference was made to the appellate jurisdiction of such officers, but as the latter section expressly provided for the final appeal to the Financial Commissioner, and as the civil powers of a Commissioner or Deputy Commissioner included the power to hear appeals, it was probably thought that officers invested with these powers would have authority to hear appeals, and it was not foreseen that the words "for the purpose of deciding suits" might give rise to any difficulty in this respect, the appeal being regarded as simply one stage in the suit.

2. In a recent criminal judgment (published as No. 36 in Panjáb Record for 1882), it has been held by a Division Bench of the Chief Court that power to decide suits did not include power to hear appeals, and that section 21 of Act XIX of 1865 therefore did not enable the Government to invest Settlement-officers with the powers of a Deputy Commissioner for the purpose of hearing appeals. Many Settlement-officers, Assistant Settlement-officers and Extra Assistant Settlement-officers had been invested with the powers of Deputy Commissioners under that section, and the Settlement Commissioner had been invested with the powers of a Commissioner in a number of districts, and all these officers had heard and determined appeals in land-suits in the exercise of those powers. There are thus thousands of appellate decisions, many of which have been confirmed or modified on final appeal, on the validity of which a doubt has been cast by the decision of the Chief Court in Criminal Judgment No. 36 of 1882.

3. In the case of the Settlement Commissioner, there may be room for a further doubt. Like the Commissioner of a division, he had a number of districts under him, for the purpose of controlling settlement-operations, and he exercised the powers of Commissioner both for this purpose and for the decision of appeals in land-suits, either at his head-quarters, or in any district the settlement of which was under his control in which he might be on tour at the time. Appeals were thus frequently disposed of by him in districts other than that in which the land was situate, and it is desirable to put the regularity of this beyond dispute.

4. Act XVII of 1877 repealed Act XIX of 1865, and section 49, which took the place of sections 21 and 22 of the latter Act, empowered the Local Government, by notification in the official Gazette, to invest any officer making or controlling a settlement of land-revenue with all or any of the powers of any Court constituted under the Act, for the purpose of trying all or any specified class of suits and appeals relating to land, or the rent, revenue or produce of such land arising in the area declared to be under settlement. It is under this section that the Financial Commissioner, Settlement Commissioner and Settlement-officers of all classes have since been invested with civil judicial powers, and it expressly enables Government to confer the power to try appeals upon such officers. But it is clear that a notification under this section would not invest any officer with the power of trying appeals in such cases, unless that power was conferred in express terms. In the districts of Ludiána and Jalandhar, Settlement-officers and Extra

Assistant Settlement-officers have been invested with the powers of a Deputy Commissioner for the trial of certain classes of suits relating to land, or the rent, revenue or produce of such land, by notifications published under this section (specified in the margin), which did not expressly empower them to hear appeals. Similarly, the Settlement Commissioner was invested with the powers of Commissioner, and the Financial Commissioner with the powers of the Chief Court, for the trial of certain classes of suits in the Ludiána district, by notifications Nos. 217 and 220, dated 25th February, 1879, and No. 1237, dated 17th November, 1879, but these notifications did not expressly empower them to hear appeals. The effect of these omissions was overlooked, and in consequence many appeals have been heard and decided by the officers so empowered to try suits.

Ludiána, No. 216, dated 25th February, 1879; No. 1237, dated 17th November, 1879.
Jalandhar, No. 161, dated 18th February, 1880.
The last of these notifications was afterwards amended by notification No. 35, dated 20th February, 1883, which added the words "and appeals" after "suits."

5. Doubts also exist in connection with the civil appellate jurisdiction of certain of the Financial Commissioners. The powers conferred under Act XIX of 1865, section 22, were, in accordance with what was understood to be the intention of that section, conferred upon the Financial Commissioner as such, and it was therefore thought unnecessary, while that Act remained in force, to invest by any express order the successors in office of the Financial Commissioner, upon whom these powers were conferred, with the like powers. But the language of section 49 of Act XVII of 1877 evidently contemplated that all powers conferred under that section should be conferred upon specified officers; and, though section 2 provided that powers conferred under Act XIX of 1865 should, as far as may be, be deemed to have been conferred under Act XVII of 1877, it may be argued that this would only save the powers then held by officers under the former Act, and would not give similar powers to their successors in office. However, the opposite view was acted on, for on the death of the Financial Commissioner in 1879, the new Financial Commissioner continued to hear appeals, though no notification had been issued investing him with power to do so; and a new Settlement Commissioner having been appointed at the same time, he was instructed to regard his predecessor's powers as attached to the office and not as personal, and no notification empowering him to hear appeals such as his predecessor had been empowered to hear was issued.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

[First publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 7th March, 1884, and was referred to a Select Committee :—

No. 3 OF 1884.

A Bill to amend the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881, in manner hereinafter appearing ; It is hereby enacted as follows :— XXVI of 1881.

Short title.

1. This Act may be called the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1884.

Act XXVI of 1881, section 108, in part, repealed.

2. In the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881, section 108, the second sentence is repealed. XXVI of 1881.

Amendment of section 109 of same Act.

3. In the same Act, section 109,

(a) for the words "in the presence of a notary public subscribe the bill with his own hand and" the following shall be substituted, namely :—"by writing on the bill under his hand," and

(b) the last twelve words are repealed.

Amendment of section 113 of same Act.

4. In the same Act, section 113, after the words "the person so paying," the words "or his agent in that behalf" shall be inserted.

New chapter added to same Act.

5. After Chapter XVI of the same Act, the following shall be inserted :—

"CHAPTER XVII.

"NOTARIES PUBLIC.

Power to appoint notaries public.

"138. The Governor General in Council may, from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, appoint any person, by name or by virtue of his office, to be a notary public under this Act and to exercise his functions as such within any local area, and may, by like notification, remove any person so appointed.

Power to make rules for notaries public.

"139. The Governor General in Council may, from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, make rules consistent with this Act for the guidance and control of notaries public appointed under this Act, and may, by such rules (among other matters), fix the fees payable to such notaries."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

SECTIONS 108 and 109 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881, make it essential to the validity of an acceptance for honour that the person accepting shall go through certain formalities in the presence of a notary.

It appears that the English Bills of Exchange Bill which became law in 1882 originally contained similar provisions, but they were cut out in Committee.

Two of the leading banks in India brought to the notice of the Government some time ago that the imposition of such a condition led to serious inconvenience in the case of certain classes of bills, inasmuch as persons who were willing to become responsible for them as acceptors refused to go before a notary.

2. Section 113 of the Negotiable Instruments Act makes a notarial act essential to a payment for honour, as section 68 of the English Bills of Exchange Act does, but with this difference that while the English Act allows of the requisite declaration before the notary being made either by the payer for honour or his agent in that behalf, the Indian Act may be construed as allowing it to be made only by the payer himself. This also is likely to give rise to difficulty.

3. A number of banks and other commercial authorities throughout British India, having been consulted on these points, are almost unanimous in thinking that an amendment of the Act is required, and accordingly the present Bill has been prepared with a view to bringing the law of India in the particulars referred to as nearly as may be into conformity with the law of England.

4. The opportunity has been taken to supply certain defects in the Negotiable Instruments Act regarding the appointment and control of notaries public, and to make it clear that a person may be appointed a notary by name or by virtue of an office held by him; that he may be appointed for a limited area and may be removed from his office; and further, that rules may be made for the guidance and control of notaries appointed under the Act and may, among other matters, fix the fees payable to such notaries.

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 7th March, 1884, and was referred to a Select Committee:—

No. 3 OF 1884.

A Bill to amend the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881, in manner hereinafter appearing; It is hereby enacted as follows:— XXVI of 1881.

Short title. 1. This Act may be called the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1884.

XXVI of 1881. 2. In the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881, section 108, the second sentence is repealed.

Act XXVI of 1881, section 108, in part, repealed.

Amendment of section 109 of same Act. 3. In the same Act, section 109,

(a) for the words "in the presence of a notary public subscribe the bill with his own hand and" the following shall be substituted, namely:—"by writing on the bill under his hand," and

(b) the last twelve words are repealed.

Amendment of section 113 of same Act. 4. In the same Act, section 113, after the words "the person so paying," the words "or his agent in that behalf" shall be inserted.

New chapter added to same Act. 5. After Chapter XVI of the same Act, the following shall be inserted:—

"CHAPTER XVII.

"NOTARIES PUBLIC.

Power to appoint notaries public. "138. The Governor General in Council may, from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, appoint any person, by name or by virtue of his office, to be a notary public under this Act and to exercise his functions as such within any local area, and may, by like notification, remove any person so appointed.

Power to make rules for notaries public. "139. The Governor General in Council may, from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, make rules consistent with this Act for the guidance and control of notaries public appointed under this Act, and may, by such rules (among other matters), fix the fees payable to such notaries."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

SECTIONS 108 and 109 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881, make it essential to the validity of an acceptance for honour that the person accepting shall go through certain formalities in the presence of a notary.

It appears that the English Bills of Exchange Bill which became law in 1882 originally contained similar provisions, but they were cut out in Committee.

Two of the leading banks in India brought to the notice of the Government some time ago that the imposition of such a condition led to serious inconvenience in the case of certain classes of bills, inasmuch as persons who were willing to become responsible for them as acceptors refused to go before a notary.

2. Section 113 of the Negotiable Instruments Act makes a notarial act essential to a payment for honour, as section 68 of the English Bills of Exchange Act does, but with this difference that while the English Act allows of the requisite declaration before the notary being made either by the payer for honour or his agent in that behalf, the Indian Act may be construed as allowing it to be made only by the payer himself. This also is likely to give rise to difficulty.

3. A number of banks and other commercial authorities throughout British India, having been consulted on these points, are almost unanimous in thinking that an amendment of the Act is required, and accordingly the present Bill has been prepared with a view to bringing the law of India in the particulars referred to as nearly as may be into conformity with the law of England.

4. The opportunity has been taken to supply certain defects in the Negotiable Instruments Act regarding the appointment and control of notaries public, and to make it clear that a person may be appointed a notary by name or by virtue of an office held by him; that he may be appointed for a limited area and may be removed from his office; and further that rules may be made for the guidance and control of notaries appointed under the Act and may, among other matters, fix the fees payable to such notaries

PART V.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[First publication.]

The following Report of a Select Committee, together with the Bill as settled by them, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 14th March, 1884:—

WE, the undersigned Members of the Select Committee to which the Bengal Tenancy Bill was referred, have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the schedule hereto annexed, and have the honour to submit this preliminary Report.

2. We have recast the Bill, and have embodied in the revised Bill such alterations as commended themselves to the majority of us, but there are various points on which we consider that further information is requisite, and we recommend that the Bill as altered by us should be republished for further criticism, in the interval that will elapse before we resume our labours in November.

3. The present Report being only a preliminary one, several members of the Committee wish it to be recorded that they postpone the expression of their opinions on particular points until the final Report is submitted to the Council. It must also be understood that generally in referring to the decisions of the Committee we state the views of the majority.

CHAPTER II.

CLASSES OF TENANTS.

4. This chapter has been introduced for the purpose of describing the different classes of tenants with which the Bill deals. It will be seen from it that raiyats at fixed rates are now treated as a distinct class instead of being, as in the original Bill, a sub-class of tenure-holders. It will further be observed that the term "non-occupancy-raiyats" has been substituted for "ordinary raiyats," which latter term has been justly objected to as a misnomer Lastly, it will be seen that tenants of homestead or Bastu land, which is not part of an occupancy-holding, have no place in the revised Bill. It may be that on further consideration it will be found desirable to introduce into the Bill some provisions relating to tenants of this class, but at present we have not before us the information requisite for dealing with the questions involved. It is clear that, owing to the various conditions which attach to the holdings of such tenants in different parts of the country, Chapter VII of the original Bill would, if it were to be retained, need amendment in certain particulars. But we are unable to formulate this amendment, pending the receipt of further information, which we hope will be supplied by the Local Government.

5. In the section which relates to the distinction between tenure-holders and raiyats, we have endeavoured to describe, rather than to define, each class. Whilst recognising the expediency of laying down rules for the guidance of Courts in dealing with cases which lie near the border-line between the two classes, we retain the opinion that any attempt to frame a rigid definition of either class would tend to create, rather than to remove, difficulties.

CHAPTER III.

TENURE-HOLDERS.

6. The sections (14-17) of the original Bill relating to the right to hold at fixed rates have been removed to Chapter VIII of the revised Bill, and will be more particularly referred to when we come to speak of that chapter. Section 20 of the original Bill, which contained a special provision relating to lands in temporarily-settled districts, has been transferred to the supplemental chapter.

7. We have made a considerable alteration in section 7, sub-section (3), which lays down the rules to be followed by the Court in enhancing the rent of a tenure in cases where the matter is not provided for by contract or custom. It is now simply enacted that the Court shall not leave the tenure-holder less than 10 per cent. of the profits, and in fixing the rent shall have regard to the circumstances under which the tenure was created, to the improvements made by the holder of it, and to the cost and risks of collection. We have left untouched the provisions that the enhanced rent should not be more than double the previous rent and that it should hold good for 10 years.

8. The special provisions of the original Bill relating to patní tenures, with the exception of the definition section (36), which has been transferred to the preliminary chapter, and the section (42) regarding summary sale, which has been placed in the chapter relating to that subject, have been included in this chapter.

9. Of the alterations we have made in the sub-division of this chapter relating to registration of transfers and successions, the following only seem to call for notice, namely:—

(1) the addition to sub-section (1) of section 15 of a proviso allowing a landlord to refuse to register a transfer of a tenure if any rent is in arrear;

(2) the abolition of the additional fee imposed by section 27 (2), clause (b), of the original Bill as a penalty for delay in applying for registration, and the insertion of a clause fixing the fee at Rs. 2 where no rent is payable by the tenure-holder [section 15 (2)];

(3) the addition to section 18 of a sub-section providing that a person becoming entitled to a tenure by transfer or succession shall not be entitled to recover rent by suit, distraint or other proceeding until the transfer or succession has been registered or a notice of it has been served on the landlord; and

(4) the amendment of the section (now section 21) relating to the granting of copies of entries in the register, so that the fee for every copy granted shall be such amount, not less than one anna or more than one rupee, as the Local Government may fix.

CHAPTER IV.

RAIYATS HOLDING AT FIXED RATES.

10. In the matters of transfer and succession we have assimilated the conditions of the settled-raiyat holding at fixed rates to those of tenure-holders. It was suggested that this class of raiyats should be sub-divided into (a) those holding under a registered lease or judicially declared title, and (b) those holding at fixed rates under the statutory presumption, the former being assimilated to tenure-holders and the latter to raiyats with a right of occupancy; but the majority of us were unable to accept this proposal.

CHAPTER V.

OCCUPANCY-RAIYATS.

11. The main lines of this chapter, so far as regards the acquisition of the status of a raiyat and the right of occupancy, remain unchanged, and we have only to mention such alterations in the details as appear to us to call for notice.

Our attention has been drawn to the inconvenience which may arise in certain exceptionally large estates, such as those of the Mahárájá of Burdwan and others, from the status of settled-raiyat holding good over the whole estate. We desire to learn if the Government of Bengal consider that in these exceptional estates any known fiscal or administrative area can be advantageously substituted for the area of an estate.

12. Another matter connected with the definition of "estate" for the special objects of this chapter, to which we desire to draw attention, is the provision in section 27 (b) to the effect that where a partition has taken place "since the first day of January, 1853" the parent estate shall, notwithstanding the partition, be regarded as a single estate. The date mentioned was chosen because it was understood that it might reasonably be expected that from about that time complete records of partitions would be forthcoming; but the particular point of time to which we should go back is of course open to further consideration, and accordingly we have directed that the words fixing it shall be shown in italics.

13. We have, at the instance of the Government of Bengal, inserted in section 26 (definition of settled-raiyat) a sub-section (2) providing that when it is proved or admitted that a person holds land as a raiyat, it shall be, as between him and his landlord, presumed for the purpose of the section, until the contrary is shown, that he has for twelve years held the land or some part of it as a raiyat. Such a presumption appears to us to be warranted by the existing state of things in the Lower Provinces, and, while it tends to simplify litigation, it is one which the landlord ought to have no difficulty in rebutting in any case in which it does not hold good.

14. We have [section 26 (6)] retained in substance the provision of the original Bill under which a person does not lose his status as a settled-raiyat merely by the accident of his being out of possession of a holding in the village or estate for any time not exceeding one year, but have added to it a clause [sub-section (7)] to the effect that if he recovers possession of any land under section 96 (as to which see infra paragraph 66) he shall be deemed to have continued to be a settled-raiyat notwithstanding his having been out of possession for more than a year.

15. The chapter relating to merger having been omitted from the Bill for reasons to be explained further on, we have thought it desirable, in order to prevent any misapprehension, to insert in this chapter a section (28), providing that, if the landlord of a raiyat having a right of occupancy acquires the interest of the raiyat by purchase or otherwise, the occupancy-right shall cease to exist, but that nothing in this provision shall prejudicially affect the rights of any third person.

16. We have omitted section 48 of the original Bill, which provided for the acquisition of the occupancy-right by grant, and have substituted for section 49 of that Bill relating to the acquisition of the occupancy-right in lands of the classes comprised under the term khámár as there defined, a section (30) simply providing that nothing in the chapter shall confer a right of occupancy in lands of those classes where such lands are held under a lease for a term of years or under a lease from year to year.

17. We have, in affirming that the raiyat may use the land in any manner that does not render it unfit for the purposes of the tenancy, added [section 31, clause (a)] that he shall not cut down trees thereon in contravention of any local custom.

18. In the division which relates to the landlord's right of pre-emption, and which is now headed "restrictions on transfer", we have [in section 32 (4)] provided that the landlord, if he elects to purchase, must tender the price within one month from the date on which it is agreed on or fixed, and we have also inserted words to allow the raiyat, if his landlord claims to purchase, the option of keeping the land.

19. We have further inserted in the same section a sub-section (5) providing that if the raiyat attempts to sell in contravention of the provisions of the section the sale shall be void as against his landlord.

20. We have omitted section 55 of the original Bill, which gave the landlord a right of pre-emption when the occupancy-right is bequeathed.

21. As regards gifts of the occupancy-right, we believe that the great majority of such gifts would be either of the nature of bequests or of merely fictitious transactions covering sales. It is only in the case of gifts of this latter class that the landlord seems to us to stand in need of any protection, and we think that sufficient protection will be afforded him by requiring that a gift must be made by a registered instrument, and that a copy of the instrument shall be forthwith served on the landlord so as to give him an opportunity of questioning the transaction if he sees any ground for believing that it is not bonâ fide. We have, however, exempted from this requirement gifts by Muhammadans to persons within the prohibited degrees, as such gifts are usually substitutes for testamentary dispositions (section 35).

22. Lastly, we have added a section (36) restricting the right of pre-emption to proprietors and permanent tenure-holders and other tenure-holders authorized by them to exercise it, as it seems to us that the exercise of such a right by a temporary tenure-holder, otherwise than with the permission of a superior landlord having a permanent interest in the land, would give rise to difficulties and complications which it is desirable to avoid.

23. Great objection has been taken to section 56 of the original Bill, which provided that when a landlord acquires the occupancy-right, any raiyat afterwards taking the land shall have an occupancy-right in it: this section we have omitted.

24. We have also omitted section 57, which conferred the status of a settled-raiyat on every person inheriting an occupancy-right in land. The object of this latter section seems to us to be sufficiently secured by section 26, (4).

25. The next division of this chapter, headed "restrictions on sub-letting", is new. It is based on certain proposals put forward by the Government of Bengal, and having for their objects to discourage the purchase of the occupancy-right by non-agricultural speculators and to protect the sub-lessee of a raiyat. This latter object, we may observe, could be only in part carried out by the provisions inserted here. Further provisions for securing it will be found in Chapter VII, relating to under-raiyats, of which we shall presently have to speak.

26. The main enactments in this sub-division of the chapter are—

1st.—That if the portion of his holding sub-let by an occupancy-raiyat exceeds half the holding, he shall, on being registered in a public register as a tenure-holder under an Act, which the Local Government propose to introduce into the Bengal Council for this purpose, be deemed to have become a tenure-holder, the result of which will be that his sub-lessees will become raiyats, with an actual or potential right of occupancy (section 37).

2nd.—That if a raiyat sub-lets his holding or any part of it the sub-lease shall not be valid for a period exceeding seven years (section 38).

These enactments are qualified by certain provisions, the most important of which are—

1st.—That they shall not apply to the case of a raiyat who is compelled to sub-let by being disabled from cultivation by age, sex, disease, accident or temporary absence from home in certain cases, and

2nd.—That when a raiyat is converted into a tenure-holder, as above-mentioned, his rent shall be liable to enhancement on the same terms and subject to the same conditions as if he were an occupancy-raiyat, and thus the position of his landlord will in this respect remain unaffected.

27. These provisions gave rise to considerable difference of opinion, and we are not insensible of the inconvenience arising from allowing a change to be created in the legal relations of a raiyat, both towards his landlord on the one hand and towards his own sub-tenants on the other, as the result of his own acts; a change, moreover, which must be determined by an arbitrary line difficult to ascertain, and complicated by the numerous exceptions which the circumstances of the cultivators obviously demand. There seemed, however, to the majority of us to be no better way of placing restrictions on sub-letting (a practice which it is admittedly impossible to prohibit) than by rendering the sub-letting raiyat liable to the summary sale for arrears, which is to be made applicable to tenures, and at the same time enabling his sub-tenants to acquire rights of occupancy. These provisions illustrate the extreme difficulty of placing any substantial check on the practice of sub-letting, when it has once grown up. It will be observed that the converted tenure-holder, while liable to enhancement as an occupancy-raiyat, is in all other respects treated as a tenure-holder, and acquires with the liability to summary sale other incidents of tenure-holders, such as exemption from the pre-emption clauses, but that none of these provisions will come into operation until such time as he is registered. It was felt that to throw on the Courts the duty of ascertaining in a simple rent suit all the complicated conditions, which are connoted by his conversion, would be intolerable, and that the difficulty could only be met by the Local Government ascertaining and registering them. This it has undertaken to do.

28. The alterations which we have made in the provisions relating to the enhancement of the rent of occupancy-raiyats are considerable, both as regards form and substance.

We have removed the provisions relating to enhancement by means of a table of rates to a separate chapter following that relating to the record-of-rights and settlement of rents, and deal here only with enhancement in the ordinary way by contract or by a suit in Court.

29. As the Bill now stands amended the rent of an occupancy-raiyat cannot be enhanced by contract unless the contract is registered, and the following rules will apply to every such contract (section 41):—

(1).—The rent must not be enhanced so as to exceed by more than four annas in the rupee (25 per cent.) the rent previously payable by the raiyat.

(2).—The contract must fix the rent for a term of at least seven years.

(3).—If the enhanced rent exceeds by more than two annas in the rupee (12½ per cent.) the previous rent, the contract must fix the rent for a term of at least fifteen years.

(4).—The registering officer must, before registering a contract under this section, ascertain that the contract is in accordance with the provisions of the Act, and that the raiyat entering into it acts as a free agent. It will be observed that under the revised section the registering officer, instead of being required to approve a contract and to satisfy himself that it is fair and equitable, is now merely required to satisfy himself that it is in accordance with the provisions of the Act.

30. Further, it is provided (section 42) that where land, which has been previously held by a tenant at a money-rent, is let to a settled-raiyat of the village or estate in which it is situate, that raiyat shall not be bound to pay for it any rent higher than that which was paid for it by the previous tenant, except in pursuance of a registered contract, and that the rules just referred to shall apply to every such contract.

31. As regards enhancement by suit our object has been, while laying down rules which will be substantially just to both landlords and tenants, to devise a system which would avoid those elaborate and difficult inquiries, the necessity for which has made the present enhancement law an almost useless instrument in the hands of the landlords.

With this view we have specified the grounds on which an enhancement suit can be instituted, as follows (section 43):—

(a).—That the rate of rent paid by the raiyat is below the prevailing rate payable by occupancy-raiyats for land of a similar description and with similar advantages in the vicinity.

(b).—That there has been a rise in the average prices of staple food crops in the locality or at the usual markets.

(c).—That the productive powers of the land held by the raiyat have been increased by an improvement effected by, or at the expense of, the landlord.

(d).—That the productive powers of the land held by the raiyat have been increased by fluvial action.

32. An enquiry had shown that an authoritative Table of Rates could be prepared by the Government of Bengal only for exceptional tracts, and no other general method has been submitted to us for placing before the Courts the information with respect to productive powers of the land which would enable them to apply the rules for enhancement on the ground of increase in those powers. But the zamíndárs objected to the total elimination of this as a legal ground of enhancement, and, as it was part of the old law, it has been retained. Enhancements on this ground when the increase is caused by the landlord's improvement will be facilitated by the system of enquiry and registration provided for hereafter; but enhancements on the ground of increase of productive powers caused by fluvial action will still, we fear, be liable to the same difficulty, caused by the absence of any proof of the former productive powers of the soil, as has rendered this ground of enhancement futile in past years.

33. On the other hand enhancement on the ground of prices would be greatly facilitated by the preparation of authoritative price-lists by the Local Government. It should be explained that the price-lists of staple food crops are to be taken simply as indicating a general rise or fall in prices, and without any reference to the particular crop grown on the land, the rent of which is in dispute; and our intention is that the price-lists should be worked out very much on the principle on which the commutation of tithes according to average prices is worked out in England as explained at pages 250 et seq of Mr. Justice Field's Digest.

34. It has been urged that, in applying the proportion rule in the case of prices, some deduction should be made to cover the effect of these increased prices on the cost of cultivation. We are however content for the present to leave the protection of the raiyat in this respect to the other restrictions on enhancements, especially to section 48, which provides that the Court shall not in any case decree an enhancement, which appears under the circumstances of the case to be unfair or inequitable. But the point will receive further consideration when the alterations made in this chapter have been subjected to public criticism.

35. The difficulty which, as we have explained, stands in the way of enhancement on the ground of an increase in the productive powers of the land, applies with no less force to the proposal to limit the maximum enhanced rent to one-fifth of the average annual gross produce. The majority of the Committee were of opinion that it would be almost impossible to ascertain in each instance the average annual gross produce expressed in staple crops, and weighty objections have also been taken to the principle underlying that proposal. We have accordingly struck out the provision to the above effect contained in section 75 (d) of the original Bill. As a set-off against this we have increased the stringency of another limitation contained in the original Bill by providing that, when rent is enhanced on the first ground mentioned above, the enhancement shall not amount to more than 8 annas in the rupee (50 per cent.), and that, when it is enhanced on the second or fourth of those grounds, the enhancement shall not amount to more than 4 annas in the rupee (25 per cent.), and by providing, as above stated, that the Court shall not in any case decree an enhancement which appears under the circumstances of the case to be unfair or inequitable (section 48).

36. In connection with enhancement up to the prevailing rate payable by occupancy-raiyats of the same class, we have in section 44 introduced a clause [(c)], based on section 20 of the North-Western Provinces Tenancy Act, providing for cases in which local custom may make it necessary to take into consideration the caste of a raiyat.

37. As regards enhancement on the ground of an improvement made by the landlord, we have laid down no hard-and-fast rule, but have merely provided [section 46 (b)] that in determining the enhancement to be allowed the Court shall have regard to—

(i) the increase in the value of the produce caused by the improvement,

(ii) the cost of the improvement;

(iii) the cost of the cultivation required for utilizing the improvement, and

(iv) the existing rent and the ability of the land to bear a higher rent.

And, in order to avoid perplexing inquiries into matters long past, we have provided [section 46 (a)] that the Court shall not grant an enhancement unless the improvement has been registered, that is to say, registered in accordance with the rules which are laid down in Chapter IX, and which, as will be seen, are so framed as to secure that all requisite information will be duly placed on record.

38. The leading rule adopted by us for enhancement on the ground of increase of productive power arising from fluvial action is suggested by that proposed by the Rent Commission, and is to the effect that the landlord shall not have more than half the value of the net increase in the produce of the land [section 47 (c)].

39. Section 78 of the original Bill, which limited the right to bring successive enhancement suits, has now (section 50) been restricted to suits on the ground that the rent paid is below the prevailing rate, and suits on the ground of an increase of prices; but the restriction will now apply to cases in which a suit for enhancement has been dismissed on the merits as well as to cases in which enhancement has been decreed, and the period which must elapse between successive enhancements has been extended from ten to fifteen years.

40. The grounds on which a suit for reduction of rent may be brought are in the amended Bill (section 51) limited to the following:—

(a) that the soil of the holding has, without the fault of the raiyat, become permanently deteriorated by a deposit of sand or other like calamity, and

(b) that there has been a fall in the average prices of staple food crops in the locality.

In either case the Court is to direct such reduction of the rent as it thinks fair and equitable.

41. Section 52 of the amended Bill, which provides for the preparation of authoritative price-lists, differs from the corresponding section of the original Bill in certain particulars; but the only alteration which we need notice here is that the new section empowers the Local Government to direct price-lists to be prepared for past years as well as for current years. Materials for such price-lists exist in the statements of prices published regularly by the Bengal Government during the past 12 years, and, if it be possible to correct these lists and render them a trustworthy record of local prices, the work of the Courts in enhancing rents on the ground of a rise in price will be greatly simplified.

42. Section 80 of the original Bill, which provided for the enhancement of the rent of pasture lands, has been omitted, as it is understood that the letting of land to individual tenants for grazing purposes is so very rare that no special rules are needed to regulate it.

43. Section 81 of the original Bill, which prescribed a limit to the amount of the rent payable in kind by an occupancy-tenant or varying with the crop, has likewise been omitted, because it was found that local usage on the point was exceedingly complicated, large deductions being usually made from the crop for various purposes before dividing it, and that to draw a hard-and-fast line would very probably mislead the Courts and have an injurious effect.

44. The section (53) providing for the commutation of rent payable in kind has been recast on the lines of section 16 of the Central Provinces Tenancy Act, 1883. As it now stands it admits of an application for commutation being made to certain officers, either by the landlord or the tenant, and empowers the officer to whom it is made to refuse it if it is opposed. Further, the new section allows a larger discretion than the original section in determining the amount of the money-rent to be paid. It merely provides that in making the determination the officer shall have regard to—

(a) the average money-rent payable by occupancy-raiyats for land of a similar description and with similar advantages in the vicinity, and

(b) the average value of the rent actually received by the landlord during the preceding ten years.

CHAPTER VI.

NON-OCCUPANCY-RAIYATS.

45. Section 89 of the original Bill provided that the non-occupancy-raiyat, or, as he was termed in that Bill, the "ordinary raiyat", should pay such rent as might be from time to time agreed on between him and his landlord, but subject to the provisions of section 119, which made five-sixteenths of the average annual value of gross produce the maximum of the rent. We now propose to abandon this maximum for the reasons which led us to abandon the corresponding maximum in the case of the enhancement of an occupancy-raiyat's rent, and the question accordingly arises whether any other restriction should be placed on contracts fixing the rent of a non-occupancy tenant. The majority of us are opposed to any such restriction, and accordingly the amended Bill leaves the parties free except in so far as it provides (section 57) that the rent shall not be enhanced after the raiyat has been admitted into occupation of the land, except by registered agreement or in the manner allowed by certain sections of the chapter to be presently noticed.

46. In section 58, which states the grounds on which a non-occupancy-raiyat is liable to be ejected, we have introduced a clause permitting him to be ejected, when he has for the first time been admitted to occupation of the land under a registered lease, on the ground that the term of the lease has expired; but we have provided in the following section (59) that a suit for ejectment on this ground shall not be instituted unless notice to quit has been served on the raiyat not less than six months before the expiration of the term, and shall not be instituted after six months from the expiration of the term.

47. We have also decided to strike out the clause giving the non-occupancy-raiyat compensation for disturbance, but have provided in lieu thereof (section 60) that when an ejectment suit is brought against a non-occupancy-raiyat on the ground of his refusal to pay an enhanced rent, the Court shall fix a fair and equitable rent, and the raiyat shall have the option of holding on at that rent for a term of five years, after which he will be liable to be ejected on the same conditions as after the expiry of an initial lease, provided rights of occupancy have not accrued to him in the meantime.

CHAPTER VII.

UNDER-RAIYATS.

48. We have already (supra paragraphs 26 and 27) referred to the new provision introduced into the Bill which, by converting an occupancy-raiyat who sub-lets half his land into a tenure-holder, confers upon his sub-lessees the status and advantages of raiyats. The chapter now under consideration provides a certain amount of protection to under-raiyats who are not entitled to the benefit of that provision.

Section 62 provides that the landlord of an under-raiyat holding at a money-rent shall not be entitled to recover rent exceeding the rent which he himself pays by more than the following percentage of the same, namely :—

(a) when the rent payable by the under-raiyat is payable under a registered lease or agreement—fifty per cent.; and

(b) in any other case—twenty-five per cent.

And section 63 provides that an under-raiyat shall not be liable to be ejected by his landlord, except at the end of an agricultural year, and after a written notice to quit has been served on him in the prescribed manner not less than six months before the expiration of that year.

CHAPTER VIII.

GENERAL PROVISIONS AS TO RENT.

49. This chapter opens with the provisions relating to the right of tenure-holders and raiyats to hold at a fixed rent, which have been transferred from the opening of the original chapter relating to tenure-holders. The only change made in these provisions which seems to call for notice here is the addition of a clause to sub-section (2) of section 64, providing that, if an enactment should hereafter be passed requiring the registration of permanent tenures or of tenancies at fixed rates, the well-known presumption from twenty years' holding shall cease to apply to any tenancies which are not registered within the time fixed. The Local Government, we understand, propose shortly to introduce into the Bengal Council a Bill establishing a registration system of the nature just referred to, and, if that Bill becomes law, it will, we believe, with the aid of this clause, afford, so far at least as those classes of tenancies are concerned, the best remedy for the hardship which the landlords complain of as caused to them by the retention on the Statute Book of the presumption in question. The above presumption will also cease to apply when a record-of-rights has been prepared (see infra para. 77)

50. In section 66, (2), we have omitted the hard-and-fast rule laid down in the corresponding section (96) of the original Bill, that in calculating the addition to be made to the rent of a tenure on account of an addition to the area comprised in it, 30 per cent. should be allowed for profits, risk and cost of collection; and have merely provided that the Court shall have regard to the profits to which the tenure-holder is entitled in respect of the rent of his tenure.

51. In the section (67) relating to instalments of rent we have omitted as unnecessary the somewhat complicated proviso appended to section 98 of the original Bill.

52. We have in section 68 inserted a clause empowering the Local Government to try the experiment of making rules authorizing a tenant to pay his rent by postal money-order—a mode of payment which we think may in some cases be found convenient.

53. In sections 70 and 71 we have, instead of stereotyping the contents of the receipts and accounts to be furnished to tenants, given forms of these documents (in a schedule), and empowered the Local Government to alter them as convenience may require.

54. We have in section 70, (4), relaxed the stringency of the corresponding provision [section 100 (4)] of the original Bill by providing that a receipt not containing substantially the required particulars shall merely be "presumed until the contrary is shown" (instead of "deemed") to be an acquittance in full of all demands up to date.

55. It has been suggested that we should provide for applications for the withdrawal of rent deposited being exempted from Court-fees. We think such an exemption desirable, but it is within the power of the executive authorities to arrange for its being made, and we prefer to leave the matter in their hands.

56. We have, in the section (78) providing for ejectment from a non-transferable holding for arrears of rent, added a sub-section empowering the Court for special reasons to extend the period allowed for the payment of the rent.

57. We have empowered the Collector to depute an officer to divide or appraise the produce of a bhaoli holding, not only on the application of one of the parties concerned, but also in any case in which, in the opinion of the Magistrate of the District or Sub-Division, such action would be likely to prevent a breach of the peace [section 81 (2)].

58. We have further empowered the Collector in all cases to pass such order as he thinks just on the report of the officer deputed, and have provided that his order shall be final and be enforceable as a decree, unless he thinks fit to refer any question in dispute between the parties for the decision of a Civil Court [section 82 (4) and (5)]. This seems to us a simpler and more convenient procedure than leaving the parties to seek redress in the Civil Court in the first instance, as under the original Bill.

59. For section 117 of the original Bill we have substituted a section (set out in the margin) dealing comprehensively with the rights and liabilities of the landlord and tenant as to possession of the crop in cases where rent is taken by appraisement or division of the produce.

Rights and liabilities as to possession of crop.

83. (1) Where rent is taken by appraisement of the produce, the tenant shall be entitled to the exclusive possession of the produce.

(2) Where rent is taken by division of the produce, the tenant shall be entitled to exclusive possession of the whole produce until it is divided.

(3) In either case the tenant shall be entitled to cut and harvest the produce in due course of husbandry without any interference on the part of the landlord, but shall not be entitled to remove any portion of the produce at such a time or in such a manner as to prevent the due appraisement or division thereof at the proper time.

(4) If the tenant removes any portion of the produce at such a time or in such a manner as to prevent the due appraisement or division thereof at the proper time, the produce shall be deemed to have been as full as the fullest crop of the same description appraised in the neighbourhood on similar land for that harvest.

The penal provision of section 117 of the original Bill has not been reproduced here, as the matter is sufficiently provided for in the more general penalty clause now inserted in Chapter XIX. (section 220).

CHAPTER IX.

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS AS TO LANDLORDS AND TENANTS.

60. We have introduced a new section (88) providing that when a raiyat holds at a fixed rent or fixed rate of rent his landlord shall not be entitled to prevent him from making an improvement.

61. We have in section 89 (3) empowered the Collector to decide finally any question between an occupancy-raiyat and his landlord—

(a) as to the right of the raiyat to make an improvement, and

(b) as to whether a particular work is an improvement.

62. We have, in order to facilitate the decision of disputes regarding improvements, introduced a section (92) based on section 80 of the Central Provinces Tenancy Act, 1883, providing that a landlord or tenant, desiring to have any evidence recorded regarding an improvement which has been made, may apply to a Revenue-officer to record it, and that the record so made shall be admissible in subsequent proceedings between the parties. We have also as intimated (supra para. 37) introduced a section (91) providing for the registration of improvements made by landlords.

63. Section 129 (4) of the Bill as introduced provided that improvements made by a raiyat before the commencement of the Act should be deemed to have been made in accordance with the Act unless it was shown that the landlord forbade the raiyat to make the improvement and was ready to make it himself. For this we have substituted a sub-section [section 93 (4)] providing that improvements made by a raiyat between the 2nd day of March, 1883 (the day on which the Bill was introduced) and the commencement of the Act, shall be deemed to have been made in accordance with the Act. This prevents the section from applying retrospectively to any improvements made before the introduction of the Bill.

64. We have in section 94 somewhat enlarged the list of matters to be taken into consideration by the Court in estimating the compensation to be allowed for an improvement, the most important additions being the condition of the improvement with reference to its duration, and that "in the case of a reclamation or of the conversion of unirrigated into irrigated land" the Court shall have regard "to the length of time during which the raiyat has had the benefit of the improvement at an unenhanced rent".

65. We have re-drafted the section (95) relating to surrender by a tenant, on the lines of section 33 of the Central Provinces Tenancy Act, 1883, and, in order to remove a misapprehension which appears to exist in some quarters, have added a sub-section (5) expressly providing that when a raiyat has surrendered his holding, the landlord may enter on the holding and either let it to another tenant or take it into cultivation himself.

66. The difficulties which arise in cases where a raiyat to all appearance abandons his holding, but the landlord cannot be sure whether he can safely assume the holding to have been abandoned and let it to another tenant, we have attempted to meet by the section set out in the margin.

Abandonment.

96. (1) If a raiyat voluntarily abandons his residence without notice to his landlord and without arranging for payment of his rent as it falls due, and ceases to cultivate his holding either by himself or by some other person, the landlord may, at any time after the expiration of the agricultural year in which the raiyat so abandons and ceases to cultivate, enter on the holding and let it to another tenant or take it into cultivation himself.

(2) When a landlord enters under this section he shall cause a notice in the prescribed form to be published in such manner as the Local Government, by rule, directs, stating that he has treated the holding as abandoned and has entered on it accordingly.

(3) When a landlord enters under this section, the raiyat shall be entitled to institute a suit for recovery of possession of the land at any time not later than the expiration of two years, or, in the case of a non-occupancy-raiyat, six months, from the date of the publication of the notice; and thereupon the Court may order recovery of possession on such terms, if any, with respect to compensation to persons injured as to the Court may seem just.

67. We have in section 99, which prohibits a landlord from measuring land more than once in ten years without the consent of the tenant or the permission of the Collector, allowed exceptions in the following cases, namely :—

(a) Where the area of the holding is liable, by reason of alluvion or diluvion, to vary from year to year, and the rent payable depends on the area.

(b) Where the area under cultivation is liable to vary from year to year, and the rent payable depends on the area under cultivation.

(c) Where the landlord is a purchaser otherwise than by voluntary transfer and not more than two years have elapsed since the date of his entry under the purchase.

68. In section 101, relating to the standard of measurement, we have introduced a sub-section empowering the Local Government after local inquiry to make rules declaring for any local area the standard or standards of measurement in use, and have provided that every such declaration shall be presumed to be correct until the contrary is shown. This, we think, will render section 138 of the original Bill unnecessary, and we have accordingly omitted it. Other provisions connected with measurement will be found in the chapter (X) concerning the record-of-rights.

69. In the division of this chapter relating to the appointment of a manager to act on behalf of co-owners of an estate or tenure we have added a section (109) empowering the High Court to make rules defining the powers and duties of managers.

70. We have omitted the section relating to merger. It was in our opinion open to serious objection, not only from the particular point of view of the framers of the present Bill, inasmuch as it allowed of the occupancy-right being retained in the hands of a landlord, his tenants being thus reduced to the position of under-raiyats, but also from a more general point of view, inasmuch as it conferred on individuals a large and arbitrary power to introduce, without any sufficient reason, a serious complication into the law of property, and one moreover which would be likely to serve as a cloak for fraud.

The immediate requirements of this Bill are, we think, sufficiently met by the section (28) which we have introduced into the occupancy chapter, and to which we have already referred (supra para. 15); and for the rest we are of opinion, after giving our best consideration to the views of the Hon'ble Mr. Justice Field, that the general question of merger is somewhat outside the proper scope of the present enactment.

CHAPTER X.

RECORD-OF-RIGHTS AND SETTLEMENT OF RENTS.

71. We have found it convenient to embody in a single chapter the two chapters of the original Bill relating to the above subjects, and to start with the record-of-rights, which is the simpler of the two.

72. The difficulty from the absence of a record occasionally felt, especially by a person who purchases an estate or tenure at a compulsory sale by auction, will, we think, be met by the new section (112) which admits, subject to certain conditions, of a record-of-rights being framed by Revenue-officer on the application of a proprietor or tenure-holder.

73. As regards the procedure in framing a record-of-rights, it will be observed that an important change has been made. Under Chapter XII of the original Bill the procedure was to be summary in all cases, whether there was or was not a dispute as to the entry which ought to be made in the record, and the result in all cases alike would have been merely an entry in the record, which would be primâ facie presumed to be correct, but would be open to be impugned in a Civil Court. In the amended Bill, on the contrary, a fuller opportunity is allowed for raising objections by a preliminary publication of the record, and if any entry, which it is proposed to make or which has been made, is called in question, the Revenue-officer is to inquire into the dispute according to the regular procedure of a Civil Court, and his decision is to have the force of a decree and to be appealable first to a special judge appointed to hear such appeals, and then, subject to the usual limitations of second appeals, to the High Court. Thus, in any case in which there is a dispute regarding an entry in the record, the question will be placed on the footing of a res judicata. Where, up to the time allowed after the preliminary publication of the record for preferring objections, no objection is made, the entry will be marked as undisputed, and as proposed in the original Bill will simply be presumed to be correct until the contrary is proved. We think that, having regard to the large scale on which those operations will be conducted, and to the impossibility of being sure that any sort of publication would bring home to every individual concerned the precise nature of the entries being made regarding him, we could not venture to give an undisputed entry any authority higher than that just mentioned.

74. The operation termed a "settlement of rents" includes, in addition to the preparation of a record-of-rights, the settlement of all such rents of occupancy-tenants and tenure-holders holding otherwise than at fixed rents, as either the landlord or the tenant may apply to have settled.

The questions whether a rent is open to settlement, and, if so, the amount at which it should be settled, are of a complex nature depending on two very different sets of considerations. They depend in the first place on issues, relating to such matters as the existence of the tenancy, the extent of the land, the status of the tenant, the conditions under which he holds, &c., and possibly involving points of law, which could not satisfactorily be decided without the security afforded by an ultimate appeal to the highest judicial authority. They depend in the second place on considerations of an economical nature, such as the state of prices prevailing at different periods, the effect of improvements, and so forth, which it is universally admitted cannot be adequately dealt with either in the first instance or on appeal except after local inquiry and by persons possessed of special technical knowledge. The problem before us has been how best to provide for the separation of these two elements, so that each may be dealt with, and finally dealt with, by those most competent to deal with it. The solution of this problem proposed in the original Bill will be seen on referring to section 160 of that Bill. The modification above described in the record-of-rights procedure, and especially the introduction of the special judge, who will doubtless always be an officer possessing a familiarity with the local agricultural system, in addition to judicial qualifications, has opened the way to what appears to us to be a more satisfactory solution. What we propose is that when a rent, which has been settled or which it is proposed to settle, is disputed, the dispute shall be dealt with by the Revenue-officer in the same way as a dispute regarding an entry in the record-of-rights, that an appeal on the whole question shall then lie to the special judge, and that his decision shall be final unless, in a second appeal in respect of one of the record-of-rights entries with reference to which the rent has been settled, the High Court alters the decision of the special judge. In this case the High Court may settle a new rent, but in so doing is to be guided by the other rents shown in the rent-roll. In other words, there can be no second appeal to the High Court merely on the ground that the rent has been pitched too high or too low, but if a second appeal is preferred, as it may be, on the ground that the special judge, owing to some error on a point of law, has, for example, found the holding to comprise more land or less land than it actually does comprise, and the appellant succeeds, the High Court can, without altering the rates, reduce or increase the rent, as the case may be.

75. We have, in section 120, provided that, when a landlord is entitled under the foregoing sections to apply to have the rent of a holding settled, the rent of the holding, whether he applies and has it settled or it is merely ascertained, shall not be enhanced for fifteen years, except on the ground of an improvement made by the landlord or of an increase of the area of the holding.

76. Section 121, providing for the payment of expenses, has now been made applicable to the preparation of a record-of-rights as well as to the settlement of rents.

77. The only other provision of this chapter which appears to call for notice is the new section (122) which enacts that when the particulars of a tenancy have been recorded under the chapter, the well known presumption arising from twenty years' holding at a fixed rent shall cease to apply.

CHAPTER XI.

TABLES OF RATES.

78. We have been guided, in dealing with the subject of this chapter, by the views of the Government of Bengal. It appears from the enquiries that have been made that, owing to the great diversity of rates, it would in most parts of the country be impracticable to frame general tables of rates applicable to large tracts; but in special tracts the preparation of such tables may still, in the opinion of the Government of Bengal, be found a preferable alternative to the plan of a general settlement of rents by the Revenue-officer. In the latter case the Revenue-officer goes on the ground and himself decides all questions at issue. In the former case the Revenue-officer merely ascertains and records general facts which will serve as a guide to the Courts, whose business it will be to apply them to the circumstances of particular disputes brought before them. We have, therefore, retained the procedure with only a few minor alterations, but it will no longer be so important a feature as it was in the original Bill.

CHAPTER XII.

RECORD OF PROPRIETOR'S PRIVATE LANDS.

79. In dealing with the difficult question of khámár or zeraat land we have provided two alternative methods of procedure—

(a) that of survey and registration of such land by a Revenue-officer, by order of the Local Government;

(b) that of enquiry on the application of the individual landlord or tenant concerned.

The former procedure would apply to large areas where the question is important, the latter to disputes about particular plots of land. At the request of the Government of Bengal the two methods of procedure have been left equally applicable to any part of the country. We have made no distinction in the description of this land between Bengal and Bihár, but we have directed regard to be had in every case to local custom, and, while making it incumbent on the Revenue-officer to record certain lands as the proprietor's private land, have endeavoured to assist him by certain guiding rules in cases not clearly coming under these heads. The section is reproduced below.

Rules for determination of proprietor's private land.

138. (1) The Revenue-officer shall record as a proprietor's private land—

(a) land which is proved to have been cultivated as khámár, zeraat, sír, nij, nij-jot or kamat by the proprietor himself with his own stock or by his own servants or by hired labour for twelve continuous years immediately before the passing of this Act, and

(b) cultivated land which is recognized by village-custom as proprietor's khámár, zeraat, sír, nij, nij-jote or kamat.

(2). In determining whether any other land ought to be recorded as a proprietor's private land the officer shall have regard to local custom and to the question whether the land was before the 2nd of March, 1883, specifically let as proprietor's private land, but shall presume that land is not a proprietor's private land until the contrary is shown.

(3). If any question arises in a Civil Court as to whether land is or is not a proprietor's private land, the Court shall have regard to the rules laid down in this section for the guidance of Revenue-officers.

CHAPTER XIII.

DISTRAINT.

80. The only changes made in this chapter to which it seems to us necessary to direct attention are the following :—

(a) Section 167 (2) of the original Bill, which made an application for distraint liable to the same Court-fee as a suit for the arrear of rent, has been omitted.

(b) Produce already stored has been exempted from distraint.

(c) The Court is empowered (section 141 (3) and (4)) to issue in certain cases an order prohibiting the removal of the produce pending the issue or execution of an order of distraint.

(d) It has been made clear (section 147) that crops which admit of being stored are not to be sold standing.

(e) Section 186 of the original Bill, which under certain circumstances imposed a penalty on persons on whose behalf an offence under section 185 is committed, has been omitted.

(f) On the other hand, express provision has been made in the first section of Chapter XIX for punishing abetment of the offences in question, and it has been made clear (section 158) that a person, whose property is distrained under cover of this chapter, but in a case to which it does not properly apply, has his remedy by suit against those who put the Court in motion.

(g) Section 187 of the original Bill, which empowered the Local Government to suspend the operation of the chapter, has been omitted.

CHAPTER XIV.

JUDICIAL PROCEDURE.

81. We have excluded suits for penalties and suits for the recovery of possession of land from the special procedure prescribed in sections 191-197 of the original Bill.

82. We have introduced at the opening of this chapter a section (159), modelled on a section in the Presidency-towns Small Cause Court Act, empowering the High Court, with the approval of the Local Government, to make rules declaring that any portions of the Code of Civil Procedure shall not apply to suits between landlord and tenant, or shall apply subject to modifications. We trust that as experience is acquired of the working of the Courts under the new Act it may be found possible to exercise this power so as to effect further simplifications in procedure.

83. For ourselves we must confess that, after the most anxious consideration of the various schemes which have been propounded for shortening and simplifying the procedure in rent suits, we are unable to suggest anything of importance in this direction which would not involve a serious risk of failure of justice. In particular, while we are anxious to facilitate the service of summons and the proof of such service, we are unwilling to give any presumption of law against an absent defendant except on adequate proof of such service.

84. We have, however, with a view to avoiding, as far as possible, the complication and delay which arise from questions as to the landlord's title being raised in rent-suits, made an important amendment in the section (164) which requires a tenant, admitting that rent is due from him, but pleading that it is due not to the plaintiff but to a third person, to pay the amount into Court. Our object is to force the issue of disputed title to be raised separately and independently of the rent suit, and we have therefore provided that the Court shall, on the money being paid in, cause notice of the payment to be served on the third person, and unless he, within three months, institutes a separate suit against the plaintiff and obtains an order restraining the payment of the money, it will be paid out to the plaintiff on his application.

85. We have further added a section (165) providing that when a defendant in a rent suit admits that money is due from him to the plaintiff but disputes the amount, the Court shall, as a rule, require him to pay the amount admitted into Court.

86. We have provided (section 173) that when a plaintiff institutes a suit for the ejectment of a trespasser he may claim, as alternative relief, that the defendant be declared liable to pay for the land in his possession a fair and equitable rent to be determined by the Court.

87. Section 207 of the original Bill provided that a landlord or a tenant might institute a suit for the determination of the nature and incidents of the tenancy. We have (section 174) substituted the simpler and cheaper procedure of an application, and have empowered the Court, to which the application is made, to direct that a Revenue-officer shall make a local enquiry into any matter it thinks fit.

CHAPTER XVI.

SUMMARY SALE FOR ARREARS.

88. We have, in accordance with what we understand to be the desire of the landlords, maintained the provisions of the law relating to the sale of patní tenures substantially intact, amending them only in matters of form and minor detail. The provisions so amended have now been transferred from the Schedules to the body of the Bill, and form the first division of this chapter.

89. The second division of it consists of a single section enacting that, if provision is made by law for the registration in a public register of any tenures other than patní tenures, the provisions of the chapter shall, subject to such modifications as the Local Government may by rule prescribe, apply to those tenures.

CHAPTER XVII.

CONTRACT AND CUSTOM.

90. The important question as to the extent to which freedom of contract between landlord and tenant should be restricted has been disposed of, in so far as a few particular points are concerned, in the sections of the Bill relating to those points (see e. g. paras. 29, 30 and 48 supra on the subject of contracts fixing rent). But we have thought it convenient to collect in one section at the opening of this chapter most of the restrictions which, in the opinion of the majority of us, it is necessary to place on the power to contract out of the provisions of the law.

The matters which are thus placed beyond the reach of contract will be seen to be as follows:—

(a) The acquisition of the status of settled-raiyat and of the occupancy-right (sections 24, 25 and 26).
(b) The incidents of the occupancy-right specified in section 31.
(c) The occupancy-raiyat's right to demand a reduction of rent under section 51.
(d) The right of either landlord or tenant to demand a commutation of a produce-rent under section 53.
(e) The protection afforded by the Bill to a non-occupancy-raiyat or an under-raiyat from ejectment except on specified grounds (sections 58, 59, 60 and 63).
(f) The right of a tenant to a reduction of rent on account of a diminution of the area of his holding (section 66).
(g) The right of a raiyat to make improvements and claim compensation for them (sections 88, 89, 90 and 93).
(h) The protection afforded to all tenants against ejectment except in execution of a decree (section 98).

91. With a view to encouraging permanent mukarrarí leases we have inserted in this chapter a new section (211) providing that nothing in the Act shall be deemed to prevent a landlord in a permanently-settled estate from granting a permanent mukarrarí lease on any terms agreed on between him and his tenant.

92. It has been admitted throughout our discussions that lands held on reclamation-lease, chur or dearah lands, and lands taken under the customs known as utbundi and hal-hasili must be treated exceptionally, and the three following sections of this chapter are intended to make such special provision regarding them as appears to us to be necessary.

93. Section 212 provides that nothing in the Act shall affect any contract for the reclamation of waste-land.

94. Section 213 provides that a raiyat holding chur or dearah land shall not acquire a right of occupancy in the land until he has held it for twelve continuous years, and that until he acquires the right of occupancy he shall be liable to pay whatever rent is agreed on between him and his landlord, but that the Court may upon the application of either party declare that the land has ceased to be chur or dearah land, and thereupon the provisions of the Act shall apply to it.

95. Lastly, section 214 enacts that nothing in the Act shall affect the conditions, customary or otherwise, under which land is held on either of the systems known as the utbundi and hal-hasili systems.

96. As already stated (paragraph 4) we have omitted Chapter VII of the original Bill, which was intended to provide for the case of a raiyat holding his homestead otherwise than as a part of his holding as a raiyat. As, however, the absence of any mention of such tenancies in the Bill might give rise to misapprehension, we have thought it well to insert a section (216) expressly providing that their incidents will be regulated by local custom.

CHAPTER XVIII.

LIMITATION.

97. We consider that a moderately short period of limitation should be fixed for the recovery by an occupancy-raiyat of land comprised in his holding, and, following the precedent presented by section 81 of the Central Provinces Tenancy Act, 1881, we have fixed the period at two years from the date on which he is ejected, adding a proviso to guard against the revival of causes of action already barred.

CHAPTER XIX.

SUPPLEMENTAL.

98. We have somewhat amplified the provisions of section 221, which empowers a landlord to act through his agent, and in order to remove a misapprehension which, notwithstanding the definition of "landlord" contained in the Bill, we have found to exist in some quarters, we have added a section (222) to make it clear that, when two or more persons are joint landlords, they must act together or through an agent appointed by them jointly.

99. In the course of our discussions various points have been raised with which we felt that we were unable to deal adequately without further information than that contained in the papers before us. On some of these points we should be glad to receive the advice both of the Local Government and of the High Court.

The principal questions are as follows:—

(1) Whether, with reference especially to landlord's improvements, it is desirable to empower Revenue-officers to arrange for the cutting of irrigation channels, the distribution of water and the payment of compensation, and, if so, what form such provisions should take.
(2) What modifications it may be desirable to make, whether by rules or otherwise, in the Code of Civil Procedure, with a view to expedite the trial of rent suits; and in particular whether it is desirable that landlords should be empowered to institute, by means of a single plaint, suits for arrears against a number of raiyats holding independently of each other.
(3) Whether any provision can safely be enacted restricting the right to claim a re-trial when a decree has been given ex parte. We are aware that a judge is in no way bound to admit a re-trial unless he is satisfied that the summons failed to reach the defendant or that he was prevented by some sufficient cause from appearing; but the representations made to us are to the effect that the due service of the summons is systematically denied, and that the Courts too readily accept the plea, thus encouraging tactics the only object of which is to interpose delay and to involve the landlord in unnecessary expense in recovering his dues.

The proposal before us was that ex parte suits should not be re-tried except upon the defendant depositing the amount decreed, but we were unwilling to adopt this proposal on the information before us and desired that it should be referred for the consideration of the Hon'ble Judges of the High Court.

(4) A somewhat similar suggestion which has been made to us is that a defendant in a suit for arrears should not be allowed to appeal from a decree passed against him except on depositing the amount of the decree. On this suggestion, too, we should be glad to have the opinion of the Judges.

(5) A further point, and on this we desire to have the opinion of the Local Government, is whether the summary sale procedure can be applied to those independent taluqs the revenue of which was settled direct with Government, though the holders pay it through the zamíndár. These tenures apparently find no place in the Government registers, and it was proposed that the modified patní procedure should be applied to them.

(6) A similar proposal was made to render this procedure applicable to the recovery of arrears of Road Cess and Public Works Cess from rent-free tenure-holders. We decided to refer this point also to the Local Government.

(7) The necessity for further information respecting the conditions on which bastu or homestead land is held has already been noticed (supra para. 4).

(8) We are also anxious to be informed if the saving of customary conditions which we have specifically applied to utbandi and hal-hasili tenures should be extended to similar tenures under other names, and also if any special saving is necessary in regard to the special tenures under which land is held in the Chittagong division.

(9) Again, we desire to be informed whether it would be possible to specify, for the purpose of exemption from the pre-emption sections, any such transferable occupancy-rights as those in guzashta and gora holdings.

(10) Finally, we desire that the Government of Bengal may be consulted as to the possibility of improving the accuracy of the price-lists which have been published during the past twelve years, and the probable effect of basing a system of enhancement of rent mainly on these prices.

44. Where an enhancement is claimed on the ground that the rent paid is below the prevailing rate—

(a) The enhanced rent shall not exceed the previous rent by more than eight annas in the rupee.

(b) If in the opinion of the Court the prevailing rate of rent cannot be satisfactorily ascertained without a local inquiry, the Court may direct that a local inquiry be held under Chapter XXV of the Code of Civil Procedure by such Revenue-officer as the Local Government may authorize by rule in that behalf.

(c) In determining under this section the rate of rent payable by a raiyat his caste shall not be taken into consideration, unless it is proved that by local custom caste is taken into account in determining the rate; and whenever it is found that by local custom any description of raiyats hold land at favourable rates of rent, the rate shall be determined in accordance with that custom.

(d) In ascertaining the prevailing rate of rent the amount of any enhancement authorized on account of a landlord's improvement shall not be taken into consideration.

Rules as to enhancement on ground of rise in prices.

45. Where an enhancement is claimed on the ground of rise in prices—

(a) The Court shall have regard to the lists of prices periodically published under the authority of the Local Government, and shall compare the average prices during the quinquennial period immediately preceding the institution of the suit with the average prices during such other quinquennial period as it may appear equitable and practicable to take for comparison.

(b) The Court shall not enhance the rent so that the enhanced rent exceeds the previous rent by more than four annas in the rupee.

(c) Subject as aforesaid, and subject also to section 48, the enhanced rent shall bear to the previous rent the same proportion as the average prices during the last quinquennial period bear to the average prices during the previous quinquennial period taken for purposes of comparison.

Rules as to enhancement on ground of landlord's improvement.

46. Where an enhancement is claimed on the ground of a landlord's improvement—

(a) The Court shall not grant an enhancement unless the improvement has been registered in accordance with this Act.

(ii) the cost of the improvement;

(iii) the cost of the cultivation required for utilizing the improvement, and

Rules as to enhancement on ground of increase of productive powers due to fluvial action.

47. Where an enhancement is claimed on the ground of an increase in productive powers due to fluvial action—

(a) The Court shall not take into account any increase which is merely temporary or casual.

(b) The enhanced rent shall not exceed the previous rent by more than four annas in the rupee.

(c) The Court may enhance the rent to such an amount as it may deem fair and equitable, but not so as to give the landlord more than one-half of the value of the net increase in the produce of the land.

Enhancement to be fair and equitable.

48. The Court shall not in any case decree any enhancement which appears under the circumstances of the case to be unfair or inequitable.

[C.B., s. 29 (d). B. B. s. 24 (d).] Section 77.

Power to order progressive enhancement.

49. If the Court passing a decree for enhancement considers that the immediate enforcement of the decree in its full extent will be attended with hardship to the raiyat, it may direct that the enhancement shall be gradual; that is to say, that the rent shall increase yearly by degrees for any number of years not exceeding five until the limit of the enhancement decreed has been reached.

[B. B., 143.] Section 78.

Limitation of right to bring successive enhancement-suits.

50. (1) A suit instituted for the enhancement of the rent of a holding on the ground that the rent paid is below the prevailing rate, or on the ground of an increase in prices, shall not be entertained if within the fifteen years next preceding its institution the rent of the holding has been enhanced by a contract made after the second day of March, 1883, or if within the said period of fifteen years the rent has been commuted under section 58 or a decree has been passed under this Act or any enactment repealed by this Act enhancing the rent on either of the grounds aforesaid or any ground corresponding thereto or dismissing the suit on the merits.

(3) When a raiyat has paid as rent a fixed share or the value of a fixed share of the produce of the land, the rent or rate of rent shall not be deemed to have been changed within the meaning of this section merely by reason of the amount paid having varied from year to year, or by reason of the rent having been commuted with the consent of both the raiyat and his landlord to a fixed money rent.

(2) In determining the amount to be added to the rent the Court shall have regard to the rates payable by tenants of the same class for lands of a similar description and with similar advantages in the vicinity, and, in the case of a tenure-holder, to the profits to which he is entitled in respect of the rent of his tenure.

(3) The amount abated from the rent shall bear the same proportion to the rent previously payable as the diminution of the total yearly value of the holding bears to the previous total yearly value thereof, or, in default of satisfactory proof of the yearly value of the land lost, shall bear to the rent previously payable the same proportion as the diminution of area bears to the previous area of the holding.

CHAPTER IX.

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS AS TO LANDLORDS AND TENANTS.

Improvements.

Improvements.

[C. B., s. 29. B. B., s. 69.] Section 126.

Definition of improvement.

87. (1) For the purposes of this Act the term "improvement," used with reference to a raiyat's holding, shall mean any work which adds to the letting-value of the holding, which is suitable to the holding and consistent with the purpose for which it was let, and which, if not executed on the holding, is either executed directly for its benefit, or is, after execution, made directly beneficial to it.

(2) The following shall be presumed until the contrary is shown to be improvements within the meaning of this section:—

(a) the construction of wells, tanks and other works for the storage, supply or distribution of water for the purposes of agriculture, or for the use of men and cattle employed in agriculture;

(b) the preparation of land for irrigation;

(c) the drainage, reclamation from rivers or other waters, or protection from floods, or from erosion or other damage by water, of land used for agricultural purposes, or waste-land which is culturable;

(d) the reclamation, clearance, enclosure or permanent improvement of land for agricultural purposes;

(e) the renewal or re-construction of any of the foregoing works, or alterations therein, or additions thereto; and

(f) the erection of a suitable dwelling-house for the raiyat and his family, together with all necessary out-offices.

(3) But no work executed by the raiyat of a holding shall be deemed to be an improvement for the purposes of this Act if it substantially diminishes the value of the estate or tenure of his landlord.

Right to make improvements in case of holding at fixed rates.

88. Where a raiyat holds at a fixed rent or a fixed rate of rent, his landlord shall not be entitled, as such, to prevent him from making any improvement in respect of his holding.

[C. B., s. 77. B. B., s. 69.] Section 127.

Right to make improvement in case of occupancy-holding.

89. (1) Where a raiyat has an occupancy-right in his holding neither the raiyat nor his landlord shall, as such, be entitled to prevent the other from making an improvement in respect of the holding, except on the ground that he is willing to make it himself.

(2) If both the raiyat and his landlord wish to make the same improvement, the raiyat shall have the prior right to make it, unless it affects another holding or other holdings under the same landlord.

(3) If a question arises between the raiyat and his landlord—

(a) as to the right to make an improvement, or

(b) as to whether a particular work is an improvement, the Collector may, on the application of either party, decide the question, and his decision shall be final.

[C. B., s. 77. B. B., s. 69.] Section 128.

Right to make improvement in case of non-occupancy holding.

90. (1) A non-occupancy-raiyat shall be entitled to erect a suitable dwelling-house for himself and his family, with all necessary out-offices; but shall not, except as aforesaid and as next hereinafter provided, be entitled to make any other improvement in respect of his holding without his landlord's permission.

(2) A non-occupancy-raiyat who would, but for the want of his landlord's permission, be entitled to make an improvement in respect of his holding, may, if he desires that the improvement be made, deliver, or cause to be delivered, to his landlord a request in writing calling upon him to make the improvement within a reasonable time; and, if the landlord is unable or neglects to comply with that request, may make the improvement himself.

Registration of landlord's improvements.

91. (1) A landlord may register any improvement which he has lawfully made or which has been lawfully made at his expense or which he has assisted a tenant in making, by application to such Revenue-officer as the Local Government may appoint.

(2) The application shall be in such form, shall contain such information, and shall be verified in such manner, by local inquiry or otherwise, as the Local Government by rule directs.

(3) The officer receiving the application may reject it if it has not been made within twelve months—

(a) in the case of improvements made before the commencement of this Act—from the commencement of this Act;

(b) in the case of improvements made after the commencement of this Act—from the date of the completion of the work.

Application to record evidence as to improvement.

92. (1) If any landlord or tenant of a holding desires that evidence relating to any improvement made in respect thereof be recorded, he may apply to a Revenue-officer, who shall thereupon record the evidence in the presence of the parties, unless he considers that there are no reasonable grounds for making the application, or it is made to appear that the subject-matter thereof is under inquiry in a Civil Court.

(2) When any matter has been recorded under this section, the record thereof shall be admissible in evidence in any subsequent proceedings between the landlord and tenant or any persons claiming under them.

Compensation for raiyats' improvements.

93. (1) Every raiyat who is ejected from his holding shall be entitled to compensation for improvements which have been made in accordance with this Act by him, or by his predecessor in interest, and for which compensation has not already been made.

(2) Whenever a Court makes a decree or order for the ejectment of a raiyat, it shall determine the amount of compensation (if any) due under this section to the raiyat for improvements, and shall make the decree or order of ejectment conditional on the payment of that amount to the raiyat.

(3) No compensation under this section for an improvement shall be claimable where the raiyat has made the improvement in pursuance of a contract or under a lease binding him, in consideration of some substantial advantage to be obtained by him, to make the improvement without compensation, and he has obtained that advantage.

(4) Improvements made by a raiyat between the 2nd day of March, 1883, and the commencement of this Act shall be deemed to have been made in accordance with this Act.

Section 130.

(5) The Local Government may, from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, make rules requiring the Court to associate with itself, for the purpose of estimating the compensation to be awarded under this section for an improvement, such number of assessors as the Local Government thinks fit, and determining the qualifications of those assessors and the mode of selecting them.

Section 131.

Principle on which compensation is to be estimated.

94. (1) In estimating the compensation to be awarded under the last foregoing section for an improvement, regard shall be had—

(a) to the amount by which the letting-value, or the produce, of the holding, or the value of that produce, is increased by the improvement;

(b) to the condition of the improvement, and the probable duration of its effects;

(c) to the labour and capital required for the making of such an improvement;

(d) to any reduction or remission of rent or any other advantage given by the landlord to the raiyat in consideration of the improvement; and

(e) in the case of a reclamation or of the conversion of unirrigated into irrigated land, to the length of time during which the raiyat has had the benefit of the improvement at an unenhanced rent.

(2) When the amount of the compensation has been assessed, the landlord and raiyat may, if they think fit, agree that, instead of being paid wholly in money, it shall be made wholly or partly in some other way.

(2) But, notwithstanding the surrender, the raiyat shall continue to be liable for the rent of the holding for the agricultural year next following the date of the surrender, unless he gives to his landlord, at least three months before he surrenders, notice of his intention to surrender.

(3) In the following cases the Court shall for the purposes of this section presume, until the contrary is shown, that such notice was so given, namely:—

(a) if the raiyat takes a new holding in the same village from the same landlord during the agricultural year next following the surrender;

(b) if the raiyat ceases, at least three months before the end of the agricultural year at the end of which the surrender is made, to reside in the village in which the surrendered holding is situate;

(c) if the landlord himself, at any time during the agricultural year next following the surrender, lets to another tenant or cultivates the holding or any part thereof.

(4) The raiyat may, if he thinks fit, cause the notice to be served through the Court within the jurisdiction of which the holding or any portion of it is situate.

(5) When a raiyat has surrendered his holding the landlord may enter on the holding and either let it to another tenant or take it into cultivation himself.
