REPORTS ON THE STATE OF THE SEASON AND PROSPECTS OF THE CROPS FOR THE WEEK ENDING 23rd SEPTEMBER 1885.

GENERAL REMARKS.—Rain is reported from all the districts of the Madras Presidency. In Bellary and Anantapur prospects have much improved. Elsewhere they are said to be fair, though more rain is required in most districts. In Mysore slight rain fell during the week in the Tumkur, Kolar, and Bangalore districts, but more is urgently required throughout the State, especially in the two districts first-named and in Chitaldroog. Agricultural operations have been resumed in some places, and the prospects of the season have slightly improved, except in parts of Tumkur, Chitaldroog, Shimoga, and Kadur. The cattle continue in poor condition, but an improvement is reported to be more plentiful.

Good rain has fallen throughout the Deccan and Southern Mahratta Country, and the condition of crops has been much improved. In most districts of Guzerat and in parts of Tanna and Colaba more rain is urgently needed. The kharij harvest generally promises well, and preparations for the rabi crops have commenced in places. In the Berars and in Hyderabad the rainfall of the week has been beneficial to the crops, which are generally doing well. In parts of Akola more rain is badly wanted. In Rajputana more rain is wanted in several States, but crop prospects are, on the whole, favourable. Rain is also wanted throughout the Central India States.

From the Central Provinces good rain is reported in the districts in which it was most wanted, and prospects have much improved. More rain is, however, very generally required. In the Punjab slight rain fell during the week. Kharij prospects are generally good, and agricultural operations for the spring crops have commenced in places. In the North-Western Provinces and Oudh the rainfall has been slight, and more rain is wanted, both for rice crops and rabi sowings. General prospects are, however, good.

In Bengal rain has been general, though fortunately less heavy than in previous weeks, and the cessation has been very beneficial. The haradgi harvest is in progress, and late rice crops on lands not inundated are doing excellently. Floods have caused more or less damage in many places, particularly in parts of the Burdwan and Presidency Divisions. In Assam much rain has fallen during the past fortnight. In Sylhet crops have been much injured by floods, which are, however, reported to be subsiding. In the other districts agricultural prospects continue generally good.

In British Burma the weather continues seasonable.

The public health is generally fair in most Provinces.

Prices are fluctuating in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh and in the Central Provinces. In the Shimoga district of Mysore they are reported to be rapidly rising, and a slight rise has also occurred in Coorg. In Bengal the price of rice continues high. Elsewhere prices are fairly steady.

| General Remarks. —Rain in all districts during the week. Prospects of crops are good, except on the flooded tracts in the Burdwan and Presidency Divisions, and in Behar, and also on the sea coast of Orissa, where cyclone of the 22nd instant caused great damage. Bhadai crops, where not injured by floods, are being harvested with fair results. Price of rice continues high all over the province. Fever is prevalent in some districts, but public health, on the whole, is fair. |                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |

As explained in previous reports, a note is in "Gross Circulation" when it is not yet returned to the original office of issue; but if it has meantime been paid off by another office of issue, and is held by it pending return to the original office of issue, then it has ceased to be in "Net Circulation," though it is still part of the "Gross Circulation."

5. The details of the net circulation of March 31st, 1885, are as follows :—

The figures under Bombay include the outstanding circulation of the abolished Sub-Circles of Nagpur and Akola.

6. There is, it will be observed, an increase in the net circulation under all denominations. As compared with the figures of the previous year, the total increase in value is 182 lakhs, but there was a falling-off of 175 lakhs in 1883-84 as compared with the year 1882-83. The lower denominations show a steady increase and the fluctuations only occur in the Notes of Rs. 1,000 and Rs. 10,000 which are mainly held by the Banks. The increase, in the 20-rupee Notes of the Calcutta Circle, the circulation of which during the last two years had considerably diminished on account of the forgery detected in August 1882, and brought to notice in the report for 1882-83, would show that public confidence in these Notes is beginning now to be restored.

7. From these figures it will be found that the average value of each Note in circulation on the last day of the year, compared with the past two years, was :—

|                 | 1882-83. | 1883-84. | 1884-85. |                  | 1882-83. | 1883-84. | 1884-85. |

| Calcutta Circle | 39       | 30       | 32       | Kurrachee Circle | 58       | 61       | 84       |
| Allahabad "     | 94       | 60       | 67       | Madras "         | 71       | 63       | 58       |
| Lahore "        | 71       | 73       | 69       | Calicut "        | 34       | 32       | 33       |

The large fall in the average in Rangoon is due principally to the small number of 10,000-rupee Notes which happened to be in circulation on 31st March, but the Commissioner states that there was no difference in the issues of these Notes, taking the whole year, as compared with the previous year.

8. The variations in the net circulation of each circle are shown in the following table, omitting 000 :—

9. On these the following remarks are offered :—

First, for Calcutta I show for the last three years the figures of the net circulation (in lakhs of rupees), excluding the Reserve Treasury of Government—

| Last day of | 1882-83. | 1883-84. | 1884-85. | Last day of | 1882-83. | 1883-84. | 1884-85. |

Thus the state of circulation in Calcutta, during the year under report was somewhat different to past years. It commenced, as before, with a low range, but showed a tendency to rise from August. It fell in January, rose again in February, and attained an unusually high figure in March.

In Bombay the circulation of the year under report as compared with the previous year is decidedly high, and the Commissioner of Paper Currency offers the following observations in regard to it:—

"The circulation has been larger throughout this year than last year. It rose steadily from 324 in April to 482 in November, and then began to fall off a little from December to February, when banks and merchants required silver for their cold-weather operations. Still the circulation at the end of the latter month stood at 398, which is much in excess of even the maximum circulation of last year. In March following the circulation again showed a tendency to increase, as it rose at once from 398 to 445 in one month. This was due, I consider, in a great measure to a stagnation in the export trade, and to the steady influx of bullion. But these causes would affect the circulation of the higher denominations only, while the increase during 1884-85 is to be found in Notes of all denominations. It is difficult to account for this otherwise than by the assumption that the convenience arising from the use of Notes in the transactions of every-day life is becoming more generally appreciated, and that there was some activity in inland trade (apart from the cash transactions in country produce for export), which called for the use of Notes of smaller denominations."

In Madras also the circulation, it will be observed, was comparatively high, the maximum being in March.

11. The following figures show (in lakhs and thousands) the "gross circulation" in the Presidency Circles, of Notes not exceeding Rs. 100 each:—

ANALYSIS OF CIRCULATION.

12. The following statement analyses the outstandings on 31st December 1884 by years of issue.

As explained in former reports, the amount thus shown is necessarily much greater than the circulation of the date in question, as it includes, among other things, balances of Notes held in Currency Offices themselves for re-issue to the public.

EXPLANATIONS.

- a and d.—These are the ordinary issues and receipts in exchange for other notes or for coin.
- b and e.—These are exchange transactions with treasuries, as the Agencies do not deal direct with the public, but only enable the treasuries to do so to a greater extent than would otherwise be the case.
- f.—This figure represents notes cashed at other currency circles from March 16th, 1884, to March 15th, 1885, and returned during the year under report to the circles to which they belong.
- g.—These remittances are for the most part payments and receipts of one currency office, in consideration of receipts or payments at another.

27. I give below statements similar to those given last year of the whole rupees coined and issued from the Indian Mints during the years 1835 to 1884, and the proportions of each of those issues found on examination in every District Treasury of a bag of 2,000 rupees of the coin ordinarily current in the district.

There is considerable difficulty in drawing any general conclusions from the movement of coin which these statements indicate. New coin being largely used for melting into ornaments the coinage of a prosperous year, or perhaps of the year preceding, is likely to disappear comparatively quickly. The large remittances of coin to the Punjab from Bombay in 1879 to provide for war expenditure account for the high proportion of coin of that year circulating in the Province. Very large specie remittances are made to Burma at the commencement of the rice season, but whether it is in new or old coin depends on whether it is found convenient to obtain the actual coin from Calcutta or Bombay, where it would probably be freshly minted, or from Madras where it would be accumulated from general circulation.

Thus it appears that the receipts were higher than for some years past, though not so high as in 1879-80, when the total was Rs. 9,31,22,111. The Secretary of State's drawings were small during the months of April to September.

The proportion of receipts between Calcutta and Bombay was much as usual. Specie from Europe naturally comes to Bombay as the nearest port, but it may be observed that of the large amount received in Calcutta about  $\frac{2}{3}$  came from Europe and  $\frac{1}{3}$  from or through China.

FORGERY AND FRAUD.

36. No new class of forgeries has appeared during the year; a few of the same description as mentioned in previous reports have been presented, and two or three notes drawn by hand with more or less successful imitation of a genuine note, but there is nothing to call for special remark.

37. The details are as follows:—

Eleven more notes of Rs. 20, similar to the forgery reported in 1883, were detected; also 6 five-rupee notes very roughly executed: this forgery was noticed in last year's report, paragraph 45. Three ten-rupee notes drawn by hand and one of the old pattern altered to represent a Rs. 1,000 note: none of these were dangerous imitations. A man was detected in Bombay attempting to sell two forged Rs. 1,000 notes of the kind discovered in 1878.

REMITTANCES OF SILVER.

38. The following is the detail of silver remittances:—

|                       | R         |
|-----------------------|-----------|
| Allahabad to Calcutta | 50,22,000 |
| Kurrachee to Bombay   | 14,000    |
| Bombay to Kurrachee   | 60,30,300 |
| Bombay to Calcutta    | 20,00,000 |
| Bombay to Madras      | 50,00,000 |
| Bombay to Allahabad   | 60,00,000 |

39. The remittance from Allahabad comprised thirty lakhs of current coin, and the remainder in shroff-marked coin sent for recoinage to the Calcutta Mint. The remittances from Bombay were as usual to disperse a part of the large sums tendered in Bullion for coinage.

LOCAL AUTHORITIES LOAN ACT, 1879, AMENDMENT BILL, 1885.

The Hon'ble MR. HOPE moved that the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend the Local Authorities Loan Act, 1879, be taken into consideration. He said:—

"In March last, when I had the honour to move for leave to introduce the Bill to amend the Local Authorities Loan Act of 1879, I mentioned that a certain small local railway was required in the district of Tanjore, in the Madras Presidency, and that the proposal was that it should be constructed by a company, the interest upon the capital to be raised by the company being guaranteed by the Local Funds Board of Tanjore. At the same time I added that we considered that there was a legal difficulty in the way of the Board giving this guarantee, which existed in the general Local Authorities Loan Act of 1879, and that we thought that it would be better to amend that general Act in the first place, without any specific provision for Tanjore in particular. The Bill is an extremely simple one, as the Council will perceive, and I trust that the Council will accede to the Motion which stands in my name that it be passed to-day. It will be seen, however, from the Bill that, before it can take effect anywhere, a further special enactment is required. Such an enactment will, in the case of Local Governments possessing them, be one to be passed by their own legislatures—and by the legislature of the Madras Presidency in the first instance—if they should think it necessary. In the case of other Governments who do not possess legislatures, such as the North-Western Provinces and the Punjab, any enactment of this kind that might be required would have to be passed in our own Council, and it would probably take the form of amendment of some of the existing local Acts, such as the Municipalities or Local Boards Acts, applying to particular Provinces. The present case arises, as I have already said, out of the needs of the district of Tanjore, and those needs, as regards Tanjore, will no doubt be provided for by local legislation; but along with the Tanjore case it was brought to our notice that there were several other localities which would be very much benefited by a similar arrangement. The Tanjore case was put forward as a sort of test case, but other branch lines will probably be deemed by the Madras Government to be of importance also, and in that case it will be for them to consider whether they will make their Act general for all Local Boards in the Madras Presidency. Supposing that sanction had been accorded by the Secretary of State to this course, namely, that they should pass a general Act applying to their Presidency, it would then be for other Local Governments to consider whether it was desirable for them to follow suit. I may here add, in conclusion, that from my own point of view I look upon this little Bill as one of very great potential value. Throughout India a very large number of small branches are wanted to our great trunk lines, and the need of this is being constantly pressed upon us by local authorities—commercial, administrative and others—with great urgency. At the same time it is quite obvious that we cannot out of Imperial Funds construct such branches, or give guarantees to Companies to construct them. If such branches are to be constructed at all, the funds for guarantees must be found in some way totally distinct from those of the Imperial Government, in fact, from sources which lie to hand in the local and municipal revenues of India. At the same time it will be an exceedingly good test of the real necessity of any such branches that such Local Boards or Bodies should have to bear the burden of their construction; and I think we shall thereby obtain an additional safeguard that money will not be thoughtlessly thrown away. On the other hand, I may add that in the proceedings of these Boards I earnestly hope the interests of the riyats will not be lost sight of, and that care will be taken, while providing branches in cases where they are really necessary, not to allow them to absorb funds which should more properly be distributed in some manner better calculated to give the greatest amount of general benefit to all the contributors to the land-revenue, cesses and other sources from which those funds are raised."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. HOPE also moved that the Bill, as amended, be passed.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

CENTRAL PROVINCES CIVIL COURTS BILL, 1885.

The Hon'ble Mr. ILBERT moved that the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend the Law relating to Civil Courts in the Central Provinces be taken into consideration. He said:—

"I have fortunately very little to say on this Motion. The Bill to which the Motion relates is based upon a scheme which had been very carefully considered by the Chief-Commissioner of the Central Provinces and his officers. The Bill itself was settled in personal consultation with the Chief Commissioner when he visited Simla a few months ago, and he has now informed us that, after referring again to his officers, he is of opinion that its provisions meet the requirements of the case. He has advised us to pass the Bill without alteration, and the Report of the Select Committee is framed in accordance with that advice."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. ILBERT also moved that the Bill be passed.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

KHOJÁ SUCCESSION BILL, 1885.

The Hon'ble Mr. ILBERT also moved that the Hon'ble Mr. Amír Alí be added to the Select Committee on the Bill to amend and define the law of Testamentary and Intestate Succession to Khojás. He said:—

"Mr. Amír Alí has already been kind enough to give us, on behalf of one of the Muhammadan Associations, some valuable suggestions with respect to this Bill, and I am glad to avail myself of his visit to Simla by asking him to assist in the further deliberations of the Select Committee on a measure which undoubtedly raises some very difficult and important questions."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

CENTRAL PROVINCES GOVERNMENT WARDS BILL, 1885.

The Hon'ble Mr. ILBERT also presented the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to make better provision for the Superintendence of Government Wards in the Central Provinces.

The Council adjourned to Thursday, the 8th October, 1885.

No. 134 Met.
I—

Extract from the Proceedings of the Government of India, in the Revenue and Agricultural Department (Meteorology),—dated Simla, the 9th October, 1885.

Read the following:—

Summary of the Weather Reports for September 1885.

The chief features in the meteorology of the past month have been the practical cessation of the rains over the greater part of North-Western India, and the passage of a small but severe cyclone from the Bay across the Orissa coast and thence into Behar. Both branches of the monsoon have been more or less unsteady, and the rainfall has been chiefly determined by subsidiary depressions, occasioning thunder-storms with heavy local rain, and (in Bengal) by the larger disturbance noticed above.

Beyond a few showers, no rain of importance fell in the Punjab or the adjacent parts of the North-Western Provinces, either on the hills or plains, after the 7th; and in the Berars, Central India, and Rajputana, except a few showers, generally of small amount, during the third week, there was scarcely any rain throughout. Similar conditions prevailed in Khandesh. Malegaon and Dhulia had only slight and occasional showers and the rainfall was very deficient. In the Indus Valley not a drop of rain fell throughout the month.

From the 1st to the 5th there was fairly general, and in places heavy, rain over Bengal and for some distance up the Gangetic plain, and slight rain in the Peninsula. On the 6th and 7th rain was restricted to Bengal and a few places in the Central Provinces and the Peninsula. On the 8th heavy showers occurred in the South Carnatic, but on the 9th and the three following days little rain of importance fell in any part of the country. On the 13th showers recurred over the Peninsula, and from that date until the 18th they were fairly general throughout Southern India, Bengal, and Assam. On the 19th and 20th there was no rain of importance throughout the whole of India, and on the latter day a serious cyclonic depression began to form off the Orissa and Ganjam coasts. This cyclone passed over the land probably at about 7 or 8 A.M. on the 22nd. It occasioned heavy rain in its immediate neighbourhood and slight rain over the whole of India, except the North-West; but the heaviest precipitation connected with this disturbance occurred during the 23rd and 24th, when the storm had reached Behar and was breaking up. After the dispersion of this storm, a few showers occurred in different parts of the country; but these became less general, and the only rainfall reported, during the last few days, was from a few places in the peninsula.

The table of the month's rainfall shows that it was deficient throughout the whole of the Punjab, the North-Western Provinces, the Central Provinces, the Peninsula (with the exception of the Deccan, Hyderabad, Mysore, and Bellary), the Eastern Peninsula, and Ceylon, while it was in excess over the whole of Bengal, from Behar to Orissa, and in Assam and Cachar. As compared with previous months, there is a great improvement in Mysore, Bellary, and the Deccan, but in some other parts of the country the rainfall has been very deficient.

The total rainfall of the season is very deficient in the Indus Valley—particularly at Peshawar,—slightly in the north of the Punjab and at Sirsa; also from Khandwa westward in Central India and Khandesh, and southward in the Bombay Deccan and North Mysore. Elsewhere the rainfall of the four months has been up to, or has exceeded, the average.

The cyclone.—The information respecting this cyclone, which was the most severe storm of the present year, is at present very scanty and, owing to the unfortunate disaster at False Point, all particulars from that most important station are wanting. From newspaper reports it appears that in about longitude 87° 30' E. and latitude 20° 0' N. the barometer read early on the morning of the 22nd as low as 28.20 inches; but the report received from Cuttack, which, after False Point, was the station most directly in the path of the storm, reports no lower reading than 29.23 inches. The first indication of the formation of the cyclone was given by Diamond Island, which on the 20th reported a south-east wind and a very rough sea; but it was not till the morning of the 21st, when the wind backed to north-east on the Orissa and Ganjam coasts and the barometer began to fall at False Point, Saugor Island, and Gopalpore, that there was any direct evidence of the formation of a cyclone. After 10 A.M. on the 21st, however, the storm must have advanced and developed with great rapidity, as by 10 A.M. on the following morning the centre was at Cuttack, where the barometer had fallen half an inch. The following telegram was despatched from Cuttack at 7 P.M., 22nd: "Cyclone began 1 A.M., reaching greatest velocity at 9; a break at 11-30. Wind still blowing with greatest violence." After leaving Cuttack the storm rapidly decreased in intensity, and travelled quickly north-westward. The centre lay between Gya and Benares on the 23rd, and was almost indistinguishable on the 24th. As the intensity of the storm decreased, the rainfall appeared to increase. Before reaching Behar, the surrounding precipitation, though heavy, had not been exceptional, but on the 23rd and 24th the following amounts were reported from Northern Bengal:—

|            | Inches. |          | Inches. |
|------------|---------|----------|---------|
| Darjeeling | 13      | Gorakpur | 8½      |
| Purneah    | 9       | Dinapore | 6       |
| Patna      | 4½      |          |         |

With the exception of a few places in the Peninsula, pressure was everywhere above the average of the month. This excess was greatest (between 0.05 inch and 0.08 inch) within a band which ran east and east-north-east from Guzerat across Central India, the south of the North-Western Provinces, and the Central Provinces to the Orissa Coast. On either side of this band the amount of the anomaly decreased, diminishing to +.017 at Peshawar and to -.051 inch at Mangalore. The differences of temperature from the average in Northern India were somewhat irregular; but on the whole, September was a cool month, particularly in Bengal. In the Central parts of the country, in the Peninsula, and also in Burma, on the contrary, temperature was in excess. Humidity was below the average almost everywhere, the principal exceptions being North and East Bengal and a few places in Madras.

The following table shows the amount of rain and the difference from the average during the month of September according to districts, as far as is indicated by the telegraphic reports:—

| Districts.                                     | Average rainfall in September. | Difference from the average in September 1885. |

REPORTS ON THE STATE OF THE SEASON AND PROSPECTS OF THE CROPS FOR THE WEEK ENDING 7th OCTOBER 1885.

GENERAL REMARKS.—Good rain is again reported from the Madras Presidency;—in Bellary especially the fall was heavy; and both in that district and in Anantapur prospects have much improved. Elsewhere prospects are fair. From Mysore general rain is reported; the standing crops are improving, and agricultural operations are in general progress. Water and fodder are available. Murrain is reported in parts of Mysore, but the cattle are generally improving in condition. In Coorg the season continues favourable.

Good rain is reported throughout the Deccan and Southern Mahratta Country and in parts of Guzerat. In the north of Guzerat more rain is still needed for the crops, which are withering. Rabi sowings are going on in several districts.

In the Berars the crops are in good condition, except in parts of Akola, where more rain is required. In the Nizam's Territories the recent rain has been beneficial to the crops. In the Central India and Rajputana States little or no rain fell during the week under report. In Agar and Sehore in the former, and in Marwar, Kherwara, Meywar, Harrowti, Jhallawar, and Ulwar in the latter, more rain is much wanted.

In the Central Provinces prospects are fair in all districts, except in Nimar and Raipur, where the crops are suffering from want of rain. Preparations for the rabi are in progress in some districts. In the Punjab the rainfall of the week was confined to the Ferozepore and Rawalpindi Districts, and more rain is wanted in places. Rabi operations are in progress in the south-east. In the North-Western Provinces and Oudh slight rain fell in a few districts, but more is required. General prospects are however good.

General rain is reported from Bengal. Prospects of the crops are generally good, except on the inundated tracts in the Burdwan and Presidency Divisions, and in Behar. On the Orissa coast crops have been much damaged by the late cyclone. The bhadoi crops are yielding fairly where not damaged by floods. In Assam agricultural prospects continue favourable.

In British Burma seasonable weather prevails, and crop prospects are good.

The public health is generally fair.

Prices are fluctuating in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh and in the Punjab;—in Mysore no material change is reported; while in Bengal the price of rice is falling in some districts. Elsewhere prices are generally steady.

CENTRAL PROVINCES GOVERNMENT WARDS BILL, 1885.

The Hon'ble MR. ILBERT moved that the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to make better provision for the Superintendence of Government Wards in the Central Provinces be taken into consideration. He said:—

“This Bill has received the general approval of the Chief Commissioner, but there are one or two points of minor importance with respect to which the Committee thought that the Bill was susceptible of improvement, and we have made a few amendments accordingly.

“The class of persons who may be brought under the jurisdiction of the Court of Wards is described in the Bill as ‘landholders,’ and the term ‘landholder’ was defined in the original Bill, by reference to certain technical terms in use in the Central Provinces, as meaning mālguzárs, certain zamindárs who are mentioned in a schedule to the Scheduled Districts Act, and persons who, under various names, occupy the position of assignees of land-revenue.

“But it is possible that there are other persons who are interested in land, and to whom it would be convenient to apply the provisions of the law, and yet who would not fall precisely under any one of these terms. Consequently we have made the definition more elastic by empowering the Chief Commissioner, with the previous sanction of the Government of India, to extend the definition of landholder to other persons interested in land.

“Then we were not satisfied that the provisions of the original Bill were sufficiently clear with respect to testamentary guardians. It is very desirable to interfere as little as possible with testamentary arrangements. There are doubtless cases where it becomes necessary to remove or supersede a testamentary guardian for misconduct or incompetency, but this power should, in the opinion of the Select Committee, be exercised by a Civil Court after judicial inquiry, and not by an executive authority such as that which will discharge the functions of the Court of Wards under the present Bill. Accordingly we have made it clear that the minors who come under the jurisdiction of the Court of Wards are minors who have not guardians appointed for their property by will. If there is any doubt—I do not say that there is any doubt—about the power of a Civil Court to remove or supersede such guardians, it will be removed by a Bill which I hope to introduce before long, and which will consolidate and amend the general law relating to guardians and wards.

“Then, as we desire to avoid interference with testamentary dispositions, we desire to interfere as little as possible with the relations of husband and wife.

The husband is the natural guardian of the wife, and it is not intended that a married heiress, even in cases where it is necessary to take or retain her property under the charge of the Court of Wards, should be removed from the custody of her husband. We have made this point more clear than it was in the original Bill, by altering the form and position of one of the provisions which declares that nothing in a particular section of the Bill shall authorize the Court of Wards to assume the superintendence of the person of a female who is married to a man of full age and is in his custody.

"It has been suggested to me that, even in its amended form, the Bill possibly gives unduly large powers to the Court of Wards over the property of heiresses; but I think that, if the provisions of the Bill are carefully examined, it will be found that they are not open to this objection. If you look at section 7 you will find that the persons who are to be deemed, for the purposes of the measure, disqualified to manage their own property are divisible into two classes. The first class comprises minors who have not guardians appointed for their property by will and persons adjudged by a competent Civil Court to be of unsound mind and incapable of managing their affairs. These persons—minors and lunatics—are necessarily disqualified. Then there is another class of persons which is described by the Bill as follows:—

'persons declared by the Chief Commissioner to be incapable of managing their own property—

'(i) owing to any physical defect or infirmity,

'(ii) owing to their having been convicted of a non-bailable offence, and being unfitted by vice or bad character,

'(It will be observed that the grounds of disqualification are cumulative.)

'(iii) owing to their being females, or

'(iv) on their own application.'

"Now, it was not intended to imply that a lady is, as such, incapable of managing her own property. Nothing was further from the intention of the framers of this Bill than to suggest anything so untrue or so ungallant as this. All that we meant to say was—and all that I think the Bill when properly read does say is this—that where a landholder is a lady the Chief Commissioner is to be empowered to enquire into her case,—and he will be bound to enquire into each case on its own individual merits,—and if he finds that she is not only a lady but is also incapable of managing her own property, in that case, and in that case only, is her property placed under the superintendence of the Court of Wards. The Chief Commissioner will be responsible for the exercise of his discretion in each individual case, and I need hardly say that the discretion thus exercised will be subject to the controlling orders of the Government of India.

"The only other amendment which I need notice is the addition of a clause which provides in effect that managers and other servants of the Court of Wards who are guilty of receiving bribes shall be punishable under the Indian Penal Code as though they were 'public servants' within the meaning of that Code.

"These are the principal alterations which the Select Committee have introduced into the Bill since its introduction."

The Hon'ble Mr. AMIR ALI said:—"With Your Lordship's permission I desire to say a few words with reference to this Bill and the remarks made by the Hon'ble Mr. ILBERT with regard to the provisions of section 7. I am bound to say, as I mentioned to my hon'ble friend the Law Member, that I had considerable objections to the language of the section and the provision respecting the disqualification of females. It seemed to me as if there was an invitation to disqualify a female from managing her own property owing to the mere fact of her being a female; but I think the explanation now offered by Mr. ILBERT meets to a considerable extent the difficulties which I had apprehended, though I would have preferred the provision relating to the disqualification of females to have been put into a separate section. That, however, is too late now, and probably a substantive Motion would be required by the rules of this Council for putting the provision in that shape. I think the public may be satisfied with the explanation now given, and I trust that the discretion with which the Chief Commissioner is vested will be exercised only when the female is found to be incapable of managing her estate, and not simply because she is a female.

"Regarding the provisions of section 10 it appeared to me they were likely to create considerable alarm in the public mind, but what has fallen from the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill, that the discretion must be exercised on some substantial grounds, and that there is after all a reference to the Government of India if the discretion is exercised upon grounds which do not furnish a reasonable basis for proceeding to declare a person disqualified to manage his or her estate, will, I believe, allay the doubts of the public on this point."

The Hon'ble Mr. HUNTER said:—"My Lord, I think the alteration made by the Select Committee in regard to the penal responsibility of officers of the Court of Wards is an improvement. Those officers exercise in many matters the same powers as public servants, and they are practically shielded by the authority of the public servants to whom they are subordinate. It seems right, therefore, that in regard to taking bribes or other illegal gratifications, they should be subject to the same restraints, and to the same punishments, as public servants. The amendment made by the Select Committee, on the suggestion of the Chief Commissioner of the Central Provinces, will protect the interests of the public, and it will act as a salutary safeguard to the integrity of the officers concerned."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. ILBERT moved that the Bill, as amended, be passed.

INDIAN SECURITIES BILL, 1885.

The Hon'ble Sir A. COLVIN presented the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend the law relating to Government Securities.

MIRZAPUR STONE MAHAL BILL, 1885.

The Hon'ble Mr. ILBERT moved for leave to introduce a Bill to declare and amend the law relating to the Stone Mahal in the District of Mirzapur in the North-Western Provinces. He said:—

"This is a Bill of a purely local character, and its object is to make better provision for regulating the use of the well-known quarries of building-stone situated near the hill fort of Chunar, under which we pass as we go by rail from Allahabad to the junction for Benares.

"These quarries are at present under an old Regulation of the year 1800, and the circumstances under which that Regulation was passed are described in its preamble, which runs as follows:—

'The stone-quarries at Chunar, Ghazipur and Mirzapur, in the Province of Benares, have been hitherto worked for the exclusive use of Government, and either let in farm, under the provisions contained in sections 81 and 82 of Regulation XXII, 1795, or managed (since August, 1797) by an agent, who disposed of the stones, at stated prices, chiefly in the city of Benares.

'With a view to encourage the excavation of the quarries, and bring a greater quantity of stones to sale for the general convenience of builders and others, a notification was published, under date the 9th April, 1799, that the stone-quarries in the Province of Benares had been laid open for public use, subject to a duty, the rates of which would be subsequently published for general information.

'In pursuance of this notification, and for the purpose of determining the rates of duty upon all stones quarried by individuals subsequent thereto, or which may be hereafter quarried under this Regulation, the following rules have been enacted by the Governor General in Council, to be considered in force, as far as they respect the rates of duty, from the 9th day of April last, and in all other respects from the period of their promulgation in the Province of Benares.'

"I may mention that a curious little blunder was made in drafting this Regulation. At the time when it was passed one of the principal quarries was situated at a village near Chunar, which is described in the records of the time by a name spelt variously as "Cassepoor," "Cassipoor," "Cassepore" and "Ghasseepoor." When the draft came up to Calcutta, to be settled, the copyist, who had probably never heard of the village, turned the 's's' into 'z', and thus made the Regulation read as if it applied to the well-known district of Ghazipur, east of Benares. All this occurred in the pre-Hunterian period, and the Regulation, as originally printed, spells Ghazipur with two 'e's' and two 'o's' after the old fashion; though I observe that, in the edition which I hold in my hand, Mr. Stokes, who, in the matter of spelling, was a most conscientious follower of my hon'ble colleague, has substituted the orthodox spelling with an 'i' and a 'u'. Now, the district of Ghazipur is an alluvial tract where not a single vestige of stone can be found, and more than one critic has made merry over the official ignorance of those who applied a Regulation for quarries to a part of the country where it was as likely that stone would be found as in the jungles round Calcutta. This slip has not given rise to any inconvenience, but the Regulation itself is obsolete in many respects, and among those of its provisions which are still operative many are seriously defective. For instance, I find that the only punishment provided in the case of a person detected in fraudulently removing stone without payment of duty is the confiscation of the stone and of the cattle and carriages used in carrying it. Now, as the owners of the cattle and carriages are for the most part poor people who are hired by the day, and can often have little or no means of knowing whether or not the stone has had duty paid on it or not, it would be inequitable to confiscate their property. The man who really deserves punishment is the dealer who procures the use of their cattle and carriages for the purpose of transporting the stone, and for him the confiscation of the stone itself is a wholly inadequate penalty. Moreover, if the stone which has been removed without payment of duty has been used in the construction of a house or well, it is not easy to seize or confiscate it. Consequently the penalties prescribed by the Regulation are apt to fall upon the wrong persons, and when they do fall upon the right persons they are either inadequate or practically unimpossible. For that reason it is proposed to repeal the Regulation and to supersede it by a new law.

"The Bill which I am asking leave to introduce begins by declaring the rights and powers of the Government, of landholders and of private persons. It declares that the Government is entitled to levy duty on all stone quarried in the district; it declares, in accordance with the existing law, that no private landowner is entitled to levy duty or place any restriction on the working of these quarries; and it also declares that any person, subject to certain rules and local customs, may open and work a quarry in the district.

"Some of these local customs are very curious. I find that under one of them the opener of a quarry has an exclusive right to quarry within a circular area of which the radius is measured by the distance to which he can throw a stone with his left hand. One is reminded of similar customs which prevail in various parts of England. For instance, in Derbyshire, the first discoverer of a vein of lead-ore is entitled to have assigned to him two meers of ground, while in certain parts of Cornwall tinners are entitled by local custom to 'bound' unappropriated waste to the extent of an acre. In the same way the free miners of the Forest of Dean are entitled to three gales or allotments for coal or iron mining, and this right has been regulated by statute.

"It is obvious that customs such as these are likely to lead to a good many disputes, and consequently amongst the various matters for which provision may be made by rules under the Bill is the mode of determining questions arising out of conflicting claims to the right to quarry. The Bill gives a somewhat extensive power to make rules, but it contains the usual clause which provides that a draft of the proposed rules is to be published in such a manner as to afford full opportunity for criticism and objection to all persons likely to be affected by the rules.

"There is little else that I need notice in connection with the Bill. It contains a provision for exempting from duty in certain cases; it saves for the present the existing rates of duty which, with very slight variations, have been in force for nearly forty years; and it continues to the inhabitants of the hills the privilege conceded to them by the Regulation of 1795 and maintained in their favour by the Regulation of 1800."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Council adjourned to Thursday, the 15th October, 1885.

REVENUE AND AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT.

REPORTS ON THE STATE OF THE SEASON AND PROSPECTS OF THE CROPS FOR THE WEEK ENDING 14th OCTOBER 1885.

GENERAL REMARKS.—In the Madras Presidency general rain has again fallen, and agricultural prospects are fair. In Bellary and Anantapur especially great improvement has taken place. In Mysore there has also been good rain. The standing crops have improved; sowing, transplanting, and ploughing operations are in progress, and prospects are now said to be good. In Coorg crops are in good condition.

Rain has fallen throughout the Bombay Presidency, with the exception of Sind. The kharif crops promise well, and rabi crops are being sown. In Sind rain is wanted.

In the Berars and Hyderabad the recent rain has been beneficial to the crops, which promise well. Rain has fallen throughout the Central India States, but more is wanted at Neemuch and Agar. In Rajputana the rainfall has been slight, and limited to a few places. In Marwar, Meywar, Kherwara, Harowti, Kotah, Jeypore, Kherowlie, Dholepore, and Bhurtpore the rainfall has been insufficient, and more is wanted for the crops.

In the Central Provinces the rain of the week has been confined to the northern and western districts. Prospects continue fair; but in Chhattisgarh and Raipur more rain is much needed, especially on the highlands. There has been little or no rain in the Punjab during the week. Prospects are on the whole fair; but more rain is wanted in the Ferozepore and Sialkot districts. Rabi operations in progress. Slight rain has fallen in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, and general prospects are fair.

In Bengal a little more rain is said to be wanted in places. Except in flooded tracts, the prospects of aman rice and other standing crops are generally favourable. The bhadoi outturn generally has not been good, owing to the damage caused to the crops by floods in many places. Rabi cultivation is progressing vigorously. In Assam seasonable weather continues, and the crops promise well.

In British Burma crop prospects are good.

The public health is on the whole fair.

Prices are fluctuating in the Punjab, the Central Provinces, and the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, and are falling in Mysore, and to some extent in Bengal.

| General Remarks. —Slight and not general rain during the week. A little more rain is now wanted in some places. Prospects of aman rice and other standing crops generally favourable, except in the flooded parts of Burdwan and Presidency divisions. Bhadai outturn not very fair, on the whole, as the crops in many places suffered from excessive rain and floods in August and September. Cultivation of rabi crops being carried on vigorously. Price of rice improving slightly in some districts. Prevalence of fever reported in many places. |                                                                                 |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |

RESOLUTION.

A Statement showing the loss of human and animal life caused by wild animals and venomous snakes, and the results of the measures adopted for the destruction of noxious animals and snakes, during the year 1884 as compared with the previous year is appended to this Resolution. The number of human lives lost decreased slightly, from 22,905 in the previous year to 22,425, and this decrease was common to all provinces except Bengal, British Burma and Coorg. The deaths caused by wild animals fell from 2,838 to 2,795, and those due to snake-bite from 20,067 to 19,629. As has usually been the case, the returns from the Lower Provinces of Bengal and the North-Western Provinces and Oudh account for upwards of 75 per cent. of the total mortality. In the former of these provinces the deaths aggregated 11,167 and in the latter 6,556 against 10,455 and 6,298, respectively, in the previous year. Tigers caused 831 deaths, wolves 265, leopards 222, and "other animals" 1,249. Under the head last mentioned are included 617 deaths caused by jackals in Bengal and 70 in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh; also 123 deaths due to alligators, sharks, and crocodiles in Bengal. Of the deaths caused by tigers, Bengal returns 419, Madras 139, Assam 138, and the Central Provinces 98. Wolves caused 177 deaths in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh and 73 in Bengal. The deaths under this head in other provinces were comparatively few.

2. The reported loss of cattle amounted to 49,472 against 57,476 in the previous year. Of these, 47,844 are said to have been caused by wild animals and 1,728 by snakes. The largest loss is reported from Bengal, where 12,387 head were killed. Madras comes next, with a loss of 9,065, followed by the North-Western Provinces and Oudh with 8,409, Assam with 6,670, and the Central Provinces with 4,372. The losses reported from other provinces, though in some cases considerable in themselves, were insignificant when compared with the above figures. Tigers and leopards are shown as having been about equally destructive, having killed 19,680 and 19,699 head of cattle, respectively.

3. In the number of wild animals destroyed there was a satisfactory increase, from 19,890 in the previous year to 23,775. This increase was common to all kinds of animals, and in the case of tigers was chiefly due to the large number (495) of these animals destroyed by professional shikaris in the Rungpore district of Bengal. With the exception of those for Bombay, Assam, and Hyderabad, the reports are silent as to the number of licenses given for possession of arms for the destruction of wild beasts and for the protection of crops. In Bombay the total number of licenses issued during the year for the former of these purposes was 1,418, or 295 more than in 1883, in addition to which 926 licenses to possess arms, mostly for the protection of crops from wild animals, are said to have been granted in Kanara. In the plains of Assam no less than 6,791 licenses were issued for the possession of guns for the destruction of wild animals and the protection of crops. In Hyderabad 4,492 gun licenses were issued during the year; but it appears that the licensees directed their energies rather to obtaining food by shooting inoffensive animals than to the destruction of the more dangerous animals. As has been remarked on previous occasions, the Governor General in Council considers that such licenses should be freely given when necessary for the destruction of wild animals, efforts being made to induce the licensees to use their arms for the purpose for which the licenses are granted. In order to enable the Government of India to see what action is taken in this matter in the several provinces, it would be convenient if future reports contained full particulars regarding the number of licenses granted under the Arms Act rules either for purposes of protection of crops or destruction of wild animals.

4. The only provinces which show an appreciable destruction of poisonous snakes are Bombay, Bengal, the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, and the Punjab. The total number of snakes destroyed in all provinces declined from 412,782 in the previous year to 380,981. The system of paying rewards for the destruction of venomous snakes on the authority of certificates granted by selected Indigo planters, which was experimentally introduced in 1882 in the Patna Division of the Bengal Presidency, was during the year under report in operation in the districts of Mozufferpore, Durbhunga, and Monghyr. The results were so far satisfactory that the number of snakes destroyed in those districts increased from 10,534 in the previous year to 16,039. It is true that this result was accompanied by an increase in the number of deaths from snake-bite; but, as pointed out by the Local Government, this fact need not be considered to discredit the experiment, inasmuch as, since more attention is now paid to the destruction of snakes, it is very possible that more care is taken to record deaths from snake-bite. In the Madras Presidency the entries under the head of the number of snakes destroyed and the rewards given for such destruction are blank, and it would therefore appear that no special measures are taken in that presidency towards the extermination of venomous snakes. If this is the case, the matter would seem to be one deserving the attention of the Madras Government, inasmuch as the number of deaths recorded in the Madras Presidency as due to snake-bite is considerable (1,191), and is larger than in any other province except Bengal and the North-Western Provinces and Oudh.

5. The total amount given in rewards was Rs. 2,46,525 against Rs. 1,74,355 in the previous year, the increase being probably chiefly due to the larger number of wild animals destroyed during the year.

6. On the subject generally of the loss of life caused by wild animals and venomous snakes, the Governor General in Council has little to add to the remarks made in previous reviews, the object of which was to impress on Local Governments the necessity for making every practicable experiment which may be suited to local circumstances. On the present occasion His Excellency in Council would only observe that the different results as regards the destruction of wild animals and snakes in districts similarly circumstanced appear to show how much depends on the degree of personal interest taken in the matter by district officers. Instances are not wanting to show that increased exertions on the part of the District Magistrates are at once followed by largely increased destruction. For example, owing to the personal interest and exertions of Mr. Kennedy, the District Magistrate of Gorakhpur in the North-Western Provinces, and to the arrangements made for the prompt payment of rewards, the number of snakes destroyed during the year under report at once rose from 203 to 4,418. The Governor General in Council trusts that Local Governments and Administrations will impress upon district officers that their personal exertions are essential if any real progress is to be made in the extermination of wild beasts and venomous snakes, and if the considerable loss of life which takes place year by year from this cause is to be sensibly diminished.

ORDER.—Ordered, that this Resolution, with the appended Table, be forwarded to Local Governments and Administrations for information and guidance, and that it be published in the Supplement to the Gazette of India.

ACT OF PARLIAMENT 24 & 25 VIC., CAP. 67.

The Council met at the Viceregal Lodge, Simla, on Thursday, the 15th October, 1885.

The Hon'ble C. P. Ilbert, C.I.E.

The Hon'ble Sir S. C. Bayley, K.C.S.I., C.I.E.

The Hon'ble T. C. Hope, C.S.I., C.I.E.

LAND ACQUISITION (MINES) BILL, 1885.

The Hon'ble MR. HOPE moved that the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to provide for cases in which Mines or Minerals are situate under land which it is desired to acquire under the Land Acquisition Act, 1870, be taken into consideration. He said:—

"On the occasion of moving for leave to introduce the Bill I gave so full an explanation of the objects which it was desired to attain that I think I need not trouble the Council with any further detailed remarks upon the subject. The only point which it is perhaps desirable to bring to the notice of the Council is that to the Bill, as first drafted, considerable objections on the part of owners of coal underlying contemplated railways in Bengal were found to exist. These coal-owners consequently submitted some representations to the Select Committee which have received most careful consideration. We found that in some instances the objections taken to the wording possessed considerable show of reason. We have modified the Bill in those and other particulars, and I am glad to say that we have now received from the Bengal Government, and from the coal-owners themselves, the statement that they are perfectly satisfied with the Bill as it now stands.

"Under these circumstances I feel no hesitation in recommending the Bill to the favourable consideration of the Council. Before, however, coming to the next Motion, I desire, with the permission of Your Excellency and the Council, due notice not having been given of it, to move a very small amendment in section 15. It is that in sub-section (2) of that section, after the words 'persons interested in the land' the words 'or entitled under the Land Acquisition Act, 1870, to act for persons so interested' be inserted. The object of this small amendment is to make it quite clear that minors or lunatics can give assent to the proceedings through their legal representatives."

The Hon'ble MR. ILBERT said:—"It appears from the papers that we have received that all the persons interested in the mines affected by the measure have agreed not only that the Bill in its present form shall regulate their rights in future, but also that it shall be applied to pending proceedings.

That I understand to be the effect of the communications just received by the Public Works Department. If that had not been the case, there would have been good reason for suspending the Bill until our arrival in Calcutta, but, as it appears to have been distinctly assented to by all the persons interested, I think we may now quite safely pass it into law."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. HOPE then moved that in section 15 of the Bill, sub-section (2), after the words "persons interested in the land" the words "or entitled under the Land Acquisition Act, 1870, to act for persons so interested" be inserted.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. HOPE also moved that the Bill, as amended, be passed.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

INDIAN SECURITIES BILL, 1885.

The Hon'ble SIR A. COLVIN moved that the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend the law relating to Government Securities be taken into consideration. He said:—

"When this Bill was introduced, it was explained that, before and since the passing of the Contract Act, the practice of the Indian Public Debt offices had been to treat the right of suing on and giving receipts for money payable under Government promissory notes as vesting in the survivor or survivors of two or more joint holders. But the law officers of the Government had recently given an opinion that, having regard to section 45 of the Contract Act, it was not safe to continue this practice. The Government of India therefore considered that legislation was desirable both for the purpose of confirming what had been done in the past, and for the purpose of laying down a convenient rule for the future. When, however, we came to undertake legislation, we found that, on the one hand, it was urged that any provision which might be contemplated in respect of Government securities should be generalised and extended to other classes of obligations besides those arising on such securities; and, on the other, that the rule of survivorship as applied to instruments of the description in question is one that does not fit in with the habits and ideas of certain classes of the Native population, and might, if extended to those classes as an absolutely binding rule, open a door to the perpetration of frauds. It was, therefore, proposed that we should legalise what had been done in the past, and leave the future to be dealt with administratively. It was suggested that it could be so arranged in the Loan Department of the Government that it should be in the option of persons, in whose favour securities are first issued or to whom they are subsequently transferred by endorsement, either to take them simply in their several names, that is to say, in favour, e.g., of 'A, B & C,' without qualification, in which case the rule of the Contract Act would apply, or to take them under words giving a right of survivorship, as, e.g., in favour of 'A, B & C, and the survivor or survivors of them,' in which case we are advised the rule of the Contract Act would be excluded and the rule of survivorship would apply. This, it was thought, would be likely to afford a more satisfactory solution of the difficulty as regards securities to be hereafter issued than any enactment establishing either the rule of survivorship or that of representation in a hard-and-fast manner, as it would leave it open to all concerned to adopt for themselves the rule best adapted to their requirements. To obviate mistakes or oversight, it was believed that a notice to the above effect might be enfolded on the security in such a manner as to ensure attention. When, however, the matter was referred to the Loan Department in Calcutta, and when the opinions of competent banking authority was taken on the subject, we found that there was considerable objection from their point of view on the ground that it would introduce, for a time at least, doubt and uncertainty in the case of Government securities; and we came to the conclusion that on the whole it would be better to legalise up to the 1st of April of next year the present practice, leaving to be settled during the winter the course which should be ultimately adopted; so that during that time we shall have an opportunity of deciding whether the provision which we now propose to introduce should apply only to Government securities, and, on the other hand, whether the administrative arrangement by which we desire to supplement it is open to such objection as practically to require us to adopt some other treatment."

The Hon'ble MR. ILBERT said:—"I entirely agree with my hon'ble colleague, Sir Auckland Colvin, as to the propriety of the course which the Select Committee have recommended for adoption. I had occasion to touch on the main question raised by the Bill in the course of some remarks which I made last January when the Bill to amend the Negotiable Instruments Act was passed into law. The Bank of Bengal had then suggested that the opportunity afforded by that Bill should be taken to declare section 45 of the Contract Act inapplicable to negotiable instruments. I said that I was not aware of any case in which that section had been held to be applicable to such instruments, and that, if the question were to be argued, I was disposed to think that the application of this section might be held to be sufficiently limited by the express saving of any usage or custom of trade and by the provisions of the law with respect to partners, trustees and executors. But however this might be, I thought that, if any amendment of the law in the direction suggested by the Bank of Bengal was necessary, it might be more appropriately embodied in a Bill for amending the Contract Act, since there might well be other cases besides those of negotiable instruments from which the applicability of this section ought to be excluded.

"The Indian Public Debt authorities have now brought up a similar suggestion, but of a somewhat more limited character, and in order to make clear what their proposals amount to, and what they would involve, I think I ought to explain as briefly as I can the existing state of the law as to the devolution of joint rights and liabilities.

"The old rule of the English Common Law was that, on the death of one or more joint tenants, the interest under the tenancy devolved on the survivor or survivors to the exclusion of the representatives of the deceased person; and this rule was applied not only to joint tenants of land and other forms of real property, but also to joint owners of goods and chattels, including that form of personal property which is technically known as a chose in action, that is to say, a right enforceable through the Courts. But it was clear that the rule could not be applied to mercantile rights and interests without causing serious inconvenience and injustice, and consequently there was engrafted on it an exception which professed to be based on the law merchant. 'The wares, merchandise, debts or duties', it was said, 'which joint merchants have, as joint merchants or partners, shall not survive, but shall go to the executors of the deceased, and this is per legem mercatoriam which is part of the laws of the realm for the advancement and continuance of commerce and trade, which is pro bono publico, for the rule is that jus accrescendi inter mercatores pro beneficio commercii locum non habet.' The Courts of Equity worked out and developed this exception, and formally established the principle that, even where the legal remedy for the recovery of property devolved exclusively on the survivor of two joint owners, he would be compelled in proper cases to account for the share of the deceased person to the representative of that person. The consequence is that, as the English law now stands, on the death of one of several joint creditors, the right to sue on the contract vests in the survivor or survivors, and, on the death of the last of two or more survivors, in his personal representative. But a person recovering money under this right of survivorship may be accountable for it to the representatives of the deceased person. Meanwhile, it was found that a rule which was unjust and inconvenient when applied to beneficial rights and interests was useful and convenient when applied to the rights and interests of a trustee. When one of several trustees dies you do not want his personal representatives to have anything to do with the trust-property; what you want is that the rights in respect of the property should vest in his surviving colleagues in the trust. Accordingly, it has become the practice that, when property is vested in two or more trustees, it is held by them as joint tenants subject to the rule of survivorship. The general result is eminently characteristic of English law. You have an old rule trimmed by judicial decisions into conformity with modern requirements, and adapted by legal ingenuity to purposes which were never contemplated when it first came into existence, neither the rule nor its qualifications being expressed in language adapted for use in a Code.

"This was the state of the law when the Indian Law Commissioners set to work to codify the law of contract for Indian purposes, and the course which they adopted was boldly to throw over the old English rule as to the survivorship of joint rights and to make that a rule which under the English law was the exception,—that is to say, to make the rule of representation the rule and the rule of survivorship the exception,—and they introduced into the Indian Contract Act two sections (42 and 45) which regulated the devolution of joint liabilities and of joint rights. Section 42 declared that—

'When two or more persons have made a joint promise, then, unless a contrary intention appears by the contract, all such persons, during their joint lives, and, after the death of any of them, his representative jointly with the survivor or survivors, and, after the death of the last survivor, the representatives of all jointly, must fulfil the promise'; whilst the other section in corresponding language declared that—

'When a person has made a promise to two or more persons jointly, then, unless a contrary intention appears from the contract, the right to claim performance rests, as between him and them, with them during their joint lives, and, after the death of any of them, with the representative of such deceased person jointly with the survivor or survivors, and, after the death of the last survivor, with the representatives of all jointly'; and by way of explanation the Law Commissioners state in their Report—

'In regulating the devolution of rights and liabilities, we propose, in accordance with the rule of English Courts of Equity and of the Indian Code of Civil Procedure, that joint liabilities and rights shall, after the death of one of the persons liable or entitled, go to his representative jointly with the survivor, and after the death of the survivor to the representatives of both jointly.'

"So far as we have been able to ascertain by examination of the papers, this proposal was accepted without any criticism whatever.

"Now, what happened after the passing of the Contract Act was what, I fear, has happened in the case of a good many enactments. People went on, just as they had before, in happy unconsciousness of any change in the law, until they were suddenly pulled up by some authoritative legal opinion or judicial decision which made them aware that their proceedings were altogether irregular and illegal. Thus, the Indian Public Debt officers made no alteration either in their rules or in their practice, and it is only a very short time ago that they were advised that their existing practice was not safe, and that in order to make themselves safe they must, after paying off the security held by the joint owners, obtain a receipt, not only from the survivor or survivors, but from the legal personal representatives of the deceased holder. Having been so advised, they come to us in a great hurry, and beg us to alter the law so as to make it conformable to their practice. But in making this request they raised some extremely difficult questions. For what one cannot help asking is whether, if the law is wrong for Government securities, it is right for other forms of contract; and I was not at all surprised to see that one of the criticisms of the Bill in the papers we have received runs as follows:—

'What is proposed is that there shall be one law for Government securities and a different law for all other securities and contracts—one principle to regulate the rights of Government and its creditors and a different principle to regulate the rights of creditors among themselves.'

"Very possibly this exceptional treatment is justifiable, but prima facie there is something in the objection to it, and one cannot help doubting its propriety when one finds that several of those who are in favour of altering the law would alter it more extensively than was proposed by the Public-Debt authorities and by the Bill as originally drawn. In consequence of suggestions to the effect that a more general amendment of the law should be attempted, I tried my hand at an amendment of section 45 of the Contract Act, but I found that the task was very far from easy, and that it was extremely hard to frame a proviso which would not be either too wide or too narrow to suit the requirements of the case. Then, again, among the different legal authorities whom I consulted privately as to the best mode of dealing with the section,—and I may say that I consulted very eminent legal authorities, both in England and in this country,—I find that there is great difference of opinion. Some are in favour of repealing the section altogether; others would keep it, but would qualify it by exceptions more or less wide; whilst others would leave it alone, bringing the practice as far as possible into conformity with the law. Under these circumstances, whatever may be done hereafter, I think there can be no doubt as to what should be done now. You cannot alter past contracts, and I think that the Public Debt authorities have made out a very strong case for ratifying their past practice, and for doing so as soon as possible. I think also that we may with propriety extend this ratification to securities issued during the next four or five months, before the expiration of which time it would be practically impossible to pass a law of a more general character. So much as regards the past; but as regards the future there are two courses open to us: we may either adapt the law to the practice or adapt the practice to the law. The Bank authorities and the Public Debt authorities are naturally in favour of the former course, as giving them the least trouble, but I am by no means satisfied that they cannot by some such expedient as that indicated in the Report of the Select Committee, without inconvenience to themselves and the public, so adjust their practice as to bring it into conformity with the law. If that can be done, no amendment of the law is necessary. I may be wrong in thinking that this is practicable, but before coming to a final conclusion I should like to hear what lawyers and men of business have to say on the subject in Calcutta. It is quite obvious that if the alteration of the law is to be extended beyond the single case of Government securities,—and it apparently should in order to place the law in a satisfactory state,—the form which the amendment must assume will require very careful consideration. Accordingly I am in favour of confining the operation of section 3 of the Bill to the past and to the immediate future, leaving the two questions whether it should be applied to all Government securities hereafter issued, and whether it should be extended to other forms of contract besides Government securities, to be decided hereafter."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble SIR A. COLVIN moved that the Bill, as amended, be passed.

MIRZAPUR STONE MAHÁL BILL, 1885.

The Hon'ble MR. ILBERT introduced the Bill to declare and amend the law relating to the Stone Mahál in the District of Mirzapur in the North-Western Provinces, and moved that it be referred to a Select Committee consisting of the Hon'ble Sir S. Bayley, the Hon'ble Mr. Quinton and the Mover.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. ILBERT also moved that the Bill and Statement of Objects and Reasons be published in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh Government Gazette in English, and in such other languages as the Local Government thinks fit.

MADRAS CIVIL COURTS ACT, 1873, AMENDMENT BILL, 1885.

The Hon'ble MR. ILBERT also presented the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend the Madras Civil Courts Act, 1873.

MAIMON BILL, 1885.

The Hon'ble MR. AMÍR ALÍ moved for leave to introduce a Bill rendering it permissive to the members of the Maimon community to declare themselves subject to Muhammadan Law. He said:—

"I will not detain the Council long with the few observations which I have to offer, in order to explain the circumstances under which this Motion is brought forward, and the necessity for the proposed enactment.

"Your Excellency and the hon'ble members are aware that at present the Cutchee Maimons are, in matters relating to succession, &c., governed for the most part by customs of a Hindu origin. In March last a memorial on behalf of the Maimons of Calcutta was presented through me to Your Excellency in Council, praying that a law might be passed 'declaring that in future all disputes among the members of the Maimon community should be settled according to Muhammadan law, as laid down by Imám Abu Hanífa, and not according to Hindu customs conflicting with the Koran and the traditions of the Prophet.' This memorial, briefly but clearly, set forth the grounds upon which the prayer was made for the interference of the legislature. It was referred by the Government of India for the opinion of the Bombay Government, which has now been submitted to Your Excellency, and to which I shall shortly refer. About the same time a memorial was presented to the Bombay Government for submission to Your Excellency in Council by various Maimons of Bombay, which is also now before the Supreme Government. It was the outcome of a great movement among the Cutchee Maimons of the Bombay Presidency, and was adopted at a meeting numerously and influentially attended, which seemed to express the earnest desire of a large body of people to escape from the thralldom which in their view was forced upon them by the British Courts of Justice.

"The history of the movement now set on foot by these Cutchee Maimons is interesting, and requires some mention in order to make their present action intelligible. The Maimons do not constitute a sect; they do not hold any distinctive doctrines, like the Khojás, differentiating them from the general body of Musalmáns or from the principal recognized sects. They are strict Muhammadans, belonging to the Hanafi school of law, as they themselves mention in the memorial; they observe all the religious ordinances which are laid down in the Koran, and the traditions for the guidance of the orthodox Musalmáns. They regularly say their prayers, pay their zakat, perform the pilgrimage to Mecca, and keep the fast during the month of Ramzán.

"The origin of the Maimons is to some extent involved in obscurity; they themselves trace their origin to settlers in Cutch and Kattywar from the coast of Oman; but this seems to me only a half truth. It appears that, really speaking, they are the descendants of proselytes to Muhammadanism made by Arab missionaries from the coast of Oman and Hadramaut. These converts, as is usually the case, retained after their conversion a considerable portion of their original Hindu customs. But with the advance of time, and, as they themselves acknowledge, with a growing acquaintance with the tenets of Islam, these customs have gradually relaxed their hold. And now a large body of the community regard them with actual abhorrence.

"I may mention here that the Maimon community is divided into two sections—the Halai Maimons and the Cutchee Maimons. The former trace their origin to Kattywar, the latter to Cutch. The Halai Maimons have long since emancipated themselves from the customs which conflicted with Muhammadanism, and the decision which has had the effect of crystalizing the Hindu customs among the Cutchee Maimons has no reference to them; the learned Chief Justice who decided the case to which I am about to refer expressly excluded the Halais from the scope of his judgment. In the year 1847, a suit was brought in the Bombay Supreme Court, by a Maimon female, for the distribution of certain ancestral property in accordance with the Muhammadan law: the defence was that, by the customs existing among the Cutchee Maimons, females were excluded from inheritance. That and another case, which arose at the same time among the Khojás, were tried before Sir Erskine Perry, then

Chief Justice of Bombay, and he held that the Muhammadan law did not obtain with reference to either of these communities, and that they were to be governed by especial customs prevailing among them. Since then every question which has arisen among the Maimons has been decided in accordance with the precedent laid down by Sir Erskine Perry. In each particular case the customs have to be ascertained from oral testimony,—a process always attended with uncertainty and, in this country, with great risk of failure, and invariably entailing heavy costs on the litigant parties. One may say, without being charged with presumption, that Chief Justice Perry's decision was founded upon a misconception. It treated the subject from all points of view,—the Roman, the Frankish, the English,—all excepting the one from which it ought really to have been looked at, that of the Muhammadan law. There can be no doubt that it created considerable excitement at the time among the Cutchee Maimons, and though, as the learned Judge anticipated, no appeal was preferred to the Privy Council by the parties affected, owing probably to want of means, every other measure was adopted for the purpose of expressing the disapproval of the Maimon community. However, owing, it is said, to an unacquaintance on the part of the Maimons generally with the proper mode in which they should apply for redress, the matter remained in abeyance until a few years ago, when the strong movement, of which the present memorials are the outcome, set in among the community to invoke the assistance of the legislature. That a large body of Maimons—if not the bulk—are anxious for the interference of the legislature is evidenced by the fact that those resident in Calcutta have unanimously declared themselves in favour of the change. The meeting at Bombay in the Jakariah Mosque was attended by almost all the leaders, or Sethis, of the Cutchee Maimon community, and throughout the proceedings not a dissentient voice was raised against the demands of the memorialists. Still it is clear there are some Maimons who are unwilling to abandon their ancient customs. And it is with reference to the wishes of these men that the Bombay Government has recommended the introduction of a permissive enactment, and I have thought it right to put the measure in that form. That the appeal to the legislature by those Maimons who are anxious for emancipation is perfectly legitimate and reasonable will be apparent when it is remembered that with the Muhammadans their religion is their law, and their law is their religion. The Cutchee Maimons urge with reason that their brethren, the Halai Maimons, who have abandoned the Hindu customs as completely as their ancestors abandoned the Hindu faith, do not labour under any such disadvantages as they are subject to. Why then should they, as good Muhammadans as the Halais or any other Muhammadans, be tied for ever to pagan institutions? The Maimon memorialists have put their case very strongly in the following terms:—

‘Your petitioners venture to characterise this state of things, which has been afflicting their community ever since Sir Erskine Perry's aforesaid judgment, as absolutely intolerable. They deem it a great hardship that they should be Musalmans and yet be deprived of the benefit of the Muhammadan laws. They deem it a still greater hardship that the Hindu law, which is absolutely unsuitable to their circumstances, but which may at any moment be extended to them, should be applied to them even in matters of succession and inheritance, for which special provisions and laws have been laid down by the Muhammadan religion. They deem it an intolerable grievance that their rights in regard to all their worldly possessions, either in their own life or after their death, should be determined haphazard according to the credit any Judge may choose to attach to any witness in favour of, or against, a custom in a suit in which the community at large has no voice whatsoever.

‘The reasonableness of your petitioners' request will be apparent when it is borne in mind that even a Hindu can rid himself of his own laws and enjoy the benefit of the Muhammadan laws if he bona fide adopts the Muhammadan faith. What, however, a Hindu, Parsi, Christian or Jew may do without the least difficulty or objection, your petitioners are now absolutely debarred from doing according to the present decisions of the High Court. Is it not absurd, your petitioners venture to ask, that if they were pure Hindus they could, by the mere fact of becoming Musalmans, at once, without interference of the legislature, have the full benefit of the Muhammadan law; but because they are already Musalmans they cannot by any act of their own, either individually or collectively, without undergoing enormous trouble, delay and expense, divest themselves of the Hindu laws or have the benefit of the laws enjoyed by their other co-religionists.’

‘The Hon'ble Budruddin Tyabjee, who is not given to the use of exaggerated language, in his speech at the Jakariah Mosque declared that nothing could be more scandalous than the present state of the law as applied to the Maimons, and stated that the relief prayed for by the memorialists was simply just and fair, and that they were as a matter of right entitled to enjoy full freedom like other Muhammadans, in the due observance of their religion, and the benefits of the Muhammadan law. My Lord, in India the legislature has preserved intact the laws of the Musalmans in all matters relating to inheritance, disposition of property and status. The Muhammadan law is interwoven with the moral and social life of the Musalmans. Why then, argue the memorialists, should a body of Musalmans be subjected to customs in direct conflict with their religion? The Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, in the case of Jowala Buksh v. Dhurum Singh, made use of the following expressions:—

‘The written law of India has prescribed broadly that in questions of succession and inheritance the Hindu law is to be applied to Hindus, and the Muhammadan law to Muhammadans; and in the judgment delivered by Lord Kingsdown in Abraham v. Abraham, it is said that “this rule must be understood to refer to Hindus and Muhammadans, not by birth merely but by religion also.”’

‘Though the Judicial Committee abstained from expressing a decided view in that case whether it was competent for a family converted from the Hindu to the Muhammadan faith to retain for several generations Hindu usages and customs, yet the tendency of their view is unmistakeable. In order to show that the Maimon memorialists are not wrong in the view they take of their present anomalous position, I will quote a passage from the judgment of Mr. Justice O'Kinealy in a recent case arising among Muhammadans in which also a custom dehors the Muhammadan law was put forward:—

‘The Muhammadan law of inheritance is based on the Sura Nissa in the Koran, which was revealed in order to abrogate the customs of the Arabs, and on the Hadis or traditions of the Prophet. According to the principles of the Muhammadan law, any attempt to repudiate the law of the Koran would amount to a declaration of infidelity such as would render the individual concerned liable to civil punishment by the Kazi in this world, and to eternal punishment in the next. No custom opposed to the ordinary law of inheritance, which was created to destroy custom, would be recognised by the doctors of the Muhammadan law, and in our opinion it follows as a natural consequence that no such custom should be recognised by our Courts, which are bound by express enactment to administer Muhammadan law in questions of inheritance among Muhammadans.’

‘Besides these arguments, which may be urged on behalf of the Maimon memorialists in support of their present appeal, there is one consideration which brings this movement, prima facie of sectional interest, to use the words of a writer in a Bombay journal, ‘within the wider range of public sympathy.’ The Hindu customs prevailing among the Cutchee Maimons have had the effect of excluding the widows and unmarried women of that community from succession to the estates of their parents and husbands, and from the advantages resulting from the beneficent policy of the Muhammadan law towards females. The Maimon widow, so long as she is under the Hindu customary law, receives a bare maintenance, which she forfeits on remarriage. The first result of a law such as the memorialists ask for would be to improve the status of women. One of the objections which I have to the Khoja Bill, now pending in your Excellency's Council, is that it will have the effect of stereotyping those customs which press so heavily upon women; but whatever may be the reason for introducing such provisions in the Khoja Bill, there is no reason why a large body of people who are urgently asking to be released from such customs should not have their prayer granted, the primary result of which concession would be a decided improvement in the social and legal position of their widows and unmarried women, and will be regarded by the whole of Musalmán India as a boon conferred on their co-religionists.

‘The Bill which I ask leave to introduce is absolutely unobjectionable from every point of view. It only proposes to give facilities to those Maimons who wish henceforth to be governed by Muhammadan law to record a declaration to that effect. It imposes no restriction on the voluntary action of any individual; it interferes in no way with those members of the community who desire to continue subject to their ancient customs; it only provides an easy mode of escape for those who are legitimately anxious to free themselves from what they regard as the bondage of heathenism.’

The Hon'ble MR. ILBERT said:—"I am very glad to hear from my hon'ble friend, Mr. Amír Alí, that the measure he is asking leave to introduce is likely to satisfy those members of the Maimon community who desire to be placed under the ordinary Muhammadan law. As I understand it, his Bill is of a purely permissive character, and, if so, it is in entire accordance with the principles which the Government of India desire to apply in similar cases. It has long been recognised that the time-honoured division of Natives of this country into Hindus or Gentus and Muhammadans is not an exhaustive division for legal purposes, and that there are numerous classes who, whilst professing the Muhammadan faith, have retained for certain purposes and to a certain extent Hindu or non-Muhammadan customs or usages with respect to succession and inheritance. If evidence on this point were required, it is to be found in abundance in the interesting compilations of Punjab customs prepared by my friend Mr. Tupper and others. Now, we do not desire to put the slightest pressure on any members of these communities to renounce or abandon their peculiar customs or usages, but we do wish to give them every reasonable facility for placing themselves under the ordinary Muhammadan law in all respects if they desire to do so; and that I understand to be the object of the present Bill with respect to the Maimon community."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. AMÍR ALÍ said that, with His Excellency's permission, he would ask leave to introduce the Bill, as it seemed doubtful whether there would be another meeting of the Council in Simla, and especially as he understood that his hon'ble friend Mr. Ilbert was about to visit Bombay, where he would have an opportunity of consulting with the members of the Maimon community on the spot.

Leave was granted.

The Hon'ble MR. AMÍR ALÍ then introduced the Bill.

BENGAL TENANCY ACT, 1885, POSTPONEMENT BILL.

The Hon'ble SIR STEUART BAYLEY moved for leave to introduce a Bill to postpone for a limited time the operation of certain provisions of the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885. He said:—

"In making the Motion that stands in my name I have to explain to the Council how it is that I was able to give them only such very short notice of it, and also what is the urgency of the case.

"The urgency arises in this way. Several provisions of the Bengal Tenancy Act can only be brought into operation under rules to be framed by the Bengal Government or by the High Court. But section 190 of the Act prescribes that such rules shall be published in a draft form for at least a month, and only after that period shall they be taken into consideration, and be notified so as to have the force of law.

"Now, we are advised that the publication of draft rules, although it can be made by executive authority, will not have effect for the purposes of this section unless made after the law itself comes into force. The Government of Bengal have decided, with the consent of His Excellency the Governor General in Council, that the law shall come into force on the 1st November, so that the month during which the draft rules have to be published can only run from that date; and as a matter of fact, owing to the vacation of the High Court, the draft rules to be framed by that authority cannot well be published till late in November. It follows that, on whatever date the law comes into force, whether that date be the 1st November or any subsequent date, there must always be an interval, which in practice cannot be much less than six weeks, between the date on which the law comes into force and the date on which the rules can be legally notified as binding.

"This is an inconvenience which can be avoided in future legislation of the same kind by prescribing that the draft rules may be published before the Act comes into force, and I regret that a provision of this kind was not inserted in the Tenancy Act.

"In these circumstances we consulted the Bengal Government as to the best means of meeting the difficulty, and asked them, should they consider legislation necessary, to consult the British Indian Association, as representing the landlords, on the subject.

"Unfortunately the Lieutenant-Governor was on tour in the flooded districts, and we therefore only received his final reply the day before yesterday. He explains that he was unable, owing to this cause and to the absence of many of the leading representatives of the British Indian Association during the Doorga Pooja, to consult them with any hope of getting an answer before the 1st of November, and he therefore decided to recommend that a short Act should be passed, which should continue in force the provisions of the existing law relating to distraint and deposit—the only two points on which the temporary absence of legal rules is likely to cause difficulty—till such time as the rules themselves are officially notified.

"There appears no serious objection to this course being followed, but in view of the fact that the Act comes into force on the 1st November, and that it is necessary for the parties interested to have as much notice as possible, with a view to making their own arrangements, it was clearly necessary to bring in the Bill on the earliest opportunity and pass it through without the delay attending the usual process of legislation.

"Coming now to the scope of the Bill, it will be observed that it merely keeps in force the provisions of the existing law on these two subjects pending the legal notification of the rules, which we may be sure will be effected by the 1st February, and that it involves nothing but a temporary suspension of the particular sections of the new law relating to distraint or deposit.

"Without this there would be no power for landlords to distrain for rent, and there might be a difficulty about their receiving such rents as their raiyats may wish to deposit in Court; and, in order to obviate any inconvenience which might arise from the temporary absence of such power, it devolves upon me to ask the Council to carry into effect the suggestions of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble SIR STEUART BAYLEY also introduced the Bill.

The Hon'ble SIR STEUART BAYLEY having applied to His Excellency the President to suspend the Rules for the conduct of Business,

THE PRESIDENT declared the Rules suspended.

The Hon'ble SIR STEUART BAYLEY moved that the Bill be taken into consideration.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble SIR STEUART BAYLEY then moved that the Bill be passed.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

After some preliminary observations in regard to the next meeting of Council, His Excellency THE PRESIDENT spoke as follows:—

"As, however, in any case I shall be precluded from being present should such a Council be held, I desire to take this opportunity, on behalf of my colleagues and of myself, to express the very great regret which we all experience at the fact of this being the last occasion on which we shall have the co-operation and assistance of our hon'ble colleague Mr. Amír Alí.

"Every one of us has fully appreciated not only the great ability, conscientious industry, good sense and large and thorough knowledge of affairs which Mr. Amír Alí has brought to bear upon our deliberations, but we have also had occasion to admire the unfailing courtesy and good temper with which he has discharged his important duties. I may add for myself that he never speaks without exciting my personal envy at the eloquence and facility with which he uses the English language.

"In conclusion, I can assure him that he carries with him the personal respect and regard of us all, and that we are united in our deep regret at the loss of his valuable assistance."

The Council adjourned to Thursday, the 22nd October, 1885.

REPORTS ON THE STATE OF THE SEASON AND PROSPECTS OF THE CROPS FOR THE WEEK ENDING 21st OCTOBER 1885.

GENERAL REMARKS.—Rain has again fallen throughout the Madras Presidency, and prospects are improving in all districts. In Ganjam alone rain is still urgently wanted. In Bellary and Anantapur prospects are now favourable. From Mysore the report is also favourable; the standing crops are in good condition, and sowing of ragi and horse-grain is general. Except in parts of Kadur and Shimoga, where murrain prevails, the cattle are in good condition. In Coorg coffee-picking has commenced, and the prospects of the season are good.

In Bombay rain is reported from parts of eight districts, but more is still required in places in Guzerat and Khandesh. Reaping of khariif and sowing of rabi are in progress in several districts. In parts of Sind the crops are suffering from want of water and from damage by rats, insects, and storms. In the Berars and Hyderabad the rabi sowings have commenced; the crops promise well. Very little rain is reported from the Central India and Rajputana States. In the former prospects are good on the whole; but in Rajputana rain is needed for the rabi sowings in several places.

No rain has fallen in the Central Provinces during the week; but prospects are favourable everywhere, except in Raipur, where rain is wanted. Rabi sowings are in general progress. In the Punjab rain is much wanted in the Jullundur, Ferozepore, and Sialkot districts for the khariif crops. Rabi operations have commenced in some districts. From the North-Western Provinces and Oudh fair weather is reported, but more rain is wanted in most districts. The khariif harvest is approaching completion, and rabi sowings are in progress everywhere. General prospects continue good.

In the Lower Provinces slight rain has fallen in almost all districts of Bengal, but little or none in Behar and Orissa. In Bhagalpur, Durbhunga, Hazaribagh, and Gya more rain is wanted for the crops. Agricultural prospects are on the whole favourable, except in flooded tracts. In Assam the weather is seasonable and crop prospects good.

In British Burma the crops promise well.

Fever is more or less prevalent in all provinces; otherwise the public health is fair.

Prices are generally stationary, except in Mysore, where they are falling.

ABSTRACT OF THE PROCEEDINGS OF THE COUNCIL OF THE GOVERNOR

LAWS AND REGULATIONS UNDER THE PROVISIONS OF THE ACT OF PARLIAMENT 24 & 25 VIC., CAP. 67.

The Council met at the Viceregal Lodge, Simla, on Thursday, the 22nd October, 1885.

PRESENT:

Lieutenant-General the Hon'ble T. F. Wilson, C.B., C.I.E., presiding.

His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief, G.C.B., C.I.E.

The Hon'ble C. P. Ilbert, C.I.E.

The Hon'ble T. C. Hope, C.S.I., C.I.E.

The Hon'ble W. W. Hunter, C.S.I., C.I.E., LL.D.

MADRAS CIVIL COURTS ACT, 1873, AMENDMENT BILL, 1885.

The Hon'ble MR. ILBERT moved that the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend the Madras Civil Courts Act, 1873, be taken into consideration. He said:—

"This is a very small amending Bill, which was prepared in order to give effect to some suggestions of the Madras Government and the High Court. By the Bill as originally introduced the Local Government was empowered to confer Small Courts jurisdiction on District Magistrate as per provisions of Act 865. Considerable objection has been taken to this proposal, and the Select Committee have, on the recommendation of the Madras Government, reduced this pecuniary limit to Rs. 200, and they have further proposed that it shall not be extended beyond the existing limit of Rs. 50 except on the recommendation of the High Court.

"The only other alteration in the Bill to which I need direct the attention of the Council is the introduction of a provision which places the power of suspending and removing ministerial officers of subordinate Courts under the general control of the High Court. Under the existing law this power is vested absolutely and finally in the Judges of the subordinate Courts; and the Select Committee agree with the Madras Government in thinking that, in order to guard against the possibility of the power being exercised in an arbitrary manner, opportunity should be given to the officers of those Courts to appeal against the decision of the Judges of their Courts to the High Court. Accordingly we have added words to the existing Act which will provide this opportunity.

"The only other amendments of the Bill are amendments of a technical character, and it is not called for any explanation."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. Ilbert also moved that the Bill, as amended, be passed.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

MAIMON BILL, 1885.

The Hon'ble MR. ILBERT, on behalf of the Hon'ble Mr. Amír Alí, also moved that the Bill rendering it permissive to the members of the Maimon Community to declare themselves subject to Muhammadan Law and Statement of Objects and Reasons be published in the local official Gazettes in English, and in such other languages as the Local Governments think fit.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

TRAMWAYS BILL, 1885.

The Hon'ble MR. ILBERT also moved for leave to introduce a Bill to facilitate the construction and to regulate the working of Tramways. He said:—

"The introduction of this Bill has been made necessary by the projected construction of tramways in parts of India beyond the reach of the local legislatures. In 1883 a special Act was passed by this Council to authorise the making and to regulate the working of tramways in Rangoon. Since then applications have been made to the Government of India to sanction the construction of tramways at Lahore and Amritsar, and there is reason to believe that similar applications will be made to us with respect to other large and populous towns. It is obviously desirable to relieve the Legislative Department from the necessity of preparing, and the Council from the necessity of passing, numerous special Acts of this character, and to lay down in general terms the principles by which the construction and working of these tramways should be regulated. Accordingly, a general Bill has been prepared, which enables Local Governments to make orders authorising the construction of tramways, which prescribes the conditions on which those orders may be made, and which regulates, in general terms, the mode in which tramways are to be worked and maintained when authorised.

"The Bill is drawn on the lines of the English Tramways Act of 1870 and of the Provisional Orders and Rules made by the Board of Trade under that Statute. It extends, in the first instance, only to those parts of India which have no local legislatures of their own, but it enables the Local Governments of other parts of India to extend the Bill to their Provinces by notification in the Gazette.

"I ought to add that the Bill contains a provision enabling the Local Governments, with the consent of the owner and the local authorities, to extend any part of the Act, with or without modification, to tramways already in existence.

"It might, perhaps, be thought, on glancing at the Bill, that it goes somewhat too much into details, but, if the most elaborate clause of the measure is carefully examined, it will be found that it merely indicates the points for which both English and Indian experience has shown that it is usually desirable to make provision, and thus it assists, instead of hampering, Local Governments in dealing with the various circumstances which arise in different cases and in different localities.

"I do not propose to carry the Bill to-day beyond the stage of introduction, but, in order to give the Local Governments the earliest possible opportunity of making suggestions to the Select Committee, I propose to move that the Bill be published at this stage in the local Gazettes."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. ILBERT also introduced the Bill.

The Hon'ble MR. ILBERT also moved that the Bill and Statement of Objects and Reasons be published in the local official Gazettes in English, and in such other languages as the Local Governments think fit.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Council adjourned sine die.

REVENUE AND AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT.

REPORTS ON THE STATE OF THE SEASON AND PROSPECTS OF THE CROPS FOR THE WEEK ENDING 28th OCTOBER 1885.

GENERAL REMARKS.—In Madras the weather continues favourable; rain is again reported from all districts, and the standing crops are generally good. The harvest outturn will, however, be below the average in some districts. More or less rain has fallen throughout the Mysore State, where the prospects of the season are now good. Ploughing for ryasab paddy cultivation has commenced. The cattle are in good condition, except in the Malnad district. In Coorg prospects continue favourable.

In Bombay there has been slight rain in the Deccan and Southern Mahratta Country, and more is required for the rabi crops in parts of Nasik, Khandesh, and the Panch Mahals. The kharif harvest and rabi sowings are in progress in most districts. In the Central India and Rajputana States no rain fell in the week under report. In the former agricultural prospects are generally fair, but in Rajputana the want of rain has seriously injured the standing crops in many places. Rabi sowings are in general progress. In the Berars rabi sowings continue, but in the Nizam's Territories they have been postponed on account of the rainfall, and fears are entertained of damage to standing crops.

In the Central Provinces prospects are now favourable everywhere, and rabi sowings are in general progress.

Except in the Dehra Ismail Khan District, no rain is reported from the Punjab. The kharif crop is being harvested and rabi operations are in hand throughout the Province. In the North-Western Provinces and Oudh the weather is seasonable, but some rain is still needed in a few places for crops on highlands. The kharif outturn is fairly good, and rabi sowings are in active progress.

Rain has been general in Bengal, Orissa, and Chutia Nagpur; but in Behar slight rain has fallen in a few places only. Outside the flooded districts, prospects of amun and other standing crops are generally favourable; sowing of rabi is in full progress, and the crops already sown are doing well. In Assam the weather is seasonable, and prospects are good.

In British Burma crop prospects are good, except in Prome and Thayetmyo, where more rain is required.

The general health is fair in all Provinces.

Prices are generally steady, except in Mysore and Bengal, where they are falling.

| General Remarks. —Rain has been general in Bengal Proper, Orissa, and Chota Nagpur, but in Behar slight rain has fallen in a few places only. Prospects of amun and other standing crops are generally favourable, except in the inundated tracts previously reported and in places in Behar, where want of rain is much felt. Sowing of rabi crops is in full progress, and the crops already sown are doing well. Price of rice has generally fallen a little. Fever is prevalent in many places, but the general health on the whole is fair. |                                 |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
