to do so upon their undertaking to indemnify the said Committee against all losses, damages and expenses in respect thereof: provided always that, if the said grantees fail to settle such suit or to indemnify the said Committee as is hereinbefore provided, it shall be lawful for the said Committee to settle the same without any consent or concurrence on the part of the said grantees, and the sums which they shall have to pay in making such settlement, together with interest thereon at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum from the date of payment, and with all expenses which they may be put to, shall be recoverable as a debt from the said grantees.

Clause 16.—Nothing in this agreement shall be construed to prevent the said Committee from taking up any of the public streets or roads traversed by the said tramway for the purposes for which the said Committee may lawfully take up the same, and the said grantees shall have no right to claim cost from the said Committee for obstructing the tramway or causing delay in the traffic so long as the delay shall not be unreasonable for the work to be performed.

Clause 17.—If at any time after the opening of any tramway for traffic the said grantees shall discontinue the working of such tramway or any part thereof for the space of six calendar months (such discontinuance not being occasioned by circumstances beyond the control of the said grantees), it shall be lawful for the said Committee, without any previous notice to the said grantees, to remove the tramway or part of the tramway so discontinued, and the said grantees shall pay to the said Committee the cost of such removal and of the making good of the street, road or bridge, and the certificate of the said Committee or of their engineer as to such costs shall be conclusive.

Clause 18.—The provisions of this agreement shall remain and be in force for a term not less than twenty-one (21) years from the date thereof. The said Committee shall have the right of purchasing the said tramways, with the plant, stores, rolling-stock, sheds, depôts and yards, and everything connected therewith, after the expiration of the said twenty-one (21) years, upon declaring its intention so to do within six months after the expiration of the said twenty-one (21) years; the amount to be paid in the event of such purchase shall be the actual bonâ fide value at the termination of this agreement, exclusive of any compensation for goodwill, premium on compulsory sale or other consideration whatever, of the tramways and of the work and materials connected therewith, and of the lands and buildings and all the other property of the grantees, such value to be decided by mutual agreement or by arbitration as hereinafter provided.

Clause 19.—The provisions hereinbefore contained shall, so far as applicable, apply to all tramways to be constructed by the said grantees by any route or routes to be hereafter sanctioned by the said Committee, and to the works connected with or incidental to such tramways, it being agreed that in the event of the Municipality failing to declare its intention as above provided to purchase the property of the said grantees, the terms of this contract shall continue in force during the period of six months from the date of the determination of these presents and for a further period of six months, and if the said Committee shall not within that time exercise the option of purchase hereby given, the said Committee and the said grantees shall enter into a fresh agreement.

Clause 20.—The said grantees will, if required by the Municipality, before opening and breaking up the soil and pavement of any street or bridge, deposit in an approved Bank in Lahore, in the name of the said Municipality, the sum of Rs. 1,000 or in their option Promissory Notes of the Government of India or Municipal Bonds of the nominal value of Rs. 1,000, and the same will remain so deposited until the completion by the said grantees of the lines of tramway herein sanctioned for immediate construction. But all interest accruing on the said sum or the said notes shall be credited to the said grantees, and subject as next hereinafter mentioned, be paid to them as the same shall accrue due: provided, nevertheless, that the said Municipality shall be entitled to deduct out of the sum so deposited or the interest accruing on the said sum or notes, or out of the proceeds of sale of the said notes, all moneys to which they may be entitled under any clause or clauses of these presents.

Clause 21.—In consideration of the concession hereby granted, the said grantees will pay to the said Lahore Municipality rents at the rates and under the conditions hereinafter specified; that is to say, for the first two years after the opening of the tramway or tramways no rent will be charged, after the expiration of the first two years, and during the next ensuing year, the rental shall be one-tenth of the annual average profits as shown by the company's books during the preceding two years, this rental to be subject to revision at the end of every two years, and the maximum charge or rental made by the said Municipality shall under no circumstance exceed one-tenth of the net profit divided by the company in every period of two years immediately preceding each adjustment of the charge. The books and accounts shall at all times be open to the inspection of the Municipal Committee, and should any dispute arise as to the exact charge to be made by the said Municipality, then such matter or matters in dispute shall be referred to arbitrators as detailed in clause 25 of this agreement. If the said rent or any part thereof shall not be paid on due date, the said grantees shall be liable to pay interest thereon at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum from the due date until payment.

The Lahore Tramways Act, 1886.

(The Schedule.)

Clause 22.—From and after the commencement of the 15th year of this contract to the end of the 21st, the said grantees shall not be at liberty to enter upon any fresh arrangements or expenditure which would increase their capital account in connection with this contract without first notifying their intention to the said Municipality and obtaining their approval thereof and sanction thereto in writing.

Clause 23.—The sleepers, rails, materials and implements and other erections placed and erected by the said grantees on the streets, bridges or roads under the powers hereby granted shall be and remain the property of the said grantees, and the said grantees shall have the exclusive use of their tramway or tramways for carriages with flanged wheels or other wheels suitable only to run on the prescribed rail.

Clause 24.—Unless the said grantees shall have commenced the work of laying down the said tramways within twelve months from the date of the execution of these articles of agreement, the said Committee shall be at liberty to cease and determine this contract and to enter into arrangements with any other person or persons for the construction of tramways; it being agreed, however, that these conditions of contract are subject to the sanction of Government, and that, in the event of their being executed prior to such sanction being given, the said 12 months shall date from the day on which notice of such sanction is given to the said grantees: provided also that any delay in commencing the work beyond 12 months shall not have been due to any cause beyond the control of the said grantees.

Clause 25.—If any doubt, difference or dispute shall arise between the said grantees and the said Committee touching the construction of these presents or anything herein contained, or touching or concerning any other matter or thing relating to these presents, then and in every such case such doubt, difference or dispute shall be referred to the arbitration of two persons, one to be chosen by the said grantees and the other by the said Committee within one calendar month after either of them shall have made to the other a requisition to that effect, and should the arbitrators fail to agree they shall refer the question or questions at issue to the decision of an umpire to be chosen by the said arbitrators, and the decision of such arbitrators if they agree, or of such umpire if they disagree, shall be final; and in case either party shall neglect or refuse to appoint an arbitrator within the specified time, the arbitrator appointed by the other party shall make a decision alone, and the decision of such arbitrators, umpire or arbitrator, as the case may be, shall be effectual and binding upon both parties.

Clause 26.—The said grantees are to be at liberty to form a Company or Limited Liability Company for the purpose of constructing, maintaining and working the tramways authorized by or hereafter to be authorized under the terms of this agreement. The words "the said grantees" used in this agreement shall include such Company or Limited Liability Company so formed as aforesaid.

Clause 27.—The words "the said Committee" used in this agreement shall include the present Committee and their successors, and also persons empowered by the said Committee or their successors or by other duly constituted authority to do any act or thing or exercise any powers or authorities which the said Committee are hereinbefore authorized or empowered to do or exercise.

S. HARVEY JAMES,
Offg. Secretary to the Government of India.

The following Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to authorize the making, and to regulate the working, of Street Tramways in Lahore was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 23rd December, 1885:—

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

WE, the undersigned, Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to authorize the making, and to regulate the working, of Street Tramways in Lahore was referred, have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin, and have now the honour to submit this our Report.

Office memorandum from Government of India, Public Works Department, No. 554 R. C., dated 17th June, 1885 [Paper No. 1].
From Officiating Secretary to Government, Punjab, No. 870, dated 9th November, 1885, and enclosures [Papers No. 2].

2. A portion of the tramways mentioned in the agreement between the Municipal Committee of Lahore and the grantees would lie beyond the limits of the municipality. As the Committee has authority only within the municipality, we have, with the concurrence of the Lieutenant-Governor of the Punjab, limited the operation of the Bill to the local area within municipal limits. The tramway which it is proposed to construct beyond those limits can be authorized hereafter when the Indian Tramways Bill has been passed.

3. In section 3 we have provided that the fitness of a tramway for public traffic shall be certified by an Inspector appointed by the Local Government. At Lahore there is not now an officer holding the office of Engineer to the Municipal Committee. In England the Inspector is appointed by the Board of Trade.

4. To section 20 we have prefixed a sub-section empowering the Local Government to make rules for regulating the use of steam or other mechanical power on the tramways, and for the inspection of the engines worked on or in connection with the tramways. In England the Board of Trade by its provisional orders reserves to itself the power of making rules for these purposes.

5. As some time has elapsed since the agreement between the Municipal Committee and the grantees was executed, and some works have to be constructed within limited periods after the commencement of the contract, we have in effect provided in section 21 that the contract shall not be deemed to have commenced till the Bill has been passed.

In section 24 we have provided for a case which section 165 of the Punjab Municipal Act, 1884, renders possible.

7. The other alterations which we have made are unimportant and do not call for special notice.

8. The publication ordered by the Council has been made as follows:—

An Act for imposing a tax on income derived from sources other than agriculture.

WHEREAS it is expedient to impose a tax on income derived from sources other than agriculture; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

Extent and commencement.

1. (1) This Act extends to the whole of British India, and applies also, within the dominions of Princes and States in India in alliance with Her Majesty, to British subjects in those dominions who are in the service of the Government of India or of a local authority established in the exercise of the powers of the Governor General in Council in that behalf; and

(2) It shall come into force on the first day of April, 1886.

(3) Any power conferred by this Act to make rules or to issue orders may be exercised at any time after the passing of this Act; but a rule or order so made or issued shall not take effect until the Act comes into force.

Repeal.

2. On and from the day on which this Act comes into force the enactments specified in the first schedule to this Act shall be repealed, except as to fees payable and other sums due under those enactments and the mode of recovering the same.

Definitions.

3. In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context,—

(1) "local authority" means any municipal committee, district board, body of port commissioners or other authority legally entitled to, or entrusted by the Government with, the control or management of any municipal or local fund:

(2) "company" means an association carrying on business in British India, whose stock or funds is or are divided into shares and transferable, whether the company is incorporated or not, and whether its principal place of business is situate in British India or not:

(3) "prescribed" means prescribed by the Governor General in Council by notification in the Gazette of India, or by the Governor General in Council or a Local Government by rules made under this Act:

(4) "salary" includes allowances, fees, commissions, perquisites or profits received, in lieu of or in addition to a fixed salary, in respect of an office or employment of profit; but, subject to any rules which may be prescribed in this behalf, it does not include travelling, tentage, horse or sumptuary allowance, or any other allowance granted to meet specific expenditure:

(5) "income" means income and profits accruing and arising or received in British India, and includes, in the case of a British subject within the dominions of a Prince or State in India in alliance with Her Majesty, any salary, annuity, pension or gratuity payable to that subject by the Government or by a local authority established in the exercise of the powers of the Governor General in Council in that behalf:

(6) "Magistrate" means a Presidency Magistrate or a Magistrate of the first or second class:

(7) "person" includes a firm and a Hindu undivided family:

(8) "defaulter" includes a company or firm making default under this Act:

(9) "Collector" means the chief officer in charge of the revenue-administration of a district, and, in a presidency-town, any officer whom the Local Government, by notification in the official Gazette, may, by name or by virtue of his office, appoint to be a Collector for the purposes of this Act; in the case of a company or firm, it means the Collector, as here defined, of the district or presidency-town in which its principal place of business in British India is situate; and, in the case of any other person chargeable under this Act, it means the Collector, defined as aforesaid, of the district or presidency-town in which the person has his residence:

(10) "principal officer," used with reference to a local authority or a company or any other public body or association not being a local authority or company, means—

(a) the secretary, treasurer, manager or agent of the authority, company, body or association; or

CHAPTER II.

LIABILITY TO TAX.

Incomes liable to the tax.

4. Subject to the exceptions mentioned in the next following section, there shall be paid, in the year beginning with the first day of April, 1886, and in each subsequent year, to the credit of the Government of India, or as the Governor General in Council directs, in respect of the sources of income specified in the first column of the second schedule to this Act, a tax at the rate specified in that behalf in the second column of that schedule.

Exceptions.

5. (1) Nothing in section 4 shall render liable to the tax—

(a) any rent or revenue derived from land which is used for agricultural purposes and is either assessed to land-revenue or subject to a local rate assessed and collected by officials of the Government, as such; or

(b) any income derived from—

(i) agriculture, or

(ii) the performance by a cultivator or receiver of rent-in-kind of any process ordinarily employed by a cultivator or receiver of rent-in-kind to render the produce raised or received by him fit to be taken to market, or

(c) any building owned and occupied by the receiver of the rent or revenue of any such land as is referred to in clause (a), or by the cultivator, or the receiver of rent-in-kind, of any land with respect to which or the produce whereof any operation mentioned in clause (b) is carried on:

Provided that the building is on or in the immediate vicinity of the land, and is a building which the receiver of the rent or revenue, or the cultivator or the receiver of the rent-in-kind, by reason of his connection with the land, requires as a dwelling-house, or as a store-house, factory or other out-building; or

(d) any profits of a shipping company incorporated or registered out of British India and having its principal place of business out of India and its ships ordinarily engaged in sea-going traffic out of Indian waters; or

(e) any income derived from property solely employed for religious or public charitable purposes; or

(g) subject to any conditions and restrictions which may be prescribed in this behalf, such portion, not exceeding one-sixth, of the income in respect whereof a person would, but for this exception, be chargeable under this Act, as is deducted from the salary of the person under the authority or with the permission of the Government for the purpose of securing a deferred annuity to him or a provision to his wife or children after his death or is paid by the person to an insurance company in respect of an insurance or deferred annuity on his own life or on the life of his wife; or

(h) any interest on stock-notes; or

(i) the salary of any officer, warrant-officer, non-commissioned officer or private of Her Majesty's Forces or of Her Majesty's Indian Forces who is not in an employment which, according to the ordinary practice, is held indifferently by military persons and civilians, and whose salary does not exceed five hundred rupees per mensem; or

(j) any person whose income from all sources is less than five hundred rupees per annum.

(2) An officer or servant is not exempt from taxation under this Act by reason only of the income of his employer being exempt therefrom under this section.

Power to make exemptions.

6. The Governor General in Council may, by notification in the Gazette of India, exempt from liability to the tax the whole or any part of the income of any class or tribe, or of any persons residing in any specified area, and may, by a like notification, revoke the exemption.

CHAPTER III.

ASSESSMENT AND COLLECTION.

A.—Salaries and Pensions.

Mode of payment in case of Government officials and pensioners.

7. In the case of a person receiving any salary, annuity, pension or gratuity from the Government, any sum payable to him by the Government in respect of the salary, annuity, pension or gratuity shall be reduced by the amount of the tax to which he is liable under Part I in respect thereof.

Mode of payment in case of servants and pensioners of local authorities.

8. (1) In the case of a person receiving any salary, annuity, pension or gratuity from a local authority, the tax to which he is liable under Part I shall, at the time of the payment to him of any of the salary, annuity, pension or gratuity, be deducted therefrom by the officer whose duty it is to make the payment, and be paid by that officer within the prescribed time to the credit of the Government of India or as the Governor General in Council directs.

(3) If, when any payment is made, the tax is from any cause not deducted, it may, and on the requisition of the Collector shall, be deducted when any salary, annuity, pension or gratuity is subsequently paid to the person liable to the tax.

(4) The power to deduct under this section shall be without prejudice to any other mode of recovery.

Mode of payment in case of servants and pensioners of companies and private employers.

9. (1) The tax to which a person receiving any salary, annuity, pension or gratuity from a company, or from any other public body or association not being a local authority or company, or from a private employer, is liable under Part I shall be payable by him at the time when any portion of the salary, annuity, pension or gratuity is paid to him.

(2) The Collector may, subject to such conditions as may be prescribed, enter into an arrangement with any company, or any such body or association as aforesaid, or any private employer, with respect to the recovery on behalf of the Government by the company, body, association or employer of the tax to which any person receiving any salary, annuity, pension or gratuity from the company, body, association or employer is liable under Part I.

Annual return by principal officer of company or association.

10. The principal officer of every local authority, and of every company, and of every other public body or association not being a local authority or company, shall prepare, and, on or before the fifteenth day of April in each year, deliver or cause to be delivered to the Collector, in the prescribed form, a return in writing showing—

(a) the name of every person who is receiving at the date of the return any salary, annuity or pension, or has received during the year ending on that date any gratuity, from the authority, company, body or association, as the case may be, and the address of every such person so far as it is known; and

(b) the amount of the salary, annuity, pension or gratuity so received by each such person, and the time at which the same becomes payable or, in the case of a gratuity, was paid.

B.—Profits of Companies.

Annual statement of nett profits.

11. The principal officer in British India of every company shall prepare, and, on or before the fifteenth day of April in each year, deliver or cause to be delivered to the Collector, a statement in writing signed by him of the nett profits made in British India by the company during the year ending on the day on which the company's accounts have been last made up, or, if the company's accounts have not been made up within the year ending on the thirty-first day of March in the year immediately preceding that for which the assessment is to be made, then of the nett profits so made during the year ending on the said thirty-first day of March.

Power to require officers of companies to produce accounts.

12. (1) If the Collector has reason to believe that a statement delivered under section 11 is incorrect or incomplete, he may cause to be served on the principal officer of the company a notice requiring him, on or before a date to be therein mentioned, either to attend at the Collector's office and produce, or to cause to be there produced, for the inspection of the Collector such of the accounts of the company as refer to the year to which the statement relates and as are in his possession or power.

(2) On the day specified in the notice, or as soon afterwards as may be, the Collector shall, by an order in writing, determine the amount at which the company shall be assessed under Part II, and the time when the amount shall be paid, and, subject to the provisions of this Act, that amount shall be payable accordingly.

C.—Interest on Securities.

Mode of payment of tax on interest on securities.

13. (1) The tax payable under Part III in respect of the interest on any of the securities mentioned in that Part shall, at the time when and place where any of the interest is paid, be deducted therefrom by the person empowered to pay the interest, and be paid by that person within the prescribed time to the credit of the Government of India or as the Governor General in Council directs.

D.—Other Sources of Income.

Ordinary Mode of Assessment and Collection.

Collector to determine persons chargeable.

14. The Collector shall, from time to time, determine what persons are chargeable under Part IV, and the amount at which every person so chargeable shall be assessed.

Mode of making assessment.

15. (1) The assessment shall be made upon the income accruing to the person during the year ending on the day on which his accounts have been last made up, or, if his accounts have not been made up within the year ending on the thirty-first day of March in the year immediately preceding that for which the assessment is to be made, then upon the income accruing to him during the year ending on the said thirty-first day of March.

(2) In the case of a person for the first time becoming chargeable under Part IV within the year for which the assessment is to be made, or within the year next before that year, the assessment shall be made according to an average of his income for such period as the Collector, having regard to the circumstances, directs.

List of incomes under two thousand rupees.

16. (1) The Collector shall in each year prepare a list of the persons chargeable under Part IV whose annual income does not, in his opinion, amount to two thousand rupees.

(2) The list shall be in the prescribed language or languages, and shall state in respect of every such person the following particulars, namely:—

(a) his name, and the source or sources of the income in respect of which he is chargeable;

(b) the year or portion of the year for which the tax is to be paid;

(c) the place or places, district or districts, where the income accrues;

(d) the amount to be paid; and

(e) the place where, and the person to whom, the amount is to be paid.

(3) The list shall be filed in the office of the Collector, with a notification prefixed thereto requiring every person mentioned in the list to pay, within sixty days from a date specified in the notification, the amount stated in the list as payable by him, or to apply to the Collector, within thirty days from that date, to have the assessment reduced or cancelled.

(4) The list so filed shall be open to inspection at all reasonable times without any payment.

(5) The list, or such part or parts thereof as the Collector thinks fit, with the notification prefixed thereto, shall be further published in such manner as the Local Government may consider to be best adapted for giving information to all persons concerned.

(6) The list to be prepared in each year may be the list of the previous year with such amendments as the Collector finds to be necessary.

Notices to persons with incomes of two thousand rupees and upwards.

17. In the case of a person chargeable under Part IV whose annual income is, in the Collector's opinion, two thousand rupees or upwards, the Collector shall cause a notice to be served on him stating the particulars (a) to (e), both inclusive, mentioned in section 16, sub-section (2), and requiring him to pay, within sixty days from a date specified in the notice, the amount stated therein as payable by him, or to apply to the Collector, within thirty days from that date, to have the assessment reduced or cancelled.

Power to modify ordinary procedure in special cases.

18. (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in section 16 or section 17, the Local Government may make rules—

(a) authorising or directing a Collector in specified cases, or classes of cases, to include in a list under section 16 any person who is liable to be served with a notice under section 17 instead of or in addition to serving him with such a notice, and to serve a notice under section 17 on any person liable to be included in a list under section 16 instead of or in addition to including him in such a list;

(b) authorising the Collector in any specified town or place to cause a general notice to be published, inviting every person chargeable under Part IV to deliver or cause to be delivered to the Collector, within a time specified in the notice, a return, in a prescribed form published with the notice, of his income during the year ending on the day on which his accounts have been last made up, or, if his accounts have not been made up within the year ending on the thirty-first day of March in the year immediately preceding that for which the assessment is to be made, then of his income during the year ending on the said thirty-first day of March;

(c) authorising the Collector in any presidency-town to cause a special notice to be served on any person chargeable under Part IV, inviting him to deliver or cause to be delivered to the Collector, within a time specified in the notice, a return, in a prescribed form accompanying the notice, of his income computed in the manner described in clause (b) of this sub-section.

(2) A return delivered under rules made under clause (b) or clause (c) of sub-section (1) must state the period during which the income has actually accrued; and there must be added at the foot thereof a declaration that the income shown in the return is truly estimated on all the sources therein mentioned, that it has actually accrued within the period therein stated, and that the person making the return has no other source of income.

(3) When a Collector authorised in that behalf by rules made under clause (b) or clause (c) of sub-section (1) has caused a notice to be published or served under those rules, he shall not include any person to whom the notice applies in any list made under section 16 or serve a notice on him under section 17 until the time specified in the notice published or served under those rules has expired.

(4) Rules made under this section shall be published in the official Gazette.

Time and place of payment.

Trustees, Agents, Managers and Incapacitated Persons.

Trustees, guardians and committees of incapacitated persons to be charged.

20. A person being the trustee, guardian, curator or committee of any infant, married woman subject to the law of England, lunatic or idiot, and having the control of the property of the infant, married woman, lunatic or idiot, whether the infant, married woman, lunatic or idiot resides in British India or not, shall, if the infant, married woman, lunatic or idiot is chargeable under Part IV, be chargeable under that Part in like manner and to the same amount as the infant would be chargeable if he were of full age, or the married woman if she were sole, or the lunatic or idiot if he were capable of acting for himself.

Non-residents to be charged in names of their agents.

21. Any person not resident in British India, whether a subject of Her Majesty or not, being in receipt, through an agent, of any income chargeable under Part IV, shall be chargeable under that Part in the name of the agent in the like manner and to the like amount as he would be chargeable if he were resident in British India and in direct receipt of that income.

Receivers, managers, Courts of Wards, Administrators General and Official Trustees.

22. Receivers or managers appointed by any Court in India, the Courts of Wards, the Administrators General of Bengal, Madras and Bombay, and the Official Trustees shall be chargeable under Part IV in respect of all income officially in their possession or under their control which is liable to assessment under that Part.

Power to retain duties charged on trustees, &c.

23. When a trustee, guardian, curator, committee or agent is, as such, assessed under Part IV, or when a receiver or manager appointed as aforesaid, a Court of Wards, an Administrator General or an Official Trustee is assessed under that Part in respect of income officially received, the person or Court so assessed may, from time to time, out of the money coming to his or its possession as trustee, guardian, curator, committee or agent, or as receiver, manager, Court of Wards, Administrator General or Official Trustee, retain so much as is sufficient to pay the amount of the assessment.

Occupying Owners.

Provision for tax on occupying owners.

24. (1) Where a building is occupied by its owner, it shall be deemed a source of income within the meaning of this Act, and, if liable to be assessed under this Act, shall be assessed at five-sixths of the gross annual rent at which it may reasonably be expected to let, and, in the case of a dwelling-house, may be expected to let unfurnished.

(2) "Owner," as used in this section with reference to a building, means the person who would be entitled to receive the rent of the building if the building were let to a tenant.

CHAPTER IV.

REVISION OF ASSESSMENT.

Petition to Collector against assessment under Part IV.

25. (1) Any person objecting to the amount at which he is assessed, or denying his liability to be assessed, under Part IV may apply by petition to the Collector to have the assessment reduced or cancelled.

(2) The petition shall ordinarily be presented within the period specified in the notification prefixed to the list filed under section 16, or in the notice served under section 17, as the case may be. But the Collector may receive a petition after the expiration of that period if he is satisfied that the objector had sufficient cause for not presenting it within that period.

(3) The petition shall, as nearly as circumstances admit, be in the form contained in the third schedule to this Act, and the statements contained in the petition shall be verified by the petitioner or some other competent person in the manner required by law for the verification of plaints.

Hearing of petition.

26. The Collector shall fix a day and place for the hearing of the petition, and on the day and at the place so fixed, or on the day and at the place, if any, to which he has adjourned the hearing, shall hear the petition and pass such order thereon as he thinks fit.

Petition to Commissioner for revision.

27. Subject to the control of the Local Government, the Commissioner of the Division, on the petition of any person deeming himself aggrieved by an order under section 12, sub-section (2), or section 26 shall, if the amount of the assessment to which the petition relates is two hundred and fifty rupees or upwards, and may in his discretion if the amount of the assessment is less than two hundred and fifty rupees, call for the record of the case, and pass such order thereon as he thinks fit.

Power to summon witnesses, &c.

28. The Collector or Commissioner may, for the purpose of enabling him to determine how the petitioner or the company which he represents should be assessed, summon and enforce the attendance of witnesses and compel them to give evidence, and compel the production of documents, by the same means, and, as far as possible, in the same manner, as is provided in the case of a Civil Court by the Code of Civil Procedure:

IV of 1882.

Provided that the Collector or Commissioner shall not call for any evidence except at the instance of the petitioner or in order to ascertain the correctness of facts alleged by him.

CHAPTER V.

RECOVERY OF ARREARS OF TAX.

Tax when payable.

29. The tax chargeable under this Act shall be payable at the time appointed in that behalf in or under this Act, or, if a time is not so appointed, then on the first day of June in each year.

Mode and time of recovery.

30. (1) In any case of default under this Act the Collector, in his discretion, may recover a sum not exceeding double the amount of the tax either as if it were an arrear of land-revenue or by any process enforceable for the recovery of an arrear of any municipal tax or local rate imposed under any enactment for the time being in force in any part of the territories administered by the Local Government to which he is subordinate, or may pass an order that a sum not exceeding double that amount shall be recovered from the defaulter:

Provided that, where a person has presented a petition under section 25, such sum shall not be recoverable from him unless, within thirty days from the passing of the order on the petition, he fails to pay the amount, if any, required by that order.

(2) The Local Government may direct by what authority any powers or duties incident under any such enactment as aforesaid to the enforcement of any process for the recovery of a municipal tax or local rate shall be exercised or performed when that process is employed under sub-section (1) for the recovery of the tax chargeable under this Act.

(3) An order passed by the Collector under sub-section (1) shall have the force of a decree of a Civil Court in a suit in which the Government is the plaintiff and the defaulter is the defendant; and the order may be enforced in manner provided by the Code of Civil Procedure for the enforcement of decrees for money; and the procedure under the said Code in respect of the following matters, namely,—

(a) sales in execution of decrees,

(b) arrest in execution of decrees for money,

(c) execution of decrees by imprisonment,

(d) claims to attached property, and

(e) execution of decrees out of the jurisdiction of the Courts by which they were passed, shall apply to every execution issued for levying the sum mentioned in the order; save that all the powers and duties conferred and imposed by the said Code upon the Court shall be exercised and discharged by the Collector by whom the order has been made or to whom a copy thereof has been sent for execution according to the provisions of the said Code, sections 223 and 224.

(4) The Local Government may direct, with respect to any specified area, that the tax chargeable under this Act shall be recovered therein with, and as an addition to, any municipal tax or local rate by the same person and in the same manner as the municipal tax or local rate is recovered.

(5) No proceedings for the recovery of any sum payable under this Act shall be commenced after the expiration of three months from the last day of the year in respect of which the sum is payable.

CHAPTER VI.

SUPPLEMENTAL PROVISIONS.

Composition.

Agreements for composition.

31. (1) If a company or person desires to compound for the tax assessable under Part II or Part IV, as the case may be, the Collector may, subject to such rules as may be prescribed in this behalf, agree with the company or person for a composition for the tax on such terms and for such period as he thinks fit.

(2) The agreement shall provide for the payment, in each year of the period comprised in the agreement, of the amount of the composition; and that amount shall be recoverable in the same manner and by the same means as any other assessment made under Part II or Part IV, as the case may be.

Receipts.

Receipts and their contents.

32. When any money is paid under this Act to the Collector or is recovered thereunder by him, he shall give a receipt for the same, specifying—

(a) the date of the payment or recovery of the money;

(b) the amount paid or recovered;

(c) the person who was liable to the tax, and the source or sources of income in respect of which the tax was payable;

(d) the year or part of the year for which the tax was payable;

(e) the place or places, district or districts, where the income accrues; and

(f) such other particulars, if any, as may be prescribed.

Amendment of Assessment.

Amendment of assessment.

33. If a company or person assessed under Part II or Part IV ceases to carry on the trade or business in respect whereof the assessment was made, or if any such person dies or becomes insolvent before the end of the year for which the assessment was made, or if any such company or person is, from any other specific cause, deprived of or loses the income on which the assessment was made, then the company or person or its or his representative in interest may apply to the Collector during or within three months after the end of the year, and the Collector, on proof to his satisfaction of any such cause as aforesaid, shall amend the assessment as the case may require, and refund such sum, if any, as has been overpaid.

Penalties.

Failure to make payments or deliver returns or statements.

34. (1) If a person fails—

(a) to deduct and pay any tax as required by section 8, sub-section (1), or section 13, sub-section (1), or he shall, on conviction before a Magistrate, be punishable with fine which may extend to ten rupees for every day during which the default continues.

(2) The Commissioner of the Division may remit wholly or in part any fine imposed under this section.

False statement in declaration.

XLV of 1860.

Prosecution to be at instance of Collector.

36. A person shall not be proceeded against for an offence under section 34 or section 35, except at the instance of the Collector.

Sections 193 and 228 of Penal Code to apply to proceedings.

37. Any proceeding under section 12 or Chapter IV of this Act shall be deemed to be a "judicial proceeding" within the meaning of sections 193 and 228 of the Indian Penal Code.

XLV of 1860

Power to make Rules.

Power to make rules.

38. (1) The Governor General in Council may make rules consistent with this Act for ascertaining and determining income liable to assessment, for preventing the disclosure of particulars contained in documents delivered or produced with respect to assessments under Part IV, and, generally, for carrying out the purposes of this Act, and may delegate to a Local Government the power to make such rules so far as regards the territories subject to that Government.

(2) In making a rule for preventing the disclosure of any particulars referred to in sub-section (1), the Governor General in Council may direct that a public servant committing a breach of the rule shall be deemed to have committed an offence under section 166 of the Indian Penal Code:

XLV of 1860.

(3) But a person committing any such offence shall not be liable to be prosecuted therefor without the previous sanction of the Local Government.

(4) Rules made under this section shall be published in the official Gazette.

Miscellaneous.

Bar of suits in Civil Court.

39. No suit shall lie in any Civil Court to set aside or modify any assessment made under this Act.

Exercise of powers of Collector and Commissioner.

40. All or any of the powers and duties conferred and imposed by this Act on a Collector or on a Commissioner of Division may be exercised and performed by such other officer or person as the Local Government appoints in this behalf.

Obligation to furnish information respecting lodgers and employés.

41. An officer or person exercising all or any of the powers of a Collector under this Act may, by notice, require any person to furnish a list, in the prescribed form, containing, to the best of his belief,—

(a) the name of every inmate or lodger resident in any house used by him as a dwelling house or let by him in lodgings;

(c) the place of residence of such of those persons as are not resident in any such house, and of any inmate or lodger in any such house who has a place of residence elsewhere at which he is liable under this Act to be assessed, and who desires to be assessed at that place.

Trustees and agents to furnish information as to beneficiaries and principals.

42. An officer or person exercising all or any of the powers aforesaid may, by notice, require any person whom he has reason to believe to be a trustee, guardian, curator, committee or agent to deliver or cause to be delivered a statement of the names of the persons for or of whom he is trustee, guardian, curator, committee or agent.

Trustees, &c., to furnish information as to income.

43. An officer or person exercising all or any of the said powers may, by notice, require a trustee, guardian, curator, committee or agent, or a receiver or manager appointed by any Court in India, or a Court of Wards, Administrator General or Official Trustee, to furnish such returns of income liable to assessment under Part IV as may be prescribed.

Obligation to furnish other information.

44. An officer or person exercising all or any of the said powers may, at the instance of any person respecting whose assessment or the amount thereof any doubt exists, require any person to furnish such information as he deems to be necessary for the purpose of ascertaining facts relevant to the assessment or its amount.

Sections 176 and 177 of Penal Code to apply to requisitions for information.

45. A person required to furnish any information under section 41, section 42, section 43 or section 44 shall be legally bound to furnish the same in such manner and within such time as may be specified in the requisition for the information.

Service of notices.

46. (1) A notice under this Act may be served on the person therein named either by a prepaid letter addressed to the person and registered under Part III of the Indian Post Office Act, 1866, or by the delivery or tender to him of a copy of the notice.

XIV of 1866.

(2) If a notice is served by registered letter, it shall be presumed to have been served at the time when the letter would be delivered in the ordinary course of post, and proof that the letter was properly addressed and put into the post shall be sufficient to raise the presumption that the notice was duly served at that time.

(3) If the notice is to be served otherwise than by registered letter, the service shall, whenever it may be practicable, be on the person named in the notice, or, in the case of a firm, on some member thereof, or, in the case of a Hindu undivided family, on the manager of the joint estate of the family:

(4) But when the person, member or manager cannot be found, the service may be made on any adult male member of his family residing with him; and if no such adult male member can be found, the serving-officer shall fix the copy of the notice on the outer door of the house in which the person, firm or family therein named ordinarily resides or carries on business.

Power to declare principal place of business or residence.

47. (1) When a company or firm has several places of business in territories subject to different Local Governments, the Governor General in Council may declare which of those places shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be the principal place of business.

(2) When a company or firm has several places of business in the territories subject to a single Local Government, that Government may declare which of them shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be the principal place of business.

(3) When a person has several places of residence in territories subject to different Local Governments, the Governor General in Council may declare which of those places shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be his residence.

(4) When a person has several places of residence in the territories subject to a single Local Government, that Government may declare which of those places shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be his residence.

(5) The powers given by this section may be delegated to, and exercised by, such officers as the Governor General in Council or the Local Government, as the case may be, appoints in this behalf.

Saving in favour of payers of pándharí and capitation taxes.

48. Where a person is in respect of any period liable to the tax under this Act he shall not in respect of that period be assessed to the pándharí-tax levied in the Central Provinces under Act XIV of 1867, or to the capitation-tax, or the land-rate in lieu thereof, levied in British Burma under the Burma Land and Revenue Act, 1876.

II of 1876.

Indemnity.

49. Every person deducting, retaining or paying any tax in pursuance of this Act or of any arrangement under section 9, sub-section (2), in respect of income belonging to another person, is hereby indemnified for the deduction, retention or payment thereof.

Powers exerciseable from time to time.

50. All powers conferred by, or conferable under, this Act may be exercised from time to time as occasion requires.

Telegram from the Bombay Chamber of Commerce, dated 19th January, 1886.

2. We have provided in section 1 that the Act shall come into force on the first day of April next. During the time which elapses between the passing of the Bill and that date, the Government will be able to prepare and issue its rules, and Collectors to make such arrangements for the assessment of the tax as they can make without calling in aid the provisions of the Act. It is important that Collectors should know as soon as possible what incomes will be assessable, and that the Government should at once be in a position to frame the necessary rules for assessment.

3. In section 5 we have, with advertence to section 24 (section 23 of the Bill as introduced), inserted a clause (clause (c)) excepting from liability to the tax the whole of the annual value of buildings which landholders and agriculturists own and occupy on, or in the immediate neighbourhood of, the land they hold and cultivate, and which are necessary to them in the exercise of their vocation as landholders and agriculturists. Thus, while a landholder will be exempt from the tax in respect of the annual value of the homestead (if any) appurtenant to his land, he will be assessable in respect of any other house he may own and occupy.

4. We have inserted in the same section a further clause (clause (f)), based on the English law, excepting from liability to the tax any portion, not exceeding one-sixth, of his income which a person pays either to the Government or to a company in respect of life-insurance or deferred annuity.

5. Clause (d) of section 5 (clause (c) of that section in the Bill as introduced) is based on a similar clause in Act VIII of 1872. The exemption appears to us to be sufficient to cover educational endowments, and does not, as has been suggested, open a door to the evasion of the Act by colourable gifts to idols or any like device.

6. We have omitted sub-section (2) of the same section in the Bill as introduced. There appears to us not to be sufficient ground for making, between official salaries and other incomes, the distinction which was proposed in that sub-section.

7. By the new sub-section (2) appended to section 5, we have made it clear that a salaried manager of land is not exempt from the tax by reason only of the income of his employer being exempt therefrom.

8. We have ascertained that companies and some other private employers are much opposed to that provision of the Bill as introduced which imposed on them the duty of deducting the tax from the salaries of their employés. To the argument that there was such a provision in force in the years 1869-72, they reply that the provision was then a fruitful cause of misunderstanding and disagreement between them and their subordinates. Under these circumstances it appears to us that companies ought not to be compelled to collect the tax. We have therefore modified section 8 of the Bill, and empowered the Collector, by a new section (section 9), to enter into an arrangement with any private employer, on terms to be mutually agreed on, for the collection by the employer of the tax payable by his employés.

9. Section 10 of the Bill as introduced followed the Acts of 1869 and 1872 in making special provision for the taxation of shipping companies. It has been stated, and we have satisfied ourselves, that the provision was unworkable and, in practice, inoperative. It has therefore been omitted from section 11, and the second schedule, of the Bill as amended by us: and we have added to section 5 a special exemption (clause (d)) in favour of shipping companies incorporated or registered out of British India and having their principal places of business out of India and their ships ordinarily engaged in sea-going traffic out of Indian waters.

10. To section 18 (section 17 of the Bill as introduced) we have added clauses empowering the Local Government to authorise the Collector in any specified town or place to publish general notices inviting tax-payers to make returns of their income, and in any presidency-town to serve special notices on individual tax-payers inviting them to make such returns.

11. In section 24 (section 23 of the Bill as introduced) we have provided for houses occupied by their owners being assessed at five-sixths, instead of nine-tenths, of their annual value. We have thus reverted to the principle of section 132 of Act XXXII of 1860.

12. We have so modified section 27 (section 26 of the Bill as introduced) as to require the Commissioner to call for the record in the case of a petition for the revision of any assessment of two hundred and fifty rupees or upwards.

13. In section 30 (section 29 of the Bill as introduced) we have provided for the continuance of the summary process of recovery described in section 24 of the Bengal License Act, 1880.

14. In sub-section (5) of the same section we have provided that no proceedings for the recovery of any sum payable under the Act shall be commenced after the expiration of three months from the last day of the year in respect of which the sum is payable. The section as amended by us is more restrictive on the revenue-authorities than the corresponding section of the Bengal License Act, 1880, and less so than the corresponding section of the Northern India License Act, 1878.

15. In section 31 provision has been made, as in Act XXXII of 1860, for composition of the tax.

16. Seeing that provision is made in Chapter IV for revision of assessment, we think that section 32, sub-section (1), of the Bill as introduced should be omitted, and that section 31 of that Bill may also be omitted, as being likely, by suggesting the disturbance of settled assessments, to create irritation with which the additional revenue raised under the section would be incommensurate.

17. In section 38 of the Bill as amended by us (section 37 of the Bill as introduced) we have provided for rules being made for securing secrecy in regard to information furnished in documents relating to incomes of assessees.

18. We have deemed it desirable to specify more particularly than in section 40 of the Bill as introduced the information which may be required by a Collector for the purposes of the Act. We have, therefore, for that section substituted sections 41 to 45 of the Bill as amended.

19. We have modified section 46 (section 41 of the Bill as introduced) by providing that the delivery of a letter duly posted shall only be presumed, and we have required the letter to be registered.

20. From the first column of Part III of the second schedule to the Bill as introduced we have omitted the clause relating to stock of, or shares in, guaranteed railway companies. The clause is unnecessary, as all railway companies will be assessed on their nett earnings. We have, however, provided in new clause (c) of Part III for the recovery, in the manner prescribed in section 13, of the interest on debentures issued by companies.

The following Act of the Governor General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor General on the 29th January, 1886, and is hereby promulgated for general information :—

ACT NO. III OF 1886.

An Act to amend the Northern India Ferries Act, 1878.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Northern India Ferries Act, 1878; It is hereby enacted as follows :— XVII of 1878.

Substitution of new section for section 8, and amendment of sections 12 and 15.

1. (1) For section 8 the following shall be substituted, namely :—

"8. The tolls of any public ferry may, from time to time, be let by public auction for a term not exceeding five years with the approval of the Commissioner, or by public auction, or otherwise than by public auction, for any term with the previous sanction of the Local Government.

"The lessee shall conform to the rules made under this Act for the management and control of the ferry, and may be called upon by the officer in whom the immediate superintendence of the ferry is vested, or, if the ferry is managed by a municipal or other public body under section 7 or section 7A, then by that body, to give such security for his good conduct and for the punctual payment of the rent as the officer or body, as the case may be, thinks fit.

"When the tolls are put up to public auction, the said officer or body, as the case may be, or the officer conducting the sale on his or its behalf, may, for reasons recorded in writing, refuse to accept the offer of the highest bidder, and may accept any other bid, or may withdraw the tolls from auction."

(2) For section 12, clause (b), the following shall be substituted, namely :—

(3) In the third paragraph of section 15, for the word "auction" the word "lease" shall be substituted.

Amendment of section 13, and substitution of new section for section 26.

2. (1) For the first paragraph of section 13 the following shall be substituted, namely :—

"Except with the sanction of the Magistrate of the district or of such other officer as the Local Government may, from time to time, appoint in this behalf, by name or in virtue of his office, no person shall establish, maintain or work a ferry to or from any point within a distance of two miles from the limits of a public ferry."

(2) In the second proviso to the said section, after the word "boats" the words "which do not ply for hire or" shall be inserted.

Penalty for maintaining private ferry within prohibited limits.

"26. Whoever establishes, maintains or works a ferry in contravention of the provisions of section 13 shall be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, and with a further fine which may extend to one hundred rupees for every day during which the ferry is maintained or worked in contravention of those provisions."

ACT NO. IV OF 1886.

An Act to amend section 265 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend section 265 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 ; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

New section substituted for section 265, Indian Contract Act.

1. For section 265 of the said Act the following shall be substituted, namely :—

"265. Where a partner is entitled to claim a dissolution of partnership, or where a partnership has terminated, the Court may, in the absence of any contract to the contrary, wind up the business of the partnership, provide for the payment of its debts and distribute the surplus according to the shares of the partners respectively."

Winding up by Court on dissolution or after termination.

Repeal of part of section 213, Act XIV, 1882.

2. In section 213 of the Code of Civil Procedure the words and figures from and including the word "applications" to the end of the section are hereby repealed.

XIV of 1882.

S. HARVEY JAMES,
Offg Secretary to the Government of India.

The following report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend section 265 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 22nd January, 1886 :—

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

WE, the undersigned, Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to amend section 265 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, was referred, have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin, and have now the honour to submit this our Report.

From Officiating Registrar, High Court, Calcutta, No. 930, dated 20th March, 1885, and enclosure [Papers No. 1].
From Officiating Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Assam, No. 577, dated 8th April, 1885 [Paper No. 2].
From Secretary for Berar to Resident, Hyderabad, No. 131G., dated 15th April, 1885 [Paper No. 3].
From Officiating Secretary to Chief Commissioner, British Burma, No. 300—16L., dated 16th April, 1885, and enclosures [Papers No. 4].
From Chief Commissioner, Ajmer-Merwára, No. 458, dated 2nd May, 1885, and enclosure [Papers No. 5].
From Chief Secretary to Government, Madras, No. 1098, dated 27th April, 1885, and enclosures [Papers No. 6].
From Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Coorg, No. 207—26, dated 4th May, 1885 [Paper No. 7].
From Assistant Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Central Provinces, No. 1722—64, dated 8th May, 1885 [Paper No. 8].
From Acting Under-Secretary to Government, Bombay, No. 3277, dated 11th May, 1885, and enclosures [Papers No. 9].
From Secretary to Government, North-Western Provinces and Oudh, No. 477—VII-72-20, dated 7th May, 1885, and enclosures [Papers No. 10].

From Registrar, High Court, Calcutta, No. 2611, dated 8th September, 1885, and enclosure [Papers No. 13].

2. We have so framed the new section which it is proposed to substitute for section 265 as to make it a declaration of law consistent with the form of plaint No. 113 scheduled to the Code of Civil Procedure, and to show that a partner may apply to have the partnership wound up not only after its termination but also when he is entitled to claim a dissolution.

3. We have not overlooked the difficulties pointed out by Mr. Justice Field and others as to the valuation and place of trial of suits under this section; but those difficulties, not being limited to suits of this class, should, we think, be considered separately and with care.

THE SCHEDULE.—LANDS EXCLUDED FROM THE AREA COMPRISED IN THE DISTRICT OF MIRZAPUR.

An Act to declare and amend the Law relating to the Stone Mahál in the District of Mirzapur in the North-Western Provinces.

WHEREAS it is expedient to declare and amend the law relating to the Stone Mahál in the district of Mirzapur in the North-Western Provinces; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Preliminary.

Short title and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Mirzapur Stone Mahál Act, 1886; and

(2) It shall come into force on such day as the Local Government, by notification in the official Gazette, appoints.

(3) The power conferred by this Act on the Local Government to make rules may be exercised at any time after the passing of this Act; but a rule so made shall not take effect until the Act comes into force.

Repeal.

2. On and from the day on which this Act comes into force, Bengal Regulation II of 1800 (a Regulation for laying open to public use the stone-quarries at Chunar, Gházípur [properly called Ghásípur] and Mirzapur, in the Province of Benares, subject to a fixed duty) shall be repealed.

Definitions.

3. In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context,—

(1) "the district" means the whole of the area comprised in the district of Mirzapur as constituted at the time of the passing of this Act, except the lands described in the schedule to this Act:

(2) "Collector" means the Collector of the Mirzapur district, and includes an Assistant Collector of the first class empowered by him to perform any of the functions of the Collector under this Act:

The Mirzapur Stone Mahál Act, 1886.

(Sections 4-9.)

(3) "Commissioner" means the Commissioner of the Benares Division:

(4) "Board" means the Board of Revenue of the North-Western Provinces:

(5) "quarry" means to take from the surface as well as to extract from a quarry:

(6) "transport" means to remove from one place to another within the district:

(7) "proprietor" includes an assignee of land-revenue and any person claiming under a proprietor or exercising any of the rights of a proprietor.

Rights of the Government and the Public.

4. The Government is entitled to levy duty on all stone quarried in the district.

Right of the Government to levy duty.

5. No proprietor of any land in any part of the district is entitled to impose any prohibition or restriction, or to demand or receive any sum by way of rent, premium, duty or price, in respect of the opening of a quarry, or the quarrying of stone, in the land, or in respect of the storing of stone at the quarry or the transport of stone over the land, or, save as may be provided by rules made under this Act, to receive from any person any compensation whatever in respect of any of the matters aforesaid.

Prohibition of levy of duty by proprietors.

6. (1) Subject to the rules made under this Act, any person is entitled to open a quarry, or quarry stone, in any land in any part of the district, and to store the stone at the quarry, and to transport it over any land.

Right of the public to quarry stone.

(2) A person may, so far as the rules made under this Act permit, acquire an exclusive right to open a quarry, or quarry stone, within certain local limits in any part of the district, and may retain the right so long as those rules permit.

(3) If a dispute as to the right referred to in sub-section (1), to open a quarry, or quarry stone, in any land, or as to the existence of or mode of exercising an exclusive right referred to in sub-section (2), to open a quarry, or quarry stone, within certain local limits, arises between any persons, or if a dispute as to the right to store stone on, or transport stone over, any land arises between the person claiming to store or transport the stone and the proprietor of the land, it shall, on application for that purpose by either of the disputing parties to the Collector, be decided by him.

(4) A Civil Court shall not take cognizance of any such dispute, or in any suit or proceeding whatever make any decree or order whereby any party to the dispute may be bound with respect to the subject-matter thereof either directly or indirectly.

Rules.

7. (1) The Local Government may, from time to time, make rules consistent with this Act to regulate within the whole or any specified part of the district all or any of the following matters:—

Power to make rules.

(a) the quarrying of stone, and the places where stone may be quarried;

(b) conflicting claims to exercise the right of opening a quarry or quarrying stone;

(c) the conditions on the fulfilment of which a person is to acquire an exclusive right of opening a quarry, or quarrying stone, within certain local limits, and how that right may cease to exist;

(d) the compensation to be paid for injury caused to crops or arable land by the quarrying, storing or transport of stone, and the authority by which the compensation is to be determined;

(e) the transport of stone;

(f) the storing of stone;

(g) the classification of stones, the rate or rates of duty to be paid in respect of each class of stone to the Government or to a farmer to whom the Government has leased the duties leviable thereon, and the time when, the place where, and the persons by whom, the duty is to be paid;

(h) the exemptions from, or reductions of, duty to be allowed, the conditions to attach to those exemptions or reductions, and the consequences to ensue on the breach of any of those conditions;

(i) the custody and disposal of stone confiscated or seized under this Act; and

(j) generally for carrying out the purposes of this Act.

(2) In making a rule under this section the Local Government may direct that a breach of it shall be punishable with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees, and, when the breach is a continuing breach, with a further fine which may extend to ten rupees for every day after the first during which the breach continues.

8. (1) The Local Government shall, before making any rules under section 7, publish a draft of the proposed rules for the information of persons interested.

Procedure for making rules.

(2) The publication shall be made in such manner as in the opinion of the Local Government is sufficient.

(3) A notice shall be published with the draft specifying a date at or after which the draft will be taken into consideration.

(4) The Local Government shall, before making the rules, receive and consider any objection or suggestion which is made by any person with respect to the draft before the date so specified.

9. Every rule made under section 7 shall be published in the official Gazette in English and in such other language or languages as the Local Government directs, and that publication shall be conclusive proof that the rule has been made as required by section 8.

Publication of rules.

(Sections 10-18.)

10. If a rule made under section 7, sub-section (1), clause (g), alters the rate of duty to be paid in respect of any class of stone, it shall not have effect till the expiration of one year from the date on which it is published.

Deferred operation of rules altering duty.

Offences.

11. If any person evades, or attempts to evade, or abets the evasion of, the payment of any duty payable under a rule made under section 7, sub-section (1), clause (g), he shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees and twenty times the duty payable on the stone in respect of which the offence was committed, and the Court convicting him may further order the confiscation of the stone.

Penalties for evasion of duty.

12. The burden of proving that duty has been paid on stone in respect of which a prosecution for an offence under section 11 has been instituted shall lie on the accused person.

Burden of proof as to payment of duty.

13. A prosecution for an offence under section 11 or against a rule made under section 7 shall not be instituted after the expiration of six months from the commission of the offence.

Limitation for prosecutions.

14. Nothing in this Act shall prevent any person from being prosecuted under any other law for any act or omission which constitutes an offence under section 11 or against a rule made under section 7, or from being liable under that other law to any other or higher punishment or penalty than that provided by section 11 or a rule made under section 7:

Saving of prosecutions under other laws.

Provided that a person shall not be punished twice for the same offence.

Arrest, Seizure and Search.

15. (1) Any officer whom the Collector, with the previous sanction of the Commissioner, may empower in this behalf, may—

Powers of officers.

(a) proceed, in respect of an offence under section 11 or against a rule made under section 7 which in his presence a person commits or is accused of committing, in the same manner as a police-officer may proceed, under section 57 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1882, in respect of a non-cognizable offence which in his presence a person commits or is accused of committing; and

(b) seize any stone in respect of which he has reason to believe that an offence under section 11 or against a rule made under section 7 has been committed, and, if the stone is being transported, use, for the removal thereof to the nearest place appointed for the custody of stone seized under this Act, any animals and conveyances used in transporting it.

(2) The powers conferred by this section may be exercised as well beyond as within the limits of the district, and if in the exercise of those powers a person is arrested or stone is seized beyond those limits, then, notwithstanding anything in this Act, the person arrested shall be liable to be dealt with, and the stone seized to be disposed of, in the same manner as if he had been arrested or it had been seized, within those limits.

16. (1) A Magistrate may issue his warrant for the search, after sunrise and before sunset, of any building, vessel or place in which he has reason to believe that stone in respect of which an offence under section 11 or against a rule made under section 7 has been committed is kept or concealed, and for the seizure of any stone found there.

Search-warrants.

(2) The provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1882, relating to searches under that Code shall, so far as the same are applicable, apply to searches under this section.

X of 1882.

Recovery of Duty.

17. An arrear of duty payable to the Government under a rule made under section 7, sub-section (1), clause (g), and an arrear due from a farmer of duties payable on stone, may be recovered from the person primarily liable to pay the same to the Government, or from his surety (if any), as if it were an arrear of land-revenue.

Recovery of duty.

Appeal and revision.

18. (1) Decisions and orders passed under this Act or any rule thereunder by an Assistant Collector, whether as Collector or otherwise, shall be appealable to the Collector of the Mirzapur district in the manner provided by the law for the time being in force in the district respecting appeals from the orders of an Assistant Collector to the Collector in matters pertaining to land-revenue.

Appeal and revision.

(2) Decisions and orders passed by the Collector of the Mirzapur district under this Act or any rule thereunder shall be appealable to the Commissioner in the manner provided by the law aforesaid respecting appeals from the orders of the Collector to the Commissioner.

(3) The Board may revise any decision or order passed under this Act or any rule thereunder by an Assistant Collector, whether as Collector or otherwise, or by the Collector of the Mirzapur district, or under sub-section (2) by the Commissioner.

Miscellaneous.

19. The rates of duty actually levied at the time of the passing of this Act shall continue to be levied until the Act comes into force, and shall then be deemed to have been prescribed by a rule made under section 7, sub-section (1), clause (g).

Saving of existing rates of duty.

20. (1) Notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, but subject to any rules which the Local Government may from time to time make to regulate the enjoyment of the privilege hereby conferred, the inhabitants of the tract south of the Vindhya range of hills shall be exempt from the payment of duty on stones quarried by them within the limits of that tract for their own use within those limits.

Exemption of the inhabitants of the hills.

(2) The Local Government may, from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, define the limits of the said tract for the purposes of this section.

The following Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to declare and amend the law relating to the Stone Mahal in the District of Mirzapur in the North-Western Provinces, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 22nd January, 1886 :—

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

WE, the undersigned, Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to declare and amend the Law relating to the Stone Mahál in the District of Mirzapur in the North-Western Provinces was referred, have considered the Bill and the papers noted on the margin, and have now the honour to submit this our Report.

From Secretary to Government, North-Western Provinces and Oudh, No. $\frac{288}{XIII-26-17}$, dated 30th November, 1885, and enclosures [Papers No. 1].

2. The Local Government and the Commissioner of the Benares Division are of opinion that jurisdiction with respect to disputes as to the existence of exclusive rights should be confined to the Revenue Courts. We concur in that opinion, and have amended section 6, sub-section (3), accordingly.

3. In section 15 we have provided that the officers of the Stone Mahál may exercise their powers of arrest and seizure as well beyond as within the limits of the district as defined in the Bill. Some of the quarries are on the borders of the district, and it is considered by the local authorities that the officials of the Stone Mahál should have power to seize stone which may be removed into an adjoining district without payment of duty.

4. In section 18 we have, at the instance of the Local Government, provided that decisions and orders passed by an Assistant Collector, whether acting as Collector or otherwise, shall be appealable to the Collector of the Mirzapur District.

THE FIRST SCHEDULE.—ENACTMENTS REPEALED.

THE SECOND SCHEDULE.—SOURCES OF INCOME AND RATES OF TAX.

THE THIRD SCHEDULE.—FORM OF PETITION.

An Act for imposing a tax on income derived from sources other than agriculture.

WHEREAS it is expedient to impose a tax on income derived from sources other than agriculture; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

Extent and commencement.

1. (1) This Act extends to the whole of British India, and applies also, within the dominions of Princes and States in India in alliance with Her Majesty, to British subjects in those dominions who are in the service of the Government of India or of a local authority established in the exercise of the powers of the Governor General in Council in that behalf; and

(2) It shall come into force on the first day of April, 1886.

(3) Any power conferred by this Act to make rules or to issue orders may be exercised at any time after the passing of this Act; but a rule or order so made or issued shall not take effect until the Act comes into force.

Repeal.

2. On and from the day on which this Act comes into force the enactments specified in the first schedule to this Act shall be repealed, except as to fees payable and other sums due under those enactments and the mode of recovering the same.

Definitions.

3. In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context,—

(1) "local authority" means any municipal committee, district board, body of port commissioners or other authority legally entitled to, or entrusted by the Government with, the control or management of any municipal or local fund:

(2) "company" means an association carrying on business in British India, whose stock or funds is or are divided into shares and transferable, whether the company is incorporated or not, and whether its principal place of business is situate in British India or not:

(3) "prescribed" means prescribed by the Governor General in Council by notification in the Gazette of India, or by the Governor General in Council or a Local Government by rules made under this Act:

(4) "salary" includes allowances, fees, commissions, perquisites or profits received, in lieu of or in addition to a fixed salary, in respect of an office or employment of profit; but, subject to any rules which may be prescribed in this behalf, it does not include travelling, tentage, horse or sumptuary allowance, or any other allowance granted to meet specific expenditure:

(5) "income" means income and profits accruing and arising or received in British India, and includes, in the case of a British subject within the dominions of a Prince or State in India in alliance with Her Majesty, any salary, annuity, pension or gratuity payable to that subject by the Government or by a local authority established in the exercise of the powers of the Governor General in Council in that behalf:

(6) "Magistrate" means a Presidency Magistrate or a Magistrate of the first or second class:

(7) "person" includes a firm and a Hindu undivided family:

(8) "defaulter" includes a company or firm making default under this Act:

(9) "Collector" means the chief officer in charge of the revenue-administration of a district, and, in a presidency-town, any officer whom the Local Government, by notification in the official Gazette, may, by name or by virtue of his office, appoint to be a Collector for the purposes of this Act; in the case of a company or firm, it means the Collector, as here defined, of the district or presidency-town in which its principal place of business in British India is situate; and, in the case of any other person chargeable under this Act, it means the Collector, defined as aforesaid, of the district or presidency-town in which the person has his residence:

(10) "principal officer," used with reference to a local authority or a company or any other public body or association not being a local authority or company, means—

(a) the secretary, treasurer, manager or agent of the authority, company, body or association; or

(11) "Part" means a Part of the second schedule to this Act.

CHAPTER II.

LIABILITY TO TAX.

Incomes liable to the tax.

4. Subject to the exceptions mentioned in the next following section, there shall be paid, in the year beginning with the first day of April, 1886, and in each subsequent year, to the credit of the Government of India, or as the Governor General in Council directs, in respect of the sources of income specified in the first column of the second schedule to this Act, a tax at the rate specified in that behalf in the second column of that schedule.

Exceptions.

5. (1) Nothing in section 4 shall render liable to the tax—

(a) any rent or revenue derived from land which is used for agricultural purposes and is either assessed to land-revenue or subject to a local rate assessed and collected by officials of the Government, as such; or

(b) any income derived from—

(i) agriculture, or

(c) any building owned and occupied by the receiver of the rent or revenue of any such land as is referred to in clause (a), or by the cultivator, or the receiver of rent-in-kind, of any land with respect to which or the produce whereof any operation mentioned in clause (b) is carried on:

Provided that the building is on or in the immediate vicinity of the land, and is a building which the receiver of the rent or revenue, or the cultivator or the receiver of the rent-in-kind, by reason of his connection with the land, requires as a dwelling-house, or as a store-house, factory or other out-building; or

(e) any income derived from property solely employed for religious or public charitable purposes; or

(g) subject to any conditions and restrictions which may be prescribed in this behalf, such portion, not exceeding one-sixth, of the income in respect whereof a person would, but for this exception, be chargeable under this Act, as is deducted from the salary of the person under the authority or with the permission of the Government for the purpose of securing a deferred annuity to him or a provision to his wife or children after his death or is paid by the person to an insurance company in respect of an insurance or deferred annuity on his own life or on the life of his wife; or

(h) any interest on stock-notes; or

(i) the salary of any officer, warrant-officer, non-commissioned officer or private of Her Majesty's Forces or of Her Majesty's Indian Forces who is not in an employment which, according to the ordinary practice, is held indifferently by military persons and civilians, and whose salary does not exceed five hundred rupees per mensem; or

(j) any person whose income from all sources is less than five hundred rupees per annum.

(2) An officer or servant is not exempt from taxation under this Act by reason only of the income of his employer being exempt therefrom under this section.

Power to make exemptions.

6. The Governor General in Council may, by notification in the Gazette of India, exempt from liability to the tax the whole or any part of the income of any class or tribe, or of any persons residing in any specified area, and may, by a like notification, revoke the exemption.

CHAPTER III.

ASSESSMENT AND COLLECTION.

A.—Salaries and Pensions.

Mode of payment in case of Government officials and pensioners.

7. In the case of a person receiving any salary, annuity, pension or gratuity from the Government, any sum payable to him by the Government in respect of the salary, annuity, pension or gratuity shall be reduced by the amount of the tax to which he is liable under Part I in respect thereof.

Mode of payment in case of servants and pensioners of local authorities.

8. (1) In the case of a person receiving any salary, annuity, pension or gratuity from a local authority, the tax to which he is liable under Part I shall, at the time of the payment to him of any of the salary, annuity, pension or gratuity, be deducted therefrom by the officer whose duty it is to make the payment, and be paid by that officer within the prescribed time to the credit of the Government of India or as the Governor General in Council directs.

(3) If, when any payment is made, the tax is from any cause not deducted, it may, and on the requisition of the Collector shall, be deducted when any salary, annuity, pension or gratuity is subsequently paid to the person liable to the tax.

(g) The power to deduct under this section shall be without prejudice to any other mode of recovery.

Mode of payment in case of servants and pensioners of companies and private employers.

9. (1) The tax to which a person receiving any salary, annuity, pension or gratuity from a company, or from any other public body or association not being a local authority or company, or from a private employer, is liable under Part I shall be payable by him at the time when any portion of the salary, annuity, pension or gratuity is paid to him.

(2) The Collector may, subject to such conditions as may be prescribed, enter into an arrangement with any company, or any such body or association as aforesaid, or any private employer, with respect to the recovery on behalf of the Government by the company, body, association or employer of the tax to which any person receiving any salary, annuity, pension or gratuity from the company, body, association or employer is liable under Part I.

Annual return by principal officer of company or association.

10. The principal officer of every local authority, and of every company, and of every other public body or association not being a local authority or company, shall prepare, and, on or before the fifteenth day of April in each year, deliver or cause to be delivered to the Collector, in the prescribed form, a return in writing showing—

(a) the name of every person who is receiving at the date of the return any salary, annuity or pension, or has received during the year ending on that date any gratuity, from the authority, company, body or association, as the case may be, and the address of every such person so far as it is known; and

(b) the amount of the salary, annuity, pension or gratuity so received by each such person, and the time at which the same becomes payable or, in the case of a gratuity, was paid.

B.—Profits of Companies.

Annual statement of nett profits.

11. The principal officer in British India of every company shall prepare, and, on or before the fifteenth day of April in each year, deliver or cause to be delivered to the Collector, a statement in writing signed by him of the nett profits made in British India by the company during the year ending on the day on which the company's accounts have been last made up, or, if the company's accounts have not been made up within the year ending on the thirty-first day of March in the year immediately preceding that for which the assessment is to be made, then of the nett profits so made during the year ending on the said thirty-first day of March.

Power to require officers of companies to produce accounts.

12. (1) If the Collector has reason to believe that a statement delivered under section 11 is incorrect or incomplete, he may cause to be served on the principal officer of the company a notice requiring him, on or before a date to be therein mentioned, either to attend at the Collector's office and produce, or to cause to be there produced, for the inspection of the Collector such of the accounts of the company as refer to the year to which the statement relates and as are in his possession or power.

(2) On the day specified in the notice, or as soon afterwards as may be, the Collector shall, by an order in writing, determine the amount at which the company shall be assessed under Part II, and the time when the amount shall be paid, and, subject to the provisions of this Act, that amount shall be payable accordingly.

C.—Interest on Securities.

Mode of payment of tax on interest on securities.

13. (1) The tax payable under Part III in respect of the interest on any of the securities mentioned in that Part shall, at the time when and place where any of the interest is paid, be deducted therefrom by the person empowered to pay the interest, and be paid by that person within the prescribed time to the credit of the Government of India or as the Governor General in Council directs.

D.—Other Sources of Income.

Ordinary Mode of Assessment and Collection.

Collector to determine persons chargeable.

14. The Collector shall, from time to time, determine what persons are chargeable under Part IV, and the amount at which every person so chargeable shall be assessed.

Mode of making assessment.

15. (1) The assessment shall be made upon the income accruing to the person during the year ending on the day on which his accounts have been last made up, or, if his accounts have not been made up within the year ending on the thirty-first day of March in the year immediately preceding that for which the assessment is to be made, then upon the income accruing to him during the year ending on the said thirty-first day of March.

(2) In the case of a person for the first time becoming chargeable under Part IV within the year for which the assessment is to be made, or within the year next before that year, the assessment shall be made according to an average of his income for such period as the Collector, having regard to the circumstances, directs.

List of incomes under two thousand rupees.

16. (1) The Collector shall in each year prepare a list of the persons chargeable under Part IV whose annual income does not, in his opinion, amount to two thousand rupees.

(2) The list shall be in the prescribed language or languages, and shall state in respect of every such person the following particulars, namely:—

(a) his name, and the source or sources of the income in respect of which he is chargeable;

(b) the year or portion of the year for which the tax is to be paid;

(c) the place or places, district or districts, where the income accrues;

(d) the amount to be paid; and

(e) the place where, and the person to whom, the amount is to be paid.

(3) The list shall be filed in the office of the Collector, with a notification prefixed thereto requiring every person mentioned in the list to pay, within sixty days from a date specified in the notification, the amount stated in the list as payable by him, or to apply to the Collector, within thirty days from that date, to have the assessment reduced or cancelled.

(4) The list so filed shall be open to inspection at all reasonable times without any payment.

(5) The list, or such part or parts thereof as the Collector thinks fit, with the notification prefixed thereto, shall be further published in such manner as the Local Government may consider to be best adapted for giving information to all persons concerned.

(6) The list to be prepared in each year may be the list of the previous year with such amendments as the Collector finds to be necessary.

Notices to persons with incomes of two thousand rupees and upwards.

17. In the case of a person chargeable under Part IV whose annual income is, in the Collector's opinion, two thousand rupees or upwards, the Collector shall cause a notice to be served on him stating the particulars (a) to (c), both inclusive, mentioned in section 16, sub-section (2), and requiring him to pay, within sixty days from a date specified in the notice, the amount stated therein as payable by him, or to apply to the Collector, within thirty days from that date, to have the assessment reduced or cancelled.

Power to modify ordinary procedure in special cases.

18. (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in section 16 or section 17, the Local Government may make rules—

(a) authorising or directing a Collector in specified cases, or classes of cases, to include in a list under section 16 any person who is liable to be served with a notice under section 17 instead of or in addition to serving him with such a notice, and to serve a notice under section 17 on any person liable to be included in a list under section 16 instead of or in addition to including him in such a list;

(b) authorising the Collector in any specified town or place to cause a general notice to be published, inviting every person chargeable under Part IV to deliver or cause to be delivered to the Collector, within a time specified in the notice, a return, in a prescribed form published with the notice, of his income during the year ending on the day on which his accounts have been last made up, or, if his accounts have not been made up within the year ending on the thirty-first day of March in the year immediately preceding that for which the assessment is to be made, then of his income during the year ending on the said thirty-first day of March;

(c) authorising the Collector in any presidency-town to cause a special notice to be served on any person chargeable under Part IV, inviting him to deliver or cause to be delivered to the Collector, within a time specified in the notice, a return, in a prescribed form accompanying the notice, of his income computed in the manner described in clause (b) of this sub-section.

(2) A return delivered under rules made under clause (b) or clause (c) of sub-section (1) must state the period during which the income has actually accrued; and there must be added at the foot thereof a declaration that the income shown in the return is truly estimated on all the sources therein mentioned, that it has actually accrued within the period therein stated, and that the person making the return has no other source of income.

(3) When a Collector authorised in that behalf by rules made under clause (b) or clause (c) of sub-section (1) has caused a notice to be published or served under those rules, he shall not include any person to whom the notice applies in any list made under section 16 or serve a notice on him under section 17 until the time specified in the notice published or served under those rules has expired.

Time and place of payment.

Trustees, Agents, Managers and Incapacitated Persons.

20. A person being the trustee, guardian, curator or committee of any infant, married woman subject to the law of England, lunatic or idiot, and having the control of the property of the infant, married woman, lunatic or idiot, whether the infant, married woman, lunatic or idiot resides in British India or not, shall, if the infant, married woman, lunatic or idiot is chargeable under Part IV, be chargeable under that Part in like manner and to the same amount as the infant would be chargeable if he were of full age, or the married woman if she were sole, or the lunatic or idiot if he were capable of acting for himself.

Trustees, guardians and committees of incapacitated persons to be charged.

21. Any person not resident in British India, whether a subject of Her Majesty or not, being in receipt, through an agent, of any income chargeable under Part IV, shall be chargeable under that Part in the name of the agent in the like manner and to the like amount as he would be chargeable if he were resident in British India and in direct receipt of that income.

Non-residents to be charged in names of their agents.

22. Receivers or managers appointed by any Court in India, the Courts of Wards, the Administrators General of Bengal, Madras and Bombay, and the Official Trustees shall be chargeable under Part IV in respect of all income officially in their possession or under their control which is liable to assessment under that Part.

Receivers, managers, Courts of Wards, Administrators General and Official Trustees.

23. When a trustee, guardian, curator, committee or agent is, as such, assessed under Part IV,

Power to retain duties charged on trustees, &c.

or when a receiver or manager appointed as aforesaid, a Court of Wards, an Administrator General or an Official Trustee is assessed under that Part in respect of income officially received, the person or Court so assessed may, from time to time, out of the money coming to his or its possession as trustee, guardian, curator, committee or agent, or as receiver, manager, Court of Wards, Administrator General or Official Trustee, retain so much as is sufficient to pay the amount of the assessment.

Occupying Owners.

24. (1) Where a building is occupied by its owner, it shall be deemed a source of income within the meaning of this Act, and, if liable to be assessed under this Act, shall be assessed at five-sixths of the gross annual rent at which it may reasonably be expected to let, and, in the case of a dwelling-house, may be expected to let unfurnished.

Provision for tax on occupying owners.

(2) "Owner," as used in this section with reference to a building, means the person who would be entitled to receive the rent of the building if the building were let to a tenant.

CHAPTER IV.

REVISION OF ASSESSMENT.

25. (1) Any person objecting to the amount at which he is assessed, or denying his liability to be assessed, under Part IV may apply by petition to the Collector to have the assessment reduced or cancelled.

Petition to Collector against assessment under Part IV.

(2) The petition shall ordinarily be presented within the period specified in the notification prefixed to the list filed under section 16, or in the notice served under section 17, as the case may be. But the Collector may receive a petition after the expiration of that period if he is satisfied that the objector had sufficient cause for not presenting it within that period.

(3) The petition shall, as nearly as circumstances admit, be in the form contained in the third schedule to this Act, and the statements contained in the petition shall be verified by the petitioner or some other competent person in the manner required by law for the verification of plaints.

26. The Collector shall fix a day and place for the hearing of the petition, and on the day and at the place so fixed, or on the day and at the place, if any, to which he has adjourned the hearing, shall hear the petition and pass such order thereon as he thinks fit.

Hearing of petition.

27. Subject to the control of the Local Government, the Commissioner of the Division, on the petition of any person deeming himself aggrieved by an order under section 12, sub-section (2), or section 26 shall, if the amount of the assessment to which the petition relates is two hundred and fifty rupees or upwards, and may in his discretion if the amount of the assessment is less than two hundred and fifty rupees, call for the record of the case, and pass such order thereon as he thinks fit.

Petition to Commissioner for revision.

28. The Collector or Commissioner may, for the purpose of enabling him to determine how the petitioner or the company which he represents should be assessed, summon and enforce the attendance of witnesses and compel them to give evidence, and compel the production of documents, by the same means, and, as far as possible, in the same manner, as is provided in the case of a Civil Court by the Code of Civil Procedure:

Power to summon witnesses, &c.

XIV of 1882.

Provided that the Collector or Commissioner shall not call for any evidence except at the instance of the petitioner or in order to ascertain the correctness of facts alleged by him.

CHAPTER V.

RECOVERY OF ARREARS OF TAX.

29. The tax chargeable under this Act shall be payable at the time appointed in that behalf in or under this Act, or, if a time is not so appointed, then on the first day of June in each year.

Tax when payable.

30. (1) In any case of default under this Act the Collector, in his discretion, may recover a sum not exceeding double the amount of the tax either as if it were an arrear of land-revenue or by any process enforceable for the recovery of an arrear of any municipal tax or local rate imposed under any enactment for the time being in force in any part of the territories administered by the Local Government to which he is subordinate, or may pass an order that a sum not exceeding double that amount shall be recovered from the defaulter:

Mode and time of recovery.

Provided that, where a person has presented a petition under section 25, such sum shall not be recoverable from him unless, within thirty days from the passing of the order on the petition, he fails to pay the amount, if any, required by that order.

(2) The Local Government may direct by what authority any powers or duties incident under any such enactment as aforesaid to the enforcement of any process for the recovery of a municipal tax or local rate shall be exercised or performed when that process is employed under sub-section (1) for the recovery of the tax chargeable under this Act.

(3) An order passed by the Collector under sub-section (1) shall have the force of a decree of a Civil Court in a suit in which the Government is the plaintiff and the defaulter is the defendant; and the order may be enforced in manner provided by the Code of Civil Procedure for the enforcement of decrees for money; and the procedure under the said Code in respect of the following matters, namely,—

(a) sales in execution of decrees,

(b) arrest in execution of decrees for money,

(c) execution of decrees by imprisonment,

(d) claims to attached property, and

(e) execution of decrees out of the jurisdiction of the Courts by which they were passed,

shall apply to every execution issued for levying the sum mentioned in the order; save that all the powers and duties conferred and imposed by the said Code upon the Court shall be exercised and discharged by the Collector by whom the order has been made or to whom a copy thereof has been sent for execution according to the provisions of the said Code, sections 223 and 224.

(4) The Local Government may direct, with respect to any specified area, that the tax chargeable under this Act shall be recovered therein with, and as an addition to, any municipal tax or local rate by the same person and in the same manner as the municipal tax or local rate is recovered.

(5) No proceedings for the recovery of any sum payable under this Act shall be commenced after the expiration of three months from the last day of the year in respect of which the sum is payable.

CHAPTER VI.

SUPPLEMENTAL PROVISIONS.

Composition.

31. (1) If a company or person desires to compound for the tax assessable under Part II or Part IV, as the case may be, the Collector may, subject to such rules as may be prescribed in this behalf, agree with the company or person for a composition for the tax on such terms and for such period as he thinks fit.

Agreements for composition.

(2) The agreement shall provide for the payment, in each year of the period comprised in the agreement, of the amount of the composition; and that amount shall be recoverable in the same manner and by the same means as any other assessment made under Part II or Part IV, as the case may be.

Receipts.

32. When any money is paid under this Act to the Collector or is recovered thereunder by him, he shall give a receipt for the same, specifying—

Receipts and their contents.

(a) the date of the payment or recovery of the money;

(b) the amount paid or recovered;

(c) the person who was liable to the tax, and the source or sources of income in respect of which the tax was payable;

(d) the year or part of the year for which the tax was payable;

(e) the place or places, district or districts, where the income accrues; and

(f) such other particulars, if any, as may be prescribed.

Amendment of Assessment.

33. If a company or person assessed under Part II or Part IV ceases to carry on the trade or business in respect whereof the assessment was made, or if any such person dies or becomes insolvent before the end of the year for which the assessment was made, or if any such company or person is, from any other specific cause, deprived of or loses the income on which the assessment was made, then the company or person or its or his representative in interest may apply to the Collector during or within three months after the end of the year, and the Collector, on proof to his satisfaction of any such cause as aforesaid, shall amend the assessment as the case may require, and refund such sum, if any, as has been overpaid.

Penalties.

Failure to make payments or deliver returns or statements.

34. (1) If a person fails—

(a) to deduct and pay any tax as required by section 8, sub-section (1), or section 13, sub-section (1), or

he shall, on conviction before a Magistrate, be punishable with fine which may extend to ten rupees for every day during which the default continues.

(2) The Commissioner of the Division may remit wholly or in part any fine imposed under this section.

False statement in declaration.

XLV of 1860.

Prosecution to be at instance of Collector.

36. A person shall not be proceeded against for an offence under section 34 or section 35, except at the instance of the Collector.

Sections 193 and 228 of Penal Code to apply to proceedings.

37. Any proceeding under section 12 or Chapter IV of this Act shall be deemed to be a "judicial proceeding" within the meaning of sections 193 and 228 of the Indian Penal Code.

XLV of 1860.

Power to make Rules.

Power to make rules.

38. (1) The Governor General in Council may make rules consistent with this Act for ascertaining and determining income liable to assessment, for preventing the disclosure of particulars contained in documents delivered or produced with respect to assessments under Part IV, and, generally, for carrying out the purposes of this Act, and may delegate to a Local Government the power to make such rules so far as regards the territories subject to that Government.

(2) In making a rule for preventing the disclosure of any particulars referred to in sub-section (1), the Governor General in Council may direct that a public servant committing a breach of the rule shall be deemed to have committed an offence under section 166 of the Indian Penal Code:

XLV of 1860.

(3) But a person committing any such offence shall not be liable to be prosecuted therefor without the previous sanction of the Local Government.

(4) Rules made under this section shall be published in the official Gazette.

Miscellaneous.

Bar of suits in Civil Court.

39. No suit shall lie in any Civil Court to set aside or modify any assessment made under this Act.

Exercise of powers of Collector and Commissioner.

40. All or any of the powers and duties conferred and imposed by this Act on a Collector or on a Commissioner of Division may be exercised and performed by such other officer or person as the Local Government appoints in this behalf.

Obligation to furnish information respecting lodgers and employés.

41. An officer or person exercising all or any of the powers of a Collector under this Act may, by notice, require any person to furnish a list, in the prescribed form, containing, to the best of his belief,—

(a) the name of every inmate or lodger resident in any house used by him as a dwelling house or let by him in lodgings;

(c) the place of residence of such of those persons as are not resident in any such house, and of any inmate or lodger in any such house who has a place of residence elsewhere at which he is liable under this Act to be assessed, and who desires to be assessed at that place.

Trustees and agents to furnish information as to beneficiaries and principals.

42. An officer or person exercising all or any of the powers aforesaid may, by notice, require any person whom he has reason to believe to be a trustee, guardian, curator, committee or agent to deliver or cause to be delivered a statement of the names of the persons for or of whom he is trustee, guardian, curator, committee or agent.

Trustees, &c., to furnish information as to income.

43. An officer or person exercising all or any of the said powers may, by notice, require a trustee, guardian, curator, committee or agent, or a receiver or manager appointed by any Court in India, or a Court of Wards, Administrator General or Official Trustee, to furnish such returns of income liable to assessment under Part IV as may be prescribed.

Obligation to furnish other information.

44. An officer or person exercising all or any of the said powers may, at the instance of any person respecting whose assessment or the amount thereof any doubt exists, require any person to furnish such information as he deems to be necessary for the purpose of ascertaining facts relevant to the assessment or its amount.

Sections 176 and 177 of Penal Code to apply to requisitions for information.

45. A person required to furnish any information under section 41, section 42, section 43 or section 44 shall be legally bound to furnish the same in such manner and within such time as may be specified in the requisition for the information.

Service of notices.

46. (1) A notice under this Act may be served on the person therein named either by a prepaid letter addressed to the person and registered under Part III of the Indian Post Office Act, 1866, or by the delivery or tender to him of a copy of the notice.

XIV of 1866.

(2) If a notice is served by registered letter, it shall be presumed to have been served at the time when the letter would be delivered in the ordinary course of post, and proof that the letter was properly addressed and put into the post shall be sufficient to raise the presumption that the notice was duly served at that time.

(3) If the notice is to be served otherwise than by registered letter, the service shall, whenever it may be practicable, be on the person named in the notice, or, in the case of a firm, on some member thereof, or, in the case of a Hindu undivided family, on the manager of the joint estate of the family.

(4) But when the person, member or manager cannot be found, the service may be made on any adult male member of his family residing with him; and if no such adult male member can be found, the serving-officer shall fix the copy of the notice on the outer door of the house in which the person, firm or family therein named ordinarily resides or carries on business.

Power to declare principal place of business or residence.

47. (1) When a company or firm has several places of business in territories subject to different Local Governments, the Governor General in Council may declare which of those places shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be the principal place of business.

(2) When a company or firm has several places of business in the territories subject to a single Local Government, that Government may declare which of them shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be the principal place of business.

(3) When a person has several places of residence in territories subject to different Local Governments, the Governor General in Council may declare which of those places shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be his residence.

(4) When a person has several places of residence in the territories subject to a single Local Government, that Government may declare which of those places shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be his residence.

(5) The powers given by this section may be delegated to, and exercised by, such officers as the Governor General in Council or the Local Government, as the case may be, appoints in this behalf.

Saving in favour of payers of pándhari and capitation taxes.

48. Where a person is in respect of any period liable to the tax under this Act he shall not in respect of that period be assessed to the pándhari-tax levied in the Central Provinces under Act XIV of 1867, or to the capitation-tax, or the land-rate in lieu thereof, levied in British Burma under the Burma Land and Revenue Act, 1876.

II of 1876.

Indemnity.

49. Every person deducting, retaining or paying any tax in pursuance of this Act or of any arrangement under section 9, sub-section (2), in respect of income belonging to another person, is hereby indemnified for the deduction, retention or payment thereof.

Powers exerciseable from time to time.

50. All powers conferred by, or conferable under, this Act may be exercised from time to time as occasion requires.

Telegram from the Bombay Chamber of Commerce, dated 19th January, 1886.

2. We have provided in section 1 that the Act shall come into force on the first day of April next. During the time which elapses between the passing of the Bill and that date, the Government will be able to prepare and issue its rules, and Collectors to make such arrangements for the assessment of the tax as they can make without calling in aid the provisions of the Act. It is important that Collectors should know as soon as possible what incomes will be assessable, and that the Government should at once be in a position to frame the necessary rules for assessment.

3. In section 5 we have, with advertence to section 24 (section 23 of the Bill as introduced), inserted a clause (clause (c)) excepting from liability to the tax the whole of the annual value of buildings which landholders and agriculturists own and occupy on, or in the immediate neighbourhood of, the land they hold and cultivate, and which are necessary to them in the exercise of their vocation as landholders and agriculturists. Thus, while a landholder will be exempt from the tax in respect of the annual value of the homestead (if any) appurtenant to his land, he will be assessable in respect of any other house he may own and occupy.

4. We have inserted in the same section a further clause (clause (g)), based on the English law, excepting from liability to the tax any portion, not exceeding one-sixth, of his income which a person pays either to the Government or to a company in respect of life-insurance or deferred annuity.

5. Clause (e) of section 5 (clause (c) of that section in the Bill as introduced) is based on a similar clause in Act VIII of 1872. The exemption appears to us to be sufficient to cover educational endowments, and does not, as has been suggested, open a door to the evasion of the Act by colourable gifts to idols or any like device.

6. We have omitted sub-section (2) of the same section in the Bill as introduced. There appears to us not to be sufficient ground for making, between official salaries and other incomes, the distinction which was proposed in that sub-section.

7. By the new sub-section (2) appended to section 5, we have made it clear that a salaried manager of land is not exempt from the tax by reason only of the income of his employer being exempt therefrom.

8. We have ascertained that companies and some other private employers are much opposed to that provision of the Bill as introduced which imposed on them the duty of deducting the tax from the salaries of their employés. To the argument that there was such a provision in force in the years 1869-72, they reply that the provision was then a fruitful cause of misunderstanding and disagreement between them and their subordinates. Under these circumstances it appears to us that companies ought not to be compelled to collect the tax. We have therefore modified section 8 of the Bill, and empowered the Collector, by a new section (section 9), to enter into an arrangement with any private employer, on terms to be mutually agreed on, for the collection by the employer of the tax payable by his employés.

9. Section 10 of the Bill as introduced followed the Acts of 1869 and 1872 in making special provision for the taxation of shipping companies. It has been stated, and we have satisfied ourselves, that the provision was unworkable and, in practice, inoperative. It has therefore been omitted from section 11, and the second schedule, of the Bill as amended by us: and we have added to section 5 a special exception (clause (d)) in favour of shipping companies incorporated or registered out of British India and having their principal places of business out of India and their ships ordinarily engaged in sea-going traffic out of Indian waters.

10. To section 18 (section 17 of the Bill as introduced) we have added clauses empowering the Local Government to authorise the Collector in any specified town or place to publish general notices inviting tax-payers to make returns of their income, and in any presidency-town to serve special notices on individual tax-payers inviting them to make such returns.

11. In section 24 (section 23 of the Bill as introduced) we have provided for houses occupied by their owners being assessed at five-sixths, instead of nine-tenths, of their annual value. We have thus reverted to the principle of section 132 of Act XXXII of 1860.

12. We have so modified section 27 (section 26 of the Bill as introduced) as to require the Commissioner to call for the record in the case of a petition for the revision of any assessment of two hundred and fifty rupees or upwards.

13. In section 30 (section 29 of the Bill as introduced) we have provided for the continuance of the summary process of recovery described in section 24 of the Bengal License Act, 1880.

14. In sub-section (5) of the same section we have provided that no proceedings for the recovery of any sum payable under the Act shall be commenced after the expiration of three months from the last day of the year in respect of which the sum is payable. The section as amended by us is more restrictive on the revenue-authorities than the corresponding section of the Bengal License Act, 1880, and less so than the corresponding section of the Northern India License Act, 1878.

15. In section 31 provision has been made, as in Act XXXII of 1860, for composition of the tax.

16. Seeing that provision is made in Chapter IV for revision of assessment, we think that section 32, sub-section (1), of the Bill as introduced should be omitted, and that section 31 of that Bill may also be omitted, as being likely, by suggesting the disturbance of settled assessments, to create irritation with which the additional revenue raised under the section would be incommensurate.

17. In section 38 of the Bill as amended by us (section 37 of the Bill as introduced) we have provided for rules being made for securing secrecy in regard to information furnished in documents relating to incomes of assessees.

18. We have deemed it desirable to specify more particularly than in section 40 of the Bill as introduced the information which may be required by a Collector for the purposes of the Act. We have, therefore, for that section substituted sections 41 to 45 of the Bill as amended.

19. We have modified section 46 (section 41 of the Bill as introduced) by providing that the delivery of a letter duly posted shall only be presumed, and we have required the letter to be registered.

20. From the first column of Part III of the second schedule to the Bill as introduced we have omitted the clause relating to stock of, or shares in, guaranteed railway companies. The clause is unnecessary, as all railway companies will be assessed on their nett earnings. We have, however, provided in new clause (c) of Part III for the recovery, in the manner prescribed in section 13, of the interest on debentures issued by companies.

The following Act of the Governor General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor General on the 29th January, 1886, and is hereby promulgated for general information :—

ACT NO. III OF 1886.

An Act to amend the Northern India Ferries Act, 1878.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Northern India Ferries Act, 1878; It is hereby enacted as follows :— XIVII of 1878.

Substitution of new section for section 8, and amendment of sections 12 and 15.

1. (1) For section 8 the following shall be substituted, namely :—

"8. The tolls of any public ferry may, from time to time, be let by public auction for a term not exceeding five years with the approval of the Commissioner, or by public auction, or otherwise than by public auction, for any term with the previous sanction of the Local Government.

"The lessee shall conform to the rules made under this Act for the management and control of the ferry, and may be called upon by the officer in whom the immediate superintendence of the ferry is vested, or, if the ferry is managed by a municipal or other public body under section 7 or section 7A, then by that body, to give such security for his good conduct and for the punctual payment of the rent as the officer or body, as the case may be, thinks fit.

(2) For section 12, clause (b), the following shall be substituted, namely :—

(3) In the third paragraph of section 15, for the word "auction" the word "lease" shall be substituted.

Amendment of section 13, and substitution of new section for section 26.

2. (1) For the first paragraph of section 13 the following shall be substituted, namely :—

"Except with the sanction of the Magistrate of the district or of such other officer as the Local Government may, from time to time, appoint in this behalf, by name or in virtue of his office, no person shall establish, maintain or work a ferry to or from any point within a distance of two miles from the limits of a public ferry."

(2) In the second proviso to the said section, after the word "boats" the words "which do not ply for hire or" shall be inserted.

Penalty for maintaining private ferry within prohibited limits.

"26. Whoever establishes, maintains or works a ferry in contravention of the provisions of section 13 shall be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, and with a further fine which may extend to one hundred rupees for every day during which the ferry is maintained or worked in contravention of those provisions."

From Officiating Secretary to Government, Punjab, No. 1080, dated 23rd December, 1885, and enclosures [Papers No, 6].

2. We have amended section 8 of the Bill so as to make it clear that, when a ferry is managed by a municipal or other public body, that body may let the ferry, subject only to the restrictions to which the District Magistrate would be subject if the ferry were under his immediate superintendence.

3. The amendment of clause (b) of section 12 is a consequence of the amendment of section 8.

4. We have so amended the second proviso to section 13 as to maintain the existing law with respect to boats which do not ply for hire.

5. The publication ordered by the Council has been made as follows :—

The following Act of the Governor General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor General on the 29th January, 1886, and is hereby promulgated for general information :—

ACT NO. IV OF 1886.

An Act to amend section 265 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872.

IX of 1872. WHEREAS it is expedient to amend section 265 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

New section substituted for section 265, Indian Contract Act.

1. For section 265 of the said Act the following shall be substituted, namely :—

Winding up by Court on dissolution or after termination.

"265. Where a partner is entitled to claim a dissolution of partnership, or where a partnership has terminated, the Court may, in the absence of any contract to the contrary, wind up the business of the partnership, provide for the payment of its debts and distribute the surplus according to the shares of the partners respectively."

Repeal of part of section 213, Act XIV, 1882.

2. In section 213 of the Code of Civil Procedure the words and figures from and including the word "applications" to the end of the section are hereby repealed. XIV of 1882.

S. HARVEY JAMES,
Offg. Secretary to the Government of India.

The following report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend section 265 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 22nd January, 1886 :—

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

WE, the undersigned, Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to amend section 265 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, was referred, have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin, and have now the honour to submit this our Report.

From Officiating Registrar, High Court, Calcutta, No. 930, dated 20th March, 1885, and enclosure [Papers No. 1].
From Officiating Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Assam, No. 577, dated 8th April, 1885 [Paper No. 2].
From Secretary for Berar to Resident, Hyderabad, No. 131G., dated 15th April, 1885 [Paper No. 3].
From Officiating Secretary to Chief Commissioner, British Burma, No. 300—16L., dated 16th April, 1885, and enclosures [Papers No. 4].
From Chief Commissioner, Ajmer-Merwára, No. 458, dated 2nd May, 1885, and enclosure [Papers No. 5].
From Chief Secretary to Government, Madras, No. 1098, dated 27th April, 1885, and enclosures [Papers No. 6].
From Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Coorg, No. 207—26, dated 4th May, 1885 [Paper No. 7].
From Assistant Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Central Provinces, No. 1722—64, dated 8th May, 1885 [Paper No. 8].
From Acting Under-Secretary to Government, Bombay, No. 3277, dated 11th May, 1885, and enclosures [Papers No. 9].
From Secretary to Government, North-Western Provinces and Oudh, No. 477—VII-72-20, dated 7th May, 1885, and enclosures [Papers No. 10].
From Officiating Secretary to Government, Punjab, No. 509, dated 15th May, 1885, and enclosures [Papers No. 11].
From Secretary to Government, Bengal, No. 347 J. D., dated 11th May, 1885, and enclosures [Papers No. 12].
From Registrar, High Court, Calcutta, No. 2611, dated 8th September, 1885, and enclosure [Papers No. 13].

2. We have so framed the new section which it is proposed to substitute for section 265 as to make it a declaration of law consistent with the form of plaint No. 113 scheduled to the Code of Civil Procedure, and to show that a partner may apply to have the partnership wound up not only after its termination but also when he is entitled to claim a dissolution.

3. We have not overlooked the difficulties pointed out by Mr. Justice Field and others as to the valuation and place of trial of suits under this section; but those difficulties, not being limited to suits of this class, should, we think, be considered separately and with care.

THE SCHEDULE.—LANDS EXCLUDED FROM THE AREA COMPRISED IN THE DISTRICT OF MIRZAPUR.

An Act to declare and amend the Law relating to the Stone Mahál in the District of Mirzapur in the North-Western Provinces.

WHEREAS it is expedient to declare and amend the law relating to the Stone Mahál in the district of Mirzapur in the North-Western Provinces; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Preliminary.

Short title and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Mirzapur Stone Mahál Act, 1886; and

(2) It shall come into force on such day as the Local Government, by notification in the official Gazette, appoints.

(3) The power conferred by this Act on the Local Government to make rules may be exercised at any time after the passing of this Act; but a rule so made shall not take effect until the Act comes into force.

Repeal.

2. On and from the day on which this Act comes into force, Bengal Regulation II of 1800 (a Regulation for laying open to public use the stone-quarries at Chunar, Gházípur [properly called Ghásípur] and Mirzapur, in the Province of Benares, subject to a fixed duty) shall be repealed.

Definitions.

3. In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context,—

(1) "the district" means the whole of the area comprised in the district of Mirzapur as constituted at the time of the passing of this Act, except the lands described in the schedule to this Act:

(2) "Collector" means the Collector of the Mirzapur district, and includes an Assistant Collector of the first class empowered by him to perform any of the functions of the Collector under this Act:

The Mirzapur Stone Mahál Act, 1886.

(Sections 4-9.)

(3) "Commissioner" means the Commissioner of the Benares Division:

(4) "Board" means the Board of Revenue of the North-Western Provinces:

(5) "quarry" means to take from the surface as well as to extract from a quarry:

(6) "transport" means to remove from one place to another within the district:

(7) "proprietor" includes an assignee of land-revenue and any person claiming under a proprietor or exercising any of the rights of a proprietor.

Rights of the Government and the Public.

4. The Government is entitled to levy duty on all stone quarried in the district.

Right of the Government to levy duty.

5. No proprietor of any land in any part of the district is entitled to impose any prohibition or restriction, or to demand or receive any sum by way of rent, premium, duty or price, in respect of the opening of a quarry, or the quarrying of stone, in the land, or in respect of the storing of stone at the quarry or the transport of stone over the land, or, save as may be provided by rules made under this Act, to receive from any person any compensation whatever in respect of any of the matters aforesaid.

Prohibition of levy of duty by proprietors.

6. (1) Subject to the rules made under this Act, any person is entitled to open a quarry, or quarry stone, in any land in any part of the district, and to store the stone at the quarry, and to transport it over any land.

Right of the public to quarry stone.

(2) A person may, so far as the rules made under this Act permit, acquire an exclusive right to open a quarry, or quarry stone, within certain local limits in any part of the district, and may retain the right so long as those rules permit.

(3) If a dispute as to the right referred to in sub-section (1), to open a quarry, or quarry stone, in any land, or as to the existence of or mode of exercising an exclusive right referred to in sub-section (2), to open a quarry, or quarry stone, within certain local limits, arises between any persons, or if a dispute as to the right to store stone on, or transport stone over, any land arises between the person claiming to store or transport the stone and the proprietor of the land, it shall, on application for that purpose by either of the disputing parties to the Collector, be decided by him.

(4) A Civil Court shall not take cognizance of any such dispute, or in any suit or proceeding whatever make any decree or order whereby any party to the dispute may be bound with respect to the subject-matter thereof either directly or indirectly.

Rules.

7. (1) The Local Government may, from time to time, make rules consistent with this Act to regulate within the whole or any specified part of the district all or any of the following matters:—

Power to make rules.

(a) the quarrying of stone, and the places where stone may be quarried;

(b) conflicting claims to exercise the right of opening a quarry or quarrying stone;

(c) the conditions on the fulfilment of which a person is to acquire an exclusive right of opening a quarry, or quarrying stone, within certain local limits, and how that right may cease to exist;

(d) the compensation to be paid for injury caused to crops or arable land by the quarrying, storing or transport of stone, and the authority by which the compensation is to be determined;

(e) the transport of stone;

(f) the storing of stone;

(g) the classification of stones, the rate or rates of duty to be paid in respect of each class of stone to the Government or to a farmer to whom the Government has leased the duties leviable thereon, and the time when, the place where, and the persons by whom, the duty is to be paid;

(h) the exemptions from, or reductions of, duty to be allowed, the conditions to attach to those exemptions or reductions, and the consequences to ensue on the breach of any of those conditions;

(i) the custody and disposal of stone confiscated or seized under this Act; and

(j) generally for carrying out the purposes of this Act.

(2) In making a rule under this section the Local Government may direct that a breach of it shall be punishable with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees, and, when the breach is a continuing breach, with a further fine which may extend to ten rupees for every day after the first during which the breach continues.

8. (1) The Local Government shall, before making any rules under section 7, publish a draft of the proposed rules for the information of persons interested.

Procedure for making rules.

(2) The publication shall be made in such manner as in the opinion of the Local Government is sufficient.

(3) A notice shall be published with the draft specifying a date at or after which the draft will be taken into consideration.

(4) The Local Government shall, before making the rules, receive and consider any objection or suggestion which is made by any person with respect to the draft before the date so specified.

9. Every rule made under section 7 shall be published in the official Gazette in English and in such other language or languages as the Local Government directs, and that publication shall be conclusive proof that the rule has been made as required by section 8.

Publication of rules.

(Sections 10-18.)

10. If a rule made under section 7, sub-section (1), clause (g), alters the rate of duty to be paid in respect of any class of stone, it shall not have effect till the expiration of one year from the date on which it is published.

Deferred operation of rules altering duty.

Offences.

11. If any person evades, or attempts to evade, or abets the evasion of, the payment of any duty payable under a rule made under section 7, sub-section (1), clause (g), he shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees and twenty times the duty payable on the stone in respect of which the offence was committed, and the Court convicting him may further order the confiscation of the stone.

Penalties for evasion of duty.

12. The burden of proving that duty has been paid on stone in respect of which a prosecution for an offence under section 11 has been instituted shall lie on the accused person.

Burden of proof as to payment of duty.

13. A prosecution for an offence under section 11 or against a rule made under section 7 shall not be instituted after the expiration of six months from the commission of the offence.

Limitation for prosecutions.

14. Nothing in this Act shall prevent any person from being prosecuted under any other law for any act or omission which constitutes an offence under section 11 or against a rule made under section 7, or from being liable under that other law to any other or higher punishment or penalty than that provided by section 11 or a rule made under section 7:

Saving of prosecutions under other laws.

Provided that a person shall not be punished twice for the same offence.

Arrest, Seizure and Search.

15. (1) Any officer whom the Collector, with the previous sanction of the Commissioner, may empower in this behalf, may—

Powers of officers.

(a) proceed, in respect of an offence under section 11 or against a rule made under section 7 which in his presence a person commits or is accused of committing, in the same manner as a police-officer may proceed, under section 57 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1882, in respect of a non-cognizable offence which in his presence a person commits or is accused of committing; and

X of 1882.

(b) seize any stone in respect of which he has reason to believe that an offence under section 11 or against a rule made under section 7 has been committed, and, if the stone is being transported, use, for the removal thereof to the nearest place appointed for the custody of stone seized under this Act, any animals and conveyances used in transporting it.

(2) The powers conferred by this section may be exercised as well beyond as within the limits of the district, and if in the exercise of those powers a person is arrested or stone is seized beyond those limits, then, notwithstanding anything in this Act, the person arrested shall be liable to be dealt with, and the stone seized to be disposed of, in the same manner as if he had been arrested or it had been seized, within those limits.

16. (1) A Magistrate may issue his warrant for the search, after sunrise and before sunset, of any building, vessel or place in which he has reason to believe that stone in respect of which an offence under section 11 or against a rule made under section 7 has been committed is kept or concealed, and for the seizure of any stone found there.

Search-warrants.

(2) The provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1882, relating to searches under that Code shall, so far as the same are applicable, apply to searches under this section.

X of 1882.

Recovery of Duty.

17. An arrear of duty payable to the Government under a rule made under section 7, sub-section (1), clause (g), and an arrear due from a farmer of duties payable on stone, may be recovered from the person primarily liable to pay the same to the Government, or from his surety (if any), as if it were an arrear of land-revenue.

Recovery of duty.

Appeal and revision.

18. (1) Decisions and orders passed under this Act or any rule thereunder by an Assistant Collector, whether as Collector or otherwise, shall be appealable to the Collector of the Mirzapur district in the manner provided by the law for the time being in force in the district respecting appeals from the orders of an Assistant Collector to the Collector in matters pertaining to land-revenue.

Appeal and revision.

(2) Decisions and orders passed by the Collector of the Mirzapur district under this Act or any rule thereunder shall be appealable to the Commissioner in the manner provided by the law aforesaid respecting appeals from the orders of the Collector to the Commissioner.

(3) The Board may revise any decision or order passed under this Act or any rule thereunder by an Assistant Collector, whether as Collector or otherwise, or by the Collector of the Mirzapur district, or under sub-section (2) by the Commissioner.

The Mirzapur Stone Mahál Act, 1886.

(Sections 19-20.)

Miscellaneous.

19. The rates of duty actually levied at the time of the passing of this Act shall continue to be levied until the Act comes into force, and shall then be deemed to have been prescribed by a rule made under section 7, sub-section (1), clause (g).

Saving of existing rates of duty.

20. (1) Notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, but subject to any rules which the Local Government may from time to time make to regulate the enjoyment of the privilege hereby conferred, the inhabitants of the tract south of the Vindhya range of hills shall be exempt from the payment of duty on stones quarried by them within the limits of that tract for their own use within those limits.

Exemption of the inhabitants of the hills.

(2) The Local Government may, from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, define the limits of the said tract for the purposes of this section.

The following Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to declare and amend the law relating to the Stone Mahal in the District of Mirzapur in the North-Western Provinces, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 22nd January, 1886 :—

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

From Secretary to Government, North-Western Provinces and Oudh, No. $\frac{269}{\text{XIII-36-17}}$, dated 30th November, 1885, and enclosures [Papers No. 1].

WE, the undersigned, Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to declare and amend the Law relating to the Stone Mahál in the District of Mirzapur in the North-Western Provinces was referred, have considered the Bill and the papers noted on the margin, and have now the honour to submit this our Report.

2. The Local Government and the Commissioner of the Benares Division are of opinion that jurisdiction with respect to disputes as to the existence of exclusive rights should be confined to the Revenue Courts. We concur in that opinion, and have amended section 6, sub-section (3), accordingly.

3. In section 15 we have provided that the officers of the Stone Mahál may exercise their powers of arrest and seizure as well beyond as within the limits of the district as defined in the Bill. Some of the quarries are on the borders of the district, and it is considered by the local authorities that the officials of the Stone Mahál should have power to seize stone which may be removed into an adjoining district without payment of duty.

4. In section 18 we have, at the instance of the Local Government, provided that decisions and orders passed by an Assistant Collector, whether acting as Collector or otherwise, shall be appealable to the Collector of the Mirzapur District.

5. The publication ordered by the Council has been made as follows :—

An Act for imposing a tax on income derived from sources other than agriculture.

WHEREAS it is expedient to impose a tax on income derived from sources other than agriculture; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

Extent and commencement.

1. (1) This Act extends to the whole of British India, and applies also, within the dominions of Princes and States in India in alliance with Her Majesty, to British subjects in those dominions who are in the service of the Government of India or of a local authority established in the exercise of the powers of the Governor General in Council in that behalf; and

(2) it shall come into force on the first day of April, 1886.

(3) Any power conferred by this Act to make rules or to issue orders may be exercised at any time after the passing of this Act; but a rule or order so made or issued shall not take effect until the Act comes into force.

Repeal.

2. On and from the day on which this Act comes into force the enactments specified in the first schedule to this Act shall be repealed, except as to fees payable and other sums due under those enactments and the mode of recovering the same.

Definitions.

3. In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context,—

(1) "local authority" means any municipal committee, district board, body of port commissioners or other authority legally entitled to, or entrusted by the Government with, the control or management of any municipal or local fund:

(2) "company" means an association carrying on business in British India, whose stock or funds is or are divided into shares and transferable, whether the company is incorporated or not, and whether its principal place of business is situate in British India or not:

(3) "prescribed" means prescribed by the Governor General in Council by notification in the Gazette of India, or by the Governor General in Council or a Local Government by rules made under this Act:

(4) "salary" includes allowances, fees, commissions, perquisites or profits received, in lieu of or in addition to a fixed salary, in respect of an office or employment of profit; but, subject to any rules which may be prescribed in this behalf, it does not include travelling, tentage, horse or sumptuary allowance, or any other allowance granted to meet specific expenditure:

(5) "income" means income and profits accruing and arising or received in British India, and includes, in the case of a British subject within the dominions of a Prince or State in India in alliance with Her Majesty, any salary, annuity, pension or gratuity payable to that subject by the Government or by a local authority established in the exercise of the powers of the Governor General in Council in that behalf:

(6) "Magistrate" means a Presidency Magistrate or a Magistrate of the first or second class:

(7) "person" includes a firm and a Hindu undivided family:

(8) "defaulter" includes a company or firm making default under this Act:

(9) "Collector" means the chief officer in charge of the revenue-administration of a district, and, in a presidency-town, any officer whom the Local Government, by notification in the official Gazette, may, by name or by virtue of his office, appoint to be a Collector for the purposes of this Act; in the case of a company or firm, it means the Collector, as here defined, of the district or presidency-town in which its principal place of business in British India is situate; and, in the case of any other person chargeable under this Act, it means the Collector, defined as aforesaid, of the district or presidency-town in which the person has his residence:

(a) the secretary, treasurer, manager or agent of the authority, company, body or association; or

CHAPTER II.

LIABILITY TO TAX.

Incomes liable to the tax.

4. Subject to the exceptions mentioned in the next following section, there shall be paid, in the year beginning with the first day of April, 1886, and in each subsequent year, to the credit of the Government of India, or as the Governor General in Council directs, in respect of the sources of income specified in the first column of the second schedule to this Act, a tax at the rate specified in that behalf in the second column of that schedule.

Exceptions.

5. (1) Nothing in section 4 shall render liable to the tax—

(a) any rent or revenue derived from land which is used for agricultural purposes and is either assessed to land-revenue or subject to a local rate assessed and collected by officials of the Government, as such; or

(b) any income derived from—

(i) agriculture, or

(c) any building owned and occupied by the receiver of the rent or revenue of any such land as is referred to in clause (a), or by the cultivator, or the receiver of rent-in-kind, of any land with respect to which or the produce whereof any operation mentioned in clause (b) is carried on:

Provided that the building is on or in the immediate vicinity of the land, and is a building which the receiver of the rent or revenue, or the cultivator or the receiver of the rent-in-kind, by reason of his connection with the land, requires as a dwelling-house, or as a store-house, factory or other out-building; or

(e) any income derived from property solely employed for religious or public charitable purposes; or

(g) subject to any conditions and restrictions which may be prescribed in this behalf, such portion, not exceeding one-sixth, of the income in respect whereof a person would, but for this exception, be chargeable under this Act, as is deducted from the salary of the person under the authority or with the permission of the Government for the purpose of securing a deferred annuity to him or a provision to his wife or children after his death or is paid by the person to an insurance company in respect of an insurance or deferred annuity on his own life or on the life of his wife; or

(h) any interest on stock-notes; or

(i) the salary of any officer, warrant-officer, non-commissioned officer or private of Her Majesty's Forces or of Her Majesty's Indian Forces who is not in an employment which, according to the ordinary practice, is held indifferently by military persons and civilians, and whose salary does not exceed five hundred rupees per mensem; or

(j) any person whose income from all sources is less than five hundred rupees per annum.

(2) An officer or servant is not exempt from taxation under this Act by reason only of the income of his employer being exempt therefrom under this section.

Power to make exemptions.

6. The Governor General in Council may, by notification in the Gazette of India, exempt from liability to the tax the whole or any part of the income of any class or tribe, or of any persons residing in any specified area, and may, by a like notification, revoke the exemption.

CHAPTER III.

ASSESSMENT AND COLLECTION.

A.—Salaries and Pensions.

Mode of payment in case of Government officials and pensioners.

7. In the case of a person receiving any salary, annuity, pension or gratuity from the Government, any sum payable to him by the Government in respect of the salary, annuity, pension or gratuity shall be reduced by the amount of the tax to which he is liable under Part I in respect thereof.

Mode of payment in case of servants and pensioners of local authorities.

8. (1) In the case of a person receiving any salary, annuity, pension or gratuity from a local authority, the tax to which he is liable under Part I shall, at the time of the payment to him of any of the salary, annuity, pension or gratuity, be deducted therefrom by the officer whose duty it is to make the payment, and be paid by that officer within the prescribed time to the credit of the Government of India or as the Governor General in Council directs.

(3) If, when any payment is made, the tax is from any cause not deducted, it may, and on the requisition of the Collector shall, be deducted when any salary, annuity, pension or gratuity is subsequently paid to the person liable to the tax.

(4) The power to deduct under this section shall be without prejudice to any other mode of recovery.

Mode of payment in case of servants and pensioners of companies and private employers.

9. (1) The tax to which a person receiving any salary, annuity, pension or gratuity from a company, or from any other public body or association not being a local authority or company, or from a private employer, is liable under Part I shall be payable by him at the time when any portion of the salary, annuity, pension or gratuity is paid to him.

(2) The Collector may, subject to such conditions as may be prescribed, enter into an arrangement with any company, or any such body or association as aforesaid, or any private employer, with respect to the recovery on behalf of the Government by the company, body, association or employer of the tax to which any person receiving any salary, annuity, pension or gratuity from the company, body, association or employer is liable under Part I.

Annual return by principal officer of company or association.

10. The principal officer of every local authority, and of every company, and of every other public body or association not being a local authority or company, shall prepare, and, on or before the fifteenth day of April in each year, deliver or cause to be delivered to the Collector, in the prescribed form, a return in writing showing—

(a) the name of every person who is receiving at the date of the return any salary, annuity or pension, or has received during the year ending on that date any gratuity, from the authority, company, body or association, as the case may be, and the address of every such person so far as it is known; and

(b) the amount of the salary, annuity, pension or gratuity so received by each such person, and the time at which the same becomes payable or, in the case of a gratuity, was paid.

B.—Profits of Companies.

Annual statement of nett profits.

11. The principal officer in British India of every company shall prepare, and, on or before the fifteenth day of April in each year, deliver or cause to be delivered to the Collector, a statement in writing signed by him of the nett profits made in British India, by the company during the year ending on the day on which the company's accounts have been last made up, or, if the company's accounts have not been made up within the year ending on the thirty-first day of March in the year immediately preceding that for which the assessment is to be made, then of the nett profits so made during the year ending on the said thirty-first day of March.

Power to require officers of companies to produce accounts.

12. (1) If the Collector has reason to believe that a statement delivered under section 11 is incorrect or incomplete, he may cause to be served on the principal officer of the company a notice requiring him, on or before a date to be therein mentioned, either to attend at the Collector's office and produce, or to cause to be there produced, for the inspection of the Collector such of the accounts of the company as refer to the year to which the statement relates and as are in his possession or power.

(2) On the day specified in the notice, or as soon afterwards as may be, the Collector shall, by an order in writing, determine the amount at which the company shall be assessed under Part II, and the time when the amount shall be paid, and, subject to the provisions of this Act, that amount shall be payable accordingly.

C.—Interest on Securities.

Mode of payment of tax on interest on securities.

13. (1) The tax payable under Part III in respect of the interest on any of the securities mentioned in that Part shall, at the time when and place where any of the interest is paid, be deducted therefrom by the person empowered to pay the interest, and be paid by that person within the prescribed time to the credit of the Government of India or as the Governor General in Council directs.

D.—Other Sources of Income.

Ordinary Mode of Assessment and Collection.

Collector to determine persons chargeable.

14. The Collector shall, from time to time, determine what persons are chargeable under Part IV, and the amount at which every person so chargeable shall be assessed.

Mode of making assessment.

15. (1) The assessment shall be made upon the income accruing to the person during the year ending on the day on which his accounts have been last made up, or, if his accounts have not been made up within the year ending on the thirty-first day of March in the year immediately preceding that for which the assessment is to be made, then upon the income accruing to him during the year ending on the said thirty-first day of March.

(2) In the case of a person for the first time becoming chargeable under Part IV within the year for which the assessment is to be made, or within the year next before that year, the assessment shall be made according to an average of his income for such period as the Collector, having regard to the circumstances, directs.

List of incomes under two thousand rupees.

16. (1) The Collector shall in each year prepare a list of the persons chargeable under Part IV whose annual income does not, in his opinion, amount to two thousand rupees.

(2) The list shall be in the prescribed language or languages, and shall state in respect of every such person the following particulars, namely:—

(a) his name, and the source or sources of the income in respect of which he is chargeable;

(b) the year or portion of the year for which the tax is to be paid;

(c) the place or places, district or districts, where the income accrues;

(d) the amount to be paid; and

(e) the place where, and the person to whom, the amount is to be paid.

(3) The list shall be filed in the office of the Collector, with a notification prefixed thereto requiring every person mentioned in the list to pay, within sixty days from a date specified in the notification, the amount stated in the list as payable by him, or to apply to the Collector, within thirty days from that date, to have the assessment reduced or cancelled.

(4) The list so filed shall be open to inspection at all reasonable times without any payment.

(5) The list, or such part or parts thereof as the Collector thinks fit, with the notification prefixed thereto, shall be further published in such manner as the Local Government may consider to be best adapted for giving information to all persons concerned.

(6) The list to be prepared in each year may be the list of the previous year with such amendments as the Collector finds to be necessary.

Notices to persons with incomes of two thousand rupees and upwards.

17. In the case of a person chargeable under Part IV whose annual income is, in the Collector's opinion, two thousand rupees or upwards, the Collector shall cause a notice to be served on him stating the particulars (a) to (e), both inclusive, mentioned in section 16, sub-section (2), and requiring him to pay, within sixty days from a date specified in the notice, the amount stated therein as payable by him, or to apply to the Collector, within thirty days from that date, to have the assessment reduced or cancelled.

Power to modify ordinary procedure in special cases.

18. (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in section 16 or section 17, the Local Government may make rules—

(a) authorising or directing a Collector in specified cases, or classes of cases, to include in a list under section 16 any person who is liable to be served with a notice under section 17 instead of or in addition to serving him with such a notice, and to serve a notice under section 17 on any person liable to be included in a list under section 16 instead of or in addition to including him in such a list;

(b) authorising the Collector in any specified town or place to cause a general notice to be published, inviting every person chargeable under Part IV to deliver or cause to be delivered to the Collector, within a time specified in the notice, a return, in a prescribed form published with the notice, of his income during the year ending on the day on which his accounts have been last made up, or, if his accounts have not been made up within the year ending on the thirty-first day of March in the year immediately preceding that for which the assessment is to be made, then of his income during the year ending on the said thirty-first day of March;

(c) authorising the Collector in any presidency-town to cause a special notice to be served on any person, chargeable under Part IV, inviting him to deliver or cause to be delivered to the Collector, within a time specified in the notice, a return, in a prescribed form accompanying the notice, of his income computed in the manner described in clause (b) of this sub-section.

(2) A return delivered under rules made under clause (b) or clause (c) of sub-section (1) must state the period during which the income has actually accrued; and there must be added at the foot thereof a declaration that the income shown in the return is truly estimated on all the sources therein mentioned, that it has actually accrued within the period therein stated, and that the person making the return has no other source of income.

(3) When a Collector authorised in that behalf by rules made under clause (b) or clause (c) of sub-section (1) has caused a notice to be published or served under those rules, he shall not include any person to whom the notice applies in any list made under section 16 or serve a notice on him under section 17 until the time specified in the notice published or served under those rules has expired.

(4) Rules made under this section shall be published in the official Gazette.

Time and place of payment.

Trustees, Agents, Managers and Incapacitated Persons.

Trustees, guardians and committees of incapacitated persons to be charged.

20. A person being the trustee, guardian, curator or committee of any infant, married woman subject to the law of England, lunatic or idiot, and having the control of the property of the infant, married woman, lunatic or idiot, whether the infant, married woman, lunatic or idiot resides in British India or not, shall, if the infant, married woman, lunatic or idiot is chargeable under Part IV, be chargeable under that Part in like manner and to the same amount as the infant would be chargeable if he were of full age, or the married woman if she were sole, or the lunatic or idiot if he were capable of acting for himself.

Non-residents to be charged in names of their agents.

21. Any person not resident in British India, whether a subject of Her Majesty or not, being in receipt, through an agent, of any income chargeable under Part IV, shall be chargeable under that Part in the name of the agent in the like manner and to the like amount as he would be chargeable if he were resident in British India and in direct receipt of that income.

Receivers, managers, Courts of Wards, Administrators General and Official Trustees.

22. Receivers or managers appointed by any Court in India, the Courts of Wards, the Administrators General of Bengal, Madras and Bombay, and the Official Trustees shall be chargeable under Part IV in respect of all income officially in their possession or under their control which is liable to assessment under that Part.

Power to retain duties charged on trustees, &c.

23. When a trustee, guardian, curator, committee or agent is, as such, assessed under Part IV, or when a receiver or manager appointed as aforesaid, a Court of Wards, an Administrator General or an Official Trustee is assessed under that Part in respect of income officially received, the person or Court so assessed may, from time to time, out of the money coming to his or its possession as trustee, guardian, curator, committee or agent, or as receiver, manager, Court of Wards, Administrator General or Official Trustee, retain so much as is sufficient to pay the amount of the assessment.

Occupying Owners.

Provision for tax on occupying owners.

24. (1) Where a building is occupied by its owner, it shall be deemed a source of income within the meaning of this Act, and, if liable to be assessed under this Act, shall be assessed at five-sixths of the gross annual rent at which it may reasonably be expected to let, and, in the case of a dwelling-house, may be expected to let unfurnished.

(2) "Owner," as used in this section with reference to a building, means the person who would be entitled to receive the rent of the building if the building were let to a tenant.

CHAPTER IV.

REVISION OF ASSESSMENT.

Petition to Collector against assessment under Part IV.

25. (1) Any person objecting to the amount at which he is assessed, or denying his liability to be assessed, under Part IV may apply by petition to the Collector to have the assessment reduced or cancelled.

(2) The petition shall ordinarily be presented within the period specified in the notification prefixed to the list filed under section 16, or in the notice served under section 17, as the case may be. But the Collector may receive a petition after the expiration of that period if he is satisfied that the objector had sufficient cause for not presenting it within that period.

(3) The petition shall, as nearly as circumstances admit, be in the form contained in the third schedule to this Act, and the statements contained in the petition shall be verified by the petitioner or some other competent person in the manner required by law for the verification of plaints.

Hearing of petition.

26. The Collector shall fix a day and place for the hearing of the petition, and on the day and at the place so fixed, or on the day and at the place, if any, to which he has adjourned the hearing, shall hear the petition and pass such order thereon as he thinks fit.

Petition to Commissioner for revision.

27. Subject to the control of the Local Government, the Commissioner of the Division, on the petition of any person deeming himself aggrieved by an order under section 12, sub-section (2), or section 26 shall, if the amount of the assessment to which the petition relates is two hundred and fifty rupees or upwards, and may in his discretion if the amount of the assessment is less than two hundred and fifty rupees, call for the record of the case, and pass such order thereon as he thinks fit.

Power to summon witnesses, &c.

28. The Collector or Commissioner may, for the purpose of enabling him to determine how the petitioner or the company which he represents should be assessed, summon and enforce the attendance of witnesses and compel them to give evidence, and compel the production of documents, by the same means, and, as far as possible, in the same manner, as is provided in the case of a Civil Court by the Code of Civil Procedure:

XIV of 1882.

Provided that the Collector or Commissioner shall not call for any evidence except at the instance of the petitioner or in order to ascertain the correctness of facts alleged by him.

CHAPTER V.

RECOVERY OF ARREARS OF TAX.

Tax when payable.

29. The tax chargeable under this Act shall be payable at the time appointed in that behalf in or under this Act, or, if a time is not so appointed, then on the first day of June in each year.

Mode and time of recovery.

30. (1) In any case of default under this Act the Collector, in his discretion, may recover a sum not exceeding double the amount of the tax either as if it were an arrear of land-revenue or by any process enforceable for the recovery of an arrear of any municipal tax or local rate imposed under any enactment for the time being in force in any part of the territories administered by the Local Government to which he is subordinate, or may pass an order that a sum not exceeding double that amount shall be recovered from the defaulter:

Provided that, where a person has presented a petition under section 25, such sum shall not be recoverable from him unless, within thirty days from the passing of the order on the petition, he fails to pay the amount, if any, required by that order.

(2) The Local Government may direct by what authority any powers or duties incident under any such enactment as aforesaid to the enforcement of any process for the recovery of a municipal tax or local rate shall be exercised or performed when that process is employed under sub-section (1) for the recovery of the tax chargeable under this Act.

(3) An order passed by the Collector under sub-section (1) shall have the force of a decree of a Civil Court in a suit in which the Government is the plaintiff and the defaulter is the defendant; and the order may be enforced in manner provided by the Code of Civil Procedure for the enforcement of decrees for money, and the procedure under the said Code in respect of the following matters, namely,—

XIV of 1882.

(a) sales in execution of decrees,

(b) arrest in execution of decrees for money,

(c) execution of decrees by imprisonment,

(d) claims to attached property, and

(e) execution of decrees out of the jurisdiction of the Courts by which they were passed,

shall apply to every execution issued for levying the sum mentioned in the order; save that all the powers and duties conferred and imposed by the said Code upon the Court shall be exercised and discharged by the Collector by whom the order has been made or to whom a copy thereof has been sent for execution according to the provisions of the said Code, sections 223 and 224.

(4) The Local Government may direct, with respect to any specified area, that the tax chargeable under this Act shall be recovered therein with, and as an addition to, any municipal tax or local rate by the same person and in the same manner as the municipal tax or local rate is recovered.

(5) No proceedings for the recovery of any sum payable under this Act shall be commenced after the expiration of three months from the last day of the year in respect of which the sum is payable.

CHAPTER VI.

SUPPLEMENTAL PROVISIONS.

Composition.

Agreements for composition.

31. (1) If a company or person desires to compound for the tax assessable under Part II or Part IV, as the case may be, the Collector may, subject to such rules as may be prescribed in this behalf, agree with the company or person for a composition for the tax on such terms and for such period as he thinks fit.

(2) The agreement shall provide for the payment, in each year of the period comprised in the agreement, of the amount of the composition; and that amount shall be recoverable in the same manner and by the same means as any other assessment made under Part II or Part IV, as the case may be.

Receipts.

Receipts and their contents.

32. When any money is paid under this Act to the Collector or is recovered thereunder by him, he shall give a receipt for the same, specifying—

(a) the date of the payment or recovery of the money;

(b) the amount paid or recovered;

(c) the person who was liable to the tax, and the source or sources of income in respect of which the tax was payable;

(d) the year or part of the year for which the tax was payable;

(e) the place or places, district or districts, where the income accrues; and

(f) such other particulars, if any, as may be prescribed.

Amendment of Assessment.

Amendment of assessment.

33. If a company or person assessed under Part II or Part IV ceases to carry on the trade, or business in respect whereof the assessment was made, or if any such person dies or becomes insolvent before the end of the year for which the assessment was made, or if any such company or person is, from any other specific cause, deprived of or loses the income on which the assessment was made, then the company or person or its or his representative in interest may apply to the Collector during or within three months after the end of the year, and the Collector, on proof to his satisfaction of any such cause as aforesaid, shall amend the assessment as the case may require, and refund such sum, if any, as has been overpaid.

Penalties.

Failure to make payments or deliver returns or statements.

34. (1) If a person fails—

(a) to deduct and pay any tax as required by section 8, sub-section (1), or section 13, sub-section (1), or

he shall, on conviction before a Magistrate, be punishable with fine which may extend to ten rupees for every day during which the default continues.

(2) The Commissioner of the Division may remit wholly or in part any fine imposed under this section.

False statement in declaration.

35. If a person makes a statement in a declaration mentioned in section 18, sub-section (2), which is false, and which he either knows or believes to be false or does not believe to be true, he shall be deemed to have committed the offence described in section 177 of the Indian Penal Code. XLV of 1860.

Prosecution to be at instance of Collector.

36. A person shall not be proceeded against for an offence under section 34 or section 35, except at the instance of the Collector.

Sections 193 and 228 of Penal Code to apply to proceedings.

37. Any proceeding under section 12 or Chapter IV of this Act shall be deemed to be a "judicial proceeding" within the meaning of sections 193 and 228 of the Indian Penal Code. XLV of 1860.

Power to make Rules.

Power to make rules.

38. (1) The Governor General in Council may make rules consistent with this Act for ascertaining and determining income liable to assessment, for preventing the disclosure of particulars contained in documents delivered or produced with respect to assessments under Part IV, and, generally, for carrying out the purposes of this Act, and may delegate to a Local Government the power to make such rules so far as regards the territories subject to that Government.

(2) In making a rule for preventing the disclosure of any particulars referred to in sub-section (1), the Governor General in Council may direct that a public servant committing a breach of the rule shall be deemed to have committed an offence under section 166 of the Indian Penal Code: XLV of 1860.

(3) But a person committing any such offence shall not be liable to be prosecuted therefor without the previous sanction of the Local Government.

(4) Rules made under this section shall be published in the official Gazette.

Miscellaneous.

Bar of suits in Civil Court.

39. No suit shall lie in any Civil Court to set aside or modify any assessment made under this Act.

Exercise of powers of Collector and Commissioner.

40. All or any of the powers and duties conferred and imposed by this Act on a Collector or on a Commissioner of Division may be exercised and performed by such other officer or person as the Local Government appoints in this behalf.

Obligation to furnish information respecting lodgers and employés.

41. An officer or person exercising all or any of the powers of a Collector under this Act may, by notice, require any person to furnish a list, in the prescribed form, containing, to the best of his belief,—

(a) the name of every inmate or lodger resident in any house used by him as a dwelling house or let by him in lodgings;

(c) the place of residence of such of those persons as are not resident in any such house, and of any inmate or lodger in any such house who has a place of residence elsewhere at which he is liable under this Act to be assessed, and who desires to be assessed at that place.

Trustees and agents to furnish information as to beneficiaries and principals.

42. An officer or person exercising all or any of the powers aforesaid may, by notice, require any person whom he has reason to believe to be a trustee, guardian, curator, committee or agent to deliver or cause to be delivered a statement of the names of the persons for or of whom he is trustee, guardian, curator, committee or agent.

Trustees, &c., to furnish information as to income.

43. An officer or person exercising all or any of the said powers may, by notice, require a trustee, guardian, curator, committee or agent, or a receiver or manager appointed by any Court in India, or a Court of Wards, Administrator General or Official Trustee, to furnish such returns of income liable to assessment under Part IV as may be prescribed.

Obligation to furnish other information.

44. An officer or person exercising all or any of the said powers may, at the instance of any person respecting whose assessment or the amount thereof any doubt exists, require any person to furnish such information as he deems to be necessary for the purpose of ascertaining facts relevant to the assessment or its amount.

Sections 176 and 177 of Penal Code to apply to requisitions for information.

45. A person required to furnish any information under section 41, section 42, section 43 or section 44 shall be legally bound to furnish the same in such manner and within such time as may be specified in the requisition for the information.

Service of notices.

46. (1) A notice under this Act may be served on the person therein named either by a prepaid letter addressed to the person and registered under Part III of the Indian Post Office Act, 1866, or by the delivery or tender to him of a copy of the notice. XIV of 1866.

(2) If a notice is served by registered letter, it shall be presumed to have been served at the time when the letter would be delivered in the ordinary course of post, and proof that the letter was properly addressed and put into the post shall be sufficient to raise the presumption that the notice was duly served at that time.

(3) If the notice is to be served otherwise than by registered letter, the service shall, whenever it may be practicable, be on the person named in the notice, or, in the case of a firm, on some member thereof, or, in the case of a Hindu undivided family, on the manager of the joint estate of the family.

(4) But when the person, member or manager cannot be found, the service may be made on any adult male member of his family residing with him; and if no such adult male member can be found, the serving-officer shall fix the copy of the notice on the outer door of the house in which the person, firm or family therein named ordinarily resides or carries on business.

Power to declare principal place of business or residence.

47. (1) When a company or firm has several places of business in territories subject to different Local Governments, the Governor General in Council may declare which of those places shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be the principal place of business.

(2) When a company or firm has several places of business in the territories subject to a single Local Government, that Government may declare which of them shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be the principal place of business.

(3) When a person has several places of residence in territories subject to different Local Governments, the Governor General in Council may declare which of those places shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be his residence.

(4) When a person has several places of residence in the territories subject to a single Local Government, that Government may declare which of those places shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be his residence.

(5) The powers given by this section may be delegated to, and exercised by, such officers as the Governor General in Council or the Local Government, as the case may be, appoints in this behalf.

Saving in favour of payers of pándhari and capitation taxes.

48. Where a person is in respect of any period liable to the tax under this Act he shall not in respect of that period be assessed to the pándhari-tax levied in the Central Provinces under Act XIV of 1867, or to the capitation-tax, or the land-rate in lieu thereof, levied in British Burma under the Burma Land and Revenue Act, 1876.

Indemnity.

49. Every person deducting, retaining or paying any tax in pursuance of this Act or of any arrangement under section 9, sub-section (2), in respect of income belonging to another person, is hereby indemnified for the deduction, retention or payment thereof. II of 1876.

Powers exerciseable from time to time.

50. All powers conferred by, or conferable under, this Act may be exercised from time to time as occasion requires.

2. We have provided in section 1 that the Act shall come into force on the first day of April next. During the time which elapses between the passing of the Bill and that date, the Government will be able to prepare and issue its rules, and Collectors to make such arrangements for the assessment of the tax as they can make without calling in aid the provisions of the Act. It is important that Collectors should know as soon as possible what incomes will be assessable, and that the Government should at once be in a position to frame the necessary rules for assessment.

3. In section 5 we have, with advertence to section 24 (section 23 of the Bill as introduced), inserted a clause (clause (c)) excepting from liability to the tax the whole of the annual value of buildings which landholders and agriculturists own and occupy on, or in the immediate neighbourhood of, the land they hold and cultivate, and which are necessary to them in the exercise of their vocation as landholders and agriculturists. Thus, while a landholder will be exempt from the tax in respect of the annual value of the homestead (if any) appurtenant to his land, he will be assessable in respect of any other house he may own and occupy.

4. We have inserted in the same section a further clause (clause (g)), based on the English law, excepting from liability to the tax any portion, not exceeding one-sixth, of his income which a person pays either to the Government or to a company in respect of life-insurance or deferred annuity.

5. Clause (e) of section 5 (clause (c) of that section in the Bill as introduced) is based on a similar clause in Act VIII of 1872. The exemption appears to us to be sufficient to cover educational endowments, and does not, as has been suggested, open a door to the evasion of the Act by colourable gifts to idols or any like device.

6. We have omitted sub-section (2) of the same section in the Bill as introduced. There appears to us not to be sufficient ground for making, between official salaries and other incomes, the distinction which was proposed in that sub-section.

7. By the new sub-section (2) appended to section 5, we have made it clear that a salaried manager of land is not exempt from the tax by reason only of the income of his employer being exempt therefrom.

8. We have ascertained that companies and some other private employers are much opposed to that provision of the Bill as introduced which imposed on them the duty of deducting the tax from the salaries of their employés. To the argument that there was such a provision in force in the years 1869-72, they reply that the provision was then a fruitful cause of misunderstanding and disagreement between them and their subordinates. Under these circumstances it appears to us that companies ought not to be compelled to collect the tax. We have therefore modified section 8 of the Bill, and empowered the Collector, by a new section (section 9), to enter into an arrangement with any private employer, on terms to be mutually agreed on, for the collection by the employer of the tax payable by his employés.

9. Section 10 of the Bill as introduced followed the Acts of 1869 and 1872 in making special provision for the taxation of shipping companies. It has been stated, and we have satisfied ourselves, that the provision was unworkable and, in practice, inoperative. It has therefore been omitted from section 11, and the second schedule, of the Bill as amended by us: and we have added to section 5 a special exception (clause (d)) in favour of shipping companies incorporated or registered out of British India and having their principal places of business out of India and their ships ordinarily engaged in sea-going traffic out of Indian waters.

10. To section 18 (section 17 of the Bill as introduced) we have added clauses empowering the Local Government to authorise the Collector in any specified town or place to publish general notices inviting tax-payers to make returns of their income, and in any presidency-town to serve special notices on individual tax-payers inviting them to make such returns.

11. In section 24 (section 23 of the Bill as introduced) we have provided for houses occupied by their owners being assessed at five-sixths, instead of nine-tenths, of their annual value. We have thus reverted to the principle of section 132 of Act XXXII of 1860.

12. We have so modified section 27 (section 26 of the Bill as introduced) as to require the Commissioner to call for the record in the case of a petition for the revision of any assessment of two hundred and fifty rupees or upwards.

13. In section 30 (section 29 of the Bill as introduced) we have provided for the continuance of the summary process of recovery described in section 24 of the Bengal License Act, 1880.

14. In sub-section (5) of the same section we have provided that no proceedings for the recovery of any sum payable under the Act shall be commenced after the expiration of three months from the last day of the year in respect of which the sum is payable. The section as amended by us is more restrictive on the revenue-authorities than the corresponding section of the Bengal License Act, 1880, and less so than the corresponding section of the Northern India License Act, 1878.

15. In section 31 provision has been made, as in Act XXXII of 1860, for composition of the tax.

16. Seeing that provision is made in Chapter IV for revision of assessment, we think that section 32, sub-section (1), of the Bill as introduced should be omitted, and that section 31 of that Bill may also be omitted, as being likely, by suggesting the disturbance of settled assessments, to create irritation with which the additional revenue raised under the section would be incommensurate.

17. In section 38 of the Bill as amended by us (section 37 of the Bill as introduced) we have provided for rules being made for securing secrecy in regard to information furnished in documents relating to incomes of assessees.

18. We have deemed it desirable to specify more particularly than in section 40 of the Bill as introduced the information which may be required by a Collector for the purposes of the Act. We have, therefore, for that section substituted sections 41 to 45 of the Bill as amended.

19. We have modified section 46 (section 41 of the Bill as introduced) by providing that the delivery of a letter duly posted shall only be presumed, and we have required the letter to be registered.

20. From the first column of Part III of the second schedule to the Bill as introduced we have omitted the clause relating to stock of, or shares in, guaranteed railway companies. The clause is unnecessary, as all railway companies will be assessed on their nett earnings. We have, however, provided in new clause (c) of Part III for the recovery, in the manner prescribed in section 13, of the interest on debentures issued by companies.

The following Act of the Governor General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor General on the 29th January, 1886, and is hereby promulgated for general information:—

ACT NO. III OF 1886.

An Act to amend the Northern India Ferries Act, 1878.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Northern India Ferries Act, 1878; It is hereby enacted as follows:— XVII of 1878.

Substitution of new section for section 8, and amendment of sections 12 and 15.

1. (1) For section 8 the following shall be substituted, namely:—

"8. The tolls of any public ferry may, from time to time, be let by public auction for a term not exceeding five years with the approval of the Commissioner, or by public auction, or otherwise than by public auction, for any term with the previous sanction of the Local Government.

"The lessee shall conform to the rules made under this Act for the management and control of the ferry, and may be called upon by the officer in whom the immediate superintendence of the ferry is vested, or, if the ferry is managed by a municipal or other public body under section 7 or section 7A, then by that body, to give such security for his good conduct and for the punctual payment of the rent as the officer or body, as the case may be, thinks fit.

"When the tolls are put up to public auction, the said officer or body, as the case may be, or the officer conducting the sale on his or its behalf, may, for reasons recorded in writing, refuse to accept the offer of the highest bidder, and may accept any other bid, or may withdraw the tolls from auction."

(2) For section 12, clause (b), the following shall be substituted, namely:—

(3) In the third paragraph of section 15, for the word "auction" the word "lease" shall be substituted.

Amendment of section 13, and substitution of new section for section 26.

2. (1) For the first paragraph of section 13 the following shall be substituted, namely:—

"Except with the sanction of the Magistrate of the district or of such other officer as the Local Government may, from time to time, appoint in this behalf, by name or in virtue of his office, no person shall establish, maintain or work a ferry to or from any point within a distance of two miles from the limits of a public ferry"

(2) In the second proviso to the said section, after the word "boats" the words "which do not ply for hire or" shall be inserted.

Penalty for maintaining private ferry within prohibited limits.

"26. Whoever establishes, maintains or works a ferry in contravention of the provisions of section 13 shall be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, and with a further fine which may extend to one hundred rupees for every day during which the ferry is maintained or worked in contravention of those provisions."

ACT NO. IV OF 1886.

An Act to amend section 265 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend section 265 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

New section substituted for section 265, Indian Contract Act.

1. For section 265 of the said Act the following shall be substituted, namely :—

Winding up by Court on dissolution or after termination.

"265. Where a partner is entitled to claim a dissolution of partnership, or where a partnership has terminated, the Court may, in the absence of any contract to the contrary, wind up the business of the partnership, provide for the payment of its debts and distribute the surplus according to the shares of the partners respectively."

Repeal of part of section 213, Act XIV, 1882.

2. In section 213 of the Code of Civil Procedure the words and figures from and including the word "applications" to the end of the section are hereby repealed.

The following report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend section 265 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 22nd January, 1886 :—

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

WE, the undersigned, Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to amend section 265 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, was referred, have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin, and have now the honour to submit this our Report.

From Officiating Registrar, High Court, Calcutta, No. 930, dated 20th March, 1885, and enclosure [Papers No. 1].
From Officiating Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Assam, No. 577, dated 8th April, 1885 [Paper No. 2].
From Secretary for Berar to Resident, Hyderabad, No. 131G., dated 15th April, 1885 [Paper No. 3].
From Officiating Secretary to Chief Commissioner, British Burma, No. 300—16L., dated 16th April, 1885, and enclosures [Papers No. 4].
From Chief Commissioner, Ajmer-Merwára, No. 458, dated 2nd May, 1885, and enclosure [Papers No. 5].
From Chief Secretary to Government, Madras, No. 1098, dated 27th April, 1885, and enclosures [Papers No. 6].
From Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Coorg, No. 207—26, dated 4th May, 1885 [Paper No. 7].
From Assistant Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Central Provinces, No. 1722—64, dated 8th May, 1885 [Paper No. 8].

From Registrar, High Court, Calcutta, No. 2611, dated 8th September, 1885, and enclosure [Papers No. 13].

2. We have so framed the new section which it is proposed to substitute for section 265 as to make it a declaration of law consistent with the form of plaint No. 113 scheduled to the Code of Civil Procedure, and to show that a partner may apply to have the partnership wound up not only after its termination but also when he is entitled to claim a dissolution.

3. We have not overlooked the difficulties pointed out by Mr. Justice Field and others as to the valuation and place of trial of suits under this section; but those difficulties, not being limited to suits of this class, should, we think, be considered separately and with care.

An Act to declare and amend the Law relating to the Stone Mahál in the District of Mirzapur in the North-Western Provinces.

WHEREAS it is expedient to declare and amend the law relating to the Stone Mahál in the district of Mirzapur in the North-Western Provinces; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Preliminary.

Short title and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Mirzapur Stone Mahál Act, 1886; and

(2) It shall come into force on such day as the Local Government, by notification in the official Gazette, appoints.

(3) The power conferred by this Act on the Local Government to make rules may be exercised at any time after the passing of this Act; but a rule so made shall not take effect until the Act comes into force.

Repeal.

2. On and from the day on which this Act comes into force, Bengal Regulation II of 1800 (a Regulation for laying open to public use the stone-quarries at Chunar, Gházípur [properly called Ghásípur] and Mirzapur, in the Province of Benares, subject to a fixed duty) shall be repealed.

Definitions.

3. In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context,—

(1) "the district" means the whole of the area comprised in the district of Mirzapur as constituted at the time of the passing of this Act, except the lands described in the schedule to this Act:

(2) "Collector" means the Collector of the Mirzapur district, and includes an Assistant Collector of the first class empowered by him to perform any of the functions of the Collector under this Act:

The Mirzapur Stone Mahál Act, 1886.

(Sections 4-9.)

(3) "Commissioner" means the Commissioner of the Benares Division:

(4) "Board" means the Board of Revenue of the North-Western Provinces:

(5) "quarry" means to take from the surface as well as to extract from a quarry:

(6) "transport" means to remove from one place to another within the district:

(7) "proprietor" includes an assignee of land-revenue and any person claiming under a proprietor or exercising any of the rights of a proprietor.

Rights of the Government and the Public.

4. The Government is entitled to levy duty on all stone quarried in the district.

Right of the Government to levy duty.

5. No proprietor of any land in any part of the district is entitled to impose any prohibition or restriction, or to demand or receive any sum by way of rent, premium, duty or price, in respect of the opening of a quarry, or the quarrying of stone, in the land, or in respect of the storing of stone at the quarry or the transport of stone over the land, or, save as may be provided by rules made under this Act, to receive from any person any compensation whatever in respect of any of the matters aforesaid.

Prohibition of levy of duty by proprietors.

6. (1) Subject to the rules made under this Act, any person is entitled to open a quarry, or quarry stone, in any land in any part of the district, and to store the stone at the quarry, and to transport it over any land.

Right of the public to quarry stone.

(2) A person may, so far as the rules made under this Act permit, acquire an exclusive right to open a quarry, or quarry stone, within certain local limits in any part of the district, and may retain the right so long as those rules permit.

(3) If a dispute as to the right referred to in sub-section (1), to open a quarry, or quarry stone, in any land, or as to the existence of or mode of exercising an exclusive right referred to in sub-section (2), to open a quarry, or quarry stone, within certain local limits, arises between any persons, or if a dispute as to the right to store stone on, or transport stone over, any land arises between the person claiming to store or transport the stone and the proprietor of the land, it shall, on application for that purpose by either of the disputing parties to the Collector, be decided by him.

(4) A Civil Court shall not take cognizance of any such dispute, or in any suit or proceeding whatever make any decree or order whereby any party to the dispute may be bound with respect to the subject-matter thereof either directly or indirectly.

Rules.

7. (1) The Local Government may, from time to time, make rules consistent with this Act to regulate within the whole or any specified part of the district all or any of the following matters:—

Power to make rules.

(a) the quarrying of stone, and the places where stone may be quarried;

(b) conflicting claims to exercise the right of opening a quarry or quarrying stone;

(c) the conditions on the fulfilment of which a person is to acquire an exclusive right of opening a quarry, or quarrying stone, within certain local limits, and how that right may cease to exist;

(d) the compensation to be paid for injury caused to crops or arable land by the quarrying, storing or transport of stone, and the authority by which the compensation is to be determined;

(e) the transport of stone;

(f) the storing of stone;

(g) the classification of stones, the rate or rates of duty to be paid in respect of each class of stone to the Government or to a farmer to whom the Government has leased the duties leviable thereon, and the time when, the place where, and the persons by whom, the duty is to be paid;

(h) the exemptions from, or reductions of, duty to be allowed, the conditions to attach to those exemptions or reductions, and the consequences to ensue on the breach of any of those conditions;

(i) the custody and disposal of stone confiscated or seized under this Act; and

(j) generally for carrying out the purposes of this Act.

(2) In making a rule under this section the Local Government may direct that a breach of it shall be punishable with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees, and, when the breach is a continuing breach, with a further fine which may extend to ten rupees for every day after the first during which the breach continues.

8. (1) The Local Government shall, before making any rules under section 7, publish a draft of the proposed rules for the information of persons interested.

Procedure for making rules.

(2) The publication shall be made in such manner as in the opinion of the Local Government is sufficient.

(3) A notice shall be published with the draft specifying a date at or after which the draft will be taken into consideration.

(4) The Local Government shall, before making the rules, receive and consider any objection or suggestion which is made by any person with respect to the draft before the date so specified.

9. Every rule made under section 7 shall be published in the official Gazette in English and in such other language or languages as the Local Government directs, and that publication shall be conclusive proof that the rule has been made as required by section 8.

Publication of rules.

(Sections 10-18.)

10. If a rule made under section 7, sub-section (1), clause (g), alters the rate of duty to be paid in respect of any class of stone, it shall not have effect till the expiration of one year from the date on which it is published.

Deferred operation of rules altering duty.

Offences.

11. If any person evades, or attempts to evade, or abets the evasion of, the payment of any duty payable under a rule made under section 7, sub-section (1), clause (g), he shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees and twenty times the duty payable on the stone in respect of which the offence was committed, and the Court convicting him may further order the confiscation of the stone.

Penalties for evasion of duty.

12. The burden of proving that duty has been paid on stone in respect of which a prosecution for an offence under section 11 has been instituted shall lie on the accused person.

Burden of proof as to payment of duty.

13. A prosecution for an offence under section 11 or against a rule made under section 7 shall not be instituted after the expiration of six months from the commission of the offence.

Limitation for prosecutions.

14. Nothing in this Act shall prevent any person from being prosecuted under any other law for any act or omission which constitutes an offence under section 11 or against a rule made under section 7, or from being liable under that other law to any other or higher punishment or penalty than that provided by section 11 or a rule made under section 7:

Saving of prosecutions under other laws.

Provided that a person shall not be punished twice for the same offence.

Arrest, Seizure and Search.

15. (1) Any officer whom the Collector, with the previous sanction of the Commissioner, may empower in this behalf, may—

Powers of officers.

(a) proceed, in respect of an offence under section 11 or against a rule made under section 7 which in his presence a person commits or is accused of committing, in the same manner as a police-officer may proceed, under section 57 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1882, in respect of a non-cognizable offence which in his presence a person commits or is accused of committing; and

(b) seize any stone in respect of which he has reason to believe that an offence under section 11 or against a rule made under section 7 has been committed, and, if the stone is being transported, use, for the removal thereof to the nearest place appointed for the custody of stone seized under this Act, any animals and conveyances used in transporting it.

(2) The powers conferred by this section may be exercised as well beyond as within the limits of the district, and if in the exercise of those powers a person is arrested or stone is seized beyond those limits, then, notwithstanding anything in this Act, the person arrested shall be liable to be dealt with, and the stone seized to be disposed of, in the same manner as if he had been arrested or it had been seized, within those limits.

16. (1) A Magistrate may issue his warrant for the search, after sunrise and before sunset, of any building, vessel or place in which he has reason to believe that stone in respect of which an offence under section 11 or against a rule made under section 7 has been committed is kept or concealed, and for the seizure of any stone found there.

Search-warrants.

(2) The provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1882, relating to searches under that Code shall, so far as the same are applicable, apply to searches under this section. X of 1882.

Recovery of Duty.

17. An arrear of duty payable to the Government under a rule made under section 7, sub-section (1), clause (g), and an arrear due from a farmer of duties payable on stone, may be recovered from the person primarily liable to pay the same to the Government, or from his surety (if any), as if it were an arrear of land-revenue.

Recovery of duty.

Appeal and revision.

18. (1) Decisions and orders passed under this Act or any rule thereunder by an Assistant Collector, whether as Collector or otherwise, shall be appealable to the Collector of the Mirzapur district in the manner provided by the law for the time being in force in the district respecting appeals from the orders of an Assistant Collector to the Collector in matters pertaining to land-revenue.

Appeal and revision.

(2) Decisions and orders passed by the Collector of the Mirzapur district under this Act or any rule thereunder shall be appealable to the Commissioner in the manner provided by the law aforesaid respecting appeals from the orders of the Collector to the Commissioner.

(3) The Board may revise any decision or order passed under this Act or any rule thereunder by an Assistant Collector, whether as Collector or otherwise, or by the Collector of the Mirzapur district, or under sub-section (2) by the Commissioner.

The Mirzapur Stone Mahál Act, 1886.

(Sections 19-20.)

Miscellaneous.

19. The rates of duty actually levied at the time of the passing of this Act shall continue to be levied until the Act comes into force, and shall then be deemed to have been prescribed by a rule made under section 7, sub-section (1), clause (g).

Saving of existing rates of duty.

20. (1) Notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, but subject to any rules which the Local Government may from time to time make to regulate the enjoyment of the privilege hereby conferred, the inhabitants of the tract south of the Vindhya range of hills shall be exempt from the payment of duty on stones quarried by them within the limits of that tract for their own use within those limits.

Exemption of the inhabitants of the hills.

(2) The Local Government may, from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, define the limits of the said tract for the purposes of this section.

S. HARVEY JAMES,
Offg. Secretary to the Government of India.

The following Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to declare and amend the law relating to the Stone Mahal in the District of Mirzapur in the North-Western Provinces, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 22nd January, 1886:—

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

From Secretary to Government, North-Western Provinces and Oudh, No. $\frac{288}{\text{XIII 26.17}}$, dated 30th November, 1885, and enclosures [Papers No. 1].

WE, the undersigned, Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to declare and amend the Law relating to the Stone Mahál in the District of Mirzapur in the North-Western Provinces was referred, have considered the Bill and the papers noted on the margin, and have now the honour to submit this our Report.

2. The Local Government and the Commissioner of the Benares Division are of opinion that jurisdiction with respect to disputes as to the existence of exclusive rights should be confined to the Revenue Courts. We concur in that opinion, and have amended section 6, sub-section (3), accordingly.

3. In section 15 we have provided that the officers of the Stone Mahál may exercise their powers of arrest and seizure as well beyond as within the limits of the district as defined in the Bill. Some of the quarries are on the borders of the district, and it is considered by the local authorities that the officials of the Stone Mahál should have power to seize stone which may be removed into an adjoining district without payment of duty.

4. In section 18 we have, at the instance of the Local Government, provided that decisions and orders passed by an Assistant Collector, whether acting as Collector or otherwise, shall be appealable to the Collector of the Mirzapur District.

5. The publication ordered by the Council has been made as follows:—

In English.

Gazette.	Date.
Gazette of India	... 17th, 24th and 31st October, 1885.
North-Western Provinces and Oudh Government Gazette	... 24th and 31st October, and 7th November, 1885

6. We do not think that the measure has been so altered as to require re-publication, and we recommend that it be passed as now amended.

An Act to provide for the voluntary Registration of certain Births and Deaths, for the establishment of General Registry Offices for keeping Registers of certain Births, Deaths and Marriages, and for certain other purposes.

WHEREAS it is expedient to provide for the voluntary registration of births and deaths among certain classes of persons, for the more effectual registration of those births and deaths and of the marriages registered under Act III of 1872 or the Indian Christian Marriage Act, 1872, and of certain marriages registered under the Parsi Marriage and Divorce Act, 1865, and for the establishment of general registry offices for keeping registers of those births, deaths and marriages; XV of 1872. XV of 1865.

And whereas it is also expedient to provide for the authentication and custody of certain existing registers made otherwise than in the performance of a duty specially enjoined by the law of the country in which the registers were kept, and to declare that copies of the entries in those registers shall be admissible in evidence;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

Short title and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Births, Deaths and Marriages Registration Act, 1886; and

(2) It shall come into force on such day as the Governor General in Council, by notification in the Gazette of India, directs.

(3) Any power conferred by this Act to make rules or to issue orders may be exercised at any time after the passing of this Act; but a rule or order so made or issued shall not take effect until the Act comes into force.

Local extent.

2. This Act extends to the whole of British India, and applies also, within the dominions of Princes and States in India in alliance with Her Majesty, to British subjects in those dominions.

Definitions.

3. In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context,—

"sign" includes mark, when the person making the mark is unable to write his name:

"prescribed" means prescribed by a rule made by the Governor General in Council under this Act: and

"Registrar of Births and Deaths" means a Registrar of Births and Deaths appointed under this Act.

Saving of local laws.

4. Nothing in this Act, or in any rule made under this Act, shall affect any law heretofore or hereafter passed providing for the registration of births and deaths within particular local areas.

Powers exercisable from time to time.

5. All powers conferred by this Act may be exercised from time to time as occasion requires.

CHAPTER II.

GENERAL REGISTRY OFFICES OF BIRTHS, DEATHS AND MARRIAGES.

Establishment of general registry offices and appointment of Registrars General.

6. (1) Each Local Government—

(a) shall establish a general registry office for keeping such certified copies of registers of births and deaths registered under this Act, or marriages registered under Act III of 1872 (to provide a form of marriage in certain cases) or the Indian Christian Marriage Act, 1872, or, beyond the local limits of the ordinary original civil jurisdiction of the High Court of Judicature at Bombay, under the Parsi Marriage and Divorce Act, 1865, as may be sent to it under this Act, or under any of the three last-mentioned Acts, as amended by this Act; and XV of 1872. XV of 1865.

(b) may appoint to the charge of that office an officer, to be called the Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages, for the territories under its administration:

(2) Provided that the Governor of Bombay in Council may, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, establish two general registry offices and appoint two Registrars General of Births, Deaths and Marriages for the territories under his admininistration; one of such general registry offices and of such Registrars General being established and appointed for Sindh and the other for the other territories under the administration of the Governor of Bombay in Council.

Indexes to be kept at general registry office.

7. Each Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages shall cause indexes of all the certified copies of registers sent to his office under this Act, or under Act III of 1872, the Indian Christian Marriage Act, 1872, or the Parsi Marriage and Divorce Act, 1865, as amended by this Act, to be made and kept in his office in the prescribed form. XV of 1872. XV of 1865.

Indexes to be open to inspection.

8. Subject to the payment of the prescribed fees, the indexes so made shall be at all reasonable times open to inspection by any person applying to inspect them, and copies of entries in the certified copies of the registers to which the indexes relate shall be given to all persons applying for them.

The Births, Deaths and Marriages Registration Act, 1886.

(Chapter III.—Registration of Births and Deaths.—Sections 9-17.)

Copies of entries to be admissible in evidence.

9. A copy of an entry given under the last foregoing section shall be certified by the Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages, or by an officer authorised in this behalf by the Local Government, and shall be admissible in evidence for the purpose of proving the birth, death or marriage to which the entry relates.

Superintendence of Registrars by Registrar General.

10. Each Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages shall exercise a general superintendence over the Registrars of Births and Deaths in the territories for which he is appointed.

CHAPTER III.

REGISTRATION OF BIRTHS AND DEATHS.

A.—Application of this Chapter.

Persons whose births and deaths are registrable.

11. (1) The persons whose births and deaths shall, in the first instance, be registrable under this chapter are the following, namely:—

(a) in British India, the members of every race, sect or tribe to which the Indian Succession Act, 1865, applies, and in respect of which an order under section 332 of that Act is not for the time being in force, and all persons professing the Christian religion; X of 1865.

(b) in the dominions of Princes and States in India in alliance with Her Majesty, British subjects being members of a like race, sect or tribe, or professing the Christian religion:

(2) But the Local Government, by notification in the official Gazette, may, with the previous approval of the Governor General in Council, extend the operation of this chapter to any other class of persons either generally or in any local area.

B.—Registration Establishment.

Power for Local Government to appoint Registrars for its territories.

12. The Local Government may appoint, either by name or by virtue of their office, so many persons as it thinks necessary to be Registrars of Births and Deaths for such local areas within the territories under its administration as it may define and, if it sees fit, for any class of persons within any part of those territories.

Power for Governor General in Council to appoint Registrars for Native States.

13. The Governor General in Council may, by notification in the Gazette of India, appoint, either by name or by virtue of their office, so many persons as he thinks necessary to be Registrars of Births and Deaths for such local areas within the dominions of any Prince or State in India in alliance with Her Majesty as he may define and, if he sees fit, for any class of persons within any part of those dominions.

Registrar to be deemed a public servant.

14. Every Registrar of Births and Deaths shall be deemed to be a public servant within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code. XLV of 1860.

Power to remove Registrars.

15. (1) The Local Government or the Governor General in Council, as the case may be, may suspend, remove or dismiss any Registrar of Births and Deaths.

(2) A Registrar of Births and Deaths may resign by notifying in writing to the Local Government or to the Governor General in Council, as the case may be, his intention to do so, and, on his resignation being accepted by the Local Government or the Governor General in Council, he shall be deemed to have vacated his office.

Office and attendance of Registrar.

16. (1) Every Registrar of Births and Deaths shall have an office in the local area, or within the part of the territories or dominions, for which he is appointed.

(2) Every Registrar of Births and Deaths to whom the Local Government may direct this subsection to apply shall attend at his office for the purpose of registering births and deaths on such days and at such hours as the Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages may direct, and shall cause to be placed in some conspicuous place on or near the outer door of his office his name, with the addition of Registrar of Births and Deaths for the local area or class for which he is appointed, and the days and hours of his attendance.

Absence of Registrar or vacancy in his office.

17. (1) When any Registrar of Births and Deaths to whom the Local Government may direct this section to apply, not being a Registrar of Births and Deaths for a local area in the town of Calcutta, Madras or Bombay, is absent, or when his office is temporarily vacant, any person whom the Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages appoints in this behalf, or, in default of such appointment, the Judge of the District Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the Registrar's office is situate, or such other officer as the Local Government appoints in this behalf, shall be the Registrar of Births and Deaths during such absence or until the Local Government fills the vacancy.

(2) When any such Registrar of Births and Deaths for a local area in the town of Calcutta, Madras or Bombay is absent, or when his office is temporarily vacant, any person whom the Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages appoints in this behalf shall be the Registrar of Births and Deaths during such absence or until the Local Government fills the vacancy.

The Births, Deaths and Marriages Registration Act, 1886.

(Chapter III.—Registration of Births and Deaths.—Sections 18-24.)

(3) The Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages shall report to the Local Government all appointments made by him under this section.

Register books to be supplied and preservation of records to be provided for.

18. The Local Government shall supply every Registrar of Births and Deaths with a sufficient number of register books of births and of register books of deaths, and shall make suitable provision for the preservation of the records connected with the registration of births and deaths.

C.—Mode of Registration.

Duty of Registrar to register births and deaths of which notice is given.

19. Every Registrar of Births and Deaths, on receipt of notice of a birth or death within the local area or among the class for which he is appointed, shall, if the notice is given within the prescribed time and in the prescribed mode by a person authorized by this Act to give the notice, forthwith make an entry of the birth or death in the proper register book:

Provided that—

(b) he shall not enter in the register the name of any person as father of an illegitimate child, unless at the request of the mother and of the person acknowledging himself to be the father of the child.

Persons authorized to give notice of birth.

20. Any of the following persons may give notice of a birth, namely:—

(a) the father or mother of the child;

(b) any person present at the birth;

(c) any person occupying, at the time of the birth, any part of the house wherein the child was born and having knowledge of the child having been born in the house;

(d) any medical practitioner in attendance after the birth and having personal knowledge of the birth having occurred;

(e) any person having charge of the child.

Persons authorized to give notice of death.

21. Any of the following persons may give notice of a death, namely:—

(a) any relative of the deceased having knowledge of any of the particulars required to be registered concerning the death;

(b) any person present at the death;

(c) any person occupying, at the time of the death, any part of the house wherein the death occurred and having knowledge of the deceased having died in the house;

(d) any person in attendance during the last illness of the deceased;

(e) any person who has seen the body of the deceased after death.

Entry of birth or death to be signed by person giving notice.

22. (1) When an entry of a birth or death has been made by the Registrar of Births and Deaths under section 19, the person giving notice of the birth or death must sign the entry in the register in the presence of the Registrar.

(2) Until the entry has been so signed, the birth or death shall not be deemed to be registered under this Act.

(3) When the birth of an illegitimate child is registered, and the mother and the person acknowledging himself to be the father of the child jointly request that that person may be registered as the father, the mother and that person must both sign the entry in the register in the presence of the Registrar.

Grant of certificate of registration of birth or death.

23. The Registrar of Births and Deaths shall, on application made at the time of registering any birth or death by the person giving notice of the birth or death, and on payment by him of the prescribed fee, give to the applicant a certificate in the prescribed form, signed by the Registrar, of having registered the birth or death.

Duty of Registrars as to sending certified copies of entries in register books to Registrar General.

24. (1) Every Registrar of Births and Deaths in British India shall send to the Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages for the territories within which the local area or class for which he is appointed is situate or resides, at the prescribed intervals, a true copy certified by him, in the prescribed form, of all the entries of births and deaths in the register book kept by him since the last of those intervals:

Provided that in the case of Registrars of Births and Deaths who are clergymen of the Churches of England, Rome and Scotland the Registrar may, if so directed by his ecclesiastical superior, send the certified copies in the first instance to that superior, who shall send them to the proper Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages.

In this sub-section "Church of England" and "Church of Scotland" mean the Church of England and the Church of Scotland as by law established respectively; and "Church of Rome" means the Church which regards the Pope of Rome as its spiritual head.

The Births, Deaths and Marriages Registration Act, 1886.

(Chapter III.—Registration of Births and Deaths.—Sections 25-32.)

(2) The provisions of sub-section (1) shall apply to every Registrar of Births and Deaths in the dominions of any Prince or State in India in alliance with Her Majesty, with this modification that the certified copies referred to in that sub-section shall be sent to such one of the Registrars General of Births, Deaths and Marriages as the Governor General in Council, by notification in the Gazette of India, appoints in this behalf.

Searches and copies of entries in register books.

25. (1) Every Registrar of Births and Deaths shall, on payment of the prescribed fees, at all reasonable times, allow searches to be made in the register books kept by him, and give a copy of any entry in the same.

(2) Every copy of an entry in a register book given under this section shall be certified by the Registrar of Births and Deaths, and shall be admissible in evidence for the purpose of proving the birth or death to which the entry relates.

Exceptional provision for registration of certain births and deaths.

26. Notwithstanding anything in section 19, the Governor General in Council may make rules authorizing Registrars of Births and Deaths, on conditions and in circumstances to be specified in the rules, to register births and deaths occurring outside the local areas or classes for which they are appointed.

D.—Penalty for False Information.

Penalty for wilfully giving false information.

27. If any person wilfully makes, or causes to be made, for the purpose of being inserted in any register of births or deaths, any false statement in connection with any notice of a birth or death under this Act, he shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three years, or with fine, or with both.

E.—Correction of Errors.

Correction of entry in register of births or deaths.

28. (1) If it is proved to the satisfaction of a Registrar of Births and Deaths that any entry of a birth or death in any register kept by him under this Act is erroneous in form or substance, he may, subject to such rules as may be made by the Governor General in Council with respect to the conditions and circumstances on and in which errors may be corrected, correct the error by entry in the margin, without any alteration of the original entry, and shall sign the marginal entry and add thereto the date of the correction.

(2) If a certified copy of the entry has already been sent to the Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages, the Registrar of Births and Deaths shall make and send a separate certified copy of the original erroneous entry and of the marginal correction therein made.

CHAPTER IV.

AMENDMENT OF MARRIAGE ACTS.

Addition of new section after section 13, Act III of 1872.

29. After section 13 of Act III of 1872 (to provide a form of marriage in certain cases) the following section shall be inserted, namely:—

"13A. The Registrar shall send to the Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages for the territories within which his district is situate, at such intervals as the Governor General in Council, from time to time, directs, a true copy certified by him, in such form as the Governor General in Council, from time to time, prescribes, of all entries made by him in the said marriage-certificate book since the last of such intervals."

Transmission of certified copies of entries in marriage-certificate book to the Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages.

Amendment of the Indian Christian Marriage Act, 1872.

30. In the Indian Christian Marriage Act, 1872, the following amendments shall be made, namely:— XV of 1872.

(a) at the end of section 3, the words "'Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages' means a Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages appointed under the Births, Deaths and Marriages Registration Act, 1886," shall be added;

(b) for the words "Secretary to the Local Government", wherever they occur, and for the words "Secretary to a Local Government" in section 79, the words "Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages" shall be substituted;

(c) for the words "at such places as the Local Government directs" in section 62 the words "in the office of the Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages for the territories of the Local Government by which the person who keeps the register book was licensed" shall be substituted; and

(d) in section 81, after the words "Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages" the words "in England" shall be added.

Addition of new section after section 8 of the Parsi Marriage and Divorce Act, 1865.

31. After section 8 of the Parsi Marriage and Divorce Act, 1865, the following section shall be inserted, namely:— XV of 1865.

"8A. Every Registrar, except the Registrar appointed by the Chief Justice of the High Court of Judicature at Bombay, shall, at such intervals as the Governor General in Council from time to time directs, send to the Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages for the territories administered by the Local Government by which he was appointed a true copy certified by him, in such form as the Governor General, from time to time, prescribes, of all certificates entered by him in the said register of marriages since the last of such intervals."

Transmission of certified copies of certificates in marriage-register to Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages.

CHAPTER V.

SPECIAL PROVISIONS AS TO CERTAIN EXISTING REGISTERS.

Permission to persons having custody of certain records to send them within one year to Registrar General.

32. If any person in British India, or in the dominions of any Prince or State in India in alliance with Her Majesty, has for the time being the custody of any register or record of birth, baptism, naming, dedication, death or burial of any persons of the classes referred to in section 11, sub-section (1), or of any register or record of marriage of any persons of the classes to which Act III of 1872 or the Indian Christian Marriage Act, 1872, or the Parsi Marriage and Divorce Act, 1865, applies, and if such register or record has been made otherwise than in performance of a duty specially enjoined by the law of the country in which the register or record was kept, he may, within one year from the date on which this Act comes into force, send the register or record to the office of the Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages for the territories within which he resides, or, if he resides within the dominions of any such Prince or State as aforesaid, to such one of the Registrars General as aforesaid as the Governor General in Council, by notification in the Gazette of India, directs in this behalf.

XV of 1865.

33. (1) The Governor General in Council may appoint so many persons as he thinks fit to be Commissioners for examining the registers or records sent to the Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages under the last foregoing section.

Appointment of Commissioners to examine registers.

(2) The Commissioners so appointed shall hold office for such period as the Governor General in Council, by the order of appointment, or any subsequent order, directs.

34. (1) The Commissioners appointed under the last foregoing section shall enquire into the state, custody and authenticity of every such register or record as may be sent to the Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages under section 32;

Duties of Commissioners.

and shall deliver to the Registrar General a descriptive list or descriptive lists of all such registers or records, or portions of registers or records, as they find to be accurate and faithful.

(2) The list or lists shall contain the prescribed particulars and refer to the registers or records, or to the portions of the registers or records, in the prescribed manner.

(3) The Commissioners shall also certify in writing, upon some part of every separate book or volume containing any such register or record, or portion of a register or record, as is referred to in any list or lists made by the Commissioners, that it is one of the registers or records, or portions of registers or records, referred to in the said list or lists.

35. (1) Subject to the payment of the prescribed fees, the descriptive list or lists of registers or records, or portions of registers or records, delivered by the Commissioners to the Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages shall be, at all reasonable times, open to inspection by any person applying to inspect it or them, and copies of entries in those registers or records shall be given to all persons applying for them.

Searches of lists prepared by Commissioners and grant of certified copies of entries.

(2) A copy of an entry given under this section shall be certified by the Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages, or by an officer or person authorized in this behalf by the Local Government, and shall be admissible in evidence for the purpose of proving the birth, baptism, naming, dedication, death, burial or marriage to which the entry relates.

CHAPTER VI.

RULES.

36. In addition to any other power to make rules impliedly or expressly conferred by this Act, the Governor General in Council may make rules—

Power for Governor General in Council to make rules.

(a) to fix the fees payable under this Act;

(b) to prescribe the forms required for the purposes of this Act;

(c) to prescribe the time within which, and the mode in which, persons authorized under this Act to give notice of a birth or death to a Registrar of Births and Deaths must give the notice;

(d) to prescribe the registers to be kept and the form and manner in which Registrars of Births and Deaths are to register births and deaths under this Act, and the intervals at which they are to send to the Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages true copies of the entries of births and deaths in the registers kept by them;

(e) to prescribe the particulars which the descriptive list or lists to be prepared by the Commissioners appointed under Chapter V are to contain, and the manner in which they are to refer to the registers or records, or portions of registers or records, to which they relate;

(f) to prescribe the custody in which those registers or records are to be kept; and

(g) generally to carry out the purposes of this Act.

37. (1) The Governor General in Council shall, before making rules under this Act, publish a draft of the proposed rules in such manner as may, in his opinion, be sufficient for the information of persons likely to be affected thereby.

Procedure for making and publication of rules.

(2) There shall be published with the draft a notice specifying a date at or after which the draft will be taken into consideration.

(3) The Governor General in Council shall receive and consider any objection or suggestion which may be made by any person with respect to the draft before the date so specified.

(4) Every rule made under this Act shall be published in the Gazette of India, and the publication in the Gazette of India of a rule purporting to be made under this Act shall be conclusive evidence that it has been duly made.

Offg. Secretary to the Government of India.

The following Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to provide for the voluntary Registration of certain Births and Deaths, for the establishment of General Registry Offices for keeping Registers of certain Births, Deaths and Marriages, and for certain other purposes, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 5th February 1886:—

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

WE, the undersigned, Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to provide for the voluntary Registration of certain Births and Deaths, for the establishment of General Registry Offices for keeping Registers of certain Births, Deaths and Marriages, and for certain other purposes, was referred, have considered the Bill and the papers noted on the margin, and have now the honour to submit this our Report.

From Assistant Secretary to Chief Commissioner Central Provinces, No. 2445—118, dated 30th June, 1885 [Paper No. 18].

2. We have, on the advice of a leading member of the Parsi community at Bombay, proposed to extend to the scattered Parsi communities resident beyond the local limits of the ordinary original civil jurisdiction of the High Court at Bombay the same provisions for the more effectual registration of marriages as were proposed by the Bill to be conferred on the classes to whom Act III of 1872 and the Indian Christian Marriage Act, 1872, apply.

3. By section 11, sub-section (2), we propose to enable Local Governments, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, to extend the operation of the chapter respecting the registration of births and deaths to any classes of the community which may be desirous of taking advantage of the provisions of that chapter.

4. By sections 12 and 13 we have proposed to enable Local Governments in British India, and the Governor General in Council in States in India in alliance with Her Majesty, to appoint Registrars of Births and Deaths for classes of persons as well as for local areas. It will thus be practicable to appoint ministers of religion to be Registrars of Births and Deaths for their own congregations only, without imposing on them duties for which they might have neither leisure nor inclination.

5. In section 14 we have provided that every Registrar of Births and Deaths shall be deemed to be a public servant. This provision appears to us to render it unnecessary to retain section 24 of the Bill as introduced.

6. By section 19 we have provided that if a Registrar of Births and Deaths has reason to believe any notice given to him to be in any respect false he may refuse to register the birth or death until he receives an order from the District Court directing him to make the entry and prescribing the manner in which the entry is to be made.

In the same section and in section 22, sub-section (3), we have reproduced the provisions of section 7 of the Statute 37 & 38 Vic., cap. 88.

7. In sections 20 and 21 we have classified, in a modified form, the persons authorised to give notices of births and deaths.

8. We have provided in section 24 that clergymen who may become Registrars of Births and Deaths shall send certified copies of the entries in their registers direct to the Registrar General unless they are required by their ecclesiastical superiors to transmit the copies through them.

9. By section 26 we have proposed to empower the Governor General in Council to make rules authorising Registrars of Births and Deaths, on conditions and in circumstances to be specified in the rules, to register births and deaths occurring outside the local areas or classes for which they have been appointed. Events occurring in the course of journeys, or in places for which Registrars of Births and Deaths have not been appointed, may by those rules be made registrable.

10. We have made fine an alternative punishment for the offence made punishable under section 27.

11. To section 36 we have added a clause enabling the Governor General in Council to make rules as to the custody of registers and records sent to the Registrar General under section 32.

12. The other amendments of the Bill are unimportant and do not call for special remark.

13. In regard to the argument which has been urged in some of the papers before us that the existing registers of certain religious bodies are admissible in evidence, we are informed that the legal value of those registers has been questioned by high authority, on the ground that they are not maintained under any special injunction of law, or in the ordinary course of business, within the meaning of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872.

14. As regards the working of the proposed Act we understand that existing machinery will, so far as possible, be utilised, and that expenses will be defrayed from fees payable under the Act.

15. Other objections taken to the Bill are (a) that some Registrars may object to the provisions of section 16, sub-section (2), and (b) that difficulties may result from the requirement of section 22, sub-section (1), that the person giving notice of a birth or death must sign the entry in the register in the presence of the Registrar. As regards the first of these objections we observe that section 16, sub-section (2), will not apply to all Registrars, but only to those to whom the Local Government applies the sub-section. As regards the second objection the risk of difficulties arising may be diminished, if not removed, by provision being made, in the rules under clause (c) of section 36, for an enlargement under certain circumstances of the time within which notices may be given of births and deaths.

16. The publication ordered by the Council has been made as follows:—

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[First publication.]

The following Act of the Governor General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor General on the 8th March, 1886, and is hereby promulgated for general information:—

No. VII OF 1886.

An Act to amend the Indian Registration Act, 1877.

IN of 1877.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Indian Registration Act, 1877, in manner hereinafter appearing; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Indian Registration Act, 1886; and

(2) It shall come into force at once.

III of 1877.

Addition to section 17 of Act III of 1877.

2. After clause (f) of section 17 of the Indian Registration Act, 1877, the following clause shall be inserted, that is to say:—

"(ff) any debenture issued by any such Company and not creating, declaring, assigning, limiting or extinguishing any right, title or interest to or in immoveable property except in so far as it entitles the holder to the security afforded by a registered instrument whereby the Company has mortgaged, conveyed or otherwise transferred the whole or part of its immoveable property or any interest therein to trustees upon trust for the benefit of the holders of such debentures, or".

Addition to sections 17 and 89, and amendment of section 58, of same Act.

3. (1) After clause (l) of section 17 of the same Act the following clause shall be added, that is to say:—

XII of 1884.

"(m) orders granting loans under the Agriculturists' Loans Act, 1884, and instruments for securing the repayment of loans made under that Act."

(2) In section 58 of the same Act, for the words "or a copy of a certificate under the Land Improvement Act, 1871, sent by the Collector to be registered," or, where the Land Improvement Loans Act, 1883, is in force, for the words "or a copy of an order under the Land Improvement Loans Act, 1883, sent by the Collector to be registered," there shall be substituted the following words, namely:—

XXVI of 1871.

XIX of 1883.

XIX of 1883.

"or a copy sent to a registering officer under section 89".

(3) After the second paragraph of section 89 of the same Act the following paragraph shall be added, that is to say:—

"Every officer granting a loan under the Agriculturists' Loans Act, 1884, shall send a copy of any instrument whereby immoveable property is mortgaged for the purpose of securing the repayment of the loan, and, if any such property is mortgaged for the same purpose in the order granting the loan, a copy also of that order, to the registering officer within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the whole or any part of the property so mortgaged is situate, and such registering officer shall file the copy or copies, as the case may be, in his Book No. 1." XII of 1884.

Further addition to section 17 of same Act.

4. After clause (m) of section 17 of the same Act as amended by this Act the following clause shall be added, that is to say:—

"(n) any endorsement on a mortgage-deed acknowledging the payment of the whole or any part of the mortgage-money, and any other receipt for payment of money due under a mortgage when the receipt does not purport to extinguish the mortgage."

Amendment of section 50 of same Act.

5. In the second paragraph of section 50 of the same Act, "(ff)" shall be inserted between "(f)" and "(g)", and for the word and letter "and (l)" the letters and word "(l), (m) and (n)" shall be substituted.

Addition to section 90, and amendment of section 91, of same Act.

6. (1) After clause (d) of section 90 of the same Act the following clause shall be inserted, that is to say:—

"(e) notices given under section 74, or section 76, of the Bombay Land-revenue Code, 1879, of relinquishment of occupancy by occupants, or of alienated land by holders of such land". Bom. Act V of 1879.

(2) In section 91, for the word and letter "and (c)" the letters and word "(c) and (e)" shall be substituted.

(3) The said Act shall be construed as if the amendments made in it by this section had been made at the time the Act came into force.

S. HARVEY JAMES,
Offg. Secretary to the Government of India.

The following Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend the Indian Registration Act, 1877, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 5th February, 1886:—

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

WE, the undersigned, Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to amend the Indian Registration Act, 1877, was referred, have considered the Bill and the papers noted on the margin, and have now the honour to submit this our Report.

From Officiating Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Assam, No. 1223, dated 22nd July, 1885 [Paper No. 1].
From Officiating Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Central Provinces, No. 3004—140, dated 8th August, 1885, and enclosure [Papers No. 2].
From Registrar, High Court, Calcutta, No. 2344, dated 13th August, 1885 [Paper No. 3].
From Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Coorg, No. 896—123, dated 13th August, 1885 [Paper No. 4].
From Chief Secretary to Government, Madras, No. 2049, dated 7th August, 1885, and enclosures [Papers No. 5].
From Secretary for Berar to Resident, Hyderabad, No. 6—B.-C., dated 19th August, 1885 [Paper No. 6].
From Secretary to Government, North-Western Provinces and Oudh, No. 848—VII-144-13, dated 1st September, 1885 [Paper No. 7].
From Chief Secretary to Government, Bengal, No. 966 P. D., dated 29th August, 1885, and enclosures [Papers No. 8].
Endorsement by Chief Secretary to Government, Madras, No. 2184, dated 21st August, 1885, and enclosure [Papers No. 9].
From Under-Secretary to Government, Bombay, No. 7268, dated 8th September, 1885 [Paper No. 10].
From Registrar, High Court, Calcutta, No. 2705, dated 18th September, 1885, and enclosure [Papers No. 11].
From Officiating Secretary to Government, Punjab, No. 1430 S., dated 21st September, 1885, and enclosures [Papers No. 12].
From Officiating Secretary to Chief Commissioner, British Burma, No. 131—25 L., dated 8th October, 1885, and enclosure [Papers No. 13].
From Mr. P. V. Krishnaswami Ayer, First Grade Pleader, Trichinopoly, No. 389, dated 29th November, 1885 [Paper No. 14].
Circular from Secretary to Government of India, Legislative Department, Nos. 1581—86, dated 13th October, 1885, with replies [Papers No. 15].
From Chief Secretary to Government, Bengal, No. 273 P., dated 23rd January, 1886, and enclosures [Papers No. 16].

2. The Bill as introduced has been approved by the authorities to whose criticism it was submitted. Some suggestions for the further amendment of the Act have been made; but, as the revision of the law relating to registration is understood to be under the consideration of the Government of India, we have deemed it advisable not to deal with them generally in this Bill. On one suggestion, however, we have deemed it necessary to act at once. It was that the law should declare receipts for payments of mortgage-money to be optionally, and not compulsorily, registrable. In connection with this suggestion we have considered the case reported at I. L. R. 6 All. 335, and the cases there cited, and the replies of Local Governments and High Courts to a letter addressed to them by the Government of India on the subject of those cases. The authorities to whom the letter was addressed are almost unanimously of opinion that, on grounds of convenience, receipts for payment of mortgage-money ought not to be compulsorily registrable. We concur in that opinion, and have added to the Bill a clause (section 4) excepting from the operation of clauses (b) and (c) of section 17 of the Act (i) any endorsement on a mortgage-deed acknowledging the payment of the whole or any part of the mortgage-money, whether the endorsement does or does not purport to extinguish the mortgage, and (ii) any other receipt for payment of money due under a mortgage when the receipt does not purport to extinguish the mortgage. In so framing the clause we have, as regards endorsements, followed the course recommended by the High Court at Bombay, and, as regards other receipts, the general tenor of the opinions expressed by the authorities whom the Government of India has consulted.

3. The amendments which the Bill renders it necessary to make in section 50 of the Act have been made in a separate clause (section 5).

4. The publication ordered by the Council has been made as follows:—

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[First publication.]

The following Act of the Governor General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor General on the 10th March, 1886, and is hereby promulgated for general information:—

ACT NO. IX OF 1886.

An Act to apply the Chutia Nagpur Encumbered Estates Act, 1876, to the Deo Estate in the Gaya District.

WHEREAS Rájá Bhikam Narayan Singh Bahadur, of Deo in the district of Gaya, is subject to, and his immoveable property is charged with, debts and liabilities other than debts due, and liabilities incurred, to the Government;

And whereas the said Rájá has requested that the provisions of the Chutia Nagpur Encumbered Estates Act, 1876, be applied to his case;

VI of 1876.

And whereas the persons to whom the debts are due and the liabilities have been incurred have assented to the application of the Chutia Nagpur Encumbered Estates Act, 1876, to the case, on the condition that their title to receive the principal and interest due to them be in no way impaired thereby;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Deo Estate Act, 1886; and

(2) It shall come into force at once.

Application of Act VI of 1876 to the Deo Estate.

VI of 1876.

2. The provisions of the Chutia Nagpur Encumbered Estates Act, 1876, as amended by Act V of 1884, may be applied to the case of the said Rájá Bhikam Narayan Singh Bahadur, subject to the following modifications, namely:—

(1) The expressions "Commissioner", "Deputy Commissioner" and "holder", where used in the said Act, shall be construed as referring to the Commissioner of the Patna division, the Collector of the Gaya district and the said Rájá, respectively.

(2) Notwithstanding anything in section 2 of the said Act, the Commissioner may, without any further application from the said Rájá and without any further notification of the consent of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, publish an order under that section appointing a manager and vesting in him the management of the whole of the immoveable property of or to which the said Rájá is then possessed or entitled in his own right, or which he is entitled to redeem, or which may be acquired by or devolve on him or his heir during the continuance of the management.

(3) Section 4 of the said Act shall be read as if after the words "and their families" the words "and persons entitled to receive maintenance from the property" were added.

(4) Notwithstanding anything in section 8—

the sums mentioned in column 2 and column 4 of the schedule to this Act, as principal and as balance due from the said Rájá on the thirty-first day of December, 1885, respectively, and the rate of interest mentioned in column 3 of that schedule, shall, save in so far as any error with respect thereto may be proved to the satisfaction of the Commissioner, be deemed to be justly due to the several persons mentioned in column 1 of the schedule.

(5) The scheme prepared and approved under section 11 of the said Act shall provide that out of the residue applicable under section 4 of that Act, after discharge of costs of management, to the settlement of debts and liabilities, interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum in respect of so much of the principal sum of six hundred and fifty thousand rupees as is for the time being due to the Maháráját of Darbhangá shall be paid to the Maháráját before any sum is paid thereout to any other creditor.

(6) The second clause of section 12 of the said Act shall be read as if for the words "at any time before a scheme has been approved by him under section 11" the words "at any time before the occurrence of either of the events mentioned in the first and third clauses of this section" were substituted.

(7) The power conferred on the manager by the second clause of section 16 of the said Act, to apply for the removal of a mortgagee or conditional vendee in possession, shall not be exercised.

(8) The exercise of the power of sale conferred by section 18 of the said Act shall be subject to the following conditions, namely :—

(a) that one month's notice shall be given to the Mahárájá of Darbhangá of the manager's intention to sell any property of which the said Mahárájá is mortgagee;

(c) that, except with the previous consent of the said Mahárájá, so much of that property shall be left unsold as will yield a yearly income sufficient, after compliance with the rest of the scheme prepared and approved under section 11 of the said Act, to meet the yearly interest for the time being payable to the Mahárájá.

(9) Section 23 of the said Act shall be read as if for the words "the Courts in Chutia Nagpur" the words "any Court" were substituted, and as if the following words were added to the section, namely :—"and a suit relating to a claim of maintenance from the property shall not be entertained by any such Court without the previous consent of the Commissioner".

Saving of priority of Crown debts.

3. Nothing contained in this Act shall be construed as affecting the priority of any debt due, or liability incurred, to the Government.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[First publication].

The following Act of the Governor General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor General on the 12th March, 1886, and is hereby promulgated for general information :—

ACT NO. X OF 1886.

An Act to amend the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1882, and certain other Acts.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1882, and certain other Acts; X of 1882.
It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1882.

Amendment of section 31 of the Code of Criminal Procedure.

1. In the last paragraph of section 31 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1882, for the words "any sentence of imprisonment for a term exceeding three years" the words "any sentence of imprisonment for a term exceeding four years, and any sentence of transportation," shall be substituted. X of 1882.

Substitution of new section for section 34.

2. For section 34 of the same Code the following shall be substituted, namely :—

Higher powers of certain District Magistrates.

"34. The Court of a District Magistrate, specially empowered under section 30, may pass any sentence authorized by law, except a sentence of death or of transportation for a term exceeding seven years or of imprisonment for a term exceeding seven years; but any sentence of imprisonment for a term exceeding four years, and any sentence of transportation, shall be subject to confirmation by the Sessions Judge."

Addition to section 55 and section 56.

3. After section 55 of the same Code, and after section 56 thereof, the following shall be added, namely :—

"This section applies to the police in the towns of Calcutta and Bombay."

Amendment of sections 88 and 514.

4. In sections 88 and 514 of the same Code, after the words "District Magistrate" the words "or Chief Presidency Magistrate" shall be inserted.

Amendment of section 110.

5. In section 110 of the same Code, for the words "Sub-divisional Magistrate or Magistrate of the first class specially empowered in this behalf by the Local Government" the words "or Sub-divisional Magistrate, or a Magistrate of the first class specially empowered in this behalf by the Local Government" shall be substituted.

Amendment of section 162.

6. In section 162 of the same Code the word "shall" shall be inserted before the words "be used".

Amendment of section 173.

7. In section 173 of the same Code, the following shall be substituted for the second paragraph, namely :—

"Where a superior officer of police has been appointed under section 158, the report shall, in any cases in which the Local Government by general or special order so directs, be submitted through that officer, and he may, pending the orders of the Magistrate, direct the officer in charge of the police-station to make further investigation."

Amendment of section 266.

8. In section 266 of the same Code, for the word and figures "section 307" the words and figures "sections 276 and 307" shall be substituted.

Amendment of section 269.

9. For the second paragraph of section 269 of the same Code the following shall be substituted, namely :—

"When the accused is charged at the same trial with several offences of which some are and some are not triable by jury, he shall be tried by jury for such of those offences as are triable by jury, and by the Court of Session, with the aid of the jurors as assessors, for such of them as are not triable by jury."

Substitution of new section for section 398.

10. For section 398 of the same Code the following shall be substituted, namely :—

Provisions supplemental to sections 35, 396 and 397.

"398. (1) Nothing in section 396 or section 397 shall be held to excuse any person from any part of the punishment to which he is liable upon his former or subsequent conviction.

(2) When an award of imprisonment in default of payment of a fine is annexed to a substantive sentence of imprisonment, or to a sentence of transportation or penal servitude for an offence punishable with imprisonment, and the person undergoing the sentence is after its execution to undergo a further substantive sentence, or further substantive sentences, of imprisonment, transportation or penal servitude, effect shall not be given to the award of imprisonment in default of payment of the fine until the person has undergone the further sentence or sentences."

Amendment of section 401.

11. (1) For the third paragraph of section 401 of the same Code the following shall be substituted, namely :—

"If any condition on which a sentence has been suspended or remitted is, in the opinion of the Governor General in Council or of the Local Government, as the case may be, not fulfilled, the Governor General in Council or the Local Government may cancel the suspension or remission, and thereupon the person in whose favour the sentence has been suspended or remitted may, if at large, be arrested by any Police-officer without warrant and remanded to undergo the unexpired portion of the sentence."

(2) After the third paragraph of the same section the following shall be inserted, namely :—

"The condition on which a sentence is suspended or remitted under this section may be one to be fulfilled by the person in whose favour the sentence is suspended or remitted, or one independent of his will."

Removal from one jail to another in territories under same Local Government.

X of 1882.

"31. (1) Whenever it appears to the Local Government that any person detained or imprisoned under any order or sentence of any Magistrate or Court is of unsound mind, that Government, by a warrant setting forth the grounds of belief that the person is of unsound mind, may order his removal to a lunatic asylum or other place of safe custody within the territories subject to the same Local Government, there to be kept and treated as the Local Government directs during the remainder of the term for which he has been ordered or sentenced to be detained or imprisoned, or, if on the expiration of that term it is certified by a medical officer that it is necessary for the safety of the prisoner or others that he should be further detained under medical care or treatment, then until he is discharged according to law.

Removal of lunatic prisoners.

"(2) When it appears to the Local Government that the prisoner has become of sound mind, that Government, by a warrant directed to the person having charge of the prisoner, shall, if the prisoner is still liable to be kept in custody, remand him to the prison from which he was removed or to another prison within the territories subject to the same Local Government, or, if the prisoner is no longer liable to be kept in custody, order him to be discharged.

"(3) The provisions of section 9 of Act XXXVI of 1858 (relating to Lunatic Asylums) shall apply to every person confined in a lunatic asylum under sub-section (1) after the expiration of the term for which he was ordered or sentenced to be detained or imprisoned; and the time during which a prisoner is confined in a lunatic asylum under that sub-section shall be reckoned as part of the term of detention or imprisonment which he may have been ordered or sentenced by the Magistrate or Court to undergo.

"(4) In any case in which a Local Government is competent under sub-section (1) to order the removal of a prisoner to a lunatic asylum or other place of safe custody within the territories subject to the same Local Government, the Governor General in Council may order his removal to any lunatic asylum or other place of safe custody in any part of British India; and the provisions of this section respecting the custody, detention, remand and discharge of a prisoner removed by order of a Local Government shall, so far as they can be made applicable, apply to a prisoner removed by order of the Governor General in Council.

Removal of prisoners from territories under one Local Government to territories under another.

"32. When any person is, or has been, sentenced to imprisonment by any Court, or, in default of giving security for maintaining good behaviour, has been committed to, or is detained in, prison under section 123 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1882, the Governor General in Council may order his removal during the period for which he has been sentenced to imprisonment or the security has been ordered to be given, as the case may be, from the jail or place in which he is confined to any other jail or place of imprisonment in British India." X of 1882.

From Registrar, High Court, Calcutta, No. 274, dated 6th February, 1886 [Paper No. 20].

2. The object of the Bill was, as remarked in the Statement of Objects and Reasons, to correct certain minor defects of the criminal law which had been brought to the notice of the Government of India since the passing of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1882. The papers laid before us contain numerous suggestions for other amendments in the Code. We have given our careful attention to these suggestions, but have come to the conclusion that, subject to a very few exceptions, it would not be expedient to act upon them without giving further notice to the public, and, for this reason, we have abstained from dealing with them in the present Bill. Among the sections to which our attention has been thus directed, and the propriety of amending which should, we think, be considered by the legislature on the next suitable opportunity, are section 107 (with advertence to the cases reported at I. L. R. 6 All. 26 and 11 Cal. 737), section 110 (with respect to habitual protectors or harbourers of thieves and habitual aiders in the concealment or disposal of stolen property), section 145 (with advertence to the case reported at I. L. R. 11 Cal. 413), section 9 or section 193 (with respect to the powers of Additional or Joint Sessions Judges), section 239 (with respect to the meaning of the words "in the same transaction"), section 318 (for applying the procedure of section 349 to habitual offenders forwarded to the Court of Session), and section 437 (for the purpose of reconciling the conflicting rulings as to the meaning of the words "further inquiry").

3. We will now notice in consecutive order such sections of the Bill as appear to us to call for remark.

4. Sections 1 and 2.—There are sections of the Indian Penal Code under which transportation for shorter terms than seven years may be awarded, but we are of opinion that any sentence of transportation passed by an Assistant Sessions Judge or District Magistrate should be subject to confirmation by the Sessions Judge.

5. Section 3.—We have added this section at the instance of the Government of Bengal. It appears to us that sections 55 and 56 of the Code should apply to the police in the towns of Calcutta and Bombay as they do to the police in the town of Madras and in the rest of British India.

6. Section 4.—The Chief Presidency Magistrate of Madras has pointed out that there is the same defect in section 514 as in section 88.

7. Section 7.—The practice of submitting final police reports through a superior officer of police depends on circumstances varying from season to season and from province to province and even from district to district, and should, in our opinion, be left to be regulated by the Local Government.

8. Section 9.—We have, on the recommendation of the Madras Government and High Court, amended section 269 of the Code so that, where an accused person is charged at the same trial with several offences of which some are and some are not triable by jury, he shall be tried by jury for such of those offences as are triable by jury, and by the Court of Session, with the aid of the jurors as assessors, for such of them as are not triable by jury.

9. Section 10.—The object of the amendment made by this section is to secure uniformity of practice with respect to the time when imprisonment in default of payment of fine is to be undergone where there are other substantive sentences of imprisonment to be undergone after the execution of the sentence to which the award of imprisonment in default of payment of fine was annexed.

10. Section 11.—There has been some misunderstanding in regard to the proposed amendment of section 401. It was originally proposed to meet a technical difficulty arising out of the case of a prisoner who had become insane after his discharge, and it appears to us that in the case of political offenders it may be useful as enabling the Government to set them at large on the understanding that, if any movement with which they were connected revives, they will, in the interests of the public safety, be re-arrested and detained until either the movement again subsides or they complete their sentences, whichever event may first occur.

11. Section 12.—We have, on the recommendation of the Bombay Government, authorised Local Governments to empower officers in charge of jails to discharge certain functions of the Inspector General of Prisons. It is often impossible for the Inspector General punctually to discharge the functions personally.

12. Section 13.—Difficulty has been caused by the specification in the Code of the rank of the police-officer who may be permitted to conduct a prosecution. Inspectors are officers of different rank in different parts of the country. We have, therefore, left it to Local Governments to prescribe the rank with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, but we have provided that an officer of police shall not be permitted to conduct the prosecution if he has taken any part in the investigation into the offence with respect to which the accused is being prosecuted.

13. Section 16.—A case which has recently occurred in the Bombay Presidency has suggested the introduction into the Code of Criminal Procedure of a section on the lines of section 292 of the Code of Civil Procedure.

14. Section 17.—This section in the Bill has been misunderstood. In Schedule II to the Code of Criminal Procedure as it now stands, the punishment for making a false charge of an offence punishable with imprisonment for a term of seven years appears as imprisonment for two years only, whereas the punishment may under the Indian Penal Code be imprisonment extending to seven years.

15. Section 21.—The object of this section is to make the provisions of section 67 of the Indian Penal Code applicable to all fines imposed under any law, and to make it clear that section 64 applies to offences punishable with imprisonment or fine as well as to offences punishable with both imprisonment and fine.

16. Section 22.—We agree with the Government of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, the High Court at Madras and the other authorities who have directed attention to section 75 of the Indian Penal Code, in considering that the alternative penalties prescribed by the section must often be either inadequate or excessive, and that a wider discretion should be given to the Courts. We have provided therefore that on repeated conviction of an offence punishable under Chapter XII or Chapter XVII of the Indian Penal Code the offender shall be subject to transportation for life or, in the discretion of the Court, to imprisonment for any term not exceeding ten years.

17. Section 23.—At present there is no provision of law for the punishment of a person who, knowing that a warrant has been issued by a Magistrate for the apprehension of a foreign subject under the Foreign Jurisdiction and Extradition Act, 1879, harbours that subject. The inconvenience resulting from the absence of such a provision has been pointed out by the Government of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, and ought in our opinion to be removed.

18. Section 24.—We have added a section suggested by the case reported at I. L. R. 12 Cal. 190.

19. Section 25.—We have proposed to re-enact in an amended form the whole of the three sections of the Prisoners' Act, 1871, relating to the removal of prisoners, instead of merely patching the existing sections.

An Act to facilitate the construction and to regulate the working of Tramways.

WHEREAS it is expedient to facilitate the construction and to regulate the working of tramways; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Preliminary.

Short title and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Indian Tramways Act, 1886; and

(2) It shall come into force at once.

Local extent.

2. (1) It extends in the first instance to the whole of British India, except the territories administered by the Governor of Fort Saint George in Council, the Governor of Bombay in Council and the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal.

(2) But the Governor of Fort Saint George in Council, the Governor of Bombay in Council or the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal may, by notification in the official Gazette, extend this Act to the whole or any part of the territories under his administration.

Definitions.

3. In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context,—

(1) "local authority" means a municipal committee, district board, body of port commissioners or other authority legally entitled to, or entrusted by the Government with, the control or management of a municipal or local fund:

(2) "road" means the way of a road, street, thoroughfare, passage or place along or across which a tramway authorised under this Act is, or is intended to be, laid, and includes the surface-soil and sub-soil of a road, and the footway, berms, drains and ditches of a road, and any bridge, culvert or causeway forming part of a road:

(3) "road-authority", in relation to a road, means—

(a) if a local authority maintains and repairs the road, then that authority;

(b) if a local authority does not maintain and repair the road, and the road is neither vested in Her Majesty nor maintained and repaired by the Government, then the person in whom the road is vested; and

(c) if a local authority does not maintain and repair the road, and the road is vested in Her Majesty or maintained and repaired by the Government, then the Local Government:

(4) "circle", in relation to a local authority or road-authority, means the area within the control of that authority:

(5) "tramway" means a tramway, or any part of a tramway, or any siding, turnout, connection, line or track belonging to a tramway:

(6) "order" means an order authorising the construction of a tramway under this Act, and includes a further order substituted for, or amending, extending or varying, that order:

(7) "promoter" means a local authority or person in whose favour an order has been made, and includes a local authority or person on whom the rights and liabilities conferred and imposed on the promoter by this Act and by the order and any rules made under this Act as to the construction, maintenance and use of the tramway, have devolved:

(8) "undertaking" includes all moveable and immoveable property of the promoter suitable to and used by him for the purposes of the tramway:

(9) "carriage", in the case of a tramway on which steam-power or any other mechanical power is used, includes an engine worked on the tramway for the purpose of producing that power:

(10) "toll" includes any charge leviable in respect of the use of a tramway:

(11) "lessee" means a person to whom a lease has been granted of the right of user of a tramway and of demanding and taking the authorised tolls:

(12) "District Magistrate" includes an officer empowered by the Local Government by name or by virtue of his office to discharge within any local area all or any of the functions of a District Magistrate under this Act:

(13) "District Court" means a principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction, and includes a High Court having ordinary original civil jurisdiction:

(14) "Collector" means the chief officer in charge of the revenue-administration of a district, and includes an officer empowered by the Local Government by name or by virtue of his office to discharge within any local area the functions of a Collector under this Act: and

(15) "prescribed" means prescribed by rules made by the Local Government under this Act.

Orders authorising the Construction of Tramways.

Application for and consent necessary to making of order.

4. (1) The Local Government may make an order authorising the construction of a tramway in a circle on application made—

(a) by the local authority of the circle with the consent of the road-authority of any road or part of a road which is to be traversed by the tramway and of which the local authority is not itself the road-authority; or

The Indian Tramways Act, 1886.

(Orders authorising the Construction of Tramways.—Sections 5-7.)

(b) by any person with the consent of the local authority of the circle, and of the road-authority of any road or part of a road which is to be traversed by the tramway and of which the local authority is not the road-authority:

Provided that, if any part of the proposed tramway is to traverse land which is not included within the limits of a municipality or of a cantonment, the Local Government shall not make the order without the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council.

(2) A local authority shall not make an application for an order, or be deemed to consent to an application being made by any person for an order, unless the making of the application or the giving of the consent has been approved by the local authority in manner prescribed.

Consent of local or road authority not necessary in certain cases.

5. When it is proposed to lay a tramway in two or more circles, and a local authority or road-authority having control in either or any of the circles does not consent thereto, or attaches conditions to its consent, the Local Government may, nevertheless, make an order authorising the construction of the tramway in the circle, or by the order impose on the promoter any conditions which it deems fit, if, after considering the reasons of the authority for withholding its consent or attaching the conditions thereto, it is satisfied that the construction of the tramway in the circle is expedient, or, as the case may be, that the conditions attached by the authority to its consent ought not to be imposed.

Procedure for making order.

6. (1) The Local Government on receiving an application shall consider it, and, if satisfied as to the propriety of proceeding thereon, publish in the official Gazette, and in such other manner as it deems sufficient for giving information to persons interested, a draft of a proposed order authorising the construction of the tramway.

(2) A notice shall be published with the draft stating that any objection or suggestion which any person may desire to make with respect to the proposed order will, if submitted to the Local Government on or before a date to be specified in the notice, be received and considered.

(3) If, after considering any objections or suggestions which may have been made with respect to the draft on or before the date so specified, the Local Government is of opinion that the application should be granted, with or without addition or modification, or subject or not to any restriction or condition, it may make an order accordingly.

(4) Every order authorising the construction of a tramway shall be published in the official Gazette in English, and in the other prescribed language or languages, if any; and that publication shall be conclusive proof that the order has been made as required by this section.

Contents of order.

7. (1) An order made under section 6 shall empower the promoter therein specified to construct and maintain the tramway therein described in the manner therein provided, and shall specify the time within which the tramway shall be commenced and the time within which it shall be completed and opened for public traffic.

(2) The order may also provide, in manner consistent with this Act, for all or any of the following, among other matters, that is to say:—

(a) a period before the expiration of which the tramway shall not be commenced, and the conditions subject to which the local authority, when it is not itself the promoter, may, within that period, elect to be substituted in the place of the promoter in respect of the undertaking or of so much thereof as is within its circle; and the limits of time within which, and the terms upon which, the local authority may, after the tramway has been constructed, require the promoter to sell to it the undertaking or so much thereof as is within its circle;

(c) the conditions subject to which roads may be opened and broken up for the purposes of the construction or maintenance of the tramway or any part thereof, and the method of, and materials to be used in, the re-instating of the roads, and the approval of the method and materials by the Local Government or the road-authority before the commencement of the work;

(d) the conditions on which the tramway may be constructed over a bridge or across a railway or tramway when the carriageway over the bridge is to form part of the tramway or when the tramway is to cross a railway or another tramway on the level;

(e) the space which shall ordinarily intervene between the outside of the carriageway on either side of a road whereon the tramway is to be constructed and the nearest rail of the tramway, and the conditions on which a smaller space may be permitted;

(f) the gauge of the tramway; the rails to be used, and the mode in which

and the level at which, they shall be laid and maintained; and the adoption and application by the promoter of such improvements in the rails, and in their situation, and in the sub-structure upon which they rest, as the Local Government may from time to time require;

(g) the portion of the road or roads traversed by the tramway to be kept in repair by the promoter; the maintenance by the promoter to the satisfaction of the Local Government or the road-authority, or both, of that portion of the road or roads; and the liability of the promoter, on the requisition of the Local Government, from time to time to adopt and apply such improvements in the tramway as the Local Government may consider necessary or desirable for the safety or convenience of the public, and to alter the position or level of the tramway to suit future alterations in the road or roads;

(h) the application of material excavated by the promoter in the construction or maintenance of the tramway;

(i) the provision of such crossings, passing-places, sidings, junctions and other works, in addition to those specified in or authorised by the order, as may from time to time be necessary or convenient to the efficient working of the tramway;

(j) the powers which may from time to time be exercised by the Local Government, the local authority, the road-authority or any person in respect of sewers, drains, telegraph-lines, gas-pipes, water-pipes or other things in or on land occupied by the tramway; the notice (if any) to be given of the intended exercise of those powers; the manner in which the powers shall be exercised; and the extent to which the tramway and the traffic thereon may be interfered with in the exercise thereof;

(k) the conditions subject to which the promoter may from time to time interfere with, or alter or require the alteration of the position of, drains (not being sewers or main drains), telegraph-lines, gas-pipes, water-pipes or other things as aforesaid;

(l) the provision of a temporary tramway in place of a part of a tramway which has been removed, or of which the use has been discontinued, by reason of the execution of any work affecting a road along which the part of the tramway was laid, or by reason of the use of the road being interrupted by floods or other cause;

(n) the nature, dimensions, fittings, appliances and apparatus of the carriages to be used on the tramway, and the inspection and examination thereof by officers of the Local Government or the local authority, and the liability of the promoter or lessee, on the requisition of the Local Government, from time to time, to adopt and apply such improvements in the carriages, and in the fittings, appliances and apparatus, as the Local Government may consider necessary or desirable for the safety or convenience of the public;

(o) the traffic which may be carried on the tramway, the traffic which the promoter or lessee shall be bound to carry, and the traffic which he may refuse to carry; the tolls to be leviable by the promoter or lessee, and the periodical revision thereof by the Local Government; and the regulation of the traffic and of the levy of the tolls;

(p) the use of the tramway free of toll by the local authority, with its own carriages, for specified purposes, during specified hours, with power to the local authority to make such sidings and other works as may be necessary for communication between its premises and the tramway;

(q) the conditions subject to which the promoter may transfer the undertaking, or any part thereof, by sale, mortgage, lease, exchange or otherwise; and the conditions subject to which the local authority may be the transferee;

(r) the performance by the Local Government or by the local authority or road-authority of any work required by the Act or the order to be done by the promoter; and

(s) the penalty to be incurred by the promoter or lessee for failure to observe any condition or direction contained in the order, and the application of the penalty when recovered.

(3) The Local Government may, in providing in the order for the acquisition of land for the purposes of a tramway of which the promoter is not a company, direct that land may be acquired for the promoter under the provisions of the Land Acquisition Act, 1870, in the same manner and on the same conditions as it might be acquired for the purposes of the tramway if a company were the promoter. X of 1870.

(4) The order shall imply the condition—

(a) in the case of a tramway of which a local authority is the promoter, that a lease thereof shall be granted only in manner by this Act provided; and

(b) in the case of a tramway of which a local authority is not the promoter, that a lease thereof shall be only of the right of user

The Indian Tramways Act, 1886.

(Orders authorising the Construction of Tramways.—Construction and Maintenance of Tramways.—Traffic on Tramways.—Sections 8-14.)

and of demanding and taking the authorised tolls, and shall not confer or impose on the lessee any of the powers or duties of the promoter in respect of the construction or maintenance of the tramway.

Further order.

8. (1) The Local Government may, on the application of the promoter, revoke, amend, extend or vary the order by a further order.

(2) An application for a further order shall be made in the same manner and subject to the same conditions as an application for an order.

(3) The Local Government may, in its discretion, either grant or reject the application.

(4) If it grants the application, it shall make the further order in the same manner as an order, except that no addition to, or modification of, the rights, powers and authorities asked for in the application, or restriction or condition with respect thereto, shall be made or imposed by the further order without the consent in writing of the promoter.

Power to authorise joint work by local authorities.

9. (1) Subject to, and in accordance with, the provisions of this Act, the Local Government may, on a joint application, or on two or more separate applications, make an order empowering two or more local authorities, respectively, jointly to construct the whole, or separately to construct parts, of a tramway, and jointly or separately to own the whole or parts thereof.

(2) All the provisions of this Act which relate to the construction of tramways shall extend and apply to the construction of the whole and the separate parts of the tramway, and the form of the order may be adapted to the circumstances of the case.

Cessation of powers given by an order.

10. (1) If a promoter authorised by an order to construct a tramway—

(a) does not within the time specified in the order substantially commence the construction of the tramway, or

(b) having commenced the construction, suspends it without a reason sufficient in the opinion of the Local Government to warrant the suspension, or

(c) does not within the time specified in the order complete the tramway and open it for public traffic,

the following consequences shall ensue:—

(i) the powers given by the order to the promoter for constructing the tramway and otherwise in relation thereto shall, unless the Local Government, by special direction in writing, prolongs the time or condones the suspension, cease to be exercised except as to so much of the tramway as is then completed;

(ii) as to so much of the tramway as is then completed, the Local Government may either permit, or refuse to permit, the powers given by the order to continue;

(iii) if the Local Government refuses to permit the powers to continue, then so much of the tramway as is then completed may be dealt with, under the provisions of this Act relating to the discontinuance of tramways, as a tramway of the working whereof the discontinuance has been proved to the satisfaction of the Local Government.

(2) A notification published by the Local Government in the official Gazette to the effect that on a date specified in the notification the construction of a tramway had not been substantially commenced or a tramway had not been completed and opened for public traffic, or that the construction of a tramway had been suspended without sufficient reason, shall, for the purposes of this section, be conclusive proof of the matter stated therein.

Construction and Maintenance of Tramways.

Mode of formation of tramway.

11. A tramway shall be constructed and maintained in the manner provided by the order.

Inspection of tramway before opening.

12. A tramway, or portion or extension of, or addition to, a tramway, shall not be opened for public traffic until an engineer appointed in this behalf by the Local Government has inspected it and certified it to be fit for such traffic.

Agreement between road-authority and promoter as to repair of roadway.

13. Subject to the provisions of any order for the time being in force with respect to the matters mentioned in section 7, sub-section (2), clause (g), the road-authority and the promoter may from time to time enter into agreements as to the keeping in repair of the whole or a part of a road traversed by a tramway, and as to the proportion to be paid by either of them of the expense of keeping the road or part in repair.

Traffic on Tramways.

Rights of promoters and the public over tramways.

14. (1) The promoter of a tramway shall, subject to the provisions of sub-section (2) and to the other provisions of this Act and of the order, have the exclusive use of the tramway for carriages with flange-wheels or other wheels suitable to run on the rail described in the order as the rail to be used on the tramway:

Provided that nothing in this Act or in the order or any rule made under this Act shall affect the right of any person authorised to use a tramway or railway to pass across a tramway constructed under this Act with carriages having wheels suitable to run on the rail thereof.

The Indian Tramways Act, 1886.

(Traffic on Tramways.—Licenses to use Tramways.—Secs. 15-18.)

(2) The public shall have a right to pass along or across any part of a road along or across which a tramway is constructed, whether on or off the tramway, with carriages not having flange-wheels or other wheels suitable to run on the rail of the tramway: Provided—

(a) that this sub-section shall not apply where the tramway is constructed on land the right to the exclusive possession of which has been acquired by the promoter; and

(b) that the Local Government may by an order authorise the construction of a tramway on any part of a road with rails raised above the surface of the road, if it is satisfied that the convenience of the public will not be injuriously affected thereby.

Tolls leviable by promoter or lessee.

15. (1) The promoter or lessee may demand and take, in respect of the tramway, tolls not exceeding the limits specified in or determinable under the order, or, if the order contains no provision in this behalf, then such sums as may from time to time be fixed by the promoter or lessee with the previous sanction of the Local Government.

(2) A list of all the tolls authorised to be levied shall be exhibited, in such languages as the District Magistrate may direct, in a conspicuous place inside and outside each of the carriages used upon the tramway.

Carriage of dangerous or offensive goods.

16. (1) A person shall not be entitled to carry or to require to be carried, on a tramway constructed under this Act, any goods of a dangerous or offensive nature.

(2) A person taking such goods with him on the tramway shall, before entering the carriage, give notice of their nature to the servant of the promoter or lessee in charge of the carriage.

(3) A person sending such goods by the tramway shall distinctly mark their nature on the outside of the package containing them, or otherwise give notice thereof in writing to the servant of the promoter or lessee with whom he leaves them for the purpose of their being sent by the tramway.

(4) Any servant of the promoter or lessee may refuse to carry upon the tramway a parcel which he suspects to contain goods of a dangerous or offensive nature, and, if any such parcel has been received for the purpose of being carried upon the tramway, may stop the transit thereof until he is satisfied as to the nature of its contents.

(5) Where a servant of the promoter or lessee refuses under sub-section (4) to carry a parcel which has been received for the purpose of being carried upon the tramway, he shall, as soon as may be, give notice of his refusal to the consignor or consignee if he refuses at a time when neither of them is present.

Licenses to use Tramways.

Grant to third parties of licenses to use tramway in certain events.

17. If, at any time after a tramway or part of a tramway has been for three years opened for public traffic in a circle, the local authority of the circle represents in writing to the Local Government that the public is deprived of the full benefit of the tramway or of the part thereof, the Local Government may, if after considering any statement which the promoter or lessee or both may desire to make, and after such further enquiry as it deems necessary, it is satisfied as to the truth of the representation, grant a license to any person to use the tramway conformably to this Act and to the order and the rules made under this Act, subject to the following provisions, namely:—

(b) the license shall be to use the whole of the tramway for the time being opened for public traffic, or such part or parts of the tramway as the Local Government, having regard to the cause for granting the license, thinks fit;

(c) the license shall specify the number of carriages which the licensee shall run upon the tramway, the mode in which, and times at which, the carriages shall be run, the tolls to be paid to the promoter or lessee by the licensee for the use of the tramway, and the tolls, being those for the time being leviable by the promoter or lessee, which the licensee may demand and take for the use of his carriages;

(d) the licensee and his officers and servants shall permit one person, duly authorised for that purpose by the promoter or lessee, to travel free of toll in or upon each carriage of the licensee run upon the tramway for the whole or any part of a journey;

(e) any provision of this Act, or of the order or rules made under this Act, relating to the functions of a servant of a promoter or lessee shall be construed, so far as may be, as referring to a servant of the licensee; and

(f) the Local Government may revoke, alter or modify the license for any cause sufficient in its opinion to warrant the revocation, alteration or modification thereof.

Licensee to give to promoter or lessee an account of traffic.

The Indian Tramways Act, 1886.

(Discontinuance of Tramways.—Insolvency of Promoter.—Sections 19-21) (Purchase of Tramways.—Section 22.)

Discontinuance of Tramways.

Cessation of powers of promoter and lessee on discontinuance of tramway.

19. If it is proved to the satisfaction of the Local Government, at any time after the opening of a tramway for public traffic, that the working of the tramway, or any part thereof, has been practically discontinued, for the space of three months, without a reason sufficient, in the opinion of the Local Government, to warrant the discontinuance, the Local Government, if it thinks fit, may, by notification in the official Gazette, declare that the powers of the promoter and of the lessee, if any, in respect of the tramway or the part thereof of which the working has been so discontinued, shall, from the date of the notification, be at an end; and thereupon the said powers shall cease and determine, except in so far as they may be purchased by a local authority in manner by this Act provided.

Powers of road-authority on cessation of powers of promoter.

20. (1) Where a notification has been published under section 19, the road-authority may, at any time after the expiration of two months from the date of the notification, remove the tramway or part of the tramway of which the working has been so discontinued, and use the materials thereof in re-instating the road.

(2) The promoter shall pay to the road-authority the cost incurred by that authority in removing the tramway or the part thereof and in re-instating the road.

(3) The cost shall be certified by an officer of the road-authority, and his certificate, countersigned by the District Magistrate, shall be conclusive proof as to the cost incurred.

(4) If the promoter does not pay the amount so certified within one month after the delivery to him of the certificate or of a copy thereof, the road-authority may, without any previous notice to the promoter and without prejudice to any other remedy which it may have for the recovery of the amount, sell and dispose of such materials of the tramway or part thereof removed as it has not used in re-instating the road, either by public auction or by private sale, and for such sum or sums, and to such person or persons, as it thinks fit, and may, out of the proceeds of the sale, pay and reimburse itself the amount of the cost aforesaid and of the expenses of the sale, and shall pay over the residue (if any) of the proceeds of the sale to the promoter.

Insolvency of Promoter.

Proceedings in case of insolvency of promoter.

21. (1) If, at any time after the opening of a tramway in a circle for public traffic, it appears to the road-authority or local authority of the circle that the promoter of the tramway is insolvent, so that he is unable to maintain the tramway, or to work it with advantage to the public, and either of those authorities makes a representation to that effect to the Local Government, the Local Government may, if after considering any statement which the promoter may desire to make, and after such further enquiry as it deems necessary, it is satisfied as to the truth of the representation, declare, by notification in the official Gazette, that the powers of the promoter shall, at the expiration of six months from the publication of the notification, be at an end; and the powers of the promoter shall cease and determine at the expiration of that period, except in so far as they may be purchased by a local authority in manner by this Act provided.

(2) Where a notification has been published under sub-section (1), the road-authority may, at any time after the expiration of six months from the date thereof, remove the tramway in the same manner, and subject to the same provisions as to the payment of the cost of the removal and to the same remedy for recovery of the cost, in every respect as in cases of removal under section 20.

Purchase of Tramways.

Future purchase of undertaking by local authority.

22. (1) Where the promoter of a tramway in a circle is not the local authority, the local authority, with the previous sanction of the Local Government, may—

(a) within such limits of time as may be specified in this behalf in the order, or

by notice in writing, require the promoter to sell to the local authority his undertaking or the part thereof which is within the circle of the local authority; and thereupon the promoter shall sell the same upon the terms specified in the order, or, if the terms were not specified in the order, then upon the terms of paying the then value of the undertaking or of the part thereof, exclusive of any allowance for past or future profits of the undertaking or any compensation for compulsory sale or other consideration whatsoever.

(2) A requisition shall not be made under sub-section (1) unless the making thereof has been approved by the local authority in manner prescribed.

(3) When a sale has been made under this section, all the rights, powers and authorities of the promoter in respect of the undertaking or part thereof sold, or, where a notification has been published under section 19 or section 21, all the rights, powers and authorities of the promoter previous to the publication of the notification in respect of the undertaking or part thereof sold, shall be transferred to the authority to whom the undertaking or part has been sold, and shall vest in, and may be exercised by, that authority in the same manner as if the tramway had been constructed by it under an order made under this Act.

The Indian Tramways Act, 1886.

Working of Tramways owned by Local Authorities.

Lease of, or working of, tramway by local authority.

23. (1) When a local authority has under the authority of an order completed a tramway, or has under the provisions of this Act or of an order acquired possession of a tramway, it may, by a lease to be approved by the Local Government, let to any person the right of user of the tramway and of demanding and taking the authorised tolls.

(2) On the determination of a lease the local authority may from time to time let the right for such further term and on such conditions as the Local Government may approve.

(3) Every lease made under this section shall imply a condition of re-entry if at any time after the making thereof it is proved to the satisfaction of the Local Government that the lessee has practically discontinued the working of the tramway leased, or of any part thereof, for the space of one month without a reason sufficient, in the opinion of the Local Government, to warrant the discontinuance.

(4) Notice of the intention of the local authority to make a lease shall be given in manner prescribed.

(5) If the local authority cannot by means of a lease obtain what it deems to be a fair rent for the tramway, it may itself, with the previous sanction of the Local Government and for such term as the Local Government directs, place and run carriages upon the tramway, and demand and take the authorised tolls in respect of the use of the carriages.

Rules.

Power to make rules.

24. (1) In addition to any other power to make rules expressly or by implication conferred by this Act, the Local Government may make rules consistent with this Act—

(a) as to the form in which an application for an order shall be made;

(c) as to the payment of money or lodgment of securities, by way of deposit, by the applicant for an order before the order is published under section 6, sub-section (4), or a further order is made under section 8; the investment of money so paid; the disposal of interest or dividends from time to time accruing due on money or securities so paid, lodged or invested; the application of the money or securities or the produce thereof to the discharge of any liability incurred by the promoter; and the forfeiture, repayment or return of the money or securities;

(d) as to the plans and sections of any works to be deposited by applicants for orders or by promoters;

(e) for regulating the use of steam-power or any other mechanical power on a tramway;

(f) as to any matter specified in section 7, sub-section (2), clauses (c), (d), (e), (j) and (k), as a matter which may be provided for in an order, when that matter has not been so provided for, or has not, in the opinion of the Local Government, been effectually so provided for;

(g) as to the periodical submission, by promoters, lessees and licensees, of accounts of traffic and receipts to the Local Government or as that Government directs, and as to the forms in which those accounts are to be submitted;

(h) as to the accidents of which report is to be made to the Local Government or as that Government directs;

(i) as to any matter respecting which rules may be made under this section by a local authority or a promoter or lessee; and,

(j) generally, as to any other matter or thing in respect of which it may seem to the Local Government to be expedient to make rules for carrying out the purposes of this Act.

(2) A local authority may, from time to time, with the previous sanction of the Local Government, make rules consistent with this Act and with the order and any rules made by the Local Government under this Act for regulating—

(a) the rate of speed to be observed in travelling upon a tramway within the circle of the local authority;

(b) the use of animal power on the tramway

(c) the distances at which carriages using the tramway are to be allowed to follow one after the other;

The Indian Tramways Act, 1886.

(Rules.—Sections 25-26.—Offences.—Sections 27-29.)

(d) the stopping of carriages using the tramway, and the notice to be given to the public of their approach;

(e) the manner in which carriages using the tramway after sunset and before sunrise are to be lighted;

(f) the traffic on roads along or across which the tramway is laid;

(g) the number of passengers which may be carried in any carriage;

(h) the licensing and control of drivers, conductors and other persons having charge of the carriages of the promoter or lessee or a licensee; and,

(i) generally, the mode of use of the tramway.

(3) The promoter or lessee of a tramway may, from time to time, with the previous sanction of the Local Government, make rules consistent with this Act and with the order and any rules made under this Act—

(a) for preventing the commission of any nuisance in or upon any carriage, or in or against any premises, belonging to him; and

(b) for regulating the travelling in any carriage belonging to him.

(4) The Local Government may cancel any rule made by a local authority or by a promoter or lessee under this section.

Power to impose penalty by rule.

25. The authority making any rule under section 24 may direct that a breach of it shall be punishable with fine which may extend—

(a) if the authority making the rule is the Local Government, to two hundred rupees, and

(b) if that authority is a local authority or a promoter or lessee, to twenty rupees;

and when the breach is a continuing breach, with a further fine which may extend—

(c) if the authority making the rule is the Local Government, to fifty rupees, and

(d) if that authority is a local authority or a promoter or lessee, to five rupees, for every day after the first during which the breach continues.

Procedure for making, and publication of, rules.

26. (1) Every authority having power to make rules under any section of this Act shall, before making the rules, publish a draft of the proposed rules for the information of persons likely to be affected thereby.

(2) The publication shall be made, in the case of rules made by the Local Government, in such manner as may in its opinion be sufficient for giving information to persons interested, and, in the case of rules made by a local authority or by a promoter or lessee, in manner prescribed.

(3) There shall be published with the draft a notice specifying a date, not earlier than the expiration of one month after the date of publication, at or after which the draft will be taken into consideration.

(4) The authority shall receive and consider any objection or suggestion which may be made by any person with respect to the draft before the date so specified.

(5) The publication in the official Gazette of a rule purporting to be made under this Act shall be conclusive proof that it has been duly made.

Offences.

Penalty for failure of promoter, lessee or licensee to comply with Act or order.

27. If a promoter—

(a) constructs or maintains a tramway otherwise than in accordance with the order, or

(c) fails to observe any requirement or condition of the order for neglect or breach whereof no penalty has been expressly provided in the order,

or if a promoter, lessee or licensee runs a carriage on a tramway otherwise than in accordance with the order, he shall (without prejudice to the enforcement of specific performance of the requirements of this Act or of the order, or to any other remedy which may be obtained against him in a Court of Civil Judicature), on complaint made by the Local Government or by the local authority or road-authority or by the District Magistrate or, with the previous sanction of the District Magistrate, by any person injuriously affected by the act or omission, be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees, and in the case of a continuing offence to a further fine which may extend to fifty rupees for every day after the first during which the offence continues to be committed.

Penalty for obstructing promoter in exercise of his powers.

28. If any person without lawful excuse, the burden of proving which shall lie upon him, wilfully obstructs any person acting under the authority of the promoter in the lawful exercise of his powers in constructing or maintaining a tramway, or injures or destroys any mark made for the purpose of setting out the line of the tramway, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

Penalty for interfering with tramway.

29. If any person without lawful excuse, the burden of proving which shall lie upon him, wilfully does any of the following things, namely:—

(a) interferes with, removes or alters any part of a tramway constructed under

The Indian Tramways Act, 1886.

(Offences.—Sections 30-34—Settlement of Differences.—Sections 3-35.)

this Act, or of the works connected therewith, or

(b) places or throws upon or across any such tramway any wood, stone, refuse or other thing, or

(c) does anything in such a manner as to obstruct any carriage using any such tramway, or

(d) abets within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code the doing of, or attempts to do, anything mentioned in clause (a), clause (b) or clause (c),

XLV of 1860.

he shall (without prejudice to any other remedy which may be obtained against him in a Court of Civil Judicature) be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

Penalty for using tramway with carriage having flange-wheels.

30. If any person, except under a lease from, or by agreement with, the promoter, or under license from the Local Government granted under this Act, uses on a tramway, otherwise than as permitted by section 14, a carriage having flange-wheels or other wheels suitable to run on the rail of the tramway, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees.

Penalty for evading payment of proper toll.

31. (1) If any person travelling or having travelled in a carriage of the promoter or lessee or of a licensee evades or attempts to evade payment of toll, or if any person having paid toll for a certain distance wilfully proceeds in any such carriage beyond that distance and does not pay the additional toll for the additional distance or attempts to evade payment thereof, or if any person wilfully refuses or neglects on arriving at the point to which he has paid toll to quit the carriage, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to ten rupees.

(2) When a person commits an offence under this section and refuses on demand of a servant of the promoter, lessee or licensee to give his name and residence, or gives a name or residence which the servant has reason to believe to be false, he may be arrested and taken to the nearest police-station by the servant or any person whom the servant may call to his aid.

(3) When the person is taken to the police-station he shall with the least possible delay be forwarded to the nearest Magistrate, unless his true name and residence are ascertained, in which case he shall be released on his executing a bond for his appearance before a Magistrate if so required.

Penalty for taking or sending dangerous or offensive goods without giving notice.

32. If any person takes or sends by a tramway any goods of a dangerous or offensive nature without giving the notice required by section 16, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

Penalty for licensee not giving to promoter or lessee an account of traffic or giving false account.

33. (1) If a licensee fails on demand to give the account mentioned in section 18, or, with intent to evade the payment of tolls, gives a false account when he is called upon to give an account under that section, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

(2) The fine shall be in addition to any tolls payable by the licensee to the promoter or lessee in respect of the passengers or goods conveyed by the carriage or carriages used by the licensee on the tramway.

Saving of prosecutions under other laws.

34. Nothing in this Act shall prevent a person from being prosecuted under any other law for an act or omission which constitutes an offence against this Act or the rules made under it, or from being liable under that other law to any other or higher punishment or penalty than that provided by this Act or the rules made under it: Provided that a person shall not be punished twice for the same offence.

Settlement of Differences.

Differences between promoters or lessees and authorities.

35. (1) If any difference arises between the promoter or lessee on the one hand and the Local Government, or the local authority, or the road-authority, or a person having the charge of any sewers, drains, telegraph-lines, gas-pipes, water-pipes or other things in or on land occupied by the tramway, on the other hand, with respect to any interference or control exercised or claimed to be exercised by, or on behalf of, either party by virtue of this or any other Act, or of the order or the rules made under this Act, or with respect to the propriety of, or the mode of, the execution of any work, or with respect to any compensation to be made by or to the promoter or lessee, or on the question whether any work is such as ought reasonably to satisfy the Local Government or the road-authority or both, or with respect to any other subject or thing regulated by, or comprised in, this Act or the order or the rules made under this Act, and not otherwise expressly provided for therein, the matter in difference shall, except where the parties elect to proceed under section 523 of the Code of Civil Procedure, be settled, on the application of either party, by a referee.

XIV

(2) Where the difference is—

(a) between the promoter or lessee on the one hand and the Local Government, either as such or as the road-authority, on the other, or

(b) between the promoter on the one hand and the local authority on the other, with respect to the sum to be paid by the local authority for an undertaking or part of an undertaking which that authority has required the promoter to sell under section 22,

The Indian Tramways Act, 1886.

(Recovery of Tolls.—Sections 36-38—Savings.—Sections 39-41.)

the referee shall be the District Court within the jurisdiction of which the tramway is situate, or, where the tramway is within the jurisdiction of more than one District Court, the District Court within the jurisdiction of which the greater part of the tramway is situate.

(5) In other cases the referee shall be appointed by the Local Government.

(4) Except where the referee is the District Court, the powers and procedure of the referee may be prescribed.

(5) In the case of a difference between a promoter on the one hand and a local authority on the other, with respect to the sum to be paid by the local authority for an undertaking or part of an undertaking which that authority has required the promoter to sell under section 22, an appeal shall lie to the High Court from the award of the referee as from an original decree of the District Court.

(6) In the case of every other difference the award of the referee shall be final.

Recovery of Tolls.

Recovery of moneys due from promoters and, in certain cases, from lessees.

36. Any of the following moneys, namely, any rent due to a local authority from a lessee, any penalty recoverable from a promoter or lessee under an order, any sum payable by a promoter or lessee under an award of a referee, the cost of the performance under this Act by the Local Government or by a local authority or road-authority of any work required by this Act or by an order to be done by a promoter, and the cost incurred by a road-authority in removing a tramway and re-instating a road under this Act, may, without prejudice to any other remedy that the authority to which the money is due may have by suit or otherwise, be recovered by that authority, on application made in this behalf to the Collector, as if the sum due were an arrear of land-revenue due by the promoter or lessee or his surety (if any) :

Provided that nothing in this section shall authorise the arrest of the promoter or lessee or his surety in execution of any process issued by the Collector.

Recovery of tolls from licensees.

37. (1) If a licensee fails to pay on demand the tolls due for the use of a tramway, the promoter or lessee to whom the tolls are due may, without prejudice to the remedy which he may have by suit, apply to a Magistrate to recover the amount of the tolls, and the Magistrate may, after giving notice to the licensee if possible and allowing him an opportunity of being heard, proceed to recover the amount by distress and sale of any carriages or other moveable property of the licensee which may be found on the tramway or on premises connected therewith.

(2) When a licensee has failed to pay on demand the tolls due from him, the promoter or lessee to whom the tolls are due may seize any carriage or other moveable property of the licensee on the tramway or on premises connected therewith, and detain the same for forty-eight hours unless the tolls are sooner paid.

(3) When application is made to a Magistrate under sub-section (1), he may make an interim order of distraint pending his final decision.

Recovery of tolls from passengers.

38. Any toll due to a promoter, lessee or licensee from a passenger may be recovered either by suit or, on application to a Magistrate having jurisdiction within any local area in which any part of the tramway is laid, by distress and sale of any moveable property belonging to the passenger within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Magistrate.

Savings.

Promoter to have right of user only.

39. (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in this Act, or in an order or any rule made under this Act, a promoter shall not acquire any right other than that of user only over a road along or across which he lays a tramway, nor shall anything contained in this Act, or in an order or any rule made under this Act, exempt the promoter of a tramway, or any other person using the tramway, from the payment of such charges as may lawfully be levied in respect of the use of a road or bridge along or across which the tramway is laid.

(2 The Local Government may, if it thinks fit, fix rates at which a promoter, lessee or licensee may compound for the charges payable in respect of the use of a road or bridge.

Saving of power over roads traversed by tramways.

40. (1) Nothing in this Act, or in an order or any rule made under this Act, shall take away or abridge any power which a road-authority, local authority or other person has by law to break up, widen, alter, divert or improve a road, railroad or tramway along or across which a tramway is laid.

(2) The road-authority, local authority or other person executing any work referred to in sub-section (1) shall not be liable to pay to a promoter, lessee or licensee any compensation for injury done to a tramway by the execution of the work or for loss of traffic occasioned by the reasonable use of any power lawfully exercised for the execution thereof.

Saving of power of local authority and police to regulate traffic on roads.

41. Nothing in this Act, or in an order or any rule made under this Act, shall affect the powers of a local authority or of a Magistrate or police-officer to regulate the passage of traffic along or across a road along or across which a tramway is laid; and the authority, Magistrate or officer aforesaid may exercise its or his powers as well on as off the tramway and with respect as well to the traffic of a promoter, lessee or licensee as to the traffic of other persons.

The Indian Tramways Act, 1886.

(Supplemental Provisions.—Sections 42-50.)

Supplemental Provisions.

Promoters, lessees and licensees to be responsible for all injuries.

42. A promoter, lessee or licensee shall be answerable for all injuries happening through his act or default, or through the act or default of any person in his employment, by reason or in consequence of any of his carriages or works, and shall save harmless all authorities and persons collectively and individually, and their officers and servants, from all damages and costs in respect of injuries so happening.

Want of funds not a sufficient reason for default.

43. For the purposes of this Act want of funds shall not be deemed to be a sufficient reason for the suspension of the construction, or the discontinuance of the working, of a tramway by a promoter or lessee.

Power to exempt from municipal taxation.

44. When a tramway is constructed under this Act within the limits of a municipality, the Local Government may exempt the animals, plant, rolling-stock, yards, workshops, engine-sheds and depôts of the promoter, lessee or licensee, for such period as it thinks fit, from all or any municipal taxes leviable within those limits.

Application by local authorities of local funds to tramways.

45. (1) The fund to or with the control or management of which the local authority of a municipality, cantonment or district is entitled or entrusted shall, notwithstanding anything in any enactment respecting the purposes to which that fund may be applied, be applicable, subject to the control of the Local Government, to the payment of expenses incidental to the exercise of the powers and functions which may be vested in or exercised by a local authority under this Act.

(2) The fund shall also be applicable, with the previous sanction of the Local Government, to a guarantee of the payment of interest on money to be applied, with the concurrence in writing of the local authority, within the limits of the local area under its control, to any of the purposes to which the fund might be applied by the local authority under sub-section (1).

Extension of Act to existing tramways.

46. The Local Government may, with the consent of the local authority and road-authority and of the promoter and his lessee (if any), extend any part of this Act, or any rules made under this Act, either with or without modification, to the whole or any part of a tramway constructed, or authorised by the Local Government to be constructed, before the passing of this Act, and may withdraw any part of the Act or any rules so extended.

Prohibition of construction of tramways except under this Act.

47. (1) A tramway of which the construction has not been authorised by the Local Government before the passing of this Act shall not, after the passing of this Act, be constructed for public traffic in any place to which this Act extends, except in pursuance of an order made under this Act.

(2) A person constructing a tramway in contravention of sub-section (1) of this section, or after the passing of this Act maintaining or using for public traffic, otherwise than in pursuance of an order made under this Act, a tramway which was not constructed, or authorised by the Local Government to be constructed, before the passing of this Act, shall be liable, on the complaint of the Local Government or local authority, to double the penalty to which a promoter acting otherwise than in accordance with an order is liable under section 27.

Transfer of control on exclusion of local area from circle of local authority.

48. If at any time a local area comprising a tramway to which this Act or any part thereof or any rule thereunder applies ceases to be included in the circle of a local authority, the functions of that authority under this Act or the part thereof or the rule thereunder, and under the order (if any), shall, in respect of that local area, devolve on the Local Government or, if that Government so directs, on the local authority of the circle in which the tramway has been included.

Explanation and amendment of section 54 of Railway Act.

49. (1) In section 54 of the Indian Railway Act, 1879, the word "tramway" shall have the meaning assigned to it by section 3 of this Act. IV of 1879.

(2) In the same section of that Act, after the words "by steam" the words "or other mechanical power" shall be added.

Powers of Local Government exercisable from time to time.

50. All powers conferred by this Act on a Local Government may be exercised from time to time as occasion requires.

S. HARVEY JAMES,

Offg. Secy. to the Govt. of India.

The following Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to facilitate the construction and to regulate the working of Tramways was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 5th March, 1886 :—

2. The object of the proviso to section 4, sub-section (1), of the Bill does not appear to have been understood. In the case of lines extending beyond municipal limits, it is often difficult to say whether the line ought to be treated as a tramway or as a light railway, and the object of the proviso is to give the Government of India an opportunity of determining, with reference to particular cases or classes of cases, to which of the two categories such lines ought to be treated as belonging.

3. By section 5 we have empowered the Local Government to modify conditions sought to be imposed by a local authority with respect to the construction within its circle of part of a tramway which is to be laid in two or more circles.

4. In sections 17 and 21 we have provided for an opportunity being given to the promoter to state his case before the Local Government either grants licenses under the former section or determines the powers of the promoter under the latter section.

5. By clauses (g) and (k) of sub-section (1) of section 24 we have enabled the Local Government to make rules as to the periodical submission of statistics relating to tramways, and as to the accidents of which report is to be made.

6. By clause (e) of sub-section (2) of the same section we have empowered local authorities to make rules as to the manner in which carriages using the tramway after sunset and before sunrise are to be lighted.

7. By section 27 we have made the previous sanction of the District Magistrate a condition precedent to the institution by a private person of criminal proceedings against a promoter, lessee or licensee for breach of any provision of the Act or of any direction of an order authorizing the construction of a tramway.

8. By section 35 we have provided that, except where the parties to a difference elect to proceed under section 523 of the Code of Civil Procedure, the matter in difference between them shall be settled, on the application of either party, by a referee, and that, where the difference is between the promoter on the one hand and the local authority on the other with respect to the sum to be paid by the local authority for an undertaking which that authority has required the promoter to sell under section 22, the referee shall be the District Court. We have also provided that, in that case, an appeal shall lie to the High Court from the award of the District Court.

9. To section 45 we have added a sub-section supplementary to Act XV of 1885 (an Act to amend the Local Authorities Loan Act, 1879).

10. By section 47 of the Bill we have proposed that, in places to which the Act extends, tramways of which the construction has not been authorised before the passing of the Act shall not be constructed, after the passing of the Act, otherwise than in pursuance of an order made under the Act.

11. By section 48 we have made provision for cases in which a local area comprising a tramway is excluded from the circle of one local authority and included in that of another.

12. By section 49 we have proposed so to amend section 54 of the Indian Railway Act, 1879, as to enable the Governor General in Council to apply that Act or any portion thereof to a tramway worked by any mechanical power.

13. The other amendments of the Bill are few and unimportant, and do not call for special notice.

THE SCHEDULE.

An Act to regulate the importation, possession and transport of Petroleum and other fluids of a like nature.

WHEREAS it is expedient to regulate the importation, possession and transport of petroleum and other fluids of a like nature ; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Preliminary.

Short title, commencement and local extent.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Petroleum Act, 1886 ; and

(2) It shall come into force on such day as the Governor General in Council, by notification in the Gazette of India, appoints.

(3) The provisions of this Act relating to dangerous petroleum, and the importation of petroleum, extend to the whole of British India. The rest of this Act extends only to such local areas as the Local Government may from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, direct.

(4) Any power conferred by this Act to make rules or issue orders may be exercised at any time after the passing of this Act ; but a rule or order so made or issued shall not take effect until the Act comes into force.

Repeal. 2. (1) On and from the day on which this Act comes into force, the Petroleum Act, 1881, shall be repealed : VIII of 1881.

(2) But all notifications issued, rules made, licenses granted, powers conferred and certificates given under that Act shall, so far as may be, be deemed to have been issued, made, granted, conferred and given under this Act.

Definitions. 3. In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context,—

(1) "petroleum" includes also the liquids commonly known by the names of rock oil, Rangoon oil, Burma oil, kerosine, paraffine oil, mineral oil, petroline, gasoline, benzol, benzoline, benzine, and any inflammable liquid which is made from petroleum, coal, schist, shale, peat or any other bituminous substance, or from any products of petroleum ; but it does not include any oil ordinarily used for lubricating purposes and having its flashing point at or above two hundred degrees of Fahrenheit's thermometer :

(2) "dangerous petroleum" means petroleum having its flashing point below seventy-six degrees

The Petroleum Act, 1886.

(Dangerous Petroleum.—Sections 4-8.)

of Fahrenheit's thermometer: Provided that, when all or any of the petroleum on board a ship, or in the possession of a dealer, is declared by the master of the ship or the consignee of the cargo, or by the dealer, as the case may be, to be of one uniform quality, the petroleum shall not be deemed to be dangerous if the samples selected from the petroleum have their flashing points, on an average, at or above seventy-three degrees of Fahrenheit's thermometer, and if no one of those samples has its flashing point below seventy degrees of that thermometer:

(3) "import" means to bring into British India by sea or land, and "importation" means the bringing into British India as aforesaid:

(4) "transport" means to remove from one place to another within British India: and

(5) "ship" includes anything made for the conveyance by water of human beings or property.

Matters supplemental to the definitions.

4. (1) The flashing point of petroleum means the lowest temperature at which the petroleum yields a vapour which will furnish a momentary flash or flame when tested in accordance with the directions in the schedule to this Act with an apparatus which has been stamped and certified as provided by this Act within a period of five years immediately preceding the date on which the apparatus is used for the testing, and after the corrections (if any) which the certificate declares are to be applied to the results of the testing have been made.

(2) Notwithstanding anything in the definitions of "import", "importation" and "transport", the Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, may from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, declare—

(a) that petroleum imported into its territories from any part of British India, by sea or across intervening territory not being part of British India, shall, for all or any of the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be transported; and

(b) that petroleum transported into its territories from any place in British India shall, for all or any of those purposes, be deemed to be imported;

and thereupon the provisions of this Act, and of the rules made under this Act, with respect to transport and import, respectively, shall apply to petroleum so imported or transported.

Dangerous Petroleum.

Dangerous petroleum in quantities exceeding forty gallons.

5. (1) No quantity of dangerous petroleum exceeding forty gallons shall be imported or transported, or kept by any one person or on the same premises, except under, and in accordance with the conditions of, a license from the Local Government granted as next hereinafter provided.

(2) Every application for such a license shall be in writing, and shall declare—

(a) the quantity of the petroleum which it is desired to import, transport or possess, as the case may be;

(b) the purpose for which the applicant believes that the petroleum will be used; and

(c) that petroleum other than dangerous petroleum cannot be used for that purpose.

(3) If the Local Government sees reason to believe that the petroleum will be used for that purpose, and that no petroleum other than dangerous petroleum can be used for the purpose, it may grant the license for the importation, transport or possession (as the case may be) of the petroleum, absolutely or subject to such conditions as it thinks fit.

Dangerous petroleum in quantities not exceeding forty gallons.

6. No quantity of dangerous petroleum equal to or less than forty gallons shall be kept or transported without a license:

Provided that nothing in this section shall apply in any case when the quantity of the petroleum kept by any one person or on the same premises, or transported, does not exceed three gallons, and the petroleum is placed in separate glass, stoneware or metal vessels, each of which contains not more than a pint and is securely stopped.

Vessels containing dangerous petroleum to be labelled.

7. Dangerous petroleum—

(a) which is kept at any place after seven days from the date on which it is imported, or

(b) which is transported, or

(c) which is sold or exposed for sale,

shall be contained in vessels having attached thereto a label in conspicuous characters stating the description of the petroleum, with the addition of the words "highly inflammable" and with the addition—

(d) in the case of a vessel kept, of the name and address of the consignee or owner;

(e) in the case of a vessel transported, of the name and address of the sender; and

(f) in the case of a vessel sold or exposed for sale, of the name and address of the vendor.

Petroleum generally.

Power for Local Government to make rules as to importation and refining of petroleum.

8. (1) The Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, may make rules consistent with this Act to regulate the importation of petroleum, and in particular—

(a) to determine the ports at which only petroleum may be imported;

(b) to ascertain the quantity and description of any petroleum on board any ship;

(c) to determine the places at which, and the conditions on and subject to which petroleum may be discharged into boats, landed, transhipped or stored;

(d) to provide for the selection by an officer appointed by the Local Government in this behalf, and for the delivery to him, either after or before petroleum has been landed, of samples of all petroleum landed or intended to be landed;

(e) to provide, in the case of each consignment which is stated to be of one uniform quality, for the number of samples to be selected, and for the averaging of the results of the testing of those samples;

(f) to provide, where the results of the testing of the samples raise a doubt as to the uniformity of the quality of the petroleum in any such consignment, for the division of the consignment into lots, and for the selection and testing of samples of each lot, and for the treatment of the lot in accordance with the results of the testing of those samples;

(g) to fix fees for the sampling and testing of petroleum; and

(h) to fix fees for the storage of petroleum unless a body of port commissioners or other like body is empowered in that behalf.

The Petroleum Act, 1886.

(Petroleum generally.—Sections 9-14.)

(2) The Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, may, with respect to any petroleum produced within its territories, make rules—

(a) to define the limits of the places where the petroleum is to be refined;

(b) to provide for the testing of the petroleum at or near those places; and

(c) to prevent the removal from those limits, otherwise than under the provisions of this Act applicable to dangerous petroleum, of petroleum which has not satisfied the tests prescribed by the rules.

Procedure after petroleum has been discharged or landed.

9. (1) Petroleum discharged into boats or landed in accordance with rules made under section 8, sub-section (f), shall not be removed from the boats or places in or at which it is stored until the samples selected therefrom in accordance with those rules have been tested by an officer appointed by the Local Government in this behalf in the manner described in the schedule to this Act with an apparatus which has been stamped and certified as provided by this Act, and until the officer has given a certificate that the petroleum is not dangerous petroleum.

(2) If the officer after testing the samples refuses to give the certificate in respect of any petroleum, the Local Government may permit the consignee, within a time to be fixed by the Local Government in this behalf,—

(a) to rectify the petroleum,

(b) to apply for a license to import the petroleum as dangerous petroleum, or

(c) to re-export the petroleum.

(3) If the consignee does not within the time fixed under sub-section (2) avail himself of the permission granted under that sub section, the petroleum may be disposed of as the Local Government directs.

(4) Notwithstanding anything in the foregoing portions of this section, the Local Government in its discretion may, where the officer has refused the certificate, direct that the petroleum be re-tested by another officer appointed by it in this behalf, and may, if that officer advises that the petroleum is not dangerous petroleum, authorise its removal from the boats or places in or at which it is stored.

Possession and transport of petroleum.

10. No quantity of petroleum exceeding five hundred gallons shall be kept by any one person or on the same premises or shall be transported except under, and in accordance with the conditions of, a license granted under this Act.

Power to make rules as to possession and transport.

11. (1) The Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, may make rules consistent with this Act as to the granting of licenses to possess or transport petroleum in cases where such licenses are by law required.

(2) The rules may provide for the following among other matters, that is to say:—

in the case of licenses to possess petroleum—

(a) the nature and situation of the premises for which they may be granted, and

(b) the inspection of the premises and the testing of petroleum found thereon;

in the case of licenses to transport petroleum—

(c) the manner in which the petroleum is to be packed, the mode and time of transit, and the route by which it is to be taken, and in the case of both such licenses—

(d) the stoppage and inspection of it during transit;

(e) the authority by which the license may be granted;

(f) the fee to be charged for it;

(g) the quantity of petroleum it is to cover;

(h) the conditions which may be inserted in it;

(i) the time during which it is to continue in force; and

(j) the renewal of the license.

(3) The Governor General in Council may make rules consistent with this Act as to the granting of licenses to transport petroleum from any part of British India to any other part of British India in cases where such licenses are by law required; and those rules may provide, among other matters, for those mentioned in sub-section (2) as matters for which rules made by a Local Government with respect to licenses to transport petroleum may provide.

Power to inspect and require dealer to sell samples.

12. Any officer specially authorized by name or by virtue of his office in this behalf by the Local Government may require any dealer in petroleum to show him any place and any of the vessels in which any petroleum in his possession is stored or contained, to give him such assistance as he may require for examining the same, and to deliver to him samples of the petroleum on payment of the value of the samples.

Notice to be given when officer proposes to test samples.

13. When any such officer has, in exercise of the powers conferred by section 12, or by purchase, obtained a sample of petroleum in the possession of a dealer, he may give a notice in writing to the dealer informing him that he is about to test the sample or cause it to be tested with the apparatus and in the manner described in the schedule to this Act, at a time and place to be fixed in the notice, and that the dealer or his agent may be present at the testing.

Certificate as to result of testing.

The Petroleum Act, 1886.

(Test-apparatus.—Sections 18-21.) & (Miscellaneous.—Sections 22-26.)

Penalties.

15. Any person who, in contravention of this Act or of any rules made under this Act, imports, possesses or transports any petroleum, and any person who otherwise contravenes any such rules or any condition contained in a license granted under this Act, shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to one month, or with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, or with both.

Penalty for illegal importation, possession or transport of petroleum.

16. Any person keeping, transporting, selling or exposing for sale petroleum in vessels not labelled as prescribed by section 7, shall be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

Penalty for keeping, transporting, selling or exposing for sale petroleum in contravention of section 7.

17. Any dealer in petroleum who refuses or neglects to show to any Officer authorized under section 12 any place or any of the vessels in which petroleum in his possession is stored or contained, or to give him such assistance as he may require for examining the same, or to give him samples of the petroleum on payment of the value of the samples, shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees.

Penalty for refusing to comply with section 12.

18. In any case in which an offence under section 15 or section 16 has been committed, the convicting Magistrate may direct that—

Confiscation of petroleum.

(a) the petroleum in respect of which the offence has been committed, or shall, together with the tins or other vessels in which it is contained, be confiscated.

19. The criminal jurisdiction under this Act shall, in the towns of Calcutta, Madras and Bombay, be exercised by a Presidency Magistrate, and elsewhere by a Magistrate of the first class, or (where specially empowered by the Local Government to try cases under this Act) a Magistrate of the second class.

Jurisdiction.

Test-apparatus.

20. A model of the apparatus for testing petroleum under this Act, constructed in accordance with the description contained in the schedule to this Act, shall be deposited in the office of the Chemical Examiner to Government, Calcutta, and be marked with the words "Model test-apparatus."

Model test-apparatus.

21. (1) The Chemical Examiner shall, on payment of such fee (if any) as the Governor General in Council may, from time to time, by notification in the Gazette of India, prescribe, compare with the said model test-apparatus and verify every apparatus for testing petroleum which is submitted to him for the purpose.

Verification of test-apparatus.

(2) If any apparatus for testing petroleum, when compared and verified as provided by sub-section (1), is found correct, or correct subject to certain corrections to be applied to the results of the tests, the Chemical Examiner shall stamp the same with a special number, and with the date of the verification, and shall further give a certificate in writing under his hand, in a form to be prescribed by the Governor General in Council, to the effect that on the date aforesaid the apparatus was compared and verified by him and found to be correct, or correct subject to certain specified corrections to be applied to the results of the tests.

(3) A certificate granted under this section shall, until the contrary is proved, be conclusive proof of the matters stated therein.

(4) The Chemical Examiner shall keep a register, in a form to be prescribed by the Governor General in Council, of the certificates granted under this section.

(5) Subject to the payment of such fees as the Governor General in Council may, by notification in the Gazette of India, prescribe in this behalf, the said model test-apparatus shall be at all reasonable times open to inspection by any person desiring to inspect it.

Miscellaneous.

22. The Local Government may, from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, exempt from the operation of all or any of the provisions of this Act, or of all or any of the rules made under this Act, any petroleum which has its flashing point at or above one hundred and twenty degrees of Fahrenheit's thermometer and is imported as ordinary cargo and in quantity not exceeding that specified in the notification.

Power to Local Government to exempt petroleum from operation of this Act.

23. The Governor General in Council may, from time to time, by notification in the Gazette of India, apply the whole or any portion of this Act to any inflammable fluid other than petroleum, and may by the notification fix, in substitution for the quantities of petroleum fixed by sections 5, 6 and 10, the quantities of the fluid to which those sections shall apply.

Power to apply this Act to other fluids.

24. The Governor General in Council may, from time to time, by notification in the Gazette of India and in the local official Gazette, limit, in any manner he deems fit, the operation of any enactment for the time being in force relating to municipalities in any local area or to any particular municipality, and the exercise of any power conferred by any such enactment, in so far as the enactment relates to the possession or transport of petroleum.

Power to limit operation of enactments relating to municipalities.

25. A notification made under this Act may be revoked or varied by the authority making it by a notification published in the same manner as the notification so revoked or varied.

Power to revoke or vary notifications.

26. (1) An authority making rules under this Act shall, before making the rules, publish a draft of the proposed rules for the information of persons likely to be affected thereby.

Procedure for making and publication of rules.

(2) The publication shall be made in such manner as the Governor General in Council, from time to time, by notification in the Gazette of India, prescribes.

The Petroleum Act, 1886.

(The Schedule.)

(3) There shall be published with the draft a notice specifying a date at or after which the draft will be taken in consideration.

(4) The authority making the rules shall receive and consider any objection or suggestion which may be made by any person with respect to the draft before the date so specified.

(5) A rule made under this Act shall not take effect if it is made by the Governor General in Council until it has been published in the Gazette of India, and if it is made by the Local Government until it has been published in the local official Gazette.

(6) The publication in the Gazette of a rule purporting to be made under this Act shall be conclusive proof that it has been duly made.

(7) All powers to make rules conferred by this Act may be exercised from time to time as occasion requires.

THE SCHEDULE.

I.—Nature of the Test-apparatus.

The apparatus consists of the following parts :—

(1) the oil-cup ;

(2) the cover, with slide, test-lamp, and clockwork arrangement for opening and closing the holes in the cover and for dipping the test-flame ;

(3) the water-bath or heating vessel ;

(4) the tripod stand, with jacket and spirit-lamp for heating the water-bath ;

(5) the thermometer for indicating the temperature of the oil in the oil-cup ;

(6) the thermometer for indicating the temperature of the water in the water-bath ;

(7) the thermometer for indicating the temperature of the oil before it is poured into the oil-cup ;

(8) the dropping bottle or pipette for replenishing the test-lamp ; and

(9) a barometer standardised at the Meteorological Office of the province or at any other place appointed by the Local Government.

The oil-cup is a cylindrical flat-bottomed vessel, made of gun-metal or brass, and tinned or silvered inside. A gauge is fixed to the inside of the cup to regulate the height to which it is to be filled with the sample under examination.

The cup is provided with a close fitting overlapping cover, which carries the thermometer, the test-lamp and the adjuncts thereto. The test-lamp is suspended upon two supports by means of trunnions, which allow it to be easily inclined to a particular angle and restored to its original position. The socket in the cover, which is to hold a round bulb thermometer for indicating the temperature of the oil during the testing operation, is so adjusted that the bulb of the latter is always inserted in a definite position below the surface of the liquid.

The cover is provided with three holes, one in the centre and two smaller ones close to the sides. These are closed and opened by means of a pivoted slide. When the slide is moved so as to uncover the holes, the suspended lamp is caught by a projection fixed on the slide, and tilted in such a way as to bring the end of the spout just below the surface of the lid. As the slide moves back so as to cover the holes, the lamp returns to its original position. Upon the cover, in front of and in a line with the nozzle of the lamp, is fixed a white bead, the diameter of which represents the size of the test-flame to be used.

The water-bath or heating vessel is so constructed that, when the oil-cup is placed in position in it, an air-space or air-chamber intervenes between the two ; consequently, in applying the test under ordinary circumstances, the heat is transmitted gradually to the oil from the hot water through the air-space. The water-bath is fitted with a socket for receiving a long bulb thermometer, to indicate the temperature of the water. It is also provided with a funnel, an overflow-pipe and two handles.

The water-bath rests upon a tripod stand, which is fitted with a copper cylinder or jacket, so that the bath is surrounded by an enclosed air-space, which retains and regulates the heat. One of the legs of the stand serves as a support for a spirit-lamp, which is attached to it by a small swing bracket.

The clockwork arrangement, by which during the operation of testing the slide is withdrawn, and the test-flame dipped into the cup and raised again as the slide is replaced, is provided with a ratchet key for setting it in action for each test, and with a trigger for starting it each time that the test-flame is applied.

II.—Directions for drawing the Sample and preparing it for Testing.

1. Drawing the sample.—In all cases the testing officer or some person duly authorised by him shall personally superintend the drawing of the sample from an original unopened tin or other vessel.

An opening sufficiently large to admit of the oil being rapidly poured or syphoned from the tin or other vessel shall be made.

Two bottles, each of the capacity of about 40 fluid ounces, are to be filled with the oil. One of these, the contents of which is intended to be preserved for reference in case of need, is to be carefully corked, the cork being well driven home,

The Petroleum Act, 1886.

cut off level with the neck, and melted sealing-wax worked into it. The other bottle may be either stoppered or corked.

2. Preparing the sample for testing.—About ten fluid ounces of the oil, sufficient for three tests, are transferred from the bottle into which the sample has been drawn to a pint flask or bottle, which is to be immersed in water artificially cooled until a thermometer, introduced into the oil, indicates a temperature not exceeding 50° Fahrenheit.

III.—Directions for preparing and using the Test-apparatus.

1. Preparing the water-bath.—The water-bath is filled by pouring water into the funnel until it begins to flow out at the overflow-pipe. The temperature of the water at the commencement of each test, as indicated by the long bulb thermometer, is to be 130° Fahrenheit, and this is attained in the first instance by mixing hot and cold water, either in the bath or in a vessel from which the bath is filled, until the thermometer which is provided for testing the temperature of the water gives the proper indication; or the water is heated by means of the spirit-lamp (which is attached to the stand of the apparatus) until the required temperature is indicated.

2. Preparing the test-lamp.—The test-lamp is fitted with a piece of cylindrical wick of such thickness that it fills the wick-holder, but may readily be moved to and fro for the purpose of adjusting the size of the flame. In the body of the lamp, upon the wick, which is coiled within it, is placed a small tuft of cotton wool, moistened with petroleum, any oil not absorbed by the wool being removed. When the lamp has been lighted, the wick is adjusted by means of a pair of forceps until the flame is of the size of the bead fixed on the cover of the oil-cup; should a particular test occupy so long a time that the flame begins to get smaller, through the supply of oil in the lamp becoming exhausted, three or four drops of petroleum are allowed to fall upon the tuft of wool in the lamp from the dropping bottle or pipette provided for that purpose. This can be safely done without interrupting the test.

3. Filling the oil-cup.—The oil-cup having been previously cooled, by placing it bottom downwards in water at a temperature not exceeding 50° Fahrenheit, is to be rapidly wiped dry, placed on a level surface in a good light, and the oil to be tested is poured in very slowly, without splashing, until its surface is level with the point of the gauge which is fixed in the cup. The round bulb thermometer is inserted into the lid of the cup, care being taken that the projecting rim of the collar touches the edge of the socket; the test-lamp, prepared as already described, is placed in position, and the cover is then put on to the cup and pressed down so that its edge rests on the rim of the cup.

4. Application of the test.—The water-bath, with its thermometer in position, is placed in some locality where it is not exposed to currents of air, and where the light is sufficiently subdued to admit of the size of the entire test-flame being compared with that of the bead on the cover. The cup is carefully lifted without shaking it, and placed in the bath, the test-lamp is lighted, and the clockwork wound up by turning the key. The thermometer in the oil-cup is now watched, and when the temperature has reached 56° Fahrenheit the clockwork is set in motion by pressing the trigger.

If no flash takes place the clockwork is at once re-wound, and the trigger pressed at 57° Fahrenheit, and so on, at every degree rise of temperature, until the flash occurs, or until a temperature of 95° Fahrenheit has been reached.

If the flash takes place at any temperature below 77° Fahrenheit the temperature at which it occurs is to be recorded. The fresh portions of the sample are then to be successively tested in a similar manner and the results recorded. If no greater difference than 2° Fahrenheit exists between any two of the three recorded results, each result is to be corrected for atmospheric pressure, as hereafter described, and the average of the three corrected results is the flashing point of the sample. In the event of there being a greater difference than 2° Fahrenheit between any two of the results, the series of tests is to be rejected and a fresh series, of three, similarly obtained, and so on until a sufficiently concordant series is furnished, when the results are to be corrected and the average taken in the manner already described.

No flash which takes place within eight degrees of the temperature at which the testing is commenced shall be accepted as the true flashing point of the sample tested. In the event of a flash occurring at or below 64° when the test is applied in the manner above described, the next testing shall be commenced ten degrees lower than the temperature at which the flash had been previously obtained (that is to say, at 54° or thereunder), and this procedure shall be continued until the results of three consecutive tests do not show a greater difference than 2°.

If a temperature of 76° Fahrenheit has been reached without a flash occurring, the application of the test-flame is to be continued at every degree rise of temperature until a temperature of 95° Fahrenheit has been reached. If no flash has occurred up to this point, and if the petroleum is declared to be imported subject to the provisions of the Act, the tests shall not be continued, and the testing officer shall certify that the petroleum has a flashing point over 95° and is not dangerous. But if the petroleum is oil ordinarily used for lubricating purposes and is declared to have its flashing point at or above 200° degrees, or is oil to which a notification of the Local Government exempting it from the operation of the Act will be applicable in the event of the flashing point being found to be at or above 120°, the test shall be continued as follows:—The oil-cup is to be removed from the water-bath, and the temperature of the water in the water-bath is to be reduced to 95° Fahrenheit by pouring cold water into the funnel (the hot water escaping by the overflow-pipe). The air-chamber is then to be filled to a depth of 1½ inches with water at a temperature of about 95° Fahrenheit, the oil-cup is to be replaced in the water-bath and the spirit-lamp attached to the water-bath is to be lighted and placed underneath. The test-flame is then to be again applied, from 96° Fahrenheit, at every degree rise of temperature as indicated by the thermometer in the oil-cup until a flash takes place or until a temperature of 200° Fahrenheit or 120° Fahrenheit, as the case may be, has been reached. If during this operation the test-flame appears to diminish in size, the lamp is to be replenished in the manner prescribed at (2) without interrupting the test.

The Petroleum Act, 1886.

If a flash occurs at any temperature between 76° and 200° Fahrenheit, the temperature at which it occurs, subject to correction for atmospheric pressure, is the flashing point of the sample.

In repeating a test a fresh sample of oil must always be used, the tested sample being thrown away, and the cup must be wiped dry from any adhering oil and cooled, as already described, before receiving the fresh sample.

5. Correction for atmospheric pressure.—As the flashing point of an oil is influenced by changes in atmospheric pressure to an average extent of 1·6° Fahrenheit for every inch of the barometer, a correction of the observed flashing point may become necessary. The height of the barometer must therefore be determined at the time of making the test for the flashing point. The true height of the barometer for the purpose of the test shall be considered to be the height of the column of mercury measured at 32° Fahrenheit, which is supported by the air pressure at the time of the experiment; that is, the actual height of the barometer at the time of observation duly corrected for any error of the instrument and for its temperature if necessary. For the purpose of applying the correction to the flashing point of the oil obtained by the test, a table is appended to this schedule, giving the flashing points of oils ranging from 65° to 80° Fahrenheit, under pressure ranging from 27 to 31 inches of mercury.

The table is used in the following manner:—

Example.—An oil has given a flashing point of 71°, the barometer being at 28·6 inches; take the nearest number to 71° in the vertical column headed 28·6. This number is 70·8. Substitute for this the number in the same horizontal line in the column headed 30 (the normal height of the barometer). The substituted number, that is, the true flashing point of the oil, is 73°.

S. HARVEY, JAMES,
Offg. Secretary to the Government of India.

The following Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend the Petroleum Act, 1881, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 5th March, 1886 :—

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

WE, the undersigned, Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to amend the Petroleum Act, 1881, was referred, have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin, and have now the honour to submit this our Report.

From Officiating Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Assam, No. 599, dated 14th April, 1885 [Paper No. 1].
From Secretary for Berar to Resident, Hyderabad, No. 176G., dated 18th May, 1885 [Paper No. 2].
From Chief Commissioner, Ajmer-Merwára, No. 644, dated 17th June, 1885 [Paper No. 3].
From Secretary to Chief Commissioner, British Burma, No. 388—2M., dated 16th June, 1885, and enclosures [Papers No. 4].
From Registrar, High Court, Calcutta, No. 1885, dated 23rd June, 1885 [Paper No. 5].
From Chief Secretary to Government, Madras, No. 1606, dated 17th June, 1885, and enclosures [Papers No. 6].
From Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Coorg, No. 543—63, dated 26th June, 1885 [Paper No. 7].
From Secretary to Government, North-Western Provinces and Oudh, No. 1148—VI-190-15, dated 29th June, 1885 [Paper No. 8].
From Officiating Secretary to Government, Punjab, No. 610S., dated 8th July, 1885, and enclosures [Papers No. 9].
From Under-Secretary to Government, Bombay, No. 2501, dated 6th July, 1885, and enclosures [Papers No. 10].
From Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India, No. 65, dated 18th June, 1885, and enclosure [Papers No. 11].
From Officiating Secretary to Government, Bengal, No. 827T.—M., dated 2nd July, 1885, and enclosures [Papers No. 12].
From Assistant Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Central Provinces, No. 2653—83, dated 11th July, 1885 [Paper No. 13].
From Secretary to Government, North-Western Provinces and Oudh, No. 1541—VI-190-22, dated 27th August, 1885, and enclosure [Papers No. 14].

2. On the general question of standards and the definition of dangerous petroleum, we adhere to the scheme laid down in section 3 of the Bill. But Dr. Warden and Mr. Pedler suggest that the lowest standard for lubricating oils (the attainment of which would exempt them from the operation of the Act) should be fixed at 200° instead of 250° as in the present Act. It is, they explain, practically impossible with the Abel apparatus to test up to 250°. They consider the limit of 150°, which is proposed in some of the papers, too low for this country, and believe 200° would meet all reasonable requirements. In this view we concur. We are also of opinion that Local Governments should be empowered to exempt from the operation of the Act and rules oil certified to be over 120° when imported as ordinary cargo and in limited quantities.

3. We consider that section 4 of the Bill should be omitted. Messrs. Warden and Pedler point out that the drawback of the fragility of glass for carriage is frequently more than counterbalanced by its impermeability. It is very difficult in this country to get tin or metal vessels made which shall be thoroughly impervious to highly volatile oil.

4. It is suggested by the Bombay Government and other authorities that it should be made clear that conveyance by sea from one part of British India to another is "transport" and not "import" within the meaning of the Act. We are of opinion that some discretion in the matter should be left to the Local Governments. It would be unsafe, for instance, at present to admit freely to Calcutta oil brought up from Burma. Experience has shown that in Burma refining is not yet thoroughly understood, and the local testing is not at present very trustworthy. The Local Governments in India should have power to treat such oil as foreign oil until its quality generally improves. On the other hand, there is no reason why foreign oil once properly tested should be re-tested on arrival at a second port. We have taken power for the Local Governments of territories, such as Burma and Assam, in which oil is or is likely to be produced, to appoint testing officers at or near refineries, and to prevent the removal from the refineries of oil which does not satisfy the tests otherwise than under the regulations for the control of dangeous petroleum.

5. Turning now to the question of the method of sampling cargoes, we concur with the Bombay Government and other authorities in thinking that it should be open to the Local Government by rule to provide for sampling either before or after landing; to prescribe the number of samples to be taken from a cargo or consignment or any part thereof; to provide, when the first test is unsatisfactory, or when doubt is felt as to the uniformity of quality in the cargo, for the landing and sorting of the cargo in lots, or its delivery into boats, each of a certain capacity; and for the sampling of each lot or boat-load, and its ultimate treatment in accordance with the results of the test in each case.

When a doubtful cargo has to be landed and stacked, substantial fees should be levied, as much additional work is thrown upon Government officers.

6. With reference to the objections taken by some Bombay officers to the provisions of the schedule requiring that the sample tin should be tapped in presence of the testing officer, we observe that Messrs. Warden and Pedler both attach importance to this, as all manipulation and airing of the oil tends to raise its flashing point, and the drawing of oil for testing purposes should in any case be under the control of a responsible officer of the testing department. They consider that in most cases the selection of one case from a cargo of oil certified before arrival to be ordinary petroleum is sufficient, if care is taken to get the sample from below, and thus to defeat any attempt at "facing" the cargo. The number of samples taken at Bombay appears to be unduly large, and has given rise to the objection that to convey them to the Chemical Examiner's laboratory would be an arduous task. We have so amended the Schedule, Part II, paragraph 1, as to provide that the testing officer or some person duly authorized by him shall superintend the drawing of the sample.

7. In revising the Bill we have had regard to the practice which obtains in Bombay of allowing delivery into cargo-boats pending the result of testing, and to the suggestion of the Bengal Government that the Local Government should have the power in special cases to order further tests in such manner as it may deem expedient.

8. As regards the suggestion of the Bombay Government that a second standard apparatus should be maintained at Bombay, it appears to us to be highly important to secure uniformity in the tests throughout India. To this end there should be but one absolute and ultimate standard, and this can most conveniently be maintained in Calcutta.

9. We are of opinion that the Chemical Examiner should stamp any apparatus sent to him not only with a special number but also with the date of his verification of the apparatus, and further that he should give a certificate in writing under his hand, in a form to be laid down by the Governor General in Council, to the effect that the apparatus has been compared and verified by him on a given date and been found to be correct, or correct subject to certain specified corrections to be applied to the results of tests.

10. The Chemical Examiner should also keep a register of verifications.

11. Messrs. Warden and Pedler suggest that in the Schedule, Part I, provision be made for "a barometer standardised at the Meteorological Office of the province, or at any other place appointed by the Local Government." We have accepted the suggestion.

12. With respect to the changes in the Schedule, Part III, proposed by Dr. Lyon, Messrs. Warden and Pedler are inclined to hold that Sir F. Abel has in a paper before us sufficiently met Dr. Lyon's difficulty, and they believe that in practice no difficulty is likely to arise of the kind Dr. Lyon puts forward. They have, however, suggested, and we have acted on the suggestion, that all possible objection would be removed if it were provided that no flashing point obtained should be accepted unless it be at least 8° above the temperature at which the testing commenced.

13. Messrs. Warden and Pedler are of opinion that it is unnecessary in the case of ordinary petroleum to continue the tests when no flash has been obtained up to 95° Fahrenheit. It is only in the case of petroleum for which exemption from the Act is claimed that the test need be continued in the manner laid down in the fourth paragraph of the rules for "application of the test". We have modified that paragraph accordingly.

14. In the Schedule, Part III, paragraph 5, we have pointed out that the height of the barometer must be determined at the time of making the test for the flashing point.

15. We are advised not to accept the suggestion made from Burma to adopt Hewmann's apparatus in preference to Abel's.

16. We have had regard to the remarks of the Bombay Government with reference to the repeal of the municipal laws affecting petroleum, and to giving power to Port Trusts to regulate their own fees for the storage of petroleum.

17. Having thus amended the Bill we have deemed it advisable to consolidate it and the Petroleum Act of 1881, and, in doing so, have taken the opportunity (a) to enhance the penalty for keeping, transporting, selling or exposing for sale dangerous petroleum in contravention of the Act, and (b) to empower the Governor General in Council to make rules as to the transport of petroleum from any part of British India to any other part.

18. The other alterations we have made in consolidating the Bill and the Act are few and unimportant and do not call for notice.

SECTIONS.
29. Addition of new section after section 18, Act III of 1872.
30. Amendment of the Indian Christian Marriage Act, 1872.
31. Addition of new section after section 8 of the Parsi Marriage and Divorce Act, 1865.

CHAPTER V.

SPECIAL PROVISIONS AS TO CERTAIN EXISTING REGISTERS.

32. Permission to persons having custody of certain records to send them within one year to Registrar General.
33. Appointment of Commissioners to examine registers.
34. Duties of Commissioners.
35. Searches of lists prepared by Commissioners and grant of certified copies of entries.

CHAPTER VI.

RULES.

36. Power for Governor General in Council to make rules.
37. Procedure for making and publication of rules.

An Act to provide for the voluntary Registration of certain Births and Deaths, for the establishment of General Registry Offices for keeping Registers of certain Births, Deaths and Marriages, and for certain other purposes.

WHEREAS it is expedient to provide for the voluntary registration of births and deaths among certain classes of persons, for the more effectual registration of those births and deaths and of the marriages registered under Act III of 1872 or the Indian Christian Marriage Act, 1872, and of certain marriages registered under the Parsi Marriage and Divorce Act, 1865, and for the establishment of general registry offices for keeping registers of those births, deaths and marriages; XV of 1872. XV of 1865.

And whereas it is also expedient to provide for the authentication and custody of certain existing registers made otherwise than in the performance of a duty specially enjoined by the law of the country in which the registers were kept, and to declare that copies of the entries in those registers shall be admissible in evidence;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

Short title and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Births, Deaths and Marriages Registration Act, 1886; and

(2) It shall come into force on such day as the Governor General in Council, by notification in the Gazette of India, directs.

(3) Any power conferred by this Act to make rules or to issue orders may be exercised at any time after the passing of this Act; but a rule or order so made or issued shall not take effect until the Act comes into force.

Local extent.

2. This Act extends to the whole of British India, and applies also, within the dominions of Princes and States in India in alliance with Her Majesty, to British subjects in those dominions.

Definitions.

3. In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context,—

"sign" includes mark, when the person making the mark is unable to write his name:

"prescribed" means prescribed by a rule made by the Governor General in Council under this Act: and

"Registrar of Births and Deaths" means a Registrar of Births and Deaths appointed under this Act.

Saving of local laws.

4. Nothing in this Act, or in any rule made under this Act, shall affect any law heretofore or hereafter passed providing for the registration of births and deaths within particular local areas.

Powers exercisable from time to time.

5. All powers conferred by this Act may be exercised from time to time as occasion requires.

CHAPTER II.

GENERAL REGISTRY OFFICES OF BIRTHS, DEATHS AND MARRIAGES.

Establishment of general registry offices and appointment of Registrars General.

6. (1) Each Local Government—

(a) shall establish a general registry office for keeping such certified copies of registers of births and deaths registered under this Act, or marriages registered under Act III of 1872 (to provide a form of marriage in certain cases) or the Indian Christian Marriage Act, 1872, or, beyond the local limits of the ordinary original civil jurisdiction of the High Court of Judicature at Bombay, under the Parsi Marriage and Divorce Act, 1865, as may be sent to it under this Act, or under any of the three last-mentioned Acts, as amended by this Act; and XV of 1872. XV of 1865.

(b) may appoint to the charge of that office an officer, to be called the Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages, for the territories under its administration:

(2) Provided that the Governor of Bombay in Council may, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, establish two general registry offices and appoint two Registrars General of Births, Deaths and Marriages for the territories under his administration; one of such general registry offices and of such Registrars General being established and appointed for Sindh and the other for the other territories under the administration of the Governor of Bombay in Council.

Indexes to be kept at general registry office.

7. Each Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages shall cause indexes of all the certified copies of registers sent to his office under this Act, or under Act III of 1872, the Indian Christian Marriage Act, 1872, or the Parsi Marriage and Divorce Act, 1865, as amended by this Act, to be made and kept in his office in the prescribed form. XV of 1872. XV of 1865.

Indexes to be open to inspection.

8. Subject to the payment of the prescribed fees, the indexes so made shall be at all reasonable times open to inspection by any person applying to inspect them, and copies of entries in the certified copies of the registers to which the indexes relate shall be given to all persons applying for them.

The Births, Deaths and Marriages Registration Act, 1886.

Copies of entries to be admissible in evidence.

9. A copy of an entry given under the last foregoing section shall be certified by the Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages, or by an officer authorised in this behalf by the Local Government, and shall be admissible in evidence for the purpose of proving the birth, death or marriage to which the entry relates.

Superintendence of Registrars by Registrar General.

10. Each Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages shall exercise a general superintendence over the Registrars of Births and Deaths in the territories for which he is appointed.

CHAPTER III.

REGISTRATION OF BIRTHS AND DEATHS.

A.—Application of this Chapter.

Persons whose births and deaths are registrable.

11. (1) The persons whose births and deaths shall, in the first instance, be registrable under this chapter are the following, namely:—

(a) in British India, the members of every race, sect or tribe to which the Indian Succession Act, 1865, applies, and in respect of which an order under section 332 of that Act is not for the time being in force, and all persons professing the Christian religion; X of 1865.

(b) in the dominions of Princes and States in India in alliance with Her Majesty, British subjects being members of a like race, sect or tribe, or professing the Christian religion:

(2) But the Local Government, by notification in the official Gazette, may, with the previous approval of the Governor General in Council, extend the operation of this chapter to any other class of persons either generally or in any local area.

B.—Registration Establishment.

Power for Local Government to appoint Registrars for its territories.

12. The Local Government may appoint, either by name or by virtue of their office, so many persons as it thinks necessary to be Registrars of Births and Deaths for such local areas within the territories under its administration as it may define and, if it sees fit, for any class of persons within any part of those territories.

Power for Governor General in Council to appoint Registrars for Native States.

13. The Governor General in Council may, by notification in the Gazette of India, appoint, either by name or by virtue of their office, so many persons as he thinks necessary to be Registrars of Births and Deaths for such local areas within the dominions of any Prince or State in India in alliance with Her Majesty as he may define and, if he sees fit, for any class of persons within any part of those dominions.

Registrar to be deemed a public servant.

14. Every Registrar of Births and Deaths shall be deemed to be a public servant within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code. XLV of 1860.

Power to remove Registrars.

15. (1) The Local Government or the Governor General in Council, as the case may be, may suspend, remove or dismiss any Registrar of Births and Deaths.

(2) A Registrar of Births and Deaths may resign by notifying in writing to the Local Government or to the Governor General in Council, as the case may be, his intention to do so, and, on his resignation being accepted by the Local Government or the Governor General in Council, he shall be deemed to have vacated his office.

Office and attendance of Registrar.

16. (1) Every Registrar of Births and Deaths shall have an office in the local area, or within the part of the territories or dominions, for which he is appointed.

(2) Every Registrar of Births and Deaths to whom the Local Government may direct this subsection to apply shall attend at his office for the purpose of registering births and deaths on such days and at such hours as the Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages may direct, and shall cause to be placed in some conspicuous place on or near the outer door of his office his name, with the addition of Registrar of Births and Deaths for the local area or class for which he is appointed, and the days and hours of his attendance.

Absence of Registrar or vacancy in his office.

17. (1) When any Registrar of Births and Deaths to whom the Local Government may direct this section to apply, not being a Registrar of Births and Deaths for a local area in the town of Calcutta, Madras or Bombay, is absent, or when his office is temporarily vacant, any person whom the Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages appoints in this behalf, or, in default of such appointment, the Judge of the District Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the Registrar's office is situate, or such other officer as the Local Government appoints in this behalf, shall be the Registrar of Births and Deaths during such absence or until the Local Government fills the vacancy.

(2) When any such Registrar of Births and Deaths for a local area in the town of Calcutta, Madras or Bombay is absent, or when his office is temporarily vacant, any person whom the Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages appoints in this behalf shall be the Registrar of Births and Deaths during such absence or until the Local Government fills the vacancy.

The Births, Deaths and Marriages Registration Act, 1886.

(Chapter III.—Registration of Births and Deaths.—Sections 18-24.)

(3) The Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages shall report to the Local Government all appointments made by him under this section.

Register books to be supplied and preservation of records to be provided for.

18. The Local Government shall supply every Registrar of Births and Deaths with a sufficient number of register books of births and of register books of deaths, and shall make suitable provision for the preservation of the records connected with the registration of births and deaths.

C.—Mode of Registration.

Duty of Registrar to register births and deaths of which notice is given.

19. Every Registrar of Births and Deaths, on receipt of notice of a birth or death within the local area or among the class for which he is appointed, shall, if the notice is given within the prescribed time and in the prescribed mode by a person authorized by this Act to give the notice, forthwith make an entry of the birth or death in the proper register book:

Provided that—

(b) he shall not enter in the register the name of any person as father of an illegitimate child, unless at the request of the mother and of the person acknowledging himself to be the father of the child.

Persons authorized to give notice of birth.

20. Any of the following persons may give notice of a birth, namely:—

(a) the father or mother of the child;

(b) any person present at the birth;

(c) any person occupying, at the time of the birth, any part of the house wherein the child was born and having knowledge of the child having been born in the house;

(d) any medical practitioner in attendance after the birth and having personal knowledge of the birth having occurred;

(e) any person having charge of the child.

Persons authorized to give notice of death.

21. Any of the following persons may give notice of a death, namely:—

(a) any relative of the deceased having knowledge of any of the particulars required to be registered concerning the death;

(b) any person present at the death;

(c) any person occupying, at the time of the death, any part of the house wherein the death occurred and having knowledge of the deceased having died in the house;

(d) any person in attendance during the last illness of the deceased;

(e) any person who has seen the body of the deceased after death.

Entry of birth or death to be signed by person giving notice.

22. (1) When an entry of a birth or death has been made by the Registrar of Births and Deaths under section 19, the person giving notice of the birth or death must sign the entry in the register in the presence of the Registrar.

(2) Until the entry has been so signed, the birth or death shall not be deemed to be registered under this Act.

(3) When the birth of an illegitimate child is registered, and the mother and the person acknowledging himself to be the father of the child jointly request that that person may be registered as the father, the mother and that person must both sign the entry in the register in the presence of the Registrar.

Grant of certificate of registration of birth or death.

23. The Registrar of Births and Deaths shall, on application made at the time of registering any birth or death by the person giving notice of the birth or death, and on payment by him of the prescribed fee, give to the applicant a certificate in the prescribed form, signed by the Registrar, of having registered the birth or death.

Duty of Registrars as to sending certified copies of entries in register books to Registrar General.

24. (1) Every Registrar of Births and Deaths in British India shall send to the Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages for the territories within which the local area or class for which he is appointed is situate or resides, at the prescribed intervals, a true copy certified by him, in the prescribed form, of all the entries of births and deaths in the register book kept by him since the last of those intervals

Provided that in the case of Registrars of Births and Deaths who are clergymen of the Churches of England, Rome and Scotland the Registrar may, if so directed by his ecclesiastical superior, send the certified copies in the first instance to that superior, who shall send them to the proper Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages.

In this sub-section "Church of England" and "Church of Scotland" mean the Church of England and the Church of Scotland as by law established respectively; and "Church of Rome" means the Church which regards the Pope of Rome as its spiritual head.

The Births, Deaths and Marriages Registration Act, 1886.

(Chapter III.—Registration of Births and Deaths.—Sections 25-32.)

(2) The provisions of sub-section (1) shall apply to every Registrar of Births and Deaths in the dominions of any Prince or State in India in alliance with Her Majesty, with this modification that the certified copies referred to in that sub-section shall be sent to such one of the Registrars General of Births, Deaths and Marriages as the Governor General in Council, by notification in the Gazette of India, appoints in this behalf.

Searches and copies of entries in register books.

25. (1) Every Registrar of Births and Deaths shall, on payment of the prescribed fees, at all reasonable times, allow searches to be made in the register books kept by him, and give a copy of any entry in the same.

(2) Every copy of an entry in a register book given under this section shall be certified by the Registrar of Births and Deaths, and shall be admissible in evidence for the purpose of proving the birth or death to which the entry relates.

Exceptional provision for registration of certain births and deaths.

26. Notwithstanding anything in section 19, the Governor General in Council may make rules authorizing Registrars of Births and Deaths, on conditions and in circumstances to be specified in the rules, to register births and deaths occurring outside the local areas or classes for which they are appointed.

D.—Penalty for False Information.

Penalty for wilfully giving false information.

27. If any person wilfully makes, or causes to be made, for the purpose of being inserted in any register of births or deaths, any false statement in connection with any notice of a birth or death under this Act, he shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three years, or with fine, or with both.

E.—Correction of Errors.

Correction of entry in register of births or deaths.

28. (1) If it is proved to the satisfaction of a Registrar of Births and Deaths that any entry of a birth or death in any register kept by him under this Act is erroneous in form or substance, he may, subject to such rules as may be made by the Governor General in Council with respect to the conditions and circumstances on and in which errors may be corrected, correct the error by entry in the margin, without any alteration of the original entry, and shall sign the marginal entry and add thereto the date of the correction.

(2) If a certified copy of the entry has already been sent to the Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages, the Registrar of Births and Deaths shall make and send a separate certified copy of the original erroneous entry and of the marginal correction therein made.

CHAPTER IV.

AMENDMENT OF MARRIAGE ACTS.

Addition of new section after section 13, Act III of 1872.

29. After section 13 of Act III of 1872 (to provide a form of marriage in certain cases) the following section shall be inserted, namely:—

"13A. The Registrar shall send to the Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages for the territories within which his district is situate, at such intervals as the Governor General in Council, from time to time, directs, a true copy certified by him, in such form as the Governor General in Council, from time to time, prescribes, of all entries made by him in the said marriage-certificate book since the last of such intervals."

Transmission of certified copies of entries in marriage-certificate book to the Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages.

Amendment of the Indian Christian Marriage Act, 1872.

30. In the Indian Christian Marriage Act, 1872, the following amendments shall be made, namely:— XV of 1872.

(a) at the end of section 3, the words "'Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages' means a Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages appointed under the Births, Deaths and Marriages Registration Act, 1886," shall be added;

(b) for the words "Secretary to the Local Government", wherever they occur, and for the words "Secretary to a Local Government" in section 79, the words "Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages" shall be substituted;

(c) for the words "at such places as the Local Government directs" in section 62 the words "in the office of the Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages for the territories of the Local Government by which the person who keeps the register book was licensed" shall be substituted; and

(d) in section 81, after the words "Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages" the words "in England" shall be added.

Addition of new section after section 8 of the Parsi Marriage and Divorce Act, 1865.

31. After section 8 of the Parsi Marriage and Divorce Act, 1865, the following section shall be inserted, namely:— XV of 1865.

"8A. Every Registrar, except the Registrar appointed by the Chief Justice of the High Court of Judicature at Bombay, shall, at such intervals as the Governor General in Council from time to time directs, send to the Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages for the territories administered by the Local Government by which he was appointed a true copy certified by him, in such form as the Governor General, from time to time, prescribes, of all certificates entered by him in the said register of marriages since the last of such intervals."

Transmission of certified copies of certificates in marriage-register to Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages.

CHAPTER V.

SPECIAL PROVISIONS AS TO CERTAIN EXISTING REGISTERS.

Permission to persons having custody of certain records to send them within one year to Registrar General.

32. If any person in British India, or in the dominions of any Prince or State in India in alliance with Her Majesty, has for the time being the custody of any register or record of birth, baptism, naming, dedication, death or burial of any persons of the classes referred to in section 11, sub-section (1), or of any register or record of marriage of any persons of the classes to which Act III of 1872 or the Indian Christian Marriage Act, 1872, or the Parsi Marriage and Divorce Act, 1865, applies, and if such register or record has been made otherwise than in performance of a duty specially enjoined by the law of the country in which the register or record was kept, he may, within one year from the date on which this Act comes into force, send the register or record to the office of the Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages for the territories within which he resides, or, if he resides within the dominions of any such Prince or State as aforesaid, to such one of the Registrars General as aforesaid as the Governor General in Council, by notification in the Gazette of India, directs in this behalf.

The Births, Deaths and Marriages Registration Act, 1886.

(Chapter V.—Special Provisions as to certain existing Registers.—Sections 33-37.)

XV of 1865.

33. (1) The Governor General in Council may appoint so many persons as he thinks fit to be Commissioners for examining the registers or records sent to the Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages under the last foregoing section.

Appointment of Commissioners to examine registers.

(2) The Commissioners so appointed shall hold office for such period as the Governor General in Council, by the order of appointment, or any subsequent order, directs.

34. (1) The Commissioners appointed under the last foregoing section shall enquire into the state, custody and authenticity of every such register or record as may be sent to the Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages under section 32;

Duties of Commissioners.

and shall deliver to the Registrar General a descriptive list or descriptive lists of all such registers or records, or portions of registers or records, as they find to be accurate and faithful.

(2) The list or lists shall contain the prescribed particulars and refer to the registers or records, or to the portions of the registers or records, in the prescribed manner.

(3) The Commissioners shall also certify in writing, upon some part of every separate book or volume containing any such register or record, or portion of a register or record, as is referred to in any list or lists made by the Commissioners, that it is one of the registers or records, or portions of registers or records, referred to in the said list or lists.

35. (1) Subject to the payment of the prescribed fees, the descriptive list or lists of registers or records, or portions of registers or records, delivered by the Commissioners to the Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages shall be, at all reasonable times, open to inspection by any person applying to inspect it or them, and copies of entries in those registers or records shall be given to all persons applying for them.

Searches of lists prepared by Commissioners and grant of certified copies of entries.

(2) A copy of an entry given under this section shall be certified by the Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages, or by an officer or person authorized in this behalf by the Local Government, and shall be admissible in evidence for the purpose of proving the birth, baptism, naming, dedication, death, burial or marriage to which the entry relates.

CHAPTER VI.

RULES.

36. In addition to any other power to make rules impliedly or expressly conferred by this Act, the Governor General in Council may make rules—

Power for Governor General in Council to make rules.

(a) to fix the fees payable under this Act;

(b) to prescribe the forms required for the purposes of this Act;

(c) to prescribe the time within which, and the mode in which, persons authorized under this Act to give notice of a birth or death to a Registrar of Births and Deaths must give the notice;

(d) to prescribe the registers to be kept and the form and manner in which Registrars of Births and Deaths are to register births and deaths under this Act, and the intervals at which they are to send to the Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages true copies of the entries of births and deaths in the registers kept by them;

(e) to prescribe the particulars which the descriptive list or lists to be prepared by the Commissioners appointed under Chapter V are to contain, and the manner in which they are to refer to the registers or records, or portions of registers or records, to which they relate;

(f) to prescribe the custody in which those registers or records are to be kept; and

(g) generally to carry out the purposes of this Act.

37. (1) The Governor General in Council shall, before making rules under this Act, publish a draft of the proposed rules in such manner as may, in his opinion, be sufficient for the information of persons likely to be affected thereby.

Procedure for making and publication of rules.

(2) There shall be published with the draft a notice specifying a date at or after which the draft will be taken into consideration.

(3) The Governor General in Council shall receive and consider any objection or suggestion which may be made by any person with respect to the draft before the date so specified.

(4) Every rule made under this Act shall be published in the Gazette of India, and the publication in the Gazette of India of a rule purporting to be made under this Act shall be conclusive evidence that it has been duly made.

S. HARVEY JAMES,
Offg. Secretary to the Government of India.

The following Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to provide for the voluntary Registration of certain Births and Deaths, for the establishment of General Registry Offices for keeping Registers of certain Births, Deaths and Marriages, and for certain other purposes, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 5th February, 1886:—

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

WE, the undersigned, Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to provide for the voluntary Registration of certain Births and Deaths, for the establishment of General Registry Offices for keeping Registers of certain Births, Deaths and Marriages, and for certain other purposes, was referred, have considered the Bill and the papers noted on the margin, and have now the honour to submit this our Report.

From Assistant Secretary to Chief Commissioner Central Provinces, No. 2445—118, dated 30th June, 1885 [Paper No. 18].

2. We have, on the advice of a leading member of the Parsi community at Bombay, proposed to extend to the scattered Parsi communities resident beyond the local limits of the ordinary original civil jurisdiction of the High Court at Bombay the same provisions for the more effectual registration of marriages as were proposed by the Bill to be conferred on the classes to whom Act III of 1872 and the Indian Christian Marriage Act, 1872, apply.

3. By section 11, sub-section (2), we propose to enable Local Governments, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, to extend the operation of the chapter respecting the registration of births and deaths to any classes of the community which may be desirous of taking advantage of the provisions of that chapter.

4. By sections 12 and 13 we have proposed to enable Local Governments in British India, and the Governor General in Council in States in India in alliance with Her Majesty, to appoint Registrars of Births and Deaths for classes of persons as well as for local areas. It will thus be practicable to appoint ministers of religion to be Registrars of Births and Deaths for their own congregations only, without imposing on them duties for which they might have neither leisure nor inclination.

5. In section 14 we have provided that every Registrar of Births and Deaths shall be deemed to be a public servant. This provision appears to us to render it unnecessary to retain section 24 of the Bill as introduced.

6. By section 19 we have provided that if a Registrar of Births and Deaths has reason to believe any notice given to him to be in any respect false he may refuse to register the birth or death until he receives an order from the District Court directing him to make the entry and prescribing the manner in which the entry is to be made.

In the same section and in section 22, sub-section (3), we have reproduced the provisions of section 7 of the Statute 37 & 38 Vic., cap. 88.

7. In sections 20 and 21 we have classified, in a modified form, the persons authorised to give notices of births and deaths.

8. We have provided in section 24 that clergymen who may become Registrars of Births and Deaths shall send certified copies of the entries in their registers direct to the Registrar General unless they are required by their ecclesiastical superiors to transmit the copies through them.

9. By section 26 we have proposed to empower the Governor General in Council to make rules authorising Registrars of Births and Deaths, on conditions and in circumstances to be specified in the rules, to register births and deaths occurring outside the local areas or classes for which they have been appointed. Events occurring in the course of journeys or in places for which Registrars of Births and Deaths have not been appointed, may by those rules be made registrable.

10. We have made fine an alternative punishment for the offence made punishable under section 27.

11. To section 36 we have added a clause enabling the Governor General in Council to make rules as to the custody of registers and records sent to the Registrar General under section 32.

12. The other amendments of the Bill are unimportant and do not call for special remark.

13. In regard to the argument which has been urged in some of the papers before us that the existing registers of certain religious bodies are admissible in evidence, we are informed that the legal value of those registers has been questioned by high authority, on the ground that they are not maintained under any special injunction of law, or in the ordinary course of business, within the meaning of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872.

14. As regards the working of the proposed Act we understand that existing machinery will, so far as possible, be utilised, and that expenses will be defrayed from fees payable under the Act.

15. Other objections taken to the Bill are (a) that some Registrars may object to the provisions of section 16, sub-section (2), and (b) that difficulties may result from the requirement of section 22, sub-section (1), that the person giving notice of a birth or death must sign the entry in the register in the presence of the Registrar. As regards the first of these objections we observe that section 16, sub-section (2), will not apply to all Registrars, but only to those to whom the Local Government applies the sub-section. As regards the second objection the risk of difficulties arising may be diminished, if not removed, by provision being made, in the rules under clause (c) of section 36, for an enlargement under certain circumstances of the time within which notices may be given of births and deaths.

From Chief Secretary to Government, Bengal, No. 273 P., dated 23rd January, 1886, and enclosures [Papers No. 16].

2. The Bill as introduced has been approved by the authorities to whose criticism it was submitted. Some suggestions for the further amendment of the Act have been made; but, as the revision of the law relating to registration is understood to be under the consideration of the Government of India, we have deemed it advisable not to deal with them generally in this Bill. On one suggestion, however, we have deemed it necessary to act at once. It was that the law should declare receipts for payments of mortgage-money to be optionally, and not compulsorily, registrable. In connection with this suggestion we have considered the case reported at I. L. R. 6 All. 335, and the cases there cited, and the replies of Local Governments and High Courts to a letter addressed to them by the Government of India on the subject of those cases. The authorities to whom the letter was addressed are almost unanimously of opinion that, on grounds of convenience, receipts for payment of mortgage-money ought not to be compulsorily registrable. We concur in that opinion, and have added to the Bill a clause (section 4) excepting from the operation of clauses (b) and (c) of section 17 of the Act (i) any endorsement on a mortgage-deed acknowledging the payment of the whole or any part of the mortgage-money, whether the endorsement does or does not purport to extinguish the mortgage, and (ii) any other receipt for payment of money due under a mortgage when the receipt does not purport to extinguish the mortgage. In so framing the clause we have, as regards endorsements, followed the course recommended by the High Court at Bombay, and, as regards other receipts, the general tenor of the opinions expressed by the authorities whom the Government of India has consulted.

3. The amendments which the Bill renders it necessary to make in section 50 of the Act have been made in a separate clause (section 5).

The following Act of the Governor General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor General on the 10th March, 1886, and is hereby promulgated for general information:—

ACT NO. IX OF 1886.

An Act to apply the Chutia Nagpur Encumbered Estates Act, 1876, to the Deo Estate in the Gaya District.

WHEREAS Rájá Bhikam Narayan Singh Bahadur, of Deo in the district of Gaya, is subject to, and his immoveable property is charged with, debts and liabilities other than debts due, and liabilities incurred, to the Government;

And whereas the said Rájá has requested that the provisions of the Chutia Nagpur Encumbered Estates Act, 1876, be applied to his case;

VI of 1876.

And whereas the persons to whom the debts are due and the liabilities have been incurred have assented to the application of the Chutia Nagpur Encumbered Estates Act, 1876, to the case, on the condition that their title to receive the principal and interest due to them be in no way impaired thereby;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Deo Estate Act, 1886; and

(2) It shall come into force at once.

VI of 1876.

Application of Act VI of 1876 to the Deo Estate.

2. The provisions of the Chutia Nagpur Encumbered Estates Act, 1876, as amended by Act V of 1884, may be applied to the case of the said Rájá Bhikam Narayan Singh Bahadur, subject to the following modifications, namely:—

(1) The expressions "Commissioner", "Deputy Commissioner" and "holder", where used in the said Act, shall be construed as referring to the Commissioner of the Patna division, the Collector of the Gaya district and the said Rájá, respectively.

(2) Notwithstanding anything in section 2 of the said Act, the Commissioner may, without any further application from the said Rájá and without any further notification of the consent of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, publish an order under that section appointing a manager and vesting in him the management of the whole of the immoveable property of or to which the said Rájá is then possessed or entitled in his own right, or which he is entitled to redeem, or which may be acquired by or devolve on him or his heir during the continuance of the management.

(3) Section 4 of the said Act shall be read as if after the words "and their families" the words "and persons entitled to receive maintenance from the property" were added.

(4) Notwithstanding anything in section 8—

the sums mentioned in column 2 and column 4 of the schedule to this Act, as principal and as balance due from the said Rájá on the thirty-first day of December, 1885, respectively, and the rate of interest mentioned in column 3 of that schedule, shall, save in so far as any error with respect thereto may be proved to the satisfaction of the Commissioner, be deemed to be justly due to the several persons mentioned in column 1 of the schedule.

(5) The scheme prepared and approved under section 11 of the said Act shall provide that out of the residue applicable under section 4 of that Act, after discharge of costs of management, to the settlement of debts and liabilities, interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum in respect of so much of the principal sum of six hundred and fifty thousand rupees as is for the time being due to the Maháráját of Darbhangá shall be paid to the Maháráját before any sum is paid thereout to any other creditor.

(6) The second clause of section 12 of the said Act shall be read as if for the words "at any time before a scheme has been approved by him under section 11" the words "at any time before the occurrence of either of the events mentioned in the first and third clauses of this section" were substituted.

(7) The power conferred on the manager by the second clause of section 16 of the said Act, to apply for the removal of a mortgagee or conditional vendee in possession, shall not be exercised.

(8) The exercise of the power of sale conferred by section 18 of the said Act shall be subject to the following conditions, namely :—

(a) that one month's notice shall be given to the Mahárájá of Darbhangá of the manager's intention to sell any property of which the said Mahárájá is mortgagee;

(c) that, except with the previous consent of the said Mahárájá, so much of that property shall be left unsold as will yield a yearly income sufficient, after compliance with the rest of the scheme prepared and approved under section 11 of the said Act, to meet the yearly interest for the time being payable to the Mahárájá.

(9) Section 23 of the said Act shall be read as if for the words "the Courts in Chutia Nagpur" the words "any Court" were substituted, and as if the following words were added to the section, namely :—"and a suit relating to a claim of maintenance from the property shall not be entertained by any such Court without the previous consent of the Commissioner".

3. Nothing contained in this Act shall be construed as affecting the priority of any debt due, or liability incurred, to the Government.

Saving of priority of Crown debts.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Third publication].

The following Act of the Governor General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor General on the 12th March, 1886, and is hereby promulgated for general information :—

ACT No. X OF 1886.

An Act to amend the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1882, and certain other Acts.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1882, and certain other Acts; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1882.

1. In the last paragraph of section 31 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1882, for the words "any sentence of imprisonment for a term exceeding three years" the words "any sentence of imprisonment for a term exceeding four years, and any sentence of transportation," shall be substituted.

Amendment of section 31 of the Code of Criminal Procedure.

2. For section 34 of the same Code the following shall be substituted, namely :—

Substitution of new section for section 34.

"34. The Court of a District Magistrate, specially empowered under section 30, may pass any sentence authorized by law, except a sentence of death or of transportation for a term exceeding seven years or of imprisonment for a term exceeding seven years; but any sentence of imprisonment for a term exceeding four years, and any sentence of transportation, shall be subject to confirmation by the Sessions Judge."

Higher powers of certain District Magistrates.

3. After section 55 of the same Code, and after section 56 thereof, the following shall be added, namely :—

Addition to section 55 and section 56.

"This section applies to the police in the towns of Calcutta and Bombay."

4. In sections 88 and 514 of the same Code, after the words "District Magistrate" the words "or Chief Presidency Magistrate" shall be inserted.

Amendment of sections 88 and 514.

5. In section 110 of the same Code, for the words "Sub-divisional Magistrate or Magistrate of the first class specially empowered in this behalf by the Local Government" the words "or Sub-divisional Magistrate, or a Magistrate of the first class specially empowered in this behalf by the Local Government" shall be substituted.

Amendment of section 110.

6. In section 162 of the same Code the word "shall" shall be inserted before the words "be used".

Amendment of section 162.

7. In section 173 of the same Code, the following shall be substituted for the second paragraph, namely :—

Amendment of section 173.

"Where a superior officer of police has been appointed under section 158, the report shall, in any cases in which the Local Government by general or special order so directs, be submitted through that officer, and he may, pending the orders of the Magistrate, direct the officer in charge of the police-station to make further investigation."

8. In section 266 of the same Code, for the word and figures "section 307" the words and figures "sections 276 and 307" shall be substituted.

Amendment of section 266.

9. For the second paragraph of section 269 of the same Code the following shall be substituted, namely :—

Amendment of section 269.

"When the accused is charged at the same trial with several offences of which some are and some are not triable by jury, he shall be tried by jury for such of those offences as are triable by jury, and by the Court of Session, with the aid of the jurors as assessors, for such of them as are not triable by jury."

10. For section 398 of the same Code the following shall be substituted, namely :—

Substitution of new section for section 398.

"398. (1) Nothing in section 396 or section 397 shall be held to excuse any person from any part of the punishment to which he is liable upon his former or subsequent conviction.

Provisions supplemental to sections 35, 396 and 397.

(2) When an award of imprisonment in default of payment of a fine is annexed to a substantive sentence of imprisonment, or to a sentence of transportation or penal servitude for an offence punishable with imprisonment, and the person undergoing the sentence is after its execution to undergo a further substantive sentence, or further substantive sentences, of imprisonment, transportation or penal servitude, effect shall not be given to the award of imprisonment in default of payment of the fine until the person has undergone the further sentence or sentences."

11. (1) For the third paragraph of section 401 of the same Code the following shall be substituted, namely :—

Amendment of section 401.

"If any condition on which a sentence has been suspended or remitted is, in the opinion of the Governor General in Council or of the Local Government, as the case may be, not fulfilled, the Governor General in Council or the Local Government may cancel the suspension or remission, and thereupon the person in whose favour the sentence has been suspended or remitted may, if at large, be arrested by any Police-officer without warrant and remanded to undergo the unexpired portion of the sentence."

(2) After the third paragraph of the same section the following shall be inserted, namely :—

"The condition on which a sentence is suspended or remitted under this section may be one to be fulfilled by the person in whose favour the sentence is suspended or remitted, or one independent of his will."

12. After section 475 of the same Code the following sections shall be inserted, namely :—

New sections to follow section 475.

"475A. The Governor General in Council may direct that any person whom the Local Government has ordered under this chapter to be confined in a lunatic asylum, jail or other place of safe custody, shall be removed from the place where he is confined to any lunatic asylum, jail or other place of safe custody in British India.

Power of Governor General in Council to order criminal lunatics confined by order of Local Government to be removed from one province to another.

"475B. The Local Government may empower the officer in charge of the jail in which a person is confined under the provisions of section 466 or section 471 to discharge all or any of the functions of the Inspector General of Prisons under section 472, section 473 or section 474."

Power of Local Government to relieve Inspector General of certain functions.

13. (1) For the first sentence of section 495 of the same Code the following shall be substituted, namely :—

Amendment of section 495.

"Any Magistrate inquiring into or trying any case may permit the prosecution to be conducted by any person other than an officer of police below a rank to be prescribed by the Local Government in this behalf with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council."

(2) After the last sentence of the same section the following shall be added, namely :—

"An officer of police shall not be permitted to conduct the prosecution if he has taken any part in the investigation into the offence with respect to which the accused is being prosecuted."

14. In section 510 of the same Code, for the word "the" before the words "Chemical Examiner" where those words first occur, the word "any" shall be substituted.

Amendment of section 510.

15. After section 541 of the same Code the following shall be inserted, namely :—

New section to follow section 541.

"541A. (1) If any person liable to be imprisoned or committed to custody under this Code is in confinement in a civil jail, the Court or Magistrate ordering the imprisonment or committal may direct that the person be removed to a criminal jail.

Removal to criminal jail of accused or convicted persons who are in confinement in civil jail, and their return to the civil jail.

"(2) When a person is removed to a criminal jail under sub-section (1), he shall, on being released therefrom, be sent back to the civil jail, unless either—

"(a) three years have elapsed since he was removed to the criminal jail, in which case he shall be deemed to have been discharged from the civil jail under section 342 of the Code of Civil Procedure; or

"(b) the Court which ordered his imprisonment in the civil jail has certified to the officer in charge of the criminal jail that he is entitled to be discharged under section 341 of the Code of Civil Procedure." XIV of 1882.

16. After section 558 of the same Code the following section shall be added, namely :— XIV of 1882.

Addition of new section after section 558.

"559. A public servant having any duty to perform in connection with the sale of any property under this Code shall not purchase or bid for the property."

Officers concerned in sales not to purchase or bid for property.

Resistance or obstruction to lawful apprehension, or escape or rescue, in cases not otherwise provided for.

(2) Section 651 of the Code of Civil Procedure is hereby repealed. XIV of 1882.

Prisoners' Act, 1871.

25. For sections 30, 31 and 32 of the Prisoners' Act, 1871, the following shall be substituted, namely :— V of 1871.

Substitution of new sections for sections 30, 31 and 32 of the Prisoners' Act.

"30. When any person is, or has been, sentenced to imprisonment by any Court, or, in default of giving security for keeping the peace or maintaining good behaviour, has been committed to, or is detained in, prison under section 123 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1882, the Local Government, or (subject to its orders and under its control) the Inspector General of Prisons, may order his removal during the period for which he has been sentenced to imprisonment or the security has been ordered to be given, as the case may be, from the jail or place in which he is confined to any other jail or place of imprisonment within the territories subject to the same Local Government. X of 1882.

Removal from one jail to another in territories under same Local Government.

"31. (1) Whenever it appears to the Local Government that any person detained or imprisoned under any order or sentence of any Magistrate or Court is of unsound mind, that Government, by a warrant setting forth the grounds of belief that the person is of unsound mind, may order his removal to a lunatic asylum or other place of safe custody within the territories subject to the same Local Government, there to be kept and treated as the Local Government directs during the remainder of the term for which he has been ordered or sentenced to be detained or imprisoned, or, if on the expiration of that term it is certified by a medical officer that it is necessary for the safety of the prisoner or others that he should be further detained under medical care or treatment, then until he is discharged according to law.

Removal of lunatic prisoners.

"(2) When it appears to the Local Government that the prisoner has become of sound mind, that Government, by a warrant directed to the person having charge of the prisoner, shall, if the prisoner is still liable to be kept in custody, remand him to the prison from which he was removed or to another prison within the territories subject to the same Local Government, or, if the prisoner is no longer liable to be kept in custody, order him to be discharged.

"(3) The provisions of section 9 of Act XXXVI of 1858 (relating to Lunatic Asylums) shall apply to every person confined in a lunatic asylum under sub-section (1) after the expiration of the term for which he was ordered or sentenced to be detained or imprisoned; and the time during which a prisoner is confined in a lunatic asylum under that sub-section shall be reckoned as part of the term of detention or imprisonment which he may have been ordered or sentenced by the Magistrate or Court to undergo.

"(4) In any case in which a Local Government is competent under sub-section (1) to order the removal of a prisoner to a lunatic asylum or other place of safe custody within the territories subject to the same Local Government, the Governor General in Council may order his removal to any lunatic asylum or other place of safe custody in any part of British India; and the provisions of this section respecting the custody, detention, remand and discharge of a prisoner removed by order of a Local Government shall, so far as they can be made applicable, apply to a prisoner removed by order of the Governor General in Council.

Removal of prisoners from territories under one Local Government to territories under another.

"32. When any person is, or has been, sentenced to imprisonment by any Court, or, in default of giving security for maintaining good behaviour, has been committed to, or is detained in, prison under section 123 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1882, the Governor General in Council may order his removal during the period for which he has been sentenced to imprisonment or the security has been ordered to be given, as the case may be, from the jail or place in which he is confined to any other jail or place of imprisonment in British India." X of 1882.

S. HARVEY JAMES,
Offg. Secy. to the Government of India.

The following Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1882, the Bombay District Police Act, 1867, the Indian Penal Code and the Prisoners' Act, 1871, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 5th March, 1886:—

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

WE, the undersigned, Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to amend the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1882, the Bombay District Police Act, 1867, the Indian Penal Code and the Prisoners' Act, 1871, was referred, have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin, and have now the honour to submit this our Report.

2. The object of the Bill was, as remarked in the Statement of Objects and Reasons, to correct certain minor defects of the criminal law which had been brought to the notice of the Government of India since the passing of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1882. The papers laid before us contain numerous suggestions for other amendments in the Code. We have given our careful attention to these suggestions, but have come to the conclusion that, subject to a very few exceptions, it would not be expedient to act upon them without giving further notice to the public, and, for this reason, we have abstained from dealing with them in the present Bill. Among the sections to which our attention has been thus directed, and the propriety of amending which should, we think, be considered by the legislature on the next suitable opportunity, are section 107 (with advertence to the cases reported at I. L. R. 6 All. 26 and 11 Cal. 737), section 110 (with respect to habitual protectors or harbourers of thieves and habitual aiders in the concealment or disposal of stolen property), section 145 (with advertence to the case reported at I. L. R. 11 Cal. 413), section 9 or section 193 (with respect to the powers of Additional or Joint Sessions Judges), section 239 (with respect to the meaning of the words "in the same transaction"), section 348 (for applying the procedure of section 349 to habitual offenders forwarded to the Court of Session), and section 437 (for the purpose of reconciling the conflicting rulings as to the meaning of the words "further inquiry").

3. We will now notice in consecutive order such sections of the Bill as appear to us to call for remark.

4. Sections 1 and 2.—There are sections of the Indian Penal Code under which transportation for shorter terms than seven years may be awarded, but we are of opinion that any sentence of transportation passed by an Assistant Sessions Judge or District Magistrate should be subject to confirmation by the Sessions Judge.

5. Section 3.—We have added this section at the instance of the Government of Bengal. It appears to us that sections 55 and 56 of the Code should apply to the police in the towns of Calcutta and Bombay as they do to the police in the town of Madras and in the rest of British India.

6. Section 4.—The Chief Presidency Magistrate of Madras has pointed out that there is the same defect in section 514 as in section 88.

7. Section 7.—The practice of submitting final police reports through a superior officer of police depends on circumstances varying from season to season and from province to province and even from district to district, and should, in our opinion, be left to be regulated by the Local Government.

8. Section 9.—We have, on the recommendation of the Madras Government and High Court, amended section 269 of the Code so that, where an accused person is charged at the same trial with several offences of which some are and some are not triable by jury, he shall be tried by jury for such of those offences as are triable by jury, and by the Court of Session, with the aid of the jurors as assessors, for such of them as are not triable by jury.

9. Section 10.—The object of the amendment made by this section is to secure uniformity of practice with respect to the time when imprisonment in default of payment of fine is to be undergone where there are other substantive sentences of imprisonment to be undergone after the execution of the sentence to which the award of imprisonment in default of payment of fine was annexed.

10. Section 11.—There has been some misunderstanding in regard to the proposed amendment of section 401. It was originally proposed to meet a technical difficulty arising out of the case of a prisoner who had become insane after his discharge, and it appears to us that in the case of political offenders it may be useful as enabling the Government to set them at large on the understanding that, if any movement with which they were connected revives, they will, in the interests of the public safety, be re-arrested and detained until either the movement again subsides or they complete their sentences, whichever event may first occur.

11. Section 12.—We have, on the recommendation of the Bombay Government, authorised Local Governments to empower officers in charge of jails to discharge certain functions of the Inspector General of Prisons. It is often impossible for the Inspector General punctually to discharge the functions personally.

12. Section 13.—Difficulty has been caused by the specification in the Code of the rank of the police-officer who may be permitted to conduct a prosecution. Inspectors are officers of different rank in different parts of the country. We have, therefore, left it to Local Governments to prescribe the rank with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, but we have provided that an officer of police shall not be permitted to conduct the prosecution if he has taken any part in the investigation into the offence with respect to which the accused is being prosecuted.

13. Section 16.—A case which has recently occurred in the Bombay Presidency has suggested the introduction into the Code of Criminal Procedure of a section on the lines of section 292 of the Code of Civil Procedure.

14. Section 17.—This section in the Bill has been misunderstood. In Schedule II to the Code of Criminal Procedure as it now stands, the punishment for making a false charge of an offence punishable with imprisonment for a term of seven years appears as imprisonment for two years only, whereas the punishment may under the Indian Penal Code be imprisonment extending to seven years.

15. Section 21.—The object of this section is to make the provisions of section 67 of the Indian Penal Code applicable to all fines imposed under any law, and to make it clear that section 64 applies to offences punishable with imprisonment or fine as well as to offences punishable with both imprisonment and fine.

16. Section 22.—We agree with the Government of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, the High Court at Madras and the other authorities who have directed attention to section 75 of the Indian Penal Code, in considering that the alternative penalties prescribed by the section must often be either inadequate or excessive, and that a wider discretion should be given to the Courts. We have provided therefore that on repeated conviction of an offence punishable under Chapter XII or Chapter XVII of the Indian Penal Code the offender shall be subject to transportation for life or, in the discretion of the Court, to imprisonment for any term not exceeding ten years.

17. Section 23.—At present there is no provision of law for the punishment of a person who, knowing that a warrant has been issued by a Magistrate for the apprehension of a foreign subject under the Foreign Jurisdiction and Extradition Act, 1879, harbours that subject. The inconvenience resulting from the absence of such a provision has been pointed out by the Government of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, and ought in our opinion to be removed.

18. Section 24.—We have added a section suggested by the case reported at I. L. R. 12 Cal. 190.

19. Section 25.—We have proposed to re-enact in an amended form the whole of the three sections of the Prisoners' Act, 1871, relating to the removal of prisoners, instead of merely patching the existing sections.

An Act to facilitate the construction and to regulate the working of Tramways.

WHEREAS it is expedient to facilitate the construction and to regulate the working of tramways; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Preliminary.

Short title and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Indian Tramways Act, 1886; and

(2) It shall come into force at once.

Local extent.

2. (1) It extends in the first instance to the whole of British India, except the territories administered by the Governor of Fort Saint George in Council, the Governor of Bombay in Council and the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal.

(2) But the Governor of Fort Saint George in Council, the Governor of Bombay in Council or the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal may, by notification in the official Gazette, extend this Act to the whole or any part of the territories under his administration.

Definitions.

3. In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context,—

(1) "local authority" means a municipal committee, district board, body of port commissioners or other authority legally entitled to, or entrusted by the Government with, the control or management of a municipal or local fund:

(2) "road" means the way of a road, street, thoroughfare, passage or place along or across which a tramway authorised under this Act is, or is intended to be, laid, and includes the surface-soil and sub-soil of a road, and the footway, berms, drains and ditches of a road, and any bridge, culvert or causeway forming part of a road:

(3) "road-authority", in relation to a road, means—

(a) if a local authority maintains and repairs the road, then that authority;

(b) if a local authority does not maintain and repair the road, and the road is neither vested in Her Majesty nor maintained and repaired by the Government, then the person in whom the road is vested; and

(c) if a local authority does not maintain and repair the road, and the road is vested in Her Majesty or maintained and repaired by the Government, then the Local Government:

(4) "circle", in relation to a local authority or road-authority, means the area within the control of that authority:

(5) "tramway" means a tramway, or any part of a tramway, or any siding, turnout, connection, line or track belonging to a tramway:

(6) "order" means an order authorising the construction of a tramway under this Act, and includes a further order substituted for, or amending, extending or varying, that order:

(7) "promoter" means a local authority or person in whose favour an order has been made, and includes a local authority or person on whom the rights and liabilities conferred and imposed on the promoter by this Act and by the order and any rules made under this Act as to the construction, maintenance and use of the tramway, have devolved:

(8) "undertaking" includes all moveable and immoveable property of the promoter suitable to and used by him for the purposes of the tramway:

(9) "carriage", in the case of a tramway on which steam-power or any other mechanical power is used, includes an engine worked on the tramway for the purpose of producing that power:

(10) "toll" includes any charge leviable in respect of the use of a tramway:

(11) "lessee" means a person to whom a lease has been granted of the right of user of a tramway and of demanding and taking the authorised tolls:

(12) "District Magistrate" includes an officer empowered by the Local Government by name or by virtue of his office to discharge within any local area all or any of the functions of a District Magistrate under this Act:

(13) "District Court" means a principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction, and includes a High Court having ordinary original civil jurisdiction:

(14) "Collector" means the chief officer in charge of the revenue-administration of a district, and includes an officer empowered by the Local Government by name or by virtue of his office to discharge within any local area the functions of a Collector under this Act: and

(15) "prescribed" means prescribed by rules made by the Local Government under this Act.

Orders authorising the Construction of Tramways.

Application for and consent necessary to making of order.

4. (1) The Local Government may make an order authorising the construction of a tramway in a circle on application made—

(a) by the local authority of the circle with the consent of the road-authority of any road or part of a road which is to be traversed by the tramway and of which the local authority is not itself the road-authority; or

The Indian Tramways Act, 1886.

(Orders authorising the Construction of Tramways.—Sections 5-7.)

(b) by any person with the consent of the local authority of the circle, and of the road-authority of any road or part of a road which is to be traversed by the tramway and of which the local authority is not the road-authority:

Provided that, if any part of the proposed tramway is to traverse land which is not included within the limits of a municipality or of a cantonment, the Local Government shall not make the order without the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council.

(2) A local authority shall not make an application for an order, or be deemed to consent to an application being made by any person for an order, unless the making of the application or the giving of the consent has been approved by the local authority in manner prescribed.

Consent of local or road-authority not necessary in certain cases.

5. When it is proposed to lay a tramway in two or more circles, and a local authority or road-authority having control in either or any of the circles does not consent thereto, or attaches conditions to its consent, the Local Government may, nevertheless, make an order authorising the construction of the tramway in the circle, or by the order impose on the promoter any conditions which it deems fit, if, after considering the reasons of the authority for withholding its consent or attaching the conditions thereto, it is satisfied that the construction of the tramway in the circle is expedient, or, as the case may be, that the conditions attached by the authority to its consent ought not to be imposed.

Procedure for making order.

6. (1) The Local Government on receiving an application shall consider it, and, if satisfied as to the propriety of proceeding thereon, publish in the official Gazette, and in such other manner as it deems sufficient for giving information to persons interested, a draft of a proposed order authorising the construction of the tramway.

(2) A notice shall be published with the draft stating that any objection or suggestion which any person may desire to make with respect to the proposed order will, if submitted to the Local Government on or before a date to be specified in the notice, be received and considered.

(3) If, after considering any objections or suggestions which may have been made with respect to the draft on or before the date so specified, the Local Government is of opinion that the application should be granted, with or without addition or modification, or subject or not to any restriction or condition, it may make an order accordingly.

(4) Every order authorising the construction of a tramway shall be published in the official Gazette in English, and in the other prescribed language or languages, if any; and that publication shall be conclusive proof that the order has been made as required by this section.

Contents of order.

7. (1) An order made under section 6 shall empower the promoter therein specified to construct and maintain the tramway therein described in the manner therein provided, and shall specify the time within which the tramway shall be commenced and the time within which it shall be completed and opened for public traffic.

(2) The order may also provide, in manner consistent with this Act, for all or any of the following, among other matters, that is to say:—

(a) a period before the expiration of which the tramway shall not be commenced, and the conditions subject to which the local authority, when it is not itself the promoter, may, within that period, elect to be substituted in the place of the promoter in respect of the undertaking or of so much thereof as is within its circle; and the limits of time within which, and the terms upon which, the local authority may, after the tramway has been constructed, require the promoter to sell to it the undertaking or so much thereof as is within its circle;

(c) the conditions subject to which roads may be opened and broken up for the purposes of the construction or maintenance of the tramway or any part thereof, and the method of, and materials to be used in, the re-instating of the roads, and the approval of the method and materials by the Local Government or the road-authority before the commencement of the work;

(d) the conditions on which the tramway may be constructed over a bridge or across a railway or tramway when the carriageway over the bridge is to form part of the tramway or when the tramway is to cross a railway or another tramway on the level;

(e) the space which shall ordinarily intervene between the outside of the carriageway on either side of a road whereon the tramway is to be constructed and the nearest rail of the tramway, and the conditions on which a smaller space may be permitted;

(f) the gauge of the tramway; the rails to be used, and the mode in which

and the level at which, they shall be laid and maintained; and the adoption and application by the promoter of such improvements in the rails, and in their situation, and in the sub-structure upon which they rest, as the Local Government may from time to time require;

(g) the portion of the road or roads traversed by the tramway to be kept in repair by the promoter; the maintenance by the promoter to the satisfaction of the Local Government or the road-authority, or both, of that portion of the road or roads; and the liability of the promoter, on the requisition of the Local Government, from time to time to adopt and apply such improvements in the tramway as the Local Government may consider necessary or desirable for the safety or convenience of the public, and to alter the position or level of the tramway to suit future alterations in the road or roads;

(h) the application of material excavated by the promoter in the construction or maintenance of the tramway;

(j) the powers which may from time to time be exercised by the Local Government, the local authority, the road-authority or any person in respect of sewers, drains, telegraph-lines, gas-pipes, water-pipes or other things in or on land occupied by the tramway; the notice (if any) to be given of the intended exercise of those powers; the manner in which the powers shall be exercised; and the extent to which the tramway and the traffic thereon may be interfered with in the exercise thereof;

(k) the conditions subject to which the promoter may from time to time interfere with, or alter or require the alteration of the position of, drains (not being sewers or main drains), telegraph-lines, gas-pipes, water-pipes or other things as aforesaid;

(l) the provision of a temporary tramway in place of a part of a tramway which has been removed, or of which the use has been discontinued, by reason of the execution of any work affecting a road along which the part of the tramway was laid, or by reason of the use of the road being interrupted by floods or other cause;

(n) the nature, dimensions, fittings, appliances and apparatus of the carriages to be used on the tramway, and the inspection and examination thereof by officers of the Local Government or the local authority, and the liability of the promoter or lessee, on the requisition of the Local Government, from time to time, to adopt and apply such improvements in the carriages, and in the fittings, appliances and apparatus, as the Local Government may consider necessary or desirable for the safety or convenience of the public;

(o) the traffic which may be carried on the tramway, the traffic which the promoter or lessee shall be bound to carry, and the traffic which he may refuse to carry; the tolls to be leviable by the promoter or lessee, and the periodical revision thereof by the Local Government; and the regulation of the traffic and of the levy of the tolls;

(p) the use of the tramway free of toll by the local authority, with its own carriages, for specified purposes, during specified hours, with power to the local authority to make such sidings and other works as may be necessary for communication between its premises and the tramway;

(q) the conditions subject to which the promoter may transfer the undertaking, or any part thereof, by sale, mortgage, lease, exchange or otherwise; and the conditions subject to which the local authority may be the transferee

(r) the performance by the Local Government or by the local authority or road-authority of any work required by the Act or the order to be done by the promoter; and

(s) the penalty to be incurred by the promoter or lessee for failure to observe any condition or direction contained in the order, and the application of the penalty when recovered.

(3) The Local Government may, in providing in the order for the acquisition of land for the purposes of a tramway of which the promoter is not a company, direct that land may be acquired for the promoter under the provisions of the Land Acquisition Act, 1870, in the same manner and on the same conditions as it might be acquired for the purposes of the tramway if a company were the promoter. X of 1870.

(4) The order shall imply the condition—

(a) in the case of a tramway of which a local authority is the promoter, that a lease thereof shall be granted only in manner by this Act provided; and

(b) in the case of a tramway of which a local authority is not the promoter, that a lease thereof shall be only of the right of user

The Indian Tramways Act, 1886.

(Orders authorising the Construction of Tramways.—Construction and Maintenance of Tramways.—Traffic on Tramways.—Sections 8-14.)

and of demanding and taking the authorised tolls, and shall not confer or impose on the lessee any of the powers or duties of the promoter in respect of the construction or maintenance of the tramway.

Further order.

8. (1) The Local Government may, on the application of the promoter, revoke, amend, extend or vary the order by a further order.

(3) The Local Government may, in its discretion, either grant or reject the application.

(4) If it grants the application, it shall make the further order in the same manner as an order, except that no addition to, or modification of, the rights, powers and authorities asked for in the application, or restriction or condition with respect thereto, shall be made or imposed by the further order without the consent in writing of the promoter.

Power to authorise joint work by local authorities.

9. (1) Subject to, and in accordance with, the provisions of this Act, the Local Government may, on a joint application, or on two or more separate applications, make an order empowering two or more local authorities, respectively, jointly to construct the whole, or separately to construct parts, of a tramway, and jointly or separately to own the whole or parts thereof.

(2) All the provisions of this Act which relate to the construction of tramways shall extend and apply to the construction of the whole and the separate parts of the tramway, and the form of the order may be adapted to the circumstances of the case.

Cessation of powers given by an order.

10. (1) If a promoter authorised by an order to construct a tramway—

(a) does not within the time specified in the order substantially commence the construction of the tramway, or

(b) having commenced the construction, suspends it without a reason sufficient in the opinion of the Local Government to warrant the suspension, or

the following consequences shall ensue:—

(i) the powers given by the order to the promoter for constructing the tramway and otherwise in relation thereto shall, unless the Local Government, by special direction in writing, prolongs the time or condones the suspension, cease to be exercised except as to so much of the tramway as is then completed;

(ii) as to so much of the tramway as is then completed, the Local Government may either permit, or refuse to permit, the powers given by the order to continue;

(iii) if the Local Government refuses to permit the powers to continue, then so much of the tramway as is then completed may be dealt with, under the provisions of this Act relating to the discontinuance of tramways, as a tramway of the working whereof the discontinuance has been proved to the satisfaction of the Local Government.

(2) A notification published by the Local Government in the official Gazette to the effect that on a date specified in the notification the construction of a tramway had not been substantially commenced or a tramway had not been completed and opened for public traffic, or that the construction of a tramway had been suspended without sufficient reason, shall, for the purposes of this section, be conclusive proof of the matter stated therein.

Construction and Maintenance of Tramways.

Mode of formation of tramway.

11. A tramway shall be constructed and maintained in the manner provided by the order.

Inspection of tramway before opening.

12. A tramway, or portion or extension of, or addition to, a tramway, shall not be opened for public traffic until an engineer appointed in this behalf by the Local Government has inspected it and certified it to be fit for such traffic.

Agreement between road-authority and promoter as to repair of roadway.

13. Subject to the provisions of any order for the time being in force with respect to the matters mentioned in section 7, sub-section (2), clause (g), the road-authority and the promoter may from time to time enter into agreements as to the keeping in repair of the whole or a part of a road traversed by a tramway, and as to the proportion to be paid by either of them of the expense of keeping the road or part in repair.

Traffic on Tramways.

Rights of promoters and the public over tramways.

14. (1) The promoter of a tramway shall, subject to the provisions of sub-section (2) and to the other provisions of this Act and of the order, have the exclusive use of the tramway for carriages with flange-wheels or other wheels suitable to run on the rail described in the order as the rail to be used on the tramway:

Provided that nothing in this Act or in the order or any rule made under this Act shall affect the right of any person authorised to use a tramway or railway to pass across a tramway constructed under this Act with carriages having wheels suitable to run on the rail thereof.

The Indian Tramways Act, 1886.

(Traffic on Tramways.—Licenses to use Tramways.—Secs. 15-18.)

(2) The public shall have a right to pass along or across any part of a road along or across which a tramway is constructed, whether on or off the tramway, with carriages not having flange-wheels or other wheels suitable to run on the rail of the tramway: Provided—

(a) that this sub-section shall not apply where the tramway is constructed on land the right to the exclusive possession of which has been acquired by the promoter; and

(b) that the Local Government may by an order authorise the construction of a tramway on any part of a road with rails raised above the surface of the road, if it is satisfied that the convenience of the public will not be injuriously affected thereby.

Tolls leviable by promoter or lessee.

15. (1) The promoter or lessee may demand and take, in respect of the tramway, tolls not exceeding the limits specified in or determinable under the order, or, if the order contains no provision in this behalf, then such sums as may from time to time be fixed by the promoter or lessee with the previous sanction of the Local Government.

(2) A list of all the tolls authorised to be levied shall be exhibited, in such languages as the District Magistrate may direct, in a conspicuous place inside and outside each of the carriages used upon the tramway.

Carriage of dangerous or offensive goods.

16. (1) A person shall not be entitled to carry or to require to be carried, on a tramway constructed under this Act, any goods of a dangerous or offensive nature.

(2) A person taking such goods with him on the tramway shall, before entering the carriage, give notice of their nature to the servant of the promoter or lessee in charge of the carriage.

(3) A person sending such goods by the tramway shall distinctly mark their nature on the outside of the package containing them, or otherwise give notice thereof in writing to the servant of the promoter or lessee with whom he leaves them for the purpose of their being sent by the tramway.

(4) Any servant of the promoter or lessee may refuse to carry upon the tramway a parcel which he suspects to contain goods of a dangerous or offensive nature, and, if any such parcel has been received for the purpose of being carried upon the tramway, may stop the transit thereof until he is satisfied as to the nature of its contents.

(5) Where a servant of the promoter or lessee refuses under sub-section (4) to carry a parcel which has been received for the purpose of being carried upon the tramway, he shall, as soon as may be, give notice of his refusal to the consignor or consignee if he refuses at a time when neither of them is present.

Licenses to use Tramways.

Grant to third parties of licenses to use tramway in certain events.

17. If, at any time after a tramway or part of a tramway has been for three years opened for public traffic in a circle, the local authority of the circle represents in writing to the Local Government that the public is deprived of the full benefit of the tramway or of the part thereof, the Local Government may, if after considering any statement which the promoter or lessee or both may desire to make, and after such further enquiry as it deems necessary, it is satisfied as to the truth of the representation, grant a license to any person to use the tramway conformably to this Act and to the order and the rules made under this Act, subject to the following provisions, namely:—

(b) the license shall be to use the whole of the tramway for the time being opened for public traffic, or such part or parts of the tramway as the Local Government, having regard to the cause for granting the license, thinks fit;

(c) the license shall specify the number of carriages which the licensee shall run upon the tramway, the mode in which, and times at which, the carriages shall be run, the tolls to be paid to the promoter or lessee by the licensee for the use of the tramway, and the tolls, being those for the time being leviable by the promoter or lessee, which the licensee may demand and take for the use of his carriages;

(d) the licensee and his officers and servants shall permit one person, duly authorised for that purpose by the promoter or lessee, to travel free of toll in or upon each carriage of the licensee run upon the tramway for the whole or any part of a journey;

(e) any provision of this Act, or of the order or rules made under this Act, relating to the functions of a servant of a promoter or lessee shall be construed, so far as may be, as referring to a servant of the licensee; and

(f) the Local Government may revoke, alter or modify the license for any cause sufficient in its opinion to warrant the revocation, alteration or modification thereof.

Licensee to give to promoter or lessee an account of traffic.

The Indian Tramways Act, 1886.

(Discontinuance of Tramways.—Insolvency of Promoter.—Sections 19-21) (Purchase of Tramways.—Section 22.)

Discontinuance of Tramways.

Cessation of powers of promoter and lessee on discontinuance of tramway.

19. If it is proved to the satisfaction of the Local Government, at any time after the opening of a tramway for public traffic, that the working of the tramway, or any part thereof, has been practically discontinued, for the space of three months, without a reason sufficient, in the opinion of the Local Government, to warrant the discontinuance, the Local Government, if it thinks fit, may, by notification in the official Gazette, declare that the powers of the promoter and of the lessee, if any, in respect of the tramway or the part thereof of which the working has been so discontinued, shall, from the date of the notification, be at an end; and thereupon the said powers shall cease and determine, except in so far as they may be purchased by a local authority in manner by this Act provided.

Powers of road-authority on cessation of powers of promoter.

20. (1) Where a notification has been published under section 19, the road-authority may, at any time after the expiration of two months from the date of the notification, remove the tramway or part of the tramway of which the working has been so discontinued, and use the materials thereof in re-instating the road.

(2) The promoter shall pay to the road-authority the cost incurred by that authority in removing the tramway or the part thereof and in re-instating the road.

(3) The cost shall be certified by an officer of the road-authority, and his certificate, countersigned by the District Magistrate, shall be conclusive proof as to the cost incurred.

(4) If the promoter does not pay the amount so certified within one month after the delivery to him of the certificate or of a copy thereof, the road-authority may, without any previous notice to the promoter and without prejudice to any other remedy which it may have for the recovery of the amount, sell and dispose of such materials of the tramway or part thereof removed as it has not used in re-instating the road, either by public auction or by private sale, and for such sum or sums, and to such person or persons, as it thinks fit, and may, out of the proceeds of the sale, pay and reimburse itself the amount of the cost aforesaid and of the expenses of the sale, and shall pay over the residue (if any) of the proceeds of the sale to the promoter.

Insolvency of Promoter.

Proceedings in case of insolvency of promoter.

21. (1) If, at any time after the opening of a tramway in a circle for public traffic, it appears to the road-authority or local authority of the circle that the promoter of the tramway is insolvent, so that he is unable to maintain the tramway, or to work it with advantage to the public, and either of those authorities makes a representation to that effect to the Local Government, the Local Government may, if after considering any statement which the promoter may desire to make, and after such further enquiry as it deems necessary, it is satisfied as to the truth of the representation, declare, by notification in the official Gazette, that the powers of the promoter shall, at the expiration of six months from the publication of the notification, be at an end; and the powers of the promoter shall cease and determine at the expiration of that period, except in so far as they may be purchased by a local authority in manner by this Act provided.

(2) Where a notification has been published under sub-section (1), the road-authority may, at any time after the expiration of six months from the date thereof, remove the tramway in the same manner, and subject to the same provisions as to the payment of the cost of the removal and to the same remedy for recovery of the cost, in every respect as in cases of removal under section 20.

Purchase of Tramways.

Future purchase of undertaking by local authority.

22. (1) Where the promoter of a tramway in a circle is not the local authority, the local authority, with the previous sanction of the Local Government, may—

(a) within such limits of time as may be specified in this behalf in the order, or

by notice in writing, require the promoter to sell to the local authority his undertaking or the part thereof which is within the circle of the local authority; and thereupon the promoter shall sell the same upon the terms specified in the order, or, if the terms were not specified in the order, then upon the terms of paying the then value of the undertaking or of the part thereof, exclusive of any allowance for past or future profits of the undertaking or any compensation for compulsory sale or other consideration whatsoever.

(2) A requisition shall not be made under sub-section (1) unless the making thereof has been approved by the local authority in manner prescribed.

(3) When a sale has been made under this section, all the rights, powers and authorities of the promoter in respect of the undertaking or part thereof sold, or, where a notification has been published under section 19 or section 21, all the rights, powers and authorities of the promoter previous to the publication of the notification in respect of the undertaking or part thereof sold, shall be transferred to the authority to whom the undertaking or part has been sold, and shall vest in, and may be exercised by, that authority in the same manner as if the tramway had been constructed by it under an order made under this Act.

The Indian Tramways Act, 1886.

(Working of Tramways owned by Local Authorities.—Rules.—Sections 23-24.)

Working of Tramways owned by Local Authorities.

Lease of, or working of, tramway by local authority.

23. (1) When a local authority has under the authority of an order completed a tramway, or has under the provisions of this Act or of an order acquired possession of a tramway, it may, by a lease to be approved by the Local Government, let to any person the right of user of the tramway and of demanding and taking the authorised tolls.

(2) On the determination of a lease the local authority may from time to time let the right for such further term and on such conditions as the Local Government may approve.

(3) Every lease made under this section shall imply a condition of re-entry if at any time after the making thereof it is proved to the satisfaction of the Local Government that the lessee has practically discontinued the working of the tramway leased, or of any part thereof, for the space of one month without a reason sufficient, in the opinion of the Local Government, to warrant the discontinuance.

(4) Notice of the intention of the local authority to make a lease shall be given in manner prescribed.

(5) If the local authority cannot by means of a lease obtain what it deems to be a fair rent for the tramway, it may itself, with the previous sanction of the Local Government and for such term as the Local Government directs, place and run carriages upon the tramway, and demand and take the authorised tolls in respect of the use of the carriages.

Rules.

Power to make rules.

24. (1) In addition to any other power to make rules expressly or by implication conferred by this Act, the Local Government may make rules consistent with this Act—

(a) as to the form in which an application for an order shall be made;

(c) as to the payment of money or lodgment of securities, by way of deposit, by the applicant for an order before the order is published under section 6, sub-section (4), or a further order is made under section 8; the investment of money so paid; the disposal of interest or dividends from time to time accruing due on money or securities so paid, lodged or invested; the application of the money or securities or the produce thereof to the discharge of any liability incurred by the promoter; and the forfeiture, repayment or return of the money or securities;

(d) as to the plans and sections of any works to be deposited by applicants for orders or by promoters;

(e) for regulating the use of steam-power or any other mechanical power on a tramway;

(f) as to any matter specified in section 7, sub-section (2), clauses (c), (d), (e), (j) and (k), as a matter which may be provided for in an order, when that matter has not been so provided for, or has not, in the opinion of the Local Government, been effectually so provided for;

(g) as to the periodical submission, by promoters, lessees and licensees, of accounts of traffic and receipts to the Local Government or as that Government directs, and as to the forms in which those accounts are to be submitted;

(h) as to the accidents of which report is to be made to the Local Government or as that Government directs;

(i) as to any matter respecting which rules may be made under this section by a local authority or a promoter or lessee; and,

(j) generally, as to any other matter or thing in respect of which it may seem to the Local Government to be expedient to make rules for carrying out the purposes of this Act.

(2) A local authority may, from time to time, with the previous sanction of the Local Government, make rules consistent with this Act and with the order and any rules made by the Local Government under this Act for regulating—

(a) the rate of speed to be observed in travelling upon a tramway within the circle of the local authority;

(b) the use of animal power on the tramway;

(c) the distances at which carriages using the tramway are to be allowed to follow one after the other;

The Indian Tramways Act, 1886.

(Rules.—Sections 25-26.—Offences.—Sections 27-29.)

(d) the stopping of carriages using the tramway, and the notice to be given to the public of their approach;

(e) the manner in which carriages using the tramway after sunset and before sunrise are to be lighted;

(f) the traffic on roads along or across which the tramway is laid;

(g) the number of passengers which may be carried in any carriage;

(h) the licensing and control of drivers, conductors and other persons having charge of the carriages of the promoter or lessee or a licensee; and,

(i) generally, the mode of use of the tramway.

(3) The promoter or lessee of a tramway may, from time to time, with the previous sanction of the Local Government, make rules consistent with this Act and with the order and any rules made under this Act—

(a) for preventing the commission of any nuisance in or upon any carriage, or in or against any premises, belonging to him; and

(b) for regulating the travelling in any carriage belonging to him.

(4) The Local Government may cancel any rule made by a local authority or by a promoter or lessee under this section.

Power to impose penalty by rule.

25. The authority making any rule under section 24 may direct that a breach of it shall be punishable with fine which may extend—

(a) if the authority making the rule is the Local Government, to two hundred rupees, and

(b) if that authority is a local authority or a promoter or lessee, to twenty rupees;

and when the breach is a continuing breach, with a further fine which may extend—

(c) if the authority making the rule is the Local Government, to fifty rupees, and

(d) if that authority is a local authority or a promoter or lessee, to five rupees, for every day after the first during which the breach continues.

Procedure for making, and publication of, rules.

26. (1) Every authority having power to make rules under any section of this Act shall, before making the rules, publish a draft of the proposed rules for the information of persons likely to be affected thereby.

(2) The publication shall be made, in the case of rules made by the Local Government, in such manner as may in its opinion be sufficient for giving information to persons interested, and, in the case of rules made by a local authority or by a promoter or lessee, in manner prescribed.

(3) There shall be published with the draft a notice specifying a date, not earlier than the expiration of one month after the date of publication, at or after which the draft will be taken into consideration.

(5) The publication in the official Gazette of a rule purporting to be made under this Act shall be conclusive proof that it has been duly made.

Offences.

Penalty for failure of promoter, lessee or licensee to comply with Act or order.

27. If a promoter—

(a) constructs or maintains a tramway otherwise than in accordance with the order, or

(c) fails to observe any requirement or condition of the order for neglect or breach whereof no penalty has been expressly provided in the order,

or if a promoter, lessee or licensee runs a carriage on a tramway otherwise than in accordance with the order, he shall (without prejudice to the enforcement of specific performance of the requirements of this Act or of the order, or to any other remedy which may be obtained against him in a Court of Civil Judicature), on complaint made by the Local Government or by the local authority or road-authority or by the District Magistrate or, with the previous sanction of the District Magistrate, by any person injuriously affected by the act or omission, be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees, and in the case of a continuing offence to a further fine which may extend to fifty rupees for every day after the first during which the offence continues to be committed.

Penalty for obstructing promoter in exercise of his powers.

28. If any person without lawful excuse, the burden of proving which shall lie upon him, wilfully obstructs any person acting under the authority of the promoter in the lawful exercise of his powers in constructing or maintaining a tramway, or injures or destroys any mark made for the purpose of setting out the line of the tramway, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

Penalty for interfering with tramway.

29. If any person without lawful excuse, the burden of proving which shall lie upon him, wilfully does any of the following things, namely:—

(a) interferes with, removes or alters any part of a tramway constructed under

The Indian Tramways Act, 1886.

(Offences.—Sections 30-34—Settlement of Differences.—Sections 3-35.)

this Act, or of the works connected therewith, or

(b) places or throws upon or across any such tramway any wood, stone, refuse or other thing, or

(c) does anything in such a manner as to obstruct any carriage using any such tramway, or

(d) abets within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code the doing of, or attempts to do, anything mentioned in clause (a), clause (b) or clause (c),

XLV of 1860.

he shall (without prejudice to any other remedy which may be obtained against him in a Court of Civil Judicature) be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

30. If any person, except under a lease from, or by agreement with, the promoter, or under license from the Local Government granted under this Act, uses on a tramway, otherwise than as permitted by section 14, a carriage having flange-wheels or other wheels suitable to run on the rail of the tramway, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees.

Penalty for using tramway with carriage having flange-wheels.

31. (1) If any person travelling or having travelled in a carriage of the promoter or lessee or of a licensee evades or attempts to evade payment of toll, or if any person having paid toll for a certain distance wilfully proceeds in any such carriage beyond that distance and does not pay the additional toll for the additional distance or attempts to evade payment thereof, or if any person wilfully refuses or neglects on arriving at the point to which he has paid toll to quit the carriage, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to ten rupees.

Penalty for evading payment of proper toll.

(2) When a person commits an offence under this section and refuses on demand of a servant of the promoter, lessee or licensee to give his name and residence, or gives a name or residence which the servant has reason to believe to be false, he may be arrested and taken to the nearest police-station by the servant or any person whom the servant may call to his aid.

(3) When the person is taken to the police-station he shall with the least possible delay be forwarded to the nearest Magistrate, unless his true name and residence are ascertained, in which case he shall be released on his executing a bond for his appearance before a Magistrate if so required.

32. If any person takes or sends by a tramway any goods of a dangerous or offensive nature without giving the notice required by section 16, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

Penalty for taking or sending dangerous or offensive goods without giving notice.

33. (1) If a licensee fails on demand to give the account mentioned in section 18, or, with intent to evade the payment of tolls, gives a false account when he is called upon to give an account under that section, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

Penalty for licensee not giving to promoter or lessee an account of traffic or giving false account.

(2) The fine shall be in addition to any tolls payable by the licensee to the promoter or lessee in respect of the passengers or goods conveyed by the carriage or carriages used by the licensee on the tramway.

34. Nothing in this Act shall prevent a person from being prosecuted under any other law for an act or omission which constitutes an offence against this Act or the rules made under it, or from being liable under that other law to any other or higher punishment or penalty than that provided by this Act or the rules made under it: Provided that a person shall not be punished twice for the same offence.

Saving of prosecutions under other laws.

Settlement of Differences.

35. (1) If any difference arises between the promoter or lessee on the one hand and the Local Government, or the local authority, or the road-authority, or a person having the charge of any sewers, drains, telegraph-lines, gas-pipes, water-pipes or other things in or on land occupied by the tramway, on the other hand, with respect to any interference or control exercised or claimed to be exercised by, or on behalf of, either party by virtue of this or any other Act, or of the order or the rules made under this Act, or with respect to the propriety of, or the mode of, the execution of any work, or with respect to any compensation to be made by or to the promoter or lessee, or on the question whether any work is such as ought reasonably to satisfy the Local Government or the road-authority or both, or with respect to any other subject or thing regulated by, or comprised in, this Act or the order or the rules made under this Act, and not otherwise expressly provided for therein, the matter in difference shall, except where the parties elect to proceed under section 523 of the Code of Civil Procedure, be settled, on the application of either party, by a referee.

Differences between promoters or lessees and authorities.

XIV of

(2) Where the difference is—

(a) between the promoter or lessee on the one hand and the Local Government, either as such or as the road-authority, on the other, or

(b) between the promoter on the one hand and the local authority on the other, with respect to the sum to be paid by the local authority for an undertaking or part of an undertaking which that authority has required the promoter to sell under section 22,

The Indian Tramways Act, 1886.

(Recovery of Tolls.—Sections 36-38—Savings.—Sections 39-41.)

the referee shall be the District Court within the jurisdiction of which the tramway is situate, or, where the tramway is within the jurisdiction of more than one District Court, the District Court within the jurisdiction of which the greater part of the tramway is situate.

(3) In other cases the referee shall be appointed by the Local Government.

(4) Except where the referee is the District Court, the powers and procedure of the referee may be prescribed.

(5) In the case of a difference between a promoter on the one hand and a local authority on the other, with respect to the sum to be paid by the local authority for an undertaking or part of an undertaking which that authority has required the promoter to sell under section 22, an appeal shall lie to the High Court from the award of the referee as from an original decree of the District Court.

(6) In the case of every other difference the award of the referee shall be final.

Recovery of Tolls.

36. Any of the following moneys, namely, any rent due to a local authority from a lessee, any penalty recoverable from a promoter or lessee under an order, any sum payable by a promoter or lessee under an award of a referee, the cost of the performance under this Act by the Local Government or by a local authority or road-authority of any work required by this Act or by an order to be done by a promoter, and the cost incurred by a road-authority in removing a tramway and re-instating a road under this Act, may, without prejudice to any other remedy that the authority to which the money is due may have by suit or otherwise, be recovered by that authority, on application made in this behalf to the Collector, as if the sum due were an arrear of land-revenue due by the promoter or lessee or his surety (if any):

Recovery of moneys due from promoters and, in certain cases, from lessees.

Provided that nothing in this section shall authorise the arrest of the promoter or lessee or his surety in execution of any process issued by the Collector.

37. (1) If a licensee fails to pay on demand the tolls due for the use of a tramway, the promoter or lessee to whom the tolls are due may, without prejudice to the remedy which he may have by suit, apply to a Magistrate to recover the amount of the tolls, and the Magistrate may, after giving notice to the licensee if possible and allowing him an opportunity of being heard, proceed to recover the amount by distress and sale of any carriages or other moveable property of the licensee which may be found on the tramway or on premises connected therewith.

Recovery of tolls from licensees.

(2) When a licensee has failed to pay on demand the tolls due from him, the promoter or lessee to whom the tolls are due may seize any carriage or other moveable property of the licensee on the tramway or on premises connected therewith, and detain the same for forty-eight hours unless the tolls are sooner paid.

(3) When application is made to a Magistrate under sub-section (1), he may make an interim order of distraint pending his final decision.

38. Any toll due to a promoter, lessee or licensee from a passenger may be recovered either by suit or, on application to a Magistrate having jurisdiction within any local area in which any part of the tramway is laid, by distress and sale of any moveable property belonging to the passenger within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Magistrate.

Recovery of tolls from passengers.

Savings.

39. (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in this Act, or in an order or any rule made under this Act, a promoter shall not acquire any right other than that of user only over a road along or across which he lays a tramway, nor shall anything contained in this Act, or in an order or any rule made under this Act, exempt the promoter of a tramway, or any other person using the tramway, from the payment of such charges as may lawfully be levied in respect of the use of a road or bridge along or across which the tramway is laid.

Promoter to have right of user only.

(2) The Local Government may, if it thinks fit, fix rates at which a promoter, lessee or licensee may compound for the charges payable in respect of the use of a road or bridge.

40. (1) Nothing in this Act, or in an order or any rule made under this Act, shall take away or abridge any power which a road-authority, local authority or other person has by law to break up, widen, alter, divert or improve a road, railroad or tramway along or across which a tramway is laid.

Saving of power over roads traversed by tramways.

(2) The road-authority, local authority or other person executing any work referred to in sub-section (1) shall not be liable to pay to a promoter, lessee or licensee any compensation for injury done to a tramway by the execution of the work or for loss of traffic occasioned by the reasonable use of any power lawfully exercised for the execution thereof.

41. Nothing in this Act, or in an order or any rule made under this Act, shall affect the powers of a local authority or of a Magistrate or police-officer to regulate the passage of traffic along or across a road along or across which a tramway is laid; and the authority, Magistrate or officer aforesaid may exercise its or his powers as well on as off the tramway and with respect as well to the traffic

Saving of power of local authority and police to regulate traffic on roads.

The Indian Tramways Act, 1886.

(Supplemental Provisions.—Sections 42-50.)

of a promoter, lessee or licensee as to the traffic of other persons.

Supplemental Provisions.

Promoters, lessees and licensees to be responsible for all injuries.

42. A promoter, lessee or licensee shall be answerable for all injuries happening through his act or default, or through the act or default of any person in his employment, by reason or in consequence of any of his carriages or works, and shall save harmless all authorities and persons collectively and individually, and their officers and servants, from all damages and costs in respect of injuries so happening.

Want of funds not a sufficient reason for default.

43. For the purposes of this Act want of funds shall not be deemed to be a sufficient reason for the suspension of the construction, or the discontinuance of the working, of a tramway by a promoter or lessee.

Power to exempt from municipal taxation.

44. When a tramway is constructed under this Act within the limits of a municipality, the Local Government may exempt the animals, plant, rolling-stock, yards, workshops, engine-sheds and depôts of the promoter, lessee or licensee, for such period as it thinks fit, from all or any municipal taxes leviable within those limits.

Application by local authorities of local funds to tramways.

45. (1) The fund to or with the control or management of which the local authority of a municipality, cantonment or district is entitled or entrusted shall, notwithstanding anything in any enactment respecting the purposes to which that fund may be applied, be applicable, subject to the control of the Local Government, to the payment of expenses incidental to the exercise of the powers and functions which may be vested in or exercised by a local authority under this Act.

(2) The fund shall also be applicable, with the previous sanction of the Local Government, to a guarantee of the payment of interest on money to be applied, with the concurrence in writing of the local authority, within the limits of the local area under its control, to any of the purposes to which the fund might be applied by the local authority under sub-section (1).

Extension of Act to existing tramways.

46. The Local Government may, with the consent of the local authority and road-authority and of the promoter and his lessee (if any), extend any part of this Act, or any rules made under this Act, either with or without modification, to the whole or any part of a tramway constructed, or authorised by the Local Government to be constructed, before the passing of this Act, and may withdraw any part of the Act or any rules so extended.

Prohibition of construction of tramways except under this Act.

47. (1) A tramway of which the construction has not been authorised by the Local Government before the passing of this Act shall not, after the passing of this Act, be constructed for public traffic in any place to which this Act extends, except in pursuance of an order made under this Act.

(2) A person constructing a tramway in contravention of sub-section (1) of this section, or after the passing of this Act maintaining or using for public traffic, otherwise than in pursuance of an order made under this Act, a tramway which was not constructed, or authorised by the Local Government to be constructed, before the passing of this Act, shall be liable, on the complaint of the Local Government or local authority, to double the penalty to which a promoter acting otherwise than in accordance with an order is liable under section 27.

Transfer of control on exclusion of local area from circle of local authority.

48. If at any time a local area comprising a tramway to which this Act or any part thereof or any rule thereunder applies ceases to be included in the circle of a local authority, the functions of that authority under this Act or the part thereof or the rule thereunder, and under the order (if any), shall, in respect of that local area, devolve on the Local Government or, if that Government so directs, on the local authority of the circle in which the tramway has been included.

Explanation and amendment of section 54 of Railway Act.

49. (1) In section 54 of the Indian Railway Act, 1879, the word "tramway" shall have the meaning assigned to it by section 3 of this Act. IV of 1879.

(2) In the same section of that Act, after the words "by steam" the words "or other mechanical power" shall be added.

Powers of Local Government exerciseable from time to time.

50. All powers conferred by this Act on a Local Government may be exercised from time to time as occasion requires.

Offg. Secy. to the Govt. of India.

The following Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to facilitate the construction and to regulate the working of Tramways was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 5th March, 1886 :—

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

WE, the undersigned, Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to facilitate the construction and to regulate the working of Tramways was referred, have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin, and have now the honour to submit this our Report.

From Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Coorg, No. 1573—466, dated 12th December, 1885 [Paper No. 1].
From Secretary for Berar to Resident, Hyderabad, No. 582 G., dated 14th December, 1885 [Paper No. 2].
From Chief Commissioner, Ajmer-Merwára, No. 215 C., dated 17th December, 1885 [Paper No. 3].
From Registrar, High Court, Calcutta, No. 3303, dated 23rd December, 1885 [Paper No. 4].
From Secretary to Government, North-Western Provinces and Oudh, No. 1097—XI-176-16, dated 31st December, 1885, and enclosure [Papers No. 5].
From Officiating Assistant Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Central Provinces, No. 62—214, dated 7th January, 1886 [Paper No. 6].
From Under-Secretary to Government, Bombay, No. 62, dated 9th January, 1886, and enclosures [Papers No. 7].
From Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Assam, No. 6 T., dated 9th January, 1886 [Paper No. 8].
From Acting Chief Secretary to Government, Madras, No. 77, dated 11th January, 1886, and enclosures [Papers No. 9].
Memorandum by J. Kincaid, Esq., M.C.I.E. [Paper No. 10].
From Under-Secretary to Government, Bombay, No. 321, dated 26th January, 1886 [Paper No. 11].
From Officiating Secretary to Government, Punjab, No. 143, dated 6th February, 1886, and enclosures [Papers No. 12].
From Officiating Secretary to Chief Commissioner, British Burma, No. 388—6L., dated 12th February, 1886, and enclosures [Papers No. 13].
From Officiating Under-Secretary to Government, Bengal, No. 805, dated 20th February, 1886, and enclosures [Papers No. 14].

2. The object of the proviso to section 4, sub-section (1), of the Bill does not appear to have been understood. In the case of lines extending beyond municipal limits, it is often difficult to say whether the line ought to be treated as a tramway or as a light railway, and the object of the proviso is to give the Government of India an opportunity of determining, with reference to particular cases or classes of cases, to which of the two categories such lines ought to be treated as belonging.

3. By section 5 we have empowered the Local Government to modify conditions sought to be imposed by a local authority with respect to the construction within its circle of part of a tramway which is to be laid in two or more circles.

4. In sections 17 and 21 we have provided for an opportunity being given to the promoter to state his case before the Local Government either grants licenses under the former section or determines the powers of the promoter under the latter section.

5. By clauses (g) and (k) of sub-section (1) of section 24 we have enabled the Local Government to make rules as to the periodical submission of statistics relating to tramways, and as to the accidents of which report is to be made.

6. By clause (e) of sub-section (2) of the same section we have empowered local authorities to make rules as to the manner in which carriages using the tramway after sunset and before sunrise are to be lighted.

7. By section 27 we have made the previous sanction of the District Magistrate a condition precedent to the institution by a private person of criminal proceedings against a promoter, lessee or licensee for breach of any provision of the Act or of any direction of an order authorizing the construction of a tramway.

8. By section 35 we have provided that, except where the parties to a difference elect to proceed under section 523 of the Code of Civil Procedure, the matter in difference between them shall be settled, on the application of either party, by a referee, and that, where the difference is between the promoter on the one hand and the local authority on the other with respect to the sum to be paid by the local authority for an undertaking which that authority has required the promoter to sell under section 22, the referee shall be the District Court. We have also provided that, in that case, an appeal shall lie to the High Court from the award of the District Court.

9. To section 45 we have added a sub-section supplementary to Act XV of 1885 (an Act to amend the Local Authorities Loan Act, 1879).

10. By section 47 of the Bill we have proposed that, in places to which the Act extends, tramways of which the construction has not been authorised before the passing of the Act shall not be constructed, after the passing of the Act, otherwise than in pursuance of an order made under the Act.

11. By section 48 we have made provision for cases in which a local area comprising a tramway is excluded from the circle of one local authority and included in that of another.

12. By section 49 we have proposed so to amend section 54 of the Indian Railway Act, 1879, as to enable the Governor General in Council to apply that Act or any portion thereof to a tramway worked by any mechanical power.

13. The other amendments of the Bill are few and unimportant, and do not call for special notice.

THE SCHEDULE.

An Act to regulate the importation, possession and transport of Petroleum and other fluids of a like nature.

WHEREAS it is expedient to regulate the importation, possession and transport of petroleum and other fluids of a like nature; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Preliminary.

Short title, commencement and local extent.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Petroleum Act, 1886; and

(2) It shall come into force on such day as the Governor General in Council, by notification in the Gazette of India, appoints.

(3) The provisions of this Act relating to dangerous petroleum, and the importation of petroleum, extend to the whole of British India. The rest of this Act extends only to such local areas as the Local Government may from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, direct.

(4) Any power conferred by this Act to make rules or issue orders may be exercised at any time after the passing of this Act; but a rule or order so made or issued shall not take effect until the Act comes into force.

Repeal. VIII of 1881.

2. (1) On and from the day on which this Act comes into force, the Petroleum Act, 1881, shall be repealed:

(2) But all notifications issued, rules made, licenses granted, powers conferred and certificates given under that Act shall, so far as may be, be deemed to have been issued, made, granted, conferred and given under this Act.

Definitions.

3. In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context,—

(1) "petroleum" includes also the liquids commonly known by the names of rock oil, Rangoon oil, Burma oil, kerosine, paraffine oil, mineral oil, petroline, gasoline, benzol, benzoline, benzine, and any inflammable liquid which is made from petroleum, coal, schist, shale, peat or any other bituminous substance, or from any products of petroleum; but it does not include any oil ordinarily used for lubricating purposes and having its flashing point at or above two hundred degrees of Fahrenheit's thermometer:

(2) "dangerous petroleum" means petroleum having its flashing point below seventy-six degrees

The Petroleum Act, 1886.

(Dangerous Petroleum.—Sections 4-8.)

of Fahrenheit's thermometer: Provided that, when all or any of the petroleum on board a ship, or in the possession of a dealer, is declared by the master of the ship or the consignee of the cargo, or by the dealer, as the case may be, to be of one uniform quality, the petroleum shall not be deemed to be dangerous if the samples selected from the petroleum have their flashing points, on an average, at or above seventy-three degrees of Fahrenheit's thermometer, and if no one of those samples has its flashing point below seventy degrees of that thermometer:

(3) "import" means to bring into British India by sea or land,

and "importation" means the bringing into British India as aforesaid:

(4) "transport" means to remove from one place to another within British India: and

(5) "ship" includes anything made for the conveyance by water of human beings or property.

Matters supplemental to the definitions.

4. (1) The flashing point of petroleum means the lowest temperature at which the petroleum yields a vapour which will furnish a momentary flash or flame when tested in accordance with the directions in the schedule to this Act with an apparatus which has been stamped and certified as provided by this Act within a period of five years immediately preceding the date on which the apparatus is used for the testing, and after the corrections (if any) which the certificate declares are to be applied to the results of the testing have been made.

(2) Notwithstanding anything in the definitions of "import", "importation" and "transport", the Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, may from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, declare—

(a) that petroleum imported into its territories from any part of British India, by sea or across intervening territory not being part of British India, shall, for all or any of the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be transported; and

(b) that petroleum transported into its territories from any place in British India shall, for all or any of those purposes, be deemed to be imported;

and thereupon the provisions of this Act, and of the rules made under this Act, with respect to transport and import, respectively, shall apply to petroleum so imported or transported.

Dangerous Petroleum.

Dangerous petroleum in quantities exceeding forty gallons.

5. (1) No quantity of dangerous petroleum exceeding forty gallons shall be imported or transported, or kept by any one person or on the same premises, except under, and in accordance with the conditions of, a license from the Local Government granted as next hereinafter provided.

(2) Every application for such a license shall be in writing, and shall declare—

(a) the quantity of the petroleum which it is desired to import, transport or possess, as the case may be;

(b) the purpose for which the applicant believes that the petroleum will be used; and

(c) that petroleum other than dangerous petroleum cannot be used for that purpose.

(3) If the Local Government sees reason to believe that the petroleum will be used for that purpose, and that no petroleum other than dangerous petroleum can be used for the purpose, it may grant the license for the importation, transport or possession (as the case may be) of the petroleum, absolutely or subject to such conditions as it thinks fit.

Dangerous petroleum in quantities not exceeding forty gallons.

6. No quantity of dangerous petroleum equal to or less than forty gallons shall be kept or transported without a license:

Provided that nothing in this section shall apply in any case when the quantity of the petroleum kept by any one person or on the same premises, or transported, does not exceed three gallons, and the petroleum is placed in separate glass, stoneware or metal vessels, each of which contains not more than a pint and is securely stopped.

Vessels containing dangerous petroleum to be labelled.

7. Dangerous petroleum—

(a) which is kept at any place after seven days from the date on which it is imported, or

(b) which is transported, or

(c) which is sold or exposed for sale,

shall be contained in vessels having attached thereto a label in conspicuous characters stating the description of the petroleum, with the addition of the words "highly inflammable" and with the addition—

(d) in the case of a vessel kept, of the name and address of the consignee or owner;

(e) in the case of a vessel transported, of the name and address of the sender; and

(f) in the case of a vessel sold or exposed for sale, of the name and address of the vendor.

Petroleum generally.

Power for Local Government to make rules as to importation and refining of petroleum.

8. (1) The Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, may make rules consistent with this Act to regulate the importation of petroleum, and in particular—

(a) to determine the ports at which only petroleum may be imported;

(b) to ascertain the quantity and description of any petroleum on board any ship;

(c) to determine the places at which, and the conditions on and subject to which petroleum may be discharged into boats, landed, transhipped or stored;

(d) to provide for the selection by an officer appointed by the Local Government in this behalf, and for the delivery to him, either after or before petroleum has been landed, of samples of all petroleum landed or intended to be landed;

(e) to provide, in the case of each consignment which is stated to be of one uniform quality, for the number of samples to be selected, and for the averaging of the results of the testing of those samples;

(f) to provide, where the results of the testing of the samples raise a doubt as to the uniformity of the quality of the petroleum in any such consignment, for the division of the consignment into lots, and for the selection and testing of samples of each lot, and for the treatment of the lot in accordance with the results of the testing of those samples;

(g) to fix fees for the sampling and testing of petroleum; and

(h) to fix fees for the storage of petroleum unless a body of port commissioners or other like body is empowered in that behalf.

(2) The Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, may, with respect to any petroleum produced within its territories, make rules—

(a) to define the limits of the places where the petroleum is to be refined;

(b) to provide for the testing of the petroleum at or near those places; and

(c) to prevent the removal from those limits, otherwise than under the provisions of this Act applicable to dangerous petroleum, of petroleum which has not satisfied the tests prescribed by the rules.

Procedure after petroleum has been discharged or landed.

9. (1) Petroleum discharged into boats or landed in accordance with rules made under section 8, sub-section (1), shall not be removed from the boats or places in or at which it is stored until the samples selected therefrom in accordance with those rules have been tested by an officer appointed by the Local Government in this behalf in the manner described in the schedule to this Act with an apparatus which has been stamped and certified as provided by this Act, and until the officer has given a certificate that the petroleum is not dangerous petroleum.

(2) If the officer after testing the samples refuses to give the certificate in respect of any petroleum, the Local Government may permit the consignee, within a time to be fixed by the Local Government in this behalf,—

(a) to rectify the petroleum,

(b) to apply for a license to import the petroleum as dangerous petroleum, or

(c) to re-export the petroleum.

(3) If the consignee does not within the time fixed under sub-section (2) avail himself of the permission granted under that sub-section, the petroleum may be disposed of as the Local Government directs.

(4) Notwithstanding anything in the foregoing portions of this section, the Local Government in its discretion may, where the officer has refused the certificate, direct that the petroleum be re-tested by another officer appointed by it in this behalf, and may, if that officer advises that the petroleum is not dangerous petroleum, authorise its removal from the boats or places in or at which it is stored.

Possession and transport of petroleum.

10. No quantity of petroleum exceeding five hundred gallons shall be kept by any one person or on the same premises or shall be transported except under, and in accordance with the conditions of, a license granted under this Act.

Power to make rules as to possession and transport.

11. (1) The Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, may make rules consistent with this Act as to the granting of licenses to possess or transport petroleum in cases where such licenses are by law required.

(2) The rules may provide for the following among other matters, that is to say:—

in the case of licenses to possess petroleum—

(a) the nature and situation of the premises for which they may be granted, and

(b) the inspection of the premises and the testing of petroleum found thereon;

in the case of licenses to transport petroleum—

(c) the manner in which the petroleum is to be packed, the mode and time of transit, and the route by which it is to be taken; and

(d) the stoppage and inspection of it during transit;

in the case of both such licenses—

(e) the authority by which the license may be granted;

(f) the fee to be charged for it;

(g) the quantity of petroleum it is to cover;

(h) the conditions which may be inserted in it;

(i) the time during which it is to continue in force; and

(j) the renewal of the license.

(3) The Governor General in Council may make rules consistent with this Act as to the granting of licenses to transport petroleum from any part of British India to any other part of British India in cases where such licenses are by law required; and those rules may provide, among other matters, for those mentioned in sub-section (2) as matters for which rules made by a Local Government with respect to licenses to transport petroleum may provide.

Power to inspect and require dealer to sell samples.

12. Any officer specially authorized by name or by virtue of his office in this behalf by the Local Government may require any dealer in petroleum to show him any place and any of the vessels in which any petroleum in his possession is stored or contained, to give him such assistance as he may require for examining the same, and to deliver to him samples of the petroleum on payment of the value of the samples.

Notice to be given when officer proposes to test samples.

13. When any such officer has, in exercise of the powers conferred by section 12, or by purchase, obtained a sample of petroleum in the possession of a dealer, he may give a notice in writing to the dealer informing him that he is about to test the sample or cause it to be tested with the apparatus and in the manner described in the schedule to this Act, at a time and place to be fixed in the notice, and that the dealer or his agent may be present at the testing.

Certificate as to result of testing.

14. On any such testing, if it appears to the officer or other person so testing that the petroleum from which the sample has been taken is or is not dangerous petroleum, the officer or other person may certify the fact; and the certificate so given shall be receivable as evidence in any proceedings which may be taken under this Act against the dealer in whose possession the petroleum was found, and shall, until the contrary is proved, be evidence of the fact stated therein; and a certified copy of the certificate shall be given free of charge to the dealer at his request.

Penalties.

15. Any person who, in contravention of this Act or of any rules made under this Act, imports, possesses or transports any petroleum, and any person who otherwise contravenes any such rules or any condition contained in a license granted under this Act, shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to one month, or with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, or with both.

Penalty for illegal importation, possession or transport of petroleum.

16. Any person keeping, transporting, selling or exposing for sale petroleum in vessels not labelled as prescribed by section 7, shall be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

Penalty for keeping, transporting, selling or exposing for sale petroleum in contravention of section 7.

17. Any dealer in petroleum who refuses or neglects to show to any Officer authorized under section 12 any place or any of the vessels in which petroleum in his possession is stored or contained, or to give him such assistance as he may require for examining the same, or to give him samples of the petroleum on payment of the value of the samples, shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees.

Penalty for refusing to comply with section 12.

18. In any case in which an offence under section 15 or section 16 has been committed, the convicting Magistrate may direct that—

Confiscation of petroleum.

(a) the petroleum in respect of which the offence has been committed, or shall, together with the tins or other vessels in which it is contained, be confiscated.

19. The criminal jurisdiction under this Act shall, in the towns of Calcutta, Madras and Bombay, be exercised by a Presidency Magistrate, and elsewhere by a Magistrate of the first class, or (where specially empowered by the Local Government to try cases under this Act) a Magistrate of the second class.

Jurisdiction.

Test-apparatus.

20. A model of the apparatus for testing petroleum under this Act, constructed in accordance with the description contained in the schedule to this Act, shall be deposited in the office of the Chemical Examiner to Government, Calcutta, and be marked with the words "Model test-apparatus."

Model test-apparatus.

21. (1) The Chemical Examiner shall, on payment of such fee (if any) as the Governor General in Council may, from time to time, by notification in the Gazette of India, prescribe, compare with the said model test-apparatus and verify every apparatus for testing petroleum which is submitted to him for the purpose.

Verification of test-apparatus.

(2) If any apparatus for testing petroleum, when compared and verified as provided by sub-section (1), is found correct, or correct subject to certain corrections to be applied to the results of the tests, the Chemical Examiner shall stamp the same with a special number, and with the date of the verification, and shall further give a certificate in writing under his hand, in a form to be prescribed by the Governor General in Council, to the effect that on the date aforesaid the apparatus was compared and verified by him and found to be correct, or correct subject to certain specified corrections to be applied to the results of the tests.

(3) A certificate granted under this section shall, until the contrary is proved, be conclusive proof of the matters stated therein.

(4) The Chemical Examiner shall keep a register, in a form to be prescribed by the Governor General in Council, of the certificates granted under this section.

(5) Subject to the payment of such fees as the Governor General in Council may, by notification in the Gazette of India, prescribe in this behalf, the said model test-apparatus shall be at all reasonable times open to inspection by any person desiring to inspect it.

Miscellaneous.

22. The Local Government may, from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, exempt from the operation of all or any of the provisions of this Act, or of all or any of the rules made under this Act, any petroleum which has its flashing point at or above one hundred and twenty degrees of Fahrenheit's thermometer and is imported as ordinary cargo and in quantity not exceeding that specified in the notification.

Power to Local Government to exempt petroleum from operation of this Act.

23. The Governor General in Council may, from time to time, by notification in the Gazette of India, apply the whole or any portion of this Act to any inflammable fluid other than petroleum, and may by the notification fix, in substitution for the quantities of petroleum fixed by sections 5, 6 and 10, the quantities of the fluid to which those sections shall apply.

Power to apply this Act to other fluids.

24. The Governor General in Council may, from time to time, by notification in the Gazette of India and in the local official Gazette, limit, in any manner he deems fit, the operation of any enactment for the time being in force relating to municipalities in any local area or to any particular municipality, and the exercise of any power conferred by any such enactment, in so far as the enactment relates to the possession or transport of petroleum.

Power to limit operation of enactments relating to municipalities.

25. A notification made under this Act may be revoked or varied by the authority making it by a notification published in the same manner as the notification so revoked or varied.

Power to revoke or vary notifications.

26. (1) An authority making rules under this Act shall, before making the rules, publish a draft of the proposed rules for the information of persons likely to be affected thereby.

Procedure for making and publication of rules.

(2) The publication shall be made in such manner as the Governor General in Council, from time to time, by notification in the Gazette of India, prescribes.

The Petroleum Act, 1886.

(The Schedule.)

(3) There shall be published with the draft a notice specifying a date at or after which the draft will be taken in consideration.

(4) The authority making the rules shall receive and consider any objection or suggestion which may be made by any person with respect to the draft before the date so specified.

(5) A rule made under this Act shall not take effect if it is made by the Governor General in Council until it has been published in the Gazette of India, and if it is made by the Local Government until it has been published in the local official Gazette.

(6) The publication in the Gazette of a rule purporting to be made under this Act shall be conclusive proof that it has been duly made.

(7) All powers to make rules conferred by this Act may be exercised from time to time as occasion requires.

THE SCHEDULE.

I.—Nature of the Test-apparatus.

The apparatus consists of the following parts:—

(1) the oil-cup;

(2) the cover, with slide, test-lamp, and clock-work arrangement for opening and closing the holes in the cover and for dipping the test-flame;

(3) the water-bath or heating vessel;

(4) the tripod stand, with jacket and spirit-lamp for heating the water-bath;

(5) the thermometer for indicating the temperature of the oil in the oil-cup;

(6) the thermometer for indicating the temperature of the water in the water-bath;

(7) the thermometer for indicating the temperature of the oil before it is poured into the oil-cup;

(8) the dropping bottle or pipette for replenishing the test-lamp; and

(9) a barometer standardised at the Meteorological Office of the province or at any other place appointed by the Local Government.

The oil-cup is a cylindrical flat-bottomed vessel, made of gun-metal or brass, and tinned or silvered inside. A gauge is fixed to the inside of the cup to regulate the height to which it is to be filled with the sample under examination.

The cup is provided with a close fitting overlapping cover, which carries the thermometer, the test-lamp and the adjuncts thereto. The test-lamp is suspended upon two supports by means of trunnions, which allow it to be easily inclined to a particular angle and restored to its original position. The socket in the cover, which is to hold a round bulb thermometer for indicating the temperature of the oil during the testing operation, is so adjusted that the bulb of the latter is always inserted in a definite position below the surface of the liquid.

The cover is provided with three holes, one in the centre and two smaller ones close to the sides. These are closed and opened by means of a pivoted slide. When the slide is moved so as to uncover the holes, the suspended lamp is caught by a projection fixed on the slide, and tilted in such a way as to bring the end of the spout just below the surface of the lid. As the slide moves back so as to cover the holes, the lamp returns to its original position. Upon the cover, in front of and in a line with the nozzle of the lamp, is fixed a white bead, the diameter of which represents the size of the test-flame to be used.

The water-bath or heating vessel is so constructed that, when the oil-cup is placed in position in it, an air-space or air chamber intervenes between the two; consequently, in applying the test under ordinary circumstances, the heat is transmitted gradually to the oil from the hot water through the air-space. The water-bath is fitted with a socket for receiving a long bulb thermometer, to indicate the temperature of the water. It is also provided with a funnel, an overflow-pipe and two handles.

The water-bath rests upon a tripod stand, which is fitted with a copper cylinder or jacket, so that the bath is surrounded by an enclosed air-space, which retains and regulates the heat. One of the legs of the stand serves as a support for a spirit-lamp, which is attached to it by a small swing bracket.

The clockwork arrangement, by which during the operation of testing the slide is withdrawn, and the test-flame dipped into the cup and raised again as the slide is replaced, is provided with a ratchet key for setting it in action for each test, and with a trigger for starting it each time that the test-flame is applied.

II.—Directions for drawing the Sample and preparing it for Testing.

1. Drawing the sample.—In all cases the testing officer or some person duly authorised by him shall personally superintend the drawing of the sample from an original unopened tin or other vessel.

An opening sufficiently large to admit of the oil being rapidly poured or syphoned from the tin or other vessel shall be made.

Two bottles, each of the capacity of about 40 fluid ounces, are to be filled with the oil. One of these, the contents of which is intended to be preserved for reference in case of need, is to be carefully corked, the cork being well driven home,

The Petroleum Act, 1886.

cut off level with the neck, and melted sealing-wax worked into it. The other bottle may be either stoppered or corked.

2. Preparing the sample for testing.—About ten fluid ounces of the oil, sufficient for three tests, are transferred from the bottle into which the sample has been drawn to a pint flask or bottle, which is to be immersed in water artificially cooled until a thermometer introduced into the oil, indicates a temperature not exceeding 50° Fahrenheit.

III.—Directions for preparing and using the Test-apparatus.

1. Preparing the water-bath.—The water-bath is filled by pouring water into the funnel until it begins to flow out at the overflow-pipe. The temperature of the water at the commencement of each test, as indicated by the long bulb thermometer, is to be 130° Fahrenheit, and this is attained in the first instance by mixing hot and cold water, either in the bath or in a vessel from which the bath is filled, until the thermometer which is provided for testing the temperature of the water gives the proper indication; or the water is heated by means of the spirit-lamp (which is attached to the stand of the apparatus) until the required temperature is indicated.

2. Preparing the test-lamp.—The test-lamp is fitted with a piece of cylindrical wick of such thickness that it fills the wick-holder, but may readily be moved to and fro for the purpose of adjusting the size of the flame. In the body of the lamp, upon the wick, which is coiled within it, is placed a small tuft of cotton wool, moistened with petroleum, any oil not absorbed by the wool being removed. When the lamp has been lighted, the wick is adjusted by means of a pair of forceps until the flame is of the size of the bead fixed on the cover of the oil-cup; should a particular test occupy so long a time that the flame begins to get smaller, through the supply of oil in the lamp becoming exhausted, three or four drops of petroleum are allowed to fall upon the tuft of wool in the lamp from the dropping bottle or pipette provided for that purpose. This can be safely done without interrupting the test.

3. Filling the oil-cup.—The oil-cup having been previously cooled, by placing it bottom downwards in water at a temperature not exceeding 50° Fahrenheit, is to be rapidly wiped dry, placed on a level surface in a good light, and the oil to be tested is poured in very slowly, without splashing, until its surface is level with the point of the gauge which is fixed in the cup. The round bulb thermometer is inserted into the lid of the cup, care being taken that the projecting rim of the collar touches the edge of the socket; the test-lamp, prepared as already described, is placed in position, and the cover is then put on to the cup and pressed down so that its edge rests on the rim of the cup.

4. Application of the test.—The water-bath, with its thermometer in position, is placed in some locality where it is not exposed to currents of air, and where the light is sufficiently subdued to admit of the size of the entire test-flame being compared with that of the bead on the cover. The cup is carefully lifted without shaking it, and placed in the bath, the test-lamp is lighted, and the clockwork wound up by turning the key. The thermometer in the oil-cup is now watched, and when the temperature has reached 56° Fahrenheit the clockwork is set in motion by pressing the trigger.

If no flash takes place the clockwork is at once re-wound, and the trigger pressed at 57° Fahrenheit, and so on, at every degree rise of temperature, until the flash occurs, or until a temperature of 95° Fahrenheit has been reached.

If the flash takes place at any temperature below 77° Fahrenheit the temperature at which it occurs is to be recorded. The fresh portions of the sample are then to be successively tested in a similar manner and the results recorded. If no greater difference than 2° Fahrenheit exists between any two of the three recorded results, each result is to be corrected for atmospheric pressure, as hereafter described, and the average of the three corrected results is the flashing point of the sample. In the event of there being a greater difference than 2° Fahrenheit between any two of the results, the series of tests is to be rejected and a fresh series, of three, similarly obtained, and so on until a sufficiently concordant series is furnished, when the results are to be corrected and the average taken in the manner already described.

No flash which takes place within eight degrees of the temperature at which the testing is commenced shall be accepted as the true flashing point of the sample tested. In the event of a flash occurring at or below 64° when the test is applied in the manner above described, the next testing shall be commenced ten degrees lower than the temperature at which the flash had been previously obtained (that is to say, at 54° or thereunder), and this procedure shall be continued until the results of three consecutive tests do not show a greater difference than 2°.

If a temperature of 76° Fahrenheit has been reached without a flash occurring, the application of the test-flame is to be continued at every degree rise of temperature until a temperature of 95° Fahrenheit has been reached. If no flash has occurred up to this point, and if the petroleum is declared to be imported subject to the provisions of the Act, the tests shall not be continued, and the testing officer shall certify that the petroleum has a flashing point over 95° and is not dangerous. But if the petroleum is oil ordinarily used for lubricating purposes and is declared to have its flashing point at or above 200° degrees, or is oil to which a notification of the Local Government exempting it from the operation of the Act will be applicable in the event of the flashing point being found to be at or above 120°, the test shall be continued as follows:—The oil-cup is to be removed from the water-bath, and the temperature of the water in the water-bath is to be reduced to 95° Fahrenheit by pouring cold water into the funnel (the hot water escaping by the overflow-pipe). The air-chamber is then to be filled to a depth of 1½ inches with water at a temperature of about 95° Fahrenheit, the oil-cup is to be replaced in the water-bath and the spirit-lamp attached to the water-bath is to be lighted and placed underneath. The test-flame is then to be again applied, from 96° Fahrenheit, at every degree rise of temperature as indicated by the thermometer in the oil-cup until a flash takes place or until a temperature of 200° Fahrenheit or 120° Fahrenheit, as the case may be, has been reached. If during this operation the test-flame appears to diminish in size, the lamp is to be replenished in the manner prescribed at (2) without interrupting the test.

The Petroleum Act, 1886.

If a flash occurs at any temperature between 76° and 200° Fahrenheit, the temperature at which it occurs, subject to correction for atmospheric pressure, is the flashing point of the sample.

In repeating a test a fresh sample of oil must always be used, the tested sample being thrown away, and the cup must be wiped dry from any adhering oil and cooled, as already described, before receiving the fresh sample.

5. Correction for atmospheric pressure.—As the flashing point of an oil is influenced by changes in atmospheric pressure to an average extent of 1·6° Fahrenheit for every inch of the barometer, a correction of the observed flashing point may become necessary. The height of the barometer must therefore be determined at the time of making the test for the flashing point. The true height of the barometer for the purpose of the test shall be considered to be the height of the column of mercury measured at 32° Fahrenheit, which is supported by the air pressure at the time of the experiment; that is, the actual height of the barometer at the time of observation duly corrected for any error of the instrument and for its temperature if necessary. For the purpose of applying the correction to the flashing point of the oil obtained by the test, a table is appended to this schedule, giving the flashing points of oils ranging from 65° to 80° Fahrenheit, under pressure ranging from 27 to 31 inches of mercury.

Example.—An oil has given a flashing point of 71°, the barometer being at 28·6 inches; take the nearest number to 71° in the vertical column headed 28·6. This number is 70·8. Substitute for this the number in the same horizontal line in the column headed 30 (the normal height of the barometer). The substituted number, that is, the true flashing point of the oil, is 73°.

S. HARVEY, JAMES,
Offg. Secretary to the Government of India.

The following Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend the Petroleum Act, 1881, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 5th March, 1886 :—

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

WE, the undersigned, Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to amend the Petroleum Act, 1881, was referred, have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin, and have now the honour to submit this our Report.

From Officiating Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Assam, No. 599, dated 14th April, 1885 [Paper No. 1].
From Secretary for Berar to Resident, Hyderabad, No. 176G., dated 18th May, 1885 [Paper No. 2].
From Chief Commissioner, Ajmer-Merwára, No. 644, dated 17th June, 1885 [Paper No. 3].
From Secretary to Chief Commissioner, British Burma, No. 388—2M., dated 16th June, 1885, and enclosures [Papers No. 4].
From Registrar, High Court, Calcutta, No. 1885, dated 23rd June, 1885 [Paper No. 5].
From Chief Secretary to Government, Madras, No. 1606, dated 17th June, 1885, and enclosures [Papers No. 6].
From Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Coorg, No. 543—63, dated 26th June, 1885 [Paper No. 7].
From Secretary to Government, North-Western Provinces and Oudh, No. 1148—VI-190-15, dated 29th June, 1885 [Paper No. 8].
From Officiating Secretary to Government, Punjab, No. 610S., dated 8th July, 1885, and enclosures [Papers No. 9].
From Under-Secretary to Government, Bombay, No. 2501, dated 6th July, 1885, and enclosures [Papers No. 10].
From Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India, No. 65, dated 18th June, 1885, and enclosure [Papers No. 11].
From Officiating Secretary to Government, Bengal, No. 827T.—M., dated 2nd July, 1885, and enclosures [Papers No. 12].
From Assistant Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Central Provinces, No. 2653—83, dated 11th July, 1885 [Paper No. 13].
From Secretary to Government, North-Western Provinces and Oudh, No. 1544—VI-190-22, dated 27th August, 1885, and enclosure [Papers No. 14].

2. On the general question of standards and the definition of dangerous petroleum, we adhere to the scheme laid down in section 3 of the Bill. But Dr. Warden and Mr. Pedler suggest that the lowest standard for lubricating oils (the attainment of which would exempt them from the operation of the Act) should be fixed at 200° instead of 250° as in the present Act. It is, they explain, practically impossible with the Abel apparatus to test up to 250°. They consider the limit of 150°, which is proposed in some of the papers, too low for this country, and believe 200° would meet all reasonable requirements. In this view we concur. We are also of opinion that Local Governments should be empowered to exempt from the operation of the Act and rules oil certified to be over 120° when imported as ordinary cargo and in limited quantities.

3. We consider that section 4 of the Bill should be omitted. Messrs. Warden and Pedler point out that the drawback of the fragility of glass for carriage is frequently more than counterbalanced by its impermeability. It is very difficult in this country to get tin or metal vessels made which shall be thoroughly impervious to highly volatile oil.

4. It is suggested by the Bombay Government and other authorities that it should be made clear that conveyance by sea from one part of British India to another is "transport" and not "import" within the meaning of the Act. We are of opinion that some discretion in the matter should be left to the Local Governments. It would be unsafe, for instance, at present to admit freely to Calcutta oil brought up from Burma. Experience has shown that in Burma refining is not yet thoroughly understood, and the local testing is not at present very trustworthy. The Local Governments in India should have power to treat such oil as foreign oil until its quality generally improves. On the other hand, there is no reason why foreign oil once properly tested should be re-tested on arrival at a second port. We have taken power for the Local Governments of territories, such as Burma and Assam, in which oil is or is likely to be produced, to appoint testing officers at or near refineries, and to prevent the removal from the refineries of oil which does not satisfy the tests otherwise than under the regulations for the control of dangeous petroleum.

5. Turning now to the question of the method of sampling cargoes, we concur with the Bombay Government and other authorities in thinking that it should be open to the Local Government by rule to provide for sampling either before or after landing; to prescribe the number of samples to be taken from a cargo or consignment or any part thereof; to provide, when the first test is unsatisfactory, or when doubt is felt as to the uniformity of quality in the cargo, for the landing and sorting of the cargo in lots, or its delivery into boats, each of a certain capacity; and for the sampling of each lot or boat-load, and its ultimate treatment in accordance with the results of the test in each case.

When a doubtful cargo has to be landed and stacked, substantial fees should be levied, as much additional work is thrown upon Government officers.

6. With reference to the objections taken by some Bombay officers to the provisions of the schedule requiring that the sample tin should be tapped in presence of the testing officer, we observe that Messrs. Warden and Pedler both attach importance to this, as all manipulation and airing of the oil tends to raise its flashing point, and the drawing of oil for testing purposes should in any case be under the control of a responsible officer of the testing department. They consider that in most cases the selection of one case from a cargo of oil certified before arrival to be ordinary petroleum is sufficient, if care is taken to get the sample from below, and thus to defeat any attempt at "facing" the cargo. The number of samples taken at Bombay appears to be unduly large, and has given rise to the objection that to convey them to the Chemical Examiner's laboratory would be an arduous task. We have so amended the Schedule, Part II, paragraph 1, as to provide that the testing officer or some person duly authorized by him shall superintend the drawing of the sample.

7. In revising the Bill we have had regard to the practice which obtains in Bombay of allowing delivery into cargo-boats pending the result of testing, and to the suggestion of the Bengal Government that the Local Government should have the power in special cases to order further tests in such manner as it may deem expedient.

8. As regards the suggestion of the Bombay Government that a second standard apparatus should be maintained at Bombay, it appears to us to be highly important to secure uniformity in the tests throughout India. To this end there should be but one absolute and ultimate standard, and this can most conveniently be maintained in Calcutta.

9. We are of opinion that the Chemical Examiner should stamp any apparatus sent to him not only with a special number but also with the date of his verification of the apparatus, and further that he should give a certificate in writing under his hand, in a form to be laid down by the Governor General in Council, to the effect that the apparatus has been compared and verified by him on a given date and been found to be correct, or correct subject to certain specified corrections to be applied to the results of tests.

10. The Chemical Examiner should also keep a register of verifications.

11. Messrs. Warden and Pedler suggest that in the Schedule, Part I, provision be made for "a barometer standardised at the Meteorological Office of the province, or at any other place appointed by the Local Government." We have accepted the suggestion.

12. With respect to the changes in the Schedule, Part III, proposed by Dr. Lyon, Messrs. Warden and Pedler are inclined to hold that Sir F. Abel has in a paper before us sufficiently met Dr. Lyon's difficulty, and they believe that in practice no difficulty is likely to arise of the kind Dr. Lyon puts forward. They have, however, suggested, and we have acted on the suggestion, that all possible objection would be removed if it were provided that no flashing point obtained should be accepted unless it be at least 8° above the temperature at which the testing commenced.

13. Messrs. Warden and Pedler are of opinion that it is unnecessary in the case of ordinary petroleum to continue the tests when no flash has been obtained up to 95° Fahrenheit. It is only in the case of petroleum for which exemption from the Act is claimed that the test need be continued in the manner laid down in the fourth paragraph of the rules for "application of the test". We have modified that paragraph accordingly.

14. In the Schedule, Part III, paragraph 5, we have pointed out that the height of the barometer must be determined at the time of making the test for the flashing point.

15. We are advised not to accept the suggestion made from Burma to adopt Hewmann's apparatus in preference to Abel's.

16. We have had regard to the remarks of the Bombay Government with reference to the repeal of the municipal laws affecting petroleum, and to giving power to Port Trusts to regulate their own fees for the storage of petroleum.

17. Having thus amended the Bill we have deemed it advisable to consolidate it and the Petroleum Act of 1881, and, in doing so, have taken the opportunity (a) to enhance the penalty for keeping, transporting, selling or exposing for sale dangerous petroleum in contravention of the Act, and (b) to empower the Governor General in Council to make rules as to the transport of petroleum from any part of British India to any other part.

18. The other alterations we have made in consolidating the Bill and the Act are few and unimportant and do not call for notice.

An Act to consolidate and amend the law relating to Government Securities.

WHEREAS it is expedient to consolidate and amend the law relating to Government securities; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Indian Securities Act, 1886; and

(2) It shall come into force on the first day of April, 1886.

(3) The power conferred on the Governor General in Council by section 7, sub-section (1), may be exercised at any time after the passing of this Act; but a notification issued in exercise of that power shall not take effect until the Act comes into force.

Repeal.

2. (1) On and from the day on which this Act comes into force, the Indian Securities Act, 1881, and the Indian Securities Act, 1885, shall be repealed. III of 1881. XIX of 1885.

(2) But any authority conferred, notification issued, list published or rule or order made under either of those Acts shall, so far as may be, be deemed to have been conferred, issued, published or made under this Act.

Definitions.

3. In this Act—

(1) "Government security" includes promissory notes, debentures, stock-certificates and all other securities issued by the Government of India or by any Local Government in respect of any loan contracted either before or after the passing of this Act, but does not include a stock-note or a currency-note: and

(2) "prescribed" means prescribed by rules made by the Governor General in Council.

Notice of trust not receivable.

4. No notice of any trust in respect of any Government security shall be receivable by the Government.

Right of survivors of joint payees of Government securities.

5. (1) Notwithstanding anything in the Indian Contract Act, 1872, section 45, when a Government security is payable to two or more persons jointly and either or any of them dies, the security shall be payable to the survivor or survivors of those persons. IX of 1872.

(2) Nothing herein contained shall affect any claim which the representative of the deceased person may have against the survivor or survivors in respect of the security jointly payable to him or them and the deceased.

(3) This section shall apply whether the death of the person to whom the security was jointly payable occurred or occurs before or after this Act comes into force.

6. Notwithstanding anything in section 15 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881, the holder of a Government security shall not be said to indorse the security, or be called the indorser thereof, if, when he signs the same for the purpose of negotiation, he inscribes his signature for that purpose elsewhere than on the back of the security itself.

Prohibition of indorsements on allonges to Government securities.

XXVI of 1881.

7. (1) In the case of any public office to which the Governor General in Council may, from time to time, by notification in the Gazette of India, declare this sub-section to apply, a Government security may be made or indorsed payable to or to the order of the holder for the time being of the office by the name of the office.

Holding of Government securities by holders for the time being of public offices.

(2) When a Government security is made or indorsed as aforesaid, it shall be deemed to be transferred without any or further indorsement from each holder for the time being of the office to the succeeding holder for the time being of the office on and from the date on which the latter takes charge of the office.

(3) When the holder for the time being of the office indorses to a third party a Government security made or indorsed as aforesaid, he shall subscribe the indorsement with his name and the name of the office.

(4) A writing on a Government security now or heretofore standing in the name of the holder of a public office, whereby the security has been or was made or indorsed payable to or to the order of the holder of the office for the time being, shall not be deemed to be or to have been invalid by reason only of the payee or indorsee being the holder for the time being of a public office by the name of the office.

(5) This section applies as well to an office of which there are two or more joint holders as to an office of which there is a single holder.

8. (1) Whenever the Governor General in Council has issued, in respect of any loan, a certificate declaring the bearer thereof to be entitled to the portion of the loan therein expressed, or a coupon for any amount payable as interest on any portion of the loan, the title to the certificate or coupon may be transferred as if the certificate or coupon were a promissory note payable to bearer.

Transfer and discharge of certificates and coupons.

(2) On payment, by or on behalf of the Government, to the bearer of the certificate or coupon, of the amount expressed therein, at or after the date on which it becomes due, the Government shall be discharged as if the certificate or coupon were a promissory note payable to bearer.

9. A person shall not, by reason only of his having indorsed a Government security, be liable to pay any money due, either as principal or as interest, thereunder.

Indorser of Government security not liable for amount thereof.

10. (1) The signature of the officer of the Government of India authorized to sign Government securities on behalf of the Government may be printed, engraved or lithographed, or impressed by such other mechanical process as the Governor General in Council may direct, on the securities.

Impression of signature on Government securities.

(2) A signature so printed, engraved, lithographed or otherwise impressed shall be as valid as if it had been inscribed in the proper handwriting of the officer.

11. A person claiming to be entitled to a Government security as payable to him under an indorsement may, on satisfying the prescribed officer of the justice of his claim and paying the prescribed fee and delivering the security duly receipted to the prescribed officer, obtain from the officer a renewed security issued payable to himself.

Issue of renewed securities.

12. (1) When a Government security is alleged to have been wholly or partly lost or destroyed, and a person claims to be the person to whom but for the loss or destruction it would be payable, he may, on application to the prescribed officer, and on producing proof to his satisfaction of the loss or destruction and of the justice of the claim, obtain from him an order for—

Issue of duplicate securities.

(a) the payment of interest in respect of the security said to be lost or destroyed pending the issue of a duplicate security; and

(b) the issue of a duplicate security payable to the applicant.

(2) An order shall not be passed under sub-section (1) until after the issue of the prescribed notification of the loss or destruction and after the expiration of the prescribed period, nor until the applicant has given the prescribed indemnity against the claims of all persons deriving title under the security lost or destroyed.

(3) A list of the securities in respect of which an order is passed under sub-section (1) shall be published in the Gazette of India at such times as the Governor General in Council may, from time to time, direct.

13. When a renewed security has been issued under section 11, or a duplicate security has been issued under section 12, the Government shall be discharged from all liability in respect of the original security of which the renewed or duplicate security has been issued—

Period after which the Government is released from liability in respect of original security.

(a) in the case of a renewed security, after the lapse of six years from the date of the issue of the renewed security;

(b) in the case of a duplicate security, after the lapse of six years from the date of the publication under section 12, sub-section (3), of the list in which the security is first mentioned, or from the date of the last payment of interest on the original security, whichever date is the later.

14. The Governor General in Council may, from time to time, make rules to prescribe—

Power of Governor General in Council to make rules.

(a) the mode in which payment of interest in respect of Government securities is to be recorded and acknowledged;

(b) the circumstances in which Government securities must be renewed before further payment of interest thereon can be claimed;

(c) the fees to be paid in respect of applications under sections 11 and 12;

(d) the form in which securities delivered for renewal are to be receipted;

(e) the officer who is to exercise all or any of the powers and perform all or any of the duties prescribed by sections 11 and 12;

(f) the proof which is to be produced by persons applying for duplicate securities;

(g) the form and mode of publication of the notification mentioned in section 12, and the period after which interest may be paid or a duplicate security may be issued under that section;

(i) generally, all matters connected with the grant of renewed and duplicate securities.

15. (1) The Governor General in Council shall, before making rules under section 14, publish a draft of the proposed rules in such manner as may, in his opinion, be sufficient for the information of the public.

Publication of drafts and rules.

(2) There shall be published with the draft a notice specifying a date at or after which the draft will be taken into consideration.

(3) The Governor General in Council shall receive and consider any objection or suggestion which may be made by any person with respect to the draft before the date so specified.

(4) Every rule made under section 14 shall be published in the Gazette of India, and the publication in that Gazette of a rule purporting to be made under that section shall be conclusive proof that it has been duly made.

S. HARVEY JAMES,

Offg. Secretary to the Government of India.

The following Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend the law relating to Government securities was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 12th March, 1886:—

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

We, the undersigned, Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to amend the law relating to Government Securities was referred, have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin, and have now the honour to submit this our Report:

Telegram from Chief Commissioner, Coorg, dated 17th February, 1886 [Paper No. 1].
From Secretary for Berar to Resident, Hyderabad, No. 43G., dated 18th February, 1886 [Paper No. 2].
From Under-Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Central Provinces, No. 549—83, dated 15th February, 1886 [Paper No. 3].
Telegram from Secretary to Government, North-Western Provinces and Oudh, dated 19th February, 1886 [Paper No. 4].
From Officiating Secretary to Government, Bengal, No. 605, dated 19th February, 1886, and enclosures [Paper No. 5].
Telegram from Chief Commissioner, Ajmer-Merwára, No. 326C., dated 21st February, 1886 [Paper No. 6].
From Acting Chief Secretary to Government, Madras, No. 421, dated 17th February, 1886, and enclosures [Paper No. 7].
Telegram from Secretary to Government, Bombay, dated 22nd February, 1886 [Paper No. 8].
From Officiating Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Assam, No. 378, dated 16th February, 1886 [Paper No. 9].
Telegram from Chief Commissioner, British Burma, dated 27th February, 1886 [Paper No. 10].
From Under-Secretary to Government, Bombay, No. 544, dated 1st March, 1886 [Paper No. 11].

2. We have added to the section respecting the holding of Government securities by holders for the time being of public offices two sub-sections, the one removing any doubt which may exist as to the validity of past indorsements in favour of holders for the time being of such offices, and the other declaring the section to apply not only to an office of which there is a single holder but to an office of which there are two or more joint holders.

3. We consider it desirable that the law relating to Government securities should be consolidated. We have, therefore, proposed to repeal the Indian Securities Acts of 1881 and 1885, and to embody the substance of them and of the Bill in a single enactment.

4. The publication ordered by the Council has been made as follows :—

Definitions.

3. In this Act—

(1) "Government security" includes promissory notes, debentures, stock-certificates and all other securities issued by the Government of India or by any Local Government in respect of any loan contracted either before or after the passing of this Act, but does not include a stock-note or a currency-note : and

(2) "prescribed" means prescribed by rules made by the Governor General in Council.

Notice of trust not receivable.

4. No notice of any trust in respect of any Government security shall be receivable by the Government.

Right of survivors of joint payees of Government securities.

5. (1) Notwithstanding anything in the Indian Contract Act, 1872, section 45, when a Government security is payable to two or more persons jointly and either or any of them dies, the security shall be payable to the survivor or survivors of those persons. IX of 1872.

(2) Nothing herein contained shall affect any claim which the representative of the deceased person may have against the survivor or survivors in respect of the security jointly payable to him or them and the deceased.

(3) This section shall apply whether the death of the person to whom the security was jointly payable occurred or occurs before or after this Act comes into force.

6. Notwithstanding anything in section 15 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881, the holder of a Government security shall not be said to indorse the security, or be called the indorser thereof, if, when he signs the same for the purpose of negotiation, he inscribes his signature for that purpose elsewhere than on the back of the security itself.

Prohibition of indorsements on allonges to Government securities.

XXVI of 1881.

7. (1) In the case of any public office to which the Governor General in Council may, from time to time, by notification in the Gazette of India, declare this sub-section to apply, a Government security may be made or indorsed payable to or to the order of the holder for the time being of the office by the name of the office.

Holding of Government securities by holders for the time being of public offices.

(2) When a Government security is made or indorsed as aforesaid, it shall be deemed to be transferred without any or further indorsement from each holder for the time being of the office to the succeeding holder for the time being of the office on and from the date on which the latter takes charge of the office.

(4) A writing on a Government security now or heretofore standing in the name of the holder of a public office, whereby the security has been or was made or indorsed payable to or to the order of the holder of the office for the time being, shall not be deemed to be or to have been invalid by reason only of the payee or indorsee being the holder for the time being of a public office by the name of the office.

(5) This section applies as well to an office of which there are two or more joint holders as to an office of which there is a single holder.

8. (1) Whenever the Governor General in Council has issued, in respect of any loan, a certificate declaring the bearer thereof to be entitled to the portion of the loan therein expressed, or a coupon for any amount payable as interest on any portion of the loan, the title to the certificate or coupon may be transferred as if the certificate or coupon were a promissory note payable to bearer.

Transfer and discharge of certificates and coupons.

(2) On payment, by or on behalf of the Government, to the bearer of the certificate or coupon, of the amount expressed therein, at or after the date on which it becomes due, the Government shall be discharged as if the certificate or coupon were a promissory note payable to bearer.

9. A person shall not, by reason only of his having indorsed a Government security, be liable to pay any money due, either as principal or as interest, thereunder.

Indorser of Government security not liable for amount thereof.

10. (1) The signature of the officer of the Government of India authorized to sign Government securities on behalf of the Government may be printed, engraved or lithographed, or impressed by such other mechanical process as the Governor General in Council may direct, on the securities.

Impression of signature on Government securities.

(2) A signature so printed, engraved, lithographed or otherwise impressed shall be as valid as if it had been inscribed in the proper handwriting of the officer.

11. A person claiming to be entitled to a Government security as payable to him under an indorsement may, on satisfying the prescribed officer of the justice of his claim and paying the prescribed fee and delivering the security duly receipted to the prescribed officer, obtain from the officer a renewed security issued payable to himself.

Issue of renewed securities.

12. (1) When a Government security is alleged to have been wholly or partly lost or destroyed, and a person claims to be the person to whom but for the loss or destruction it would be payable, he may, on application to the prescribed officer, and on producing proof to his satisfaction of the loss or destruction and of the justice of the claim, obtain from him an order for—

Issue of duplicate securities.

(a) the payment of interest in respect of the security said to be lost or destroyed pending the issue of a duplicate security; and

(b) the issue of a duplicate security payable to the applicant.

(2) An order shall not be passed under sub-section (1) until after the issue of the prescribed notification of the loss or destruction and after the expiration of the prescribed period, nor until the applicant has given the prescribed indemnity against the claims of all persons deriving title under the security lost or destroyed.

(3) A list of the securities in respect of which an order is passed under sub-section (1) shall be published in the Gazette of India at such times as the Governor General in Council may, from time to time, direct.

13. When a renewed security has been issued under section 11, or a duplicate security has been issued under section 12, the Government shall be discharged from all liability in respect of the original security of which the renewed or duplicate security has been issued—

Period after which the Government is released from liability in respect of original security.

(a) in the case of a renewed security, after the lapse of six years from the date of the issue of the renewed security;

(b) in the case of a duplicate security, after the lapse of six years from the date of the publication under section 12, sub-section (3), of the list in which the security is first mentioned, or from the date of the last payment of interest on the original security, whichever date is the later.

14. The Governor General in Council may, from time to time, make rules to prescribe—

Power of Governor General in Council to make rules.

(a) the mode in which payment of interest in respect of Government securities is to be recorded and acknowledged;

(b) the circumstances in which Government securities must be renewed before further payment of interest thereon can be claimed;

(c) the fees to be paid in respect of applications under sections 11 and 12;

(d) the form in which securities delivered for renewal are to be receipted;

(e) the officer who is to exercise all or any of the powers and perform all or any of the duties prescribed by sections 11 and 12;

(f) the proof which is to be produced by persons applying for duplicate securities;

(g) the form and mode of publication of the notification mentioned in section 12, and the period after which interest may be paid or a duplicate security may be issued under that section;

(i) generally, all matters connected with the grant of renewed and duplicate securities.

15. (1) The Governor General in Council shall, before making rules under section 14, publish a draft of the proposed rules in such manner as may, in his opinion, be sufficient for the information of the public.

Publication of drafts and rules.

(2) There shall be published with the draft a notice specifying a date at or after which the draft will be taken into consideration.

(3) The Governor General in Council shall receive and consider any objection or suggestion which may be made by any person with respect to the draft before the date so specified.

(4) Every rule made under section 14 shall be published in the Gazette of India, and the publication in that Gazette of a rule purporting to be made under that section shall be conclusive proof that it has been duly made.

S. HARVEY JAMES,

Offg. Secretary to the Government of India.

The following Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend the law relating to Government securities was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 12th March, 1886:—

2. We have added to the section respecting the holding of Government securities by holders for the time being of public offices two sub-sections, the one removing any doubt which may exist as to the validity of past indorsements in favour of holders for the time being of such offices, and the other declaring the section to apply not only to an office of which there is a single holder but to an office of which there are two or more joint holders.

3. We consider it desirable that the law relating to Government securities should be consolidated. We have, therefore, proposed to repeal the Indian Securities Acts of 1881 and 1885, and to embody the substance of them and of the Bill in a single enactment.

The following Act of the Governor General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor General on the 10th June, 1886, and is hereby promulgated for General information :—

ACT NO. XIV OF 1886.

An Act to amend the North-Western Provinces Rent Act, 1881.

XII of 1881.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the North-Western Provinces Rent Act, 1881; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Short title and commencement.

1. This Act may be called the North-Western Provinces Rent Act, 1886; and it shall come into force at once.

Amendment of section 95 of Act XII of 1881.

XII of 1881.

2. For the last paragraph of section 95 of the North-Western Provinces Rent Act, 1881, the following shall be substituted, namely :—

VII of 1870.

"For the purposes of the Court-fees Act, 1870, the amount of fee payable in the cases next hereinafter mentioned shall be computed as follows :—

"(i) in applications under clause (e), and in appeals from orders passed on applications under that clause, as in a suit for possession of the land to which the application or appeal relates;

"(ii) in applications under clauses (l), (n), (o) and (p), and in appeals from orders passed on applications under clauses (d), (e), (f), (l), (n), (o), (p), (q) and (s), according to the rent of the land to which the application or appeal relates payable for the year next before the date of presenting the application, or, if in any case the fee cannot be so computed, then according to the annual letting value of the land as estimated by the applicant or appellant, as the case may be;

"(iii) in applications under clause (m), and in appeals from orders passed on applications under clauses (j), (m) and (t), according to the amount claimed in the application or in the petition of appeal, as the case may be."

New sections inserted after section 100 of same Act.

3. After section 100 of the same Act the following sections shall be inserted, namely :—

Power of Board to transfer business.

"100A. The Board may, on cause shown to its satisfaction, transfer any suit, application or appeal, or class of suits, applications or appeals, from any Court of Revenue to any other Court of Revenue competent as regards the nature of the case or class of cases to deal therewith under the provisions of this Act.

Commissioners may transfer appeals.

"100B. (1) The Commissioner of a Division may, with the sanction of the Local Government, transfer any appeal or class of appeals pending before himself to any Collector of a district within his Division.

"(2) The order passed by a Collector on an appeal transferred to him by the Commissioner under sub-section (1) shall be subject to appeal and revision in the same manner as if it had been passed by the Commissioner, and not otherwise.

"(3) The Local Government may by order recall any appeal transferred to a Collector under sub-section (1), and refer it for disposal to the Commissioner of the Division by whom it was transferred."

Amendment of section 169 of same Act.

4. For the last paragraph of section 169 of the same Act the following shall be substituted, namely :—

"The provisions of sections 74 to 78 (both inclusive) and section 80 shall, so far as they can be made applicable, apply to the sale of the property as if the terms 'distress,' 'distrained property' and 'distrainer' included respectively the execution of a writ against moveable property, moveable property taken in execution of a writ and a judgment-creditor."

Addition to section 189 of same Act.

5. In section 189 of the same Act, after the words "one hundred rupees, or" the following shall be inserted, namely :—

"in which the rent payable by the tenant has been a matter in issue and has been determined, or"

Sections 193, 196 and 197 of the same Act in part repealed.

6. In the same Act the last twelve words of section 193, the last twelve words of clause (a) of both sections 193 and 196, and the last six words of section 197, are repealed.

Amendment of section 194 of same Act.

7. In section 194 of the same Act the word "other" is repealed; and in clause (b) of the same section, for the word and figures "section 99" the words and figures "sections 99 and 100" shall be substituted.

Substitution of new section for section 195 of same Act.

8. For section 195 of the same Act the following shall be substituted, namely :—

"195. The orders of an Assistant Collector of the first class on applications mentioned in section 98 shall be final."

The Provincial Small Cause Courts Bill, 1885.

(Chapter II.—Constitution of Courts of Small Causes.—Sections 1-8.)

A Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to Courts of Small Causes established beyond the Presidency-towns.

WHEREAS it is expedient to consolidate and amend the law relating to Courts of Small Causes established beyond the local limits for the time being of the ordinary original civil jurisdiction of the High Courts of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal and at Madras and Bombay; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

Short title, local extent and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, 1886.

XIV of 1874.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India except the scheduled districts as defined in the Scheduled Districts Act, 1874; and

(3) It shall come into force on the first day of July, 1886.

Repeal.

2. (1) The enactments specified in the first schedule to this Act are repealed to the extent mentioned therein.

(2) But all Courts constituted, limits fixed, appointments, declarations and rules made, jurisdiction and powers conferred, forms prescribed, directions given and notifications published under Act XI of 1865 (an Act to consolidate and amend the law relating to Courts of Small Causes beyond the local limits of the ordinary original Civil jurisdiction of the High Courts of Judicature) shall, so far as may be, be deemed to have been respectively constituted, fixed, made, conferred, prescribed, given and published under this Act.

(3) Any enactment or document referring to the said Act XI of 1865 shall, so far as may be, be construed to refer to this Act or to the corresponding portion thereof.

Saving of procedure and jurisdiction in certain cases.

3. Nothing in this Act affects—

[Act XIV, 1882, s. 3.]

(a) any proceedings prior to decree in any suit instituted before the day on which this Act comes into force or any proceedings after decree which were commenced before and were pending on that day;

[44 & 45 Vic., c. 58.] [Act XV, 1882, s. 1, and Act XI, 1865, s. 49.]

[Act XI, 1865, s. 12. cf. Act IX, 1860.]

(c) the jurisdiction of a Cantonment Joint Magistrate invested with civil jurisdiction under Act III of 1859, or of a Magistrate having jurisdiction under any law for the time being in force with respect to debts or other claims of a civil nature, or of Village Munsifs or Village Panchâyats under the provisions of the Madras Code.

Definitions.

4. In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context,— [New.] Mad. Regs. IV and V of 1816.

(1) "Court of Small Causes" means a Court of Small Causes constituted under this Act:

(2) "District Court" means a principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction:

(3) "district" means the local limits of the jurisdiction of a District Court:

(4) "value", used with reference to a suit, means the amount or value of the subject-matter of the suit: and

CHAPTER II.

CONSTITUTION OF COURTS OF SMALL CAUSES.

Establishment of Courts of Small Causes, and local limits of their jurisdiction.

5. (1) The Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, may, by order in writing, establish a Court of Small Causes at any place within the territories under its administration. [Act XI, 1865, s. 8.]

(2) The local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court shall be such as the Local Government may define.

Judge.

6. (1) When a Court of Small Causes has been established, the Local Government shall, by order in writing, appoint a Judge of the Court. [Act XI, 1865, s. 12.]

(2) The Judge may be the Judge of one Court of Small Causes or of two or more such Courts, as the Local Government directs.

Appointment of times of sitting in certain circumstances.

7. (1) A Judge who is the Judge of two or more such Courts may fix the times at which he will sit in each of the Courts of which he is Judge. [Act XI, 1865, s. 14.]

(2) Notice of the times shall be published in such manner as the High Court directs.

Additional Judge.

8. (1) The Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, may, by order in writing, appoint an Additional Judge of a Court of Small Causes. [Act XI, 1865, s. 16, and Act XVII, 1875, s. 24.]

(2) The Additional Judge shall discharge such of the functions of the Judge as the Judge directs. [Act VI, 1871, s. 7.]

The Provincial Small Cause Courts Bill, 1885.

(Chapter II.—Constitution of Courts of Small Causes.—Sections 9-16.)

[cf. Act XIV, 1882, s. 25.]

(3) The Judge may withdraw from the Additional Judge any business pending before him.

[New.]

(4) When the Judge is absent, the Additional Judge may discharge all or any of the functions of the Judge.

[Act XI, 1865, ss. 29, 30 & 31.]

Power to require two Judges to sit as a bench.

9. The Local Government may, by order in writing, direct that two Judges of Courts of Small Causes, or a Judge and an Additional Judge of a Court of Small Causes, shall sit together for the trial of such suits cognizable by a Court of Small Causes as may be described in the order.

[Act XI, 1865, ss. 32, 33 and 34.]

Decision in case heard by a bench.

10. (1) Where two Judges, or a Judge and an Additional Judge, sitting together under section 9, are of the same opinion as to a decree or order to be made, the decree or order shall follow their opinion.

(2) If they differ as to a question of law or usage having the force of law, or in construing a document the construction of which may affect the merits, they shall draw up and refer, for the decision of the High Court, a statement of the facts of the case and of the point on which they differ in opinion, and the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure applicable to a reference to the High Court shall apply.

XIV of 1882.

(3) If they differ on any matter other than a matter specified in sub-section (2), the opinion of the Judge who is senior in respect of date of appointment as Judge of a Court of Small Causes, or, if one of them is an Additional Judge, then the opinion of the Judge sitting with him, shall prevail.

[Act XVIII, 1884, s. 5.]

(4) For the purposes of sub-section (3), a Judge permanently appointed shall be deemed senior to an officiating Judge.

[Act XI, 1865, ss. 35, 36 and 40.]

Registrar.

11. (1) The Judge of a Court of Small Causes shall, if the Local Government directs, appoint an officer to be called the Registrar.

(2) The appointment shall be subject to the sanction of the Local Government.

(3) Where a Registrar is appointed, he shall be the chief ministerial officer of the Court.

(4) The Local Government may, by order in writing, confer upon the Registrar, within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court, the jurisdiction of a Judge of a Court of Small Causes for the trial of suits of which the value does not exceed twenty rupees.

(5) The Registrar shall exercise the jurisdiction subject to the general control of the Judge.

[Act XI, 1865, s. 44.]

Clerk of Court.

12. (1) Subject to the sanction of the Local Government, the Judge of a Court of Small Causes may appoint an officer to be called the Clerk of the Court.

(2) A Registrar of a Court of Small Causes may also be the Clerk of the Court.

Other ministerial officers.

13. Subject to the sanction of the Local Government, the Judge of a Court of Small Causes may appoint as many other ministerial officers as may be necessary. [Act XI, 1865 s. 3.]

Duties of ministerial officers.

14. (1) The ministerial officers of a Court of Small Causes shall, in addition to any duties mentioned in this Act, or in any other enactment for the time being in force, as duties which are or may be imposed on any of them, discharge such duties of a ministerial nature as the Judge directs. [Act XV, 1882, s. 13.]

(2) The High Court may make rules consistent with this Act, and with any other enactment for the time being in force, conferring and imposing on the ministerial officers of a Court of Small Causes such powers and duties of a non-judicial or quasi-judicial nature as it thinks fit, and regulating the mode in which powers and duties so conferred and imposed shall be exercised and performed. [Act XVIII, 1884, s. 14, cl. (f).]

Suspension and removal of officers.

15. (1) A Judge, Additional Judge or Registrar of a Court of Small Causes may be suspended or removed from office by the Local Government. [cf. Act XVIII, 1884, ss. 31, 36 & 37.]

(2) The Judge of a Court of Small Causes may suspend the Registrar of his Court if there appears to him to be urgent necessity for so doing, and may suspend or remove from office, or fine in an amount not exceeding one month's salary, any other ministerial officer of his Court who is guilty of misconduct or neglect in the performance of his duties.

(3) A fine imposed under sub-section (2) may, if the order imposing it so directs, be recovered by deduction of the amount thereof from any salary which may be or become due to the officer fined. [Act XVI, 1885, s. 11, sub-section (4).]

Penalty on Judge or ministerial officer practising or trading.

16. (1) A Judge, Additional Judge or ministerial officer appointed under this Act shall not, during his tenure of office, either by himself or as a partner of any other person, practise or act, either directly or indirectly, as an advocate, vakíl, attorney, pleader or other legal practitioner, or be concerned, either on his own account or for any other person, or as the partner of any other person, in any trade or profession. [Act XV, 1882, s. 15, and Act XI, 1865, s. 17.]

(2) If a Judge, Additional Judge or ministerial officer aforesaid practises, acts or is concerned in any trade or profession, in contravention of the provisions of sub-section (1), he shall be deemed to have committed an offence under section 168 of the Indian Penal Code. XLV of 1860.

(3) Nothing in this section shall be deemed to prohibit a Judge, Additional Judge or ministerial officer from being a member of an incorporated or registered company.

The Provincial Small Cause Courts Bill, 1885.

(Chapter IV.—Practice and Procedure of Courts of Small Causes.—Sections 17-24.)

CHAPTER III.

JURISDICTION OF COURTS OF SMALL CAUSES.

17. (1) A Court of Small Causes shall not take cognizance of the suits specified in the second schedule to this Act.

Cognizance of suits by Courts of Small Causes.

[Act XV, 1882, ss. 18 and 19.]

(2) Subject to the exceptions specified in the said schedule, all suits of a civil nature of which the value does not exceed five hundred rupees shall be cognizable by a Court of Small Causes.

[Act XI, 1865, s. 7.]

(3) Subject to the exceptions aforesaid, the Local Government may, by order in writing, direct that all suits of a civil nature of which the value does not exceed one thousand rupees shall be cognizable by a Court of Small Causes mentioned in the order.

[Act XI, 1865, s. 12. Act XVII, 1879, s. 6.]

18. Save as expressly provided by this Act or by any other enactment for the time being in force, a suit cognizable by a Court of Small Causes shall not be tried by any other Court having jurisdiction within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court of Small Causes.

Exclusive jurisdiction of Courts of Small Causes.

CHAPTER IV.

PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE OF COURTS OF SMALL CAUSES.

[Act XIV, 1882, s. 5.] XIV of 1882.

19. The procedure prescribed in the chapters and sections of the Code of Civil Procedure specified in the second schedule annexed to the said Code, as amended by this Act, shall, so far as those chapters and sections are applicable, be the procedure followed in a Court of Small Causes in all suits cognizable by it:

Application of the Code of Civil Procedure.

Provided that—

[Act XI, 1865, s. 32.]

(a) where the applicant for a review of judgment was the defendant or one of the defendants, the Court shall not grant his application unless, at the time of presenting the application, he deposits in the Court the amount due from him under the decree or order; and

(b) where a person to be arrested or property to be attached under section 648 of the said Code resides or is situate within the local limits of the ordinary original civil jurisdiction of the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal or at Madras or Bombay, or of the Recorder of Rangoon, the copy of the warrant of arrest or of the order of attachment, and the probable amount of the costs of the arrest or attachment, shall be sent to the Court of Small Causes of Calcutta, Madras, Bombay or Rangoon, as the case may be; and that Court, on receipt of the copy and amount, shall proceed as if it were the District Court.

20. Except in a case of set-off, a written statement shall not be received unless required by the Court.

Exclusion of written statements.

[Act XI, 1865, s. 18; and Act XV, 1882, s. 24.]

21. If it appears to a Court of Small Causes that a judgment-debtor under its decree has not, within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court, moveable property sufficient to satisfy the decree, it may, on the application of the decreeholder, send the decree for execution to another Court in the manner provided by the Code of Civil Procedure, sections 223 and 224.

Transfer of decrees to other Courts for execution.

XIV of 1882.

22. Suits cognizable by the Registrar under section 11, sub-section (4), shall be tried by him, and decrees passed therein shall be executed by him, in like manner in all respects as the Judge might try the suits, and execute the decrees, respectively:

Trial of suits by Registrar.

[Act XI, 1865, s. 41.]

Provided that the Judge may transfer to his own file, or to that of the Additional Judge if an Additional Judge has been appointed, any suit or other proceeding pending on the file of the Registrar.

23. (1) When the Judge of a Court of Small Causes is absent, and an Additional Judge has not been appointed or, having been appointed, is also absent, the Registrar may return or reject a plaint for any reason for which the Judge might return or reject it.

Admission, return and rejection of plaints by Registrar.

[Act XI, 1865, s. 24.]

(2) The Judge may, of his own motion or on the application of a party, return or reject a plaint which has been admitted by the Registrar, or admit a plaint which has been returned or rejected by him:

Provided that, where a party applies for the return or rejection or the admission of a plaint under this sub-section, his application shall be made at the first sitting of the Court after the day on which the Registrar admitted, or returned or rejected, the plaint.

24. (1) If, before the date appointed for the hearing of a suit, the defendant or his agent duly authorised in that behalf appears before the Registrar and admits the plaintiff's claim, the Registrar may, if the Judge is absent, and an Additional Judge has not been appointed or, having been appointed, is also absent, pass against the defendant, upon the admission, a decree, which shall have the same effect as a decree passed by the Judge.

Passing of decrees by Registrar on confession.

[Act XI, 1865, ss. 38 and 43.]

(2) Where a decree has been passed by the Registrar under sub-section (1), the Judge may grant an application for review of judgment and re-hear the suit, on the same conditions, on the same grounds and in the same manner as if the decree had been passed by himself.

The Provincial Small Cause Courts Bill, 1885.

[Act XI, 1865, s. 39.]

25. (1) If the Judge is absent, and an Additional Judge has not been appointed or, having been appointed, is also absent, the Registrar shall receive applications for the execution of decrees and orders made by the Court of which he is Registrar or sent to that Court for execution, and may, subject to any instructions which he may have received from the Judge or, with respect to decrees or orders made by an Additional Judge, from the Additional Judge, make any orders in respect of the applications which the Judge might make under this Act.

Execution of decrees by Registrar.

(2) The Judge, in the case of any decree or order with respect to the execution of which the Registrar has made an order under sub-section (1), and the Additional Judge, in the case of any such decree or order made by himself, may, within fifteen days from the date of the order of the Registrar or of the execution of any process issued in pursuance of that order, reverse or modify the order, either of his own motion or on the application of a party.

[Act XVIII, 1868, s. 1.] XV of 1877. [Act XI, 1865, s. 45.]

(3) The period of fifteen days mentioned in sub-section (2) shall be computed in accordance with the provisions of the Indian Limitation Act, 1877.

26. The Clerk of the Court shall, subject to the orders of the Judge, and of the Registrar if a Registrar has been appointed, receive plaints and applications, issue summonses and notices, and, unless the High Court has ordered otherwise, take charge and keep an account of all moneys and securities for money paid or delivered into or out of Court.

Functions of Clerk of Court.

[Act XI, 1865, s. 21.]

27. Save as in this Act expressly provided, a decree or order made under the foregoing provisions of this Act shall be final.

Finality of decrees and orders.

CHAPTER V.

SUPPLEMENTAL PROVISIONS.

28. The Local Government may fix the place or places, within the local limits of the jurisdiction of a Court of Small Causes, at which the jurisdiction shall be exercised.

Place of sitting.

29. A Court of Small Causes shall be subject to the control of the District Court and to the superintendence of the High Court, and shall—Subordination of Courts of Small Causes.

(a) keep such registers, books and accounts as the High Court prescribes; and

(b) comply with such requisitions as may be made by the District Court, the High Court or the Local Government for returns and statements in such form and manner as the authority making the requisition directs.

30. A Court of Small Causes shall use a seal of such form and dimensions as are prescribed by the Local Government.

Seal.

[Act XI, 1865, s. 4.]

31. The Local Government may, by order in writing, abolish a Court of Small Causes.

Abolition of Courts of Small Causes.

[Act XI, 1865, s. 3.]

32. (1) Nothing in this Act shall prevent the Local Government from appointing a person who is a Judge or Additional Judge of a Court of Small Causes to be also a Judge of any other Civil Court subordinate to a District Court, or to be a Magistrate of any class.

Saving of power to appoint Judge of Court of Small Causes to other office.

[Act XI, 1865, s. 51.]

(2) When a Judge or Additional Judge is so appointed, the ministerial officers of his Court shall, subject to such rules as the Local Government may make in this behalf, be deemed to be ministerial officers appointed to aid him in the discharge of his duties as the Judge of the other Civil Court or as a Magistrate.

33. (1) So much of Chapters III and IV of this Act as relates to the nature of the suits cognizable by Courts of Small Causes, to the exclusion of the jurisdiction of other Courts in those suits, to the powers and procedure of Courts of Small Causes, and to the finality of the decrees and orders of those Courts, applies to Courts invested under any enactment for the time being in force with the jurisdiction of a Court of Small Causes when the Courts are exercising that jurisdiction.

Application of Act to Courts with jurisdiction of Court of Small Causes

[New.]

(2) A Court invested with the jurisdiction of a Court of Small Causes, with respect to the exercise of that jurisdiction, and the same Court, with respect to the exercise of its jurisdiction in suits of a civil nature which are not cognizable by a Court of Small Causes, shall, for the purposes of this Act and the Code of Civil Procedure, be deemed to be different Courts.

[New.] XIV of 1882.

34. In the third division of the second schedule to the Indian Limitation Act, 1877,— Amendment of Indian Limitation Act.

[Act XV, 1882, s. 37.] XV of 1877.

(a) before No. 158, the following shall be inserted, namely:—

"157A. For a review of judgment by a Provincial Court of Small Causes, or by a Court invested with the jurisdiction of a Provincial Court of Small Causes when exercising that jurisdiction.	Eight days.	The date of the decree or order."

The Provincial Small Cause Courts Bill, 1885.

(Chapter V.—Supplemental Provisions.—Sections 35-36.—The First Schedule.—Enactments repealed.—The Second Schedule.—Suits excepted from the cognizance of a Court of Small Causes.)

and (b) in No. 178, the words, figures and letter "No. 157A and" shall be inserted before the word and figures "No. 162."

[Act XVIII, 1884, s. 65.]

35. All powers conferred by this Act may be exercised from time to time as occasion requires.

Powers exerciseable from time to time.

[Act XVI, 1885, s. 27.]

36. All orders required by this Act to be made in writing by the Local Government shall be published in the official Gazette, but shall take effect from the date on which they are made.

Publication of certain orders.

(37) a suit against the Government to recover money paid under protest in satisfaction of a claim made by a revenue-authority on account of an arrear of land-revenue or of a demand recoverable as an arrear of land-revenue; [Act XV, 1877, Sch. II, Art. 16.]

(38) a suit the cognizance whereof by a Court of Small Causes is barred by any enactment for the time being in force.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE suits cognizable in Courts of Small Causes are, subject to certain provisoes, described in section 6, Act XI of 1865, as "claims for money due on bond or other contract, or for rent, or for personal property, or for the value of such property, or for damages, when the debt, damage or demand does not exceed in amount or value the sum of five hundred rupees whether on balance of account or otherwise": and section 586 of the Code of Civil Procedure provides that "no second appeal shall lie in any suit of the nature cognizable in Courts of Small Causes, when the amount or value of the subject-matter of the original suit does not exceed five hundred rupees." Since section 6 of the Act of 1865 was enacted, a vast quantity of case-law has grown up around it, and, as the rulings of the Courts have not been uniform, doubts constantly arise on the question whether a suit is or is not a suit of the nature cognizable by a Court of Small Causes, and, consequently, whether or not, where the suit is of value not exceeding five hundred rupees and the original decree made in it was not final but was open to appeal, an appeal will also lie from the appellate decree in the suit. It appears to the Government of India that the conflicting constructions placed on section 6, of which some are due to the progress of legislation during the last twenty years (I. L. R. 3 All. 66), render a more accurate definition necessary of the suits of which Courts of Small Causes may take cognizance, and that legislation to this end should follow sections 18 and 19 of the Presidency Small Cause Courts Act, 1882, in declaring the jurisdiction of those Courts to extend to all suits of a civil nature, subject to specified exceptions. This Bill has accordingly been prepared, its primary object being to remove the doubts now felt as to the effect of section 6, Act XI of 1865; and, as several sections and parts of sections of that Act have, from time to time, been repealed and other sections are obsolete as regards both expression and utility, it has been considered desirable to repeal the Act and re-enact the substance of the extant portions of it.

2. The parts of the Bill which appear to call for remark will be noticed in the following paragraphs.

3. Section 3.—The limited extent of the savings in this section, as compared with section 12 of the Act of 1865, is due to the Government of India having decided to move the legislature to repeal Act XI of 1841, and connected Acts, regarding Military Courts of Requests for Native Officers and Soldiers, and so much of Bombay Regulation XXII of 1827 as relates to the trial of small suits by superintendents of bázárs in military stations in the presidency of Bombay.

4. Section 8.—Inconvenience has resulted from the restrictive terms in which section 15 of the Act of 1865 was drawn. It is proposed, therefore, to empower Local Governments to appoint Additional Judges without limit of time.

5. Section 9.—Sections 29 and 30, Act XI of 1865, appear to be little, if at all, used. It seems unnecessary, therefore, to retain them. If it is deemed desirable that two Judges should anywhere sit together as a bench for the trial of particular suits or classes of suits, a bench can be constituted under section 9 of the Bill, corresponding with section 31 of the Act of 1865.

6. Section 17.—This section declares the jurisdiction of a Court of Small Causes to extend to all suits, subject to certain exceptions specified in the second schedule to the Bill.

7. Second Schedule.—This schedule follows, with slight modifications section 19 of the Presidency Small Cause Courts Act, 1882, so far as that section goes.

8. As regards No. (11) of the suits specified in the schedule, it has been held that suits for the redemption of a mortgage of moveable property (16 W. R. 58) or for the sale of moveable property by enforcement of lien (9 W. R. 136) do not now, and (I. L. R. 7 All. 855) ought not to, lie in a Court of Small Causes.

9. The suits referred to in No. (20) are of two descriptions—

(a) by a decree-holder to have the right of his judgment-debtor declared to property of which the attachment has been raised; and

(b) by the owner of attached property, after disallowance of his objection to the attachment, either against the decree-holder or an auction-purchaser, to recover the property.

Suits of description (a), being suits for declaratory decrees, appear to have been held by most, if not all, High Courts not to be cognizable by a Court of Small Causes (10 W. R. 141; I. L. R. 4 Bom. 503; 3 All. H. C. Rep. 156: Punjab Record, No. 84 of 1870). As to suits of description (b), there is a conflict of authority (I. L. R. 7 All. 152; and cases there cited). It would seem, apart from section 6 of Act XI of 1865, that if suits of the one description ought not to be cognizable by Courts of Small Causes, the jurisdiction of those Courts ought to be barred in respect of suits of the other description also.

10. The suits referred to in No. (30) are of superior importance, and there should be a right of appeal from decrees passed in them. The rulings at I. L. R. 3 All. 747, and in the cases there cited, were made solely with reference to the language of section 6 of the Act of 1865. Most of these suits have been excluded from the jurisdiction of Presidency Small Cause Courts.

11. As regards the suits which No. (32) is intended to exclude from the jurisdiction of Courts of Small Causes, Westropp, C. J., has observed that "the very possible necessity of varying the maintenance from time to time, and of enquiring into the circumstances of the claimant, or of the family estate, or the family itself, shows how unsuitable maintenance suits are for the Small Cause Courts" (I. L. R. 2 Bom. 630). Arrears of maintenance are usually claimed on one of four grounds—

(a) the legal right of the plaintiff to maintenance;
(b) a decree of Court;
(c) an award of arbitrators fixing the maintenance; or (d) a special bond or other contract for the payment of maintenance.

Suits on ground (a) involve intricate questions of title, and those on grounds (b) and (c) have been held not to be cognizable by a Court of Small Causes (6 All. H. C. Rep. 91, and cases there cited; 3 All. H. C. Rep. 117 and 7 All. H. C. Rep. 329). Suits on ground (d) are at present cognizable by a Court of Small Causes. But, seeing that even in those suits questions may be raised as to re-adjustment of maintenance (5 C. L. R. 18), and possibly as to forfeiture (I. L. R. 7 Bom. 84), it seems desirable that suits for maintenance generally, including suits of the kind referred to at I. L. R. 7 Bom. 537, should be excluded from the jurisdiction of Courts of Small Causes.

12. As regards No. (33), reference may be made to 1 All. H. C. Rep. 205, and I. L. R. 1 All. 444, 2 All. 905, and 9 Cal. 183. Moreover, in suits which No. (33) is intended to cover, claims may be, and often are, included which ought not to be cognizable by a Court of Small Causes.

13. As regards Nos. (34) and (35), reference may be made to the case reported at I. L. R. 5 All. 438. It seems proper that such a suit as is there described, involving, as it may, intricate village-accounts and important questions of right, should not be cognizable by a Court of Small Causes. Moreover, the decree in the suit should be open to appeal, as ordinarily the decree of a Revenue Court would be in a suit by a recorded co-sharer against a lambardár.

14. There appears to be no sufficient reason for excluding any suits for contribution from the jurisdiction of Courts of Small Causes, except the suits referred to in Nos. (36) and (38). As to the cognizance of suits for contribution generally under the Act of 1865, there has been some conflict of authority, the High Court at Fort William holding them not to be cognizable by Courts of Small Causes (B. L. R., F. B., 675, and I. L. R. 10 Cal. 388), and the High Courts at Madras and Allahabad holding them to be cognizable by those Courts (5 [illegible] H. C. Rep. 200; and I. L. R. 3 All. 66).

[illegible] think that, apart from section 6 of Act XI of 1865, [illegible] be no sufficient ground for excluding from the cognizance of a Court of Small Causes [illegible] suit [illegible] reported at I. L. R. 7 All. 978.

15. No. (38) will exclude the following among other suits:—

(b) suits for compensation for infringing the exclusive privilege of an inventor (Act XV, 1859, section 22);
(c) suits against Sovereign Princes or Ruling Chiefs, or Ambassadors or Envoys of Foreign States (Act XIV, 1882, section 433);
(d) suits for dissolution of marriage or judicial separation (Act IV, 1869); and (e) suits founded on the liability of a contributory (Act VI, 1882, section 125).

16. Sections 19 and 34.—As to the second proviso to section 21 of the Act of 1865, reference may be made to I. L. R. 6 Cal. 236 and 8 Cal. 287. As the law now stands, a person wishing to have a decree set aside may apply for (a) a new trial under section 21, Act XI of 1865, or (b) a review under Chapter XLVII of the Code, or (c) both a new trial and a review. "It is difficult," as observed by the learned Chief Justice of the High Court at Fort William, "to conceive any reasons which would justify a new trial which would not also afford good grounds for a review" (I. L. R. 6 Cal. 238). It is proposed, therefore, to replace the alternative or cumulative remedies of new trial and review by the single remedy of review, but to impose on applications for review restrictions similar to those imposed by the existing law on applications for new trial.

17. Section 21.—This section supplements section 223 of the Code of Civil Procedure, which extends to Courts of Small Causes. Section 20 of the Act of 1865, which the section supersedes, appears in some places to have been construed to require a decree-holder to proceed in the first instance against moveable property even when the moveable property of the judgment-debtor is known to be of no appreciable value.

18. Section 26.—Under section 45 of the Act of 1865, it is the duty of the Clerk of the Court to "take charge of and keep an account of all moneys payable or paid into or out of Court" and to "enter an account of all such moneys in a book belonging to the Court to be kept by such Clerk for that purpose." The terms of that section have been held to preclude the transfer of the duty of receiving moneys and keeping accounts in a Court of Small Causes to the special staff of accountants which in some provinces is employed at the head-quarters of each district to receive and account for moneys paid into the Civil Courts located there. It has been provided in section 26 of the Bill that the High Court may, if it sees fit, relieve the clerk of the Court of his duties as cashier and accountant.

19. Section 32.—The High Court for the North-Western Provinces has held (5 All. H. C. Rep. 55) that section 51 of the Act of 1865 does not authorise the Local Government to permanently and unconditionally invest the Judge of a Small Cause Court with the powers of a Principal Sadr Amín, and that the section only contemplates an occasional investment of the powers, and one contingent on the state of the business of the Court. Under section 32 of the Bill the question will not again arise.

20. In sections 32 and 33 regard has been had to I. L. R. 8 Bom. 230, 9 Bom. 237, 1 All. 87, 1 All. 624, and 3 All. 710. It has been made clear that, for the purposes of sections 223 and 295 of the Code of Civil Procedure and section 21 of the Bill, the Court of a Judge of a Court of Small Causes when the Judge is acting as such, and the Court of the same Judge when the Judge has been appointed to be and is acting as a Subordinate Judge, are different Courts, and that, for the same purposes, the Court of a Subordinate Judge when the Judge is acting as such, and the Court of the same Judge when the Judge has been invested with the jurisdiction of a Court of Small Causes and is exercising that jurisdiction, are different Courts.

21. The first proviso to section 21 of Act XI of 1865 has been omitted because its retention has been rendered unnecessary by the extension of section 108 of the Code of Civil Procedure to Courts of Small Causes.

22. Section 52 of the Act of 1865 has been omitted, as it is believed not to be used.

23. It is proposed by the first schedule to make section 648 of the Code of Civil Procedure, which extends to the Presidency Small Cause Courts, extend also to Provincial Courts of Small Causes.

24. It is proposed by the same schedule to repeal so much of the second schedule of the Code of Civil Procedure as extends sections 121 to 136 of the Code to Provincial Courts of Small Causes. These sections do not extend to Presidency Small Cause Courts, and their provisions, which contemplate elaborate and lengthened trials in suits of superior importance, are incompatible with the speedy disposal of the petty suits cognizable by a Court of Small Causes. The want of the sections is not likely to be really felt in Courts of Small Causes, while their application to those Courts is not unlikely to be taken advantage of for the purpose of delaying proceedings.

25. So much of sections 137, 447, 453, 454 and 456 of the Code of Civil Procedure as requires applications to Courts of Small Causes to be supported by affidavit is proposed to be repealed. Chapter XVI of the Code, respecting affidavits, does not extend to Provincial Courts of Small Causes.

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 23rd December, 1885, and was referred to a Select Committee :—

No. 20 OF 1885.

A Bill to amend Act XXXVI of 1858.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend Act XXXVI of 1858 (an Act relating to Lunatic Asylums) ; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

1. After section 18 of the said Act the following section shall be inserted, namely :—

"When an Executive Government has not established within its limits a public asylum for the reception and detention of lunatics under this Act, the Governor General in Council may, from time to time, appoint an asylum established in British India beyond those limits to be an asylum to which a Magistrate or Judge exercising jurisdiction within those limits may send lunatics as to an asylum established under this Act for the division in which his jurisdiction is situate."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

IN some of the smaller Provinces, such as Coorg and the Andaman and Nicobar Islands, the Local Governments have not established asylums under Act XXXVI of 1858 for the reception and detention of lunatics. Occasions have, however, arisen on which inconvenience has been experienced by reason of there not being asylums to which Magistrates exercising jurisdiction in those Provinces may send lunatics under the provisions of the Act. The object of this Bill is to enable the Governor General in Council to appoint asylums to which lunatics may be sent from those Provinces.

A Bill for imposing a tax on income derived from sources other than agriculture.

WHEREAS it is expedient to impose a tax on income derived from sources other than agriculture; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

1. (1) This Act extends to the whole of British India, and applies also, within the dominions of Princes and States in India in alliance with Her Majesty, to British subjects in those dominions who are in the service of the Government of India or of a local authority established in the exercise of the powers of the Governor General in Council in that behalf; and

(2) It shall come into force at once.

Extent and commencement.

2. The enactments specified in the first schedule to this Act are repealed, except as to fees payable and other sums due under those enactments and the mode of recovering the same.

Repeal.

3. In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context,—

Definitions.

(1) "company" means an association carrying on business in British India, whose stock or funds is or are divided into shares and transferable, whether the company is incorporated or not, and whether its principal place of business is situate in British India or not:

(3) "pay" includes allowances, fees, commissions, perquisites or profits received, in lieu of or in addition to a fixed salary, in respect of an office or employment of profit under the Government or under a company or under a local authority or under any other public body or association not being a company; but it does not include travelling, tentage, horse or sumptuary allowance, or any other allowance granted to meet specific expenditure:

(4) "income" means income and profits accruing and arising in British India, and includes, in the case of a British subject within the dominions of a Prince or State in India in alliance with Her Majesty, any pay, annuity, pension or gratuity payable to that subject by the Government or by a local authority established in the exercise of the powers of the Governor General in Council in that behalf:

(5) "year of assessment" means a year beginning on the first day of April:

(6) "Magistrate" means a Presidency Magistrate or a Magistrate of the first or second class:

(7) "person" includes a firm and a Hindu undivided family:

(8) "defaulter" includes a company or firm making default under this Act:

(9) "Collector" means the chief officer in charge of the revenue-administration of a district, and in a presidency-town any officer whom the Local Government, by notification in the official Gazette, may, by name or by virtue of his office, appoint to be a Collector for the purposes of this Act; in the case of a company or firm, it means the Collector, as here defined, of the district or presidency-town in which its principal place of business in British India is situate; and, in the case of any other person chargeable under this Act, it means the Collector, defined as aforesaid, of the district or presidency-town in which the person has his residence:

(10) "principal officer," used with reference to a company or a local authority or any other public body or association not being a company, means—

(a) the secretary, treasurer, manager or agent of the company, authority, body or association; or

(b) any person connected with the company, authority, body or association upon whom the Collector has caused a notice to be served of his intention of treating him as the principal officer thereof:

(11) "Part" means a Part of the second schedule to this Act; and

(12) "prescribed" means prescribed by the Governor General in Council by notification in the Gazette of India, or by the Governor General in Council or a Local Government by rules made under this Act.

CHAPTER II.

LIABILITY TO TAX.

4. Subject to the exceptions mentioned in the next following section, there shall be paid, in the year beginning with the first day of April, 1886, and in each subsequent year, to the credit of the Government of India, or as the Governor General in Council directs, in respect of the sources of income specified in the first column of the second schedule to this Act, a tax at the rate specified in that behalf in the second column of that schedule.

Incomes liable to the tax.

5. (1) Nothing in section 4 shall render liable to the tax—

Exceptions.

(a) any rent or revenue derived from land which is used for agricultural purposes and is either assessed to land-revenue or subject to a local rate assessed and collected by officials of the Government, as such; or

(b) any income derived from—

(i) agriculture, or

(c) any income derived from moveable or immoveable property solely employed for public charitable or religious purposes; or

(d) any income which a person enjoys as a member of a firm or of a Hindu undivided family when the firm or the family is liable to the tax; or

(e) any interest on stock-notes; or

(f) the pay of any officer, warrant-officer, non-commissioned officer or private of Her Majesty's Forces or of Her Majesty's Indian Forces who is not in an employment which, according to the ordinary practice, is held indifferently by military persons and civilians, and whose pay does not exceed five hundred rupees per mensem; or

(g) any person whose income from all sources is less than five hundred rupees per annum.

(2) Nothing in section 4 shall render chargeable, under Part I of the second schedule to this Act, the pay of any person in the service of the Government whose pay does not amount to one hundred rupees per mensem.

6. The Governor General in Council may, by notification in the Gazette of India, exempt from liability to the tax the whole or any part of the income of any class or tribe, or of any persons residing in any specified area, and may, by a like notification, revoke the exemption.

Power to make exemptions.

CHAPTER III.

ASSESSMENT AND COLLECTION.

A.—Salaries and Pensions.

7. In the case of a person receiving any pay, annuity, pension or gratuity from the Government, any sum payable to him by the Government in respect of the pay, annuity, pension or gratuity shall be reduced by the amount of the tax to which he is liable under Part I in respect thereof.

Mode of payment in case of Government officials and pensioners.

8 (1) In the case of a person receiving any pay, annuity, pension or gratuity from a company or from a local authority or from any other public body or association not being a company, the tax to which he is liable under Part I shall, at the time of the payment to him of any of the pay, annuity, pension or gratuity, be deducted therefrom by the officer whose duty it is to make the payment, and be paid by that officer within the prescribed time to the credit of the Government of India or as the Governor General in Council directs.

Mode of payment in case of servants and pensioners of companies and other associations.

(2) If that officer does not deduct and pay the tax as required by sub-section (1), he shall, without prejudice to any other consequences which he may incur, be deemed to be personally in default in respect of the tax.

(3) If, when any payment is made, the tax is from any cause not deducted, it may, and on the requisition of the Collector shall, be deducted when any pay, annuity, pension or gratuity is subsequently paid to the person liable to the tax.

(4) The power to deduct under this section shall be without prejudice to any other mode of recovery.

9. The principal officer of every company, and of every local authority, and of every other public body or association not being a company, shall prepare, and, on or before the fifteenth day of April in each year, deliver or cause to be delivered to the Collector, in the prescribed form, a return in writing showing—

Annual return by principal officer of company or association.

(a) the name of every person receiving at the date of the return any pay, annuity or pension from the company, authority, body or association, as the case may be; and

(b) the amount of the pay, annuity or pension so received by each such person.

B.—Profits of Companies.

10. The principal officer in British India, of every company shall prepare, and, on or before the fifteenth day of April in each year, deliver or cause to be delivered to the Collector, a statement in writing signed by him showing—

Annual statement of nett profits.

(a) in the case of a shipping company having ships engaged in trade between British India and any other country, the nett profits made by each of those ships during the year ending on the day on which the company's accounts have been last made up, or, if the company's accounts have not been made up within the year ending on the thirty-first day of March in the year immediately preceding that for which the assessment is to be made, then during the year ending on the said thirty-first day of March; and,

(b) in the case of any other company, the nett profits made in British India by the company during the year ending on the day on which the company's accounts have been last made up, or, if the company's accounts have not been made up within the year ending on the thirty-first day of March in the year immediately preceding that for which the assessment is to be made, then during the year ending on the said thirty-first day of March.

11. (1) If the Collector has reason to believe that a statement delivered under section 10 is incorrect or incomplete, he may cause to be served on the principal officer of the company a notice requiring him, on or before a date to be therein mentioned, either to attend at the Collector's office and produce, or to cause to be there produced, for the inspection of the Collector such of the accounts of the company as refer to the year to which the statement relates and as are in his possession or power.

Power to require officers of companies to produce accounts.

(2) On the day specified in the notice, or as soon afterwards as may be, the Collector shall, by an order in writing, determine the amount at which the company shall be assessed under Part II, and the time when the amount shall be paid, and, subject to the provisions in this Act contained, that amount shall be payable accordingly.

C.—Interest on Securities.

12. (1) The tax payable under Part III in respect of the interest on any of the securities mentioned in that Part shall, at the time when and place where any of the interest is paid, be deducted therefrom by the person empowered to pay the interest, and be paid by that person within the prescribed time to the credit of the Government of India or as the Governor General in Council directs.

Mode of payment of tax on interest on securities.

(2) If that person does not deduct and pay the tax as required by sub-section (1), he shall, without prejudice to any other consequences which he may incur, be deemed to be personally in default in respect of the tax.

D.—Other Sources of Income.

Ordinary Mode of Assessment and Collection.

13. The Collector shall, from time to time, determine what persons are chargeable under Part IV, and the amount at which every person so chargeable shall be assessed.

Collector to determine persons chargeable.

14. (1) The assessment shall be made upon the income accruing to the person during the year ending on the day of the year next before the year of assessment on which his accounts have been usually made up, or on the thirty-first day of March last preceding.

Mode of making assessment.

(2) In the case of a person for the first time becoming chargeable under Part IV within the year of assessment, or within the year next before that year, the assessment shall be made according to an average of his income for such period as the Collector, under the circumstances, directs.

(3) In assessing under Part IV, in respect of income assessable under that Part, a person in the service of the Government, whose pay, by reason of its being less than one hundred rupees per mensem, is not chargeable under Part I, the Collector shall treat both the pay and the other income as chargeable under Part IV.

15. (1) The Collector shall at the prescribed time in each year prepare a list of the persons chargeable under Part IV whose annual income does not, in his opinion, amount to two thousand rupees.

List of incomes under two thousand rupees.

(2) The list shall be in the prescribed language or languages, and shall state in respect of every such person the following particulars, namely:—

(a) his name and the source or sources of the income in respect of which he is chargeable;

(b) the year or portion of the year for which the tax is to be paid;

(c) the place or places, district or districts, where the income accrues;

(d) the amount to be paid; and

(e) the place where, and the person to whom, the amount is to be paid.

(3) The list shall be filed in the office of the Collector before the prescribed date, with a notification prefixed thereto requiring every person mentioned in the list to pay, within sixty days from a date specified in the notification, the amount stated in the list as payable by him, or to apply to the Collector, within thirty days from that date, to have the assessment reduced or cancelled.

(4) The list so filed shall be open to inspection at all reasonable times without any payment.

(5) The list, or such part or parts thereof as the Collector thinks fit, with the notification prefixed thereto, shall be further published in such manner as the Local Government may consider to be best adapted for giving information to all persons concerned.

(6) The list to be prepared each year may be the list of the previous year with such amendments as the Collector finds to be necessary.

16. In the case of a person chargeable under Part IV whose annual income is, in the Collector's opinion, two thousand rupees or upwards, the Collector shall cause a notice to be served on him stating the particulars (a) to (e), both inclusive, mentioned in section 15, and requiring him to pay, within sixty days from a date specified in the notice, the amount stated therein as payable by him, or to apply to the Collector, within thirty days from that date, to have the assessment reduced or cancelled.

Notices to persons with incomes of two thousand rupees and upwards.

17. (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in section 15 or section 16, the Local Government may make rules authorising or directing a Collector in specified cases, or classes of cases, to include in a list under section 15 any person who is liable to be served with a notice under section 16 instead of serving him with such a notice, and to serve a notice under section 16 on any person liable to be included in a list under section 15 instead of including him in such a list.

Exceptions to the last two preceding sections.

(2) Rules made under this section shall be published in the official Gazette.

18. (1) Every amount specified as payable in a list or notice prepared or served under section 15 or section 16 shall be paid within the time, and at the place, and to the person, mentioned in the list or notice.

Time and place of payment.

Trustees, Agents, Managers and Incapacitated Persons.

19. A person being the trustee, guardian, curator or committee of any infant, married woman subject to the law of England, lunatic or idiot, and having the control of the property of the infant, married woman, lunatic or idiot, whether the infant, married woman, lunatic or idiot resides in British India or not, shall, if the infant, married woman, lunatic or idiot is chargeable under Part IV, be chargeable under that Part in like manner and to the same amount as the infant would be chargeable if he were of full age, or the married woman if she were sole, or the lunatic or idiot if he were capable of acting for himself.

Trustees, guardians and committees of incapacitated persons to be charged.

20. Any person not resident in British India, whether a subject of Her Majesty or not, being in receipt, through an agent, of any income chargeable under Part IV, shall be chargeable under that Part in the name of the agent in the like manner and to the like amount as he would be chargeable if he were resident in British India and in direct receipt of that income.

Non-residents to be charged in names of their agents.

21. Receivers or managers appointed by any Court in India, the Courts of Wards, the Administrators General of Bengal, Madras and Bombay, and the Official Trustees shall be chargeable under Part IV in respect of all income officially in their possession or under their control which is liable to assessment under that Part.

Receivers, managers, Courts of Wards, Administrators General and Official Trustees.

22. When a trustee, guardian, curator, committee or agent is, as such, assessed under Part IV,

Power to retain duties charged on trustees, &c.

or when a receiver or manager appointed as aforesaid, a Court of Wards, Administrator General or Official Trustee is assessed under that Part in respect of income officially received, the person or Court so assessed may, from time to time, out of the money coming to his or its possession as trustee, guardian, curator, committee or agent, or as receiver, manager, Court of Wards, Administrator General or Official Trustee, retain so much as is sufficient to pay the amount of the assessment.

Occupying Owners.

23. Owners of houses or lands occupying the same shall be chargeable in respect of the annual value thereof at nine-tenths of the full rent at which the houses or lands are worth to be let for the year.

Provision for tax on occupying owners.

CHAPTER IV.

[REVISION OF ASSESSMENT.

24. (1) Any person objecting to the amount at which he is assessed, or denying his liability to be assessed, under Part IV may apply by petition to the Collector to have the assessment reduced or cancelled.

Petition to Collector against assessment under Part IV.

(2) The petition shall ordinarily be presented within the period specified in the notification prefixed to the list filed under section 15, or in the notice served under section 16, as the case may be. But the Collector may receive a petition after the expiration of that period if he is satisfied that the objector had sufficient cause for not presenting it within that period.

(3) The petition shall, as nearly as circumstances admit, be in the form contained in the third schedule to this Act, and the statements contained in the petition shall be verified by the petitioner or some other competent person in the manner required by law for the verification of plaints.

25. The Collector shall fix a day and place for the hearing of the petition, and on the day and at the place so fixed, or on the day and at the place, if any, to which he has adjourned the hearing, shall hear the petition and pass such order thereon as he thinks fit.

Hearing of petition.

Petition to Commissioner for revision.

26. Subject to the control of the Local Government, the Commissioner of the Division may, in his discretion, on the petition of any person deeming himself aggrieved by an order under section 11, sub-section (2), or section 25, call for the record of the case, and pass such order thereon as he thinks fit.

Power to summon persons to give necessary information.

27. The Collector or Commissioner may summon any person whom he thinks able to give evidence for the purpose of enabling him to determine how the petitioner or the company which he represents should be assessed; and may examine on oath the person so summoned and the petitioner, and may require either of them to produce any documents in his possession or power relating to the sources of the income to the assessment of which the petition relates:

Provided that the Collector or Commissioner shall not call for any evidence except at the instance of the petitioner or in order to ascertain the correctness of facts alleged by him.

CHAPTER V.

RECOVERY OF ARREARS OF TAX.

Tax when payable.

28. The tax chargeable under this Act shall be payable at the time appointed in that behalf in or under this Act, or, if a time is not so appointed, then on the first day of June in each year.

Mode and time of recovery.

29. (1) In any case of default under this Act the Collector may either recover a sum not exceeding double the amount of the tax as if it were an arrear of land-revenue, or pass an order that a sum not exceeding double that amount shall be recovered from the defaulter:

Provided that, where a person has presented a petition under section 24, such sum shall not be recoverable from him unless, within thirty days from the passing of the order on the petition, he fails to pay the amount, if any, required by that order.

(2) An order passed under sub-section (1) shall have the force of a decree of a Civil Court in a suit in which the Government is the plaintiff and the defaulter is the defendant; and the order may be enforced in manner provided by the Code of Civil Procedure for the enforcement of decrees for money; and the procedure under the said Code in respect of the following matters— XIV of 1882.

(a) sales in execution of decrees,

(b) arrest in execution of decrees for money,

(c) execution of decrees by imprisonment,

(d) claims to attached property, and

(e) execution of decrees out of the jurisdiction of the Courts by which they were passed, shall apply to every execution issued for levying the sum mentioned in the order; save that all the powers and duties conferred and imposed by the said Code upon the Court shall be exercised and discharged by the Collector by whom the order has been made or to whom a copy thereof has been sent for execution according to the provisions of the said Code, sections 223 and 224.

(3) No sum payable under this Act shall be recoverable by any process whatsoever after the expiration of three months from the last day of the year in respect of which it is payable.

CHAPTER VI.

SUPPLEMENTAL PROVISIONS.

Receipts.

Receipts and their contents.

30. When any money is paid under this Act to the Collector or is recovered thereunder by him, he shall give a receipt for the same, specifying—

(a) the date of the payment or recovery of the money;

(b) the amount paid or recovered;

(c) the person who was liable to the tax, and the source or sources of income in respect of which the tax was payable;

(d) the year or part of the year for which the tax was payable;

(e) the place or places, district or districts, where the income accrues; and

(f) such other particulars, if any, as may be, prescribed.

Under-assessments and Over-assessments.

Correction of under-assessment.

31. (1) If the Collector has reason to believe that, in assessing any person under this Act, any source of income not specified in the receipt given to him under section 30 has been overlooked, which source, if it had then been known to exist, would have increased the assessment, the Collector may cause a notice to be served on the person, stating the amount to be paid in respect of that source.

(2) The provisions contained in sections 16 and 18 and 24 to 27 (both inclusive) shall apply to the notice and regulate the procedure thereunder.

Correction of over-assessment.

32. (1) If, during or within two months from the end of the year for which an assessment under Part IV has been made, the person assessed proves to the satisfaction of the Collector that his income during that year will be or has been less than the sum on which the assessment under that Part was made, the Collector may cause the assessment made for the year to be amended as the case requires, and refund such sum, if any, as has been overpaid.

(2) If a company or person assessed under Part II or Part IV ceases to carry on the trade or business in respect whereof the assessment was made, or if any such person dies or becomes insolvent before the end of the year for which the assessment was made, or if any such company or person is, from any other specific cause, deprived of or loses the income on which the assessment was made, then the company or person or its or his representative in interest may apply to the Collector within three months after the end of the year, and the Collector, on proof to his satisfaction of any such cause as aforesaid, shall amend the assessment as the case may require, and refund such sum, if any, as has been overpaid.

Penalties.

Failure to make payments or deliver returns or statements.

33. (1) If a person fails—

(a) to deduct and pay any tax as required by section 8, sub-section (1), or section 12, sub-section (1), or

(c) to produce, or cause to be produced, on or before the date mentioned in a notice under section 11, such accounts as are referred to in the notice,

he shall, on conviction before a Magistrate, be punishable with fine which may extend to ten rupees for every day during which the default continues.

(2) The Commissioner of the Division may remit wholly or in part any fine imposed under this section.

False statement in petition.

34. If a person makes a statement in a petition presented under section 24 which is false, and which he either knows or believes to be false or does not believe to be true, he shall be deemed to have intentionally given false evidence in a stage of a judicial proceeding.

Prosecution to be at instance of Collector.

35. No person shall be proceeded against for an offence under section 33 or section 34 except at the instance of the Collector.

Sections 193 and 228 of Penal Code to apply to proceedings.

36. In sections 193 and 228 of the Indian Penal Code, the words "judicial proceeding" shall be taken to include any proceeding under this Act. XLV of 1860.

Power to make Rules.

Power to make rules.

37. (1) The Governor General in Council may make rules consistent with this Act for the ascertainment of income liable to assessment and, generally, for carrying out the purposes of this Act, and may delegate to a Local Government the power to make such rules so far as regards the territories subject to that Government.

(2) Rules made under this section shall be published in the official Gazette.

Miscellaneous.

Bar of suits in Civil Court.

38. No suit shall lie in any Civil Court to set aside or modify any assessment made under this Act.

Exercise of powers of Collector and Commissioner.

39. All or any of the powers and duties conferred and imposed by this Act on a Collector or on a Commissioner of Division may be exercised and performed by such other officer or person as the Local Government appoints in this behalf.

Obligation to furnish information.

40. Every person shall be legally bound to furnish in the prescribed manner and at the prescribed time such information as any officer or person exercising all or any of the powers of a Collector under this Act may require from him for the purposes of this Act.

Service of notices.

41. (1) A notice under this Act may be served on the person therein named either by post or by the delivery or tender to him of a copy of the notice.

(2) If a notice is served by post, it shall be deemed to have been served at the time when it would be delivered in the ordinary course of post, and in proving the service it shall be sufficient to prove that the notice was properly addressed and put into the post.

(3) If the notice is to be served otherwise than by post, the service shall, whenever it may be practicable, be on the person named in the notice or, in the case of a firm or a Hindu undivided family, on some member thereof:

(4) But when the person or member cannot be found, the service may be made on any adult male member of his family residing with him; and if no such adult male member can be found, the serving-officer shall fix the copy of the notice on the outer door of the house in which the person or firm therein named ordinarily dwells or carries on business.

Power to declare principal place of business or residence.

42. (1) When a company or firm has several places of business in territories subject to different Local Governments, the Governor General in Council may declare which of those places shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be the principal place of business.

(2) When a company or firm has several places of business in the territories subject to a single Local Government, that Government may declare which of them shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be the principal place of business.

(3) When a person has several places of residence in territories subject to different Local Governments, the Governor General in Council may declare which of those places shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be his residence.

(4) When a person has several places of residence in the territories subject to a single Local Government, that Government may declare which of those places shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be his residence.

(5) The powers given by this section may be delegated to and exercised by such officers as the Governor General in Council or the Local Government, as the case may be, appoints in this behalf.

Saving in favour of payers of pándhari and capitation taxes.

43. Where a person is in respect of any period liable to the tax under this Act; he shall not in respect of that period be assessed to the pándhari tax levied in the Central Provinces under Act XIV of 1867, or to the capitation-tax, or the land-rate in lieu thereof, levied in British Burma under the Burma Land and Revenue Act, 1876.

15 of 1876.

Indemnity.

44. Every person deducting, retaining or paying any tax in pursuance of this Act in respect of income belonging to another person is hereby indemnified for the deduction, retention or payment thereof.

Powers exercisable from time to time.

45. All powers conferred by or conferrable under this Act on the Governor General in Council or on a Local Government may be exercised from time to time as occasion requires.

(Signed) A. B.

* This list, if the petitioner so wishes, may be presented in a sealed envelope.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

It having been found necessary to have recourse to legislation for the purpose of increasing the public revenues, it has been decided to extend the existing License Tax to offices, employments and professions, and, generally, to make liable to assessment all incomes derived from sources other than agriculture.

The existing License Tax Acts are repealed and a single Act for all India is substituted.

The rate of the tax has been slightly raised, and the area of its incidence has been, as above stated, extended; but the principles of the License Tax are closely followed in the case of annual incomes below Rs. 2,000, and the procedure and machinery for assessment and collection are maintained in the case of all incomes so far as is consistent with the altered conditions of the tax.

THE FIRST SCHEDULE.—ENACTMENTS REPEALED.

THE SECOND SCHEDULE.—SOURCES OF INCOME AND RATES OF TAX.

THE THIRD SCHEDULE.—FORM OF PETITION.

A Bill for imposing a tax on income derived from sources other than agriculture.

WHEREAS it is expedient to impose a tax on income derived from sources other than agriculture; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

[Trades and Professions Tax Bill, 1879, s. 1.]

Extent and commencement.

1. (1) This Act extends to the whole of British India, and applies also, within the dominions of Princes and States in India in alliance with Her Majesty, to British subjects in those dominions who are in the service of the Government of India or of a local authority established in the exercise of the powers of the Governor General in Council in that behalf; and

(2) It shall come into force at once.

[Ben. Act II, 1880, s. 2.]

Repeal.

2. The enactments specified in the first schedule to this Act are repealed, except as to fees payable and other sums due under those enactments and the mode of recovering the same.

Definitions.

3. In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context,—

[Act VIII, 1872, s. 2.]

(1) "company" means an association carrying on business in British India, whose stock or funds is or are divided into shares and transferable, whether the company is incorporated or not, and whether its principal place of business is situate in British India or not:

[Act XIII, 1885, s. 3.]

(2) "local authority" means any municipal committee, district board, body of port commissioners or other authority legally entitled to, or entrusted by the Government with, the control or management of any municipal or local fund:

[Trades and Professions Tax Bill, 1879, s. 12.]

[Act VIII, 1872, s. 2.]

(4) "income" means income and profits accruing and arising in British India, and includes, in the case of a British subject within the dominions of a Prince or State in India in alliance with Her Majesty, any pay, annuity, pension or gratuity payable to that subject by the Government or by a local authority established in the exercise of the powers of the Governor General in Council in that behalf:

[Act IX, 1869, s. 3.]

(5) "year of assessment" means a year beginning on the first day of April:

[Act VIII, 1872, s. 2.]

(6) "Magistrate" means a Presidency Magistrate or a Magistrate of the first or second class:

[Act VIII, 1872, s. 2.]

(7) "person" includes a firm and a Hindu undivided family:

[Act VIII, 1872, s. 2.]

(8) "defaulter" includes a company or firm making default under this Act:

[Act VIII, 1872, s. 2, and Trades and Professions Tax Bill, 1879, s. 3.]

(9) "Collector" means the chief officer in charge of the revenue-administration of a district, and in a presidency-town any officer whom the Local Government, by notification in the official Gazette, may, by name or by virtue of his office, appoint to be a Collector for the purposes of this Act; in the case of a company or firm, it means the Collector, as here defined, of the district or presidency-town in which its principal place of business in British India is situate; and, in the case of any other person chargeable under this Act, it means the Collector, defined as aforesaid, of the district or presidency-town in which the person has his residence:

[New.]

(10) "principal officer," used with reference to a company or a local authority or any other public body or association not being a company, means—

(a) the secretary, treasurer, manager or agent of the company, authority, body or association; or

[cf. Act VIII, 1872, s. 45.]

(b) any person connected with the company, authority, body or association upon whom the Collector has caused a notice to be served of his intention of treating him as the principal officer thereof:

[New.]

(11) "Part" means a Part of the second schedule to this Act: and

[New.]

(12) "prescribed" means prescribed by the Governor General in Council by notification in the Gazette of India, or by the Governor General in Council or a Local Government by rules made under this Act.

CHAPTER II.

LIABILITY TO TAX.

[Act VII, 1872, ss. 9, 10, 14 and 16.]

Incomes liable to the tax.

4. Subject to the exceptions mentioned in the next following section, there shall be paid, in the year beginning with the first day of April, 1886, and in each subsequent year, to the credit of the Government of India, or as the Governor General in Council directs, in respect of the sources of income specified in the first column of the second schedule to this Act, a tax at the rate specified in that behalf in the second column of that schedule.

Exceptions.

5. (1) Nothing in section 4 shall render liable to the tax—

[New.]

(a) any rent or revenue derived from land which is used for agricultural purposes and is either assessed to land-revenue or subject to a local rate assessed and collected by officials of the Government, as such; or

[Act VI, 1880, ss. 3, 9 and 13: Ben. Act II, 1880, s. 5: and Act XIV, 1867, s. 1.]

(b) any income derived from—

(i) agriculture, or

(c) any income derived from moveable or immoveable property solely employed for public charitable or religious purposes; or

[Act VIII, 1872, s. 3.]

(d) any income which a person enjoys as a member of a firm or of a Hindu undivided family when the firm or the family is liable to the tax; or

[New.]

(e) any interest on stock-notes; or

[Act VIII, 1872, s. 3.]

(f) the pay of any officer, warrant-officer, non-commissioned officer or private of Her Majesty's Forces or of Her Majesty's Indian Forces who is not in an employment which, according to the ordinary practice, is held indifferently by military persons and civilians, and whose pay does not exceed five hundred rupees per mensem; or

[License Tax Acts as amended in 1880.]

(g) any person whose income from all sources is less than five hundred rupees per annum.

[New.]

(2) Nothing in section 4 shall render chargeable, under Part I of the second schedule to this Act, the pay of any person in the service of the Government whose pay does not amount to one hundred rupees per mensem.

[Act VIII, 1872, s. 4.]

Power to make exemptions.

6. The Governor General in Council may, by notification in the Gazette of India, exempt from liability to the tax the whole or any part of the income of any class or tribe, or of any persons residing in any specified area, and may, by a like notification, revoke the exemption.

CHAPTER III.

ASSESSMENT AND COLLECTION.

A.—Salaries and Pensions.

[Act VIII, 1872, s. 7.]

Mode of payment in case of Government officials and pensioners.

7. In the case of a person receiving any pay, annuity, pension or gratuity from the Government, any sum payable to him by the Government in respect of the pay, annuity, pension or gratuity shall be reduced by the amount of the tax to which he is liable under Part I in respect thereof.

[Act VIII, 1872, s. 8.]

Mode of payment in case of servants and pensioners of companies and other associations.

8. (1) In the case of a person receiving any pay, annuity, pension or gratuity from a company or from a local authority or from any other public body or association not being a company, the tax to which he is liable under Part I shall, at the time of the payment to him of any of the pay, annuity, pension or gratuity, be deducted therefrom by the officer whose duty it is to make the payment, and be paid by that officer within the prescribed time to the credit of the Government of India or as the Governor General in Council directs.

[New.]

[Act VIII, 1872, s. 9.]

(3) If, when any payment is made, the tax is from any cause not deducted, it may, and on the requisition of the Collector shall, be deducted when any pay, annuity, pension or gratuity is subsequently paid to the person liable to the tax.

[New.]

(4) The power to deduct under this section shall be without prejudice to any other mode of recovery.

[Act VIII, 1872, s. 8.]

Annual return by principal officer of company or association.

9. The principal officer of every company, and of every local authority, and of every other public body or association not being a company, shall prepare, and, on or before the fifteenth day of April in each year, deliver or cause to be delivered to the Collector, in the prescribed form, a return in writing showing—

(a) the name of every person receiving at the date of the return any pay, annuity or pension from the company, authority, body or association, as the case may be; and

(b) the amount of the pay, annuity or pension so received by each such person.

B.—Profits of Companies.

[Act VIII, 1872, ss. 10 and 11.]

Annual statement of nett profits.

10. The principal officer in British India of every company shall prepare, and, on or before the fifteenth day of April in each year, deliver or cause to be delivered to the Collector, a statement in writing signed by him showing—

(a) in the case of a shipping company having ships engaged in trade between British India and any other country, the nett profits made by each of those ships during the year ending on the day on which the company's accounts have been last made up, or, if the company's accounts have not been made up within the year ending on the thirty-first day of March in the year immediately preceding that for which the assessment is to be made, then during the year ending on the said thirty-first day of March; and,

(b) in the case of any other company, the nett profits made in British India by the company during the year ending on the day on which the company's accounts have been last made up, or, if the company's accounts have not been made up within the year ending on the thirty-first day of March in the year immediately preceding that for which the assessment is to be made, then during the year ending on the said thirty-first day of March.

Power to require officers of companies to produce accounts.

11. (1) If the Collector has reason to believe that a statement delivered under section 10 is incorrect or incomplete, he may cause to be served on the principal officer of the company a notice requiring him, on or before a date to be therein mentioned, either to attend at the Collector's office and produce, or to cause to be there produced, for the inspection of the Collector such of the accounts of the company as refer to the year to which the statement relates and as are in his possession or power.

(2) On the day specified in the notice, or as soon afterwards as may be, the Collector shall, by an order in writing, determine the amount at which the company shall be assessed under Part II, and the time when the amount shall be paid, and, subject to the provisions in this Act contained, that amount shall be payable accordingly.

C.—Interest on Securities.

[Act VIII, 1872, s. 15.]

Mode of payment of tax on interest on securities.

12. (1) The tax payable under Part III in respect of the interest on any of the securities mentioned in that Part shall, at the time when and place where any of the interest is paid, be deducted therefrom by the person empowered to pay the interest, and be paid by that person within the prescribed time to the credit of the Government of India or as the Governor General in Council directs.

[New.]

(2) If that person does not deduct and pay the tax as required by sub-section (1), he shall, without prejudice to any other consequences which he may incur, be deemed to be personally in default in respect of the tax.

D.—Other Sources of Income.

Ordinary Mode of Assessment and Collection.

[Act VIII, 1872, s. 25.]

Collector to determine persons chargeable.

13. The Collector shall, from time to time, determine what persons are chargeable under Part IV, and the amount at which every person so chargeable shall be assessed.

[Act VIII, 1872, s. 26.]

Mode of making assessment.

14. (1) The assessment shall be made upon the income accruing to the person during the year ending on the day of the year next before the year of assessment on which his accounts have been usually made up, or on the thirty-first day of March last preceding.

(2) In the case of a person for the first time becoming chargeable under Part IV within the year of assessment, or within the year next before that year, the assessment shall be made according to an average of his income for such period as the Collector, under the circumstances, directs.

[Act VIII, 1872, s. 26.]

(3) In assessing under Part IV, in respect of income assessable under that Part, a person in the service of the Government, whose pay, by reason of its being less than one hundred rupees per mensem, is not chargeable under Part I, the Collector shall treat both the pay and the other income as chargeable under Part IV.

List of incomes under two thousand rupees.

15. (1) The Collector shall at the prescribed time in each year prepare a list of the persons chargeable under Part IV whose annual income does not, in his opinion, amount to two thousand rupees.

[License Tax Acts. See Bom. Act III, 1878, ss. 9 and 10. See also Act VIII, 1872, s. 27.]

(2) The list shall be in the prescribed language or languages, and shall state in respect of every such person the following particulars, namely:—

(a) his name and the source or sources of the income in respect of which he is chargeable;

(b) the year or portion of the year for which the tax is to be paid;

(c) the place or places, district or districts, where the income accrues;

(d) the amount to be paid; and

(e) the place where, and the person to whom, the amount is to be paid.

(3) The list shall be filed in the office of the Collector before the prescribed date, with a notification prefixed thereto requiring every person mentioned in the list to pay, within sixty days from a date specified in the notification, the amount stated in the list as payable by him, or to apply to the Collector, within thirty days from that date, to have the assessment reduced or cancelled.

(4) The list so filed shall be open to inspection at all reasonable times without any payment.

(5) The list, or such part or parts thereof as the Collector thinks fit, with the notification prefixed thereto, shall be further published in such manner as the Local Government may consider to be best adapted for giving information to all persons concerned.

(6) The list to be prepared each year may be the list of the previous year with such amendments as the Collector finds to be necessary.

[Act VIII, 1872, s. 27.]

Notices to persons with incomes of two thousand rupees and upwards.

16. In the case of a person chargeable under Part IV whose annual income is, in the Collector's opinion, two thousand rupees or upwards, the Collector shall cause a notice to be served on him stating the particulars (a) to (e), both inclusive, mentioned in section 15, and requiring him to pay, within sixty days from a date specified in the notice, the amount stated therein as payable by him, or to apply to the Collector, within thirty days from that date, to have the assessment reduced or cancelled.

[New. cf. Bom. Act III, 1878, ss. 9 and 10, and Ben. Act II, 1880, s. 17.]

Exceptions to the last two preceding sections.

17. (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in section 15 or section 16, the Local Government may make rules authorising or directing a Collector in specified cases, or classes of cases, to include in a list under section 15 any person who is liable to be served with a notice under section 16 instead of serving him with such a notice, and to serve a notice under section 16 on any person liable to be included in a list under section 15 instead of including him in such a list.

(2) Rules made under this section shall be published in the official Gazette.

[Act VIII, 1872, s. 28.]

Time and place of payment.

Trustees, Agents, Managers and Incapacitated Persons.

[Act VIII, 1872, s. 17.]

Trustees, guardians and committees of incapacitated persons to be charged.

19. A person being the trustee, guardian, curator or committee of any infant, married woman subject to the law of England, lunatic or idiot, and having the control of the property of the infant, married woman, lunatic or idiot, whether the infant, married woman, lunatic or idiot resides in British India or not, shall, if the infant, married woman, lunatic or idiot is chargeable under Part IV, be chargeable under that Part in like manner and to the same amount as the infant would be chargeable if he were of full age, or the married woman if she were sole, or the lunatic or idiot if he were capable of acting for himself.

[Act VIII, 1872, s. 17.]

Non-residents to be charged in names of their agents.

20. Any person not resident in British India, whether a subject of Her Majesty or not, being in receipt, through an agent, of any income chargeable under Part IV, shall be chargeable under that Part in the name of the agent in the like manner and to the like amount as he would be chargeable if he were resident in British India and in direct receipt of that income.

[Act VIII, 1872, s. 19.]

Receivers, managers, Courts of Wards, Administrators General and Official Trustees.

21. Receivers or managers appointed by any Court in India, the Courts of Wards, the Administrators General of Bengal, Madras and Bombay, and the Official Trustees shall be chargeable under Part IV in respect of all income officially in their possession or under their control which is liable to assessment under that Part.

[Act VIII, 1872, s. 20.]

Power to retain duties charged on trustees, &c.

22. When a trustee, guardian, curator, committee or agent is, as such, assessed under Part IV, or when a receiver or manager appointed as aforesaid, a Court of Wards, Administrator General or Official Trustee is assessed under that Part in respect of income officially received, the person or Court so assessed may, from time to time, out of the money coming to his or its possession as trustee, guardian, curator, committee or agent, or as receiver, manager, Court of Wards, Administrator General or Official Trustee, retain as much as is sufficient to pay the amount of the assessment.

Occupying Owners.

[Act VIII, 1872, s. 21.]

Provision for tax on occupying owners.

23. Owners of houses or lands occupying the same shall be chargeable in respect of the annual value thereof at nine-tenths of the full rent at which the houses or lands are worth to be let for the year.

CHAPTER IV.

REVISION OF ASSESSMENT.

[Act VIII, 1872, s. 30.]

Petition to Collector against assessment under Part IV.

24. (1) Any person objecting to the amount at which he is assessed, or denying his liability to be assessed, under Part IV may apply by petition to the Collector to have the assessment reduced or cancelled.

(2) The petition shall ordinarily be presented within the period specified in the notification prefixed to the list filed under section 15, or in the notice served under section 16, as the case may be. But the Collector may receive a petition after the expiration of that period if he is satisfied that the objector had sufficient cause for not presenting it within that period.

(3) The petition shall, as nearly as circumstances admit, be in the form contained in the third schedule to this Act, and the statements contained in the petition shall be verified by the petitioner or some other competent person in the manner required by law for the verification of plaints.

[Ben. Act II, 1880, s. 19.]

Hearing of petition.

25. The Collector shall fix a day and place for the hearing of the petition, and on the day and at the place so fixed, or on the day and at the place, if any, to which he has adjourned the hearing, shall hear the petition and pass such order thereon as he thinks fit.

[Ben. Act II, 1880, s. 21.]

Petition to Commissioner for revision.

26. Subject to the control of the Local Government, the Commissioner of the Division may, in his discretion, on the petition of any person deeming himself aggrieved by an order under section 11, sub-section (2), or section 25, call for the record of the case, and pass such order thereon as he thinks fit.

[Act VIII, 1872, s. 31, and Ben. Act II, 1880, s. 22.]

Power to summon persons to give necessary information.

27. The Collector or Commissioner may summon any person whom he thinks able to give evidence for the purpose of enabling him to determine how the petitioner or the company which he represents should be assessed; and may examine on oath the person so summoned and the petitioner, and may require either of them to produce any documents in his possession or power relating to the sources of the income to the assessment of which the petition relates:

Provided that the Collector or Commissioner shall not call for any evidence except at the instance of the petitioner or in order to ascertain the correctness of facts alleged by him.

CHAPTER V.

RECOVERY OF ARREARS OF TAX.

[Act VIII, 1872, s. 35.]

Tax when payable.

28. The tax chargeable under this Act shall be payable at the time appointed in that behalf in or under this Act, or, if a time is not so appointed, then on the first day of June in each year.

[Act VIII, 1872, s. 36.]

29. (1) In any case of default under this Act the Collector may either recover a sum not exceeding double the amount of the tax as if it were an arrear of land-revenue, or pass an order that a sum not exceeding double that amount shall be recovered from the defaulter:

Mode and time of recovery.

Provided that, where a person has presented a petition under section 24, such sum shall not be recoverable from him unless, within thirty days from the passing of the order on the petition, he fails to pay the amount, if any, required by that order.

(2) An order passed under sub-section (1) shall have the force of a decree of a Civil Court in a suit in which the Government is the plaintiff and the defaulter is the defendant; and the order may be enforced in manner provided by the Code of Civil Procedure for the enforcement of decrees for money; and the procedure under the said Code in respect of the following matters—

XIV of 1882.

(a) sales in execution of decrees,

(b) arrest in execution of decrees for money,

(c) execution of decrees by imprisonment,

(d) claims to attached property, and

(e) execution of decrees out of the jurisdiction of the Courts by which they were passed, shall apply to every execution issued for levying the sum mentioned in the order; save that all the powers and duties conferred and imposed by the said Code upon the Court shall be exercised and discharged by the Collector by whom the order has been made or to whom a copy thereof has been sent for execution according to the provisions of the said Code, sections 223 and 224.

[Act II, 1878, s. 19.]

(3) No sum payable under this Act shall be recoverable by any process whatsoever after the expiration of three months from the last day of the year in respect of which it is payable.

CHAPTER VI.

SUPPLEMENTAL PROVISIONS.

Receipts.

[Act VIII, 1872, ss. 28 and 29.]

30. When any money is paid under this Act to the Collector or is recovered thereunder by him, he shall give a receipt for the same, specifying—

Receipts and their contents.

(a) the date of the payment or recovery of the money;

(b) the amount paid or recovered;

(c) the person who was liable to the tax, and the source or sources of income in respect of which the tax was payable;

(d) the year or part of the year for which the tax was payable;

(e) the place or places, district or districts, where the income accrues; and

(f) such other particulars, if any, as may be, prescribed.

Under-assessments and Over-assessments.

[Act VIII, 1872, s. 34.]

31. (1) If the Collector has reason to believe that, in assessing any person under this Act, any source of income not specified in the receipt given to him under section 30 has been overlooked, which source, if it had then been known to exist, would have increased the assessment, the Collector may cause a notice to be served on the person, stating the amount to be paid in respect of that source.

Correction of under-assessment.

(2) The provisions contained in sections 16 and 18 and 24 to 27 (both inclusive) shall apply to the notice and regulate the procedure thereunder.

[Act VIII, 1872, s. 37.]

32. (1) If, during or within two months from the end of the year for which an assessment under Part IV has been made, the person assessed proves to the satisfaction of the Collector that his income during that year will be or has been less than the sum on which the assessment under that Part was made, the Collector may cause the assessment made for the year to be amended as the case requires, and refund such sum, if any, as has been overpaid.

Correction of over-assessment.

(2) If a company or person assessed under Part II or Part IV ceases to carry on the trade or business in respect whereof the assessment was made, or if any such person dies or becomes insolvent before the end of the year for which the assessment was made, or if any such company or person is, from any other specific cause, deprived of or loses the income on which the assessment was made, then the company or person or its or his representative in interest may apply to the Collector within three months after the end of the year, and the Collector, on proof to his satisfaction of any such cause as aforesaid, shall amend the assessment as the case may require, and refund such sum, if any, as has been overpaid.

Penalties.

[Act VIII, 1872, s. 38.]

33. (1) If a person fails—

Failure to make payments or deliver returns or statements.

(a) to deduct and pay any tax as required by section 8, sub-section (1), or section 12, sub-section (1), or he shall, on conviction before a Magistrate, be punishable with fine which may extend to ten rupees for every day during which the default continues.

(c) to produce, or cause to be produced, on or before the date mentioned in a notice under section 11, such accounts as are referred to in the notice,

(2) The Commissioner of the Division may remit wholly or in part any fine imposed under this section.

[Act VIII, 1872, s. 39.]

34. If a person makes a statement in a petition presented under section 24 which is false, and which he either knows or believes to be false or does not believe to be true, he shall be deemed to have intentionally given false evidence in a stage of a judicial proceeding.

False statement in petition.

[Act VIII, 1872, s. 40.]

35. No person shall be proceeded against for an offence under section 33 or section 34 except at the instance of the Collector.

Prosecution to be at instance of Collector.

[Act VIII, 1872, s. 41. XV of 1860.]

36. In sections 193 and 228 of the Indian Penal Code, the words "judicial proceeding" shall be taken to include any proceeding under this Act.

Sections 193 and 228 of Penal Code to apply to proceedings.

Power to make Rules.

[Act VIII, 1872, s. 46.]

37. (1) The Governor General in Council may make rules consistent with this Act for the ascertainment of income liable to assessment and, generally, for carrying out the purposes of this Act, and may delegate to a Local Government the power to make such rules so far as regards the territories subject to that Government.

Power to make rules.

(2) Rules made under this section shall be published in the official Gazette.

Miscellaneous.

[Act VIII, 1872, s. 42.]

38. No suit shall lie in any Civil Court to set aside or modify any assessment made under this Act.

Bar of suits in Civil Court.

[Act VIII, 1872, s. 43.]

39. All or any of the powers and duties conferred and imposed by this Act on a Collector or on a Commissioner of Division may be exercised and performed by such other officer or person as the Local Government appoints in this behalf.

Exercise of powers of Collector and Commissioner.

[Bom. Act II, 1880, s. 31.]

40. Every person shall be legally bound to furnish in the prescribed manner and at the prescribed time such information as any officer or person exercising all or any of the powers of a Collector under this Act may require from him for the purposes of this Act.

Obligation to furnish information.

[Act VIII, 1872, s. 44, and 38 & 39 Vic., cap. 55, s. 267.]

41. (1) A notice under this Act may be served on the person therein named either by post or by the delivery or tender to him of a copy of the notice.

Service of notices.

(2) If a notice is served by post, it shall be deemed to have been served at the time when it would be delivered in the ordinary course of post, and in proving the service it shall be sufficient to prove that the notice was properly addressed and put into the post.

(3) If the notice is to be served otherwise than by post, the service shall, whenever it may be practicable, be on the person named in the notice or, in the case of a firm or a Hindu undivided family, on some member thereof:

(4) But when the person or member cannot be found, the service may be made on any adult male member of his family residing with him; and if no such adult male member can be found, the serving-officer shall fix the copy of the notice on the outer door of the house in which the person or firm therein named ordinarily dwells or carries on business.

[Act VIII, 1872, s. 45.]

42. (1) When a company or firm has several places of business in territories subject to different Local Governments, the Governor General in Council may declare which of those places shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be the principal place of business.

Power to declare principal place of business or residence.

(2) When a company or firm has several places of business in the territories subject to a single Local Government, that Government may declare which of them shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be the principal place of business.

(3) When a person has several places of residence in territories subject to different Local Governments, the Governor General in Council may declare which of those places shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be his residence.

(4) When a person has several places of residence in the territories subject to a single Local Government, that Government may declare which of those places shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be his residence.

(5) The powers given by this section may be delegated to and exercised by such officers as the Governor General in Council or the Local Government, as the case may be, appoints in this behalf.

[New.]

43. Where a person is in respect of any period liable to the tax under this Act, he shall not in respect of that period be assessed to the pándhari tax levied in the Central Provinces under Act XIV of 1867, or to the capitation-tax, or the land-rate in lieu thereof, levied in British Burma under the Burma Land and Revenue Act, 1876.

Saving in favour of payers of pándhari and capitation taxes.

II of 1876.

[Act VIII, 1872, s. 3, cl. (3).]

44. Every person deducting, retaining or paying any tax in pursuance of this Act in respect of income belonging to another person is hereby indemnified for the deduction, retention or payment thereof.

Indemnity.

[Act XIV, 1882, s. 178.]

45. All powers conferred by or conferrable under this Act on the Governor General in Council or on a Local Government may be exercised from time to time as occasion requires.

Powers exerciseable from time to time.

The petition of A. B. of SHEWETH as follows—

1.—Under Act No. of 1886, your petitioner has been assessed in the sum of rupees for the year commencing the first day of April 188 .

2.—Your petitioner's income and profits accruing and arising from [here specify petitioner's trade or other source or sources of income or profits, and the place or places at which such income or profits accrues or arise] for the year ending the day of last were rupees , as will appear from the documents of which a list* is presented herewith.

3.—Such income and profits actually accrued and arose during a period of months and days [here state the exact number of months and days in which the income and profits accrued and arose].

4.—During the said year your petitioner had no other income or profits.

Your petitioner therefore prays that he may be assessed accordingly [or that he may be declared not to be chargeable under the said Act].

(Signed) A. B.

Form of Verification.

I, A. B., the petitioner named in the above petition, do declare that what is stated therein is true to the best of my information and belief.

(Signed) A. B.

* This list, if the petitioner so wishes, may be presented in a sealed envelope.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

It having been found necessary to have recourse to legislation for the purpose of increasing the public revenues, it has been decided to extend the existing License Tax to offices, employments and professions, and, generally, to make liable to assessment all incomes derived from sources other than agriculture.

The existing License Tax Acts are repealed and a single Act for all India is substituted.

The rate of the tax has been slightly raised, and the area of its incidence has been, as above stated, extended; but the principles of the License Tax are closely followed in the case of annual incomes below Rs. 2,000, and the procedure and machinery for assessment and collection are maintained in the case of all incomes so far as is consistent with the altered conditions of the tax.

PART V.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[First publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 5th February, 1886, and was referred to a Select Committee, with instructions to submit their Report within one month:—

NO. 2 OF 1886.

A Bill to amend the law relating to Government Securities.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the law relating to Government securities in manner hereinafter appearing; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Indian Securities Act, 1886; and

(2) It shall come into force at once.

Act to be read with Act XIX of 1885.

2. It shall be read with, and taken as part of, the Indian Securities Act, 1885, as amended by this Act.

XIX of 1885.

Repeal of part of section 3, Act XIX of 1885.

3. The words "issued before the first day of April, 1886," in section 3, sub-section (1), of the Indian Securities Act, 1885, are hereby repealed.

XIX of 1885.

Holding of Government securities by holders for the time being of public offices.

4. (1) In the case of any public office to which the Governor General in Council may, from time to time, by notification in the Gazette of India, declare this section to apply, a Government security may be made, or indorsed, payable to, or to the order of, the holder for the time being of the office.

(2) When a Government security is made or indorsed as aforesaid, it shall be deemed to be transferred without any or further indorsement from each holder for the time being of the office to the succeeding holder for the time being of the office from the date on which the latter takes charge of the office.

(3) When the holder for the time being of the office indorses to a third party a Government security made or indorsed as aforesaid, he shall subscribe the indorsement with his name and the title of his office.

Prohibition of indorsements on allonges to Government securities.

5. Notwithstanding anything in section 15 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881, the holder of a Government security shall not be said to indorse the security, or be called the indorser thereof, if, when he signs the same for the purpose of negotiation, he inscribes his signature for that purpose elsewhere than on the back of the security itself.

XXVI of 1881.

Power of Governor General in Council to make rules.

6. The Governor General in Council may, from time to time, make rules to prescribe—

(a) the mode in which payment of interest in respect of Government securities is to be recorded and acknowledged; and

(b) the circumstances under which Government securities must be renewed before further payment of interest thereon can be claimed.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

IN paragraph 5 of the Report submitted in October last by the Select Committee on the Bill which became Act XIX of 1885, it was stated that the question of applying the rule of survivorship to Government securities issued after as well as before the first day of April, 1886, would be further considered during the Calcutta session. The question has now been fully discussed, and the Government of India has decided to propose the maintenance of the rule of survivorship which has hitherto obtained. Effect will be given to this decision by the repeal of the words in section 3, sub-section (1), Act XIX of 1885, which restrict the operation of that section to Government securities issued before the first day of April, 1886.

2. By sections 4 and 5 it is proposed to introduce into the law relating to Government securities provisions (a) enabling holders for the time being of public offices to hold those securities, and (b) prohibiting the making of indorsements on allonges annexed to them.

Section 4 of the Bill, in providing that Government securities may be made and indorsed payable to the holder for the time being of an office, follows the Bills of Exchange Act, 1882 (45 & 46 Vic., c. 61), and will put an end to the public inconvenience which is caused by the present uncertainty as to the state of the law in India.

As regards section 5, the risk of fraud which attends the practice of writing indorsements upon allonges is held to justify the prohibition of annexing them to instruments which, like Government securities, are readily renewable.

3. Section 6 merely empowers the Governor General in Council to make authoritative rules for the maintenance of existing practice with respect to the record and acknowledgment of payment of interest and to the renewal of securities which have become covered with indorsements.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[First publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 19th February, 1886;—

NO. 3 OF 1886.

A Bill to amend the North-Western Provinces Rent Act, 1881.

XII of 1881.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the North-Western Provinces Rent Act, 1881; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title and commencement.

1. This Act may be called the North-Western Provinces Rent Act, 1886; and it shall come into force at once.

Amendment of section 95 of Act XII of 1881.

2. For the last paragraph of section 95 of the North-Western Provinces Rent Act, 1881, the following shall be substituted, namely:—

"For the purposes of the Court-fees Act, 1870, the amount of fee payable in the cases next hereinafter mentioned shall be computed as follows:—

(i) in applications under clause (c), and in appeals from orders passed on applications under that clause, as in a suit for possession of the land to which the application or appeal relates;

"(ii) in applications under clauses (l), (n), (o) and (p), and in appeals from orders passed on applications under clauses (d), (e), (f), (l), (n), (o), (p), (q) and (s), according to the rent of the land to which the application or appeal relates payable for the year next before the date of presenting the application, or, if in any case the fee cannot be so computed, then according to the annual letting value of the land as estimated by the applicant or appellant, as the case may be;

"(iii) in applications under clause (m), and in appeals from orders passed on applications under clauses (j), (m) and (t), according to the amount claimed in the application or in the petition of appeal, as the case may be."

New sections inserted after section 100 of same Act.

3. After section 100 of the same Act the following sections shall be inserted, namely:—

Power of Board to transfer business.

"100A. The Board may, on cause shown to its satisfaction, transfer any suit, application or appeal, or class of suits, applications or appeals, from any Court of Revenue to any other Court of Revenue competent as regards the nature of the case or class of cases to deal therewith under the provisions of this Act.

Commissioners may transfer appeals.

"100B. (1) The Commissioner of a Division may, with the sanction of the Local Government, transfer any appeal or class of appeals pending before himself to any Collector of a district within his Division.

"(2) The order passed by a Collector on an appeal transferred to him by the Commissioner under sub-section (1) shall be subject to appeal and revision in the same manner as if it had been passed by the Commissioner, and not otherwise.

"(3) The Local Government may by order recall any appeal transferred to a Collector under sub-section (1), and refer it for disposal to the Commissioner of the Division by whom it was transferred."

Addition to section 189.

4. In section 189 of the same Act, after the words "one hundred rupees, or" the following shall be inserted, namely:—

"in which the rent payable by the tenant has been a matter in issue and has been determined, or".

Sections 193, 196 and 197 of the same Act in part repealed.

5. In the same Act the last twelve words of section 196, the last twelve words of clause (a) of both sections 193 and 196, and the last six words of section 197, are repealed.

Amendment of section 194 of same Act.

6. In section 194 of the same Act the word "other" is repealed; and in clause (b), of the same section, for the word and figures "section 99" the words and figures "sections 99 and 100" shall be substituted.

Substitution of new section for section 195 of same Act.

7. For section 195 of the same Act the following shall be substituted, namely:—

"195. The orders of an Assistant Collector of the first class on applications mentioned in section 98 shall be final."

Amendment of section 198 of same Act.

8. In section 198 of the same Act, for the word and figures "section 100" the words and figures "sections 99 and 100" shall be substituted.

Section 199 of same Act amended.

9. In section 199 of the same Act, after the words "The Board may" the words "notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained" shall be inserted.

Addition to section 211 of same Act.

10. In section 211, after clause (d) the following shall be inserted, namely :—

"(e) as to the transfer of appeals to Collectors under section 100B".

Saving of orders passed before Act came into force.

11. Nothing in this Act shall confer a right to appeal from any order passed before the coming into force of this Act from which an appeal would not have lain if this Act had not been passed.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE objects of this Bill are (a) to check the growth of an irregular system of appeal which has arisen from an abuse of the powers of applying for a revision of certain orders of the Revenue Courts granted by Act XII of 1881, (b) to enable the Local Government to relieve Commissioners of a portion of their judicial work by empowering them to transfer appeals pending before them to Collectors for disposal, (c) to give a right of appeal in rent-suits decided by a Collector or Assistant Collector of the first class where the rent payable is disputed and determined, and (d) to enable the Board of Revenue to transfer suits, applications or appeals from one subordinate Court to another.

Act XII of 1881 declares that certain orders of Collectors and Assistant Collectors of the first class on applications shall be final, subject to revision by the Commissioner of the Division or by the Board. Applications for revision to these tribunals can be made on a stamp of one rupee, and the consequence is that two appeals, the first to Commissioner, the second to the Board, are virtually granted on payment of a light stamp-duty in cases in which the legislature held that the orders should be final, and that some Commissioners are swamped, and the Board unduly occupied, with judicial work. A large proportion of these applications are rejected, but the careful scrutiny of the petition, and very often the examination of the record of the Court of first instance which must precede an order rejecting the petition, are a fruitless waste of the time of highly paid officials, and the facility and cheapness with which such applications can be presented hold out an encouragement to frivolous appeals. At the same time it is admitted that there is a proportion, though a small one, in these cases where orders passed by the Courts of first instance may call for a remedy. The Bill sweeps away the revisional jurisdiction of Commissioners altogether, but gives in lieu of it a right of appeal on an ad valorem stamp. A second appeal is allowed when the Commissioner reverses or modifies the decree of the Court of first instance.

2. The amount of judicial work connected with rent-suits has been increasing year by year, especially in the Benares and Meerut Divisions. It is therefore proposed to give power to Commissioners under the control of the Local Government to transfer for disposal appeals pending in their Courts to Collectors. This is on the anology of the Bengal Civil Courts Act, which empowers District Judges, subject to the orders of the High Court, to refer civil appeals for disposal to Subordinate Judges.

3. Section 189 of Act XII of 1881 makes the judgments of the Collector of a district and of an Assistant Collector of the first class appealable to the District Judge in certain classes of suits, where the value of the subject-matter exceeds Rs. 100. An exception to this pecuniary limit is admitted in suits where the proprietary title to land is determined. It is now proposed to extend the exception to cases where the rent is disputed and determined. In rent-suits this is frequently the main point of contention, and the decision in a single suit may govern rents in an entire village. It is desirable, therefore, that either party should be able to appeal from an adverse decision on such a point, and that the risk of contradictory decisions of different tribunals should be avoided.

4. Opportunity has also been taken to add a section to the Act empowering the Board of Revenue, on cause shown to its satisfaction, to transfer suits, applications or appeals from one subordinate Court to another. This is in accordance with the power granted to Civil Courts by the Code of Civil Procedure, and the want of such a power in the highest Revenue Court may force an officer to try a case in which he is interested in his executive capacity, such as President of a District or Municipal Board, or Manager for the Court of Wards.

[First publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 19th February, 1886 :—

XIX of 1873.

No. 4 OF 1886.

A Bill to amend the North-Western Provinces Land-Revenue Act, 1873.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the North-Western Provinces Land-Revenue Act, 1873, in manner hereinafter appearing; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

New section inserted after section 11.

1. After section 11 the following section shall be inserted, namely :—

Appointment, powers and duties of Additional Commissioner.

"11A. (1) The Local Government may, from time to time, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, appoint an Additional Commissioner in a Division.

"(2) An Additional Commissioner shall hold his office during the pleasure of the Local Government.

"(3) An Additional Commissioner shall exercise such powers, and discharge such duties, of the Commissioner of the Division under this Act, or under any other law for the time being in force, as the Local Government may from time to time prescribe, but only in such cases as the Commissioner of the Division may direct.

"(4) This Act and every other law for the time being applicable to the Commissioner of the Division shall apply to the Additional Commissioner when exercising any powers or discharging any duties under sub-section (3), as if he were the Commissioner of the Division."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE North-Western Provinces Land-revenue Act contains no provision, such as is found in the Codes of the Lower Provinces of Bengal, Bombay, the Punjab and Central Provinces, authorizing the appointment of Additional Commissioners.

At present the Commissioner of Benares is quite unable to cope with the judicial work pending in his Court, and it is very desirable that the Lieutenant-Governor should have the power, which exists in other provinces, of reinforcing the Commissioner under exceptional circumstances by a substantive, though temporary, measure of direct relief and assistance.

This Bill has been drawn enabling the Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, to effect this, by appointing an Additional Commissioner and distributing the judicial work between him and the Commissioner of the Division.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Second publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 19th February, 1886;—

No. 3 OF 1886.

A Bill to amend the North-Western Provinces Rent Act, 1881.

XII of 1881.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the North-Western Provinces Rent Act, 1881; it is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title and commencement.

1. This Act may be called the North-Western Provinces Rent Act, 1886; and it shall come into force at once.

Amendment of section 95 of Act XII of 1881.

2. For the last paragraph of section 95 of the North-Western Provinces Rent Act, 1881, the following shall be substituted, namely:—

VII of 1870.

"For the purposes of the Court-fees Act, 1870, the amount of fee payable in the cases next hereinafter mentioned shall be computed as follows:—

"(ii) in applications under clauses (l), (n), (o) and (p), and in appeals from orders passed on applications under clauses (d), (e), (f), (l), (n), (o), (p), (q) and (s), according to the rent of the land to which the application or appeal relates payable for the year next before the date of presenting the application, or, if in any case the fee cannot be so computed, then according to the annual letting value of the land as estimated by the applicant or appellant, as the case may be;

"(iii) in applications under clause (m), and in appeals from orders passed on applications under clauses (j), (m) and (t), according to the amount claimed in the application or in the petition of appeal, as the case may be."

New sections inserted after section 100 of same Act.

3. After section 100 of the same Act the following sections shall be inserted, namely:—

Power of Board to transfer business.

"100A. The Board may, on cause shown to its satisfaction, transfer any suit, application or appeal, or class of suits, applications or appeals, from any Court of Revenue to any other Court of Revenue competent as regards the nature of the case or class of cases to deal therewith under the provisions of this Act.

Commissioners may transfer appeals.

"100B. (1) The Commissioner of a Division may, with the sanction of the Local Government, transfer any appeal or class of appeals pending before himself to any Collector of a district within his Division.

"(2) The order passed by a Collector on an appeal transferred to him by the Commissioner under sub-section (1) shall be subject to appeal and revision in the same manner as if it had been passed by the Commissioner, and not otherwise.

"(3) The Local Government may by order recall any appeal transferred to a Collector under sub-section (1), and refer it for disposal to the Commissioner of the Division by whom it was transferred."

Addition to section 189.

4. In section 189 of the same Act, after the words "one hundred rupees, or" the following shall be inserted, namely:—

"in which the rent payable by the tenant has been a matter in issue and has been determined, or".

Sections 193, 196 and 197 of the same Act in part repealed.

5. In the same Act the last twelve words of section 196, the last twelve words of clause (a) of both sections 193 and 196, and the last six words of section 197, are repealed.

6. In section 194 of the same Act the word "other" is repealed; and in clause (b), of the same section, for the word and figures "section 99" the words and figures "sections 99 and 100" shall be substituted.

Amendment of section 194 of same Act.

Substitution of new section for section 195 of same Act.

7. For section 195 of the same Act the following shall be substituted, namely :—

"195. The orders of an Assistant Collector of the first class on applications mentioned in section 98 shall be final."

8. In section 198 of the same Act, for the word and figures "section 100" the words and figures "sections 99 and 100" shall be substituted.

Amendment of section 198 of same Act.

9. In section 199 of the same Act, after the words "The Board may" the words "notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained" shall be inserted.

Section 199 of same Act amended.

Addition to section 211 of same Act.

10. In section 211, after clause (d) the following shall be inserted, namely :—

"(e) as to the transfer of appeals to Collectors under section 100B".

Saving of orders passed before Act came into force.

11. Nothing in this Act shall confer a right to appeal from any order passed before the coming into force of this Act from which an appeal would not have lain if this Act had not been passed.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE objects of this Bill are (a) to check the growth of an irregular system of appeal which has arisen from an abuse of the powers of applying for a revision of certain orders of the Revenue Courts granted by Act XII of 1881, (b) to enable the Local Government to relieve Commissioners of a portion of their judicial work by empowering them to transfer appeals pending before them to Collectors for disposal, (c) to give a right of appeal in rent-suits decided by a Collector or Assistant Collector of the first class where the rent payable is disputed and determined, and (d) to enable the Board of Revenue to transfer suits, applications or appeals from one subordinate Court to another.

Act XII of 1881 declares that certain orders of Collectors and Assistant Collectors of the first class on applications shall be final, subject to revision by the Commissioner of the Division or by the Board. Applications for revision to these tribunals can be made on a stamp of one rupee, and the consequence is that two appeals, the first to Commissioner, the second to the Board, are virtually granted on payment of a light stamp-duty in cases in which the legislature held that the orders should be final, and that some Commissioners are swamped, and the Board unduly occupied, with judicial work. A large proportion of these applications are rejected, but the careful scrutiny of the petition, and very often the examination of the record of the Court of first instance which must precede an order rejecting the petition, are a fruitless waste of the time of highly paid officials, and the facility and cheapness with which such applications can be presented hold out an encouragement to frivolous appeals. At the same time it is admitted that there is a proportion, though a small one, in these cases where orders passed by the Courts of first instance may call for a remedy. The Bill sweeps away the revisional jurisdiction of Commissioners altogether, but gives in lieu of it a right of appeal on an ad valorem stamp. A second appeal is allowed when the Commissioner reverses or modifies the decree of the Court of first instance.

2. The amount of judicial work connected with rent-suits has been increasing year by year, especially in the Benares and Meerut Divisions. This is on the anology of the Bengal Civil Courts Act, which empowers District Judges, subject to the orders of the High Court, to refer civil appeals for disposal to Subordinate Judges.

Short title, local extent and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Guardians and Wards Act, 1886.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India except the Scheduled Districts; and

(3) It shall come into force on the first day of January, 1887.

(4) Any power conferred by this Act to make rules or issue orders may be exercised at any time after the passing of this Act; but a rule or order so made or issued shall not take effect until the Act comes into force.

Repeal.

2. (1) On and from the day on which this Act comes into force, the enactments mentioned in the schedule hereto annexed shall be repealed to the extent specified in the third column thereof.

(2) But all proceedings had, certificates granted, allowances assigned, obligations imposed and applications, appointments, orders and rules made under any of those enactments shall, so far as may be, be deemed to have been respectively had, granted, assigned, imposed and made under this Act.

(3) Any enactment or document referring to any of those enactments shall, so far as may be, be construed to refer to this Act or to the corresponding portion thereof.

[Act XL, 1858, s. 2, and Act IX, 1861, s. 7.]

Saving of jurisdiction of Courts of Wards and Chartered High Courts.

3. This Act shall be read subject to every enactment heretofore or hereafter passed relating to any Court of Wards by the Governor General in Council or by a Governor or Lieutenant-Governor in Council; and nothing in this Act shall be deemed to affect, or in any way derogate from, the jurisdiction or authority of any Court of Wards, or to take away any power possessed by any High Court established under the twenty-fourth and twenty-fifth of Victoria, chapter one hundred and four (an Act for establishing High Courts of Judicature in India).

Definitions.

4. In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context,—

[cf. Act IX, 1872, s. 11.]

(1) "minor" means a person who has not reached the age of majority according to the law to which he is subject:

(2) "guardian" means a person having the care of the person of a minor or of his property, or of both his person and property:

(3) "ward" means a minor for whose person or property, or both, there is a guardian:

(4) "the Court" means the Court having jurisdiction to entertain an application under this Act for the appointment, or declaration of the title, of a guardian; and, where a guardian has been appointed or declared in pursuance of any such application, it means the Court which appointed or declared the guardian, or the High Court to which that Court is subordinate, or, in any matter relating to the person of the ward, the High Court having jurisdiction in the place where the ward for the time being resides:

(5) "Collector" means the chief officer in charge of the revenue-administration of a district, and includes any officer whom the Local Government, by notification in the official Gazette, may, from time to time, by name or by virtue of his office, appoint to be a Collector in any local area, or with respect to any class of persons, for all or any of the purposes of this Act:

(6) "prescribed" means prescribed by rules made by the High Court under this Act.

CHAPTER II.

APPOINTMENT OF GUARDIANS.

Power of parents to appoint in case of persons subject to Indian Succession Act.

[Act XIII, 1874, s. 3. Act X, 1865, s. 47.]

5. Where a minor is a person to whom the Indian Succession Act, 1865, applies, a guardian of his person or property, or both, may be appointed by will or other instrument to take effect on the death of the person appointing—

X of 1865.

(a) if the minor is legitimate, by the father, or by either parent if the other is dead or incapable of acting;

(b) if the minor is illegitimate, by the mother.

Saving of power to appoint in other cases.

[New.]

6. Where a minor is a person to whom the Indian Succession Act, 1865, does not apply, nothing in this Act shall take away or derogate from any power to appoint a guardian of his person or property, or both, which is valid by the law to which he is subject.

X of 1865.

Power of the Court to make order as to guardianship.

[Act XL, 1858, ss. 7 and 9: Act IX, 1861, s. 3: Act XX, 1864, ss. 6 and 8: Act XIII, 1874, ss. 4 and 7.]

7. Where it appears to the Court that provision ought to be made—

(a) for appointing a guardian of the person or property, or both, of a minor, or

(b) for declaring the title of a person claiming to be such a guardian, the Court may make an order accordingly.

Persons entitled to apply for order.

[Act XL, 18 ss. 3 and 4 Act IX, 1 s. 1: Act 1864, ss. and 3 Act XIII, 1874, s. 5.]

8. An order may be made under the last foregoing section on the application of—

(a) the person desirous of being, or claiming to be, the guardian of the minor, or

The Guardians and Wards Bill, 1886.

(Chapter II.—Appointment of Guardians.—Sections 9-14.)

(b) any relative or friend of the minor, or

(c) the Collector of the district or other local area within which the minor resides or has property, or

(d) the Collector having authority with respect to the class to which the minor belongs.

[Act XL, 1858, s. 29. Act IX, 1861, s. 1. Act X, 1864, s. 34. Act XIII, 1874, s. 2. Act X, 1865, s. 264. Act V, 1881, s. 87.]

Court having jurisdiction to entertain the application.

9. (1) The application shall be made either to the High Court having jurisdiction in the place where the minor resides or has property, or to the District Court having jurisdiction in that place.

[Tagore Law Lectures, 1877, 156 and 157.]

(2) An application with respect to the guardianship of the person of a minor shall ordinarily be made to the Court having jurisdiction in the place where the minor resides.

[Act X, 1865, s. 241, and Act V, 1881, s. 57.]

(3) If an application with respect to the guardianship of the person or property, or both, of a minor is made to a Court other than that having jurisdiction in the place where the minor resides, the Court may refuse the application if in its opinion the application would be disposed of more justly or conveniently by any other Court having jurisdiction.

[Act XIII, 1874, s. 5.]

Form of application.

10. (1) The application shall be by petition setting forth the grounds of the application, and stating—

(a) the age and residence of the minor;

(b) the nature and value of his property (if any);

(d) what relations the minor has, and where they reside;

(e) whether an application has at any time been made to the Court or to any other Court with respect to the guardianship of the person or property, or both, of the minor, and, if so, when, to what Court and with what result;

(f) where the application is to appoint a guardian, the qualifications of the proposed guardian and his willingness to act;

(g) where the application is to declare the title of a guardian, the grounds on which that title rests; and

(h) such other particulars, if any, as may be prescribed or as the nature of the application renders it necessary to state.

(2) The petition shall be verified by the petitioner or some other competent person in manner required by law for the verification of plaints, and may be received as evidence of the facts stated therein.

Procedure on admission of application.

[Act XL, 1858, s. 6, and Act XX, 1864, s. 5.]

11. (1) If the Court is satisfied that there is ground for proceeding on the application, it shall fix a day for the hearing thereof, and cause notice of the application and of the date fixed for the hearing—

[Act XIII, 1874, s. 5.]

(a) to be served, in the manner directed in the Code of Civil Procedure, on the person (if any) named in the petition as having the custody or being in possession of the person or property of the minor, and on any other person to whom, in the opinion of the Court, special notice of the application should be given; and

XIV of 1882.

(b) to be posted on some conspicuous part of the court-house, and otherwise published in such manner as the Court, subject to any rules made by the High Court under this Act, thinks fit.

[Circular Order No. 30 of 1880—High Court, North-Western Provinces.]

(2) When any part of the property described in the petition is of such nature that a Court of Wards could assume the superintendence thereof, the Court shall also cause a notice as aforesaid to be served on the Collector in whose district the minor resides, and on every Collector in whose district any portion of that part of the property is situate, and the Collector may cause the notice to be published in any manner he deems fit.

Power to make interlocutory order for production of minor and interim protection of his person and property.

[Act IX, 1861, s. 2, and Act XIII, 1874, s. 6.]

12. The Court may direct that the person (if any) having the custody of the minor shall produce him at such place and time as it appoints, and may make such order for the temporary custody and protection of the person or property of the minor as it thinks proper.

Hearing of evidence before making of order.

[Act IX, 1861, s. 6 and Act XIII, 1874, s. 7.]

13. On the day fixed for the hearing of the application, or as soon afterwards as may be, the Court shall hear such evidence as may be adduced in support of or in opposition to the application.

Appointment of several guardians.

[Act XIII, 1874, s. 21.]

14. (1) If the law to which the minor is subject admits of his having two or more joint guardians of his person or property, or both, the Court may, if it thinks fit, appoint or declare them.

(2) Separate guardians may be appointed or declared of the person and of the property of a minor.

[Act XIII, 1874, s. 4.]

(3) If a minor has several properties, the Court may, if it thinks fit, appoint or declare a separate guardian for any one or more of the properties.

[Act XIII, 1874, s. 4.]

(4) If the Court appoints or declares a guardian for any property situate beyond the local limits of its jurisdiction, the Court having jurisdiction in the place where the property is situate shall accept the guardian as duly appointed or declared and give effect to the order appointing or declaring him.

The Guardians and Wards Bill, 1886.

(Chapter II.—Appointment of Guardians.—Sections 15-17.)

(Chapter III.—Duties, Rights and Liabilities of Guardians.—Sections 18-22.)

[Act XIII, 1874, s. 10.]

15. (1) In appointing or declaring the guardian of a minor the Court shall be guided by the law to which the minor is subject and by what appears to be, consistently with that law, for the best interest of the minor with respect to his mental, moral and temporal welfare.

Matters to be considered by the Court in appointing guardian.

(2) In considering what will be for the best interest of the minor, the Court shall have regard to his age, his relationship to the proposed guardian, the wishes of a deceased parent (if any), and any existing or previous connection of the proposed guardian with the person or property of the minor.

(3) If the minor is old enough to form an intelligent preference, the Court may consider that preference.

X of 1865.

(4) In the case of persons to whom the Indian Succession Act, 1865, applies, as between parents adversely claiming the guardianship, neither parent is entitled to it as of right; but, other things being equal in such case, if the minor is of tender years, he should be given to the mother, and if he is of an age to require education and preparation for labour and business, then to the father.

[New.]

(5) Where the minor is a member of an undivided Hindu family, special weight is to be attached to any claim which the managing member of the family may make to be appointed or declared guardian, and to any objection which he may take to an appointment or declaration asked for in an application.

(6) The Court shall not appoint a person to be guardian against his will.

[Act XL, 1858, s. 27: Act XX, 1864, s. 31: Act XIII, 1874, s. 25: and Act XVII, 1885, s. 8.]

Guardian of the person not to be appointed by the Court in certain cases.

16. Nothing in this Chapter shall authorise the Court to appoint or declare a guardian of the person of a minor—

(a) who is a married female cohabiting with her husband, or

(b) whose father is living and is not a minor or, in the opinion of the Court, unfit to perform, or incapable of performing, the duties of a guardian of the person of the minor, or

(c) whose property is under the superintendence of a Court of Wards competent to appoint a guardian of his person.

[New.]

Guardian of property to be appointed by the Court subject to restrictions in case of certain minors.

17. Where under this Chapter the Court appoints or declares a guardian of the property of a minor who is a member of an undivided Hindu family, it shall, except where it is proved to the satisfaction of the Court that the interests of the minor have been actually imperilled, appoint or declare the guardian subject to such restrictions as will prevent him from interfering with the powers of the managing member of the family.

CHAPTER III.

DUTIES, RIGHTS AND LIABILITIES OF GUARDIANS.

General.

Fiduciary relation of guardian to ward.

18. (1) A guardian must act for the benefit of his ward. [Seton's Decrees, 739, and Act XIII, 1874, s. 18.]

(2) He cannot make any profit out of his office.

(3) With respect to the property of the ward, he stands in the position of trustee for the ward, and is responsible for any loss occasioned to the property by his wilful default or gross negligence.

(4) This fiduciary relation extends to and affects purchases by a guardian of the property of his ward immediately or soon after the ward has ceased to be a minor, and generally all transactions between them while the influence of the guardian still lasts or is recent.

Minor incompetent to act.

19. A minor is incompetent to act as guardian. [Act XIII, 1874, s. 19.]

Guardian of the Person.

Duties of guardian of the person.

20. A guardian of the person of a ward is charged with the custody of the ward, and must look to his support, health and education, and such other matters as the law to which the ward is subject requires. [Act XIII, 1874, ss. 11 and 12.]

Title of guardian to custody of ward.

21. (1) If a ward leaves the custody of his guardian, he may be compelled by order of the Court to return to that custody. [Act XIII, 1874, s. 13.]

(2) But the Court may refuse to make an order for his return to the custody of the guardian if it appears—

(a) that the ward has been ill-treated by the guardian; or

(b) that the conduct of the guardian in any other respect has rendered him unfit to have the custody of the ward; or

(c) that the ward is, on reasonable grounds not inconsistent with the law to which he is subject, unwilling to return, and, having attained to years of discretion, is capable of exercising a wise choice as to the custody in which he will remain.

(3) The residence of a ward against the will of his guardian with a person who is not his guardian does not of itself terminate the guardianship. [Eversley's Domestic Relations, 691-92.]

Removal of ward from jurisdiction.

22. (1) A guardian of the person appointed or declared by the Court shall not, without the leave of the Court by which he was appointed or declared, remove the ward from the limits of its jurisdiction, except for such temporary purposes as may be prescribed or for the purpose of placing him beyond those limits at an educational institution appointed by the Local Government administering the territories

The Guardians and Wards Bill, 1886.

(Chapter III.—Duties, Rights and Liabilities of Guardians.—Sections 23-27.)

within which the Court is established as an institution to which a guardian may send a ward without the leave of the Court.

(2) The leave granted by the Court under sub-section (1) may be special or general, and may be defined by the order granting it.

Guardian of Property.

[Act XLII, 1874, s. 15.]

Duties of guardian of property.

23. (1) A guardian of the property of a ward must keep that property safely.

(2) In the case of immoveable property, he must not suffer any waste, but must maintain the buildings (if any) thereon and their appurtenances out of the rents and profits of the property.

[Act XL, 1858, s. 18: Act XX, 1864, s. 18: and Act XIII, 1874, s. 16.]

Limitation of powers of guardian of property appointed or declared by the Court.

24. Where a guardian of the property of a ward has been appointed or declared by the Court, he shall not, without the previous permission of the Court,—

(a) borrow for his ward; or

(b) mortgage, charge or transfer by sale, gift, exchange or otherwise any part of the immoveable property of his ward; or

(c) lease any part of that property for a term exceeding three years; or

(d) transfer any Government securities belonging to the ward, or the shares or other interest of the ward in any company; or

(e) dispose of any other part of the principal of the property of the ward:

[Cf. Agt V, 1881, s. 90.]

Provided that the Court may, subject to any rules made by the High Court under this Act, exempt a guardian from the necessity of obtaining the permission of the Court under this section, either generally or in special circumstances, and as to either the whole or any specified part of the property of the ward.

[New.]

Practice with respect to limitation of powers of guardian of property.

25. (1) Permission to the guardian to do any of the acts mentioned in the last foregoing section shall not be granted by the Court except in case of necessity or for an evident advantage to the ward.

[New.]

(2) The order granting the permission shall recite the necessity or advantage, as the case may be, describe the property with respect to which the act permitted is to be done, and specify such conditions, if any, as the Court may see fit to attach to the permission; and it shall be recorded, dated and signed by the Judge of the Court with his own hand, or, when from any cause he is prevented from recording the order with his own hand, shall be taken down in writing from his dictation and be dated and signed by him.

[New.]

(3) The Court may in its discretion attach to the permission the following among other conditions, namely:—

(a) that a sale shall be made to the highest bidder by public auction, before the Court or some person specially appointed by the Court for that purpose, at a time and place to be specified by the Court, after such proclamation of the intended sale as the Court, subject to any rules made by the High Court under this Act, directs;

(c) that the whole or any part of the proceeds of the act permitted shall be paid into the Court by the guardian to be invested by the Court on prescribed securities or otherwise disposed of as the Court directs.

[New.]

(4) Before granting permission to a guardian to do an act mentioned in the last foregoing section the Court may cause notice of the application for the permission to be given to any relative or friend of the ward who should, in its opinion, receive notice thereof, and shall hear, and record the statement of, any person who appears in opposition to the application.

[Act XL, 1858, s. 2: Act XX, 1864, s. 1: and Act XIII, 1874, s. 20.]

General powers of guardian of property.

26. (1) Where a guardian of the property of a ward has been appointed or declared by the Court, the Court may from time to time, by order, define, restrict or extend his powers with respect to the property of the ward in such manner and to such extent as it may consider to be for the advantage of the ward and consistent with the law to which the ward is subject.

(2) Subject to any such order and subject also to sections 17 and 24, a guardian appointed by or under a will or other instrument shall, with respect to the property of his ward, have such powers and be subject to such restrictions as are conferred or imposed on him by that instrument.

[Act II, 1882, s. 36.]

(3) Subject to the foregoing provisions of this section, a guardian of the property of a ward may do all acts which are reasonable and proper for the realization, protection or benefit of the property of the ward and are allowed by the law to which the ward is subject.

[Act II, 1882, s. 34.]

Right of guardian to apply to the Court for opinion in management of property of ward.

27. (1) A guardian may apply by petition to the Court for its opinion, advice or direction on any present questions respecting the management or administration of the property of his ward, other than questions not proper, in the opinion of the Court, for summary disposal.

The Guardians and Wards Bill, 1886.

(Chapter III.—Duties, Rights and Liabilities of Guardians.—Sections 28-33.)

(2) A copy of the petition shall be served upon, and the hearing thereof may be attended by, such of the persons interested in the application as the Court thinks fit.

(3) The guardian stating in good faith the facts in the petition and acting upon the opinion, advice or direction given by the Court shall be deemed, so far as regards his own responsibility, to have discharged his duty as guardian in the subject-matter of the application.

[Act XIII, 1874, s. 18.]

28. Where a guardian of the property of a ward has been appointed or declared by the Court, he shall—

Obligations on, and privileges of, guardian of property.

[Act X, 1865, s. 256, and Act V, 1881, s. 78.]

(a) if so required by the Court, give a bond, as nearly may be in the prescribed form, to the Judge of the Court to enure for the benefit of the Judge for the time being, with or without sureties, as may be prescribed, engaging duly to account for what he may receive in respect of the property of the ward;

[Act XL, 1858, s. 16, and Act XX 1864, s. 16.]

(b) deliver to the Court, within six months from the date of his appointment or declaration by the Court, or within such shorter time as the Court directs, a statement of the immoveable property belonging to the ward, of the money and other moveable property which he has received on behalf of the ward up to the date of delivering the statement, and of the debts due on that date to or from the ward;

[Act XL, 1858, s. 16, and Act XX, 1864, s. 16.]

(c) exhibit his accounts in the Court at such times and in such form as the Court directs;

[Act XL, 1858, s. 17, and Act XX, 1864, s. 17.]

(d) if the Court so directs, pay into the Court the balance due from him on those accounts, or so much thereof as the Court directs, in the manner in which money is required by any rules for the time being in force to be paid into that Court;

[Act XL, 1858, s. 11: Act XX, 1864, s. 10: and Act XIII, 1874, s. 17.]

(e) apply for the maintenance, education and advancement of the ward such portion of the income of the property of the ward as the Court directs, and, if the Court so directs, the whole or any part of the principal of that property; and

[Act XL, 1858, s. 24, and Act XX, 1864, s. 24.]

(f) be entitled to such allowance, if any, as the Court thinks fit for his care and pains in the execution of his duties.

[Act X, 1865, s. 257, and Act V, 1881, s. 79. I. L. R. 5 All. 248.]

29. Where a guardian has given a bond duly to account for what he may receive in respect of the property of his ward, the Court may at any time, on being satisfied that the engagement of the bond has not been kept, and upon such terms as to security, or providing that the money received be paid into the Court, or otherwise, as the Court thinks fit, assign the bond to some proper person, who shall thereupon be entitled to sue on the bond in his own name as if the bond had been originally given to him instead of to the Judge of the Court, and shall be entitled to recover thereon, as trustee for the ward, the full amount recoverable in respect of any breach thereof.

Suit against guardian where administration-bond was not taken.

[Act XL, 1858, s. 19, and Act XX, 1864, s. 19.]

30. Where a guardian has not given a bond as aforesaid, any person, with the leave of the Court, may, as next friend, at any time during the continuance of the minority of the ward, and upon such terms as aforesaid, institute a suit against the guardian, or, in case of his death, against his legal representative, for an account of what the guardian has received in respect of the property of the ward, and may recover in the suit, as trustee for the ward, the full amount found in the suit to have been received by the guardian and not to have been duly accounted for.

[Act XL, 1858, s. 19, and Act XX, 1864, s. 19.]

31. Nothing in either of the last two foregoing sections shall be construed to deprive a ward or his legal representative of any remedy against his guardian, or the legal representative of the guardian, which, not being expressly provided in either of those sections, any other beneficiary or his legal representative would have against his trustee or the legal representative of the trustee.

General liability of guardian as trustee.

Termination of Guardianship.

[Act XIII, 1874, s. 21.]

32. On the death of one of two or more joint guardians, the guardianship continues to the survivor or survivors until a further appointment is made by the Court.

Right of survivorship among joint guardians.

[Act XL, 1858, s. 21: Act XX, 1864, s. 21 and Act XIII, 1874, ss. 22 and 24.]

33. (1) The Court may, on the application of any person interested, or of its own motion, remove a guardian for any of the following causes, namely:—

Removal of guardian.

(a) for abuse of his trust;

(b) for continued failure to perform its duties;

(c) for incapacity to perform its duties;

(d) for gross immorality;

(e) for having an interest adverse to the faithful performance of his duties;

(f) for removal from the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court;

(g) by reason of the arrival within those limits of some person whose guardianship the Court may think likely to be more beneficial to the ward than that of his guardian; or

(h) in the case of a guardian of the property, for insolvency.

(2) When a guardian has been removed for any such cause, the Court may appoint a successor to him under the provisions of Chapter II.

The Guardians and Wards Bill, 1886.

(Chapter III.—Duties, Rights and Liabilities of Guardians.—Sections 34-35.)

(Chapter IV.—Supplemental Provisions.—Sections 34-41.)

[Act XL, 1858, s. 23: Act XX, 1864, s. 23: and Act XIII, 1874, ss. 23 and 24.]

34. (1) If a guardian desires to resign his office, he may apply to the Court to be discharged.

Discharge of guardian.

(2) If the Court finds that there is some other proper person whom it may appoint to be guardian under the provisions of Chapter II, it shall discharge the applicant from the guardianship and appoint the other person in his place.

[Act XL, 1858, s. 27: Act XX, 1864, s. 31: and Act XIII, 1874, s. 25.]

35. (1) The power of a guardian of the person ceases—

Cessation of authority of guardian.

(a) by his removal or discharge;

(b) by the Court of Wards assuming superintendence of the person of the ward;

(c) by the ward ceasing to be a minor;

(d) in the case of a female ward, by her marriage followed by cohabitation with her husband; or

(e) in the case of a ward whose father was a minor, or deemed unfit to perform, or incapable of performing, the duties of a guardian of the person of the ward, by the father ceasing to be a minor or, as the case may be, to be deemed unfit or incapable as aforesaid.

(2) The power of a guardian of the property ceases—

(a) by his removal or discharge;

(b) by the Court of Wards assuming superintendence of the property of the ward; or

(c) by the ward ceasing to be a minor.

[Act XL, 1858, s. 21, and Act XX, 1864, s. 21.]

(3) When for any cause a person ceases to be a guardian, the Court may require him to deliver as it directs any property in his possession belonging to the ward.

[Act XL, 1858, s. 23, and Act XX, 1864, s. 23.]

(4) When he has delivered as the Court directs the property, if any, in his possession belonging to the ward, the Court may declare him to be discharged from his liabilities as guardian, save as regards any fraud which may subsequently be discovered.

CHAPTER IV.

SUPPLEMENTAL PROVISIONS.

[Act XL, 1858, s. 2: Act XX, 1864, s. 1: Act XIII, 1874, s. 20: and Act XIV, 1882, s. 493.]

36. (1) The Court may, on the application of any person interested or of its own motion, make an order regulating the conduct or proceedings of any guardian who has not been appointed by a Court of Wards, whether the guardian has been appointed or declared by the Court under this Act or not.

Orders for regulating conduct or proceedings of guardians, and enforcement of these orders.

XIV of 1882.

[Act XIII, 1874, s. 14.]

37. If, for the purpose or with the effect of preventing the Court from exercising its authority with respect to a ward, the guardian of the ward removes him from the limits of the jurisdiction of the Court in contravention of the prohibition contained in section 22, he shall be liable, by order of the Court, to fine not exceeding one thousand rupees, or to imprisonment for a term which may extend to six months, or to both.

Penalty for removal of ward from jurisdiction.

[Act XL, 1858, s. 22, and Act XX, 1864, s. 22.]

38. If a guardian fails to deliver to the Court, within six months from the date of his appointment or declaration by the Court, or within such shorter time as the Court directs, the statement mentioned in clause (b) of section 28, or to exhibit his accounts in the Court, as required by clause (c) of that section, or to pay into the Court the balance due from him on those accounts, as required by clause (d) of that section, or if a person who has ceased to be a guardian fails, on the requisition of the Court, to deliver as the Court directs any property in his possession belonging to the ward, he shall be liable, by order of the Court, to fine not exceeding one hundred rupees, and, in case of recusancy, to further fine not exceeding fifty rupees for each day after the first during which the default continues and to detention in the civil jail until he consents to deliver the statement, or exhibit the accounts, or pay the balance, or deliver the property, as the case may be.

Penalty for failure to account.

[Act V, 1862, s. 14.]

39. Nothing in this Act shall prevent a person from being prosecuted under any other law for an act or omission which constitutes an offence against this Act, or from being liable under that other law to any other or higher punishment or penalty than that provided by this Act:

Saving of prosecution under other law.

Provided that a person shall not be punished twice for the same offence

[Act XL, 1858, ss. 6 and 8, and Act XX, 1864, ss. 5 and 7.]

40. The Court may call upon the Collector, or upon any Court subordinate to the Court, for a report on any matter arising in any proceeding under this Act and treat the report as evidence.

Reports by Collectors and Subordinate Courts.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THIS Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to Guardian and Ward is based on opinions elicited by a reference to Local Governments and High Courts on the subject of certain defects in the law relating to the guardianship of minors, and its object is to provide a law of Guardian and Ward applicable as far as possible to all classes of Her Majesty's subjects in British India.

2. Among the enactments which the Bill will supersede are Act XL of 1858 and portions of the Madras Code, relating to minors in the Presidencies of Bengal and Madras who are not European British subjects and are not under the superintendence of a Court of Wards; Act XX of 1864, relating to minors in the Presidency of Bombay who are not European British subjects; Act IX of 1861, relating to the custody and guardianship of minors who are not European British subjects; and Act XIII of 1874, relating to the guardianship of European British minors in territories beyond the jurisdiction of the chartered High Courts.

3. The Bill, which follows generally the frame of Act XIII of 1874, is drawn as applicable to all District Courts and High Courts (including the chartered High Courts) and to minors of all creeds and races. But it does not take away any of the powers at present possessed by the chartered High Courts, and it provides that, in the selection of guardians and other matters, regard shall be had to the personal law of the minor. The jurisdiction and authority of Courts of Wards are expressly saved and will not be in any way affected by the proposed law.

4. One effect of the assimilation of the law will be to do away with the rule, which obtains in the Presidencies of Bengal and Bombay, that no person shall be entitled to institute or defend any suit connected with a minor's estate of which he claims the charge until he has obtained a certificate of administration. It is proposed that suits by and against minors shall be regulated by Chapter XXXI of the Code of Civil Procedure, and that, in a Bill which is to be introduced to amend that Code, provision be inserted conferring, among other privileges, on a guardian who has been appointed, or whose title has been declared, under the Guardians and Wards law, a preferential right to be appointed next friend or guardian for the suit.

5. The several sections of the Bill which appear to call for remark will now be noticed in consecutive order.

6. Section 4, clause (1).—In connection with section 26, Act XL of 1858, section 30, Act XX of 1864, and section 2, Act XIII of 1874, the question arose whether the age of majority should be dealt with in the Bill. As there was no necessity to deal with it, it was considered expedient to avoid the difficulty of doing so by defining "minor," in the terms of section 11 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, as a person who has not reached the age of majority according to the law to which he is subject.

7. Section 4, clause (2).—"Guardian" has been so defined as to mean any person having the care of the person of a minor or of his property, or of both his person and property. The Bill, therefore, relates to guardians generally except where it is expressed to relate to particular classes of guardians.

8. Section 5.—This section follows Act XIII of 1874, which, in recognising in certain circumstances the right of a mother to appoint a guardian, was based on the New York Civil Code. The section goes beyond section 47 of the Indian Succession Act and beyond the English law. But under the English law an appointment by a mother is not now wholly ineffectual, and is likely at no distant date to be declared to be valid except in so far as it may interfere with an appointment by the father.

9. Sections 9 and 43.—The High Court and District Court will have concurrent jurisdiction, but the High Court may refuse an application with respect to the guardianship of a minor if in its opinion the application would be disposed of more justly or conveniently by a District Court. Where the application is with respect to the guardianship of the person of a minor, it is ordinarily to be made to the Court having jurisdiction in the place where the minor resides, that being the Court which can most effectively discharge the duties incident to the appointment of a guardian to the person of the minor.

10. Section 11, sub-section (2).—The sub-section follows an order made by the High Court of Judicature for the North-Western Provinces with a view to facilitating the discharge by Collectors of their duty of ascertaining and reporting to the Court of Wards from time to time what proprietors may come within the description of disqualified landholders.

11. Section 14, sub-section (4).—The rule laid down in this sub-section is, as explained by Sir Arthur Hobhouse with respect to the corresponding section in Act XIII of 1874, based solely on grounds of convenience.

12. Section 15, sub-section (5), and section 17.—As regards a minor who is a member of an undivided Hindu family, it seems to be generally admitted that it is desirable, as a rule, to leave him to his natural guardians without interference. But such a minor has certain rights in respect of the family property, and those rights are capable of being protected by a guardian. The guardian could not assume the management of the common property, and possibly he would, owing to the constitution of the co-ownership, be debarred from taking directly even a share in the management, and be confined to a mere power of control from without and a right in the last resort to demand a partition. But even this limited authority might in some cases be of great importance.

As regards the view hitherto taken by the Courts on this subject, it has indeed been held by the High Courts at Fort William and Bombay that Acts XL of 1858 and XX of 1864 could not be applied where the minor had no rights except as a member of an undivided Hindu family (I. L. R. 5 Cal. 219 and 3 Bom. 431, and 12 Bo. H. C. Rep. 247). Some doubt has been thrown on this view by the case before the Privy Council reported in I. L. R. 8 Cal. 656 (I. L. R. 6 Bom. 595 and 8 Bom. 396); but in any case it is a view which seems to be based on the peculiar wording of those Acts, which have been construed as contemplating an actual and (perhaps) corporeal taking charge of and management of some tangible property. In other words, these cases merely decide that under the particular Acts a manager cannot be appointed for a minor member of a pure joint family, not that such a manager is a thing inconceivable or impossible (I. L. R. 7 Cal. 369).

As regards the provisions of certain enactments which allow the Court of Wards to take charge only of the estate of a minor who is a sole owner (Act IV, 1872, section 35, Act XVII, 1876, section 161, and Bengal Act IX, 1879, section 7), they are to be accounted for by the fact that these enactments were designed mainly to guard against the risk of loss of revenue from an estate being left without any competent person in charge of it. That it was not considered impossible to take charge of the interest of a minor shareholder is manifest from Madras Regulations V of 1804, section 20, and X of 1831, section 3, and from the circumstance that section 14 of Act XL of 1858 and other similar enactments provide for the Collector taking charge of the share of a co-owner who is still a minor on the estate escaping from the management of the Court of Wards owing to the other co-owners having come of age. The Courts of Wards in the North-Western Provinces (Act XIX of 1873) and Central Provinces (Act XVII of 1885) are not precluded from assuming superintendence of the interest of a disqualified person who is a co-owner in an estate with other persons who are not disqualified.

It may be gathered from the proceedings of the Legislative Council, 1854-55, pages 672 et seq., that it was the intention of the framers of Act XL of 1858 that the Civil Court should appoint guardians for minors owning shares in estates, and it would seem that it is only owing to the peculiar wording of the Act, coupled perhaps with a natural disinclination on the part of the Courts to interfere between joint-owners, that that intention has been defeated.

13. Section 18.—This section lays down certain general propositions based on the fact that guardianship is a trust, and that the relationship between guardian and ward is one uberrimæ fidei, not only while it lasts, but even after it has ceased to exist.

14. Sections 24 and 25.—These sections are based on section 18 of the Acts of 1858 and 1864 and the corresponding section of the Act of 1874, on certain provisions in the Code of Lower Canada, and on suggestions received for the amendment of the Acts of 1858 and 1864. They provide that a guardian who has been appointed, or whose title has been declared, by the Court, shall not borrow for his ward, or transfer any part of the principal of his property, without the permission of the Court, and that the Court, before granting its permission, shall satisfy itself that the transaction proposed is either necessary or for the evident advantage of the ward, and, when granting the permission, shall itself record an order setting forth the necessity or advantage and the conditions subject to which it permits the loan to be taken or the transfer to be effected (I. L. R. 5 Cal. 363 and 6 Cal. 161).

These sections will be supplemented by rules made by the High Court under section 44.

15. Section 28, clause (a), and section 29.—These provisions are suggested by the case reported at I. L. R. 5 All. 248.

16. Section 32.—The rule contained in this section follows from guardianship being a trust. Though the right of survivorship is not acknowledged in England in the case of guardians appointed by the Court of Chancery, yet in practice the survivor or survivors will be re-elected by the Court without a reference. In America there is the right of survivorship among guardians appointed by the Court of Chancery.

17. Section 33.—A testamentary guardian may be removed under this section.

18. Section 41.—The cases reported at 15 W. R. 492 and 22 W. R. 479 have suggested the specification of the orders from which an appeal shall lie.

19. Acts XL of 1858 and XX of 1864 provide, in sections 27 and 31, respectively, that nothing in those Acts shall authorise the appointment of any person other than a female as the guardian of the person of a female. The cases reported at I. L. R. 10 Cal. 15 and 11 Cal. 574, and the remarks at pages 213-14 of Sayyid Amir Ali's Personal Law of Muhammadans, seem to render the re-enactment of the provision inexpedient. Section 15 of the Bill specifies the matters by which the Court is to be guided in appointing a guardian, and one of those matters is the law to which the minor is subject.

20. The provision of Act XX of 1864, that the legal heir of a minor, or the person next in succession to his property, may not be appointed guardian of the person of the minor, has not been repeated. It is considered that the appointment of such persons should not be absolutely prohibited. This was the opinion of the Supreme Council when Act XL of 1858 was about to be enacted (Proceedings of Legislative Council, 1858, pages 576-77), and is the opinion of the Hon'ble Mr. M. Melvill.

21. If the Bill becomes law in its present form, article 10 of Schedule I of the Court-fees Act, 1870, which applies only to the Presidencies of Bengal and Bombay, will become obsolete. It has, therefore, been included in the schedule of enactments to be repealed.

22. A table is appended showing how the principal enactments scheduled for repeal have been reproduced in the Bill or otherwise dealt with.

THE SCHEDULE.—ENACTMENTS REPEALED.

A Bill to Consolidate and amend the law relating to Guardian and Ward.

WHEREAS it is expedient to consolidate and amend the law relating to guardian and ward; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

Short title, local extent and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Guardians and Wards Act, 1886.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India except the Scheduled Districts; and

(3) It shall come into force on the first day of January, 1887.

(4) Any power conferred by this Act to make rules or issue orders may be exercised at any time after the passing of this Act; but a rule or order so made or issued shall not take effect until the Act comes into force.

Repeal.

2. (1) On and from the day on which this Act comes into force, the enactments mentioned in the schedule hereto annexed shall be repealed to the extent specified in the third column thereof.

(2) But all proceedings had, certificates granted, allowances assigned, obligations imposed and applications, appointments, orders and rules made under any of those enactments shall, so far as may be, be deemed to have been respectively had, granted, assigned, imposed and made under this Act.

(3) Any enactment or document referring to any of those enactments shall, so far as may be, be construed to refer to this Act or to the corresponding portion thereof.

[Act XL, 1858, s. 2, and Act IX, 1861, s. 7.]

Saving of jurisdiction of Courts of Wards and Chartered High Courts.

3. This Act shall be read subject to every enactment heretofore or hereafter passed relating to any Court of Wards by the Governor General in Council or by a Governor or Lieutenant-Governor in Council; and nothing in this Act shall be deemed to affect, or in any way derogate from, the jurisdiction or authority of any Court of Wards, or to take away any power possessed by any High Court established under the twenty-fourth and twenty-fifth of Victoria, chapter one hundred and four (an Act for establishing High Courts of Judicature in India).

Definitions.

4. In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context,—

[cf. Act IX, 1872, s. 11.] (1) "minor" means a person who has not reached the age of majority according to the law to which he is subject:

(2) "guardian" means a person having the care of the person of a minor or of his property, or of both his person and property:

(3) "ward" means a minor for whose person or property, or both, there is a guardian:

(4) "the Court" means the Court having jurisdiction to entertain an application under this Act for the appointment, or declaration of the title, of a guardian; and, where a guardian has been appointed or declared in pursuance of any such application, it means the Court which appointed or declared the guardian, or the High Court to which that Court is subordinate, or, in any matter relating to the person of the ward, the High Court having jurisdiction in the place where the ward for the time being resides:

(5) "Collector" means the chief officer in charge of the revenue-administration of a district, and includes any officer whom the Local Government, by notification in the official Gazette, may, from time to time, by name or by virtue of his office, appoint to be a Collector in any local area, or with respect to any class of persons, for all or any of the purposes of this Act:

(6) "prescribed" means prescribed by rules made by the High Court under this Act.

CHAPTER II.

APPOINTMENT OF GUARDIANS.

Power of parents to appoint in case of persons subject to Indian Succession Act.

[Act XIII, 1874, s. 3. cf. Act X, 1865, s. 47.] 5. Where a minor is a person to whom the Indian Succession Act, 1865, applies, a guardian of his person or property, or both, may be appointed by will or other instrument to take effect on the death of the person appointing— X of 1865.

(a) if the minor is legitimate, by the father, or by either parent if the other is dead or incapable of acting;

(b) if the minor is illegitimate, by the mother.

Saving of power to appoint in other cases.

[New.] 6. Where a minor is a person to whom the Indian Succession Act, 1865, does not apply, nothing in this Act shall take away or derogate from any power to appoint a guardian of his person or property, or both, which is valid by the law to which he is subject. X of 1865.

Power of the Court to make order as to guardianship.

[Act XL, 1858, ss. 7 and 9; Act IX, 1861, s. 3: Act XX, 1864, ss. 6 and 8: Act XIII, 1874, ss. 4 and 7.] 7. Where it appears to the Court that provision ought to be made—

(a) for appointing a guardian of the person or property, or both, of a minor, or

(b) for declaring the title of a person claiming to be such a guardian,

the Court may make an order accordingly.

Persons entitled to apply for order.

[Act XL, 18[illegible] ss. 3 and 4; Act IX, 1[illegible] s. 1: Act [illegible] 1864, ss. [illegible] and 3 Act 18[illegible] 8. An order may be made under the last foregoing section on the application of—

(a) the person desirous of being, or claiming to be, the guardian of the minor, or

The Guardians and Wards Bill, 1886.

(Chapter II.—Appointment of Guardians.—Sections 9-14.)

(b) any relative or friend of the minor, or

(c) the Collector of the district or other local area within which the minor resides or has property, or

(d) the Collector having authority with respect to the class to which the minor belongs.

Court having jurisdiction to entertain the application.

9. (1) The application shall be made either to the High Court having jurisdiction in the place where the minor resides or has property, or to the District Court having jurisdiction in that place.

[Tagore Law Lectures, 1877, 156 and 157.]

(2) An application with respect to the guardianship of the person of a minor shall ordinarily be made to the Court having jurisdiction in the place where the minor resides.

[Act X, 1865, s. 241, and Act V, 1881, s. 57.]

(3) If an application with respect to the guardianship of the person or property, or both, of a minor is made to a Court other than that having jurisdiction in the place where the minor resides, the Court may refuse the application if in its opinion the application would be disposed of more justly or conveniently by any other Court having jurisdiction.

[Act XIII, 1874, s. 5.]

Form of application.

10. (1) The application shall be by petition setting forth the grounds of the application, and stating—

(a) the age and residence of the minor;

(b) the nature and value of his property (if any);

(d) what relations the minor has, and where they reside;

(e) whether an application has at any time been made to the Court or to any other Court with respect to the guardianship of the person or property, or both, of the minor, and, if so, when, to what Court and with what result;

(f) where the application is to appoint a guardian, the qualifications of the proposed guardian and his willingness to act;

(g) where the application is to declare the title of a guardian, the grounds on which that title rests; and

(h) such other particulars, if any, as may be prescribed or as the nature of the application renders it necessary to state.

(2) The petition shall be verified by the petitioner or some other competent person in manner required by law for the verification of plaints, and may be received as evidence of the facts stated therein.

Procedure on admission of application.

[Act XL, 1858, s. 6, and Act XX, 1864, s. 5.] 11. (1) If the Court is satisfied that there is ground for proceeding on the application, it shall fix a day for the hearing thereof, and cause notice of the application and of the date fixed for the hearing—

(a) to be served, in the manner directed in the Code of Civil Procedure, on the person (if any) named in the petition as having the custody or being in possession of the person or property of the minor, and on any other person to whom, in the opinion of the Court, special notice of the application should be given; and [Act XIII, 1874, s. 5.] XIV of 1882.

(b) to be posted on some conspicuous part of the court-house, and otherwise published in such manner as the Court, subject to any rules made by the High Court under this Act, thinks fit.

[Circular Order No. 30 of 1880—High Court, North-Western Provinces.]

(2) When any part of the property described in the petition is of such nature that a Court of Wards could assume the superintendence thereof, the Court shall also cause a notice as aforesaid to be served on the Collector in whose district the minor resides, and on every Collector in whose district any portion of that part of the property is situate, and the Collector may cause the notice to be published in any manner he deems fit.

Power to make interlocutory order for production of minor and interim protection of his person and property.

[Act IX, 1861, s. 2, and Act XIII, 1874, s. 6.] 12. The Court may direct that the person (if any) having the custody of the minor shall produce him at such place and time as it appoints, and may make such order for the temporary custody and protection of the person or property of the minor as it thinks proper.

Hearing of evidence before making of order.

[Act IX, 1861, s. 3 and Act XIII, 1874, s. 7.] 13. On the day fixed for the hearing of the application, or as soon afterwards as may be, the Court shall hear such evidence as may be adduced in support of or in opposition to the application.

Appointment of several guardians.

[Act XIII, 1874, s. 21.] 14. (1) If the law to which the minor is subject admits of his having two or more joint guardians of his person or property, or both, the Court may, if it thinks fit, appoint or declare them.

(2) Separate guardians may be appointed or declared of the person and of the property of a minor.

[Act XIII, 1874, s. 4.] (3) If a minor has several properties, the Court may, if it thinks fit, appoint or declare a separate guardian for any one or more of the properties.

[Act XIII, 1874, s.

(4) If the Court appoints or declares a guardian for any property situate beyond the local limits of its jurisdiction, the Court having jurisdiction in the place where the property is situate shall accept the guardian as duly appointed or declared and give effect to the order appointing or declaring him.

The Guardians and Wards Bill, 1886.

(Chapter II.—Appointment of Guardians.—Sections 15-17.)

[Act XIII, 1874, s. 10.]

15. (1) In appointing or declaring the guardian of a minor the Court shall be guided by the law to which the minor is subject and by what appears to be, consistently with that law, for the best interest of the minor with respect to his mental, moral and temporal welfare.

Matters to be considered by the Court in appointing guardian.

(2) In considering what will be for the best interest of the minor, the Court shall have regard to his age, his relationship to the proposed guardian, the wishes of a deceased parent (if any), and any existing or previous connection of the proposed guardian with the person or property of the minor.

(3) If the minor is old enough to form an intelligent preference, the Court may consider that preference.

X of 1865.

(4) In the case of persons to whom the Indian Succession Act, 1865, applies, as between parents adversely claiming the guardianship, neither parent is entitled to it as of right; but, other things being equal in such case, if the minor is of tender years, he should be given to the mother, and if he is of an age to require education and preparation for labour and business, then to the father.

[New.]

(5) Where the minor is a member of an undivided Hindu family, special weight is to be attached to any claim which the managing member of the family may make to be appointed or declared guardian, and to any objection which he may take to an appointment or declaration asked for in an application.

(6) The Court shall not appoint a person to be guardian against his will.

[Act XL, 1858, s. 27: Act XX, 1864, s. 31: Act XIII, 1874, s. 25: and Act XVII, 1885, s. 3.]

Guardian of the person not to be appointed by the Court in certain cases.

16. Nothing in this Chapter shall authorise the Court to appoint or declare a guardian of the person of a minor—

(a) who is a married female cohabiting with her husband, or

(c) whose property is under the superintendence of a Court of Wards competent to appoint a guardian of his person.

[New.]

Guardian of property to be appointed by the Court subject to restrictions in case of certain minors.

17. Where under this Chapter the Court appoints or declares a guardian of the property of a minor who is a member of an undivided Hindu family, it shall, except where it is proved to the satisfaction of the Court that the interests of the minor have been actually imperilled, appoint or declare the guardian subject to such restrictions as will prevent him from interfering with the powers of the managing member of the family.

CHAPTER III.

DUTIES, RIGHTS AND LIABILITIES OF GUARDIANS.

General.

Fiduciary relation of guardian to ward.

18. (1) A guardian must act for the benefit of his ward. [Seton's Decrees, 789, and Act XIII, 1874, s. 18.]

(2) He cannot make any profit out of his office.

(3) With respect to the property of the ward, he stands in the position of trustee for the ward, and is responsible for any loss occasioned to the property by his wilful default or gross negligence.

(4) This fiduciary relation extends to and affects purchases by a guardian of the property of his ward immediately or soon after the ward has ceased to be a minor, and generally all transactions between them while the influence of the guardian still lasts or is recent.

Minor incompetent to act.

19. A minor is incompetent to act as guardian. [Act XIII, 1874, s. 19.]

Guardian of the Person.

Duties of guardian of the person.

20. A guardian of the person of a ward is charged with the custody of the ward, and must look to his support, health and education, and such other matters as the law to which the ward is subject requires. [Act XIII, 1874, ss. 11 and 12.]

Title of guardian to custody of ward.

21. (1) If a ward leaves the custody of his guardian, he may be compelled by order of the Court to return to that custody. [Act XIII, 1874, s. 25.]

(2) But the Court may refuse to make an order for his return to the custody of the guardian if it appears—

(a) that the ward has been ill-treated by the guardian; or

(c) that the ward is, on reasonable grounds not inconsistent with the law to which he is subject, unwilling to return, and, having attained to years of discretion, is capable of exercising a wise choice as to the custody in which he will remain.

(3) The residence of a ward against the will of his guardian with a person who is not his guardian does not of itself terminate the guardianship. [Eversley's Domestic Relations, 691-93.]

Removal of ward from jurisdiction.

22. (1) A guardian of the person appointed or declared by the Court shall not, without the leave of the Court by which he was appointed or declared, remove the ward from the limits of its jurisdiction, except for such temporary purposes as may be prescribed or for the purpose of placing him beyond those limits at an educational institution appointed by the Local Government administering the territories [Act XIII, 1874, s. 14.]

The Guardians and Wards Bill, 1886.

(Chapter III.—Duties, Rights and Liabilities of Guardians.—Sections 23-27.)

within which the Court is established as an institution to which a guardian may send a ward without the leave of the Court.

(2) The leave granted by the Court under sub-section (1) may be special or general, and may be defined by the order granting it.

Guardian of Property.

[Act XIII, 1874, s. 15.]

Duties of guardian of property.

23. (1) A guardian of the property of a ward must keep that property safely.

(2) In the case of immoveable property, he must not suffer any waste, but must maintain the buildings (if any) thereon and their appurtenances out of the rents and profits of the property.

[Act XL, 1858, s. 18: Act XX, 1864, s. 18: and Act XIII, 1874, s. 16.]

Limitation of powers of guardian of property appointed or declared by the Court.

24. Where a guardian of the property of a ward has been appointed or declared by the Court, he shall not, without the previous permission of the Court,—

(a) borrow for his ward; or

(b) mortgage, charge or transfer by sale, gift, exchange or otherwise any part of the immoveable property of his ward; or

(c) lease any part of that property for a term exceeding three years; or

(d) transfer any Government securities belonging to the ward, or the shares or other interest of the ward in any company; or

(e) dispose of any other part of the principal of the property of the ward:

[Cf. Act V, 1881, s. 90.]

Provided that the Court may, subject to any rules made by the High Court under this Act, exempt a guardian from the necessity of obtaining the permission of the Court under this section, either generally or in special circumstances, and as to either the whole or any specified part of the property of the ward.

[New.]

Practice with respect to limitation of powers of guardian of property.

25. (1) Permission to the guardian to do any of the acts mentioned in the last foregoing section shall not be granted by the Court except in case of necessity or for an evident advantage to the ward.

[New.]

(2) The order granting the permission shall recite the necessity or advantage, as the case may be, describe the property with respect to which the act permitted is to be done, and specify such conditions, if any, as the Court may see fit to attach to the permission; and it shall be recorded, dated and signed by the Judge of the Court with his own hand, or, when from any cause he is prevented from recording the order with his own hand, shall be taken down in writing from his dictation and be dated and signed by him.

(3) The Court may in its discretion attach to the permission the following among other conditions, namely:— [New.]

(a) that a sale shall be made to the highest bidder by public auction, before the Court or some person specially appointed by the Court for that purpose, at a time and place to be specified by the Court, after such proclamation of the intended sale as the Court, subject to any rules made by the High Court under this Act, directs;

(c) that the whole or any part of the proceeds of the act permitted shall be paid into the Court by the guardian to be invested by the Court on prescribed securities or otherwise disposed of as the Court directs.

(4) Before granting permission to a guardian to do an act mentioned in the last foregoing section the Court may cause notice of the application for the permission to be given to any relative or friend of the ward who should, in its opinion, receive notice thereof, and shall hear, and record the statement of, any person who appears in opposition to the application. [New.]

[Act XL, 1858, s. 2: Act XX, 1864, s. 1: and Act XIII, 1874, s. 24.]

General powers of guardian of property.

26. (1) Where a guardian of the property of a ward has been appointed or declared by the Court, the Court may from time to time, by order, define, restrict or extend his powers with respect to the property of the ward in such manner and to such extent as it may consider to be for the advantage of the ward and consistent with the law to which the ward is subject.

(2) Subject to any such order and subject also to sections 17 and 24, a guardian appointed by or under a will or other instrument shall, with respect to the property of his ward, have such powers and be subject to such restrictions as are conferred or imposed on him by that instrument.

(3) Subject to the foregoing provisions of this section, a guardian of the property of a ward may do all acts which are reasonable and proper for the realization, protection or benefit of the property of the ward and are allowed by the law to which the ward is subject. [Act II, 1882, s. 36.]

[Act II, 1882, s. 34.]

Right of guardian to apply to the Court for opinion in management of property of ward.

27. (1) A guardian may apply by petition to the Court for its opinion, advice or direction on any present questions respecting the management or administration of the property of his ward, other than questions not proper, in the opinion of the Court, for summary disposal.

The Guardians and Wards Bill, 1886.

(Chapter III.—Duties, Rights and Liabilities of Guardians.—Sections 28-33.)

(2) A copy of the petition shall be served upon, and the hearing thereof may be attended by, such of the persons interested in the application as the Court thinks fit.

(3) The guardian stating in good faith the facts in the petition and acting upon the opinion, advice or direction given by the Court shall be deemed, so far as regards his own responsibility, to have discharged his duty as guardian in the subject-matter of the application.

[Act XIII, 1874, s. 18.]

28. Where a guardian of the property of a ward has been appointed or declared by the Court, he shall—

Obligations on, and privileges of, guardian of property.

[Act X, 1865, s. 256, and Act V, 1881, s. 78.]

(a) if so required by the Court, give a bond, as nearly may be in the prescribed form, to the Judge of the Court to enure for the benefit of the Judge for the time being, with or without sureties, as may be prescribed, engaging duly to account for what he may receive in respect of the property of the ward;

[Act XL, 1858, s. 16, and Act X 1864, s. 16.]

(b) deliver to the Court, within six months from the date of his appointment or declaration by the Court, or within such shorter time as the Court directs, a statement of the immoveable property belonging to the ward, of the money and other moveable property which he has received on behalf of the ward up to the date of delivering the statement, and of the debts due on that date to or from the ward;

[Act XL, 1858, s. 16, and Act XX, 1864, s. 16.]

(c) exhibit his accounts in the Court at such times and in such form as the Court directs;

[Act XL, 1858, s. 17, and Act XX, 1864, s. 17.]

(d) if the Court so directs, pay into the Court the balance due from him on those accounts, or so much thereof as the Court directs, in the manner in which money is required by any rules for the time being in force to be paid into that Court;

[Act XL, 1858, s. 11: Act XX, 1864, s. 10: and Act XIII, 1874, s. 17.]

(e) apply for the maintenance, education and advancement of the ward such portion of the income of the property of the ward as the Court directs, and, if the Court so directs, the whole or any part of the principal of that property; and

[Act XL, 1858, s. 24, and Act XX, 1864, s. 24.]

(f) be entitled to such allowance, if any, as the Court thinks fit for his care and pains in the execution of his duties.

[Act X, 1865, s. 257, and Act V, 1881, s. 79. I. L. R. 5 All. 248.]

29. Where a guardian has given a bond duly to account for what he may receive in respect of the property of his ward, the Court may at any time, on being satisfied that the engagement of the bond has not been kept, and upon such terms as to security, or providing that the money received be paid into the Court, or otherwise, as the Court thinks fit, assign the bond to some proper person, who shall thereupon be entitled to sue on the bond in his own name as if the bond had been originally given to him instead of to the Judge of the Court, and shall be entitled to recover thereon, as trustee for the ward, the full amount recoverable in respect of any breach thereof.

Suit against guardian where administration-bond was taken.

[Act XL, 1858, s. 19, and Act XX, 1864, s. 19.]

30. Where a guardian has not given a bond as aforesaid, any person, with the leave of the Court, may, as next friend, at any time during the continuance of the minority of the ward, and upon such terms as aforesaid, institute a suit against the guardian, or, in case of his death, against his legal representative, for an account of what the guardian has received in respect of the property of the ward, and may recover in the suit, as trustee for the ward, the full amount found in the suit to have been received by the guardian and not to have been duly accounted for.

General liability of guardian as trustee.

[Act XL, 1858, s. 19, and Act XX, 1864, s. 19.]

31. Nothing in either of the last two foregoing sections shall be construed to deprive a ward or his legal representative of any remedy against his guardian, or the legal representative of the guardian, which, not being expressly provided in either of those sections, any other beneficiary or his legal representative would have against his trustee or the legal representative of the trustee.

Termination of Guardianship.

Right of survivorship among joint guardians.

[Act XIII, 1874, s. 21.]

32. On the death of one of two or more joint guardians, the guardianship continues to the survivor or survivors until a further appointment is made by the Court.

Removal of guardian.

[Act XL, 1858, s. 21: Act XX, 1864, s. 21 and Act XIII, 1874, ss. 23 and 24.]

33. (1) The Court may, on the application of any person interested, or of its own motion, remove a guardian for any of the following causes, namely:—

(a) for abuse of his trust;

(b) for continued failure to perform its duties;

(c) for incapacity to perform its duties;

(d) for gross immorality;

(e) for having an interest adverse to the faithful performance of his duties;

(f) for removal from the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court;

(g) by reason of the arrival within those limits of some person whose guardianship the Court may think likely to be more beneficial to the ward than that of his guardian; or

(h) in the case of a guardian of the property, for insolvency.

(2) When a guardian has been removed for any such cause, the Court may appoint a successor to him under the provisions of Chapter II.

The Guardians and Wards Bill, 1886.

(Chapter III.—Duties, Rights and Liabilities of Guardians.—Sections 34-35.)

(Chapter IV.—Supplemental Provisions.—Sections 34-41.)

[Act XL, 1858, s. 23: Act XX, 1864, s. 23: and Act XIII, 1874, ss. 23 and 24.]

34. (1) If a guardian desires to resign his office, he may apply to the Court to be discharged.

Discharge of guardian.

(2) If the Court finds that there is some other proper person whom it may appoint to be guardian under the provisions of Chapter II, it shall discharge the applicant from the guardianship and appoint the other person in his place.

[Act XL, 1858, s. 27: Act XX, 1864, s. 31: and Act XIII, 1874, s. 25.]

35. (1) The power of a guardian of the person ceases—

Cessation of authority of guardian.

(a) by his removal or discharge;

(b) by the Court of Wards assuming superintendence of the person of the ward;

(c) by the ward ceasing to be a minor;

(d) in the case of a female ward, by her marriage followed by cohabitation with her husband; or

(2) The power of a guardian of the property ceases—

(a) by his removal or discharge;

(b) by the Court of Wards assuming superintendence of the property of the ward; or

(c) by the ward ceasing to be a minor.

[Act XL, 1858, s. 21, and Act XX, 1864, s. 21.]

(3) When for any cause a person ceases to be a guardian, the Court may require him to deliver as it directs any property in his possession belonging to the ward.

[Act XL, 1858, s. 23, and Act XX, 1864, s. 23.]

(4) When he has delivered as the Court directs the property, if any, in his possession belonging to the ward, the Court may declare him to be discharged from his liabilities as guardian, save as regards any fraud which may subsequently be discovered.

CHAPTER IV.

SUPPLEMENTAL PROVISIONS.

[Act XL, 1858, s. 2: Act XX, 1864, s. 1: Act XIII, 1874, s. 20: and Act XIV, 1882, s. 492.]

36. (1) The Court may, on the application of any person interested or of its own motion, make an order regulating the conduct or proceedings of any guardian who has not been appointed by a Court of Wards, whether the guardian has been appointed or declared by the Court under this Act or not.

Orders for regulating conduct or proceedings of guardians, and enforcement of these orders.

[Act XIII, 1874, s. 14.]

37. If, for the purpose or with the effect of preventing the Court from exercising its authority with respect to a ward, the guardian of the ward removes him from the limits of the jurisdiction of the Court in contravention of the prohibition contained in section 22, he shall be liable, by order of the Court, to fine not exceeding one thousand rupees, or to imprisonment for a term which may extend to six months, or to both.

Penalty for removal of ward from jurisdiction.

[Act XL, 1858, s. 22, and Act XX, 1864, s. 22.]

38. If a guardian fails to deliver to the Court, within six months from the date of his appointment or declaration by the Court, or within such shorter time as the Court directs, the statement mentioned in clause (b) of section 28, or to exhibit his accounts in the Court, as required by clause (c) of that section, or to pay into the Court the balance due from him on those accounts, as required by clause (d) of that section,

Penalty for failure to account.

or if a person who has ceased to be a guardian fails, on the requisition of the Court, to deliver as the Court directs any property in his possession belonging to the ward, he shall be liable, by order of the Court, to fine not exceeding one hundred rupees, and, in case of recusancy, to further fine not exceeding fifty rupees for each day after the first during which the default continues and to detention in the civil jail until he consents to deliver the statement, or exhibit the accounts, or pay the balance, or deliver the property, as the case may be.

[Act V, 1881, s. 14.]

39. Nothing in this Act shall prevent a person liable to punishment from being prosecuted under any other law for an act or omission which constitutes an offence against this Act, or from being liable under that other law to any other or higher punishment or penalty than that provided by this Act:

Saving of prosecution under other laws.

Provided that a person shall not be punished twice for the same offence

[Act XL, 1858, ss. 6 and 8, and Act XX, 1864, ss. 5 and 7.]

40. The Court may call upon the Collector, or upon any Court subordinate to the Court, for a report on any matter arising in any proceeding under this Act and treat the report as evidence.

Reports by Collectors and Subordinate Courts.

[Act XL, 1858, s. 28: Act XX, 1864, s. 33: and Act IX, 1861, s. 5.]

41. An appeal shall lie to the High Court from an order made by a District Court—

Orders appealable.

(a) under section 7, appointing or declaring or refusing to appoint or declare a guardian; or

(b) under section 9, sub-section (3), refusing an application; or

(c) under section 21, making or refusing to make an order for the return of a ward to the custody of his guardian; or

(Chapter IV.—Supplemental Provisions.—Sections 42-46.)

(The Schedule.—Enactments repealed.)

(d) under section 24, refusing to grant permission to the guardian to do an act mentioned in that section; or

(e) under section 26, sub-section (1), defining, restricting or extending the powers of a guardian; or

(f) under section 33, sub-section (1), removing a guardian; or

(g) under section 34, refusing to discharge a guardian; or

(h) under section 36, regulating the conduct or proceedings of a guardian, or enforcing the order; or

(i) under section 37 or section 38, imposing a penalty.

[Act IX, 1861, s. 6, and Act XIII, 1874, s. 9.] XIV of 1882.

42. Save as provided by the last foregoing section and by section 622 of the Code of Civil Procedure, an order made under this Act shall be final, and shall not be liable to be contested by suit or otherwise.

Finality of other orders.

[Act X, 1865, s. 241, and Act V, 1881, s. 57.]

43. The High Court may refuse an application made to it under this Act if in its opinion the application would be disposed of more justly or conveniently by any other Court having jurisdiction.

Power of High Court to refuse applications capable of being dealt with by another Court.

[Act XL, 1858, s. 13, and Act XX, 1864, s. 13.]

44. The costs of any proceeding under this Act shall, subject to any rules made by the High Court under this Act, be in the discretion of the Court in which the proceeding is held.

Costs.

[New cf. Act XIII, 1874, s. 8.]

45. In addition to any other power to make rules conferred expressly or impliedly by this Act, the High Court may from time to time make rules—

Power of High Court to make rules.

(a) as to the procedure to be followed with respect to applications of guardians for permission to do acts mentioned in section 24;

(b) as to the security to be required from guardians;

(c) as to the preservation of statements and accounts delivered and exhibited by guardians;

(d) as to the inspection of those statements and accounts by persons interested;

(e) as to the custody of money, and securities for money, belonging to wards;

(f) as to the securities on which money belonging to wards may be invested;

(g) as to allowances to be granted to guardians for their care and pains in the execution of their duties; and (h) generally, for carrying out the purposes of this Act.

[New.]

46. A guardian appointed by, or holding a certificate of administration from, a Civil Court under any enactment repealed by this Act shall, save as may be prescribed, be subject to the provisions of this Act, and of the rules made under it, as if he had been appointed under Chapter II.

Applicability of Act to guardians already appointed by Court.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THIS Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to Guardian and Ward is based on opinions elicited by a reference to Local Governments and High Courts on the subject of certain defects in the law relating to the guardianship of minors, and its object is to provide a law of Guardian and Ward applicable as far as possible to all classes of Her Majesty's subjects in British India.

2. Among the enactments which the Bill will supersede are Act XL of 1858 and portions of the Madras Code, relating to minors in the Presidencies of Bengal and Madras who are not European British subjects and are not under the superintendence of a Court of Wards; Act XX of 1864, relating to minors in the Presidency of Bombay who are not European British subjects; Act IX of 1861, relating to the custody and guardianship of minors who are not European British subjects; and Act XIII of 1874, relating to the guardianship of European British minors in territories beyond the jurisdiction of the chartered High Courts.

3. The Bill, which follows generally the frame of Act XIII of 1874, is drawn as applicable to all District Courts and High Courts (including the chartered High Courts) and to minors of all creeds and races. But it does not take away any of the powers at present possessed by the chartered High Courts, and it provides that, in the selection of guardians and other matters, regard shall be had to the personal law of the minor. The jurisdiction and authority of Courts of Wards are expressly saved and will not be in any way affected by the proposed law.

4. One effect of the assimilation of the law will be to do away with the rule, which obtains in the Presidencies of Bengal and Bombay, that no person shall be entitled to institute or defend any suit connected with a minor's estate of which he claims the charge until he has obtained a certificate of administration. It is proposed that suits by and against minors shall be regulated by Chapter XXXI of the Code of Civil Procedure, and that, in a Bill which is to be introduced to amend that Code, provision be inserted conferring, among other privileges, on a guardian who has been appointed, or whose title has been declared, under the Guardians and Wards law, a preferential right to be appointed next friend or guardian for the suit.

5. The several sections of the Bill which appear to call for remark will now be noticed in consecutive order.

6. Section 4, clause (1).—In connection with section 26, Act XL of 1858, section 30, Act XX of 1864, and section 2, Act XIII of 1874, the question arose whether the age of majority should be dealt with in the Bill. As there was no necessity to deal with it, it was considered expedient to avoid the difficulty of doing so by defining "minor," in the terms of section 11 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, as a person who has not reached the age of majority according to the law to which he is subject.

7. Section 4, clause (2).—"Guardian" has been so defined as to mean any person having the care of the person of a minor or of his property, or of both his person and property. The Bill, therefore, relates to guardians generally except where it is expressed to relate to particular classes of guardians.

8. Section 5.—This section follows Act XIII of 1874, which, in recognising in certain circumstances the right of a mother to appoint a guardian, was based on the New York Civil Code. The section goes beyond section 47 of the Indian Succession Act and beyond the English law. But under the English law an appointment by a mother is not now wholly ineffectual, and is likely at no distant date to be declared to be valid except in so far as it may interfere with an appointment by the father.

9. Sections 9 and 43.—The High Court and District Court will have concurrent jurisdiction, but the High Court may refuse an application with respect to the guardianship of a minor if in its opinion the application would be disposed of more justly or conveniently by a District Court. Where the application is with respect to the guardianship of the person of a minor, it is ordinarily to be made to the Court having jurisdiction in the place where the minor resides, that being the Court which can most effectively discharge the duties incident to the appointment of a guardian to the person of the minor.

10. Section 11, sub-section (2).—The sub-section follows an order made by the High Court of Judicature for the North-Western Provinces with a view to facilitating the discharge by Collectors of their duty of ascertaining and reporting to the Court of Wards from time to time what proprietors may come within the description of disqualified landholders.

11. Section 14, sub-section (4).—The rule laid down in this sub-section is, as explained by Sir Arthur Hobhouse with respect to the corresponding section in Act XIII of 1874, based solely on grounds of convenience.

12. Section 15, sub-section (5), and section 17.—As regards a minor who is a member of an undivided Hindu family, it seems to be generally admitted that it is desirable, as a rule, to leave him to his natural guardians without interference. But such a minor has certain rights in respect of the family property, and those rights are capable of being protected by a guardian. The guardian could not assume the management of the common property, and possibly he would, owing to the constitution of the co-ownership, be debarred from taking directly even a share in the management, and be confined to a mere power of control from without and a right in the last resort to demand a partition. But even this limited authority might in some cases be of great importance.

As regards the view hitherto taken by the Courts on this subject, it has indeed been held by the High Courts at Fort William and Bombay that Acts XL of 1858 and XX of 1864 could not be applied where the minor had no rights except as a member of an undivided Hindu family (I. L. R. 5 Cal. 219 and 3 Bom. 431, and 12 Bo. H. C. Rep. 247). Some doubt has been thrown on this view by the case before the Privy Council reported in I. L. R. 8 Cal. 656 (I. L. R. 6 Bom. 595 and 8 Bom. 396); but in any case it is a view which seems to be based on the peculiar wording of those Acts, which have been construed as contemplating an actual and (perhaps) corporeal taking charge of and management of some tangible property. In other words, these cases merely decide that under the particular Acts a manager cannot be appointed for a minor member of a pure joint family, not that such a manager is a thing inconceivable or impossible (I. L. R. 7 Cal. 369).

As regards the provisions of certain enactments which allow the Court of Wards to take charge only of the estate of a minor who is a sole owner (Act IV, 1872, section 35, Act XVII, 1876, section 161, and Bengal Act IX, 1879, section 7), they are to be accounted for by the fact that these enactments were designed mainly to guard against the risk of loss of revenue from an estate being left without any competent person in charge of it. That it was not considered impossible to take charge of the interest of a minor shareholder is manifest from Madras Regulations V of 1804, section 20, and X of 1831, section 3, and from the circumstance that section 14 of Act XL of 1858 and other similar enactments provide for the Collector taking charge of the share of a co-owner who is still a minor on the estate escaping from the management of the Court of Wards owing to the other co-owners having come of age. The Courts of Wards in the North-Western Provinces (Act XIX of 1873) and Central Provinces (Act XVII of 1885) are not precluded from assuming superintendence of the interest of a disqualified person who is a co-owner in an estate with other persons who are not disqualified.

It may be gathered from the proceedings of the Legislative Council, 1854-55, pages 672 et seq., that it was the intention of the framers of Act XL of 1858 that the Civil Court should appoint guardians for minors owning shares in estates, and it would seem that it is only owing to the peculiar wording of the Act, coupled perhaps with a natural disinclination on the part of the Courts to interfere between joint-owners, that that intention has been defeated.

13. Section 18.—This section lays down certain general propositions based on the fact that guardianship is a trust, and that the relationship between guardian and ward is one uberrimæ fidei, not only while it lasts, but even after it has ceased to exist.

14. Sections 24 and 25.—These sections are based on section 18 of the Acts of 1858 and 1864 and the corresponding section of the Act of 1874, on certain provisions in the Code of Lower Canada, and on suggestions received for the amendment of the Acts of 1858 and 1864. They provide that a guardian who has been appointed, or whose title has been declared, by the Court, shall not borrow for his ward, or transfer any part of the principal of his property, without the permission of the Court, and that the Court, before granting its permission, shall satisfy itself that the transaction proposed is either necessary or for the evident advantage of the ward, and, when granting the permission, shall itself record an order setting forth the necessity or advantage and the conditions subject to which it permits the loan to be taken or the transfer to be effected (I. L. R. 5 Cal. 363 and 6 Cal. 161).

These sections will be supplemented by rules made by the High Court under section 44.

15. Section 28, clause (a), and section 29.—These provisions are suggested by the case reported at I. L. R. 5 All. 248.

16. Section 32.—The rule contained in this section follows from guardianship being a trust. Though the right of survivorship is not acknowledged in England in the case of guardians appointed by the Court of Chancery, yet in practice the survivor or survivors will be re-elected by the Court without a reference. In America there is the right of survivorship among guardians appointed by the Court of Chancery.

17. Section 33.—A testamentary guardian may be removed under this section.

18. Section 41.—The cases reported at 15 W. R. 492 and 22 W. R. 479 have suggested the specification of the orders from which an appeal shall lie.

19. Acts XL of 1858 and XX of 1864 provide, in sections 27 and 31, respectively, that nothing in those Acts shall authorise the appointment of any person other than a female as the guardian of the person of a female. The cases reported at I. L. R. 10 Cal. 15 and 11 Cal. 574, and the remarks at pages 213-14 of Sayyid Amir Ali's Personal Law of Muhammadans, seem to render the re-enactment of the provision inexpedient. Section 15 of the Bill specifies the matters by which the Court is to be guided in appointing a guardian, and one of those matters is the law to which the minor is subject.

20. The provision of Act XX of 1864, that the legal heir of a minor, or the person next in succession to his property, may not be appointed guardian of the person of the minor, has not been repeated. It is considered that the appointment of such persons should not be absolutely prohibited. This was the opinion of the Supreme Council when Act XL of 1858 was about to be enacted (Proceedings of Legislative Council, 1858, pages 576-77), and is the opinion of the Hon'ble Mr. M. Melvill.

21. If the Bill becomes law in its present form, article 10 of Schedule I of the Court-fees Act, 1870, which applies only to the Presidencies of Bengal and Bombay, will become obsolete. It has, therefore, been included in the schedule of enactments to be repealed.

22. A table is appended showing how the principal enactments scheduled for repeal have been reproduced in the Bill or otherwise dealt with.

paragraph 2	Section 35 (2) of Bill.
Schedule (Forms)	Not reproduced.

PRÉCIS OF THE OPINIONS REFERRED TO IN PARAGRAPH 1 OF THE STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS OF THE GUARDIANS AND WARDS BILL.

IN correspondence* with the Government of Bombay in the year 1881, several points were brought to notice on which an amendment of the law relating to the guardianship of the persons and property of minors in that Presidency (Act XX of 1864) was shewn to be required. Before proceeding to carry out these amendments, the Government of India issued a Resolution† inviting the opinions and suggestions of Local Governments and Administrations on the following selected points, with a view to the consolidation of the several Acts and Regulations relating to minors in force in the three Presidencies:—

I.—Whether the provision of Act XX of 1864, section 2, clause 2 (and of the Bengal Act, XL of 1858, section 3, clause 2), prohibiting any person (except in certain cases in which the Court is allowed to direct otherwise) from instituting or defending any suit connected with the estate of which he claims charge unless he has obtained a certificate of administration from the Civil Court, should not be repealed.

II.—Whether a next friend or a guardian ad litem should (by an extension of section 461 of the Code of Civil Procedure) be allowed to execute a decree or receive money or property in the course of litigation, it being made clear that a next friend or guardian ad litem, who is also a guardian appointed under the Minors' Act with power to receive money on behalf of the minor, shall not be required to give security.

III and IV.—Whether the following proposals made by the Hon'ble Mr. Justice Melvill with a view to rendering it unsafe for any person to enter into any transaction affecting immoveable property, except with a certificated administrator, should be accepted, namely:—

(a) that any alienation or incumbrance of, and any abandonment of the rights of the minor in, any immoveable property, by a guardian, should be made void, unless he holds a certificate under the Minors' Act; and

(b) that the provision in the second clause of section 18 of Acts XX of 1864 and XL of 1858, which requires the previous sanction of the Civil Court to any alienation or incumbrance of immoveable property by a certificated guardian, should be repealed.

V.—Whether, assuming it to be the intention of the legislature (see sections 464, 440 and 441 of the Code of Civil Procedure) that a guardian appointed under the Minors' Act possesses no right as such to appear on behalf of a minor, but that he must sue as next friend or be appointed to defend as guardian ad litem, the Code of Civil Procedure should not be amended so as to make this more clear.

VI.—Whether the first clause of section 18 of Acts XX of 1864 and XL of 1858 should not be amended so as to provide that a guardian by appointment or relationship should, when his title is declared by the Court, possess simply the same powers which he possessed before procuring a declaration of title, and that the order of the Court should have no effect except that of declaring his status; and, further,

(a) whether, if the powers of a guardian who owes his status to the mere act of the Court are defined at all, they should not be defined in some way which would indicate that persons having transactions with him should bear in mind his representative character, and should not deal with him as they would if he were acting on his own account.

VII.—Whether (if clause 2 of section 18 of Acts XX of 1864 and XL of 1858 is retained) it should not be made clear that the effect of the Court's sanction to sell, alienate, &c., any immoveable property is to give the purchaser a good title to such property, in the absence of fraud or collusion on his part.

VIII.—Whether, if it should be decided to consolidate the law for the whole of British India, the new Act should not be extended to the original local jurisdiction of the Presidency High Courts; and

(b) whether the Courts in appointing guardians of property should not be given power to make appointments limited to particular property.

IX.—Whether the proposed new Act should not be confined to Hindus, Muhammadans and Buddhists, and other persons who have definite personal laws, and the European British Minors' Act, XIII of 1874, made applicable to all other classes of persons and its operation extended to the whole of British India, including the Presidency-towns, the jurisdiction of the High Courts in respect of European British Minors being abolished.

2. Local Governments and Administrations were also requested to submit their opinions on any other points which they might desire to bring forward for consideration in connection with the proposed legislation.

3. In the following paragraphs (4 to 240) the views of the Government of India and the remarks of Local Governments and officials on Points I to IX are noted.

I.—Whether the provision of Act XX of 1864, section 2, clause 2 (and of the Bengal Act, XL of 1858, section 3, clause 2), prohibiting any person (except in certain cases in which the Court is allowed to direct otherwise) from instituting or defending any suit connected with the estate of which he claims charge unless he has obtained a certificate of administration from the Civil Court, should not be repealed.

4. This proposal was put forward by the Government of India, with reference to difficulties arising on the construction of the clause in question in connection with Chapter XXXI of the Code of Civil Procedure (Suits by and against Minors, &c.), and also with reference to a proposal made by the Hon'ble Mr. Justice Melvill that every person who requires the assistance of the Court should be compelled to take out a certificate of administration. The reasons by which the Government of India's proposal was supported are as follow:—

"The fact that a person asserts a claim to be the guardian of a minor, whether by appointment or by relationship, seems scarcely to afford any sufficient reason for absolutely precluding him from acting as next friend or guardian ad litem under the provisions of the Civil Procedure Code until he has established his claim to the guardianship under the Minors' Act. If such person is actually entitled to the guardianship by virtue of appointment or relationship, it may be urged that he should certainly be allowed, in preference to any other person, to act for the limited purposes of litigation; but, on the other hand, if he is not so entitled, the circumstance of his having asserted his claim to the guardianship need not apparently be made an absolute disqualification. There are doubtless cases in which the circumstance that a person sets up an unfounded claim to the guardianship of a minor might properly be treated as unfitting him to act as next friend or guardian ad litem; but this point might be left to be settled by the Courts, it being understood that the decision should not in any way be made to depend on the circumstance whether the person concerned did or did not put forward a claim to guardianship in connection with the particular suit in which it was proposed that he should act."

5. MR. P. P. HUTCHINS, DISTRICT JUDGE OF MADURA (AFTERWARDS JUDGE OF THE HIGH COURT, MADRAS),— says there is no provision in the Madras law corresponding to section 2, clause 2, of Act XX of 1864. He agrees, however, with the Government of India in thinking that the provision in the Bombay and Bengal laws might be repealed.

6. MR. C. G. PLUMER, JUDICIAL COMMISSIONER OF COORG,— suggests that for section 2, clause 2, of Act XX of 1884 should be substituted the provision of Rule 13 of the Rules for the custody and guardianship of Minors, &c., in Mysore,* which requires that any guardian or manager appointed under the rules shall be admitted by the Courts as guardian ad litem.

7. MR. E. BARCLAY, GOVERNMENT SOLICITOR, MADRAS,— would go further even than Mr. Justice Melvill proposed, and provide that every person should be prohibited from interfering with the estate of any minor, within a limit of value to be fixed by Government, without obtaining a certificate of administration. From this rule, however, he would except undivided shares of minors who are members of a joint Hindu family; in which cases he would provide for the Collector being ex officio manager unless and until a certificate is issued to some qualified private person. He suggests that the rule should embrace moveable as well as immoveable property, and he does not think it would affect so large a number of estates as the Government of India seem to anticipate (see paragraph 7 of the Resolution of 17th October, 1882).

With regard to the proposal put forward by the Government of India, Mr. Barclay writes as follows:—

"I think Chapter XXXI of the Code of Civil Procedure should be amended, and that no person should be allowed to institute a suit on behalf of a minor unless such person be manager of his estate (the Collector) or the holder of a certificate of administration. Such manager or the holder of a certificate, as he will sue in his representive character only, should not, I think, be made personally liable for costs, unless the Court finds by its decree that the suit was brought vexatiously; but provision might be made for his giving security for costs by depositing cash or Government securities belonging to the estate of the minor. With regard to suing for debts due by the estates of minors, the manager of the estate of a minor or the holder of a certificate of administration of his estate, as the case might be, could be made defendant in the same way as the executor of a will or the administrator of the estate of a deceased person is now made defendant in a suit to recover a debt due by the estate of a testator or intestate. The amendment of Chapter XXXI of the Code of Civil Procedure would apply only to such cases as might come within the provisions of the new Minors' Act."

8. MIR ANSAR-UD-DIN, PRESIDENCY MAGISTRATE, MADRAS,— knows many cases in which persons entitled by virtue of relationship to the guardianship of a minor act as next friend or guardian ad litem already, and he thinks it desirable that this arrangement should, in view of difficulties arising from attending the Courts to take out a certificate, be continued.

9. MR. J. W. HANDLEY, CHIEF JUDGE OF THE MADRAS COURT OF SMALL CAUSES,— thinks the clause in question should be repealed, because its tendency is, in all minors' suits of small value, and in all cases where minors are defendants, to cause a deadlock.

10. MR. G. MUTTUSWAMY CHETTIAR, JUDGE OF THE MADRAS COURT OF SMALL CAUSES,— agrees with Mr. Handley.

11. THE MADRAS BOARD OF REVENUE—concur with the Government of India.

12. MR. JUSTICE WEST—

thinks no person wishing to sue as next friend on behalf of a minor should be subjected to any restriction other than those involved in proper rules as to costs.

Précis of the opinions referred to in paragraph 1 of the Statement of Objects and Reasons of the Guardians and Wards Bill.

(Point I.—Appearance of guardian in Court without certificate of administration.)

13. SIR CHARLES SARGENT, CHIEF JUSTICE, BOMBAY,— considers the clause in question should be repealed, both because it is, generally speaking, in the interest of minors that any person properly qualified under section 445 of the Civil Procedure Code should be allowed to act for a minor as his next friend or guardian ad litem, and because a certificated administrator may not fulfil the conditions prescribed by that section. He suggests, however, that the practice now prevailing in the Bombay High Court of requiring persons wishing to institute a suit for a minor to obtain the consent of the Court should be adopted.

14. THE HON'BLE MR. PAUL, ADVOCATE GENERAL OF BENGAL,— thinks the clause in question should be repealed, but that at the same time the Courts should exercise some control, and to this end suggests that the next friend should be required to obtain the sanction of the Court.

In regard to the Hindu joint family question, please see his remark in paragraph 380, infra.

15. MR. T. T. ALLEN, SUPERINTENDENT AND REMEMBRANCER OF LEGAL AFFAIRS, BENGAL,— says the clause in question contains a perfectly intelligible and proper direction, which has long been acted upon with advantage to the people; and he thinks it should be maintained in spite of the rule in the Civil Procedure Code. He argues further that the two provisions are scarcely inconsistent, inasmuch as that contained in the Minors' Act very properly requires a regular guardian to have his authority for acting sanctioned by the District Judge, while that contained in the Civil Procedure Code merely authorises any other person at his own risk and where there is no regular guardian to act in behalf of a minor; the two provisions consequently referring to two different classes of cases.

16. MR. JUSTICE FIELD, OF THE CALCUTTA HIGH COURT,—

notes that there is a very important difference between suits brought under the clause in question and suits to which Chapter XXXI of the Civil Procedure Code is applicable; namely, that in the former case the person acting ought to appear as the plaintiff or defendant upon the record, while in the latter the minor himself appears as plaintiff or defendant on the record. The result he describes as follows:—

"Where a decree is made against a minor, he is bound by such decree, although there has been no enquiry whether the transaction is for his benefit, except in cases of fraud, collusion or error (see Daniell's Chancery Practice, 5th Edition, pp. 148, 149, 156, 157). Where, on the other hand, the person who has obtained the certificate of administration is the plaintiff or defendant upon the record, there may be a subsequent enquiry as to whether he acted in the interests of the minor or not, and this for more than one purpose."

Mr. Field suggests that it should be made clear that a person who has obtained a certificate under the Minors' Act should sue and be sued in his own name.

17. THE JUDGES OF THE CALCUTTA HIGH COURT—

(collectively) say Mr. Justice Melvill's proposal, that every person who requires the assistance of the Court should be compelled to take out a certificate of administration, would make it impossible for the provisions of Chapter XXXI of the Civil Procedure Code to be employed in certain cases, and they do not see any sufficient reason for adopting it.

They concur with the Government of India that there may be cases in which a person who, though entitled to claim the charge of the minor's estate, does not choose to claim it, and may yet be the fittest person to act as next friend or guardian to the minor for a particular suit; and they agree with the Government in considering that in such cases the question whether such person should be appointed next friend or guardian ad litem may properly be left to be decided by the Court which has the case before it, and can draw its own inferences from the conduct of the party as to his fitness for the appointment.

18. SIR ROBERT STUART, (LATE) CHIEF JUSTICE, NORTH-WESTERN PROVINCES,— strongly objects to Mr. Justice Melvill's proposal to require certificates in all cases.

19. MR. JUSTICE OLDFIELD—

writes as follows:—

"Only guardians holding certificates should, as a rule, be permitted to institute suits or make applications on behalf of minors; but a discretion may be given to the Court to allow the next friend to appear when no certificate has been taken out. In regard to minors who are defendants, the provisions of Chapter XXXI, Civil Procedure Code, for appointing guardians ad litem are proper and adequate."

20. MR. JUSTICE STRAIGHT—

writes as follows:—

"There is undoubtedly much confusion caused by the concurrent existence of the second part of section 3 of the Bengal Minors' Act and the provisions of Chapter XXXI of the Civil Procedure Code, and we have more than once found considerable complication and difficulty caused thereby. I generally concur in the remarks made upon this matter in paragraph 6 of the Minute of the Government of India; and I think that, while the prohibition to suits being instituted without certificate might be done away with, amendments might be introduced into Chapter XXXI of the Code which would effectually protect the minor litigant's interests."

21. MR. H. J. SPARKS, JUDICIAL COMMISSIONER OF OUDH,— approves of the Government of India's proposal.

22. MR. B. W. COLVIN, (LATE) JUNIOR MEMBER OF THE BOARD OF REVENUE, NORTH-WESTERN PROVINCES,— approves of Mr. Justice Melvill's proposal that every person who requires the assistance of the Court should be compelled to take out a certificate of administration. Most estates are, he says,

Précis of the opinions referred to in paragraph 1 of the Statement of Objects and Reasons of the Guardians and Wards Bill.

(Point I.—Appearance of guardian in Court without certificate of administrations.) managed without any reference to the Courts; but in all cases which do come before a Court the Court is even now obliged to satisfy itself that the person claiming to act for the minor is duly qualified to represent his interests, and it seems better that when such an enquiry is once made it should confer a general protection upon the minor, rather than one limited to the particular case before the Court. Mr. Colvin would, however, except from such a rule all properties below a certain minimum of value, arbitrarily fixed, but open to reduction as experience is gained and the people become familiar with the rule.

23. MR. W. DUTHOIT—

sees no objection to the Government of India's proposal if his recommendations under Point II (see paragraph 57 of précis) are adopted. For his opinion on Mr. Justice Melvill's proposal, please see paragraph 291, infra.

24. THE LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR AND CHIEF COMMISSIONER, NORTH-WESTERN PROVINCES AND OUDH,— concurs with the majority of the officers consulted by him in thinking that Mr. Justice Melvill's proposal that every person who requires the assistance of the Court should be compelled to take out a certificate of administration should not be accepted, his reasons being that its adoption is not shown be required, and that it would increase litigation.

He agrees with the Government of India in thinking that any doubts regarding the correspondence of the second clause of section 3 of Act XL of 1858 with Chapter XXXI of the Civil Procedure Code should be set at rest; but he observes that the advisability of altogether omitting that clause to some extent depends on how far, if at all, the Revenue Courts of the North-Western Provinces are bound to follow the Code of Civil Procedure where the North-Western Provinces Rent Act (Act XII of 1881) prescribes no special procedure for their observance. On this subject, he says, there has been a recent Full Bench ruling of the High Court, which he has not however yet had an opportunity of considering; and at present he can only request that the position of minors in Revenue Courts be borne in mind in any proposed legislation affecting section 3 of Act XL of 1858.

25. MR. JUSTICE SMYTH, OF THE PUNJAB CHIEF COURT,— says applications for certificates of administration are seldom made in the Punjab; that they are usually made only when rival claimants dispute the guardianship of the person or property of a minor relative; and that such disputes appear to be few in number. He would greatly regret any change which would have the effect of increasing the number of minors' cases in the Courts. (This, apparently with reference to Mr. Justice Melvill's proposal noted in paragraph 4, supra.)

Numerous suits are, he says, brought in which minors are either plaintiffs or defendants, and as a rule relatives have, under the proviso to section 3 of Act XL of 1858, without much difficulty been allowed to sue or defend without being required to obtain a certificate of administration; "and the same practice is continued under Chapter XXXI of the new Code of Civil Procedure." If section 461 is extended, as proposed by the Government of India (see paragraph 47 of précis), Mr. Smyth thinks the second clause of section 3 of Act XL of 1858 might safely be repealed, so far as the Punjab is concerned.

26. LALLA MADAN GOPAL, PLEADER, OF DELHI,— thinks the second clause of section 3 of Act XL of 1858 should, as proposed by the Government of India, be repealed. He considers the limitation which it imposes is undesirable in the interests of minors; and, further, that it is rendered useless by Chapter XXXI of the Civil Procedure Code.

In another part of his memorandum, however, he expresses approval of Mr. Justice Melvill's proposal that every person who requires the assistance of the Court should be compelled to take out a certificate of administration, thinking it should be adopted, in the interests of the minor, in spite of any inconvenience which might result.

27. LALLA GIRDHARI LAL, PLEADER, OF DELHI,— thinks guardians should be compelled to take out a certificate of administration, excepting only in cases where the estate is of small value.

28. COLONEL C. A. MCMAHON, COMMISSIONER AND SUPERINTENDENT, AMRITSAR DIVISION,— submits the following proposals on the subject of requiring guardians to take out certificates of administration:—

"I would leave it optional to a guardian to take out a certificate; but at the same time I would make it legal for a person indebted to a minor's estate to refuse to pay the money demanded from him to any person who had not taken out a certificate.

'I would not only retain the present power (see Mr. Justice Melvill's Minute, page 3, second paragraph on the page) of a minor to sue or defend a suit through his next friend or guardian, in cases in which the next friend or guardian does not profess to claim the charge of the property; but I would extend this liberty to all cases, whether the next friend or guardian claims charge of the property or not, giving the opposite party, however, the right in cases in which the minor's next friend or guardian claims the charge of the property to require the latter to take out a certificate of administration in separate proceedings. The law might provide for the suit being stayed or postponed for a sufficient time to enable this step to be taken."

He continues:—

"In cases in which a man's position as guardian, whether by reason of a provision in a will or by near relationship, is clear, I do not think it is desirable otherwise than as above provided to force the guardian to take out a certificate. As pointed out in the papers under reference, the taking out of a certificate is apt to foster undesirable litigation, and in the great majority of cases the necessity for taking out a certificate would not arise unless the necessity were artificially created by legislation."

Précis of the opinions referred to in paragraph 1 of the Statement of Objects and Reasons of the Guardians and Wards Bill.

(Point I.—Appearance of guardian in Court without certificate of administration.)

29. MUHAMMAD LATIF, EXTRA ASSISTANT COMMISSIONER OF JHANG,— thinks the clause in question might safely be repealed, because it has been practically superseded by the beneficial rules enacted in Chapter XXXI of the Civil Procedure Code. If this is done, he suggests the insertion in the Code of a clause empowering the Court to accept as next friend or guardian ad litem any administrator certificated under the Minors' Act (apparently, in preference to any other person.)

30. UMAR BAKHSH, PLEADER, OF MULTAN,— thinks the clause in question should be repealed, and that the Civil Procedure Code should be amended so as to provide that where a guardian has been appointed by a Civil Court (? certificated) he shall, in preference to others, be appointed next friend or guardian ad litem.

31. COLONEL E. P. GURDON, COMMISSIONER AND SUPERINTENDENT, MULTAN DIVISION,— thinks the clause should be repealed, both in view of the provisions of Chapter XXXI of the Civil Procedure Code, and having regard to the fact that the proviso admits of wide and varied departures from the strict rule which the clause enacts. If the clause is repealed, he suggests that a clause should be inserted in the Civil Procedure Code legalizing the acceptance by the Civil Court of a certificated administrator as next friend or guardian ad litem wherever there is one.

32. MR. H. T. RIVAZ, GOVERNMENT ADVOCATE, PUNJAB,— thinks the clause should be repealed and Chapter XXXI of the Civil Procedure Code amended so as to deal exhaustively with its subject-matter. He continues:—"I think it might be made clear that, where there is a guardian holding a certificate, the Court should accept such guardian as the person primâ facie entitled to represent the minor plaintiff or defendant, and that the claims of such guardian should only be postponed on proof of incapacity or unfitness. The chapter might then go on to lay down the procedure which is to govern cases where no certificated guardian has been appointed, with regard to which full provision is already made in Chapter XXXI as it at present stands, though I think it might be made more clear as to what is the exact effect of any omission by the Court to carry out the provisions of the chapter in their integrity. Several cases have occurred lately in this province in which a minor plaintiff or defendant has been represented throughout in the Lower Courts by an apparently competent representative, but where such representative appears to have been accepted by the Court without any enquiry or any formal proceeding under Chapter XXXI of the Code. In many of these cases the Chief Court, when the facts have been brought to its notice, has felt bound to cancel the whole of the proceedings and order a re-trial after proper steps have been taken by the Lower Court under Chapter XXXI; thus in some cases rendering void ab initio proceedings which have really been conducted throughout with due regard to the minor's interests, and in which the defects in the appointment of his representative are merely formal. I think, therefore, Chapter XXXI might attempt to point out what defects in the procedure prescribed must be considered fatal to the validity of the proceedings, and what may be considered mere irregularities not necessarily rendering the proceedings void, if no substantial injury to the interest of the minor can be shown to have resulted."

33. THE LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR OF THE PUNJAB—

thinks it doubtful whether any amendment of the Civil Procedure Code is really required on the score of its conflict with Act XL of 1858, section 3, clause 2; and says that, so far as the Punjab is concerned, no practical difficulty seems likely to arise from the maintenance of both provisions of the law.

34. SARDAR GURDIAL SINGH, EXTRA ASSISTANT COMMISSIONER,— thinks the clause should be removed, and a provision inserted in its place to the effect that where a guardian has been appointed under the Minors' Act no one else shall be allowed to act for the minor.

35. MR. R. J. CROSTHWAITE, JUDICIAL COMMISSIONER, CENTRAL PROVINCES,— argues that clause 2 of section 3 of Act XL of 1858 and Chapter XXXI of the Civil Procedure Code are not in conflict, inasmuch as the Courts, being allowed a discretion under the latter enactment, would exercise it so as to secure the appointment of a certificated administrator, who has a legal right to represent the minor, where there is one and he is willing to act.

Where, however, the certificated administrator is not willing to act, the proviso to section 3 of Act XL of 1858 lets in another person, and the omission from the corresponding clause of Act XX of 1864 of the words "or for any other sufficient reason" is therefore undoubtedly an error.

He thinks clause 2 of section 3 of Act XL of 1858 might be repealed as proposed by the Government of India; but he would prefer to let it stand and to bring the corresponding clause of Act XX of 1864 into complete accord with it. If the clause is repealed, he says, suits might be brought by next friends merely for the purpose of substantiating a claim to the charge of a minor's estate.

Referring to Mr. Justice Melvill's proposal (supra, paragraph 4), he considers it should not be adopted, because it would greatly increase litigation and would put difficulties in the way of realising petty sums due by minors.

36. MR. BEHARI LAL BASU, PLEADER, OF HOSHANGABAD,—

writes:—

"In the Bombay Act it is incumbent on the creditor to take out a certificate before he can proceed against a minor, the claim exceeding Rs. 250; thus it entails great hardship on the creditor, who is bound to take some preliminary steps for the assertion of his claim, thereby incurring trouble and expense.

Précis of the opinions referred to in paragraph 1 of the Statement of Objects and Reasons of the Guardians and Wards Bill.

(Point I.—Appearance of guardian in Court without certificate of administration.)

"But this section in the Minors' Act does not seem called for, as it is a matter of procedure, and any change which is conducive to the welfare of the minor can be introduced in the Procedure Code. Any guardian who has obtained a certificate under the Minors' Act should not be required to appear as next friend in civil cases. Chapter XXXI of the Civil Procedure Code should not be made applicable to a certificated guardian."

37. MR. J. W. CHISHOLM, OFFICIATING COMMISSIONER, NARBADA DIVISION,— observes that the tendency of Mr. Justice Melvill's proposals mentioned in paragraphs 3 and 6 of the Resolution (Points I, III, and IV) is to make applications to the Courts for certificates of administration as numerous as possible. He is opposed to this policy for the following reasons:—

Certificates are at present rarely applied for, and to make them compulsory would be undesirable and would certainly be distasteful to the people. Nor would such a provision do much to protect the interests of minors, because these are as a rule well looked after by the immediate relations or natural guardians, and where loss occurs it results (in the Central Provinces) not from wrongful assumption of guardianship but from abuse of powers by rightful guardians, and it is not possible to follow up the grant of a certificate by controlling the proceedings of the guardian. The proceedings antecedent to the grant of a certificate would, moreover, cause much inconvenience and expense, which would not be compensated by any benefit to the estate of the minor; and another consequence of introducing such a procedure would be that, to avoid trouble, near relations of minors would continue to act without certificates, with the result that many of the transactions entered into by them would, if challenged, be declared void, and this would lead to much dishonest litigation.

For these reasons, Mr. Chisholm would prefer that the application for a certificate should continue to be optional, as provided in section 2 (? section 3) of Act XL of 1858. He would omit the latter clauses of that section as being separately provided for in Chapter XXXI of the Civil Procedure Code, and would clearly provide in that chapter for certificated guardians being allowed to appear in all cases in the Civil Courts on account of the minors whom they represent.

38. LIEUTENANT-COLONEL C. H. GRACE, DEPUTY COMMISSIONER, JABALPUR,— approves of the Government of India's proposal, but suggests that the Court, in appointing a guardian [? ad litem] in "doubtful cases," should see that he is fit for the trust, that he has no interest adverse to that of the minor, and that he is a relation or kinsman of the minor.

39. THE CHIEF COMMISSIONER OF THE CENTRAL PROVINCES—

considers Mr. Justice Melvill's proposal that every person who requires the assistance of the Court should be compelled to take out a certificate of administration is both unnecessary and impolitic. The experience of the Central Provinces is that it is not the usurpation of the office of guardian, but the abuse of its powers, that is the source of litigation; and the Chief Commissioner believes that the proposed provision would lead to inconvenience and increased litigation.

Referring to Mr. Crosthwaite's remarks [supra, paragraph 35] as to the supposed conflict between the provisions of the Minors' Act and those of Chapter XXXI of the Civil Procedure Code, the Chief Commissioner suggests that it would be well to get rid of any uncertainty on the subject by making it clear that, if the Court allows it, a person otherwise qualified to act may sue on behalf of a minor, even though he has not obtained a certificate.

40. THE RECORDER OF RANGOON—

discusses the relative bearing of section 3, clause 2, of Act XL of 1858, and Chapter XXXI of the Civil Procedure Code, and arrives at the following conclusions:—

"It would seem therefore that, so far as the institution and defence of suits is concerned, if any person obtains a certificate of administration under Act XL of 1858, such person, and such person only, could institute or defend a suit connected with the estate; creditors could deal with him and he could deal with debtors. No alteration of the law has been made in such a case by the passing of Chapter XXXI, except to make the guardian sue as next friend and to make him in some instances liable for the costs of a suit.

"But in cases where no person obtains a certificate under Act XL of 1858, or gets leave to sue without a certificate under its provisions, in such cases the passing of Chapter XXXI has made a great difference, for it enables any person who does not claim the charge of the minor's estate without applying for a certificate of administration to institute suits on his behalf as next friend, and any person to institute suits against his estate by getting a guardian for the suit appointed, and no person need claim the charge of the minor's estate unless he pleases.

"It seems to me to come to this, that the passing of Chapter XXXI of the Code of Civil Procedure enabled the estate of a minor to be got in and distributed without any certificate of administration being applied for under Act XL of 1858, unless on the application of some person interested in the minor that Act was put into force, in which case, if the application was granted, the estate would be administered under the provisions of the old Act, whereas before the Chapter XXXI became law the estate of a minor could not be got in or distributed without putting the provisions of Act XL of 1858 in force if any question had to be litigated.

"The Government of India appears to think that the effect of passing Chapter XXXI of the Code has been to make it applicable to a certain extent to persons who have obtained certificates under Act XL of 1858, and no doubt to a very limited extent it is, as under it the next friend, who would be the certificate-holder, may be ordered to pay costs personally; but I cannot see, as would seem to be implied by the 9th paragraph of the Resolution of the Government of India, that Chapter XXXI would so far apply to a certificate-holder as to render it necessary for him to be appointed a guardian ad litem under it: it seems to me that he has the position of guardian ad litem without it."

He does not approve of Mr. Justice Melvill's proposal (see paragraph 4, supra), regarding which he writes as follows:—

"It seems to me that it would not be for the benefit of minors or of persons who had claims against their estates that no person should be able to sue on their behalf, and no person should be able to sue them, without first getting out certificates of administration; and it seems to me that any danger which would attend dealing with the estates of minors by uncertificated persons is sufficiently guarded against by the fact that any person may come to the Court under section 4 of Act XL of 1858 and apply that a person may be appointed to guard the interests of the infant; and if the Court choose to grant the application and appoint a guardian, I take it that the power of the uncertificated person would at once cease, and that, if the litigation entered on by him was improper, he could be punished by being made to pay the costs."

Précis of the opinions referred to in paragraph 1 of the Statement of Objects and Reasons of the Guardians and Wards Bill.

(Point I.—Appearance of guardian in Court without certificate of administration.)

Nor does he think the proposal of the Government of India, to repeal the second clause of section 3 of Act XL of 1858, should be carried out. Regarding this he writes:—

"If that alteration is made, it seems to me that a safeguard which the law now provides for minors would become less effectual. Suppose a debtor to the estate of a minor forces a person interested in the minor to go to Court: if that person does not claim the charge of the minor's property, Act XL of 1858 does not stand in his way; he sues under Chapter XXXI of the Civil Procedure Code, and any benefit which may accrue from the suit would be secured to the minor. If the proposed alteration in the Civil Procedure Code is made, namely, that no next friend should be allowed to take any benefit on behalf of the minor unless he satisfies the Court that it will be applied for the benefit of the minor, the debtor thus secures the proper guarding of the rights of the minor. Again, if the person who makes the claim on behalf of the minor is also claiming the right to have charge of the property of the minor, the debtor can, and it seems to me rightly can, prevent him taking advantage of Chapter XXXI of the Code and compel him to take out an administration certificate, thus again securing the rights of the minor; but if the alteration suggested by the Government were made the debtor could not compel him to take out a certificate, and a proviso making him give security that any benefit accruing from the litigation should be applied on behalf of the minor is not nearly so effectual when taken from a person who claims a right to have charge of a minor's property as when taken from a person who claims no such right, but, without being interested in the minor's property, has merely asked the assistance of the Court to get him his rights.

"Again, take the case of a suit brought against a minor. If no person claims the right to have charge of the property, the creditor very rightly comes in under Chapter XXXI and secures his rights, and the rights of the minor are adequately represented by a guardian ad litem; but if any person does claim the right to have charge of the property of the minor, I do not think the rights of the minor are adequately secured by appointing such person guardian ad litem; it could not be done under the present state of the law; he would have to take out a certificate; but if the law was altered as suggested by the Government, it might be done and, as it seems to me, the rights of the minor be thereby prejudiced.

"I do not quite see that the alteration suggested by the Government is necessary to enable the person who thinks he has a right to take charge of the property of a minor to come in under Chapter XXXI; if no one challenges him he will make no claim to have the charge of the minor's estate, and he will act under Chapter XXXI; but if any one challenges him, it will no doubt have the effect, as the law now stands, of compelling him to take out a certificate.

"Another point of view which I submit may be worthy of consideration is the change which the alteration of law proposed by Government would have in cases where the person who claims the right to have charge of the minor's property wished to deal with it himself alone. At present he must establish to the satisfaction of the Court his right to so deal with it and that it will be dealt with for the benefit of the minor. Once he has done that no person other than he can represent the minor as a party in a suit, and no decrees could be got against the estate of the minor without making him a party. If the alteration suggested by the Government were carried out, and a person who claimed the right to have charge of the property of a minor was not bound to take out a certificate in order to be made a defendant in a suit against the minor, might not a fraud be committed by a person claiming the right to the property of a minor getting appointed a guardian ad litem and suffering a decree to be executed against the property of the minor? Such a case could not happen if the Government alteration is not carred out, because such a person would have to take out a certificate before being made a defendant."

41. THE JUDICIAL COMMISSIONER OF BRITISH BURMA—

considers that the clause in the Minors' Acts should be repealed, and the Courts allowed full discretion under the Civil Procedure Code. He observes that the interests of guardians appointed under the Minors' Acts may often, in special cases, be opposed to those of the minors.

42. THE CHIEF COMMISSIONER OF BRITISH BURMA—

invites attention to the remarks of the Recorder of Rangoon (supra, paragraph 40) regarding the construction of section 3, clause 2, of Act XL of 1858 and Chapter XXXI of the Civil Procedure Code, and suggests that the law should be so expressed as to convey the meaning there assigned to it.

He agrees that Mr. Justice Melvill's proposal (see paragraph 4, supra) should not be adopted; but he observes that, for the reasons given by the Recorder (see paragraph 40, supra), it appears desirable to maintain the second clause of section 3 of Act XL of 1858.

43. MR. J. KNOX WRIGHT, DEPUTY COMMISSIONER OF CACHAR,— says the repeal of the second clause of section 3 of Act XL of 1858 would doubtless in some ways be a great boon to intending minor suitors, but that the ultimate effect would be that self-constituted guardians would seldom or never apply for a certificate of administration, except in cases where there is a dispute among rival guardians. He considers it desirable in the interests of minors that certificates should be taken out, and he is therefore opposed to the proposed repeal. To remedy the anomaly pointed out in paragraph 5 of the Resolution, he would compel all guardians by virtue of relationship to take out a certificate before suing on behalf of minors.

44. MR. H. MUSPRATT, DISTRICT JUDGE OF SYLHET,— considers the adoption of Mr. Justice Melvill's proposal (supra, paragraph 4) would cause great inconvenience.

45. BABU KOYLAS CHUNDER GHOSE, GOVERNMENT PLEADER, SYLHET,— makes some remarks bearing on the conflict between clause 2 of section 3 of Act XL of 1858 and Chapter XXXI of the Civil Procedure Code.

46 THE RESIDENT AT HYDERABAD—

agrees in the remarks in paragraph 5 of the Resolution, as to the conflict between clause 2 of section 2 of Act XX of 1864 and Chapter XXXI of the Civil Procedure Code. But he suggests that instead of repealing that clause it should be amended so as to run as follows:—

"No person shall be entitled to institute or defend any suit connected with the estate of a minor unless and until he shall have obtained from the Civil Court a certificate of administration in respect of such estate:

"Provided that in cases when no such certificate has been granted, any Court having jurisdiction may, when the property in litigation is moveable property, or when the value of the property, in litigation does not exceed Rs. 500, allow any relative of a minor to institute or defend a suit in his behalf."

He "does not anticipate that the number of guardians by relationship who would have to take up certificates [under such a provision] would be materially larger than at present, except in the case of uncontested applications. In these there would probably be an increase, and attendance at Court would create a certain amount of hardship, which would, however, be minimized by a judicious resort to the proviso in section 5, Bombay Minors' Act." "It would," he says, "further be necessary to extend the provisions of section 464, Civil Procedure Code, by substituting 'section 440' for 'section 442.'"

Point II.—Execution of decrees, &c., by next friends and guardians ad litem.

II.—Whether a next friend or a guardian ad litem should (by an extension of section 461 of the Code of Civil Procedure) be allowed to execute a decree or receive money or property in the course of litigation it being made clear that a next friend or guardian ad litem, who is also a guardian appointed under the Minors' Act with power to receive money on behalf of the minor, shall not be required to give security.

48. MR. S. SUBRAMANIYA IYER, HIGH COURT VAKIL, MADRAS,— is strongly of opinion that neither guardians nor next friends should be allowed to take money out of Court on behalf of a minor, whether before or after decree, without giving security.

49. MR. PLUMER—

would add to the clause which he proposes should take the place of clause 2 of section 2 of Act XX of 1864 [see paragraph 6 of précis] a proviso to the effect that no guardian ad litem who has not obtained a certificate from the Court shall be allowed to receive or take any money or other property due to the minor under a decree in any suit in which he has acted as guardian on behalf of the minor unless he has first obtained leave of the Court which passed the decree, &c., and gives satisfactory security that such money or other property shall be applied to the benefit and use of the minor.

50. MR. BARCLAY—says that if his suggestion [see paragraph 7 of précis] that the right to sue for and to defend minors or their estates be given only to the managers of their estates (the Collectors) and the holders of certificates of administration, section 461 of the Code of Civil Procedure would, in cases coming within the provisions of the new Minors' Act, be unnecessary.

51. THE MADRAS BOARD OF REVENUE—

concur with the Government of India.

52. SIR CHARLES TURNER, (LATE) CHIEF JUSTICE OF MADRAS,— suggests, in connection with section 461 of the Civil Procedure Code, that every Court obtaining control over property, of which there is no trustee, belonging to a minor for whom no guardian of the property has been appointed, should be required to give such directions as, having regard to the nature of the property, may sufficiently protect it from waste and secure its proper application.

A rule of this kind is, he says, already followed in the Madras High Court.

53. MR. JUSTICE WEST—

thinks the Court should have a discretion as to who may receive money or other property won for a minor by a next friend.

He further suggests specific provision being made that an administrator duly appointed should have power to receive and pay money for the minor under decrees, and also power to settle disputes in actual litigation or likely to lead to litigation; also that a proviso might be added affirming the general principle of the voidableness as against the minor of fraudulent and collusive transactions imputable to the person benefiting by them.

54. SIR CHARLES SARGENT AND MR. JUSTICE MELVILL—approve of the Government of India's proposal.

55. MR. JUSTICE FIELD—

writes as follows—

"Section 461 sufficiently provides for the interests of the minor in respect of money or other things received or taken by the next friend or guardian ad litem in those suits to which the chapter of the Code of Civil Procedure applies. In suits brought by a certificated manager, he would have the same control over the money or property of the minor which he would exercise in matters unconnected with litigation, and the proper discharge of his duty should here be secured, as I have already pointed out (see paragraph 362 of précis), by requiring him to give security commensurate with the value of the property entrusted to his management. This is the rule in the case of receivers, mercantile agents and other persons discharging fiduciary duties. The same rule should be made applicable to persons discharging similar duties in respect of a minor's estate."

56. THE JUDGES OF THE CALCUTTA HIGH COURT—

(collectively) see no objection to the adoption of the Government of India's proposal; but they

(Point III.—Voidance of alienations, &c., made by uncertificated Guardians.)
(Point IV.—Whether Court's Sanction should be required to alienations.) would require the next friend or guardian ad litem to give adequate security (in all cases, apparently).

57. MR. DUTHOIT—

supports the following proposals made by Messrs. Melvill and West (J J.):—

By Mr. Justice Melvill.—Execution of a decree in favour of a minor should not be granted to a "next friend" or a "guardian for the suit" until such person take out a certificate entitling him to the care of the minor's estate.

By Mr. Justice West.—When a decree is obtained in favour of a minor by a next friend, the next friend should be allowed to execute the decree either on terms of giving security, or leaving the money to be dealt with by the Court, or on terms of taking out a certificate of administration; but a certificated administrator should in all cases be entitled to obtain execution of a decree obtained in favour of a minor by a next friend.

He says he can see no objection to the first of these proposals, which "corresponds somewhat with the provision of the Roman law contained in the early part of Dig. IV., 4, 7, § 2;" but he would "prefer to read into Mr. Justice Melvill's proposals that of Mr. Justice West, which closely corresponds with the later provision of the Roman law contained in the latter part of the same passage of the Digest." He adds "If the money is paid into Court, I would advocate a provision in the law allowing the Court to invest it in Government stock or promissory notes."

Mr. Duthoit prefers such a provision to that suggested by the Government of India.

58. MR. H. J. SPARKS AND THE LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR AND CHIEF COMMISSIONER, NORTH-WESTERN PROVINCES AND OUDH,— approve of the Government of India's proposal.

59. LALLA MADAN GOPAL—

suggests that it should be provided in section 461 of the Civil Procedure Code that "an application for execution of decree may be made by the next friend of a minor decree-holder, but he is not to take out the money without giving security."

60. COLONEL C. A. MCMAHON—

writes as follows:—

"I would repeal section 461 of the Civil Procedure Code. If the person who has to pay the money does not see the necessity, for his own protection, of forcing the guardian or next friend to take out a certificate, as provided for in my paragraph 4 [see paragraph 28 of précis], I do not see that the Civil Court need trouble itself about the matter."

61. MUHAMMAD LATIF—

suggests that the only change required in the law is the addition of a clause to section 461 of the Civil Procedure Code empowering a next friend or guardian ad litem to receive property in execution of a decree.

He also suggests that the provision in that section regarding security is unnecessary and should be removed altogether.

62. UMAR BAKHSH—

thinks a certificated guardian should have a right to execute a decree obtained either by himself or by any other person who has acted as next friend before his own appointment. He also thinks certificated guardians should not be required to give security, but that other persons should be so required, the Court, however, having a discretion to dispense with security in the case of near relatives acting as guardians.

He further suggests that it should be left optional with guardians desiring to execute a decree either to give security or to take out a certificate of administration.

63. COLONEL GURDON—agrees with Muhammad Latif (paragraph 61, supra) that no security should be required from any guardian under section 461 of the Civil Procedure Code, adding that the provision is unnecessary if the Courts work section 443 properly.

64. SARDAR GURDIAL SINGH—thinks no one should be allowed to receive money on behalf of a minor in execution of a decree unless he either holds a certificate of guardianship or tenders sufficient security.

65. MR. R. J. CROSTHWAITE—says the proposed amendment of section 461 of the Civil Procedure Code would be an unquestionable gain.

66. LIEUTENANT-COLONEL GRACE—

approves of the Government of India's proposal.

67. THE JUDICIAL COMMISSIONER OF BRITISH BURMA—approves of the proposed amendment of section 461 of the Civil Procedure Code, except that he would not fetter the discretion of the Courts as to taking security.

68. THE CHIEF COMMISSIONER OF BRITISH BURMA—

approves of the Government of India's proposal.

69. MR. H. MUSPRATT—

concurs in the proposed extension of section 461 of the Civil Procedure Code, but would not except the rule as to security.

Mr. Wigram, in paragraph 370 of précis.]

Point III.—Voidance of alienations, &c., made by uncertificated guardians.
Point IV.—Whether Court's sanction should be required to alienations.

III and IV.—Whether the following proposals made by the Hon'ble Mr. Justice Melvill with a view to rendering it unsafe for any person to enter into any transaction affecting immoveable property, except with a certificated administrator, should be accepted, namely:—

(a) that any alienation or incumbrance of, and any abandonment of the rights of the minor in, any immoveable property, by a guardian, should be made void, unless he holds a certificate under the Minors' Act; and

(b) that the provision in the second clause of section 18 of Acts XX of 1864 and XL of 1858, which requires the previous sanction of the Civil Court to any alienation or incumbrance of immoveable property by a certificated guardian, should be repealed.

70. In regard to proposal (a), the Government of India pointed out that it would require very careful consideration with reference to the facts, peculiar to India, (1) that the number of minors owning immoveable property without the intervention of trustees is very large, and (2) that cases constantly arise in which it is necessary to deal with the immoveable property of minors by way of sale, mortgage, &c. These two facts would, if the proposal were adopted, necessitate a very la[illegible] number of guardians by relationship taking out certificates, and this would entail much trouble on the people in attending the Courts, and would also tend, by reason of the business being made a Court matter, to foster acrimonious disputes. "Further, it may be observed that the Government does not possess any definite knowledge as to the supposed evils of the existing system, beyond the fact that a considerable amount of litigation arises regarding transactions effected by guardians; but whether this amount of litigation is large, considering the number of the transactions, may be open to doubt. In connection with this point, a further question presents itself, viz., whether litigation of the kind under consideration usually arises from persons wrongfully usurping the position of guardian or from the rightful guardians abusing their powers. If the latter is the true cause, the plan suggested by Mr. Justice Melvill would scarcely afford a remedy, inasmuch as the guardian, after he had been granted the certificate, would, under the second of the two proposals embraced in that plan, be left to act without the sanction of the Court. On the other hand, if Mr. Justice Melvill's first proposal were adopted without his second, it may perhaps be anticipated that the number of cases coming before the Courts under the second clause of section 18 of Act XX of 1864, and the corresponding provision of the Act of 1858, would be so great as to render it doubtful whether it would not be beyond the power of the Courts to deal with them with that degree of care which is essential in such matters."

(Point III.—Voidance of alienations, &c., made by uncertificated Guardians.)

Point III.—Voidance of alienations, &c., made by uncertificated guardians.

71. MR. HUTCHINS—

is opposed to the adoption of proposal (a). He thinks the law as it stands already makes it "unsafe to enter into any transaction affecting a minor's immoveable property," and says it is only fair to the minor that persons buying such property should have to satisfy themselves that the transaction is an equitable one. This safe-guard would be removed if guardians were certificated, since the certificate would tend to inspire confidence in the mind of the purchaser as to the guardian having absolute power to deal with the property; and that would be an undesireable result, Mr. Hutchins's experience showing that litigation in these cases generally arises from the rightful guardian, who can easily obtain a certificate, abusing his powers.

Mr. Hutchins would except from his remarks the case of undivided families, "and perhaps even of some other joint proprietors."

72. Mr. S. SUBRAMANIYA IYER, HIGH COURT VAKIL, MADRAS,— thinks it would be unwise to give guardians any absolute authority to bind minors by alienations of their estates.

73. Mr. PLUMER—

strongly protests against the adoption of proposal (a), for the reasons given in paragraph 7 of the Government of India's Resolution. He thinks there can be little doubt that litigation arises principally, if not entirely, from abuse of powers by rightful guardians, and that the proposal is therefore rendered useless by proposal (b), independently of the other objections to it.

He says with Mr. Hutchins (see paragraph 71, supra) that much keenness is displayed under existing circumstances by purchasers of minors' property, in ascertaining that the transaction is an equitable one and therefore ultimately binding on the minor.

74. Mr. W. WILSON, DIRECTOR OF REVENUE SETTLEMENT AND AGRICULTURE, MADRAS,— does not think either proposal (a) or (b) should be adopted, remarking that, although they may be in the interest of the guardian and the alienee, he cannot see how they can be regarded as being in the interest of the minor, for whose protection the law is intended.

75. MR. E. BARCLAY, GOVERNMENT SOLICITOR, MADRAS,— approves of proposal (a), as being in accordance with his suggestion (see paragraph 7 of précis) that no one but the manager or certificated administrator should have power to deal with a minor's estate.

76. THE MADRAS BOARD OF REVENUE—concur in the Government of India's remarks.

77. SIR CHARLES TURNER—

writes:—

"For reasons which are fully stated in the Resolution of the Government of India, it does not appear expedient to prohibit guardians from dealing with the immoveable property of minors unless they have obtained a certificate.

"In no country is the compulsory recourse to Courts more distasteful to the people, and in no country is property in land more minutely subdivided or intersts in it more largely held by minors. The Mitakshara, which makes every son on his birth a co-owner with his father, obtains throughout this Presidency, except in Malabar and South Canara, and in those countries, in many Brahmin families and under the tarwad systems of Malabar and South Canara, minors on their birth become co-owners of the tarwad estates."

suggests that, to meet the Government of India's objections to his proposal (a), cases in which the minor's property does not exceed Rs. 500 should be excepted. With this limitation, and with the exclusion of managers of joint Hindu families (as to whom, see paragraph 379 of précis), the inconvenience to the public and the labour entailed upon the Courts would, he says, probably not be great, especially if the District Court were authorised to form its decision upon evidence taken by a Subordinate Court at no great distance from the residence of the parties. With these limitations, Mr. Melvill still thinks that it is desirable that every person who assumes a right to take charge of the property of a minor should be required to submit himself to an examination of his fitness; and that, when his fitness has been once ascertained and certified by the Court, he should then be left free to deal with the minor's property without further interference, but subject to the right of the minor to impeach, when he attains his majority, any alienations made by the administrator. * * The Court has good opportunities for ascertaining the general fitness of an administrator, but it has not the means of satisfying itself as to the advisability of any proposed alienation. It is very liable to be misled by a fraudulent administrator, and it might be very hard upon the minor if a sanction obtained from an imperfectly informed authority were to render the alienation unimpeachable.

"But the case is different when the administrator is the Collector or an officer of the Court. Here, at all events, the Court will not be wilfully misled, and it will have all the information which the administrator can afford. It might be advisable to provide for a proclamation or advertisement inviting persons to come forward who might have any objection to a proposed alienation. With these precautions, I think that the sanction of the Court to alienations might properly be given, and that transactions so sanctioned should not afterwards be liable to be impeached."

Précis of the opinions referred to in paragraph 1 of the Statement of Objects and Reasons of the Guardians and Wards Bill.

(Point III.—Voidance of alienations, &c., made by uncertificated Guardians.)

79. MR. T. T. ALLEN—

dissents from proposal (a). He says "it would cause great inconvenience to refuse powers of alienation to any but certificated guardians, and to deny them rights which their several systems of personal law give them. It would also inundate the Judge's Court with work of a trivial character."

80. THE JUDGES OF THE CALCUTTA HIGH COURT—

concur generally in the views expressed in paragraph 7 of the Government of India's Resolution. They cannot support Mr. Justice Melvill's proposal (a), thinking no sufficient cause is shown for adopting it, and that it would cause great hardship, and explaining particularly that it would involve a serious change in the Hindu law, under which alienations by the manager continually take place during the minority of some member of the family, although he holds no certificate of administration.

81. MR. JUSTICE OLDFIELD—

disapproves of Mr. Justice Melvill's proposal (a). He writes:—

"The objections to any such enactment, which are fully set out in the Resolution, appear to me conclusive. Such evils as exist are due not so much to persons usurping wrongfully the office of guardians, as to abuse of their powers by rightful guardians, and are nothing in comparison to those which would issue from insisting on certificates of administration being taken out: not only would the general inconvenience be great, but the interests of the minor would probably be neglected in numerous instances."

82. MR. JUSTICE STRAIGHT—

thinks the adoption of Mr. Justice Melvill's proposal (a) would not be satisfactory, and would certainly, in the North-Western Provinces, cause enormous inconvenience.

83. MR. B. W. COLVIN—approves of Mr. Justice Melvill's proposal (a) provided estates of small value are excepted.

84. Mr. DUTHOIT—

says, with reference to the Government of India's remarks in paragraph 7 of the Resolution, (1) that he sees no reason to apprehend that the Courts would be swamped with minors-protection business; (2ndly) that in most districts of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh the subordinate Civil Courts are so distributed that, if the proposals which he has made elsewhere [see paragraph 291 of précis] should be approved, no appreciable hardship from having to attend Court need be caused to the people; and (3rdly) that he sees no reason to suppose that minors-protection business would, in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, be in any large measure contentious.

It will be seen from paragraph 291 of this précis that Mr. Duthoit is inclined to support Mr. Justice Melvill's proposal (a). He suggests, however, that if it is adopted it should (besides being amended as there suggested) carry a proviso that it shall not apply to the case of a Hindu minor who is a member of an undivided family, wherein is an adult member capable of managing the family property.

85. THE LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR AND CHIEF COMMISSIONER, NORTH-WESTERN PROVINCES AND OUDH,— invites attention to the opinions expressed by Messrs. Oldfield and Straight, J J. [paragraphs 81 and 82, supra]. He writes: "If this proposal were adopted, it might result that the number of guardians who would be obliged to take out certificates would be so large that the Courts might fail to deal effectively with the numerous cases that would come before them; or that the trouble and annoyance of having to take out certificates would deter many persons from undertaking the office of guardian, whereby the interests of minors would suffer. The inconveniences pointed out in paragraph 7 of the Resolution would undoubtedly follow the adoption of the proposal; and the facts stated by Mr. Duthoit [see paragraph 291, infra] and also by Mr. Justice Oldfield [see paragraph 81, supra] show that the proposal would fail to secure its object, since the litigation which arises on this subject is chiefly caused, not by persons wrongfully usurping the position of guardian, but by rightful guardians abusing their powers."

86. MR. JUSTICE SMYTH—

says suits in which minors after attaining their majority contest alienations made during their minority by their guardians are not numerous in the Punjab, and that his experience is that persons acting as guardians, whether they are the rightful guardians or not, do not often abuse their powers, but usually try to do what they think best for the minor. He adds that his impression is that it is the person who is rash enough to take a conveyance from the guardian rather than from the minor himself who suffers most under the present system, and observes that in such cases the remedy lies in the alienee's own hands.

He considers that, for the reasons stated in paragraph 7 of the Resolution, it would be very unwise to adopt Mr. Justice Melvill's proposal (a) in the Punjab, "where, on the whole, the people get on very well without having recourse to certificates."

87. MUHAMMAD LATIF—

is strongly opposed to Mr. Justice Melvill's proposal (a), on the grounds that it is unnecessary that the ignorance of the people would prevent their getting news of so serious a change having been made, and that it would increase litigation and unnecessarily impede the administration of justice. He adds that the ordinary law sufficiently provides for calling guardians to account for mal-administration of a minor's estate.

88. UMAR BAKHSH—

thinks the drawbacks attending proposal (a), resulting from requiring a large number of people to have recourse to the Courts, outweigh any advantages which it may possess.

Further on, however, he suggests that alienations by certificated guardians who are not relatives of the minor, in favour of persons with whom they have personal dealings, should be made unsafe, if not declared altogether void. Cases have come to his knowledge in which guardians have indirectly derived personal benefit from such transactions, and it is, he says, very hard in such cases to prove actual fraud.

89. COLONEL E. P. GURDON—

is strongly opposed to proposal (a), and agrees with Muhammad Latif [paragraph 87, supra]

Précis of the opinions referred to in paragraph 1 of the Statement of Objects and Reasons of the Guardians and Wards Bill.

(Point III.—Voidance of alienations, &c., made by uncertificated Guardians.) that the Hindu and Muhammadan laws sufficiently guard the interests of minors in the matter in question.

90. MR. H. T. RIVAZ—

thinks proposal (a) would work great injustice in the Punjab, "in many parts of which the people still remain persistently ignorant of all enactments which conflict with their usual practices, and where no evils are apparent as the result of the existing system." Cases no doubt occasionally occur in the Courts where minors, on attaining majority, sue to contest alienations of their property made during their minority by persons purporting to act as their guardians. In these cases, which are not numerous, I should say that the alienations contested are upheld as often as they are set aside, and my experience is that in a very small minority of the cases does it appear that the guardian has really abused his powers as such, or seriously neglected the interests of his ward, or in fact acted otherwise than for the benefit of the minor. Any dishonesty which appears is usually that of the minor or his advisers, who, finding when the former comes of age that property which during his minority was sold for fair value and for his benefit has much increased in value of late years, immediately seek to repudiate the transaction with the sole view of preventing the bonâ fide purchaser from reaping the fruits of what has eventually turned out to be a profitable bargain. I therefore think that the objections so forcibly put forward in paragraph 7 of the Government of India Resolution deserve the greatest weight and consideration so far as the Punjab is concerned."

91. MR. R. J. CROSTHWAITE,— referring to paragraph 7 of the Resolution, says litigation regarding transactions effected by guardians arises, according to his experience, almost entirely from rightful guardians abusing their powers, and occurs generally where the Hindu law is applicable, the question usually raised being whether the minor is bound by the act of the manager of the family property.

92. MR. BEHARI LAL BASU,— referring to paragraph 7 of the Resolution, argues that the difficulties there stated as likely to be caused to guardians by the adoption of Mr. Justice Melvill's proposal (a) ought not to be allowed to prevent the enactment of any provision tending to the welfare of the minor, whose interests it is the duty of the State to protect; and he considers that proposal well calculated to check the proceedings of dishonest guardians.

He suggests that, if that proposal is adopted, something should be done to reduce court-fees chargeable on the certificates of guardians.

Referring to the possible objection that the general requiring of certificates would tend to upset the joint family system, he says "there is a marked change in the advanced parts of India, where the true notions of the joint family are disappearing."

93. LIEUTENANT-COLONEL GRACE—

says that in the Central Provinces "litigation does not arise from persons wrongfully usurping the position of a guardian, but it often arises from rightful guardians abusing their powers in respect to transactions effected by them."

He does not think it necessary to adopt proposal (a), observing that the interests of minors "are otherwise sufficiently guarded, inasmuch as they, on attaining majority, can, within the time allowed by the Statute of Limitation, question the acts of their guardians during their minority and take legal action; and guardians, purchasers, &c., on whom the onus probandi is thrown, have to justify and vindicate their doings."

94. THE CHIEF COMMISSIONER OF THE CENTRAL PROVINCES—

regards proposal (a) as unnecessary and impolitic. The taking out of a certificate, he says, affords no guarantee that the holder will not abuse his trust; while, on the other hand, such a provision as is proposed would tend to hasten unduly the disintegration of the joint family system, which is already proceeding fast enough.

95. THE COMMISSIONER OF THE TENASSERIM DIVISION—

considers that "any change in the direction of making the obligation to take out a certificate, &c., more stringent than at present, as suggested by Mr. Justice Melvill, is, in the present condition of this province [British Burma], much to be deprecated."

He continues: "My reasons for holding this opinion are so clearly stated in paragraph 7 of the Resolution, which, I think, is applicable to all legislation of this description, that it is unnecessary to go into them; but I may add that in this province, during the years when the Special Court maintained that the Indian Succession Act was practically applicable to all classes, the real hardship and unnecessary litigation which such measures really inflict on all, but especially on the poorer and more ignorant portion of the population, in a country like this, were very clearly brought to light."

96. THE RECORDER OF RANGOON—agrees with the Government of India that the balance of considerations is in favour of not adopting proposal (a).

97. THE JUDICIAL COMMISSIONER OF BRITISH BURMAH—does not approve of proposal (a).

He writes: "It seems to me that the time cannot be far distant when administrative arrangements could be made enabling a specific class of local officials corresponding to the Juges de Paix of the Code Napolean to watch over the interests of minors by controlling the appointment of guardians and nominating a conseil de famille and surrogate guardians in certain localities for every minor therein. Great hardship would, I consider, be involved in the general application of Mr. Melvill's principle so long as the District Judges' Courts are the only Courts which can deal with such matters."

98. THE CHIEF COMMISSIONER OF BRITISH BURMA—

considers the reasons stated in paragraph 7 of the Resolution justify the rejection of proposal (a).

99. MR. J. KNOX WIGHT—

fully concurs in the reasons advanced by the Government of India in paragraph 7 of the Resolution for rejecting proposal (a). That proposal, he says, involves a great change in existing customs for which no necessity has been made out.

100. MR. H. MUSPRATT—

concurs in the remarks in paragraph 7 of the Resolution.

Précis of the opinions referred to in paragraph 1 of the Statement of Objects and Reasons of the Guardians and Wards Bill.

(Point IV.—Whether Court's sanction should be required to alienations.)

101. BABU KOYLAS CHUNDER GHOSE—

observes that the adoption of proposal (a) would seriously affect the interests of minors, especially in cases where there are numerous sub-divisions of an estate.

102. COLONEL W. HILL, COMMISSIONER OF COORG—says the objections to proposal (a) which are stated in paragraph 7 of the Resolution apply fully to the circumstances of Coorg.

103. THE RESIDENT AT HYDERABAD—

says that if proposal (a) is adopted certificates would be necessary before almost any transaction affecting the immoveable property of a minor could be entered into. "The number of applications for certificates would be vastly increased; and the benefit accruing to the property of minors in a small minority of cases would be counterbalanced by the detriment to property for want of necessary action during the delay which the process of obtaining a certificate would entail. Nor would the adoption of this proposal avert that class of injury which arises from the abuse of their powers by lawful guardians."

[See also remarks by Mr. J. W. Chisholm in paragraph 37 of précis.]

Point IV.—Whether Court's sanction should be required to alienations.

104. In regard to Mr. Justice Melvill's proposal (b)* taken separately, the Government of India thought it might be partially adopted, even if proposal (a) were rejected (see paragraph 70 of précis). They wrote: "In cases in which no person has a legal claim to the guardianship, and the Court accordingly exercises a free choice in the selection of the guardian, it seems clear that the sanction of the Court to the sale or alienation of immoveable property should be required, as in such cases the Court is in a certain sense answerable for the guardian; but when the Court merely decides that a person is entitled to the guardianship by appointment, and also when it decides that a person is entitled thereto by virtue of relationship, the necessity of insisting upon such a restriction is perhaps open to doubt. In these cases it might suffice if the guardian were allowed the option of submitting the transaction to the Court for sanction, if he thought it necessary to do so for his own protection or for the satisfaction of an intending purchaser of the property."

105. MR. HUTCHINS—

sees no necessity for making a distinction between a certificated and an uncertificated guardian; but if any is to be made, he thinks that proposed by the Government of India is reasonable. He thinks every guardian should have the option of bringing any important matter before the Court, and should (for the particular purpose of the reference, apparently) be required to take out a certificate.

106. MR. S. SUBRAMANIYA IYER—strongly approves of Mr. Hutchins's suggestion that all guardians should have the option of applying to the Court for advice.

107. MR. WIGRAM—

writes:—

"As regards the alienation, whether by gift, sale or mortgage, of property in which minors have a joint interest, I think that it would save much litigation to enact that no such alienation or relinquishment of a minor's right should be valid without the sanction of the District Court, and that if the sanction of the Court was obtained the alienation could not be challenged by the minor unless by a regular suit instituted on his behalf within six months. It would, of course, be requisite to provide that a formal inquiry should be held either by the District Court or through a Subordinate Court whether the alienation was necessary and expedient, and, if the mother was alive, her objection, if any, should be duly considered.

"I would expressly limit this jurisdiction to cases where a particular branch of an undivided family was represented by minors. The assent of the minor's father would, as now, imply the assent of the children."

108. MR. PLUMER—

thinks that in the case of certificated guardians the sanction of the Court should certainly be required, and that this is necessary in order to prevent derelictions of duty on the part of persons for whose conduct the Court is in a way responsible, and who would without such supervision be tempted to go wrong. He explains that this would not throw any great burden on the Courts, the number of certificated guardians not being large.

In the case of alienations, &c., by guardians whom the Courts have decided to be entitled by appointment or by virtue of relationship to act as guardian, he thinks it might be left optional to either the guardian or the intending alienee himself to apply to the Court to sanction the alienation.

109. MR. E. BARCLAY—

thinks that, at any rate in cases where it is proposed to sell immoveable property above a certain value, or to lease it beyond a certain term, or to encumber it beyond a certain amount, the sanction of the Court should be required (in the case of both certificated and uncertificated guardians, apparently). He points out that the case quoted by Mr. Justice Melvill (I. L. R. 5 Cal. 363) does not render alienations by certificated administrators absolutely unimpeachable, and that they can be set aside if fraud or illegality be shown; but he thinks the learned Judge's views might be met in the following way:—

"The Act might provide that in all instruments of alienation and incumbrance of a minor's immoveable property, the manager or certificated administrator should be described as such, and that the order of Court sanctioning the alienation or incumbrance should be recited, and that it should appear on the face of the instrument that it is made in pursuance of such order; and the Act might declare that the title of the purchaser, lessee or incumbrancer taking under an instrument containing such particulars shall, in the absence of fraud or illegality, be held conclusive as against the minor and all persons claiming under him."

110. THE MADRAS BOARD OF REVENUE—

concur with the Government of India.

111. SIR CHARLES TURNER—

thinks the sanction of the Court should be required only in the case of alienations and incumbrances of large amount, and that no sanction should be required in the case of properties of small value, because the attendant expenses would prove a serious burden to the estate.

*(b) That the provision in the second clause of section 18 of Acts XX of 1864 and XL of 1858, which requires the previous sanction of the Civil Court to any alienation or incumbrance of immoveable property by a certificated guardian, should be repealed.

Précis of the opinions referred to in paragraph 1 of the Statement of Objects and Reasons of the Guardians and Wards Bill.

(Point IV.—Whether Court's sanction should be required to alienations.)

112. MR. JUSTICE WEST—would, in the case of minors having a sole or separate estate, give all guardians the right to come into Court and get proposed transactions approved. As to guardians appointed by the personal law of the minor, he would not bind them any further than this; and as to those appointed—not merely recognized—by the Court, he would make them subject "to such restrictions as their certificates might impose."

113. SIR CHARLES SARGENT—

thinks "the consent of the Court should be required in all cases to give effect to alienations (except leases for a short term of years) and incumbrances of or upon the minor's immoveable property, as well as to any compromise of the minor's interest in that property, and that, too, as well by the certificated administrator as by any other person claiming to have charge of the property." He thinks "that the importance attached to the granting of a certificate is greatly exaggerated, and that the powers of such administrator without the consent of the Court should be confined to what is strictly management."

He suggests that the permission to alienate or encumber should be given by the Civil Court of the district in which the property in question is situated, where the minor has property in more than one district.

114. THE HON'BLE MR. PAUL—thinks the modification suggested by the Government of India might perhaps be safely adopted, but that the relinquishment of control should not extend any further. He does not think purchasers should be protected any further than they are at present in their dealings with a minor's estate.

115. MR. T. T. ALLEN—

dissents from Mr. Justice Melvill's proposal (b). He considers it necessary to retain the second clause of section 18 of Act XL of 1858. Where a minor's property is considerable, he says, a certificate is almost invariably taken out, and the great value of the Act is in the protection which the clause in question affords the minor against improper alienation of the corpus; while when alienation is necessary the sanction of the Judge, which is almost conclusive evidence of the necessity of the sale, vastly strengthens the purchaser's security, so that a better price is realised.

116. THE JUDGES OF THE CALCUTTA HIGH COURT—

see no objection to repealing the second clause of section 18 of Act XL of 1858.

117. MR. JUSTICE STRAIGHT—thinks clause 2 of section 18 should be retained, and that all guardians appointed by the Court, whether in right of a will or deed or by its own selection, should be brought within its purview.

118. MR. H. J. SPARKS—approves of the Government of India's proposals. (Please also see his remarks in paragraph 180, infra.)

119. MR. B. W. COLVIN—

approves of Mr. Justice Melvill's proposal to repeal the clause. His experience shows that the Court is commonly unable to obtain evidence upon which to form an opinion with any confidence as to the necessity or expediency of a proposed alienation; and, on the other hand, the sanction is apt to become a dangerous screen to the misdoings of guardians. The only practical value of the clause, he says, is that it gives some publicity to a guardian's doings; but this is scarcely necessary, and the advantage, moreover, such as it is, is more than counterbalanced by the considerations stated above. The real checks are to be found in the intervention of the minor's other relatives and friends, and in the liability of the guardian to being hereafter called to account by the minor himself; and when these fail, the Court's sanction in particular cases supplies no effective substitute for them.

120. MR. DUTHOIT—

does not think Mr. Justice Melvill's proposal to repeal the clause altogether is well-advised; but he sees no objection to a modification of it by the substitution of the words "longer period than that of the minority of the proprietor" for the words "period exceeding five years."

(Please also see his remarks in paragraph 194, infra.)

121. THE LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR AND CHIEF COMMISSIONER, NORTH-WESTERN PROVINCES AND OUDH,— is disposed to agree with Mr. Justice Melvill, though he thinks the matter does not seem so important as to require a special amendment of the existing law. He adds that "the suggestion made in paragraph 8 of the Resolution, that guardians by appointment or relationship should be allowed the option of submitting any transaction to the Court for sanction, seems open to the objection that it would be likely to produce on the part of guardians a disposition to produce for sanction only those transactions in which they wished to obtain an official screen to questionable proceedings."

(Please also see his remarks in paragraph 162, infra.)

writes:—

"I am inclined to agree in the views of the Government of India as expressed in paragraph 8 of the Resolution. But where a guardian who owes his status merely to the act of the Court makes an alienation of immoveable property without the sanction of the Court, I am of opinion that the alienation should not be treated as absolutely void. If it appear that the parties to the alienation acted in good faith, and that the transaction was for the benefit of the minor, I do not think that the transaction should be held to be void merely because the guardian owed his status to the act of the Court and omitted to obtain the Court's sanction to the alienation. The onus of proving that the alienation was effected in good faith, and was for the minor's benefit, would be on the person who affirmed its validity."

123. LALLA MADAN GOPAL—

thinks the second clause of section 18 of Act XL of 1858 should be retained, and extended to all guardians, whether certificated or not.

He further suggests that an explanation should be added declaring that alientions made without sanction will be not absolutely void, but merely avoidable on proof that the guardain acted male fide, and that the transaction was not a proper one.

124. LALLA MOHAN LALL AND MIAN ABDULLA, PLEADERS, OF AMRITSAR,— suggest that, in the case of guardians other than those who owe their status to the

Précis of the opinions referred to in paragraph 1 of the Statement of Objects and Reasons of the Guardians and Wards Bill.

(Point IV.—Whether Court's sanction should be required to alienations.) mere act of the Court, the Court should be required to make a summary investigation as to the propriety of the alienation or encumbrance suggested; and further that a proviso be added declaring that "no such summary investigation should be held to be complete within the meaning of the Act unless the near relations of the minor, if any, or any friend interested in his welfare, have had an opportunity of protesting or objecting before the Court against the suggestions of the Public Curator or other administrator within a term to be fixed by the Court, of which due notice shall be given to them."

125. COLONEL C. A. MCMAHON—

writes:—

"I would leave the guardian to deal with the minor's property at his own risk. An ex parte reference by a guardian to a Civil Court for sanction to a proposed alienation might be very injurious to the minor's interests; for the Court would only have the ex parte representations of a possibly dishonest or interested man to go on.

"I do not think a reference of this character is worth the trouble and expense it involves, and I think it would be better for all concerned to leave the guardian to act on his own responsibility and risk."

126. MUHAMMAD LATIF—

considers it desirable to require the Court's sanction "where the Court exercises direct control over the property of the minor," but that sanction should not be required where the guardian holds his position by virtue of relationship or by virtue of a deed of appointment. In the latter cases the guardian ought, he thinks, to be held responsible to the minor for his acts.

127. UMAR BAKHSH—

suggests that every transaction involving property of the value of Rs. 1,000 and upwards should be declared invalid unless it has the sanction of the Court.

128. COLONEL GURDON—

writes:—

"Where of course there is no person with any legal claim to the guardianship of a minor, e.g., no kinsman or other person who according to the personal law of the minor can claim as a right the guardianship, and when in such case the Court has selected a person to administer the minor's property, it may no doubt be advisable and just that the previous sanction of the Court should be required to render valid any alienation of a minor's immoveable property; but the application of this restriction to cases where there are persons legally entitled to guardianship according to Hindu and Muhammadan law, is, I think, to be deprecated; at any rate, if such a provision be retained, its application should only be obligatory upon guardians 'appointed by the Court.' All other guardians might be allowed at their option to apply to the Court or not, if required for the satisfaction of an intending purchaser of the property (vide paragraph 8 of Government of India's Resolution)."

129. MR. H. T. RIVAZ—

considers the Government of India's proposals reasonable and worthy of adoption.

He suggests that the effect of an alienation by a certificated guardian without the Court's sanction might be made clearer than it is at present. He writes: "I take it that a sale or mortgage by a certificated guardian without the sanction of the Court is not absolutely void, but voidable at the option of the minor when he attains majority, if he chose to repudiate the transaction, and subject to a refund by the minor of so much of the consideration money as has been expended for his benefit or for the benefit of his estate. If this is not the law under the section as it at present stands, I think the section should be at least modified to the extent above indicated, and I should be glad myself to see the section go further, and give the Court a discretion to refuse to set aside a sale (though the Court's sanction was wanting) if it was made clearly to appear that the transaction was a bonâ fide one made in the interests of the minor. This would cause no hardship to the minor, as in such cases it is a well established principle that the onus lies upon the party contracting with the minor's representative to show that the transaction was bonâ fide and for the benefit of the minor.'

130. Mr. R. J. CROSTHWAITE—

fully concurs in the Government of India's proposals.

131. MR. J. W. CHISHOLM—

would repeal the second clause of section 18, because in cases of alienation no real check can be applied by the Civil Court, and consequently the sanction contemplated by the clause is often given on incomplete information, and places additional difficulties in the way of a minor should he sue, on obtaining his majority, to set aside any alienation made by his guardian as unnecessary. Such suits can, he says, always be brought, and by this means minors often recover properties wrongfully alienated.

132. THE CHIEF COMMISSIONER OF THE CENTRAL PROVINCES—

concurs in the Government of India's proposals.

133. THE RECORDER OF RANGOON—

would retain the second clause of section 18. If it does not do much good, he says, at all events it does not do much harm.

134. THE JUDICIAL COMMISSIONER OF BRITISH BURMA—

thinks the clause should be retained. He writes:—

"It is quite true that in granting sanction under the Act the Court has nothing to guide it but the ex parte statements of the administrator himself, but in the absence of complete arrangements (such as those alluded to in the preceding paragraph)* the necessity of obtaining sanction acts as a wholesome though partial check, and should not, in my opinion, be done away with."

135. THE CHIEF COMMISSIONER OF BRITISH BURMA—

says there appears to be no sufficient reason for repealing the clause.

136. MR. J. KNOX WIGHT—

thinks the clause should be retained, because it tends to the benefit of the minor and the purchaser alike as well as to the protection of the guardian. The necessity for moving the Court, he says, prevents the making of improper bargains.

(Please also see his remarks in paragraph 179, infra).

137. COLONEL W. HILL—agrees that "it will suffice if guardians are allowed the option of submitting transactions to the approves of the Government of India's proposals.

Point V.—Right of certificated administrator to appear in Court.

V.—Whether, assuming it to be the intention of the legislature (see sections 464, 440 and 441 of the Code of Civil Procedure) that a guardian appointed under the Minors' Act possesses no right as such to appear on behalf of a minor, but that he must sue as next friend or be appointed to defend as guardian ad litem, the Code of Civil Procedure should not be amended so as to make this more clear.

139. MR. HUTCHINS—

would require that every one suing on behalf of a minor should either have taken out a certificate or obtained the previous leave of the Court—the latter provision to meet cases where the rightful guardian is the defendant or is interested in the defendant or is averse to taking legal proceedings.

He adds that where the minor is a defendant the intention seems to be that he should be sued as under the protection of his guardian, where one has been certificated or appointed by the Court of Wards or a Civil Court, section 443 of the Civil Procedure Code being to this extent controlled by section 464; and that it is only where there is no such guardian that the particular tribunal is to appoint a guardian ad litem.

140. THE HON'BLE MR. O'SULLIVAN, ADVOCATE GENERAL OF MADRAS,— suggests that in all suits against a minor the administrator should be made a party as guardian ad litem, but that the Courts should have power to permit a friend or relative of the minor also to appear to defend the suit in cases in which such a course appears to be advisable; also that the administrator should have authority to institute suits on behalf of the minor, with power to the Court to give the conduct of any particular suit, or classes of suits, to any person named, other than the administrator.

141. THE MADRAS BOARD OF REVENUE, MR. H. J. SPARKS, LIEUTENANT-COLONEL GRACE AND THE JUDICIAL COMMISSIONER OF BRITISH BURMA—agree with the Government of India that the Code should be amended in the direction indicated.

142. SIR CHARLES TURNER—

suggests that "except where the conduct of the guardian is impugned or his personal interest is in conflict with that of the minor, the Court should be required to recognise as guardian ad litem, if he be willing to undertake the duty, the person who, by the personal law, is entitled to the charge of the minor's property by a Court of competent jurisdiction or by the Court of Wards."

143. MR. JUSTICE WEST—

thinks no person wishing to sue as next friend on behalf of a minor should be subjected to any restriction other than those involved in proper rules as to costs.

He further thinks it might be explicitly provided that an administrator duly appointed should, as such, be a tutor capable of representing the minor in all litigation without further appointment.

144. MR. B. W. COLVIN—

sees no reason why there should be any separate application to be appointed guardian ad litem in cases where there is a certificated guardian. The certificated administrator should, he thinks, be ex officio guardian ad litem to the minor in his charge.

145. THE LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR AND CHIEF COMMISSIONER, NORTH-WESTERN PROVINCES AND OUDH,—

"agrees that if any amendment of the law is to be undertaken, it would be well to amend the Code of Civil Procedure so as to make it clear what is the status of a guardian appointed under the Minors' Act in respect of suits instituted on behalf of or against the minor whom he represents."

146. MR. H. MUSPRATT—

says Chapter XXXI of the Civil Procedure Code "gives rise to no difficulty in the appointment of next friends or guardians ad litem, and nothing has yet come under notice so as to call for any modification of the provisions."

147. COLONEL W. HILL, COMMISSIONER OF COORG,—

writes:—

"Guardians who have obtained a certificate under the Minors' Act should be empowered to sue as such without the further intervention of the Court as required by section 443 of the Civil Procedure Code: at the same time an order of any Court appointing a guardian should not be held as giving any one who has not obtained a certificate any further authority over a minor."

Point VI.—Declaration as to powers of Guardians

VI.—Whether the first clause of section 18 of Act XX of 1864 and Act XL of 1858 should not be amended so as to provide that a guardian by appointment or relationship should, when his title is declared by the Court, possess simply the same powers which he possessed before procuring a declaration of title, and that the order of the Court should have no effect except that of declaring his status; and further,

(a) Whether, if the powers of a guardian who owes his status to the mere act of the Court are defined at all, they should not be defined in some way which would indicate that persons having transactions with him should bear in mind his representative character, and should not deal with him as they would if he were acting on his own account.

Précis of the opinions referred to in paragraph 1 of the Statement of Objects and Reasons of the Guardians and Wards Bill.

(Point VI.—Declaration as to powers of Guardians.)

148 The Government of India specially invited suggestions on the latter of these two points. The remarks contained in the following paragraphs which refer to this point are marked "[a]" on the margin.

149. MR. HUTCHINS—

observes that Madras Regulation V of 1804, section 21, clause fourth, gives no greater powers to a guardian appointed by the Court of Wards or the Zila Court than to other persons acting as guardian. As an indication of what the law should be on this point, he refers to his remarks noted in paragraph 71 of this précis.

150. MR. PLUMER—

says the legal powers and liabilities of guardians, whether acting by virtue of appointment, relationship or selection by the Court, are the same, and he sees no advantage in defining the powers of either class. Persons dealing with guardians may well, he thinks, be left to protect their own interests.

151. MR. W. WILSON—

writes as follows:—

"With reference to paragraphs 8 and 10 of the Resolution, I have to observe that where the instrument of appointment defines the powers of a guardian, he can deal with the property in accordance therewith without reference to the Courts. A guardian by relationship however and a guardian by appointment whose powers in respect of the property are not defined in the instrument of appointment are in precisely the same position as guardians appointed by the Court, and there is therefore no reason for relieving them of obligations—such as reference to the Court before sale—which are imposed on guardians appointed by the Court, nor of subjecting them to disabilities to which Court-appointed guardians are not liable. I think therefore that in the cases of guardianship by relationship and guardianship by appointment, where the instrument of appointment does not define the powers of the guardian, the order of the Court should operate merely as a declarator of status, but should, subject to the same conditions, confer on such guardians all powers possessed by Court-appointed guardians. I would further suggest that, where, in the case of guardianship by appointment, the instrument of appintment in the opinion of the Court restricts the powers of the guardian to the detriment of the minor, his powers should be extended in such manner as the Court may direct, the exercise of such extended powers by the guardian being subject to the provisions of section 18 [of Act XX of 1864]. From the operation of the second clause of this section all acts of guardians by appointment in pursuance of their instruments of appointment should be expressly exempted, but in all other cases the provisions of the section should in my opinion be strictly maintained."

152. MR. E. BARCLAY—

considers that, in cases where a Court decides that a person is entitled to a certificate of administration by virtue of appointment or by relationship, the same strictness should be required as to accounting for moveable property and as to the alienation or incumbrance of immoveable property, as in other cases excepting that in the former case, he would not require the administrator to furnish security. He would, however, expressely give the Court power to refuse a certificate for good cause shown.

He further thinks the duties of the manager (Collector) and the certificated administrator should be defined with as much particularity as possible, so as to prevent mistakes on the part of a Collector who might have to take temporary charge of a minor's estate, or on the part of others who might go wrong through ignorance.

153. MIR ANSAR-UD-DIN—

concurs in the Government of India's proposals. [a]

154. THE HON'BLE MR. O'SULLIVAN—

writes:—

"The Act should define and limit the powers of persons to whom certificates of administration may be granted with regard to managing, charging or alienating the property of minors, and I think the sanction of the Court should be required in order to render valid any alienation of immoveable property of a value exceeding Rs. 500."

And again,

"I think it of the utmost importance either that the power of the administrator to deal with the property of the minor should be defined in the Act, or that the sanction of the Court should be required, so that third persons may be able to rely upon the title of the administrator and his capacity to bind the interests of the minor; and, in order that the interests of the minor may not be sacrificed, the Court should be at liberty to entertain objections by a friend or relative of the minor against any proposal or application by the administrator."

155. MR. J. W. HANDLEY—

thinks that if the powers of guardians are to be defined at all, the definition given in Acts XX of 1864 and XL of 1858, section 18, should be considerably narrowed. He suggests that the Courts might be left to decide in every case, in accordance with the well-established rule, whether the action of guardians has been consistent with the proper discharge of their duties.

156. MR. G. MUTTUSWAMY CHETTIAR—

agrees with Mr. Handley.

157. THE MADRAS BOARD OF REVENUE—

"would suggest whether it might not with advantage be enacted that, in dealing with the property of their wards, guardians (including those owing their status to the mere act of a Court) should have the rights and powers, and be subject to the duties and liabilities, of a trustee, as laid down in the Indian Trusts Act, II of 1882."

158. SIR CHARLES TURNER—

recommends that, where the guardian derives his powers solely from the act of the Court, those powers should be defined.

He further suggests provision being made that, except when the powers of a guardian are extended by the personal law of the minor or a special direction of the creator of the trust, his powers of investment shall be limited by the provisions of section 20 of the Trustee Act [? Trusts Act, II of 1882.] He says that applications are not unfrequently made and granted for the issue of certificates to collect debts to the guardians of minors who, if of age, would be entitled to represent this estate of the deceased, and that there is at present no statutory provision authorizing this procedure.

159. MR. JUSTICE FIELD—

says section 18 of Act XL of 1858 has given rise to a considerable amount of litigation.

He thinks the expression "may exercise the same powers in the management of the estate as might have been exercised by the proprietor if not a minor" has not been happily chosen, and that the powers of a manager ought to be defined in other language. "According to English law," he says, "a lease made by a testamentary guardian to last beyond the minority of the ward was absolutely void as soon as the infant came of age. A Statute was subsequently passed (11 Geo. IV and 1 Wm. IV, cap. 64) under which an infant or his guardian might, with the sanction of the Court, accept renewals of leases and grant leases which should be valid, although they exceeded the period of the minority of the infant. The practice under this Act will be found in Chapter XLV of Mr. Daniell's Chancery Practice, and the principle of these Statutes deserves consideration in considering any amendment of Act XL of 1858."

He also observes that the clause authorising certificated guardians to collect and pay all just claims, debts and liabilities due to, or by, the estate of the minor would seem to indicate that a person who has obtained a certificate under the Minors' Act is entitled to collect debts without any further authority, but that this view has not always been taken by the Courts. He gives a reference to In re Raisanissa Begum, 2 B.L.R., 129.

(Please also see his remarks in paragraph 258, infra.)

160. MR. H. J. SPARKS—

considers that guardians who owe their status to the mere act of the Court "should have power similar to those exercised by managers appointed by the Court of Wards, and should have no power to alienate or encumber the minor's immoveable property, or to dispose of any valuable moveable property, without the orders of the Court. They should, in fact, be servants of the Court."

161. MR. DUTHOIT—

writes regarding the Government of India's proposal as follows :—

"I do not think this proposition feasible further than that the guardian, when transacting business on the part of the minor, might be required to [a] describe himself as guardian of the minor. I am unable to distinguish, as regards the management of a minor's affairs, between the status of a 'legitimate' and the status of a 'dative' guardian. Unless the action of the guardian, in the absence of fraud or collusion, fully binds the minor, the interests of minors would suffer."

In this connection he refers to some remarks of Mr. Justice Markby pointing to the duty of persons dealing with representatives to satisfy themselves that the latter are acting for the benefit of their principals.

162. THE LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR AND CHIEF COMMISSIONER OF THE NORTH-WESTERN PROVINCES AND OUDH—says it is clear that a guardian by appointment or relationship should acquire no fresh powers to deal with the estate through the act of the Court in recognising his title; and that a guardian by appointment should, in consequence of such recognition, lose no powers already vested in him; and that in this respect section 18 of the Minors' Act seems to require amendment.

He thinks there is reason for supporting the suggestions made by Mr. Sparks (paragraph 160, supra). He continues :—"Another suggestion may be made, namely, that if it be made clear that guardians by appointment or relationship acquire no new powers through the act of the Court in declaring their status, guardians appointed by the Court should be permitted to exercise, with respect to the property concerned, all the powers which the owner might exercise if not a minor, subject to the limitation already provided in the second clause of section 18, and subject also to any further limitations which the Court might think fit to impose at the time of granting the certificate. If the proposal made by Mr. Justice Oldfield [see paragraph 363, infra] for the taking of bonds for due administration of the trust be adopted, the powers that would thus devolve on guardians would not be unduly large."

In regard to the second point mentioned in paragraph 10 of the Government of India's Resolu- [a] tion, the Lieutenant-Governor and Chief Commissioner thinks no special provision is necessary, as it would be the duty of all interested persons to ascertain for themselves the extent of the guardian's powers, and they can do so at very small cost.

writes :—

"I think the form of certificate given to a guardian should be prescribed by the Act, and it should indicate clearly the extent of the powers conferred on the guardian. Two forms might be prescribed,—one for guardians who owe their status to appointment or relationship, and the other for guardians who owe their status to the mere act of the Court. In this way any person dealing with a certificated guardian will have only to ask him to produce his certificate, and will be able to ascer- [a] tain from it the nature of the powers which he exercises."

164. LALLA MADAN GOPAL—

submits a list of restrictions of sorts which he thinks should be placed on the powers of guardians.

165. LALLA GIRDHARY LAL, PLEADER, OF DELHI,— thinks one of those restrictions, viz., that a guardian should not be allowed to arrange for a ward's marriage without the permission of the Court, should not be prescribed, because it would cause unusual and unnecessary litigation.

166. LALLA MOHAN LALL AND MIÁN ASDULLA,— think it right that the order of a Court should, in the case of guardians owing their status to the mere act of the Court, operate no further than as a declaration of status.

167. COLONEL C. A. MCMAHON—

writes :—

"I would limit the effect of taking out a certificate of administration to a mere authoritative declaration of status, leaving it to the minor, on attaining his majority, to contest the validity of the guardian's acts on their merits if so disposed. I think it most undesirable to place any restriction on the power of the minor to impeach the conduct of the guardian (see Mr. Justice Melvill's Minute, page 3) on the ground that the latter took out a certificate or obtained the sanction of the Civil Court to his proposed alienation of immoveable property."

(Point VI.—Declaration as to powers of Guardians)

168. MUHAMMAD LATIF—

says the first clause of section 18 gives the guardian greater powers than are allowed him under either the Hindu or the Muhammadan law; he thinks this very objectionable, and suggests that "a certificated guardian should be placed on no better footing, on the mere strength of the certificate he holds, than that which he held originally, namely, when he held no such certificate, and the effect of the certificate should be no more than to declare his status;" and further :—

"As to the definition of the powers of guardians who owe their status to the mere act of the Civil Court, I think it enough to say that these powers are well defined in the Hindu and Muhammadan law, and no change is desirable."

He also thinks it should be expressly declared (1) that the guardian in dealing with the minor's property is acting merely in his representative capacity, and (2) that his acts shall be open to objection by the minor, (i) if the latter, on attaining the age of puberty, finds his interests were prejudiced by the guardian's acts, whether sanction was obtained to the alienation of his immoveable property or not, or (ii) on the ground of fraud or collusion between the manager and the dealer, or (iii) on the ground of some misrepresentation of facts within the knowledge of the purchaser at the time the sanction was obtained.

169. UMAR BAKHSH—

thinks it very desirable that the powers of guardians of all kinds should be defined. He argues that unless this is done confusion will result, with reference to the varying rules of Hindu law, Muhammadan law and custom and the powers supposed to be derived from the Court making an appointment; also, that it is desirable that guardians appointed by the Court should be definitively given wider powers, for the benefit of the minor, than they would have under either the Hindu or the Muhammadan law.

His reason for placing all guardians on the same footing in this respect is that different rules supplying to different classes of guardians seem unnecessary and would cause complications.

He thinks the powers given by clause 1 of section 18 of Act XL of 1858 should be maintained with this amendment, that the minor shall have the right, on attaining his majority to impeach the acts of his guardian on the ground of fraud or gross carelessness on his part.

He agrees with the Government of India that the powers of all guardians should be defined in some way which would indicate that they should not be dealt with as if they were acting on their own account.

170. COLONEL GURDON—

says "there is much truth in Muhammad Latif's arguments [paragraph 168, supra] against the retention of section 18 of Act XL of 1858, especially with reference to the different relative powers which a guardian of a minor and the minor himself, if he were not thus disqualified, possess."

171. MR. H T RIVAZ—

considers the first of the Government of India's proposals good, but doubts the advisability of attempting to carry out the second. He says the general principles of law requiring that in dealing with representatives special caution should be exercised are well understood, and he fears that "an attempt to exhaust this subject in a single section of a legislative enactment might lead to complications and difficulties instead of serving any useful end."

172. THE LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR OF THE PUNJAB—

agrees with Mr. Rivaz. [a]

173. SARDAR GURDIAL SINGH—

thinks the powers conferred by section 18, clause 1 of Act XL of 1858 are too wide.

He suggests that a simple provision should be made to the effect that guardians "appointed under the Act" [? certificated] have, subject to the general control of the Court, power to do all acts necessary for the proper management and protection of the minor's estate.

174. MR. J. W. CHISHOLM—

writes :—

"It is no doubt important that transactions entered into by guardians in good faith should not be liable to be set aside except for fraud or other adequate cause. Section 18, however, confers on a certificated guardian practically all the powers of a proprietor. As in point of fact the guardian only represents the proprietor owing to his temporary disability as a minor, and as there are circumstances under which the action of guardians in regard to the property can be subsequently set aside, in my opinion the wording of the section should be altered in the sense suggested in paragraph 10 of the Government Resolution."

175. LIEUTENANT-COLONEL GRACE—

approves of the Government of India's pro- [a] posals. He thinks the dealings of guardians with other persons in respect of the minor's property should be held to be those of a "trustee."

176. THE RECORDER OF RANGOON—

sees no objection to the Government of India's [a] proposals.

177. THE JUDICIAL COMMISSIONER OF BRITISH BURMA—

writes :—

"There can, in my opinion, be no doubt that the first portion of section 18 of Act XL of 1858 should be amended. The status of the guardian and the powers vested in him should be much more clearly defined; and I cannot but think that section 8 of Chapter II, Tit. X, Lib. I, of the Belgian Code might with advantage be consulted on this subject."

178. THE CHIEF COMMISSIONER OF BRITISH BURMA—

considers clause 1 of section 18 might with advantage be amended as suggested by the Government of India.

179. MR. J. KNOX WIGHT—

writes :—

"With reference to paragraph 10 of the Resolution, I am of opinion that the first clause of section 18, Act XL of 1858, should be so amended as to make the powers of the certificated guardians equal to those of non-certificated ones. I think section 18 is quite exhausted, and does not require any amendment; but if it is to be interpreted in the way Mr. Justice Melvill has done,* words may be added to it to make the powers of certificated guardians co-extensive with those of guardians appointed by virtue of relationship, excepting only in this point that the latter have uncontrolled power, whereas the former must secure the sanction of the Court in some cases.

[a] "As regards the concluding portion of paragraph 10, I think there is no necessity for introducing any technical provision in the matter indicated therein. Although no such provision is contained in the existing Act, no difficulty is said to have arisen in practice."

180. MR. H. MUSPRATT—

thinks it is necessary to define what powers guardians should exercise, whether by virtue of a certificate of appointment or of relationship.

181. BABU KOYLAS CHUNDER GHOSE—

[a] considers it is necessary to make any provision such as that suggested in the second clause of paragraph 10 of the Resolution.

COLONEL W. HILL—

[a] concurs in the Government of India's proposals.

183. THE RESIDENT AT HYDERABAD—

concurs in the Government of India's proposal regarding the first point. He further makes the following suggestions:—

"The powers of a guardian who owes his status to the mere act of the Court should be especially defined at the time of his appointment, and should be limited to all acts necessary for the efficient management of the estate, the best lines to follow probably being those laid down for the duties and liabilities of trustees.† Any alienations extending beyond short leases, and any expenditure from the estate upon marriage or other ceremonies, should be prohibited except under the order of the Court."

[Please also see remarks by Mr. Justice West in paragraph 112, supra.]

Point VII.—Effect of Court's sanction to alienations.

VII.—Whether (if clause 2 of section 18 of Acts XX of 1864 and XL of 1858 is retained) it should not be made clear that the effect of the Court's sanction to sell, alienate, &c., any immoveable property is to give the purchaser a good title to such property, in the absence of fraud or collusion on his part.

184. The Government of India explained that if such is not the effect the sanction would, from the purchaser's point of view, afford little or no protection, and the minor's property would consequently be depreciated in value.

184A. MR. HUTCHINS, THE MADRAS BOARD OF REVENUE, MR. H. J. SPARKS, THE LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR AND CHIEF COMMISSIONER, NORTH-WESTERN PROVINCES AND OUDH, MR. H. T. RIVAZ, THE CHIEF COMMISSIONER OF BRITISH BURMA and THE RESIDENT AT HYDERABAD—concur in the Government of India's proposal.

185. THE RECORDER OF RANGOON—sees no objection to it.

186. MR. PLUMER—

thinks no hard-and-fast rule should be laid down as to the effect of the Court's sanction.

The mere sanction, without any declaration as to its effect, he says, is useful in affording a check on dishonest or incapable guardians; and he does not think it necessary to protect the alienee by declaring its effect, because the law as it stands affords him a sufficient guide.

187. MR. R. RY. A. L. V. RAMANA PUNTULU GARU, SUBORDINATE JUDGE OF MADURA,— agrees with Mr. Justice West "that bonâ fide transactions affecting the immoveable property of minors, entered into by certificated administrators with the previous sanction of the District Court, should bind minors to the same extent as alienations made by the managing members of undivided Hindu families."

188. THE HON'BLE MIR HUMAYUN JAH, BAHADUR,— agrees with the Government of India, but would say "in the absence of fraud (or collusion) on the part either of the guardian or of the purchaser."

189. SIR CHARLES TURNER—

writes as follows:—

"The 2nd clause of section 18, Act XL of 1858, does not confer on purchasers a title which the minor may not dispute. The sanction of the Court implies that the transaction as presented to it appeared to be for the interest of the minor. In order that the property of minors may not be depreciated by the difficulty of making as valid a title as can be made by an owner, it may be desirable to enact that where the Court is satisfied that the full market-value has been given for the property and [? that the guardian] has secured the investment of the price in certain specified securities, the title of the purchasers shall be defeated only on proof of fraud."

190. SIR CHARLES SARGENT—

thinks the title acquired by the alienee with the consent of the Court should be conclusive against the minor.

191. THE HON'BLE MR. PAUL—discusses the case reported in I. L. R., 5 Cal., 363, quoted by Mr. Justice Melvill, which, he says, he does not understand to have decided that a sanctioned sale cannot be impeached on ordinary grounds, Mr. Paul "conceives that the object of clause 2 of section 18 of the Acts was to prevent any such dealings as those prohibited without sanction, and that the sanction is required for the benefit of the minor, and has no reference to the security of the purchaser." He "doubts the wisdom of discharging guardians from responsibility for such transactions or of protecting purchasers in them, unless the transactions are capable of bearing full scrutiny," and he "does not see how the depreciation of price in such a transaction can be avoided without accepting the risk of affirming transactions injurious to infants, and so doing more harm than any such depreciation in price can do."

192. MR. JUSTICE STRAIGHT—

thinks sanction should, except where it has been obtained by fraud or misrepresentation, be conclusive of the vendee's or mortgagee's title.

193. MR. B. W. COLVIN—

would do away altogether with the necessity for sanction (see his remarks in paragraph 119 of précis).

194. MR. DUTHOIT—

writes with reference to the Government of India's proposal as follows:—

"I would have a separate section in the Act enunciating this principle; but I would not confine it to cases in which immoveable property is alienated with the sanction of the Court. I think that guardians should be allowed to dispose of moveables, and to make temporary alienations of immoveables, without the sanction of the Court, and to alienate immoveables permanently with the sanction of the Court; and that as regards both sets of cases the full authority of the guardian to bind the minor, except of course in the event of fraud and collusion, should be declared."

(Please also see his remarks in paragraph 161, supra.)

195 LALLA GIRDHARI LAL—

considers that "an alienation made by a guardian with the Court's permission should be held conclusively binding on the minor unless he proves fraud."

196. UMAR BAKHSH—

suggests that the sanction of the Court should have no more effect than this, that the transaction shall be presumed to be binding on the minor unless he proves that both the guardian and the purchaser were guilty of fraud, or that the sanction was obtained by misrepresentation which was known to the purchaser.

197. MR. BEHARI LAL BASU—

suggests that the enquiry made by the Court before giving sanction should not be a summary one; and that friends and well-wishers of the minor should be given an opportunity to oppose an application for sanction, and should be allowed to prefer an appeal against the sanction when given. With these safeguards, he would enact that the sanction makes the transaction vaild to all intents and purposes, and that the minor may impugn it, on reaching his majority, only on the ground of fraud or collusion.

198. LIEUTENANT-COLONEL GRACE—approves of the Government of India's proposal, but would also insert "want of necessity" as a ground for disputing an alienation.

199. THE JUDICIAL COMMISSIONER OF BRITISH BURMA—

deprecates the amendment suggested by the Government of India. He writes:—

"The materials after the examination of which sanction is given are very unsatisfactory, and mistakes are often made. Looking to these circumstances, the title now given under the Act seems to me quite sufficient, and not too precise to be dangerous."

200. MR. H. MUSPRATT—

says the Court merely acts upon a one-sided statement or on proofs adduced by the applicant; and he would not, therefore, treat the sanction as conclusive evidence of the real necessity for the transfer when the ward, after attaining majority, desires to impeach the alienation.

Regarding the question of sanction, he further writes as follows:—

"I have found it a good plan to direct a Civil Court amin to make enquiries and to see that the creditors really do hold bonds, &c., duly executed by the previous owners.

"I think it would be advisable also to allow the District Judge to give his consent to the minor's representative jointly with the co-sharers creating under-tenures or giving long leases to parties wishing to employ capital on great industries such as tea, coffee, chinchona, quarrying, &c., on portions of an estate from which little or no profit is derived. The powers to the Judge on all these matters should be clearly defined, and he should have to sit with, say, two Assessors unconnected with either party when deciding such matters. Before any decision was given, the Judge and the Assessors should determine in what way publicity should be given to the applications to enable the reversioners or friends or any one to show cause against the said applications."

201. BABU KOYLAS CHUNDER GHOSE—

considers it unnecessary to make any such amendment as that proposed by the Government of India, because it is, he says, always understood that the Court's sanction will avail nothing if it was obtained by fraud or collusion.

Point VIII.—Extension of new law to Presidency-towns.

VIII.—Whether, if it should be decided to consolidate the law for the whole of British India, the new Act should not be extended to the original local jurisdiction of the Presidency High Courts.

202. The Government of India thought this might be done, a section like section 150 of Act V of 1881 being inserted to abolish the old jurisdiction. One advantage would be that the Government would be placed in a better position than at present for dealing with the question of the local operation of a guardian's appointment, and this might be arranged for by the insertion of a section like section 59 of Act V of 1881, making the appointment of a District Court operative throughout the province and giving the High Courts power to make an appointment to hold good throughout the entire local extent of the Act. A further question would, it was said, arise in connection with this point, namely:—

(b) whether the Courts in appointing guardians of property should not be given power to make appointments limited to particular property.

The remarks contained in the following paragraphs which refer to this last point are marked "[b]" on the margin.

203. MR. E. BARCLAY—

thinks it might be advisable to make the new Act applicable "to the Presidency-towns and to the High Courts;" but says that if this is done some difficulty might be felt in declaring who should be the temporary manager of a minor's estate in a Presidency-town pending an application for a certificate of administration.

He suggests that a certificate of administration should be made to extend throughout the province in which it is granted, and where specially so ordered by the Court granting it throughout the local extent of the Act; the powers of a temporary manager (in the mufassal, the Collector), however, extending only over his own district.

He thinks the suggestion on point (b) should not be adopted, because questions might arise as to who should represent the minor on legal proceedings being taken in respect of property not comprised in the limited appointment. [b] have nothing to urge against the proposal to extend the new Act to the Presidency-towns.

205. MR. JUSTICE WEST—

approves of that proposal.

206. MR. JUSTICE MELVILL—

approves of all the Government of India's proposals under this head.

207. THE HON'BLE MR. PAUL—thinks the law for the Presidency-towns and the law for the Mufassal should only be assimilated if the former is found suitable for adaptation to the Mufassal, as, being the more comprehensive, it should in his opinion form the model for legislation.

Referring to sections 2, 4, 5 and 10, et seq., of Act XL of 1858, he argues that there is no local limit to the operation of certificates under the present law. He continues: "Consequently I do not see any objection to making the guardian's power extend generally to all the minor's property. It does not, of course, follow that the authority of the Court should be required to warrant dealing with a minor's property in all parts of the country; but where a guardian of the estate is required, I do not see why all the property of the minor in India, or at least in the Presidency, should not be in his charge. Any inconvenience which might arise from the property being widely scattered might be remedied by giving the Court power to limit its appointment to special property."

208. MR. JUSTICE STRAIGHT—

says the proposal to enact a provision similar to the proviso to section 59 of Act V of 1881 would obviate difficulties of a kind which have more than once arisen in the North-Western Provinces.

209. MR. H. J. SPARKS—

approves of all the Government of India's proposals under this head.

210. MR. B. W. COLVIN—

approves of the proposal to enact a provision similar to the proviso to section 59 of Act V of 1881.

211. MR. DUTHOIT—

considers there can be no objection to the proposal that a District Court certificate should hold good for a province, while applications for a certificate to hold good for the whole of British India should be made to the High Court.

212. THE LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR AND CHIEF COMMISSIONER, NORTH-WESTERN PROVINCES AND OUDH,— approves of the proposal to insert a section like section 59 of Act V of 1881, and also of the proposal on point (b).

213. MR. BEHARI LALL BASU—

considers it desirable that the special procedure of the Presidency-towns should be abolished and the proposed Act made applicable to them as well as to the Mufassal.

In regard to point (b), he says there may be instances in which a provision like that proposed by the Government of India may be required, but he thinks it preferable that one person only should have the responsibility of managing the entire estate of a minor.

sees no objection to any of the Government of India's proposals under this head. [b]

Point IX.—Personal application of new law.

IX.—Whether the proposed new Act should not be confined to Hindus, Muhammadans and Buddhists, and other persons who have definite personal laws, and the European British Minors' Act, XIII of 1874, made applicable to all other classes of persons and its operation extended to the whole of British India, including the Presidency-towns, the jurisdiction of the High Courts in respect of European British minors being abolished.

217. The Government of India's views on this question were stated as follows:—

"As regards the classes of persons to whom the proposed Act should apply, it may be observed that the division which the law at present makes into European British subjects on the one hand, and all other persons on the other, involves the continuance of a state of things which is now passing away, and appears, moreover, to be based on no intelligible principle. It is not clear, for instance, why an Eurasian, who, though not a European British subject, is for all practical purposes on exactly the same footing, should be placed in the matter of guardianship in a different position from a European British subject. In this matter the only true distinction appears to be that recognized in the Succession Act, namely, between such persons as Hindus, Muhammadans and Buddhists, who have definite personal laws which the Government are bound to respect, and other persons who possess no such laws. From this point of view it appears to the Governor General in Council that the present opportunity might also conveniently be taken to make Act XIII of 1874 (the European British Minors' Act, 1874) applicable to the latter class of persons in the same way as the Succession Act is made applicable to them. If this were done, Act XIII of 1874 might be extended to the whole of British India, including the Presidency-towns, the jurisdiction of the High Courts in respect of European British minors being at the same time abolished. The proposed new Act would then be applicable to Hindus, Muhammadans, Buddhists and other persons exempted from Act XIII of 1874, and the law in regard to minors would be rendered simple and complete."

approves of these proposals.

Précis of the opinions referred to in paragraph 1 of the Statement of Objects and Reasons of the Guardians and Wards Bill.

(Point IX.—Personal application of new law.)

219. MR. E. BARCLAY—

thinks the new Act should apply to all minors being British subjects and possessed of property in British India, except infant members of an undivided Hindu family possessing merely an undivided share in the family property. "It would," he continues, "probably be thought advisable to incorporate some of the provisions of the European British Minors' Act, 1874, in the new Act, but I think, as a general rule, the certificated administrator should be appointed guardian of the minor's person. It would not, I should say, be desirable to appoint the temporary manager guardian of the person."

Mr. Barclay raises a question as to the power of the Indian legislature to abolish the jurisdiction of the High Courts over infants.

220. THE MADRAS BOARD OF REVENUE—

concur with the Government of India.

221. SIR CHARLES TURNER—

writes as follows:—

"An Act similar to Act XIII of 1874 might be framed, applicable to all Courts, including the chartered High Courts, and dealing with minors of all creeds and races, provided that it does not abridge any of the useful powers at present possessed by the chartered High Courts, that it contains a declaration that in the selection of guardians regard shall be had to the personal law of the minor, and that in making provision for the custody of the property of the minor who is a member of an undivided Hindu family, the Court shall, except in a case in which it is established that the interests of the minor have been actually imperilled, abstain from interference with the powers of the managing member.

"The object of the law is to provide for the maintenance and education of the minor in a manner suitable to his means and position and to protect his property, and the same measures which would secure these results in the case of Europeans, Eurasians and Native Christians would ordinarily be appropriate to the case of persons of other races or creeds."

writes:—

"A new Act should, I think, extend to all classes of the community. I cannot see why this scope might not be given to it. It would take for granted that under different laws there were natural or legal guardians, and proceed on that basis to prescribe their general duties and define their rights."

223. SIR CHARLES SARGENT—

thinks that as regards the separate property of a Hindu minor, and all the property of other minors "the general provisions of the Act of 1864 might be retained and extended to Europeans as well as natives." (His suggestions for the amendment of the Act in detail are noted elsewhere).

224. MR. JUSTICE MELVILL—

approves of the Government of India's proposals.

225. THE HON'BLE MR. PAUL—does not see that any distinction need be made between the various races, except as to the persons to be selected or recognized as guardians.

226. THE JUDGES OF THE CALCUTTA HIGH COURT—

concur in the views of the Government of India, and, if they are carried into effect, consider there would be no objection to extending the provisions of both Acts (that for Hindus, &c., and that for all other persons, including European British subjects) to the Presidency-towns, care being, however, taken to preserve any special jurisdiction at present vested in the High Courts.

227. MR. JUSTICE OLDFIELD—

writes as follows:—

"I think Act XIII, 1874, might, as suggested in the Resolution of the Government of India, be made applicable to [? persons other than] Muhammadans, Hindus and Buddhists in the same way as the Succession Act, with such modifications as may appear called for.

"The powers in section 16 [of Act XIII of 1874] conferred on guardians would be generally too restricted, and I see no object in requiring the Court's sanction to alienations, except in the cases referred to in paragraph 8 of the Resolution."

228. MR. JUSTICE STRAIGHT—considers the principle put forward by the Government of India is a sound one.

229. MR. B. W. COLVIN—

thinks the Government of India's proposals correct.

230. MR. W. DUTHOIT—

contests the views expressed by the Government of India, as to the propriety of having separate enactments for Hindus, &c., and for Europeans and the like. He sees no necessity for making any such classification, and disapproves of the proposal on the ground of its being open to the objections attending "class legislation." He advocates the enactment of a single general law applicable to all classes; and he suggests that it should be based on Act XIII of 1874 (see paragraph 291, infra).

231. THE LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR AND CHIEF COMMISSIONER, NORTH-WESTERN PROVINCES AND OUDH,— says the proposals made by the Government of of India require full and mature consideration.

In regard to the proposed extension of Act XIII of 1874, he writes:—

"The special jurisdiction of the chartered High Court of these provinces over European British subjects seems to stand thus. Section 12 of the Letters Patent of the Court confers on it the like power and authority with respect to the persons and estates of infants within the North-Western Provinces as that which is exercised in the Lower Provinces by the Calcutta High Court. It is believed that the Calcutta High Court exercises over infants the same jurisdiction that was conferred on the Supreme Court by section 25 of the Letters Patent of 1874. This section authorised and empowered the Supreme Court to appoint guardians and keepers for infants and their estates according to the order and course observed in England. The Lieutenant-Governor is aware that Act XIII of 1874 is in most respects a reproduction of the law of England regarding minors, and he recognises the great advantage of having that law codified in a readily accessible form. The advisability of conferring on the District Courts a jurisdiction concurrent with that of the High Court over European British minors may, perhaps, also be conceded. But if, in the exercise of their jurisdiction, the chartered High Courts now have regard to domicile in determining the period of

Précis of the opinions referred to in paragraph 1 of the Statement of Objects and Reasons of the Guardians and Wards Bill.

(Proposed consolidation and necessity for new legislation.)

nonage and other matters, Sir Alfred Lyall would, in the event of the proposed legislation being proceeded with, preserve the existing practice of those Courts, and extend it, in the case of European British minors, to those portions of British India to which Act XIII of 1874 now applies."

In regard to the proposal to pass two separate Acts, viz., one for Hindus, &c., and one for Europeans and the like, he writes:—

"The division of the population into two classes—(a) those possessed of definite personal laws which the Government is bound to respect, and (b) other persons who possess no such laws—seems open to objection. It is true that this division was adopted in the case of Act X of 1865 and Act V of 1881; but the subject now under discussion and that covered by the two Acts just named differ in some important respects, and in any case it would seem that the appropriateness of the proposed division should be decided on its merits, and that it should not be adopted merely on the ground of analogy. It would seem to be considered that European British subjects, Eurasians, Pársís, Jews and the other miscellaneous classes of persons to whom Act V of 1881 [? X of 1865] applies have no definite personal laws which the Government is bound to respect. But it has already been shown that European British minors have a definite personal law, viz., the law of England; and it seems hardly appropriate to place these persons in the category of those who have no personal laws which the Government is bound to respect. Besides, the distinction, as now worded, seems likely in practice to offend the susceptibilities of some of those classes of persons who are considered to have no personal laws that the Government is bound to respect, since it might create an impression that the Government regards itself as bound to respect the special laws of Hindus and Muhammadans more than those of Europeans and other classes of the community. If a measure were passed on the lines now indicated, it would be difficult to secure to any of the classes affected the enjoyment of their own personal law, by the insertion in the contemplated Act of a section similar to section 332 of Act X of 1865, which empowers the Governor General to exempt any race or tribe from the operation of the Act. Such a section might, indeed, be used to exempt a race or tribe which might be found to have a definite personal law which the Government was bound to respect; but its effect would be to bring the tribe so exempted under the second Act referred to in paragraph 13 [of the Resolution], which would apply primarily to Hindus, Muhammadans and Buddhists. For these reasons it seems desirable that the distinction recognized in the Succession Act should be not applied in the present instance without a full consideration of all the consequences that may flow from it."

232. COLONEL C. A. MCMAHON—

approves of the proposals of the Government of India.

233. SARDAR GURDIAL SINGH—approves of the proposed class distinction.

234. LIEUTENANT-COLONEL GRACE—thinks that "if it should be decided that a general consolidated Act is necessary for the protection of the person and property of minors throughout British India, it should be on the lines of the Succession Act, and apply to Hindus, Muhammadans, Buddhists, &c., as mentioned in paragraph 13 of the Resolution."

235. THE RECORDER OF RANGOON—

sees no objection to the Government of India's proposals.

236. THE JUDICIAL COMMISSIONER OF BRITISH BURMA—

thinks it would be in every way desirable to carry out the proposals made by the Government of India.

237. THE CHIEF COMMISSIONER OF BRITISH BURMA—thinks it would doubtless be desirable to carry out the Government of India's proposals if any consolidated Act is passed.

238. MR. J. KNOX WIGHT—considers the Government of India's proposals a move in the right direction.

239. COLONEL W. HILL—agrees with the Government of India as to following the precedent of the Succession Act.

240. THE RESIDENT AT HYDERABAD—agrees with the Government of India.

[See also remarks by—the Hon'ble Mr. O'Sullivan, in paragraph 248 of précis; and Mr. R. J. Crosthwaite, in paragraph 273 of précis.]

Proposed consolidation and necessity for new legislation.

241. In the following paragraphs (242 to 282) are noted the remarks and suggestions of Local Governments and officials relative to the proposed consolidation of the law relating to minors, and to the necessity for new legislation on this subject at the present time.

242. MR. H. WIGRAM—considers it highly desirable to consolidate the law. He mentions that the Madras law is contained in the following enactments:—

Madras Regulation V of 1804,
Madras Regulation X of 1831,
Act XIX of 1841,
Act XXI of 1855,
Act XVI of 1858,
Act XXVII of 1860, and
Act IX of 1861.

In regard to some of these enactments he considers it desirable that amendments should be made as indicated below:—

He refers to a decision of the Madras High Court that under Madras Regulation X of 1831 the Civil Courts had no jurisdiction to appoint a guardian where the Court of Wards might take an estate in hand but did not do so; and suggests "that in the case of all large estates, whether they pay revenue to Government or not, the Court of Wards should continue to exercise jurisdiction, and that in smaller estates, where the minor is the sole heir, or where a distinct branch of an undivided family becomes, by the death of its head, represented by minors only, the District Court should have jurisdiction to appoint a guardian, and that preference should be given to the mother, if of sufficient capacity;" and further, as regards the custody of minors, "that the Courts should follow the same rule in the case of those subject to the Succession Act as in the case of those not subject to it, namely, that the Court should do in every case what it considers best for the interests of the minor."

He says Act XIX of 1841 is very rarely used because application under it must be made within six months.

Précis of the opinions referred to in paragraph 1 of the Statement of Objects and Reasons of the Guardians and Wards Bill.

(Proposed consolidation and necessity for new legislation.)

And in regard to Act IX of 1861, he says:—

"Applications under this Act have been made to me regarding the custody of Muhammadan children whose parents were dead and disputes had arisen between the paternal and maternal relatives. I always felt a difficulty in deciding whether I ought to follow the Muhammadan law, or refuse to appoint as guardians persons excluded by section 19 of Regulation V of 1804."

243. MR. HUTCHINS—

gives a list of the enactments in force in the Madras Presidency regarding minors.

244. MR. PLUMER—

also gives a list, and says his experience has been that the law in Madras (so far as it refers to minors not subject to the Court of Wards) has been practically inoperative.

He agrees that a case has been made out for the amendment of the Bombay and Bengal Acts.

245. THE HON'BLE MIR HUMAYON JAH—approves of the proposal to consolidate and amend the law.

246. MR. E. BARCLAY—

approves of the proposed consolidation and re-enactment of Madras Regulation V of 1804, Act XL of 1858, Act XX of 1864 and Act XIII of 1874.

247. MIR ANSAR-UD-DIN—

quotes the Regulations and Acts in force in Madras, and says he does not think they require any amendment. If the proposed consolidation is carried out, he recommends that the Madras law should not be modified during the process.

248. THE HON'BLE MR. O'SULLIVAN—thinks "an Act, founded upon Act XL of 1858, might be applied to the whole of British India and to all classes of minors, except in cases where the Court of Wards has intervened."

249. MR. J. W. HANDLEY—

doubts whether any amendment of the Regulations (which he cites) in force in Madras is required. He thinks all that is necessary would be a short Act giving the Courts power to appoint guardians for all minors for whom none have been otherwise appointed (i.e., those who have not been taken in hand by the Court of Wards), and this only in the event of the High Court, to whom the question had been referred, deciding that Madras Regulation X of 1831 cannot be construed so as to give this extended power as it stands.

He deprecates any legislation which would further facilitate the interference of the Courts with the action of guardians by relationship or appointment, thinking it best, for reasons which he gives, that suits against them should not be encouraged.

250. MR. P. SREENAVASA RAO, JUDGE OF THE MADRAS COURT OF SMALL CAUSES,— agreeing with Mr. Handley, "deprecates any legislation which would unnecessarily interfere with the liberties of the people," and shows that the policy of the Madras legislature has always been to avoid such interference. On the question of the power of the Courts to appoint guardians for minors who have not been taken in hand by the Court of Wards, he quotes authorities showing that the Courts have full powers in such cases, but he would not object to a short Act declaring the law.

251. MR. G. MUTTUSWAMY CHETTIAR—

cites the law in force in Madras, and says he considers further legislation unnecessary. The only point in which that law fails, he says, is that it does not reach small estates; but this is unavoidable, both because of the peculiar constitution of Hindu families, and because the Collectors are already overworked.

He agrees with Mr. Handley in thinking a short declaratory Act might be passed of the nature, and in the circumstances, noted in paragraph 249 of this précis.

252. THE MADRAS BOARD OF REVENUE—

say the necessity for amending the law relating to minors and other disqualified persons in the Madras Presidency has long been acknowledged, and that some years ago a Bill was drawn up to introduce the requisite amendments, among which were some of those suggested in the Government of India's Resolution. The Board concur with the Government of India's proposal to consolidate the whole law for British India, and suggest (paragraph 8 of their Proceedings) that the new Act should extend not only to minors but to all persons incapacitated by sex, infirmity or imprisonment from managing their property.

They note that on the passing of the new Act the law relating to the Madras Court of Wards will require re-casting; they remind the Government of India that the Madras law relating to minors is contained in the following enactments:—

Mad. Reg. III of 1802	Act XIX of 1841
Mad. Reg. V of 1804	Act XXI of 1855
Mad. Reg. X of 1831	Act XIV of 1858, and Act IX of 1861;

and they suggest that care should be taken to declare in the new Act that its provisions shall not extend to such estates, under the jurisdiction of the Court of Wards, as the Court of Wards may think proper to take under its protection.

253. SIR CHARLES TURNER—

gives a review of the law in force in the Madras Presidency, showing (1) that it is, as interpreted by the Courts, defective in that it leaves certain minors without adequate protection, and (2) that it fails to provide sufficiently for the representation and protection of minors whose property becomes the subject of litigation. His remarks on the second of these points will be found abstracted in other parts of this précis: his remarks on the first point show—

(a) that "the Civil Courts in the Madras Presidency have, in the matter of guardianship, such general powers as are inherent in Courts which have jurisdiction to try all suits of a civil nature except where such jurisdiction is limited by enactment, and the District Courts have the powers conferred on them by the Regulations and Acts;"

(b) that under a High Court ruling of 1871, section 3 of Madras Regulation X of 1831 is held to give no power to appoint guardians for minors whose estates the Court of Wards could have, but has not, taken under its management, or for minors entitled as co-parceners to estates paying revenue or rent directly to Government;

(c) that under section 3 of Madras Regulation V of 1804 the Local Government may decline to pass an order bringing an estate under the Court of Wards, although the Collector has made a report with a view to such an order being passed, and that it is obviously unreasonable to expect the Local Government to pass such an order in the case of raiyátwari estates (supposing the term "property" to include such estates), while there are other cases, too, in which the Local Government might, for excellent reasons, decline to pass such an order.

Précis of the opinions referred to in paragraph 1 of the Statement of Objects and Reasons of the Guardians and Wards Bill.

(Proposed consolidation and necessity for new legislation.)

Sir Charles Turner says it cannot be desirable that in the cases mentioned the persons and property of minors should be left without protection, and that the necessity of affording protection has been shown by experience. He suggests, as regards estates held in co-parcenary, that, excepting only in those cases where the co-parcenery consists of a father and a son, the District Court should have power to appoint guardians where the Collector has satisfied himself of the necessity for intervention.

He also points out that Act IX of 1861 makes no express mention of the property of minors, and does not empower the Court to confer power to deal with such property on the person whom it recognizes or appoints as guardian; also that it is defective in that it makes no express provision for the supersession or removal of a guardian once appointed. In regard to the first of these two points, he suggests that, in view of possible misapprehensions in the past as to the effect of recognizing or appointing a guardian, it may be desirable that in the contemplated legislation the acts of such guardians done bonâ fide in the interests of minors should be validated; and further that, in any case, it is obviously desirable that there should be an express declaration of the powers which, independently of the personal law of the minor, the Court is authorized to confer on a guardian in respect of a minor's property; also that the Court should have power to interfere and appoint guardians of the persons and managers of the property of minors either on the report of the Collector or of its own motion in cases subject to the jurisdiction of the Court of Wards in which the Government has declined to authorize the Court of Wards to take charge of the estate, or in other cases where there is no guardian or manager, and it is proved to be desirable in the interests of the minor that an appointment should be made.

In view of the defects mentioned in the foregoing clauses of this paragraph and the abstracts from his Minute noted in other paragraphs of this précis, Sir Charles Turner concurs in the proposal to consolidate and amend the law. He mentions that the Madras High Court in November, 1871, advised the Government of Madras that it would be desirable "to repeal the old enactments and by new legislation provide for the proper guardianship of minor proprietors and the management of their property," and further points out that "in view of the circumstances that the Regulations and Acts dealing with minors and their property are so numerous, and that the High Courts have in addition to administer the written and unwritten law of England in the case of European minors, the Indian Law Commission of 1879 indicated this branch of the law as specially calling for codification."

254. SIR CHARLES SARGENT—

thinks it highly desirable that there should be but one Act regulating the care and administration of the persons and property of all minors throughout British India.

He considers that an Act framed on the lines indicated in his Minute, with such other provisions as the English Law may suggest, would be a valuable addition to the Indian Codes.

255. THE HON'BLE MR. PAUL—thinks it would be desirable to assimilate the law for Bengal and Bombay, but cannot advise as to Madras. The fact that the Mitakshara law prevails in that Presidency should, he suggests, be taken into consideration.

Further on he remarks that Acts XL of 1858 and XX of 1864 are "obviously open to great improvement, both in language and substance."

256. MR. T. T. ALLEN—

says the points taken up in Mr. Justice Melvill's Minute of August, 1881, in every instance refer to matters wherein either the Bombay Act differs from the Bengal Act or the circumstances of Bombay differ from those of Bengal.

The Bengal Act, he says, works well and is now well known and understood, and he can see no good reason for interfering with it. He adds, "I think nothing can be so mischievous as, from a hankering after symmetry, to repeal a good law against which no complaints have been made, in order to re-enact it with some slight variations that are certain to escape notice by parties concerned, and thus lead to future loss and confusion." He is therefore opposed to any change being made in the law.

257. THE GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL—concur generally in the views expressed by Mr. Allen, and see no sufficient reason for interfering with Act XL of 1858.

258. MR. JUSTICE FIELD—

thinks it desirable that an amended and consolidated Act should be passed for the whole of (British) India, and recommends that the provisions of Act IX of 1861 be incorporated. Speaking generally, he considers the following are the main lines upon which the new Act ought to be framed:—

"First.—All persons dealing with the property of minors without any certificate obtained from the Civil Court should be left to the general law applicable to persons of their class and to those transactions into which they may have entered. It would be extremely difficult and, to my mind, dangerous to attempt to reduce to propositions in the form of sections of an Act those principles applicable to Hindus, Muhammadans and other classes in India which regulate the power of dealing with property belonging to minors or in which minors have an interest, in the numerous cases in which questions as to the extent of that power may arise. Take, for example, the case of alienations made by the guardians of minors in cases of alleged necessity (see this question discussed in the Privy Council case above referred to—Doorga Prosad v. Kesho Proshad Singh). The question under what circumstances such alienations are justified has been repeatedly before the Privy Council (see the case of Hunooman Proshad Panday v. Mussamut Babooi Munraj Koonwari, 6 Moore's I. Ap. Cases, 393), and has been repeatedly in various forms before the High Courts in India. It would be extremely difficult to formulate in a single proposition or series of propositions the various cases in which alienation on the ground of necessity can be justified or otherwise."

"Secondly.—It should be enacted generally that persons dealing with the estate of an infant and taking the profits thereof are responsible at the suit of the infant suing through a next friend while under age, or in person after attaining majority, such responsibility being determined according to the law applicable under section 24 of the Bengal Civil Courts Act, VI of 1871, and the corresponding provisions in force in other parts of India. 'If a man,' says Mr. Daniell, 'intrudes on the estate of an infant, and takes the profits thereof, he will be treated as a guardian, and held responsible for the same to the infant in a Court of Equity.' (Daniell's Chancery Practice, Vol. II, p. 1204). In those cases in which a certificate had been obtained under the provisions of the Act the person who obtained such certificate should of course be under the general control of the Court; should be bound to give security, if the Court saw fit to require it, and to render an account. His powers of leasing might be regulated by statutory provisions, while his power of alienation should be subject to the direction of the Court to be obtained in a summary way. In this latter case, his act, so far as third parties were affected, ought to be valid except in cases of fraud or collusion."

Précis of the opinions referred to in paragraph 1 of the Statement of Objects and Reasons of the Guardians and Wards Bill.

(Proposed consolidation and necessity for new legislation.)

259. MR. JUSTICE TOTTENHAM—agrees with Mr. Justice Field that it is desirable to pass a consolidated Act for the whole of (British) India.

260. THE JUDGES OF THE CALCUTTA HIGH COURT—

(collectivey) consider Act XL of 1858 is "in several respects defective; that its language is, in some instances, indistinct; and that legistation is desirable for the purpose of amending the Act, bringing it into more complete accordance with Chapter XXXI of the Civil Procedure Code, and placing the whole law on the subject on a clearer and better defined footing."

They also "concur with the Government of India in thinking that the opportunity might advantageously be taken to consolidate the Acts and Regulations which at present govern the subject in various parts of the country in a single enactment applicable to the whole of British India."

261. SIR R. STUART—

urges that Act XL of 1858 should be left alone.

262. MR. JUSTICE STRAIGHT—considers it would be highly desirable to consolidate the law relating to minors for the whole of British India in one well-considered and comprehensive Act.

263. MR. H. J. SPARKS—

approves of the proposal to consolidate the law for the whole of British India.

264. MR. W. DUTHOIT—

thinks it desirable that the law for the whole of British India should be consolidated if, as appears to be the case, that course is practicable.

[For his suggestions regarding such consolidation, see paragraph 291, infra.]

265. MR. JUSTICE SMYTH—

is not aware that any practical difficulty has arisen in the Punjab in the working of Act XL of 1858. The Act is not, however, much used, he says, in that Province.

266. MUHAMMAD LATIF—

agrees that Act XX of 1864 requires amendment.

He is "sure the country will hail with satisfaction and gratitude a consolidated Minors' Act extending over the whole of British India and embodying the provisions of Acts IX of 1861, XXVII of 1860 and IX of 1875, in regard to each of which much uncertainty prevails at present."

267. UMAR BAKHSH—

agrees that Act XX of 1864 requires amendment.

He suggests that the new Act should incorporate Acts IX of 1861 and IX of 1875 (Majority), as well as Act XL of 1858.

268. COLONEL GURDON—

thinks the time has arrived for a general consolidated Act applicable to the whole of British India.

He thinks Umar Bakhsh's suggestion to include Act IX of 1875 (Majority) in the new enactment is worthy of consideration.

269. MR. H. T. RIVAZ—

writes:—

"So far as I know, no serious inconvenience has been felt in the Punjab with reference to the working of Act XL of 1858. The reported cases under the Act are, so far as this province is concerned, few in number, and disclose no particular difficulties experienced in applying the Act; and the result of my experience, so far as it goes, is that the machinery of the Act is very seldom set in motion in this province, and when it is set in motion amply meets the requirements of the case. The proposal therefore to extend the application of the Act and confer wider powers on the Court appears to me, so far as the Punjab is concerned, to be unnecessary."

270. THE FINANCIAL COMMISSIONER OF THE PUNJAB—

writes:—

"The general tendency of the proposed legislation is to make the relation of guardian and minor much more legal than it has hitherto been in the Punjab, and to give occasion to greatly increased resort to the Civil Courts for certificates of administration. The Financial Commissioner thinks that both these changes are neither required nor desirable in the Punjab. The present system works easily, gives little trouble either to the people or the Courts, does not, Colonel Davies believes, give occasion to any large amount of litigation, and appears to be generally acceptable. In many cases it may work as an actual family bond.

"There seems to the Financial Commissioner, therefore, little necessity for fresh legislation, but, if a new enactment be determined upon, it should be merely one declaring and making clear the present practice, and not innovating upon or making it more stringent."

271. THE LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR OF THE PUNJAB—

writes:—

"The alterations which are suggested by the learned Judges of the Bombay High Court, and discussed in the Resolution under reply, would have a tendency to bring the question of guardianship and minority more under the control of the Civil Courts than is at present the case in the Punjab. * * * It will be seen that the authorities who have been consulted are generally in favour of maintaining the practice which now exists in the Punjab. No difficulty or inconvenience has hitherto been experienced in working the provisions of the existing law, and the Lieutenant-Governor, concurring in the opinions which have been offered, would prefer to leave guardianship, its duties and responsibilities, to be controlled and worked in accordance with custom and public feeling, rather than

Précis of the opinions referred to in paragraph 1 of the Statement of Objects and Reasons of the Guardians and Wards Bill.

(General suggestions for the amendment of the Minors' Acts.) to bring it under the active interference of the Civil Courts. So long as negotiations regarding the property of minors are conducted in accordance with general principles of equity, there is great advantage in their being carried on out of Court. Sir Charles Aitchison understands that this is practically the view expressed in paragraphs 5, 7 and 8 of the Resolution, and it will be seen that Mr. Justice Smyth and the Government Advocate would go even further and would not allow the alienation of the immoveable property of a minor by a certificated guardian to be voided otherwise than reason of bad faith."

272. SARDAR GURDIAL SING—

agrees that Act XX of 1864 requires amendment, though he does not concur in all the amendments proposed by the Judges of the Bombay High Court.

He also thinks Act XL of 1858 stands in need of revision.

He suggests that the new law should consolidate Acts XL of 1858, XX of 1864, IX of 1861, and IX of 1875.

273. MR. R. J. CROSTHWAITE—considers "the law might with advantage be consolidated in the way proposed by the Government of India."

274. MR. L. NEILL, OFFICIATING COMMISSIONER, NAGPUR DIVISION,—

writes:—

"The Law [Act XL of 1858] appears to me to work well, and I am not prepared to advocate any change in it.

"With regard to acts done by guardians or representatives of minors, our Courts at present act on the equitable understanding that third parties, who profit by their dealings with minors, shall strictly satisfy themselves that the guardians or representatives act bonâ fide and with due respect to the minors' interests."

275. MR. BEHARI LAL BASU—

says "Act XL of 1858 is not complete by itself and the reported cases tend to show that the Act needs amendment;" and again, "I am inclined to think the Act needs amendment. It is expedient and desirable that a general consolidated Act be passed for the whole of British India."

276. MR. J. W. CHISHOLM—

writes:—

"I agree in the view that the Act [XL of 1858] is defective, and that amendments should be introduced to remedy defects pointed out which in practice have been found to exist. The best course, as suggested, is to have a general consolidated revised Minors' Act applicable to the whole of British India."

277. LIEUTENANT-COLONEL GRACE—

agrees that the defects pointed out by Mr. Justice Melvill in Act XX of 1864 (and Act XL of 1858) should be amended.

278. THE CHIEF COMMISSIONER OF THE CENTRAL PROVINCES—approves of the proposal to consolidate the various enactments relating to minors.

279. THE CHIEF COMMISSIONER OF BRITISH BURMA—

says no practical necessity has shown itself in British Burma for any amendment of the law, and that, in fact, the law is very little used there.

280. Mr. J. KNOX WIGHT—

considers it very desirable to pass a consolidated Act remedying defects and bringing the whole law relating to minors within the scope of one enactment. The new Act should, he suggests, embody Act IX of 1861 and the enactments relating to Courts of Wards, as well as other enactments dealing with the subject of the rights and duties of guardian and ward.

281. MR. H. MUSPRATT—

considers it desirable that the existing laws should be re-enacted, with the necessary modifications, in the form of a general consolidated Act applicable to the whole of British India.

282. BABU KAYLAS CHUNDER GHOSE—remarks:—"The defects pointed ont in Act XX of 1864 no doubt require amendment."

283. In the following paragraphs (284 to 297) are noted suggestions of a general kind for the amendment of the law and suggestions which are not referred by their authors to any particular section of any Act, on points not directly connected with the Government of India's proposals. General suggestions for the amendment of the Minors Acts.

284. THE HON'BLE MR. O'SULLIVAN—suggests that "upon the minor attaining majority, the administrator should be entitled to be discharged from his liabilities, acts of fraud, subsequently discovered, being excepted."

285. SIR CHARLES TURNER—

suggests that, in the new Act, the Courts should be given a discretion to appoint more guardians of a minor's property than one, where the circumstances of the case so require.

286. THE GOVERNMENT OF BOMBAY—submit correspondence dating from 1865 relative to a proposal to amend the Act by constituting the Taluqdari Settlement officer in Gujarat a Court of Wards. It is requested that the Government of India should consider this question in connection with the contemplated legislation.

287. THE BOARD OF REVENUE, LOWER PROVINCES,— bring to notice the following point which they say has practically hampered the free exercise of a discretion which the law intended to leave to the Court of Wards as to taking properties under charge of the Court, and which they suggest should be cleared up when the new Act is framed:—

"Whether, under the provisions of Act XL of 1858, a Judge has the power to appoint a manager of the property of a minor and a guardian of his person, if the estate of the minor consists in whole or in part of land or any interest in land (as mentioned in the repealed section 12* of the Act), or whether (if the property is not such as to fall within the purview of section 10 of the Act) the Judge has no other alternative than to apply to the Court of Wards to take charge of the person and property of the minor under section 10 of the Bengal Wards Act, 1879; and whether in the event of the Court of Wards refusing to take such charge, the Judge is powerless to make other arrangements for the management of such property."

It is stated that the Legal Remembrancer expressed the following opinion on the point:—

"The last sentence of section 2, Act XL of 1858, placing the property of minors under the protection

* Repealed in the Lower Provinces by Bengal Act IX of 1879.

(General suggestions for the amendment of the Minors' Acts.) of the Civil Courts imposes on those Courts the necessity of making provision for the management of that property when properly applied to."

288. MR. JUSTICE FIELD—

brings to notice a case illustrating the difficulty mentioned by the Board of Revenue.

[In regard to a similar difficulty felt under the Madras law, see paragraphs 242 and 249 to 253 of précis.]

289. MR. BIHARI LALL BASU—suggests that a clear distinction should be made between estates which may be taken up by the Court of Wards and estates for which a guardian may be appointed under the Minors' Act.

290. MR. B. W. COLVIN—

suggests that some provision should be made, as in section 10 of Bengal Act IX of 1879 (Court of Wards), for giving the Court of Wards discretionary powers as to assuming charge of an estate made over to it by the Civil Court.

291. MR. DUTHOIT—

quotes statistics and states certain facts from which he draws the inferences "that hitherto in the North-Western Provinces, Act XL of 1858 has been, comparatively speaking, inoperative, and that neither the personal benevolence of the friends of minors, nor the public benevolence of the district officer, can be trusted to secure for the persons concerned the benefits of the existing law."

He thinks it is desirable that, in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh (of which Provinces alone he writes), greater protection should be to minors than is given by the present law, though he would not go so far in this direction as some of the proposals made by the Judges of the Bombay High Court would tend. The proposals made by Mr. Justice West in his Minute dated 21st August 1881 (Home Department's Judicial Proceedings No. 169 for October 1882) are, he gathers, intended to prevent the hardship arising from litigation, but he shews that the amount of litigation (in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh) is not large. Referring to the remarks of the Government of India in paragraph 7 of its Resolution, he says this litigation is mainly due to a total disregard shewn by guardians of the rights of minors who are members of an undivided family, and adds that it is of a very debasing kind. He writes:—

"During the minority of a member of a joint Hindu family the adult coparceners alienate the family property; and when the minor member attains his majority the family combines to oust the alienee on the ground that the alienation was invalid, as made to the prejudice of the minor without legal necessity. What constitutes 'necessity' sufficient to justify the alienation of Hindu family property is a difficult question to decide, and in most cases of this kind the value of the property, or more, is absorbed in the litigation regarding it.

* * The law as it stands does not touch them; for (Mayne's Hindu Law and Usage, section 307) the Mitákshara theory of a coparcenary is that all the coparceners are joint owners of the property, but only as members of a corporation in which there are shareholders but no shares; and there is consequently no specific property vested in the minor to which the provisions of Act XL of 1858 can be applied."

He then proceeds to show certain objections, having regard to the Hindu law, to the adoption of Mr. Justice West's proposals (i) that, where there is imminent danger of the common property being dissipated, the District Court should be given power on its own motion, or on cause shown, to "take measures for securing the infant's share of it;" and (ii) that the Court should be allowed, "even when no such apprehension exists, to provide, when the necessity is obvious, for the minor's nurture and education according to his station in life."

He approves, however, of the principle of Mr. Justice Melvill's proposals (Minute, dated 23rd August, 1881, Home Department's Judicial Proceedings, No. 168 for October, 1882):—

(1) that in the case at least of every considerable estate, and especially when it consists of immovable property, every administrator should be obliged to show his fitness before he meddles with the property; and

(2) that this object should be effected—

(a) by compelling everyone who requires the assistance of the Court to obtain a certificate, and

(b) by rendering it unsafe for any person to enter into any transaction affecting immoveable property except with a certificated administrator;

except that in clause (1) he would read "in the case of every estate not below Rs. 250 in value, every administrator," &c., and in clause (b) he would omit "immoveable."

He does not approve of Mr. Justice West's proposal to oust the Revenue-authorities from jurisdiction under the Minors' Act or of the proposal to bar the interference of the High Court except on a point of law or on a reference made by the District Court, or of the proposal to require proceedings to be initiated in the District Court, and by it delegated to some other Court. Regarding Sir Michael Westropp's suggestion (Minute, dated 19th November, 1881, Home Department's Judicial Proceedings No. 170 for October 1882), to meet the case of the Hindu joint family, he considers it does not require legislation.

He further criticises certain other proposals made in Mr. Justice West's Minute, on points which are not taken up in the Government of India's Resolution.

Mr. Duthoit's own views as to what is required for the protection of minors he describes as follows:

"First—We want to make the assistance of the State readily accessible to the public; and not force people, as is done at present, to the expense or trouble of going to the head-quarters of a district for the settlement of a minor's protection, excepting under special circumstances.

"Secondly—We want to lead people to apply for certificates, and not to feel the doing so, or the acceptance of the care of a minor's property a burden.

"Thirdly—We want, on the one hand, to calm the sensitiveness of the Revenue-authorities as to the danger of being overwhelmed with minor's affairs * * and we want, on the other hand, to engage their sympathies in those affairs, and to obtain from the Revenue-authorities in regard to them such limited assistance as it may be possible for those authorities to give."

For the carrying out of these views he submits the following proposals:—

"I would work up into the new law the provisions of the existing law for curators in cases of

Précis of the opinions referred to in paragraph 1 of the Statement of Objects and Reasons of the Guardians and Wards Bill.

(General suggestions for the amendment of the Minors' Acts.) succession (Act XIX of 1841), for the care of the persons and property of minors (Act XL of 1858), for the custody of minors (Act IX of 1864), for the Court of Wards (Chapter VI, Act XIX of 1873, and Chapter VIII, Act XVII of 1876), so far at any rate as minors are concerned, and those of the 'European British Minors Act, 1874, the arrangement of which last-named Act I would take as the basis of the arrangement of the new statute."

"In cases in which European British subjects are concerned, or in which an estate of R10,000 or upwards is involved, the application for protection of the minor's interests should, I think, be made to the District Court. In all other cases the Munsifs' Courts should, I think, have jurisdiction.

* * * * *

"I would extend the provisions of section 4, Act XL of 1858, and would allow the Collector to move the Civil Court in all cases, whether the property does, or does not, consist, wholly or in part, of land or an interest in land.

"I would give to the Civil Courts power to consult the Revenue-authorities as to the fitness of persons proposed as guardians or managers, and as to whether it would, or would not, be advisable that the manager should be a public officer; and I would give to the Local Government power to oust the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts by a declaration in the Gazette that it is advisable that the property and person of a particular minor should be cared for by a public officer to be named by it. * * * With the exception noted, I would have all business connected with the protection of minors brought in the first instance into the Civil Courts, and would leave to those Courts discretion as to the mode in which such protection should be afforded, whether through a private person or through a public officer.

"I would remunerate, by a percentage on the value of the estates protected, all persons, whether private or public—in the latter case Government would take the remuneration and pay the salaries—who might be appointed curators.

"I would have one or more public curators in each district. I would leave the appointment and the superintendence of these officers to the Revenue-authorities. I would make Collectors and Deputy Commissioners Courts of Wards. The present system, under which the Board of Revenue is in the North-Western Provinces the Court of Wards, is, I think, cumbrous and unduly burdensome to the estates placed under it.

"I would leave it to the Court which is possessed of the application to say whether the care of the person and the property of the minor should be vested in a private person, in a public curator or in the Court of Wards. But I would make the orders of the Munsif appealable in this behalf to the District Judge, and I would further give to the Collector power to appeal to the District Judge against a Munsif's order making over an estate to the Court of Wards, and to Government a right of appeal to the High Court from an order of the District Judge to that effect.

"I would levy on each final order passed upon an application for protection an ad valorem stamp-duty at somewhat less than the present rate, whether the order be for administration by a private person, by a public curator or by the Court of Wards; but I would remit the duty altogether when the value of the property in respect of which the order is made does not exceed R1,000.

"I would direct that, except in special circumstances, the reason for finding which should be recorded by the Court, all costs of a successful application should be payable out of the estate."

He continues:—

"I do not think that the labours of district officers would be increased if the scheme I have proposed were adopted. With public curators, and remunerated private persons available for the charge of estates of minors, the duties of the district officer as a Court of Wards would, I think, be so diminished as to more than counterbalance the extra supervisional labour which my scheme would throw upon him.

"The system which I have proposed may possibly be unsuited to the circumstances of other parts of India. If, as is most probable, the varying circumstances of the country require a varying agency for the protection of minors, it will be easy to leave the assignment of such agency to the Local Governments subject to the sanction of the Governor General in Council. But I venture to suggest that the principles of directing the costs of a successful application to be paid out of the estate, and of remunerating all guardians of the property of minors, should find a place in the Act, and that in the assignment of the agency of working the Act, the necessity of bringing its benefits as near to the door of the people as possible should not be lost sight of."

Mr. Duthoit further submits the following suggestions:—

"A.—I would require, to each application made by a private person for the issue of a certificate of guardianship, a declaration of the age of the minor verified as provided by sections 51 and 52 of the Code of Civil Procedure; and I would require a public officer when making an application under the statute to certify that he has made inquiry as to the age of the minor, and that such age has been found to be as stated in the application. The age of a minor is easily ascertained when he is infans, infanti proximus, or even pubertati proximus; but as 'full age' is approached the difficulty becomes greater, and I have known an instance of great trouble and expense caused by the omission to ascertain the age of the child when the application for an Act XL of 1858 certificate was made, and the consequent doubt as to the time at which the child's minority ceased.

"B.—I would provide that, in default of guardians appointed by testament, the guardians-at-law should, in the absence of special reasons to the contrary, be appointed guardians of the person, and that an order of a subordinate Civil Court setting aside testamentary guardians, whether of the person or property, or guardians-at-law of the person, should require the confirmation of the District Court before it takes effect; and that from an order of a District Court setting aside testamentary or 'natural' guardians of the person an appeal should lie to the High Court.

"C.—I would sugegst that advantage be taken of this opportunity to consolidate into one enactment the entire law of Tutela and Curatela; in other words, that the necessary provisions of Act XXXV of 1858 and of the various Courts of Wards and care-and-custody-of-minors enactments should be gathered up into the new statute.

"D.—And if this be done, I would suggest that the case of spendthrifts should be treated along with that of lunatics, and that, as regards both these classes of persons, use should be made of a family council constituted somewhat in the manner provided by sections 407 to 410 of the French Code Civil. It is notorious that the state of the law as regards what are called in this part of India 'dadá potá cases'—suits by sons or grandsons of the tenor of Dindyal Lal v. Jagdip Narayan Singh, L. R. 4 I. A., 247—is unsatisfactory; and the aid of the legislature is, I think, greatly needed regarding it. By means of provisions analogous to those of the French Code (sections 513 to 515—the Collector or Deputy Commissioner should take the place of the tribunal de première instance in section 492 et seq., and the Commissioner that of the Cour d'appel in sections 500 et seq.), protection might, I think, be afforded to minor members of an undivided Hindu family without shocking the prejudices of the people. The Courts of Wards in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh already (cf. section 194, Act XIX of 1873, and section 162, Act XVII of 1876) undertake the protection of estates from the management of which the proprietors apply to be disqualified; and managing members of undivided families (as a father with male issue) are practically treated as proprietors. With the safeguard of a family council, I do not think that there would be political danger in allowing the Government to disqualify a spendthrift, for whose property a curator might thereupon be applied for, and given, under the statute."

292. THE LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR AND CHIEF COMMISSIONER, NORTH-WESTERN PROVINCES AND OUDH,— forwards copy of a volume of the Proceedings of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh Government (in file), containing some correspondence which, it is suggested, may be of interest in connection with the proposed amendment of the law.

293. MR. BEHARI LAL BASU—

suggests that "District Court" should be used instead of "Civil Court" throughout the new Act, and the definition in section 29 of Act XL of 1858 removed.

294. MR. H. J. SPARKS—suggest that some principles might be laid down for the guidance of the Court in appointing a guardian of the person or property, as has been done in section 10 of Act XIII of 1874.

295. UMAR BAKHSH—

suggests that regular suits for the guardianship or custody of minors should be distinctly prohibited, on the ground that if they are allowed the object of the special Minors' Act will be defeated.

296. KHAN AHMAD SHAH, EXTRA ASSISTANT COMMISSIONER, HOSHIARPUR,— submits remarks and recommendations to the following effect for consideration in connection with the amendment of the law:—

It would be next to impossible to insist on every guardian being certificated, both because of the large numbers of minors owning property, and because of the small value of that property in many cases. At the same time, the interests of minors do at present suffer from the dishonesty of guardians by relationship who are uncertificated, and therefore free from control; and as regards other guardians no proper enquiry is made to ascertain whether they are entitled (? fit) to receive certificates.

Recommendations—

(1) Guardians should be compelled to take out certificates in every case where the minor's property exceeds Rs. 3,000 in value or yields an income of more than Rs 30 per month:

(2) certificated guardians should be required to submit half-yearly accounts to the Court, and the sanction of the Court should be required to certain of their acts, such sanction to have a binding effect:

(3) persons wishing to call in question the acts of certificated guardians should be allowed to examine their accounts as filed in Court, and to submit their complaints to the Court, but should be debarred from bringing suits, as next friends of the minor, against the guardian:

(4) in considering applications for certificates the Court should have regard to the following points:—

1st, nearness of relationship (of the applicant to the minor):

2ndly, the wishes of the deceased parent the minor:

3rdly, any present or previous connection of the applicant with the property of the minor:

4thly, whether the death of the minor would be beneficial to the guardian (? applicant):

(5) where a minor's property does not exceed Rs. 3,000 in value or does not yield an income of more than Rs. 30 per month, it should be optional with guardians to take out a certificate or not, and certain restrictions should be placed on the power of all guardians in such cases:

(6) all guardians should be made responsible for the health, maintenance, education and religious instruction of minors under their charge:

(7) the Court should be empowered to remove any guardian on any of the following grounds:—

"(1) using trust mala fide;

(2) continued failure to perform his duties;

(3) gross misconduct;

(4) insolvency:"

(8) the Court empowered to appoint or remove a guardian should be the District Court.

297. SARDAR GUBDIAL SINGH—writes at some length to show that the near relatives of minors in his district usually squander and misappropriate to their own use the income of minors under their care, and that for various reasons the minor refrains from calling the guardian to account on attaining his majority. He also hints that even the persons of minors are not always secure from danger. To check these evils he thinks the Civil Courts should have more extended authority than they at present possess for interfering for the protection of minors, and to that end suggests that [? inter alia] the Courts should have a discretionary power to interfere whenever they think proper, instead of being empowered, as at present, to act only when specially moved. He suggests that the law should provide "that the Civil Court may appoint guardians to manage the property of a minor and to take charge of his person whenever—

"(a) on its own motion,

Précis of the opinions referred to in paragraph 1 of the Statement of Objects and Reasons of the Guardians and Wards Bill.

(Madras Regulations V of 1804 and X of 1831.)

"(b) on receiving any report or information from any person acquainted with the state of the minor's property or person, or

"(c) on the application of any relative or friend of the minor for appointment of a guardian,

"it appears to the Court, after hearing the persons having charge of the minor's person or [? and] property, and after making any further enquiries that may be necessary, to be advisable to do so."

He would require the Court to issue a notice to appear to the persons having charge of the property and person of the minor, and would also, as a further safeguard, make the Court's order appealable.

He further thinks Act XL of 1858 is wanting in clearness in regard to the appointment of guardians of the property on the one hand, and guardians of the person on the other, and suggest that the new Act should contain provisions like the following :—

As regards the appointment of guardians for the management of property :—

"The Court shall have power to appoint any person manager of the property of the minor who in its opinion appears to be fit: Provided that if any person has been nominated a guardian in the will of the last owner of the property, and such will has duly been proved, he shall be appointed a guardian if he accepts the trust, and if the Court does not for any special reason think him to be unfit: Provided also, that preference is to be shown to the friends and near relations of the minor, if otherwise fit for the trust.

"In the case of land assessed with land-revenue or the land-revenue of which has been assigned to some one by the Government, the management may be made over to the Collector, who shall be competent to manage it in the manner prescribed by law for the management of property subject to the jurisdiction of Court of Wards; and in the case of moveable or immoveable property other than land assessed with land-revenue, the Public Curator, if there be such an officer in the district, may be appointed guardian."

As regards the appointment of guardians of the person, he would make it a rule that the guardian should be a person of the same class and religion as the minor, and would prohibit the appointment of any person having any interest of his own adverse to that of the minor, or who would be next in succession to the minor, were he dead; and, lastly, would provide that none but a female should be the guardian of a female. With these restrictions, he would give the Courts full discretion.

He would also add a section providing that no person is to be appointed guardian against his will, and that no one is liable to punishment for refusal to act as guardian when required by the Court to do so.

He thinks Act XL of 1858 does not provide sufficiently for the control of guardians. Some guardians certainly might safely be trusted to manage estates without any great control from the Courts; but others would require very close supervision. He accordingly suggests that the Courts should be allowed full discretion in this matter; but would, at the same time, enact provisions to the following effect :—

(1) All guardians of property appointed by the Court should be bound to report before the expiry of three months after the close of each year the net financial results of their management, so as to enable the Court in any case in which it suspects anything wrong to set on foot timely enquiries.

This would, he says, afford a great check on fraud, for, the statement being filed in Court, the guardian would not be able to alter it afterwards, or set up anything contrary to it when he is subsequently called upon to render accounts. The guardian need not file complete accounts; a statement of the sort indicated would be quite sufficient to show the Court the result of the administration.

(2) The Court should have power to call upon any guardian—

"(a) to file such periodical statements, returns and accounts as it may direct;

"(b) to make such reports on any points connected with the management of the estate as it may require;

"(c) to carry out such directions as to the management as it may give;

"(d) to invest or deposit the surplus or the balance in hand in such place of security (Government Securities, Government Treasury, Government Savings Banks) as it may direct."

He also suggests that provisions to the following effect should be made regarding the duties of guardians of property :—

"That every guardian should—

"(a) obey all directions given by the Court under the provisions of the Act;

"(b) consult the Court (i) before making any alienation of the minor's property; (ii) before compounding in any suit in which the minor may be a party; (iii) before abandoning any right belonging to the minor; and (iv) on any other important occasion, or on an any difficulty arising in the management; and

"(c) report to the Court any severe loss that any portion of the minor's property may have suffered from any cause."

With respect to the duties of guardians for the person, he suggests that the following should be imposed upon them :—

They must—

"(a) consult the Court (1) on the arrangements made or to be made for the education of the minor, and (2) regarding matters affecting the marriage of the minor;

"(b) report all cases of protracted illness of and accidents to, the minor, and

"(c) obey all directions given by the Court regarding the above matters."

He also suggests that guardians of the person should, subject to the general control of the Court, have power to do all acts calculated to advance the well-being of the minor; for instance, acts connected with his education and his proper moral and physical training.

302. MR. JUSTICE FIELD—

quotes cases to shew that the practice of the Courts has not been uniform as regards the application of the proviso to section 3 of Act XL of 1858. In some cases it has been held that when the Court entertains a suit instituted by a person who has not obtained the permission required by the proviso, the requisite permission is to be deemed to have been given; while in others it has been held that a suit instituted without permission previously obtained is bad to all intents and purposes. Cases are quoted to show that the latter rule is the more correct one, from the point of view of principle.

303. LALLA MADAN GOPAL—

suggests that certain particulars should be prescribed for insertion in all applications; that the Courts should be allowed to act also on their own motion; and that explanations to the following effect should be appended to the section :—

"I. Lapse of years is not a sufficient ground for refusing a certificate [see C. W. R., 343]

"II. The guardianship of infants who have no property is a matter which forms the subject of Act IX of 1861."

303A. MR. BEHARI LAL BASU—observes that the word "suit" is not wide enough to include "proceedings and applications."

304. MR. PLUMBER—

would transfer the powers of the Collector to the amíldár (or tahsíldár) of the taluq in which the land is situated, as in Rule 4 of the Mysore Minors' Rules.

305. MR. JUSTICE FIELD—

writes as follows :—

"There seems no reason why the right to make an application under this section should be limited to a relative or friend. Under the English law, any person may apply in order, says Mr. Daniell, 'that the benefit arising from the protection of the Court may be extended to all cases in which interference is desirable, subject, however, to the risk of incurring the censure of the Court, and of being compelled to pay the costs of the suit, in the event of its subsequently appearing that the proceedings were improperly instituted.' (Chancery Practice, Vol. II, p. 1191)."

306. LALLA MADAN GOPAL—

suggests that the section should be amended as follows :—

Any relative or friend of a minor in respect of whose property such certificate has not been granted, or a certificate holder who wishes to withdraw and desire the appointment of a new guardian, &c., &c.

307. MR. BEHARI LAL BASU—

considers the phrase "interest in land" objectionable, apparently for the reason that it does not adequately cover the case of members of an undivided Hindu family.

[Please also see suggestion by Mr. Duthoit in paragraph 291, supra.]

Act XL of 1858, s. 5 (= Act XX of 1864, s. 4.)

308. THE HON'BLE MR. PAUL—

considers section 5 of Act XL of 1858, defective in not providing for cases where the minor happens to reside in a district in which he has no property.

309. MR. H. J. SPARKS—

suggests that the section should be made more explicit, observing that it does not provide for cases in which the minor is residing out of British India.

He also suggests that it might be well to provide for District Delegates, as in Act VI of 1881, to meet cases where, as in Oudh, there is but one District Judge for two or more revenue districts.

310. LALLA MADAN GOPAL—

suggests that "residence" should be explained as meaning the minor's "usual dwelling-house, i.e., his paternal family-house."

311. LALLA MADAN GOPAL—

suggests that provision should be made as to the manner of issue of notices and the persons on whom they are to be served, and as to who may oppose the application. He quotes authorities to shew that the notice should be served on all parties interested in the application.

312. SARDAR GURDIAL SINGH—considers it unnecessary that the procedure of the Court should be specially prescribed by the Minors' Act, and that it would be sufficient to enact that the general procedure laid down in the Code of Civil Procedure in force at the time shall apply as far as practicable.

313. MR. BEHARI LALL BASU—thinks it undesirable, in view to the selection of a good guardian, that the enquiry should be a summary one, as this section requires.

Act XL of 1858, s. 7 (= Act XX of 1864 . 6.)

314. MR. JUSTICE FIELD—

writes as follows :—

"Under the provisions of section 7 of the Act, if it appears that any person claiming a right to have charge of the property of a minor is entitled to such right by virtue of a will or deed, and is willing to undertake the trust, the Court shall grant a certificate of administration to such person. It has been held that in this case it is compulsory upon the Court to grant this certificate (see Nannee Bibee v. Khojah Surwur Hossein, 7 W. R., 522). It has further been decided that when any such person obtains a certificate of administration, he is not bound to file accounts (see the cases at 6 W.R. Mis. Rul., 53; 7 W.R., 522; 23 W.R, 278) There is no reason why such persons should be exempt from liability to account. According to English law, a testamentary guardian is in all respects subject to the control of the Court, and is liable to account for what he receives (Daniell's Chancery Practice, Vol. II, p. 1205)."

315. THE JUDGES OF THE CALCUTTA HIGH COURT—

(collectively) support Mr. Field's suggestion as to filing accounts.

Précis of the opinions referred to in paragraph 1 of the Statement of Objects and Reasons of the Guardians and Wards Bill.

(Act XL of 1858, ss. 8—10.)

316. MR. FIELD—

continues :—

"The section then proceeds to enact that if there is no person so entitled, or if such person is unwilling to undertake the trust, and there is any near relative of the minor who is willing and fit to be entrusted with the charge of his property, the Court may grant a certificate to such relative. Here a discretion is vested in the Court. Then the Court may also, if it think fit (unless a guardian have been appointed by the father), appoint such person as aforesaid to be guardian of the person of the minor. The exception assumes a power in the father to appoint a guardian by will. The existence of this power as regards persons to whom the Act applies, that is minors not being European British subjects, may be doubtful. It may be observed, as in England, that the power of appointing a testamentary guardian was conferred by Statute (12 Car. II, cap. 24), and as by the law of England no will made by any person under the age of 21 years is valid, it follows that a father, while under that age, cannot now by will dispose of the custody of his children. Then in the case of a guardian appointed by the father, it would appear that the Court has no power to remove such guardian. The last clause of section 21 provides that 'the Court may also, for any sufficient cause, remove any guardian appointed by the Court,' thus indicating that the Court has no power to remove a guardian appointed by the father. Under the law of England, a testamentary guardian is subject to the control of the Court, both with respect to the property and the person of the infant, and the Court may remove him and appoint another guardian in his stead, or may without removing him appoint another person to have the care of the infant (Chancery Practice, Vol. II, p. 1194). It is obvious that there may be cases in which it is very desirable that the Civil Court should have the power of removing a testamentary guardian."

317. THE JUDGES OF THE CALCUTTA HIGH COURT—

(collectively) support Mr. Field's suggestion as to taking power to remove a guardian appointed by the father.

318. MR. JUSTICE TOTTENHAM—

writes as follows :—

"I would make it clear that, in cases of rival claims to a certificate, preference should not necessarily be given to any one claimant on the mere ground of nearness of kin to the minor, or on the ground of sex. The nearest of kin may often be the person to whom, for other reasons, it may be most objectionable to grant a certificate.

"I would also preclude the Court from entertaining any application for a certificate unless satisfied that property needing protection is actually in possession of the minor or of some person on his or her behalf. I remember a case in which the only property was in the possession of adversaries, and the object of the application was to try to induce the Court to direct the Collector to take charge of the estate, which was said to be interest in land, in order that that officer might undertake a troublesome and costly lawsuit to recover possession for the minor."

says that by Hindu law the duty of providing for the care of the persons and property of minors devolves on the Sovereign, while by Muhammadan law certain classes of relations have a prior right. This being the case, he thinks the inclusion of the rights of guardianship and minority in section 5 of Act IV of 1872 (the Punjab Laws Act) was a mistake; also, that it is surprising, in view of that enactment, to find Schedule I of that Act declaring Act XL of 1858 to be in force in the Punjab.

He submits a list showing classes of persons whom he thinks the Courts should be prevented apparently, by express declaration) from appointing as guardians.

Further on, he suggests that section 27 of the Act should be embodied as an explanation in section 7; also, that the Courts should be allowed discretion to refuse to grant a certificate to an unfit person appointed by will, and an explanation inserted declaring that fitness should be allowed more weight than mere nearness of relationship.

320. UMAR BAKHSH—

suggests that the Court should be empowered to reject an unfit person appointed by will or deed.

Further :—

"The words 'near relative' in the same section are rather vague, and further it is not clear whether the scope of the section is to select the fittest person from among the relatives of different or equal degrees, or to appoint the nearest person fit for the post. I think it should be expressly provided that brother of the whole blood and uncle should have prior right to the guardianship of a minor, unless they are unfit; but in the case of distant relatives the Court should have full discretion of selecting the fittest person, disregarding the nearness of relationship."

He also suggests that where a minor has considerable property the Court should have power to appoint more than one person to administer the estate, if that should be deemed necessary in the interests of the minor.

321. LALLA MADAN GOPAL—

suggests an addition to section 8 of Act XL of 1858 to the following effect :— Act XL of 1858, s. 8 (= Act XX of 1864, s. 7.)

"The Court will not adjudicate merely on the Collector's report [see 22 W. R., 490], but must satisfy itself as to the applicant's fitness on legal evidence" [see 9 W. R., 555].

322. SARDAR GURDIAL SINGH—

"would give the Court power to enquire into the character of any person, and to call for reports from any Revenue-officer, Magistrate or Police-officer in the district."

[Please also see suggestions by Mr. Duthoit in paragraph 291 of précis.]

323. SIR CHARLES TURNER—

referring to section 9 of Act XX of 1864 recurs to a suggestion recently made by the Madras High Court that there should be appointed in every district a public officer to take charge of private trusts under the superintendence of the Official Trustee. If this proposal be accepted, the Courts might, he suggests, be enabled to appoint such officers, and in any case the Official Trustee, to be manager of the property of a minor. Act XL of 1858, s. 10 (= Act XX of 1864, s. 9.)

He considers that considerable relief would be afforded to Revenue-officers by the creation of the proposed offices, and that a commission, not exceeding 5 per cent., would probably provide sufficient salaries and meet the costs of establishment.

Précis of the opinions referred to in paragraph 1 of the Statement of Objects and Reasons of the Guardians and Wards Bill.

324. LALLA MADAN GOPAL—

suggests, with reference to Mr. Justice Melvill's criticism on section 9 of Act XX of 1864 in his Minute of 23rd August, 1881, that the words "or the like" mean "immoveable property (other than village-land assessed with revenue, for which provision is made by placing it in charge of the Collector), such as shops, katrás, warehouses, &c."

325. SARDAR GURDIAL SINGH—thinks the words "moveable property or houses, gardens or the like" were intended to mean (1) moveable property, and (2) immoveable property other than land, of which the Collector could be asked to take over the management.

326. THE HON'BLE MR. PAUL—referring to Mr. Justice Melvill's criticisms on sections 9 and 11 of Act XX of 1864 in his Minute of the 23rd August, 1881, observes that "the distinction between 'houses, gardens and the like' and 'land or any interest in land' is probably that between revenue-paying immoveable property and that which does not pay revenue, including in the category of revenue-paying property such as may be lákhiráj by reason of exemption."

327. SARDAR GURDIAL SINGH—

Act XL of 1858, s. 11 (= Act XX of 1864, s. 10.)

suggests that a limit should be put to the guardian's allowance; that, to encourage economy in administration, it should be calculated on net profits, and not on income; and that it should be fixed at 20 per cent. His reason for selecting so high a rate is that the remuneration would be small on small estates.

328. LALLA MADAN GOPAL—

observes, with reference to Mr. Justice Melvill's remarks on the word "aforesaid" in section 10 of Act XX of 1864 (see Home Department Judicial Proceedings, No. 168 for October, 1882), that in the Bengal Act, section 11, it clearly refers to section 10 of that Act and is not open to any misconstruction.

329. LALLA MOHAN LALL AND MIÁN ASDULLA,— referring to Mr. Justice Melvill's criticism, say they think the provision in section 10 of Act XX of 1864 excluding legal heirs and persons next in succession from the guardianship of the person of a minor, which does not occur in the Bengal Act, ought to be embodied in the new Act.

330. SARDAR GURDIAL SINGH—is of the same opinion.

331. MR. H. J. SPARKS—

Act XL of 1858, s. 12 (= Act XX of 1864, s. 11.)

suggests that provision should be made—

(1) for cases in which only a small part of the property consists of land, and

(2) for cases in which the land is situated in more than one district.

332. BABU KOYLAS CHUNDER GHOSE—

suggests that provision should be made enabling the Collector to give up charge of an estate taken over by him under this section, when it would be for the benefit of the minor to do so.

333. MR. PLUMER—

suggests that a half-yearly statement of account should be prescribed, as in Rule 15 of the Minors' Rules framed for Mysore, instead of the annual statement provided for by Act XX of 1864. Act XL of 1858, s. 16 (= Act XX of 1864, s. 16.)

334. THE HON'BLE MR. O'SULLIVAN—

makes the following suggestions :—

"The administrator of the property should be required to file annual accounts of receipts and disbursements, and they should be open to inspection by any relative or friend of the minor, who should be at liberty to bring to the notice of the Court, by way of petition, any neglect, default or misfeasance of the administrator."

335. LALLA MADAN GOPAL—

suggests that the obligation to render accounts should be extended to all guardians and administrators.

336. LALLA MOHUN LALL AND MIÁN ASDULLA—urge that the provisions of sections 16 and 17 should be extended to all guardians and administrators, arguing that it may be very necessary to provide against fraud or waste by those to whom the sections do not at present apply.

337. MR. BEHARI LAL BASU—

suggests that section 16 should be extended to all guardians; also that any friend or well-wisher of the minor should be allowed access to their accounts.

338. MR. PLUMER—

suggests that for section 17 of Act XX of 1864 should be substituted Rule 16 of the Minors' Rules framed for Mysore, which requires that surplus funds shall be deposited in the District Treasury and invested by the Court in public securities. Act XL of 1858, s. 17 (= Act XX of 1864, s. 17.)

339. LALLA MADAN GOPAL—

writes :—

"'Public securities' denotes Government promissory notes. I would suggest that this limitation be removed, and that it may be left to the discretion of the Court to lay out the surplus in any profitable manner that is suggested to it by the administrator, e.g., in mortgaging landed property or purchasing debentures or bank shares."

340. BABU KOYLAS CHUNDER GHOSE—

considers it desirable to impose a penalty for the enforcement of the provisions of this section which are, he says, seldom observed.

[Please also see suggestions by—

341. MR. JUSTICE FIELD—

says it has been decided that when an application for leave to deal with the property of an infant is made under the second clause of section 18 of Act Act XL of 1858, s. 18 (= Act XX of 1864, s. 18.)

Précis of the opinions referred to in paragraph 1 of the Statement of Objects and Reasons of the Guardians and Wards Bill.

(Act XL of 1858, ss. 19-26. Act IX of 1875.)

XL of 1858, the Civil Court is bound to determine the question whether the proposed mode of dealing with it would, if sanctioned, be for the benefit of such infant, and that the petition should contain all the materials reasonably required to enable the Court to decide this question. He gives a reference to In re Srish Chunder Mukhapadhya, I.L.R. 6 Cal., 161; S.C. 5 Cal. L.R., 501; and Sikher Chund v. Dillputty Singh, I.L.R. 5 Cal., 363, and suggests that the substance of those decisions might well be incorporated in the proposed new Act.

He further remarks upon this clause as follows, as to the effect of neglecting to obtain the sanction of the Court:—

"Where a guardian has obtained a certificate of administration under the Act, it has generally been held that any sale of the minor's property for which the Act requires the sanction of the Civil Court, if made without such sanction, is invalid and conveys no title (see the cases of Surut Chunder v. Raj Kishen Mukherji, 15 B.L.R., 350, S.C., 24 W.R., 46; Paran Chunder Pal v. Kuroona Moyi Dasi, 7 B.L.R., 90; Dabi Dutt Sahoo v. Subhodra Bibee, I.L.R. 2 Cal., 283; Buchraj Ram v. Ram Kissen Singh, 11 C.L.R., 345). In Manjiram v. Tara Singh (I.L.R. 3 All., 852) it was decided that a minor could not ratify such a transaction. See to the contrary Til Koer v. Roy Anund Kishore, 10 C.L.R., 547, where a mortgage by a certificated guardian, although made without the sanction of the Court, was upheld, the transaction being, under the circumstances, considered a proper one."

342. LALLA MADAN GOPAL—

quotes conflicting decisions on the question whether this section applies to non-certificated guardians.

343. BABU KOYLAS CHUNDER GHOSE—

writes:—

"The law, as it stands at present, contains no directions as to how the Court should proceed when an application for sanction is presented. Generally the sanction is given on the representations of the administrator, but this is not always safe. The administrator, where he makes an application of the kind, should be required to prove the necessity for the sale, &c., by affidavit or otherwise, and the assertions contained in his affidavit should be tested by some officer of the Court before the Court accords its sanction to the sale, &c."

Act XL of 1858 s. 19 (= Act XX of 1864, s. 14)

344. LALLA MADAN GOPAL—

approves of Mr. Justice Melvill's suggestions on this section (see Home Department's Judicial Proceedings, No. 168 for October, 1882, at foot of page 24).

345. MR. JUSTICE FIELD—

writes:—

"In connection with section 21 of the Act, it will be useful to consider the decision of the Full Bench in the case of Nannee Bibee v. Khojah Surwar Hossein, 7 W.R., 522. It was here decided that a certificate granted under section 7 of the Act may be recalled summarily under the provisions of section 21, and this without any action having been previously taken in a regular suit under the provisions of section 19 of the Act."

[Please also see his remarks and those of the Calcutta High Court in paragraphs 316 and 317 of précis, as to taking power to remove a guardian appointed by the father.)

346. LALLA MADAN GOPAL—

suggests that to meet Mr. Justice Melvill's objection as to the vagueness of the words "or any other person, as the case may be" (see Home Department's Judicial Proceedings, No. 168 for October, 1882, at foot of page 24) in section 21 of Act XX of 1864, the words "or other fit person within the meaning of sections 24 and 10" should be substituted for them (in the Bengal Act).

He further suggests that illustrations should be inserted to the following effect:—

"Illustration I.—The Court cannot summarily remove a guardian who has not obtained a certificate. This should be done by a regular suit (see II W. R., 370).

"Illustration II.—The grounds set forth in the preceding portion as to the disqualifications of a guardian should be held sufficient for removal.

"Illustration III.—Danger to the estate or welfare of the minor should also be held sufficient.

"Illustration IV.—Where the conduct of the guardian, though blameworthy, is not culpably bad, the Court will pass orders to regulate his conduct before removing him."

347.—SARDAR GURDIAL SINGH—

would specify the three following reasons as justifying removal of a guardian [? or recall of a certificate]:—

"(1) If he has wilfully neglected to perform any of the duties imposed upon him by law;

"(2) if he has been guilty of any other misconduct which, in the opinion of the Court, makes him unfit for the work; and

"(3) if he has formed a collusion with persons having interests adverse to those of the minor, or who are enemies of the minor."

He would further allow any of the minor's friends or relations to apply to the Court for the removal of the guardian on any of these grounds; and would provide that if, after examining such applicant, the Court sees reason to do so, it may make an enquiry, and, if the matters set forth in the application are established, may award the applicant his costs out of the minor's estate. He adds: "Of course the Court should have power to punish a wilful neglect, and power to have its orders carried out."

[Please also see suggestion by Khan Ahmad Shah in paragraph 296 of précis.]

348. LALLA MADAN GOPAL—

suggests that an explanation should be added to the following effect:— Act XL of 1858, s. 22 (= Act XX of 1864, s. 22.)

"Explanation.—The successor will be appointed in the same way as the first man was appointed, i. e., after issue of notice and enquiry."

349.—SARDAR GURDIAL SINGH—thinks provision should be made for the education of female as well as male minors. Act XL of 1858, s. 25 (= Act XX of 1864, s. 25.)

[Please also see suggestion by Khan Ahmad Shah in paragraph 296 of précis.]

350. MR. BARCLAY—

suggests that the new Act should define the word "minor." Act XL of 1858, s. 26 (= Act XX of 1864, s. 26) and Act IX of 1875.

351. LALLA MADAN GOPAL—

writes at some length to show the desirability of enacting a more suitable definition of "minor."

Précis of the opinions referred to in paragraph 1 of the Statement of Objects and Reasons of the Guardians and Wards Bill.

(Act XL of 1858, ss. 27 and 28. Act IX of 1861. Act XX of 1864; s. 12.)

He refers to the different laws prevailing on this point in India, and to conflicting decisions as to the meaning of the definition given in section 26 of Act XL of 1858. He suggests that "minor" should be declared to mean any person (excepting, apparently, Europeans whose personal law fixes their majority at 21) who has not completed the age of eighteen years. The objections to the present definition which he specially mentions are—

(1) that it does not conclusively show whether it applies to minors regarding whom no action has been taken under the Act; and

(2) that it provides for the Mufassal a different law than that prevailing in the Presidency-towns.

In order to meet the latter objection, he urges that the new Act ought to be made applicable to the Presidency-towns as well as to the Mufassal.

352. UMAR BAKHSH—

invites attention to the rules in paragraphs 1 and 2 of section 3 of Act IX of 1875, and their effect where certificates of administration are granted under Act XL of 1858, but makes no specific suggestion for the amendment of the law.

353. SARDAR GURDIAL SINGH—considers there can be no objection to the varying rules as to majority prescribed by Act XL of 1858, section 26, and Act IX of 1875.

354. MR. BEHARI LAL BASU,— referring to Act IX of 1875 and other laws, statutory and "personal," suggests that it would save much confusion if one uniform age were fixed by statute for the attainment of majority; the age so fixed being made applicable to all persons and in all places throughout British India.

355. MR. J. KNOX WIGHT—

suggests that the definition of "minor" given in Act IX of 1875 should be incorporated in the proposed consolidated Act.

Act XL of 1858, s. 27 (= Act XX of 1864, s. 31)

356. MR. JUSTICE FIELD—

invites attention to the case of Fasihan v. Kajo, I.L.R. 10 Cal., 15, in which it was held that the effect of section 21 of Regulation X of 1793, and section 27 of Act XL of 1858, is that no person other than a female shall in any case be entrusted with the guardianship of a female minor.

357. SARDAR GURDIAL SINGH—

thinks section 27 of Act XL of 1858 is intended to refer to the guardianship of the property as well as of the person of minors. He suggests that it should be amended so as to provide that no guardian shall be appointed for the person of a female minor if she be married and her husband be not a minor, provided she takes up her abode with the family of her husband; but that a guardian for her property, if any, may be appointed, unless her husband undertakes the management of it.

He also suggests that to the clause prohibiting the appointment of a guardian (either of person or property) for a minor whose father is living and is not a minor, should be added a proviso that the father is not otherwise unfit to manage his affairs, for instance, by reason of lunacy, idiocy, renunciation of worldly affairs, &c.

(Please also see his suggestion in paragraph 297 of précis.)

[Please also see suggestion by Lalla Madan Gopal in paragraph 319 of précis.]

358. MR. JUSTICE FIELD—

suggests that the question as to what orders made under the Act are appealable or not appealable should be clearly settled. He invites attention to the conflict of decision between the cases reported in 15 W. R., 499 and 22 W. R., 479. Act XL of 1858, s. 28 (= Act XX of 1864, s. 33.)

359. LALLA MADAN GOPAL—

suggests that an explanation should be added to the effect that every person who appeared in the original proceeding would have a right of appeal. This has, he says, become necessary in consequence of a ruling, at page 256 of the 13th Volume of Sutherland's Weekly Reporter. He does not think the right of appeal should be taken away, as suggested by Mr. Justice West (see Home Department's Judicial Proceedings, No. 169 for October, 1882); remarking that it is a great privilege and protection, and that there does not appear to be any weighty reason for its abrogation.

360. SARDAR GURDIAL SINGH—would, in order to prevent needless litigation, provide that there shall be no appeal from the orders of the Courts excepting "orders of importance, to be specially mentioned," and that there shall be no second appeal in any case.

363. MR. JUSTICE OLDFIELD—suggests that provisions should be inserted in the new Act, similar to those in sections 78 and 79 of Act V of 1881, for taking bonds for the proper administration of the estate, and for the assignment of such bonds to enable fit persons to sue upon them.

364. THE LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR AND CHIEF COMMISSIONER OF THE NORTH-WESTERN PROVINCES AND OUDH—

See his remarks on Mr. Justice Oldfield's suggestion, in paragraph 162 of précis.

365. MR. JUSTICE STRAIGHT—

concurs in Mr. Justice Oldfield's suggestion except as regards guardians appointed in right of will or deed.

366. MR. DUTHOIT—

considers the absence of a provision regarding the taking of security from administrators is one of the most striking defects in the existing law. He doubts whether security could be insisted on if remuneration be not given to the guardian; but if guardians of the property are remunerated, as he trusts they may be (see paragraph 291 of précis), there would, he believes, be no difficulty in obtaining security from them. Security should, he thinks, be required in all cases in which the value of the estate exceeds Rs. 250.

Code of Civil Procedure, Chapter XXXI.

370. MR. WIGRAM—

writes:—

"The provisions of Chapter XXXI of the Civil Procedure Code appear to me unnecessarily complex, and I do not understand on what principle a mother, if a co-defendant, is prevented from representing her minor son (section 445).

"All that is really required in a Procedure Code is to provide that suits by and against minors shall be brought and defended in the minor's name by a guardian ad litem appointed by the Court and removable by the Court; that no appeal shall lie from the appointment of a guardian ad litem; that the guardian ad litem shall give a written undertaking to be responsible for costs; that he shall not enter into any compromise of a suit without the leave of the Court; and that before taking out execution of any decree he shall give security to the Court that he will account to the minor for the proceeds of the decree."

says that great difficulty is felt in securing the proper representation of minors when creditors take proceedings against their property as representing the effects of deceased debtors. The person who would by law be entitled to the guardianship may refuse to act, and no relative or friend may be found who is willing to do so, while the Court may not think it its duty to aid the creditor by appointing a guardian ad litem, although the probable consequence of its not doing so would be to increase the debt by allowing interest to accumulate. Moreover, when the Court is constrained to appoint a stranger to act as guardian ad litem, no power is given by the Civil Procedure Code to make provision for the costs of securing for the person appointed the means of obtaining professional assistance and defending the suit. In the Madras High Court the following course has been pursued:—

"If no relative or friend is found, who is willing to appear as guardian ad litem, the Court will, on the application of the plaintiff, appoint an officer of the Court guardian ad litem on the condition that the plaintiff undertakes to provide the officer so appointed with funds reasonably sufficient to enable him to defend the suit. If the plaintiff fails to provide funds, the order for the appointment is discharged. If, on the other hand, the funds are found and the plaintiff eventually succeeds, he would be allowed to receive the money as part of his costs in the cause." He adds "But generally, if not in all cases, when the order has been made, a person who would by law be entitled to the guardianship or to whom the Court would have committed the guardianship comes forward and applies that the order appointing an officer of the Court may be discharged and the applicant appointed."

Sir Charles Turner suggests that some provisions of this nature should be introduced into the Civil Procedure Code for the guidance of the Courts.

He further suggests that it would be desirable to declare that on an application for leave to sue on behalf of a minor in formâ pauperis the Court is to have regard to the circumstances of the minor and not of the next friend. The law has been so interpreted by the High Court, but is not, he says, generally understood.

And he expresses a doubt as to whether the "local laws" referred to in section 464 of the Code include the Minors' Act, IX of 1861, which is a "general" Act.

suggests that, in order to check a practice by which, for the purpose of harassing people interested in a minor, a pauper next friend is put forward to institute a suit against those having charge of his property, a discretion should be allowed to the Courts to require security for costs from pauper next friends.

He further says it is doubtful at present whether the next friend is to be regarded as a principal in the litigation, or whether the infant is the principal, and suggests that this point should be made clear, observing that the case of an infant who is principal with a pauper next friend is common, while a pauper infant with a next friend of competent means is not uncommon.

373. THE HON'BLE MR PAUL—suggests that, in order to put a stop to vexatioust frivolous and other improper litigation, the nex, friend should, in certain classes of cases, be required to satisfy the Court that the suit will be really and not merely technically for the benefit of the minor, and that the Court should see that its orders are for the minor's benefit, in the same way as in the English Courts of Equity.

374. In the following paragraphs (375 to 386) are noted remarks regarding the Hindu joint family system, and the application of the Minors' Acts to it.

375. MR. WIGRAM—

is averse to any legislation which would render it compulsory on the Civil Courts to interfere in the case of all minor members of an undivided family; but at the same time he thinks occasions do arise when such interference is necessary, and he quotes a case showing this.

He suggests that "the District Court should have power to direct that a suitable provision be made for the maintenance and education of minor members of an undivided family whenever occasion arises for its interference."

(Please also see his suggestions in paragraphs 107 and 242 of précis.)

Précis of the opinions referred to in paragraph 1 of the Statement of Objects and Reasons of the Guardians and Wards Bill.

(The Hindu Joint Family System.)

376. THE HON'BLE MR. O'SULLIVAN—

writes:—

"The managing male member of an undivided Hindu family subject to the law of the Mitakshara should not be required to take out a certificate in respect of the undivided share of a minor member of the family; but in case of malversation or mismanagement by the managing member a suit on behalf of the minor for a partition and delivery of his share should be permitted, as is the case at present; and, when the partition is effected, a certificate of administration should be granted for the share of the minor."

377. MR. JUSTICE WEST—

says the law with regard to Hindu minors, members of joint families, as hitherto conceived by the Courts in India, has recently been quite differently expounded by a judgment of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council (Doorga Persad v. Kesho Persad Singh, L. R., 9 I. A., at page 30). He shows that that judgment will upset the existing state of things, by introducing a new limitation on the powers of fathers and other guardians who are really in the position of co-owners and are not mere guardians in the restricted sense. He suggests that this matter should be taken up promptly, and that guardians of this kind should be allowed to defend suits against minors without a certificate.

378. SIR CHARLES SARGENT—

thinks that in the case of the Hindu joint family the only satisfactory course would be to distinguish between family and separate property. In regard to the former, he suggests that until a case of fraud or abuse of powers is brought to the notice of the Court by regular suit, the charge of the minor's interest should be left to such persons as would be entrusted with it according to Hindu law and usage. In regard to the latter, please see his remarks in paragraph 223, supra.

379. MR. JUSTICE MELVILL—

concurs with Sir Charles Sargent on this question, and explains that he did not intend by his Minute of August, 1881, to recommend that the manager of a joint Hindu family should be compelled to take out a certificate of administration of the share of a minor co-parcener.

380. THE HON'BLE MR. PAUL—says the adoption of the proposal noted as Point I (see supra) would be very inconvenient in the case of a Hindu joint family, as the introduction of a guardian from outside would cause discord and probably waste on the part of other members of the family.

(Please also see his remarks in paragragh 255, supra.)

381. MR. JUSTICE FIELD—

quotes cases showing the final decision of the Calcutta High Court and the decision of the North-Western Provinces High Court to be that Act XL of 1858 does not alter or affect any provision of Hindu or Muhammadan law as to guardians who do not avail themselves of that Act.

He suggests that the effect on those decisions, and also on the cases quoted by Sir Michael Westropp in his Minute of 19th November, 1881 (Home Department's Judicial Proceedings, No. 170 for October, 1882), of the Privy Council case quoted by Mr. Justice West (see paragraph 377, above) should be considered.

(Please also see his suggestions in paragraph 258, supra.)

382. MR. JUSTICE TOTTENHAM—

thinks it would be inconvenient that, where the minor's estate consists of a share in joint undivided family property managed by a kurta, any other person should be allowed to obtain a certificate.

383. THE JUDGES OF THE CALCUTTA HIGH COURT—

(collectively) suggest "that provision should be made by which, on due cause shown, the new Act might be employed for the protection of a minor member of an undivided Hindu family against the fraud or extravagance of the co-parceners, a course which, as pointed out by Sir Michael Westropp (see his Minute dated November, 1881, Home Department's Judicial Proceedings, No. 170 for October, 1882), it has been held by the Courts, cannot be adopted under the existing law."

[Please also see their remarks in paragraph 80, supra.]

384. SIR R. STUART—

strongly approves of the doctrine expounded in the case of Heit Singh and another v. Thakur Singh and others, High Court Reports, North-Western Provinces, 1872, page 57, that "section 2, Act XL of 1858 does not preclude the natural and legal guardian of a Hindu minor from dealing with his property within the limits allowed by the Hindu law without having acquired a certificate of administration from the Civil Court;" and trusts that the application of this doctrine in the future will not be interfered with by any legislation on the part of the Government of India.

385. LALLA MADAN GOPAL—

thinks it very desirable in the interests of minor members of Hindu joint families that the existing rulings declaring that no application for appointment of an administrator can be made in their case under section 3 of Act XL of 1858 should be disregarded and words introduced to admit of applications being made in such cases. He says that, in spite of these rulings, such applications are sometimes admitted even now. He urges that it would be easy to fix the minor's share, and that there need be no hardship, as the manager under the Hindu law would usually be the person to whom the certificate would be granted.

386. SARDAR GURDIAL SINGH—thinks it would be necessary in some cases that the Court should have power to appoint a guardian where a minor has merely a joint interest with others, and he would definitely give the Courts discretion to move in such cases whenever they think it proper to do so.

General Observations.

387. MR. R. RY. A. L. V. RAMANA PUNTULU GARU, SUBORDINATE JUDGE, MADURA—agrees with the views expressed by Mr. Justice West in his Minute dated 21st August, 1881 (Home Department's Judicial Proceedings, No. 169 for October, 1882), as to the direction which legislation should take.

388. THE GOVERNMENT OF MADRAS—concur in the remarks submitted by Mr. Hutchins.

389. THE PUISNE JUDGES OF THE MADRAS HIGH COURT—concur in the remarks submitted by Sir Charles Turner.

390. THE GOVERNMENT OF BOMBAY—

"do not desire to add any further observations" to those made in the Minutes by the Judges of the Bombay High Court.

391. MR. JUSTICE TOTTENHAM—agrees generally in Mr. Justice Field's recommendations.

392. MR. JUSTICE TYRRELL—

"entirely concurs in these views" (i.e., apparently, those of Mr. Justice Straight).

393. MR. JUSTICE BRODHURST—concurs in the remarks recorded by Mr. Justice Straight.

394. MR. DUTHOIT—

remarks that his opinion is restricted to the circumstances of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh.

395. THE LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR AND CHIEF COMMISSIONER OF THE NORTH-WESTERN PROVINCES AND OUDH—invites attention to Mr. Sparks' suggestions.

He suggests that it is very necessary to take every opportunity of consulting both the European and the Native community on the proposed legislation, through persons qualified to represent their feelings and interests, and that the best way of effecting this is to state points and proposals briefly and clearly for consideration by persons unaccustomed to handle legal questions.

396. LALLA MADAN GOPAL,—

in submitting his memorandum, remarks that although some of the proposals which he has made may, if adopted, cause inconvenience at first, their adoption would be justified by the result.

397. LALLA GIRDHARI LAL—concurs generally in the remarks submitted by Lalla Madan Gopal.

398. COLONEL GURDON—

specially commends to notice the memorandum of Muhammad Latif, Extra Assistant Commissioner of Jhang.

399. MAJOR-GENERAL PLAYFAIR, OFFICIATING COMMISSIONER, JABALPUR DIVISION,— endorses the opinion submitted by Lieutenant-Colonel Grace, Deputy Commissioner of Jabalpur.

400. THE CHIEF COMMISSIONER OF THE CENTRAL PROVINCES—

concurs generally in the views expressed in the Government of India's Resolution.

401. MR. C. A. ELLIOTT, CHIEF COMMISSIONER OF ASSAM,— expresses no opinion, as he is unfamiliar with the working of the minors' law.

402. THE CHIEF COMMISSIONER OF COORG—gives no opinion.

A Bill to Amend and consolidate the Law of Bankruptcy and Insolvency in British India.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend and consolidate the law relating to bankruptcy and insolvency; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Preliminary.

Short title, extent and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be cited as the Indian Bankruptcy Act, 1886.

(2) It shall extend to the whole of British India, and shall apply to all British subjects of Her Majesty within the dominions of Princes and States in India in alliance with Her Majesty, whether in the service of the Government of India or otherwise, and to all Native Indian subjects of Her Majesty in any place beyond the limits of British India.

(3) It shall, except as by this section otherwise provided, come into force on such date as the Governor-General in Council may, by notification in the official Gazette, fix in this behalf, which date is in this Act referred to as the commencement of this Act.

(4) Any power conferred by this Act to make rules may be exercised at any time after the passing of this Act; but a rule so made shall not take effect till the commencement of this Act. [46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 127, sub-s. (3).]

PART I.

PROCEEDINGS FROM ACT OF BANKRUPTCY TO DISCHARGE.

Acts of Bankruptcy.

Acts of bankruptcy.

2. (1) A debtor commits an act of bankruptcy in each of the following cases:— [46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 4.]

(a) if in British India or elsewhere he makes a conveyance or assignment of his property to a trustee or trustees for the benefit of his creditors generally;

(b) if in British India or elsewhere he makes a fraudulent conveyance, gift, delivery or transfer of his property, or of any part thereof;

(c) if in British India or elsewhere he makes any conveyance or transfer of his property or any part thereof, or creates any charge thereon, which would, under this or any other enactment for the time being in force, be void as a fraudulent preference if he were adjudged bankrupt;

(d) if with intent to defeat or delay his creditors he does any of the following things, namely, departs out of British India, or,

The Indian Bankruptcy Bill, 1886.
(Part I.—Proceedings from Act of Bankruptcy to Discharge.—Sections 3-6.)

being out of British India, remains out of British India, or departs from his dwelling-house, or otherwise absents himself, or begins to keep house, or closes his place of business, or suffers himself to be arrested or taken in execution for a debt not due, or submits collusively or fraudulently to an adverse decree, or procures himself, or his property, moveable or immoveable, to be attached or taken in execution;

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 9.]

(e) if he files in the Court a declaration of his inability to pay his debts or presents a bankruptcy petition against himself;

(f) if he gives notice that he has suspended, or that he is about to suspend, payment of his debts;

[L. R. 13 Q. B. D. C. A. 471, and Law Journal, September 21st, 1885.]

(g) if he makes to any of his creditors an offer of a composition in satisfaction of any of his debts, or a proposal for a scheme of arrangement of his affairs;

(h) if he is imprisoned in execution of a decree or order of a Civil Court for a longer period than twenty-one days for making default in payment of a sum of money.

Receiving Order.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 5.]

3. Subject to the conditions specified in this Act, if a debtor has committed an act of bankruptcy, the Court may, on a bankruptcy petition being presented either by a creditor or by the debtor, make an order, in this Act called a receiving order, for the protection of the estate.

Jurisdiction to make receiving order.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 6 (1), clause (d).]

4. (1) The Court shall not have jurisdiction to make a receiving order unless—

Restrictions on jurisdiction.

(a) the debtor is, at the time of the presentation of the bankruptcy petition, in prison within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court, under an order of a Civil Court, for making default in payment of a sum of money; or

Provided as follows:—

(i) in any case where an application for declaring a debtor insolvent has been made under section 344 of the Code of Civil Procedure to any Court subordinate to the Court, and the Court is of opinion that the proceedings may be more advantageously conducted before itself and under this Act, the Court, on the application of the debtor or of any of his creditors, or of its own motion, may withdraw the proceedings from the subordinate Court, if competent so to do under its Letters Patent or section 25 of the Code of Civil Procedure, and may then make a receiving order under this Act in supersession of all or any of the proceedings which may have been previously taken under the said Code:

XIV of 1882.

XIV of 1882.

(ii) the Court may in any prescribed class of cases make a receiving order on a bankruptcy petition notwithstanding the restrictions imposed by clauses (a) and (b) of this sub-section.

(2) The application of the provisions of this Act to a case withdrawn under proviso (i) to sub-section (1) shall be subject to such modifications, if any, of those provisions as may be prescribed.

5. (1) A creditor shall not be entitled to present a bankruptcy petition against a debtor unless—

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, ss. 8 & 9. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 6.]

Conditions on which creditor may petition.

(a) the debt owing by the debtor to the petitioning creditor, or, if two or more creditors join in the petition, the aggregate amount of debts owing to the several petitioning creditors, amounts to five hundred rupees; and

(b) the debt is a liquidated sum, payable either immediately or at some certain future time; and [11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 10.]

(c) the act of bankruptcy on which the petition is grounded has occurred within three months before the presentation of the petition.

(2) If the petitioning creditor is a secured creditor, he must in his petition either state that he is willing to give up his security for the benefit of the creditors in the event of the debtor being adjudged bankrupt, or give an estimate of the value of his security. In the latter case he may be admitted as a petitioning creditor to the extent of the balance of the debt due to him, after deducting the value so estimated, in the same manner as if he were an unsecured creditor.

6. (1) A creditor's petition shall be verified by affidavit of the creditor, or of some person on his behalf having knowledge of the facts, and be served in the prescribed manner. [46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 7.]

Proceedings and order on creditor's petition.

(2) At the hearing the Court shall require proof of—

(a) the debt of the petitioning creditor,

(b) the act of bankruptcy, or, if more than one act of bankruptcy is alleged in the petition, some one of the alleged acts of bankruptcy, and,

(c) if the debtor does not appear, the service of the petition; and, if satisfied with the proof, may make a receiving order in pursuance of the petition.

(3) If the Court is not satisfied with the proof of the petitioning creditor's debt, or of the act of bankruptcy, or of the service of the petition, or is satisfied by the debtor that he is able to pay his debts, or that for other sufficient cause no order ought to be made, the Court may dismiss the petition.

(4) Where the debtor appears on the petition, and denies that he is indebted to the petitioner, or that he is indebted to such an amount as would justify the petitioner in presenting a petition against him, the Court, on such security (if any) being given as the Court may require for payment to the petitioner of any debt which may be established against the debtor in due course of law, and of the costs of establishing the debt, may, instead of dismissing the petition, stay all proceedings on the petition for such time as may be required for trial of the question relating to the debt.

(5) Where proceedings are stayed, the Court may, if by reason of the delay caused by the stay of proceedings or for any other cause it thinks just, make a receiving order on the petition of some other creditor, and shall thereupon dismiss,

The Indian Bankruptcy Bill, 1886.
(Part I.—Proceedings from Act of Bankruptcy to Discharge.—Sections 7-14.)

on such terms as it thinks just, the petition on which proceedings have been stayed as aforesaid.

(6) A creditor's petition shall not, after presentment, be withdrawn without the leave of the Court.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 5. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 8.]

7. (1) A debtor's petition shall allege that the debtor is unable to pay his debts, and the presentation thereof shall be deemed an act of bankruptcy without the previous filing by the debtor of any declaration of inability to pay his debts; and, if the debtor proves that he is entitled to present the petition, the Court shall thereupon make a receiving order, unless, in its opinion, the proceedings ought to have been taken before some other Court having jurisdiction under this Act.

Debtor's petition and order thereon.

(2) A debtor's petition shall not, after presentment, be withdrawn without the leave of the Court.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, ss. 13 & 49. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 9.]

[See s. 35 of this Bill.]

8. (1) On the making of a receiving order the official assignee shall be thereby constituted receiver of the property of the debtor, and the debtor, if in prison, shall be released, and thereafter, except as directed by this Act, no creditor to whom the debtor is indebted in respect of any debt provable in bankruptcy shall have any remedy against the property or person of the debtor in respect of the debt, or shall commence any suit or other legal proceeding unless with the leave of the Court and on such terms as the Court may impose.

Effect of receiving order.

(2) But this section shall not affect the power of any secured creditor to realize or otherwise deal with his security in the same manner as he would have been entitled to realize or deal with it if this section had not been passed.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s 49 46 & 67 Vic., c. 52, s. 10.]

9. (1) The Court may, if it is shown to be necessary for the protection of the estate, at any time after the presentation of a bankruptcy petition and before a receiving order is made, appoint the official assignee to be interim receiver of the property of the debtor, or of any part thereof, and direct him to take immediate possession thereof or of any part thereof.

Discretionary powers as to appointment of interim receiver and stay of proceedings.

(2) The Court may at any time after the presentation of a bankruptcy petition stay any suit or other legal proceeding pending before any Judge or Judges of the Court or in any other Court in British India against the property or person of the debtor, and any Court in which proceedings are pending against a debtor may, on proof that a bankruptcy petition has been presented by or against the debtor, either stay the proceedings or allow them to continue on such terms as it may think just.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 11.]

10. Where the Court makes an order staying any suit or other legal proceeding, or staying proceedings generally, the order may be served by sending a copy thereof, under the seal of the Court, by prepaid letter addressed to the Court before which the proceeding is pending and registered under Part III of the Indian Post Office Act, 1866.

Service of order staying proceedings.

[XIV of 1866.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 12.]

11. (1) If in any case the official assignee, having regard to the nature of the debtor's estate or business or to the interests of the creditors generally, is of opinion that a special manager of the estate or business other than the official assignee ought to be appointed, he may appoint a manager thereof accordingly to act until the property vests in the official assignee, or, if a special assignee is appointed as hereinafter provided, until that appointment takes effect, and to have such powers of the official assignee himself as may be entrusted to him by the official assignee.

Power to appoint special manager.

(2) The debtor may be appointed special manager.

(3) The special manager shall give security and furnish accounts in such manner as the official assignee, subject to the control of the Court, may direct, and shall receive such remuneration as the official assignee may, within limits prescribed and subject to that control, determine.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 13.]

12. Notice of every receiving order, stating the name, address and description of the debtor, the date of the order, the Court by which the order is made and the date of the petition, shall be published in the prescribed manner.

Advertisement of receiving order.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 14.]

13. If in any case where a receiving order has been made on a bankruptcy petition it appears to the Court by which the order was made, upon an application by the official assignee, or by any creditor or other person interested, that by reason of the residence of the majority of the creditors in number or value, or the situation of the property of the debtor, in some part of British India or of Her Majesty's dominions elsewhere, beyond the limits within which the Court ordinarily exercises civil jurisdiction, or from any other cause, his estate and effects ought to be administered by some other Court having jurisdiction under this Act or under the Bankrupt or Insolvent Laws of some other part of Her Majesty's dominions, the Court, after such enquiry as to it may seem fit, may rescind the receiving order and stay all proceedings on, or dismiss, the petition, upon such terms, if any, as the Court may think fit.

Power to Court to rescind receiving order in certain cases.

Proceedings consequent on Order.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, ss. 6 & 12. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 16.]

14. (1) When a receiving order is made against a debtor, he shall prepare and submit to the official assignee a statement of and in relation to his affairs in the prescribed form, verified by affidavit, and showing the particulars of the debtor's assets, debts and liabilities, the names, residences and occupations of his creditors, the securities held by them respectively, the dates when the securities were respectively given, and such further or other information as may be prescribed or as the official assignee may require.

Debtor's statement of affairs.

(2) The statement shall be so submitted within the following times, namely:—

(i) if the order is made on the petition of the debtor, within seven days from the date of the order;

(ii) if the order is made on the petition of a creditor, within fourteen days from the date of the order.

But the Court may, in either case, for special reasons, extend the time.

(3) If the debtor fails to comply with the requirements of this section, the official assignee may, at the expense of the estate, cause a statement of affairs to be prepared in manner prescribed, and, if the default of the debtor was in the opinion of the Court without reasonable excuse, the Court may, on the application of the official assignee, or of any creditor, adjudge him bankrupt.

(4) Any person stating himself in writing to be a creditor of the bankrupt may, personally or by agent, inspect the statement prepared under sub-section (1) or sub-section (3) at all reasonable times, and take any copy thereof or extract therefrom; but any person untruthfully so stating himself to be a creditor shall be punished, on the complaint of the official assignee, with imprisonment which may extend to three months, or with fine, or with both.

[New, cf. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 15.]

Proposal for composition or scheme of arrangement.

15. The debtor may within the time limited for the submission of the statement of his affairs, or, with the permission of the Court, at any time before he has been adjudged bankrupt, submit to the official assignee a proposal for a composition in satisfaction of the debts due to his creditors or a proposal for a scheme of arrangement of his affairs.

Public Examination of Debtor.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 17.]

Public examination of debtor.

16. (1) Where the Court makes a receiving order it shall hold a public sitting, on a day to be appointed by the Court, for the examination of the debtor, and the debtor shall attend thereat, and shall be examined as to his conduct, dealings and property.

(2) The examination shall be held as soon as conveniently may be after the expiration of the time for the submission of the debtor's statement of affairs.

(3) The Court may adjourn the examination from time to time.

(4) Any creditor who has tendered a proof, or a legal practitioner authorised by him in this behalf, may question the debtor concerning his affairs and the causes of his failure.

(5) The official assignee shall take part in the examination, and for the purpose thereof may, subject to such directions as may be given by the Court, employ a legal practitioner.

(6) The Court may put such questions to the debtor as it may think expedient.

(7) The debtor shall be examined upon oath, and it shall be his duty to answer all such questions as the Court may put or allow to be put to him.

(8) Such notes of the examination as the Court thinks proper shall be taken down in writing, and shall be open to the inspection of any creditor at all reasonable times.

(9) When the Court is of opinion that the affairs of the debtor have been sufficiently investigated, it shall, by order, declare that his examination is concluded, but that order shall not preclude the Court from directing a further examination of the debtor as to his conduct, dealings or property whenever it may see fit to do so.

Composition or Scheme of Arrangement.

[New, cf. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 15.]

Consideration of proposal for composition or scheme of arrangement.

17. (1) Where a debtor has submitted a proposal for a composition in satisfaction of the debts due to his creditors or a proposal for a scheme of arrangement of his affairs, the official assignee shall, unless the Court otherwise directs, communicate the proposal in manner prescribed to each creditor mentioned in the debtor's statement of affairs and either summon him to attend a meeting to be held for the consideration of the proposal, or cause a notice to be served on him in manner prescribed requiring him, within a time to be specified in the notice, to notify in writing to the official assignee whether or not he accepts the proposal.

(2) The Court may at any time direct, and one-fourth in value of the creditors mentioned in the debtor's statement of affairs may, within the time specified in the notice served under sub-section (1), by requisition in writing, require, that a meeting of the creditors shall be held for the consideration of the proposal.

(3) With respect to the summoning of and proceedings at a meeting convened under this section, or any subsequent meeting of creditors, the rules in the first schedule shall be observed.

(4) Where the official assignee issues a notice under sub-section (1), requiring a creditor to notify whether or not he accepts a proposal, he shall send with the notice a summary of the debtor's statement of affairs, including the causes of his failure, and any observations thereon which the official assignee may think fit to make.

[cf. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 18.]

Acceptance, approval and effect of composition or scheme.

18. (1) The composition or scheme proposed by the debtor shall not be deemed to be accepted by the creditors unless—

(a) where a meeting has been convened under the last foregoing section, the creditors who have proved resolve, by special resolution passed at that meeting or an adjournment thereof, that the proposal shall be accepted, or,

(b) where a meeting has not been convened under that section, a majority in number representing three-fourths in value of the creditors who have proved notify in writing to the official assignee their acceptance of the proposal.

(2) The composition or scheme shall not be binding on the creditors unless, after its acceptance by them, it is approved by the Court.

(3) The debtor or the official assignee may, after the conclusion of the public examination of the debtor, apply to the Court to approve any composition or scheme which has been accepted by the creditors, and notice of the time appointed for hearing the application shall be given to each creditor who has proved.

(4) The Court shall, before approving a composition or scheme, hear a report of the official assignee as to the terms of the composition or scheme and as to the conduct of the debtor, and any objections which may be made by or on behalf of any creditor.

(5) If the Court is of opinion that the terms of the composition or scheme are not reasonable, or are not calculated to benefit the general body of creditors, or in any case in which the Court is required under this Act where the debtor is adjudged bankrupt to refuse his discharge, the Court shall, or if any such facts are proved as would under this Act justify the Court in refusing, qualifying or suspending the debtor's discharge, the Court may in its discretion, refuse to approve the composition or scheme.

(6) If the Court approves the composition or scheme, the approval shall be testified in the prescribed manner.

(7) A composition or scheme accepted and approved in pursuance of this section shall be binding on all the creditors so far as relates to any debts due to them from the debtor and provable in bankruptcy.

(8) A certificate of the official assignee that a composition or scheme has been duly accepted and approved shall, in the absence of fraud, be conclusive as to its validity.

(9) The provisions of a composition or scheme under this section may be enforced by the Court on application by any person interested, and an order of the Court made on the application may be executed as if it were a decree.

(10) If default is made in payment of any instalment due in pursuance of the composition or scheme, or if it appears to the Court, on satisfactory evidence, that the composition or scheme cannot, in consequence of legal difficulties, or for any sufficient cause, proceed without injustice or undue delay to the creditors or to the debtor, or that the approval of the Court was obtained by fraud, the Court may, if it thinks fit, on application by any creditor, adjudge the debtor bankrupt, and annul the composition or scheme, but without prejudice to the validity of any sale, disposition or payment duly made or thing duly done under or in pursuance of the composition or scheme. Where a debtor is adjudged bankrupt under this sub-section, any debt provable in other respects, which has been contracted before the date of the adjudication, shall be provable in the bankruptcy.

(11) If, under or in pursuance of a composition or scheme, the official assignee or a special assignee is appointed to administer the debtor's property or manage his business, Part IV or Part V of this Act, as the case may be, and such other portions of the Act as may be prescribed, shall apply to the assignee as if he were an assignee in a bankruptcy, and as if the terms "bankruptcy," "bankrupt" and "order of adjudication" included respectively a composition or scheme of arrangement, a compounding or arranging debtor and an order approving the composition or scheme.

(12) Part III of this Act shall, so far as the nature of the case and the terms of the composition or scheme admit, apply thereto, the same interpretation being given to the words "assignee," "bankruptcy," "bankrupt" and "order of adjudication" as in the last preceding sub-section.

(13) A composition or scheme shall not be approved by the Court unless it provides for the payment in priority to other debts of all debts directed to be so paid in the distribution of the property of a bankrupt.

[See ss. 33 and 34 of this Bill.]

(14) The acceptance by a creditor of a composition or scheme shall not release any person who under this Act would not be released by an order of discharge if the debtor had been adjudged bankrupt.

[See s. 28 (5) of this Bill.]

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 19.]

Limitation of effect of composition or scheme.

19. Notwithstanding the acceptance and approval of a composition or scheme, the composition or scheme shall not be binding on any creditor so far as regards a debt or liability from which, under the provisions of this Act, the debtor would not be discharged by an order of discharge in bankruptcy, unless the creditor assents to the composition or scheme.

[See ss. 28 and 107 of this Bill.]

Adjudication of Bankruptcy.

[Bankruptcy Rules, 1885, para. 155.]

Adjudication of bankruptcy.

20. (1) At the time of making a receiving order, or at any time thereafter, the Court may, on the application of the debtor himself, adjudge him bankrupt. The application may be made orally and without notice.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 20.]

(2) Where a receiving order is made against a debtor, then, if a composition or scheme is not accepted and approved in pursuance of this Act within fourteen days after the conclusion of the examination of the debtor or such further time as the Court may allow, the Court shall adjudge the debtor bankrupt.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, ss. 7 & 11.]

(3) When a debtor is adjudged bankrupt his property shall become divisible among his creditors and shall vest in the official assignee.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 35.]

(4) Notice of every order adjudging a debtor bankrupt, stating the name, address and description of the bankrupt, the date of the adjudication and the Court by which the adjudication is made, shall be published in the prescribed manner, and the date of the order shall, for the purposes of this Act, be the date of the adjudication.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 23.]

Power to accept composition or scheme after bankruptcy adjudication.

21. (1) Where a debtor is adjudged bankrupt the creditors may, if they think fit, at any time after the adjudication, by special resolution, resolve to entertain a proposal for a composition in satisfaction of the debts due to them under the bankruptcy, or for a scheme of arrangement of the bankrupt's affairs; and thereupon the same proceedings shall be taken and the same consequences shall ensue as in the case of a composition or scheme accepted before adjudication.

(2) If the Court approves the composition or scheme, it may make an order annulling the bankruptcy and vesting the property of the bankrupt in him or in such other person as the Court may appoint, on such terms, and subject to such conditions, if any, as the Court may declare.

(3) If default is made in payment of any instalment due in pursuance of the composition or scheme, or if it appears to the Court that the composition or scheme cannot proceed without injustice or undue delay, or that the approval of the Court was obtained by fraud, the Court may, if it thinks fit, on application by any person interested, adjudge the debtor bankrupt, and annul the composition or scheme, but without prejudice to the validity of any sale, disposition or payment duly made, or thing duly done, under or in pursuance of the composition or scheme. Where a debtor is adjudged bankrupt under this sub-section, all debts, provable in other respects, which have been contracted before the date of such adjudication shall be provable in the bankruptcy.

Control over Person and Property of Debtor.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 24.]

Duties of debtor as to discovery and realization of property.

22. (1) Every debtor against whom a receiving order is made shall, unless prevented by sickness or other sufficient cause, attend any meeting of his creditors which the official assignee may require him to attend, and shall submit to such examination and give such information as the meeting may require.

The Indian Bankruptcy Bill, 1886.
(Part I.—Proceedings from Act of Bankruptcy to Discharge.—Sections 23-26.)

(2) He shall give such inventory of his property, such list of his creditors and debtors, and of the debts due to and from them respectively, submit to such examination in respect of his property or his creditors, wait at such times and places on the official assignee or special manager, execute such powers-of-attorney, conveyances, deeds and instruments, and generally do all such acts and things in relation to his property and the distribution of the proceeds amongst his creditors, as may be reasonably required by the official assignee or special manager or may be prescribed by general rules, or be directed by the Court by any special order or orders made in reference to any particular case, or made on the occasion of any special application by the official assignee or special manager, or any creditor or person interested.

(3) He shall, if adjudged bankrupt, aid, to the utmost of his power, in the realization of his property and the distribution of the proceeds among his creditors.

(4) If a debtor wilfully fails to perform the duties imposed on him by this section, or to deliver up possession of any part of his property which is divisible amongst his creditors under this Act, and which is for the time being in his possession or under his control, to the official assignee or to any person authorised by the Court to take possession of it, he shall, in addition to any other punishment to which he may be subject, be guilty of a contempt of Court, and may be punished accordingly.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 25.]

Arrest of debtor under certain circumstances.

23. (1) The Court may, by warrant addressed to any police-officer or prescribed officer of the Court, cause a debtor to be arrested, and any books, papers, money and goods in his possession to be seized, and him and them to be safely kept as prescribed until such time as the Court may order, under the following circumstances:—

(a) if, after presentation of a bankruptcy petition by or against him, it appears to the Court that there is probable reason for believing that he has absconded or is about to abscond with a view of avoiding service of a bankruptcy petition or of avoiding appearance to any such petition, or of avoiding examination in respect of his affairs, or of otherwise avoiding, delaying or embarrassing proceedings in bankruptcy against him;

(b) if, after presentation of a bankruptcy petition by or against him, it appears to the Court that there is probable reason for believing that he is about to remove his property with a view of preventing or delaying possession being taken of it by the official assignee, or that there is probable reason for believing that he has concealed or is about to conceal or destroy any of his property or any books, documents or writings which might be of use to his creditors in the course of his bankruptcy;

(c) if, after service of a bankruptcy petition on him, or after a receiving order is made against him, he removes any property in his possession above the value of fifty rupees without the leave of the official assignee;

(d) if, without good cause shown, he fails to attend any examination ordered by the Court.

(2) No payment or composition made or security given after arrest made under this section shall be exempt from the provisions of this Act relating to fraudulent preferences.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 26.]

Re-direction of debtor's letters and telegrams.

24. Where a receiving order is made against a debtor, the Court, on the application of the official assignee, may, from time to time, order that for such time, not exceeding three months, as the Court thinks fit, post letters and telegrams addressed to the debtor at any place or places mentioned in the order for re-direction shall be re-directed, sent or delivered by the Postal and Telegraph authorities in British India to the official assignee, or otherwise as the Court directs; and the same shall be done accordingly.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 27.]

Discovery of debtor's property.

25. (1) The Court may, on the application of the official assignee, or of any creditor who has proved his debt, at any time after a receiving order has been made against a debtor, summon before it the debtor or any person known or suspected to have in his possession any property belonging to the debtor, or supposed to be indebted to the debtor, or any person whom the Court may deem capable of giving information respecting the debtor, his dealings or property; and the Court may require any such person to produce any documents in his custody or power relating to the debtor, his dealings or property.

(2) If any person so summoned, after having been tendered a reasonable sum, refuses to come before the Court at the time appointed, or refuses to produce any such document, having no lawful impediment made known to the Court at the time of its sitting and allowed by it, the Court may, by warrant, cause him to be apprehended and brought up for examination.

(3) The Court may examine on oath, either by word of mouth or by written interrogatories, any person so brought before it concerning the debtor, his dealings or property.

(4) If on the examination of any such person it appears to the Court that he is indebted to the debtor, the Court may, on the application of the official assignee, order him to pay to the official assignee, at such time and in such manner as to the Court seems expedient, the amount in which he is indebted, or any part thereof, either in full discharge of the whole amount or not, as the Court thinks fit, with or without costs of the examination.

(5) If on the examination of any such person it appears to the Court that he has in his possession any property belonging to the debtor, the Court may, on the application of the official assignee, order him to deliver to the official assignee that property, or any part thereof, at such time, in such manner and on such terms as to the Court may seem just.

Discharge of Bankrupt.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, ss. 47 & 59-61, 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 28.]

Discharge of bankrupt.

26. (1) A bankrupt may, at any time after being adjudged bankrupt, apply to the Court for an order of discharge, and the Court shall appoint a day for hearing the application, but the application shall not be heard until

The Indian Bankruptcy Bill, 1886.
(Part I.—Proceedings from Act of Bankruptcy to Discharge.—Sections 27-28.)

the public examination of the bankrupt is concluded. The application shall be heard in open Court.

(2) On the hearing of the application the Court shall take into consideration a report of the official assignee as to the bankrupt's conduct and affairs, and may either grant or refuse an absolute order of discharge, or suspend the operation of the order for a specified time, or grant an order of discharge subject to any conditions with respect to any earnings or income which may afterwards become due to the bankrupt, or with respect to his after-acquired property:

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, ss. 50 & 51.]

Provided that the Court shall refuse the discharge in all cases where the bankrupt has committed any offence under this Act, or under section 421, 422, 423 or 424 of the Indian Penal Code or any amendment thereof, and shall, on proof of any of the facts hereinafter mentioned, either refuse the order, or suspend the operation of the order for a specified time, or grant an order of discharge subject to such conditions as aforesaid.

XLV of 1860.

(3) The facts hereinbefore referred to are—

(a) that the bankrupt, if a trader, has omitted to keep such books of account as are usual and proper in the business carried on by him and as sufficiently disclose his business transactions and financial position within the three years immediately preceding his bankruptcy or within such shorter period immediately preceding that event as the Court may deem reasonable in the circumstances of the case;

(b) that the bankrupt has continued to trade after knowing himself to be insolvent;

(c) that the bankrupt has contracted any debt provable in the bankruptcy without having at the time of contracting it any reasonable or probable ground of expectation (proof whereof shall lie on him) of being able to pay it;

(d) that the bankrupt has brought on his bankruptcy by rash and hazardous speculations or unjustifiable extravagance in living;

(e) that the bankrupt has put any of his creditors to unnecessary expense by a frivolous or vexatious defence to any suit or other legal proceeding properly brought against him;

(f) that the bankrupt has within three months preceding the date of the receiving order, when unable to pay his debts as they become due, given an undue preference to any of his creditors;

(g) that the bankrupt has on any previous occasion been adjudged bankrupt or made under any enactment in force in any part of Her Majesty's dominions a composition or arrangement with his creditors;

(h) that the bankrupt has been guilty of any fraud or fraudulent breach of trust.

(4) For the purposes of this section the report of the official assignee shall be primâ facie evidence of the statements therein contained.

(5) Notice of the appointment by the Court of the day for hearing the application for discharge shall be published in the prescribed manner and sent one month at least before the day so appointed to each creditor who has proved, and the Court may hear the official assignee, and may also hear any creditor. At the hearing the Court may put such questions to the debtor and receive such evidence as it may think fit.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, ss. 85 & 86.]

(6) The Court may, in making an order of discharge, pass a decree against the debtor in favour of the official assignee for any balance of the debts provable under the bankruptcy which is not satisfied at the date of his discharge; but in that case the decree shall not be executed without leave of the Court, which leave may be given on proof that the bankrupt has since his discharge acquired property or income available for payment of his debts.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 58.]

(7) A discharged bankrupt shall, notwithstanding his discharge, give such assistance as the official assignee may require in the realization and distribution of such of his property as is vested in the official assignee, and if he fails to do so he shall be guilty of a contempt of Court; and the Court may also, if it thinks fit, revoke his discharge, but without prejudice to the validity of any sale, disposition or payment duly made or thing duly done subsequent to the discharge, but before its revocation.

(8) Where the Court refuses the discharge of the bankrupt, it may, after such time and in such circumstances as may be authorised by general rules, permit him to renew his application for an order of discharge.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 29.]

Fraudulent settlements.

27. In either of the following cases, that is to say:—

(1) in the case of a settlement made before and in consideration of marriage where the settlor is not at the time of making the settlement able to pay all his debts without the aid of the property comprised in the settlement, or

(2) in the case of any covenant or contract made in consideration of marriage for the future settlement on or for the settlor's wife or children of any money or property wherein he had not at the date of his marriage any estate or interest (not being money or property of or in right of his wife), if the settlor is adjudged bankrupt or compounds or arranges with his creditors, and it appears to the Court that the settlement, covenant or contract was made in order to defeat or delay creditors, or was unjustifiable having regard to the state of the settlor's affairs at the time when it was made, the Court may refuse or suspend an order of discharge or grant an order subject to conditions or refuse to approve a composition or arrangement, as the case may be, in like manner as in cases where the debtor has been guilty of fraud.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, ss. 48 & 62. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 30.]

Effect of order of discharge.

28. (1) An order of discharge shall not release the bankrupt from any debt on a recognisance, or from any debt with which the bankrupt may be chargeable at the suit of the Crown or of any person for any offence against an enactment relating to any branch of the public revenue, or at the suit of the sheriff or other public officer on a bail-bond entered into for the appearance of any person prosecuted for any such offence; and the bankrupt shall not be discharged from these excepted debts unless the Government certifies in writing its consent to his being discharged therefrom.

The Indian Bankruptcy Bill, 1886.
(Part II.—Disqualifications of Bankrupt.—Part III.—Administration of Property.—Sections 29-32.)

(2) An order of discharge shall not release the bankrupt from any debt or liability incurred by means of any fraud or fraudulent breach of trust to which he was a party, or from any debt or liability whereof he has obtained forbearance by any fraud to which he was a party.

(3) An order of discharge shall release the bankrupt from all other debts provable in bankruptcy.

(4) An order of discharge shall be conclusive evidence of the bankruptcy, and of the validity of the proceedings therein; and in any proceedings that may be instituted against a bankrupt who has obtained an order of discharge in respect of any debt from which he is released by the order, the bankrupt may plead that the cause of action occurred before his discharge, and may give this Act and the special matter in evidence.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, ss. 59 & 60.] (5) An order of discharge shall not release any person who at the date of the receiving order was a partner or co-trustee with the bankrupt or was jointly bound or had made any joint contract with him, or any person who was surety or in the nature of a surety for him.

PART II.

DISQUALIFICATIONS OF BANKRUPT.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, ss. 32 & 34.] 29. (1) Where a debtor is adjudged bankrupt he shall, subject to the provisions of this section, be disqualified for— Disqualifications of bankrupt.

(a) being appointed or acting as a Member of any Legislative Council constituted under the Indian Councils Act, 1861; 24 & 25 Vic., c. 67.

(b) being appointed or acting as a Justice of the Peace, Judge or Magistrate;

(c) being appointed or acting as a member of any local authority.

(2) The disqualifications to which a bankrupt is subject under this section shall be removed and cease if and when—

(a) the adjudication of bankruptcy against him is annulled; or

(b) he obtains from the Court his discharge with a certificate to the effect that his bankruptcy was caused by misfortune without any misconduct on his part.

The Court may grant or withhold the certificate as it thinks fit, but a refusal of the certificate shall be subject to appeal.

(3) If a person is adjudged bankrupt whilst holding the office of Member of a Legislative Council, Justice of the Peace, Judge, Magistrate or member of a local authority, his office shall thereupon become vacant.

PART III.

ADMINISTRATION OF PROPERTY.

Proof of Debts.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 41. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 37.] 30. (1) Demands in the nature of unliquidated damages arising otherwise than by reason of a contract, promise or breach of trust shall not be provable in bankruptcy. Description of debts provable in bankruptcy.

(2) A person having notice of any act of bankruptcy available against the debtor shall not prove under the receiving order for any debt or liability contracted by the debtor subsequently to the date of his so having notice.

(3) Save as aforesaid, all debts and liabilities, present or future, certain or contingent, to which the debtor is subject at the date of the receiving order, or to which he may become subject before his discharge by reason of any obligation incurred before the date of the receiving order, shall be deemed to be debts provable in bankruptcy.

(4) An estimate shall be made by the official assignee of the value of any debt or liability provable as aforesaid which by reason of its being subject to any contingency or contingencies, or for any other reason, does not bear a certain value. [11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 48.]

(5) Any person aggrieved by any estimate made by the official assignee as aforesaid may appeal to the Court.

(6) If, in the opinion of the Court, the value of the debt or liability is incapable of being fairly estimated, the Court may make an order to that effect, and thereupon the debt or liability shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be a debt not provable in bankruptcy.

(7) If, in the opinion of the Court, the value of the debt or liability is capable of being fairly estimated, the Court may direct the value to be assessed before the Court itself, and may give all necessary directions for this purpose, and the amount of the value when assessed shall be deemed to be a debt provable in bankruptcy.

(8) "Liability" shall for the purposes of this Act include any compensation for work or labour done, and any obligation or possibility of an obligation to pay money or money's worth on the breach of any express or implied covenant, contract, agreement or undertaking, whether the breach does or does not occur, or is or is not likely to occur or capable of occurring before the discharge of the debtor, and generally it shall include any express or implied engagement, agreement or undertaking to pay, or capable of resulting in the payment of, money, or money's worth, whether the payment is, as respects amount, fixed or unliquidated; as respects time, present or future, certain or dependent on any one contingency or on two or more contingencies; as to mode of valuation, capable of being ascertained by fixed rules, or as matter of opinion.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 39. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 38.] 31. Where there have been mutual credits, mutual debts or other mutual dealings between a debtor against whom a receiving order is made under this Act and any other person proving or claiming to prove a debt under the receiving order, an account shall be taken by, or under the orders of, the Court of what is due from the one party to the other in respect of those mutual dealings, and the sum due from the one party shall be set off against any sum due from the other party, and the balance of the account, and no more, shall be claimed or paid on either side respectively; but a person shall not be entitled under this section to claim the benefit of any set-off against the property of a debtor in any case where he had at the time of giving credit to the debtor notice of an act of bankruptcy committed by the debtor and available against him. Mutual credit and set-off.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 39.] 32. With respect to the mode of proving debts, the right of proof by secured and other creditors, the admission and rejection of proofs, and the other matters referred to in the second schedule, the rules in that schedule shall be observed. Rules as to proof of debts.

The Indian Bankruptcy Bill, 1886.
(Part III.—Administration of Property.—Sections 33-37.)

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 40.] 33. (1) In the distribution of the property of a bankrupt there shall be paid in priority to all other debts— Priority of debts.

(a) all revenue, taxes, cesses and rates, whether payable to Her Majesty, to any local authority or otherwise, due from the bankrupt at the date of the receiving order, and having become due and payable within twelve months next before that date;

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 46.] (b) all wages or salary of any clerk or servant in respect of services rendered to the bankrupt during four months before the date of the receiving order, not exceeding five hundred rupees for each clerk or servant; and

(c) all wages of any labourer or workman, not exceeding five hundred rupees for each, whether payable for time or piece-work, in respect of services rendered to the bankrupt during four months before the date of the receiving order.

(2) The foregoing debts shall rank equally among themselves, and shall be paid in full, unless the property of the bankrupt is insufficient to meet them, in which case they shall abate in equal proportions among themselves.

[Act IX of 1872, s. 262.] (3) In the case of partners the joint estate shall be applicable in the first instance in payment of their joint debts, and the separate estate of each partner shall be applicable in the first instance in payment of his separate debts. If there is a surplus of the separate estates, it shall be dealt with as part of the joint estate. If there is a surplus of the joint estate, it shall be dealt with as part of the respective separate estates in proportion to the right and interest of each partner in the joint estate.

(4) Subject to the provisions of this Act, all debts proved in the bankruptcy shall be paid pari passu.

(5) If there is any surplus after payment of the foregoing debts, it shall be applied in payment of interest from the date of the receiving order at the rate of six per centum per annum on all debts proved in the bankruptcy.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 41.] 34. (1) Where at the time of the presentation of the bankruptcy petition any person is apprenticed or is an articled clerk to the bankrupt, the adjudication of bankruptcy shall, if either the bankrupt or the apprentice or clerk gives notice in writing to the official assignee to that effect, be a complete discharge of the contract of apprenticeship or articles of agreement; and, if any money has been paid by or on behalf of the apprentice or clerk to the bankrupt as a fee, the official assignee may, on the application of the apprentice or clerk, or of some person on his behalf, pay such sum as the official assignee, subject to an appeal to the Court, thinks reasonable, out of the bankrupt's property to or for the use of the apprentice or clerk, regard being had to the amount paid by him or on his behalf, and to the time during which he served with the bankrupt under the contract or articles before the commencement of the bankruptcy, and to the other circumstances of the case. Preferential claim in case of apprenticeship.

(2) Where it appears expedient to the official assignee, he may, on the application of any apprentice or articled clerk to the bankrupt, or any person acting on behalf of the apprentice or articled clerk, instead of acting under the preceding provisions of this section, transfer the contract of apprenticeship or articles of agreement to some other person.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 22. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 42.] 35. (1) The landlord or other person to whom any rent is due from the bankrupt may, at any time, either before or after the commencement of the bankruptcy, exercise his right of distraint (if any) upon the property of the bankrupt for the rent due to him from the bankrupt, with this limitation, that if the distress for rent be levied after the commencement of the bankruptcy it shall be available only for three months' rent accrued due prior to the date of the order of adjudication, but the landlord or other person to whom the rent may be due from the bankrupt may prove under the bankruptcy for the surplus due for which the distress may not have been available. Power to landlord to distrain for rent.

(2) For the purposes of this section the term "order of adjudication" shall be deemed to include an order for the administration of the estate of a deceased person who dies insolvent.

Property available for Payment of Debts.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 43.] 36. The bankruptcy of a debtor, whether the same takes place on the debtor's own petition or upon that of a creditor or creditors, shall be deemed to have relation back to, and to commence at, the time of the act of bankruptcy being committed on which a receiving order is made against him, or, if the bankrupt is proved to have committed more acts of bankruptcy than one, to the time of the first of the acts of bankruptcy proved to have been committed by the bankrupt within three months next preceding the date of the presentation of the bankruptcy petition; but a bankruptcy petition, receiving order or adjudication shall not be rendered invalid by reason of any act of bankruptcy anterior to the debt of the petitioning creditor. Relation back of assignee's title.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 44.] 37. The property of the bankrupt divisible amongst his creditors, and in this Act referred to as the property of the bankrupt, shall not comprise the following particulars:— Description of bankrupt's property divisible amongst creditors.

(1) property held by the bankrupt on trust for any other person;

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 7.] (2) the tools (if any) of his trade and the necessary wearing-apparel, bedding and other such necessaries of himself, his wife and children, to a value, inclusive of tools and apparel and the other things aforesaid, not exceeding two hundred rupees in the whole:

But it shall comprise the following particulars:—

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 7.] (3) all such property as may belong to or be vested in the bankrupt at the commencement of the bankruptcy or may be acquired by or devolve on him before his discharge;

(4) the capacity to exercise and to take proceedings for exercising all such powers in or over or in respect of property as might have been exercised by the bankrupt for his own benefit at the commencement of his bankruptcy or before his discharge; and [11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 23.] (5) all moveable property being, at the commencement of the bankruptcy, in the possession, order or disposition of the bankrupt, in his trade or business, by the consent and permission of the true owner, under such circumstances that he is the reputed owner thereof: Provided that things in action, other than debts due or growing due to the bankrupt in the course of his trade or business, shall not be deemed moveable property within the meaning of this section.

(Part III.—Administration of Property.—Sections 38-43.)

Effect of Bankruptcy on antecedent Transactions.

[Cf. Act XIV of 1882, s. 295. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 45.] 38. (1) Where execution of a decree has issued against the property of a debtor, no person shall be entitled to the benefit of the execution against the official assignee, except in respect of assets realized in the course of the execution by sale or otherwise before the date of the receiving order, and before notice of the presentation of any bankruptcy petition by or against the debtor, or of the commission of any available act of bankruptcy by the debtor, has been given to the Court executing the decree.

Restriction of rights of creditor under execution.

(2) Nothing in this section shall affect the rights of a mortgagee or incumbrancer of property against which a decree is executed.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 46.] 39. (1) Where execution of a decree has issued against any property of a debtor which is saleable in execution, and before the sale thereof notice is given to the Court executing the decree that a receiving order has been made against the debtor, the Court shall, on application, direct the property to be delivered to the official assignee, but the costs of the execution shall be a charge on the property so delivered, and the official assignee may sell the property or an adequate part thereof for the purpose of satisfying the charge.

Duties of Court executing decree as to goods taken in execution.

(2) A person who in good faith purchases the property of a debtor under a sale in execution shall in all cases acquire a good title to it against the official assignee.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 47.] 40. (1) Any settlement of property not being a settlement made before and in consideration of marriage, or made in favour of a purchaser or incumbrancer in good faith and for valuable consideration, or a settlement made on or for the wife or children of the settlor of property which has accrued to the settlor after marriage in right of his wife, shall, if the settlor becomes bankrupt within two years after the date of the settlement, be void against the official assignee, and shall if the settlor becomes bankrupt at any subsequent time within ten years after the date of the settlement, be void against the official assignee unless the parties claiming under the settlement can prove that the settlor was at the time of making the settlement able to pay all his debts without the aid of the property comprised in the settlement and that the interest of the settlor in the property had passed to the trustee of the settlement on the execution thereof.

Avoidance of voluntary settlements.

(2) Any covenant or contract made in consideration of marriage, for the future settlement on or for the settlor's wife or children of any money or property wherein he had not at the date of his marriage any estate or interest, whether vested or contingent in possession or remainder, and not being money or property of or in right of his wife, shall, on his becoming bankrupt before the money or property has been actually paid or transferred pursuant to the covenant or contract, be void against the official assignee.

(3) "Settlement" shall for the purposes of this section include any conveyance or transfer of property.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 24. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 48.] 41. (1) Every conveyance or transfer of property, or charge thereon made, every payment made, every obligation incurred, and every judicial proceeding taken or suffered by any person unable to pay his debts as they become due from his own money in favour of any creditor, or any person in trust for any creditor, with a view of giving that creditor a preference over the other creditors, shall, if the person making, taking, paying or suffering the same is adjudged bankrupt on a bankruptcy petition presented within three months after the date of making, taking, paying or suffering the same, be deemed fraudulent and void as against the official assignee.

Avoidance of preferences in certain cases.

(2) This section shall not affect the rights of any person making title in good faith and for valuable consideration through or under a creditor of the bankrupt.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 49.] 42. Subject to the foregoing provisions of this Act with respect to the effect of bankruptcy on an execution and with respect to the avoidance of certain settlements and preferences, nothing in this Act shall invalidate in the case of a bankruptcy—

Protection of bona fide transactions without notice.

(a) any payment of the bankrupt to any of his creditors,

(b) any payment or delivery to the bankrupt,

(c) any conveyance or assignment by the bankrupt for valuable consideration, or

(d) any contract, dealing or transaction by or with the bankrupt for valuable consideration:

Provided that both the following conditions are complied with, namely:—

(1) the payment, delivery, conveyance, assignment, contract, dealing or transaction, as the case may be, takes place before the date of the receiving order; and

(2) the person (other than the debtor) to, by or with whom the payment, delivery, conveyance, assignment, contract, dealing or transaction was made, executed or entered into, has not at the time of the payment, delivery, conveyance, assignment, contract, dealing or transaction, notice of any available act of bankruptcy committed by the bankrupt before that time.

Realization of Property.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 21. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 50.] 43. (1) The official assignee shall, as soon as may be, take possession of the deeds, books and documents of the bankrupt, and all other parts of his property capable of manual delivery.

Possession of property by assignee.

The Indian Bankruptcy Bill, 1886.
(Part III.—Administration of Property.—Sections 44-47.)

(2) The official assignee shall, in relation to and for the purpose of acquiring or retaining possession of the property of the bankrupt, be in the same position as if he were a receiver of the property appointed under section 503 of the Code of Civil Procedure, and shall have such of the powers conferable on a receiver under that section as may be prescribed; and the Court may on his application enforce such acquisition or retention accordingly.

XIV of 1882.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 25.] (3) Where any part of the property of the bankrupt consists of stock, shares in ships, shares or any other property transferable in the books of any company, office or person, the official assignee may exercise the right to transfer the property to the same extent as the bankrupt might have exercised it if he had not become bankrupt.

(4) Where any part of the property of the bankrupt consists of things in action, those things shall be deemed to have been duly assigned to the official assignee.

(5) Any treasurer or other officer, or any banker, attorney or agent of a bankrupt, shall pay and deliver to the official assignee all money and securities in his possession or power, as such officer, banker, attorney or agent, which he is not by law entitled to retain as against the bankrupt or the official assignee. If he does not, he shall be guilty of a contempt of Court, and may be punished accordingly on the application of the official assignee.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 51.] 44. Any person acting under warrant of the Court may seize any part of the property of a bankrupt in the custody or possession of the bankrupt or of any other person, and with a view to the seizure thereof may break open any house, building or room of the bankrupt where the bankrupt is supposed to be, or any building or receptacle of the bankrupt where any of his property is supposed to be; and, where the Court is satisfied that there is reason to believe that property of the bankrupt is concealed in a house or place not belonging to him, the Court may, if it thinks fit, grant a search-warrant to any police-officer or officer of the Court, who may execute it according to its tenor.

Seizure of property of bankrupt.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 27. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 53.] 45. (1) Where a bankrupt is an officer of the army or navy or of Her Majesty's Indian marine service, or an officer or clerk or otherwise employed or engaged in the civil service of the Crown, the official assignee shall receive for distribution amongst the creditors so much of the bankrupt's pay or salary as, subject to the provisions of section 266 of the Code of Civil Procedure, the Court, on the application of the official assignee, may, by order under section 268 of that Code, direct.

Appropriation of portion of pay or other income to creditors.

XIV of 1882.

(2) Where a bankrupt is in the receipt of a salary or income other than as aforesaid, the Court, on the application of the official assignee, shall from time to time, subject to the provisions of section 266 of the said Code and of the Pensions Act, 1871, make such order as it thinks just for the payment of the salary or income, or of any part thereof, to the official assignee, to be applied by him in such manner as the Court may direct.

XXIII of 1871.

(3) Nothing in this section shall take away or abridge any power of the chief officer of any public department to dismiss a bankrupt.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 7. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 54. 11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 20.] 46. The property of a debtor who has been adjudged bankrupt shall pass from official assignee to official assignee, and shall vest in the official assignee for the time being during his continuance in office, without any conveyance, assignment or transfer whatever.

Vesting and transfer of property.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 55.] 47. (1) Where any part of the property of the bankrupt consists of any tenancy burdened with onerous covenants, of shares or stock in companies, of unprofitable contracts, or of any other property that is unsaleable, or not readily saleable, by reason of its binding the possessor thereof to the performance of any onerous act, or to the payment of any sum of money, the official assignee, notwithstanding that he has endeavoured to sell or has taken possession of the property, or exercised any act of ownership in relation thereto, but subject to the provisions of this section, may, by writing signed by him, at any time within three months after the adjudication of bankruptcy, disclaim the property:

Disclaimer of onerous property.

Provided that, where any such property has not come to the knowledge of the official assignee within one month after the adjudication, he may disclaim the property at any time within two months after he first became aware thereof.

(3) The official assignee shall not be entitled to disclaim a tenancy without the leave of the Court, except in any cases which may be prescribed by general rules; and the Court may, before or on granting the leave, require such notices to be given to persons interested, and impose such terms as a condition of granting leave, and make such orders with respect to fixtures, tenant's improvements and other matters arising out of the tenancy, as the Court thinks just.

(4) The official assignee shall not be entitled to disclaim any property in pursuance of this section in any case where an application in writing has been made to him by any person interested in the property requiring him to decide whether he will disclaim or not, and he has for a period of twenty-eight days after the receipt of the application, or such extended period as may be allowed by the Court, declined or neglected to give notice whether he disclaims the property or not; and, in the case of a contract, if the official assignee, after such application as aforesaid, does not within the said period or extended period disclaim the contract, he shall be deemed to have adopted it.

(5) The Court may, on the application of any person who is, as against the official assignee, entitled to the benefit or subject to the burden of a contract made with the bankrupt, make an order rescinding the contract on such terms as to payment by or to either party of damages for the non-performance of the contract, or otherwise, as to the Court may seem equitable; and any damages payable under the order to any such person may be proved by him as a debt under the bankruptcy.

The Indian Bankruptcy Bill, 1886.
(Part III.—Administration of Property.—Sections 48-50.)

(6) The Court may, on application by any person either claiming any interest in any disclaimed property, or being under any liability not discharged by this Act in respect of any disclaimed property, and on hearing such persons as it thinks fit, make an order for the vesting of the property in or delivery thereof to any person entitled thereto, or to whom it may seem just that the same should be delivered by way of compensation for such liability as aforesaid, or a trustee for him, and on such terms as the Court thinks just; and, on any such vesting order being made, the property comprised therein shall vest accordingly in the person therein named in that behalf without any conveyance or assignment for the purpose:

Provided always that, where the property disclaimed is a tenancy, the Court shall not make a vesting order in favour of any person claiming under the bankrupt, whether as under-tenant or as mortgagee by demise, except upon the terms of making that person subject to the same liabilities and obligations as the bankrupt was subject to under the tenancy in respect to the property at the date when the bankruptcy petition was filed, and any under-tenant or mortgagee declining to accept a vesting order upon these terms shall be excluded from all interest in and security upon the property; and if there is no person claiming under the bankrupt who is willing to accept an order upon these terms, the Court shall have power to vest the bankrupt's estate and interest in the property in any person bound either personally or in a representative character, and either alone or jointly with the bankrupt, to discharge the tenant's liabilities and obligations, freed and discharged from all estates, incumbrances and interests created therein by the bankrupt.

(7) Any person injured by the operation of a disclaimer under this section shall be deemed to be a creditor of the bankrupt to the extent of the injury, and may accordingly prove the same as a debt under the bankruptcy.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 56.]

Powers of assignee as to dealing with property.

48. (1) Subject to the provisions of this Act, the official assignee may do all or any of the following things:—

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 31.]

(a) sell all or any part of the property of the bankrupt (including the goodwill of his business, if any, and the book debts due or growing due to him) by public auction or private contract, with power to transfer the whole thereof to any person or company, or to sell the same in parcels;

(b) give receipts for any money received by him, which receipts shall effectually discharge the person paying the money from all responsibility in respect of the application thereof;

(c) prove, rank, claim and draw a dividend in respect of any debt due to the bankrupt;

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 30.]

(d) exercise any powers the capacity to exercise which is vested in the official assignee under this Act, and execute any powers-of-attorney, deeds and other instruments for the purpose of carrying into effect the provisions of this Act;

[Cf. Act XXX of 1854, s. 2]

(e) deal with any property to which the bankrupt is beneficially entitled as tenant in tail or other owner of an estate of inheritance less than an estate in fee-simple in the same manner as the bankrupt might have dealt with it.

(2) Any dealing by an official assignee under clause (e) of sub-section (1) with any property to which the bankrupt is before his discharge entitled as in that clause mentioned shall, although the bankrupt be dead at the time of that dealing, be as valid and have the same operation as if the bankrupt were then alive.

[3 & 4 Wm. IV, c. 74, s. 65.]

Powers exercisable by assignee subject to orders of Court.

49. The official assignee may, subject to any general or special orders of the Court, do all or any of the following things:—

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 57.]

(1) carry on the business of the bankrupt, so far as may be necessary for the beneficial winding up of the same;

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 29.]

(2) bring, institute or defend any suit or other legal proceeding relating to the property of the bankrupt;

(3) employ a legal practitioner or other agent to take any proceedings or do any business;

(4) accept as the consideration for the sale of any property of the bankrupt a sum of money payable at a future time subject to such stipulations as to security and otherwise as he thinks fit;

(5) mortgage or pledge any part of the property of the bankrupt for the purpose of raising money for the payment of his debts;

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 28.]

(6) refer any dispute to arbitration, and compromise all debts, claims and liabilities, whether present or future, certain or contingent, liquidated or unliquidated, subsisting or supposed to subsist between the bankrupt and any person who may have incurred any liability to the bankrupt, on the receipt of such sums, payable at such times, and generally on such terms as may be agreed on;

(7) make such compromise or other arrangement as may be thought expedient with creditors, or persons claiming to be creditors, in respect of any debts provable under the bankruptcy;

(8) make such compromise or other arrangement as may be thought expedient with respect to any claim arising out of or incidental to the property of the bankrupt, made or capable of being made on the official assignee by any person or by the official assignee on any person;

(9) divide in its existing form amongst the creditors, according to its estimated value, any property which from its peculiar nature or other special circumstances cannot be readily or advantageously sold.

Distribution of Property.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 41. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 58.]

Declaration and distribution of dividends.

50. (1) Subject to the retention of such sums as may be necessary for the costs of administration or otherwise, the official assignee shall, with all convenient speed, declare and distribute dividends amongst the creditors who have proved their debts.

(2) The first dividend, if any, shall be declared and be payable within six months after the adjudication, unless the official assignee satisfies the

The Indian Bankruptcy Bill, 1886.
(Part IV.—Official Assignees.—Sections 51-58.)

Court that there is sufficient reason for postponing the declaration to a later date.

(3) Subsequent dividends shall, in the absence of sufficient reason to the contrary, be declared and be payable at intervals of not more than six months.

(4) Before declaring a dividend the official assignee shall cause notice of his intention to do so to be published in the prescribed manner, and shall also send reasonable notice thereof to each creditor mentioned in the bankrupt's statement who has not proved his debt.

(5) When the official assignee has declared a dividend he shall send to each creditor who has proved a notice showing the amount of the dividend and when and how it is payable, and a statement in the prescribed form as to the particulars of the estate.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 59.]

Joint and separate dividends.

51. (1) Where one partner of a firm is adjudged bankrupt, a creditor to whom the bankrupt is indebted jointly with the other partners of the firm, or any of them, shall not receive any dividend out of the separate property of the bankrupt until all the separate creditors have received the full amount of their respective debts.

(2) Where joint and separate properties are being administered, dividends of the joint and separate properties shall, subject to any order to the contrary that may be made by the Court on the application of the official assignee or any person interested, be declared together; and the expenses of and incident to those dividends shall be fairly apportioned by the official assignee between the joint and separate properties, regard being had to the work done for and to the benefit received by each property.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 43. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 60.]

Provision for creditors residing at a distance, &c.

52. In the calculation and distribution of a dividend the official assignee shall make provision for debts provable in bankruptcy appearing from the bankrupt's statements, or otherwise, to be due to persons resident in places so distant from the place where the official assignee is acting that in the ordinary course of communication they have not had sufficient time to tender their proofs, or to establish them if disputed, and also for debts provable in bankruptcy the subject of claims not yet determined. He shall also make provision for any disputed proofs or claims, and for the expenses necessary for the administration of the estate or otherwise, and, subject to the foregoing provisions, he shall distribute as dividend all money in hand.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 61.]

Right of creditor who has not proved debt before declaration of a dividend.

53. Any creditor who has not proved his debt before the declaration of any dividend or dividends shall be entitled to be paid out of any money for the time being in the hands of the official assignee any dividend or dividends he may have failed to receive before that money is applied to the payment of any future dividend or dividends, but he shall not be entitled to disturb the distribution of any dividend declared before his debt was proved by reason that he has not participated therein.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 62.]

Final dividend.

54. When the official assignee has realized all the property of the bankrupt, or so much thereof as can, in his opinion, be realized without needlessly protracting the proceedings in bankruptcy, he shall, with the leave of the Court, declare a final dividend; but before so doing he shall give notice in manner prescribed to the persons whose claims to be creditors have been notified to him, but not established to his satisfaction, that if they do not establish their claims to the satisfaction of the Court within a time limited by the notice he will proceed to make a final dividend without regard to their claims. After the expiration of the time so limited, or, if the Court on application by any such claimant grants him further time for establishing his claim, then on the expiration of that further time, the property of the bankrupt shall be divided among the creditors who have proved their debts, without regard to the claims of any other persons.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 45. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 63.]

No suit for dividend.

55. No suit for a dividend shall lie against the official assignee, but if the official assignee refuses to pay any dividend the Court may, if it thinks fit, order him to pay it, and also to pay out of his own money interest thereon for the time that it is withheld, and the costs of the application.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 64.]

Power to allow bankrupt to manage property, and allowance to bankrupt for maintenance or service.

56. (1) The official assignee may appoint the bankrupt himself to superintend the management of the property of the bankrupt or of any part thereof, or to carry on the trade (if any) of the bankrupt for the benefit of his creditors, and in any other respect to aid in administering the property in such manner and on such terms as the official assignee may direct.

[illegible]

(2) The official assignee may, from time to time, make such allowance as he thinks fit to the bankrupt out of his property for the support of the bankrupt and his family, or in consideration of his services if he is engaged in winding up his estate, but the Court may reduce any such allowance and limit the time for which it may be made.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 65.]

Right of bankrupt to surplus.

57. The bankrupt shall be entitled to any surplus remaining after payment in full of his creditors, with interest, as by this Act provided, and of the costs, charges and expenses of the proceedings under the bankruptcy petition.

PART IV.

OFFICIAL ASSIGNEES.

Appointment and Removal.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 14. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 66 (1).]

Appointment and removal of official assignees of debtors' estates.

58. (1) The Chief Justice of each of the High Courts of Judicature at Fort William, Madras and Bombay may from time to time appoint such person as he thinks fit to the office of official assignee of debtors' estates for that Court, and may, with the concurrence of a majority of the other Judges of the Court, remove the person for the time being holding that office for any of the following causes, namely, unwillingness to act, removal from out of the jurisdiction of the Court, incapacity or misconduct.

(2) The Local Government may in like manner appoint such person as it thinks fit to the office of official assignee of debtors' estates for any other Court having bankruptcy jurisdiction under this Act, and may remove the person for the time being holding that office.

The Indian Bankruptcy Bill, 1886.
(Part IV.—Official Assignees.—Sections 59-64.)

(3) Notwithstanding anything in sub-sections (1) and (2), the persons substantively or temporarily holding the office of official assignee immediately before the commencement of this Act in the Courts for the Relief of Insolvent Debtors at Calcutta, Madras and Bombay under the 11 & 12 Vic., cap. 21 (an Act to consolidate and amend the Laws relating to Insolvent Debtors in India), and in the Court of the Recorder of Rangoon under that statute as applied by the Burma XVII of 1875. Courts Act, 1875, shall, without further appointment for that purpose, become the official assignees, substantive or temporary, as the case may be, under this Act in the High Courts at Fort William, Madras and Bombay and in the Court of the Recorder of Rangoon, respectively.

Duties.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 68.] 59. (1) The duties of an official assignee shall have relation both to the conduct of the debtor and to the administration of his estate.

Functions of official assignee.

(2) An official assignee may, for the purpose of affidavits verifying proofs, petitions or other proceedings under this Act administer oaths.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 69.] 60. As regards the debtor, it shall be the duty of the official assignee—

Duties of official assignee as regards the debtor's conduct.

(1) to investigate the conduct of the debtor and to report to the Court, stating whether there is reason to believe that the debtor has committed any act which constitute an offence under this Act or under section 421, 422, 423 or 424 of the Indian XLV of 1860. Penal Code or any amendment thereof, or which would justify the Court in refusing, suspending or qualifying an order for his discharge;

(2) to make such other reports concerning the conduct of the debtor as the Court may direct or as may be prescribed;

(3) to take such part as may be directed by the Court in the public examination of the debtor; and

(4) to take such part and give such assistance in relation to the prosecution of any fraudulent debtor as the Court may direct or as may be prescribed;

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 70.] 61. (1) As regards the estate of a debtor it shall be the duty of the official assignee—

Duties of official assignee as to debtor's estate.

(a) where a special assignee has not been appointed, to act as receiver of the debtor's estate, and, where a special manager has not been appointed, as manager thereof;

(b) to authorise the special manager to raise money or make advances for the purposes of the estate in any case where, in the interests of the creditors, it appears necessary so to do;

(c) to summon and preside at the meeting mentioned in section 17;

(d) to report to the creditors as to any proposal which the debtor has made with respect to the mode of liquidating his affairs;

(e) to advertise the receiving order, the date of the debtor's public examination, and such other matters as it may be necessary to advertise.

(2) For the purpose of his duties as interim receiver or manager the official assignee shall have such of the powers conferable on a receiver appointed under section 503 of the Code of Civil Procedure as may be prescribed. [See ss. 9 & 11 of this Bill.] XIV of 1882.

(3) The official assignee shall account to the Court and pay over all moneys and deal with all securities in such manner as, subject to the provision of this Act, the Court, from time to time, directs. [See s. 64 of this Bill.]

Remuneration.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 19. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 72.] 62. (1) The remuneration to be paid to the official assignee shall be fixed by general rules.

Remuneration of official assignee.

(2) The rules shall express what expenses the remuneration is to cover, and no liability shall attach to the bankrupt's estate, or to the creditors, in respect of any expenses which the remuneration is expressed to cover.

(3) No remuneration whatever beyond that referred to in sub-section (1) shall be received by an official assignee as such.

Costs.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 73.] 63. (1) No payment shall be allowed in the accounts of the official assignee or manager in respect of the performance by any other person of the ordinary duties which are required by this Act or the rules made under this Act to be performed by himself.

Allowance and taxation of costs.

(2) All bills and charges of legal practitioners, managers, accountants, auctioneers, brokers and other persons shall be taxed by the prescribed officer, and no payments in respect thereof shall be allowed in the accounts of the official assignee without leave of the Court given after the bills and charges have been taxed.

(3) Every such person shall, on request by the official assignee (which request the official assignee shall make a sufficient time before declaring a dividend), deliver his bill of costs or charges to the prescribed officer, and if he fails to do so within seven days after receipt of the request, or such further time as the Court, on application, may grant, the official assignee shall declare and distribute the dividend without regard to any claim by him, and thereupon any such claim shall be forfeited as well against the official assignee personally as against the estate.

Receipts, Payments, Accounts and Audit.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, ss. 15-21. Ben. Rule 18. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 74.] 64. (1) Two accounts, called respectively the Bankruptcy Estates Account and the Bankruptcy Dividends Account, shall be kept by the Court with such Government treasury, and in accordance with such rules, as the Governor General in Council may from time to time prescribe.

Bankruptcy Estates and Dividends Accounts.

[New.] (2) Subject to those rules, the Bankruptcy Estates Account shall be an account of money held by the Court for estates in bankruptcy, and the Bankruptcy Dividends Account shall be an account of declared dividends remaining unclaimed or undistributed.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 168.] (3) The said accounts shall be opened as soon as may be after the passing of this Act.

(4) The official assignee shall, in such manner and at such times as the Court, with the sanction

The Indian Bankruptcy Bill, 1886.
(Part IV.—Official Assignees.—Sections 65-71.)

of the Governor General in Council, directs, pay the money received by him on account of estates in bankruptcy into the Court for credit to the Bankruptcy Estates Account, and the Court shall furnish him with a certificate of receipt of the money so paid.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 34.] (5) If an official assignee at any time retains for more than ten days a sum exceeding five hundred rupees, or such other sum as the Court in any particular case authorizes him to retain, then, unless he explains the retention to the satisfaction of the Court, he shall pay interest on the amount so retained in excess at the rate of twenty per centum per annum, and shall be liable to pay any expenses occasioned by reason of his default, and to submit to such other consequences as may be prescribed.

(6) All payments out of money standing to the credit of the Bankruptcy Estates Account or the Bankruptcy Dividends Account shall be made by the treasury in the prescribed manner on the order of the prescribed officer.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 75.] 65. An official assignee shall not pay any sums received by him as official assignee into his private banking account.

Assignee not to pay into private account.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 76.] 66. (1) Whenever the balance standing to the credit of an estate in the Bankruptcy Estates Account exceeds ten thousand rupees, the Court may order such part thereof as is not required for the time being to answer demands in respect of the estate, or for transfer to the Bankruptcy Dividends Account in respect of Investment of surplus funds.

[redacted] officer as the Governor [redacted] appoint in this behalf, and pay over to the officer the sum which it has ordered to be invested or any part thereof as the officer may require, and the officer may invest the said sum or part thereof in Government securities to be placed to the credit of the estate.

(3) Whenever any part of the money so invested is, in the opinion of the Court, required to answer any demands in respect of the estate or for transfer to the Bankruptcy Dividends Account, the Court shall notify to the officer the amount so required, and the officer shall thereupon repay to the Court such sum as may be required to the credit of the estate, and for that purpose may direct the sale of such part of the said securities as may be necessary.

(4) Interest on investments under this section shall be paid to the Bankruptcy Estates Account to the credit of the estate.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, ss. 33. Rules, [illegible] 47 Vic., [illegible], s. 78.] 67. (1) Every official assignee shall, at such times as may be prescribed, but not less than twice in each year during his tenure of office, submit to the Court, or as it directs, an account of his receipts and payments as such official assignee.

Audit of assignee's accounts.

(2) The account shall be in a prescribed form, shall be made in duplicate, and shall be verified by a declaration in the prescribed form.

(3) The Court shall cause the accounts so submitted to be audited, by such officer as the Governor General in Council may appoint in this behalf, and for the purposes of the audit the official assignee shall furnish the officer with such vouchers and information as the officer may require, and the officer may at any time require the production of and inspect any books or accounts kept by the official assignee.

(4) When any such account has been audited, a copy thereof shall be filed in the Court, and shall be open to the inspection of any creditor, or of the bankrupt, or of any person interested.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 79.] 68. The official assignee shall, whenever required by any creditor so to do, and on payment by the creditor of the prescribed fee, furnish and transmit to the creditor by post a list of the creditors, showing in the list the amount of the debt due to each of the creditors.

Assignee to furnish list of creditors.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 80.] 69. The official assignee shall keep, in manner prescribed, proper books, in which he shall from time to time cause to be made entries or minutes of proceedings at meetings, and of such other matters as may be prescribed; and any creditor of the bankrupt may, subject to the control of the Court, personally or by his agent, inspect any such books.

Books to be kept by assignee.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 81.] 70. (1) Every official assignee shall, from time to time, as may be prescribed, and not less than once in every year, during the continuance of the bankruptcy, submit to the Court a statement showing the proceedings in the bankruptcy up to the date of the statement, containing [redacted] and made out in the Periodical statement of proceedings.

[redacted] may appeal on the statement or in his accounts or otherwise, and may require the official assignee to make good any loss which the estate of the bankrupt may have sustained by reason of the misfeasance, neglect or omission.

Release.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 82.] 71. (1) When the official assignee has realized all the property of the bankrupt, or so much thereof as can, in his opinion, be realized without needlessly protracting the proceedings in bankruptcy, and distributed a final dividend, if any, or has ceased to act by reason of a composition having been approved, or has resigned, or has vacated or been removed from his office, the Court shall, on his application, cause a report on his accounts to be prepared, and, on his complying with all the requirements of the Court, shall take into consideration the report, and any objection which may be urged by any creditor or person interested against the release of the official assignee, and shall either grant or withhold the release accordingly.

Release of assignee.

(2) Where the release of an official assignee is withheld, the Court may, on the application of any creditor or person interested, make such order as it thinks just, charging the official assignee with the consequences of any act or default which he may have done or made contrary to his duty.

(3) An order of the Court releasing the official assignee shall discharge him from all liability in respect of any act done or default made by him in the administration of the affairs of the bankrupt, or otherwise in relation to his conduct as official assignee, but any such order may be revoked on proof that it was obtained by fraud or by suppression or concealment of any material fact.

The Indian Bankruptcy Bill, 1886.
(Part V.—Special Assignees.—Sections 72-77.)

Official Name.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 83.]

Name of assignee.

72. The official assignee may sue and be sued by the name of "the official assignee of the property of , a bankrupt," inserting the name of the bankrupt, and by that name may hold property of every description, make contracts, enter into any engagements binding on himself and his successors in office, and do all other acts necessary or expedient to be done in the execution of his office.

Vacation of Office on Insolvency.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 85.]

Office of assignee vacated by insolvency.

73. If a receiving order is made against an official assignee, he shall thereby vacate the office of official assignee.

Control.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 89.]

Discretionary powers of assignee and control thereof.

74. (1) Subject to the provisions of this Act, the official assignee shall, in the administration of the property of the bankrupt and in the distribution thereof amongst his creditors, have regard to any directions that may be given by any resolution of the creditors at a meeting.

(2) The official assignee may, from time to time, summon meetings of the creditors for the purpose of ascertaining their wishes, and it shall be his duty to summon meetings at such times as the creditors, by resolution at any meeting, or the Court may direct, or whenever requested in writing to do so by one-fourth in value of the creditors.

(3) The official assignee may apply to the Court in manner prescribed for directions in relation to any particular matter arising under the bankruptcy.

(4) Subject to the provisions of this Act, the official assignee shall use his own discretion in the management of the estate and its distribution among the creditors.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 90.]

Appeal to Court against assignee.

75. If the bankrupt or any of the creditors, or any other person, is aggrieved by any act or decision of the official assignee, he may apply to the Court, and the Court may confirm, reverse or modify the act or decision complained of, and make such order in the premises as it thinks just.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 91.]

Control of Court over assignee.

76. (1) In the event of any official assignee not faithfully performing his duties and duly observing all the requirements imposed on him by any enactment, rules or otherwise, with respect to the performance of his duties, or in the event of any complaint being made to the Court by any creditor in regard thereto, the Court shall enquire into the matter and take such action thereon as may be deemed expedient.

(2) The Court may at any time require any official assignee to answer any inquiry made by it in relation to any bankruptcy in which he is engaged, and may examine him or any other person on oath concerning the bankruptcy.

(3) The Court may also direct a local investigation to be made of the books and vouchers of the official assignee.

PART V.

SPECIAL ASSIGNEES.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 17; 46 & 47, Vic., c. 52, s. 21.]

Appointment and removal of special assignee.

77. (1) If any creditor desires that any person other than the official assignee be appointed assignee of the bankrupt's estate, he may, at any time after the debtor has been adjudged bankrupt, apply to the Court to summon a meeting of the creditors for the purpose of considering the appointment of a special assignee.

[New.] (2) The Court may in any case, and shall if the creditor, or he and other creditors applying with him, represent one-fourth in value of the creditors, cause a meeting to be summoned for that purpose.

[New.] (3) At the meeting convened under sub-section (2) the creditors may, by ordinary resolution, appoint a special assignee of the property of the bankrupt.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 21, sub-s. (2).] (4) If a special assignee is appointed, he shall give security in manner prescribed to the satisfaction of the Court; and the Court, if satisfied with the security, shall certify that his appointment has been duly made, unless it disapproves of the appointment on the ground that it has not been made in good faith by a majority in value of the creditors voting, or that the person appointed is not fit to act as assignee, or that his connection with or relation to the bankrupt or his estate or any particular creditor makes it difficult for him to act with impartiality in the interests of the creditors generally.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 21, sub-s. (4).] (5) The appointment of a special assignee shall take effect as from the date of the certificate.

[New.] (6) If the Court disapproves of the appointment made at the meeting summoned under sub-section (2), it shall cause a further meeting of the creditors to be summoned for the purpose of appointing some other person to be special assignee.

[New.] (7) If either at the meeting summoned under sub-section (2) or at the further meeting summoned under sub-section (6) the creditors do not, by ordinary resolution, appoint a special assignee, or if at the further meeting they make an appointment of which the Court disapproves on any of the grounds mentioned in sub-section (4), the official assignee shall be the assignee throughout the bankruptcy.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 84.] (8) Subject to the provisions of this Act with respect to security and the approval of the Court, the creditors, if they think fit, may, by ordinary resolution, appoint more persons than one to the office of special assignee; and, where more persons than one are appointed, the creditors shall declare whether any act required or authorised to be done by the special assignee is to be done by all or any one or more of those persons, all of whom are in this Act included under the term "special assignee," and shall be joint-tenants of the property of the bankrupt with right of survivorship.

[New.] (9) Where the Court disapproves of the appointment of any one of more persons than one appointed to the office of special assignee, it shall be deemed, subject to the next following sub-section, to disapprove of the appointment of all of them.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 84.] (10) Provided, with respect to sub-sections (6), (7), (8) and (9), that, where the creditors resolve to appoint a special assignee, or more persons than one to the office of special assignee, they may appoint one or more persons to be substituted in succession in the place of the person first named, or of one or more of the persons first named, in the event of his or their declining to accept the office of special assignee, or failing to give security, or not being approved of by the Court.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 86.] (11) The creditors may, by ordinary resolution, at a meeting specially called for that purpose, of which seven days' notice has been given, remove a special assignee appointed by them, and may, at the same or any subsequent meeting, appoint another person to fill the vacancy as hereinafter provided in the case of a vacancy in the office of special assignee.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 86.] (12) If the Court is of opinion that a special assignee appointed by the creditors is guilty of misconduct, or fails to perform his duties under this Act, the Court may remove him from his office.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 87.] (13) If a vacancy occurs in the office of special assignee, the creditors at a meeting may appoint a person to fill the vacancy, and thereupon the same proceedings shall be taken as in the case of a first appointment.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 87.] (14) The official assignee shall, on the requisition of any creditor, summon a meeting for the purpose of filling any such vacancy.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 87.] (15) If the creditors do not within four weeks after the occurrence of a vacancy appoint a person to fill the vacancy, the official assignee shall be the assignee during the remainder of the bankruptcy.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 87.] (16) During any vacancy in the office of special assignee the official assignee shall act as assignee.

Status of special assignee.

78. Where a special assignee has been appointed under the last foregoing section, the property of the bankrupt shall vest in the special assignee without any conveyance or assignment for the purpose; and, save as provided by any general rules and any general or special orders of the Court, all the foregoing provisions of this Act referring to an official assignee shall, so far as may be, be construed as referring to the special assignee, subject to the following provisions, namely:—

(a) the references to the official assignee in sections 8, 9, 11 and 13 to 18 (both inclusive), section 20, sub-section (3), section 26, sub-sections (2), (4) and (6), sections 58 to 62 (both inclusive), and section 77, apply to the official assignee only;

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 57.] (b) the special assignee shall not do any of the things mentioned in section 49 without the permission of the Court, or, if the Court so directs, of the prescribed officer, given on an application to the Court or to the prescribed officer, as the case may be, for permission to do the particular thing or things in the specified case or cases stated in the application;

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 62.] (c) with his application to the Court for leave to declare a final dividend under section 54, the special assignee shall, when he has not realised all the property of the bankrupt, submit a report by the prescribed officer as to the sufficiency of the grounds for his opinion that he has realised so much of the property of the bankrupt as can be realised without needlessly protracting the proceedings in bankruptcy;

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 64.] (d) the special assignee shall not, without the previous sanction of the Court, or, if the Court so directs, of the prescribed officer, appoint the bankrupt himself to discharge any of the duties mentioned in sub-section (1) of section 56, or make any allowance to the bankrupt under sub-section (2) of that section;

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 72.] (e) the remuneration, if any, of the special assignee shall be in the nature of a commission or percentage, of which one part shall be payable on the amount realised, after deducting any sums paid to secured creditors out of the proceeds of their securities, and the other part on the amount distributed in dividend, and it shall be fixed by the creditors, by ordinary resolution, at the meeting at which he is appointed, but may be reduced by the Court, and shall be so adjusted that the expense of administration by a special assignee shall not exceed the expense of administration by the official assignee;

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 72.] (f) the special assignee shall not, under any circumstances whatever, make any arrangement for or accept from the bankrupt, or any legal practitioner, auctioneer or any other person that may be employed about the bankruptcy, any gift, remuneration or pecuniary or other consideration or benefit whatever beyond the remuneration fixed by the creditors and payable out of the estate, nor shall he make any arrangement for giving up, or give up, any part of the remuneration payable to him in any capacity, to the bankrupt or to any legal practitioner or other person that may be employed about the bankruptcy;

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 72.] (g) when no remuneration has been voted to the special assignee, he shall be allowed out of the bankrupt's estate such proper costs and expenses incurred by him in or about the proceedings of the bankruptcy as the prescribed officer may allow;

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 68.] (h) the special assignee shall supply the official assignee with such information, and give him such access to, and facilities for inspecting, the bankrupt's books and documents, and generally shall give him such aid, as may be requisite for enabling the official assignee to perform his duties under this Act;

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 82.] (i) where the special assignee has not previously resigned or vacated or been removed from his office, his release under section 71 shall operate as a removal of him from his office;

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 88.] (j) the vote of the special assignee, or of his partner, clerk, legal practitioner or legal practitioner's clerk, either as creditor or as proxy for a creditor, shall not be reckoned in the majority required for passing any resolution affecting the remuneration or conduct of the special assignee.

The Indian Bankruptcy Bill, 1886.
(Part V.—Special Assignees.—Section 78.)

The Indian Bankruptcy Bill, 1886.
(Part VI.—Constitution, Procedure and Powers of Court.—Sections 79-87.)

PART VI.

CONSTITUTION, PROCEDURE AND POWERS OF COURT.

Jurisdiction.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 92.]

Courts having jurisdiction in bankruptcy.

79. (1) The Courts having jurisdiction in bankruptcy under this Act shall be—

(a) the High Courts of Judicature at Fort William, Madras and Bombay;

(b) the Court of the Recorder of Rangoon; and

(c) subject to any limitation which the Governor General in Council may impose with respect to the extent of the jurisdiction to be exercised, such other Civil Courts as the Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, may, from time to time, appoint in this behalf in the territories administered by it.

[New.]

Local limits of their jurisdiction.

80. For the purposes of this Act the local limits of the jurisdiction of the said Courts shall, subject to the provisos to section 4, sub-section (1), be the following, namely:—

(a) the local limits of the jurisdiction of each of the said High Courts of Judicature shall be the local limits for the time being of its ordinary original civil jurisdiction;

(b) the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court of the Recorder of Rangoon shall comprise the towns of Rangoon, Moulmein, Akyab and Bassein;

(c) the local limits of the jurisdiction of a Court appointed by a Local Government shall be such as may, from time to time, be fixed, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, by that Local Government within the territories administered by it.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 3. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 94(2).]

Jurisdiction to be exercised by a single Judge.

81. All matters in respect of which jurisdiction is given by this Act shall, where the Court consists of more Judges than one, be ordinarily transacted and disposed of by or under the direction of one of the Judges of that Court, and the Chief Justice or senior Judge shall, from time to time, assign a Judge for that purpose.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 97(2).]

Transfer of proceedings from Court to Court.

82. Any proceedings in bankruptcy pending in any Court appointed by the Local Government of a province under section 79 may, at any time, and at any stage thereof, and either with or without application from any of the parties thereto, be transferred by the High Court of the province to itself or to any Court appointed as aforesaid in the province.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 97, (3).]

Power to state special case.

83. If any question of law arises in any bankruptcy proceeding in a Court appointed by the Local Government of a province under section 79, and all the parties to the proceeding desire, or one of them and the Judge of the Court desire, to have the question determined in the first instance in the High Court of the province, the Judge shall state the facts, in the form of a special case, for the opinion of that High Court. The special case and the proceedings, or such of them as may be required, shall be transmitted to the High Court for the purposes of the determination.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 98.]

Exercise of jurisdiction in chambers.

84. Subject to the provisions of this Act and to general rules, the Judge of a Court exercising jurisdiction in bankruptcy may exercise in chambers the whole or any part of his jurisdiction.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 99.]

Delegation of powers to officers of Court and Presidency Judges of Small Causes.

85. (1) Subject to general rules limiting the powers conferred by this section, the High Court of Judicature at Fort William, Madras or Bombay may, from time to time, direct that, in any matters in respect of which jurisdiction is given to the Court by this Act, an officer of the Court or Judge of the Presidency Small Cause Court appointed by it in this behalf shall have all or any of the powers in this section mentioned; and any order made or act done by such officer or Judge in the exercise of the said powers shall be deemed the order or act of the High Court.

(2) The powers referred to in sub-section (1) are the following, namely:—

(a) to hear bankruptcy petitions, and to make receiving orders and adjudications thereon;

(b) to hold the public examination of debtors;

(c) to grant orders of discharge;

(d) to approve compositions or schemes of arrangement;

(e) to make interim orders in any case of urgency;

(g) to hear and determine any unopposed or ex parte application;

(h) to summon and examine any person known or suspected to have in his possession effects of the debtor, or to be indebted to him, or to be capable of giving information respecting the debtor, his dealings or property.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 100.]

Powers of Court of Recorder of Rangoon and Court appointed by Local Government.

86. The Court of the Recorder of Rangoon, and any Court appointed by a Local Goverment under section 79, shall, for the purposes of its bankruptcy jurisdiction, in addition to its ordinary powers, have all the powers and jurisdiction possessed by any of the said High Courts of Judicature; and the orders of the Court may be enforced accordingly in manner prescribed.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 102.]

General powers of Bankruptcy Courts.

87. (1) Subject to the provisions of this Act, every Court having jurisdiction in bankruptcy under this Act shall have full power to decide all questions of priorities, and all other questions whatsoever, whether of law or fact, which may arise in any case of bankruptcy coming within the cognizance of the Court, or which the Court may deem it expedient or necessary to decide for the purpose of doing complete justice or making a complete distribution of property in any such case.

(2) A Court having jurisdiction in bankruptcy under this Act shall not be subject to be restrained in the execution of its powers under this Act by the order of any other Court, nor shall any appeal lie from its decisions, except in manner directed by this Act.

The Indian Bankruptcy Bill, 1886.
(Part VI.—Constitution, Procedure and Powers of Court.—Sections 88-95.)

(3) Where a receiving order has been made in any Court having jurisdiction in bankruptcy under this Act, and that Court consists of more Judges than one, the Judge by whom the order was made, or, where the order was made by an authority empowered in that behalf under section 85, the Judge assigned under section 81 for the transaction and disposal of matters in bankruptcy, shall have power, if he sees fit, without any further consent, to order the transfer to himself of any suit or other proceeding by or against the bankrupt pending before any other Judge or Judges of the Court.

(4) Where default is made by an assignee, debtor or other person in obeying any order or direction given by the Court or by an official assignee or any other officer of the Court under any power conferred by this Act, the Court may, on the application of the official assignee or other duly authorised person, or of its own motion, order the defaulting assignee, debtor or person to comply with the order or direction so given; and the Court may also, if it thinks fit, upon any such application make an immediate order for the committal of the defaulting assignee, debtor or other person:

Provided that the power given by this sub-section shall be deemed to be in addition to and not in substitution for any other right or remedy in respect of the default.

Appeals.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 104.]

Appeals in bankruptcy.

88. (1) Every Court having jurisdiction in bankruptcy under this Act may review, rescind or vary any order made by it under its bankruptcy jurisdiction.

(2) Orders in bankruptcy matters shall, at the instance of any person aggrieved, be subject to appeal as follows:—

(a) an appeal from an order made by an officer of the Court or Judge of a Presidency Small Cause Court empowered under section 85 shall lie to the Judge assigned under section 81 for the transaction and disposal of matters in bankruptcy;

(b) an appeal from an original order made by a single Judge or Bench of a High Court consisting of more Judges than one shall, if appeals lie to the High Court from orders passed by a single Judge or Bench thereof in exercise of its original civil jurisdiction, lie to the High Court in accordance with the rules applicable to those appeals;

(c) an appeal from an order of the Court of the Recorder of Rangoon shall lie to the Special Court;

(d) an appeal from an order of a Court appointed by a Local Government under section 79, not being a High Court to which clause (b) of this sub-section applies, shall lie, if the Court is not a High Court, to the High Court of the province, and, if the Court is a High Court, as the Governor General in Council may from time to time direct;

(e) no appeal shall be entertained except in conformity with such general rules as may for the time being be in force in relation to the appeal.

Procedure.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 105.]

Discretionary powers of the Court.

89. (1) Subject to the provisions of this Act and to general rules, the costs of and incidental to any proceeding in Court under this Act shall be in the discretion of the Court.

(2) The Court may at any time adjourn any proceedings before it upon such terms, if any, as it thinks fit to impose.

(3) The Court may at any time amend any written process or proceeding under this Act upon such terms, if any, as it thinks fit to impose.

(4) Where by this Act or by general rules the time for doing any act or thing is limited, the Court may extend the time either before or after the expiration thereof, upon such terms, if any, as the Court thinks fit to impose.

(5) Subject to general rules, the Court may in any matter take the whole or any part of the evidence either viva voce or by interrogatories, or upon affidavit, or by commission beyond the limits of British India.

(6) For the purpose of approving a composition or scheme by joint debtors, the Court may, if it thinks fit, and on the report of the official assignee that it is expedient so to do, dispense with the public examination of one of the joint debtors if he is unavoidably prevented from attending the examination by illness or absence abroad.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 106.]

Consolidation of petitions.

90. Where two or more bankruptcy petitions are presented against the same debtor or against joint debtors, the Court may consolidate the proceedings or any of them, on such terms as the Court thinks fit.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 107.]

Power to change carriage of proceedings.

91. Where the petitioner does not proceed with due diligence on his petition, the Court may substitute as petitioner any other creditor to whom the debtor is indebted in the amount required by this Act in the case of the petitioning creditor, or may give the carriage of proceedings to the official assignee.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 108.]

Continuance of proceedings on death of debtor.

92. If a debtor by or against whom a bankruptcy petition has been presented dies, the proceedings in the matter shall, unless the Court otherwise orders, be continued as if he were alive.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 109.]

Power to stay proceedings.

93. The Court may, at any time, for sufficient reason, make an order staying the proceedings under a bankruptcy petition, either altogether or for a limited time, on such terms and subject to such conditions as the Court thinks just.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 110.]

Power to present petition against one partner.

94. Any creditor whose debt is sufficient to entitle him to present a bankruptcy petition against all the partners of a firm may present a petition against any one or more partners of the firm without including the others.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 111.]

Power to dismiss petition against some respondents only.

95. Where there are more respondents than one to a petition, the Court may dismiss the petition as to one or more of them, without prejudice to the effect of the petition as against the other or others of them.

The Indian Bankruptcy Bill, 1886.
(Part VII.—Small Bankruptcies.—Part VIII.—Fraudulent Debtors and Creditors. —Sections 96-102.)

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 112.]

96. Where a receiving order has been made on a bankruptcy petition against or by one member of a partnership, any other bankruptcy petition against or by a member of the same partnership shall be filed in or transferred to the Court in which the first-mentioned petition is in course of prosecution; and, if an assignee is acting in respect of the property of the first-mentioned member of the partnership, the same assignee shall, unless the Court otherwise directs, act in respect of the property of the last-mentioned member, and the Court may give such directions for consolidating the proceedings under the petitions as it thinks just.

Property of partners to be vested in same assignee.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 113.]

97. Where a member of a partnership is adjudged bankrupt, the Court may authorise the assignee to commence and prosecute any suit or other legal proceeding in the names of the assignee and of the bankrupt's partner; and any release by the partner of the debt or demand to which the proceeding relates shall be void; but notice of the application for authority to commence the proceeding shall be given to him, and he may show cause against it, and on his application the Court may, if it thinks fit, direct that he shall receive his proper share of the proceeds of the proceeding, and if he does not claim any benefit therefrom he shall be indemnified against costs in respect thereof as the Court directs.

Suits by assignee and bankrupt's partners.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 114.]

98. Where a bankrupt is a contractor in respect of any contract jointly with any other person, that other person may sue or be sued in respect of the contract without the joinder of the bankrupt.

Suits on joint contracts.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 115.]

99. Any two or more persons, being partners, or any person carrying on business under a partnership name, may take proceedings or be proceeded against under this Act in the name of the firm; but in that case the Court may, on application by any person interested, order the names of the persons who are partners in the firm, or the name of the person carrying on business under a partnership name, to be disclosed in such manner, and verified on oath or otherwise, as the Court may direct.

Proceedings in partnership name.

Annulment of Adjudication.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, ss. 8 & 9. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 35.]

100. (1) Where in the opinion of the Court a debtor ought not to have been adjudged bankrupt, or where it is proved to the satisfaction of the Court that the debts of the bankrupt are paid in full, or where in some part of British India, or of Her Majesty's dominions elsewhere, beyond the limits within which the Court ordinarily exercises civil jurisdiction, proceedings are pending for the distribution of the estate and effects of the bankrupt among his creditors under this Act or under the Bankrupt or Insolvent Laws of that part of Her Majesty's dominions, and it appears to the Court that the distribution ought to take place in that part of British India or of Her Majesty's dominions elsewhere, the Court may, on the application of any person interested, by order, annul the adjudication.

Power for Court to annul adjudication in certain cases.

[New.]

(2) Where an adjudication is annulled under this section, all sales and dispositions of property and payments duly made, and all acts theretofore done, by the assignee or other person acting under his authority, or by the Court, shall be valid, but the property of the debtor who was adjudged bankrupt shall vest in such person as the Court may appoint, or, in default of any such appointment, revert to the debtor for all his estate or interest therein, on such terms and subject to such conditions, if any, as the Court may declare by order.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, ss. 7 & 11.]

(3) Notice of the order annulling an adjudication shall be forthwith published in the prescribed manner.

(4) For the purposes of this section any debt disputed by a debtor shall be considered as paid in full if the debtor enters into a bond, in such sum and with such sureties as the Court approves, to pay the amount to be recovered in any proceeding for the recovery of or concerning the debt, with costs, and any debt due to a creditor who cannot be found or cannot be identified shall be considered as paid in full if paid into Court.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 36.]

PART VII.

SMALL BANKRUPTCIES.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 121.]

101. When a petition is presented by or against a debtor, if the Court is satisfied by affidavit or otherwise, or the official assignee reports to the Court, that the property of the debtor is not likely to exceed in value three thousand rupees, the Court may make an order that the debtor's estate be administered in a summary manner, and thereupon the provisions of this Act shall be subject to the following modifications, namely:—

Summary administration in small cases.

(a) if the debtor is adjudged bankrupt, the official assignee shall be the assignee in the bankruptcy;

(b) no appeal shall lie from any order of the Court, except by order of the Court;

(c) the estate shall, where practicable, be distributed in a single dividend;

(d) such other modifications may be made in the provisions of this Act as may be prescribed with the view of saving expense and simplifying procedure; but nothing in this section shall permit the modification of the provisions of this Act relating to the examination or discharge of the debtor.

PART VIII.

FRAUDULENT DEBTORS AND CREDITORS.

102. (1) "The Court" in this Part means the Court before which an accused person is tried and, with respect to matters which it is the duty of a jury to decide or determine, includes the jury where the trial of the accused is by jury.

Construction of this Part.

(2) Nothing in this Part shall prevent any person from being prosecuted under any other law for any act or omission which constitutes an offence under this Part, or from being liable under that other law to any other or higher punishment or penalty than that provided by this Part:

Provided that a person shall not be punished twice for the same offence.

The Indian Bankruptcy Bill, 1886.
(Part VIII.—Fraudulent Debtors and Creditors.—Sections 103-104.)

[32 & 33 Vic., c. 62, s. 11. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 163.]

103. Any person against whom a receiving order has been made under this Act shall, in each of the cases following, be punished with imprisonment which may extend to two years, or with fine, or with both; that is to say—

Punishment of fraudulent debtors.

(a) if he does not, to the best of his knowledge and belief, fully and truly discover to the assignee administering his estate for the benefit of his creditors all his property, and how, and to whom, and for what consideration, and when, he disposed of any part thereof, except such part as has been disposed of in the ordinary way of his trade (if any), or laid out in the ordinary expenses of his family, unless the Court is satisfied that he had no intent to defraud:

(b) if he does not deliver up to that assignee, or as he directs, all such part of his property as is in his custody or under his control, and which he is required by law to deliver up, unless the Court is satisfied that he had no intent to defraud:

(c) if he does not deliver up to that assignee, or as he directs, all books, documents, papers and writings in his custody or under his control relating to his property or affairs, unless the Court is satisfied that he had no intent to defraud:

(d) if, after the presentation of a bankruptcy petition by or against him, or within four months next before the presentation thereof, he conceals any part of his property to the value of one hundred rupees or upwards, or conceals any debt due to or from him, unless the Court is satisfied that he had no intent to defraud:

(e) if, after the presentation of a bankruptcy petition by or against him, or within four months next before the presentation thereof, he fraudulently removes any part of his property of the value of one hundred rupees or upwards:

(f) if he makes any material omission in any statement relating to his affairs, unless the Court is satisfied that he had no intent to defraud:

(g) if, knowing or believing that a false debt has been proved by any person under the bankruptcy, he fails for the period of one month to inform the assignee aforesaid thereof:

(h) if, after the presentation of a bankruptcy petition by or against him, he prevents the production of any book, document, paper or writing affecting or relating to his property or affairs, unless the Court is satisfied that he had no intent to conceal the state of his affairs or to defeat the law:

(i) if, after the presentation of a bankruptcy petition by or against him, or within four months next before the presentation thereof, he conceals, destroys, mutilates or falsifies, or is privy to the concealment, destruction, mutilation or falsification of, any book or document affecting or relating to his property or affairs, unless the Court is satisfied that he had no intent to conceal the state of his affairs or to defeat the law:

(j) if, after the presentation of a bankruptcy petition by or against him, or within four months next before the presentation thereof, he makes or is privy to the making of any false entry in any book or document affecting or relating to his property or affairs, unless the Court is satisfied that he had no intent to conceal the state of his affairs or to defeat the law:

(k) if, after the presentation of a bankruptcy petition by or against him, or within four months next before the presentation thereof, he fraudulently parts with, alters or makes any omission in, or is privy to the fraudulently parting with, altering or making any omission in, any document affecting or relating to his property or affairs:

(l) if, after the presentation of a bankruptcy petition by or against him, or at any meeting of his creditors within four months next before the presentation thereof, he attempts to account for any part of his property by fictitious losses or expenses:

(m) if while undischarged he obtains credit to the extent of two hundred rupees or upwards from any person without informing that person that he is an undischarged bankrupt:

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 31.]

(n) if, within four months next before the presentation of a bankruptcy petition by or against him, he, by any false representation or other fraud, has obtained any property on credit and has not paid for the same:

(o) if, within four months next before the presentation of a bankruptcy petition by or against him, he, being a trader, obtains, under the false pretence of carrying on business and dealing in the ordinary way of his trade, any property on credit, and has not paid for the same, unless the Court is satisfied that he had no intent to defraud:

(p) if, within four months next before the presentation of a bankruptcy petition by or against him, he, being a trader, pawns, pledges or disposes of otherwise than in the ordinary way of his trade any property which he has obtained on credit and has not paid for, unless the Court is satisfied that he had no intent to defraud:

(q) if he is guilty of any false representation or other fraud for the purpose of obtaining the consent of his creditors or any of them to any agreement with reference to his affairs or his bankruptcy.

[32 & 33 Vic., c. 62, s. 12. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 163.]

104. If, after the presentation of a bankruptcy petition by or against him, or within four months next before the presentation thereof, any person against whom a receiving order is made under this Act quits British India and takes with him, or attempts or makes preparation to quit British India and to take with him, any part of his property to the amount of two hundred rupees or upwards, which ought by law to be divided amongst his creditors, he shall (unless the Court is satisfied that he had no intent to defraud) be punished with imprisonment which may extend to two years, or with fine, or with both.

[32 & 33 Vic., c. 62, s. 13.]

105. Any person shall in each of the cases following be punished with imprisonment which may extend to one year, or with fine, or with both; that is to say—

Penalty on fraudulently obtaining credit, &c.

(a) if in incurring any debt or liability he has obtained credit under false pretences or by means of any other fraud;

(b) if he has, with intent to defraud his creditors, or any of them, made, or caused to be made, any gift, delivery or transfer of or any charge on his property;

(c) if he has, with intent to defraud his creditors, concealed or removed any part of his property since or within two months before the date of any unsatisfied decree or order for payment of money obtained against him.

[32 & 33 Vic., c. 62, s. 14.]

106. If any creditor, in any bankruptcy composition or arrangement with creditors wilfully and with intent to defraud makes any false claim, or any proof, declaration or statement of account which is untrue in any material particular, he shall be punished with imprisonment which may extend to one year, or with fine, or with both.

Penalty on false claim, &c.

[32 & 33 Vic., c. 62, s. 15.]

107. Where a debtor makes any composition or arrangement with his creditors, he shall remain liable for the unpaid balance of any debt which he incurred or increased, or whereof before the date of the arrangement or composition he obtained forbearance, by any fraud, provided the defrauded creditor has not assented to the arrangement or composition otherwise than by proving his debt and accepting dividends.

Debts incurred by fraud.

[32 & 33 Vic., c. 62, s. 16. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 164.]

108. Where the assignee reports to any Court exercising jurisdiction in bankruptcy that in his opinion a debtor against whom a receiving order has been made under this Act has been guilty of any offence under this Act, or under section 421, 422, 423 or 424 of the Indian Penal Code or any amendment thereof, or where any such Court is satisfied upon the representation of any creditor that there is ground to believe that the debtor has been guilty of any offence as aforesaid, that Court shall, if it appears to it that there is a reasonable probability that the debtor may be convicted, order the assignee to prosecute him for the offence.

Order by Court for prosecution on report of assignee.

XLV of 1860.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 167.]

109. Where a debtor has been guilty of any offence he shall not be exempt from being proceeded against therefor by reason that he has obtained his discharge or that a composition or scheme of arrangement has been accepted or approved.

Criminal liability after discharge or composition.

PART IX.

SUPPLEMENTAL PROVISIONS.

Application of Act.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 152. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 75, s. 1 (5). Act III of 1874, s. 8.]

110. A married woman shall, in respect of her separate property (if any), be subject to this Act in the same way as if she were unmarried.

Application to married women.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 123.]

111. A receiving order shall not be made against any corporation, or against any partnership, association or company registered under any enactment relating to companies for the time being in force.

Exclusion of corporations and companies.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 125.]

112. (1) Any creditor of a deceased debtor whose debt would have been sufficient to support a bankruptcy petition against the debtor, had he been alive, may present to the Court a petition in the prescribed form praying for an order for the administration of the estate of the deceased debtor according to the law of bankruptcy.

Administration in bankruptcy of estate of person dying insolvent.

(2) Upon the prescribed notice being given to the executor, administrator or other legal representative of the deceased debtor, the Court may in the prescribed manner, upon proof of the petitioner's debt, unless the Court is satisfied that there is a reasonable probability that the estate will be sufficient for the payment of the debts owing by the deceased, make an order for the administration in bankruptcy of the deceased debtor's estate, or may upon cause shown dismiss the petition with or without costs.

(3) An order of administration under this section shall not, in cases where a grant of probate or administration is required to establish a title as legal representative, be made until the expiration of two months from the date of the grant of probate or letters of administration, unless with the concurrence of the legal representative of the deceased debtor, or unless the petitioner proves to the satisfaction of the Court that the debtor committed an act of bankruptcy within three months prior to his decease.

(4) A petition for administration under this section shall not be presented to the Court after proceedings have been commenced in any Court of Justice for the administration of the deceased debtor's estate; but that Court may, in that case, on the application of any creditor, and on proof that the estate is insufficient to pay its debts, transfer the proceedings to the Court exercising jurisdiction in bankruptcy; and thereupon the last-mentioned Court may, in the prescribed manner, make an order for the administration of the estate of the deceased debtor, and the like consequences shall ensue as under an administration order made on the petition of a creditor.

(5) Upon an order being made for the administration of a deceased debtor's estate under this section, the property of the debtor shall vest in the official assignee of the Court, and he shall forthwith proceed to realize and distribute the same in accordance with the provisions of this Act.

(6) With the modifications hereinafter mentioned, all the provisions of Part III of this Act, relating to the administration of the property of a bankrupt, shall, so far as the same are applicable, apply to the case of an administration order under this section in like manner as to an order of adjudication under this Act.

(7) In the administration of the property of the deceased debtor under an order of administration, the official assignee shall have regard to any claims by the legal representative of the deceased debtor to payment of the proper funeral and testamentary expenses incurred by him in and about the debtor's estate; and those claims shall be deemed a preferential debt under the order, and be payable in full, out of the debtor's estate, in priority to all other debts.

(8) If, on the administration of a deceased debtor's estate, any surplus remains in the hands of the official assignee after payment in full of all the debts due from the debtor, together with the costs of the administration and interest as provided by this Act in case of bankruptcy, the surplus shall be paid over to the legal representative of the deceased debtor's estate, or dealt with in such other manner as may be prescribed.

(9) Notice to the legal representative of a deceased debtor of the presentation by a creditor of a petition under this section shall, in the event of an order for administration being made thereon, be deemed to be equivalent to notice of an act of bankruptcy, and after the notice no payment or transfer of property made by the legal representative shall operate as a discharge to him as between himself and the official assignee. Save as aforesaid nothing in this section shall invalidate any payment made or act or thing done in good faith by the legal representative before the date of the order for administration.

(10) Unless the context otherwise requires, "Court," in this section, means the Court exercising jurisdiction in bankruptcy within the local limits of the jurisdiction of which the debtor resided or carried on business for the greater part of the six months immediately prior to his decease; and "creditor" means one or more creditors qualified to present a bankruptcy petition as in this Act provided.

(11) General rules, for carrying into effect the provisions of this section, may be made in the same manner and to the like effect and extent as in bankruptcy.

General Rules.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, ss. 58 & 78. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 127.]

113. (1) The High Court of a province may, from time to time, with the concurrence of the Governor General in Council, make, revoke and alter general rules for carrying into effect the objects of this Act.

Power to make general rules.

(2) All general rules made under the foregoing provisions of this section shall be judicially noticed, and shall have effect as if enacted by this Act.

(3) After the commencement of this Act no general rule under the provisions of this section shall come into operation until the expiration of one month after the same has been made and issued.

Fees.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 3. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 128.]

114. The High Court of a province, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, may from time to time make rules prescribing the fees and percentages to be charged for or in respect of proceedings under this Act, and the fees to be charged for or in respect of proceedings instituted under Chapter XX of the Code of Civil Procedure in any Court having jurisdiction under this Act, and may direct by whom and in what manner the same are to be collected and accounted for, and to what account they shall be paid.

Fees.

Evidence.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 132.]

115. (1) A copy of the Gazette of India, or of the Gazette of a Local Government, containing any notice inserted therein in pursuance of this Act or the rules made under this Act, shall be evidence of the facts stated in the notice.

Gazettes to be evidence.

(2) The production of a copy of the Gazette containing any notice of a receiving order, or of an order adjudging a debtor bankrupt, shall be conclusive proof in all legal proceedings of the order having been duly made, and of its date.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 133.]

116. (1) A minute of proceedings at a meeting of creditors under this Act, signed at the same or the next ensuing meeting by a person describing himself as, or appearing to be, chairman of the meeting at which the minute is signed, shall be received in evidence without further proof.

Evidence of proceedings at meetings of creditors.

(2) Until the contrary is proved, every meeting of creditors in respect of the proceedings whereof a minute has been so signed shall be deemed to have been duly convened and held, and all resolutions passed or proceedings had thereat to have been duly passed or had.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 134.]

117. Any petition or copy of a petition in bankruptcy, any order or certificate or copy of an order or certificate made by any Court having jurisdiction in bankruptcy, any instrument, affidavit or document or copy of an instrument, affidavit or document made or used in the course of any bankruptcy proceedings, or other proceedings had under this Act, shall, if it appears to be sealed with the seal of any Court having jurisdiction in bankruptcy, or purports to be signed by any Judge thereof, or is certified as a true copy by any Registrar thereof, be receivable in evidence in all legal proceedings whatever.

Evidence of proceedings in bankruptcy.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 68 & 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 130.]

118. Subject to general rules, any affidavit may be used in a Bankruptcy Court if it is sworn—deposition of the person so deceased, purporting to be sealed with the seal of the Court, or a copy thereof purporting to be so sealed, shall be admitted as evidence of the matters therein deposed to.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 4. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 137.]

Bankruptcy Courts to have seals.

120. Every Court having jurisdiction in bankruptcy under this Act shall have a seal describing the Court in such manner as may be directed by order of the High Court of the province, and judicial notice shall be taken in all legal proceedings of the seal, and of the signature of the Judge or Registrar of any Court having that jurisdiction.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 138.]

Certificate of appointment of assignee.

121. A certificate of the Court, that a person has been appointed or is an assignee under this Act, shall be conclusive proof of his having been appointed or being such assignee.

Time.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 141.]

Computation of time.

122. (1) Where by or under this Act any limited time from or after any date or event is appointed or allowed for the doing of any act or the taking of any proceeding, then in the computation of that limited time the same shall be taken as exclusive of the day of that date or of the happening of that event, and as commencing at the beginning of the next following day, and the act or proceeding shall be done or taken at latest on the last day of that limited time as so computed, unless the last day is a day on which the Court does not sit, in which case any act or proceeding shall be considered as done or taken in due time if it is done or taken on the next day afterwards on which the Court sits.

(2) Where by or under this Act any act or proceeding is directed to be done or taken on a certain day, then, if that day happens to be a day on which the Court does not sit, the act or proceeding shall be considered as done or taken in due time if it is done or taken on the next day afterwards on which the Court sits.

Notices.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 142.]

Service of notices.

123. All notices and other documents for the service of which no special mode is directed may be sent by prepaid post letter to the last known address of the person to be served therewith.

Formal Defects.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 143.]

Formal defect not to invalidate proceedings.

124. (1) No proceeding in bankruptcy shall be invalidated by any formal defect or by any irregularity unless the Court before which an objection is made to the proceeding is of opinion that substantial injustice has been caused by the defect or irregularity, and that the injustice cannot be remedied by any order of that Court.

(2) No defect or irregularity in the appointment of an assignee shall vitiate any act done by him in good faith.

Bankrupt Trustee.

XXVII of 1866. [46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 147.]

Application of Trustee Act to bankruptcy of trustee.

125. Where a bankrupt is a trustee within the Indian Trustee Act, 1866, section 35 of that Act shall have effect so as to authorize the appointment of a new trustee in substitution for the bankrupt (whether voluntarily resigning or not), if it appears expedient to do so, and all provisions of that Act, and of any other Act relative thereto, shall have effect accordingly.

Corporations, Firms and Lunatics.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 148.]

Acting of corporations, firms and lunatics.

126. For all or any of the purposes of this Act, a corporation may act by any of its officers authorised in that behalf under the seal of the corporation; a firm may act by any of its members; and a lunatic may act by his committee, curator bonis or manager, or, when the matter is one in respect of which a Court of Wards has superintendence, by that Court or such person as it may appoint in this behalf.

Construction of former Acts, &c.

Construction of enactments and instruments referring to 11 & 12 Vic., c. 21.

127. Whereby any enactment or instrument reference is made to the 11 & 12 Vic., cap. 21 (an Act to consolidate and amend the Laws relating to Insolvent Debtors in India), the enactment or instrument shall, so far as may be, be construed and have effect as if reference were made therein to the corresponding provisions of this Act.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 150.]

Certain provisions to bind the Crown.

128. The provisions of this Act relating to the remedies against the property of a debtor, the priorities of debts, the effect of a composition or scheme of arrangement, and the effect of a discharge shall bind the Crown.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 3. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 151.]

Saving for existing rights of audience.

129. Nothing in this Act, or in any transfer of jurisdiction effected thereby, shall take away or affect any right of audience that any person may have had immediately before the commencement of this Act; and all attorneys or other persons who had the right of audience before the Courts for the Relief of Insolvent Debtors shall have the like right of audience in bankruptcy matters in the High Courts of Judicature at Fort William, Madras and Bombay, respectively.

Unclaimed Funds or Dividends.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 152.]

Payment into Court of unclaimed or undistributed dividends or funds.

130. (1) Where an assignee under any bankruptcy, composition or scheme pursuant to this Act has under his control any unclaimed dividend which has remained unclaimed for more than six months, or where, after making a final dividend, he has in his hands or under his control any unclaimed or undistributed money arising from the property of the debtor, or where, after the passing of this Act, any unclaimed or undistributed fund or dividend in the hands or under the control of an assignee under the 11 & 12 Vic., c. 21 (An Act to consolidate and amend the Laws relating to Insolvent Debtors in India) has remained or remains unclaimed or undistributed for six months after the same became claimable or distributable, or in any other case for two years after the receipt thereof by the assignee, the assignee shall forthwith pay it into the Court for credit, if it is held for an estate, to the Bankruptcy Estates Account of that Court, or, if it is held as a dividend for a creditor, to the Bankruptcy Dividends Account of that Court.

(2) In the case of an assignee under the Statute aforesaid in the Court for the Relief of Insolvent Debtors at Calcutta, Madras or Bombay, or in the Court of the Recorder of Rangoon, "the Court" in sub-section (1) means the High Court of Judicature at Fort William, Madras or Bombay, or the Court of the Recorder of Rangoon, as the case may be.

(3) The Court, with the concurrence of the Governor General in Council, may, from time to time, appoint a person to collect and get in all such unclaimed or undistributed moneys, funds or dividends; and for the purposes of this section the Court shall have, and at the instance of the person so appointed or of its own motion may exercise, all the powers conferred by this Act with respect to the discovery and realization of the property of a debtor, and the provisions of Part I of this Act with respect thereto shall, with any necessary modifications, apply to proceedings under this section.

(4) The provisions of this section shall not, except as expressly declared herein, deprive any person of any larger or other right or remedy to which he may be entitled against the assignee.

[Act II of 1874, s. 62.]

Lapse and credit to Government of unclaimed or undistributed dividends.

131. Moneys transferred to the credit of the Bankruptcy Dividends Account which are not paid within six years from the date of their transfer to that account shall be carried to the account and credit of the Government of India, unless the Court, on the motion of a person interested, otherwise directs.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 162. Act II of 1874, s. 63.]

Claims to moneys paid into Court or credited to Government under section 130 or section 131.

132. Any person claiming to be entitled to any moneys paid into the Bankruptcy Estates Account or the Bankruptcy Dividends Account pursuant to section 130, or carried to the account and credit of the Government of India pursuant to section 131, may apply to the Court for an order for payment to him of the same; and the Court, if satisfied that the person claiming is entitled, shall make an order for payment to him of the sum due:

Provided that, before making an order for the payment of a sum which has been carried to the account and credit of the Government of India, the Court shall cause a notice to be served on such officer as the Governor General in Council may appoint in this behalf, calling on the officer to show cause, within one month from the date of the service of the notice, why the order should not be made.

[New.]

Distribution of certain unclaimed dividends reserved in respect of unproved claims under 11 & 12 Vic., c. 21.

133. (1) Where in the books of the official assignee of the Court for the Relief of Insolvent Debtors at Calcutta, Madras or Bombay, or of the Court of the Recorder of Rangoon, a dividend in respect of the claim of a person who has been named in a schedule as a creditor of an insolvent in proceedings under the 11 & 12 Vic., c. 21 (An Act to consolidate and amend the Laws relating to Insolvent Debtors in India), but has not established his title to the dividend, has been standing to the credit of the estate of the insolvent for a longer period than six years from the date of the declaration of the dividend, the official assignee of the High Court of Judicature at Fort William, Madras or Bombay, or of the Court of the Recorder of Rangoon, as the case may be, shall, at the prescribed time and in the prescribed form, file an account of it in Court, and publish the account in two successive issues of the local official Gazette.

(2) If the dividend is not claimed within six months from the date of the second publication of the account in the Gazette, it shall, after deduction therefrom of the cost of preparing, filing and publishing the account, be divided rateably among the creditors of the estate who have proved their debts or demands.

Debtor's Books.

[Bankruptcy Rules, 1883, para. 259.]

Access to debtor's books.

134. (1) No person shall, as against the assignee, be entitled to withhold possession of the books of accounts belonging to the debtor or to set up any lien thereon.

[New.]

(2) Any creditor of the bankrupt may, subject to the control of the Court, inspect at all reasonable times, personally or by agent, any such books in the possession of the assignee.

Interpretation.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 168.]

Interpretation.

135. (1) In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires,—

(1) "province" means the territories under the administration of a Local Government:

(2) "High Court of the province" and "High Court of a province" mean the highest Civil Court of appeal for a province:

(3) "the Court" (except in Part VIII) means the Court having jurisdiction in bankruptcy under this Act:

(4) "affidavit" includes declarations under any legislative enactment, affirmations, and attestations on honour:

(5) "assignee" means an official assignee or special assignee:

(6) "available act of bankruptcy" means any act of bankruptcy available for a bankruptcy petition at the date of the presentation of the petition on which the receiving order is made:

(7) "debt provable in bankruptcy" or "provable debt" includes any debt or liability by this Act made provable in bankruptcy:

(8) "general rules" includes forms:

(9) "Government treasury" includes a bank which conducts treasury business for the Government:

(10) "local authority" means any municipal committee, district board, body of port commissioners or other authority legally entitled to, or entrusted by the Government with, the control or management of any municipal or local fund:

(11) "oath" includes affirmation, declaration under any legislative enactment, and attestation on honour:

(12) "ordinary resolution" means a resolution decided by a majority in value of the creditors present, personally or by proxy, at a meeting of creditors and voting on the resolution:

(13) "prescribed" means prescribed by general rules within the meaning of this Act:

(14) "property" includes money, goods, things in action, land and every other description of property, whether moveable or immoveable; also, obligations, easements and every description of estate, interest and profit, present or future, vested or contingent, arising out of or incident to property as above defined:

(15) "schedule" means a schedule to this Act:

The Indian Bankruptcy Bill, 1886.
(Part IX.—Supplemental Provisions.—Section 136.)
(The First Schedule.—Meetings of Creditors.)

(16) "secured creditor" means a person holding a mortgage, charge or lien on the property of the debtor, or any part thereof, as a security for a debt due to him from the debtor:

(17) "sheriff" includes any officer charged with the execution of a writ or other process:

(18) "special resolution" means a resolution decided by a majority in number and three-fourths in value of the creditors present, personally or by proxy, at a meeting of creditors and voting on the resolution.

(2) The schedules to this Act shall be construed and have effect as part of the Act.

Repeal.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 169.]

136. (1) The enactments described in the third schedule are hereby repealed as from the commencement of this Act to the extent mentioned in that schedule.

Repeal of enactments.

(2) The repeal effected by this Act shall not affect—

(a) anything done or suffered before the commencement of this Act under any enactment repealed by this Act; or

(b) any right or privilege acquired, or duty imposed, or liability or disqualification incurred, under any enactment so repealed; or

(c) any fine, forfeiture or other punishment incurred or to be incurred in respect of any offence committed or to be committed against any enactment so repealed; or

(d) the institution or continuance of any proceeding or other remedy, whether under any enactment so repealed or otherwise, for ascertaining any such liability or disqualification, or recovering or enforcing any such fine, forfeiture or punishment as aforesaid.

(3) Notwithstanding the repeal effected by this Act, all proceedings in any Court or before a Judge of any Court under any of the enactments repealed pending at the commencement of this Act shall, except so far as any provision of this Act expressly applies to pending proceedings, continue, and those enactments shall, except as aforesaid, apply thereto, as if this Act had not passed.

(4) The person for the time being holding the office of official assignee for any of the High Courts of Judicature at Fort William, Madras and Bombay, or for the Court of the Recorder of Rangoon, shall, for the purposes of any such proceedings pending before that Court or any Judge thereof, be deemed to have been appointed official assignee under the repealed enactment.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, Sch. I.]

THE FIRST SCHEDULE.

(See section 17.)

MEETINGS OF CREDITORS.

1. The official assignee shall summon the meeting mentioned in section 17 by giving not less than seven days' notice of the time and place thereof in the prescribed manner.

2. The official assignee shall also, as soon as practicable, send to each creditor mentioned in the debtor's statement of affairs a notice of the time and place of the meeting, accompanied by a summary of the debtor's statement of affairs, including the causes of his failure, and any observations thereon which the official assignee may think fit to make; but the proceedings at the meeting shall not be invalidated by reason of any such notice or summary not having been sent or received before the meeting.

3. The meeting shall be held at such place as is in the opinion of the official assignee most convenient for the majority of the creditors.

4. The official assignee or the special assignee may at any time summon a meeting of creditors, and shall do so whenever so directed by the Court, or so requested in writing by one-fourth in value of the creditors.

5. Meetings subsequent to the meeting mentioned in section 17 shall be summoned by sending notice of the time and place thereof to each creditor at the address given in his proof, or, if he has not proved, at the address given in the debtor's statement of affairs, or at such other address as may be known to the person summoning the meeting.

6. The official assignee, or some person nominated by him, shall be the chairman at every meeting: Provided that, if the Court so directs, the chairman at any meeting subsequent to the meeting mentioned in section 17 shall be such person as the meeting by ordinary resolution appoint.

7. A person shall not be entitled to vote as a creditor at any meeting of creditors unless he has duly proved a debt provable in bankruptcy to be due to him from the debtor, and the proof has been duly lodged before the time appointed for the meeting.

8. A creditor shall not vote at any such meeting in respect of any unliquidated or contingent debt, or any debt the value of which is not ascertained.

9. For the purpose of voting a secured creditor shall, unless he surrenders his security, state in his proof the particulars of his security, the date when it was given, and the value at which he assesses it, and shall be entitled to vote only in respect of the balance (if any) due to him, after deducting the value of his security. If he votes in respect of his whole debt, he shall be deemed to have surrendered his security, unless the Court on application is satisfied that the omission to value the security has arisen from inadvertence.

10. A creditor shall not vote in respect of any debt on or secured by a current bill of exchange or promissory note held by him, unless he is willing to treat the liability to him thereon of every person who is liable thereon antecedently to the debtor, and against whom a receiving order has not been made, as a security in his hands, and to estimate the value thereof and for the purposes of voting, but not for the purposes of dividend, to deduct it from his proof.

11. It shall be competent to the assignee, within twenty-eight days after a proof estimating the value of a security as aforesaid has been made use of in voting at any meeting, to require the creditor to give up the security for the benefit of the creditors generally on payment of the value so estimated, with an addition thereto of twenty per centum: Provided that, where a creditor has put a value on the security, he may at any time before he has been required to give up the security as aforesaid correct the valuation by a new proof, and deduct the new value from his debt, but in that case the addition of twenty per centum shall not be made if the assignee requires the security to be given up.

12. If a receiving order is made against one partner of a firm, any creditor to whom that partner is indebted jointly with the other partners of the firm, or any of them, may prove his debt for the purpose of voting at any meeting of creditors, and shall be entitled to vote thereat.

13. The chairman of a meeting shall have power to admit or reject a proof for the purpose of voting, but his decision shall be subject to appeal to the Court. If he is in doubt whether the proof of a creditor should be admitted or rejected, he shall mark the proof as objected to and shall allow the creditor to vote, subject to the vote being declared invalid in the event of the objection being sustained.

14. A creditor may vote either in person or by proxy.

15. Every instrument of proxy shall be in the prescribed form, and shall be issued by the official assignee, or, if a special assignee has been appointed, by the special assignee, and every insertion therein shall be in the handwriting of the person giving the proxy.

16. A creditor may give a general proxy to his manager or clerk, or any other person in his regular employment. In that case the instrument of proxy shall state the relation in which the person to act thereunder stands to the creditor.

17. A creditor may give a special proxy to any person to vote at any specified meeting or adjournment thereof, for or against any specific resolution, or for or against any specified person as special assignee.

18. A proxy shall not be used unless it is deposited with the official assignee or special assignee before the meeting at which it is to be used.

19. Where it appears to the satisfaction of the Court that any solicitation has been used by or on behalf of a special assignee in obtaining proxies, or in procuring the special assigneeship, except by the direction of a meeting of creditors, the Court shall have power, if it thinks fit, to order that no remuneration shall be allowed to the person by whom or on whose behalf the solicitation has been exercised, notwithstanding any resolution of the creditors to the contrary.

20. A creditor may appoint the official assignee of the debtor's estate to act in manner prescribed as his general or special proxy.

21. The chairman of a meeting may, with the consent of the meeting, adjourn the meeting from time to time, and from place to place.

22. A meeting shall not be competent to act for any purpose, except the election of a chairman and the adjournment of the meeting, unless there are present, or represented thereat, at least three creditors, or all the creditors if their number does not exceed three.

23. If within half an hour from the time appointed for the meeting a quorum of creditors is not present or represented, the meeting shall be adjourned to the same day in the following week at the same time and place, or to such other day as the chairman may appoint, not being less than seven or more than twenty-one days.

24. The chairman of every meeting shall cause minutes of the proceedings at the meeting to be drawn up, and fairly entered in a book kept for that purpose, and the minutes shall be signed by him.

25. No person acting under either a general or a special proxy shall vote in favour of any resolution which would directly or indirectly place himself, his partner or employer in a position to receive any remuneration out of the estate of the debtor otherwise than as a creditor rateably with the other creditors of the debtor: Provided that where any person holds special proxies to vote for the appointment of himself as special assignee, he may use the said proxies and vote accordingly.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, Sch. II.]

THE SECOND SCHEDULE.

(See section 32.)

PROOF OF DEBTS.

Proof in ordinary cases.

1. Every creditor shall prove his debt as soon as may be after the making of a receiving order.

2. A debt may be proved by delivering or sending through the post in a prepaid letter to the official assignee, or, if a special assignee has been appointed, to the special assignee, an affidavit verifying the debt.

3. The affidavit may be made by the creditor himself or by some person authorised by or on behalf of the creditor. If made by a person so authorised, it shall state his authority and means of knowledge.

4. The affidavit shall contain or refer to a statement of account showing the particulars of the debt, and shall specify the vouchers, if any, by which the same can be substantiated. The official assignee or special assignee may at any time call for the production of the vouchers.

5. The affidavit shall state whether the creditor is or is not a secured creditor.

6. A creditor shall bear the cost of proving his debt, unless the Court otherwise specially orders.

7. Every creditor who has lodged a proof shall be entitled to see and examine the proofs of other creditors at all reasonable times.

8. A creditor proving his debt shall deduct therefrom all trade discounts, but he shall not be compelled to deduct any discount, not exceeding five per centum on the net amount of his claim, which he may have agreed to allow for payment in cash.

Proof by Secured Creditors.

9. If a secured creditor realizes his security, he may prove for the balance due to him, after deducting the net amount realized.

10. If a secured creditor surrenders his security to the assignee for the general benefit of the creditors, he may prove for his whole debt.

11. If a secured creditor does not either realize or surrender his security, he shall, before ranking for dividend, state in his proof the particulars of his security, the date when it was given and the value at which he assesses it, and shall be entitled to receive a dividend only in respect of the balance due to him after deducting the value so assessed.

12. (a) Where a security is so valued the assignee may at any time redeem it on payment to the creditor of the assessed value.

(b) If the assignee is dissatisfied with the value at which a security is assessed, he may require that the property comprised in any security so valued be offered for sale at such times and on such terms and conditions as may be agreed on between the creditor and the assignee, or as, in default of agreement, the Court may direct. If the sale is by public auction, the creditor, or the assignee on behalf of the estate, may bid or purchase.

(c) Provided that the creditor may at any time, by notice in writing, require the assignee to elect whether he will or will not exercise his power of redeeming the security or requiring it to be realized, and if the assignee does not, within six months after receiving the notice, signify in writing to the creditor his election to exercise the power, he shall not be entitled to exercise it; and the equity of redemption, or any other interest in the property comprised in the security which is vested in the assignee, shall vest in the creditor, and the amount of his debt shall be reduced by the amount at which the security has been valued.

13. Where a creditor has so valued his security, he may at any time amend the valuation and proof on showing to the satisfaction of the assignee, or the Court, that the valuation and proof were made bonâ fide on a mistaken estimate, or that the security has diminished or increased in value since its previous valuation; but every such amendment shall be made at the cost of the creditor, and upon such terms as the Court shall order, unless the assignee shall allow the amendment without application to the Court.

14. Where a valuation has been amended in accordance with the foregoing rule, the creditor shall forthwith repay any surplus dividend which he has received in excess of that to which he would have been entitled on the amended valuation, or, as the case may be, shall be entitled to be paid out of any money for the time being available for dividend any dividend or share of dividend which he has failed to receive by reason of the inaccuracy of the original valuation, before that money is made applicable to the payment of any future dividend, but he shall not be entitled to disturb the distribution of any dividend declared before the date of the amendment.

15. If a creditor after having valued his security subsequently realizes it, or if it is realized under the provisions of rule 12, the net amount realized shall be substituted for the amount of any valuation previously made by the creditor, and shall be treated in all respects as an amended valuation made by the creditor.

16. If a secured creditor does not comply with the foregoing rules, he shall be excluded from all share in any dividend.

17. Subject to the provisions of rule 12, a creditor shall in no case receive more than sixteen annas in the rupee and interest as provided by this Act.

Taking Accounts of Property mortgaged and Sale thereof.

[Bankruptcy Rules, 1869, paras. 65-68.]

18. Upon application by motion by any person claiming to be a mortgagee of any part of the bankrupt's immoveable property, whether the mortgage is of a legal or equitable nature, the Court shall proceed to inquire whether the person is such mortgagee, and for what consideration and under what circumstances; and if it is found that the person is such mortgagee, and if no sufficient objection appears to the title of the person to the sum claimed by him under the mortgage, the Court shall direct such accounts and inquiries to be taken as may be necessary for ascertaining the principal, interest and costs due upon the mortgage, and the rents and profits, or dividends, interest or other proceeds received by the person, or by any other person by his order or for his use in case he has been in possession of the property over which the mortgage extends, or any part thereof; and the Court, if satisfied that there ought to be a sale, shall direct notice to be given in such Gazettes or newspapers as it thinks fit, when and where, and by whom and in what way, the property, or the interest therein so mortgaged, is to be sold, and that the sale be made accordingly, and that the assignee (unless it be otherwise ordered) shall have the conduct of the sale; but it shall not be imperative on any such mortgagee to make such application. At any such sale the mortgagee may bid and purchase.

19. All proper parties shall join in the conveyance to the purchaser, as the Court may direct.

20. The moneys arising from the sale shall be applied in the first place in payment of the costs, charges and expenses of the assignee, of and occasioned by the application to the Court and of and attending the sale, and then in payment and satisfaction so far as the same will extend of what is found due to the mortgagee, for principal, interest and costs; and the surplus of the said moneys (if any) shall then be paid to the assignee. But in case the moneys arising from the sale are insufficient to pay and satisfy what is so found due to the mortgagee, then he shall be entitled to prove as a creditor for the deficiency, and receive dividends thereon rateably with the other creditors, but not so as to disturb any dividend then already declared.

21. For the better taking of such inquiries and accounts, and making a title to the purchaser, all parties may be examined by the Court upon interrogatories or otherwise as it may think fit, and shall produce before the Court upon oath all deeds, papers, books and writings in their respective custody or power relating to the estate or effects of the bankrupt, as the Court may direct.

Proof in respect of Distinct Contracts.

22. If a debtor was at the date of the receiving order liable in respect of distinct contracts as a member of two or more distinct firms, or as a sole contractor and also as member of a firm, the circumstance that the firms are in whole or in part composed of the same individuals, or that the sole contractor is also one of the joint contractors, shall not prevent proof in respect of the contracts against the properties respectively liable on the contracts.

Periodical Payments.

23. When any rent or other payment falls due at stated periods, and the receiving order is made at any time other than one of those periods, the person entitled to the rent or payment may prove for a proportionate part thereof up to the date of the order as if the rent or payment grew due from day to day.

The Indian Bankruptcy Bill, 1886.
(The Third Schedule.—Enactments repealed.)

Interest.

24. On any debt or sum certain, payable at a certain time or otherwise, whereon interest is not reserved or agreed for, and which is overdue at the date of the receiving order and provable in bankruptcy, the creditor may prove for interest at a rate not exceeding six per centum per annum to the date of the order from the time when the debt or sum was payable, if the debt or sum is payable by virtue of a written instrument at a certain time, and, if payable otherwise, then from the time when a demand in writing has been made giving the debtor notice that interest will be claimed from the date of the demand until the time of payment.

Debt payable at a future Time.

25. A creditor may prove for a debt not payable when the debtor committed an act of bankruptcy as if it were payable presently, and may receive dividends equally with the other creditors, deducting only thereout a rebate of interest at the rate of five per centum per annum computed from the declaration of a dividend to the time when the debt would have become payable according to the terms on which it was contracted.

Admission or Rejection of Proofs.

26. The assignee shall examine every proof and the grounds of the debt, and in writing admit or reject it in whole or in part, or require further evidence in support of it. If he rejects a proof, he shall state in writing to the creditor the grounds of the rejection.

27. If the assignee thinks that a proof has been improperly admitted, the Court may, on the application of the assignee, after notice to the creditor who made the proof, expunge the proof or reduce its amount.

28. If a creditor is dissatisfied with the decision of the assignee in respect of a proof, the Court may, on the application of the creditor, reverse or vary the decision.

29. The Court may also expunge or reduce a proof upon the application of a creditor if the assignee declines to interfere in the matter, or, in the case of a composition or scheme, upon the application of the debtor.

30. For the purpose of any of his duties in relation to proofs, the assignee may administer oaths and take affidavits.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THIS matter of the general amendment of the law of bankruptcy and insolvency in India has been frequently of late years pressed upon the attention of the Government of India.

There are at present two main bodies of insolvency law in force in British India—first, the Statute 11 & 12 Vic., cap. 21; and secondly, Chapter XX of the Code of Civil Procedure (XIV of 1882). Roughly speaking, the former constitutes the insolvency law for the three Presidency-towns and for the towns of Rangoon, Moulmein, Akyab and Bassein; the latter the law for the country outside those towns. It is, however, to be observed that the High Courts administer the insolvency chapter of the Civil Procedure Code concurrently with their ordinary insolvency jurisdiction. Besides these two main bodies of law, there is a special insolvency law for the Punjab under Act IV of 1872, sections 22 to 33; and there are special Acts that have been passed for the relief of indebted landowners in different parts of the country.

2. In the year 1870 Sir James Stephen introduced a Bill repealing the Statute of 1848, and substituting for it an insolvency law applicable to the whole of British India. It was taken mainly from the English Bankruptcy Act of 1869. The general opinion about it was that its provisions were too complicated for the Mufassal, and that the system of voluntary management by creditors, which was then the principle of the English Act, was unsuitable to India, and the measure was accordingly dropped. The Bill was possibly open to the objection that it was beyond the competency of the Indian legislature, but this point does not appear to have been taken at the time.

3. Sir Arthur Hobhouse did not attempt to touch the insolvency law of the Presidency-towns, but he paid a good deal of attention to what he described as "those seldom-used sections" of the Code of Civil Procedure "which do duty for an insolvency law" in the Mufassal.* Speaking on the subject in 1875,† he remarked that the Code then contained the germ of an insolvency law, but nothing more than a germ. He believed that this part of the Code had been very little used, and he remarked that if this was so it was not surprising, as there was very small inducement to the debtor to avail himself of it. It seemed, however, he went on to say, to be the prevailing opinion that the judicial machinery in the Mufassal was hardly adapted to the working of any general and complete law of insolvency. At all events, he said, such a law should be treated as a separate measure, and not as part of the Code. It would probably, he added, be better for the present, and be likely to pave the way for some more complete measure in the future, if the legislature were to make the law a little less rudimentary than it then was, and at all events to supplement it where it seemed to be broken off in its natural course; and he embodied in Chapter XX of the Code of 1877 certain provisions framed in accordance with these views.

4. By Act XII of 1879 (now superseded by the Code of Civil Procedure of 1882) several amendments were made in the insolvency chapter of the Code. The most important of these was the extension of the chapter to persons against whose property orders of attachment had been issued in execution of money-decrees. In his speech on the passing of this Act, Mr. Whitley Stokes said that Chapter XX, even with all the improvements made by this Act, would still be incomplete; but that it went as far as most of the Committee with their present knowledge of the condition of the Mufassal Courts and the extent of India's indebtedness thought safe and wise. The Government of India in the Home Department, he said, either had issued, or was about to issue, a circular to the Local Governments, requesting their opinion as to the propriety of allowing debtors to a certain amount to apply for a declaration of insolvency, and if this were found possible the law would be altered accordingly.‡

5. The circular referred to by Mr. Stokes was issued on the 22nd of September, 1879, and invited an expression of opinion on the suggestion that persons owing Rs. 200 and upwards should be allowed to apply to be adjudged insolvents, though they might not have been arrested or imprisoned, and though no order of attachment against their property had been made. The majority of the opinions received was adverse to the suggestion, and accordingly it was dropped.

6. In January, 1881, Mr. Pitt-Kennedy brought in a Bill for the amendment of the law relating to insolvent debtors in India. It was a short amending Bill of seven sections, and did not attempt to consolidate the law. Serious doubts were entertained whether some of the proposals of the Bill were not ultra vires, and it was therefore decided that the Bill should not be proceeded with. In the meantime, however, it had been circulated to Local Governments and Administrations for opinion: and among the comments and criticisms which were passed upon it the doubt is not unfrequently expressed whether it was worth while to pass a mere amending Bill, and whether it would not be possible to re-cast completely the insolvency law for India.

7. It is clear further that, apart from any question of general revision, there are certain points in which the existing law stands in somewhat urgent need of emendation.

Thus, the Secretary of State, in a despatch dated the 21st October, 1880, requested the early consideration by the Government of India, in communication with the several High Courts, of the question whether the Insolvency Courts could not under the existing law order the charge for advertising notices of insolvency in the provincial Gazettes and in the London Gazette to be defrayed from the estates concerned, and suggested that, if necessary, recourse should be had to legislation to ensure the recovery from every estate of all costs, whether incurred in England or in India, attendant on the insolvency. The Local Governments and High Courts were consulted on this question; and though the majority of them were of opinion that the point might be dealt with by an alteration of the statutory rules, yet the possibility of meeting the difficulty satisfactorily in this way does not appear to be altogether free from doubt.

8. Again, at Bombay, in consequence of the discovery some five or six years ago of serious defalcations on the part of the Official Assignee, it became necessary to re-organize the office of that functionary, and the High Court deemed it necessary—

(1) to provide that the accounts of the Official Assignee should be regularly audited by a competent auditor; and

(2) to appoint an Official Assignee of such position and character as might afford an effectual guarantee against misappropriation, and of such energy and legal knowledge as might ensure the most satisfactory and least expensive realization and distribution amongst creditors.

For these purposes additional funds were required, and the Court proposed to provide these funds mainly from unclaimed dividends. Accordingly, they framed certain new rules under the Insolvency Act of 1848, by which the unclaimed dividends were to be formed into a fund to be invested, with other money, in Government paper. The interest was to be applied in paying an auditor, and in supplementing the remuneration of the Official Assignee. These rules have hitherto been acted on, but doubts have been suggested as to their validity, and the Bombay Government have been pressing the Government of India to introduce or sanction legislation for the purpose of validating them. It appears, however, to be doubtful whether they can be validated by anything short of Parliamentary legislation.

9. The insolvency law of the Presidency-towns is admittedly cumbrous, defective and out of date, and in some points of detail is, as has been shown, urgently in need of amendment. The proposals for its revision which have hitherto been submitted to the legislature have been objected to, not so much on the ground that they were undesirable, as on the ground that they were insufficient, and that, while it was desirable to re-cast the whole law and bring it into conformity with English law, it was expedient to postpone legislation for this purpose while proposals involving important amendments of the English law itself were under consideration. This objection has recently been removed by the passing of the English Bankruptcy Act of 1883. That Act may not be perfect; but at least it embodies the accumulated experience of the thirty-five years which elapsed since the passing of the Indian Insolvency Act; and in commercial law perfection of detail is less important than uniformity of principle. It is eminently desirable that the circumstances under which a debtor may be declared insolvent and under which he may obtain his discharge should be, as far as possible, the same in London and Calcutta.

10. The Government of India, therefore, after reference to the Secretary of State, came to the conclusion that the opportunity should be taken of repealing the Indian Insolvency Act and substituting a new Act conforming in general prineiples to the English Act of 1883, but adapted in details to Indian circumstances.

A Bill on these lines was prepared last year, and, having regard to the circumstance that an Indian Bankruptcy Act will have in some cases to be used by persons beyond the limits of British India, and to the advantage of having the decisions of the English Courts as a guide to its construction, it was thought well that its form and drafting should follow the English Act as closely as possible, except where there was some substantial reason for taking a different course. The result of the adoption of the English Act as a model then is that in some instances the phraseology of the present Bill, which is based on the draft of 1885, will be found to vary slightly from that ordinarily adopted in Acts of the Indian legislature, and in others it may be found to contain rules of interpretation and evidence, penal clauses and other provisions, which either cover ground already covered by parallel Indian enactments, or would be somewhat differently framed in a Bill intended only for this country.

11. The Bill which was prepared last year was submitted for opinion to the authorities most competent to advise on the subject of bankruptcy, and the further deviations from the scheme of the English Act which will be found in the present Bill are the outcome of the advice given by those authorities.

12. The first question which presents itself in connection with this measure is whether the new law should be applied to the whole of British India or only to specified towns.

There is something to be said in favour of having one, and only one, insolvency law for the whole of India. But, on the other hand, the difference between the circumstances of indebtedness in commercial seaports and in the interior appears to be such as to require, not indeed a different law, but different machinery. If Chapter XX of the Code of Civil Procedure were not in existence, it might be desirable to insert in a general Insolvency Act a chapter applying the law for the Presidency-towns, with modifications and simplifications, to the Mufassal Courts. But under existing circumstances it is thought that the best course is to keep Chapter XX standing, to amend it where necessary, and to apply it generally to parts of the country and to forms of indebtedness to which a law framed principally with a view to commercial insolvencies is not applicable, the new law being applied in the first instance only to the three Presidency-towns, and to Rangoon, Moulmein, Akyab and Bassein, and a power being taken to extend it to other commercial centres, such as Karáchi.

13. The Bill accordingly (section 79) constitutes by its direct operation only four Courts of Bankruptcy, namely, the High Courts of Judicature at Calcutta, Madras and Bombay and the Court of the Recorder of Rangoon, and confers upon the Local Governments power, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, to constitute other Courts of Bankruptcy in the territories administered by them. The local limits of the jurisdiction of the Presidency High Courts when exercising bankruptcy jurisdiction are (section 80) defined to be the same as the local limits of their ordinary original civil jurisdiction, the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Recorder of Rangoon to comprise (as at present) the towns of Rangoon, Moulmein, Akyab and Bassein. The local limits of the Courts which may be constituted by Local Governments will be defined by those Governments with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council.

14. The next question that presents itself is one as to the powers of the Governor General's Council. The present Indian insolvency law is contained in an Act of Parliament so framed as to operate throughout Her Majesty's dominions. Thus a vesting order made under it vests in the assignee by its direct operation all the real and personal estate and effects of the insolvent in whatever part of those dominions they may be situated or accrue. An order of discharge made under it has direct effect in every part of those dominions. And the subordinate provisions of the Act are, speaking generally, framed on similar lines. The Act is one of those which it is within the competency of the Legislative Council of the Governor General to modify or repeal; but if we were to undertake without the aid of Parliament to repeal and re-cast it in the manner above indicated, we should, owing to the limitation of our legislative powers, produce an enactment which would fall short of the present law in the important matter of its local extent and operation. Nor could we attain our object by any amendment of the existing Acts. To say nothing of the impracticability, from the draftman's point of view, of effecting, by way of amendment, the multitude of alterations which are needed in details and in matters of form, it must be remembered that it would be beyond the powers of the Council to extend in any way or substantially modify any of those provisions which apply beyond the limits of British India. And it is apprehended that, even if we were content to forego all notion of directly interfering with these provisions, any extensive amendment of the Act would probably affect them in such a way that either they would be held to have lost their operation beyond British India, or our enactment would be held to be ultra vires so far as it affected them, or else some other confusion or difficulty would arise.

15. It is an apprehension of some such result as this that has deterred the Government from attempting certain amendments of the Insolvency Act which have been from time to time suggested, and which in themselves would appear to be of a most trifling description. It is true that if the Council were to repeal the existing Act and substitute for it an Act of its own, drawn on improved lines, the new law, though treated as a foreign bankruptcy law, would receive a certain amount of recognition and would be given effect to in many cases in the United Kingdom and in British Colonies; but it is apprehended that this result would, as a rule, be attainable only indirectly and through the medium of further judicial proceedings, that in some cases those proceedings would give rise to perplexing questions of private international law, and that in other cases again the Indian law would obtain but partial recognition. It is believed, for example, that a vesting order passed by our Courts under such a law would be allowed no effect as regards immoveable property situate in another British jurisdiction, and that the cases in which effect would be given to an order of discharge so passed are not as yet completely defined. Such difficulties could, no doubt, be met by supplementary bankruptcy proceedings concurrently instituted in the United Kingdom or the Colony, but it is obvious that the necessity for this should, if possible, be avoided. The Government of India has no information as to the proportion of the cases that now come before our Insolvency Courts in this country in which a limitation of the local operation of the law, like that just referred to, would be felt as a serious impediment; but it is apprehended that it would be so felt in the more important cases of bankrupts engaged in business transactions extending to the United Kingdom or the Colonies.

16. For these reasons it is necessary that any legislation undertaken here should be supported by an Act of Parliament. The precise form which the Act of Parliament should take is still under consideration in communication with the Secretary of State, but the Government of India as at present advised is disposed to think that the Act should be a confirming Act following legislation here rather than an enabling Act preceding it. An enabling Act followed by an Indian Act would give rise to questions as to whether the Indian legislature had exceeded the powers given to it by the English Act.

17. As regards the provisions of the Bill itself, it will be observed that the most striking difference between them and those of the English Act is that the duties discharged in England by the Board of Trade and committees of inspection are by the Bill entrusted to the Bankruptcy Court. This was unavoidable, as there is no authority in this country outside the Courts which could undertake the duties of the Board of Trade with any prospect of success, and the opinion is almost unanimous that the superintendence of bankruptcy proceedings by committees of inspection is unsuited to India.

18. Opinion is also adverse to the application to India of some of the provisions of the English Act respecting meetings of creditors. It is proposed therefore that meetings shall be held only when they are deemed by the assignee or the Court or one-fourth in value of the creditors to be necessary.

19. The other points in the Bill which appear to require explanation will be referred to, as far as possible, in the order of the sections in which they occur.

20. The local extent of the Act (section 1) has been made as wide as the powers of the Indian legislature permit, and its operation can only be further extended by Parliament.

21. Several of the authorities who have recorded opinions on the draft of 1885, and among them a Committee of the Judges of the High Court at Fort William, have taken exception to the seizure and sale of the goods of a debtor under process of a Civil Court, and the failure of a debtor to comply with the requirements of a bankruptcy notice, being made acts of bankruptcy in India as they have been in England by section 4, sub-section (l), clauses (e) and (g), of the English Act. Those clauses therefore have been excluded from the Bill (section 2), but in their stead have been added clauses making it an act of bankruptcy for a debtor to offer a composition to his creditors (L. R. 13 Q. B. D. 471), or to be lying in prison for a longer period than twenty-one days for making default in payment of money (11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, ss. 8 and 9).

22. By section 4 the jurisdiction of the Court is limited to cases in which the debtor is in prison within the local limits of the jurisdiction under an order of a Civil Court for default in payment of money, or in which the debtor, or, if he is a member of a firm, his partner, has within a year before the presentation of the bankruptcy petition ordinarily resided or had a dwelling-house or place of business within those limits. This differs from the corresponding provisions of the English Act, which place no restriction of this kind on a petition by a debtor, and which admit a petition against a debtor when, and only when, he "is domiciled in England, or, within a year before the date of the presentation of the petition, has ordinarily resided or had a dwelling-house or place of business in England."

It differs also from the corresponding provisions of the Indian Insolvency Act, which proceed on the distinction, now to be abolished, between traders and others, and the effect of which in all particulars it would be hazardous to attempt to state.

23. As regards the difference between the English Act and the Bill in this respect, it seems clear that the fact of the debtor being in prison within the jurisdiction should, in this country, continue to be, as it is under the present Insolvency Act, a ground of jurisdiction; and it seems almost equally clear, having regard to the conditions under which the present legislation is undertaken and to the circumstance that the local limits of the jurisdiction of each Court, however they may be fixed, must embrace only a part of British India, that domicile should be rejected here as a ground of jurisdiction.

24. Comparing the Bill with the existing Indian insolvency law as construed by the High Courts, it will be observed that Bankruptcy Courts will, under the Bill, continue to have jurisdiction in cases where the bankrupt has a house of business within the local limits, as Pontifex, J., held them, in the cases of Taring Churn Goho (I. B. L. R., App. 26) and Howard Brothers (I. B. L. R. 254), to have under the existing law, but that a High Court will not have bankruptcy jurisdiction in respect of an up-country debtor merely by reason of his being personally subject to the jurisdiction of that Court. It will be remembered that opposite views have been taken as to the existence of a jurisdiction on this latter ground under the existing law—see re Tietkins, I. B. L. R., O. C., 84, on the one hand, and re Blackwell, 9 Bo. H. C. Rep. 461, and re Ricks, 3 Mad. H. C. Rep. 151, on the other.

25. It has, however, been provided (section 4), on the recommendation of the Committee of the Judges of the High Court at Fort William, that a Court exercising jurisdiction in bankruptcy under the proposed Act may transfer to itself any proceedings under Chapter XX of the Code of Civil Procedure and deal with them under the Act. It has also been provided (section 4) that in any prescribed class of cases the Court may make a receiving order on a bankruptcy petition notwithstanding the restrictions generally confining its jurisdiction to cases arising within certain local limits. Section 9 provides that, where concurrent proceedings have been instituted under the Bankruptcy Act and under the Code, the Court may stay the proceedings under the Code wherever they may be pending.

26. On the recommendation of the Chief Judge of the Bombay Court of Small Causes it is proposed (section 7) that a Bankruptcy Court may refuse to make a receiving order on a debtor's petition if in its opinion the petition ought to have been presented before some other Bankruptcy Court.

27. A receiving order made under section 6 or section 7 of the Bill will not have precisely the same effect as a vesting order under section 7 of the present Insolvency Act. It will transfer the possession of, but not the property in, the debtor's estate. The debtor will not be divested of his estate until he has been adjudged bankrupt (section 20).

28. When the receiving order has been made, the debtor, if in prison, will be released (section 8), but he will be under the control of the official assignee (section 22), to whom the carriage of proceedings may be given if the petitioner does not proceed with due diligence (section 91).

29. Sections 13 and 100 of the Bill give a Bankruptcy Court power to rescind a receiving order or annul an adjudication of bankruptcy when it considers that the debtor's estate would be more conveniently administered in some other part of British India or of Her Majesty's dominions elsewhere. When an adjudication is annulled under the latter section, anything done under it remains valid, and the Court is empowered to direct that the debtor's property shall vest in any person it may appoint. It is conceived that if similarly wide powers are conferred on the English Bankruptcy Courts the provisions regarding concurrent bankruptcies contained in sections 77 et seq. of the present Indian Insolvency Act may be dispensed with.

30. Section 58 protects existing interests of official assignees, and while it is proposed (section 62), in accordance with ordinary Indian practice, to leave the remuneration of official assignees to be determined by executive order, it is improbable that the existing mode of remuneration will be altered during the incumbency of present office-holders.

31. It was urged, among other objections to Sir J. Stephen's Bill, that it would generally be difficult to find among the creditors in this country persons qualified and willing to take a large share in the administration of a bankrupt's estate, and as a matter of fact the official element has always been prominent in administrations under the existing law It is accordingly proposed, on the practically unanimous advice of all authorities conversant with the practice of bankruptcy in this country, that the official assignee shall discharge the functions of trustee in bankruptcy except when the creditors express a wish for the appointment of a special assignee (section 77).

32. By section 24 of the Bill the provisions of section 25 of the English Bankruptcy Act, respecting the re-direction of debtors' letters, have, on the advice of the Bombay Chamber of Commerce, been extended to debtors' telegrams.

33. The saving of section 5 of the Statute commonly known as Bovill's Act (38 & 39 Vic., c. 86) in section 40 (6) of the English Bankruptcy Act has been omitted from section 33 of the Bill, as there is no corresponding enactment in the law of British India.

34. It has been suggested by the Bengal Chamber of Commerce and the Calcutta Trades Association that the clause (section 37) respecting reputed ownership should be so drawn as to meet the contention of the Official Assignee in the case of Gubboy v. Miller (I. L. R. 6 Cal. 633). This suggestion raises a very difficult question, which has been left unsolved by the English Bankruptcy Act of 1883. The opinions of the authorities in India who specially considered the question in 1881, with reference to Mr. Pitt-Kennedy's Bill, may be summed up in the following remarks of Mr. Justice Pontifex on section 23 of 11 & 12 Vic., c. 21 :—

"The fact is that the clause, though extremely valuable in particular cases, is one very dangerous to meddle with. As it stands, it is beneficial. To alter it as proposed would, in my opinion, be most mischievous. It is impossible with justice to make it apply to every case, and it would be hazardous to attempt to define with particularity to what cases it should apply. In my opinion it should be left as it now stands."

If further legislation is required, it must, in the opinion of the Government of India, take the form of a Bills of Sale Act.

35. Sections 45 and 46 of the English Bankruptcy Act, being framed with reference to English forms of execution, could not be adopted in the Bill without modification. It has been thought (sections 38 and 39 of the Bill) that the course most in harmony at the same time with those sections of the English Act and with the analogies presented by the Code of Civil Procedure would be to make the point of time at which the attaching creditor's title becomes complete against the assignee the same as that at which under section 295 of the Code it becomes complete against rival decree-holders. It is hoped that this will afford a simple and equitable settlement of a point regarding which there has been some difficulty in connection with the existing insolvency law.

36. On the suggestion of Mahárájá Sir Jotendro Mohun Tagore and Bábú Doorga Churn Law the provisions of section 45 of the Bill, with respect to the appropriation of pay or pension, have been made subject to the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure and the Pensions Act, 1871.

37. The difference between section 48 (1) (e) of the Bill, defining the trustee's powers in respect of property to which the bankrupt is entitled "as tenant in tail or other owner of an estate of inheritance less than an estate in fee-simple," and the corresponding provision of the English Bankruptcy Act is explained by the peculiar position in which the owners of such estates are placed by section 2 of Act XXXI of 1854. The simplicity of that position makes it possible to dispense with all the provisions of the Act for the abolition of fines and recoveries, which are incorporated by reference in the English Bankruptcy Act, with the exception of one, the substance of which, so far as it appears to be required, is embodied in sub-section (2) of section 48 of the Bill.

38. A Bankruptcy Court will have two entirely different kinds of money under its control, namely, (a) money held by it on account of estates before declaration of dividend, and (b) declared dividends awaiting distribution, the former being the property of estates and the latter the property of specific creditors. Section 64 recognises this distinction, and requires the Court to keep a Bankruptcy Estates Account and a Bankruptcy Dividends Account, the former being an account of money held for estates and the latter of money removed from that account on declaration of dividends and held for creditors till their dividends are paid to them or, through their default, lapse to the Government (section 131).

Both the Accounts are to be kept by the Court with a Government treasury. It is considered desirable that, like moneys received by ordinary Civil Courts, money received on account of bankruptcy estates should be paid into a Government treasury, in order that there may be the security of the Government for safe custody, and that the safeguards against the occurrence of error provided by the rules of the Government regarding payments from Government treasuries may be brought into operation. The expression "Government treasury" is so defined in section 135 as to include a Presidency Bank conducting treasury business for the Government.

39. Under the English Act of 1883, dividends on investments of money belonging to estates in bankruptcy are credited to the Government, and the Lord Chancellor is required to have regard to the amount thus derived in fixing the fees payable in respect of bankruptcy proceedings. It has been urged, and the Government of India is of opinion, that in this country, where bankruptcy proceedings are often necessarily more protracted than in England, interest on investments should be paid to creditors. But in that case each investment must be made and held separately for each estate, any portion of the funds of which is invested, and investments should only be made when the sum available for investment is large enough to make the interest sensible in amount. Section 66 provides for investments being made on these conditions at the instance of the Court out of funds standing to the credit of estates in the Bankruptcy Estates Account. It is only under that Account that delay prejudicial to creditors can arise. After money has been transferred to the Bankruptcy Dividends Account, any person to whom a dividend is due has only to present his receipt to obtain it, and he should have no inducement, whether by the money lying at interest or in any other way, to postpone for a day his taking the money out of the custody of the Court.

40. Section 79, sub-section (1), clause (c), of the Bill has been so drawn that jurisdiction in bankruptcy may be conferred in a limited class of cases on Courts beyond the Presidency-towns, as, for instance, on the High Court of Judicature for the North-Western Provinces or the Chief Court of the Punjab, with respect to proceedings under Chapter XX of the Code of Civil Procedure, where, by reason of the sum involved or the difficulty of winding up the estate under the Code, the Court may see fit to withdraw the proceedings from the Court in which they are pending and deal with them under proviso (i) to section 4, sub-section (1).

41. Section 85 is based on the section of the English Act which permits the delegation of subordinate jurisdiction in certain matters to Registrars in bankruptcy. It seems that this jurisdiction may be most conveniently exercised by a Judge of the Small Cause Court in Madras and by officers of the High Court in Calcutta and Bombay.

42. Under section 88 of the Bill the appeal from a single Judge of a Presidency High Court and the Recorder of Rangoon exercising bankruptcy jurisdiction lies as at present. The appeal from any Mufassal Courts of Bankruptcy which may be established will in most cases lie to the High Court of the province.

43. Section 101 follows the English Act in fixing the limit for small bankruptcies at Rs. 3,000. But the opinion has been expressed by some of the authorities who have advised on the draft of last year that the limit should be raised to Rs. 5,000 or even to Rs. 10,000. The Government of India itself inclines to that opinion, but deems it advisable to adhere to the limit prescribed in the English Act until the matter can be further considered in the light of the criticisms on the present Bill.

44. Part VIII of the Bill is taken from the English Debtors' Act, 1869, as amended by the Bankruptcy Act, 1883. It embodies those full and strong powers for the arrest and punishment of fraudulent debtors and creditors which are the essential adjuncts of every proper law of bankruptcy. It is proposed, when a suitable occasion presents itself, to amend the Code of Criminal Procedure so as to give a Bankruptcy Court a power to commit offenders for trial similar to that which is conferred on the English Bankruptcy Courts by section 165 of the Act of 1883.

45. With respect to the suggestion that certain additional offences should be created by Part VIII of the Bill, it will be found that the Bill or the Indian Penal Code covers most, if not all, of the acts and omissions for which it has been proposed that further provision should be made.

46. Section 110 of the Bill provides that a married woman shall, in respect of her separate property (if any), be subject to the Act in the same way as if she were unmarried. The restriction in the corresponding provision, section 1 (5), of the English Married Women's Property Act, 1882, which confines it to the case of a woman carrying on a trade separately from her husband, has been omitted, because the vast majority of women to whom the Bill will be applicable stand either under sections 4 and 44 of the Indian Succession Act or under their personal laws on a footing altogether different from that of married women in England.

The phrase "separate property," it may be observed, is used in the wide sense in which it is used in the Indian Married Women's Property Act, 1874.

47. Section 130 provides, among other matters, for the payment into the Bankruptcy Courts of unclaimed dividends and other undistributed money remaining in the hands or under the control of assignees under the 11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, after the passing of the proposed Act.

The unclaimed dividends are of two classes, namely, dividends belonging to creditors who have proved their debts, and dividends reserved for creditors who have not done so.

With respect to dividends of the first class, they are, as the late Chief Justice of Bengal has said, the property of the creditors for whom they have been set apart, or of their representatives, just as much as money appropriated to a person interested in an administration-suit belongs to him or his representative.

The case of dividends of the second class is different, and it is proposed to provide for them by section 133 of the Bill. With respect to this class of dividends, Mr. Turner, the Official Assignee at Bombay, has observed as follows :—

"The other class of unclaimed dividends, which amounts probably to some two or more lakhs of rupees, has arisen in Bombay partly from there being no provision in the Act 11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, section 41 (similar to that in the present proposed Act, section 51), for the declaration of dividends only among creditors who "have proved their debts.*" A practice therefore grew up in the office of the Official Assignee of declaring dividends calculated on the total amount entered in respect of claims, whether partially secured or not, and only adjusting the claims when creditors came to receive payment of the dividend declared. And it must be noticed that this practice had one great practical advantage, inasmuch as such partially secured creditors generally held goods on the way to Europe, and it could not be ascertained, till such goods were actually put on the European market, what the loss (if any) would be. And as creditors in their own interest as well as that of the estate would frequently hold such goods for a considerable time, it would have caused great delay in declaring dividends to wait until such creditors were in a position to adjust and prove their claims. But in many cases the result was that such creditors, when the account-sales were received, did not find it worth their while to prove their claims at all, and in such cases the dividend calculated on the whole original debt, as entered in the schedule, still remains unclaimed.

"Formerly, in the older estates, proceedings were taken under the old Act, XXVII of 1841, to strike such claims off the schedules, but of late years it has been considered that that process could not now be legally carried out."

* No unclaimed dividends of this class can arise under the proposed new Act (see section 55).

48. Section 134 is designed to meet the suggestion of the Acting Prothonotary and the Official Assignee of Bombay that the Act itself, and not the rules under it, should disallow claims to any lien on debtors' books, and the suggestion of the Bombay Chamber of Commerce that the Act should provide for the free access of creditors to those books.

49. Section 136 (3) of the Bill provides that notwithstanding the repeal of the existing law all proceedings pending under it at the time when the new Act comes into operation shall be disposed of as if that Act had not been passed. This is the course taken in respect of pending proceedings by the English Act, and, having regard to the extent of the change to be made in the law, it seems the only practicable course.

50. Rules 18 to 21 of the Second Schedule, regarding the taking of mortgagees' accounts and the sale of mortgaged property, have been inserted on the suggestion of Mr. Macgregor, the Official Assignee at Calcutta. These rules, which are frequently followed in this country, are substantially the same as those issued by Lord Loughborough in 1794, and the fact that they have been retained, with slight alterations, under the many Bankruptcy Acts passed in England since that date, is strong evidence of their utility.

51. It has been suggested that certain privileges should be accorded to the Official Assignee as a party to legal proceedings. But he will be a public officer within the meaning of section 2 of the Code of Civil Procedure, and, as such, entitled to the protection given to public officers by Chapter XXVII of that Code.

52. It has been objected that in certain circumstances the time limited by the draft of 1885 for doing some acts and things under the proposed Act would be found to be inconveniently short. In some cases the time has now been extended, and it is believed that section 89, sub-section (4), will enable the Courts to prevent hardship in the exceptional cases to which the time as now limited may prove inapplicable.

The 14th May, 1886.

Extract, paragraphs 1 to 10, of Despatch from the Government of India to Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India,—(dated the 12th June, 1885).

WITH reference to Your Lordship's despatch No. 24 (Judicial), dated 14th of August last, we have the honour to submit herewith copies of a Bill (with the Objects and Reasons for the same) which has been prepared in our Legislative Department to adapt the English Bankruptcy Act, 1883, to Indian circumstances.

2. In exercise of the discretion left to us by paragraph 4 of Your Lordship's despatch, we have thought it well to make the measure applicable by its own vigour not only to the town of Rangoon but also to those of Bassein, Moulmein and Akyab, in which, as well as in Rangoon, the Presidency-town Insolvency Law has been for some years in force.

3. As regards the details of the measure, the material particulars in which it differs from the English Act are so fully explained in the Statement of Objects and Reasons that we deem it unnecessary to trouble Your Lordship with any further observations upon them.

4. As regards the form of the Parliamentary legislation required to give our Act operation in certain respects beyond the limits of British India, the proposal made in paragraph 27 of our despatch of the 5th May, 1884, was that we should pass our Act and that then an Act of Parliament should be passed extending such of its provisions as ought to apply beyond the limits of British India. On a further consideration of the point, however, we have come to the conclusion that the more convenient course—in fact, the only convenient course—would be that an Act of Parliament should be passed conferring upon the Governor General's Council the [illegible] required for the object in view, and that our legislation should then proceed here in exercise of those powers. We are led to this conclusion chiefly by the consideration that, if the course we originally proposed were adopted, we should, on almost every occasion on which a question [illegible] amending our Act, find ourselves beset by difficulties of a nature similar to those which present themselves in connection with the amendment of the present Indian Insolvency Act,* and which are fully described in paragraph 25 of the despatch last referred to.

* 11 & 12 Vic., c. 21.

5. Assuming that Your Lordship will agree with us on this point, we have, as requested by Your Lordship, had prepared and forward herewith (annexed to the Objects and Reasons of the Bill) two drafts of enabling Acts of Parliament, either of which, we believe, would put the Governor General's Council in a position to deal with the subject in an adequate manner.

Of these we give the preference to that marked No. I, which, following more closely the precedents presented by section 269 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854,† and the Indian Marine Act, 1885,‡ confers the requisite powers in wider terms, and has further the merit of being the shorter of the two; but if the generality of its provisions should be deemed an objection, we should be prepared to accept an Act framed on the lines of the draft No. II. This latter attempts to specify with some particularity the several matters in respect of which extended powers are conferred on the Indian legislature; and though we have every hope that it would accomplish its purpose, we need hardly observe that a draft in this form cannot be so confidently relied on as one conceived in more general terms.

† 17 & 18 Vic., c. 104.

‡ 47 & 48 Vic., c. 33.

6. On collating either of these drafts with the draft Bill which we propose to introduce here, Your Lordship will perceive that while the Indian Bankruptcy Courts would be empowered through the medium of their adjudications, discharges, judgments, &c., to affect matters beyond the limits of British India, their direct action will, as explained in the Statement of Objects and Reasons, be strictly confined to this country.

To supply what might thus appear to be a defect in the system we rely on section 118 of the English Bankruptcy Act, 1883, which we assume will enable the Indian Bankruptcy Courts to invoke the aid of the English Bankruptcy Courts, and that not only by specific requisitions directed to a particular stage of a particular matter, but also in a more general form, as, for example, by requesting them to entertain all applications of a certain class which may be made to them on behalf of an Indian official receiver or trustee.

7. The local extent clause of the Bill to be introduced here is, as Your Lordship will observe, drawn on the assumption that the Parliamentary legislation will take the form indicated in the draft No. I. It would be altered in the opposite event.

8. In paragraph 27 of our despatch already referred to we said that we thought that the Bill to be submitted to Parliament should contain provisions relating to concurrent bankruptcies somewhat similar to those contained in sections 77 et seq. of the present Act (11 & 12 Vic., c. 21), and we should have no great objection to such provisions being inserted if Your Lordship should be advised that they are essential; but it seems to us on further consideration that it would be desirable to dispense, if possible, with so serious a complication, and we are inclined to think that the rare cases (none have been brought to our notice) in which bankruptcy proceedings are instituted simultaneously in a Court in England and in a Court in this country might be met by one Court surrendering the case to the other. The provisions of section 13 of our local Bill, giving power to annul a receiving order, and those of section 30, giving power to annul an adjudication, will, we conceive, confer upon the Courts in this country the powers requisite for this; but perhaps some extension of the corresponding powers conferred by the Bankruptcy Act, 1883, on the English Courts would be necessary.

9. The only further observation we have to make regarding the draft Acts of Parliament forwarded to Your Lordship is that both are restricted to what we consider necessary for our own purposes. If it is desired, for instance, that bankruptcy in this country should be a disqualification for offices in England, or if it is thought necessary to confer on Courts of Bankruptcy in England a power of staying proceedings in the Bankruptcy Courts of this country or removing a case pending here, the requisite provisions will doubtless be inserted in England.

10. We have circulated the draft Bill with a view to obtaining the opinion of the High Courts, commercial bodies and others, but we do not propose to take any step regarding it in the Legislative Council until we hear from Your Lordship in reply to this despatch. We desire to introduce the Bill at the opening of the next Calcutta session, and as we should before that time be in possession of the views of all those interested in, or qualified to form an opinion on, the measure, we might hope to pass it through all the stages at which discussion would be likely to arise before the return of the Government to Simla next year. If the requisite Parliamentary legislation should not be complete by that date, we should defer the final stage of our Bill.

Draft Bill referred to in paragraph 1 of Despatch to Her Majesty's Secretary of State, No 32, dated the 12th June, 1885.

DRAFT OF

A BILL

TO

Amend and consolidate the Law of Bankruptcy and Insolvency in British India.

(This preamble, which will recite the enabling statute, will be [illegible] after that Statute has become law.)

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend and consolidate the law relating to bankruptcy and insolvency; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Preliminary.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 1.]

Short title and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be cited as the Indian Bankruptcy Act, 1885.

(2) It shall, except as by this Act otherwise provided, come into force on such date as the Governor General in Council may, by notification in the official Gazette, fix in this behalf, which date is in this Act referred to as the commencement of this Act.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 2.]

Local extent.

2. Except as otherwise expressly provided by this Act, the provisions of this Act shall have the same local extent as those of the Bankruptcy Act, 1883:

Provided that the following shall not extend to England, namely:—

[illegible] Vic.,

Sections 39 and 40;
Section 44, sub-section (2);
Section 48;
Section 49, sub-section (1), clause (e), and sub-section (2);
Section 62, sub-section (2).

[illegible]

Acts of Bankruptcy.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 4.]

Acts of bankruptcy.

3. (1) A debtor commits an act of bankruptcy in each of the following cases:—

(a) if in British India or elsewhere he makes a conveyance or assignment of his property to a trustee or trustees for the benefit of his creditors generally;

(b) if in British India or elsewhere he makes a fraudulent conveyance, gift, delivery or transfer of his property, or of any part thereof;

(c) if in British India or elsewhere he makes any conveyance or transfer of his property or any part thereof, or creates any charge thereon which would, under this or any other enactment for the time being in force, be void as a fraudulent preference if he were adjudged bankrupt;

(d) if with intent to defeat or delay his creditors he does any of the following things, namely, departs out of British India, or being out of British India remains out of British India or departs from his dwelling-house, or otherwise absents himself, or begins to keep house;

(e) if execution issued against him has been levied by sale of his property in any civil proceeding in British India;

(f) if he files in the Court a declaration of his inability to pay his debts or presents a bankruptcy petition against himself;

(g) if a creditor has obtained in British India a decree against him for any amount, and, execution thereof not having been stayed, has served on him in British India, or, by leave of the Court, elsewhere, a bankruptcy notice under this Act, requiring him to pay the judgment-debt in accordance with the terms of the decree, or to secure or compound for it to the satisfaction of the creditor or the Court, and he does not, within fifteen days after service of the notice in case the service is effected in British India, and in case the service is effected elsewhere then within the time limited in that behalf by the order giving leave to affect the service, either comply with the requirements of the notice, or satisfy the Court that he has a counter-claim, set-off or cross demand which equals or exceeds the amount of the decree and which he could not set up in the suit in which the decree was obtained;

(h) if the debtor gives notice to any of his creditors that he has suspended, or that he is about to suspend, payment of his debts.

(2) A bankruptcy notice under this Act shall be in the prescribed form, and shall state the consequences of non-compliance therewith, and shall be served in the prescribed manner.

Receiving Order.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 5.]

Jurisdiction to make receiving order.

4. Subject to the conditions hereinafter specified, if a debtor commits an act of bankruptcy, the Court may, on a bankruptcy petition being presented either by a creditor or by the debtor, make an order, in this Act called a receiving order, for the protection of the estate.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, ss. 8 & 9. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 6.]

Conditions on which creditor may petition.

5. (1) A creditor shall not be entitled to present a bankruptcy petition against a debtor unless—

(a) the debt owing by the debtor to the petitioning creditor, or, if two or more creditors join in the petition, the aggregate amount of debts owing to the several petitioning creditors, amounts to five hundred rupees; and

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 10.]

(b) the debt is a liquidated sum, payable either immediately or at some certain future time; and

(c) the act of bankruptcy on which the petition is grounded has occurred within three months before the presentation of the petition; and

(d) the debtor is in prison within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court under an order of a Civil [illegible] creditor in a secured position, he must in his petition either state that he is willing to give up his security for the benefit of the creditors in the event of the debtor being adjudged bankrupt, or give an estimate of the value of his security. In the latter case he may be admitted as a petitioning creditor to the extent of the balance of the debt due to him, after deducting the value so estimated in the same manner as if he were an unsecured creditor.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 7.]

Proceedings and order on creditor's petition.

6. (1) A creditor's petition shall be verified by affidavit of the creditor, or of some person on his behalf having knowledge of the facts, and served in the prescribed manner.

(2) At the hearing the Court shall require proof of the debt of the petitioning creditor, of the service of the petition, and of the act of bankruptcy, or, if more than one act of bankruptcy is alleged in the petition, of some one of the alleged acts of bankruptcy, and if satisfied with the proof may make a receiving order in pursuance of the petition.

(3) If the Court is not satisfied with the proof of the petitioning creditor's debt, or of the act of bankruptcy, or of the service of the petition, or is satisfied by the debtor that he is able to pay his debts or that for other sufficient cause no order ought to be made, the Court may dismiss the petition.

(4) When the act of bankruptcy relied on is non-compliance with a bankruptcy notice to pay, secure or compound for a judgment-debt, the Court may, if it thinks fit, stay or dismiss the petition on the ground that an appeal is pending from the decree.

(5) Where the debtor appears on the petition, and denies that he is indebted to the petitioner, or that he is indebted to such an amount as would justify the petitioner in presenting a petition against him, the Court, on such security (if any) being given as the Court may require for payment to the petitioner of any debt which may be established against him in due course of law, and of the costs of establishing the debt, may, instead of dismissing the petition, stay all proceedings on the petition for such time as may be required for trial of the question relating to the debt.

The Indian Bankruptcy Bill, 1885.
(Part I.—Proceedings from Act of Bankruptcy to Discharge.—Sections 7-17.)

(6) Where proceedings are stayed, the Court may, if by reason of the delay caused by the stay of proceedings or for any other cause it thinks just, make a receiving order on the petition of some other creditor, and shall thereupon dismiss, on such terms as it thinks just, the petition in which proceedings have been stayed as aforesaid.

(7) A creditor's petition shall not, after presentment, be withdrawn without the leave of the Court.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 5. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 8.]

Debtor's petition and order thereon.

7. (1) A debtor shall not be entitled to present a bankruptcy petition against himself unless he is in prison within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court under an order of a Civil Court for non-payment of money, or has within a year before the date of the presentation of the petition ordinarily resided or had a dwelling-house or place of business within those limits.

(2) A debtor's petition shall allege that the debtor is unable to pay his debts, and the presentation thereof shall be deemed an act of bankruptcy without the previous filing by the debtor of any declaration of inability to pay his debts; and, if the debtor proves that he is entitled to present the petition, the Court shall thereupon make a receiving order.

(3) A debtor's petition shall not, after presentment, be withdrawn without the leave of the Court.

Effect of receiving order.

8. (1) On the making of a receiving order the official receiver shall be thereby constituted receiver of the property of the debtor, and thereafter, except as directed by this Act, no creditor to whom the debtor is indebted in respect of any debt provable in bankruptcy shall have any remedy against the property or person of the debtor in respect of the debt, or shall commence any suit, action or other legal proceedings unless with the leave of the Court and on such terms as the Court may impose.

(2) But this section shall not affect the power of any secured creditor to realize or otherwise deal with his security in the same manner as he would have been entitled to realize or deal with it if this section had not been passed.

Discretionary powers as to appointment of receiver and stay of proceedings.

9. (1) The Court may, if it is shown to be necessary for the protection of the estate, at any time after the presentation of a bankruptcy petition and before a receiving order is made, appoint the official receiver to be interim receiver of the property of the debtor, or of any part thereof, and direct him to take immediate possession thereof or of any part thereof.

(2) The Court may at any time after the presentation of a bankruptcy petition stay any suit, action, execution or other legal process pending in any Court in British India against the property or person of the debtor, and any Court in which proceedings are pending against a debtor may, on proof that a bankruptcy petition has been presented by or against the debtor, either stay the proceedings or allow them to continue on such terms as it may think just.

Power of order staying proceedings.

10. Where the Court makes an order staying any suit, action or proceeding or staying proceedings generally, the order may be [illegible] a copy thereof, under the seal of the Court, by prepaid post letter to the Court before which the proceeding is pending.

Power to appoint special manager.

11. (1) The official receiver of a debtor's estate may, on the application of any creditor or creditors, and if satisfied that the nature of the debtor's estate or business or the interests of the creditors generally require the appointment of a special manager of the estate or business other than the official receiver, appoint a manager thereof accordingly to act until a trustee is appointed, and with such powers (including any of the powers of a receiver) as may be entrusted to him by the official receiver.

(2) The special manager shall give security and account in such manner as the Court may direct.

(3) The special manager shall receive such remuneration as the creditors may by resolution at an ordinary meeting determine, or, in default of any such resolution, as may be [illegible].

Advertisement of receiving order.

12. Notice of every receiving order, stating the name, address and description of the debtor, the date of the order, the Court by which the order is made and the date of the petition, shall be published in the prescribed manner.

Power to Court to annul receiving order in certain cases.

13. If in any case where a receiving order has been made on a bankruptcy petition it appears to the Court by which the order was made upon an application by the special receiver or any creditor or other person interested that a majority of the creditors in number and value are resident in the United Kingdom or in any other part of Her Majesty's dominions beyond the limits of British India, or that from the situation of the property of the debtor, or other cause, his estate and effects ought to be distributed among the creditors under the Bankrupt or Insolvent Laws of that part of Her Majesty's dominions, the said Court, after such enquiry as to it may seem fit, may rescind the receiving order and stay all proceedings on, or dismiss, the petition upon such terms, if any, as the Court may think fit.

Proceedings consequent on Order.

First and other meetings of creditors.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 15.]

14. (1) As soon as may be after the making of a receiving order against a debtor, a general meeting of his creditors (in this Act referred to as the first meeting of creditors) shall be held for the purpose of considering whether a proposal for a composition or scheme of arrangement shall be entertained, or whether it is expedient that the debtor shall be adjudged bankrupt, and generally as to the mode of dealing with the debtor's property.

(2) With respect to the summoning of and proceedings at the first and other meetings of creditors, the rules in the first schedule shall be observed.

Debtor's statement of affairs.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, ss. 6 & 15. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 16.]

15. (1) Where a receiving order is made against a debtor, he shall make out and submit to the official receiver a statement of and in relation to his affairs in the prescribed form, verified by affidavit, and showing the particulars of the debtor's assets, debts and liabilities, the names, residences and occupations of his creditors, the securities held by them respectively, the dates when the securities were respectively given, and such further or other information as may be prescribed or as the official receiver may require.

(2) The statement shall be so submitted within the following times, namely:—

(i) if the order is made on the petition of the debtor, within three days from the date of the order;

(ii) if the order is made on the petition of a creditor, within seven days from the date of the order.

But the Court may, in either case, for special reasons, extend the time.

(3) If the debtor fails without reasonable excuse to comply with the requirements of this section, the Court may, on the application of the official receiver, or of any creditor, adjudge him bankrupt.

(1) Any person stating himself in writing to be a creditor of the bankrupt may, personally or by agent, inspect this statement at all reasonable times, and take any copy thereof or extract therefrom; but any person untruthfully so stating himself to be a creditor shall be punished, on the complaint of the trustee or official receiver, with imprisonment which may extend to three months, or with fine, or with both.

Public Examination of Debtor.

Public examination of debtor.

16. (1) Where the Court makes a receiving order it shall hold a public sitting, on a day to be appointed by the Court for the examination of the debtor, and the debtor shall attend thereat, and shall be examined as to his conduct, dealings and property.

(2) The examination shall be held as soon as conveniently may be after the expiration of the time for the submission of the debtor's statement of affairs.

(3) The Court may adjourn the examination from time to time.

(4) Any creditor who has tendered a proof, or his representative authorised in writing, may question the debtor concerning his affairs and the causes of his failure.

(5) The official receiver, and a trustee if he is appointed before the conclusion of the examination, may take part therein.

(6) The Court may put such questions to the debtor as it may think expedient.

(7) The debtor shall be examined upon oath, and it shall be his duty to answer all such questions as the Court may put or allow to be put to him.

(8) Such notes of the examination as the Court thinks proper shall be taken down in writing, and shall be read over to and signed by the debtor, and may thereafter be used in evidence against him; they shall also be open to the inspection of any creditor at all reasonable times.

(9) When the Court is of opinion that the affairs of the debtor have been sufficiently investigated, it shall, by order, declare that his examination is concluded, but such order shall not be made until after the day appointed for the first meeting of creditors.

Composition or Scheme of Arrangement.

Power for creditors to accept and Court to approve composition or arrangement.

17. (1) The creditors may at the first meeting or any adjournment thereof, by special resolution, resolve to entertain a proposal for a composition in satisfaction of the debts due to them from the debtor,

The Indian Bankruptcy Bill, 1885.

(Part I.—Proceedings from Act of Bankruptcy to Discharge.—Section 18-20.)

or a proposal for a scheme of arrangement of the debtor's affairs.

(2) The composition or scheme shall not be binding on the creditors unless it is confirmed by a resolution passed (by a majority in number representing three-fourths in value of all the creditors who have proved) at a subsequent meeting of the creditors, and is approved by the Court.

Any creditor who has proved his debt may assent to or dissent from the composition or scheme by a letter addressed to the official receiver in the prescribed form, and attested by a witness, so as to be received by the official receiver not later than the day preceding the said subsequent meeting, and any such creditor shall be taken as being present and voting at the meeting.

(3) The subsequent meeting shall be summoned by the official receiver by not less than seven days' notice, and shall not be held until after the public examination of the debtor is concluded. The notice shall state generally the terms of the proposal, and shall be accompanied by a report of the official receiver thereon.

(4) The debtor or the official receiver may, after the composition or scheme is accepted by the creditors, apply to the Court to approve it, and notice of the time appointed for hearing the application shall be given to each creditor who has proved.

(5) The Court shall, before approving a composition or scheme, hear a report of the official receiver as to the terms of the composition or scheme and as to the conduct of the debtor, and any objections which may be made by or on behalf of any creditor.

(6) If the Court is of opinion that the terms of the composition or scheme are not reasonable, or are not calculated to benefit the general body of creditors, or in any case in which the Court is required under this Act where the debtor is adjudged bankrupt to refuse his discharge, the Court shall, or if any such facts are proved as would under this Act justify the Court in refusing, qualifying or suspending the debtor's discharge, the Court may, in its discretion, refuse to approve the composition or scheme.

(7) If the Court approves the composition or scheme, the approval may be testified by the seal of the Court being attached to the instrument containing the terms of the composition or scheme, or by the terms being embodied in an order of the Court.

[illegible] or scheme accepted and approved in [illegible] and provable in [illegible]

(9) A certificate of the [illegible] or scheme has been duly accepted and approved [illegible] absence of fraud, be conclusive as to its validity.

(10) The provisions of a composition or scheme under this section may be enforced by the Court in British India on application by any person interested, and an order of the Court made on the application may be executed as if it were a decree.

(11) If default is made in payment of any instalment due in pursuance of the composition or scheme, or if it appears to the Court, on satisfactory evidence, that the composition or scheme cannot in consequence of legal difficulties, or for any sufficient cause, proceed without injustice or undue delay to the creditors or to the debtor, or that the approval of the Court was obtained by fraud, the Court may, if it thinks fit, on application by any creditor, adjudge the debtor bankrupt, and annul the composition or scheme, but without prejudice to the validity of any sale, disposition or payment duly made, or thing duly done under or in pursuance of the composition or scheme. Where a debtor is adjudged bankrupt under this sub-section, any debt provable in other respects, which has been contracted before the date of the adjudication, shall be provable in the bankruptcy.

(12) If, under or in pursuance of a composition or scheme, a trustee is appointed to administer the debtor's property or manage his business, Part V of this Act shall apply to the trustee as if he were a trustee in a bankruptcy, and as if the terms "bankruptcy," "bankrupt" and "order of adjudication" included respectively a composition or scheme of arrangement, a compounding or arranging debtor and order approving the composition or scheme.

(13) Part III of this Act shall, so far as the nature of the case and the terms of the composition or scheme admit, apply thereto, the same interpretation being given to the words "trustee," "bankruptcy," "bankrupt" and "order of adjudication" as in the last preceding sub-section.

(14) No composition or scheme shall be approved by the Court which does not provide for the payment in priority to other debts of all debts directed to be so paid in the distribution of the property of a bankrupt.

(15) The acceptance by a creditor of a composition or scheme shall not release any person who under this Act would not be released by an order of discharge if the debtor had been adjudged bankrupt.

18. Notwithstanding the acceptance and approval of a composition or scheme, such composition or scheme shall not be binding on any creditor so far as regards a debt or liability from which, under the provisions of this Act, the debtor would not be discharged by an order of discharge in bankruptcy, unless the creditor assents to the composition or scheme. [46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 19.]

Effect of composition or scheme.

Adjudication of Bankruptcy.

19. (1) At the time of making a receiving order or at any time thereafter, the Court may, on the application of the debtor himself, adjudge him bankrupt. The application may be made orally and without notice. [Bankruptcy Rules, 1886, para. 155.]

Adjudication of bankruptcy.

(2) Where a receiving order is made against a debtor, then, if the creditors at the first meeting or any adjournment thereof by ordinary resolution resolve that the debtor be adjudged bankrupt, or pass no resolution, or if the creditors do not meet, or if a composition or scheme is not accepted or approved in pursuance of this Act within fourteen days after the conclusion of the examination of the debtor or such further time as the Court may allow, the Court shall adjudge the debtor bankrupt. [46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 20.]

(3) When a receiving order is made and no creditors attend at the time and place appointed for the first meeting or one adjournment thereof, or if sufficient creditors do not attend then to pass a special resolution, or when the official receiver satisfies the Court that the debtor has absconded or that the debtor does not intend to propose a composition or scheme, the Court may, either on the application of a creditor or of the official receiver, forthwith adjudge the debtor bankrupt. [Bankruptcy Rules, 1886, para. 156.]

(4) When a debtor is adjudged bankrupt his property shall become divisible among his creditors and shall vest in a trustee. [11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, ss. 7, 11.]

(5) Notice of every order adjudging a debtor bankrupt, stating the name, address and description of the bankrupt, the date of the adjudication and the Court by which the adjudication is made, shall be published in the prescribed manner, and the date of the order shall, for the purposes of this Act, be the date of the adjudication. [11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 36.]

[illegible] shall be the [illegible]

(7) Where a debtor is adjudged bankrupt, or the creditors have resolved that he be adjudged bankrupt, and the Court having regard to the value of the property or for any other reason declares that the appointment of a person other than the official receiver as trustee is desirable, the creditors may, by ordinary resolution, appoint some fit person, whether a creditor or not, to fill the office of trustee of the property of the bankrupt; or they may resolve to leave his appointment to the committee of inspection hereinafter mentioned.

(3) The person so appointed shall give security in manner prescribed to the satisfaction of the Court, and the Court, if satisfied with the security, shall certify that his appointment has been duly made, unless it disapproves of the appointment on the ground that it has not been made in good faith by a majority in value of the creditors voting, or that the person appointed is not fit to act as trustee, or that his connection with or relation to the bankrupt or his estate or any particular creditor makes it difficult for him to act with impartiality in the interests of the creditors generally.

(4) The appointment of a trustee shall take effect as from the date of the certificate.

(5) If a declaration is made by the Court under sub-section (2) and a trustee is not appointed by the creditors within four weeks from the date of the declaration, or, if the declaration precedes the adjudication, from the date of the adjudication, or, in the event of negotiations for a composition or scheme being pending at the expiration of those four weeks, then within seven days from the close of those negotiations by the refusal of the creditors to accept, or of the Court to approve, the composition or scheme, the official receiver shall report the matter to the Court, and thereupon the Court may, if it thinks fit, appoint some fit person to be trustee of the bankrupt's property, and shall certify the appointment if made.

(6) Provided that the creditors or the committee of inspection (if so authorised by resolution of the creditors) may, at any subsequent time, if they think fit, appoint a trustee, and on the appointment being made and certified the person appointed shall become trustee in the place of the person appointed by the Court.

The Indian Bankruptcy Bill, 1885.
(Part I.—Proceedings from Act of Bankruptcy to Discharge.—Sections 21-26.)

(7) When a debtor is adjudged bankrupt after the first meeting of creditors has been held, and a trustee has not been appointed prior to the adjudication, the official receiver shall, if a declaration has been made by the Court under sub-section (2), forthwith summon a meeting of creditors for the purpose of appointing a trustee.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 22.]

Committee of inspection.

21. (1) In any case in which a declaration is made under section 20, sub-section (2), and with the permission of the Court in any other case, the creditors qualified to vote may at their first or any subsequent meeting, by resolution, appoint from among the creditors qualified to vote, or the holders of general proxies or general powers-of-attorney from such creditors, a committee of inspection for the purpose of superintending the administration of the bankrupt's property by the trustee. The committee of inspection shall consist of not more than five nor less than three persons.

(2) The committee of inspection shall meet at such times as they from time to time appoint, and, failing such appointment, at least once a month; and the trustee or any member of the committee may also call a meeting of the committee as and when he thinks necessary.

(3) The committee may act by a majority of their members present at a meeting, but shall not act unless a majority of the committee are present at the meeting.

(4) Any member of the committee may resign his office by notice in writing signed by him, and delivered to the trustee.

(5) If a member of the committee becomes bankrupt, or compounds or arranges with his creditors, or is absent from five consecutive meetings of the committee, his office shall thereupon become vacant.

(6) Any member of the committee may be removed by an ordinary resolution at any meeting of creditors, of which seven days' notice has been given, stating the object of the meeting.

(7) On a vacancy occurring in the office of a member of the committee, the trustee shall forthwith summon a meeting of creditors for the purpose of filling the vacancy, and the meeting may, by resolution, appoint another creditor or other person eligible as above to fill the vacancy.

(8) The continuing members of the committee, provided there be not less than two such continuing members, may act notwithstanding any vacancy in their body; and where the number of members of the committee of inspection is for the time being less than five, the creditors may increase that number so that it do not exceed five.

(9) If there is no committee of inspection, any act or thing or any direction or permission by this Act authorized or required to be done or given by the committee may be done or given by the Court on the application of the trustee.

Power to accept composition or scheme after adjudication.

22. (1) Where a debtor is adjudged bankrupt the creditors may, if they think fit, at any time after the adjudication, by special resolution, resolve to entertain a proposal for a composition in satisfaction of the debts due to them under the bankruptcy, or for a scheme of arrangement of the bankrupt's affairs; and thereupon the same proceedings shall be taken and the same consequences shall ensue as in the case of a composition or scheme accepted before adjudication.

(2) If the Court approves the composition or scheme, it may make an order annulling the bankruptcy and vesting the property of the bankrupt in him or in such other person as the Court may appoint, on such terms, and subject to such conditions, if any, as the Court may declare.

(3) If default is made in payment of any instalment due in pursuance of the composition or scheme, or if it appears to the Court that the composition or scheme cannot proceed without injustice or undue delay, or that the approval of the Court was obtained by fraud, the Court may, on application by any person interested, revoke the order, and annul the composition or scheme, but without prejudice to the validity of any sale, disposition or payment duly made, or thing duly done, under the composition or scheme. Where a debtor is adjudged bankrupt under this sub-section, all debts, provable in other respects, which have been contracted before the date of such adjudication shall be provable in the bankruptcy.

Control over Person and Property of Debtor.

Duties of debtor as to examination.

23. (1) Every debtor against whom a receiving order is made shall, unless prevented by sickness or other sufficient cause, attend on the first meeting of his creditors and on such examination and give such information as the Court requires.

(2) He shall submit to the like examination in respect of his property or his creditors, attend such other meetings of his creditors, wait at such times on the official receiver, special manager or trustee, execute such powers-of-attorney, conveyances, deeds and instruments, and generally do all such acts and things in relation to his property and the distribution of the proceeds amongst his creditors as may be reasonably required by the official receiver, special manager or trustee, or may be prescribed by general rules, or be directed by the Court by any special order or orders made in reference to any particular case, or made on the occasion of any special application by the official receiver, special manager, trustee or any creditor or person interested.

(3) He shall, if adjudged bankrupt, aid, to the utmost of his power, in the realization of his property and the distribution of the proceeds among his creditors.

(4) If a debtor wilfully fails to perform the duties imposed on him by this section, or to deliver up possession of any part of his property, which is divisible amongst his creditors under this Act, and which is for the time being in his possession or under his control, to the official receiver or to the trustee, or to any person authorised by the Court to take possession of it, he shall, in addition to any other punishment to which he may be subject, be guilty of a contempt of Court, and may be punished accordingly.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 23.]

Arrest of debtor under certain circumstances.

24. (1) The Court may, by warrant addressed to any police-officer or prescribed officer of the Court, cause a debtor to be arrested in British India, and any books, papers, money and goods in his possession there to be seized, and him and them to be safely kept as prescribed until such time as the Court may order under the following circumstances:—

(a) if, after a bankruptcy notice has been issued under this Act, or after presentation of a bankruptcy petition by or against him, it appears to the Court that there is probable reason for believing that he is about to abscond with a view of avoiding payment of the debt in respect of which the bankruptcy notice was issued, or of avoiding service of a bankruptcy petition, or of avoiding appearance to any such petition, or of avoiding examination in respect of his affairs, or of otherwise avoiding, delaying or embarassing proceedings in bankruptcy against him;

(b) if, after presentation of a bankruptcy petition by or against him, it appears to the Court that there is probable cause for believing that he is about to remove his property with a view of preventing or delaying possession being taken of it by the official receiver or trustee, or that there is probable ground for believing that he has concealed or is about to conceal or destroy any of his property or any books, documents or writings which might be of use to his creditors in the course of his bankruptcy;

(c) if, after service of a bankruptcy petition on him, or after a receiving order is made against him, he removes any property in his possession above the value of fifty rupees without the leave of the official receiver or trustee;

(d) if, without good cause shown, he fails to attend any examination ordered by the Court:

Provided that no arrest upon a bankruptcy notice shall be valid and protected unless the debtor before or at the time of his arrest shall be served with such bankruptcy notice.

(2) No payment or composition made or security given after arrest made under this section shall be exempt from the provisions of the Act relating to fraudulent preferences.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 24.]

Re-direction of debtor's letters.

25. Where a receiving order is made against a debtor, the Court, on the application of the official receiver or trustee, may, from time to time, order that for such time, not exceeding three months, as the Court thinks fit, post letters addressed to the debtor at any place or places mentioned in the order for redirection shall be re-directed, sent or delivered by the Postal authorities in British India to the official receiver, or the trustee, or otherwise as the Court directs, and the same shall be done accordingly.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 25.]

Discovery of debtor's property.

26. (1) The Court may, on the application of the official receiver or trustee, at any time after a debtor, summon before it the debtor or his wife, or any person known or suspected to have in his possession any property belonging to the debtor, or supposed to be indebted to the debtor, or any person whom the Court may deem capable of giving information respecting the debtor, his dealings or property, and the Court may require any such person to produce any documents in his custody or power relating to the debtor, his dealings or property.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 26.]

The Indian Bankruptcy Bill, 1885.
(Part II.—Annulment of Adjudication.—Sections 27-30.)

(2) If any person so summoned, after having been tendered a reasonable sum, refuses to come before the Court at the time appointed, or refuses to produce any such document, having no lawful impediment made known to the Court at the time of its sitting and allowed by it, the Court may, by warrant, cause him if in British India to be apprehended and brought up for examination.

(3) The Court may examine on oath, either by word of mouth or by written interrogatories, any person so brought before it concerning the debtor, his dealings or property.

(4) If any person on examination before the Court admits that he is indebted to the debtor, the Court may, on the application of the official receiver or trustee, order him to pay to the receiver or trustee, at such time and in such manner as to the Court seems expedient, the amount admitted, or any part thereof, either in full discharge of the whole amount in question or not, as the Court thinks fit, with or without costs of the examination.

(5) If any person on examination before the Court admits that he has in his possession any property belonging to the debtor, the Court may, on the application of the official receiver or trustee, order him to deliver to the official receiver or trustee such property, or any part thereof, at such time, and in such manner, and on such terms as to the Court may seem just.

(6) The Court may, if it think fit, issue a commission for the examination beyond the limits of British India of any person who if in British India would be liable to be brought before it for examination under this section.

Discharge of Bankrupt.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, ss. 47 & 48-61. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 36.]

Discharge of bankrupt.

27. (1) A bankrupt may, at any time after being adjudged bankrupt, apply to the Court for an order of discharge, and the Court shall appoint a day for hearing the application, but the application shall not be heard until the public examination of the bankrupt is concluded. The application shall be heard in open Court.

(2) On the hearing of the application the Court shall take into consideration a report of the official receiver as to the bankrupt's conduct and affairs, and may either grant or refuse an absolute order of discharge, or suspend the operation of the order for a specified time, or grant an order of discharge subject to any conditions with respect to any this Act, or under section 421, [illegible] Penal Code or any amendment thereof, and shall on proof of any of the facts hereinafter mentioned, either refuse the order, or suspend the operation of the order for a specified time, or grant an order of discharge, subject to such conditions as aforesaid.

(3) The facts hereinbefore referred to are—

(a) that the bankrupt has omitted to keep such books of account as are usual and proper in the business carried on by him and as sufficiently disclose his business transactions and financial position within the three years immediately preceding his bankruptcy;

(b) that the bankrupt has continued to trade after knowing himself to be insolvent;

(c) that the bankrupt has contracted any debt provable in the bankruptcy without having at the time of contracting it any reasonable or probable ground of expectation (proof whereof shall lie on him) of being able to pay it;

(d) that the bankrupt has brought on his bankruptcy by rash and hazardous speculations or unjustifiable extravagance in living;

(e) that the bankrupt has put any of his creditors to unnecessary expense by a frivolous or vexatious defence to any action or suit properly brought against him;

(f) that the bankrupt has within three months preceding the date of the receiving order, when unable to pay his debts as they become due, given an undue preference to any of his creditors;

(g) that the bankrupt has on any previous occasion been adjudged bankrupt, or made under any enactment in force in any part of Her Majesty's dominions a composition or arrangement with his creditors;

(h) that the bankrupt has been guilty of any fraud or fraudulent breach of trust.

(4) For the purposes of this section the report of the official receiver shall be primâ facie evidence of the statements therein contained.

(5) Notice of the appointment by the Court of the day for hearing the application for discharge shall be published in the prescribed manner and sent fourteen days at least before the day so appointed to each creditor who has proved, and the Court may hear the official receiver and the trustee, and may also hear any creditor. At the hearing the Court may put such questions to the debtor and receive such evidence as it may think fit.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, ss. 55 & 66.]

(6) The Court may, in making an order of discharge, pass a decree against the debtor in favour of the official receiver or trustee for any balance of the debts provable under the bankruptcy which is not satisfied at the date of his discharge; but in such case the decree shall not be executed without leave of the Court, which leave may be given on proof that the bankrupt has since his discharge acquired property or income available for payment of his debts.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 58.]

(7) A discharged bankrupt shall, notwithstanding his discharge, give such assistance as the trustee may require in the realization and distribution of such of his property as is vested in the trustee, and if he fails to do so he shall be guilty of a contempt of Court; and the Court may also, if it thinks fit, revoke his discharge, but without prejudice to the validity of any sale, disposition or payment duly made or thing duly done subsequent to the discharge, but before its revocation.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 29.]

Fraudulent settlements.

28. In either of the following cases; that is to say:—

(1) in the case of a settlement made before and in consideration of marriage where the settlor is not at the time of making the settlement able to pay all his debts without the aid of the property comprised in the settlement; or

(2) in the case of any covenant or contract made in consideration of marriage for the future settlement on or for the settlor's wife or children of any money or property wherein he had not at the date of his marriage any estate or interest (not being money or property of or in right of his wife);

if the settlor is adjudged bankrupt or compounds or arranges with his creditors, and it appears to the Court that such settlement, covenant or contract was made in order to defeat or delay creditors, or was unjustifiable having regard to the state of the settlor's affairs at the time when it was made, the Court may refuse or suspend an order of discharge or grant an order subject to conditions or refuse to approve a composition or arrangement, as the

[illegible] bankrupt may be charged at the suit of the Crown or of any person for any offence against an enactment relating to any branch of the public revenue, or at the suit of the sheriff or other public officer on a bail bond entered into for the appearance of any person prosecuted for any such offence; and he shall not be discharged from such excepted debts unless the Government certifies in writing its consent to his being discharged therefrom.

(2) An order of discharge shall not release the bankrupt from any debt or liability incurred by means of any fraud or fraudulent breach of trust to which he was a party, nor from any debt or liability whereof he has obtained forbearance by any fraud to which he was a party.

(3) An order of discharge shall release the bankrupt from all other debts provable in bankruptcy.

(4) An order of discharge shall be conclusive evidence of the bankruptcy, and of the validity of the proceedings therein; and in any proceedings that may be instituted against a bankrupt who has obtained an order of discharge in respect of any debt from which he is released by the order, the bankrupt may plead that the cause of action occurred before his discharge, and may give this Act and the special matter in evidence.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, ss. 59 & 60.]

(5) An order of discharge shall not release any person who at the date of the receiving order was a partner or co-trustee with the bankrupt or was jointly bound or had made any joint contract with him, or any person who was surety or in the nature of a surety for him.

PART II.

ANNULMENT OF ADJUDICATION.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, ss. 9 & 8. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 35.]

Power for Court to annul adjudication in certain cases.

30. (1) Where in the opinion of the Court a debtor ought not to have been adjudged bankrupt, or where it is proved to the satisfaction of the Court that the debts of the bankrupt are paid in full, or where proceedings are pending in the United Kingdom or any other part of Her Majesty's dominions beyond the limits of British India for the distribution of the estate and effects of the bankrupt among his creditors under the Bankrupt or Insolvent Laws of that part of Her Majesty's dominions, and it appears to

[New.]

The Indian Bankruptcy Bill, 1885.
(Part II.—Administration of Property.—Sections 31-37.)

the Court that the distribution ought to take place in that part of Her Majesty's dominions, the Court may, on the application of any person interested, by order, annul the adjudication.

(2) Where an adjudication is annulled under this section, all sales and dispositions of property and payments duly made, and all acts theretofore done, by the official receiver, trustee or other person acting under their authority, or by the Court, shall be valid, but the property of the debtor who was adjudged bankrupt shall vest in such person as the Court may appoint, or in default of any such appointment revert to the debtor for all his estate or interest therein on such terms and subject to such conditions, if any, as the Court may declare by order.

(3) Notice of the order annulling an adjudication shall be forthwith published in the prescribed manner.

(4) For the purposes of this section any debt disputed by a debtor shall be considered as paid in full if the debtor enters into a bond, in such sum and with such sureties as the Court approves, to pay the amount to be recovered in any proceeding for the recovery of or concerning the debt, with costs; and any debt due to a creditor who cannot be found or cannot be identified shall be considered as paid in full if paid into Court.

PART III.

ADMINISTRATION OF PROPERTY.

Proof of Debts.

Description of debts provable in bankruptcy.

31. (1) Demands in the nature of unliquidated damages arising otherwise than by reason of a contract, promise or breach of trust shall not be provable in bankruptcy.

(2) A person having notice of any act of bankruptcy available against the debtor shall not prove under the order for any debt or liability contracted by the debtor subsequently to the date of his so having notice.

(3) Save as aforesaid, all debts and liabilities, present or future, certain or contingent, to which the debtor is subject at the date of the receiving order, or to which he may become subject before his discharge by reason of any obligation incurred before the date of the receiving order, shall be deemed to be debts provable in bankruptcy.

(4) An estimate shall be made by the trustee of the value of any debt or liability provable as aforesaid which by reason of its being subject to any contingency or contingencies, or for any other reason, does not bear a certain value.

(5) Any person aggrieved by any estimate made by the trustee as aforesaid may appeal to the Court.

(6) If, in the opinion of the Court, the value of the debt or liability is incapable of being fairly estimated, the Court may make an order to that effect, and thereupon the debt or liability shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be a debt not provable in bankruptcy.

(7) If, in the opinion of the Court, the value of the debt or liability is capable of being fairly estimated, the Court may direct the value to be assessed before the Court itself, and may give all necessary directions for this purpose, and the assessment of the value when assessed shall be deemed [illegible] provable in bankruptcy.

(8) "Liability" shall, for the purposes of this Act include any compensation for work or labour done, any obligation or possibility of an obligation to pay money or money's worth on the breach of any express or implied covenant, contract, agreement or undertaking, whether the breach does or does not occur, or is or is not likely to occur or capable of occurring before the discharge of the debtor, and generally it shall include any express or implied engagement, agreement or undertaking to pay, or capable of resulting in the payment of, money or money's worth, whether the payment is as respects amount fixed or unliquidated; as respects time, present or future, certain or dependent on any one contingency or on two or more contingencies; as to mode of valuation, capable of being [illegible] by fixed rules or as matter of opinion.

Mutual credit, mutual debts and set-off.

32. Where there have been mutual credits, mutual debts or other mutual dealings between a debtor against whom a receiving order shall be made under this Act, and any other person proving or claiming to prove a debt under such receiving order, an account shall be taken of what is due from the one party to the other in respect of such mutual dealings, and the sum due from the one party shall be set off against any sum due from the other party, and the balance of the account, and no more, shall be claimed or paid on either side respectively; but a person shall not be entitled under this section to claim the benefit of any set-off against the property of a debtor in any case where he had at the time of contracting the debt or liability due to the debtor notice of an act of bankruptcy committed by the debtor and available against him.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 39.]

Rules as to proof of debts.

33. With respect to the mode of proving debts, the right of proof by secured and other creditors, the admission and rejection of proofs, and the other matters referred to in the second schedule, the rules in that schedule shall be observed.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 40.]

Priority of debts.

34. (1) In the distribution of the property of a bankrupt there shall be paid in priority to all other debts—

(a) all revenue, taxes, cesses and rates, whether payable to Her Majesty, to any local authority or otherwise, due from the bankrupt at the date of the receiving order, and having become due and payable within twelve months next before such time;

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 13.]

(b) all wages or salary of any clerk or servant in respect of services rendered to the bankrupt during four months before the date of the receiving order, not exceeding five hundred rupees; and

(c) all wages of any labourer or workman, not exceeding five hundred rupees, whether payable for time or piece-work, in respect of services rendered to the bankrupt during four months before the date of the receiving order.

(2) The foregoing debts shall rank equally between themselves, and shall be paid in full, unless the property of the bankrupt is insufficient to meet them, in which case they shall abate in equal proportions between themselves.

[Act IX of 1872, s. 262.]

(3) In the case of partners the joint estate shall be applicable in the first instance in payment of their joint debts, and the separate estate of each partner shall be applicable in the first instance in payment of his separate debts. If there is a surplus of the separate estates, it shall be dealt with as part of the joint estate. If there is a surplus of the joint estate, it shall be dealt with as part of the respective separate estates in proportion to the right and interest of each partner in the joint estate.

(4) Subject to the provisions of this Act, all debts proved in the bankruptcy shall be paid pari passu.

(5) If there is any surplus after payment of the foregoing debts, it shall be applied in payment of interest from the date of the receiving order at the rate of four per centum per annum on all debts proved in the bankruptcy.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 41.]

Preferential claim in case of apprenticeship.

35. (1) Where at the time of the presentation of the bankruptcy petition any person is apprenticed or is an articled clerk to the bankrupt, the adjudication of bankruptcy shall, if either bankrupt or apprentice or clerk, gives notice in writing to the trustee to that effect, be a complete discharge of the contract of apprenticeship or articles of agreement; and if any money has been paid by or on behalf of the apprentice or clerk to the bankrupt as a fee, the trustee may, on the application of the apprentice or clerk, or of some person on this behalf, pay such sum as the trustee, subject to an appeal to the Court, thinks reasonable, out of the bankrupt's property, to or for the use of the apprentice or clerk, regard being had to the amount paid by him or on his behalf, and to the time during which he served with the bankrupt under the contract or articles before the commencement of the bankruptcy, and to the other circumstances of the case.

(2) Where it appears expedient to a trustee, he may, on the application of any apprentice or articled clerk to the bankrupt, or any person acting on behalf of such apprentice or articled clerk, instead of acting under the preceding provisions of this section, transfer the contract of apprenticeship or articles of agreement to some other person.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 28. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 42.]

Power to landlord to distrain for rent.

36. (1) The landlord or other person to whom any rent is due from the bankrupt may at any time, either before or after the commencement of the bankruptcy, exercise his right of distraint (if any) upon the property of the bankrupt for the rent due to him from the bankrupt, with this limitation, that if such distress for rent be levied after the commencement of the bankruptcy it shall be available only for one year's rent accrued due prior to the date of the order of adjudication, but the landlord or other person to whom the rent may be due from the bankrupt may prove under the bankruptcy for the surplus due for which the distress may not have been available.

(2) For the purposes of this section the term "order of adjudication" shall be deemed to include an order for the administration of the estate of a deceased person who dies insolvent.

Property available for Payment of Debts.

Relation back of trustee's title.

37. The bankruptcy of a debtor, whether the [illegible] upon that of a creditor, shall be deemed to have relation back to, and to take effect from, the time of the act of bankruptcy [illegible]

The Indian Bankruptcy Bill, 1885.
(Part III.—Administration of Property.—Sections 38-44.)

which a receiving order is made against him, or, if the bankrupt is proved to have committed more acts of bankruptcy than one, to have relation back to, and to commence at, the time of the first of the acts of bankruptcy proved to have been committed by the bankrupt within three months next preceding the date of the presentation of the bankruptcy petition; but no bankruptcy petition, receiving order or adjudication shall be rendered invalid by reason of any act of bankruptcy anterior to the debt of the petitioning creditor.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 7, s. 41.]

Description of bankrupt's property divisible amongst creditors.

38. The property of the bankrupt divisible amongst his creditors, and in this Act referred to as the property of the bankrupt, shall not comprise the following particulars:—

(1) property held by the bankrupt on trust for any other person;

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 7.]

(2) the tools (if any) of his trade and the necessary wearing-apparel and bedding of himself, his wife and children, to a value, inclusive of tools and apparel and bedding, not exceeding two hundred rupees in the whole:

But it shall comprise the following particulars:—

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 7.]

(i) all such property as may belong to or be vested in the bankrupt at the commencement of the bankruptcy or may be acquired by or devolve on him before his discharge;

(ii) the capacity to exercise and to take proceedings for exercising all such powers in or over or in respect of property as might have been exercised by the bankrupt for his own benefit at the commencement of his bankruptcy or before his discharge, except the right of nomination to a vacant ecclesiastical benefice; and

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 23.]

(iii) all moveable property being, at the commencement of the bankruptcy, in the possession, order or disposition of the bankrupt, in his trade or business, by the consent and permission of the true owner, under such circumstances that he is the reputed owner thereof: Provided that things in action, other than debts due or growing due to the bankrupt in the course of his trade or business, shall not be deemed moveable property within the meaning of this section.

Effect of Bankruptcy on antecedent Transactions.

[Cf. Act XIV of 1882, s. 295 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 45.]

Restriction of rights of creditor under execution.

39. (1) Where execution of a decree has issued against the property of a debtor, the creditor who has caused the execution shall be forbidden to the benefit of the execution against the trustee in bankruptcy of the debtor, except in respect of assets realized in the course of the execution by sale or otherwise before the date of the receiving order, and before notice of the presentation of any bankruptcy petition by or against the debtor, or of the commission of any available act of bankruptcy by the debtor, has been given to the Court executing the decree.

(2) Nothing in this section shall affect the rights of a mortgagee or encumbrancer of property against which a decree is executed.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 46.]

Duties of Court executing decree as to goods taken in execution.

40. (1) Where execution of a decree has issued against any property of a debtor which is saleable in execution, and before the sale thereof notice is given to the Court executing the decree that a receiving order has been made against the debtor, the Court shall, on application, direct the property to be delivered to the official receiver or trustee under the order, but the costs of the execution shall be a charge on the property so delivered, and the official receiver or trustee may sell the property or an adequate part thereof for the purpose of satisfying the charge.

(2) An execution levied against the property of a debtor is not invalid by reason only of its being an act of bankruptcy, and a person who purchases the property in good faith under a sale in execution shall in all cases acquire a good title to them against the trustee in bankruptcy.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 47.]

Avoidance of voluntary settlements.

41. (1) Any settlement of property not being a settlement made before and in consideration of marriage, or made in favour of a purchaser or incumbrancer in good faith and for valuable consideration, or a settlement made on or for the wife or children of the settlor of property which has accrued to the settlor after marriage in right of his wife, shall, if the settlor becomes bankrupt within two years after the date of the settlement, be void against the trustee in the bankruptcy, and shall, if the settlor becomes bankrupt at any subsequent time within ten years after the date of the settlement, be void against the trustee in the bankruptcy, unless the parties claiming under the settlement can prove that the settlor was at the time of making the settlement able to pay all his debts without the aid of the property comprised in the settlement, and that the interest of the settlor in such property had passed to the trustee of such settlement on the execution thereof.

(2) Any covenant or contract made in consideration of marriage for the future settlement on or for the settlor's wife or children of any money or property wherein he had not at the date of his marriage any estate or interest, whether vested or contingent, in possession or remainder, and not being money or property or of in right of his wife, shall, on his becoming bankrupt before the property or money has been actually transferred or paid pursuant to the contract or covenant, be void against the trustee in the bankruptcy.

(3) "Settlement" shall for the purposes of this section include any conveyance or transfer of property.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 24. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 48.]

Avoidance of preferences in certain cases.

42. (1) Every conveyance or transfer of property or charge thereon made, every payment made, every obligation incurred and every judicial proceeding taken or suffered by any person unable to pay his debts as they become due from his own money in favour of any creditor, or any person in trust for any creditor, with a view of giving such creditor a preference over the other creditors, shall, if the person making, taking, paying or suffering the same is adjudged bankrupt on a bankruptcy petition presented within three months after the date of making, taking, paying or suffering the same, be deemed fraudulent and void as against the trustee in the bankruptcy.

(2) This section shall not affect the rights of any person making title in good faith and for valuable consideration through or under a creditor of the bankrupt.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 49.]

Protection of bonâ fide transactions without notice.

43. Subject to the foregoing provisions of this Act with respect to the effect of bankruptcy on an execution or attachment, and with respect to the avoidance of certain settlements and preferences, nothing in this Act shall invalidate in this case of a bankruptcy—

(a) any payment of the bankrupt to any of his creditors;

(b) any payment or delivery to the bankrupt;

(c) any conveyance or assignment by the bankrupt for valuable consideration;

(d) any contract, dealing or transaction by or with the bankrupt for valuable consideration:

Provided that both the following conditions are complied with, namely:—

(1) that the payment, delivery, conveyance, assignment, contract, dealing or transaction, as the case may be, takes place before the date of the receiving order; and

(2) the person (other than the debtor) to, by or with whom the payment, delivery, conveyance, assignment, contract, dealing or transaction was made, executed or entered into, has not at the time of the payment, delivery, conveyance, assignment, contract, dealing or transaction notice of any available act of bankruptcy committed by the bankrupt before that time.

Realization of Property.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 21. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 50.]

Possession of property by trustee.

44. (1) The trustee shall, as soon as may be, take possession of the deeds, books and documents of the bankrupt, and all other parts of his property capable of manual delivery.

(2) The trustee shall, in relation to and for the purpose of acquiring or retaining possession of the property of the bankrupt, be in the same position as if he were a receiver of the property appointed under section 508 of the Code of Civil Procedure, and shall have such of the powers conferable on a receiver under that section as may be specified in general rules, and the Court may on his application enforce such acquisition or retention accordingly.

XIV of 1882.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 25.]

(3) Where any part of the property of the bankrupt consists of stock, shares in ships, shares or any other property transferable in the books of any company, office or person, the trustee may exercise the right to transfer the property to the same extent as the bankrupt might have exercised it if he had not become bankrupt.

(4) Where any part of the property of the bankrupt consists of things in action, such things shall be deemed to have been duly assigned to the trustee.

(5) Any treasurer or other officer, or any banker, attorney or agent of a bankrupt, shall pay and deliver to the trustee all money and securities in his possession or power, as such officer, banker, attorney or agent, which he is not by law entitled to retain as against the bankrupt or the trustee. If he does not, he shall be guilty of a contempt of Court, and may be punished accordingly on the application of the trustee.

The Indian Bankruptcy Bill, 1885.
(Part III.—Administration of Property.—Sections 45-49.)

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 51.]

Seizure of property of bankrupt.

45. Any person acting under warrant of the Court may seize any part of the property of a bankrupt in the custody or possession of the bankrupt, or of any other person in British India, and with a view to such seizure may break open any house, building or room of the bankrupt where the bankrupt is supposed to be, or any building or receptacle of the bankrupt where any of his property is supposed to be; and where the Court is satisfied that there is reason to believe that property of the bankrupt is concealed in a house or place in British India not belonging to him, the Court may, if it thinks fit, grant a search-warrant to any Police-officer or officer of the Court, who may execute it according to its tenor.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 27. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 53.]

Appropriation of portion of pay or salary to creditors.

46. (1) Where a bankrupt is an officer of the army or navy or of Her Majesty's Indian marine service, or an officer or clerk or otherwise employed or engaged in the civil service of the Crown, the trustee shall receive for distribution amongst the creditors so much of the bankrupt's pay or salary as the Court, on the application of the trustee, with the consent of the chief officer of the department under which the pay or salary is enjoyed, may direct. Before making any order under this sub-section the Court shall communicate with the chief officer of the department as to the amount, time and manner of the payment to the trustee, and shall obtain the written consent of the chief officer to the terms of such payment.

(2) Where a bankrupt is in the receipt of a salary or income other than as aforesaid, or is entitled to any half pay, or pension, or to any compensation granted by the Government, the Court, on the application of the trustee, shall, from time to time, make such order as it thinks just for the payment of the salary, income, half pay, pension or compensation, or of any part thereof, to the trustee to be applied by him in such manner as the Court may direct.

(3) Nothing in this section shall take away or abridge any power of the chief officer of any public department to dismiss a bankrupt, or to declare the pension, half pay or compensation of any bankrupt to be forfeited.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 7. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 54.]

Vesting and transfer of property.

47. (1) Until a trustee is appointed the official receiver shall be the trustee for the purposes of this Act, and, immediately on a debtor being adjudged bankrupt, the property of the bankrupt shall vest in the trustee.

(2) On the appointment of a trustee the property shall forthwith pass to and vest in the trustee appointed.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 20.]

(3) The property of the bankrupt shall pass from trustee to trustee, including under that term the official receiver when he fills the office of trustee, and shall vest in the trustee for the time being during his continuance in office, without any conveyance, assignment or transfer whatever.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 55.]

Disclaimer of onerous property.

48. (1) Where any part of the property of the bankrupt consists of any tenancy burdened with onerous covenants, of shares or stock in companies, of unprofitable contracts, or of any other property that is unsaleable or not readily saleable, by reason of its binding the possessor thereof to the performance of any onerous act, or to the payment of any sum of money, the trustee, notwithstanding that he has endeavoured to sell or has taken possession of the property, or exercised any act of ownership in relation thereto, but subject to the provisions of this section, may, by writing signed by him, at any time within three months after the adjudication of bankruptcy, or, where a person other than the official receiver is appointed trustee, after the first appointment of a trustee, disclaim the property:

Provided that where any such property shall not have come to the knowledge of the trustee within one month after the adjudication or appointment (as the case may be), he may disclaim such property at any time within two months after he first became aware thereof.

(2) The disclaimer shall operate to determine, as from the date of disclaimer, the rights, interests and liabilities of the bankrupt and his property in or in respect of the property disclaimed, and shall also discharge the trustee from all personal liability in respect of the property disclaimed as from the date when the property vested in him, but shall not, except so far as is necessary for the purpose of releasing the bankrupt and his property and the trustee from liability, affect the rights or liabilities of any other person.

(3) A trustee shall not be entitled to disclaim a tenancy without the leave of the Court, except in any cases which may be prescribed by general rules; and the Court may, before or on granting such leave, require such notices to be given to persons interested, and impose such terms as a condition of granting leave and make such orders with respect to fixtures, tenant's improvements and other matters arising out of the tenancy as the Court thinks just.

(4) The trustee shall not be entitled to disclaim any property in pursuance of this section in any case where an application in writing has been made to the trustee by any person interested in the property requiring him to decide whether he will disclaim or not, and the trustee has for a period of twenty-eight days after the receipt of the application, or such extended period as may be allowed by the Court, declined or neglected to give notice whether he disclaims the property or not; and, in the case of a contract, if the trustee, after such application as aforesaid, does not within the said period or extended period disclaim the contract, he shall be deemed to have adopted it.

(5) The Court may, on the application of any person who is, as against the trustee, entitled to the benefit or subject to the burden of a contract made with the bankrupt, make an order rescinding the contract on such terms as to payment by or to either party of damages for the non-performance of the contract, or otherwise, as to the Court may seem equitable, and any damages payable under the order to any such person may be proved by him as a debt under the bankruptcy.

(6) The Court may, on application by any person either claiming any interest in any disclaimed property, or under any liability not discharged by this Act in respect of any disclaimed property, and on hearing such persons as it thinks fit, make an order for the vesting of the property in or delivery thereof to any person entitled thereto, or to whom it may seem just that the same should be delivered by way of compensation for such liability as aforesaid, or a trustee for him, and on such terms as the Court thinks just; and, on any such vesting order being made, the property comprised therein shall vest accordingly in the person therein named in that behalf without any conveyance or assignment for the purpose:

Provided always that, where the property disclaimed is a tenancy, the Court shall not make a vesting order in favour of any person claiming under the bankrupt, whether as under-tenant or as mortgagee by demise, except upon the terms of making such person subject to the same liabilities and obligations as the bankrupt was subject to under the tenancy in respect of the property at the date when the bankruptcy petition was filed, and any mortgagee or under-tenant declining to accept a vesting order upon such terms shall be excluded from all interest in and security upon the property; and if there shall be no person claiming under the bankrupt who is willing to accept an order upon such terms, the Court shall have power to vest the bankrupt's estate and interest in the property in any person bound either personally or in a representative character, and either alone or jointly with the bankrupt, to discharge the tenant's liabilities and obligations, freed and discharged from all estates, incumbrances and interests created therein by the bankrupt.

(7) Any person injured by the operation of a disclaimer under this section shall be deemed to be a creditor of the bankrupt to the extent of the injury, and may accordingly prove the same as a debt under the bankruptcy.

Powers of trustee to deal with property.

49. (1) Subject to the provisions of this Act, the trustee may do or any of the following things:— [46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 56.]

(a) sell all or any part of the property of the bankrupt (including the goodwill of the business, if any, and the book debts due or growing due to the bankrupt) by public auction or private contract, with power to transfer the whole thereof to any person or company, or to sell the same in parcels; [11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 31.]

(b) give receipts for any money received by him, which receipts shall effectually discharge the person paying the money from all responsibility in respect of the application thereof;

(c) prove, rank, claim and draw a dividend in respect of any debt due to the bankrupt;

(d) exercise any powers the capacity to exercise which is vested in the trustee under this Act, and execute any powers-of-attorney, deeds and other instruments for the purpose of carrying into effect the provisions of this Act; [11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 30.]

(e) deal with property to which the bankrupt is beneficially entitled as tenant in tail or other owner of an estate of inheritance less than an estate in fee-simple in the same manner as the bankrupt might have dealt with it. [Cf. Act XXVI of 1866, s. 2.]

(2) Any dealing by a trustee under clause (e) with any property to which the bankrupt is before his discharge entitled as in that clause mentioned shall, although the bankrupt be dead at the time of that dealing, be as valid and have the same operation as if the bankrupt were then alive. [3 & 4 Will. IV, c. 74, s. 65.]

The Indian Bankruptcy Bill, 1885.
(Part IV.—Official Receivers.—Sections 50-60.)

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 57.]

Powers exerciseable by trustee with permission of committee of inspection.

50. The trustee may, with the permission of the committee of inspection, do all or any of the following things:—

(1) carry on the business of the bankrupt, so far as may be necessary for the beneficial winding up of the same;

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 29.]

(2) bring, institute or defend any action, suit or other legal proceeding relating to the property of the bankrupt;

(3) employ a solicitor or other agent to take any proceedings or do any business which may be sanctioned by the committee of inspection;

(4) accept as the consideration for the sale of any property of the bankrupt a sum of money payable at a future time subject to such stipulations as to security and otherwise as the committee think fit;

(5) mortgage or pledge any part of the property of the bankrupt for the purpose of raising money for the payment of his debts;

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 28.]

(6) refer any dispute to arbitration, compromise all debts, claims and liabilities, whether present or future, certain or contingent, liquidated or unliquidated, subsisting or supposed to subsist between the bankrupt and any person who may have incurred any liability to the bankrupt, on the receipt of such sums, payable at such times, and generally on such terms as may be agreed on;

(7) make such compromise or other arrangement as may be thought expedient with creditors, or persons claiming to be creditors, in respect of any debts provable under the bankruptcy;

(8) make such compromise or other arrangement as may be thought expedient with respect to any claim arising out of or incidental to the property of the bankrupt, made or capable of being made on the trustee by any person or by the trustee on any person;

(9) divide in its existing form amongst the creditors, according to its estimated value, any property which from its peculiar nature or other special circumstances cannot be readily or advantageously sold.

The permission given for the purposes of this section shall not be a general permission to do all or any of the above-mentioned things, but shall only be a permission to do the particular thing or things for which permission is sought in the specified case or cases.

Distribution of Property.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 41. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 58.]

Declaration and distribution of dividends.

51. (1) Subject to the retention of such sums as may be necessary for the costs of administration, or otherwise, the trustee shall, with all convenient speed, declare and distribute dividends amongst the creditors who have proved their debts.

(2) The first dividend, if any, shall be declared and distributed within four months after the conclusion of the first meeting of creditors, unless the trustee satisfies the committee of inspection that there is sufficient reason for postponing the declaration to a later date.

(3) Subsequent dividends shall, in the absence of sufficient reason to the contrary, be declared and distributed at intervals of not more than six months.

(4) Before declaring a dividend the trustee shall cause notice of his intention to do so to be published in the prescribed manner, and shall also send reasonable notice thereof to each creditor mentioned in the bankrupt's statement who has not proved his debts.

(5) When the trustee has declared a dividend he shall send to each creditor who has proved a notice showing the amount of the dividend and when and how it is payable, and a statement in the prescribed form as to the particulars of the estate.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 59.]

Joint and separate dividends.

52. (1) Where one partner of a firm is adjudged bankrupt, a creditor to whom the bankrupt is indebted jointly with the other partners of the firm, or any of them, shall not receive any dividend out of the separate property of the bankrupt until all the separate creditors have received the full amount of their respective debts.

(2) Where joint and separate properties are being administered, dividends of the joint and separate properties shall, subject to any order to the contrary that may be made by the Court on the application of any person interested, be declared together; and the expenses of and incident to such dividends shall be fairly apportioned by the trustee between the joint and separate properties, regard being had to the work done for and the benefit received by each property.

Provisions for creditors residing at a distance, &c.

53. In the calculation and distribution of a dividend the trustee shall make provision for debts provable in bankruptcy, appearing from the bankrupt's statement, or otherwise, to be due to persons resident in places so distant from the place where the trustee is acting that in the ordinary course of communication they have not had sufficient time to tender their proofs, or to establish them if disputed, and also for debts provable in bankruptcy the subject of claims not yet determined. He shall also make provision for any disputed proofs or claims, and for the expenses necessary for the administration of the estate or otherwise, and, subject to the foregoing provisions, he shall distribute all dividend all money in hand. [11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 43. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 60.]

Right of creditor who has not proved debt before declaration of a dividend.

54. Any creditor who has not proved his debt before the declaration of any dividend or dividends shall be entitled to be paid out of any money for the time being in the hands of the trustee any dividend or dividends he may have failed to receive before that money is applied to the payment of any future dividend or dividends, but he shall not be entitled to disturb the distribution of any dividend declared before his debt was proved by reason that he has not participated therein. [46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 61.]

Final dividend.

55. When the trustee has realized all the property of the bankrupt, or so much thereof as can, in the joint opinion of himself and of the committee of inspection, be realized without needlessly protracting the trusteeship, he shall declare a final dividend, but before so doing he shall give notice in manner prescribed to the persons whose claims to be creditors have been notified to him, but not established to his satisfaction, that if they do not establish their claims to the satisfaction of the Court within a time limited by the notice he will proceed to make a final dividend without regard to their claims. After the expiration of the time so limited, or, if the Court on application by any such claimant grant him further time for establishing his claims, then on the expiration of such further time the property of the bankrupt shall be divided among the creditors who have proved their debts, without regard to the claims of any other persons. [46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 62.]

No suit for dividend.

56. No suit or action for a dividend shall lie against the trustee, but if the trustee refuses to pay any dividend the Court may, if it thinks fit, order him to pay it, and also to pay out of his own money interest thereon for the time that it is withheld, and the costs of the application. [11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 45. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 63.]

Power to allow bankrupt to manage property.

57. (1) The trustee, with the permission of the committee of inspection, may appoint the bankrupt himself to superintend the management of the property of the bankrupt or of any part thereof, or to carry on the trade (if any) of the bankrupt for the benefit of his creditors, and in any other respect to aid in administering the property in such manner and on such terms as the trustee may direct. [46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 64.]

Allowance to bankrupt for maintenance or service.

(2) The trustee may, from time to time, with the permission of the committee of inspection, make such allowance as he may think just to the bankrupt out of his property for the support of the bankrupt and his family, or in consideration of his services if he is engaged in winding up his estate, but any such allowance may be reduced by the Court. [11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 47.]

Right of bankrupt to surplus.

58. The bankrupt shall be entitled to any surplus remaining after payment in full of his creditors, with interest, as by this Act provided, and of the costs, charges and expenses of the proceedings under the bankruptcy petition. [46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 65.]

PART IV.

OFFICIAL RECEIVERS.

Appointment of official receivers of debtors' estates.

59. (1) The Chief Justice of each High Court may, at any time after the passing of this Act, and, from time to time, appoint such person as he thinks fit to be official receiver of debtors' estates for that Court, and may remove any person so appointed from that office. [11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 14. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 66 (1).]

(2) The Local Government may in like manner appoint any such person as it thinks fit to be official receiver of debtors' estates for any other Court having bankruptcy jurisdiction under this Act, and remove any person so appointed from such office.

Status of official receiver.

60. (1) The duties of the official receiver shall have relation both to the conduct of the debtor and to the administration of the estate. [46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 68.]

(2) An official receiver may, for the purpose of affidavits verifying proofs, petitions or other proceedings under this Act, administer oaths.

The Indian Bankruptcy Bill, 1885.
(Part V.—Trustees.—Sections 61-67.)

(3) All expressions referring to the trustee under a bankruptcy shall, unless the context otherwise requires or the Act otherwise provides, include the official receiver when acting as trustee.

(4) The trustee shall supply the official receiver with such information and give him such access to, and facilities for inspecting, the bankrupt's books and documents, and generally shall give him such aid, as may be requisite for enabling the official receiver to perform his duties under this Act.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 69.]

Duties of official receiver as regards the debtor's conduct.

61. As regards the debtor, it shall be the duty of the official receiver—

(1) to investigate the conduct of the debtor and to report to the Court, stating whether there is reason to believe that the debtor has committed any act which constitutes an offence under this Act or under section 421, 422, 423 or 424 of the Indian Penal Code or any amendment thereof, or which would justify the Court in refusing, suspending or qualifying an order for his discharge;

XLV of 1860.

(2) to make such other reports concerning the conduct of the debtor as the Court may direct;

(3) to take such part as may be directed by the Court in the public examination of the debtor;

(4) to take such part and give such assistance in relation to the prosecution of any fraudulent debtor as the Court may direct.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 70.]

Duties of official receiver as to debtor's estate.

62. (1) As regards the estate of a debtor it shall be the duty of the official receiver—

(a) pending the appointment of trustee, to act as interim receiver of the debtor's estate, and, where a special manager is not appointed, as manager thereof;

(b) to authorise the special manager to raise money or make advances for the purposes of the estate in any case where, in the interests of the creditors, it appears necessary so to do;

(c) to summon and preside at the first meeting of creditors;

(d) to issue forms of proxy for use at the meetings of creditors;

(e) to report to the creditors as to any proposal which the debtor may have made with respect to the mode of liquidating his affairs:

(f) to advertise the receiving order, the date of the creditors' first meeting and of the debtor's public examination, and such other matters as it may be necessary to advertise;

(g) to act as trustee where no trustee is appointed or during any vacancy in the office of trustee.

(2) For the purpose of his duties as interim receiver or manager the official receiver shall have such of the powers conferable on a receiver appointed under section 503 of the Code of Civil Procedure as may be specified in the general rules, but shall, as far as practicable, consult the wishes of the creditors with respect to the management of the debtor's property; and may for that purpose, if he thinks it advisable, summon meetings of the persons claiming to be creditors, and shall not, unless the Court otherwise orders, incur any expense beyond such as is requisite for the protection of the debtor's property or the disposing of perishable goods:

XIV of 1882.

Provided that, when the debtor cannot himself prepare a proper statement of affairs, the official receiver may, subject to any prescribed conditions, and at the expense of the estate, employ some person or persons to assist in the preparation of the statement of affairs.

(3) Every official receiver shall account to the Court and pay over all moneys and deal with all securities in such manner as the Court, from time to time, directs.

PART V.

TRUSTEES.

Remuneration of Trustee.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 16. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 72.]

Remuneration of trustee.

63. (1) Where the creditors appoint any person to be trustee of a debtor's estate, his remuneration (if any) shall be fixed by an ordinary resolution of the creditors, or, if the creditors so resolve, by the committee of inspection, and shall be in the nature of a commission or percentage, of which one part shall be payable on the amount realized, after deducting any sums paid to secured creditors out of the proceeds of their securities, and the other part on the amount distributed in dividend.

(2) If one-fourth in number or value of the creditors dissent from the resolution, or the bankrupt satisfies the Court that the remuneration is unnecessarily large, the Court shall fix the amount of the remuneration.

(3) The resolution shall express what expenses the remuneration is to cover, and no liability shall attach to the bankrupt's estate, or to the creditors, in respect of any expenses which the remuneration is expressed to cover.

(4) Where no remuneration has been voted to a trustee, he shall be allowed out of the bankrupt's estate such proper costs and expenses incurred by him in or about the proceedings of the bankruptcy as the prescribed officer may allow.

(5) A trustee shall not, under any circumstances whatever, make any arrangement for or accept from the bankrupt, or any solicitor, auctioneer or any other person that may be employed about a bankruptcy, any gift, remuneration or pecuniary or other consideration or benefit whatever beyond the remuneration fixed by the creditors and payable out of the estate, nor shall he make any arrangement for giving up, or give up, any part of his remuneration, either as receiver, manager or trustee, to the bankrupt, or any solicitor or other person that may be employed about a bankruptcy.

Costs.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 73.]

Allowance and taxation of costs.

64. (1) Where a trustee or manager receives remuneration for his services as such, no payment shall be allowed in his accounts in respect of the performance by any other person of the ordinary duties which are required by this Act or the rules made under this Act to be performed by himself.

(2) Where the trustee is a solicitor, he may contract that the remuneration for his services as trustee shall include all professional services.

(3) All bills and charges of solicitors, managers, accountants, auctioneers, brokers and other persons, not being trustees, shall be taxed by the prescribed officer, and no payments in respect thereof shall be allowed in the trustee's accounts without proof of such taxation having been made. The officer shall satisfy himself before passing such bills and charges that the employment of such solicitors and other persons, in respect of the particular matters out of which such charges arise, has been duly sanctioned.

(4) Every such person shall, on request by the trustee (which request the trustee shall make a sufficient time before declaring a dividend), deliver his bill of costs or charges to the prescribed officer, and if he fails to do so within seven days after receipt of the request, or such further time as the Court, on application, may grant, the trustee shall declare and distribute the dividend without regard to any claim by him, and thereupon any such claim shall be forfeited as well against the trustee personally as against the estate.

Receipts, Payments, Accounts, Audit.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, ss. 15-21. Ben. rules, 15. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 74.]

Bankruptcy estates account.

65. (1) An account called the bankruptcy estates account shall be kept by the Court with such Government treasury or bank as the Governor General in Council may direct, and all moneys realized on account of a bankrupt's estate by the Court or any officer thereof under this Act shall, unless it is otherwise prescribed, be paid to that account.

(2) Every trustee in bankruptcy shall, in such manner and at such times as the Court, with the sanction of the Governor General in Council, directs, pay the money received by him to the bankruptcy estates account, and the treasury or bank shall furnish him with a certificate of receipt of the money so paid.

(3) Subject to any general rules relating to small bankruptcies under Part VII of this Act, where the debtor at the date of the receiving order has an account at a bank, such account shall not be withdrawn until the expiration of seven days from the day appointed for the first meeting of creditors, unless the Court, for the safety of the account, or other sufficient cause, orders the withdrawal of the account.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 31.]

(4) If a trustee at any time retains for more than ten days a sum exceeding five hundred rupees, or such other amount as the Court in any particular case authorizes him to retain, then, unless he explains the retention to the satisfaction of the Court, he shall pay interest on the amount so retained in excess at the rate of twenty per centum per annum, and shall have no claim for remuneration, and may be removed from his office by the Court, and shall be liable to pay any expenses occasioned by reason of his default.

(5) All payments out of money standing to the credit of the bankruptcy estates account shall be made by the treasury or bank in the prescribed manner.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 75.]

Trustee not to pay into private account.

66. No trustee in a bankruptcy or under any composition or scheme of arrangement shall pay any sums received by him as trustee into his private banking account.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 76.]

Investment of surplus funds.

67. (1) Whenever the cash balance standing to the credit of the bankruptcy estates account is in excess of the amount which, in the opinion of the Court, is required for the time being to answer demands in respect of bankrupts' estates, the Court shall notify the same to such officer as the Governor General in Council may appoint in this behalf, and shall pay over the same, or any part thereof, as the officer may direct, to the officer, and the officer may invest the said sums or any part thereof in Government securities to be placed to the credit of the said account.

The Indian Bankruptcy Bill, 1885.
(Part V.—Trustees.—Sections 68-79.)

(2) Whenever any part of the money so invested is, in the opinion of the Court, required to answer any demands in respect of bankrupts' estates, the Court shall notify to the officer the amount so required, and the officer shall thereupon repay to the Court such sum as may be required to the credit of the bankruptcy estates account, and for that purpose may direct the sale of such part of the said securities as may be necessary.

(3) The dividends on the investments under this section shall be paid to such account as the Governor General in Council may direct, and regard shall be had to the amount thus derived in fixing the fees payable in respect of bankruptcy proceedings.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 33. Ben. rules, 39-41. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 76.]

Audit of trustee's accounts.

68. (1) Every trustee shall, at such times as may be prescribed, but not less than twice in each year during his tenure of office, send to the Court, or as it directs, an account of his receipts and payments as such trustee.

(2) The account shall be in a prescribed form, shall be made in duplicate, and shall be verified by a declaration in the prescribed form.

(3) The Court shall cause the accounts so sent to be audited, and for the purposes of the audit the trustee shall furnish the Court with such vouchers and information as the Court may require, and the Court may at any time require the production of and inspect any books or accounts kept by the trustee.

(4) When any such account has been audited, a copy thereof shall be filed in the Court, and shall be open to the inspection of any creditor, or of the bankrupt, or of any person interested.

[46 &, 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 79.]

The trustee to furnish list of creditors.

69. The trustee shall, whenever required by any creditor so to do, and on payment by such creditor of the prescribed fee, furnish and transmit to such creditor by post a list of the creditors, showing in such list the amount of the debt due to each of such creditors.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 80.]

Books to be kept by trustee.

70. The trustee shall keep, in manner prescribed, proper books, in which he shall from time to time cause to be made entries or minutes of proceedings at meetings and of such other matters as may be prescribed; and any creditor of the bankrupt may, subject to the control of the Court, personally or by his agent inspect any such books.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 81.]

Annual statement of proceedings.

71. (1) Every trustee in a bankruptcy shall from time to time, as may be prescribed, and not less than once in every year, during the continuance of the bankruptcy, submit to the Court a statement showing the proceedings in the bankruptcy up to the date of the statement, containing the prescribed particulars, and made out in the prescribed form.

(2) The Court shall cause the statements so transmitted to be examined, and shall call the trustee to account for any misfeasance, neglect or omission which may appear on the said statements or in his accounts or otherwise, and may require the trustee to make good any loss which the estate of the bankrupt may have sustained by the misfeasance, neglect or omission.

Release of Trustee.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 82.]

Release of trustee.

72. (1) When the trustee has realised all the property of the bankrupt, or so much thereof as can, in his opinion, be realized without needlessly protracting the trusteeship, and distributed a final dividend, if any, or has ceased to act by the reason of a composition having been approved, or as resigned, or has been removed from his office, the Court shall, on his application, cause a report on his accounts to be prepared, and, on his complying with all the requirements of the Court, shall take into consideration the report, and any objection which may be urged by any creditor or person interested against the release of the trustee, and shall either grant or withhold the release accordingly.

(2) Where the release of a trustee is withheld, the Court may, on the application of any creditor or person interested, make such order as it thinks just, charging the trustee with the consequences of any act or default he may have done or made contrary to his duty.

(3) An order of the Court releasing the trustee shall discharge him from all liability in respect of any act done or default made by him in the administration of the affairs of the bankrupt, or otherwise in relation to his conduct as trustee; but any such order may be revoked on proof that it was obtained by fraud or by suppression or concealment of any material fact.

(4) Where the trustee has not previously resigned or been removed, his release shall operate as a removal of him from his office, and thereupon the official receiver shall be the trustee.

Official Name.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 83.]

Official name of trustee.

73. The trustee may sue and be used by the official name of "the trustee of the property of , a bankrupt," inserting the name of the bankrupt, and by that name may hold property of every description, make contracts, sue and be sued, enter into any engagements binding on himself and his successors in office, and do all other acts necessary or expedient to be done in the execution of his office.

Appointment and Removal.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 4.]

Power to appoint joint or successive trustees.

74. (1) Subject to the provisions of this Act, the creditors may, if they think fit, appoint more persons than one to the office of trustee; and when more persons than one are appointed they shall declare whether any act required or authorised to be done by the trustee is to be done by all or any one or more of such persons, but all such persons are in this Act included under the term "trustee," and shall be joint-tenants of the property of the bankrupt.

(2) Subject as aforesaid, the creditors may also appoint persons to act as trustees in succession in the event of one or more of the persons first named declining to accept the office of trustee, or failing to give security, or not being approved of by the Court.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 85.]

Office of trustee vacated by insolvency.

75. If a receiving order is made against a trustee, he shall thereby vacate his office of trustee.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 18. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 86.]

Removal of trustee.

76. (1) The creditors may, by ordinary resolution, at a meeting specially called for that purpose, of which seven days' notice has been given, remove a trustee appointed by them, and may at the same or any subsequent meeting appoint another person to fill the vacancy as hereinafter provided in case of a vacancy in the office of trustee.

(2) If the Court is of opinion that a trustee appointed by the creditors is guilty of misconduct, or fails to perform his duties under this Act, the Court may remove him from his office.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 87.]

Vacancy in office of trustee.

77. (1) If a vacancy occurs in the office of a trustee, the creditors in general meeting may appoint a person to fill the vacancy, and thereupon the same proceedings shall be taken as in the case of a first appointment.

(2) The official receiver shall, on the requisition of any creditor, summon a meeting for the purpose of filling any such vacancy.

(3) If the creditors do not within three weeks after the occurrence of a vacancy appoint a person to fill the vacancy, the official receiver shall report the matter to the Court, and the Court may appoint a trustee; but in such case the creditors or committee of inspection shall have the same power of appointing a trustee as in the case of a first appointment.

(4) If no trustee is appointed, and during any vacancy in the office of trustee, the official receiver shall act as trustee and shall have all the powers of a trustee.

Voting Powers of Trustee.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 88.]

Limitation of voting powers of trustee.

78. The vote of the trustee, or of his partner, clerk, solicitor or solicitor's clerk, either as creditor or as proxy for a creditor, shall not be reckoned in the majority required for passing any resolution affecting the remuneration or conduct of the trustee.

Control over Trustee.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 89.]

Discretionary powers of trustee and control thereof.

79. (1) Subject to the provisions of this Act, the trustee shall, in the administration of the property of the bankrupt and in the distribution thereof amongst his creditors, have regard to any directions that may be given by resolution of the creditors at any general meeting, or by the committee of inspection; and any directions so given by the creditors at any general meeting shall in case of conflict be deemed to override any directions given by the committee of inspection.

(2) The trustee may, from time to time, summon general meetings of the creditors for the purpose of ascertaining their wishes, and it shall be his duty to summon meetings at such times as the creditors, by resolution, either at the meeting appointing the trustee or otherwise, may direct, or whenever requested in writing to do so by one-fourth in value of the creditors.

(3) The trustee may apply to the Court in manner prescribed for directions in relation to any particular matter arising under the bankruptcy.

(4) Subject to the provisions of this Act, the trustee shall use his own discretion in the management of the estate and its distribution among the creditors.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 90.]

80. If the bankrupt or any of the creditors or any other person is aggrieved by any act or decision of the trustee, he may apply to the Court; and the Court may confirm, reverse or modify the act or decision complained of, and make such order in the premises as it thinks just.

Appeal to Court against trustee.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 91.]

81. (1) The Court shall take cognizance of the conduct of trustees, and in the event of any trustee not faithfully performing his duties and duly observing all the requirements imposed on him by any enactment or by rules or otherwise, with respect to the performance of his duties, or in the event of any complaint being made to the Court by any creditor in regard thereto, the Court shall enquire into the matter and take such action thereon as may be deemed expedient.

Control of Court over trustees.

(2) The Court may at any time require any trustee to answer any inquiry made by it in relation to any bankruptcy in which the trustee is engaged, and may examine on oath the trustee or any other person concerning the bankruptcy.

(3) The Court may also direct a local investigation to be made of the books and vouchers of the trustee.

PART VI.

CONSTITUTION, PROCEDURE AND POWERS OF COURT.

Jurisdiction.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 92.]

82. (1) The Courts having jurisdiction in bankruptcy under this Act shall be—

Courts having jurisdiction in bankruptcy.

(a) the High Courts of Judicature at Fort William, Madras and Bombay,

(b) the Court of the Recorder of Rangoon, and

(c) such other Civil Courts as the Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, may, from time to time, appoint in this behalf in the territories administered by it.

[New]

83. For the purposes of this Act the local limits of the jurisdiction of the said Courts shall be as follows, namely :—

Local limits of their jurisdiction.

(a) the local limits of the jurisdiction of each of the said High Courts of Judicature shall be the local limits for the time being of its ordinary original civil jurisdiction ;

(b) the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court of the Recorder of Rangoon shall comprise the towns of Rangoon, Moulmein, Akyab and Bassein ;

(c) the local limits of the jurisdiction of a Court appointed by a Local Government shall be such as may, from time to time, be fixed, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, by that Local Government within the territories administered by it.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 3 ; 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 94 (2).]

84. All matters in respect of which jurisdiction is given by this Act shall, in each of the said High Courts of Judicature, be ordinarily transacted and disposed of by or under the direction of one of the Judges of that Court; and the Chief Justice shall, from time to time, assign a Judge for that purpose.

Jurisdiction in Presidency High Court to be exercised by a single Judge.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 97 (2).]

85. Any proceedings in bankruptcy pending in any Court appointed by the Local Government of a province under section 82 may at any time, and at any stage thereof, and either with or without application from any of the parties thereto, be transferred by the High Court of the province to itself or to any other Court appointed as aforesaid in the province.

Transfer of proceedings from Court to Court.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 97 (3).]

86. If any question of law arises in any bankruptcy proceeding in a Court appointed by the Local Government of a province under section 82, and all the parties to the proceeding desire, or one of them and the Judge of the Court may desire, to have the question determined in the first instance in the High Court of the province, the Judge shall state the facts, in the form of a special case, for the opinion of that High Court. The special case and the proceedings, or such of them as may be required, shall be transmitted to the High Court for the purposes of the determination.

Power to state special case.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 98.]

87. Subject to the provisions of this Act and to general rules, the Judge of a Court exercising jurisdiction in bankruptcy may exercise in chambers the whole or any part of his jurisdiction.

Exercise of jurisdiction in chambers.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 99.]

88. (1) Subject to general rules limiting the powers conferred by this section, the High Court of Judicature at Fort William, Madras or Bombay may, from time to time, direct that, in any matters in respect of which jurisdiction is given to the Court by this Act, a Judge of the Presidency Small Cause Court appointed by it in this behalf shall have all or any of the powers in this section mentioned; and any order made or act done by such Judge of the Small Cause Court in the exercise of the said powers shall be deemed the order or act of the High Court.

Delegation of powers to Presidency Judges of Small Causes.

(2) The powers referred to in sub-section (1) are the following, namely :—

(a) to hear bankruptcy petitions, and to make receiving orders and adjudications thereon ;

(b) to hold the public examination of debtors ;

(c) to grant orders of discharge ;

(d) to approve compositions or schemes of arrangement ;

(e) to make interim orders in any case of urgency ;

(g) to hear and determine any unopposed or ex parte application ;

(h) to summon and examine any person known or suspected to have in his possession effects of the debtor or to be indebted to him, or capable of giving information respecting the debtor, his dealings or property.

(3) A Judge of the Small Cause Court shall not have power to commit for contempt of Court.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 100.]

89. A Court appointed by a Local Government under section 82 shall, for the purposes of its bankruptcy jurisdiction, in addition to its ordinary powers, have all the powers and jurisdiction possessed by any of the said High Courts of Judicature, and the orders of the Court may be enforced accordingly in manner prescribed.

Powers of Court appointed by Local Government.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 102]

90. (1) Subject to the provisions of this Act, every Court having jurisdiction in bankruptcy under this Act shall have full power to decide all questions of priorities, and all other questions whatsoever, whether of law or fact, which may arise in any case of bankruptcy coming within the cognizance of the Court, or which the Court may deem it expedient or necessary to decide for the purpose of doing complete justice or making a complete distribution of property in any such case.

General power of Bankruptcy Courts.

(2) A Court having jurisdiction in bankruptcy under this Act shall not be subject to be restrained in the execution of its powers under this Act by the order of any other Court, nor shall any appeal lie from its decisions, except in manner directed by this Act.

(3) Where a receiving order has been made in any of the said High Courts of Judicature under this Act, the Judge by whom such order was made shall have power, if he sees fit, without any further consent, to order the transfer to such Judge of any suit or action by or against the bankrupt pending before any other Judge or Judges of the Court.

(4) Where default is made by a trustee, debtor or other person in obeying any order or direction given by the Court or by an official receiver or any other officer of the Court under any power conferred by this Act, the Court may, on the application of the official receiver or other duly authorised person, order such defaulting trustee, debtor or person to comply with the order or direction so given ; and the Court may also, if it shall think fit, upon any such application, make an immediate order for the committal of such defaulting trustee, debtor or other person if in British India : Provided that the power given by this sub-section shall be deemed to be in addition to and not in substitution for any other right or remedy in respect of such default.

Appeals.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 104.]

91. (1) Every Court having jurisdiction in bankruptcy under this Act may review, rescind or vary any order made by it under its bankruptcy jurisdiction.

Appeals in bankruptcy.

(2) Orders in bankruptcy matters shall, at the instance of any person aggrieved, be subject to appeal as follows :—

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 7.]

(a) an appeal shall lie from the order of a single Judge of one of the said High Courts of Judicature to the High Court ;

(b) an appeal shall lie from the order of the Court of the Recorder of Rangoon to the Special Court ;

(c) an appeal shall lie from the order of a Court appointed by a Local Government under section 82 to the High Court of the province ;

(d) no appeal shall be entertained except in conformity with such general rules as may for the time being be in force in relation to the appeal.

Procedure.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 105.]

92. (1) Subject to the provisions of this Act and to general rules, the costs of and incidental to any proceeding in Court under this Act shall be in the discretion of the Court.

Discretionary powers of the Court.

(2) The Court may at any time adjourn any proceedings before it upon such terms, if any, as it may think fit to impose.

(3) The Court may at any time amend any written process or proceeding under this Act upon such terms, if any, as it may think fit to impose.

(4) Where by this Act or by general rules the time for doing any act or thing is limited, the Court may extend the time either before or after the expiration thereof, upon such terms, if any, as the Court may think fit to impose.

(5) Subject to general rules, the Court may in any matter take the whole or any part of the evidence either viva voce or by interrogatories, or upon affidavit, or by commission beyond the limits of British India.

(6) For the purpose of approving a composition or scheme by joint debtors, the Court may, if it thinks fit, and on the report of the official receiver that it is expedient so to do, dispense with the public examination of one of such joint debtors if he is unavoidably prevented from attending the examination by illness or absence abroad.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 106.]

93. Where two or more bankruptcy petitions are presented against the same debtor or against joint debtors, the Court may consolidate the proceedings, or any of them, on such terms as the Court thinks fit.

Consolidation of petitions.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 107.]

94. Where the petitioner does not proceed with due diligence on his petition, the Court may substitute as petitioner any other creditor to whom the debtor may be indebted in the amount specified by this Act in the case of the petitioning creditor.

Power to change carriage of proceedings.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 108.]

95. If a debtor by or against whom a bankruptcy petition has been presented dies, the proceedings in the matter shall, unless the Court otherwise orders, be continued as if he were alive.

Continuance of proceedings on death of debtor.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 109.]

96. The Court may at any time, for sufficient reason, make an order staying the proceedings under a bankruptcy petition, either altogether or for a limited time, on such terms and subject to such conditions as the Court may think just.

Power to stay proceedings.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 110.]

97. Any creditor whose debtor is sufficient to entitle him to present a bankruptcy petition against all the partners of a firm may present a petition against any one or more partners of the firm without including the others.

Power to present petition against one partner.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 111.]

98. Where there or more respondents than one to a petition, the Court may dismiss the petition as to one or more of them, without prejudice to the effect of the petition as against the other or others of them.

Power to dismiss petition against some respondents only.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 112.]

99. Where a receiving order has been made on a bankruptcy petition against or by one member of a partnership, any other bankruptcy petition against or by a member of the same partnership shall be filed in or transferred to the Court in which the first-mentioned petition is in course of prosecution ; and if a trustee has been appointed in respect of the property of the first-mentioned member of the partnership, the same trustee shall, unless the Court otherwise directs, be appointed in respect of the property of the last-mentioned member, and the Court may give such directions for consolidating the proceedings under the petitions as it thinks just.

Property of partners to be vested in same trustee.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 113.]

100. Where a member of a partnership is adjudged bankrupt, the Court may authorise the trustee to commence and prosecute any suit or action in the names of the trustee and of the bankrupt's partner ; and any release by such partner of the debt or demand to which the action relates shall be void ; but notice of the application for authority to commence the suit or action shall be given to him, and he may show cause against it, and on his application the Court may, if it thinks fit, direct that he shall receive his proper share of the proceeds of the action, and if he does not claim any benefit therefrom he shall be indemnified against costs in respect thereof as the Court directs.

Actions by trustee and bankrupt's partners.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 114.]

101. Where a bankrupt is a contractor in respect of any contract jointly with any person or persons, such person or persons may sue or be sued in respect of the contract without the joinder of the bankrupt.

Actions on joint contracts.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 115.]

102. Any two or more persons, being partners, or any person carrying on business under a partnership name, may take proceedings or be proceeded against under this Act in the name of the firm ; but in such case the Court may, on application by any person interested, order the names of the persons who are partners in such firm or the name of such person to be disclosed in such manner, and verified on oath, or otherwise as the Court may direct.

Proceedings in partnership name.

PART VII.

SMALL BANKRUPTCIES.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 121.]

103. When a petition is presented by or against a debtor, or, if the Court is satisfied by affidavit or otherwise, or the official receiver reports to the Court, that the property of the debtor is not likely to exceed in value three thousand rupees, the Court may make an order that the debtor's estate be administered in a summary manner, and thereupon the provisions of this Act shall be subject to the following modifications :—

Summary administration in small cases.

(a) if the debtor is adjudged bankrupt, the official receiver shall be the trustee in the bankruptcy ;

(b) there shall be no committee of inspection, but the official receiver may do with the permission of the Court all things which may be done by the trustee with the permission of the committee of inspection ;

(c) such other modifications may be made in the provisions of this Act as may be prescribed by general rules with the view of saving expense and simplifying procedure ; but nothing in this section shall permit the modification of the provisions of this Act relating to the examination or discharge of the debtor :

Provided that the creditors may at any time, with the previous permission of the Court, by special resolution, resolve that some person other than the official receiver be appointed trustee in the bankruptcy, and thereupon the bankruptcy shall proceed as if an order for summary administration had not been made.

PART VIII.

FRAUDULENT DEBTORS AND CREDITORS.

Local extent and construction of this Part.

104. (1) This part shall extend only to British India.

(2) "The Court" in this Part means the Court before which an accused person is tried.

(3) Nothing in this Part shall prevent any person from being prosecuted under any other law for any act or omission which constitutes an offence under this Part, or from being liable under that other law to any other or higher punishment or penalty than that provided by this Part :

Provided that a person shall not be punished twice for the same offence.

[32 & 33 Vic., c. 62, s. 11 ; 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 163.]

105. Any person against whom a receiving order has been under this Act shall, in each of the cases following, be punished with imprisonment which may extend to two years, or with fine, or with both ; that is to say,—

Punishment of fraudulent debtors.

(a) If he does not, to the best of his knowledge and belief, fully and truly discover to the trustee administering his estate for the benefit of his creditors all his property, and how, and to whom, and for what consideration, and when he disposed of any part thereof, except such part as has been disposed of in the ordinary way of his trade (if any), or laid out in the ordinary expense of his family, unless the Court is satisfied that he had no intent to defraud :

(b) If he does not deliver up to such trustee, or as he directs, all such part of his property as is in his custody or under his control, and which he is required by law to deliver up, unless the Court is satisfied that he had no intent to defraud :

(c) If he does not deliver up to such trustee, or as he directs, all books, documents, papers and writings in his custody or under his control relating to his property or affairs, unless the Court is satisfied that he had no intent to defraud :

The Indian Bankruptcy Bill, 1885.
(Part VIII.—Supplemental Provisions.—Sections 106-114.)

(d) If after the presentation of a bankruptcy petition by or against him, or within four months next before such presentation, he conceals any part of his property to the value of one hundred rupees or upwards, or conceals any debt due to or from him, unless the Court is satisfied that he had no intent to defraud:

(e) If after the presentation of a bankruptcy petition by or against him, or within four months next before such presentation, he fraudulently removes any part of his property of the value of one hundred rupees or upwards:

(f) If he makes any material omission in any statement relating to his affairs, unless the Court is satisfied that he had no intent to defraud:

(h) If after the presentation of a bankruptcy petition by or against him, he prevents the production of any book, document, paper or writing affecting or relating to his property or affairs, unless the Court is satisfied that he had no intent to conceal the state of his affairs or to defeat the law:

(i) If after the presentation of a bankruptcy petition by or against him, or within four months next before such presentation, he conceals, destroys, mutilates or falsifies, or is privy to the concealment, destruction, mutilation or falsification of, any book or document affecting or relating to his property or affairs, unless the Court is satisfied that he had no intent to conceal the state of his affairs or to defeat the law:

(j) If after the presentation of a bankruptcy petition by or against him, or within four months next before such presentation, he makes or is privy to the making of any false entry in any book or document affecting or relating to his property or affairs, unless the Court is satisfied that he had no intent to conceal the state of his affairs or to defeat the law:

(k) If after the presentation of a bankruptcy petition by or against him, or within four months next before such presentation, he fraudulently parts with, alters or makes any omission, or is privy to the fraudulently parting with, altering or making any omission, in any document affecting or relating to his property or affairs:

(l) If after the presentation of a bankruptcy petition by or against him, or at any meeting of his creditors within four months next before such presentation, he attempts to account for any part of his property by fictitious losses or expenses:

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 31.] (m) If while undischarged he obtains credit to the extent of two hundred rupees or upwards from any person without informing such person that he is an undischarged bankrupt:

(n) If within four months next before the presentation of a bankruptcy petition by or against him, he, by any false representation or other fraud, has obtained any property on credit and has not paid for the same:

(o) If within four months next before the presentation of a bankruptcy petition by or against him, he, being a trader, obtains under the false pretence of carrying on business and dealing in the ordinary way of his trade, any property on credit, and has not paid for the same, unless the Court is satisfied that he had no intent to defraud:

(p) If within four months next before the presentation of a bankruptcy petition by or against him, he, being a trader, pawns, pledges or disposes of otherwise than in the ordinary way of his trade any property which he has obtained on credit and has not paid for, unless the Court is satisfied that he had no intent to defraud:

(q) If he is guilty of any false representation or other fraud for the purpose of obtaining the consent of his creditors or any of them to any agreement with reference to his affairs or his bankruptcy.

[32 & 33 Vic., c. 62, s. 12. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 163.]

Penalty for absconding with property.

106. If any person against whom a receiving order has been made under this Act after the presentation of a bankruptcy petition by or against him, or within four months before such presentation, quits British India and takes with him, or attempts or makes preparation for quitting British India and for taking with him, any part of his property to the amount of two hundred rupees or upwards, which ought by law to be divided amongst his creditors, he shall (unless the Court is satisfied that he had no intent to defraud) be punished with imprisonment which may extend to two years, or with fine, or with both.

[32 & 33 Vic., c. 62, s. 13.]

Penalty on fraudulently obtaining credit, &c.

107. Any person shall in each of the cases following be punished with imprisonment which may extend to one year, or with fine, or with both; that is to say,—

(1) if in incurring any debt or liability he has obtained credit under false pretences, or by means of any other fraud;

(2) if he has with intent to defraud his creditors, or any of them, made, or caused to be made, any gift, delivery or transfer of or any charge on his property;

(3) if he has, with intent to defraud his creditors, concealed or removed any part of his property since or within two months before the date of any unsatisfied decree or order for payment of money obtained against him.

[32 & 33 Vic., c. 62, s. 14.]

Penalty on false claim, &c.

108. If any creditor, in any bankruptcy composition or arrangement with creditors, wilfully and with intent to defraud makes any false claim, or any proof, declaration or statement of account which is untrue in any material particular, he shall be punished with imprisonment which may extend to one year, or with fine, or with both.

[32 & 33 Vic., c. 62, s. 15.]

Debts incurred by fraud.

109. Where a debtor makes any composition or arrangement with his creditors, he shall remain liable for the unpaid balance of debt which he incurred or increased, or whereof before the date of the arrangement or composition he obtained forbearance, by any fraud, provided the defrauded creditor has not assented to the arrangement or composition otherwise than by proving his debt and accepting dividends.

[32 & 33 Vic., c. 62, s. 16. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 164.]

Order by Court for prosecution on report of official receiver or trustee.

110. Where the official receiver or a trustee in any bankruptcy reports to any Court exercising jurisdiction in bankruptcy that in his opinion a debtor against whom a receiving order has been made under this Act has been guilty of any offence under this Act, or under section 421, 422, 423 or 424 of the Indian Penal Code, or where any such Court is satisfied upon the representation of any creditor or member of the committee of inspection that there is ground to believe that the debtor has been guilty of any offence as aforesaid, that Court shall, if it appears to it that there is a reasonable probability that the debtor may be convicted, order the official receiver or trustee to prosecute him for such offence. XLV of 1860.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 107.]

Criminal liability after discharge or composition.

111. Where a debtor has been guilty of any offence he shall not be exempt from being proceeded against therefor by reason that he has obtained his discharge or that a composition or scheme of arrangement has been accepted or approved.

PART IX.

SUPPLEMENTAL PROVISIONS.

Application of Act.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 153. 45 & 46 Vic., c. 75, s. 1 (5). Act III of 1874, s. 8.]

Application to married woman.

112. A married woman shall, in respect of her separate property (if any), be subject to this Act in the same way as if she were unmarried.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 133.]

Exclusion of partnerships and companies.

113. A receiving order shall not be made against any corporation, or against any partnership or association, or company registered under any enactment relating to companies for the time being in force.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 136.]

Administration in bankruptcy of estate of person dying insolvent.

114. (1) Any creditor of a deceased debtor whose debt would have been sufficient to support a bankruptcy petition against such debtor, had he been alive, may present to the Court a petition in the prescribed form praying for an order for the administration of the estate of the deceased debtor according to the Law of Bankruptcy.

(2) Upon the prescribed notice being given to the executor, administrator or other legal representative of the deceased debtor, the Court may, in the prescribed manner, upon proof of the petitioner's debt, unless the Court is satisfied that there is a reasonable probability that the estate will be sufficient for the payment of the debts owing by the deceased, make an order for the administration in bankruptcy of the deceased debtor's estate, or may upon cause shown dismiss such petition with or without costs.

(3) An order of administration under this section shall not, in cases where a grant of probate or administration is required to establish a title as legal representative, be made until the expiration of two months from the date of the

The Indian Bankruptcy Bill, 1885.
(Part IX.—Supplemental Provisions.—Sections 115-124.)

grant of probate or letters of administration, unless with the concurrence of the legal representative of the deceased debtor, or unless the petitioner proves to the satisfaction of the Court that the debtor committed an act of bankruptcy within three months prior to his decease.

(4) A petition for administration under this section shall not be presented to the Court after proceedings have been commenced in any Court of justice for the administration of the deceased debtor's estate; but that Court may, in such case, on the application of any creditor, and on proof that the estate is insufficient to pay its debts, transfer the proceedings to the Court exercising jurisdiction in bankruptcy, and thereupon such last-mentioned Court may, in the prescribed manner, make an order for the administration of the estate of the deceased debtor, and the like consequences shall ensue as under an administration order made on the petition of a creditor.

(5) Upon an order being made for the administration of a deceased debtor's estate, the property of the debtor shall vest in the official receiver of the Court, as trustee thereof, and he shall forthwith proceed to realize and distribute the same in accordance with the provisions of this Act.

(6) With the modifications hereinafter mentioned, all the provisions of Part III of this Act, relating to the administration of the property of a bankrupt, shall, so far as the same are applicable, apply to the case of an administration order under this section in like manner as to an order of adjudication under this Act.

(7) In the administration of the property of the deceased debtor under an order of administration, the official receiver shall have regard to any claim by the legal representative of the deceased debtor to payment of the proper funeral and testamentary expenses incurred by him in and about the debtor's estate, and such claims shall be deemed a preferential debt under the order, and be payable in full, out of the debtor's estate, in priority to all other debts.

(8) If, on the administration of a deceased debtor's estate, any surplus remains in the hands of the official receiver, after payment in full of all the debts due from the debtor, together with the costs of the administration and interest as provided by this Act in case of bankruptcy, such surplus shall be paid over to the legal representative of the deceased debtor's estate, or dealt with in such other manner as may be prescribed.

[illegible] as act of bankruptcy, and [illegible] transfer of property made by the legal [illegible] operate as a discharge to him as between himself and the official receiver; save as aforesaid nothing in this section shall invalidate any payment made or any act or thing done in good faith by the legal representative before the date of the order for administration.

(10) Unless the context otherwise requires, "Court," in this section, means the Court exercising jurisdiction in bankruptcy within the local limits of the jurisdiction of which the debtor resided or carried on business for the greater part of the six months immediately prior to his decease: "creditor" means one or more creditors qualified to present a bankruptcy petition as in this Act provided.

[illegible] general rules, for carrying into effect the provisions of this section, may be made in the same manner and to the like effect and extent as in bankruptcy.

General Rules.

115. (1) The High Court of a province may, from time to time, with the concurrence of the Governor General in Council, make, revoke and alter general rules for carrying into effect the purposes of this Act.

[illegible] Power to make general rules.

(2) All general rules made under the foregoing provisions of this section shall be judicially noticed, and shall have effect as if enacted by this Act.

(3) Such general rules as may be required for purposes of this Act may be made at any time after the passing of this Act.

(4) Provided that the said general rules so made, revoked or altered shall not extend the jurisdiction of the Court.

(5) After the commencement of this Act no general rule under the provisions of this section shall come into operation until the expiration of one month after the same has been made and issued.

Fees and Remuneration.

116. (1) The High Court of a province may, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, from time to time [illegible] a scale of fees and percentages to be charged for the purposes of proceedings under this Act, and direct by whom and in what manner the same are to be collected, accounted for, and to what account they shall be paid.

Fees and remuneration.

(2) The High Court may, with the like sanction, from time to time fix the remuneration to be paid to the official receivers.

(3) This section shall come into operation on the passing of this Act.

Evidence.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 152.]

Gazettes to be evidence.

117. (1) A copy of the Gazette of India or of a Local Government, containing any notice inserted therein in pursuance of this Act or the rules made under this Act, shall be evidence of the facts stated in the notice.

(2) The production of a copy of the Gazette containing any notice of a receiving order, or of an order adjudging a debtor bankrupt, shall be conclusive evidence in all legal proceedings of the order having been duly made, and of its date.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 133.]

Evidence of proceedings at meetings of creditors.

118. (1) A minute of proceedings at a meeting of creditors under this Act, signed at the same or the next ensuing meeting by a person describing himself as, or appearing to be, chairman of the meeting at which the minute is signed, shall be received in evidence without further proof.

(2) Until the contrary is proved, every meeting of creditors in respect of the proceedings whereof a minute has been so signed shall be deemed to have been duly convened and held, and all resolutions passed or proceedings had thereat to have been duly passed or had.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 134.]

Evidence of proceedings in bankruptcy.

119. Any petition or copy of a petition in bankruptcy, any order or certificate or copy of an order or certificate made by any Court having jurisdiction in bankruptcy, any instrument or copy of an instrument, affidavit or document made or used in the course of any bankruptcy proceedings, or other proceedings had under this Act, shall, if it appears to be sealed with the seal of any Court having jurisdiction in bankruptcy, or purports to be signed by any Judge thereof, or is certified as a true copy by any Registrar thereof, be receivable in evidence in all legal proceedings whatever.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 6. [illegible]]

Swearing of affidavits.

120. Subject to general rules any affidavit may be used in a Bankruptcy Court if it is sworn—

[illegible] the Local Government has generally or specially empowered in this behalf;

(2) in England, before any person authorised to administer oaths in Her Majesty's High Court of Justice, or in the Court of Chancery of the County Palatine of Lancaster, or before any Registrar of a Bankruptcy Court, or before any officer of a Bankruptcy Court authorised in writing on that behalf by the Judge of the Court;

(3) in Scotland or in Ireland, before a Judge Ordinary, Magistrate or Justice of the Peace; and

(4) in any other place, before a Magistrate or Justice of the Peace or other person qualified to administer oaths in that place (he being certified to be a Magistrate or Justice of the Peace, or qualified as aforesaid by a British Minister or British Consul or Political Agent or by a notary public).

[illegible]

Death of witness.

121. In case of the death of the debtor or his wife, or of [illegible] a witness whose evidence has been received by any Court in any proceeding under this Act, the deposition of the person so deceased, purporting to be sealed with the seal of the Court, or a copy thereof purporting to be so sealed, shall be admitted as evidence of the matters therein deposed to.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 4. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 137.]

Bankruptcy Courts to have seals.

122. Every Court having jurisdiction in bankruptcy under this Act shall have a seal describing the Court in such manner as may be directed by order of the High Court of the Province, and judicial notice shall be taken in all legal proceedings of the seal, and of the signature of the Judge or Registrar of any such Court having such jurisdiction.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 109.]

Certificate of appointment of trustee.

123. A certificate of the Court, that a person has been appointed trustee under this Act, shall be conclusive evidence of his appointment.

Time.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 141.]

Computation of time.

124. (1) Where by this Act any limited time from or after any date or event is appointed or allowed for the doing of any act or the taking of any proceeding, then in the computation of that limited time the same shall be taken as exclusive of the day of that date or of the happening of that event, and as commencing at the beginning of the next following day, and the act or proceeding shall be done or taken at latest on the last day of that limited time as so computed, unless the last day is a day on which the Court does not sit, in which case any act or proceeding shall be considered as done or taken in due time if it is done or taken on the next day afterwards on which the Court sits.

The Indian Bankruptcy Bill, 1885.
(Part IX.—Supplemental Provisions.—Sections 125-134.)

(2) Where by this Act any act or proceeding is directed to be done or taken on a certain day, then, if that day happens to be a day on which the Court does not sit, the act or proceeding shall be considered as done or taken in due time if it is done or taken on the next day afterwards on which the Court sits.

Notices.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 142.]

Service of notices.

125. All notices and other documents for the service of which no special mode is directed may be sent by prepaid post letter to the last known address of the person to be served therewith.

Formal Defects.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 143.]

Formal defect not to invalidate proceedings.

126. (1) No proceeding in bankruptcy shall be invalidated by any formal defect or by any irregularity, unless the Court before which an objection is made to the proceeding is of opinion that substantial injustice has been caused by the defect or irregularity, and that the injustice cannot be remedied by any order of that Court.

(2) No defect or irregularity in the appointment or election of a receiver, trustee or member of a committee of inspection shall vitiate any act done by him in good faith.

Bankrupt Trustee.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 147.]

Application of Trustee Act to bankruptcy of trustee.

XXVII of 1866.

127. Where a bankrupt is a trustee within the Indian Trustee Act, 1866, section 35 of that Act shall have effect so as to authorize the appointment of a new trustee in substitution for the bankrupt (whether voluntarily resigning or not), if it appears expedient to do so, and all provisions of that Act, and of any other Act relative thereto, shall have effect accordingly.

Corporations, &c.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 148.]

Acting of corporations, partners, &c.

128. For all or any of the purposes of this Act, a corporation may act by any of its officers authorised in that behalf under the seal of the corporation; a firm may act by any of its members; and a lunatic may act by his committee, curator bonis or manager, or, when the matter is one in respect of which he has been placed under the care of a Court of Wards, by that Court or such person as it may appoint in this behalf.

Construction of former Acts, &c.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 149 (3).]

Construction of enactments and instruments referring to 11 & 12 Vic., c. 21.

129. Where by any enactment or instrument reference is made to the 11 & 12 Vic., cap. 21 (an Act to consolidate and amend the Laws relating to Insolvent Debtors in India), the enactment or instrument shall be construed and have effect as if reference were made therein to the corresponding provisions of this Act.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 150.]

Certain provisions to bind the Crown.

130. The provisions of this Act relating to the remedies against the property of a debtor, the priorities of debts, the effect of a composition or scheme of arrangement, and the effect of a discharge shall bind the Crown.

[11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 3. 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 151.]

Saving for existing rights of audience.

131. Nothing in this Act, or in any transfer of jurisdiction effected thereby, shall take away or affect any right of audience that any person may have had at the commencement of this Act, and all solicitors or other persons who had the right of audience before the Courts for the Relief of Insolvent Debtors shall have the like right of audience in bankruptcy matters in the High Courts of Judicature aforesaid.

Unclaimed Funds or Dividends.

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 152.]

Unclaimed and undistributed dividends or funds.

132. (1) Where the trustee, under any bankruptcy, composition or scheme pursuant to this Act, shall have under his control any unclaimed dividend which has remained unclaimed for more than six months, or where, after making a final dividend, such trustee shall have in his hands or under his control any unclaimed or undistributed moneys arising from the property of the debtor, he shall forthwith pay the same to the bankruptcy estates account of the Court. The treasury or bank at which the account is kept shall furnish him with a certificate of receipt of the money so paid, which shall be an effectual discharge to him in respect thereof.

(2) The Court, with the concurrence of the Governor General in Council, may, from time to time, appoint a person to collect and get in all such unclaimed or undistributed funds or dividends, and for the purposes of this section the Court shall have, and at the instance of the person so appointed or of its own motion may exercise, all the powers conferred by this Act with respect to the discovery and realization of the property of a debtor, and the provisions of Part I of this Act with respect thereto shall, with any necessary modifications, apply to proceedings under this section.

(3) The provisions of this section shall not, except as expressly declared herein, deprive any person of any larger or other right or remedy to which he may be entitled against such trustee.

(4) Any person claiming to be entitled to any moneys paid in to the bankruptcy estates account pursuant to this section may apply to the Court for an order for payment to him of the same; and the Court, if satisfied that the person claiming is entitled, shall make an order for the payment to such person of the sum due.

(5) The Court may, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, at any time after the passing of this Act pay the account referred to in this Act as the bankruptcy estates account.

Repeal.

Repeal of enactments.

134. (1) The enactments described in the third schedule are hereby repealed as from the commencement of this Act to the extent mentioned in that schedule. [46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 169.]

(2) The repeal effected by this Act shall not affect—

(a) anything done or suffered before the commencement of this Act under any enactment repealed by this Act; nor

(b) any right or privilege acquired, or duty imposed, or liability or disqualification incurred, under any enactment so repealed; nor

(c) any fine, forfeiture or other punishment incurred or to be incurred in respect of any offence committed or to be committed against any enactment so repealed; nor

(The First Schedule.—Meetings of Creditors.—The Second Schedule.—Proof of debts.)

(d) the institution or continuance of any proceeding or other remedy, whether under any enactment so repealed or otherwise, for ascertaining any such liability or disqualification or enforcing or recovering any such fine, forfeiture or punishment as aforesaid.

(3) Notwithstanding the repeal effected by this Act, all proceedings in any Court or before a Judge of any Court under any of the enactments repealed pending at the commencement of this Act shall, except so far as any provision of this Act is expressly applied to pending proceedings, continue, and those enactments shall, except as aforesaid, apply thereto, as if this Act had not passed.

(4) The person for the time being holding the office of official receiver for any of the High Courts of Judicature aforesaid or for the Court of the Recorder of Rangoon shall, for the purposes of any such proceedings before that Court or any Judge thereof, be deemed to have been appointed official assignee under the said Act.

THE FIRST SCHEDULE.

(See section 14.)

[46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, Sch. 1.]

MEETINGS OF CREDITORS.

1. The first meeting of creditors shall be summoned for a day not later than fourteen days after the date of the receiving order, unless the Court for any special reason deems it expedient that the meeting be summoned for a later day.

2. The official receiver shall summon the meeting by giving not less than seven days' notice of the time and place thereof in the prescribed manner.

3. The official receiver shall also, as soon as practicable, send to each creditor mentioned in the debtor's statement of affairs a notice of the time and place of the first meeting of creditors, accompanied by a summary of the debtor's statement of affairs, including the causes of his failure, and any observations thereon which the official receiver may think fit to make; but the proceedings at the first meeting shall not be invalidated by reason of any such notice or summary not having been sent or received before the meeting.

4. The meeting shall be held at such place as is in the opinion of the official receiver most convenient for the summon a meeting at such place as he thinks fit, if directed by the Court, or so requested in writing by one-fourth in value of the creditors.

6. Meetings subsequent to the first meeting shall be summoned by sending notice of the time and place thereof to each creditor at the address given in his proof, or if he has not proved at the address given in the debtor's statement of affairs, or at such other address as may be known to the person summoning the meeting.

7. The official receiver, or some person nominated by him, shall be the chairman at every meeting: Provided that, if the Court so directs, the chairman at any meetings subsequent to the first shall be such person as the meeting by resolution appoint.

8. A person shall not be entitled to vote as a creditor at the first or any other meeting of creditors unless he has duly proved a debt provable in bankruptcy to be due to him from the debtor, and the proof has been duly lodged before the time appointed for the meeting.

9. A creditor shall not vote at any such meeting in respect of any unliquidated or contingent debt, or any debt the value of which is not ascertained.

10. For the purpose of voting a secured creditor shall, unless he surrenders his security, state in his proof the particulars of his security, the date when it was given, and the value at which he assesses it, and shall be entitled to vote only in respect of the balance (if any) due to him, after deducting the value of his security. If he votes in respect of his whole debt, he shall be deemed to have surrendered his security, unless the Court on application is satisfied that the omission to value the security has arisen from inadvertence.

11. A creditor shall not vote in respect of any debt on or secured by a current bill of exchange or promissory note held by him, unless he is willing to treat the liability to him thereon of every person who is liable thereon antecedently to the debtor, and against whom a receiving order has not been made, as a security in his hands, and to estimate the value thereof and for the purposes of voting, but not for the purposes of dividend, to deduct it from his proof.

12. It shall be competent to the trustee or to the official receiver, within twenty-eight days after a proof estimating the value of a security as aforesaid, has been made use of in voting at any meeting, to require the creditor to give up the security for the benefit of the creditors generally on payment of the value so estimated, with an addition thereto of twenty per centum: Provided that, where a creditor has put a value on such security, he may at any time before he has been required to give up such security as aforesaid correct such valuation by a new proof, and deduct such new value from his debt, but in that case such addition of twenty per centum shall not be made if the trustee requires the security to be given up.

13. If a receiving order is made against one partner of a firm, any creditor to whom that partner is indebted jointly with the other partners of the firm, or any of them, may prove his debt for the purpose of voting at any meeting of creditors, and shall be entitled to vote thereat.

14. The chairman of a meeting shall have power to admit or reject a proof for the purpose of voting, but his decision shall be subject to appeal to the Court. If he is in doubt whether the proof of a creditor should be admitted or rejected, he shall mark the proof as objected to and shall allow the creditor to vote, subject to the vote being declared invalid in the event of the objection being sustained.

15. A creditor may vote either in person or by proxy.

16. Every instrument of proxy shall be in the prescribed form, and shall be issued by the official receiver, or, after the appointment of a trustee, by the trustee, and every insertion therein shall be in the handwriting of the person giving the proxy.

17. A creditor may give a general proxy to his manager or clerk, or any other person in his regular employment. In such case the instrument of proxy shall state the relation in which the person to act thereunder stands to the creditor.

18. A creditor may give a special proxy to any person to vote at any specified meeting or adjournment thereof, for or against any specific resolution, or for or against any specified person as trustee, or member of a committee of inspection.

19. A proxy shall not be used unless it is deposited with the official receiver or trustee before the meeting at which it is to be used.

20. Where it appears to the satisfaction of the Court that any solicitation has been used by or on behalf of a trustee or receiver in obtaining proxies, or in procuring the trusteeship or receivership, except by the direction of a meeting of creditors, the Court shall have power, if it thinks meeting of creditors to the contrary.

21. A creditor may appoint the official receiver of the debtor's estate to act in manner prescribed as his general or special proxy.

22. The chairman of a meeting may, with the consent of the meeting, adjourn the meeting from time to time, and from place to place.

23. A meeting shall not be competent to act for any purpose, except the election of a chairman, the proving of debts and the adjournment of the meeting, unless there are present, or represented thereat, at least three creditors, or all the creditors if their number does not exceed three.

24. If within half an hour from the time appointed for the meeting a quorum of creditors is not present or represented, the meeting shall be adjourned to the same day in the following week at the same time and place, or to such other day as the chairman may appoint, not being less than seven or more than twenty-one days.

25. The chairman of every meeting shall cause minutes of the proceedings at the meeting to be drawn up, and fairly entered in a book kept for that purpose, and the minutes shall be signed by him or by the chairman of the next ensuing meeting.

26. No person acting either under a general or special proxy shall vote in favour of any resolution which would directly or indirectly place himself, his partner or employer in a position to receive any remuneration out of the estate of the debtor otherwise than as a creditor rateably with the other creditors of the debtor: Provided that, where any person holds special proxies to vote for the appointment of himself as trustee, he may use the said proxies and vote accordingly.

THE SECOND SCHEDULE.

(See section 33.)

PROOF OF DEBTS.

Proof in ordinary cases.

1. Every creditor shall prove his debt as soon as may be after the making of a receiving order.

2. A debt may be proved by delivering or sending through the post in a prepaid letter to the official receiver,

The Indian Bankruptcy Bill, 1887.
(The Third Schedule.—Enactments repealed.)

or, if a trustee has been appointed, to the trustee, an affidavit verifying the debt.

3. The affidavit may be made by the creditor himself or by some person authorised by or on behalf of the creditor. If made by a person so authorised, it shall state his authority and means of knowledge.

4. The affidavit shall contain or refer to a statement of account showing the particulars of the debt, and shall specify the vouchers, if any, by which the same can be substantiated. The official receiver or trustee may at any time call for the production of the vouchers.

5. The affidavit shall state whether the creditor is or is not a secured creditor.

6. A creditor shall bear the cost of proving his debt, unless the Court otherwise specially orders.

7. Every creditor who has lodged a proof shall be entitled to see and examine the proofs of other creditors before the first meeting, and at all reasonable times.

8. A creditor proving his debt shall deduct therefrom all trade discounts, but he shall not be compelled to deduct any discount, not exceeding five per centum on the net amount of his claim, which he may have agreed to allow for payment in cash.

Proof by secured Creditors.

9. If a secured creditor realizes his security, he may prove for the balance due to him, after deducting the net amount realized.

10. If a secured creditor surrenders his security to the official receiver or trustee for the general benefit of the creditors, he may prove for his whole debt.

11. If a secured creditor does not either realize or surrender his security, he shall, before ranking for dividend, state in his proof the particulars of his security, the date when it was given and the value at which he assesses it, and shall be entitled to receive a dividend only in respect of the balance due to him after deducting the value so assessed.

12. (a) Where a security is so valued the trustee may at any time redeem it on payment to the creditor of the assessed value.

(b) If the trustee is dissatisfied with the value at which a security is assessed, he may require that the property comprised in any security so valued be offered for sale at such times and on such terms and conditions as may be agreed on between the creditor and the trustee, or as, in default of such agreement, the Court may direct. If the sale be by public auction, the creditor, or the trustee on behalf of the estate, may bid or purchase.

(c) Provided that the creditor may at any time, by notice in writing, require the trustee to elect whether he will or will not exercise his power of redeeming the security or requiring it to be realized, and if the trustee does not, within six months after receiving the notice, signify in writing to the creditor his election to exercise the power, he shall not be entitled to exercise it; and the equity of redemption, or any other interest in the property comprised in the security which is vested in the trustee, shall vest in the creditor, and the amount of his debt shall be reduced by the amount at which the security has been valued.

13. Where a creditor has so valued his security, he may at any time amend the valuation and proof on showing to the satisfaction of the trustee, or the Court, that the valuation and proof were made bond fide on a mistaken estimate, or that the security has diminished or increased in value since its previous valuation; but every such amendment shall be made at the cost of the creditor, and upon such terms as the Court shall order, unless the trustee shall allow the amendment without application to the Court.

14. Where a valuation has been amended in accordance with the foregoing rule, the creditor shall forthwith repay any surplus dividend which he may have received in excess of that to which he would have been entitled on the amended valuation, or, as the case may be, shall be entitled to be paid out of any money for the time being available for dividend any dividend or share of dividend which he may have failed to receive by reason of the inaccuracy of the original valuation, before that money is made applicable to the payment of any future dividend, but he shall not be entitled to disturb the distribution of any dividend declared before the date of the amendment.

15. If a creditor after having valued his security subsequently realizes it, or if it is realized under the provisions of Rule 12, the net amount realized shall be substituted for the amount of any valuation previously made by the creditor, and shall be treated in all respects as an amended valuation made by the creditor.

16. If a secured creditor does not comply with the foregoing rules, he shall be excluded from all share in any dividend.

17. Subject to the provisions of Rule 12, a creditor shall in no case receive more than sixteen annas in the rupee and interest as provided by this Act.

Proof in respect of Distinct Contracts.

18. If a debtor was at the date of the receiving order liable in respect of distinct contracts as a member of two or more distinct firms, or as a sole contractor, and also as member of a firm, the circumstance that the firms are in whole or in part composed of the same individuals, or that the sole contractor is also one of the joint contractors, shall not prevent proof in respect of the contracts against the properties respectively liable on the contracts.

Periodical Payments.

19. When any rent or other payment falls due at stated periods, and the receiving order is made at any time other than one of those periods, the person entitled to the rent or payment may prove for a proportionate part thereof up to the date of the order as if the rent or payment grew due from day to day.

Interest.

20. On any debt or sum certain, payable at a certain time or otherwise, whereon interest is not reserved or agreed for, and which is overdue at the date of the receiving order and provable in bankruptcy, the creditor may prove for interest at a rate not exceeding four per centum per annum to the date of the order from the time when the debt or sum was payable, if the debt or sum is payable by virtue of a written instrument at a certain time, and, if payable otherwise, then from the time when a demand in writing has been made giving the debtor notice that interest will be claimed from the date of the demand until the time of payment.

Debt payable at a future time.

21. A creditor may prove for a debt not payable when the debtor committed an act of bankruptcy as if it were payable presently, and may receive dividends equally with the other creditors, deducting only thereout a rebate of interest at the rate of five per centum per annum computed from the declaration of a dividend to the time when the debt would have become payable, according to the terms on which it was contracted.

Admission or Rejection of Proofs.

22. The trustee shall examine every proof and he grounds of the debt, and in writing admit or reject it in whole or in part, or require further evidence in support of it. If he rejects a proof, he shall state in writing to the creditor the grounds of the rejection.

23. If the trustee thinks that a proof has been improperly admitted, the Court may, on the application of the trustee, after notice to the creditor who made the proof, expunge the proof or reduce its amount.

24. If a creditor is dissatisfied with the decision of the trustee in respect of a proof, the Court may, on the application of the creditor, reverse or vary the decision.

25. The Court may also expunge or reduce a proof upon the application of a creditor if the trustee declines to interfere in the matter, or, in the case of a composition or scheme, upon the application of the debtor.

26. For the purpose of any of his duties in relation to proofs, the trustee may administer oaths and take affidavits.

27. The official receiver, before the appointment of a trustee, shall have all the powers of a trustee with respect to the examination, admission and rejection of proofs, and any act or decision of his in relation thereto shall be subject to the like appeal.

(c) the acceptance and approval of a composition or scheme, and the annulment of a composition or scheme; [Bill, s. 17 (8) & (15), s. 18, s. 22. Bill, s. 17 (11), s. 22 (3).]

(d) an adjudication of bankruptcy, the annulment of such an adjudication and any order passed thereon vesting the property of the bankrupt in him or in any other person; [Bill, s. 15 (3) s. 17 (11), s. 19, s. 20 (1), s. 22 (3), s. 37, s. 38, s. 41, s. 42, s. 43, s. 47 (1). Bill, s. 22 (2), s. 30.]

(e) the appointment, removal and release of a trustee in a bankruptcy or under or in pursuance of a composition or scheme, and the revocation of any such release; [Bill, s. 17 (12) & (13), s. 20, s. 47 (2) & (3), s. 72, s. 74, s. 76, s. 77.]

(f) an order of discharge and the revocation of any such order; [Bill, ss. 27, 28 & 29.]

(g) the decision of a Court on any question of law or fact; and [Bill, s. 90 (1).]

(h) an order for the administration in bankruptcy of a deceased person's estate. [Bill, s. 114.]

(2) The provisions of any such law defining the status, powers, rights and duties of an official receiver, an interim receiver, a special manager or a trustee in bankruptcy, or relating to the payment of a composition or scheme, or prescribing any rule of evidence, shall have, as nearly as may be, the same force throughout the British dominions as in British India. [Bill, s. 11, s. 44 (except sub-section (3)), s. 45, s. 46 (except clause (e)), s. 47, s. 48 (except clause (e)), s. 50, s. 57 (1), s. 60, s. 62 (a), (b) and (g), s. 73, s. 74, s. 77 (4), s. 17 (9), ss. 117-123.]

(3) Provided* that when under any such law a receiving order has been made against a person or he has been adjudged bankrupt, or an order has been made for the administration of the estate of a deceased person who dies insolvent, sections 45, 46, sub-sections (2) and (4) of section 50, section 52, section 55, sub-section (5) of section 56, and (except in so far as it refers to the Board of Trade), sub-section (2) of section 70 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1883, shall, so far as they are applicable, apply in respect of such portion of his property or estate as is situate in England in the same manner as if the order or adjudication had been made under that Act. [Cf. Bill, ss. 39, 40, s. 44 (2), s. 48, s 49 (1) (e) & (2), & s. 62 (21).] 46 & 47 Vic., c. 52.

4. The certificate of appointment of a trustee issued under any such law shall, for the purposes of any law in force in any part of the British dominions beyond the limits of British India requiring registration, enrolment or recording of conveyances or assignments of property, be deemed to be a conveyance or assignment of property, and may be registered, enrolled and recorded accordingly. — Effect of certificate of appointment of trustee. [46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 54 (4).]

5. No action for a dividend shall lie against a trustee under any such law in any Court in the British dominions. — No action for dividend. [46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 63.]

6. Any Court in the British dominions beyond the limits of British India in which proceedings are pending against a debtor may, on proof that a bankruptcy petition has been presented by or against the debtor under any such law, either stay the proceedings or allow them to continue on such terms as it may think just. — Power to stay proceedings. [46 & 47 Vic., c. 52, s. 10 (2).]

* The provisions of the Bankruptcy Act, 1883, mentioned in this proviso either will not be re-produced in the Indian Act or will be re-produced in such a form that they would be unsuitable for application to property in England.

From the Right Hon'ble Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India, to His Excellency the Right Hon'ble the Governor General of India in Council,—(No. 41, dated 19th November, 1885).

I HAVE considered in Council the letter of Your Excellency in Council, No. 32, dated 12th of June last, forwarding, with connected papers, a copy of the proposed Indian Bankruptcy Bill and of two alternative drafts prepared with a view to obtaining the Act of Parliament necessary for carrying out your proposals with respect to that Bill.

2. I have thought it right to consult the Board of Trade on the subject, and I now forward, for the information of your Lordship in Council, a copy of the correspondence noted in the margin which has taken place with that office.

India Office, to Board of Trade, 6th August, 1885.
Board of Trade, to India Office, 19th October, 1885.

3. As regards the necessary Parliamentary legislation, I think there may possibly be some difficulty in obtaining, in the first instance, an Act of Parliament such as the Draft No. I conferring upon the Governor General's Council the large powers required. That difficulty, however, would probably be much diminished if the scope of the Act of Parliament were extended so as to include the Colonial Governments in the manner suggested by the Board of Trade. The precise shape, however, which legislation in this country should assume cannot be finally determined pending the decision on the proposal of the Board of Trade, respecting which it will be seen that the Board is in communication with the Colonial Office.

4. Your Lordship in Council is desirous of proceeding with the Bill during the coming sittings in Calcutta and passing it through the stages at which discussion is likely to arise before the return of the Government to Simla next year, the final stages of the Bill being deferred until the requisite Parliamentary legislation is completed. To this course I see no objection. The Bill seems well calculated to effect the reforms which experience has shown to be necessary, and I have no doubt that in passing it through the Council you will derive much assistance from the criticisms which you have invited upon it from the judicial authorities and commercial bodies who are especially familiar with the subject.

From J. A. GODLEY, ESQ., Permanent Under-Secretary of State for India, to Secretary, Board of Trade,—(No. 1234—85, dated 6th August, 1885).

I AM directed by the Secretary of State for India in Council to transmit, for the information of the Board of Trade, a copy of a despatch received from the Government of India, dated the 12th of June last, with enclosures, namely, (1) a copy of a Bill which it is proposed to introduce in the Legislative Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of adapting the English Bankruptcy Act of 1883 to Indian circumstances; (2) a copy of the Statement of Objects and Reasons appended to that Bill; and (3) copies of two Draft Bills, one of which (perferably the Draft marked No. I), it is suggested, should be passed as an Act of Parliament, entitled the "Indian Bankruptcy (Extension of Powers) Act, 1885."

The present law relating to insolvents in India, as it is to be found in the Statute 11 & 12 Vic., cap. 21, is very defective, and frequent proposals for its amendment have been made from time to time. The subject has recently been again very carefully considered, with the result that the Governor General in Council now proposes that an Act of the Indian legislature should be passed adapting the English Bankruptcy Act of 1883 to India with the necessary modifications, and that in order to give full effect to the provisions of that measure an Act of Parliament should, in the first instance, be obtained (in the terms of Draft No. I) conferring upon the Council of the Governor General the extended powers which are necessary to give effect beyond the limits of British India to such of the provisions of the proposed Indian Bankruptcy Act as ought to have operation beyond those limits.

I am to say that in requesting the attention of the Board of Trade to these proposed measures, and to paragraphs 4 to 9 of the despatch from the Governor General in Council Lord Randolph Churchill does not suggest that the Board should undertake the labour of considering the details of the Bill to be introduced in the Council in India, except so far as may be necessary with reference to the question of the provisions of that Bill having effect beyond the limits of British India, his Lordship's object being to obtain the opinion of the Board as to the proposal (which, as at present advised, he is inclined to approve) that an Act of Parliament based upon Draft No. I should be applied for.

From R. GIFFEN, ESQ., Secretary, Board of Trade, to Under-Secretary of State for India,—(No. J. & P. 1933—85, dated 19th October, 1885).

I AM directed by the Board of Trade to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of 6th August last, transmitting, by direction of the Secretary of State for India in Council, copy of a despatch, with its enclosures, from the Government of India, with reference to a proposal to introduce a Bill in the Legislative Council of the Governor General for the purpose of adapting the English Bankruptcy Act of 1883 to Indian circumstances.

The Board observe that Lord Randolph Churchill desires to be informed of their opinion as to the suggestion that an Act of Parliament should be obtained conferring upon the Governor General in Council the extended powers which appear to be necessary in order to give effect in other portions of Her Majesty's dominions to such of the provisions of the proposed Indian Bankruptcy Act as ought to have operation beyond the limits of British India. With reference to this point I am to request that you will be good enough to inform His Lordship that the Board of Trade see no objection to the proposed draft Bill No. I which accompanied your letter and which has been framed with this object.

The consideration of this matter has, however, given rise to a further question as to the desirability of obtaining a general enactment which should enable the Courts of the United Kingdom or any of the colonies or possessions to give effect to the provisions of the bankruptcy laws of any other part of the British Empire, as is now the case under the provisions of sections 117-119 of the English Act with regard to the different portions of the United Kingdom. Another point which appears also to call for attention in putting forward any suggestion for a general enactment such as that referred to is the advisability of obtaining power to extend, if necessary, the provisions of section 14 of the Bankruptcy Act of 1883 with a view to enabling the Courts having bankruptcy jurisdiction in this country to suspend proceedings in cases occurring where, in the opinion of such Courts, India or any other portion of the British Empire would more properly be the place for such proceedings, and also to confer upon Indian and Colonial Courts the exercise of similar power where it is obvious that the proceedings should be held in any other portion of Her Majesty's dominions.

These, however, are points upon which the Board of Trade are unable to express any decided opinion without a reference to, and consultation with, the Colonial Office, more especially as a manifest difficulty arises in connection with the self-governing colonies. The Board have, therefore, caused a copy of your letter and its enclosures, and also a copy of this communication, to be forwarded to the Secretary of State for the Colonies, in order to ascertain whether it would be considered expedient by the Colonial Office that a Bill should be brought before Parliament with a view to obtaining uniformity of procedure in all the Crown colonies in the matter of proceedings similar in nature to those which the draft Bill No. I which accompanied your letter is designed to cover as regards Indian cases, or to concur in a more general Bill with that object which would include India as well as the colonies. The Board have also suggested to the Secretary of State the desirability of recommending the subject to the authorities of the self-governing colonies in the event of the course proposed being found practicable.

As soon as a reply is received from the Colonial Office the Board will cause a further communication to be addressed to you upon the matter.

It may of course prove undesirable to delay the Bill relating to India in order to include the colonies, but it appears desirable in the first instance to obtain the opinion of the Colonial Office on the question and to ascertain whether the proposal to include them will involve delay.

Extract from a Demi-official letter from S. DIGNAM, ESQ., to the Hon'ble MR. C. P. ILBERT, —(dated Calcutta, the 23rd July, 1885.)

Bankruptcy Bill.

I HAVE been acting as attorney for the Official Assignee of the Court for Relief of Insolvent debtors at Calcutta for a period of nearly twenty years, and have necessarily had considerable experience on the working of the existing Act. I have lately seen in the Times of India a copy of the draft Objects and Reasons accompanying the draft Bill now under consideration, and observe that it runs closely on the lines of the Bankruptcy Act, 1883, with which I am to great extent familiar, and some of the provisions of which, namely, as to proof of debts, I consider, already apply to India, under section 40 of the existing Insolvency Act, 11 & 12 Vic., c. 21—

Gray v. Chick, Coryton 136.
Re Shib Chundra Mullick, 8 B. L. R. 30.
Re Parks Pittar, 8 ,, 118.
Re Howard Brothers, 13 ,, (App.) 9.
Re T. Agabeg, 12 Cal. Rep. 165.

And it appears to me that an Act framed on the Bankruptcy Act, 1883, will be a great improvement on the existing Act, and will relieve the Court of a great deal of detail business which can as well be done (if not better) by the Official Receiver.

Some of the provisions of the Act of 1883 are, however, in my opinion, not suited to this country, such as the meeting of creditors under section 15, and the appointment of a private trustee under section 21, of the Act of 1883.

I should much like to peruse the draft Bill, and, if you see no objection thereto, to be furnished with a copy thereof and of the draft Objects and Reasons.

It has always been a matter of surprise to me that no Act analogous to the Bills of Sale Acts, 1854 and 1866 (re-enacted with alterations by the Bills of Sale Act. 1878—41 & 42 Vic., cap. 31), has been passed in India. It is a matter of every day experience to find the whole of the stock-in-trade of an insolvent assigned to some bank, or other individual creditor, who, if he gets wind of the insolvency-proceedings, takes possession before a vesting order can be made by the Court, and so sweeps off the whole of the assets.

Registration is at present voluntary only, but even if the parties to the bill of sale agreed to register, the public would be none the wiser, as Book 1 of the register, which is confined to transfers of immoveable property, is the only register which the public are entitled to search.

I drew the attention of my friend Mr. Pitt-Kennedy, when he was in the Legislative Council, and also of Mr. Whitley Stokes, to this, but nothing has ever been done to remove this evil.

I venture to bring this matter to your notice now, as such a Bill as is required would be a valuable adjunct to the proposed new Bankruptcy Law.

From Chief Secretary to Government, Madras, to Secretary to Government of India, Legislative Department,—(No. 2554, dated 22nd September, 1885).

WITH reference to your letter of the 17th June last, No. 1039, I am directed to forward copy of the opinions of the Hon'ble Mr. Justice Handley, the Advocate General, the Chamber of Commerce and of certain selected officers on the draft Bill to amend the law of Bankruptcy and Insolvency in British India, and to state that His Excellency the Governor in Council approves generally of the provisions of the Bill.

2. With reference to the remarks contained in the minute of Mr. Justice Handley, the views of the other Hon'ble Judges will be requested upon the point raised by him, and any remarks which they may offer will be communicated in due course.

From the Government Solicitor, Madras, to Chief Secretary to Government, Madras,—(No. 261, dated 27th July, 1885).

ABSTRACT.—Forwarding the following opinion of the Advocate General, dated 27th July 1885:—

Opinion.

With reference to the order of Government, Judicial department, dated the 30th June, 1885, No. 1722, have the honour to make the following observations upon the Bill to amend and consolidate the Law of Bankruptcy and Insolvency in British India.

2. From sections 5 and 7 read in conjunction with section 82, it appears that the provisions of the Bill are not applicable to up-country traders not having a place of business in one of the towns named in section 82. Now, as there must be many instances of traders, European and Native, so circumstanced for whom in the event of their failure the machinery of this Bill would be more fitted than that of the Procedure Code, I would suggest that an exceptional jurisdiction should be given to the High Court in such cases. The jurisdiction might be limited by reference to the amount of the debts and to the proportion of the creditors not residing within the jurisdiction of the Court to which the debtor would ordinarily be subject.

3. With a view to the common case of the wealthy member of a firm keeping in the back-ground and allowing a comparative pauper, in whose name the business has been carried on, to file his petition and schedule, I would suggest that the debtor be expressly required to disclose the name of his partners, and that concealment of the existence of partners should be made penal. This disclosure is required in the case which section 102 is designed to serve. Where proceedings are taken in the name of a firm under that section, I apprehend that only the persons named as members of the firm could obtain their discharge. All who desire to obtain their discharge as members of a firm would thus, in their own interest, take care that their names were disclosed. It is not clear, therefore, why, for the case to which section 102 applies, provision for the disclosure of partners' names should be made, and why it should not be extended to all cases indifferently.

4. Unless I have misunderstood the Bill, it seems that the secured creditor may, notwithstanding that the property was vested in a trustee under the Act, still proceed to realize his security. If this is so, I would ask why he is not protected against the operation of section 10.

5. I would suggest, too, that the phrase "secured creditor," which is used in section 8 (2), in section 33 and in the rules should also be used in section 39.

(Signed) H. H. SHEPHARD,
Acting Advocate-General.

From R. S. BENSON, ESQ., Acting Registrar, High Court, Madras, to Chief Secretary to Government, Madras,—(No. 2136, dated 31st July, 1885).

WITH reference to G. O., dated the 30th June, 1885, No. 1722, Judicial, forwarding, for the opinion of the Hon'ble the Judges, copies of the draft Bill to amend the Law of Bankruptcy and Insolvency in British India with draft statement of Objects and Reasons, I am directed to state that Messrs. Hutchins and Parker, J.J., have no observations to offer on the Bill.

2. Any minutes that may be recorded by the Hon'ble the Officiating Chief Justice and the other Judges will be forwarded hereafter.

From the HON'BLE T. RAMA ROW, to Chief Secretary to Government, Madras,—(dated 1st August, 1885).

WITH reference to the order of Government, dated 30th June 1885, No. 1722, Judicial, I have the honour to submit the following memorandum containing my opinion on the provisions of the Bill to amend the Law of Indian Bankruptcy and Insolvency.

2. It is an admitted fact that the present insolvency law of the Presidency-towns, namely, 11 & 12 Vic., cap. 21, is very cumbrous and defective, and I am glad to find that the bill in question has been very properly prepared in conformity with the latest English Statute, 46 & 47 Vic., cap. 52, inasmuch as the various decisions of the English Courts on that Statute can serve as a safe guide to the construction of doubtful and difficult parts of the Bill.

3. In section 88 of the Bill provision is made for the delegation to a Judge of the Presidency Small Cause Court by the High Court of its insolvency jurisdiction within certain limits. This, I think, was very much needed, and will enable the High Court to transfer to the Court of Small Causes all petty business in the matters of insolvency. Further, the Small Cause Court at Madras did formerly possess this insolvency jurisdiction, and the present Bill simply restores this power, of which it has been recently deprived by legislation.

4. Having made these general observations, I now proceed to make a few remarks on certain sections of the Bill having in view the peculiar circumstances and status of the people in India.

5. Section 5 (1) a.—A creditor under this clause cannot present a bankruptcy petition against a debtor, unless the debt due to him amounts to Rs. 500. It is true that the English Statute, 46 & 47 Vic., cap. 52, section 6, contains similar provision, and fixes the amount to £ 50; but considering the nature and extent of dealings among Hindus and the provisions in the Bill restoring the insolvency jurisdiction to the Presidency Small Cause Courts, I think the amount may be reduced to Rs. 250.

Section 15, sub-section (4).—All the penal clauses in the Bill appear in Part VIII. I therefore suggest that the penal clauses in the latter part of the sub-section may conveniently be inserted in Part VIII.

Section 27, sub-section (3), clause (a).—I believe that the present Bill is intended to include within its scope the cases of insolvents who are not traders. If so, I think it is very desirable that some distinction should be made between these two classes of people in the matter of production of books of account, &c.

As a general rule, very few people who are not traders keep any account of their income and expenditure, and it will be a very great hardship to refuse an order of discharge to such people, simply because they failed to keep proper books of account showing their financial position within three years preceding their bankruptcy.

Section 34, sub-section (1), clauses (b) & (c).—The phraseology in these clauses is almost the same as in the corresponding section of the English statute, only altering £ 50 to Rs. 500. Considering the comparative cheapness of labour and wages of servants in India, I think that, in the distribution of the property of a bankrupt, priority under this head should be limited to Rs. 200 and not more.

Section 38, sub-section (2).—No doubt the tools (if any) of a bankrupt's trade and the necessary wearing-apparel and bedding of himself, his wife and children, should be exempted from the division of his property amongst his creditors; but the only question here is to what extent the exemption should be limited. I think the sum of Rs. 200 is too much, and it may be reduced to Rs. 50.

Section 65, sub-section (4).—I do not think that a trustee should be allowed to retain any sum exceeding Rs. 250, without special authority from the Court. This sub-section, as it now stands, fixes once for all the rate of interest payable by the trustee as penalty on the excess amount retained by him. I think it would be better to leave to the discretion of the Court to settle the rate of interest in each case, but fixing the maximum rate only in the Bill.

Section 112.—This section renders a married woman subject to this Act in respect of her separate property. I do not find any definition of "separate property" in the Bill. The words "separate property," when applied to an English woman, are well understood, but serious difficulties will arise the moment we begin to apply the same to Hindu women. No doubt, section 2 of Act III of 1874 contains a definition of the words "separate property," but that enactment has no application whatever to the cases of married women professing Hindu or Muhammadan faith, &c. Further, the said definition does not include all kinds of sridhanam property of a Hindu married woman. There are several kinds of sridhanam property under Hindu law, and a Hindu woman does not possess the same powers of disposal, alienation and enjoyment over all of them. Again, the Hindu law, as administered in Bengal and Bombay on this subject, most materially differs on some very essential points from the law of this Presidency. I therefore think this section must be altered to meet all these difficulties.

Section 131.—This section does not allow vakils to appear for bankrupts before the High Courts in the exercise of their insolvency jurisdiction. In Madras, vakils have been allowed to appear and act on behalf on all suitors in the High Court in the exercise of its ordinary original civil jurisdiction, and this concession appears to have been made owing to the comparatively indigent state of circumstances of suitors, and their inability to employ the double agency of a solicitor and barrister. It, therefore, appears to me nothing but just and charitable to permit bankrupts to employ vakils on their behalf, instead of compelling them to resort to the very expensive process of employing a double agency to defend their cause. I therefore propose that this section may be altered as follows:—"Nothing in this Act, or in any transfer of this jurisdiction effected thereby, shall take away or affect any right of audience that any person may have had at the commencement of this Act, and all solicitors or other persons, who have the right of audience before the High Courts of Judicature in the exercise of their ordinary original civil jurisdiction, shall have the like right of audience in bankruptcy matters in the High Courts of Judicature aforesaid."

In Part VIII no provision is made for the punishment of a debtor who does not disclose the names of all his partners under section 102. I think that the concealment by a debtor of the existence of partners must be rendered penal, inasmuch as it is a very common case for an affluent member of a firm to remain in the background and allow a pauper, in whose name the trade is carried on, to apply for the benefit of the Act.

From F. ROWLANDSON, ESQ., Attorney-at-Law, Madras, to Chief Secretary to Government, —(dated 3rd August, 1885).

I HAVE the honour to forward, herewith, a memorandum on the draft Bill to amend, &c., the Law of Bankruptcy and Insolvency in British India.

Memorandum.

Preliminary remarks.—As only opinions on the provisions of the Bill submitted are asked for, it is probably not intended at this stage to open for discussion the necessity or expediency of passing an Insolvent Law in India which shall apply alike to the English speculator and the Hindu Chetti. Commercial tradition in Southern India asserts that the large and wealthy body of traders known as Nattucotti Chetties had not known the sin of insolvency but for the Insolvent Act.

The past history of the relations between commercial creditors and debtors amongst them differs toto cœlo from the cruel story of the causes which led English legislators to force upon English commerce an Act for the relief of insolvent debtors. Nor does the Native merchant recognise that necessity for the "whitewashing" of Basinghali Street which arises out of the Englishman's practical idolatry of the fetish "CREDIT."

No native, unless denaturalised by a business connection with Europeans, gives chance the place in his transaction which every European firm accords to it.

Where he gives credit against goods he sees them, when to an individual he goes into his circumstances in a way which is impossible to Englishmen.

The result is that no great crash amongst natives takes place. The wealthy man of one day has "bad luck," and his wealth goes to other, but no irrevocable ruin to either him or his creditors is worked: there is simply a change in relations. If a large trader fails in a Presidency-town, it will be found that the suffering creditors are Europeans, and this more especially where the bankrupt is himself a European. It is therefore no certain benefit that we give the native commerce of India in offering it a Bankruptcy Law of general application, and it would perhaps be better to let the similarity of procedure which Mr. Ilbert alludes to in paragraph 9 of his "Statement of Objects and Reasons" be confined to a law which shall affect only those who trade in both the places he refers to on the same lines. It is, however, to be assumed that it is settled that a Bankruptcy Act is to be passed.

As far as I can form an opinion, the Bill now submitted will work well, but I offer the following remarks upon it.

Section 4.—Is it intended that this "receiving order" should have the same force as the "vesting order" under the old Insolvent Act? It would seem so, for it stays action on the part of creditors (section 8), and renders the debtor's alienation of property invalid (section 43 (1)). It is possible under section 19 for a receiving order to be made, a debtor to be adjudged bankrupt, and his property to be vested in the (receiver or other) trustee, all in one day, but such prompt action cannot be often expected.

It is possible for a receiver to be appointed, and whilst no property of the debtor is vested in such receiver, because no adjudication order has been made, the debtor is practically powerless to deal with his assets. In some cases, as, for example, where the debtor is a hotel-keeper doing a business which should be carried on for the benefit of the creditors, this position of affairs might seriously prejudice the value of the bankrupt's assets.

The old "vesting order" which (section 7 of Indian Insolvent Act) "by virtue of this Act" related back to and took effect from the filing of the petition by a debtor or creditor, prevented any possible hiatus in the title to the assets, such as it would seem may arise under the provisions of the Bill.

I note contents of section 37, section 47 and of section 9 (1), but until orders by the Court are made the [illegible] of these sections have no effect; whereas the old "vesting order" related back by virtue of the Act. [illegible] (2) (4) and section 7 (f).—The use of the words "local limits" in these sections will be [illegible] [illegible] small place will prevent his obtaining relief in bankruptcy, whereas the debtor's petition; and a debtor who gets himself incarcerated in such a place by a colluding creditor will prevent his being adjudicated a bankrupt. For example, in the recent case of the insolvency of Stephenson, Nixon & Co., a firm trading at Cocanada and Gopálpur, but the bulk of whose unsecured creditors were in the Presidency-town of Madras, the case of no partner complied with the conditions as to "local limits" of the High Court of Madras. The words may have a special meaning attached to them in the Bill, but they already have an accepted meaning in connection with the High Courts. The confusion has been successfully avoided in the Probate and Administration Act of 1881, whereas in this Bill a possible clashing of jurisdictions had to be guarded against. The Bankruptcy Act, 1883, section 6 (1) (d), has "England," where this Bill has "local limits."

Section 27 (2).—Under this provision the Court will make allocations from income similar to those made under the Insolvent Act. The following difficulties have been experienced by the Official Assignee in working such orders. In one case an insolvent drawing between Rs. 300 and 400 a month was ordered to pay Rs. 84. He did so for a few months, and then wrote to say that the moiety of his salary had been attached by creditors subsequent to his insolvency, and that he could not make any more payments. In the majority of cases the Assignee every few months has had to enforce the order by the cumbrous process of obtaining first a rule nisi and then a rule absolute against the defaulter—a process which cost the estate Rs. 12 each time. To meet these contingencies I would suggest (1) that in the case of Government and quasi-Government employés the allocator do have the force of an attachment for a specified amount—probably one-third of the scheduled debts would be a proper sum to name; (2) that where the employers are private firms or individuals the creditors be compelled to name one of themselves as the trustee for the receipt and disbursement of the allocated amount and the enforcement of the order on default.

Section 39.—This provision is likely to give the trustee much trouble as it stands. The receiving or vesting order ought to override every other order of any Court which has not been given full effect to. For example, if assets have been sold under an execution order in pursuance of a decree, but the sale-proceeds have not passed out of the control of the Court ordering the execution, such sale-proceeds, subject to payment of expenses, should pass to the trustee. The throwing on the trustee the onus of proving "notice" is objectionable, and a knowledge of the bankruptcy proceedings may safely be assumed.

Section 42 (1).—This section will be found to work mischievously in practice I fear, and I would omit the words from "if the person making" down to "or suffering the same" altogether. If the intention is to give an unfair preference, such intention should be absolutely defeated without reference to any question of time. I would illustrate my meaning by the following imaginary case:—

X, Y & Co. carry on business in London, and have the reputation of wealth, X being on the board of W, an Exchange Bank having a branch in Madras. Y & Co. are a smaller firm carrying on business in the Madras Presidency and enjoying considerable credit because of their known connection with X, Y and Co., and because they are known to have large credit with the W bank. X, Y & Co. stop payment in London, but for fifteen weeks Y & Co. in India struggle on and apparently have the W bank as much at their backs as ever. The 16th week after X. Y. & Co. stopped, Y & Co. do the same, and then it proves that the W bank is more than sufficiently secured to the prejudice of the general body of creditors.

Section 88.—In Madras it will certainly prove a great benefit to delegate to a Small Cause Court Judge the disposal of a large percentage of bankruptcies.

It appears from the administration report of the High Court (now in the press) that out of 199 applications in the year 1884-85 only 28 were from traders and over seventy returned assets "nil."

Section 116.—If the services of an efficient officer are to be secured for the post of Official Receiver it will be necessary—at all events in Madras—to make large estates that go into liquidation contribute. Liquidation should not be allowed except with permission of the Court, for the presence of bankruptcy proceedings to hold in terrorem over a debtor is an advantage to his creditors for which they are to pay, even if they wish to come to some private arrangement.

A clique of influential creditors will often secure the manipulation of a bankrupt estate for themselves, to the prejudice of the bankrupt himself and of the creditors outside the clique.

From R. S. BENSON, ESQ., Acting Registrar, High Court, of Madras, to Chief Secretary to Government, Madras,—(No. 2266, dated 12th August, 1885).

IN continuation of my letter, dated 31st ultimo, No. 2136, I have the honour to forward a transcript of the minute recorded by Mr. Justice Handley on the draft Bill to amend the Law of Bankruptcy and Insolvency.

Minute.

I HAVE not had time to consider the details of the Bill, but there is one point on which I should wish to express an opinion, and that is on the powers proposed to be given under section 88 to the Judges of the Presidency Small Cause Court. I consider that the power of dealing with small insolvencies would be much better delegated to the Registrar or some other official of the High Court who will be constantly in the way of seeing the working of the Act by the High Court.

2. The Small Cause Court has not the machinery for discharging the duties of a Bankruptcy or Insolvency Court, and such duties would seriously interfere with the ordinary work of the Court, whereas the Registrar or other officer of the High Court would be always conversant with the practice of the High Court under the Act, and would have no difficulty in dealing with such cases himself.

3. My experience as a Judge of the Small Cause Court of the Insolvent Jurisdiction under the Act with which that Court was for a time entrusted is against again giving it a jurisdiction in bankruptcy or insolvency.

From J. A. BOYSON, ESQ., Chairman, Chamber of Commerce, Madras, to Chief Secretary to Government, Madars,—(dated 9th September, 1885).

I HAVE now the honour to acknowledge receipt of the Proceedings of Government, Judicial Department, 30th June, No. 1722, and the accompanying copies of the draft Bill of the Government of India to amend the Law of Bankruptcy and Insolvency in British India.

2. The Chamber observes that this Bill is not designed to be of general application throughout British India, but it will for the present affect only the Presidency-towns and a few commercial centres in India and Burma, the number of which the Government reserves the right to increase.

3. It has been ascertained by the Chamber that the present Insolvency Law in India (11 & 12 Vic., cap. 21) came into operation on the 1st August 1848. Since that time there have been no alterations in the law in India, whilst in England the following five Acts have been passed:—

(1) "The Bankrupt Law Consolidation Act, 1849" (12 & 13 Vic., cap. 106);
(2) "The Bankruptcy Act, 1854" (17 & 18 Vic., cap. 119);
(3) The Bankruptcy Act, 1861 (24 & 25 Vic., cap. 134);
(4) The Bankruptcy Act, 1869 (32 & 33 Vic., cap. 71); and
(5) The Bankruptcy Act, 1883 (46 & 47 Vic., cap. 52).

4. The present Indian Bankruptcy Bill has been prepared on the lines of the English Bankruptcy Act of 1883, which, as mentioned in the Statement of Objects and Reasons, embodies the accumulated experience of the thirty-five years which have elapsed since the passing of the Indian Insolvency Act. As the Chamber cannot claim to have any practical experience of the working of the English Act, it would be presumptuous on its part to criticise the details of the present Bill. It may suffice, therefore, to point out one or two matters which might be provided for in an Indian Insolvency Act, but of which no notice is taken in the Bill.

5. There should, the Chamber considers, be only one insolvency law administered in the three Presidency-towns and in Rangoon, Moulmein, Akyab, Bassein and such towns as the Act may be eventually extended to, and it is suggested that Chapter XX of the Civil Procedure Code should not apply to any Courts in those towns which have jurisdiction to administer the proposed new law.

6. It seems to the Chamber desirable that the High Court should have jurisdiction in insolvency matters over European British subjects within the presidency of such High Court. Hitherto the Madras High Court has held that European British subjects residing in the Madras Presidency were entitled to petition the Court for the benefit of the Act. It is contemplated by the proposed Act to give jurisdiction only in cases where the debtor is in prison within the local limits of the High Court, or has, within a year before the date of the presentation of the petition, ordinarily resided or had a place of business within those limits. A European merchant up-country would, therefore, have to be arrested, and put into the civil goal before he could obtain the benefit of the Act.

7. The omission of section 116 (2) of the English Act, 1883, from the present Bill, is deprecated by the Chamber. The section is as follows:—"No Registrar, or Official Receiver, or other officer attached to any Court having jurisdiction in bankruptcy, shall, during his continuance in office, either directly or indirectly, by himself, his clerk, or partner, act as solicitor in any proceedings in bankruptcy, or in any prosecution of a debtor by order of the Court, and if he does so act he shall be liable to be dismissed from office." The Chamber is assured that experience has proved in England that this is a desirable clause.

8. I am further to suggest for consideration that some provision should be made to prevent proceedings in bankruptcy against a debtor continuing in two Courts at the same time. For instance, last year, in the High Court at Madras, a debtor was adjudicated an insolvent on the petition of a creditor; on the following day the debtor filed his petition in the High Court at Bombay, and insolvency proceedings have been going on ever since in both Courts. This must be an additional expense to all parties, and prove most inconvenient, for both Courts have concurrent jurisdiction, and claim the right to wind up the affairs of the insolvent. Section 85 of the proposed Act does not meet a case of this sort, for it only deals with the transfer of proceedings from the High Court of a province to itself, or to any other Court appointed in the province under section 82.

9. It has been objected to the Bill that it is unsuitable to Madras, because the cases of a large majority of insolvents in this city are of a petty nature, involving no intricate points of law, or any points that the existing law, with a few amendments, would not amply meet. But as the Chamber could not reasonably ask for special legislation for this Presidency, and as it approves of the great advance that it is proposed to take in the direction of a clearly defined bankruptcy law for the trading centres of the whole country, it trusts that the Bill may become law, since it seems to the Chamber to be a very complete measure.

From W. MORGAN, ESQ., Deputy Registrar, High Court of Judicature, Madras, to Acting Chief Secretary to Government, Madras,—(No. 2827, dated 24th October, 1885).

IN continuation of this Court's letters, dated the 31st July and 12th August, 1885, Nos. 2136 and 2266, respectively, I am directed to forward a transcript of the minute recorded by the Officiating Chief Justice on the draft Bill to amend the law of bankruptcy and insolvency in British India, with draft Statement of Objects and Reasons.

2. I am to state that Mr. Justice Muthusami Aiyar has no remarks to make.

Minute by Officiating Chief Justice, Madras.

The proposed Bill, being drafted on the lines of the last English Bankruptcy Bill, is a satisfactory and convenient guide and rule of law and practice, no doubt.

The following list will show the class of cases and of persons that are brought before the Insolvent Court in Madras:—

Year.	Merchants and amount of debts.	Petty merchants.	Government servants.	Private employés.	Pensioners.	Unemployed.
1880	6 Rs. 21,221 15 8 " 78,340 15 10 " 9,081 12 8 " 1,25,280 0 0 " 2,03,016 9 10 " 73,101 0 0	19	17	73	11	30
1881	7 Rs. 1,19,513 1 8 " 16,123 8 6 " 8,697 0 0 " 8,115 5 9 " 32,952 5 0 " 24,973 5 3 " 21,721 2 1	23	21	63	6	21
1882	3 Rs. 2,856 9 9 " 98,174 3 1 " 35,891 7 9	12	43	80	12	38
[illegible]	14	4	60	60	24	60
1884	6 Rs. 24,504 8 10 " 1,919 9 4 " 4,194 6 9 " 5,312 10 9 " 7,55,677 13 4 " 9,721 0 5 " 5,154 14 10 " 3,060 3 1 " 9,876 13 0 " 53,600 0 0 " 10,504 4 8 " 2,80,316 10 3	5	38	99	12	55
	No schedules filed in four numbers.
	6 Rs. 32,281 10 2 " 82,739 11 6 " 5,87,974 1 7 " 1,10,146 2 8 " 35,712 2 9
	No schedule filed in one case.

1st.—It will be seen that the number of cases of traders owing large debts is small—about between 15 and 20 per cent. of the whole. In many of those trading cases, there are no assets available. Some 70 or 80 per cent. of the rest of the cases are Government and other clerks, who have no means except their salaries.

2nd.—During the last 14 or 15 years I have been the Judge who principally presided on the Insolvent Court, and I have found that the present Insolvent Act was capable of being worked satisfactorily in the class of cases brought before the Court.

3rd.—Section 103 of the proposed Act will apply to most cases in Madras, as much of the procedure suitable for cases where the debts are large and assets considerable will be unsuitable.

4th.—In the proposed Bill power is given to a creditor to put the Court in motion and to force an act of bankruptcy (but only after decree).

5th.—However, to enable the creditor to prevent concealment by the debtor of property, I think the procedure formerly in use in England and Ireland of "trader debtor summons" would be very useful. The proposed Bill, however, does not contemplate such procedure, and that procedure has been designedly abandoned in the English Act. A debtor, in many cases, indeed in most cases, when sued, defends, and in the meantime, or perhaps before suit, puts out of the reach of creditor his property. It is very difficult, however, to prove the fact so as to establish as an act of bankruptcy, and when a decree is obtained there is no property to seize.

6th.—There are occasionally failures in the Mufassal of European and Native traders who possess considerable property, and it may be worth while considering whether, at the instance of creditors or in particular circumstances at the instance of the debtor, the parties might not be allowed to avail themselves of the new Act in the Court at Madras.

7th.—It has happened several times that the Official Assignee has recovered large assets, and that the debtor then effects a settlement out of Court and annuls the insolvency by consent. I think it advisable to make provision that such cases should bear a portion of commission of the Official Assignee.

8th.—I have read the proposed draft of the Act repealing the present Statute, and think it requires no observations.

From W. WILSON, Esq., Acting Chief Secretary to Government, Madras, to Secretary to Government of India, Legislative Department,—(No. 3033, dated 16th November, 1885).

I AM directed, in continuation of my letter of the 22nd September, 1885, No. 2554, to forward copy of a letter from the Registrar, High Court, containing the remarks of the other Judges on the opinion expressed by Mr. Justice Handley with reference to section 88 of the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Bill.

From H. T. ROSS, Esq., Acting Registrar, High Court of Judicature, Madras, to Acting Chief Secretary to Government, Madras,—(No. 2900, dated 4th November, 1885).

ADVERTISING to G. O., dated 22nd September 1885, No. 2553, Judicial, I am directed to state that the Officiating Chief Justice and the other Hon'ble Judges of the High Court find themselves unable to agree with Mr. Justice Handley in his suggestion that the powers proposed to be given under section 88 of the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Bill would be better delegated to the Registrar or some other official of the High Court than to a Judge of the Presidency Small Cause Court.

2. It is certainly necessary that the Judge who presides in Bankruptcy and Insolvency should be familiar with the principles and practice of this branch of the law; but it does not appear to the Hon'ble Judges that the acquisition of this peculiar knowledge by one or other of the Small Cause Court Judges is likely to be a matter of difficulty.

3. It is possible that the measures now under consideration, for transferring a portion of the original work of the High Court to the Court of Small Causes, and for creating an additional Judgeship in the latter Court, may result in the appointment to the Small Cause Court of a Judge with precisely that experience which Mr. Justice Handley thinks wanting.

From H. BATTY, Esq., Under Secretary to Government, Bombay, to Secretary to Government of India, Legislative Department,—(No. 8625, dated 17th December, 1885).

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 1030 of the 17th June last, forwarding a draft of a Bill to amend and consolidate the Law of Bankruptcy and Insolvency in British India, and requesting to be favoured with an expression of the opinion of this Government, and also of the Hon'ble the Judges of the High Court and of such selected officers, commercial bodies and other persons as His Excellency the Governor in Council may think fit to consult on the subject.

2. In reply, I am desired to enclose copies of the opinions already received by Government in this matter, and to state that no reply has been received from the Hon'ble the Judges of the High Court, though it has been twice expedited.

1. Letter, &c., from the Chief Judge, Court of Small Causes, Bombay, No. 41 of 7th August, 1885.
2. Letter from the Hon'ble the Advocate General, Bombay, No. 59 of 14th September, 1885.
3. Letter from the Secretary, Chamber of Commerce, Bombay, of 25th November, 1885.

3. His Excellency the Governor in Council, I am to observe, approves generally of the provisions of the draft Bill, and considers that the clause which it is proposed to insert in the enabling Act of Parliament, legalising retrospectively the rules made by the High Court of Bombay on the 31st July, 1878, is sufficient for the purpose.

4. His Excellency in Council is disposed to agree with the Hon'ble the Advocate General, Bombay, that the large powers given to creditors (sections 17, 20, 21 and 22) to control the administration of a bankrupt's estate are likely to be dangerous in this country and to reproduce the abuses which were prevalent under Bombay Act XXVIII of 1865. It will be seen that the Chamber of Commerce express the same apprehension.

5. His Excellency the Governor in Council is not, as at present advised, in favour of the delegation of an insolvency-jurisdiction to the Court of Small Causes in Bombay. In England such powers may be delegated to the Registrar, but this officer has the staff of the Bankruptcy Court at his command, while neither the Judges of the Small Cause Court nor its establishment have any knowledge of such business. Moreover, the Judges are already overworked, and the new duties would involve the expense of adding to their number. On the other hand, the Clerk and Sealer of the Insolvent Debtors Court in Bombay is a barrister of standing, with large emoluments and very little to do. It would, in the opinion of His Excellency in Council, be better to relieve the High Court by delegating to this officer jurisdiction in small bankruptcies (Part VII).

6. If the power of delegating jurisdiction to Judges of the Small Cause Courts be retained, there does not seem, in the opinion of His Excellency in Council, to be sufficient reason for withholding from them the power of committing for contempt of Court (section 88, clause (3), of the draft Bill).

7. In conclusion, I am to state that, in the opinion of His Excellency the Governor in Council, it is worthy of consideration whether in this country it is necessary to arm the creditor with all the weapons which are placed at his disposal by the English Bankruptcy Act, seeing that he already has the power of imprisoning his debtor, which the English creditor has not. On this point the observations of the Chief Judge of the Court of Small Causes at Bombay appear to deserve attention.

From W. E. HART, Esq., Chief Judge, Bombay Court of Small Causes, to Chief Secretary to Government, Bombay,—(No. 41, dated 7th August, 1885).

In compliance with paragraph 2 of Government Resolution in the Judicial Department, No. 4604, dated 1st ultimo, I have the honor to forward the accompanying memorandum embodying my opinion on the draft Indian Bankruptcy Bill.

I may add that my colleagues, to whom my memorandum has been circulated, concur in the opinion I have expressed that the jurisdiction proposed to be given to this Court should be conferred on an officer of the existing Insolvent Court.

Memorandum by W. E. HART, Esq., Chief Judge, Bombay Court of Small Causes,—(dated 16th July, 1885).

I HAVE not sufficient leisure to be able within any reasonable time to offer anything like an exhaustive opinion on all the provisions of an enactment of the scope and length of this Bill. This is, however, the less to be regretted, as Government will doubtless have the advantage of the opinions of the Commissioner in Insolvency and the Official Assignee, whose knowledge and experience of the working of the present law will enable them to offer remarks more likely to be valuable in matters of detail than any I can make; for mine would, for the most part, be based on hearsay and conjecture, since no portion of the present insolvency law has ever been administered in the Small Cause Court of this Presidency as it has in that of Madras. I shall, therefore, enlarge only on those particular provisions which seem most likely to affect the Small Cause Court.

2. Part VI is that which deals with the constitution, procedure and powers of the Bankruptcy Courts: section 88 provides for the delegation by the High Court of certain of its powers in bankruptcy to a Judge of the Presidency Small Cause Court.

3. In commenting on a proposal in 1879 to give the Presidency Small Cause Courts an insolvency-jurisdiction I expressed a strong opinion against the advisability of such a course. To that opinion, and for the reasons there given, in which I pointed out various objections and difficulties, I still adhere, and, for the sake of brevity, beg to refer Government to the annexed extract for an expression of my opinion on the general question of conferring an insolvency-jurisdiction on a Court constituted in the manner and for the purposes of the Small Cause Court.

4. As regards the particular provision of the present Bill, I would point out that with our present staff it is quite impossible for us to undertake any more work than we have at present. Of course this objection could be obviated by additions to the Court and office-establishment; but this would entail an additional expense which I think would not be compensated by the value of the work done in insolvency. On the other hand, it seems to me that all the work which the Bill proposes should be done by a Judge of the Small Cause Court could be equally well done by the Clerk and Sealer of the Insolvent Court. This is an appointment which, so far as I know, has always been held by a barrister-at-law; but to ensure the selection of a person of position, capacity and character for the post, some provision might be inserted in the Act. I once held the acting appointment myself for a short time, and am therefore speaking from experience when I say that the duties are extremely light while the emoluments are considerable. If to the present duties of the Clerk and Sealer, which (except on Wednesdays, when he is engaged in Court before the Commissioner for the whole day) occupy about half an hour a day or less, were added those which section 88 proposes to confer on a Judge of the Small Cause Court, the object which that section has in view (namely, the relieving of the High Court of a portion of its less responsible work) would be attained without incurring any additional expense, and the Clerk and Sealer would be usefully employed to an extent more commensurate than at present with the income he enjoys.

5. If the jurisdiction in bankruptcy is conferred on a Judge of the Small Cause Court, I do not think the power to commit for contempt should be taken from him, as in section 88 (3), at least for a contempt committed in his presence. It is advisable that every Court should have this power for its own protection; and in the discharge of its ordinary functions the Small Cause Court enjoys it under the provisions of the Small Cause Courts Act. I do not therefore see why it should be taken away simply by reason of the Small Cause Court acting as a Bankruptcy Court, and only while it is so doing.

6. It also seems to me open to objection that while the appointment with limited powers contemplated by section 88 is one in the hands of the High Court, it should be possible for the Local Government to appoint the same person not only without such limitation but even with a jurisdiction more extensive than the High Court itself. This lets in a possibility of conflict, or at least of confusion, which ought in all matters of jurisdiction to be most scrupulously avoided. Section 82 (c) confers bankruptcy-jurisdiction on any Civil Court in the Presidency appointed by the Local Government, with the sanction of the Supreme Government. Section 83 (a) limits the bankruptcy-jurisdiction of the High Court to the local limits of its original civil jurisdiction. But section 83 (c) leaves it to the Local Government, with the sanction of the Supreme Government, to fix the limits of the jurisdiction of a Court appointed under section 82 (c). There is nothing apparently to prevent the Local Government appointing the Presidency Small Cause Court under section 82 (c), in which case its powers would be equal to those of the High Court. But if its jurisdiction under section 83 (c) were defined to include, say, the township of Coorla, the Small Cause Court would enjoy a jurisdiction more extensive than the High Court. Such provisions seem liable somewhat to conflict with the authority to delegate limited powers reserved to the High Court by section 88. If it is considered necessary that such authority should be exercised rather by the High Court than by the Local Government, I should advise the insertion of words in section 82 (c) restricting the power of the Local Government to the appointment of Courts situate without the local limits of the jurisdiction of the High Court.

7. In section 91 (a) I should prefer the insertion of words making it clear that an appeal from the order of a Small Cause Court Judge appointed under section 88 (if that section be enacted) lies to the High Court.

8. These are all the sections that seem to me specially to affect the Small Cause Court. I will now offer a few remarks, as shortly as possible, suggested by a cursory perusal of the general provisions of the Bill as they now stand.

9. Section 3 (1) (b).—It would be advisable to define carefully what conveyance is fraudulent in a country like this, where bénâmi transactions are rather the rule than the exception, and in an Act which, to judge from section 82 (c), is intended to be capable of application by Native Judges in the Mufassal, who for the most part have not the opportunity of acquainting themselves with the English decisions.

10. Section 3 (1) (d), (e) & (g).—These provisions put into the hands of creditors a very powerful weapon, capable of being used for purposes of intimidation, oppression and extortion. In England, a rich commercial country, such provisions may have been found necessary for the protection of creditors after the power of imprisoning their debtors in execution of their decrees had been taken from them. But in this country, where the system of imprisonment for debt still exists, and where the majority of the population are non-traders, but little removed above the degree of paupers, and of whom the greater number are insolvent in fact, if not in name, I think such provisions are not only unnecessary but unwise, as they are sure to be used by the foreign moneylenders, who constitute the bulk of the creditors, for purposes of extortion, with the result of further depauperising their already sufficiently impoverished victims, on whom they already have a sufficient hold in the facilities afforded by the law administered by our Civil Courts for attachment of person and goods both before and after judgment, attachment of wages, debts due, property in hands of third parties, &c., &c.

11. Section 7 (1).—Is it intended that a judgment-debtor under a decree, say, of the Calcutta Small Cause Court, who, after partial satisfaction of the decree by attachment of his goods at Calcutta, absconds to Bombay, and is there arrested under the Calcutta decree sent for execution to the Bombay Small Cause Court, shall be able to invoke the assistance of the Bankruptcy Court at Bombay, where he has no creditors? This would cause great inconvenience to the creditors at Calcutta, where the original act of bankruptcy was committed (section 3 (1) (e)), and where all the proofs are, and would give a good deal of unnecessary trouble to the Bombay Bankruptcy Court. I think, too, the limit of the period for which, as well as of the period within which, a debtor has "ordinarily resided" should be defined, so as to prevent a person changing his residence merely for the purpose of getting his discharge from a Court in the jurisdiction of which he has no creditors.

12. Much of the procedure laid down in Part I of the Act seems to me to be unsuitable for universal application in this country. In this Presidency, at least, the majority of insolvencies are for comparatively small amounts, and a large proportion of them are of persons not engaged in trade. In such cases I am inclined to think a procedure copied from Statute 46 & 47 Vic., cap. 52, which was framed for general application in a great commercial country, will here in many cases be found unnecessarily cumbersome and expensive. If the assimilation of the bankruptcy law in two countries so differently circumstanced as England and India be really considered necessary or advisable, I should recommend the assimilation, at least at first, to be confined to persons occupying somewhat similar positions; and to this end I would preserve the distinction between traders and non-traders which this Act abolishes, applying only to the former those provisions which are specially adapted to and useful in the case of a commercial bankruptcy, but which in the case of a non-trader will impede rather than expedite the distribution of his assets among his creditors

13. Section 31 (2).—I think this provision will be found to work very harshly against the debtor, and not to benefit the general body of creditors. In this country the very great majority of the population are entirely dependent, even for the necessaries of life, on the money-lenders. These men at present often obtain a decree on a promissory note merely to save the statutory bar of limitation, and then proceed, perhaps, to partial execution against the goods, but still continue the debtor's credit in making him further petty loans. This, of course, they will not do if they are to be debarred from proving these, in case of the debtor's ultimate bankruptcy no matter at how long a period after, by reason of the act of bankruptcy committed by execution of the first decree. I would recommend the bar to be, not notice of the first act of bankruptcy, but notice of the presentation of a bankruptcy-petition either by a creditor or the debtor.

14. Section 39 (1).—For the same reason I would omit "or of the commission of any available act of bankruptcy by the debtor."

15. Section 40 (2).—This exemption apparently only protects the purchaser at a Court's sale from the consequence of the act of bankruptcy committed in that sale. But it often happens that several sales take place at different times in partial execution of the same decree. Apparently the purchaser at a subsequent sale would be protected from the consequences of the act of bankruptcy committed in that sale, but not from those of one committed in a prior sale in respect of the same decree.

16. Section 43 (2).—So, again, it would appear that if a debtor, against whom his creditor had obtained a decree which was partially satisfied by execution, afterwards paid to the creditor a portion of the balance due on his decree, such payment might be avoided in case of the debtor's subsequent bankruptcy, because at that date there was "available" the "act of bankruptcy" in the partial execution which, of course, was known to the execution-creditor at the time of the further part-payment.

17. I think the objection already noticed in respect of the general application of Part I also applies in a great measure to that of Parts V and VI.

18. Sections 105 to 110.—I think these provisions, so far as they relate to debtors, are open to much the same objection as that pointed out in regard to section 3 (l) (d), (e), (g). They are taken from an English Act framed when imprisonment for debt had been abolished, which it has not yet been in India, where the creditors consequently do not require so much protection as in England, and where they are more likely to use such provisions for purposes of intimidation, oppression and extortion. Section 105 (m) I consider especially objectionable both on these grounds and on those pointed out in regard to section 31 (2).

19. Section 115 (3) and (4) and section 116.—I think it would be advisable to make some provision for the validity of rules and levy of fees ad interim.

20. In regard to the general scope of the proposed Act, as disclosed by the Statement of Objects and Reasons, the draftsman would appear to have formed the enactment mainly on the lines of the present bankruptcy law of England as last amended by the Statute 46 & 47 Vic., cap. 52, because, as he says (paragraph 9 and 10), "it is eminently desirable that the circumstances under which a debtor may be declared insolvent, and under which he may obtain his discharge, should be, as far as possible the same in London and Calcutta;" and while the new Act should be "adapted in details to Indian circumstances," it "should follow the English Act as closely as possible, except where there is some substantial reason for taking a different course."

21. I for one do not see this "eminent desirability" in the case of two countries so differently circumstanced as India and England. No doubt it may be a convenience to English merchants in Calcutta and England that they should all be subject to the same law; but in legislating for India generally we have to consult something more than the convenience or wishes or wants of a handful of foreigners. From the mere fact that a certain enactment is found to work well in England (assuming that the English Act does work well there, as to which there would appear to be some difference of opinion among experts), it is not a safe, nor even probable, inference that it would in any way be suitable to a country so differently circumstanced as India. England is a rich commercial and manufacturing country; India is a poor agricultural one. The ordinary Englishman is substantial and independent; the ordinary Indian is an insolvent pauper, hopelessly indebted to his Marwari money-lender. The money-lender's profits in England are, as a rule, spent in the country; in India they are, as a rule, sent abroad, thus acting as an incessant drain on the resources of the most impoverished classes. A large proportion of the English bankrupts are traders; in India a large proportion are non-traders. England has been for centuries in the van of European progress, profiting by the slow growth of a civilization born of native Western ideas, self-acquired and assimilated into her very being; India has barely emerged from oriental semi-barbarism, and such civilization as she has is, for the most part, of foreign origin, which had already attained maturity abroad before its importation, and has as yet been only very partially adopted here. The lowest ranks of workers in English society form, compared with Indian, a small proportion of the population, and non-workers among the poorer classes are an insignificant item; in India the lowest ranks of workers form a very large majority (about ⅞ths) of the entire community, while the non-workers form a considerable proportion of the poorest classes. In England the judgment-debtor has for years been relieved from the depressing and disabling effects of the system of imprisonment for debt, which in India is still a powerful engine of extortion in the hands of the money-lender, and freely used for the further depauperisation of the most impoverished class.

22. The poorest classes in England, as compared with those in India, are infinitely superior in material wealth, in resources of employment, in education and intellectual activity, and they are in a far smaller numerical proportion to the general community. When we find the two countries circumstanced so differently in regard to the bulk of their population, it seems to me that any law regulating the relations between debtor and creditor must of necessity differ, not in "details" only, but in "general principles;" at least, I submit, the onus of producing a "substantial reason" is rather on those who advocate assimilation, than on those who argue, from the difference of circumstances, the necessity for a difference in the law to be applied to them.

Extract, paragraphs 13 to 19, from letter from Chief Judge, Bombay Court of Small Causes, to Secretary to Government, Bombay,—(No. 9, dated 7th April, 1879).

"13. Against the advantages so to be gained by the proposed change (namely, the saving of a few hours for the trial of long causes on the original side and the saving of a few rupees in professional costs) must be set off what appear to me to be far more than compensating inconveniences which will result to the general public, to the insolvents and their creditors and to the officials of the Insolvent Court.

"14. In the first place, supposing only those unimportant or unopposed cases which at present take up about three hours in a fortnight of the Commissioner's time were transferred to the Small Cause Court; to this extent at least the Judges of the Small Cause Court must divert to insolvency-matters the time which would otherwise be spent in the interests of the general body of litigants. During the three hours so spent from 30 to 40 of those small causes might have been heard and decided the speedy adjudication of which is the raison d'etré of the Court.

"15. In the next place, if the insolvency-work be divided between the High Court and the Small Cause Court, it will be necessary either to have two separate office establishments, or to be constantly transporting the Insolvent Court officials, with their books, papers, &c., from their present head-quarters in the High Court building to the Small Cause Court, a distance of about a mile, and back.

"16. The former of these two courses would probably be both the more expensive and the more inconvenient to the public. It would involve the appointing of a new Clerk of the Court and a new Official Assignee, which appointments, having regard to the provisions of the Statute 11 Vic., cap. 21, I am inclined to think it is not within the competence of the Indian legislature to make. It would also involve the employment of several additional inferior officials, such as clerks, cashiers, and the like. It would further occasion considerable inconvenience to creditors seeking inspection of books, &c., and sometimes necessitate the payment of searching-fees in both offices, especially after the lapse of some years, when it would become necessary to make inspection of old cases. Again, much difficulty and loss to the estate would be occasioned if different members of a Hindu family, or different partners in a firm, became insolvent separately, and went some to the one Official Assignee and some to the other; the difficulty would be doubled of giving titles to purchasers, and consequently of getting fair prices for the properties sold.

"17. On the other hand, if the present establishment were required to work in two places at such a distance from each other as the High Court and Small Cause Court, there would be a great increase of expense and waste of time and almost infinite inconvenience to the officials of the Insolvent Court. About six additional clerks would have to be employed; and considerable expense would be incurred in the carriage of books, papers and proceedings, while more than the time gained to the Court by the despatch of cases would be lost to the office eundo morando et revertendo between the two Courts.

"18. I believe that in Madras the sections of the Civil Procedure Code relating to insolvency have been applied by Resolution of the Local Government to the Small Cause Court. This has not been done here, and I do not think, if it were done, any material advantage would result, or that many applications would be made by persons seeking the benefit of these sections. The provisions of the Civil Procedure Code cannot avail until after judgment has passed and the judgment-debtor has actually been arrested. On the other hand, any person may avail himself of the provisions of the Statute 11 Vic., cap. 21, at any time, and thus avoid arrest, or obtain his discharge. Almost all debtors would, therefore, I presume, naturally prefer to take advantage of the last-mentioned enactment.

"19. For all these reasons, and because I am unable to suggest any other method than those already discussed, which will not be open to the same objections, whereby an insolvency-jurisdiction could be conferred upon the Presidency Small Cause Courts, I am of opinion that no such jurisdiction should be conferred. I will only add that if the real object of the proposed extension be merely to relieve the High Court of a portion of its labour, by removing from its cognizance the bulk of unimportant and unopposed insolvency-cases, precisely this result could be attained without incurring any expense and without adding to the work of any other Court by the abolition of the present system of imprisonment for debt; for it is simply to avoid arrest, or to escape from imprisonment, that the great majority, if not all, of the unopposed insolvents apply for the benefit of the Act."

From the HON'BLE F. L. LATHAM, Advocate General, Bombay, to Under-Secretary to Government, Bombay,—(No. 59, dated 14th September, 1885).

WITH reference to the proposed Bill to amend and consolidate the Law of Bankruptcy and Insolvency in British India, I have the honour to offer the following remarks.

[redacted] that it would be well to [redacted] A short time will show whether the Act of 1883 is fitted to become the permanent law of bankruptcy, and which of its provisions require repeal or alteration; and the present Insolvency law of India, which, though imperfect, does not on the whole work badly, may without any serious inconvenience be allowed to remain in operation for that short time.

2. The most striking difference between the proposed Bill and the present law is the large power given to creditors to control the administration of the bankrupt's estate. Section 17 allows the creditors before adjudication by a majority of three-fourths, and subject to the approval of the Court, to resolve on a composition or on a scheme of assignment of the debtor's affairs; section 20 (2) allows the creditors, if the Court declare such an appointment desirable, to appoint a person other than the Official Receiver to be trustee of the property of the bankrupt; section 21 allows the creditors to appoint a committee of inspection; section 22 allows the creditors, after the adjudication, to approve of a composition or scheme of assignment subject to the approval of the Court. I confess that I dread lest the effect of these sections should be to facilitate fraud and to lead to a manipulation of the provisions of the Act in favour of the bankrupt. Even now the schedules of insolvents are often filled with fictitious debts in favour of his relatives and friends, and when under Act XXVII of 1865 the temptation to this form of fraud was greater it was notoriously prevalent—I might say universal. I observe that the approval of the Court is made a condition to the exercise of these powers by the creditors. But such an approval is apt to become a mere formality when the responsility of the initiative is not with the Court itself. I should prefer to have the Official Receiver trustee in every case, and to insist that any composition or scheme of assignment should be directed by the Court, either on the motion and after hearing the Official Receiver.

3. I think that section 2 will not in its present form have the effect desired by the framers of the Bill. Comparing it with section 2 of the English Act, I think it would be construed to refer to the extent of the Bill as regards its effect as a form of procedure against a debtor and would nullify the whole Bill—vide Williams' Bankruptcy Law and Practice (3rd edition), page 1.

4. Section 8, which gives the debtor immediate protection from process against his person as soon as a receiving order is made, is a most important change in the present law. At present the great struggle in insolvency-proceedings is as to the granting or refusing an interim order of protection; there is, comparatively speaking, no contest as to the grant of final orders. It seems to me that the section in its present form is adapted to a state of the law in which imprisonment for debt has almost ceased to exist, whereas in India it is still one of the main remedies by which the execution of decrees in enforced.

5. Section 16 is, in my opinion, a most wholesome provision, though, unless the Court has power to dispense with it in small and unopposed bankruptcies, an increase of the number of Judges will be required. I would make it plain that the Official Receiver and also any creditor may examine the debtor by counsel or solicitor. The requisition of signature by the debtor in (8) should be struck out, as it will tend to nullify the effects of the section. The official record of the evidence is sufficient security for accuracy.

6. In section 59 I do not think that the Chief Justice should have power to remove the Official Receiver at his discretion without good cause.

7. Sections 65 and 67 no not make it clear what is to be done with the interest accruing on the estates of bankrupts. It ought in justice to belong to the estate.

8. I doubt section 88, allowing the delegation of certain powers to the Judges of the Presidency Small Cause Courts, being of any practical use. It is adapted from the provisions of the English Act allowing the delegation of powers from the Judge to the Registrar. But the Registrar has the command of the staff of the Bankruptcy Court, which would not be the case with the Small Cause Court Judge. If anything be done in this direction, I think it should rather be to transfer bankruptcies of small estates to the Small Cause Courts. But I doubt any saving of judicial time or expense being so effected.

9. Part VII, as to small bankruptcies, is a wholesome provision as the Act now stands. But I am inclined to think that in India all bankruptcies should be dealt with in the manner prescribed by that Part.

From J. MARSHALL, ESQ., Secretary, Bombay Chamber of Commerce, to Acting Under-Secretary to Government, Bombay,—(dated 25th November, 1885).

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 4606, dated 1st July last, forwarding copy of a draft Bill to amend and consolidate the Law of Bankruptcy and Insolvency in British India, and requesting that Government may be favoured with the opinion of the Chamber of Commerce thereon.

The Bill was referred to a special Committee, consisting of the Hon'ble F. Forbes Adam, of Messrs. W. & A. Graham & Co., Chairman of the Chamber, Mr. A. F. Beaufort, of Messrs. Lyon & Co., Deputy Chairman, Mr. W. A. Baker, Manager, National Bank of India, Limited, Mr. E. Miller, of Messrs. C. Macdonald & Co., Mr. J. H. Slight, Deputy Secretary and Treasurer, Bank of Bombay, and Mr. Vizbucandas Atmaram, of Messrs. Narandas Lajaram & Co.; and their report having been approved the Chamber has now the honour to submit its opinion on the provisions of the Bill.

Some little delay has taken place in forwarding the report to Government, as the Chamber was anxious to obtained the views of business people at home on the actual working of the English Bankruptcy Act of 1883. These, however, not having come to hand, the Chamber will take the liberty of embodying in a supplementary report any additional information which may hereafter be received in response to the inquiries instituted.

The Bill has been read through and discussed clause by clause, and subjoined will be found in detail the additions and emendations which the Chamber considers desirable. Before proceeding to the discussion of the provisions of the Bill, however, the Chamber had to consider two broad questions—first, whether in the existing state of things a new Insolvency Act was called for; and, second, whether in that event the general principles of the proposed Bill were thoroughly adapted to the requirements of the trading community and to the conditions attending insolvency in India.

To the first question the answer was unanimously in the affirmative. The necessity of a radical reform in the bankruptcy law for India has long been keenly felt by the mercantile public, and has on numerous occasions been the subject of anxious consideration. In the address with which the Chamber had the honour to welcome the arrival in India of His Excellency the Viceroy the matter was prominently mentioned as one of pressing importance; and had it not become known that the Bill now under report was in preparation it was the intention of the Chamber to memorialise Government begging that action might be taken at the earliest possible opportunity.

The second question did not admit of so ready an answer. The conditions under which trade here and at home is conducted are so widely divergent, and the nature and cause of the majority of insolvencies so entirely different, that at first sight the mere fact that the Bill is drawn on the same lines as the English Act carries with it a presumption of possible unfitness. A closer examination of its provisions, however, shows that in its leading principle of official control over bankrupt estates it is in a great measure a return to what has long been recognised as one of the best features of the present Indian insolvency law. The signal failure in operation and the gross malpractices perpetrated under the Bombay Act for speedy liquidation,—XXVIII of 1865,—which was a distinct departure from this principle, is still well within the memory of several members of the Chamber; and there can be no question that efficient control by responsible, qualified officials must be a fundamental principle of insolvency legislation in India. The absence of the separate supervision exercised in England by the Board of Trade need not, in the opinion of the Chamber, interfere with the effectual working of the Act so long as careful provision is made in the rules that only thoroughly competent officials are appointed to responsible posts, and that they are placed under the guidance and direction of the Court.

A very marked difference between the law of insolvency here and in England exists in imprisonment for debt being still maintained in India. In the opinion of the Chamber it would be unadvisable as yet to deprive creditors in this country of that power. There are no doubt weighty arguments in favour of following English legislation. Amongst the poorer classes their personal liberty in reality constitutes the security on which they are able to obtain advances; and were the power of utilizing that security once removed the ability of contracting debts beyond their means of repayment would be done away with also, and much unnecessary extravagance in the shape of expenditure on marriage and other festivities—which accounts for a considerable proportion of the insolvencies amongst the lower classes—would thus be avoided. In other words, by removing the power of getting into debt, people would be compelled to live within their means. While admitting this as regards the poorer classes, the general opinion amongst merchants and bankers is decidedly adverse to the abolition of liability to imprisonment for debt from a mercantile point of view. The change would be too radical, and, by altering the basis on which business has been conducted in this country from time immemorial, might seriously interfere with the ordinary course of trade. As to whether or not the Bill in its present form fully contemplates the existence of imprisonment for debt is more a question for skilled lawyers than a body of laymen, and the Chamber therefore would content itself as regards this point by merely expressing the opinion that it cannot be too carefully considered.

So far as Bombay is concerned—and the same probably holds good in the other Presidency-towns—one of the greatest disadvantages which creditors have to contend with is the facilities which fraudulent debtors have for escaping from the jurisdiction of the Court by absconding into Native territory. Amongst a certain class of Native traders—and that by no means the lowest—this is a very common means of evading punishment, and owing to the ease with which it can be accomplished it tends greatly to encourage fraudulent bankruptcy. The Chamber quite appreciates the serious difficulties there are in the way of bringing about a remedy, but it would earnestly solicit the attention of Government to this point. Once make it possible for the writ of the Bankruptcy Court to take effect in Native States, and reckless trading amongst Native dealers will have received a deathblow which no other form of legislative enactment could administer.

The Chamber observes that the draft Bill omits the disqualification of a bankrupt to hold certain offices, as provided under Part II of the English Bankruptcy Act of 1883. The advisability of this omission the Chamber is very much inclined to question, as there is no doubt that, especially amongst Natives, the holding of certain apppintments carries considerable dignity, and the deprivation of these as the direct result of bankruptcy might have a wholesome deterrent effect. In the opinion of the Chamber the Bill should provide for the disqualification of a bankrupt for holding the following positions where not already settled by existing Acts, namely:—

Member of the Legislative Council.
Justice of the Peace.
Member of the Town Council or Municipal Corporation.
Member of a Port Trust or Harbour Board.
Director of a Joint Stock Company.

The eligibility of bankrupts for these offices after obtaining their discharge might be made dependent on the nature of the bankruptcy as certified by the Court.

Taking each section in order the Chamber begs to submit the subjoined remarks:—

Section 5 (1) (d).—In addition to this clause the Chamber considers it important for the due protection of creditors that in the case of a firm which has carried on business at a place where a Bankruptcy Court exists, and has partners where there is no such Court, the estate should be would up at the place where the Bankruptcy Court is, and the partners elsewhere should be liable to have their assets at once taken possession of by the Official Receiver. Further that, if a firm so constituted becomes insolvent, the act of insolvency of any one partner should render all other partners, wherever situated, insolvent also, and liable to have their property attached by the Court.

Section 8.—The Chamber is of opinion that this section should provide that in the case of a debtor with no available assets the Court should not be able to give a complete discharge, but should have power to compel him to proceed with his insolvency. An interim order might be granted in the first instance, but revoked unless the debtor proceeded with the insolvency when called upon to do so.

Section 12.—The advertisement giving notice of the receiving order should, the Chamber thinks, be published in at least one of the leading local newspapers in addition to the Government Gazette, and this suggestion should be made applicable in every instance where notice by advertisement is provided for, notably in section 19, (5), section 27 (5), section 30 (3).

Section 15.—As the time fixed for submitting a statement of a debtor's affairs seems very limited, it is suggested that under sub-section (2) (i), where an order is made on the petition of the debtor, ten instead of three days should be allowed, and where the order is made on the petition of a creditor (ii) the time be increased from seven to twenty days.

Section 16.—The Chamber is of opinion that there is no necessity for making the public examination of a debtor compulsory where a compromise has been agreed upon, and it would therefore ask that the following be added to sub-section (1):—

"Except that in cases where the majority of creditors in number and three-fourths in value are prepared to accept a compromise, the public examination of the debtor may be dispensed with."

Section 17.—In all cases of compromise or composition the Chamber deems it most important that the creditors should have the fullest possible information before them as to the true state of the debtor's affairs; and it seems desirable, therefore, that the following words should be appended to sub-section (3):—

"with a full statement of the debtor's affairs."

Section 21, the Chamber recommends, should be entirely omitted from the Bill. It may be that in England, where the books of an insolvent are in English and information as to an estate can be obtained without much difficulty, a committee of creditors may prove of considerable assistance in securing a favourable liquidation; but the experience of those who have been concerned with bankrupt estates here is of a contrary character. In all probability it might lead to the appointment on committees of creditors favourable to the debtors, as was found to be the case in working Bombay Act XXVIII of 1865, which was admittedly a complete failure as a means of advantageous liquidation.

The omission of this section and the abolition of committees of inspection would necessitate some alterations in the wording of subsequent provisions of the Bill. For instance, the Chamber suggests that section 50 should [illegible] the trustee may, with the permission of the Court, and after such notice to creditors as the Court may prescribe, do all or any of the following things"; and in sub-sections (3) and (4) of the same section, (3) of section 51, (1) of section 57, and (1) of section 63, the word "Court" should be substituted for "committee" or "committee of inspection."

Section 24.—The desirability of arranging to secure the arrest of an insolvent who has taken refuge in a Native State has already been alluded to, and, if that be practicable, provision would have to be made for it under this section as also under (2) of section 26.

Section 25.—The same provision as for the redirection and delivery of letters should be made for telegrams.

Section 27 (5) allows 14 days' notice only to creditors of the day fixed by the Court for hearing a debtor's application for discharge. This would be insufficient for creditors out of India, and the Chamber would recommend one month's notice being allowed.

Section 27 (6).—The Chamber suggests that a decree passed by the Court against a debtor when making an order of discharge should be in favour of the Official Receiver only, his office being continuous, while a trustee might have to leave the country at times under very short notice.

Section 34 (5).—Considering that the current rate of interest in India is 9 per cent. as compared with 5 per cent. in England, the rate of interest payable out of surplus funds, as provided for in this clause, might fairly be increased from 4 per cent. as proposed to 6 per cent. per annum.

Section 36 (1).—The Chamber is of opinion that the preference extended to a landlord's claim for rent under this section is unduly large. It thinks that no power of distraint should be granted after bankruptcy, and that he should not be entitled to a preferential claim for more than four months' rent, subject, moreover, to assets of that amount belonging to the insolvent's estate being on the premises.

Section 52 (2).—After the words "application of" the Chamber suggests the insertion of the words "the trustee or."

Section 64 (3).—It would be well to have the "prescribed officer" mentioned in this clause defined, as it is important to know in whose hands the very responsible power of regulating the charges may be placed. It is also suggested that "leave of the Court" be substituted for "proof of such taxation having been made," before payment.

Section 67.—Having regard to the constant fluctuations in the value of Government securities, it seems to the Chamber that if it could be so arranged it would be preferable, instead of investing surplus funds in Government paper, to hand them over to the Accountant-General, who on behalf of Government should pay 4 per cent. interest on the amount. Such interest, moreover, should go to the separate estates, or, in other words, be for the benefit of the creditors, who are frequently kept out of their dividends for long periods pending the decision of suits and disputes. The system adopted under the English Act, and sought to be introduced into this Bill, of utilizing the interest obtained on funds held during liquidation towards minimising the fees payable in bankruptcy, has rather a tendency to favour debtors to the disadvantage of creditors.

Section 70.—In addition to rendering it incumbent on a trustee to grant a creditor inspection of the books kept in connection with the liquidation of an estate, it should also be provided that creditors should have free access to the books of the insolvent. It should be further arranged that an experienced and trustworthy staff of Native mehtas or accountants should be maintained on the staff of the Court (either attached to the Official Receiver or Trustee), through whom reliable translations and extracts from books kept in any of the Native languages could be obtained. Great difficulty is experienced in obtaining information of this character under the existing law, and a creditor employing an outside mehta for the purpose of searching a debtor's accounts always runs the risk of the man being bought over by the other side.

Section 88 (3).—It appears to the Chamber somewhat anomalous that a Judge of the Small Cause Court should not have the same power to commit for contempt as is granted to the Court under section 23, clause (4). The omission of clause (3) is accordingly suggested.

Section 103.—The Chamber would be in favour of raising the limit for small bankruptcies from Rs. 3,000 Rs. 5,000. In estates within the latter sum it is very unlikely that cases of fraudulent books, &c., will occur requiring the more complicated machinery of the previous portions of the Act; nor does it seem necessary that the examination of the debtor be insisted upon, as provided under clause (c).

From H. BATTY, ESQ., Under-Secretary to Government, Bombay, to Secretary to Government of India, Legislative Department,—(No. 784, dated 5th February, 1886).

WITH reference to your letter No. 113, dated the 18th ultimo, I am directed to forward, for submission to the Government of India, copy of a letter from the Acting Prothonotary and Registrar of Her Majesty's High Court, Bombay, No. 21, dated the 28th idem, and its accompaniments, regarding the draft Bill to amend and consolidate the Law of Bankruptcy and Insolvency in British India.

From G. H. FARRAN, ESQ., Acting Prothonotary and Registrar, High Court, Bombay, to Chief Secretary to Government, Bombay,—(No. 21, dated 28th January, 1886).

WITH reference to your letter No. 4605, dated the 1st July, 1885, I am directed by the Hon'ble the Chief Justice to forward the accompanying report on the draft Bill to amend and consolidate the Law of Bankruptcy and Insolvency in British India, prepared in accordance with his Lordship's directions, and to state that the Hon'ble Mr. Justice Bayley, who has been for some years presiding over the Insolvent Court, approves generally of the same.

From G. H. FARRAN, ESQ., Acting Prothonotary and Registrar, High Court, Bombay, and C. A. TURNER, ESQ., Official Assignee, Bombay, to the Hon'ble the Chief Justice, Bombay.

IN accordance with your Lordship's directions we beg to submit the accompanying remarks on the draft Bill to amend and consolidate the Law of Bankruptcy and Insolvency in British India.

Remarks.

Protection from arrest.—The proposed Act, which is principally taken from the Bankruptcy Act of 1883 now in force in England, where imprisonment for debt has been abolished, provides that the receiving order shall have the effect of protecting the debtor from arrest in respect of any debt provable in bankruptcy. It does not contemplate any opposition on the part of creditors at this stage, but deals only with the granting or withholding of a final discharge. In Bombay, where imprisonment for debt is still permitted and no protection is afforded by the vesting order under the present Act, the chief object of the majority of insolvents is to obtain immunity from arrest at first by means of interim protection-orders, and afterwards by obtaining their personal discharge under section 47, after which they but rarely trouble themselves about applying for their final discharge; while the principal object of the opposing creditor is to prevent an insolvent from obtaining such immunity, in order that he may be able to secure better terms by making use of his power of arrest. A practical result would be that the large proportion of petitioning debtors, who come to the Court for the purpose solely of obtaining protection from arrest, would have no object in proceeding with their petitions, and would probably neglect to take any further steps after the receiving order was made. To remedy this it is suggested that the Court should have power both (1), to dismiss petitions for want of prosecution, and (2) to cancel so much of the receiving order under section 8 (1) as gives protection from arrest. It would also seem necessary that the Court should have power to direct the discharge from jail of a debtor imprisoned before the making of the receiving order: there does not appear to be any provision to this effect in the proposed Act.

Adjudication of bankruptcy.—The change made by the proposed Act with respect to the adjudication of bankruptcy is highly advantageous. Under the provisions of the Act in respect to that subject it will be possible to have debtors adjudged insolvent before they have had time to dispose of all their property, and creditors will in all probability make use of those provisions more and more if the Act is found to work well. It is very important that adjudicated insolvents should (1) make the statement required by section 15 and (2) come up for the public examination directed by section 16. Debtors who have been adjudged insolvent almost invariably abscond from Bombay into Native States, and there is no power under the present Act to compel their return. Such a power extending throughout British India is given by section 24 of the proposed Act; but as absconding debtors almost invariably abscond to Native States it would largely increase the efficacy of the Act if it were found possible to extend that power to Native States also.

Composition with creditors.—The change made by the proposed Act with respect to composition with creditors is also beneficial. The present Act is silent on the subject, and the result is that documents purporting to be assignments in favour of creditors hastily executed just before the date of the vesting order are often set up with the effect of either entailing troublesome and expensive litigation, or of keeping from the Court all power of investigating the insolvent's affairs, even though a majority of creditors may desire such investigation. Considering, however, that the public examination of debtors will in many cases involve the disclosure of affairs of creditors which they may naturally object to be made public, power might be given to the Court in cases of composition with creditors to dispense with the public examination of debtors when a sufficient majority of creditors desire or consent to it.

Property of bankrupt.—The words of section 38 (1), which deals with the property of the bankrupt, are not so wide as those of section 7 of the present Act, and it is important, especially when dealing with property in the Mufassal or outside British India, where the law is imperfectly understood, that the words of the Act should clearly and distinctly cover the property of the bankrupt, whether within British India or without.

Discharge of bankrupt.—Under the present Act there are two sorts of discharge that can be granted to an insolvent by the Court—(1) freedom from personal imprisonment for debt, and (2) freedom from liability of after-acquired property. It is one of the greatest faults of the present Act that a separate application has to be made for each, and the Court at the hearing of the matters of an insolvent's petition under section 35, where all the facts regarding his conduct are before it, makes no order as to the latter but only as to the former sort of discharge. In Bombay the principal object of the debtor in coming to the Court is to obtain his personal discharge, and the object of an opposing creditor is either to force the insolvent to buy off his opposition or to induce the Court to dismiss his petition. The reason is that a creditor in Bombay in opposing an insolvent invariably working in his own interest and not in that of the general body; and he considers that if the petition is dismissed he will succeed in obtaining a greater portion of the insolvent's property than if it were distributed by the Official Assignee. The power of dismissing petitions given by section 47, and used as a penalty for misconduct, encourages this system. The proposed Act will effect a great improvement in this respect, as under it the Court will consider the whole question of the insolvent's course of dealing and conduct, and will either grant him his discharge (conditional or otherwise), or punish him under the Act itself.

Penalties.—The provisions of sections 27, 105 and 107, which deal with penalties and punishments, are much more severe than in the present Act. It may be noted that a bankrupt cannot under them obtain an unconditional discharge more than once, and, if undischarged, he is liable to be punished by imprisonment if he obtains credit to the extent of Rs. 200 without informing his creditor. There is a class of penalties under the English Act which has been omitted from the proposed Act, namely, disqualification of a bankrupt to hold certain offices. It, however, seems desirable that no penalty should be omitted which may have the effect of causing the mercantile community to regard bankruptcy as a disgrace, which in Bombay, since the share mania, they have to a great extent ceased to do. And for this reason it would appear advisable to make the disability to hold certain positions which may be regarded as honourable the direct result of bankruptcy.

Decrees against bankrupt.—Passing a decree in favour of the trustees against the bankrupt is a punishment often enforced in England in cases where no assets are forthcoming in the bankruptcy. The practice in Bombay has been to pass such a decree in every case, and, considering the great facilities bankrupts have in this country for concealing their property from the Court, that practice seems a good one, as affording a ready way of recovering from the bankrupt after his discharge property that he may be shown to be possessed of without having to prove that it was concealed at the time of the discharge. It would probably be found more convenient if such decrees were passed in all cases in favour of the Official Receiver, as a trustee might not be forthcoming some years after the bankruptcy when required to act. Such decrees should also, if possible, be exempted from the operation of the law of limitation as provided in the present Act, as it would be manifestly impossible, as well as useless, for the Official Receiver to take the necessary steps for keeping all such decrees alive, and equally impossible to foresee in what cases it would be desirable to do so.

Procedure.—The procedure under the proposed Act will largely increase the work of the Court—an essential feature of the Act in the public examination of the bankrupt in every case. During the last three years there have been on an average over forty petitions presented each month, which under the proposed Act would entail an equal number of public examinations, for the taking of which the time at present allotted for sittings in insolvency would be wholly inadequate. The provisions of section 99 of the English Act, or such modification of them as may be considered proper, might with advantage be inserted in this Act, and work of a formal nature, such as taking such examinations in unopposed cases, granting receiving orders and other work of a similar nature, relegated to an officer of the Court. In any case, whether the public examination be taken by the Court or by an officer, the provision in section 16, by which the notes of examination are to be signed by the debtor, might, with advantage, be omitted, as it would involve not only the loss of time occasioned by reading over and interpreting his deposition to a Native witness, but, especially in the case of a debtor subjected to a searching examination, may result in a refusal to sign the notes as taken down or an endeavour to retract previous admissions or statements.

Unclaimed dividends.—The proposed Act provides (section 132) for the payment of any unclaimed dividends under it to the bankruptcy estates account, but omits the provision contained in the corresponding section of the English Act as to the disposal of the unclaimed dividends under the present Act. These unclaimed dividends in Bombay amount to upwards of eight lakhs, of which between two and three lakhs are in respect of proved claims in estates in which redistribution has been already made under Act XXVII of 1841, and which cannot be further distributed under any Act now in force. The remainder is to a large extent made up of dividends in respect of debts admitted by insolvents in their schedules as due, but which have not been proved, and are for the most part unprovable; and it is doubtful whether these dividends can be distributed under the Act of 1841. Section 7 of Bill No. 3 of 1881, which was intended to remedy this state of circumstances, has never become law, and it [illegible] necessary that some means of dealing with those funds should be provided by the proposed Act. The [illegible] of these funds might be applied, towards the general purposes of the Act; otherwise there may be a difficulty at first in working the proposed Act, unless a very high scale of fees is adopted.

Appointment of Official Receiver.—Under the present Insolvent Act the Official Assignee can only be removed from office in the cases specified in section 18. By the proposed Act the removal of the Official Receiver will depend solely on the pleasure of the Chief Justice. There does not appear to be any reason why the position of the Official Receiver should be less independent than that of the Official Assignee, or his tenure of office less secure.

A few remarks dealing with some of the sections more in detail are annexed.

Appendix.

Section 2. Regarding application of section 48 to England.—Section 48 could hardly be made applicable to England, but nevertheless cases may arise in which onerous property in England may become vested in the trustee in India. Is not some provision necessary to provide for disclaimer by the trustee in such cases?

Section 21 (2).—The committee of inspection might very well be dispensed with, or at all events confined to cases in which an order is made under section 20, sub-section (2).

In cases in which the Official Receiver is acting, reference to the Court for necessary powers and authority will be more satisfactory and cause for less delay than to committees of creditors.

In that event some such words as the following might be added to section 21 (9):—

See 11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 26.

"by and with such notice to such creditors as the Court may think fit to direct."

Section 24.—As has been already pointed out, the value of this section would be very greatly increased if it enabled debtors absconding to Native States to be also arrested.

In any case, however, the section would seem to be incomplete, as it does not distinctly provide for the case of a debtor who may have actually absconded from the local jurisdiction of the Court to some other part of British India, but only deals with the case of a debtor who is "about to abscond with a view," &c.

Section 34 (1). Municipal rates.—Port-trust dues, &c., are at present only entitled to dividends.

Sub-section (5). Interest after payment of principal in full.—As decrees in India carry interest at 6 per cent, in the same way interest after the receiving order should be allowed in India at 6 per cent. also.

Section 36.—Section 36 of the proposed Act gives a landlord the power to exercise, with certain restrictions, his right of distraint upon the property of the bankrupt for rent due. This right was taken away by the present Act, and the change will considerably hamper the Official Receiver when an estate first comes to his hands. Landlords, on the insolvency of their tenants, often put padlocks on the godowns or premises let to them, and claim a lien for rent; and as rent in Bombay is heavy, and the value of the goods so locked up uncertain, such claims, even under the present law, are not easily disposed of. The proposed change is, we think, to be deprecated; but if it is considered that the landlords should have any preferential claim, it would be more convenient to allow a preferential claim for two months' rent (not exceeding the value of the goods on the premises let by them) under section 34, and leave the law otherwise unchanged.

Section 38, clause (2).—The words "wearing-apparel and bedding" are hardly sufficiently wide. In India cooking-pots, &c., are more necessary even than bedding. The words of the Act 11 & 12 Vic., cap 21, section 7, are "wearing-apparel, bedding, and other such necessaries."

Section 51 (2).—The distribution of a dividend depends almost entirely on the creditors and not on the trustee.

The words "shall be declared and be payable" might be substituted for the words "shall be declared and distributed."

As to the period of four months prescribed by this section for the declaration of the first dividend, see note for section 99.

Section 57 (2). Allowance to bankrupt.—We think the allowance to a bankrupt should be limited both as to amount and as to duration. The limit we would propose is Rs. 100 per month extending over not more than ten months.

It must be remembered that in all bankruptcies the bankrupt himself has always influence in the liquidation of his estate.

A considerable body of the creditors, either through friendship or relationship, or because they have received, or expect to receive, special preference, are always ready to support the bankrupt.

In large estates there will always be danger of candidates for trusteeship making a bid for the bankrupt's influence by promise of a good allowance if they are appointed.

Some limit of time is necessary, or an insolvent in receipt of a good allowance will be tempted to protract the liquidation of his estate.

Section 61. Official Receiver's report.—Before the discharge of any bankrupt under section 27 of the new proposed Act, the Official Receiver has in every case to prepare a report, which has to be taken into consideration by the Court at the hearing of the bankrupt's application under that section. In order to make such reports of any value, the Official Receiver must (in cases of insolvency of traders) have the assistance of experienced Native accountants capable of themselves reading and understanding Native account-books.

Account-books in Bombay are kept not only in different languages and character, but even on different principles, varying according to the particular trade or business carried on by the bankrupt or to the skill or ignorance of the mehtas employed by him.

The accountants would have to be high class men, well paid, and in the regular employ of the office (not engaged for any particular estate), to ensure trustworthy performance of their work.

The examinations of account-books so made would be of the greatest value both to creditors who might wish to oppose and also to the Court itself at the hearing.

This would, however, seem to be a matter to be dealt with by rules under the Act, and not in the Act itself.

Section 65 (5).—We do not consider that this provision can be of any value in India.

Section 67. Investment of moneys.—Under this section investment is made out of the "bankruptcy estates account" generally, and not out of the moneys belonging to any particular estates, and the whole interest so realized is appropriated for the general purposes of the Act (section 67 (3)).

Were it possible to distribute the moneys to creditors as quickly as is contemplated in the Act, there would be no great hardship in the present provision. In Bombay, however, considerable sums have always to be reserved to meet the possible costs of the litigation that invariably ensues on any large insolvency proving unsuccessful, and (as has already been pointed out) claims of creditors cannot be quickly adjusted.

It would be hard on creditors that money so locked up should not be invested for their benefit.

Perhaps the simplest way would be to leave the provisions of the Act as they are, and out of the interest accruing under the provisions of this section (67) to allow interest at 4 per cent. on all sums paid into the "bankruptcy estates account" until dividend is declared.

Section 88.—It appears from paragraph 29 of the draft "Objects and Reasons" that this section has been put in at the request of the Government of Madras. We do not think that the section can be of any value in Bombay while the High Court and the Small Cause Court are so far apart. It would be necessary to have a special Official Receiver and Registrar, with proper office establishments, to carry on the insolvency business of two separate Courts.

We believe that in 1880 both the High Court and the Small Cause Court of Bombay were opposed to the introduction of this provision.

Sections 92 (4); 124. Times.—All "times" allowed for the act are far too short; and though full power of extension is given by section 92 (4), yet the times mentioned in the different sections for each Act should, as far as possible, approximate the average time within which such act ought to be done.

There are several reasons why longer times will be required in Bombay than in England—

(1) the Courts sit weekly only;
(2) books of account are always in arrears, especially during the busy season, and take a long time to make up, and only a very limited number of mehtas can be employed on them at once;
(3) traders of any importance always have goods on their way to England or elsewhere, the account-sales of which are not received for a considerable time;
(4) no estate of any size can be realized without litigation owing to the invariable attempts made by bankrupts to conceal property or favour particular creditors; and litigation in Bombay is both tedious and expensive.

Section 99. Petitions of partners in different Courts.—Under this section we suppose petitions by partners of firms carrying on business in the different Presidency-towns would be transferred to the Court in which the first petition was filed; otherwise some provision is required on this point. See also section 13.

Section 103 (3).—Small bankruptcies under Part VII, section 103, might, with advantage, be extended to Rs. 6,000.

Where the gross assets of an estate are not more than Rs. 6,000, it would rarely be worth the creditor's while to attend meetings and take any direct interest in the winding up of the estate, nor will the estate itself stand the expenses of proceedings prescribed by the Act and by the first schedule.

Creditors may of course in such cases wish to have the bankrupt's affairs more expensively investigated and the bankrupt himself punished; but provision is made for this by clause (c) of this section (103).

Section 116 (2).—If the suggestions contained above regarding business to be done before the Registrar be adopted, it might be convenient to provide for the remuneration of that officer also under this section.

Section 120, clause (4).—We doubt if this provision is sufficient in the case of Native States. Would it not be simpler to allow affidavits to be also made before the British Resident or Consul or Political Agent?

Lien on bankrupt's books of account by solicitors and others.—There have been several cases lately in Bombay of solicitors claiming a lien on insolvent's books of account and so making it extremely difficult for creditors to get full and free inspection of them. Such claims might, moreover, be set up in collusion with an insolvent.

Section 121 of the English Act of 1861 abolished claims for lien of an insolvent's books of account, and the same provision was made by a rule under the Act of 1669, there being power under that Act to make the rule.—See Yate Lee on Bankruptcy, page 676.

A similar rule has been made under the present English Act of 1883, but it is of doubtful validity under section 127 (4) of that Act.

It would therefore seem advisable to put the provision into the Act itself.

From F. B. PEACOCK, ESQ., Chief Secretary to Government, Bengal, to Secretary to Government of India, Legislative Department,—(No. 799J., dated 15th February, 1886).

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 1041, dated the 17th June, 1885, forwarding copies of the Bill to amend the Law of Bankruptcy and Insolvency in British India, with Statement of Objects and Reasons, and asking for an expression of the Lieutenant-Governor's opinion and of the opinions of such persons as His Honour might think fit to consult on the provisions of the Bill.

2. In reply, I am desired to submit, for the information of the Government of India, the accompanying replies received from the officers and gentlemen named in the margin and the Secretary to the Calcutta Trades' Association, who were consulted by this Government, and to say that, with the exception of section 88 (1), the Lieutenant-Governor approves generally the provisions of the Bill. This section provides that the High Court may, from time to time, direct that a Judge of the Presidency Small Cause Court shall have all or any of the powers therein mentioned. In this connection I am to ask the attention of the Government of India to the letter from the Chief Judge of the Calcutta Court of Small Causes, and to say that, even with the assistance that this Government is about to ask should be given it, the Court of Small Causes, Calcutta, has more work on its hands than it can satisfactorily get through; and the Lieutenant-Governor is therefore averse to throwing additional burdens on the Judges of that Court.

REFERRING to your No. 1336½J.D. of the 8th ultimo, I have the honour to forward you herewith a copy of the Hon'ble the Advocate General's opinion on the subject therein referred to.

OPINION.

THERE can be no doubt that the present Insolvent Act is antiquated and requires to be replaced by fresh legislation.

The Statement of Objects and Reasons very clearly and fully explains the grounds on which the proposed change in the present Insolvent Laws are rested, and deals in an exhaustive manner with the principles which are to be followed in framing a new Bankruptcy Act. I agree in the main with the Objects and Reasons, and I think it advisable that legislation here should be supported by an Act of Parliament.

The provisions of the Draft Bill are principally taken from the English Bankruptcy Act, 1883, with certain necessary modifications.

The English Bankruptcy Act is the outcome of an extended experience of years, and has, I think, been properly adopted as a model for the proposed legislation. I have doubts whether the provisions in the English Statute in relation to composition or scheme arrangement, which have been embodied in the present draft Act, will be found useful or of any practical benefit in this country.

With regard to jurisdiction, I think that up-country traders, who have had large commercial transactions, [illegible] estate would be more satisfactorily administered in a Bankruptcy Court, should be allowed to petition [illegible] with power to adjudicate such persons bankrupt [illegible] being discretionary, to be exercised according to the circumstances of the case. The objection to such a procedure would naturally be that it would be a hardship upon creditors living at a distance to follow the proceedings in a Bankruptcy Court; but such a hardship must often occur where a debtor carrying on business in Calcutta is adjudicated by the High Court of Calcutta, and has creditors up-country as well as in the different Presidencies.

The 29th August 1885.

(Signed) G. C. PAUL.
Advocate General.

From G. C. SCONCE, ESQ., Officiating Chief Judge, Court of Small Causes, Calcutta, to Chief Secretary to Government, Bengal,—(No. 68, dated 2nd October, 1885).

WITH reference to letter No. 2946, dated 9th September, 1885, from the Under-Secretary to the Government of Bengal, calling my attention to No. 1342 J.D., dated 8th July, 1885, I have the honour, after consultation with my colleagues, to say that we believe that the provisions of the draft Bill to amend and consolidate the law of Bankruptcy and Insolvency in British India are calculated to be of great benefit to the country.

We also approve of section 88, which empowers the High Court, from time to time, to direct that a Judge of the Presidency Small Cause Court shall deal with the matters therein mentioned; but we do not consider it would be beneficial to deprive a Judge of the Small Cause Court of the power to exercise in matters relating to bankruptcy and insolvency such authority as he has in the exercise of his ordinary jurisdiction under section 83 of the Presidency Small Cause Courts, Act, 1882, to punish for contempt.

His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor is already aware that the Judges of this Court are unable, in the existing state of the files, to cope with the mass of business that comes before them. Any addition to the ordinary business will necessarily occasion further arrears.

From T. T. ALLEN, ESQ., Superintendent and Remembrancer of Legal Affairs, Bengal, to Chief Secretary to Government, Bengal,—(No. 901, dated 9th November, 1885).

IN reply to your office No. 1337 J.D., dated 8th July last, I have the honour to say that the draft Indian Bankruptcy Bill is applicable to the presidency-towns, where at present a similar law is administered by the High Court in its original jurisdiction. As I have no knowledge or experience of the working of the existing law, I am unable to form an opinion as to the necessity for, or improvements effected by, this Bill.

2. As to the mufassal, I consider the present Bill utterly and entirely unsuitable; but as there appears to be no intention to make it current there, this is no detraction from its merits.

From MAHÁRÁJÁ the HON'BLE SIR JOTENDRO MOHUN TAGORE, K.C.S.I., to Officiating Under-Secretary to Government, Bengal,—(dated 31st August, 1885).

I HAVE the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your No. 1340 J.D., dated the 8th ultimo, forwarding, for the expression of my opinion on it, copy of a draft Bill to amend the Law of Bankruptcy and Insolveney in British India, and in reply to submit the following remarks for the consideration of His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal.

2. The primary object of the project is consolidation. The law of bankruptcy and insolvency, as now current in India, is scattered in different Acts, which are in some respects defective, and in others discordant or not convenient; and the Bill under notice proposes to reconcile differences, to supply omissions, to remove defects, and generally so to amend and alter the present law as to make it fully suited for the requirements of the day. In so far the project is worthy of commendation. The opportunity has also been taken to make it accord with the latest English law on the subject, and provision has been made so to transfer cases from Indian to English Courts as to cause no inconvenience.

3. It is not necessary for me, however, to notice all the alterations, particularly as the hon'ble and learned gentleman who has drafted the Bill has fully and clearly treated the subject in great detail in his Statement of Objects and Reasons. I desire, therefore, to confine myself here to only these points which appear to me to require further consideration.

4. In the Civil Procedure Code Act (XIV of 1882, sections 336 and 344), relief for bankruptcy is made dependent on a preliminary arrest or imprisonment; no debtor can obtain the benefit of the law until he is taken up under an execution warrant. This mode of making relief accessible only through the gates of a prison to honest but unfortunate debtors is highly objectionable, and clause (l) of section 7 of the Bill does well in doing away with it in the case of persons residing or carrying on business within the jurisdiction of the Presidency Courts for at least a year. The limit of time fixed, however, appears to me to be too long. There are many causes which may, and not unoften do, bring on insolvency within a much shorter time, and that without any dishonest or fraudulent motive on the part of a debtor; and in such cases it is not at all desirable to insist upon a preliminary punishment. The law provides ample safeguards against fraud, and the punishment should come when the fraud is laid bare in the course of enquiry, and at the time of granting the discharge, and not precede enquiry. The provision, moreover, appears to me to be totally ineffectual as a salutary measure. A debtor who becomes insolvent in six months' time can easily avoid going to jail by getting up a creditor to petition against him, and the law is at once defeated. This applies likewise to the first part of the section, which insists upon lodgment in prison as a sine quâ non in the case of an ordinary debtor. It makes a provision which can always be circumvented, except in the improbable contingency of a debtor being so unfortunate as not to be able to get a creditor to petition against him. Under these circumstances, I am respectfully of opinion that the clause in question should be divested of the conditions attached.

5. Clause (d) of section 26 gives power to the Court to compound with the debtors to an insolvent estate; and this is as it should be, inasmuch as, however, such compositions must, as a matter of course, be effected by the Receiver or the Trustee of the estate, and more frequently by his subordinates. It would be an advantage if provision were made to give an opportunity to the creditors, or the Committee appointed by them, to appear in Court and show cause why particular compositions should not be made in the way proposed. Instances are well known of such compositions in connection with large insolvent estates having been made in a manner injurious to the interests of creditors.

6. Clause (5) of section 26 appears imperfect as it stands. There should be some provision made with reference to any counter-claim that the person concerned may have against the debtor.

7. Among the facts which would disqualify a bankrupt from getting immediate discharge, mention is made of absence of books of account for three years immediately preceding his bankruptcy (clause (x) of section 273). This would suggest the idea that the discharge would be withheld or delayed if the books of account are not forthcoming, or should extend only to one or two years. Such cannot, however, be the intention of the law in cases in which insolvency supervenes after one or two years' trading. In regard to merchants and traders, the law should be so worded as to imply a period of not less than three years in the case of persons carrying on business from a long time, and for the whole period in the case of persons who have carried on business for less than three years; as regards persons other than merchants and traders, it may be a grave hardship to demand regular books of accounts. Such people do not ordinarily keep any account of their income and expenditure: they live upon what they get, and are satisfied. They may, however, be overtaken by a sudden misfortune, such as a decree of a Civil Court calling upon a person of this class to pay heavy damages, for which he might be forced to seek the benefit of the Insolvent Court, and in such a case it would be cruel to call upon him to produce regular books of accounts, and on default subjecting him to punishment. The Court should be left perfectly free to exercise its discretion as to whether the omission is due to unavoidable or accidental circumstances, or to improper motive. The word "shall" in line six of the clause, page 16, leaves no room for such discretion.

8. I look upon clause (g) of the same section as calculated to operate harshly. There are many merchants and traders now in Calcutta who have been under the necessity through their misfortune, without any fraudulent or dishonest action, of taking the benefit of the Insolvent Act two, three, or more times, and there is no valid reason why men of that class should not readily obtain their discharge under the proposed Bankruptcy Act. The broad line of distinction between honest misfortune and fraud should never be lost sight of.

9. Clause (2) of section 46 appears to contravene to a certain extent the provisions of the current law of the country on the subject of pensions. Section 11 of Act XXIII of 1871 says: "No money due or becoming due on account of any such (political considerations or past services) pension or allowance shall be liable to seizure, attachment or sequestration by process of any Court in British India at the instance of a creditor for any demand against the pensioner, or in satisfaction of a decree or order of any such Court." This provision is repeated in several subsequent Acts, and appears last in section 266 of Act XIV of 1882, and no circumstances have since transpired to suggest a departure from it. Pensions are in theory benevolences, and to render them liable to seizure by a decree of a Court is to convert charity into civil right. They are granted by Government to provide for the support of persons who have rendered good service for extended periods, and are liable to stoppage at any time at the will of the donors, and should not on any account be treated as a fixed asset.

10. When the Bill regarding the amendment of the Courts of Small Causes in Presidency-towns was under consideration a few years ago, the public feeling was strongly expressed against a section in the Bill which proposed to vest those Courts with insolvency jurisdiction to a limit of Rs. 1,000, and in compliance with the wishes then expressed the section was withdrawn. Section 88 of the Bill now under notice renews the project in a modified form, that is, by delegation of powers by the High Court, but removes the money limit. There are cases in which such delegation would prove useful, but I would respectfully urge that the limit of value should be fixed by law and not exceed Rs. 1,000.

From BABU DOORGA CHURN LAW, to Officiating Under-Secretary to Government, Bengal, (dated 7th September, 1885).

I HAVE the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your No. 1341J.-D., dated the 8th July last, forwarding copy of a draft Bill to amend the law of Bankruptcy and Insolvency in British India, and requesting an expression of my opinion on it.

2. In reply, I beg to submit the following remarks on the Bill for the consideration of His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal.

3. Time was when a bankrupt or trader who secreted himself, or did certain act with intent to defeat or delay his creditors, was looked upon as a criminal or offender, but that time has long since passed away, and the aim of legislation has of late been to afford every protection to honest but unfortunate debtors. All the insolvency and bankruptcy laws now current have been formed with this object, and the present attempt is to effect a general amendment of the law alike in the interests of general trade, and the principles of humanity and justice. The opportunity has also been taken for a consolidation of the law so as to make it most conveniently workable. The occasion has moreover been utilised to make the Indian Act accord with the latest English law on the subject, and provision has been made so as to transfer cases from India to English Courts as to cause no inconvenience. The necessity for these amendments and improvements, it is stated in the "Draft Statement of Objects and Reasons," has been frequently of late years pressed upon the attention of Government, and in my humble opinion Government does well in taking up the measure.

4. The bulk of the Bill is made up of the law now in force, with such alterations and improvements as the experience of the last four and thirty years during which the Statute 11 &12 of Victoria, 21, has been in operation in the Presidency Courts has suggested; and as the honourable and learned gentleman who has drafted the Bill has fully and clearly explained the nature and drift of the alterations in his Statement of Objects and Reasons, there is no need for my noticing them. I shall, therefore, confine myself here to only those points which appear to me to be susceptible of further improvement.

5. For expeditious and satisfactory liquidation of an insolvent estate, it is necessary that power would be given to the Court to compound with the debtors to it, and this is done in clause (d), section 26. Inasmuch, however, as such compositions must, as a matter of course, be effected by the Receiver or the Trustee of the estate, and more frequently by his subordinates, it would be an advantage if provision were made to give an opportunity to the creditors, or the committee appointed by them, to appear in Court and show cause why a particular composition should not be made in the way proposed. Instances are well known of such compositions in connection with large insolvent estates having been made in a manner injurious to the interests of creditors.

6. The provision made in clause (5) of section 26 is necessary and proper, but as it stands it appears imperfect. There should be some provision made with reference to any counter-claim that the person concerned may have against the debtor. In all such cases the counter-claim should be fully satisfied before any demand is made. In other words, the demand should be limited to the difference between the claim and the counter-claim.

7. I am respectfully of opinion that clause (a) of section 27 (3) is likely to act with hardship. In it mention is made of absence of books of account for three years immediately preceding a bankruptcy as a ground for withholding immediate discourge. This would suggest the idea that the discharge would be withheld or delayed if the books of account forthcoming should extend to one or two years only. Such cannot, however, be the intention of the law in cases in which insolvency supervenes after one or two years' trading. In regard to merchants and traders, the law should insist on a period of not less than three years in the cases of persons carrying on business from a long time, and for the whole period in the case of those who have carried on business for less than three years. This should, however, not apply to debtors other than merchants or traders. Such people do not keep any account of their income and expenditure: they live upon what they get, and are satisfied. They may, however, be overtaken by a sudden misfortune. A decree of a Civil Court may call upon a person of this class to pay heavy damages for which he may be forced to seek the benefit of the Insolvent Court, and in such a case it would be cruel to call upon him to produce regular books of account, and, on default, subjecting him to punishment. The Court should be left perfectly free to exercise its discretion as to whether the omission is due to unavoidable or accidental circumstances, or to dishonest intention. The word "shall" in line 6 of the clause, p. (16), leaves no room for such discretion.

8. The provision made in clause (g) of the same section also appears to me as calculated to operate harshly. There are, I believe, many cases of merchants and traders in the Presidency-towns in which men have been under the necessity, through sheer misfortune, without any vicious or dishonest action, of taking the benefit of the Insolvent Act more than once, and there is no valid reason why men of that class should not readily obtain their discharge under the proposed Bankruptcy Act. The broad line of distinction between honest misfortune and fraud should be very rigidly fixed in all such cases.

9. Clause (l) of section 46 provides for the stoppage for the benefit of creditors of the pay and allowances of persons in the service of Government who may happen to become insolvents, but the next clause appears to contravene to a certain extent the provisions of the current law of the country on the subject of pensions. Section 11 of Act XXIII of 1871 says: "No money due or becoming due on account of any such (political considerations or past services) pension or allowance shall be liable to seizure, attachment, on sequestration by process of any Court in British India at the instance of a creditor for any demand against the pensioner, or in satisfaction of a decree or order of any such Court. This provision has been upheld in several subsequent Acts, and appears last in section 266 of Act XIV of 1882, and no circumstances have since arisen to suggest a departure from it. Pensions are in theory benevolences, and to render them liable to seizure by a decree of a Court is to convert charity into a civil right. They are granted by Government to provide for the support of persons who have become unfit for further work after rendering good service for extended periods—as provisions for old age—and are liable to stoppage at any time at the will of the donors, and should not, on any account, be treated as a fixed asset.

10. Section 88 of the Bill invests the High Courts with the power of delegating their powers for certain purposes to Presidency Small Cause Courts. This is indirectly a revival of the clause in the Bill for the Presidency Court of Small Causes which proposed to invest those Courts with insolvency jurisdiction. The public feeling against the project was then strong, and it was therefore withdrawn. The modified form in which it is now proposed appears to me to be not only unobjectionable, but likely to prove very useful. I would respectfully urge, however, that the money limit of the jurisdiction should be fixed by law, and not left to the discretion of the High Courts. In matters of jurisdiction the law can never be too precise.

From E. HICKIE, ESQ., Secretary, Calcutta Trades Association, to Secretary to Government, Bengal,—(dated 14th December, 1885).

I HAVE now the honour to place before you, for submission to His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor, the views of the Committee of the Trades Association on the Bill to amend the law of Bankruptcy and Insolvency in British India.

2. It would be impossible, the Committee feel, to overrate the importance of the proposed Act to the trading community throughout India; they have consequently given to its provisions the most careful consideration, and are unanimously of opinion that the measure, as a whole, will afford assistance and protection to both debtor and creditor.

3. In order, however, that the protection to be given by the Act may be adequate and complete, the Committee would beg to suggest that the Government of India might be moved to amend the Bill in so far as it deals with the following important points, which appear to be deserving of further consideration.

4. In regard to this section, the Committee are of opinion that the jurisdiction clause should be extended to all cases in which the High Court has jurisdiction. For example, a person ordinarily resident in the Mufassal is liable to be sued in the High Court in respect of contracts made by him in Calcutta, but a Calcutta firm holding a decree of the High Court against such a person could not, under the Bill as drawn, avail itself of the provisions of the Bankruptcy Act. This seems to the Committee to be a serious anomaly, and one which will materially lessen the usefulness of the Act.

Conditions on which creditor may petition.

5. (1) "A creditor shall not be entitled to present a bankruptcy petition against a debtor unless—

* * * * *

(d) the debtor is in prison within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court under an order of a Civil Court for non-payment of money, or has within a year before the date of the presentation of the petition ordinarily resided or had a dwelling-house or place of business within those limits.

5. The Committee are of opinion that the amount to be paid to clerks under this section should be equivalent to three months' salary. To limit the amount to five hundred rupees would to inflict an undeserved hardship on a large number of employés. Not a few firms employ assistants whose salaries range from Rs. 200 to Rs. 500 a month, and who belong to a class of employés who contribute in no small degree to the proper carrying on and success of a business, and it appears to the Committee that due regard should be given to this fact on a further consideration of this portion of the Bill. They would strongly recommend that not less than three months' salary should be granted.

Priority of debts.

34. (1) In the distribution of the property of a bankrupt there shall be paid in priority to all other debts—

* * * * *

(b) all wages or salary of any clerk or servant in respect of services rendered to the bankrupt during four months before the date of the receiving order, not exceeding five hundred rupees;

* * * * *

6. The Committee would beg to suggest that in this section "three months" should be substituted for "one year." The powers of a landlord are sufficiently great, and the existing law provides him with ample facilities for recovering his dues, and for these reasons the Committee submit that, if he should be permitted under the proposed Act to levy distress "for one year's rent due prior to the date of the order of adjudication," he will be receiving an undue preference over all other creditors. The Committee would, therefore, urge that the period for which he may recover under this section should not exceed three months.

Power to landlord to distrain for rent.

36. (1) The landlord or other person to whom any rent is due from the bankrupt may at any time, either before or after the commencement of the bankruptcy, exercise his right of distraint (if any) upon the property of the bankrupt for the rent due to him from the bankrupt, with this limitation, that if such distress for rent be levied after the commencement of the bankruptcy it shall be available only for one year's rent accrued due prior to the date of the order of adjudication, but the landlord or other person to whom the rent may be due from the bankrupt may prove under the bankruptcy for the surplus due for which the distress may not have been available.

Description of bankrupt's property divisible amongst creditors.

38. The property of the bankrupt divisible amongst his creditors, and in this Act referred to as the property of the bankrupt, shall not comprise the following particulars:—

* * * * * *

But it shall comprise the following particulars:—

(iii) All moveable property being, at the commencement of the bankruptcy, in the possession, order or disposition of the bankrupt, in his trade or business, by the consent and permission of the true owner, under such circumstances that he is the reputed owner thereof: Provided that things in action, other than debts due or growing due to the bankrupt in the course of his trade or business, shall not be deemed moveable property within the meaning of this section.

7. In reference to this section, the Committee would observe that the Bill as drawn leaves the order and disposition clause still open to be defeated by the ruling in ex parte Gubboy re Morgan, which decided that the absence from the country of a partner in an insolvent firm prevented the clause in the Insolvency Act applying, on the highly technical ground that property left by the true owner in the possession of such a firm was not in the sole possession of the partner or partners who happened to be resident in this country.

Appropriation of portion of pay or salary to creditors.

46. (1) Where a bankrupt is an officer of the army or navy or of Her Majesty's Indian Marine Service, or an officer or clerk or otherwise employed or engaged in the Civil Service of the Crown, the trustee shall receive for distribution amongst the creditors so much of the bankrupt's pay or salary as the Court, on the application of the trustee, with the consent of the chief officer of the department under which the pay or salary is enjoyed, may direct. Before making any order under this sub-section the Court shall communicate with the chief officer of the department as to the amount, time and manner of the payment to the trustee, and shall obtain the written consent of the chief officer to the terms of such payment.

8. In this section the words "with the consent of the chief officer of the department," and "the written consent of the chief officer," deprive it, in the opinion of the Committee, of all its value. The present laws under which Courts are empowered to issue attachments against a debtor's salary are absolute, and do not require the consent of any third party to the appropriation of a moiety of a debtor's pay. The Committee, therefore, think it would be unadvisable that the Indian Bankruptcy Act should differ in this important particular from other Acts.

9. Finally, the Bill makes no provision for the registration of mortgages of moveable property or bills of sale as they are termed in England; such a provision would, it is believed, be a very material protection to creditors, and I have accordingly to express the hope of the Committee that it will be conceded by the proposed Act.

The Committee trust that the suggestions contained in this letter will meet with the approval and support of His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor.

From J. O. MILLER, Esq., Under-Secretary to Government, North-Western Provinces and Oudh, to Secretary to Government of India, Legislative Department,—(No. 998—VII-78-7, dated 14th November, 1885).

WITH reference to your letter No. 1049, dated the 17th June, 1885, asking for opinions on the provisions of the Bill to amend the Law of Bankruptcy and Insolvency in British India, I am directed to forward, for the information of His Excellency the Governor General in Council, a copy of the papers marginally noted on the subject.

Note by Legal Remembrancer to Government, North-Western Provinces and Oudh, dated 8th October, 1885.
Letter No. 2701, dated 3rd November, 1885, from the Registrar, High Court of Judicature, North-Western Provinces.

2. As the Act is not to be extended to these Provinces at present, the Lieutenant-Governor and Chief Commissioner thinks it unnecessary to add any remarks on the provisions of the Bill.

Note by Legal Remembrancer to Government, North-Western Provinces and Oudh,—(dated 8th October, 1885).

I HAVE gone through the draft Bill to amend and consolidate the Law of Bankruptcy and Insolvency in British India, together with the draft Statement of Objects and Reasons for the same.

I note that in the draft Statement it is proposed to apply the Bill, if it becomes law, in the first instance only to the Presidency-towns and to certain commercial centres in Burma.

As regards the North-Western Provinces and Oudh we shall have ample opportunity of seeing how the law works before we extend it to any commercial centre. My experience as a Judge leads me to think that it will be some time before we shall require any extension, and that when it is extended we shall need stronger Courts and Courts with more leisure than they at present enjoy.

Many of the large commercial firms in these Provinces have houses in the Presidency-towns, and, as I understand section 4, creditors would be entitled to present bankruptcy-petitions against such firms; so that some considerable portion of the class for whom the Act is intended will be covered by the provisions of the Act.

It is worth noticing that increased use is being made by debtors of Chapter XX of the Civil Procedure Code. The number of applications for insolvency must vary more or less in concert with fluctuations in the number of applications for execution of decrees. Compared with these, the percentage of applications for insolvency has steadily increased from ·15 per cent. in 1881 to ·35 in 1882, to ·37 in 1883, and ·50 in 1884. I feel convinced that, meagre as the provisions of Chapter XX now are, they are still too intricate and expensive for the poor insolvent; but for this we should have a still greater number of applications.

With a few alterations the provisions of Chapter XX would meet the present wants of these Provinces, but the present paper is no place to discuss those alterations.

I see little use in discussing seriatim the provisions of a Bill which is not to be applied to these Provinces, and I doubt whether I could do so to much purpose. It would need more acquaintance with the customs and wants of Presidency-towns to do so effectually.

From Registrar, High Court, North-Western Provinces, to Secretary to Government, North-Western Provinces and Oudh,—(No. 2701, dated 3rd November, 1885).

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 671—VII-78-2, dated 26th June, 1885, in the Judicial (Civil) Department, forwarding a Bill to amend the Law relating to Bankruptcy and Insolvency in British India, and requesting to be favoured with the Court's opinion thereon, and in reply to state as follows.

2. The Hon'ble the Chief Justice has forwarded a minute on the subject direct to the Hon'ble Mr. Ilbert, Legislative Member of Council.

3. The Hon'ble Mr. Justice Straight regrets he has had no leisure to consider the provisions of the Bill or offer any remarks thereon.

4. The Hon'ble Mr. Justice Brodhurst believes it is not intended that any Court in these Provinces shall, for the present at all events, have jurisdiction under the proposed Act, and he therefore refrains from offering any remarks on the proposed legislation.

5. The Hon'ble Mr. Justice Tyrrell also has no remarks to offer on the Bill.

From C. L. TUPPER, Esq., Officiating Secretary to Government, Punjab, to Secretary to Government of India, Legislative Department,—(No. 974, dated 26th November, 1885).

WITH reference to your letter No. 1042, dated the 17th of June, 1885, I am desired by the Lieutenant-Governor to submit, for the information of the Government of India, the opinions of the officers noted on the margin, who have been consulted upon the draft Bill to amend the law of Bankruptcy and Insolvency in British India.

(1) Judges of the Chief Court (Registrar's No. 2582, dated 13th August, 1885).
(2) Government Advocate (No. 370D.A., dated 21st September, 1885).
(3) Bunsee Lall Ram Rattan, Rai Bahadur (No. 982, dated 2nd September, 1885).
(4) Rai Mela Ram (dated 27th August, 1885).
(5) Ram Kishen Das, Honorary Magistrate, Delhi (dated 25th September, 1885).
(6) Rai Bahadur Kallian Singh, Honorary Magistrate, Amritsar (dated 1st September, 1885).
(7) Chota Lall, Lahore, (dated 10th October, 1885).
(8) Lala Gagar Mal, Honorary Magistrate, Amritsar, (dated 13th October, 1885).
(9) Baggan Lal, Honorary Magistrate, Amritsar, (dated 1st September, 1885).

From T. G. WALKER, Esq., Registrar, Chief Court, Punjab, to Officiating Secretary to Government, Punjab,—(No 2582, dated 13th August, 1885).

IN reply to your letter No. 664-S., dated 13th July, 1885, forwarding, for the opinion of the Judges, a copy of a Draft Bill to amend and consolidate the Law of Bankruptcy and Insolvency in British India, I am desired to say that as it is proposed to limit the application of the Bill to the Presidency-towns and certain other commercial centres, the Judges have no remarks to offer on the Bill.

From E. P. HENDERSON, Esq., Government Advocate, Punjab, to Officiating Secretary to Government, Punjab,—(No. 370-D.A., dated 21st September, 1885).

I HAVE the honour to acknowledge your letter No. 665-S. of 13th July last, forwarding for opinion draft Bill to amend the law of Bankruptcy and Insolvency in British India.

2. I observe that the Act only constitutes by its direct operation four Courts of Bankruptcy, namely, the High Courts of Judicature at Calcutta, Madras and Bombay and the Court of the Recorder of Rangoon. I also observe that while power is taken to confer upon Local Governments authority, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, to constitute other Courts of Bankruptcy in the territories administered by them, the insolvency sections of the Punjab Laws Act (1872) have not been repealed.

As moreover I am now, and have been for some time past, much pressed with important references, I trust that I may be permitted to refrain from discussing in detail a measure which is not intended to apply to this Province, and which appears to me to be far too advanced and technical for the state of things prevailing here.

From BUNSEE LAL RAM RATTAN, Rai Bahadur, to Under-Secretary to Government, Punjab, —(No. 982, dated 2nd September, 1885).

As directed in your letter No. 844-S. of 30th July 1885, which you have very kindly sent for any remarks that I may wish to offer, I have the pleasure to state for your information that the Draft Bill to amend the law of bankruptcy and insolvency in India is worth of maintenance, and that the draft Statement of Objects and Reasons is worth of consideration.

I beg to suggest to afford the following remarks after full examination of the documents you have so kindly sent.

1st.—The cost of Court for advertising notices, &c., should be defrayed from the estate concerned, but the Court expenses should not exceed some fixed allowances at the rate of percentage which after full consideration the Legislative ought to fix.

2nd.—In India there are lot of persons who, in anticipation of being insolvent give up their estate, cash and property to their sons or brother, and they themselves remain to be insolvent. In this case the Legislative should pronounce some kind of punishment to be awarded to such insolvent.

3rd.—To avoid reoccurrence of insolvent the Legislative should consider and order some kind of distinguished mark to be worn by the bankrupt, in order, if the bankrupt go to another country or city, he may soon be recognized as such a man, as in India there are many men who are dealing in this way, i.e., open a shop in a city, and, while their trade become popular, they abscond lot of money by sending it to their homes or making it away otherwise, and afterwards declare themselves as insolvent. If some distinguished mark be ordered to be worn by the insolvent, there will be a kind of check over them.

4th.—In section 24 I beg that the committee shall consist of 8 members, i.e., 4 from among the creditors and 4 who do not any way moved in the case, but know the custom of the city, and the Judge should take their opinion before passing any order on the file.

5th.—In my opinion in section 28 the hereditary rights, such as villages or other landed property, should be included in the estate which must be sold too and assessed in the administration leaving a necessary portion for the insolvent only.

I beg to return the papers received with your letter under reply.

From RAI MELA RAM, to Secretary to Government, Punjab,—(dated 27th August, 1885).

I HAVE gone through the draft Bill received with your letter No. 844S. of the 30th July, and am very glad to come to know that steps have been taken to make up the deficiencies which have been observed during the last 35 years. Handing over the matter to the committee of creditors whose interest is chiefly concerned in such proceedings is a great improvement to bring this law to the point of completion, and I hope it will satisfy those who were sulking at the introduction of such a defective measure as that of the Insolvency and Bankruptcy. As far as my experience is concerned, I would beg to state that Part VII of the Bill regarding the small bankruptcies, would not work efficiently in a Province like the Punjab until the educated party takes lead in the way of inproving the commercial condition of the country. Of course it will be received with great satisfaction in Presidency and other towns where the people by means of their extensive education are sufficiently enabled to understand the objects and reasons of the measure in question. I would, however, beg to suggest that for such cases the qualifications of trustees must be prescribed, as they have to manage the estate without the control and supervision of those whose interest they are to guard.

2. In conclusion, I request that the Insolvent Estates Courts must be very strict in awarding punishment to the guilty debtors, as the number of rejected applications clearly shows the bad motive with which they have often been led to defraud their money-lenders.

From RAMKISHAN DAS, Honorary Magistrate, Delhi, to Under-Secretary to Government, Punjab,—(dated 25th September, 1885).

IN REPTY to your No. 844, dated 30th July last, enclosing a draft Bill on the law of Bankruptcy for opinion, I have the honour to submit the following remarks.

In my opinion the Bill should, when enacted into law, be made applicable to the Punjab and North-Western Provinces, and the District Courts empowered to exercise authority conferred on "the Court" under it. The provisions of the Bill, though based on the English law, are not so very abstruse or intricate as to be difficult of comprehension or to be peculiarly suitable to any particular town or city. They are catholic and general in their character, and may advantageously be extended to the Mufassal. Uniformity of principle—certainly so far as the British Indian Empire is concerned—necessitates the existence of one and the same law for identical cases and circumstances wherever they may occur in that empire. The provisions as to the voluntary management by creditors and as to appointment of trustees and the conduct of business by the insolvent under the supervision of trustees or of the committee of inspection are not new or strange. They are acted upon every day in this part of India. Indeed, there is hardly a case in which resort is not had to them as the most efficacious machinery for realising assets for distribution. I would therefore very strongly urge the extension of the Bill to the Mufassal.

SECTION 3 (b) and (c) may be fused into one clause. There is no meaning in keeping them separate.

SECTION 8 (2).—There is no benefit likely to accrue to the insolvent's estate by allowing a secured creditor to realise or deal with his security. Except in cases of English mortgages (as to which even there is considerable doubt), no mortgagee can exercise the power of sale, except through the medium of a Court, and why he should be allowed to bring a suit to sell the property and thus entail more costs, which are after all to come out of the insolvent's estate, is incomprehensible to me.

SECTION 15 (2).—For 3 days I would substitute 10 days, and for 7 days 1 month. The time mentioned in the section is very little, especially in the case of a creditor who has to enter on very difficult enquiries in order to submit the statement.

SECTION 15 (4).—The word "so" before stating should be omitted. "So" would mean for this purpose, i.e., for inspecting statement. The penalty should be general and absolute, and not confined to any particular circumstance.

SECTION 17 (15) AND SECTION 18 relate to the same matter, and with some slight change of language could easily go into one section or clause.

SECTION 25.—This is a very harsh measure and has been strongly condemned recently by Mr. Justice Norris. If it is considered advisable to keep it, then there can be no meaning in the limitation of 3 months, which should be expunged.

SECTION 28 (2).—Would deposits come under this or not?

SECTION 31.—To this section add "Barred debts, obligations without consideration—Voluntary bonds shall not be provable."

SECTION 36 should be omitted and its provisions added to section 34, which is their proper place.

SECTION 38.—Add executory contracts which the assignee or receiver may perform.

SECTION 46.—"Or engaged in the Civil service." Omit the word "Civil."

SECTION 48 (5).—Add "Provided that if the party does not agree and feels aggrieved, he may institute a suit for declaration as to quantum of damages which he will be allowed to prove as a debt."

SECTION 48 (6).—"And on hearing such person" modify into "on hearing the trustee or such other person."

SECTION 49.—Add "(f) Sue debtors." This power should be conferred on the trustee irrespective of the following section.

SECTION 64.—The word "solicitor" will have to be changed into "legal practitioner" or "pleader."

Adverting to the Statement of Objects and Reasons, it would of course be necessary to obtain the sanction of the British Parliament to ratify the measure. It is of no importance whether the sanction is antecedent or subsequent, but I consider Draft I to be the preferable of the two.

From RAI BAHADUR KALLIAN SINGH, Honorary Magistrate, Amritsar, to Under-Secretary to Government, Punjab,—(dated 1st September, 1885).

WITH reference to your letter dated 30th July 1885, I have the honour to submit my few remarks as to the Draft Bill to amend the Law of Bankruptcy and Insolvency in certain part of British India, and they are as follows.

2. In Section 3 it is necessary that the British India may be defined, that it may be more clear whether the foreign States comes within the definition. Although the General Clauses Act, I of 1868, defines the British India, but still remains doubtful as to its limits supposing for instances—Biluchistán, &c., &c.

3. In the same section clause (e) is somewhat harder, that by issuing the process of sale in execution of decree cannot be said that the debtor has committed the act of bankruptcy.

4. In Section 5, clause (d) paragraph 2nd, where it is said within a year before the date of presentation of the petition ordinary reside, &c., &c.

The above clause in the section is not clear to fix the period gives rise to a doubt.

5. In the Section 6, clause I, it should be added that the copy of petition must be furnished to the opposite party, that the opposite party may come proper and unnecessary delay may not occur.

6. In the Section 6, clause 5, that the words to take security for payment of debt is to put the hindrances in the way, but to ask security for the costs of the proceedings is not so.

7. In the Section 7, clause I, where it is said unless he is in prison, &c., &c., should be added if he is left on security under Section 336 of Civil Procedure Code, Act XIV of 1882, as there is generally the case with judgment-debtors in execution of decrees of civil court.

8. Section 17, paragraph 10, provides that the order made on the application may be executed as if it were a decree. It ought to be for those persons only who wish to get the dividend from the estate of bankrupt and not for others who do not wish to be benefited by the provisions of the Act.

9. Section 27 is silent. Clause (c) should be added that who contracted debt recklessly or carelessly.

10. Section 28, clause I, should fix any period in which debt may be liquidated, say 12 years is a reasonable time. After that he must declared free from the such debt, otherwise it would be once a bankrupt always a bankrupt.

From CHOTA LAL, House Proprietor and Contractor, to Under-Secretary to Government, Punjab,—(dated 16th October, 1885).

I BEG to acknowledge receipt of your letter, dated Simla, the 30th August, under cover of No. 844, enclosing a copy of a draft Bill to amend the law of Bankruptcy and Insolvency in certain parts of British India, with Draft Statement of Objects and Reasons, for my humble remarks on the same.

I have gone through the whole of the draft, and, so far as I can see, I agree with it, except in two or three places, for which I beg to offer the following remarks.

In Section (7), No. 3, the debtor's petition ought to be withdrawn without the leave of the Court, except in cases the Court thinks it fit as otherwise.

In Section (11) the manager for the debtor's estate ought to be appointed by the Court, as well as the receiver and the debtor also be consulted.

In (Section 6), No. 6, when persons owing the debtor acknowledge themselves as debtors to the debtor, the Court ought to give decree against them in favour of the receiver for the debtor.

In (Section 23) in cases where debtor is personally required to point out persons owing him, the expenses in so doing by the debtor ought to be given him.

Also there is required a section by which a debtor may settle with his creditors privately or by appointing arbitrators.

Hoping you approve of the above.

From LALA GAGAR MAL, Honorary Magistrate, Amritsar, to Under-Secretary to Government, Punjab,—(dated 15th October, 1885).

I BEG to acknowledge the receipt of your your favor, No. 540, dated 8th instant, as well as a copy of draft Bill to amend the Law of Bankruptcy and Insolvency for my opinion. In reply to that I beg to return herewith, under a separate cover, the said draft with my notes thereupon. Some delay occurred in forwarding the draft, as I had to consider it thoroughly. Please excuse delay.

Within a year.—This seems to be a very long time. For it is just possible that a person may contract large debts within a year, and he himself be unwilling to go to the Insolvency Court and the creditor may not be able to take any steps. Therefore in my opinion 3 months or 6 months at the most should be the limit.

* Rather vague. It should be during office hours, or some definite time or day should be fixed.

Signed must be defined, and made to include sealing and marking.

† Vide note to section 15, clause (4).

‡ Should be and. It is very easy to put the seal of Court on papers without the Judge knowing it. Seals are always in the hands of peons and others of the same class.

Section 5, clause (d).—The debtor is in prison within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court under an order of a Civil Court for non-payment of money, or has within a year before the date of the presentation of the petition ordinarily resided or had a dwelling-house or place of business within those limits.

Section 15, clause (4).—Any person stating himself in writing to be a creditor of the bankrupt may personally or by agent inspect this statement at all reasonable times,* and take any copy thereof or extract therefrom * * * * * * * * * *

Section 16, clause (8).—Such notes of the examination as the Court thinks proper shall be taken down in writing, and shall be read over to and signed by the debtor, and may thereafter be used in evidence against him; they shall also be open to the inspection of any creditor at all reasonable times.†

Section 17, clause (7).—If the Court approves the composition or scheme, the approval may be testified by the seal of the Court being attached to the instrument containing the terms of the composition or scheme, or‡ by the terms being embodied in an order of the Court.

Section 42, clause (1).—Every conveyance or transfer of property, or charge thereon made, every payment made, every obligation incurred and every judicial proceeding taken or suffered by any person unable to pay his debts as they become due from his own money in favour of any creditor, or any person in trust for any creditor, with a view of giving such creditor a preference over the other creditors shall, if the person making, taking, paying or suffering the same is adjudged bankrupt on a bankruptcy petition presented within three* months after the date of making, taking, paying or suffering the same, be deemed fraudulent and void as against the trustee in the bankruptcy.

Avoidance of preference in certain cases.

* Should be six months: three months is too little a time.

PART V.

TRUSTEES.

Remuneration of Trustee.

Section 63, clause (1).—Where the creditors appoint any person to be trustee of a debtor's estate, his remuneration (if any) shall be fixed by an ordinary resolution of the creditors, or, if the creditors so resolve, by the committee of inspection, and shall be in the nature of a commission or percentage, of which one part shall be payable on the amount realized after deducting any sums paid to secured creditors out of the proceeds of their securities, and the other part on the amount distributed in dividend.

Remuneration of trustee.

The remuneration of the trustees should be fixed by the Court itself in every instance. It will be very improper to give this power to the creditors. It is sure to be abused.

Section 83, clause (c).—The local limits of the jurisdiction of a Court appointed by a Local Government shall be such as may, from time to time, be fixed, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, by that Local Government within the territories administered by it.

It will be quite unnecessary to obtain the Governor General's previous sanction on a matter like this. The words in italics should be omitted.

Section 91, clause (c).—An appeal shall lie from the order of a Court appointed by a Local Government under section 82 of the High Court of the province.

The appealable orders should be specified. At present the law (which is the same as this) is very unsatisfactory. Some orders are appealable and some are not. Further, why should an appeal lie to the Chief Court direct? This is a hardship. It will be convenient to give this power to the Divisional Courts in this Province and other corresponding Courts in other Provinces.

There should be a final appeal to the Chief Court or High Court, as sometimes intricate questions arise in such cases.

PART VII.

SMALL BANKRUPTCIES.

Section 103.—When a petition is presented by or against a debtor, if the Court is satisfied by affidavit or otherwise, or the official receiver reports to the Court, that the property of the debtor is not likely to exceed in value three thousand rupees, the Court may make an order that the debtor's estate be administered in a summary manner, * * * * *

Summary administration in small cases.

Small Bankrupteies.—This should not be with regard to the amount of the debtor's property. It should be the reverse, i.e., with reference to the amount of debts due, and the amount to make a bankruptcy small should be Rs. 1,500 only, and not more; otherwise some dishonest people may succeed in arranging that their property may not exceed Rs. 3,000.

Section 105.—Any person against whom a receiving order has been made under this Act shall, in each of the cases following, be punished with imprisonment which may extend to two years or with fine or with both; * * * * * * * *

Punishment of fraudulent debtors.

Imprisonment.—Simple or what?
Fine.—What amount?

Notices.

Section 125.—All notices and other documents for the service of which no special mode is directed may be sent by prepaid post letter to the last known address of the person to be served therewith.

Service of notices.

Insert registered between the words "prepaid" and "part."

Section 133 (1).—In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires,—

Interpretation.

These interpretation clauses should be placed in the beginning.

"Province" means the territories under the administration of a Local Government:

"High Court of the province" means the highest Civil Court of appeal for the province:

"The Court" means the Court having jurisdiction in bankruptcy under this Act:

"Affidavit" includes declarations under any legislative enactment, affirmations and attestations on honour

"Available act of bankruptcy" means any act of bankruptcy available for a bankruptcy petition at the date of the presentation of the petition on which the receiving order is made:

Should be one hour.

24. If within half an hour from the time appointed for the meeting a quorum of creditors is not present or represented, the meeting shall be adjourned to the same day in the following week at the same time and place, or to such other day as the chairman may appoint, not being less than seven or more than twenty-one days.

From BAGGAN LAL, Honorary Magistrate, Amritsar, to Under-Secretary to Government, Punjab,—(dated 1st September, 1885).

WITH reference to your letter dated 30th July 1885, I have to submit my few remarks as to the Draft Bill to amend the Law of Bankruptcy and Insolvency in certain parts of British India, and they are as follows.

2. In section 3 it is necessary that the British India may be defined, that it may be more clear whether the foreign States come within the definition. Although the General Clauses Act, I of 1868, defines the British India, but still remains doubtful as to its limits supposing, for instance Biluchistán, &c., &c.

3. In the same section, clause (c) is somewhat harder, that by issuing the process of sale in execution of decree cannot be said that the debtor has committed the act of bankruptcy.

4. In section 5, clause (d), paragraph 2nd, where it is said within a year before the date of presentation of the petition ordinary reside, &c., the clause in the section is not clear to fix the period gives rise to a doubt.

5. In the section 6, clause I, it should be added that the copy of petition must be furnished to the opposite party that the opposite party may come proper and unnecessary delay may not occur.

6. In the section 6, clause 5, that the words to take security for payment of debts is to put the hindrances in the way, but to ask security for the costs of the proceedings is not so.

7. In the section 7, clause I, where it is said unless he is in prison, &c., &c., should be added if he is left on security under section 336 of Civil Procedure Code, Act XIV of 1882, as there is generally the case with judgment-debtors in execution of decree of civil court.

8. Section 17, paragraph 10, provides that the order made on the application may be executed as if it were a decree.

It ought to be for those persons only who wish to get the dividend from the estate of bankrupt, and not for others who do not like to be benefited by the provision of the Act.

9. Section 27 is silent. Clause (c) should be added that who contracted debt recklessly or carelessly.

10. Section 28, clause I, should fix any period in which debt may be liquidated, say 12 years is a reasonable term. After that he must be declared free from that said debt, otherwise it would be once a bankrupt always a bankrupt.

From Officiating Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Central Provinces, to Secretary to Government of India, Legislative Department,—(No. 4134—202, dated 24th October, 1885).

I AM directed to acknowledge your No. 1043, dated 17th June last, forwarding for opinion a draft Bill to amend the Law of Bankruptcy and Insolvency in British India.

2. The Bill will affect only the Presidency-town, the four chief towns in British Burma and the few large commercial centres to which it may hereafter be extended. There are no large commercial centres in the Central Provinces at present, and the likelihood of the extension of the Bill to any town in these provinces in the future is remote. Under these circumstances the Chief Commissioner does not think it necessary that he should make any observations on it.

3. The Bill was sent for opinion to two selected officers, Mr. J. W. Neill, Officiating Judicial Commissioner, and Mr. Venning, Commissioner of Nagpur. Neither of these officers has offered any criticisms on it.

From E. S. SYMES, ESQ., Officiating Secretary to Chief Commissioner, British Burma, to Secretary to Government of India, Legislative Department,—(No. 352—26-L., dated 15th December, 1885).

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 1044, dated the 17th June last, regarding a draft Bill to amend the law relating to Bankruptcy and Insolvency.

2. I am now to submit copies of the letters cited in the margin, which contain expressions of the opinion of the Recorder of Rangoon, of the Judge of Moulmein, and of the Rangoon Chamber of Commerce on the provisions of the Bill. The opinion of the learned Judicial Commissioner is still awaited. It will be submitted in due course. The delay in replying to your reference has been occasioned by the Chief Commissioner's desire to be in possession of the views of the Chamber of Commerce and, if possible, of the Judicial Commissioner, before taking the matter into consideration.

From Judge of Moulmein, No. 129–2, dated 24th August, 1885.
From Recorder of Rangoon, No. 164–51, dated 20th August, 1885.
From Secretary, Rangoon Chamber of Commerce, dated 5th December, 1885.

3. The Chief Commissioner agrees that for the present, as regards this province, the new Act should apply only to the four principal seaport towns. By Act XIV of 1885 power has been conferred on the Chief Commissioner to transfer the jurisdiction in insolvency matters of the Recorder of Rangoon to the chief Civil Courts of Moulmein, Akyab, and Bassein in respect of those towns. Subject to the assent of the Governor General in Council, a similar power is conferred on the Chief Commissioner by sections 82 and 83 of the Bill. It would seem necessary to take care that the provisions of the Bill should not conflict with those of the Act above cited. But the Chief Commissioner does not support the suggestion made by the Judge of Moulmein that the power at present exercised by the Local Government of conferring insolvency jurisdiction on and withdrawing it from the Moulmein Court should be annulled by the constitution of that Court as an Insolvency Court under section 82 of the Bill.

4. The Chief Commissioner supports the proposal made by Mr. MacEwen that power should be taken in section 88 to confer on the Court of Small Causes in Rangoon the limited jurisdiction in bankruptcy matters which it is proposed to enable the High Courts to confer on the Small Cause Courts in the presidency-towns.

5. Section 91 of the Bill provides for appeals from orders in bankruptcy matters. Before the Bill is introduced into the Legislative Council it is probable that the jurisdiction of the superior Courts in this province will have been satisfactorily settled. But should the question of the constitution of a Chief Court in Burma be still unsettled when the Bankruptcy Bill is finally drafted, it will be necessary to specify in clause (c) of section 91 the particular High Court to which appeals under that clause would lie. Such appeals might appropriately lie to the Court of the Recorder of Rangoon.

6. The Chief Commissioner solicits special attention to the opinion of the learned Recorder of Rangoon, particularly to the views stated in paragraphs 5, 6 and 7 of his letter, which seem to be worthy of consideration. It seems very important that the application of the less cumbrous procedure (section 103 of the Bill) should be extended so as to embrace cases where the assets are, apparently, not more than Rs. 10,000. Mr. MacEwen's figures, namely, 91 insolvencies, Rs. 28,74,000 of debts and only Rs. 43,000 (less than 2 per cent. of the debts) recovered by the Official Assignee in all, do not warrant sanguine hope that bankruptcy proceedings will greatly benefit the mass of creditors. There is perhaps, therefore, the more reason for attempting, when the law is under revision, to free innocent debtors from some part of the pains and penalties now accruing to themselves and their families from non-fraudulent debt.

The recommendation made in paragraph 8 of Mr. MacEwen's letter regarding the abolition of dual jurisdiction in the same Court also commends itself to the Chief Commissioner.

7. Mr. MacEwen's report contains a recommendation for the abolition of imprisonment for non-fraudulent debt. The learned Judge is clearly in favour of such abolition, though he mentions that the retention of this penalty has been practically decided upon. The Chief Commissioner does not know how this may be. He ventured previously (letter No. 679—4-L., dated the 21st July, 1882, to Home Department) to show cause for the total abolition of imprisonment for non-fraudulent debt. He still holds to the same opinion. He recently referred to the Judicial Commissioner certain cases of imprisonment for civil debt in the hope that the learned Judge would advise or comment upon the matter. If anything of interest or value results from this recent reference and discussion, the papers will be laid before the Government of India.

From D. G. MACLEOD, ESQ., Judge of the Town of Moulmein, to Junior Secretary to Chief Commissioner, British Burma,—(No. 129—2, dated the 24th August, 1885).

IN compliance with the request made in your letter No. 100—26L. (Judicial Department, Legislative), dated the 6th ultimo, I have the honour to offer the following opinion on the Indian Bankruptcy Bill.

In dealing with the first question raised in the 11th paragraph of the Statement of Objects and Reasons, namely, as to the extent to which the proposed law should be applied locally in British India, it is necessary to bear in mind the main object of a bankruptcy law, which is to relieve honest debtors from the punishment of imprisonment for debt. The securing of the debtor's property for the benefit of his creditors is really subsidiary to the relief to the debtor, and the question, therefore, should not be entirely judged with reference to the existing machinery for working the proposed law for the benefit of creditors.

The question, however, as discussed in the Statement of Objects and Reasons of the Bill, is not, as it was in the correspondence in 1882, whether it is advisable to abolish imprisonment for debt, but whether the privileges of the proposed law should be extended to debtors in India generally, or only to a favoured few who have the good fortune to be inhabitants of the small local areas to be brought under the operation of that law.

Allowing even that there are differences between the circumstances of indebtedness arising in commercial seaports and those occurring in the Mufassal, it seems to me desirable to have only one insolvency law for the whole of India, and this, as stated in paragraph 11 of Statement of Objects and Reasons of this Bill, might be effected by inserting in the proposed measure a chapter providing the modifications and simplifications necessary to suit the requirements of Mufassal Courts. Chapter XX of the Civil Procedure Code has been, if not long enough in force to pave the way for a measure such as the present, sufficiently tried to show the necessity for its very considerable amendment, if not for its abolition, and I consider it unadvisable to retain it in preference to a simplified but complete insolvency law.

If it should in the end be decided not to frame an Act applicable to the whole of British India, it should, I think, at least be left optional with persons resident beyond the local limits of the Courts with insolvency jurisdiction to avail themselves of the benefit of the insolvency law. Cases are conceivable in which it may be a less hardship to debtors and creditors to get insolvency affairs administered by a Court having jurisdiction under the proposed measure than by the ordinary local Court with limited powers under Chapter XX, Civil Procedure Code, such for instance as the case of a debtor who resides just outside the limits of an Insolvency Court or has considerable property within such limits.

Coming to that part of the Statement of Objects and Reasons which refers to the difference between the Bill and the law on which it is modelled, I would remark, in regard to the question of jurisdiction to entertain applications for a declaration of insolvency, that by reason of the difficulty in the case of natives of proving the fact of residence at all, it seems desirable to amend the provision by including the personal carrying on of business or working for gain as grounds of jurisdiction. This would afford creditors larger and easier means of proving the point of jurisdiction, which would probably be frequently raised by reason of the limitations imposed on it by the draft Bill.

As regards the provisions of the Bill, it is not easy to foresee how details, for the most part adapted to English modes of business, would work in practice in India. My remarks, therefore, will be directed and confined to what appear to me to be omissions in the Bill rather than to criticising the propriety or efficiency of the proposed procedure.

Section 8 (1).—If it is intended, as I think it must be, to give the Court power to release the debtor from jail if he should be there when the receiving order is made, provision for that should be made here by empowering the Court to order the release of the debtor wheresoever he may be confined. The power to release from jail, even if the jail be without the jurisdiction of the Court, is necessary in view of the different grounds which confer insolvency jurisdiction.

(2)—Under Act XXVIII of 1866, the power of sale is only conferred in respect of mortgages to which English law is applicable, and unless this provision is limited to the exercise of such power, mortgagees would be entitled to realize their securities by suit to the detriment of the interests of the unsecured creditors, which the expenses of the suit would occasion. This remark should be read in connexion with another, which I shall presently make in reference to the rights of mortgagees (infra 2nd Schedule 12*c*).

Section 19 (1).—Provision similar to that previously suggested should be made here also for the release of the debtor from jail if not released at the time of making the receiving order.

Section 26 (1).—The right to summon others than the debtor should be limited, as in the Civil Procedure Code, with reference to the means of communication between their place of residence and the court-house.

(2) I would all after the word "sum," the words "for his travelling expenses and subsistence."

Section 45.—It is, I think, desirable that the power of the Courts to seize the property of a bankrupt should extend to any part of Her Majesty's dominions, suitable provision being made for the procuration of the necessary authority from the Court having jurisdiction where the property is situate.

Sections 82 and 83.—As the Bill was drafted before the amendment of the Burma Courts Act, 1875, by the Act of 1885, whereby the insolvent jurisdiction before exercised by the Recorder of Rangoon in Moulmein has been vested in the Judge of Moulmein, these sections should be altered so as to give the Court at Moulmein jurisdiction in bankruptcy by the direct operation of the proposed Act.

Part VII.—The usefulness of this chapter would be extended by providing that the Official Receiver shall not be required to pay the court-fees prescribed for proceedings in Court for the recovery of debts, but that the amount due for such fees shall be a first charge on any decree that may be obtained by him, or that it shall be payable out of the general funds of the estate. The difficulty also of investigating small claims of insolvents must, I should think, act prohibitively against the institution of suits for the recovery of such claims. If such suits were allowed to be brought on the statements made by insolvents in their schedules, greater responsibility would attach to such statements, and the burden of the suit would be rightly thrown on the person who, but for the intervention of the Receiver, would be the party to sue. The Official Receiver of course would be bound to satisfy himself as to the legality of the claim as disclosed by the facts stated in the schedule, but every other facility should be given him to realize the property of the debtor in the way I have indicated. No. 25 of the rules of the Calcutta High Court, framed under the present Insolvency Act, provides that the Official Assignee may sue without payment of office fees if he have no funds, but this does not include stamp-duty, to which my remarks are intended to apply.

Second Schedule 12 (c).—To meet the case of mortgagees whose securities exceed in value the amount of the debt, corresponding rights should, I think, be to the trustee to force a sale of mortgaged property at a reserved price equal to the amount due on the mortgage, as the trustee may not always be in a position to redeem.

The trustee should also have the right to sell the equity of redemption in mortgaged property if the mortgagee does not seek to foreclose his mortgage within some specified time.

From R. S. T. MACEWEN, ESQ., Officiating Recorder of Rangoon, to Secretary to Chief Commissioner, British Burma,—(No. 164—51, dated the 20th August, 1885).

I HAVE the honour to acknowledge receipt of your letter No. 100—26-L., dated 6th July last, forwarding copy of a draft Bill to amend the Law of Insolvency and Bankruptcy in India, and asking for an expression of opinion on the provisions of the Bill.

2. The Bill itself is a large measure and deals with a somewhat difficult and complex subject. It is drawn on the lines of the recent English Bankruptcy Statute, and would require much more time than I have at present at my disposal to examine its provisions in detail and consider their probable effect in the event of its becoming law. But I may say that a new Act dealing with insolvency and bankruptcy in India has long been felt to be a necessity, and I think the general feeling has been, both amongst lawyers and commercial men, that any measure of the kind which is undertaken should be as clear, simple, and effective as possible. Whether this Bill fully answers these requirements it is difficult to say without a much more minute examination of its provisions than I am now able to give to it.

3. Part I (sections 3—29) of the Bill deals with the procedure to be followed from an act of bankruptcy to discharge, and in cases of large bankruptcies, where the bankrupts are traders and the property for distribution is considerable, the provisions are no doubt to the advantage of creditors, but they are more cumbrous than under the present system, and will lead to greater expense in the administration of bankrupt estates. They will add considerably to the work of the Courts and of the Official Assignee (called Official Receiver in the Bill), and appear to contemplate (in large cases at least) the appointment of a trustee, other than the Official Receiver, in each bankruptcy. The appointment of such a trustee, except in large and intricate cases, seems unnecessary and undesirable. If generally adopted, the effect would be to take all bankruptcies likely to render reasonable remuneration to the trustee out of the hands of the Official Receiver and Trustee and to leave him with only such cases as would yield little or no returns; and as he is not a salaried officer, but dependent wholly upon commission for his own labour and the cost of his establishment, it would be difficult, if not impossible, to secure the services of competent persons as Official Receivers. If the commission to come to the Official Receiver is likely to be inadequate, the Government will have to pay a high salary to the Official Receiver and the cost of his establishment. For the duties imposed by the Bill on the Official Receiver are considerable and important, and must be performed by a professional lawyer. At present the Official Assignee and his establishment cost the Government nothing. No doubt section 20 leaves it in the discretion of the Court to appoint an independent trustee, but the appointment might be applied for by the creditors: the Official Receiver would probably object. At all events there would be a conflict of interests, and it might be difficult to refuse an application by the body or a majority of the creditors. Such applications would never be made in non-paying bankruptcies, and the practical effect might be to leave these and no others in the hands of the Official Receiver. It seems to be considered that there would be difficulty in finding non-official persons qualified and willing to act in such cases. I do not think this is so much to be apprehended, as the competition there would be for paying trusteeships. There are always a considerable number of persons ready to offer for any business that may be expected to pay, and sub-section (2) of section 64 contemplates the appointment of solicitors. It appears to me, therefore, that unless some restrictions are placed upon the appointment of non-official trustees, there is likely to be a good deal of competition for the business, and if appointments were freely made, it would be with the result just indicated. On the whole, I think the business is likely to be better performed in the hands of a responsible professional Official Receiver, and, in addition to the discretion imposed upon the Court in the matter, I think no appointment of a non-official trustee should be made except upon a resolution of three-fourths in number and value of the creditors, and that section 20, sub-section (2), should be altered to this effect.

4. The Bill (section 63) provides for the remuneration of non-official trustees, but it does not appear how the Official Receiver is to be paid. Of course if it is intended that he shall be a salaried officer and receive no commissions, then these observations will be inapplicable. But if he is to be on the footing of the present Official Assignee, they appear deserving of consideration; and if he is to be a salaried officer, it may be well to enquire from what source his salary and establishment are to be met. The only court-fee chargeable in insolvency cases is the ordinary petition fee of eight annas, and the fees for serving notices go to the messenger and not to the credit of Government.

5. The provisions of Part I are, it seems to me, unnecessarily complex for the large number of small bankruptcies which occupy so much of the time of the Courts at present. It is true Part VII provides a summary procedure for some, but not for all of these cases. It is only in cases where the property to be administered does not exceed Rs. 3,000 that this part applies. I annex a statement showing the number of insolvencies in this Court during the past three years, with the scheduled liabilities, assets, and actual recoveries. In 1882 there were 20 insolvencies, aggregating Rs 4,54,401 of liabilities, and scheduled assets amounting to Rs. 2,12,526, while the total recoveries amounted to Rs. 23,487, and of this sum Rs. 20,163 was secured, the sum which the Official Assignee recovered for distribution amongst creditors being only Rs. 3,324.

In 1883, out of 22 insolvencies with total liabilities of Rs. 14,17,824 and scheduled assets of Rs. 6,32,792, Rs. 82,823 was all that was recovered. Of this sum, Rs. 60,080 was secured, and the balance, Rs. 22,743, the Official Assignee called in.

In 1884 the total liabilities in 49 insolvencies was Rs. 10,03,035. The assets as per schedule amounted to Rs. 7,82,933, the recoveries to Rs. 59,446, of which Rs. 39,782 was secured and the Official Assignee recovered Rs. 16,664.

It is not quite clear what "property of the debtor" in section 103 is intended to cover. If it means scheduled assets, then Chapter VII would apply to about one-half of the business in this Court. Of the 91 insolvencies shown in the statement it would apply to 47. Having regard, however, to the results in the remaining 44 cases, it appears to me that the limit might very well be raised to Rs. 5,000, and I think it might with safety and advantage be raised to Rs. 10,000. In three only out of the 91 cases has property of the value of Rs. 10,000 and upwards been administered, and in seven cases has property between Rs. 5,000 and Rs. 10,000 been recovered. In the remaining 81 cases the property actually administered was less than Rs. 5,000. In 53 cases absolutely nothing was recovered. The provisions of section 14 relating to meetings of creditors would be inapplicable to the whole of these 81 cases.

In 9 out of 10 of these cases the insolvents only come into Court for the purpose of obtaining a protection order. They are either in jail in execution of a Civil Court decree or are threatened with arrest; they have little or no property—in many cases absolutely none. They are nearly all petty traders or impecunious clerks and other persons; the number of their creditors and the individual debts are small; there is seldom much, if any, opposition, and the whole business in these cases is of a simple and rudimentary character. To apply the provisions and machinery of this Bill, to any great extent, to these cases would, in my opinion, be a mistake. The cost, trouble, and delay would far exceed the benefit to be derived. The estates would not bear the cost, which would therefore fall upon the Government.

6. I have very little doubt, although I have not the means of testing my opinion by returns, that in the presidency-towns the results will be found to be much the same as here. I think that if there was no imprisonment for debt there would be very little insolvency business in India; at all events it would be confined to bonâ fide trading bankruptcies. It seems to me that, no matter how stringent a bankruptcy law may be made, it will be taken advantage of so long as imprisonment for debt continues, and the Courts will be resorted to by a class of debtors who ought not to be able to get rid of their debts by means of an Act of this kind.

The true remedy is abolition of imprisonment for debt. It would curtail credit, and be immensely to the advantage of the public and the administration of justice. It would practically abolish small bankruptcies, save much legislation, the time of the Courts, and the expenditure of public money. I understand the question has lately been considered and it has been decided to retain imprisonment for debt. I think, however, it is well worthy of further consideration in connection with the subject of insolvency and this Bill.

7. Section 103 (b) provides that the committee of inspection may be dispensed with in small bankruptcies, and (c) allows for other modifications by rules. But this is an inconvenient arrangement, and the power to make rules which absolutely annul the direct provisions of an Act is often questioned. I think where modifications are considered necessary they ought to be made in the Act itself in this part. I am opinion that all the provisions relating to meetings of creditors should be dispensed with in small bankruptcies, and that this modification should precede or follow clause (b).

8. I am also of opinion that in Courts where the Bankruptcy Act is in operation, Chapter XX of the Civil Procedure Code should not apply. The double jurisdiction and procedure lead to confusion, doubts, and uncertainty; persons will not know which procedure to come under, and objections and difficulties will be raised. As it is, Chapter XX has been very little used in the Courts now exercising insolvent jurisdiction. There is not a single instance of it in this Court, and until the High Court of Calcutta lately held that it had concurrent jurisdiction under the Civil Procedure Code, the power was doubted. At all events it had not been freely exercised. I am of opinion, therefore, that one of two courses ought to be followed with regard to this part of the subject—

(1) Additional provisions ought to be added to Chapter XX to provide more fully for small bankruptcies, and they should be omitted from this Act altogether; or

(2) Part VII ought to deal with them entirely and be the only law in the Courts to which the Act would apply, and Chapter XX of the Code should be restricted to Courts in which the Act did not apply.

I think the second is the preferable course, and that their proper place is in this Act; but the procedure should, as nearly as possible, be that of the Code.

9. This Court has not at present the machinery necessary to carry out the provisions of the Bill, and even if a Chief Court should be constituted for British Burma, it will require some addition to its establishment to work the Act properly if all bankruptcies, where the property likely to be realized exceeds Rs. 3,000, were to be made subject to the full provisions of the Act. The principal Civil Courts at Moulmein and Akyab have lately been invested with insolvency jurisdiction, and certainly they have not, and are not, likely to obtain the establishments necessary for the purpose. The jurisdiction might no doubt revert to the Recorder or be vested in a Chief Court, but I think it would be a very great hardship to persons resident in these places to compel them to come to Rangoon in all cases of small bankruptcies. The principal Civil Courts in these places are quite competent to deal with small insolvencies, and with a simple procedure they would not require extra establishments. I think, therefore, that this is a matter of considerable importance so far as the seaport towns of this province are concerned.

10. Section 88 confers certain powers on the Judges of the Presidency Small Cause Courts. I see no objection to this provision. It will relieve the High Courts of a great deal of purely formal work and of a number of petty unopposed bankruptcies, and I presume the rules contemplated by sub-section (l) would fix a pecuniary limit beyond which these Courts could not receive or hear bankruptcy petitions. In the draft Bill to constitute a Chief Court for British Burma power has been taken to extend the Presidency Small Cause Courts Act to Rangoon. Similar power might be taken to extend, at any time, the provisions of section 88 to the Small Cause Court of Rangoon, although I could not at present recommend that the powers given by the Bill should be exercised by the Rangoon Small Cause Court. But if that Court is reconstituted under the Presidency Acts, and the necessary establishments are allowed, there is no reason why it should not exercise the same powers as the Presidency Courts.

11. I entirely approve of the penal sections of the Bill. I think they are most necessary and will meet most of the cases which arise in practice.

From J. STUART, ESQ., Secretary, Rangoon Chamber of Commerce, to Secretary to Chief Commissioner, British Burma,—(dated the 5th December, 1885).

I HAVE the honour to acknowledge receipt of your No. 101—26-L., dated the 6th July, 1885, asking the opinion of this Chamber on the draft Bill to amend the law of bankruptcy and insolvency in British India.

In reply I am directed to inform you that, as this was a matter involving legal knowledge for a complete understanding of the proposed alterations, the members of the Chamber did not feel themselves qualified to express an opinion. They, therefore, referred the matter to their legal adviser, and I am directed to forward to you his remarks on the proposed amendments.

I have further to apologise for the long delay in submitting an opinion on this matter, a delay which was occasioned by the references which Mr. Gillbanks, the Chamber's adviser, had to make as to the course of legislation in England on the same subject.

Note by MR. J. C. GILLBANKS, Barrister-at-Law, Rangoon,—(dated the 5th December, 1885).

FROM the Statement of Objects and Reasons attached to the proposed draft Bill to amend the law of bankruptcy it would appear that in 1870 a proposal of Sir James Stephen's to introduce virtually the English Bankruptcy Act of 1869 was by general opinion negatived as being too complicated for the mofussil and because the principle of voluntary management by creditors was considered unsuited to India. We think that for the same reasons the present proposed Bill is unsuited for the mofussil in Burma. A proposal in 1881 to amend the existing insolvency law was rejected on the ground that the law required recasting rather than amendment. We fully agree with this opinion, and we believe that nothing short of re-casting the law would be satisfactory. The present law does not seem to us to be cumbrous, though it certainly is defective and out of date.

The proposed Bill adopts the English Bankruptcy Act of 1883; thus we pass at once from legislation in 1848 (our present Insolvent Act is dated 9th June 1848) to an Act of 1883, a gap 35 years in legislation. We consider that it is eminently desirable to assimilate the law in force in India in insolvency to that in force in England and thus to afford our Courts the advantage of English decisions.

In the face of the opinions elicited by previous proposals we are not prepared to recommend at present that the proposed Bill should extend beyond the limits of Rangoon, Moulmein, Akyab, and Bassein as far as Burma is concerned, but we think it desirable that a proviso should be inserted giving power to the local Government to extend the Act to other places in this province when it shall be deemed desirable or necessary. Further, we consider it advisable that the jurisdiction in bankruptcy shall be vested in the Court of the Recorder of Rangoon (or such Court as may be constituted in its place), except as to Moulmein, where there is already a Judge, in whose Court the jurisdiction might be vested with a right of appeal. Provisions on this point must, however, await the passing of the new Burma Courts Act.

Some of the most important provisions of the Bill are those which apply to a composition in satisfaction of the debts due from the bankrupt, or for a scheme of arrangement of his affairs. These provisions remove some of the gravest defects of the existing Indian insolvency law, and they show the enormous gap in our legislative enactments, for the principle of deeds of arrangement, by which the property of an insolvent trader was made available for the common benefit of his creditors without his being adjudicated a bankrupt, was introduced in England as far back as 1825. Now, without any preparatory legislation it is proposed at once to progress from our legislation of 1848 (which was then more backward than English legislation) to the latest English enactment. We must admit that we are legally advised that it appears somewhat doubtful, whether as the proposed Bill is shorn of whatever advantages were expected from the control of the Board of Trade, it is desirable to follow so closely the English Act of 1883.

It may be broadly stated that the chief defects of the English Bankruptcy Act of 1869 were in the provisions for liquidation of the debtor's affairs by arrangement and composition. These defects, it has been alleged, arose mostly from the improper use of proxies and the supineness of creditors, which led to the adoption of inadequate compositions through the influence of the debtors' friends and from the want of control over trustees in bankruptcy in case of liquidation by arrangement, the trustees being exempted from the control of the Court.

We presume that the principle of liquidation by arrangement under the voluntary management of creditors is no longer (as in 1870) considered unsuitable to India. From our experience in Rangoon and Burma we do not think the principle unsuited for this province. We may add that many instances of a desire to carry out such arrangements have come within our experience. Sometimes they have been frustrated because there was no method of making them compulsory, and no control could be exercised by the Insolvent Court. A similar want has been felt when a petition has been withdrawn upon arrangement with creditors.

In so far as a provisional order is only made for the protection of the bankrupt's estate when necessary in the first instance, and the creditors are to have a voice in deciding whether the debtor shall be adjudicated a bankrupt or his affairs be liquidated by composition or arrangement, we approve of the principle of the proposed Bill. If it appears that the approval of the Court, which is necessary, was obtained by fraud, or if it appears that in consequence of legal difficulties, or for any sufficient cause, the composition or scheme cannot proceed without injustice or undue delay to the creditors or the debtor, the composition or scheme may be annulled without prejudice to anything done under it. This is a departure which we approve thoroughly; but at the same time we feel some doubt as to whether the proposed Bill is adapted in details to Indian circumstances. It is extremely stringent in many of its provisions, and we think complicated. We should prefer an Act embodying the main principles and features (with the exception of the important changes just noticed, which should be engrafted) of the English Bankruptcy Act of 1869, which was not found to work badly, and could have been amended without much difficulty, rather than a close copy of an enactment, which has not been in force for two years, and of the working of which doubts have already been expressed.

We are hardly prepared at present to recommend the abolition of imprisonment for debt or the introduction of more of the provisions of the Debtors Act, 1869, than the proposed Bill contains.

The duties to be discharged under the English Act by the Board of Trade can, we conceive, only be undertaken by the Courts through properly appointed officers. The appointment of such an officer is much needed in Burma.

We can see no object in preserving any distinction between traders and non-traders.

The limitation of the jurisdiction of the Court, and the departure from the corresponding provisions of the English Act, are adapted to this province, and we think that domicile should be rejected as a ground of jurisdiction.

With regard to bankruptcy being a disqualification for certain officers. We consider that a provision for the removal of the disqualification on a bankruptcy being annulled might be provided for.

In sections 39 and 40 of the proposed Bill the provisions of section 295 of the Civil Procedure Code as to the time at which an attaching creditor's title becomes complete as against rival decree-holders will be that at which it becomes complete as against the trustee in bankruptcy. This seems to be a sufficient provision, and one which it is desirable to insert, for although it is in consonance with a decision in the Court of the Recorder of Rangoon there are decisions which conflict with that law.

At present it would not be desirable to overburden the Small Cause Court by jurisdiction in bankruptcy in petty cases transferred But a provision for the delegation of such powers might be inserted, to be exercised when desirable, as it appears to have worked well in Madras.

The following are instances of the stringency of the proposed Bill:—

Section 3. (1) (e).—"If execution issued against him has been levied by sale of his property in any civil proceeding in British India."

If this is intended to include a foreclosure of a mortgage or order of sale in a suit on a mortgage, it is, we consider, too stringent; such a provision as that contained in the Bankruptcy Act, 1869, would be sufficient.

"That execution issued against the debtor on any legal process for the purpose of obtaining payment of not less than Rs. 500 has been levied by seizure and sale of his goods."

Section 15 (2).—The time for filing a statement of, and in relation to, his affairs by the debtor is extremely short; it is true that the Court may, for special reasons, extend it. By the present Act a debtor is allowed such time as the Court may deem reasonable.

Section 27, relating to the discharge of the bankrupt, especially 3 (a), which requires him to keep such accounts as are usual and proper in the business carried on by him and as sufficiently disclose his business transactions and financial position for three years preceding his bankruptcy. For the present the analogous provisions of section 48 of the Bankruptcy Act of 1869 would suffice for Burma, which are shortly as follows:—(1) assent of creditors to closing of bankruptcy by special resolution; (2) that he has paid eight annas in the rupee, unless prevented by trustees conduct or circumstances, for which the bankrupt is not justly responsible, and that they desire his discharge, unless he has made default in giving up property required to be given up by the Act, or that he is being prosecuted under the Debtors Act, 1869. This might be coupled with the provisions of the Bankruptcy Act, 1869, as to the status of an undischarged bankrupt (section 54).

Section 28, is stringent enough as to those debtors who are likely to make settlements on their wives, but it does not touch the case of immoveable property which is bought by a debtor and conveyed to his wife or child. Such transactions are, unfortunately, not uncommon, and some provisions might be inserted as to them. Partially provided for in section 41.

Section 34, restricted to Rs. 500. Under the present Act, no restriction as to amount. The rate of interest, 4 per cent., is very low; the usual Court rate allowed is 6 per cent., 9 per cent. being an average rate of interest.

Section 38.—Property not divisible among creditors, only Rs. 200. At present Rs. 300. In the present state of exchange this is much below the value allowed by the English Act, 1883, nearly £20 (111) of this section is less stringent than section 23 of the present Insolvent Act on the words "in his trade or business" are inserted. Having regard to the abolition of the distinction between traders and non-traders, it would seem hardly desirable to insert these words, but rather to continue the former provisions of the reputed ownership clause.

Considering the heavy stamp duties exacted in India, and that certain conveyances, letters-of-attorney, &c., are by section 75 of the present Insolvent Act exempt from stamp duty, we hope that a section similar thereto, or to section 144 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1883, may be inserted in the new Act.

The provision that a creditor may convey his dissent to a composition or scheme by a letter in a prescribed form attested by a witness, section 17 (d) does not appear adapted to this country; a more formal attestation is necessary.

In section 59 it will be necessary to insert such provisions as would include a senior Judge of a Court not being a High Court; but this will depend on the new Burma Courts Act as far as this province is concerned.

We consider that it is unnecessary at present to introduce the most stringent provisions of the English Bankruptcy Act of 1883, as they are, we think, not adapted to the circumstances of this province. And for the present, and until the English Act of 1883 as been longer in operation, and its advantages practically demonstrated, we would suggest that the main principles of the English Bankruptcy Act of 1869 should be adopted with the requisite amendments, already mentioned, and with the adoption of the principle that the creditors are to have a voice in deciding whether the debtor shall be adjudicated a bankrupt or his affairs shall be liquidated by composition or arrangement. We hold that less complication and greater simplicity is necessary both to adapt the Act to Indian circumstances and to render it possible for our Courts and their officers to work an Act which will be such an enormous stride in legislation. Finally, we are glad that there has been a return to the older and more usual nomenclature, and that the terms 'bankrupt' and 'bankruptcy' will replace 'insolvent' and 'insolvency.'

From E. S. SYMES, ESQ., Officiating Secretary to Chief Commissioner, British Burma, to Secretary to Government of India, Legislative Department,—(No. 239—3L., dated 15th January, 1886).

WITH reference to paragraph 2 of my letter No. 352—26 L., dated the 15th ultimo, I am directed to submit a copy of a note by the Judicial Commissioner on the Bill to amend the Law relating to Bankruptcy and Insolvency.

Note by Judicial Commissioner, British Burma.

I HAVE compared the Bill with the English Statute, 46 & 47 Vic., cap. 52. With very few alterations the Bill reproduces the Statute. To criticize the Bill is in effect to discuss the Statute, which became law in England after very full consideration, and which is the outcome of the experience of some twenty years of the working of the Statutes which it displaces. That Statute came into force just two years ago. I have no experience of its working and I can find very few cases bearing upon it.

It is desirable that the bankruptcy law of the Presidency-towns should as closely resemble that in force in England as local conditions will allow. I approve of the proposal to restrict the operation of the Bill to selected areas in which business is usually conducted on Western usages. As far as my own experience goes the greater part of the provisions of the Bill are unsuited to the small bankruptcies which usually come before the Courts of the interior, and those Courts have no agency for working the Bill.

From E. STACK, ESQ., Officiating Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Assam, to Secretary to Government of India, Legislative Department,—(No. 1047, dated 7th June, 1885).

IN reply to your letter No. 1045, dated the 17th June, 1885, I am directed to say that the Chief Commissioner thinks it unnecessary to offer any remarks on the Bill to amend and consolidate the Law of Bankruptcy and Insolvency, as the proposed Act is not likely to be wanted in this Province.

From A. MARTINDALE, ESQ., Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Coorg, to Secretary to Government of India, Legislative Department,—(No. 610—70, dated 3rd July, 1885).

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 1046, dated the 17th of June, 1885, forwarding, for an expression of the Chief Commissioner's opinion, a draft Bill to amend the Law relating to Bankruptcy and Insolvency in British India, with draft Statement of Objects and Reasons.

2. In reply, I am to say that, so far as the Officiating Chief Commissioner is able to judge, the Bill seems suited to the circumstances of the places to which it is proposed to apply it in the event of its becoming law.

From LIEUT.-COLONEL SIR E. R. C. BRADFORD, Chief Commissioner, Ajmer-Merwára, to Secretary to Government of India, Legislative Department,—(No. 807, dated 29th July, 1885).

I HAVE the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 1017, dated the 17th of May, 1885, forwarding copies of the papers noted on the margin, and in reply to state that I have no observations to offer on the provisions of the draft Bill.

Draft Bill to amend the Law of Bankruptcy and Insolvency in British India, with draft Statement of Objects and Reasons.

From J. R. FITZGERALD, ESQ., Secretary for Berar to Resident, Hyderabad, to Secretary to Government of India, Legislative Department,—(No. 570G., dated 7th December, 1885).

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 1018, dated the 17th June, forwarding, for the opinion of the Resident at Hyderabad, a draft Bill to amend the Law of Bankruptcy and Insolvency in British India.

2. In reply, I am to inform you that, as the operation of the Bill is by paragraph 11 of the Statement of Objects and Reasons expressly and closely limited to certain seaport towns and commercial centres, of which none exist in the Hyderabad Assigned Districts, Mr. Cordery has no observations to offer in the matter.

From R. BELCHAMBERS, ESQ., Registrar, High Court, Calcutta, to Secretary to Government of India, Legislative Department,—(No. 107, dated 13th February, 1886).

I SEND herewith copy of a letter from the Official Assignee and the original note received therewith.

From J. C. MACGREGOR, ESQ., Official Assignee, Calcutta, to Registrar, High Court, Calcutta, —(No. 76, dated 13th February, 1886).

I HAVE the honour to enclose herewith a note on the Draft Bill to amend and consolidate the Law of Bankruptcy and Insolvency in British India.

Note.

THE draft Bankruptcy Bill is, in my opinion, calculated to effect a great improvement on the existing law, but I think that it follows the lines of the English Statute too closely, and requires certain alterations and modifications to adapt it to the requirements of this country. In the following note I have attempted to indicate section by section the amendments which seem to me to be most necessary or desirable.

Section 3 (1) (d).—I would add the words "or closes his place of business". A considerable number of the persons who pass through the Insolvent Court are Marwarees, who reside in Native States and carry on business in the Presidency-towns by their gumáshtas. Some such words as I have suggested would seem to be required to meet their cases.

I think the following clause, or one to the same effect, might be added with advantage:—"or suffers himself to be arrested or taken in execution for a debt not due, or submits collusively or fraudulently to an adverse decree, or procures himself, or his property, movable or immovable, to be attached or taken in execution."

Section 3 (1) (e) and (g).—These clauses are very sweeping; I think they should be modified.

Section 7.—I think the question is worthy of consideration whether up-country debtors, Native or European, should not be allowed to seek relief in the Bankruptcy Courts. The provisions of Chapter XX of the Civil Procedure Code apply only to judgment-debtors; they are very defective in many respects, and residents in the Mufassal have practically no really effective insolvency law.

Section 9 (2).—The power given to the Bankruptcy Court to stay suits, executions and other proceedings against the debtor in any Court should prove highly useful. When a debtor having property in the Mufassal files a petition of insolvency, his up-country creditors at once proceed to sue him in the local Courts and to attach his property, and, as the staying of such proceedings is, under the present law, a matter of some difficulty, the trouble, cost and delay of winding up his estate are greatly increased.

Section 11.—The Official Receiver should be empowered to appoint a special manager, with or without an application by the creditors, whenever he considers such functionary necessary. He should also be empowered to appoint the debtor to be special manager if he considers such appointment expedient, and without having imposed upon him the necessity of first procuring the sanction of the Court. It should further be provided that in the event of a private trustee not being appointed the special manager should be continued so long as the Official Receiver deems his services necessary.

The Official Receiver, who makes the appointment, might also be allowed to settle what security should be given by the special manager, and what remuneration, within certain limits prescribed by rule, he should be allowed. For reasons of economy, as well as of expedition, it is desirable to dispense, as far as may be, with frequent applications to the Court.

Section 14.—The provisions as to meetings of creditors do not seem to me to be suited for India. I believe that, in nine cases out of ten, creditors will not take the trouble to attend, or, at any rate, that only two or three of them will do so. In my opinion it would be well to omit all the provisions and rules as to meetings; or the proceeding by meetings might be made the exception instead of the rule, power being given to the Court to direct that, in any particular bankruptcy, meetings should be held. When no such direction is given the holding of meetings should not be compulsory but should be left to the discretion of the Official Receiver or Trustee. It might also be provided that a meeting should be called on a requisition signed by a certain number of creditors.

Section 15 (2).—Provision should be made for the preparation of the statement of affairs in the event of the debtor absconding or neglecting to prepare it. The present practice seems a convenient one and might be adopted, The Court, on the application of the Official Assignee or a creditor, directs the Chief Clerk to issue advertisements calling upon creditors to bring in statements of their claims supported by affidavit before a fixed date, and the Chief Clerk prepares a schedule from such statements.

The proviso to section 62 (2) authorizes the Official Receiver to employ some persons to assist "in the preparation of a statement of affairs" when the debtor himself cannot prepare it, but that does not go far enough, and will not be found sufficient in the not uncommon cases of residents up-country who hide in their native villages and put the Court at defiance.

Section 16 (9).—The declaration that the debtor's examination is concluded should not prevent his being brought up for further examination in the event of fresh facts transpiring which render such further examination desirable.

Section 17.—If, as I have suggested above, the provisions regarding meetings are omitted or not made compulsory in all cases, this section must be altered. The best plan would seem to be to enact that when a debtor makes a proposal for composition such proposal shall be submitted, in the first instance, to the Official Receiver who, if he considers it reasonable, shall either call a meeting of, or submit the proposal by circular to, the creditors. If the creditors, or a sufficient majority of them accept the proposal, it should then be submitted to the Court for sanction.

Section 20.—The power to appoint some person other than the Official Receiver to be trustee of the bankrupt's property is similar to that which the Court now possesses, under section 17 of the present Act, to order the election of a special assignee. I have not known a single instance in which that power has been used, and I believe the instances are very rare. In this country there will always be some difficulty in finding a fit and proper person who has the leisure and inclination to accept a very troublesome and responsible office. Again, it is a fact that native creditors are generally suspicious of one another, and prefer a responsible public officer to one of their own body. Nor is it likely that the creditors will often agree as to the person to be appointed, and the making of a selection by the Court will almost always involve delay, and possibly a tedious and contentious enquiry, attended with some considerable expense. The frequent changes among the European population would involve constant changes in the office of trustee of European bankruptcies and the cost and delay of repeated applications to the Court for appointment of a new trustee in place of a former one who has died or gone home. Management by a public officer has the further advantage of being cheaper than management by a private trustee. The former would not find himself under the constant necessity of consulting a solicitor, while, as a responsible permanent officer of the Court, he might be safely entrusted with a wide discretion and be allowed to take steps for which a private trustee would require the previous sanction of the Court. I have already adverted to the advisability of avoiding frequent applications to the Court. The little use that has been made of the existing power to appoint a special assignee seems to show clearly that administration of insolvent estates by official agency is better adapted to the circumstances of this country than their administration by private agency. I believe that if this section is passed in its present form it will be rarely, if ever, used, and I think, therefore, that it would be well to omit altogether the power to appoint a private trustee, and to entrust the administration of all bankrupt estates to a public officer.

If, however, it is thought expedient to retain that power, then I am clearly of opinion that the person appointed private trustee should always be one of the creditors of the bankrupt; otherwise there will be some danger that the provisions, if used at all, may give rise to a class of professional trustees, and that, when an estate which is likely to be lucrative is brought into Court, we may see several such persons canvassing for the trusteeship and trying to outbid one another.

Section 20 (6).—If it is thought expedient to retain the provisions as to appointment of private trustees in certain cases, then I would suggest that a trustee once appointed and approved by the Court should be removable from his office only by order of the Court on cause shown. It seems to me that this sub-section will increase the difficulty of getting proper persons to accept the office, inasmuch as it makes their tenure of office dependent upon the will of the creditors. The trustee should hold office, during good behaviour and not at the will of the creditors.

Section 21.—I think the power to appoint a committee of inspection will be as little used as the power to appoint a trustee, and that, whenever it is used, the committee will serve no useful purpose but will be a hindrance to the proper discharge of his duties by the trustee. I would, therefore, entirely omit this section. In the event of a private trustee being appointed the functions which the Bill gives to the committee of inspection might be exercised by the Official Receiver, while in cases when that officer is acting as trustee no controlling or inspecting authority other than the Court would seem to be necessary.

Section 22.—See my note on section 17, ante.

Section 23.—This and the three following sections should prove most useful. One of the great defects of the present Act is that it is comparatively easy for the insolvent to keep the Court and the Official Assignee at arms' length.

Section 26 (1).—I would add "or of any creditor who has proved his debt" after the word "trustee."

Section 26 (4) and (5).—Instead of the words "If any person on examination before the Court admits" I would say "If it shall appear to the Court on such examination that any person is indebted," &c. I would further suggest that the Court should be empowered to order the person examined, or any other person, to deliver any money or property which the examination showed him to have received from the debtor under such circumstances as to render it a fraudulent preference, also any property which the debtor has settled upon him by a settlement which would be void under section 41, and also any property which he appeared to hold bénâmi for the debtor.

Section 27 (3).—The following might be added to the list of facts proof of which shall render a bankrupt liable to have his discharge refused or suspended, namely:—(1) failing to give proper assistance in the realization of his assets; (2) procuring or assisting any person to raise a false claim to property of the bankrupt; or it would perhaps be better to add these to the offences punishable under section 105, in which case it would be unnecessary to repeat them here.

Section 27 (5).—When there are creditors residing out of India longer notice than 14 days should be given.

Section 27 (7).—This ought to be useful. One of the great difficulties of the present Act is that, in the great majority of cases, insolvents after obtaining personal discharge take no further trouble and give no assistance. The only way of punishing them is by refusing their final discharge, but this is practically ineffectual, as about 90 per cent. of the persons who become insolvent never apply for final discharge.

Section 32.—Would it not be well to specify who shall take the account—whether the Court or the trustee?

Section 34 (1) (b) and (c).—The present Act gives six months' wages, which seems reasonable.

Section 38 (2).—The present Act gives Rs. 300 as the limit of value of excepted articles. That does not seem excessive, especially in the case of Europeans.

Section 38 (2).—The concluding words of this clause seem to be unnecessary in India.

Section 48 (1).—The time allowed to the trustee to disclaim onerous property is the same as that given by the English Statute; but the circumstances of the two countries are so different that that time would frequently not suffice in India. I think the various periods mentioned should be doubled.

Section 50.—I have already said that I believe a committee of inspection will be rarely appointed, and even when one has been appointed I do not think the trustee should be obliged to ask its permission before he can exercise the powers specified in this section. To obtain that sanction will almost always involve delay, and in many of the matters specified expedition may be of the utmost importance. In cases when a person other than the Official Receiver is acting as trustee I would suggest that he should obtain the permission of the Official Receiver to exercise these powers. When the Official Receiver is acting as trustee he might be safely left to exercise them on his own responsibility and without sanction. See note on section 20.

Section 51 (2) and (3).—In a large number of cases it is quite impossible to declare a dividend within four months after the adjudication, or indeed to specify any time within which it will be possible to declare a first or any subsequent dividend. I would omit these two sub-sections. The words in sub-section (1)—"with all convenient speed"—will suffice to show that the trustee is to avoid all needless delay, and it will always be open to the creditors to bring undue delay to the notice of the Court.

Section 52 (2).—It will not always be possible to declare dividends of joint and separate property together, for instance, in the not uncommon case of a partner whose separate estate is not sufficient to pay any, or more than one, dividend, while the joint estate may suffice for several dividends; or the perhaps still more common case when the separate estate can pay 100 per cent. at once, while the difficulties connected with the winding up of the business render it impossible to declare a dividend on the joint estate for many months.

Section 57 (1) and (2).—For the reasons given in my notes on sections 20 and 50 I would omit the reference to the committee of inspection and would substitute the Official Receiver as the authority to give the requisite permission to a private trustee, while in cases in which the Official Receiver is acting as trustee I would allow him to exercise the powers without previous permission.

Sections 59 to 62.—Part IV, which treats of Official Receivers, is one of the most important parts of the Bill, and seems to me to require a good deal of amendment to make it, as it should be, one of the most useful.

In the first place I would observe that the title "Official Receiver" will be likely to cause some confusion. There is already in Calcutta an officer whose official designation is Receiver of the High Court, but who is commonly described as the Official Receiver. Why not retain for the officer to be appointed under the new Act the title of "Official Assignee," with which the Indian public are now familiar?

I would submit that in common justice it should be expressly provided that the persons who, when this measure passes into law, may be Official Assignees of the present Insolvent Courts should be appointed to be the first Official Receivers (or whatever other title may be given to that officer), and that the rights of their respective establishments to employment not less remunerative than they now enjoy, or to compensation, should be expressly preserved. The Bill to amend the Insolvency Law, introduced by Sir J. F. Stephen in 1871, proposed to substitute Comptrollers in Bankruptcy for the Official Assignees and contained an express provision that the existing Official Assignees should be the first Comptroller in their respective Presidencies. Similarly the English Act of 1883 (sections 94 and 153) saves the rights of all persons holding office under the old Act.

The only reference to the Official Assignee made in the Bill is in section 134 (4), which provides that proceedings pending when the measure comes in to force shall be continued as if the Act had not been passed, and that for the purposes of such proceedings the Official Receiver shall be deemed to have been appointed Official Assignee. This shows that the framers of the measure consider the new office analogous to the old one, and it would certainly save much confusion, so long as any proceedings continue under the old law, that is to say, for at least two or three years after the new law comes into force, if the Official Assignees are retained in office as Official Receivers, and use is made of their experience to bring the new procedure into working order.

In a country like India where fraud is not only more common and more subtle, but where the facilities for its successful prosecution are infinitely greater, than in England, it is in the highest degree essential that the powers of the Official Receiver or Trustee (I continue to use the titles used in the Bill, although I have suggested that the former should be changed and that trustees should be altogether omitted) should be strengthened.

One of the main defects of the existing law, and one of the principal reasons,—perhaps the principal reason,—why it works so unsatisfactorily, is because of the very limited power it gives to the Official Assignee. I admit that these powers are theoretically fairly extensive, but practically they are all but non-existent. He can hardly take a step save at great risk of personal liability. To give only a few examples: an insolvent has no property in Calcutta, but the Official Assignee is informed, perhaps by the insolvent himself, that there is large property in the Mufassal; he takes possession of that property and proceeds to sell it; it almost invariably happens that a number of claimants spring up, who at once file suits against him in the local Courts; the Official Assignee having no assets in hand, is obliged to decide whether to withdraw from possession at once at the risk of being blamed by the Court or the creditors, or to defend the suits at the risk of being made personally liable for costs. Or again, the Official Assignee ascertains that property which is in the possession of a third party is really the property of the insolvent; if, as often happens, he has no assets, he cannot seize that property without exposing himself to the risk of being held personally liable in a suit for damages. I might multiply instances of the difficulties which confront the Official Assignee under the present law, but I will give only one more—one of not uncommon occurrence. A man files his petition with no other object than that of gaining time and avoiding arrest; he brings in little or no assets, and, as soon as he has got his order for ad interim protection, he studiously absents himself from the Official Assignee's Office, and begins behind that Officer's back, to settle with his creditors taking the more importunate first. If the operation takes a long time he applies from time to time for an adjournment of the hearing; and when he has thus purchased the acquiescence or silence of all of them he comes before the Court; there is no opposition, and he gets his discharge almost as a matter of course. This is generally the true explanation of a very common occurrence in the Insolvency Court, namely, the sudden and apparently unaccountable collapse of an opposition which had commenced with every appearance of vigour and bona fides. It is easy to say that when the Official Assignee has reason to believe that anything of this kind is going on he has only to bring it to the notice of the Court, and to apply for an order which shall force all creditors who have been paid behind his back to disgorge. But this is not so easy in practice as in theory. When there are no assets, or only nominal assets, in the Official Assignee's hands, it is practically impossible, and even when he has assets he cannot do it, as the law now stands, without running the risk of personal liability for costs.

For these reasons I think that the principal ministerial officer in each bankruptcy should be invested with very extensive inquisitorial, and even quasi-judicial, powers. He should be empowered to enter upon the premises of the debtor at all times, and to seize any property which he has reason to believe to be the property of the debtor, even though it be in the actual possession of a third party; he should be allowed to summon before him the debtor or any person whom he believes to be in a position to throw light on the debtor's affairs, and to examine them upon oath; perjury committed on such examinations should be liable to the same punishment as perjury committed in Court, and disobedience to such summons should be treated as a contempt of Court and a ground for refusing discharge; in all suits brought by or against him he should be described by his official title, and no suit should lie against him personally for any act done by him bonâ fide in the performance of his duties; he should be entitled to two or three months' notice prior to the institution of any suit against him, and suits not instituted within twelve months from the date of the cause of action should be barred; he should be allowed to apply to the Court at all times for advice and instructions, and should have power to bring before it any debtor or person whom he suspects to hold property of the debtor. If an estate is being administered by a private trustee, that trustee should have all, or most, of the same powers and privileges. It may perhaps be objected that such powers are too extensive to be conferred upon any person whom the creditors might select as trustee. That may be, and I think is, a strong argument against the whole system of private trusteeship in Indian bankruptcies. But it does not follow that the powers are too extensive to confer upon a responsible public officer, who would doubtless be selected with a view to his special fitness for their exercise, and who, it may be presumed, although the Bill does not expressly say so, would in all cases be a professional lawyer. It might be well to provide expressly that the Official Receiver shall always be a barrister.

Finally, if the provisions as to private trustees are not abandoned, then the Official Receiver should exercise over private trustees the functions which the Bill gives to the committee of inspection; the trustees should be subordinated to his authority and control, and should be required to furnish him with periodical accounts and reports, and to obey his directions in all matters respecting the estates under their charge.

Section 63.—If, as I have already suggested, the idea of allowing private trustees is abandoned, this section will be unnecessary or will require much alteration. Assuming, however, that that idea is retained as part of the Bill, I would remark that the proposed method of remunerating trustees by a commission, calculated partly on the assets realised and partly on the amount distributed in dividends, is very much fairer than the present system, whereby the Official Assignee is remunerated only by a commission on dividends—a system which has the result that a large number of estates, some of them involving great labour and responsibility, bring him absolutely no remuneration. But I fail to see the justice of denying him commission on sums which he may pay to secured creditors out of the proceeds of their securities. If he has the trouble of realising those securities he should surely be paid for that trouble. This is recognised by the general rules passed under several of the English Bankruptcy Acts (see General Rules under Act of 1883, Nos. 65 to 69), which direct that when a trustee sells mortgaged property under order of Court his commission and costs shall be a first charge on the proceeds.

I would further remark that the fixing of the remuneration should not be left to the creditors; to do so will give rise to bargaining and will have the effect of degrading the office of trustee. The remuneration should be regulated either by the Act or by a rule of court.

Section 64 (3) would seem to imply that the trustees must get the sanction of the Court before employing solicitors, auctioneers, &c. This will necessitate frequent applications to the Court, always attended with more or less expense and delay. The employment of such persons might be left to the discretion of the trustee.

Section 65.—The provisions regarding the bankruptcy estates account will impose considerable labour upon the Court, and will necessitate the creation of a new establishment. At present all moneys and securities belonging to insolvent estates are deposited in the Bank of Bengal in the name of the Official Assignee, and that officer has a staff which is specially adapted for, and well acquainted with, the keeping of the necessary accounts, while the fact that his accounts are regularly and strictly audited by the Comptroller General's Office affords an effectual guarantee against fraud or carelessness. I have already suggested that the Official Assignee should be appointed Official Receiver, and that his staff should be taken over by the Official Receiver. I would add the further suggestion that the bankruptcy estates account should be kept in his name and under his control, the system of a Government audit and a half yearly report by the auditors to the Chief Justice being continued as at present.

Section 67 (1).—The investment in Government securities should stand in the name of the Official Receiver, and the interest should be devoted to paying his salary and pension (if he is to be remunerated by salary), the salaries and pensions of his establishment, his office and audit charges, and to the costs of advertising and of administering poor estates, so as to leave as large a portion as possible of the assets available for the creditors. This is the present system, which was established many years ago with the sanction of the then Chief Justice on the recommendation of the auditors of the Official Assignee's accounts. It has the advantage of utilising for the general purposes of administration of insolvent estates a large number of cash-balances of individual estates which, by reason of their smallness or liability to immediate demands, could not be separately invested. It removes from the corpus of individual estates the heavy burden of a proportional share of the cost of administration, and substitutes a simple and economical machinery for a clumsy and costly system.

Section 67 (2).—The proposed procedure will take time and cause some expense. If the invested funds are allowed to stand in the name of the Official Receiver for the time being, he can, when necessary, sell them with a minimum of delay and expense, and the audit will be an effectual check upon any misuse of that power.

Section 68.—In this section I would substitute "Official Receiver" for "Court" in respect of all cases in which a private trustee is appointed. Where the Official Receiver is acting as trustee the regular Government audit of, and periodical report upon, his accounts will suffice. These alterations would save the Court much labour, without diminishing the efficacy of the proposed checks.

Section 72.—My remarks on section 68 will apply, mutatis mutandis, to this section also.

Section 79.—I would substitute the words "Official Receiver" for "committee of inspection." See notes on sections 20 and 50, ante.

Section 88.—The delegation of powers to a Judge of the Small Cause Court seems most objectionable. The time of the Judges of that Court is already very fully occupied; examinations of debtors or of persons suspected of having in their possession property of the debtor frequently take up several days; and it is certain that in a large number of cases the Small Cause Court would not be able, without a considerable increase to the number of Judges, to give those matters the time and attention they require. Moreover, complicated and difficult questions of law arise so frequently in bankruptcy-proceedings that it is most desirable that every step should be taken before a Judge of the High Court. I agree with the Select Committee on the Small Cause Courts Bill of 1880 in thinking that unless the Small Cause Courts are to hear cases which, owing to their length, intricacy and difficulty, ought to be removed to the High Court, the saving of time to the latter tribunal will be altogether unimportant. If, as before suggested, the powers of the Official Receiver are extended, he will be able to dispose of a large portion of the petty business. Should his aid not suffice, it would, I believe, be found better and cheaper to appoint a special Registrar for bankruptcy-business, as in England, than to delegate a portion of that business to the already over-burdened Small Cause Court.

Section 91.—If the Bankruptcy Courts are allowed to delegate powers to a Small Cause Court Judge, there should be a provision for appeal from his orders.

Section 94.—I think it would be advisable to empower the Court to give the carriage of proceedings to the Official Receiver or trustee, whenever it has reason to suspect that the want of diligence on the part of the petitioning creditor is due to his having made an illegal arrangement with the debtor. The case is one of frequent occurrence in this country.

Section 103 (b).—I would omit the words "with the permission of the Court", as their retention will necessitate frequent applications to the Court with their attendant delay and cost. The Official Receiver, as a permanent officer of the Court, may be entrusted with a wide discretion, and his position will be a sufficient guarantee against abuse of that discretion.

Section 105.—The following offences, all of which are common in this country, might be added to the list of offences which will render a debtor liable to punishment under this section, namely:—fraudulently making away with property; improperly interfering with, or hindering, the trustee in the realization of the bankrupt's property; doing, or procuring the doing of, any act which is likely to prevent the disposal of the property at its full value (for instance, inducing bidders to absent themselves from the trustee's sales); showing fraudulent preference to any creditor; entering into a composition with his creditors, or any of them, without giving notice thereof to the Official Receiver or trustee; inducing any creditor by an illegal gratification or preference to withdraw, or neglect to proceed with, a petition, or to acquiesce in the discharge of the bankrupt.

Section 110.—The Bankruptcy Court should be empowered to try offences under the Act, and to pass sentence, without sending the offender to the ordinary Criminal Courts.

Section 113.—This section would seem to exclude ordinary business partnerships from the operation of the Act. It is not, however, likely to be held to have that meaning, as it follows the words of the English Statute, and there is no doubt that such partnerships are constantly adjudicated in England. Still it might be well to make the wording clearer.

Section 139 (2).—The present system of investing unclaimed dividends in the name of the Official Assignee, and devoting the interest to the maintenance of his office and to administering poor estates, works well, and there seems no reason why it should not be continued. See note on section 67 (1), ante.

Schedule II.—The English rules regarding the sale of mortgaged property and the taking of mortgagees' accounts (General Rules 65 to 69) are frequently followed here. They have been found to work admirably and to effect a considerable saving of time and expense in realizing mortgage-securities. I would suggest their incorporation in this schedule. The rules in question are substantially the same as those issued by Lord

Loughborough in 1794, and the fact that they have been retained, with slight alterations, under the various Bankruptcy Acts passed since that date is strong evidence of their utility.

I have now finished my remarks on the Draft Bill, but before closing my note I desire to add a few words on subjects not mentioned therein.

First.—I submit that Chapter XX of the Civil Procedure Code should be repealed as regards the local limits of the Courts created under the new law. There seems no valid reason for maintaining in the same place two entirely distinct systems of insolvency law. That the application of Chapter XX to the Presidency-towns has not caused very great confusion is, I take it due only to the rarity of the instances in which the provisions of that chapter have been used. There is, however, a recent case in which the two systems came into direct conflict. I allude to Pigot v. Hastie (I.L.R. 11 Cal.). The defendant, Mr. Hastie, was on his own application declared an insolvent under the Civil Procedure Code, and was on the same day adjudicated under the provisions of 11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, on the petition of the plaintiff. The fact that the Official Assignee, in whom his estate became vested under the latter proceeding, was also appointed Receiver under the former, alone prevented the raising of serious difficulties and confusion. Moreover, the principles of the Civil Procedure Code insolvency, although they may be adapted for the Mufassal, are altogether unsuited for the Presidency-towns, and will be quite out of place beside the elaborate system of the new measure.

Second.—The introduction, either as part of the Bill or as a separate enactment, of a system of compulsory registration of mortgages on moveable property, similar to the English Bills of Sale Acts, would be a most valuable auxiliary to the bankruptcy law. It is a matter of frequent occurrence, when a tradesman comes before the Insolvent Court, to find that his entire assets are mortgaged to one or two creditors, and that he has been trading for years on a credit which he would certainly never have obtained had there been any means of ascertaining the real state of his affairs. A notable instance of this kind occurred some months ago, when, on the occasion of a well-known and old established trading firm in Calcutta becoming insolvent, it transpired for the first time that their entire stock-in-trade and outstandings were mortgaged to two creditors, who stepped in at once and seized and sold the property. There are some 500 other creditors, to some of whom the firm owed large sums, and none of whom are likely to get any dividend, the entire assets having been swallowed up by the mortgage-debts. It may safely be assumed that had the mortgages been registered, thus affording the public an opportunity of learning their existence, the firm in question would not have obtained such long and extensive credit, and many of the 500 unsecured creditors would have been saved from serious loss. This is only one of many similar instances which have occurred lately.

Third.—A system of compulsory registration of business-partnerships would also be highly valuable.

Fourth.—The system of what are known as bénámi transactions is one of the most serious difficulties in the administration of insolvent estates and if any means could be devised of grappling with it successfully an enormous boon would be conferred upon the country. I am well aware of the great difficulty of the subject, and I merely throw out the suggestion as one which might be appropriately considered concurrently with the amendment of the bankruptcy law.

From C. A. WILKINS, ESQ., Registrar, High Court, Calcutta, to Secretary to Government of India, Legislative Department,—(No. 570, dated 27th February, 1886).

IN continuation of my letter No. 3049 of the 30th November, 1885, I am directed to forward the accompanying printed copy of a report prepared by a sub-committee of the Judges of this Court, as well as a printed copy of a note* by the Official Assignee, on the provisions of the Bill to amend and consolidate the Law of Bankruptcy and Insolvency in British India.

2. I am to request that you will be good enough to submit these papers for the consideration of the Governor General in Council.

3. I am to add that the High Court concurs generally in the observations made by its sub-committee on the provisions of the Bankruptcy Bill.

Report of the Committee of the High Court on the provisions of the Bankruptcy Bill.

WE regret the lapse of time which has occurred since the Bankruptcy Bill was submitted for our opinion; but the changes which are sought to be introduced by the Bill required grave consideration, and it has therefore been impossible to avoid the delay which has taken place.

We have held repeated sittings, and have come to the conclusions which are hereafter particularly mentioned.

We were met by the preliminary difficulty that the Bill as drafted is, as it professes to be, a reproduction of the last English Bankruptcy Act, introducing English law and methods of procedure and English phraseology, and we had to decide whether the proposal to introduce the English Bankruptcy Act with modifications into this country offered advantages sufficient to counterbalance the mischief of completely upsetting a system to which, from the practice of many years, the Court, the practitioners and the suitors had become accustomed.

We have come to the general conclusion that much of the substance of the English law and system of procedure may be introduced in India, but that some important parts of it are wholly inapplicable.

On the other hand we think it preferable to adopt the phraseology of the English Act, except where there is strong reason for not doing so, as thereby the Courts in this country will have the assistance of the decisions of the English Courts.

For the sake of convenience we have dealth with the Bill in the order of the sections.

The following are our recommendations:—

1. We think the proposed form of legislation open to question. An enabling Statute followed by an Indian Act will give rise to questions as to whether the Indian Act has exceeded the powers given to it by the English Statute. The best course will be for the Indian legislature to pass such Act as may be deemed suited to the requirements of the country, and then to obtain from Parliament a Statute confirming and ratifying the Indian Act.

2. We do not think that the provisions for the appointment of trustees and of committees of inspection are suited to this country. It will be very difficult in most cases to induce creditors to meet together, and in many cases it will be quite impossible to expect creditors residing at a distance to attend any meeeting.

Power is given to the Court by section 17 of the Indian Insolvent Act (11 & 12 Vic., cap. 21) to order the election of assignees by the creditors; but such power has rarely, if ever, been exercised. As far as we can ascertain, in only one case in recent years have creditors applied to the Court for an order under this section; but, although this shows that creditors prefer to see the estates of insolvents administered by the Official Assignee, there would be no harm in inserting in the new Act a provision similar to that contained in section 17 of the present Act.

* Printed with previous letter from Registrar, High Court, Calcutta, dated 18th February, 1886.

Shortly, the objections to the administration of insolvent estates by creditors through trustees and committees of inspection are—

(1) danger to the interests of creditors residing at a distance: the whole administration would be in the hands of Calcutta creditors;

(2) the general body of creditors would not place the same amount of confidence in a trustee or in a committee of inspection as they would in a competent court officer such as the Official Assignee;

(3) the expenses of an administration by the creditors would be very large: in all cases the trustee, and in many cases the committee of inspection, would have to be remunerated; the former would be paid by commission, but the latter would be paid according to the number of their meetings, and would therefore not be inclined to expedite the winding up of the estates; with an Official Assignee representing the creditors, the legal expenses of the administration are minimised, as the Official Assignee is usually a Barrister of some standing; in the case of administration by the creditors, no step would be taken without legal assistance, which would have to be paid for out of the estate.

For these reasons we would strike out from the Bill, as now drawn, the following sections, namely:—sections 11, 14, 17, 18, 19 (sub-sections (2) and (3)), 20, 21, 22, so much of section 23 as relates to meetings of creditors, sections 63 to 81 (both inclusive), section 103, sub-section (b), and section 118; and the following sections will require alteration, namely:—sections 47, 50, 110 and 132. The first schedule will also become unnecessary.

3. We think it important that the insolvency sections of the Procedure Code should cease to apply to the Presidency-towns.

As the law at present stands it is possible for a debtor in Calcutta to seek relief from his debts both under the Civil Procedure Code and under the Insolvent Act. The main advantage to an insolvent of proceeding under the Code is that he can under section 336 be relieved from imprisonment as soon as he is arrested. The main advantage of proceeding under the Act is that if he be a trader he can get his final discharge without paying any portion of his debts. There are also many other points of difference between the two systems of insolvency, that under the Code being very unsuited to the requirements of a commercial city like Calcutta.

The disadvantages of having two different systems of insolvency law and procedure applicable to the same place do not require enumeration. They have been made apparent in two cases, in which recently attempts have been made to work the two systems concurrently (in the matter of Hastie, I. L. R. 11 Calc. 151, and in the matter of Leckie, now pending).

4. We recommend that the expression "vesting order" should take the place of the expression "receiving order" in the Act, and that the court officer to whom the management of the estates of insolvents is to be entrusted should be called the "Official Assignee", and not the "Official Receiver." There is already an Official Receiver of the High Court, and the appointment of another officer with the same official designation but with different powers and duties would lead to confusion.

5. Section 3, sub-section (l) (d), should be altered to meet the case of a man carrying on a business by himself, or by his agent or gumáshta, and closing such business. Under the 9th section of the present Insolvent Act, a trader who with intent to defeat or delay his creditors departs from his usual place of business within the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court is liable to be adjudicated an insolvent, and it is on this ground that most adjudications are made.

We do not think that paragraphs (e) and (g) of sub-section (l) of section 3 ought to be retained. In their place we would recommend the introduction of provisions similar to those contained in sections 8 and 9 of the present Act, as to persons lying in prison 21 days, and as to fraudulent executions, including not only executions in fraud of creditors generally but also executions in the nature of fraudulent preferences.

6. The effect of the proposed Act would be to limit the insolvency jurisdiction of the High Court. By section 18 of the Charter of the Calcutta High Court (1865) it is provided "that the Court for Relief of Insolvent Debtors at Calcutta shall be held before one of the Judges of the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal; and the said High Court, and any such Judge thereof, shall have and exercise, within the Bengal Division of the Presidency of Fort William, such powers and authorities with respect to original and appellate jurisdiction and otherwise as are constituted by the laws relating to insolvent debtors in India." By section 5 of the Indian Insolvent Act an insolvent debtor who is in prison within the limits of the town of Calcutta, or who resides within the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court at Calcutta, can petition for relief. The Supreme Court at Calcutta had a personal jurisdiction over all European British subjects residing in Bengal. Their jurisdiction over persons other than European British subjects was limited to the town of Calcutta. It is settled law that the effect of these provisions is to entitle all European British subjects who reside in Bengal to petition for relief from their debts, but that persons other than European British subjects cannot so petition unless they actually reside within the limits of Calcutta. In the cases of creditors' petitions the only limit of jurisdiction seems to arise from the acts of bankruptcy, some of which are restricted to the areas mentioned in the Insolvent Act. This is not a question of a choice between two jurisdictions, as the insolvency procedure applicable to Courts outside Calcutta cannot pretend to be efficient or to meet in the smallest degree the requirements of the commercial classes. We think therefore that the present insolvency jurisdiction of the High Court in this respect should not be curtailed.

7. We think that in the case of a debtor's petition the vesting order should be made at once, and as a matter of course, on the reception of the petition.

In the case of a creditor's petition we think that, as at present, if a primâ facie case be made out on the petition, the debtor should be adjudicated an insolvent and his property vested in the Official Assignee at once. Any delay in making the vesting order would make it impossible in most cases to save any of the debtor's property for his creditors. In order to prevent the risk of an improper adjudication it will be well to provide that the debtor may at any time before his public examination come in and apply to have his adjudication annulled, and that it shall be so annulled unless the creditor satisfies the Court that the debtor has committed an act of bankruptcy. Section 19, sub-sections (2) and (3), might therefore be omitted from the Bill.

8. Section 9 of the proposed Bill does not clearly provide for ad interim protection-orders, and therefore we recommend that power should be given to the Court, in terms similar to the provisions of section 13 of the Indian Insolvent Act, to grant orders for the protection of insolvents for such time as the Court might direct. The granting of such protection should be within the discretion of the Court, and the Court should have power to revoke a protection-order at any time.

9. We think that the mere fact "that a majority of the creditors in number and value are resident in the United Kingdom or in any other part of Her Majesty's dominions beyond the limits of British India" should not entitle a creditor or other person the right to set aside an adjudication, and we recommend that in [illegible] the above words in italics should be transposed and placed between the words "the debtor".

[illegible] section 16, sub-section (l), we think that the statement of affairs should be filed [illegible] be filed in the office of the Official Assignee. It is necessary that there should be two copies, and we recommend that of the two the one filed in court should be taken as the original statement with respect to sub-section (b) of section 16. We think that the statement therein mentioned should be in a written application for inspection, to be filed in court.

11. Section 16, sub-section (3), should empower the Court at any subsequent stage to reopen the public examination and to order a fresh examination of the debtor.

12. We do not think that in this country any creditors, however superior in number or value, should be able to force a composition upon the other creditors.

13. Section 23 should require the insolvent to attend at the Official Assignee's office or wherever required by the Official Assignee, and to give that officer every assistance in realizing his estate and distributing the proceeds.

14. All references to a bankruptcy-notice should be struck out of section 24.

15. In addition to the powers mentioned in section 26 we think that the Court should have power at any time after a vesting order has been made, upon application by the Official Assignee ex parte, to make an order empowering the Official Assignee to take possession of any property as the property of the insolvent. With regard to such property and also with regard to other property which may be claimed by the Official Assignee or the creditors to belong to the estate, we think that the Court should have the same power as in a regular suit, and with the same right of appeal to determine finally all questions between the insolvent's estate and persons in possession of or claiming such property. The High Court should be empowered to frame rules of procedure for the trial of these questions, and also for the payment of the expenses of witnesses to be examined under section 26.

16. Section 27 of the proposed Bill seems to place upon the opposing creditor the burden of proving that the debtor is unworthy of obtaining his discharge. We think that a debtor should, before any relief is granted to him, satisfy the Court, not only that he has not been guilty of the acts specified in the Bill as disentitling him to his discharge, but also that he has been neither dishonest in his dealings nor culpably imprudent in respect of his personal expenditure or the conduct of his business. This principle has been recognized by the legislature in section 351 of the Civil Procedure Code.

We think that section 27 should be altered so as to permit the debtor, should the Court refuse to grant him a discharge, to renew his application for such discharge at a future date; otherwise it might be held that if the Court had once refused to grant an order of discharge the debtor was for ever thereafter debarred from obtaining such discharge. On the other hand it will be necessary by some limitation to prevent frequent applications to the Court upon the same materials.

17. It will be necessary to provide for the discharge of the debtor in the case of the whole body of his creditors releasing him from the whole or a portion of his debts. Section 58 will also have to be altered to meet this event.

18. With reference to section 29 of the Bill we think it will be as well to give the Court power in discharging an insolvent to exempt him from arrest, either generally, or with the exception of particular debts, or after such period as to the Court may seem fit.

We would also recommend that in this section the words "any person for any offence against an enactment relating to any branch of the public revenue" should be struck out, and that the words "Secretary of State" be substituted therefor.

19. In the case of an adjudication being annulled on the ground that the debt alleged by the petitioning creditor was not a good debt, we think that the Court should have power to allow the bankruptcy to proceed as upon the debt of another creditor.

20. With reference to section 36, we would point out that in Calcutta rents are payable monthly, and that, therefore, the landlord should not be entitled after the bankruptcy to levy for more than three months' rent.

21. With regard to section 37 we think that in the case of a debtor's petition the assignee's title should commence at the date of the vesting order, and not before.

22. We do not think that an attaching creditor should be entitled to any priority over other creditors, unless the proceeds of execution have been paid to him. This alteration might be effected by striking out from section 39 the words "realised in the course of execution by sale or otherwise," and substituting therefor the words "actually received by such person."

[illegible] the law at present stands, a creditor who [illegible] an attachment before the vesting order [illegible]

[illegible] the acts therein mentioned.

24. As to sub-section (l) of section 62, the only part which [illegible] to our previous recommendations, need remain, is the part relating to advertisements. The duties, powers and liabilities of the Official Assignee should, however, be clearly defined. We think that his liability should only extend to assets in his hands [illegible] the Court should find that he had not acted bonâ fide in the performance of his duties. We also recommend that he should be entitled to at least one month's notice of action in respect of acts done by him in his official capacity.

25. In sub-section (2) of section 62 the words from "but shall" to "claiming to be creditors" should be struck out.

26. Part V of the Bill requires alteration to meet the case of the Official Assignee, who is an officer of the court. The Court should have power to determine the amount of commission or percentage payable to him. We think that if, at the request of a secured creditor, he realizes the security, the Court should have power to sanction the payment to him of a percentage on the amount realised.

27. We do not think it desirable that the extension of the Act to local Courts as contemplated by section 86, clause (a), and section 88, clause (3), should be carried out, except through the action of the supreme legislature.

28. We have already discussed the first of section 88, clause (a).

30. We think that section 88 should be struck out, and that the Insolvency Court at Calcutta should have power to transfer to itself any insolvency proceedings under the Civil Procedure Code which may at any time be pending in the Civil Courts subject to the High Court.

[illegible] We think that section 89 should be struck out.

[illegible] It should be made clear that the powers proposed to be given to the Court by section 91 extend to persons other than insolvent debtors and their creditors.

[illegible] Having regard to our other recommendations, section 99 requires alteration, and section 103 (b) and the words at the end of section 103 should be struck out.

[illegible] If section 109 is intended to apply to compositions under the Act, it should in our opinion be struck out.

34. We presume that it is intended by section 113 to prevent a receiving order being made against a partnership in its firm name. If so, the section should be made clearer.

35. We do not recommend that estates of persons dying insolvent should be administered in the Bankruptcy Court, except in the cases where they die during the pendency of bankruptcy-proceedings.

36. Having regard to our previous recommendations, it will be unnecessary to retain the second paragraph of section 132.

37. We think that the rights of present officers of the Insolvent Court in respect of pensions or [illegible] should be saved.

In conclusion we wish to remark that in this report we have only called attention to the general principles on which we think the Bill requires alteration.

There are many questions of detail which will have to be considered before a Bankruptcy Bill is passed into law.

From S. E. J. CLARKE, ESQ., Secretary, Bengal Chamber of Commerce, to Secretary to Government of India, Legislative Department,—(dated 30th April, 1886).

MY Committee have submitted their remarks upon the new Bankruptcy Bill for India to the Government of Bengal, who will doubtless forward them to you in due course, but in order to save time now that the draft Bill is before the Legislative Council I am directed to send you with this letter four extra copies of the Chamber's letter of this date.

From S. E. J. CLARKE, ESQ., Secretary, Bengal Chamber of Commerce, to Acting Chief Secretary to Government, Bengal,—(dated 30th April, 1886).

I AM directed by my Committee, in reply to your No. 1335 J. D. of 8th July last, to submit the following observations upon the draft Bill to amend the law of Bankruptcy and Insolvency in British India.

Generally, my Committee are of opinion that the Bill makes a much needed improvement in the law at present in force. Should the Bill become law, and if its administration be carried out with close care and attention, it will do much to simplify proceedings in insolvency and, my Committee believe, to check fraudulent bankruptcies. It will thus afford a larger measure of convenience than heretofore to unfortunate persons, whilst at the same time it will extend to creditors some measure of that protection which the mercantile community especially have long desiderated, and the need for which has been pressed upon the Government at various times by the Chamber of Commerce.

Whilst accepting the Bill as an improvement upon the existing law, my Committee think that in some points it does not sufficiently recognise the peculiar circumstances of India, or the difficulties which those circumstances frequently place in the way of creditors, or the facilities which are offered to Native dealers in evading the payment of their debts. This subject has been long before the Government and the public; and, whilst admitting the difficulties which surround it, my Committee still think it is a matter to be kept very closely in mind in framing any new insolvency law for British India. Indeed, in spite of the failure, some years ago, which attended the attempt to frame a Bill to provide for the registration of partnerships, my Committee cannot but consider that it is extremely desirable that a new enquiry should be made with the view to ascertain whether such a registration cannot be secured, or to bring into prominence the existing provisions of the law in India which afford to some extent the protection to be derived from such a measure. Since the failure both in Bombay and Calcutta to draft a satisfactory Bill dealing with this subject some change has come over the views of Native merchants, and the more prominent among them have evinced a desire to have the question re-opened. Those who have transactions directly with English markets and in the natural development of Indian trade, the number of whom is slowly but steadily increasing, evince quite as much anxiety for the passing of a law to compel a registration of partnerships as the European mercantile community. It would be well if, in connection with so large and important a measure as a new Bankruptcy Bill for all India, a careful and exhaustive enquiry were made into the subject of the registration of partnerships.

Another extremely difficult subject to deal with, but one which, when a bankruptcy measure is before the legislature, should not be overlooked, is the practical exemption which a fraudulent Native trader can acquire by taking shelter within the jurisdiction of some Native State. My Committee are aware of instances where Europeans have availed themselves of this shelter to avoid decrees of the High Court, and though in the case of Europeans the shelter might not be so effectual as in the case of Natives, yet the fact ought not to escape the attention of the legislature that under present circumstances for a Native insolvent to cross from British into Native territory is to give him an immunity the certainty of obtaining which is found to encourage reckless speculation and a ready resort to fraudulent practices. The impunity with which a fraudulent Native debtor can set his creditors at defiance, and in especial the smallness of the dividends derivable from the estates of Native insolvents, have been grievances of the mercantile community in this city for very many years. Indeed, so far back as 1853, the latter formed the subject of a reference from the Chamber of Commerce to Mr. John Cochrane, the then Official Assignee. What the Chamber then complained of is still a serious ground of complaint. There seems to be no good reason why, with proper precautions, decrees of the Indian High Courts should not be allowed to run in the jurisdiction of Native States. The matter is one which my Committee feel to most properly within the province of the Foreign Department of the Government of India, but they see no reason why the Legislative Department should not move the Foreign Office to deal effectually with so important a question, nor why the Foreign Department should not undertake this task in close communication with the Legislative Department, and, if need be, with the Judges of the High Courts in India. The greater the improvement in the bankruptcy law of India and the greater the simplicity which may mark the procedure of the Insolvency Courts, the greater will be the anxiety of a Native insolvent who has been guilty of fraud, concealment of property, the setting up of fictitious co-partners or wrongful preference of particular creditors to avoid appearing before an Insolvency Commissioner; and in this way it may well happen that improvements in law and procedure will have a tendency to accentuate and render more acute the grievance alluded to above and which is felt equally in all the great trading centres of India.

One change of great moment effected by the Bill is that which makes a trustee appointed by the creditors the primary authority for administering an insolvent's estate, whilst the Official Receiver is only to act if the creditors fail to appoint a trustee.

Section 14 of the Bill has the support of my Committee. It should, however, in their opinion, be made clear that, if the creditors of an insolvent will not attend a meeting to consider his position, the Official Receiver shall have the powers to act in the premises upon his own responsibility. My Committee do not feel themselves in a position to recommend that the powers now vested in the Official Assignee, which consider they possibly all that are reasonably necessary to enable him to take possession of the property of a bankrupt and to realise the same for the benefit of the creditors, should be extended. But with reference to clause (b) of section 23, they can see no objection why a larger measure of protection than he now enjoys should not be given to the Official Receiver. Where it is clear that that officer has acted in good faith, they consider that he should not be held personally responsible in the event of its being shown that he acted under a mistake or upon information wrong in itself but accepted by him as correct. Redress in such cases should, my Committee venture to think, be obtainable not at the expense of the Official Assignee but at the cost of the estate concerned.

It is a frequent subject of complaint that an insolvent's books are not promptly forthcoming, that his accounts are confused and in many cases unintelligible, that there is a want of system in presenting an insolvent's accounts, and that schedules are amended as a matter of form. Reviewing these matters it appears desirable that the office of the Official Receiver should be strengthened by having attached to it an experienced professional accountant. The books of an insolvent should vest in the Official Receiver from the date of the adjudication order. A report should be made at the next sitting of the Court that the books are either in the Official Receiver's hands or under his authority and control. The accounts of the estate could then, as might prove most convenient, be made up either in the office of the Official Receiver, where the insolvent would attend for this purpose, or in the insolvent's office under the inspection of the official accountant. In either case creditors would receive additional and much needed security, time would be saved and a greater interest in the settlement of the estate be exhibited on the part of creditors. It will be seen that this suggestion does not in any way throw obstacles in the way of a bankrupt's access to his books or to his closing of them correctly. It would compel him rather to avoid all unnecessary delays, and to furnish the Court with as correct a statement of his position as possible at the earliest possible moment. The immediate supervision of the preparation of this statement by the official accountant, or his close inspection of the books whilst it was being drawn up, would effectually deprive insolvents of the many common excuses which are now put forward for delaying the making over to the Official Assignee of the records of a business. The provisions of the draft Act as to the delivering up of a bankrupt's books should be thoroughly and carefully enforced, and as a corollary means should be provided to secure that the books shall be properly cared for. There are not a few insolvents who require experienced and capable assistants to enable them to close their books. At the same time the knowledge that upon the occurrence of an act of insolvency the closing of the books would be imperative and prompt would tend to greater strictness in the keeping of accounts, and would in itself cure that carelessness which Insolvency Commissioners in India are constantly reprobating. The suggestion that the office of the Official Receiver should be strengthened in the way above indicated has been put forward by my Committee because of the great importance which cannot but be attached to the speedy closing of an insolvent's books. They would prefer that, so far as possible, this should be done by a professional and experienced officer responsible to the Official Receiver and the Court rather than by some skilled but outside agency. In connection with this particular question, and as pointing to a branch of duty which would devolve upon an official accountant, it is extremely desirable that information as to the position of an insolvent's estate should be more generally and more readily available than it is at present. This end could only be attained with the greatest advantage to all concerned. My Committee would therefore suggest that it should be a direction to the Official Receiver or other trustee in bankruptcy to issue periodical reports duly certified by the official accountant and the progress made in realising the assets of each estate. These reports should be circulated at reasonably brief intervals, and should give creditors all the information needed to enable them to understand the progress made in settling a bankrupt's affairs. It is very desirable that creditors should be encouraged to take a steady and persistent interest in the liquidation of an estate, and nothing seems so likely to produce this result as an assurance that delays will be reduced to a minimum, and that the Official Receiver or Trustee shall as a matter of course keep the creditors informed of that which it most concerns them to know. In this way the reproach which now attaches but too often to the proceedings in the Insolvency Courts, that they are more or less of a purely formal character, would be done away with, and the Courts themselves would be in a better position to judge of the character of an insolvent's dealings and to distinguish between unjustifiable and speculative trading and bad fortune arising from the accidents of trade or of living.

The suggestion for the periodical circulation amongst creditors of statements showing the progress made in liquidating an estate applies equally to a trustee other than the Official Receiver or to a Committee of Inspection. Hitherto one of the main difficulties in working the existing Act has been the apathy shown by creditors; and it is, in the opinion of my Committee, necessary to show creditors that they can with little trouble acquaint themselves with all that concerns them as regards an insolvent estate, to induce them to attend meetings, and to take an active part in the winding up of their debtor's affairs. So long as creditors believe that no meetings is to proceed without their leave, to attend at the office of the Official Receiver, or to write a letter, unless under unusual circumstances, is a matter of no importance, so long will the attendance at meetings be small, and the chances of getting together a sufficient number to pass a resolution, even if it may be used to remove to the Official Receiver power to call a meeting of creditors, be slender.
