Annexation of ceded lands to Jhánsí district.

2. The town and fort of Jhánsí, and the lands which may be ceded to the British Government in accordance with the proposal referred to in the preamble to this Part, shall, in the case of the town and fort, from the commencement of this Act, and, in the case of any of the lands, from the date of the cession thereof, be deemed to be part of the Jhánsí district.

Application of law in force in ceded lands to have effect in Jhánsí district.

3. All enactments which at the commencement of this Act, or at the date of the cession of any of those lands, as the case may be, in the foregoing section, are or shall be in force in the Jhánsí district and not in the town and fort of Jhánsí or in those lands, shall then come into force in the town and fort or in those lands, as the case may be.

Ceded lands to become part of the scheduled districts of Jhánsí.

4. On and from the commencement of this Act, or the date of the cession of any of those lands, as the case may be, the town and fort of Jhánsí and the lands shall be deemed to form part of the district of Jhánsí mentioned in Part IV of the first schedule to the Scheduled Districts Act, 1874.

5. All acts of executive authority, proceedings, decrees and sentences which have been done, taken or passed in or with respect to the town and fort of Jhánsí since the beginning of March, 1886, and before the commencement of this Act, by any officer of the Government, or by any person acting under his authority or otherwise in pursuance of an order of the Government, or which have been or shall be ratified by the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces, shall be as valid and operative as if they had been done, taken or passed in accordance with law; and no suit or other proceeding shall be maintained or continued against any person whatever on the ground that any such acts, proceedings, decrees or sentences were not done, taken or passed in accordance with law.

Validation of acts done since the beginning of March, 1886.

PART II.

And whereas it is expedient that decrees and orders passed by the Civil and Revenue Courts of His Highness in cases which would have been cognizable by the Civil and Revenue Courts of the Jhánsí district under the Code of Civil Procedure or the Jhánsí Courts Act, 1867, or the North-Western Provinces Rent Act, 1881, if the territory ceded by His Highness had been part of the Jhánsí district at the time of the institution of the cases, should be capable of being executed as if they had been made by the Courts of the Jhánsí district;

XIV of 1882. XVIII of 1867. XII of 1881.

And whereas the period of limitation prescribed for suits in the territories of His Highness is twelve years, and it is expedient that persons having just claims which, but for the cession of territory, they might have enforced in the Courts of His Highness, should not be debarred from enforcing those claims by reason of a shorter period of limitation being prescribed for any class of suits by the law in force in the Jhánsí district;

And whereas it is expedient that suits pending in the Courts of His Highness and left undetermined by those Courts by reason of cession of territory should be continued in the Courts of the Jhánsí district;

And whereas it is expedient to remove doubts as to the effect of the law in force in the Jhánsí district, with respect to registration and stamps, on documents and instruments to which at the time of their execution the law of His Highness applied and the law of British India did not apply;

It is hereby further enacted as follows:—

6. (1) An application for the execution of a decree or order passed by a Civil or Revenue Court of His Highness in any such case as is referred to in the first clause of the preamble to this Part may, with the previous sanction of the Deputy Commissioner, be made to any Court in the Jhánsí district subordinate to the Court of the Commissioner which may be specified by the Deputy Commissioner in that behalf in his order giving the sanction.

Execution of decrees of Gwalior Courts.

(2) If in any case the Deputy Commissioner is of opinion that for special reasons the sanction ought to be withheld or ought to be granted subject to conditions, he may either withhold his sanction or permit the application to be made on any conditions which in the circumstances he deems it proper to impose; but in either of those cases he shall record the reasons in writing.

(3) The fact that an application is barred by the Indian Limitation Act, 1877, may be sufficient cause for withholding sanction to the making of the application, but in any case in which the holder of the decree or order has been debarred from enforcing it by reason of the cession of the town and fort of Jhánsí to the British Government, and to which the Deputy Commissioner sees fit to apply the provisions of that Act, the Deputy Commissioner shall, in computing the period of limitation, exclude therefrom the time which has elapsed between the cession of the town and fort and the commencement of this Act. XV of 1877.

(4) Subject to revision by the Commissioner of the Jhánsí Division, an order of the Deputy Commissioner sanctioning or refusing to sanction the making of an application under this section, or imposing conditions with respect thereto, shall be final.

7. (1) Notwithstanding anything in the Indian Limitation Act, 1877, or in any other enactment, the Deputy Commissioner may, within such term, not exceeding two years from the commencement of this Act, as the Local Government may prescribe in this behalf, admit any suit of a nature cognizable by the Courts of British India, which, if there had not been a cession of territory and the suit had been instituted in a Court of His Highness having jurisdiction with respect thereto, would not be liable to be dismissed by that Court by reason of its being barred by any law of limitation. XV of 1877.

Extension of period of limitation for certain suits.

(2) In the computation of the period of limitation for a suit referred to in sub-section (1) which the plaintiff has been debarred from instituting by reason of the cession of the town and fort of Jhánsí to the British Government, there shall be excluded from the period the time which has elapsed between the cession of the town and fort and the commencement of this Act.

(3) Subject to revision by the Commissioner of the Jhánsí Division, an order of the Deputy Commissioner admitting or refusing to admit a suit under sub-section (1) shall be final.

8. An original suit pending in a Court of His Highness and left undetermined by that Court by reason of cession of territory may, be continued, under the law of limitation applicable to that Court but otherwise in accordance with the law and procedure of British Indian Courts, in any Court in the Jhánsí district subordinate to the Court of the Commissioner which the Deputy Commissioner may appoint in that behalf.

Continuance of pending suits.

9. The provisions of the law of British India with respect to the consequences of documents being unregistered or instruments being unstamped shall not apply to any document or instrument which may have been executed before a date to be prescribed in this behalf by the Local Government, and to which the law of His Highness applied, and the law of British India did not apply, at the time of its execution.

Saving in favour of unregistered documents and unstamped instruments.

PART III.

And whereas it is expedient that traders and others who were entitled immediately before the cession of the cantonment of Morar to institute certain suits in, or make applications for or with respect to the execution of certain decrees to, a Civil Court at Morar should be enabled to institute those suits in, and make those applications to, the Civil Courts at Jhánsí and Agra, and at any other place from time to time appointed in this behalf by the Governor-General in Council, and that the period of limitation in these cases should be extended;

It is hereby further enacted as follows:—

10. (1) Any person who at the date of the cession of the cantonment of Morar was entitled to institute in a Civil Court at Morar a suit of any of the descriptions referred to in articles 50 to 54 (both inclusive) or articles 56 to 64 (both inclusive) or articles 66 to 75 (both inclusive) of the second schedule to the Indian Limitation Act, 1877, or to make to any such Court an application for or with respect to the execution of a decree in any such suit, may institute the suit or make the application in any Civil Court at Jhánsí or Agra, or other place appointed in that behalf by the Governor-General in Council, which would have jurisdiction in the suit to be instituted, or, as the case may be, would have had jurisdiction in the suit in which the decree to be executed was passed, if the cause of action had arisen within the local limits of its jurisdiction.

XV of 1877

Suits for debt formerly cognizable in a Morar Court to be cognizable in Courts at certain other places.

(2) Notwithstanding anything in any enactment or notification to the contrary, any Civil Court at Jhánsí or Agra, or other place aforesaid, in which any such suit or application as is referred to in sub-section (1) is instituted or made shall, subject to the provisions of that sub-section, have jurisdiction to dispose of it.

(3) In computing the period of limitation for any suit or application referred to in this section, the time which has elapsed between the date of the cession of the cantonment of Morar and the commencement of this Act shall be excluded.

(3) The fact that an application is barred by the Indian Limitation Act, 1877, may be sufficient cause for withholding sanction to the making of the application, but in any case in which the holder of the decree or order has been debarred from enforcing it by reason of the cession of the town and fort of Jhánsí to the British Government, and to which the Deputy Commissioner sees fit to apply the provisions of that Act, the Deputy Commissioner shall, in computing the period of limitation, exclude therefrom the time which has elapsed between the cession of the town and fort and the commencement of this Act. XV of 1877.

(4) Subject to revision by the Commissioner of the Jhánsí Division, an order of the Deputy Commissioner sanctioning or refusing to sanction the making of an application under this section, or imposing conditions with respect thereto, shall be final.

The provisions of the law of British India with respect to the consequences of documents being unregistered or instruments being unstamped shall not apply to any document or instrument which may have been executed before a date to be prescribed in this behalf by the Local Government, and to which the law of His Highness applied, and the law of British India did not apply, at the time of its execution.

Saving in favour of unregistered documents and unstamped instruments.

PART III.

Suits for debt formerly cognizable in a Morar Court to be cognizable in Courts at certain other places.

XV of 1877.

(2) Notwithstanding anything in any enactment or notification to the contrary, any Civil Court at Jhánsí or Agra, or other place aforesaid, in which any such suit or application as is referred to in sub-section (1) is instituted or made shall, subject to the provisions of that sub-section, have jurisdiction to dispose of it.

The following Act of the Governor-General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor-General on the 24th September, 1886, and is hereby promulgated for general information :—

ACT No. XVIII OF 1886.

An Act to amend Act XXXVI of 1858.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend Act XXXVI of 1858 (an Act relating to Lunatic Asylums); It is hereby enacted as follows :—

New section inserted after section 6.

1. After section 6 the following shall be inserted, namely :—

Detention of supposed lunatics under observation.

"6 A. (1) Where a person found wandering at large who is deemed to be a lunatic, or where a person believed to be dangerous by reason of lunacy, is apprehended and sent to the Magistrate or the Commissioner of Police, or where, on report or information that a person deemed to be a lunatic is not under proper care and control or is cruelly treated or neglected, the Magistrate or the Commissioner of Police sends for him and then determines to proceed as prescribed in section 4 of this Act, the Magistrate or the Commissioner of Police, on the request of the medical officer, may, by order in writing, authorise the detention of the supposed lunatic for such time, not exceeding ten days, as, in the opinion of the Magistrate or the Commissioner of Police, may be necessary to enable the medical officer to form an opinion on the question whether or not the supposed lunatic is a person with respect to whom a certificate in the form A in the schedule to this Act ought to be signed.

"(2) If the medical officer certifies further detention than has been authorised under sub-section (1) to be necessary to enable him to form his opinion on that question, the Magistrate or the Commissioner of Police may from time to time, by order in writing, authorise such further detention as he deems to be necessary :

"Provided that a supposed lunatic shall not be detained for the purpose of this section for a longer time than fourteen days from the date on which the first order authorising his detention for that purpose is made.

"17B. The Governor-General in Council may from time to time, by order, direct, with respect to any part of British India which is not annexed to a presidency or, being annexed to the presidency of Fort William, Fort Saint George or Bombay, is situated at a greater distance than three hundred miles from Calcutta, Madras or Bombay, respectively, that any lunatic asylum in British India named in the order shall be deemed for that part to be a lunatic asylum at the presidency for the purposes of this Act."

Offg. Secretary to the Government of India.

The following Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend Act XXXVI of 1858 was presented to the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 15th September, 1886 :—

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

WE, the undersigned, Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to amend Act XXXVI of 1858 was referred, have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin, and have now the honour to submit this our Report.

From Officiating Assistant Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Central Provinces, No. 182—9, dated 21st January, 1886 [Paper No. 1].
From Secretary for Berar to Resident, Hyderabad, No. 14G., dated 19th January, 1886 [Paper No. 2].
From Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Assam, No 224, dated 27th January, 1886 [Paper No. 3].
From Officiating Secretary to Chief Commissioner, British Burma, No. 534—4L., dated 29th January, 1886 [Paper No. 4].
From Chief Commissioner, Ajmer-Merwára, No. 294C., dated 3rd February, 1886 [Paper No. 5].
From Under-Secretary to Government, Bombay, No. 522, dated 9th February, 1886, and enclosures [Papers No. 6].
From Acting Chief Secretary to Government, Madras, No. 355, dated 9th February, 1886, and enclosures [Papers No. 7].
From Secretary to Government, North-Western Provinces and Oudh, No. 334—VI-590-6, dated 19th February, 1886, and enclosure [Papers No. 8].
From Registrar, High Court, Calcutta, No. 502, dated 23rd February, 1886 [Paper No. 9].
From Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Coorg, No. 288—12, dated 1st March, 1886 [Paper No. 10].
From Officiating Secretary to Government, Bengal, No. 1604, dated 1st April, 1886 [Paper No 11].
From Secretary to Government, Punjab, No. 319, dated 19th March, 1886, and enclosures [Papers No. 12].

2. The Bill as introduced was approved by the authorities to whom it was referred, but further amendments of the Act were proposed by the Governments of Bengal and the Punjab.

3. The former Government drew attention to the absence of any provision authorising the detention of supposed lunatics for observation, and the latter to the inconvenience ensuing from the provision which requires lunatics who are not natives of the country to be sent in all cases to an asylum at the presidency.

4. It appeared to us that express provision ought to be made for the detention of supposed lunatics. As a matter of practice they are detained, for in many cases the medical officer is not in a position to form an opinion on the question whether or not a person is a lunatic until he has had the person under observation for some days. The detention is probably legal where it is authorised by the Magistrate (I. L. R. 9 Cal. 341), but it is desirable that there should be no room for doubt as to the legality of a practice which is in fact absolutely necessary. We considered it desirable, however, before submitting our Report, to consult Local Governments, and we therefore circulated a draft clause proposing, in accordance with the advice of the Surgeon-General, a period of ten days as the maximum term of detention for purposes of observation. We have now, after considering the replies to our circular, proposed to extend the term to fourteen days, and to authorise Local Governments to make rules as to the place of detention, and the care and treatment, of supposed lunatics.

5. The proposal of the Punjab Government with respect to the establishment of asylums at other places than the presidency-towns for lunatics who are not natives of the country was referred by us to other Local Governments, and has been approved by them. We have provided, therefore, that the Governor-General in Council may, with respect to any part of British India which is not annexed to a presidency, or is more than three hundred miles from a presidency-town, direct that any lunatic asylum named in the order shall be deemed for that part to be a lunatic asylum at the presidency for the purposes of the Act.

6. Section 9 of the Act empowers the visitors of a lunatic asylum to order the discharge of any person detained in the asylum. As the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1882, and the Prisoners Act, 1871, reserve that power in certain cases to other authorities, we have proposed to prefix to that section an express saving of the provisions of other enactments.

An Act to legalize the discharge by the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces of certain functions of the Governor-General in Council.

Transfer to Lieutenant-Governor of certain functions of Governor-General in Council.

1. The sections of the enactments in the schedule to this Act which are specified in the third column of that schedule shall have effect, and, so far as may be necessary to validate anything heretofore done under them by the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces, shall be deemed to have had effect as if the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces were therein referred to instead of the Governor-General in Council.

Validation of exercise by Lieutenant-Governor of functions of Governor-General in Council under Regulation LII of 1803.

2. Sections 3, 7, 9 and 17 of Regulation LII of 1803 shall be deemed to have had effect in the North-Western Provinces as if the words "or the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces" had been inserted in those sections after the words "Governor-General in Council" wherever the latter words occur.

The following Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to regalize the discharge by the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces of certain functions of the Governor-General in Council was presented to the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 15th September, 1886 :—

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

WE, the undersigned, Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to legalize the discharge by the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces of certain functions of the Governor-General in Council was referred, have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin, and have now the honour to submit this our Report.

From Officiating Secretary to Chief Commissioner, British Burma, No. 574—17L., dated 19th September, 1884, and enclosure [Papers No. 1].
From Officiating Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Assam, No. 1520, dated 20th September, 1884 [Paper No. 2].
From Officiating Secretary to Government, Punjab, No. 5728., dated 29th September, 1884, and enclosures [Papers No 3].
From Chief Commissioner, Ajmer-Merwára, No. 841, dated 3rd October, 1884 [Paper No. 4].
From Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Central Provinces, No. 360., dated 26th October, 1884, and enclosure [Papers No. 5].
From Secretary to Government, North-Western Provinces and Oudh, No. 121—XIII-10-5, dated 8th August, 1884, and enclosures [Papers No. 6].

2. We have removed Regulation LII of 1800 from the schedule to the Bill, because the Mirzapur Stone Mahál Act, 1886, seems to us to render its retention unnecessary.

3. We have proposed in an additional section to validate the exercise by the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces of the powers of the Governor-General in Council under Regulation LII of 1803 which the Lieutenant-Governor seems to have exercised without question throughout the forty years which elapsed between the constitution of his office and the repeal of the Regulation. When the Bill was under consideration some two years ago, the interests of the parties to a suit then pending might have been affected by the validation of the exercise of these powers, and it was therefore decided that our Report should be delayed till the suit had been disposed of. There is now, so far as we are aware, no litigation before any Court which can be influenced in any way by the enactment of the section which we propose to add to the Bill.

(2) The Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, may from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, transfer any portion of Upper Burma to Lower Burma, or any portion of Lower Burma to Upper Burma, with effect from a date to be specified in the notification, and on and from that date the portion so transferred shall form part of Lower Burma or Upper Burma, as the case may be.

(3) When any portion of Upper Burma is transferred to Lower Burma, the Scheduled Districts Act, 1874, shall, unless the Governor-General in Council otherwise directs, continue to be in force therein. XIV of 1874.

Division of Upper Burma into divisions, districts, sub-divisions, townships and circles.

6. (1) Subject to the provisions of any Regulation under the Statute 33 Victoria, chapter 3, so much of each of the enactments specified in the second schedule to this Act as is at the commencement of this Act in force in any part of Lower Burma which is not included in a scheduled district as defined in the Scheduled Districts Act, 1874, shall be deemed to be in force in Upper Burma generally, or in the Town of Mandalay only, according as the enactment is specified in the First or Second Part of the schedule. XIV of 1874.

(2) An enactment not specified in that schedule shall not be deemed to be or to have been in force in Upper Burma or in any part of Upper Burma unless it is expressed, by special mention of Upper Burma or a part of Upper Burma, to extend thereto, or after the commencement of this Act is extended thereto in exercise of the powers conferred by section 5 of the Scheduled Districts Act, 1874, or by any other enactment for the time being in force.

(3) The Local Government may, from time to time, with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, by notification in the official Gazette, declare that any enactment which is specified in that schedule or which may hereafter be extended in exercise of any such powers as aforesaid, shall no longer be in force in Upper Burma or in any part of Upper Burma specified in the notification.

Modification of certain enactments in force in Upper Burma exclusive of the Shan States.

7. (1) The following enactments specified in the First Part of the second schedule to this Act shall, in Upper Burma, be read subject to the following modifications, namely :—

(b) in Act V of 1861 (an Act for the Regulation of Police), to section 2 the words "All Thugyis and Myothugyis for the time being holding office shall be police-officers, and shall be deemed to have been formally enrolled under this Act" shall be added;

(c) in Act VI of 1864 (an Act to authorise the punishment of whipping in certain cases), after section 5 the section and schedule in the third schedule to this Act shall be added;

(d) in the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, after the words "police officer" in section 25 the words "who is not a Magistrate" shall be inserted;

(e) in the Dramatic Performances Act, 1876, the words "within such area" shall be omitted from the third paragraph of section 10, and for the first two paragraphs of that section the following shall be substituted, namely :—

"No dramatic performance shall take place except under a license granted by the District Magistrate or such officer as the District Magistrate may appoint in this behalf.

"Any person who promotes or takes part in any dramatic performance in contravention of the foregoing portion of this section shall be punishable, on conviction before a Magistrate, with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months, or with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, or with both."

(2) This section does not extend to the Shan States.

All acts of executive authority, proceedings, decrees and sentences, which have been done, taken or passed in Upper Burma since the seventeenth day of November, 1885, and before the commencement of this Act, by any officer of the Government, or by any person acting under his authority or otherwise in pursuance of an order of the Government, or which have been or shall be ratified by the Local Government, shall be as valid and operative as if they had been done, taken or passed in accordance with law; and no suit or other proceeding shall be maintained or continued against any person whatever on the ground that any such acts, proceedings, decrees or sentences were not done, taken or passed in accordance with law.

Validation of rules made before commencement of this Act.

11. All rules, orders or instructions made or issued after the seventeenth day of November, 1885, and before the commencement of this Act, for the guidance of officers engaged in the administration of Upper Burma shall be deemed to have had the force of law, and shall, so far as they are consistent with this Act, continue to have the force of law until they are withdrawn, or are superseded by any Act of the Governor-General in Council, or by any Regulation under the Statute 33 Victoria, chapter 3, or by any enactment extended to Upper Burma, or by any rules, orders or instructions made or issued under any such Act, Regulation or enactment.

S. HARVEY JAMES,
Offg. Secretary to the Government of India.

The following Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to declare the law in force in Upper Burma was presented to the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 15th September, 1886:—

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

WE, the undersigned, Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to declare the law in force in Upper Burma was referred, have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin, and have now the honour to submit this our Report.

From Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Burma, No. 83—130, dated 4th September, 1886, and enclosures.
From Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Burma, No. 84—130, dated 4th September, 1886, and enclosures.

2. We have, in accordance with the advice of the Chief Commissioner, provided in section 1 that certain portions of the Bill shall not come into force at once. It is desirable that sections 6 to 14 of the Bill, as amended by us, should not have effect until the Civil and Criminal Justice Regulations, which have been drawn, and for the most part settled, have been finally proposed by the Chief Commissioner and have received the assent of the Governor-General under the Statute 33 Victoria, chapter 3.

3. Section 3, regarding the division of Upper Burma into divisions, districts, sub-divisions, townships and circles, will serve the purposes of the Regulations which the Chief Commissioner is about to propose.

4. Section 4 has been so modified as to cover, it is believed, the language of all enactments in force in Lower Burma.

5. Section 6 has been so amended as to define more precisely the local area to which the Second Part of the Second Schedule is to apply. The Shan States are excluded from the operation of this and the next following section.

6. Section 7.—(1) The section (7) which it was proposed to add to Act VI of 1864 will be rendered unnecessary by the application to Upper Burma of sections 390 to 395 of the Code of Criminal Procedure by the proposed Criminal Justice Regulation.

(2) It is proposed to amend section 25 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, in its application to Upper Burma, because Thugyis and Myothugyis will, besides being police-officers, be local Magistrates and Judges.

(3) The modification of section 10, Act XIX of 1876, will substantially continue the law as it was found in Upper Burma with respect to pwés or dramatic entertainments, and as it seems desirable to maintain that law for the present.

7. Section 8 provides that British Indian law shall not extend proprio vigore to any of the Shan States.

8. Sections 9, 10 and 11 remain, with slight modifications, as they were in the Bill as introduced.

9. We have added some Acts to the First Part of the Second Schedule. Among them are the Court-fees and Stamp Acts, the Presidency Banks Acts, the Indian Companies Act and the Land Improvement Loans Act. The operation of the Court-fees and Stamp Acts will be limited by notifications to be issued when those Acts come into force. The fact that the Bank of Bengal contemplates the establishment of a branch at Mandalay necessitates the extension of the Presidency Banks Acts. The Indian Companies Act may be required at any time; and the local authorities advise the extension of the Land Improvement Loans Act for the purposes of loans to be made for irrigation-works.

10. The jurisdiction to be conferred on, and the rules to be prescribed for, the Civil Court of Mandalay will render necessary the extension of the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, XI of 1865, and the Code of Civil Procedure to the Town of Mandalay.

11. Other amendments of the Bill do not call for remark.

12. The publication ordered by the Council has been made as follows:—

In English.

Gazette.	Date.
Gazette of India	... 14th, 21st and 28th August, 1886.
British Burma Gazette	... 4th, 11th and 18th September, 1886.

In the Vernacular.

Province.	Language.	Date.
Burma	Burmese ...	... 11th and 18th September, 1886.

13. We do not think that the measure has been so altered as to require re-publication, and we recommend that it be passed as now amended.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[First publication.]

The following Act of the Governor-General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor-General on the 24th September, 1886, and is hereby promulgated for general information:—

ACT NO. XXI OF 1886.

An Act to declare certain allowances collectively known as Oudh Wasikas to be pensions within the meaning of the Pensions Act, 1871.

WHEREAS, on the death of Her Highness the Bahu Begam, His Highness the Nawáb Vazir of Oudh delivered to the British Government a sum of money with intent that the interest accruing thereon should, in compliance with the wishes of Her Highness the Bahu Begam as expressed in a Deed of Deposit executed by her in the year 1813, be applied by the British Government to the payment of certain pensions, which pensions are known as the Amanat Wasikas;

And whereas in the year 1813 the said Government guaranteed the payment of certain pensions to persons connected with the Khás Mahál of Her Highness the Bahu Begam, which pensions are known as the Zamanat Wasikas;

And whereas, in the years 1814, 1825 and 1838, loans, known respectively as the 1st, 3rd and 6th Oudh loans, were made by the Rulers of Oudh to the Honourable the East India Company with intent that the interest accruing thereon should be applied by the said Government to the payment of certain pensions, which pensions are known as the Loan Wasikas;

And whereas the Amanat, Zamanat and Loan Wasikas have been regarded as pensions to which the Pensions Act, 1871, applies, and rules respecting them have been made and published under section 14 of that Act; XXIII of 1871.

And whereas, since the making and publication of the rules, doubt has been expressed whether the said Wasikas are pensions within the meaning of the Pensions Act, 1871;

And whereas it is expedient to declare them to be pensions within the meaning of that Act;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title. 1. This Act may be called the Oudh Wasikas Act, 1886.

Application of Act XXIII of 1871 to Wasikas. 2. The allowances respectively known as the Amanat Wasikas, the Zamanat Wasikas and the Loan Wasikas are pensions within the meaning of the Pensions Act, 1871, and that Act shall apply to them as if they were pensions of the classes referred to in sections 4 and 11 of that Act. XXIII of 1871.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

WE, the undersigned, Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to declare certain allowances collectively known as Oudh Wasikas to be pensions within the meaning of the Pensions Act, 1871, was referred, have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin, and have now the honour to submit this our Report.

From Chief Secretary to Government, North-Western Provinces and Oudh, No. 4281A.—X.-F.-42, dated 30th August, 1886, and enclosure [Papers No. 1].

From Messrs. Harriss and Simmons, Solicitors, Calcutta, dated 8th September, 1886.

2. The Government of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh having reported that the pensions payable under the Treaty of the year 1829, under which the 5th Oudh loan was made to the Honourable the East India Company, have all been commuted, we have removed section 3 of the Bill as introduced and so much of the preamble as had reference to that section.

3. Exception having been taken to some of the pensions being described as "conferred by a former Government and continued by the British Government on political considerations," we have re-drawn section 2 of the Bill so as to make it clear that the allowances are dealt with as pensions of that nature only for the purpose of barring the Civil Courts from entertaining suits relating to them and of protecting them from attachment at the instance of creditors.

ACT NO. XVII OF 1886.

An Act to annex the Town and Fort of Jhánsí and certain adjacent Territory to the Jhánsí District, and for certain other purposes.

Short title and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Jhánsí and Morar Act, 1886; and

(2) It shall come into force on a date to be appointed in this behalf by the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces, which date is in this Act referred to as the commencement of this Act.

PART I.

WHEREAS since the beginning of March, 1886, the town and fort of Jhánsí have been ceded to the British Government in full sovereignty by His Highness the Mahárájá Scindia in exchange for the cantonment of Morar which has been ceded to His Highness in full sovereignty by the British Government;

And whereas the town and fort of Jhánsí have been declared by the Governor-General in Council to be subject to the Lieutenant-Governorship of the North-Western Provinces;

And whereas it is proposed that certain lands adjacent to the Jhánsí district should be ceded to the British Government in full sovereignty by His Highness in exchange for certain other lands to be ceded to His Highness in full sovereignty by the British Government;

And whereas it is also expedient that the town and fort, and the lands which may be ceded to the British Government, should, for the purposes of the Scheduled Districts Act, 1874, form part of the Jhánsí district;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Annexation of ceded lands to Jhánsí district.

2. The town and fort of Jhánsí, and the lands which may be ceded to the British Government in accordance with the proposal referred to in the preamble to this Part, shall, in the case of the town and fort, from the commencement of this Act, and, in the case of any of the lands, from the date of the cession thereof, be deemed to be part of the Jhánsí district.

Assimilation of law in force in ceded lands to law in force in Jhánsí district.

3. All enactments which at the commencement of this Act, or at the date of the cession of any of the lands referred to in the last foregoing section, are or shall be in force in the Jhánsí district and not in the town and fort of Jhánsí or in those lands, shall then come into force in the town and fort or in those lands, as the case may be.

Ceded lands to become part of the scheduled district of Jhánsí.

4. On and from the commencement of this Act, or the date of the cession of any of these lands, as the case may be, the town and fort of Jhánsí and the lands shall be deemed to form part of the district of Jhánsí mentioned in Part IV of the first schedule to the Scheduled Districts Act, 1874. 5. All acts of executive authority, proceedings, decrees and sentences which have been done, taken or passed in or with respect to the town and fort of Jhánsí since the beginning of March, 1886, and before the commencement of this Act, by any officer of the Government, or by any person acting under his authority or otherwise in pursuance of an order of the Government, or which have been or shall be ratified by the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces, shall be as valid and operative as if they had been done, taken or passed in accordance with law; and no suit or other proceeding shall be maintained or continued against any person whatever on the ground that any such acts, proceedings, decrees or sentences were not done, taken or passed in accordance with law.

Validation of acts done since the beginning of March, 1886.

PART II.

And whereas it is expedient that decrees and orders passed by the Civil and Revenue Courts of His Highness in cases which would have been cognizable by the Civil and Revenue Courts of the Jhánsí district under the Code of Civil Procedure or the Jhánsí Courts Act, 1867, or the North-Western Provinces Rent Act, 1881, if the territory ceded by His Highness had been part of the Jhánsí district at the time of the institution of the cases, should be capable of being executed as if they had been made by the Courts of the Jhánsí district;

XIV of 1882. XVIII of 1867. XII of 1881.

And whereas the period of limitation prescribed for suits in the territories of His Highness is twelve years, and it is expedient that persons having just claims which, but for the cession of territory, they might have enforced in the Courts of His Highness, should not be debarred from enforcing those claims by reason of a shorter period of limitation being prescribed for any class of suits by the law in force in the Jhánsí district;

And whereas it is expedient that suits pending in the Courts of His Highness and left undetermined by those Courts by reason of cession of territory should be continued in the Courts of the Jhánsí district;

And whereas it is expedient to remove doubts as to the effect of the law in force in the Jhánsí district, with respect to registration and stamps, on documents and instruments to which at the time of their execution the law of His Highness applied and the law of British India did not apply;

It is hereby further enacted as follows:—

6. (1) An application for the execution of a decree or order passed by a Civil or Revenue Court of His Highness in any such case as is referred to in the first clause of the preamble to this Part may, with the previous sanction of the Deputy Commissioner, be made to any Court in the Jhánsí district subordinate to the Court of the Commissioner which may be specified by the Deputy Commissioner in that behalf in his order giving the sanction.

Execution of decrees of Gwalior Courts.

(2) If in any case the Deputy Commissioner is of opinion that for special reasons the sanction ought to be withheld or ought to be granted subject to conditions, he may either withhold his sanction or permit the application to be made on any conditions which in the circumstances he deems it proper to impose; but in either of those cases he shall record the reasons in writing.

(3) The fact that an application is barred by the Indian Limitation Act, 1877, may be sufficient cause for withholding sanction to the making of the application, but in any case in which the holder of the decree or order has been debarred from enforcing it by reason of the cession of the town and fort of Jhánsí to the British Government, and to which the Deputy Commissioner sees fit to apply the provisions of that Act, the Deputy Commissioner shall, in computing the period of limitation, exclude therefrom the time which has elapsed between the cession of the town and fort and the commencement of this Act. XV of 1877.

(4) Subject to revision by the Commissioner of the Jhánsí Division, an order of the Deputy Commissioner sanctioning or refusing to sanction the making of an application under this section, or imposing conditions with respect thereto, shall be final.

7. (1) Notwithstanding anything in the Indian Limitation Act, 1877, or in any other enactment, the Deputy Commissioner may, within such term, not exceeding two years from the commencement of this Act, as the Local Government may prescribe in this behalf, admit any suit of a nature cognizable by the Courts of British India, which, if there had not been a cession of territory and the suit had been instituted in a Court of His Highness having jurisdiction with respect thereto, would not be liable to be dismissed by that Court by reason of its being barred by any law of limitation. XV of 1877.

Extension of period of limitation for certain suits.

(2) In the computation of the period of limitation for a suit referred to in sub-section (1) which the plaintiff has been debarred from instituting by reason of the cession of the town and fort of Jhánsí to the British Government, there shall be excluded from the period the time which has elapsed between the cession of the town and fort and the commencement of this Act.

(3) Subject to revision by the Commissioner of the Jhánsí Division, an order of the Deputy Commissioner admitting or refusing to admit a suit under sub-section (1) shall be final.

8. An original suit pending in a Court of His Highness and left undetermined by that Court by reason of cession of territory may, be continued, under the law of limitation applicable to that Court but otherwise in accordance with the law and procedure of British Indian Courts, in any Court in the Jhánsí district subordinate to the Court of the Commissioner which the Deputy Commissioner may appoint in that behalf.

Continuance of pending suits.

9. The provisions of the law of British India with respect to the consequences of documents being unregistered or instruments being unstamped shall not apply to any document or instrument which may have been executed before a date to be prescribed in this behalf by the Local Government, and to which the law of His Highness applied, and the law of British India did not apply, at the time of its execution.

Saving in favour of unregistered documents and unstamped instruments.

PART III.

And whereas it is expedient that traders and others who were entitled immediately before the cession of the cantonment of Morar to institute certain suits in, or make applications for or with respect to the execution of certain decrees to, a Civil Court at Morar should be enabled to institute those suits in, and make those applications to, the Civil Courts at Jhánsí and Agra, and at any other place from time to time appointed in this behalf by the Governor-General in Council, and that the period of limitation in these cases should be extended;

It is hereby further enacted as follows:—

10. (1) Any person who at the date of the cession of the cantonment of Morar was entitled to institute in a Civil Court at Morar a suit of any of the descriptions referred to in articles 50 to 54 (both inclusive) or articles 56 to 64 (both inclusive) or articles 66 to 75 (both inclusive) of the second schedule to the Indian Limitation Act, 1877, or to make to any such Court an application for or with respect to the execution of a decree in any such suit, may institute the suit or make the application in any Civil Court at Jhánsí or Agra, or other place appointed in that behalf by the Governor-General in Council, which would have jurisdiction in the suit to be instituted, or, as the case may be, would have had jurisdiction in the suit in which the decree to be executed was passed, if the cause of action had arisen within the local limits of its jurisdiction.

Suits for debt formerly cognizable in a Morar Court to be cognizable in Courts at certain other places.

XV of 1877.

(2) Notwithstanding anything in any enactment or notification to the contrary, any Civil Court at Jhánsí or Agra, or other place aforesaid, in which any such suit or application as is referred to in sub-section (1) is instituted or made shall, subject to the provisions of that sub-section, have jurisdiction to dispose of it.

(3) In computing the period of limitation for any suit or application referred to in this section, the time which has elapsed between the date of the cession of the cantonment of Morar and the commencement of this Act shall be excluded.

ACT NO. XVIII OF 1886.

An Act to amend Act XXXVI of 1858.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend Act XXXVI of 1858 (an Act relating to Lunatic Asylums); It is hereby enacted as follows :—

1. After section 6 the following shall be inserted, namely :—

Detention of supposed lunatics under observation.

"6 A. (1) Where a person found wandering at large who is deemed to be a lunatic, or where a person believed to be dangerous by reason of lunacy, is apprehended and sent to the Magistrate or the Commissioner of Police, or where, on report or information that a person deemed to be a lunatic is not under proper care and control or is cruelly treated or neglected, the Magistrate or the Commissioner of Police sends for him and then determines to proceed as prescribed in section 4 of this Act, the Magistrate or the Commissioner of Police, on the request of the medical officer, may, by order in writing, authorise the detention of the supposed lunatic for such time, not exceeding ten days, as, in the opinion of the Magistrate or the Commissioner of Police, may be necessary to enable the medical officer to form an opinion on the question whether or not the supposed lunatic is a person with respect to whom a certificate in the form A in the schedule to this Act ought to be signed.

"(2) If the medical officer certifies further detention than has been authorised under sub-section (1) to be necessary to enable him to form his opinion on that question, the Magistrate or the Commissioner of Police may from time to time, by order in writing, authorise such further detention as he deems to be necessary :

"Provided that a supposed lunatic shall not be detained for the purpose of this section for a longer time than fourteen days from the date on which the first order authorising his detention for that purpose is made.

Offg. Secretary to the Government of India.

The following Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend Act XXXVI of 1858 was presented to the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 15th September, 1886 :—

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

WE, the undersigned, Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to amend Act XXXVI of 1858 was referred, have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin, and have now the honour to submit this our Report.

From Officiating Assistant Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Central Provinces, No. 182—9, dated 21st January, 1886 [Paper No. 1].
From Secretary for Berar to Resident, Hyderabad, No. 146., dated 19th January, 1886 [Paper No. 2].
From Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Assam, No 224, dated 27th January, 1886 [Paper No. 3].
From Officiating Secretary to Chief Commissioner, British Burma, No. 534—4L., dated 29th January, 1886 [Paper No. 4].
From Chief Commissioner, Ajmer-Merwára, No. 291C., dated 3rd February, 1886 [Paper No. 5].
From Under-Secretary to Government, Bombay, No. 522, dated 9th February, 1886, and enclosures [Papers No. 6].
From Acting Chief Secretary to Government, Madras, No. 355, dated 9th February, 1886, and enclosures [Papers No. 7].
From Secretary to Government, North-Western Provinces and Oudh, No. 334—VI-590-6, dated 19th February, 1886, and enclosure [Papers No. 8].
From Registrar, High Court, Calcutta, No. 502, dated 23rd February, 1886 [Paper No. 9].
From Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Coorg, No. 288—12, dated 1st March, 1886 [Paper No. 10].
From Officiating Secretary to Government, Bengal, No. 1604, dated 1st April, 1886 [Paper No. 11].
From Secretary to Government, Punjab, No. 319, dated 19th March, 1886, and enclosures [Papers No. 12].

2. The Bill as introduced was approved by the authorities to whom it was referred, but further amendments of the Act were proposed by the Governments of Bengal and the Punjab.

3. The former Government drew attention to the absence of any provision authorising the detention of supposed lunatics for observation, and the latter to the inconvenience ensuing from the provision which requires lunatics who are not natives of the country to be sent in all cases to an asylum at the presidency.

4. It appeared to us that express provision ought to be made for the detention of supposed lunatics. As a matter of practice they are detained, for in many cases the medical officer is not in a position to form an opinion on the question whether or not a person is a lunatic until he has had the person under observation for some days. The detention is probably legal where it is authorised by the Magistrate (I. L. R. 9 Cal. 341), but it is desirable that there should be no room for doubt as to the legality of a practice which is in fact absolutely necessary. We considered it desirable, however, before submitting our Report, to consult Local Governments, and we therefore circulated a draft clause proposing, in accordance with the advice of the Surgeon-General, a period of ten days as the maximum term of detention for purposes of observation. We have now, after considering the replies to our circular, proposed to extend the term to fourteen days, and to authorise Local Governments to make rules as to the place of detention, and the care and treatment, of supposed lunatics.

5. The proposal of the Punjab Government with respect to the establishment of asylums at other places than the presidency-towns for lunatics who are not natives of the country was referred by us to other Local Governments, and has been approved by them. We have provided, therefore, that the Governor-General in Council may, with respect to any part of British India which is not annexed to a presidency, or is more than three hundred miles from a presidency-town, direct that any lunatic asylum named in the order shall be deemed for that part to be a lunatic asylum at the presidency for the purposes of the Act.

6. Section 9 of the Act empowers the visitors of a lunatic asylum to order the discharge of any person detained in the asylum. As the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1882, and the Prisoners Act, 1871, reserve that power in certain cases to other authorities, we have proposed to prefix to that section an express saving of the provisions of other enactments.

ACT NO. XIX OF 1886.

An Act to legalize the discharge by the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces of certain functions of the Governor-General in Council.

WHEREAS certain functions which are by enactments in force in [illegible] assigned to the Governor-General in Council are in practice discharged by the Lieutenant-Governor of those Provinces, and it is expedient that these functions should continue to be so discharged, and that their discharge in the past should be legalized;

And whereas the functions assigned to the Governor-General in Council by Regulation LII of 1803 (for establishing a Court of Wards in the Provinces ceded by the Nawab Vazir to the Honourable the English East India Company), which Regulation was extended to the Conquered Provinces by section 29, Regulation VIII, 1805, and to the Province of Benares by section 2, Regulation VI, 1822, were up to the twenty-second day of December, 1873, discharged by the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces, and it is expedient that their discharge by the said Lieutenant-Governor up to that date should be validated;

1. The sections of the enactments in the schedule to this Act which are specified in the third column of that schedule shall have effect, and, so far as may be necessary to validate anything heretofore done under them by the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces, shall be deemed to have had effect as if the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces were therein referred to instead of the Governor-General in Council.

2. Sections 3, 7, 9 and 17 of Regulation LII of 1803 shall be deemed to have had effect in the North-Western Provinces as if the words "or the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces" had been inserted in those sections after the words "Governor-General in Council" wherever the latter words occur.

S. HARVEY JAMES,
Offg. Secretary to the Government of India.

The following Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to regalize the discharge by the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces of certain functions of the Governor-General in Council was presented to the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 15th September, 1886 :—

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

WE, the undersigned, Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to legalize the discharge by the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces of certain functions of the Governor-General in Council was referred, have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin, and have now the honour to submit this our Report.

From Officiating Secretary to Chief Commissioner, British Burma, No. 574—17L., dated 19th September, 1884, and enclosure [Papers No. 1].
From Officiating Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Assam, No. 1520, dated 20th September, 1884 [Paper No. 2].
From Officiating Secretary to Government, Punjab, No. 572S., dated 29th September, 1884, and enclosures [Papers No 3].
From Chief Commissioner, Ajmer-Merwára, No. 841, dated 3rd October, 1884 [Paper No. 4].
From Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Central Provinces, No. 36C., dated 26th October, 1884, and enclosure [Papers No. 5].
From Secretary to Government, North-Western Provinces and Oudh, No. 121—XIII-10-5, dated 8th August, 1884, and enclosures [Papers No. 6].

2. We have removed Regulation LII of 1800 from the schedule to the Bill, because the Mirzapur Stone Mahál Act, 1886, seems to us to render its retention unnecessary.

3. We have proposed in an additional section to validate the exercise by the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces of the powers of the Governor-General in Council under Regulation LII of 1803 which the Lieutenant-Governor seems to have exercised without question throughout the forty years which elapsed between the constitution of his office and the repeal of the Regulation. When the Bill was under consideration some two years ago, the interests of the parties to a suit then pending might have been affected by the validation of the exercise of these powers, and it was therefore decided that our Report should be delayed till the suit had been disposed of. There is now, so far as we are aware, no litigation before any Court which can be influenced in any way by the enactment of the section which we propose to add to the Bill.

And whereas it is expedient to declare the law in force in those territories, and for this purpose to distinguish between those territories and the territories which were under the administration of the Chief Commissioner of British Burma on the thirty-first day of December, 1885;

It is hereby enacted as follows :—

1. (1) This Act may be called the Upper Burma Laws Act, 1886.

(2) This section and sections 2, 3, 4 and 5 shall come into force at once, and the rest of the Act shall come into force on such date (hereinafter called the commencement of this Act), within four months from the passing of the Act, as the Local Government may, by notification in the official Gazette, appoint in this behalf.

2. (1) The following territories shall constitute a province to be known as Burma, namely :—

(a) the territories formerly governed by King Thebaw, which shall be known as "Upper Burma"; and

(b) the territories administered by the Chief Commissioner of British Burma on the thirty-first day of December, 1885, which shall be known as "Lower Burma."

(2) The Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, may from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, transfer any portion of Upper Burma to Lower Burma, or any portion of Lower Burma to Upper Burma, with effect from a date to be specified in the notification, and on and from that date the portion so transferred shall form part of Lower Burma or Upper Burma, as the case may be.

(3) When any portion of Upper Burma is transferred to Lower Burma, the Scheduled Districts Act, 1874, shall, unless the Governor-General in Council otherwise directs, continue to be in force therein. XIV of 1874.

(4) When any portion of Lower Burma is transferred to Upper Burma, the Governor-General in Council may direct that that Act shall come into force therein.

Division of Upper Burma into divisions, districts, sub-divisions, townships and circles.

3. The Local Government may, for administrative purposes,—

(a) with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, divide Upper Burma into divisions, and each of those divisions into districts, and from time to time vary the limits of those divisions and districts; and

(b) of its own authority, divide each of those districts into sub-divisions, each of those sub-divisions into townships, and each of those townships into circles, and from time to time vary the limits of these sub-divisions, townships and circles.

4. Where in any enactment in force at the passing of this Act in the territories referred to in section 2, sub-section (1), clause (b), there occurs the expression "British Burma Gazette", or the expression "British Burma" or "Burma" (except where the expression "Burma" occurs in the Petroleum Act, 1886, section 3), it shall be construed as referring to the Burma Gazette or to Lower Burma, as the case may be. XII of 1886.

Repeal of enactments.

5. The enactments specified in the first schedule to this Act, having been rendered unnecessary by the incorporation of Upper Burma in British India, are repealed to the extent mentioned in the third column of the schedule.

Law in force in Upper Burma exclusive of the Shan States.

6. (1) Subject to the provisions of any Regulation under the Statute 33 Victoria, chapter 3, so much of each of the enactments specified in the second schedule to this Act as is at the commencement of this Act in force in any part of Lower Burma which is not included in a scheduled district as defined in the Scheduled Districts Act, 1874, shall be deemed to be in force in Upper Burma generally, or in the Town of Mandalay only, according as the enactment is specified in the First or Second Part of the schedule. XIV of 1874.

(2) An enactment not specified in that schedule shall not be deemed to be or to have been in force in Upper Burma or in any part of Upper Burma unless it is expressed, by special mention of Upper Burma or a part of Upper Burma, to extend thereto, or after the commencement of this Act is extended thereto in exercise of the powers conferred by section 5 of the Scheduled Districts Act, 1874, or by any other enactment for the time being in force.

(3) The Local Government may, from time to time, with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, by notification in the official Gazette, declare that any enactment which is specified in that schedule or which may hereafter be extended in exercise of any such powers as aforesaid, shall no longer be in force in Upper Burma or in any part of Upper Burma specified in the notification.

(5) This section does not extend to the Shan States.

Modification of certain enactments in force in Upper Burma exclusive of the Shan States.

7. (1) The following enactments specified in the First Part of the second schedule to this Act shall, in Upper Burma, be read subject to the following modifications, namely :—

(a) in Act VIII of 1851 (an Act for enabling Government to levy Tolls on Public Roads and Bridges), for the last sixteen words of section 4, the words "or of any person or property exempted by order of the Local Government from payment of tolls" shall be substituted ;

(b) in Act V of 1861 (an Act for the Regulation of Police), to section 2 the words "All Thugyis and Myothugyis for the time being holding office shall be police-officers, and shall be deemed to have been formally enrolled under this Act" shall be added ;

(c) in Act VI of 1864 (an Act to authorise the punishment of whipping in certain cases), after section 5 the section and schedule in the third schedule to this Act shall be added ;

(d) in the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, after the words "police officer" in section 25 the words "who is not a Magistrate" shall be inserted ;

(e) in the Dramatic Performances Act, 1876, the words "within such area" shall be omitted from the third paragraph of section 10, and for the first two paragraphs of that section the following shall be substituted, namely :—

"No dramatic performance shall take place except under a license granted by the District Magistrate or such officer as the District Magistrate may appoint in this behalf.

"Any person who promotes or takes part in any dramatic performance in contravention of the foregoing portion of this section shall be punishable, on conviction before a Magistrate, with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months, or with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, or with both."

(2) This section does not extend to the Shan States.

Law in the Shan States.

8. (1) The Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, may, by notification in the official Gazette, from time to time extend to all or any of the Shan States any enactment which is in force in any part of Upper Burma at the date of the extension, and at any time withdraw all or any of those States from the operation of any enactment so extended.

(2) Unless and until extended under sub-section (1), an Act of the Governor-General in Council shall not be in force in any Shan State.

Power for Courts to construe enactments with necessary alterations.

9. For the purpose of facilitating the application of any enactment for the time being in force in Upper Burma, any Court in Upper Burma may construe the enactment with such alterations not affecting the substance as may be necessary or proper to adapt it to the matter before the Court.

Validation of acts done after 17th November, 1885.

10. All acts of executive authority, proceedings, decrees and sentences, which have been done, taken or passed in Upper Burma since the seventeenth day of November, 1885, and before the commencement of this Act, by any officer of the Government, or by any person acting under his authority or otherwise in pursuance of an order of the Government, or which have been or shall be ratified by the Local Government, shall be as valid and operative as if they had been done, taken or passed in accordance with law; and no suit or other proceeding shall be maintained or continued against any person whatever on the ground that any such acts, proceedings, decrees or sentences were not done, taken or passed in accordance with law.

Validation of rules made before commencement of this Act.

11. All rules, orders or instructions made or issued after the seventeenth day of November, 1885, and before the commencement of this Act, for the guidance of officers engaged in the administration of Upper Burma shall be deemed to have had the force of law, and shall, so far as they are consistent with this Act, continue to have the force of law until they are withdrawn, or are superseded by any Act of the Governor-General in Council, or by any Regulation under the Statute 33 Victoria, chapter 3, or by any enactment extended to Upper Burma, or by any rules, orders or instructions made or issued under any such Act, Regulation or enactment.

The following Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to declare the law in force in Upper Burma was presented to the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 15th September, 1886:—

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

WE, the undersigned, Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to declare the law in force in Upper Burma was referred, have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin, and have now the honour to submit this our Report.

From Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Burma, No. 83—130, dated 4th September, 1886, and enclosures.
From Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Burma, No. 84—130, dated 4th September, 1886, and enclosures.

2. We have, in accordance with the advice of the Chief Commissioner, provided in section 1 that certain portions of the Bill shall not come into force at once. It is desirable that sections 6 to 11 of the Bill, as amended by us, should not have effect until the Civil and Criminal Justice Regulations, which have been drawn, and for the most part settled, have been finally proposed by the Chief Commissioner and have received the assent of the Governor-General under the Statute 33 Victoria, chapter 3.

3. Section 3, regarding the division of Upper Burma into divisions, districts, sub-divisions, townships and circles, will serve the purposes of the Regulations which the Chief Commissioner is about to propose.

4. Section 4 has been so modified as to cover, it is believed, the language of all enactments in force in Lower Burma.

5. Section 6 has been so amended as to define more precisely the local area to which the Second Part of the Second Schedule is to apply. The Shan States are excluded from the operation of this and the next following section.

6. Section 7.—(1) The section (7) which it was proposed to add to Act VI of 1864 will be rendered unnecessary by the application to Upper Burma of sections 390 to 395 of the Code of Criminal Procedure by the proposed Criminal Justice Regulation.

(2) It is proposed to amend section 25 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, in its application to Upper Burma, because Thugyis and Myothugyis will, besides being police-officers, be local Magistrates and Judges.

(3) The modification of section 10, Act XIX of 1876, will substantially continue the law as it was found in Upper Burma with respect to pwés or dramatic entertainments, and as it seems desirable to maintain that law for the present.

7. Section 8 provides that British Indian law shall not extend proprio vigore to any of the Shan States.

8. Sections 9, 10 and 11 remain, with slight modifications, as they were in the Bill as introduced.

9. We have added some Acts to the First Part of the Second Schedule. Among them are the Court-fees and Stamp Acts, the Presidency Banks Acts, the Indian Companies Act and the Land Improvement Loans Act. The operation of the Court-fees and Stamp Acts will be limited by notifications to be issued when those Acts come into force. The fact that the Bank of Bengal contemplates the establishment of a branch at Mandalay necessitates the extension of the Presidency Banks Acts. The Indian Companies Act may be required at any time; and the local authorities advise the extension of the Land Improvement Loans Act for the purposes of loans to be made for irrigation-works.

10. The jurisdiction to be conferred on, and the rules to be prescribed for, the Civil Court of Mandalay will render necessary the extension of the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, XI of 1865, and the Code of Civil Procedure to the Town of Mandalay.

11. Other amendments of the Bill do not call for remark.

12. The publication ordered by the Council has been made as follows:—

Gazette.	Date.

13. We do not think that the measure has been so altered as to require re-publication, and we recommend that it be passed as now amended.

[Second publication.]

The following Act of the Governor-General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor-General on the 24th September, 1886, and is hereby promulgated for general information:—

ACT NO. XXI OF 1886.

An Act to declare certain allowances collectively known as Oudh Wasikas to be pensions within the meaning of the Pensions Act, 1871.

WHEREAS, on the death of Her Highness the Bahu Begam, His Highness the Nawáb Vazir of Oudh delivered to the British Government a sum of money with intent that the interest accruing thereon should, in compliance with the wishes of Her Highness the Bahu Begam as expressed in a Deed of Deposit executed by her in the year 1813, be applied by the British Government to the payment of certain pensions, which pensions are known as the Amanat Wasikas;

And whereas in the year 1813 the said Government guaranteed the payment of certain pensions to persons connected with the Khás Mahál of Her Highness the Bahu Begam, which pensions are known as the Zamanat Wasikas;

And whereas, in the years 1814, 1825 and 1838, loans, known respectively as the 1st, 3rd and 6th Oudh loans, were made by the Rulers of Oudh to the Honourable the East India Company with intent that the interest accruing thereon should be applied by the said Government to the payment of certain pensions, which pensions are known as the Loan Wasikas;

And whereas the Amanat, Zamanat and Loan Wasikas have been regarded as pensions to which the Pensions Act, 1871, applies, and rules respecting them have been made and published under section 14 of that Act; XXIII of 1871.

And whereas, since the making and publication of the rules, doubt has been expressed whether the said Wasikas are pensions within the meaning of the Pensions Act, 1871;

And whereas it is expedient to declare them to be pensions within the meaning of that Act;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title. 1. This Act may be called the Oudh Wasikas Act, 1886.

Application of Act XXIII of 1871 to Wasikas. 2. The allowances respectively known as the Amanat Wasikas, the Zamanat Wasikas and the Loan Wasikas are pensions within the meaning of the Pensions Act, 1871, and that Act shall apply to them as if they were pensions of the classes referred to in sections 4 and 11 of that Act. XXIII of 1871.

S. HARVEY JAMES,
Offg. Secretary to the Government of India.

The following Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to declare certain allowances collectively known as Oudh Wasikas to be pensions within the meaning of the Pensions Act, 1871, was presented to the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 15th September, 1886:—

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

WE, the undersigned, Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to declare certain allowances collectively known as Oudh Wasikas to be pensions within the meaning of the Pensions Act, 1871, was referred, have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin, and have now the honour to submit this our Report.

From Chief Secretary to Government, North-Western Provinces and Oudh, No. 4281A.—X.-F.-42, dated 30th August, 1886, and enclosure [Papers No. 1]
From Messrs. Harriss and Simmons, Solicitors, Calcutta, dated 8th September, 1886

2. The Government of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh having reported that the pensions payable under the Treaty of the year 1829, under which the 5th Oudh loan was made to the Honourable the East India Company, have all been commuted, we have removed section 3 of the Bill as introduced and so much of the preamble as had reference to that section.

3. Exception having been taken to some of the pensions being described as "conferred by a former Government and continued by the British Government on political considerations," we have re-drawn section 2 of the Bill so as to make it clear that the allowances are dealt with as pensions of that nature only for the purpose of barring the Civil Courts from entertaining suits relating to them and of protecting them from attachment at the instance of creditors.

Tenants having a right of occupancy.

Every such tenant who, within thirty years next before the thirteenth day of February, 1856, has been, either by himself, or by himself and some other person from whom he has inherited, in possession as proprietor in a village or estate shall be deemed to possess a heritable but not a transferable right of occupancy in the land which he cultivated or held in such village or estate on the twenty-fourth day of August, 1866: provided that such land has not come into his occupation, or the occupation of the person from whom he has inherited, for the first time since the said thirteenth day of February, 1856: provided also that no such tenant shall have a right of occupancy in any village or estate in which he or any co-sharer with him possesses any under-proprietary right.

Nothing contained in the former part of this section shall affect the terms of any agreement in writing entered into between a landlord and tenant after the twenty-second day of July, 1886.

The Oudh Rent Act, 1886.

(Chapter II.—Of certain Rights and Liabilities of Landlords, Under-proprietors and Tenants.—Sections 6-15.)

6. Nothing in the last foregoing section shall be construed to restrict the power of a landlord to confer by registered document on any persons other than those mentioned in that section a right of occupancy in the lands which they hold or cultivate.

Saving of power to confer right of occupancy.

7. If a tenant having a right of occupancy is ejected, in accordance with the provisions of section 52, from the land in which he possesses the right, he shall thereupon lose his right of occupancy in that land.

Loss of right of occupancy.

Tenants' Right to Pattas.

8. Every tenant is entitled to receive from his landlord a patta or memorandum of the terms of the tenancy, signed by the landlord or his authorized agent, and containing the following particulars, namely:—

12. Any instalment of revenue or rent which is not paid on or before the day when it becomes due, whether under a written agreement or according to law or local usage, shall be deemed to be, for the purposes of this Act, an arrear of revenue or rent, as the case may be:

What to be deemed an arrear of revenue or rent.

Provided that, unless the proprietor and under-proprietor have otherwise agreed in writing, the rent payable to the former by the latter shall be held to become due one month before the date fixed for the payment of the revenue on account of the village in which the land in respect of which the rent is payable is situate, and to be payable in the same number of instalments as the revenue; and the amount of each instalment of the rent shall bear the same proportion to the whole of the rent payable for the year as the amount of each instalment of the revenue bears to the whole of the revenue payable for the year.

Receipts.

13. (1) Every receipt for rent shall specify the year or years on account of which the rent has been paid; and any refusal to make that specification shall be held to be a withholding of a receipt.

Receipts for rent.

(2) If a receipt for rent paid by an under-proprietor or tenant is withheld from him without sufficient cause, he may recover compensation from the landlord up to an amount not exceeding that of the rent paid.

Deposit of Revenue or Rent in Court without Suit.

14. (1) If a co-sharer, under-proprietor or tenant from whom any revenue or rent is due in respect of the land held or cultivated by him, tenders the full amount of that revenue or rent at the usual place of payment to the person authorized to receive it, and that person does not accept the amount and forthwith give a receipt in full therefor, the co-sharer, under-proprietor or tenant may, without any suit having been instituted against him, deposit the amount in Court to the credit of the person authorized to receive it.

Power to pay into Court amount of revenue or rent due.

(2) The deposit shall, so far as regards the co-sharer, under-proprietor or tenant, and all persons claiming through or under him, operate as a payment then made to the lumbardar or landlord of the amount so deposited.

15. (1) The Court shall receive the deposit on the written application of the co-sharer, under-proprietor or tenant, or his recognized agent; and on the applicant making a declaration in the form set forth in Schedule A to this Act, or as near thereto as circumstances will admit, the Court shall give him a receipt for the deposit.

(2) The declaration shall be verified in the manner prescribed for the verification of plaints by section 52 of the Code of Civil Procedure, and shall be signed by the person making it. XIV of 1882.

(4) The notice shall be served by the proper officer without the payment of any fee.

(5) If the person to whose credit the deposit has been paid, or his recognized agent, appears and applies for it, the Court shall cause it to be paid to him.

(6) The application under sub-section (5) may be on plain paper.

16. Where a deposit has been made under the provisions of the two last foregoing sections, a suit shall not be brought against the depositor or his representative on account of any revenue or rent which accrued due in respect of the land last hereinbefore mentioned prior to the date of the deposit, unless the suit is instituted within six months from the date of the service of the notice mentioned in section 15.

Limitation for suits for balance of revenue or rent.

Illegal Enforcement of Payment of Rent.

17. (1) If payment of rent or of any sum in excess of the rent legally claimable is illegally enforced, and any under-proprietor or tenant institutes a suit to recover compensation for the illegal enforcement of the payment, the Court may award to him compensation, not exceeding the sum of two hundred rupees, in addition to any amount for which it makes a decree in respect of the payment itself.

Compensation to under-proprietor or tenant for illegal enforcement of payment.

(2) An award of compensation under sub-section (1) shall not bar any prosecution to which the person illegally enforcing the payment may be liable under any law for the time being in force.

Abatement of Rent.

18. Save as provided by section 29, sub-section (4), a suit for an abatement of the rent of a holding shall not be brought by an under-proprietor or tenant except on the ground that the area of the holding has diminished, or on some ground specified in a lease, agreement or decree under which he holds:

Suit for abatement of rent by under-proprietor or tenant.

Provided that, if the under-proprietor holds a sub-settlement in a revenue-paying estate, an abatement shall not be allowed to the under-proprietor unless a remission of revenue has been allowed on the same ground and by competent authority in the same estate.

Remission of Rent.

19. (1) Notwithstanding anything in the last foregoing section, a Court, when it makes a decree for an arrear of rent, may, with the previous sanction of the Deputy Commissioner, allow such remission from the rent payable by any under-proprietor or tenant as appears equitable, if the area of the land in his occupation has been materially diminished by diluvion or otherwise, or if the produce of that land has been diminished by drought, hail or other calamity beyond his control, to such an extent that the full amount of rent payable by him cannot, in the opinion of the Court, be paid.

Remission of rent by order of Court.

(2) Where a remission of rent under this section causes a material diminution of the assets of the landlord in the village in which the remission is given, the revenue-authorities shall take into consideration any claim made by the landlord for a remission of revenue.

(3) A remission shall not be allowed under this section to an under-proprietor holding a sub-settlement, or to a tenant having a right of occupancy, unless a remission of revenue has been allowed on the same ground and by competent authority in the same village.

Relinquishment of Land.

20. (1) A tenant shall continue liable for the rent of the land in his holding unless on or before the fifteenth day of March in any year he gives to the landlord or to the recognized agent of the landlord notice in writing of his desire to relinquish that land, and relinquishes it accordingly.

Relinquishment of land by tenant.

(2) If the landlord or his recognized agent refuses to receive the notice or to sign and deliver a receipt therefor, the tenant may, before the latest date prescribed for giving the notice, apply on plain paper to the tahsíldár or proper officer, and written notice of the desire of the tenant to relinquish the land shall then be served on the landlord at the expense of the tenant.

(3) A tenant cannot without the consent of his landlord relinquish a part only of his holding.

(4) Nothing in this section shall entitle a tenant holding under a registered document under section 69 to relinquish his holding otherwise than in accordance with the terms of that document.

21. (1) If a tenant abandons his holding without informing his landlord and without arranging for the cultivation of the holding, the landlord may at any time after the fifteenth day of May enter on the holding.

Abandonment of holding.

(2) Before a landlord enters on a holding under sub-section (1), he shall file a notice in the prescribed form at the office of the tahsíldár for service on the tenant stating that he has treated the holding as abandoned and is about to enter on it accordingly.

(3) When a landlord enters on a holding under sub-section (1), the tenant may institute a suit under this Act to recover possession of the holding, and the Court shall, on being satisfied that the tenant did not voluntarily abandon the holding, order recovery of possession on such terms with respect to the time of delivery of possession, the payment of arrears of rent, if any, and, if injury has been caused by the wrongful act, neglect or default of any party to the proceeding, with respect also to the payment of compensation by that party, as to the Court may seem just.

Compensation for Tenants' Improvements.

22. (1) If a tenant, or a person from whom he has inherited, has made any such improvement on his holding as is hereinafter in this Chapter mentioned, neither he nor his representative shall be ejected from the holding unless and until he or his representative, as the case may be, has received compensation for the improvement:

Tenant's right to compensation for improvements.

Provided that compensation shall not be payable for any improvement made thirty years or more before the date on which the ejectment is to take effect.

(2) An improvement made by a tenant for the benefit of his holding on land belonging to the person who is entitled to receive the rent of the holding shall for the purposes of this section be deemed to have been made on the holding of the tenant.

23. Except as provided in the next following section, a tenant shall not be entitled to claim compensation for an improvement made subsequently to the passing of this Act without the written consent of the landlord.

Landlord's consent to tenant's improvement.

24. (1) If a tenant applies for the written consent of his landlord to the making of an improvement on his holding, and the landlord omits or refuses to grant it, the tenant may apply to the Deputy Commissioner for permission to make the improvement.

Reference to Deputy Commissioner when consent is refused.

The Oudh Rent Act, 1886.

(Chapter II.—Of certain Rights and Liabilities of Landlords, Under-proprietors and Tenants.—Sections 25-30.)
(Chapter III.—Payment of Rent in kind.—Sections 31-32.)

(2) When an application is made to the Deputy Commissioner under sub-section (1), he shall take into consideration any objections which the landlord may have to urge on either of the following grounds, namely:—

(a) that the improvement is too costly or is unsuitable to the nature of the tenant's holding, or

(b) that the landlord is himself prepared to make the improvement,

and shall then either grant the permission on such conditions as he considers fair and equitable or refuse the application.

25. (1) If either the landlord or the tenant desires the amount expended on an improvement executed with the permission of the Deputy Commissioner under the last foregoing section to be determined and registered, the Deputy Commissioner shall, on application made to him for the purpose, determine the amount of the outlay, and enter it in a register kept in the prescribed form.

Registration of outlay on improvements.

(2) The entry in the register shall be conclusive proof of the amount of the outlay in any subsequent proceedings respecting the cost of the improvement.

26. The word "improvement", as used in this Act, means a work by which the annual letting value of land has been, and at the time of a demand for compensation is likely to be, increased, and comprises—

"Improvement" defined.

(a) the construction of works for the storage of water, for the supply of water for agricultural purposes, for drainage and for protection against floods; the construction of wells; the reclamation of waste land and jungle; and other works of a like nature:

(b) the renewal or reconstruction of any of the foregoing works, or such alterations therein or additions thereto as are not required for the maintenance thereof and increase durably their value.

27. In estimating the compensation to which a tenant is entitled for an improvement regard shall be had—

Principle on which compensation is to be estimated.

(a) to the amount by which the value, or the produce, of the holding, or the value of that produce, is increased by the improvement;

(b) to the condition of the improvement and the probable duration of its effects;

(c) to the labour and capital required for the making of such an improvement;

(d) to any reduction or remission of rent or any other advantage given by the landlord to the tenant in consideration of the improvement; and

(e) in the case of a reclamation, or of the conversion of unirrigated into irrigated land, to the length of time during which the tenant has had the benefit of the improvement.

28. When a Court has assessed the amount of the compensation due to a tenant, it may, if both landlord and tenant desire that the compensation assessed, instead of being paid wholly in money, shall be made wholly or partly in some other way, proceed to give judgment according to the terms agreed upon between them.

Modes of making compensation.

29. (1) A landlord may make an improvement on the holding of a tenant not having a right of occupancy with or without the consent of the tenant.

Improvements by the landlord.

(2) A landlord intending to make an improvement shall, if any part thereof is to be made on the holding of any such tenant, give notice of his intention to the tenant through the tahsíldár.

(3) A landlord making an improvement on the holding of any such tenant shall be liable to compensate the tenant for any loss which he may cause to the tenant when making it.

(4) If the effect of the improvement is to impair the productive powers of the holding, the tenant shall, in addition to any compensation which may be awarded to him under sub-section (3), be entitled to such abatement of his rent as to the Court seems just.

(5) A landlord may not make an improvement on the holding of a tenant with a right of occupancy without the consent of the tenant.

Survey and Measurement.

30. A landlord and his agents and surveyors may at all reasonable times enter upon any land comprised in his estate for the purpose of surveying and measuring the land.

Landlord's right to enter and measure lands.

CHAPTER III.

PAYMENT OF RENT IN KIND.

31. Where rent is taken by division of the produce in kind, or by estimate or appraisement of the standing crop, or other proceeding of a similar nature requiring the presence of both the tenant and the landlord either personally or by recognized agent, if either party neglects to be present at the proper time, or if a dispute arises between the parties regarding the division, estimate, appraisement or proceeding, either party may present an application to the Court, requesting that a proper officer be deputed to make the division, estimate or appraisement or conduct the proceeding.

Division or appraisement of produce.

32. (1) On receiving the application, the Court shall issue a written notice to the other party to attend at a time and place specified in the notice, and shall depute an officer before whom the division, estimate or appraisement shall be made or the proceeding conducted.

Procedure in case of dispute.

(2) The award of that officer in respect of the division, estimate, appraisement or proceeding shall be final, unless, within one month from the date thereof, either party institutes a suit to set it aside.

Chapter IV.—Enhancement and fixing Rates of Rent.—Sections 33-41.)

CHAPTER IV.

ENHANCEMENT AND FIXING RATES OF RENT.

Part A.—Tenants with Right of Occupancy.

Enhancement of rent of tenant with right of occupancy.

33. (1) A tenant having a right of occupancy in any land shall not, in case of dispute as to the rent to be paid in respect of the land, be liable to an enhancement of the rent except in pursuance of a decree made under this Act on some one of the following grounds, namely:—

1st ground.—That the rate of rent paid by him is below the rate of rent usually paid, by the same class of tenants having a right of occupancy, for land of a similar description and with similar advantages, situate in the same village.

Rule.—In this case the Court shall enhance his rent to such amount as the plaintiff demands, not exceeding that rate.

2nd ground.—That the rate of rent paid by him is more than twelve-and-a-half per cent. below the rate of rent usually paid, by tenants of the same class not having a right of occupancy, for land of a similar description and with similar advantages, situate in the same village.

Rule.—In this case the Court shall enhance his rent to such amount as the plaintiff demands, not exceeding that rate, less twelve-and-a-half per cent.

3rd ground.—That the quantity of land held by him exceeds the quantity for which he has previously paid rent.

Rule.—In this case the Court shall decree rent for the land in excess, at rates to be fixed by the first or the second of the rules contained in this section, as the case may be.

(2) Nothing in sub-section (1) shall affect the terms of any agreement in writing entered into between a landlord and tenant after the twenty-second day of July, 1868.

Term for re-enhancement after decision fixing rent under section 33.

34. After a decision has been passed in accordance with the last foregoing section, a suit shall not lie for re-enhancement of the rent until the expiration of five years from the date of the decision, except on the 3rd ground mentioned in that section, or, in the case referred to in the next following section, until, by re-assessment within the term of five years, the revenue of the land has been increased.

Enhancement on re-assessment of revenue.

35. If, on a re-assessment of the revenue, the rent of the tenant cannot be enhanced under section 33 by reason of the absence of the grounds therein mentioned, the landlord may institute a suit to enhance the rent to a sum not exceeding double the average amount of the revenue imposed at the re-assessment upon land of a similar description and with similar advantages held by tenants of the same class in the same village.

Part B.—Other Tenants.

Tenant in occupation at passing of Act: the conditions of his statutory tenancy.

36. Every tenant, not being a tenant with a right of occupancy or a sub-tenant, shall be entitled to retain possession of the holding occupied by him at the time of the passing of this Act, at the rent then payable by him, for a period of seven years from the date of the last change in his rent or of the last alteration in the area of the holding, or, where no such change or alteration has taken place, from the date on which the tenant was admitted to the occupation of the holding.

Tenant admitted after passing of Act: the conditions of his statutory tenancy.

37. Every such tenant who may be admitted to the occupation of a holding after the passing of this Act shall be entitled to retain the same for a period of seven years from the date of his admission at a rent agreed upon with the landlord in accordance with the provisions of this Act; and every such tenant, in the area of whose holding or in the amount of whose rent any change is made by the landlord subsequently to the passing of this Act, shall be deemed to be admitted to the occupation of a holding within the meaning of this section.

Explanation I.—"Holding" means a parcel or parcels of land held by a tenant and forming the subject of a separate engagement. The engagement may be express or implied.

Explanation II.—This section and section 36 have effect subject to the provisions of section 4, sub-sections (3) and (4), relating to land not previously cultivated, and subject also to section 157, excluding certain classes of land from the operation of certain sections of this Act.

Enhancement of rent of tenant not having right of occupancy and not being a sub-tenant.

38. (1) A landlord may enhance the rent of a tenant to whom section 36 or section 37 applies, either by contract, in accordance with the provisions of this section or by notice as hereinafter provided.

(2) Subject to the provisions of sections 49 and 50, the enhancement shall not in any case exceed one anna in the rupee, or six-and-a-quarter per cent., on the annual rent payable by the tenant at the time when the contract was made or the notice was issued:

(3) Provided that, where rent is paid in kind, the proportion of produce paid as rent by a tenant shall not be subject to increase except in accordance with an established custom of the pargana in which the land is situate.

Enhancement by notice.

39. If a landlord desires that the rent of a tenant to whom section 36 or section 37 applies be enhanced on the expiration of the term of seven years referred to in section 36 or section 37, as the case may be, or at any time during the currency of that term in the case mentioned in section 50, he may cause a notice to that effect to be served under section 42.

Time for service of notice of enhancement.

40. (1) A notice whereby enhancement is claimed on account of the expiration of the period of the tenancy shall not be served before the commencement of the last year of the tenancy.

(2) A notice of enhancement on account of an improvement made or acquired by the landlord may be served at any time during the currency of the tenancy.

Contents of the notice.

41. The notice shall be written in Hindi and Urdu, and shall specify the land, the amount of the present rent and the amount of the enhancement, and require the tenant, if he refuses to pay the enhancement, to vacate the land by the fifteenth day of May next following, or to institute a suit

The Oudh Rent Act, 1886.

(Chapter IV.—Enhancement and fixing Rates of Rent.—Sections 42-51)

in the proper Court to contest the notice of enhancement within thirty days from the date of the service thereof.

Service of the notice.

42. On the application of the landlord to the tahsíldár or other prescribed officer the notice shall be served by the officer on or before the fifteenth day of February at the expense of the landlord.

Grounds on which tenant may contest his liability to enhancement.

43. The tenant may institute a suit to contest the notice of enhancement, within thirty days from the date of the service thereof, on any of the following grounds, namely:—

(a) that he has a right of occupancy in the land specified in the notice;

(b) that he holds under a special agreement or decree of Court or lease under the terms of which his rent is not liable to enhancement;

(c) that the enhancement claimed is in excess of the rate authorized by law;

(d) that seven years will not have elapsed on the fifteenth day of May next following, since the date of any such change of rent or alteration of area as is under section 36 or section 37 equivalent to an admission to the occupation of a holding, or, where no such change or alteration has taken place, since the date on which he was admitted to the occupation of the holding;

(e) that the notice has not been served in the manner required by this Act;

(f) that, where the enhancement claimed is on account of an improvement, the amount claimed is excessive.

Tenant's liability for enhanced rent.

44. (1) If the tenant does not contest the notice of enhancement and remains in possession of the land after the fifteenth day of May next following the date of the service of the notice, he shall become liable for the enhanced rent.

(2) If the tenant contests the notice, and the validity thereof is maintained by the Court in whole or in part, he shall, if he remains in possession of the land after the fifteenth day of May next following the date of the service of the notice, become liable for the enhanced rent to the extent to which the Court has maintained the validity of the notice.

Commencement of fresh statutory period.

45. If the tenant by remaining in possession of the land under the last foregoing section becomes liable for enhanced rent, he shall be entitled to hold the land at that rent for a further period of seven years.

Vacating tenant's right to compensation for improvements.

46. If the tenant refuses to accept the enhancement claimed or decreed and vacates the holding, he shall be entitled to recover by separate suit from the landlord compensation for any improvements made by him on the holding.

Rent of tenant succeeding to vacant holding.

47. (1) Except in the cases mentioned in sections 49 and 50, the rent of a tenant admitted to the occupation of any land the tenancy of which has determined according to the provisions of this Act shall not exceed by more than one anna in the rupee, or six-and-a-quarter per cent., the rent payable by the tenant immediately preceding him.

(2) In the case of a tenant admitted to the occupation of a holding of which the rent has been immediately before his admission paid in kind, the rent payable shall, subject to any established custom of the pargana in which the holding is situate, be either the rent payable by the tenant immediately preceding him, or a sum which, subject to the provisions of sections 49 and 50, shall not exceed by more than six-and-a-quarter per cent. the equivalent of the value of the produce annually paid as rent on the average of the three years immediately preceding.

Rights of the heir of a deceased tenant.

48. (1) The heir of a tenant who dies during the currency of the tenancy of a holding shall be entitled to retain occupation of the holding at the rent payable by the deceased for the unexpired portion of the period for which the deceased tenant might have held without liability to enhancement or ejectment, and to receive compensation under the provisions of this Act for improvements, if any, made on the holding by himself or his predecessor in interest, but shall not be entitled to a renewal of the tenancy.

(2) Subject to any rights which he may have under section 22 as a representative of the deceased, a collateral relative who did not at the date of the death of the deceased share in the cultivation of the holding shall not be deemed to be an heir of the deceased within the meaning of this section.

Rent of tenant succeeding to a holding vacated by the death of the previous tenant.

49. The rent of a tenant admitted to the occupation of any land the tenancy of which has ceased in consequence of the death of a previous tenant, or of the ejectment of a thekadár or mortgagee from land of which he has taken cultivating possession during the period of his theka or mortgage, shall be such amount as may be agreed upon between him and the landlord.

Enhancement of rent for improvements made or acquired by landlord.

50. (1) Nothing in the foregoing sections shall bar the right of a landlord to enhancement of rent on the ground that the productive powers of the land held by the tenant have been increased by an improvement which has been made by, or at the expense of, the landlord, or for which during the currency of the tenancy compensation has been accepted from the landlord by the owner of the improvement or, on the expiration of the tenancy, compensation has been paid in accordance with the determination of a Court under this Act.

(2) Where an enhancement is claimed on the ground of any such improvement, the Court, in determining the claim, shall have regard to—

(a) the increase in the productive powers of the land caused, or likely to be caused, by the improvement;

(b) the cost of the improvement; and

(c) the cost of the cultivation required for the utilising of the improvement.

Power for Local Government to vary the limit of enhancement of rent.

51. Notwithstanding anything in the foregoing sections, the Chief Commissioner may, by notification in the local official Gazette, vary from time to time, within periods of not less than seven years, the limits of the enhancement to which tenants to whom section 36 or section 37 applies are liable in any local area specified in the notification.

(Chapter V.—Ejectment.—Sections 52-60.)

CHAPTER V.

EJECTMENT.

Tenants holding on special terms.

Ejectment of tenants holding on special term.

52. (1) A tenant having a right of occupancy in any land, or holding any land under a special agreement or decree of Court, shall not be ejected from that land otherwise than in execution of a decree for ejectment:

Provided that the decree for ejectment shall not be made, unless, at the date of that decree, a decree against the tenant for an arrear of rent in respect of the land has remained unsatisfied for fifteen days or upwards.

(2) A decree for the ejectment of a tenant holding under a special agreement or decree of Court may be made on such grounds as would justify ejectment under the agreement or decree.

Other Tenants.

Ejectment of other tenants.

53. A tenant not having a right of occupancy, and not holding under a special agreement or decree of Court, may be ejected by notice, application or suit under the following sections of this Chapter.

Ejectment by notice.

54. If a landlord desires to eject any such tenant on the expiration of his tenancy, he may cause a notice of ejectment to be served on the tenant under the next following section.

Contents, service and cost of notice.

55. (1) The notice shall be written in Hindi and in Urdu; it shall be signed by the landlord or by an agent authorized by him in that behalf; it shall specify the land from which the tenant is to be ejected; it shall, if a court-fee is payable in respect thereof under this section, contain a certificate by the patwári as to the annual rent payable for the holding to which the notice relates; and it shall inform the tenant that he must either (a), if he means to dispute the ejectment, institute a suit for that purpose within thirty days from the date of the service of the notice, or (b) vacate the land on or before the fifteenth day of May next following.

(2) On the application of the landlord to the tahsíldár or other prescribed officer, the notice shall, if the proper court-fee (where a court-fee is payable under this section) has been paid in respect thereof, be served on the tenant by the officer on or before the fifteenth day of November at the expense of the landlord.

(3) If the tenant on whom the notice is to be served is a tenant to whom section 36 or section 37 applies, there shall, except as provided by this sub-section and sub-section (4) and by section 69, be payable in respect of the notice a court-fee equal in value to half the annual rent payable for the holding of the tenant, or, in the case of a tenant paying rent in kind, a court-fee equal to half the value of the produce annually paid as rent on the average of the three years immediately preceding:

Provided that the court-fee shall not in any case exceed twenty-five rupees.

(4) A court-fee shall not be payable under sub-section (3) in respect of a notice on a person to whom section 48 applies.

(5) Stamps representing the court-fee shall be affixed on the notice before the notice and the application for the service thereof are presented to the tahsíldár or other prescribed officer.

(6) The court-fee paid by a landlord under this section shall not in any circumstances be adjudged to be payable as costs or otherwise by the tenant.

Grounds on which tenant may contest liability to ejectment.

56. (1) A tenant on whom a notice has been served under the last foregoing section may institute a suit to contest his liability to be ejected from the land specified therein on any of the following grounds, namely:—

(a) that he has a right of occupancy in the land;

(b) that he holds under a special agreement or decree of Court or unexpired lease under the terms of which he is not liable to be ejected from the land;

(c) if he is a tenant to whom section 55, sub-section (3), applies, that the notice was insufficiently stamped;

(d) if he is a tenant to whom section 36 or section 37 applies, that seven years will not have elapsed on the fifteenth day of May next following, since the date of any such change of rent or alteration of area as is under section 36 or section 37, as the case may be, equivalent to an admission to the occupation of a holding, or, where no such change or alteration has taken place, since the date on which he was admitted to the occupation of the holding;

(e) if he is a tenant to whom section 53 applies, that notice of ejectment has not been served upon him in the manner required by this Act.

(2) A thekadár shall not be entitled to contest a notice of ejectment on any ground other than that he holds a lease under the terms of which he is not liable to ejectment.

Compensation for improvements, if any, to be claimed in suit contesting liability to ejectment.

57. If the tenant has any claim for compensation for improvements on the holding, he shall file with his plaint a statement of the claim and of the grounds on which it is based.

Determination of the claim.

58. If the Court dismisses the suit in whole or in part, it shall determine the amount of the compensation, if any, due for improvements, and shall declare ejectment from the whole or part of the land, as the case may be, to be conditional on payment of that amount into Court.

Tenancy to cease if notice is not contested.

59. If the tenant on whom notice of ejectment has been served fails, within thirty days from the date of the service, to institute a suit to contest his liability to be ejected, his tenancy of the land in respect of which the notice has been served shall cease on the fifteenth day of May next following, unless, after the service, the landlord has authorized him in writing to continue to occupy the land.

When assistance to eject may be given by Court.

60. (1) If the landlord requires assistance to eject a tenant on whom he alleges a notice to have been served under section 55, he may apply for that assistance to the Court which would have had jurisdiction with respect to a suit by the tenant to contest his liability to be ejected under the notice, and that Court shall order the ejectment of the tenant if it is satisfied—

(a) that a notice of ejectment was duly served on the tenant;

(b) that the tenant has not brought a suit to contest the notice, or that, if a suit for that purpose has been brought, it has been determined adversely to the tenant;

(c) that the tenant has not been authorised by the landlord in writing to continue to occupy the land.

(2) Nothing done by the Court under sub-section (1) shall affect the right of the tenant to institute a suit against his landlord on account of illegal ejectment and to recover compensation therefor.

Ejectment by application.

61. (1) If a landlord desires to eject a tenant to whom section 53 applies and against whom a decree for an arrear of rent has been passed and remains unsatisfied, he may, after the first day of April of the year in which that arrear accrued, apply to the Deputy Commissioner to eject the tenant.

(2) The Deputy Commissioner shall, on receiving the application, cause a notice to be served on the tenant, stating the amount due under the decree, and informing him that if he does not pay that amount into Court within fifteen days from the receipt of the notice he will be ejected from his holding.

(3) If the amount is not so paid, the Deputy Commissioner shall, unless good cause is shown to the contrary, eject the tenant.

Ejectment by suit.

62. (1) A tenant to whom section 53 applies shall be liable to ejectment by suit during the currency of his tenancy on any of the following grounds, namely:—

(a) that he has used the land comprised in his holding in a manner which renders it unfit for the purposes of his tenancy;

(b) that at the time of the institution of the suit the entire holding has been sub-let;

(c) where the rent is payable in kind, that his cultivation has diminished to a point which by the custom of the locality involves the forfeiture of the holding;

(d) where the tenant holds, under an unexpired lease, land to which section 4, sub-sections (3) and (4), applies, then on any ground which would justify ejectment under the lease.

(2) The tenant shall continue liable for the rent of the land until the decree is executed.

General.

Time of ejectment of tenant.

63. Except in pursuance of an order under section 21, sub-section (2), a tenant shall not in any case, whether in execution of a decree or otherwise, be ejected from the land in his occupation, except between the first day of April and the thirtieth day of June in any year after the passing of this Act.

The Oudh Rent Act, 1886.

(Chapter V.—Ejectment.—Sections 61-66.—Chapter VI.—Supplemental Provisions respecting Tenancies.—Sections 67-69.)

Time of ejectment of thekadár.

64. A thekadár liable to be ejected under the provisions of this Act may be ejected at any time during his tenancy.

Preferment by tenants of claims for compensation for improvements in suits for ejectment.

65. In any suit for ejectment the defendant may file any claim for compensation for improvements which he may have against the plaintiff, and, if the Court finds the grounds on which the suit is brought to be valid, it shall determine the amount of compensation, if any, due from the plaintiff to the defendant, and shall pass a decree of ejectment conditional on the payment into Court of that amount.

Compensation to ejected tenant for growing crops.

66. A tenant ejected in accordance with the provisions of this Act shall be entitled to receive from the landlord the value of any growing crops or other ungathered products of the earth belonging to the tenant and being on the land at the time of his ejectment:

Provided that, if the land has been sown or planted by the tenant after service on him of a notice under section 55, he shall not be so entitled, unless, after that service, the landlord has authorized him in writing to continue to occupy the land.

CHAPTER VI.

SUPPLEMENTAL PROVISIONS RESPECTING TENANCIES.

Sir Lands.

Sir lands.

67. (1) The rights conferred upon tenants by sections 34, 36, 37, 55, 60, 45, 46, 47 and 48 shall not accrue to cultivators of any of the following lands, namely:—

(a) land which for the seven years immediately preceding the passing of this Act has been continuously dealt with as sír in the distribution of proprietary or under-proprietary profits and charges;

(b) land which for the seven years immediately preceding the passing of this Act has been continuously cultivated by the proprietor or under-proprietor himself or by his servants or by hired labour.

(2) Land which was recorded as sír at settlement and has been continuously so recorded since shall, until the contrary is proved, be presumed to be land of the class mentioned in clause (a) of section (1).

Thekadárs, Mortgagees and Sub-tenants.

Thekadárs, mortgagees and sub-tenants.

68. (1) A person holding land as a thekadár, mortgagee or sub-tenant shall not, while so holding, acquire any of the rights enumerated in the last foregoing section in any of the land comprised in his theka, mortgage or sub-tenancy.

(2) A person having those rights in land does not lose them by subsequently taking a theka or mortgage in which his holding is comprised.

Long Leases.

Incidents of lease for eight years or upwards.

69. (1) When a holding has been let by registered document for a term of eight years or upwards at a rent determined thereby for the whole of the term in accordance with the provisions of this Act to a tenant to whom section 36 or section 37 applies, the landlord shall, on the expiration of the term, be entitled to enhance the rent of the holding in accordance with the provisions of Chapter IV, Part B, and not otherwise, and shall also be entitled to eject the tenant by notice under section 55 without payment of a court-fee under that section:

The Oudh Rent Act, 1886.

(Chapter VI.—Supplemental Provisions respecting Tenancies.—Section 70.—Chapter VII.—Distress for Arrears of Rent.—Sections 72-79.)

Provided that any change in the rent or alteration in the area of the holding by the landlord during the term shall be a bar to enhancement and ejectment for seven years from the date of that change or alteration.

(2) In addition to the grounds mentioned in clauses (a), (b) and (c) of section 62, sub-section (1), a tenant to whom this section applies shall be liable to ejectment by suit during the currency of his tenancy on any ground which would justify ejectment under the registered document under which he holds.

Miscellaneous.

Evidence respecting change of rent or alteration of area of holding.

70. Where a tenant has received a patta, a statement that since the date of the patta his rent has been changed, or area of his holding altered, by the landlord, shall not be admissible in evidence unless the change or alteration is recorded in an entry on the patta signed by or on behalf of the landlord, and in an entry on the counterpart signed by or on behalf of the tenant, or in a new patta and counterpart.

Construction of certain expressions.

71. The expression "special agreement" or "decree of Court", where it is used in this Act to signify the tenure on which land is held by a tenant, is to be construed as referring to an agreement or decree made or passed before the passing of this Act.

CHAPTER VII.

DISTRESS FOR ARREARS OF RENT.

Recovery of arrears of rent by distress.

72. When an arrear of rent is due from any tenant, the landlord may, subject to the provisions of this Chapter, distrain the produce of the land in respect of which the arrear is due:

Provided that, when a tenant has given security for the payment of his rent, the produce of the land in respect of which the rent is payable shall not be liable to distress so long as the security is in force.

Distress not permissible in certain cases.

73. Distress shall not be made for the recovery of—

(a) any sum in excess of the rent payable in the last preceding year for the land in respect of which the arrear is due, unless the tenant has agreed in writing to pay that excess or unless he has been declared by decree to be liable therefor, or

(b) any arrear which has been due for a longer period than one year.

Power of distress by whom exercisable.

74. The power of distress vested by section 72 in landlords may be exercised by managers under the Court of Wards, managing agents and tahsildars of estates held under direct management, and other persons lawfully entrusted with the charge of land, and also by the agents employed by landlords or any such persons as aforesaid in the collection of rent, if expressly authorized by power-of-attorney to distrain:

Provided that, if any such agent, purporting to act in the exercise of that power, commits an act which, under the provisions of this Chapter, is illegal, the person employing him shall be liable, as well as the agent, to be sued for compensation for any injury caused by the act.

Distress by servants.

75. Any person empowered to distrain property under section 72 or section 74 may employ a servant or other person to make the distress, but in every such case he shall give to the servant or person a written authority in that behalf, and the distress shall be made in the name and on the responsibility of the person giving the authority.

Crops liable to distress.

76. (1) Standing crops and other ungathered products of the earth, and crops or other products when reaped or gathered and deposited in any threshing-floor or place for treading out grain or the like, whether in the field or within a homestead, may be distrained by persons invested with powers of distress under this Act.

(2) But no such crops or products, other than the produce of the land in respect of which an arrear of rent is due, or of land held under the same engagement as the land in respect of which the arrear is due, and no grain or other produce after it has been stored by the cultivator, and no other property whatsoever, shall be liable to distress under this Act.

Demand of arrear before or at time of distress.

77. (1) Before or at the time when any distress is made under this Act, the distrainer shall cause the defaulter to be served with a written demand for the amount of the arrear, together with an account exhibiting the grounds on which the demand is made.

(2) The demand and account shall, if practicable, be served personally on the defaulter, but, if he cannot be found, they shall be affixed at his usual place of residence, and shall thereupon be deemed to be duly served upon him.

Value of distress and service of list of distrained property on owner.

78. Unless the amount of the demand is immediately paid or tendered, the distrainer may distrain property as aforesaid of value as nearly as may be equal to the amount of the arrear with the costs of the distress; and, when he has made the distress, he shall prepare a list or description of the property distrained and deliver a copy thereof to the owner, or if the owner is absent, affix it at his usual place of residence.

Keeping and storing standing crops distrained.

79. (1) Standing crops and other ungathered products of the earth may, notwithstanding the distress, be reaped or gathered by the tenant, and may be stored in such granaries or other places as are commonly used by him for the purpose.

(2) If the tenant neglects to do so, the distrainer may cause the crops or products to be reaped or gathered, and in that case shall store them either in such granaries or other places as aforesaid, or in some other convenient place in the neighbourhood.

The Oudh Rent Act, 1886.

(Chapter VII.—Distress for Arrears of Rent.—Sections 80-89.)

(3) In either case the distrained property shall be placed in the charge of some proper person appointed by the distrainer for the purpose.

(4) If the crops or products do not, from their nature, admit of being stored, the distress shall be made (if at all) at least twenty days before the time when the crops or products or any part thereof would ordinarily be fit for cutting or gathering.

Application by distrainer in case of resistance.

80. If a distrainer is opposed or apprehends resistance, and desires to obtain the assistance of a public officer, he may apply to the Court, and the Court may, if it thinks necessary, depute an officer to assist the distrainer in making the distress.

Withdrawal of distress on tender of arrear and costs.

81. If at any time after property has been distrained as aforesaid, and before the sale thereof as hereinafter provided, the owner tenders payment of the arrear demanded and of the costs of the distress, the distrainer shall receive the payment and give a receipt therefor and forthwith withdraw the distress.

Application for sale.

82. Within five days from the time of storing any distrained crops or products, or, if the crops or products do not from their nature admit of being stored, within five days from the time of making the distress, the distrainer shall apply for the sale thereof to the proper officer authorized to sell property in satisfaction of decrees of the Court within whose jurisdiction the distrained property is found.

Form of application.

83. (1) The application shall be in writing; it shall contain a list or description of the property distrained, and it shall state the name of the defaulter, his place of residence, the amount due and the place in which the distrained property is deposited.

(2) Together with the application, the distrainer shall deliver to the proper officer the sum payable for the service of a notice upon the defaulter as provided in the next following section.

Procedure on receipt of application.

84. (1) Immediately on receipt of the application, the proper officer shall send a copy of it to the Court, and shall serve a notice in the form contained in Schedule C to this Act, or to the like effect, on the person whose property has been distrained, requiring him either to pay the amount demanded, or within fifteen days from the receipt of the notice to institute a suit to contest the demand.

(2) The officer shall at the same time send to the Court, for the purpose of being put up at the court-house, a proclamation fixing a day for the sale of the distrained property, not less than twenty days from the date of the proclamation, and shall deliver a copy of the proclamation to the peon charged with the service of the notice, to be put up by him in the place where the distrained property is deposited.

(3) The proclamation shall contain a description of the property, and shall specify the demand for which it is to be sold, and the place where the sale is to be held.

Suspension of sale on institution of suit.

85. (1) If a suit is instituted in pursuance of the notice mentioned in the last foregoing section, the Court shall send to the proper officer, or, if so requested by the owner of the distrained property, shall deliver to him, a certificate of the institution of the suit.

(2) On the certificate being received by, or presented to, the proper officer, he shall suspend proceedings in regard to the sale:

Provided that, if in his opinion the property distrained is such that delay will cause damage thereto, he may direct its immediate sale.

Suit to contest distrainer's demand.

86. (1) Any person whose property has been distrained as aforesaid may institute a suit to contest the distrainer's demand at any time before the expiration of the fifteen days mentioned in section 84, sub-section (1).

(2) When any such suit is instituted, the Court shall proceed in the manner directed in section 85.

(2) When a bond has been executed under sub-section (1), the Court shall give to the owner of the property a certificate to that effect, or, if he so requests, shall serve the distrainer with notice of the execution of the bond.

(3) Upon the certificate being presented to the distrainer by the owner of the property, or upon the notice being served on the distrainer by order of the Court, as the case may be, the property shall be released from distress.

88. On the expiration of the period fixed in the proclamation of sale, if the institution of a suit to contest the demand of the distrainer has not been certified to the proper officer in the manner hereinbefore provided, he shall, unless that demand with such costs of the distress as are allowed by him, is discharged in full, proceed, with the sanction of the Court, to sell the property, or such part thereof as may be necessary.

(3) The remainder shall be applied to the discharge of the arrear for which the distress was made, and the surplus (if any) shall be delivered to the person whose property has been sold.

93. Officers holding sales of property under this Act, and all persons employed by, or subordinate to, those officers, are forbidden to purchase, either directly or indirectly, property sold by those officers.

(2) If in any case, on proceeding to hold a sale under this Act, that officer finds that the owner has not received due notice of the distress and intended sale, he shall postpone the sale and report the case to the Court, and the Court shall direct the issue of another notice and proclamation of sale under section 84, or make such other order as it thinks proper.

95. (1) When that officer has gone to any place for the purpose of holding a sale, and a sale does not take place either for the reason stated in section 94 or because the distrainer's demand has been previously satisfied, a charge of one anna for every rupee of the value of the distrained property, as estimated by the officer, shall be leviable by him on account of the expenses of the intended sale, unless the distrainer's demand has been satisfied before the day fixed for the sale and notice of its having been satisfied has been given by him to the officer.

(2) If the distrainer's demand is not satisfied until the day fixed for the sale, the charge shall be paid by the owner of the property, and may be recovered by sale of such portion of the property as may be necessary.

(3) In every other case the charge shall be paid by the distrainer, and may be recovered under the warrant of the Court by attachment and sale of his property.

(4) The charge leviable under this section shall not exceed ten rupees in any case.

(2) If the demand or any part thereof is found to be due, the Court shall make in favour of the distrainer a decree for the amount so found.

(3) That amount may be recovered, if the distrained property has not been released on security, by sale of the distrained property as provided in section 96, and, if any balance remains due after the sale, by execution of the decree against the person and any other property of the defaulter, or, if the distrained property has been released on security, by execution of the decree against the person and property of the defaulter, and if his surety has been made a party to the suit, against the person and property of the surety.

102. When property has been distrained for an arrear of rent, and a suit has been instituted to contest the demand, and the right to distrain for that arrear is claimed by or on behalf of any person other than the distrainer, on the ground of that other person being actually and in good faith in the receipt and enjoyment of the rent of the land, that other person shall be made a party to the suit, and the question of the actual receipt and enjoyment of the rent by him before and up to the commencement of the suit shall be inquired into, and the suit shall be decided according to the result of the inquiry:

103. Any person whose property has been distrained for the recovery of a demand not justly due, or of a demand due or alleged to be due from some other person, and who is prevented by any sufficient cause from bringing a suit to contest the demand or try the right to the property, as the case may be, within the period allowed by section 84 or section 99, and whose property is in consequence brought to sale, may institute a suit to recover compensation for any injury which he has sustained from the distress and sale.

the owner of the property may institute a suit to recover compensation for any injury which he has thereby sustained.

105. (1) If any person not empowered by this Act to distrain or sell, or not duly authorized for that purpose by a person so empowered, purports to distrain or sell any property under this Act, the owner of the property may institute a suit to recover compensation from the person so distraining or selling for any injury which the plaintiff has sustained from the distress or sale.

Suit for distress or sale falsely purporting to be under the Act.

(2) The institution of a suit under sub-section (1) shall not affect the defendant's liability to be prosecuted under any law for the time being in force.

106. (1) If any person resists a distress of property duly made under this Act, or forcibly or clandestinely removes any distrained property, the Court, upon complaint being made within ten days from the date of the resistance or removal, shall cause the person accused to be arrested and brought before the Court with all convenient speed, and the Court shall proceed forthwith to try the case.

107. If the resistance to the distress or the removal of the distrained property is proved, the Court may order the offender to pay a fine not exceeding one hundred rupees, together with all costs and expenses incurred in the case or in making the distress, and, in default of payment, may order him to be imprisoned in the civil jail until payment is made:

The following Act of the Governor-General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor-General on the 24th September, 1886, and is hereby promulgated for general information:—

ACT NO. XVIII OF 1886.

An Act to amend Act XXXVI of 1858.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend Act XXXVI of 1858 (an Act relating to Lunatic Asylums); It is hereby enacted as follows:—

New section inserted after section 6.

1. After section 6 the following shall be inserted, namely:—

Detention of supposed lunatics under observation.

"6 A. (1) Where a person found wandering at large who is deemed to be a lunatic, or where a person believed to be dangerous by reason of lunacy, is apprehended and sent to the Magistrate or the Commissioner of Police, or where, on report or information that a person deemed to be a lunatic is not under proper care and control or is cruelly treated or neglected, the Magistrate or the Commissioner of Police sends for him and then determines to proceed as prescribed in section 4 of this Act, the Magistrate or the Commissioner of Police, on the request of the medical officer, may, by order in writing, authorise the detention of the supposed lunatic for such time, not exceeding ten days, as, in the opinion of the Magistrate or the Commissioner of Police, may be necessary to enable the medical officer to form an opinion on the question whether or not the supposed lunatic is a person with respect to whom a certificate in the form A in the schedule to this Act ought to be signed.

"(2) If the medical officer certifies further detention than has been authorised under sub-section (1) to be necessary to enable him to form his opinion on that question, the Magistrate or the Commissioner of Police may from time to time, by order in writing, authorise such further detention as he deems to be necessary:

"Provided that a supposed lunatic shall not be detained for the purpose of this section for a longer time than fourteen days from the date on which the first order authorising his detention for that purpose is made.

"(3) The Executive Government may from time to time make rules as to the place of detention and the care and treatment of supposed lunatics detained under this section."

Amendment of section 9.

2. To section 9 the words "Subject to the provisions of any enactment for the time being in force," shall be prefixed.

New sections to follow section 17.

3. After section 17 the following shall be inserted, namely:—

Provision for provinces not having asylums.

"17A. When an Executive Government has not established within its limits a public asylum for the reception and detention of lunatics under this Act, the Governor-General in Council may from time to time appoint an asylum established in British India beyond those limits to be an asylum to which a Magistrate or Judge exercising jurisdiction within those limits may send lunatics as to an asylum established under this Act for the division in which his jurisdiction is situate.

Use of provincial asylums as presidency asylums for purposes of the Act.

"17B. The Governor-General in Council may from time to time, by order, direct, with respect to any part of British India which is not annexed to a presidency or, being annexed to the presidency of Fort William, Fort Saint George or Bombay, is situated at a greater distance than three hundred miles from Calcutta, Madras or Bombay, respectively, that any lunatic asylum in British India named in the order shall be deemed for that part to be a lunatic asylum at the presidency for the purposes of this Act."

The following Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend Act XXXVI of 1858 was presented to the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 15th September, 1886 :—

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

WE, the undersigned, Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to amend Act XXXVI of 1858 was referred, have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin, and have now the honour to submit this our Report.

From Officiating Assistant Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Central Provinces, No. 182—9, dated 21st January, 1886 [Paper No. 1].
From Secretary for Berar to Resident, Hyderabad, No. 14G., dated 19th January, 1886 [Paper No. 2].
From Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Assam, No 224, dated 27th January, 1886 [Paper No. 3].
From Officiating Secretary to Chief Commissioner, British Burma, No. 534—4L., dated 29th January, 1886 [Paper No. 4].
From Chief Commissioner, Ajmer-Merwára, No. 294C., dated 3rd February, 1886 [Paper No. 5].
From Under-Secretary to Government, Bombay, No. 522, dated 9th February, 1886, and enclosures [Papers No. 6].
From Acting Chief Secretary to Government, Madras, No. 355, dated 9th February, 1886, and enclosures [Papers No. 7].
From Secretary to Government, North-Western Provinces and Oudh, No. 384—VI-590-6, dated 19th February, 1886, and enclosure [Papers No. 8].
From Registrar, High Court, Calcutta, No. 502, dated 23rd February, 1886 [Paper No. 9].
From Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Coorg, No. 283—12, dated 1st March, 1886 [Paper No. 10].
From Officiating Secretary to Government, Bengal, No. 1604, dated 1st April, 1886 [Paper No 11].
From Secretary to Government, Punjab, No. 319, dated 19th March, 1886, and enclosures [Papers No. 12].

2. The Bill as introduced was approved by the authorities to whom it was referred, but further amendments of the Act were proposed by the Governments of Bengal and the Punjab.

3. The former Government drew attention to the absence of any provision authorising the detention of supposed lunatics for observation, and the latter to the inconvenience ensuing from the provision which requires lunatics who are not natives of the country to be sent in all cases to an asylum at the presidency.

4. It appeared to us that express provision ought to be made for the detention of supposed lunatics. As a matter of practice they are detained, for in many cases the medical officer is not in a position to form an opinion on the question whether or not a person is a lunatic until he has had the person under observation for some days. The detention is probably legal where it is authorised by the Magistrate (I. L. R. 9 Cal. 341), but it is desirable that there should be no room for doubt as to the legality of a practice which is in fact absolutely necessary. We considered it desirable, however, before submitting our Report, to consult Local Governments, and we therefore circulated a draft clause proposing, in accordance with the advice of the Surgeon-General, a period of ten days as the maximum term of detention for purposes of observation. We have now, after considering the replies to our circular, proposed to extend the term to fourteen days, and to authorise Local Governments to make rules as to the place of detention, and the care and treatment, of supposed lunatics.

5. The proposal of the Punjab Government with respect to the establishment of asylums at other places than the presidency-towns for lunatics who are not natives of the country was referred by us to other Local Governments, and has been approved by them. We have provided, therefore, that the Governor-General in Council may, with respect to any part of British India which is not annexed to a presidency, or is more than three hundred miles from a presidency-town, direct that any lunatic asylum named in the order shall be deemed for that part to be a lunatic asylum at the presidency for the purposes of the Act.

6. Section 9 of the Act empowers the visitors of a lunatic asylum to order the discharge of any person detained in the asylum. As the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1882, and the Prisoners Act, 1871, reserve that power in certain cases to other authorities, we have proposed to prefix to that section an express saving of the provisions of other enactments.

The following Act of the Governor-General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor-General on the 24th September, 1886, and is hereby promulgated for general information :—

ACT NO. XIX OF 1886.

An Act to legalize the discharge by the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces of certain functions of the Governor-General in Council.

WHEREAS certain functions which are by enactments in force in the North-Western Provinces assigned to the Governor-General in Council are in practice discharged by the Lieutenant-Governor of those Provinces, and it is expedient that these functions should continue to be so discharged, and that their discharge in the past should be legalized ;

And whereas the functions assigned to the Governor-General in Council by Regulation LII of 1803 (for establishing a Court of Wards in the Provinces ceded by the Nawab Vazir to the Honourable the English East India Company), which Regulation was extended to the Conquered Provinces by section 29, Regulation VIII, 1805, and to the Province of Benares by section 2, Regulation VI, 1822, were up to the twenty-second day of December, 1873, discharged by the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces, and it is expedient that their discharge by the said Lieutenant-Governor up to that date should be validated ;

It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Transfer to Lieutenant-Governor of certain functions of Governor-General in Council.

1. The sections of the enactments in the schedule to this Act which are specified in the third column of that schedule shall have effect, and, so far as may be necessary to validate anything heretofore done under them by the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces, shall be deemed to have had effect as if the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces were therein referred to instead of the Governor-General in Council.

Validation of exercise by Lieutenant-Governor of functions of Governor-General in Council under Regulation LII of 1803.

2. Sections 3, 7, 9 and 17 of Regulation LII of 1803 shall be deemed to have had effect in the North-Western Provinces as if the words "or the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces" had been inserted in those sections after the words "Governor-General in Council" wherever the latter words occur.

The following Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to regalize the discharge by the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces of certain functions of the Governor-General in Council was presented to the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 15th September, 1886 :—

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

WE, the undersigned, Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to legalize the discharge by the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces of certain functions of the Governor-General in Council was referred, have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin, and have now the honour to submit this our Report.

From Officiating Secretary to Chief Commissioner, British Burma, No. 574—17L., dated 19th September, 1884, and enclosure [Papers No. 1].
From Officiating Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Assam, No. 1520, dated 20th September, 1884 [Paper No. 2].
From Officiating Secretary to Government, Punjab, No. 572S., dated 29th September, 1884, and enclosures [Papers No 3].
From Chief Commissioner, Ajmer-Merwára, No. 841, dated 3rd October, 1884 [Paper No. 4].
From Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Central Provinces, No. 360., dated 26th October, 1884, and enclosure [Papers No. 5].
From Secretary to Government, North-Western Provinces and Oudh, No. 121—XIII-10-5, dated 8th August, 1884, and enclosures [Papers No. 6].

2. We have removed Regulation LII of 1800 from the schedule to the Bill, because the Mirzapur Stone Mahál Act, 1886, seems to us to render its retention unnecessary.

3. We have proposed in an additional section to validate the exercise by the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces of the powers of the Governor-General in Council under Regulation LII of 1803 which the Lieutenant-Governor seems to have exercised without question throughout the forty years which elapsed between the constitution of his office and the repeal of the Regulation. When the Bill was under consideration some two years ago, the interests of the parties to a suit then pending might have been affected by the validation of the exercise of these powers, and it was therefore decided that our Report should be delayed till the suit had been disposed of. There is now, so far as we are aware, no litigation before any Court which can be influenced in any way by the enactment of the section which we propose to add to the Bill.

4. The publication ordered by the Council has been made as follows :—

The following Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to declare the law in force in Upper Burma was presented to the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 15th September, 1886:—

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

WE, the undersigned, Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to declare the law in force in Upper Burma was referred, have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin, and have now the honour to submit this our Report.

From Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Burma, No. 88—130, dated 4th September, 1886, and enclosures.
From Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Burma, No. 84—130, dated 4th September, 1886, and enclosures.

2. We have, in accordance with the advice of the Chief Commissioner, provided in section 1 that certain portions of the Bill shall not come into force at once. It is desirable that sections 6 to 11 of the Bill, as amended by us, should not have effect until the Civil and Criminal Justice Regulations, which have been drawn, and for the most part settled, have been finally proposed by the Chief Commissioner and have received the assent of the Governor-General under the Statute 33 Victoria, chapter 3.

3. Section 3, regarding the division of Upper Burma into divisions, districts, sub-divisions, townships and circles, will serve the purposes of the Regulations which the Chief Commissioner is about to propose.

4. Section 4 has been so modified as to cover, it is believed, the language of all enactments in force in Lower Burma.

5. Section 6 has been so amended as to define more precisely the local area to which the Second Part of the Second Schedule is to apply. The Shan States are excluded from the operation of this and the next following section.

6. Section 7.—(1) The section (7) which it was proposed to add to Act VI of 1864 will be rendered unnecessary by the application to Upper Burma of sections 390 to 395 of the Code of Criminal Procedure by the proposed Criminal Justice Regulation.

(2) It is proposed to amend section 25 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, in its application to Upper Burma, because Thugyis and Myothugyis will, besides being police-officers, be local Magistrates and Judges.

(3) The modification of section 10, Act XIX of 1876, will substantially continue the law as it was found in Upper Burma with respect to pwés or dramatic entertainments, and as it seems desirable to maintain that law for the present.

7. Section 8 provides that British Indian law shall not extend proprio vigore to any of the Shan States.

8. Sections 9, 10 and 11 remain, with slight modifications, as they were in the Bill as introduced.

9. We have added some Acts to the First Part of the Second Schedule. Among them are the Court-fees and Stamp Acts, the Presidency Banks Acts, the Indian Companies Act and the Land Improvement Loans Act. The operation of the Court-fees and Stamp Acts will be limited by notifications to be issued when those Acts come into force. The fact that the Bank of Bengal contemplates the establishment of a branch at Mandalay necessitates the extension of the Presidency Banks Acts. The Indian Companies Act may be required at any time; and the local authorities advise the extension of the Land Improvement Loans Act for the purposes of loans to be made for irrigation-works.

10. The jurisdiction to be conferred on, and the rules to be prescribed for, the Civil Court of Mandalay will render necessary the extension of the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, XI of 1865, and the Code of Civil Procedure to the Town of Mandalay.

11. Other amendments of the Bill do not call for remark.

12. The publication ordered by the Council has been made as follows:—

[Third publication.]

The following Act of the Governor-General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor-General on the 24th September, 1886, and is hereby promulgated for general information:—

ACT NO. XXI OF 1886.

An Act to declare certain allowances collectively known as Oudh Wasikas to be pensions within the meaning of the Pensions Act, 1871.

WHEREAS, on the death of Her Highness the Bahu Begam, His Highness the Nawáb Vazir of Oudh delivered to the British Government a sum of money with intent that the interest accruing thereon should, in compliance with the wishes of Her Highness the Bahu Begam as expressed in a Deed of Deposit executed by her in the year 1813, be applied by the British Government to the payment of certain pensions, which pensions are known as the Amanat Wasikas;

And whereas in the year 1813 the said Government guaranteed the payment of certain pensions to persons connected with the Khás Mahál of Her Highness the Bahu Begam, which pensions are known as the Zamanat Wasikas;

And whereas, in the years 1814, 1825 and 1838, loans, known respectively as the 1st, 3rd and 6th Oudh loans, were made by the Rulers of Oudh to the Honourable the East India Company with intent that the interest accruing thereon should be applied by the said Government to the payment of certain pensions, which pensions are known as the Loan Wasikas;

And whereas the Amanat, Zamanat and Loan Wasikas have been regarded as pensions to which the Pensions Act, 1871, applies, and rules respecting them have been made and published under section 14 of that Act; XXIII of 1871.

And whereas, since the making and publication of the rules, doubt has been expressed whether the said Wasikas are pensions within the meaning of the Pensions Act, 1871;

And whereas it is expedient to declare them to be pensions within the meaning of that Act;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title. 1. This Act may be called the Oudh Wasikas Act, 1886.

Application of Act XXIII of 1871 to Wasikas. 2. The allowances respectively known as the Amanat Wasikas, the Zamanat Wasikas and the Loan Wasikas are pensions within the meaning of the Pensions Act, 1871, and that Act shall apply to them as if they were pensions of the classes referred to in sections 4 and 11 of that Act. XXIII of 1871.

S. HARVEY JAMES,
Offg. Secretary to the Government of India.

The following Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to declare certain allowances collectively known as Oudh Wasikas to be pensions within the meaning of the Pensions Act, 1871, was presented to the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 15th September, 1886:—

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

WE, the undersigned, Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to declare certain allowances collectively known as Oudh Wasikas to be pensions within the meaning of the Pensions Act, 1871, was referred, have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin, and have now the honour to submit this our Report.

From Chief Secretary to Government, North-Western Provinces and Oudh, No. 4281A.—X.-F.-42, dated 30th August, 1886, and enclosure [Papers No. 1].
From Messrs. Harriss and Simmons, Solicitors, Calcutta, dated 8th September, 1886.

2. The Government of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh having reported that the pensions payable under the Treaty of the year 1829, under which the 5th Oudh loan was made to the Honourable the East India Company, have all been commuted, we have removed section 3 of the Bill as introduced and so much of the preamble as had reference to that section.

3. Exception having been taken to some of the pensions being described as "conferred by a former Government and continued by the British Government on political considerations," we have re-drawn section 2 of the Bill so as to make it clear that the allowances are dealt with as pensions of that nature only for the purpose of barring the Civil Courts from entertaining suits relating to them and of protecting them from attachment at the instance of creditors.

4. The publication ordered by the Council has been made as follows:—

In English.

Compensation to under-proprietor or tenant for illegal enforcement of payment.

(2) An award of compensation under sub-section (1) shall not bar any prosecution to which the person illegally enforcing the payment may be liable under any law for the time being in force.

Abatement of Rent.

18. Save as provided by section 29, sub-section (4), a suit for an abatement of the rent of a holding shall not be brought by an under-proprietor or tenant except on the ground that the area of the holding has diminished, or on some ground specified in a lease, agreement or decree under which he holds:

Suit for abatement of rent by under-proprietor or tenant.

Provided that, if the under-proprietor holds a sub-settlement in a revenue-paying estate, an abatement shall not be allowed to the under-proprietor unless a remission of revenue has been allowed on the same ground and by competent authority in the same estate.

Remission of Rent.

19. (1) Notwithstanding anything in the last foregoing section, a Court, when it makes a decree for an arrear of rent, may, with the previous sanction of the Deputy Commissioner, allow such remission from the rent payable by any under-proprietor or tenant as appears equitable, if the area of the land in his occupation has been materially diminished by diluvion or otherwise, or if the produce of that land has been diminished by drought, hail or other calamity beyond his control, to such an extent that the full amount of rent payable by him cannot, in the opinion of the Court, be paid.

Remission of rent by order of Court.

(2) Where a remission of rent under this section causes a material diminution of the assets of the landlord in the village in which the remission is given, the revenue-authorities shall take into consideration any claim made by the landlord for a remission of revenue.

(3) A remission shall not be allowed under this section to an under-proprietor holding a sub-settlement, or to a tenant having a right of occupancy, unless a remission of revenue has been allowed on the same ground and by competent authority in the same village.

Relinquishment of Land.

20. (1) A tenant shall continue liable for the rent of the land in his holding unless on or before the fifteenth day of March in any year he gives to the landlord or to the recognized agent of the landlord notice in writing of his desire to relinquish that land, and relinquishes it accordingly.

Relinquishment of land by tenant.

(2) If the landlord or his recognized agent refuses to receive the notice or to sign and deliver a receipt therefor, the tenant may, before the latest date prescribed for giving the notice, apply on plain paper to the tahsíldár or proper officer, and written notice of the desire of the tenant to relinquish the land shall then be served on the landlord at the expense of the tenant.

(3) A tenant cannot without the consent of his landlord relinquish a part only of his holding.

(4) Nothing in this section shall entitle a tenant holding under a registered document under section 69 to relinquish his holding otherwise than in accordance with the terms of that document.

21. (1) If a tenant abandons his holding without informing his landlord and without arranging for the cultivation of the holding, the landlord may at any time after the fifteenth day of May enter on the holding.

Abandonment of holding.

(2) Before a landlord enters on a holding under sub-section (1), he shall file a notice in the prescribed form at the office of the tahsíldár for service on the tenant stating that he has treated the holding as abandoned and is about to enter on it accordingly.

(3) When a landlord enters on a holding under sub-section (1), the tenant may institute a suit under this Act to recover possession of the holding, and the Court shall, on being satisfied that the tenant did not voluntarily abandon the holding, order recovery of possession on such terms with respect to the time of delivery of possession, the payment of arrears of rent, if any, and, if injury has been caused by the wrongful act, neglect or default of any party to the proceeding, with respect also to the payment of compensation by that party, as to the Court may seem just.

Compensation for Tenants' Improvements.

22. (1) If a tenant, or a person from whom he has inherited, has made any such improvement on his holding as is hereinafter in this Chapter mentioned, neither he nor his representative shall be ejected from the holding unless and until he or his representative, as the case may be, has received compensation for the improvement:

Tenant's right to compensation for improvements.

Provided that compensation shall not be payable for any improvement made thirty years or more before the date on which the ejectment is to take effect.

(2) An improvement made by a tenant for the benefit of his holding on land belonging to the person who is entitled to receive the rent of the holding shall for the purposes of this section be deemed to have been made on the holding of the tenant.

23. Except as provided in the next following section, a tenant shall not be entitled to claim compensation for an improvement made subsequently to the passing of this Act without the written consent of the landlord.

Landlord's consent to tenant's improvement.

24. (1) If a tenant applies for the written consent of his landlord to the making of an improvement on his holding, and the landlord omits or refuses to grant it, the tenant may apply to the Deputy Commissioner for permission to make the improvement.

Reference to Deputy Commissioner when consent is refused.

The Oudh Rent Act, 1886.

(Chapter II.—Of certain Rights and Liabilities of Landlords, Under-proprietors and Tenants.—Sections 25-30.)
(Chapter III.—Payment of Rent in kind.—Sections 31-32.)

(2) When an application is made to the Deputy Commissioner under sub-section (1), he shall take into consideration any objections which the landlord may have to urge on either of the following grounds, namely:—

(a) that the improvement is too costly or is unsuitable to the nature of the tenant's holding, or

(b) that the landlord is himself prepared to make the improvement,

and shall then either grant the permission on such conditions as he considers fair and equitable or refuse the application.

25. (1) If either the landlord or the tenant desires the amount expended on an improvement executed with the permission of the Deputy Commissioner under the last foregoing section to be determined and registered, the Deputy Commissioner shall, on application made to him for the purpose, determine the amount of the outlay, and enter it in a register kept in the prescribed form.

Registration of outlay on improvements.

(2) The entry in the register shall be conclusive proof of the amount of the outlay in any subsequent proceedings respecting the cost of the improvement.

26. The word "improvement", as used in this Act, means a work by which the annual letting value of land has been, and at the time of a demand for compensation continues to be, increased, and comprises—

"Improvement" defined.

(a) the construction of works for the storage of water, for the supply of water for agricultural purposes, for drainage and for protection against floods; the construction of wells; the reclamation of waste land and jungle; and other works of a like nature:

(b) the renewal or reconstruction of any of the foregoing works, or such alterations therein or additions thereto as are not required for the maintenance thereof and increase durably their value.

27. In estimating the compensation to which a tenant is entitled for an improvement regard shall be had—

Principle on which compensation is to be estimated.

(a) to the amount by which the value, or the produce, of the holding, or the value of that produce, is increased by the improvement;

(b) to the condition of the improvement and the probable duration of its effects;

(c) to the labour and capital required for the making of such an improvement;

(d) to any reduction or remission of rent or any other advantage given by the landlord to the tenant in consideration of the improvement; and

(e) in the case of a reclamation, or of the conversion of unirrigated into irrigated land, to the length of time during which the tenant has had the benefit of the improvement.

28. When a Court has assessed the amount of the compensation due to a tenant, it may, if both landlord and tenant desire that the compensation assessed, instead of being paid wholly in money, shall be made wholly or partly in some other way, proceed to give judgment according to the terms agreed upon between them.

Modes of making compensation.

29. (1) A landlord may make an improvement on the holding of a tenant not having a right of occupancy with or without the consent of the tenant.

Improvements by the landlord.

(2) A landlord intending to make an improvement shall, if any part thereof is to be made on the holding of any such tenant, give notice of his intention to the tenant through the tahsíldár.

(3) A landlord making an improvement on the holding of any such tenant shall be liable to compensate the tenant for any loss which he may cause to the tenant when making it.

(4) If the effect of the improvement is to impair the productive powers of the holding, the tenant shall, in addition to any compensation which may be awarded to him under sub-section (3), be entitled to such abatement of his rent as to the Court seems just.

(5) A landlord may not make an improvement on the holding of a tenant with a right of occupancy without the consent of the tenant.

Survey and Measurement.

30. A landlord and his agents and surveyors may at all reasonable times enter upon any land comprised in his estate for the purpose of surveying and measuring the land.

Landlord's right to enter and measure lands.

CHAPTER III.

PAYMENT OF RENT IN KIND.

31. Where rent is taken by division of the produce in kind, or by estimate or appraisement of the standing crop, or other proceeding of a similar nature requiring the presence of both the tenant and the landlord either personally or by recognized agent, if either party neglects to be present at the proper time, or if a dispute arises between the parties regarding the division, estimate, appraisement or proceeding, either party may present an application to the Court, requesting that a proper officer be deputed to make the division, estimate or appraisement or conduct the proceeding.

Division or appraisement of produce.

32. (1) On receiving the application, the Court shall issue a written notice to the other party to attend at a time and place specified in the notice, and shall depute an officer before whom the division, estimate or appraisement shall be made or the proceeding conducted.

Procedure in case of dispute.

(2) The award of that officer in respect of the division, estimate, appraisement or proceeding shall be final, unless, within one month from the date thereof, either party institutes a suit to set it aside.

CHAPTER IV.

ENHANCEMENT AND FIXING RATES OF RENT.

Part A.—Tenants with Right of Occupancy.

Enhancement of rent of tenant with right of occupancy.

33. (1) A tenant having a right of occupancy in any land shall not, in case of dispute as to the rent to be paid in respect of the land, be liable to an enhancement of the rent except in pursuance of a decree made under this Act on some one of the following grounds, namely:—

1st ground.—That the rate of rent paid by him is below the rate of rent usually paid, by the same class of tenants having a right of occupancy, for land of a similar description and with similar advantages, situate in the same village.

Rule.—In this case the Court shall enhance his rent to such amount as the plaintiff demands, not exceeding that rate.

2nd ground.—That the rate of rent paid by him is more than twelve-and-a-half per cent. below the rate of rent usually paid, by tenants of the same class not having a right of occupancy, for land of a similar description and with similar advantages, situate in the same village.

Rule.—In this case the Court shall enhance his rent to such amount as the plaintiff demands, not exceeding that rate, less twelve-and-a-half per cent.

3rd ground.—That the quantity of land held by him exceeds the quantity for which he has previously paid rent.

Rule.—In this case the Court shall decree rent for the land in excess, at rates to be fixed by the first or the second of the rules contained in this section, as the case may be.

(2) Nothing in sub-section (1) shall affect the terms of any agreement in writing entered into between a landlord and tenant after the twenty-second day of July, 1868.

Term for re-enhancement after decision fixing rent under section 33.

34. After a decision has been passed in accordance with the last foregoing section, a suit shall not lie for re-enhancement of the rent until the expiration of five years from the date of the decision, except on the 3rd ground mentioned in that section, or, in the case referred to in the next following section, until, by re-assessment within the term of five years, the revenue of the land has been increased.

Enhancement on re-assessment of revenue.

35. If, on a re-assessment of the revenue, the rent of the tenant cannot be enhanced under section 33 by reason of the absence of the grounds therein mentioned, the landlord may institute a suit to enhance the rent to a sum not exceeding double the average amount of the revenue imposed at the re-assessment upon land of a similar description and with similar advantages held by tenants of the same class in the same village.

Part B.—Other Tenants.

Tenant in occupation at passing of Act: the conditions of his statutory tenancy.

36. Every tenant, not being a tenant with a right of occupancy or a sub-tenant, shall be entitled to retain possession of the holding occupied by him at the time of the passing of this Act, at the rent then payable by him, for a period of seven years from the date of the last change in his rent or of the last alteration in the area of the holding, or, where no such change or alteration has taken place, from the date on which the tenant was admitted to the occupation of the holding.

Tenant admitted after passing of Act: the conditions of his statutory tenancy.

37. Every such tenant who may be admitted to the occupation of a holding after the passing of this Act shall be entitled to retain the same for a period of seven years from the date of his admission at a rent agreed upon with the landlord in accordance with the provisions of this Act: and every such tenant, in the area of whose holding or in the amount of whose rent any change is made by the landlord subsequently to the passing of this Act, shall be deemed to be admitted to the occupation of a holding within the meaning of this section.

Explanation I.—"Holding" means a parcel or parcels of land held by a tenant and forming the subject of a separate engagement. The engagement may be express or implied.

Explanation II.—This section and section 36 have effect subject to the provisions of section 4, sub-sections (3) and (4), relating to land not previously cultivated, and subject also to section 157, excluding certain classes of land from the operation of certain sections of this Act.

Enhancement of rent of tenant not having right of occupancy and not being a sub-tenant.

38. (1) A landlord may enhance the rent of a tenant to whom section 36 or section 37 applies, either by contract in accordance with the provisions of this section or by notice as hereinafter provided.

(2) Subject to the provisions of sections 49 and 50, the enhancement shall not in any case exceed one anna in the rupee, or six-and-a-quarter per cent., on the annual rent payable by the tenant at the time when the contract was made or the notice was issued:

(3) Provided that, where rent is paid in kind, the proportion of produce paid as rent by a tenant shall not be subject to increase except in accordance with an established custom of the pargana in which the land is situate.

Enhancement by notice.

39. If a landlord desires that the rent of a tenant to whom section 36 or section 37 applies be enhanced on the expiration of the term of seven years referred to in section 36 or section 37, as the case may be, or at any time during the currency of that term in the case mentioned in section 50, he may cause a notice to that effect to be served under section 42.

Time for service of notice of enhancement.

40. (1) A notice whereby enhancement is claimed on account of the expiration of the period of the tenancy shall not be served before the commencement of the last year of the tenancy.

(2) A notice of enhancement on account of an improvement made or acquired by the landlord may be served at any time during the currency of the tenancy.

Contents of the notice.

41. The notice shall be written in Hindi and Urdu, and shall specify the land, the amount of the present rent and the amount of the enhancement, and require the tenant, if he refuses to pay the enhancement, to vacate the land by the fifteenth day of May next following, or to institute a suit in the proper Court to contest the notice of enhancement within thirty days from the date of the service thereof.

Service of the notice.

42. On the application of the landlord to the tahsíldár or other prescribed officer the notice shall be served by the officer on or before the fifteenth day of February at the expense of the landlord.

Grounds on which tenant may contest his liability to enhancement.

43. The tenant may institute a suit to contest the notice of enhancement, within thirty days from the date of the service thereof, on any of the following grounds, namely:—

(a) that he has a right of occupancy in the land specified in the notice;

(b) that he holds under a special agreement or decree of Court or lease under the terms of which his rent is not liable to enhancement;

(c) that the enhancement claimed is in excess of the rate authorized by law;

(d) that seven years will not have elapsed on the fifteenth day of May next following, since the date of any such change of rent or alteration of area as is under section 36 or section 37 equivalent to an admission to the occupation of a holding, or, where no such change or alteration has taken place, since the date on which he was admitted to the occupation of the holding;

(e) that the notice has not been served in the manner required by this Act;

(f) that, where the enhancement claimed is on account of an improvement, the amount claimed is excessive.

Tenant's liability for enhanced rent.

44. (1) If the tenant does not contest the notice of enhancement and remains in possession of the land after the fifteenth day of May next following the date of the service of the notice, he shall become liable for the enhanced rent.

(2) If the tenant contests the notice, and the validity thereof is maintained by the Court in whole or in part, he shall, if he remains in possession of the land after the fifteenth day of May next following the date of the service of the notice, become liable for the enhanced rent to the extent to which the Court has maintained the validity of the notice.

Commencement of fresh statutory period.

45. If the tenant by remaining in possession of the land under the last foregoing section becomes liable for enhanced rent, he shall be entitled to hold the land at that rent for a further period of seven years.

Vacating tenant's right to compensation for improvements.

46. If the tenant refuses to accept the enhancement claimed or decreed and vacates the holding, he shall be entitled to recover by separate suit from the landlord compensation for any improvements made by him on the holding.

Rent of tenant succeeding to vacant holding.

47. (1) Except in the cases mentioned in sections 49 and 50, the rent of a tenant admitted to the occupation of any land the tenancy of which has determined according to the provisions of this Act shall not exceed by more than one anna in the rupee, or six-and-a-quarter per cent., the rent payable by the tenant immediately preceding him.

(2) In the case of a tenant admitted to the occupation of a holding of which the rent has been immediately before his admission paid in kind, the rent payable shall, subject to any established custom of the pargana in which the holding is situate, be either the rent payable by the tenant immediately preceding him, or a sum which, subject to the provisions of sections 49 and 50, shall not exceed by more than six-and-a-quarter per cent. the equivalent of the value of the produce annually paid as rent on the average of the three years immediately preceding.

Rights of the heir of a deceased tenant.

48. (1) The heir of a tenant who dies during the currency of the tenancy of a holding shall be entitled to retain occupation of the holding at the rent payable by the deceased for the unexpired portion of the period for which the deceased tenant might have held without liability to enhancement or ejectment, and to receive compensation under the provisions of this Act for improvements, if any, made on the holding by himself or his predecessor in interest, but shall not be entitled to a renewal of the tenancy.

(2) Subject to any rights which he may have under section 22 as a representative of the deceased, a collateral relative who did not at the date of the death of the deceased share in the cultivation of the holding shall not be deemed to be an heir of the deceased within the meaning of this section.

Rent of tenant succeeding to a holding vacated by the death of the previous tenant.

49. The rent of a tenant admitted to the occupation of any land the tenancy of which has ceased in consequence of the death of a previous tenant, or of the ejectment of a thekadár or mortgagee from land of which he has taken cultivating possession during the period of his theka or mortgage, shall be such amount as may be agreed upon between him and the landlord.

Enhancement of rent for improvements made or acquired by landlord.

50. (1) Nothing in the foregoing sections shall bar the right of a landlord to enhancement of rent on the ground that the productive powers of the land held by the tenant have been increased by an improvement which has been made by, or at the expense of, the landlord, or for which during the currency of the tenancy compensation has been accepted from the landlord by the owner of the improvement or, on the expiration of the tenancy, compensation has been paid in accordance with the determination of a Court under this Act.

(2) Where an enhancement is claimed on the ground of any such improvement, the Court, in determining the claim, shall have regard to—

(a) the increase in the productive powers of the land caused, or likely to be caused, by the improvement;

(b) the cost of the improvement; and

(c) the cost of the cultivation required for the utilising of the improvement.

Power for Local Government to vary the limit of enhancement of rent.

51. Notwithstanding anything in the foregoing sections, the Chief Commissioner may, by notification in the local official Gazette, vary from time to time, within periods of not less than seven years, the limits of the enhancement to which tenants to whom section 36 or section 37 applies are liable in any local area specified in the notification.

CHAPTER V.

EJECTMENT.

Tenants holding on special terms.

Ejectment of tenants holding on special term.

52. (1) A tenant having a right of occupancy in any land, or holding any land under a special agreement or decree of Court, shall not be ejected from that land otherwise than in execution of a decree for ejectment:

Provided that the decree for ejectment shall not be made, unless, at the date of that decree, a decree against the tenant for an arrear of rent in respect of the land has remained unsatisfied for fifteen days or upwards.

(2) A decree for the ejectment of a tenant holding under a special agreement or decree of Court may be made on such grounds as would justify ejectment under the agreement or decree.

Other Tenants.

Ejectment of other tenants.

53. A tenant not having a right of occupancy, and not holding under a special agreement or decree of Court, may be ejected by notice, application or suit under the following sections of this Chapter.

Ejectment by notice.

54. If a landlord desires to eject any such tenant on the expiration of his tenancy, he may cause a notice of ejectment to be served on the tenant under the next following section.

Contents, service and cost of notice.

55. (1) The notice shall be written in Hindi and in Urdu; it shall be signed by the landlord or by an agent authorized by him in that behalf; it shall specify the land from which the tenant is to be ejected; it shall, if a court-fee is payable in respect thereof under this section, contain a certificate by the patwári as to the annual rent payable for the holding to which the notice relates; and it shall inform the tenant that he must either (a), if he means to dispute the ejectment, institute a suit for that purpose within thirty days from the date of the service of the notice, or (b) vacate the land on or before the fifteenth day of May next following.

(2) On the application of the landlord to the tahsíldár or other prescribed officer, the notice shall, if the proper court-fee (where a court-fee is payable under this section) has been paid in respect thereof, be served on the tenant by the officer on or before the fifteenth day of November at the expense of the landlord.

(3) If the tenant on whom the notice is to be served is a tenant to whom section 36 or section 37 applies, there shall, except as provided by this sub-section and sub-section (4) and by section 69, be payable in respect of the notice a court-fee equal in value to half the annual rent payable for the holding of the tenant, or, in the case of a tenant paying rent in kind, a court-fee equal to half the value of the produce annually paid as rent on the average of the three years immediately preceding:

Provided that the court-fee shall not in any case exceed twenty-five rupees.

(4) A court-fee shall not be payable under sub-section (3) in respect of a notice on a person to whom section 48 applies.

(5) Stamps representing the court-fee shall be affixed on the notice before the notice and the application for the service thereof are presented to the tahsíldár or other prescribed officer.

(6) The court-fee paid by a landlord under this section shall not in any circumstances be adjudged to be payable as costs or otherwise by the tenant.

Grounds on which tenant may contest liability to ejectment.

56. (1) A tenant on whom a notice has been served under the last foregoing section may institute a suit to contest his liability to be ejected from the land specified therein on any of the following grounds, namely:—

(a) that he has a right of occupancy in the land;

(b) that he holds under a special agreement or decree of Court or unexpired lease under the terms of which he is not liable to be ejected from the land;

(c) if he is a tenant to whom section 55, sub-section (3), applies, that the notice was insufficiently stamped;

(d) if he is a tenant to whom section 36 or section 37 applies, that seven years will not have elapsed on the fifteenth day of May next following, since the date of any such change of rent or alteration of area as is under section 36 or section 37, as the case may be, equivalent to an admission to the occupation of a holding, or, where no such change or alteration has taken place, since the date on which he was admitted to the occupation of the holding;

(e) if he is a tenant to whom section 53 applies, that notice of ejectment has not been served upon him in the manner required by this Act.

(2) A thekadár shall not be entitled to contest a notice of ejectment on any ground other than that he holds a lease under the terms of which he is not liable to ejectment.

Compensation for improvements, if any, to be claimed in suit contesting liability to ejectment.

57. If the tenant has any claim for compensation for improvements on the holding, he shall file with his plaint a statement of the claim and of the grounds on which it is based.

Determination of the claim.

58. If the Court dismisses the suit in whole or in part, it shall determine the amount of the compensation, if any, due for improvements, and shall declare ejectment from the whole or part of the land, as the case may be, to be conditional on payment of that amount into Court.

Tenancy to cease if notice is not contested.

59. If the tenant on whom notice of ejectment has been served fails, within thirty days from the date of the service, to institute a suit to contest his liability to be ejected, his tenancy of the land in respect of which the notice has been served shall cease on the fifteenth day of May next following, unless, after the service, the landlord has authorized him in writing to continue to occupy the land.

When assistance to eject may be given by Court.

60. (1) If the landlord requires assistance to eject a tenant on whom he alleges a notice to have been served under section 55, he may apply for that assistance to the Court which would have had jurisdiction with respect to a suit by the tenant to contest his liability to be ejected under the notice, and that Court shall order the ejectment of the tenant if it is satisfied—

(a) that a notice of ejectment was duly served on the tenant;

(b) that the tenant has not brought a suit to contest the notice, or that, if a suit for that purpose has been brought, it has been determined adversely to the tenant;

(c) that the tenant has not been authorised by the landlord in writing to continue to occupy the land.

(2) Nothing done by the Court under sub-section (1) shall affect the right of the tenant to institute a suit against his landlord on account of illegal ejectment and to recover compensation therefor.

Ejectment by application.

61. (1) If a landlord desires to eject a tenant to whom section 53 applies and against whom a decree for an arrear of rent has been passed and remains unsatisfied, he may, after the first day of April of the year in which that arrear accrued, apply to the Deputy Commissioner to eject the tenant.

(2) The Deputy Commissioner shall, on receiving the application, cause a notice to be served on the tenant, stating the amount due under the decree, and informing him that if he does not pay that amount into Court within fifteen days from the receipt of the notice he will be ejected from his holding.

(3) If the amount is not so paid, the Deputy Commissioner shall, unless good cause is shown to the contrary, eject the tenant.

Ejectment by suit.

62. (1) A tenant to whom section 53 applies shall be liable to ejectment by suit during the currency of his tenancy on any of the following grounds, namely:—

(a) that he has used the land comprised in his holding in a manner which renders it unfit for the purposes of his tenancy;

(b) that at the time of the institution of the suit the entire holding has been sub-let;

(c) where the rent is payable in kind, that his cultivation has diminished to a point which by the custom of the locality involves the forfeiture of the holding;

(d) where the tenant holds, under an unexpired lease, land to which section 4, sub-sections (3) and (4), applies, then on any ground which would justify ejectment under the lease.

(2) The tenant shall continue liable for the rent of the land until the decree is executed.

General.

Time of ejectment of [illegible].

63. Except in pursuance of an order under section 21, sub-section (3), a tenant shall not in any case, whether in execution of a decree or otherwise, be ejected from the land in his occupation, except between the first day of April and the thirtieth day of June in any year after the passing of this Act.

The Oudh Rent Act, 1886.

(Chapter V.—Ejectment.—Sections 61-66.—Chapter VI.—Supplemental Provisions respecting Tenancies.—Sections 67-69.)

Time of ejectment of thekadár.

64. A thekadár liable to be ejected under the provisions of this Act may be ejected at any time during his tenancy.

Preferment by tenants of claims for compensation for improvements in suits for ejectment.

65. In any suit for ejectment the defendant may file any claim for compensation for improvements which he may have against the plaintiff, and, if the Court finds the grounds on which the suit is brought to be valid, it shall determine the amount of compensation, if any, due from the plaintiff to the defendant, and shall pass a decree of ejectment conditional on the payment into Court of that amount.

Compensation to ejected tenant for growing crops.

66. A tenant ejected in accordance with the provisions of this Act shall be entitled to receive from the landlord the value of any growing crops or other ungathered products of the earth belonging to the tenant and being on the land at the time of his ejectment:

Provided that, if the land has been sown or planted by the tenant after service on him of a notice under section 55, he shall not be so entitled, unless, after that service, the landlord has authorized him in writing to continue to occupy the land.

CHAPTER VI.

SUPPLEMENTAL PROVISIONS RESPECTING TENANCIES.

Sír Lands.

Sír lands.

67. (1) The rights conferred upon tenants by sections 24, 36, 37, 38, 39, 45, 46, 47 and 48 shall not accrue to cultivators of any of the following lands, namely:—

(a) land which for the seven years immediately preceding the passing of this Act has been continuously dealt with as sír in the distribution of proprietary or under-proprietary profits and charges;

(b) land which for the seven years immediately preceding the passing of this Act has been continuously cultivated by the proprietor or under-proprietor himself or by his servants or by hired labour.

(2) Land which was recorded as sír at settlement and has been continuously so recorded since shall, until the contrary is proved, be presumed to be land of the class mentioned in clause (a) of section (1).

Thekadárs, Mortgagees and Sub-tenants.

Thekadárs, mortgagees and sub-tenants.

68. (1) A person holding land as a thekadár mortgagee or sub-tenant shall not, while so holding, acquire any of the rights enumerated in the last foregoing section in any of the land comprised in his theka, mortgage or sub-tenancy.

(2) A person having those rights in land does not lose them by subsequently taking a theka or mortgage in which his holding is comprised.

Long Leases.

Incidents of leases for eight years or upwards.

69. (1) When a holding has been let by registered document for a term of eight years or upwards at a rent determined thereby for the whole of the term in accordance with the provisions of this Act to a tenant to whom section 36 or section 37 applies, the landlord shall, on the expiration of the term, be entitled to enhance the rent of the holding in accordance with the provisions of Chapter IV, Part B, and not otherwise, and shall also be entitled to eject the tenant by notice under section 55 without payment of a court-fee under that section:

The Oudh Rent Act, 1886.

(Chapter VI.—Supplemental Provisions respecting Tenancies.—Sections 70-71.—Chapter VII.—Distress for Arrears of Rent.—Sections 72-79.)

Provided that any change in the rent or alteration in the area of the holding by the landlord during the term shall be a bar to enhancement and ejectment for seven years from the date of that change or alteration.

(2) In addition to the grounds mentioned in clauses (a), (b) and (c) of section 62, sub-section (1), a tenant to whom this section applies shall be liable to ejectment by suit during the currency of his tenancy on any ground which would justify ejectment under the registered document under which he holds.

Miscellaneous.

Evidence respecting change of rent or alteration of area of holding.

70. Where a tenant has received a patta, a statement that since the date of the patta his rent has been changed, or area of his holding altered, by the landlord, shall not be admissible in evidence unless the change or alteration is recorded in an entry on the patta signed by or on behalf of the landlord, and in an entry on the counterpart signed by or on behalf of the tenant, or in a new patta and counterpart.

Construction of certain expressions.

71. The expression "special agreement" or "decree of Court", where it is used in this Act to signify the tenure on which land is held by a tenant, is to be construed as referring to an agreement or decree made or passed before the passing of this Act.

CHAPTER VII.

DISTRESS FOR ARREARS OF RENT.

Recovery of arrears of rent by distress.

72. When an arrear of rent is due from any tenant, the landlord may, subject to the provisions of this Chapter, distrain the produce of the land in respect of which the arrear is due:

Provided that, when a tenant has given security for the payment of his rent, the produce of the land in respect of which the rent is payable shall not be liable to distress so long as the security is in force.

Distress not permissible in certain cases.

73. Distress shall not be made for the recovery of—

(a) any sum in excess of the rent payable in the last preceding year for the land in respect of which the arrear is due, unless the tenant has agreed in writing to pay that excess or unless he has been declared by decree to be liable therefor, or

(b) any arrear which has been due for a longer period than one year.

Power of distress by whom exerciseable.

74. The power of distress vested by section 72 in landlords may be exercised by managers under the Court of Wards, managing agents and tahsildárs of estates held under direct management, and other persons lawfully entrusted with the charge of land, and also by the agents employed by landlords or any such persons as aforesaid in the collection of rent, if expressly authorized by power-of-attorney to distrain:

Provided that, if any such agent, purporting to act in the exercise of that power, commits an act which, under the provisions of this Chapter, is illegal, the person employing him shall be liable, as well as the agent, to be sued for compensation for any injury caused by the act.

Distress by servants.

75. Any person empowered to distrain property under section 72 or section 74 may employ a servant or other person to make the distress, but in every such case he shall give to the servant or person a written authority in that behalf, and the distress shall be made in the name and on the responsibility of the person giving the authority.

Crops liable to distress.

76. (1) Standing crops and other ungathered products of the earth, and crops or other products when reaped or gathered and deposited in any threshing-floor or place for treading out grain or the like, whether in the field or within a homestead, may be distrained by persons invested with powers of distress under this Act.

(2) But no such crops or products, other than the produce of the land in respect of which an arrear of rent is due, or of land held under the same engagement as the land in respect of which the arrear is due, and no grain or other produce after it has been stored by the cultivator, and no other property whatsoever, shall be liable to distress under this Act.

Demand of arrear before or at time of distress.

77. (1) Before or at the time when any distress is made under this Act, the distrainer shall cause the defaulter to be served with a written demand for the amount of the arrear, together with an account exhibiting the grounds on which the demand is made.

(2) The demand and account shall, if practicable, be served personally on the defaulter, but, if he cannot be found, they shall be affixed at his usual place of residence, and shall thereupon be deemed to be duly served upon him.

Value of distress and service of list of distrained property on owner.

78. Unless the amount of the demand is immediately paid or tendered, the distrainer may distrain property as aforesaid of value as nearly as may be equal to the amount of the arrear with the costs of the distress; and, when he has made the distress, he shall prepare a list or description of the property distrained and deliver a copy thereof to the owner, or if the owner is absent, affix it at his usual place of residence.

Reaping and storing standing crops distrained.

79. (1) Standing crops and other ungathered products of the earth may, notwithstanding the distress, be reaped or gathered by the tenant, and may be stored in such granaries or other places as are commonly used by him for the purpose.

(2) If the tenant neglects to do so, the distrainer may cause the crops or products to be reaped or gathered, and in that case shall store them either in such granaries or other places as aforesaid, or in some other convenient place in the neighbourhood.

The Oudh Rent Act, 1886.

(3) In either case the distrained property shall be placed in the charge of some proper person appointed by the distrainer for the purpose.

(4) If the crops or products do not, from their nature, admit of being stored, the distress shall be made (if at all) at least twenty days before the time when the crops or products or any part thereof would ordinarily be fit for cutting or gathering.

Application by distrainer in case of resistance.

80. If a distrainer is opposed or apprehends resistance, and desires to obtain the assistance of a public officer, he may apply to the Court, and the Court may, if it thinks necessary, depute an officer to assist the distrainer in making the distress.

Withdrawal of distress on tender of arrear and costs.

81. If at any time after property has been distrained as aforesaid, and before the sale thereof as hereinafter provided, the owner tenders payment of the arrear demanded and of the costs of the distress, the distrainer shall receive the payment and give a receipt therefor and forthwith withdraw the distress.

Application for sale.

82. Within five days from the time of storing any distrained crops or products, or, if the crops or products do not from their nature admit of being stored, within five days from the time of making the distress, the distrainer shall apply for the sale thereof to the proper officer authorized to sell property in satisfaction of decrees of the Court within whose jurisdiction the distrained property is situate.

Form of application.

83. (1) The application shall be in writing; it shall contain a list or description of the property distrained, and it shall state the name of the defaulter, his place of residence, the amount due and the place in which the distrained property is deposited.

(2) Together with the application, the distrainer shall deliver to the proper officer the sum payable for the service of a notice upon the defaulter as provided in the next following section.

Procedure on receipt of application.

84. (1) Immediately on receipt of the application, the proper officer shall send a copy of it to the Court, and shall serve a notice in the form contained in Schedule C to this Act, or to the like effect, on the person whose property has been distrained, requiring him either to pay the amount demanded, or within fifteen days from the receipt of the notice to institute a suit to contest the demand.

(2) The officer shall at the same time send to the Court, for the purpose of being put up at the court-house, a proclamation fixing a day for the sale of the distrained property, not less than twenty days from the date of the proclamation, and shall deliver a copy of the proclamation to the peon charged with the service of the notice, to be put up by him in the place where the distrained property is deposited.

(3) The proclamation shall contain a description of the property, and shall specify the demand for which it is to be sold, and the place where the sale is to be held.

Suspension of sale on institution of suit.

85. (1) If a suit is instituted in pursuance of the notice mentioned in the last foregoing section, the Court shall send to the proper officer, or, if so requested by the owner of the distrained property, shall deliver to him, a certificate of the institution of the suit.

(2) On the certificate being received by, or presented to, the proper officer, he shall suspend proceedings in regard to the sale:

Provided that, if in his opinion the property distrained is such that delay will cause damage thereto, he may direct its immediate sale.

Suit to contest distrainer's demand.

86. (1) Any person whose property has been distrained as aforesaid may institute a suit to contest the distrainer's demand at any time before the expiration of the fifteen days mentioned in section 84, sub-section (1).

(2) When any such suit is instituted, the Court shall proceed in the manner directed in section 85.

(3) If application for the sale of the property is afterwards made to the proper officer, he shall send a copy of the application to the Court, and suspend further proceedings pending the decision of the case.

Withdrawal of distress on execution of bond.

87. (1) The person whose property has been distrained may, at the time of instituting any such suit as aforesaid, or at any subsequent period, execute a bond with one or more surety or sureties, for an amount not less than double the value of the property distrained, binding himself to pay whatever sum may be adjudged to be due from him, with costs of suit.

(2) When a bond has been executed under sub-section (1), the Court shall give to the owner of the property a certificate to that effect, or, if he so requests, shall serve the distrainer with notice of the execution of the bond.

(3) Upon the certificate being presented to the distrainer by the owner of the property, or upon the notice being served on the distrainer by order of the Court, as the case may be, the property shall be released from distress.

Sale.

88. On the expiration of the period fixed in the proclamation of sale, if the institution of a suit to contest the demand of the distrainer has not been certified to the proper officer in the manner hereinbefore provided, he shall, unless that demand, with such costs of the distress as are allowed by him, is discharged in full, proceed, with the sanction of the Court, to sell the property, or such part thereof as may be necessary.

Place and manner of sale.

89. (1) The sale shall be held at the place where the distrained property is deposited, or at the nearest ganj, bázár or other place of public resort, if the proper officer thinks that it is likely to sell there to better advantage.

(2) The property shall be sold by public auction in one or more lots as the officer holding the sale thinks advisable, and if the demand, with the costs of distress and sale, is satisfied by the sale of a portion of the property, the distress shall be immediately withdrawn with respect to the remainder.

The Oudh Rent Act, 1886.

(Chapter VII.—Distress for Arrears of Rent.—Sections 90-99.)

90. If, on the property being put up for sale, a price which the officer holding the sale thinks fair is not offered, and if the owner of the property or his recognized agent applies to have the sale postponed until the next day or (if a market is held at the place of sale) until the next market-day, the sale shall be postponed until that day, and shall be then completed at whatever price may be offered.

Postponement of sale.

91. (1) The price of every lot shall be paid in ready money at the time of sale, or as soon thereafter as the officer holding the sale thinks fit, and in default of payment the property shall be put up again and re-sold.

Payment of purchase-money

(2) When the purchase-money has been paid in full, the officer holding the sale shall give the purchaser a certificate stating the property purchased by him and the price paid therefor.

92. (1) The officer holding the sale shall deduct from the proceeds one anna for every rupee and fraction of a rupee on account of the expenses attending the sale.

Proceeds of sale.

(2) He shall then pay to the distrainer the expenses incurred by him on account of the distress and of the issue of the notice and proclamation of sale prescribed in section 84 to such amount as, after examination of the statement of expenses furnished by the distrainer, the officer thinks proper to allow.

(3) The remainder shall be applied to the discharge of the arrear for which the distress was made, and the surplus (if any) shall be delivered to the person whose property has been sold.

93. Officers holding sales of property under this Act, and all persons employed by, or subordinate to, those officers, are forbidden to purchase, either directly or indirectly, property sold by those officers.

Officers holding sales not to purchase.

94. (1) The officer mentioned in section 82 shall bring to the notice of the Court any illegal act which may come to his knowledge as having been committed by any person in making a distress under this Act.

Illegal acts of distrainer to be reported.

(2) If in any case, on proceeding to hold a sale under this Act, that officer finds that the owner has not received due notice of the distress and intended sale, he shall postpone the sale and report the case to the Court, and the Court shall direct the issue of another notice and proclamation of sale under section 84, or make such other order as it thinks proper.

95. (1) When that officer has gone to any place for the purpose of holding a sale, and a sale does not take place either for the reason stated in section 94 or because the distrainer's demand has been previously satisfied, a charge of one anna for every rupee of the value of the distrained property, as estimated by the officer, shall be leviable by him on account of the expenses of the intended sale, unless the distrainer's demand has been satisfied before the day fixed for the sale and notice of its having been satisfied has been given by him to the officer.

Recovery of expenses where sale does not take place.

(2) If the distrainer's demand is not satisfied until the day fixed for the sale, the charge shall be paid by the owner of the property, and may be recovered by sale of such portion of the property as may be necessary.

(3) In every other case the charge shall be paid by the distrainer, and may be recovered under the warrant of the Court by attachment and sale of his property.

(4) The charge leviable under this section shall not exceed ten rupees in any case.

96. (1) When a suit has been instituted to contest a distrainer's demand, and the property has not been released on security, if the demand or any portion thereof is adjudged to be due, the Court shall issue an order to the proper officer authorizing the sale of the property.

Second proclamation of sale when arrears are adjudged to be due.

(2) On the application of the distrainer (which shall be made within five days from the receipt of the order by the officer), the officer shall publish a second proclamation in the manner prescribed in section 84, fixing another day for the sale of the distrained property, not being less than five or more than ten days from the date of the proclamation, and, unless the amount adjudged to be due with costs of distress is paid before that day, shall proceed to sell the property in the manner hereinbefore provided.

97. (1) In all suits instituted to contest a distrainer's demand, the defendant must prove the arrear in the same manner as if he had himself brought a suit for the amount of the arrear.

Distrainer to prove the arrear in suit to contest his demand.

(2) If the demand or any part thereof is found to be due, the Court shall make in favour of the distrainer a decree for the amount so found.

(3) That amount may be recovered, if the distrained property has not been released on security, by sale of the distrained property as provided in section 96, and, if any balance remains due after the sale, by execution of the decree against the person and any other property of the defaulter, or, if the distrained property has been released on security, by execution of the decree against the person and property of the defaulter, and if his surety has been made a party to the suit, against the person and property of the surety.

98. If the distress is adjudged to be vexatious or groundless, the Court, besides directing the release of the distrained property, may award such compensation to the plaintiff as it thinks fit, not exceeding twice the value of the property distrained.

Compensation for vexatious distress.

99. If any person claims, as his own, property which has been distrained for arrears of rent alleged to be due from any other person, the claimant may institute a suit against the distrainer and that other person to try the right to the property, in the same manner, and under the same rules as to the time of instituting the suit and as to the consequent postponement of sale, as a person whose property has been distrained for an arrear of rent alleged to be due from him may institute a suit to contest the demand.

Suit by third party claiming property distrained.

The Oudh Rent Act, 1886.

(Chapter VII.—Distress for Arrears of Rent.—Sections 100-107.—Chapter VIII.—Jurisdiction of the Courts.—Section 108.)

100. (1) When any such suit is instituted, the property may be released upon security for its value being given to the satisfaction of the Court.

Rules applicable to suit by third party.

(2) If the claim is dismissed, the Court shall make an order in favour of the distrainer for the sale of the property, or the recovery of its value, as the case may be.

(Chapter II.—Of certain Rights and Liabilities of Landlords, Under-proprietors and Tenants.—Sections 6-15.)

Compensation to under-proprietor or tenant for illegal enforcement of payment.

(2) An award of compensation under sub-section (1) shall not bar any prosecution to which the person illegally enforcing the payment may be liable under any law for the time being in force.

Abatement of Rent.

18. Save as provided by section 29, sub-section (4), a suit for an abatement of the rent of a holding shall not be brought by an under-proprietor or tenant except on the ground that the area of the holding has diminished, or on some ground specified in a lease, agreement or decree under which he holds:

Suit for abatement of rent by under-proprietor or tenant.

Provided that, if the under-proprietor holds a sub-settlement in a revenue-paying estate, an abatement shall not be allowed to the under-proprietor unless a remission of revenue has been allowed on the same ground and by competent authority in the same estate.

Remission of Rent.

19. (1) Notwithstanding anything in the last foregoing section, a Court, when it makes a decree for an arrear of rent, may, with the previous sanction of the Deputy Commissioner, allow such remission from the rent payable by any under-proprietor or tenant as appears equitable, if the area of the land in his occupation has been materially diminished by diluvion or otherwise, or if the produce of that land has been diminished by drought, hail or other calamity beyond his control, to such an extent that the full amount of rent payable by him cannot, in the opinion of the Court, be paid.

Remission of rent by order of Court.

(2) Where a remission of rent under this section causes a material diminution of the assets of the landlord in the village in which the remission is given, the revenue-authorities shall take into consideration any claim made by the landlord for a remission of revenue.

(3) A remission shall not be allowed under this section to an under-proprietor holding a sub-settlement, or to a tenant having a right of occupancy, unless a remission of revenue has been allowed on the same ground and by competent authority in the same village.

Relinquishment of Land.

20. (1) A tenant shall continue liable for the rent of the land in his holding unless on or before the fifteenth day of March in any year he gives to the landlord or to the recognized agent of the landlord notice in writing of his desire to relinquish that land, and relinquishes it accordingly.

Relinquishment of land by tenant.

(2) If the landlord or his recognized agent refuses to receive the notice or to sign and deliver a receipt therefor, the tenant may, before the latest date prescribed for giving the notice, apply on plain paper to the tahsíldár or proper officer, and written notice of the desire of the tenant to relinquish the land shall then be served on the landlord at the expense of the tenant.

(3) A tenant cannot without the consent of his landlord relinquish a part only of his holding.

(4) Nothing in this section shall entitle a tenant holding under a registered document under section 69 to relinquish his holding otherwise than in accordance with the terms of that document.

21. (1) If a tenant abandons his holding without informing his landlord and without arranging for the cultivation of the holding, the landlord may at any time after the fifteenth day of May enter on the holding.

Abandonment of holding.

(2) Before a landlord enters on a holding under sub-section (1), he shall file a notice in the prescribed form at the office of the tahsíldár for service on the tenant stating that he has treated the holding as abandoned and is about to enter on it accordingly.

(3) When a landlord enters on a holding under sub-section (1), the tenant may institute a suit under this Act to recover possession of the holding, and the Court shall, on being satisfied that the tenant did not voluntarily abandon the holding, order recovery of possession on such terms with respect to the time of delivery of possession, the payment of arrears of rent, if any, and, if injury has been caused by the wrongful act, neglect or default of any party to the proceeding, with respect also to the payment of compensation by that party, as to the Court may seem just.

Compensation for Tenants' Improvements.

22. (1) If a tenant, or a person from whom he has inherited, has made any such improvement on his holding as is hereinafter in this Chapter mentioned, neither he nor his representative shall be ejected from the holding unless and until he or his representative, as the case may be, has received compensation for the improvement:

Tenant's right to compensation for improvements.

Provided that compensation shall not be payable for any improvement made thirty years or more before the date on which the ejectment is to take effect.

(2) An improvement made by a tenant for the benefit of his holding on land belonging to the person who is entitled to receive the rent of the holding shall for the purposes of this section be deemed to have been made on the holding of the tenant.

23. Except as provided in the next following section, a tenant shall not be entitled to claim compensation for an improvement made subsequently to the passing of this Act without the written consent of the landlord.

Landlord's consent to tenant's improvement.

24. (1) If a tenant applies for the written consent of his landlord to the making of an improvement on his holding, and the landlord omits or refuses to grant it, the tenant may apply to the Deputy Commissioner for permission to make the improvement.

Reference to Deputy Commissioner when consent is refused.

The Oudh Rent Act, 1886.

(Chapter II.—Of certain Rights and Liabilities of Landlords, Under-proprietors and Tenants.—Sections 25-30.)
(Chapter III.—Payment of Rent in kind.—Sections 31-32.

(2) When an application is made to the Deputy Commissioner under sub-section (1), he shall take into consideration any objections which the landlord may have to urge on either of the following grounds, namely:—

(a) that the improvement is too costly or is unsuitable to the nature of the tenant's holding, or

(b) that the landlord is himself prepared to make the improvement,

and shall then either grant the permission on such conditions as he considers fair and equitable or refuse the application.

25. (1) If either the landlord or the tenant desires the amount expended on an improvement executed with the permission of the Deputy Commissioner under the last foregoing section to be determined and registered, the Deputy Commissioner shall, on application made to him for the purpose, determine the amount of the outlay, and enter it in a register kept in the prescribed form.

Registration of outlay on improvements.

(2) The entry in the register shall be conclusive proof of the amount of the outlay in any subsequent proceedings respecting the cost of the improvement.

26. The word "improvement", as used in this Act, means a work by which the annual letting value of land has been, and at the time of a demand for compensation continues to be, increased, and comprises—

"Improvement" defined.

(a) the construction of works for the storage of water, for the supply of water for agricultural purposes, for drainage and for protection against floods; the construction of wells; the reclamation of waste land and jungle; and other works of a like nature:

(b) the renewal or reconstruction of any of the foregoing works, or such alterations therein or additions thereto as are not required for the maintenance thereof and increase durably their value.

27. In estimating the compensation to which a tenant is entitled for an improvement regard shall be had—

Principle on which compensation is to be estimated.

(a) to the amount by which the value, or the produce, of the holding, or the value of that produce, is increased by the improvement;

(b) to the condition of the improvement and the probable duration of its effects;

(c) to the labour and capital required for the making of such an improvement;

(d) to any reduction or remission of rent or any other advantage given by the landlord to the tenant in consideration of the improvement; and

(e) in the case of a reclamation, or of the conversion of unirrigated into irrigated land, to the length of time during which the tenant has had the benefit of the improvement.

28. When a Court has assessed the amount of the compensation due to a tenant, it may, if both landlord and tenant desire that the compensation assessed, instead of being paid wholly in money, shall be made wholly or partly in some other way, proceed to give judgment according to the terms agreed upon between them.

(3) A landlord making an improvement on the holding of any such tenant shall be liable to compensate the tenant for any loss which he may cause to the tenant when making it.

(4) If the effect of the improvement is to impair the productive powers of the holding, the tenant shall, in addition to any compensation which may be awarded to him under sub-section (3), be entitled to such abatement of his rent as to the Court seems just.

(5) A landlord may not make an improvement on the holding of a tenant with a right of occupancy without the consent of the tenant.

31. Where rent is taken by division of the produce in kind, or by estimate or appraisement of the standing crop, or other proceeding of a similar nature requiring the presence of both the tenant and the landlord either personally or by recognized agent, if either party neglects to be present at the proper time, or if a dispute arises between the parties regarding the division, estimate, appraisement or proceeding, either party may present an application to the Court, requesting that a proper officer be deputed to make the division, estimate or appraisement or conduct the proceeding.

Division or appraisement of produce.

32. (1) On receiving the application, the Court shall issue a written notice to the other party to attend at a time and place specified in the notice, and shall depute an officer before whom the division, estimate or appraisement shall be made or the proceeding conducted.

CHAPTER IV.

ENHANCEMENT AND FIXING RATES OF RENT.

Part A.—Tenants with Right of Occupancy.

33. (1) A tenant having a right of occupancy in any land shall not, in case of dispute as to the rent to be paid in respect of the land, be liable to an enhancement of the rent except in pursuance of a decree made under this Act on some one of the following grounds, namely:—

Enhancement of rent of tenant with right of occupancy.

1st ground.—That the rate of rent paid by him is below the rate of rent usually paid, by the same class of tenants having a right of occupancy, for land of a similar description and with similar advantages, situate in the same village.

Rule.—In this case the Court shall enhance his rent to such amount as the plaintiff demands, not exceeding that rate.

2nd ground.—That the rate of rent paid by him is more than twelve-and-a-half per cent. below the rate of rent usually paid, by tenants of the same class not having a right of occupancy, for land of a similar description and with similar advantages, situate in the same village.

Rule.—In this case the Court shall enhance his rent to such amount as the plaintiff demands, not exceeding that rate, less twelve-and-a-half per cent.

3rd ground.—That the quantity of land held by him exceeds the quantity for which he has previously paid rent.

Rule.—In this case the Court shall decree rent for the land in excess, at rates to be fixed by the first or the second of the rules contained in this section, as the case may be.

(2) Nothing in sub-section (1) shall affect the terms of any agreement in writing entered into between a landlord and tenant after the twenty-second day of July, 1868.

34. After a decision has been passed in accordance with the last foregoing section, a suit shall not lie for re-enhancement of the rent until the expiration of five years from the date of the decision, except on the 3rd ground mentioned in that section, or, in the case referred to in the next following section, until, by re-assessment within the term of five years, the revenue of the land has been increased.

Term for re-enhancement after decision fixing rent under section 33.

35. If, on a re-assessment of the revenue, the rent of the tenant cannot be enhanced under section 33 by reason of the absence of the grounds therein mentioned, the landlord may institute a suit to enhance the rent to a sum not exceeding double the average amount of the revenue imposed at the re-assessment upon land of a similar description and with similar advantages held by tenants of the same class in the same village.

Enhancement on re-assessment of revenue.

Part B.—Other Tenants.

36. Every tenant, not being a tenant with a right of occupancy or a sub-tenant, shall be entitled to retain possession of the holding occupied by him at the time of the passing of this Act, at the rent then payable by him, for a period of seven years from the date of the last change in his rent or of the last alteration in the area of the holding, or, where no such change or alteration has taken place, from the date on which the tenant was admitted to the occupation of the holding.

Tenant in occupation at passing of Act: the conditions of his statutory tenancy.

37. Every such tenant who may be admitted to the occupation of a holding after the passing of this Act shall be entitled to retain the same for a period of seven years from the date of his admission at a rent agreed upon with the landlord in accordance with the provisions of this Act; and every such tenant, in the area of whose holding or in the amount of whose rent any change is made by the landlord subsequently to the passing of this Act, shall be deemed to be admitted to the occupation of a holding within the meaning of this section.

Tenant admitted after passing of Act: the conditions of his statutory tenancy.

Explanation I.—"Holding" means a parcel or parcels of land held by a tenant and forming the subject of a separate engagement. The engagement may be express or implied.

Explanation II.—This section and section 36 have effect subject to the provisions of section 4, sub-sections (3) and (4), relating to land not previously cultivated, and subject also to section 157, excluding certain classes of land from the operation of certain sections of this Act.

38. (1) A landlord may enhance the rent of a tenant to whom section 36 or section 37 applies, either by contract in accordance with the provisions of this section or by notice as hereinafter provided.

Enhancement of rent of tenant not having right of occupancy and not being a sub-tenant.

(2) Subject to the provisions of sections 49 and 50, the enhancement shall not in any case exceed one anna in the rupee, or six-and-a-quarter per cent., on the annual rent payable by the tenant at the time when the contract was made or the notice was issued:

(3) Provided that, where rent is paid in kind, the proportion of produce paid as rent by a tenant shall not be subject to increase except in accordance with an established custom of the pargana in which the land is situate.

39. If a landlord desires that the rent of a tenant, to whom section 36 or section 37 applies be enhanced on the expiration of the term of seven years referred to in section 36 or section 37, as the case may be, or at any time during the currency of that term in the case mentioned in section 50, he may cause a notice to that effect to be served under section 42.

Enhancement by notice.

40. (1) A notice whereby enhancement is claimed on account of the expiration of the period of the tenancy shall not be served before the commencement of the last year of the tenancy.

Time for service of notice of enhancement.

(2) A notice of enhancement on account of an improvement made or acquired by the landlord may be served at any time during the currency of the tenancy.

41. The notice shall be written in Hindi and Urdu, and shall specify the land, the amount of the present rent and the amount of the enhancement, and require the tenant, if he refuses to pay the enhancement, to vacate the land by the fifteenth day of May next following, or to institute a suit

42. On the application of the landlord to the tahsíldár or other prescribed officer the notice shall be served by the officer on or before the fifteenth day of February at the expense of the landlord.

Service of the notice.

43. The tenant may institute a suit to contest the notice of enhancement, within thirty days from the date of the service thereof, on any of the following grounds, namely:—

Grounds on which tenant may contest his liability to enhancement.

(a) that he has a right of occupancy in the land specified in the notice;

(b) that he holds under a special agreement or decree of Court or lease under the terms of which his rent is not liable to enhancement;

(c) that the enhancement claimed is in excess of the rate authorized by law;

(d) that seven years will not have elapsed on the fifteenth day of May next following, since the date of any such change of rent or alteration of area as is under section 36 or section 37 equivalent to an admission to the occupation of a holding, or, where no such change or alteration has taken place, since the date on which he was admitted to the occupation of the holding;

(e) that the notice has not been served in the manner required by this Act;

(f) that, where the enhancement claimed is on account of an improvement, the amount claimed is excessive.

44. (1) If the tenant does not contest the notice of enhancement and remains in possession of the land after the fifteenth day of May next following the date of the service of the notice, he shall become liable for the enhanced rent.

Tenant's liability for enhanced rent.

(2) If the tenant contests the notice, and the validity thereof is maintained by the Court in whole or in part, he shall, if he remains in possession of the land after the fifteenth day of May next following the date of the service of the notice, become liable for the enhanced rent to the extent to which the Court has maintained the validity of the notice.

45. If the tenant by remaining in possession of the land under the last foregoing section becomes liable for enhanced rent, he shall be entitled to hold the land at that rent for a further period of seven years.

Commencement of fresh statutory period.

46. If the tenant refuses to accept the enhancement claimed or decreed and vacates the holding, he shall be entitled to recover by separate suit from the landlord compensation for any improvements made by him on the holding.

Vacating tenant's right to compensation for improvements.

47. (1) Except in the cases mentioned in sections 49 and 50, the rent of a tenant admitted to the occupation of any land the tenancy of which has determined according to the provisions of this Act shall not exceed by more than one anna in the rupee, or six-and-a-quarter per cent., the rent payable by the tenant immediately preceding him.

Rent of tenant succeeding to vacant holding.

(2) In the case of a tenant admitted to the occupation of a holding of which the rent has been immediately before his admission paid in kind, the rent payable shall, subject to any established custom of the pargana in which the holding is situate, be either the rent payable by the tenant immediately preceding him, or a sum which, subject to the provisions of sections 49 and 50, shall not exceed by more than six-and-a-quarter per cent. the equivalent of the value of the produce annually paid as rent on the average of the three years immediately preceding.

48. (1) The heir of a tenant who dies during the currency of the tenancy of a holding shall be entitled to retain occupation of the holding at the rent payable by the deceased for the unexpired portion of the period for which the deceased tenant might have held without liability to enhancement or ejectment, and to receive compensation under the provisions of this Act for improvements, if any, made on the holding by himself or his predecessor in interest, but shall not be entitled to a renewal of the tenancy.

Rights of the heir of a deceased tenant.

(2) Subject to any rights which he may have under section 22 as a representative of the deceased, a collateral relative who did not at the date of the death of the deceased share in the cultivation of the holding shall not be deemed to be an heir of the deceased within the meaning of this section.

49. The rent of a tenant admitted to the occupation of any land the tenancy of which has ceased in consequence of the death of a previous tenant, or of the ejectment of a thekadár or mortgagee from land of which he has taken cultivating possession during the period of his theka or mortgage, shall be such amount as may be agreed upon between him and the landlord.

Rent of tenant succeeding to a holding vacated by the death of the previous tenant.

50. (1) Nothing in the foregoing sections shall bar the right of a landlord to enhancement of rent on the ground that the productive powers of the land held by the tenant have been increased by an improvement which has been made by, or at the expense of, the landlord, or for which during the currency of the tenancy compensation has been accepted from the landlord by the owner of the improvement or, on the expiration of the tenancy, compensation has been paid in accordance with the determination of a Court under this Act.

Enhancement of rent for improvements made or acquired by landlord.

(2) Where an enhancement is claimed on the ground of any such improvement, the Court, in determining the claim, shall have regard to—

(a) the increase in the productive powers of the land caused, or likely to be caused, by the improvement;

(b) the cost of the improvement; and

(c) the cost of the cultivation required for the utilising of the improvement.

51. Notwithstanding anything in the foregoing sections, the Chief Commissioner may, by notification in the local official Gazette, vary from time to time, within periods of not less than seven years, the limits of the enhancement to which tenants to whom section 36 or section 37 applies are liable in any local area specified in the notification.

CHAPTER V.

EJECTMENT.

Tenants holding on special terms.

Ejectment of tenants holding on special term.

52. (1) A tenant having a right of occupancy in any land, or holding any land under a special agreement or decree of Court, shall not be ejected from that land otherwise than in execution of a decree for ejectment:

Provided that the decree for ejectment shall not be made, unless, at the date of that decree, a decree against the tenant for an arrear of rent in respect of the land has remained unsatisfied for fifteen days or upwards.

(2) A decree for the ejectment of a tenant holding under a special agreement or decree of Court may be made on such grounds as would justify ejectment under the agreement or decree.

Other Tenants.

Ejectment of other tenants.

53. A tenant not having a right of occupancy, and not holding under a special agreement or decree of Court, may be ejected by notice, application or suit under the following sections of this Chapter.

Ejectment by notice.

54. If a landlord desires to eject any such tenant on the expiration of his tenancy, he may cause a notice of ejectment to be served on the tenant under the next following section.

Contents, service and cost of notice.

55. (1) The notice shall be written in Hindi and in Urdu; it shall be signed by the landlord or by an agent authorized by him in that behalf; it shall specify the land from which the tenant is to be ejected; it shall, if a court-fee is payable in respect thereof under this section, contain a certificate by the patwári as to the annual rent payable for the holding to which the notice relates; and it shall inform the tenant that he must either (a), if he means to dispute the ejectment, institute a suit for that purpose within thirty days from the date of the service of the notice, or (b) vacate the land on or before the fifteenth day of May next following.

(2) On the application of the landlord to the tahsíldár or other prescribed officer, the notice shall, if the proper court-fee (where a court-fee is payable under this section) has been paid in respect thereof, be served on the tenant by the officer on or before the fifteenth day of November at the expense of the landlord.

(3) If the tenant on whom the notice is to be served is a tenant to whom section 36 or section 37 applies, there shall, except as provided by this sub-section and sub-section (4) and by section 69, be payable in respect of the notice a court-fee equal in value to half the annual rent payable for the holding of the tenant, or, in the case of a tenant paying rent in kind, a court-fee equal to half the value of the produce annually paid as rent on the average of the three years immediately preceding:

Provided that the court-fee shall not in any case exceed twenty-five rupees.

(4) A court-fee shall not be payable under sub-section (3) in respect of a notice on a person to whom section 48 applies.

(5) Stamps representing the court-fee shall be affixed on the notice before the notice and the application for the service thereof are presented to the tahsíldár or other prescribed officer.

(6) The court-fee paid by a landlord under this section shall not in any circumstances be adjudged to be payable as costs or otherwise by the tenant.

Grounds on which tenant may contest liability to ejectment.

56. (1) A tenant on whom a notice has been served under the last foregoing section may institute a suit to contest his liability to be ejected from the land specified therein on any of the following grounds, namely:—

(a) that he has a right of occupancy in the land;

(b) that he holds under a special agreement or decree of Court or unexpired lease under the terms of which he is not liable to be ejected from the land;

(c) if he is a tenant to whom section 55, sub-section (3), applies, that the notice was insufficiently stamped;

(d) if he is a tenant to whom section 36 or section 37 applies, that seven years will not have elapsed on the fifteenth day of May next following, since the date of any such change of rent or alteration of area as is under section 36 or section 37, as the case may be, equivalent to an admission to the occupation of a holding, or, where no such change or alteration has taken place, since the date on which he was admitted to the occupation of the holding;

(e) if he is a tenant to whom section 53 applies, that notice of ejectment has not been served upon him in the manner required by this Act.

(2) A thekadár shall not be entitled to contest a notice of ejectment on any ground other than that he holds a lease under the terms of which he is not liable to ejectment.

Compensation for improvements, if any, to be claimed in suit contesting liability to ejectment.

57. If the tenant has any claim for compensation for improvements on the holding, he shall file with his plaint a statement of the claim and of the grounds on which it is based.

Determination of the claim.

58. If the Court dismisses the suit in whole or in part, it shall determine the amount of the compensation, if any, due for improvements, and shall declare ejectment from the whole or part of the land, as the case may be, to be conditional on payment of that amount into Court.

Tenancy to cease if notice is not contested.

59. If the tenant on whom notice of ejectment has been served fails, within thirty days from the date of the service, to institute a suit to contest his liability to be ejected, his tenancy of the land in respect of which the notice has been served shall cease on the fifteenth day of May next following, unless, after the service, the landlord has authorized him in writing to continue to occupy the land.

When assistance to eject may be given by Court.

60. (1) If the landlord requires assistance to eject a tenant on whom he alleges a notice to have been served under section 55, he may apply for that assistance to the Court which would have had jurisdiction with respect to a suit by the tenant to contest his liability to be ejected under the notice, and that Court shall order the ejectment of the tenant if it is satisfied—

(a) that a notice of ejectment was duly served on the tenant;

(b) that the tenant has not brought a suit to contest the notice, or that, if a suit for that purpose has been brought, it has been determined adversely to the tenant;

(c) that the tenant has not been authorised by the landlord in writing to continue to occupy the land.

(2) Nothing done by the Court under sub-section (1) shall affect the right of the tenant to institute a suit against his landlord on account of illegal ejectment and to recover compensation therefor.

Ejectment by application.

61. (1) If a landlord desires to eject a tenant to whom section 53 applies and against whom a decree for an arrear of rent has been passed and remains unsatisfied, he may, after the first day of April of the year in which that arrear accrued, apply to the Deputy Commissioner to eject the tenant.

(2) The Deputy Commissioner shall, on receiving the application, cause a notice to be served on the tenant, stating the amount due under the decree, and informing him that if he does not pay that amount into Court within fifteen days from the receipt of the notice he will be ejected from his holding.

(3) If the amount is not so paid, the Deputy Commissioner shall, unless good cause is shown to the contrary, eject the tenant.

Ejectment by suit.

62. (1) A tenant to whom section 53 applies shall be liable to ejectment by suit during the currency of his tenancy on any of the following grounds, namely:—

(a) that he has used the land comprised in his holding in a manner which renders it unfit for the purposes of his tenancy;

(b) that at the time of the institution of the suit the entire holding has been sub-let;

(c) where the rent is payable in kind, that his cultivation has diminished to a point which by the custom of the locality involves the forfeiture of the holding;

(d) where the tenant holds under an unexpired lease, land to which section 4, sub-sections (3) and (4), applies, then on any ground which would justify ejectment under the lease.

(2) The tenant shall continue liable for the rent of the land until the decree is executed.

General.

Time of ejectment of tenant.

63. Except in pursuance of an order under section 21, sub-section (3), a tenant shall not in any case, whether in execution of a decree or otherwise, be ejected from the land in his occupation, except between the first day of April and the thirtieth day of June in any year after the passing of this Act.

(Chapter V.—Ejectment.—Sections 61-66.—Chapter VI.—Supplemental Provisions respecting Tenancies.—Sections 67-69.)

Time of ejectment of thekadár.

64. A thekadár liable to be ejected under the provisions of this Act may be ejected at any time during his tenancy.

Preferment by tenants of claims for compensation for improvements in suits for ejectment.

65. In any suit for ejectment the defendant may file any claim for compensation for improvements which he may have against the plaintiff, and, if the Court finds the grounds on which the suit is brought to be valid, it shall determine the amount of compensation, if any, due from the plaintiff to the defendant, and shall pass a decree of ejectment conditional on the payment into Court of that amount.

Compensation to ejected tenant for growing crops.

66. A tenant ejected in accordance with the provisions of this Act shall be entitled to receive from the landlord the value of any growing crops or other ungathered products of the earth belonging to the tenant and being on the land at the time of his ejectment:

Provided that, if the land has been sown or planted by the tenant after service on him of a notice under section 55, he shall not be so entitled, unless, after that service, the landlord has authorized him in writing to continue to occupy the land.

CHAPTER VI.

SUPPLEMENTAL PROVISIONS RESPECTING TENANCIES.

Sír Lands.

provisions of this Act to a tenant to whom section 36 or section 37 applies, the landlord shall, on the expiration of the term, be entitled to enhance the rent of the holding in accordance with the provisions of Chapter IV, Part B, and not otherwise, and shall also be entitled to eject the tenant by notice under section 55 without payment of a court-fee under that section:

Provided that any change in the rent or alteration in the area of the holding by the landlord during the term shall be a bar to enhancement and ejectment for seven years from the date of that change or alteration.

(2) In addition to the grounds mentioned in clauses (a), (b) and (c) of section 62, sub-section (1), a tenant to whom this section applies shall be liable to ejectment by suit during the currency of his tenancy on any ground which would justify ejectment under the registered document under which he holds.

Miscellaneous.

70. Where a tenant has received a patta, a statement that since the date of the patta his rent has been changed, or area of his holding altered, by the landlord, shall not be admissible in evidence unless the change or alteration is recorded in an entry on the patta signed by or on behalf of the landlord, and in an entry on the counterpart signed by or on behalf of the tenant, or in a new patta and counterpart.

CHAPTER VII.

DISTRESS FOR ARREARS OF RENT.

72. When an arrear of rent is due from any tenant, the landlord may, subject to the provisions of this Chapter, distrain the produce of the land in respect of which the arrear is due:

Recovery of arrears of rent by distress.

Provided that, when a tenant has given security for the payment of his rent, the produce of the land in respect of which the rent is payable shall not be liable to distress so long as the security is in force.

73. Distress shall not be made for the recovery of—

Distress not permissible in certain cases.

(a) any sum in excess of the rent payable in the last preceding year for the land in respect of which the arrear is due, unless the tenant has agreed in writing to pay that excess or unless he has been declared by decree to be liable therefor, or

(b) any arrear which has been due for a longer period than one year.

74. The power of distress vested by section 72 in landlords may be exercised by managers under the Court of Wards, managing agents and tahsildárs of estates held under direct management, and other persons lawfully entrusted with the charge of land, and also by the agents employed by landlords or any such persons as aforesaid in the collection of rent, if expressly authorized by power-of-attorney to distrain:

Provided that, if any such agent, purporting to act in the exercise of that power, commits an act which, under the provisions of this Chapter, is illegal, the person employing him shall be liable, as well as the agent, to be sued for compensation for any injury caused by the act.

75. Any person empowered to distrain property under section 72 or section 74 may employ a servant or other person to make the distress, but in every such case he shall give to the servant or person a written authority in that behalf, and the distress shall be made in the name and on the responsibility of the person giving the authority.

(2) But no such crops or products, other than the produce of the land in respect of which an arrear of rent is due, or of land held under the same engagement as the land in respect of which the arrear is due, and no grain or other produce after it has been stored by the cultivator, and no other property whatsoever, shall be liable to distress under this Act.

77. (1) Before or at the time when any distress is made under this Act, the distrainer shall cause the defaulter to be served with a written demand for the amount of the arrear, together with an account exhibiting the grounds on which the demand is made.

Demand of arrear before or at time of distress.

(2) The demand and account shall, if practicable, be served personally on the defaulter, but, if he cannot be found, they shall be affixed at his usual place of residence, and shall thereupon be deemed to be duly served upon him.

78. Unless the amount of the demand is immediately paid or tendered, the distrainer may distrain property as aforesaid of value as nearly as may be equal to the amount of the arrear with the costs of the distress; and, when he has made the distress, he shall prepare a list or description of the property distrained and deliver a copy thereof to the owner, or if the owner is absent, affix it at his usual place of residence.

(3) In either case the distrained property shall be placed in the charge of some proper person appointed by the distrainer for the purpose.

(4) If the crops or products do not, from their nature, admit of being stored, the distress shall be made (if at all) at least twenty days before the time when the crops or products or any part thereof would ordinarily be fit for cutting or gathering.

80. If a distrainer is opposed or apprehends resistance, and desires to obtain the assistance of a public officer, he may apply to the Court, and the Court may, if it thinks necessary, depute an officer to assist the distrainer in making the distress.

Application by distrainer in case of resistance.

81. If at any time after property has been distrained as aforesaid, and before the sale thereof as hereinafter provided, the owner tenders payment of the arrear demanded and of the costs of the distress, the distrainer shall receive the payment and give a receipt therefor and forthwith withdraw the distress.

Withdrawal of distress on tender of arrear and costs.

82. Within five days from the time of storing any distrained crops or products, or, if the crops or products do not from their nature admit of being stored, within five days from the time of making the distress, the distrainer shall apply for the sale thereof to the proper officer authorized to sell property in satisfaction of decrees of the Court within whose jurisdiction the distrained property is situate.

Short title, local extent and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1886.

(2) It extends to the territories for the time being administered by the Lieutenant-Governor of the Punjab and its Dependencies; and

(3) It shall come into force on such date (hereinafter called the commencement of this Act) as the Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, may, by notification in the official Gazette, appoint in this behalf.

Repeal.

2. (1) The Punjab Tenancy Act, 1868, is hereby repealed; and XXVIII of 1868.

(2) All suits, appeals and applications instituted, preferred and made under that Act, and pending at the commencement of this Act, shall, so far as may be, be deemed to have been respectively instituted, preferred and made under this Act.

Definitions.

3. In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context,—

(a) "land" means land which is let or occupied for agricultural purposes or for purposes subservient to agriculture, and includes the sites of buildings appurtenant to such land: [New. Cf. Act IX, 1883, s. 3 (1).]

(b) "tenant" means a person who holds land of another person, and is, or, but for a special contract, would be, liable to pay rent for that land to that other person. But it does not include an inferior landowner, or a farmer or mortgagee of the rights of a landowner, or a person who takes a lease of unoccupied land for the purpose of subletting it: [New. Cf. Act IX, 1883, s. 3 (2).]

(c) "landlord" means the person of whom a tenant holds land, and to whom the tenant is, or, but for a special contract, would be, liable to pay rent for that land: [New. Cf. Act IX, 1883, s. 3 (3).]

(d) "tenant" and "landlord" include the predecessors and representatives in interest of a tenant and landlord respectively: [New.]

(e) "rent" means whatever is payable, deliverable or renderable in money, kind or service by a tenant on account of the use or occupation of land held by him: [New. Cf. Act XI, 1883, s. 3 (4).]

(f) "pay," "payable" and "payment," used with reference to rent, include "deliver," "deliverable" and "delivery," and "render," "renderable" and "rendering": [New. Cf. Act IX, 1883, s. 3 (5).]

(g) "arrear of rent" means rent which remains unpaid after the date on which it becomes payable: [Act XXVIII, 1868, s. 3.]

(h) "tenancy" means a parcel of land held by a tenant of a landlord under one lease or one set of conditions: [New. Cf. Act IX, 1883, s. 3 (7).]

(i) "land-revenue" means—

(1) the land-revenue for the time being assessed on land, whether the assessment is leviable or not; or [Cf. Act XX, 1884, s. 3 (4).]

The Punjab Tenancy Bill.
(Chapter II.—Right of Occupancy.—Sections 4-5.)

(2) where the land-revenue has been permanently assessed, or has been wholly or in part compounded for or redeemed, the amount which, but for the permanent assessment, composition or redemption, would have been leviable; or

(3) where no land-revenue has been assessed on land, the amount which would have been assessed thereon if the rate sanctioned for like land in the same village or in adjacent villages had been applied;

and includes any rate imposed in respect of the increased value of land due to canal-irrigation, unless, where the land is assessed, that increased value has been taken into account in the assessment:

[New.] [Act XX of 1883.] (j) "rates and cesses" mean the local rate payable under the Punjab District Boards Act, 1883, the zaildári, lambardári and patwári cesses, and any other rates and cesses of which the levy has been generally or specially authorised by the Local Government:

[New.] (k) "Revenue-officer" and "Revenue Court" have the meanings respectively assigned to those expressions in the Punjab Land-revenue Act, 1886:

[Act IX, 1883 s. 3 (9).] (l) "prescribed Revenue-officer," in any provision of this Act, means such Revenue-officer as the Local Government may, by notification in the official Gazette, direct by name or by virtue of his office to discharge the functions of a Revenue-officer under that provision:

[New. Cf. Act IX, 1883, s. 3 (8).] (m) "improvement" means, with reference to a tenancy, any work which is suitable to the tenancy and consistent with the conditions on which it is held, by which the letting value of the tenancy has been and continues to be increased, and which, if not executed on the tenancy, is either executed directly for its benefit, or is, after execution, made directly beneficial to it;

Explanation I.—It includes—

[Act XXVIII, 1868, s. 38.] (1) the construction of works for the storage of water, for the supply of water for agricultural purposes, for drainage, and for protection against floods;

(2) the construction of wells, the reclaiming, enclosing, levelling and terracing of land for agricultural purposes, and other works of a like nature;

(3) the erection of buildings in connection with the land for the more convenient or profitable cultivation thereof; and

(4) the renewal or re-construction of any of the foregoing works, or such alterations therein or additions thereto as are not required for maintaining the same and as durably increase their value;

[Cf. Bom. Act V, 1879, s. 170.] But it does not include any benefit accruing to land from the ordinary operations of husbandry;

Explanation II.—A work which benefits several tenancies may be deemed to be, with respect to each of them, an improvement;

Explanation III.—A work executed by a tenant is not an improvement if it substantially diminishes the value of any other part of his landlord's property:

[Act XXVIII, 1868, s. 3, amended.] (n) "grandfather" includes the father of an adoptive father, the adoptive father of a father and the adoptive father of an adoptive father; "uncle" includes the brother of an adoptive father; and "grand-uncle" includes the adoptive father of an uncle: and voluntarily admitted himself to be a tenant not having a right of occupancy, and that the admission was recorded at the time by that officer.

[Act XXVIII, 1868, s. 7.]

6. If the tenant has voluntarily exchanged the land, or any portion of the land, formerly occupied by him, for other land belonging to the same landlord, the land taken in exchange shall, for the purposes of this Act, be held to be subject to the same right of occupancy as that to which the land given in exchange would have been subject if the exchange had not taken place.

[New.]

Grounds and limitations of reduction of rents described in section 14.

16. (1) When the land, or any part of the land, held by a tenant having a right of occupancy to whom section 14 applies ceases to be irrigated or flooded, the share or rates payable in respect of the land or part may be reduced to the share or rates paid by tenants having a right of occupancy for unirrigated or unflooded land of a similar description and with similar advantages in the same neighbourhood.

(2) Where the rent of a tenant having a right of occupancy is a share of the produce, or of the appraised value thereof, with an addition in cash, and that addition is the amount of the land-revenue and rates and cesses, or a proportion thereof, the addition may, on a reduction of that amount, be reduced—

(i) if it was the full amount, then to the reduced amount of the land-revenue and rates and cesses; and

(ii) if it was a proportion of the amount, then to the same proportion of the reduced amount.

[Act XXVIII, 1868, s. 14.]

Grounds and limitation of reduction of other rents.

17. (1) The rent payable by a tenant having a right of occupancy, to whom section 14 does not apply, may be reduced on any of the following grounds, and on no others, namely:—

first—that the area of the land held by him has been diminished or has been proved to be less than the area for which rent has been previously paid by him;

second—that the productive powers of that land have been decreased by any cause beyond his control;

[New.]

third—that the rent of the land is regulated by the amount of the land-revenue thereof and that the land-revenue has been reduced;

[New.]

fourth—that within the six years immediately preceding the passing of this Act the rent has been raised above the maximum allowed by section 15.

(2) In a case to which sub-section (1) of this section applies, the rent shall be reduced to the amount which the Revenue-officer considers fair and equitable:

Provided that—

[New.]

(a) where the reduction is made on the third ground, it shall be in proportion to the reduction in the land-revenue of the land;

(b) where the reduction is made on the fourth ground, the rent shall not be reduced below the maximum allowed by section 15, and

[New.]

(c) a reduction shall not be made in any case if its effect would be to make the rent of the land less than the amount of the land-revenue thereof and the rates and cesses chargeable thereon.

Remission.

[Act XXVIII, 1868, s. 15.]

Remission of rent by Courts decreeing arrears.

18. Notwithstanding anything contained in the foregoing sections of this Chapter, if it appears to a Court making a decree for an arrear of rent that the area of a tenancy has been so diminished by diluvion or otherwise, or that the produce thereof has been so diminished by drought, hail, deposit of sand, or other like calamity, that the full amount of rent payable by him cannot be equitably decreed, the Court may allow such remission from the rent payable by him as may appear to it to be just.

[Cf. Act XII, 1881, s. 23.]

Remission and suspension of rent consequent on like treatment of land-revenue.

19 (1) Whenever for any cause the payment of the whole or any part of the land-revenue payable in respect of any land is remitted or for any period suspended, the prescribed Revenue-officer may by order remit or for that period suspend, as the case may be, the payment of the rent of that land to an amount which may bear the same proportion to the whole of the rent payable in respect of the land as the land-revenue of which the payment has been remitted or suspended bears to the whole of the land-revenue payable in respect of the land.

(2) An order passed under sub-section (1) shall not be liable to be contested by suit in any Court.

(3) A suit shall not lie for the recovery of any rent of which the payment has been remitted, or during the period of suspension for any rent of which the payment has been suspended.

[Cf. Act XIV, 1882, s. 325A.]

(4) Where the payment of rent has been suspended for any period, that period shall be excluded in the computation of the period of limitation prescribed for a suit for the recovery of the rent.

(5) If the landlord collects any rent of which the payment has been remitted, or before the expiration of the period of suspension collects any rent of which the payment has been suspended, the whole of the land-revenue remitted or suspended in his favour shall become immediately payable by him.

[New.]

(6) The provisions of this section relating to the remission or suspension of the payment of rent may be applied, so far as they can be made applicable, to land held free of revenue, in any case in which, if the land had been revenue-paying, the payment of the whole or any part of the land-revenue thereof might, in the opinion of the prescribed Revenue-officer, have been remitted or suspended under the rules for the time being in force for regulating the remission and suspension of land-revenue.

Division of Produce and Appraisement of Crops.

Appointment of referee for division or appraisement.

20. When rent is taken by division of the produce, or by estimate or appraisement of the crop, if either the landlord or the tenant neglects to attend, either personally or by agent, at the proper time for making the division, estimate or appraisement, or if there is a dispute about the division of the produce or the quantity or value of the crop, the prescribed Revenue-officer may, on the application of either party, appoint such person as he thinks fit to be a referee to divide the produce or estimate or appraise the crop.

[New Cf. Act XXVIII, 1868, s. 18, and Act IX, 1883, s. 26.]

Appointment of assessors.

21. (1) When the Revenue-officer appoints a referee under the last foregoing section, he may in his discretion authorise the referee to associate with himself any other persons as assessors, and may give him instructions regarding the number, qualifications and mode of selecting those assessors (if any) and the procedure to be followed in making the division, estimate or appraisement.

(2) The referee so appointed shall make the division, estimate or appraisement in accordance with those instructions.

(3) For the purpose of exercising the powers conferred upon him, the referee, with his assessors (if any), may enter upon or into any land or building on or in which the crop is standing or the produce is lying.

[New. Cf. Act IX, 1883, s. 28.]

22. (1) The result of the division, estimate or appraisement shall be recorded and signed by the referee, and the record shall be submitted to the Revenue-officer.

Procedure after division or appraisement.

(2) The Revenue-officer shall consider the record, and after such further inquiry (if any) as he may think necessary shall make an order either confirming or varying the division, estimate or appraisement.

(3) The rent shall be payable in accordance with that order.

(4) The Revenue-officer shall also make such order as to the costs of the reference as he thinks fit.

(5) The costs may include the remuneration of the referee and of the assessors (if any), and may be levied from the applicant before the appointment of the referee subject to adjustment at the close of the proceedings.

CHAPTER IV.

Relinquishment.

[Act XXVIII, 1868, ss. 28, 30 & 31.]

23. (1) A tenant may relinquish his tenancy by giving verbally or in writing to his landlord or to his landlord's agent, on or before the fifteenth day of January in any year, notice of his intention to relinquish the tenancy.

Relinquishment by tenant

(2) If the landlord or his agent refuses to receive the notice, or if he receives it but refuses to sign and deliver a receipt for it, the tenant may apply to the prescribed Revenue-officer on or before the date aforesaid to cause the notice to be served on the landlord; and the Revenue-officer, on receiving the cost of service from the tenant, shall cause the notice to be served as soon as may be.

(3) If the tenant does not give notice in the manner prescribed in this section, he shall be liable to pay the rent of his tenancy for any part of the ensuing agricultural year during which the tenancy is not let by the landlord to some other person or is not cultivated by the landlord himself.

Ejectment.

[New.]

24. (1) A tenant shall not be ejected otherwise than in execution of an order of the prescribed Revenue-officer.

Mode and time of ejectment.

[Cf. Act XXVIII, 1868, s. 21.]

(2) Save as otherwise expressly provided by this Act, an order of the Revenue-officer for the ejectment of a tenant shall not be executed at any other time than between the first day of May and the fifteenth day of June.

[Act XXVIII, 1868, s. 27.]

25. (1) Where at the time of the order for the ejectment of a tenant from any land his uncut crops are standing thereon, he shall not be ejected from the land until the crops have ripened and he has been allowed a reasonable time to harvest them.

Provision with respect to crops uncut at time of order for ejectment.

(2) For the use of the land occupied by the crops he shall pay such rent as may be agreed on between him and the landlord, or as, in default of such agreement, may, on the application of either landlord or tenant, be determined by the prescribed Revenue-officer.

[Cf. Act XII, 1881, s. 42.]

(3) Where the rent is determined by an order of the prescribed Revenue-officer, the order may be executed by him in the same manner as a decree for money may be executed by a Revenue Court.

26. A Revenue-officer may make an order for the ejectment of a tenant from land in which he has a right of occupancy if—

[New.]

Conditions on which order may be made for ejectment of an occupancy-tenant.

(a) a decree has been made for the ejectment of the tenant from the land either on the ground that he has used the land in a manner inconsistent with the conditions on which he holds it or on the ground that he has omitted to use the land in the manner required by those conditions; or

(b) a decree has been made against the tenant for an arrear of rent due in respect of the land, and the decree remains unsatisfied at the time when an application for his ejectment is made in manner hereinafter provided.

[See section 28 of this Bill.]

27. (1) When a decree has been made for the ejectment of a tenant having a right of occupancy on either of the grounds mentioned in clause (a) of the last foregoing section, the decree-holder may apply to the prescribed Revenue-officer for an order for the ejectment of the tenant in execution of the decree.

[New.]

Procedure for ejectment of an occupancy-tenant against whom decree has been made for misuse of land.

(2) If it appears to the Revenue-officer that the injury caused by the act or omission in consequence of which the decree was made is capable of being remedied, or that an award of compensation will be sufficient satisfaction to the landlord therefor, he may, instead of making an order for the ejectment of the tenant, order him to remedy the injury within one month from the date of the order, or order him to pay to the Revenue-officer, within a time to be specified in the order, such compensation as the Revenue-officer thinks fit.

(3) If the injury is so remedied or the compensation so paid, an order for the ejectment of the tenant in execution of the decree shall not be made.

28. (1) If a landlord desires to eject a tenant having a right of occupancy in land against whom a decree for an arrear of rent due in respect of the land has been made and remains unsatisfied, he may apply to the prescribed Revenue-officer for an order for the ejectment of the tenant.

[Act XII, 1881, s. 35.]

Procedure for ejectment of an occupancy-tenant against whom decree has been made for arrear of rent.

(2) The Revenue-officer shall, on receiving the application, cause a notice to be served on the tenant, stating the date of the decree and the amount due thereunder, and informing him that if he does not pay that amount to the Revenue-officer within fifteen days from receipt of the notice he will be ejected from the land.

(Chapter V.—Alienation of, and Succession to, Right of Occupancy.—Sections 29-36.)

(3) If the amount is so paid within that period of fifteen days, an order for the ejectment of the tenant shall not be made.

(4) The Revenue-officer may for special reasons extend the period of fifteen days mentioned in this section.

[Act XXVIII, 1868, ss. 22 et seq.]

29 (1) If a landlord desires to eject a tenant not having a right of occupancy, he may apply to the prescribed Revenue-officer on or before the fifteenth day of January to cause a notice of ejectment to be served on the tenant.

Procedure for ejectment of tenant not having right of occupancy.

(2) The landlord shall pay the cost of service, and the Revenue-officer shall cause the notice to be served as soon as may be.

(3) The notice shall specify the name of the landlord on whose application it is issued and the land to which it relates, and shall inform the tenant that if he means to contest his liability to ejectment he must institute a suit for that purpose within two months from the date of the service of the notice.

(4) If within two months from that date the tenant does not institute a suit to contest his liability to ejectment, or if, having instituted a suit for that purpose within that period, he fails in the suit, the prescribed Revenue-officer shall, on the application of the landlord, eject him from the land.

[Act XXVIII, 1868, s. 21.]

30. If a tenant not having a right of occupancy whose rent is payable in kind or whose rent is in arrear fails to cultivate the land which he holds in accordance with the conditions on which he holds it, he may, on the application of the landlord to the prescribed Revenue-officer, be ejected from the land by order of that officer at any time of the year.

Ejectment of tenant not having right of occupancy for failure to cultivate land.

Relief for wrongful dispossession.

[Act XXVIII, 1868, s. 21, and Act XII, 1881, s. 95, cls. (m) and (s).]

31. A tenant who has been dispossessed without his consent of his tenancy or any part thereof otherwise than in execution of an order of the prescribed Revenue-officer may, in a suit under section 9 of the Specific Relief Act, 1877, for recovery of possession of the tenancy or part, or in a separate suit, claim compensation for wrongful dispossession.

Relief for dispossession without consent and otherwise than in due course of law.

I of 1877.

32. A tenant who has been ejected in execution of an order of a Revenue-officer under section 30 of this Act may, if he denies his liability to be ejected on the ground of his having a right of occupancy, institute a suit for recovery of the occupancy of the land or for compensation for wrongful dispossession, or for both.

Relief for wrongful ejectment under section 30 of a tenant having a right of occupancy.

(2) If he intends to transfer the right by sale, gift or mortgage, or by sub-letting it in consideration of a fine or premium exceeding seven times the annual rent of the land in which the right subsists, he shall give to his landlord a written notice of his intention, and shall defer proceeding with the transfer for a period of one month from the date on which the notice is given.

(3) Within the said period of one month the landlord may claim to purchase the right at such value as the prescribed Revenue-officer may, on application made to him in this behalf, fix.

(4) When the application to the Revenue-officer is to fix the value of a right of occupancy which is already mortgaged, he shall fix the value of the right as if it were not mortgaged.

(5) The landlord shall be deemed to have purchased the right if he pays the value to the Revenue-officer within such time as that officer may appoint.

(6) On the value being so paid, the Revenue-officer shall, on the application of the landlord, make an order for the ejectment of the tenant or other person in occupation of the land subject to the right.

(7) If the right of occupancy was already mortgaged, the mortgage-debt shall be a charge in exoneration of the land on the value paid by the landlord.

(8) Any transfer made in contravention of this section shall be void.

[Act XXVIII, 1868, s. 32.]

35. (1) When a tenant has transferred a right of occupancy by sale or gift, or by mortgage with possession, to a person other than the landlord, that person shall, in respect of the land in which the right subsists, have the same rights, and be subject to the same liabilities, as the tenant who made the transfer had and was subject to.

(4) If within the time specified the landlord pays into Court the value fixed by the Court, the prescribed Revenue-officer shall, on the application of the landlord, make an order for the ejectment of the tenant or other person in occupation of the land subject to the right.

The Punjab Tenancy Bill.
(Chapter VI.—Compensation.—Sections 37-46.)

(5) If the right was already mortgaged, the mortgage-debt shall be a charge in exoneration of the land on the value paid by the landlord.

(6) If the landlord fails to pay the value into Court within the time specified, the rights and liabilities of the tenant shall continue, and the Court, if it thinks fit, may make a decree against the tenant in favour of the person to whom the transfer purported to be made for the sum paid by that person as consideration for the transfer.

[New.]

38. Nothing in this Chapter shall be construed to affect the provisions of sections 5 and 7 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, in any case in which the personal law or local custom applicable to a tenant having a right of occupancy confers on him a larger power of transfer than is conferred on him by this Chapter, or prescribes a course of succession different from that prescribed by the last foregoing section.

(2) Whenever a Revenue-officer makes an order for the ejectment of a tenant, he shall determine the amount of compensation (if any) due under this section to the tenant for improvements, and, notwithstanding anything contained in Chapter IV or Chapter V, shall stay the execution of the order until that amount, less any arrears of rent or costs due to the landlord from the tenant, has been paid to the Revenue-officer by the landlord.

(3) Compensation shall not be awarded under this section for an improvement made by a tenant in contravention of a written agreement between himself and the landlord, or after the institution of the suit, or the service of the notice, which resulted in the order for his ejectment.

(4) Improvements made by a tenant before this Act comes into force shall be deemed to have been made in accordance with this Act, unless, in the case of a tenant not having a right of occupancy, it is shown that the landlord forbade the tenant to make the improvement.

[New.]

42. In proceedings for the enhancement of the rent of a tenant having a right of occupancy, increase in the value of the produce of his tenancy, or in the productive powers thereof, resulting from any improvement made by him within the twenty years immediately preceding the institution of the proceedings, shall not be taken into consideration as a ground for enhancing the rent.

Compensation for disturbance of reclaiming or clearing tenants.

Provided that if the tenant, being a tenant having a right of occupancy, is ejected on application under section 28, or, being a tenant not having a right of occupancy, is ejected on application under section 29 at a time when a decree against him for an arrear of rent due in respect of the land has remained unsatisfied for a longer period than three months, he shall not be entitled to compensation under this section.

(2) If rent has been paid for the land by a share of the produce, or if no rent, or no rent other than the land-revenue and rates and cesses, has been paid therefor, the compensation may be computed as if double the amount of the land-revenue of the land were the annual rent thereof.

[New.]

48. When an application is made for the ejectment of a tenant entitled to compensation under the last foregoing section, and the Revenue-officer to whom the application is made makes an order for the ejectment, he shall determine the amount of compensation payable to the tenant, and, notwithstanding anything contained in Chapter IV or Chapter V, shall stay the execution of the order until that amount, less any arrears of rent or costs due to the landlord from the tenant, has been paid to the Revenue-officer by the landlord.

Relief in case of ejectment before determination of compensation.

XIV of 1882.

(2) An order made under sub-section (1) may be executed by the prescribed Revenue-officer in the same manner as a decree for money may be executed by a Revenue Court.

52. (1) All powers conferred by this Act on the Local Government may be exercised from time to time as occasion requires.

Provisions with respect to exercise of powers.

(2) The powers conferred by sections 50 and 51 on the Local Government and the Financial Commissioner, respectively, to issue orders and make rules, may be exercised at any time after the passing of this Act, but an order or rule so issued or made shall not take effect till the commencement of this Act.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

PROPOSALS for the amendment of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1868, have been made on various occasions during the last ten years. The first proposals for the amendment of the Act were made in 1876 by the Financial Commissioner with the general concurrence of the Judges of the Chief Court. But the Lieutenant-Governor (Sir Henry Davies), thinking it inexpedient to re-open questions of principle which had been fully discussed and decided when the Act was passed, confined himself to advocating a few minor modifications in the law. The Government of India, however, was unwilling to resort to legislation until its necessity had been further demonstrated.

2. More recently, during the revision of the settlement of two of the districts of the Province, facts have come to light which strongly suggest certain alterations of the law. Moreover, the Famine Commissioners have made numerous proposals for the improvement of the relations of landlord and tenant in Northern India, and effect has already been given to several of those proposals in the revised Rent or Tenancy Acts of other Provinces.

3. In one district—that of Sirsa—the question which arose between landlord and tenant was mainly one of title. The district was colonised some eighty years ago by immigrants from the surrounding Native States, where, while there was no limit to rent, there was no practice of eviction. Up to the commencement of the first regular settlement of 1852 each individual colonist was allowed to break up as much waste as he chose on condition of paying the customary rent and dues on his cultivation, and in practice each cultivator held the land reclaimed by him undisturbed so long as he made these payments. At this settlement, however, the proprietorship of each estate was held to belong exclusively either to (a) the leaders of the body of colonists who had settled in it, or to (b) the representatives of the persons who had received permission to found a village; and it was further declared by the Government that the ordinary cultivators, to whom right of occupancy in the lands occupied by them was at the same time given, would thenceforth have no right to break up land without the permission of those to whom proprietary rights had been granted. The result of this settlement was that the whole area of the district was declared to belong to 5,000 persons, while the remaining 25,000 cultivators were recorded as holding under them as tenants having a right of occupancy in all but about one-tenth of the area cultivated by them.

When this settlement came to be revised twenty years later, it was found that the area under cultivation had been largely extended, and that some 265,000 acres had been reclaimed by the persons who under the orders referred to were mere tenants-at-will as regards this new cultivation. If the district had remained under the Government of the North-Western Provinces, occupancy-rights might have accrued in those lands under Act X of 1859, but under the Punjab Tenancy Act no such right could be acquired. The landlords, nevertheless, fearing that rights of occupancy might be conferred on the tenants of these lands, just as these rights had been granted to the tenants of the lands broken up before the first settlement, began to issue notices of ejectment in great numbers. On the other hand, the tenants, expecting to be protected in the occupation of their newly reclaimed lands, contested more than half these notices, and further instituted a large number of suits to establish a right of occupancy. Thus, during the six years ending in October, 1880, notices of ejectment were served on the tenants of 61,500 acres, or about a sixth of the area held by tenants without right of occupancy. The Courts, however, felt themselves bound by the declaration of Government above referred to, and the result generally was that the claims of the tenants were dismissed, and the tenants were compelled either to leave their lands or to acknowledge themselves as holding at the will of the proprietors.

4. This state of things attracted the attention of the Government of India, which called for a report on the working of the Punjab Tenancy Act in this district. The report was furnished in October, 1881, when the Lieutenant-Governor (Sir R. Egerton), though holding that a law to enable Settlement-officers at settlement to fix rents for cultivators with right of occupancy would be an undoubted benefit, did not consider that the need of special legislation for the Sirsa district had been established. The Government of India, however, was not disposed to accept the opinion that the evils brought to light did not afford a sufficient case for legislation, and observed that if under this view the amendment of the Punjab Tenancy Act of the whole Province should seem to the Lieutenant-Governor to be required the magnitude of the question should not deter him from entering upon it.

5. Meanwhile there had arisen in the Hoshiarpur district questions between landlord and tenant relating to enhancement of rent. In that district there are some 44,000 holdings of occupancy-tenants paying at revenue-rates with or without a cash addition in the shape of málikána at a rate usually not exceeding one or two annas per rupee of land-revenue. These tenants, in the majority of cases, are liable under section 11 of the present Act to have their rents raised up to the rate of rent usually paid in the neighbourhood by tenants of the same class not having a right of occupancy for land of a similar description with similar advantages, less only a deduction of fifteen per cent. from this rate in recognition of their superior interest. Who are tenants of the same class is a moot point which could only be settled, case by case, after prolonged and harassing litigation. On the one hand, the landlords claimed, and sometimes obtained, severe enhancements by taking as the standard of comparison the heavy cash-rents paid on land usually cultivated by the owner, but let to men having, as landlords or occupancy-tenants, other land of their own, and willing to pay specially high rents for one or two additional fields to be cultivated with spare stock and at spare times. On the other hand, landlords have as a body hitherto been unable to obtain the reasonable enhancement of rent which by the legislation of 1868 they were led to expect. The Financial Commissioner (Mr. J. B. Lyall) and the Settlement Commissioner (Lieutenant-Colonel Wace) were so strongly impressed with the desirability of averting the impending flood of ruinous litigation that they urged, in the case of this district alone, the immediate application of the revised rules for the enhancement of rent which had been framed in consequence of the disputes between landlords and tenants in the Sirsa district.

6. Sir Charles Aitchison was unable to advocate special legislation of this kind, and preferred to proceed with the revision of the Tenancy Act for the Punjab generally. For the time being the old easy rents have been in most cases maintained, because they are in accordance with agreements entered in the old settlement-record; and it has been held by the Chief Court that these agreements remain in force until the new record-of-rights is handed over to the Deputy Commissioner of the district under a direction by Government on the report of the Financial Commissioner that the operations of the settlement are complete. No direction of this kind has yet been given as regards the record and settlement of the Hoshiarpur district. In other districts now under settlement the same difficulties will arise.

7. Before this, in accordance with the instructions of the Government of India, the Financial Commissioner had been asked to prepare a Bill to amend the Tenancy Act. A draft was framed repealing and re-enacting the law with numerous, and in some respects important, alterations. This draft was submitted to the Local Government in April, 1883. The Lieutenant-Governor, however, for reasons which were fully explained at the time, preferred to limit legislation, if undertaken at all, to minor modifications involving no very important principle, and required mainly for the purpose of removing ambiguities and correcting obvious omissions or mistakes, and affording protection to tenants whose successors in interest would have enjoyed it or who had earned a right to special consideration by breaking up waste land.

8. After considerable discussion and correspondence with the Government of India it was decided that legislation should proceed on the basis abovementioned, and that, reverting to the law and practice with respect to the rents of occupancy-tenants before the Act of 1868 was passed, such rents should be fixed at the time of settlement with reference to the land-revenue instead of by reference to the rents of tenants-at-will. The Financial Commissioner was accordingly asked to submit, after consultation with Lieutenant-Colonel Wace and other officers, a revised draft Bill, together with a full exposition of his own views. A number of opinions were collected, and the replies considered by a Committee consisting of Colonel Davies, Lieutenant-Colonel Wace and the Hon'ble Mr. D. G. Barkley. It seemed to this Committee that, if the Tenancy Act were amended at all, advantage should be taken of the opportunity to place the law relating to the tenancy of land before the people, and the Courts and officers who would have to administer it, in the most simple and complete form possible. The Committee therefore revised and re-submitted the Financial Commissioner's draft of April, 1883.

9. During the course of the past summer the Lieutenant-Governor has given to the proposals of the Committee and the whole subject of the amendment of the Tenancy Act his frequent and earnest attention; and, in personal consultation with the Financial Commissioners, has caused the draft Bill to be further revised.

10. It is only necessary to add, before enumerating particularly the changes now proposed, that it is not the intention of the Government to depart, from the guiding principles of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1868—a measure which, whatever its defects, may justly be described as a judicious compromise between conflicting interests of great magnitude. The principal modifications are those which have been necessitated by the practical difficulties above explained. Briefly, the main features of the present Bill are six, namely:—

(1) the omission of the word "heretofore" from section 5, clause (1), of the Act (section 4, sub-section (1), clause (a), of the Bill);

(2) original settlers are placed in as good a position with reference to occupancy-right as successors of original settlers;

(3) the present scale fixed for the enhancement and reduction of the rents of occupancy-tenants has been adjusted with reference to the land-revenue (sections 15 to 17);

(4) power has been restored to Settlement-officers to fix the rents of occupancy-tenants at the time of the assessment of land-revenue (section 10);

(5) the provisions for the payment of compensation for improvements have been made more liberal (Chapter VI); and

(6) provision has been made for the compensation of reclaiming and clearing tenants on their ejectment from the lands which they have brought under cultivation (section 47).

11. The other alterations proposed with regard to tenants having a right of occupancy are of minor importance. All important changes made in the provisions of the existing Act which have not been already noticed will be explained in the following paragraphs.

CHAPTER I.—PRELIMINARY.

12. Section 2 of the Act of 1868 has been omitted. The second paragraph of that section does not apply to Chapter II of the Act; and, by section 46 of the present Bill, all entries in the record-of-rights which prevent tenants from making improvements, or provide that they shall not be entitled to compensation for improvements on ejectment, are declared void as being contrary to public policy. It is therefore proposed to do away with the highly artificial authority which the second paragraph of section 2 of the Act gave to entries in the records of regular settlements made before the 18th November, 1871. All the districts of which a regular settlement was made before that date will have been re-settled in the course of the next six years, and the paragraph, even if left on the statute-book, would then cease to operate. The first paragraph of the section, which provides that nothing in the Tenancy Act shall affect the operation of a decree of Court, or of an agreement in writing between a landlord and tenant, has also been removed on the ground that it is not needed. Decrees of Court cannot, of course, be affected by subsequent legislation which does not deal in express terms with their subject-matter; and agreements stand on their own merits, whether they are entered in a record-of-rights or not. The fact is, that the whole section was obviously enacted with reference to the subsided controversies of eighteen years ago. As the records framed by Mr. Prinsep in the Amritsar and other settlements were reversed by the legislation of 1868 in important matters relating to the status of tenants, it was thought convenient to explain, in express terms, to what extent they would be maintained. But the revision of records consequent on the passing of the Act of 1868 was carried out shortly afterwards, and the section under discussion has long ceased to be of any practical use.

13. The definitions contained in section 3 of the Bill are for the most part new. Several of them are based on the definitions contained in the Central Provinces Tenancy Act (IX of 1883), as will be seen from the marginal references on the Bill.

Clause (d) is of some importance, especially with regard to Chapters II and VI of the Bill.

Clause (i) is so drafted as to meet the case of the assessment of an owner's rate, water-advantage rate, or other similar rate upon canal-irrigated lands.

Clause (k) indicates that the procedure by which Revenue Courts and Revenue-officers acting under the Punjab Tenancy Act will be guided is that laid down for the guidance of Revenue Courts and Revenue-officers by the Land-revenue Bill which it is proposed to introduce at an early date with a view to its being passed simultaneously with this Bill. A clause in the Land-revenue Bill will remove the necessity of section 42 of the present Tenancy Act.

In clause (m) the definition of "improvement" contained in section 38 of the Act has been revised and extended.

The alteration of the wording of the Punjab Tenancy Act made in clause (n) is clearly required.

CHAPTER II.—RIGHT OF OCCUPANCY.

14. The first of the changes in this Chapter consists in the omission of the word "heretofore" from clause (a) of section 4, sub-section (1), of the Bill, corresponding with clause (l) of section 5 of the Act, and the addition of a sub-section by which on proof by the tenant of continuous occupation of his tenancy for thirty years, and payment of nothing in the shape of rent beyond land-revenue and rates and cesses, a presumption is raised in his favour that the conditions of clause (a) have been fulfilled. This alteration of the law was first proposed by the late Financial Commissioner, Mr. J. B. Lyall, in a memorandum on proposed amendments of the Act written in 1882.

Mr. Lyall wrote as follows:—

"I would certainly strike out the word 'heretofore' in clause (l) of section 5. It may be argued that this is a deviation from the great principle expressed in the first sentence of section 9. If it is so, I would allow an exception in this case. By a recent decision of the Chief Court, which is no doubt legally correct, no tenant can establish a right under clause (l) of section 5 unless the land had been held free of rent and service for three generations in 1868. Before that decision was published, many Courts had been decreeing in favour of tenants now holding in the third generation, though they did not so hold in 1868. Most Settlement-officers, I think, interpreted the law in that way. I do not think the law amended as I propose would give a tenant a right greater than he may be held to be equitably entitled to. On the other hand, very few tenants can possibly establish a right under the clause as interpreted by the Chief Court. Except in the districts of the old Delhi territory, it is almost certain that the grandfather of the tenant of 1868 must have died before annexation, perhaps long before. Few men now survive who can give evidence as to those times, and there are no records to refer to."

In forwarding to the Government of India a copy of this memorandum with a minute by the Lieutenant-Governor, the Punjab Government supported the proposed change in the following words:—

"Mr. Lyall suggests that this amendment may involve a deviation from the principle that no occupancy-right shall be acquired by mere lapse of time. It does not, however, appear that this is so; for the reasons for acknowledging the right depend not upon any particular duration of tenure (for obviously the time during which the land may pass through the hands of grandfather, father and son may vary enormously in different cases), but rather upon the custom of the country, and perhaps also on the circumstance that the proprietor stands by and sees two successions take place without interference."

The amendment, together with others proposed at the same time, was accepted by the Government of India, and when the Bill to give effect to them was drafted the sub-section already referred to was added. The object of this addition is to place a reasonable limit on the evidence to be required of a tenant claiming under this clause. It is contended that, if a tenant can show that he succeeded his father or uncle and that he and his father and uncle together have held on these favourable terms for thirty years, it is only reasonable to throw on the landowner the burden of proving that the grandfather's or grand-uncle's tenancy was of a different nature. It is not often that older evidence would be forthcoming, and, if it is obtainable, it should be for the owner to produce it.

Clauses (2), (3) and (4) of section 5 of the Act have been re-drafted in section 4 of the Bill, in order to remove difficulties which have occurred in construing them. In the matters of continuous occupation and original settlement with village-founders the burden of proof has been thrown upon the landlord when the tenant has established a primâ facie right of occupancy as far back as trustworthy evidence can be expected to go. Under clause (b) of sub-section (1) of section 4 of the Bill any landowner whose land is sold under decree of Court will retain a right of occupancy in that land. In section 5 of the Bill, which corresponds to section 6 of the Act, the date of the passing of the Act has been inserted so as to restrict the special weight given by clause (b) to admissions made before Settlement-officers to those admissions which were made previous to the passing of the Act. This is quite consistent with the history of the subject. As is well known, at the revised settlement begun in 1863 large numbers of cultivators in the Lahore and Amritsar divisions recorded as hereditary at first settlement were recorded as tenants-at-will. This proceeding was reversed by the legislature, and more than 63,000 tenants were restored by revision of the record to the occupancy-status of which the proceedings of Mr. Prinsep, then Settlement Commissioner, would have deprived them. At the same time it was thought right to give the landlords special opportunities of rebutting the presumptions raised in favour of the tenants by the revised or other records, particularly when the tenant before Mr. Prinsep or his subordinates had himself admitted that he was a tenant-at-will. Accordingly, between 1870 and 1874, the landlords brought some 3,000 suits with this object. The state of things, therefore, which the law was designed to meet has passed away; and entries relating to tenants made since the passing of the Act of 1868 may properly be left on the same footing as that of any other part of the settlement-record; that is to say, they will be presumed to be true till the contrary is established.

15. The second clause of section 9 of the Act, forbidding the acquisition of a right of occupancy in the common lands belonging to a pattidári village-community, has been repealed. It is only necessary to prevent co-sharers in an estate from asserting a right of occupancy as against each other, and this is now provided for by section 9 of the Bill.

CHAPTER III.—RENT.

16. Section 10 of the Bill provides that the rents of occupancy-tenants may be fixed when an assessment of the land-revenue is being made, and at other times on application of the landlord or tenant. It was at one time proposed to enact that rents so fixed should not be altered during the currency of the assessment of the district, but it has now been decided that this is not desirable. It is clearly expedient that tenants should get the benefit of the reductions allowed by sections 16 and 17 of the Bill whenever they are in a position to claim them. On the other hand, the enhancements, for which sections 14 and 15 provide, may well be awarded to landlords whether the relevant facts are proved at settlement or at any other time. As the land-revenue becomes the standard of the rent of occupancy-tenants, frequent and capricious enhancements will be impracticable.

17. Section 12 of the Bill provides that the prescribed Revenue-officer shall, on the application of either landlord or tenant, determine what portion of a lump sum rent is represented by the land-revenue and rates and cesses. The provision is necessary to enable a landlord to ascertain whether he is entitled to enhancement of rent, and a tenant with a right of occupancy to ascertain whether he is entitled to reduction of rent.

18. Section 13 corresponds with section 10 of the present Act. Power to vary dates for all purposes is taken under section 50 of the Bill.

19. Section 14 of the Bill is drafted to meet the case of rents taken by division of crop (batái) or cash produce-rates (zabti). Such rents cannot be subjected to the general law of enhancement and reduction, and accordingly special provision has been made regarding them in sections 14 and 16 of the Bill. Proviso (b) to section 14, and the corresponding portion of section 16, provide for cases in which rents are taken partly in kind and partly in cash, the payment in cash representing the amount of the land-revenue and rates and cesses, or a proportion of that amount.

20. Section 15 of the Bill corresponds with section 11 of the Act. The modifications made are important and constitute one of the chief features of the Bill. It has been found that it is practically impossible to work the provisions of the second and third grounds of enhancement under section 11 of the Act owing to the uncertainty inseparable from the use of such terms as "the same class of tenants," and the like; and the conclusions which have been arrived at by the Courts in deciding cases on those grounds have been very various. It is most desirable that the principles on which the enhancement or reduction of rent can be claimed should be clearly known and capable of easy application. Accordingly, it has been provided in sections 15 to 17 of the Bill that the enhancement and reduction of the rent of tenants having a right of occupancy shall be fixed with reference to the land-revenue of the tenancy, and the maximum scale proposed with reference to each class of tenants having a right of occupancy has been so graduated as to correspond generally with the existing scale under the third ground of section 11 of the Act. The Revenue-officer, it will be observed, may grant enhancement up to the full amount allowed, but is not obliged to do so.

21. Sections 12 and 13 of the Act are omitted, as they are separately provided for in the Bill. Section 12 is incorporated in section 15 of the Bill; and section 13, which, except in the case of a re-settlement, protects a tenant against whom a decree for enhancement has been passed against any further suit for enhancement for a period of five years, seems unnecessary for the reasons given in paragraph 16 above.

22. Section 16 of the Bill is the correlative of section 14, and section 17 is the correlative of section 15. Of the two new clauses which have been added to section 14 of the Act by section 17 of the Bill, the first (relating to the third ground for reduction) is obviously needed, and the second (relating to the fourth ground) has been provided to meet cases in which rents have admittedly been severely enhanced of late years. A period of six years will, it is believed, cover most of the cases of this kind, and the clause will allow of the application of a remedy in them. It is proposed, in the case of reduction of rent in these cases, that the Revenue-officer shall not reduce the rent below the maximum allowed by section 15 of the Bill.

23. Section 19 of the Bill, which empowers Revenue-officers directing a suspension or remission of the land-revenue to direct a similar suspension or remission of rent, has been inserted with reference to principles laid down by the Government of India and approved by the Secretary of State.

24. Sections 20 to 22 of the Bill correspond with sections 17 and 18 of the Act, and provide for settlement of differences arising in cases in which rent is taken by division of the produce or by estimate or appraisement of the crop.

CHAPTER IV.—RELINQUISHMENT AND EJECTMENT.

25. Chapter IV has been re-drafted with a view of clearly distinguishing between ejectment in the case of occupancy-tenants and ejectment in the case of tenants not having a right of occupancy. The procedure in both cases has been made as simple and complete as possible.

26. Ejectments are only to be made in execution of an order of a Revenue-officer (section 24), who in the case of tenants having a right of occupancy may temper the severity of the law in cases in which it appears to him to be equitable to do so.

27. Clause (2) under section 19 of the present Act has been omitted from the Bill. The power of ejectment given by this clause will shortly cease to be effective, as the thirty years of continuous occupation which make it nugatory will, in most cases, have run out already or before very long. The power given is extremely arbitrary, has hardly ever been made use of, and is not, it is believed, supported in any way by provincial custom. It has therefore been determined to omit it from the Bill.

28. Sections 29 and 30 of the Bill reproduce respectively sections 22-25 of the Act of 1868 and what is believed to be the intendment of the latter portion of section 21 of that Act.

CHAPTER V.—ALIENATION OF, AND SUCCESSION TO, RIGHT OF OCCUPANCY.

29. Section 34 of the Bill has been so framed as to remove doubts as to the exact meaning of the term "alienation," and to make it clear that the landlord's right of pre-emption is to exist in the case not only of mortgages and gifts but of sub-leases for long periods in consideration of a fine or premium. It also provides means for settling disputes as to the value of the tenancy when the right of pre-emption is claimed. It has not been thought necessary to retain the provision of the present law which enables tenants of other classes to alienate the land in their occupation with the landlord's consent. If the landlord does not object to the alienation, no statutory permission seems requisite.

30. Section 36 of the Bill is drafted with a view to the protection of the interests of a tenant having a right of occupancy who makes an invalid alienation of his right. Inasmuch, however, as the landlord is put to trouble and expense in proving an alienation to be invalid, it is considered fair that he should be allowed to purchase the occupancy-right which was improperly alienated should he desire to do so.

31. In section 37 of the Bill it is proposed to substitute the ordinary law of succession to land for the somewhat artificial rule for the devolution of a right of occupancy laid down in section 36 of the present Act. It is believed that the change made will be found to be in consonance with the general views of tenants and landlords on the subject, at all events as far as the grant of a life-interest to the widow of a deceased tenant having a right of occupancy is concerned. Whether the alteration is right in other respects is a point to which attention is specially invited. It may be that custom does not lay down the same rule for the devolution of both tenancies and lands, and evidence bearing on the matter will receive careful consideration. It will be observed that by section 38 of the Bill the provisions of the Punjab Laws Act regarding personal law and local custom are saved in this matter.

CHAPTER VI.—COMPENSATION.

32. The provisions of the Bill regarding compensation for improvements do not require any lengthy notice. They are modelled upon the provisions of the Tenancy Act of the Central Provinces and are in no way inconsistent with the spirit of the present Act. The provisions of section 46 have been inserted in accordance with the views advanced by the Famine Commissioners and approved by the Government of India and Secretary of State. As the Act is now drafted, a tenant will be entitled to compensation whether the improvement for which compensation is due to him on ejectment was made by himself or his predecessor (section 3 (d)).

33. Section 47 of the Bill is intended to afford some measure of protection to tenants-at-will who have cleared and broken up land. There is a strong feeling among tenants and landlords that cultivators of this class are entitled to special consideration.

34. Sections 41 and 48 provide that in cases in which compensation is due to a tenant for improvements or disturbance, it shall be paid to him before he is ejected, and that an omission on the part of the Revenue-officer to fix compensation before that event may be rectified at any time within one year (section 49). These provisions are very necessary in fairness to tenants.

CHAPTER VII.—SUPPLEMENTAL PROVISIONS.

35. This chapter gives the Local Government authority to alter the dates for the commencement of the agricultural year and for relinquishments and ejectments; and provides that the Financial Commissioner may make rules for determining for the purposes of the Bill the amount of the land-revenue of any land.

(2) It extends to the territories for the time being administered by the Lieutenant-Governor of the Punjab and its Dependencies; and Definitions.

3. In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context,—

[New. Cf. Act IX, 1883, s. 3 (1).] (a) "land" means land which is let or occupied for agricultural purposes or for purposes subservient to agriculture, and includes the sites of buildings appurtenant to such land:

[New. Cf. Act IX, 1883, s. 3 (2).] (b) "tenant" means a person who holds land of another person, and is, or, but for a special contract, would be, liable to pay rent for that land to that other person. But it does not include an inferior landowner, or a farmer or mortgagee of the rights of a landowner, or a person who takes a lease of unoccupied land for the purpose of subletting it:

[New. Cf. Act IX, 1883, s. 3 (3).] (c) "landlord" means the person of whom a tenant holds land, and to whom the tenant is, or, but for a special contract, would be, liable to pay rent for that land:

[New.] (d) "tenant" and "landlord" include the predecessors and representatives in interest of a tenant and landlord respectively:

[New. Cf. Act XI, 1883, s. 3 (4).] (e) "rent" means whatever is payable, deliverable or renderable in money, kind or service by a tenant on account of the use or occupation of land held by him;

[New. Cf. Act IX, 1883, s. 3 (5).] (f) "pay," "payable" and "payment," used with reference to rent, include "deliver," "deliverable" and "delivery," and "render," "renderable" and "rendering":

[Act XXVIII, 1868, s. 3.] (g) "arrear of rent" means rent which remains unpaid after the date on which it becomes payable:

[New. Cf. Act IX, 1883, s. 3 (7).] (h) "tenancy" means a parcel of land held by a tenant of a landlord under one lease or one set of conditions:

(i) "land-revenue" means—

[Cf. Act XI, 1884, s. 3 (4).] (1) the land-revenue for the time being assessed on land, whether the assessment is leviable or not; or

The Punjab Tenancy Bill.
(Chapter II.—Right of Occupancy.—Sections 4-5.)

(2) where the land-revenue has been permanently assessed, or has been wholly or in part compounded for or redeemed, the amount which, but for the permanent assessment, composition or redemption, would have been leviable; or

(3) where no land-revenue has been assessed on land, the amount which would have been assessed thereon if the rate sanctioned for like land in the same village or in adjacent villages had been applied;

and includes any rate imposed in respect of the increased value of land due to canal-irrigation, unless, where the land is assessed, that increased value has been taken into account in the assessment:

[New. XX of 1883.] (j) "rates and cesses" mean the local rate payable under the Punjab District Boards Act, 1883, the zaildári, lambardári and patwári cesses, and any other rates and cesses of which the levy has been generally or specially authorised by the Local Government:

[New.] (k) "Revenue-officer" and "Revenue Court" have the meanings respectively assigned to those expressions in the Punjab Land-revenue Act, 1886:

[Act IX, 1883 s. 3 (9).] (l) "prescribed Revenue-officer," in any provision of this Act, means such Revenue-officer as the Local Government may, by notification in the official Gazette, direct by name or by virtue of his office to discharge the functions of a Revenue-officer under that provision:

[New. Cf. Act IX, 1883, s. 3 (8).] (m) "improvement" means, with reference to a tenancy, any work which is suitable to the tenancy and consistent with the conditions on which it is held, by which the letting value of the tenancy has been and continues to be increased, and which, if not executed on the tenancy, is either executed directly for its benefit, or is, after execution, made directly beneficial to it;

Explanation I.—It includes—

[Act XXVIII, 1868, s. 38.] (1) the construction of works for the storage of water, for the supply of water for agricultural purposes, for drainage, and for protection against floods;

(2) the construction of wells, the reclaiming, enclosing, levelling and terracing of land for agricultural purposes, and other works of a like nature;

(3) the erection of buildings in connection with the land for the more convenient or profitable cultivation thereof; and

(4) the renewal or re-construction of any of the foregoing works, or such alterations therein or additions thereto as are not required for maintaining the same and as durably increase their value;

[Cf. Bom. Act V, 1879, s. 170.] But it does not include any benefit accruing to land from the ordinary operations of husbandry;

Explanation II.—A work which benefits several tenancies may be deemed to be, with respect to each of them, an improvement;

Explanation III.—A work executed by a tenant is not an improvement if it substantially diminishes the value of any other part of his landlord's property:

[Act XXVIII, 1868, s. 3, amended.] (n) "grandfather" includes the father of an adoptive father, the adoptive father of a father and the adoptive father of an adoptive father; "uncle" includes the brother of an adoptive father; and "grand-uncle" includes the adoptive father of an uncle: and

[New.] (o) jágírdár includes the holder of any revenue-free land.

CHAPTER II.

[Act XXVIII, 1868, s. 5 (2).] (b) who has before or after the commencement of this Act continuously occupied land of which he was landowner and of which he ceased to be landowner otherwise than by forfeiture to Government or by any voluntary act, or

[Act XXVIII, 1868, s. 5 (3).] (c) who, before the twenty-first day of October, 1868, settled in a village along with the founders thereof as a cultivator of the land occupied by him, and who, since so settling there, has before or after the commencement of this Act continuously occupied that land, or

[Act XXVIII, 1868, s. 5 (4).] (d) who is, or has before or after the commencement of this Act been, jágírdár of the village or any part of the village in which the land occupied by him is situate, and who—

(i) being such jágírdár, has before or after the commencement of this Act continuously occupied the land for not less than twenty years, or

(ii) having been such jágírdár, occupied the land while he was jágírdár and has before or after the commencement of this Act continuously occupied it for not less than twenty years, shall be deemed to have a right of occupancy in the land so occupied.

[New.] (2) If a tenant proves that he has before or after the commencement of this Act continuously occupied land for thirty years and paid no rent therefor beyond the amount of the land-revenue thereof and the rates and cesses for the time being chargeable thereon, he shall be presumed to have fulfilled the conditions of clause (a) of sub-section (1).

[New.] (3) If a tenant occupied land in a village in 1838, he shall, for the purposes of clause (c) of sub-section (1), be presumed to have settled there along with the founders of the village.

5. A tenant whose name is entered in a record-of-rights sanctioned by the [illegible] Local Government before the twenty-first day of October, 1868, as of a tenant having a right of occupancy in land which he has continuously occupied from the time of the preparation of that record, shall be deemed to have and to have had a right of occupancy in that land unless the landlord proves in a suit—

(a) that within the thirty years immediately preceding the institution of the suit other tenants of the same class in the same village, or in adjacent villages, have ordinarily been ejected at the will of the landlord; or

(b) that before the twenty-first day of October, 1868, the tenant, in the presence of an officer authorized to attest entries in the record-of-rights,

The Punjab Tenancy Bill.
(Chapter III.—Rent.—Sections 6-15.)

voluntarily admitted himself to be a tenant not having a right of occupancy, and that the admission was recorded at the time by that officer.

[Act XXVIII, 1868, s. 7.]

6. If the tenant has voluntarily exchanged the land, or any portion of the land, formerly occupied by him, for other land belonging to the same landlord, the land taken in exchange shall, for the purposes of this Act, be held to be subject to the same right of occupancy as that to which the land given in exchange would have been subject if the exchange had not taken place.

Right of occupancy in land taken in exchange.

[Act XXVIII, 1868, s. 8.]

7. Nothing in the foregoing sections of this Chapter shall preclude any person claiming a right of occupancy on any ground other than the grounds specified in those sections from suing to establish the right.

Establishment of right of occupancy on grounds other than those expressly stated in Act.

[Act XXVIII, 1868, s. 9.]

8. No tenant shall acquire a right of occupancy by mere lapse of time.

Right of occupancy not to be acquired by mere lapse of time.

[Act XXVIII, 1868, s. 9, amended.]

9. In the absence of a custom to the contrary, no one of several joint owners of land shall acquire a right of occupancy in the land jointly owned by them.

Right of occupancy not to be acquired by joint owner in land held in joint ownership.

CHAPTER III.

RENT.

Revision of Rents.

[New.]

10. (1) At any time while a local area is being assessed, and before the assessment has been confirmed, the prescribed Revenue-officer, of his own motion or on the application of either landlord or tenant, may, subject to the other provisions of this Chapter, revise the rent of any tenant having a right of occupancy in land situate in that local area.

Procedure for revision of rents of occupancy-tenants.

(2) At any other time the prescribed Revenue-officer, on the application of either landlord or tenant, may, subject to those provisions, revise the rent of any tenant having a right of occupancy.

Conversion of Rents.

[Act XXVIII, 1868, s. 16.]

11. (1) In the case of a tenant having a right of occupancy or holding under an unexpired lease, rent in kind shall not be commuted into rent in money, or rent in money into rent in kind, without the consent of both the landlord and the tenant.

Commutation of rent.

(2) With their consent the commutation may be made by the prescribed Revenue-officer on application made to him for that purpose by either of them.

[New.]

12. When the rent payable by a tenant having a right of occupancy is fixed at a lump sum without relation to the land-revenue of his tenancy and the rates and cesses chargeable thereon, the prescribed Revenue-officer shall, on the application of either the landlord or the tenant, determine what portion of the rent is represented by the land-revenue and rates and cesses.

Conversion of lump cash-rents.

Enhancement.

13. (1) An enhancement of rent shall not take effect before the commencement of the agricultural year next following the date of the agreement or order under which it is payable.

[Act XXVIII, 1868, s. 10.]

Date of effect of enhancement of rent.

(2) The agricultural year shall for the purposes of this section commence on the sixteenth day of June.

[New.]

14. Where the rent of a tenant having a right of occupancy in any land is a share of the produce, or of the appraised value thereof, with or without an addition in cash, or is paid according to cash-rates fixed with reference to the nature of the crops grown, the tenant shall be entitled to occupy the land at the share or rates hitherto paid by him:

[New.]

Rents of occupancy-tenants which are ordinarily not liable to enhancement.

Provided that—

(a) when the land or any part thereof previously not irrigated or flooded becomes irrigated or flooded, the share or rates payable in respect of the land or part may, subject to the provisions of this Act, be enhanced to the share or rates paid by tenants having a right of occupancy for irrigated or flooded land of a similar description and with similar advantages in the same neighbourhood; and,

[See section 42 of this Bill.]

b) where, in the case of rent consisting of a share of the produce, or of the appraised value thereof, with an addition in cash, that addition is the amount of the land-revenue and rates and cesses, or a proportion thereof, it may, on an enhancement of that amount, be enhanced—

(i) if the addition was the full amount, then to the enhanced amount of the land-revenue and rates and cesses, and

(i) if the addition was a proportion of the amount, then to the same proportion of the enhanced amount.

15. (1) The rent payable by a tenant having a right of occupancy, to whom the last foregoing section does not apply, may be enhanced on the ground that the rent paid by him in respect of his tenancy, after deducting the amount of the land-revenue thereof and the rates and cesses chargeable thereon, is—

[Act XXVIII, 1868, s. 10.]

Ground and limitation of enhancement of rents of occupancy-tenants which are ordinarily liable to enhancement.

(a) if he belongs to the class specified in clause (a) of sub-section (1) of section 4, less than two annas per rupee of the amount of the land-revenue;

[Act XXVIII, 1868, ss. 11 and 12.]

(b) if he belongs to any of the classes specified in clauses (a), (b) and (c) of that sub-section, less than four annas per rupee of the amount of the land-revenue;

(c) if he does not belong to any of the classes specified in that sub-section, less than eight annas per rupee of the amount of the land-revenue.

(2) In a case to which sub-section (1) of this section applies, the rent may be enhanced to an amount not exceeding two, four or eight annas per rupee of the amount of the land-revenue, as the case may be, in addition to the amount of the land-revenue and rates and cesses.

The Punjab Tenancy Bill.
(Chapter III.—Rent.—Sections 16-21.)

Reduction.

[New.]

16. (1) When the land, or any part of the land, held by a tenant having a right of occupancy to whom section 14 applies ceases to be irrigated or flooded, the share or rates payable in respect of the land or part may be reduced to the share or rates paid by tenants having a right of occupancy for unirrigated or unflooded land of a similar description and with similar advantages in the same neighbourhood.

Grounds and limitation of reduction of rents described in section 14.

(2) Where the rent of a tenant having a right of occupancy is a share of the produce, or of the appraised value thereof, with an addition in cash, and that addition is the amount of the land-revenue and rates and cesses, or a proportion thereof, the addition may, on a reduction of that amount, be reduced—

(i) if it was the full amount, then to the reduced amount of the land-revenue and rates and cesses; and

(ii) if it was a proportion of the amount, then to the same proportion of the reduced amount.

[Act XXVIII, 1868, s. 14.]

17. (1) The rent payable by a tenant having a right of occupancy, to whom section 14 does not apply, may be reduced on any of the following grounds, and on no others, namely:—

Grounds and limitation of reduction of other rents.

first—that the area of the land held by him has been diminished or has been proved to be less than the area for which rent has been previously paid by him;

second—that the productive powers of that land have been decreased by any cause beyond his control;

[New.]

third—that the rent of the land is regulated by the amount of the land-revenue thereof and that the land-revenue has been reduced;

[New.]

fourth—that within the six years immediately preceding the passing of this Act the rent has been raised above the maximum allowed by section 15.

(2) In a case to which sub-section (1) of this section applies, the rent shall be reduced to the amount which the Revenue-officer considers fair and equitable:

Provided that—

[New.]

(a) where the reduction is made on the third ground, it shall be in proportion to the reduction in the land-revenue of the land;

(b) where the reduction is made on the fourth ground, the rent shall not be reduced below the maximum allowed by section 15; and

[New.]

(c) a reduction shall not be made in any case if its effect would be to make the rent of the land less than the amount of the land-revenue thereof and the rates and cesses chargeable thereon.

Remission.

[Act XXVIII, 1868, s. 15.]

18. Notwithstanding anything contained in the foregoing sections of this Chapter, if it appears to a Court making a decree for an arrear of rent that the area of a tenancy has been so diminished by diluvion or otherwise, or that the produce thereof has been so diminished by drought, hail, deposit of sand, or other like calamity, that the full amount of rent payable by him cannot be equitably decreed, the Court may allow such remission from the rent payable by him as may appear to it to be just.

Remission of rent by Courts decreeing arrears.

19. (1) Whenever for any cause the payment of the whole or any part of the land-revenue payable in respect of any land is remitted or for any period suspended, the prescribed Revenue-officer may by order remit or for that period suspend, as the case may be, the payment of the rent of that land to an amount which may bear the same proportion to the whole of the rent payable in respect of the land as the land-revenue of which the payment has been remitted or suspended bears to the whole of the land-revenue payable in respect of the land.

Remission and suspension of rent consequent on like treatment of land-revenue.

(2) An order passed under sub-section (1) shall not be liable to be contested by suit in any Court.

(3) A suit shall not lie for the recovery of any rent of which the payment has been remitted, or during the period of suspension for any rent of which the payment has been suspended.

[Cf. Act XIV, 1882, s. 325A.]

(4) Where the payment of rent has been suspended for any period, that period shall be excluded in the computation of the period of limitation prescribed for a suit for the recovery of the rent.

(5) If the landlord collects any rent of which the payment has been remitted, or before the expiration of the period of suspension collects any rent of which the payment has been suspended, the whole of the land-revenue remitted or suspended in his favour shall become immediately payable by him.

[New.]

(6) The provisions of this section relating to the remission or suspension of the payment of rent may be applied, so far as they can be made applicable, to land held free of revenue, in any case in which, if the land had been revenue-paying, the payment of the whole or any part of the land-revenue thereof might, in the opinion of the prescribed Revenue-officer, have been remitted or suspended under the rules for the time being in force for regulating the remission and suspension of land-revenue.

Division of Produce and Appraisement of Crops.

20. When rent is taken by division of the produce, or by estimate or appraisement of the crop, if either the landlord or the tenant neglects to attend, either personally or by agent, at the proper time for making the division, estimate or appraisement, or if there is a dispute about the division of the produce or the quantity or value of the crop, the prescribed Revenue-officer may, on the application of either party, appoint such person as he thinks fit to be a referee to divide the produce or estimate or appraise the crop.

Appointment of referee for division or appraisement.

[New. Cf. Act XXVIII, 1868, s. 18, and Act IX, 1883, s. 26.]

21. (1) When the Revenue-officer appoints a referee under the last foregoing section, he may in his discretion authorise the referee to associate with himself any other persons as assessors, and may give him instructions regarding the number, qualifications and mode of selecting those assessors (if any) and the procedure

Appointment of assessors.

The Punjab Tenancy Bill.
(Chapter IV.—Relinquishment and Ejectment.—Sections 22-28.)

to be followed in making the division, estimate or appraisement.

(2) The referee so appointed shall make the division, estimate or appraisement in accordance with those instructions.

(3) For the purpose of exercising the powers conferred upon him, the referee, with his assessors (if any), may enter upon or into any land or building on or in which the crop is standing or the produce is lying.

[New. Cf. Act IX, 1883, s. 28.]

Procedure after division or appraisement.

22. (1) The result of the division, estimate or appraisement shall be recorded and signed by the referee, and the record shall be submitted to the Revenue-officer.

(2) The Revenue-officer shall consider the record, and after such further inquiry (if any) as he may think necessary shall make an order either confirming or varying the division, estimate or appraisement.

(3) The rent shall be payable in accordance with that order.

(4) The Revenue-officer shall also make such order as to the costs of the reference as he thinks fit.

(5) The costs may include the remuneration of the referee and of the assessors (if any), and may be levied from the applicant before the appointment of the referee subject to adjustment at the close of the proceedings.

CHAPTER IV.

RELINQUISHMENT AND EJECTMENT.

Relinquishment.

[Act XXVIII, 1868, ss. 28, 30 & 31.]

Relinquishment by tenant.

23. (1) A tenant may relinquish his tenancy by giving verbally or in writing to his landlord or to his landlord's agent, on or before the fifteenth day of January in any year, notice of his intention to relinquish the tenancy.

(2) If the landlord or his agent refuses to receive the notice, or if he receives it but refuses to sign and deliver a receipt for it, the tenant may apply to the prescribed Revenue-officer on or before the date aforesaid to cause the notice to be served on the landlord; and the Revenue-officer, on receiving the cost of service from the tenant, shall cause the notice to be served as soon as may be.

(3) If the tenant does not give notice in the manner prescribed in this section, he shall be liable to pay the rent of his tenancy for any part of the ensuing agricultural year during which the tenancy is not let by the landlord to some other person or is not cultivated by the landlord himself.

Ejectment.

[New.]

Mode and time of ejectment.

24. (1) A tenant shall not be ejected otherwise than in execution of an order of the prescribed Revenue-officer.

[Cf. Act XXVIII, 1868, s. 21.]

(2) Save as otherwise expressly provided by this Act, an order of the Revenue-officer for the ejectment of a tenant shall not be executed at any other time than between the first day of May and the fifteenth day of June.

[Act XXVIII, 1868, s. 27.]

Provision with respect to crops uncut at time of order for ejectment.

25. (1) Where at the time of the order for the ejectment of a tenant from any land his uncut crops are standing thereon, he shall not be ejected from the land until the crops have ripened and he has been allowed a reasonable time to harvest them.

(2) For the use of the land occupied by the crops he shall pay such rent as may be agreed on between him and the landlord, or as, in default of such agreement, may, on the application of either landlord or tenant, be determined by the prescribed Revenue-officer.

[Cf. Act XII, 1881, s. 42.]

(3) Where the rent is determined by an order of the prescribed Revenue-officer, the order may be executed by him in the same manner as a decree for money may be executed by a Revenue Court.

[New.]

Conditions on which order may be made for ejectment of an occupancy-tenant.

26. A Revenue-officer may make an order for the ejectment of a tenant from land in which he has a right of occupancy if—

(a) a decree has been made for the ejectment of the tenant from the land either on the ground that he has used the land in a manner inconsistent with the conditions on which he holds it or on the ground that he has omitted to use the land in the manner required by those conditions; or

(b) a decree has been made against the tenant for an arrear of rent due in respect of the land, and the decree remains unsatisfied at the time when an application for his ejectment is made in manner hereinafter provided.

[See section 28 of this Bill.]

[New.]

Procedure for ejectment of an occupancy-tenant against whom decree has been made for misuse of land.

27. (1) When a decree has been made for the ejectment of a tenant having a right of occupancy on either of the grounds mentioned in clause (a) of the last foregoing section, the decree-holder may apply to the prescribed Revenue-officer for an order for the ejectment of the tenant in execution of the decree.

(2) If it appears to the Revenue-officer that the injury caused by the act or omission in consequence of which the decree was made is capable of being remedied, or that an award of compensation will be sufficient satisfaction to the landlord therefor, he may, instead of making an order for the ejectment of the tenant, order him to remedy the injury within one month from the date of the order, or order him to pay to the Revenue-officer, within a time to be specified in the order, such compensation as the Revenue-officer thinks fit.

(3) If the injury is so remedied or the compensation so paid, an order for the ejectment of the tenant in execution of the decree shall not be made.

[Act XII, 1881, s. 35.]

Procedure for ejectment of an occupancy-tenant against whom decree has been made for arrear of rent.

28. (1) If a landlord desires to eject a tenant having a right of occupancy in land against whom a decree for an arrear of rent due in respect of the land has been made and remains unsatisfied, he may apply to the prescribed Revenue-officer for an order for the ejectment of the tenant.

(2) The Revenue-officer shall, on receiving the application, cause a notice to be served on the tenant, stating the date of the decree and the amount due thereunder, and informing him that if he does not pay that amount to the Revenue-officer within fifteen days from receipt of the notice he will be ejected from the land.

The Punjab Tenancy Bill.
(Chapter V.—Alienation of, and Succession to, Right of Occupancy.—Sections 29-36.)

(3) If the amount is so paid within that period of fifteen days, an order for the ejectment of the tenant shall not be made.

[Act VIII, 1885, s. 66.]

(4) The Revenue-officer may for special reasons extend the period of fifteen days mentioned in this section.

[Act XXVIII, 1868, ss. 22 et seq.]

Procedure for ejectment of tenant not having right of occupancy.

29. (1) If a landlord desires to eject a tenant not having a right of occupancy, he may apply to the prescribed Revenue-officer on or before the fifteenth day of January to cause a notice of ejectment to be served on the tenant.

(2) The landlord shall pay the cost of service, and the Revenue-officer shall cause the notice to be served as soon as may be.

(3) The notice shall specify the name of the landlord on whose application it is issued and the land to which it relates, and shall inform the tenant that if he means to contest his liability to ejectment he must institute a suit for that purpose within two months from the date of the service of the notice.

(4) If within two months from that date the tenant does not institute a suit to contest his liability to ejectment, or if, having instituted a suit for that purpose within that period, he fails in the suit, the prescribed Revenue-officer shall, on the application of the landlord, eject him from the land.

Ejectment of tenant not having right of occupancy for failure to cultivate land.

30. If a tenant not having a right of occupancy whose rent is payable in kind or whose rent is in arrear fails to cultivate the land which he holds in accordance with the conditions on which he holds it, he may, on the application of the landlord to the prescribed Revenue-officer, be ejected from the land by order of that officer at any time of the year.

Relief for wrongful dispossession.

[Act XXVIII, 1868, s. 21, and Act XII, 1881, s. 95, cls. (m) and (n).]

31. A tenant who has been dispossessed without his consent of his tenancy or any part thereof otherwise than in execution of an order of the prescribed Revenue-officer may, in a suit under section 9 of the Specific Relief Act, 1877, for recovery of possession of the tenancy or part, or in a separate suit, claim compensation for wrongful dispossession.

I of 1877.

Relief for wrongful ejectment under section 30 of a tenant having a right of occupancy.

32. A tenant who has been ejected in execution of an order of a Revenue-officer under section 30 of this Act may, if he denies his liability to be ejected on the ground of his having a right of occupancy, institute a suit for recovery of the occupancy of the land or for compensation for wrongful dispossession, or for both.

CHAPTER V.

ALIENATION OF, AND SUCCESSION TO, RIGHT OF OCCUPANCY.

Alienation.

[Act IX, 1883, s. 43 (2).]

Right of occupancy not transferable in execution of decree.

33. A right of occupancy shall not be attached or sold in execution of a decree or order of any Court.

[Act XXVIII, 1868, ss. 32 and 34, and Act IX, 1883, s. 38.]

Right of transfer by sale, gift, mortgage or sub-lease.

34. (1) A tenant having a right of occupancy may transfer that right by sale, gift, mortgage or sub-lease, subject to the conditions contained in this section.

(2) If he intends to transfer the right by sale, gift or mortgage, or by sub-letting it in consideration of a fine or premium exceeding seven times the annual rent of the land in which the right subsists, he shall give to his landlord a written notice of his intention, and shall defer proceeding with the transfer for a period of one month from the date on which the notice is given.

(3) Within the said period of one month the landlord may claim to purchase the right at such value as the prescribed Revenue-officer may, on application made to him in this behalf, fix.

(4) When the application to the Revenue-officer is to fix the value of a right of occupancy which is already mortgaged, he shall fix the value of the right as if it were not mortgaged.

(5) The landlord shall be deemed to have purchased the right if he pays the value to the Revenue-officer within such time as that officer may appoint.

(6) On the value being so paid, the Revenue-officer shall, on the application of the landlord, make an order for the ejectment of the tenant or other person in occupation of the land subject to the right.

(7) If the right of occupancy was already mortgaged, the mortgage-debt shall be a charge in exoneration of the land on the value paid by the landlord.

(8) Any transfer made in contravention of this section shall be void.

[Act XXVIII, 1868, s. 32.]

Rights and liabilities of tenant's transferee.

35. (1) When a tenant has transferred a right of occupancy by sale or gift, or by mortgage with possession, to a person other than the landlord, that person shall, in respect of the land in which the right subsists, have the same rights, and be subject to the same liabilities, as the tenant who made the transfer had and was subject to.

(2) A person to whom land is sub-let by a tenant having a right of occupancy therein shall, in respect of that land, and so far as regards the landlord, be, jointly with the tenant, subject to all the liabilities of the tenant under this Act.

36. (1) In a suit by a landlord to set aside a transfer by a tenant of a right of occupancy by sale, gift, mortgage or sub-lease, the tenant shall be joined as a defendant.

(2) If the Court sets aside the transfer, it shall fix the value of the right of occupancy, and specify a time within which, by payment of that value into Court, the landlord may become purchaser of the right.

(3) If the right of occupancy is already mortgaged, the Court shall fix the value of it as if it were not mortgaged.

(4) If within the time specified the landlord pays into Court the value fixed by the Court, the prescribed Revenue-officer shall, on the application of the landlord, make an order for the ejectment of the tenant or other person in occupation of the land subject to the right.

The Punjab Tenancy Bill.
(Chapter VI.—Compensation.—Sections 37-46.)

(5) If the right was already mortgaged, the mortgage-debt shall be a charge in exoneration of the land on the value paid by the landlord.

(6) If the landlord fails to pay the value into Court within the time specified, the rights and liabilities of the tenant shall continue, and the Court, if it thinks fit, may make a decree against the tenant in favour of the person to whom the transfer purported to be made for the sum paid by that person as consideration for the transfer.

Succession.

[Act XXVIII, 1868, s. 36.]

Succession to right of occupancy.

37. (1) When a tenant having a right of occupancy dies, the right shall devolve as if it were land.

Saving of Personal Law and Local Custom.

[New.]

Saving of personal law and local custom of alienation and succession.

38. Nothing in this Chapter shall be construed to affect the provisions of sections 5 and 7 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, in any case in which the personal law or local custom applicable to a tenant having a right of occupancy confers on him a larger power of transfer than is conferred on him by this Chapter, or prescribes a course of succession different from that prescribed by the last foregoing section.

IV of 1872.

CHAPTER VI.

Compensation for Improvements.

[Cf. Act IX, 1883, s. 29.]

Title of tenants having right of occupancy to make improvements.

39. (1) A tenant having a right of occupancy shall be entitled to make improvements on his tenancy.

(2) If a landlord desires to execute any work on the tenancy of a tenant having a right of occupancy, he may apply to the prescribed Revenue-officer for permission to execute it, and that officer, after hearing the objections, if any, of the tenant, shall grant or refuse the permission as he thinks fit.

[Cf. Act XXVIII, 1868, s. 37.]

Title of tenants not having right of occupancy to make improvements.

40. (1) A tenant not having a right of occupancy may make an improvement on his tenancy with the assent of his landlord.

(2) If at any time the question arises whether or not the landlord assented to the making of an improvement by a tenant not having a right of occupancy, the assent may be inferred from the circumstances attending the making of the improvement.

[Act IX, 1883, s. 30.]

Liability to pay to tenant on ejectment compensation for improvements.

41. (1) If a tenant is ejected from his tenancy he shall be entitled to compensation for improvements which he may have made in accordance with this Act within the twenty years immediately preceding his ejectment, and for which compensation has not already been made.

(2) Whenever a Revenue-officer makes an order for the ejectment of a tenant, he shall determine the amount of compensation (if any) due under this section to the tenant for improvements, and, notwithstanding anything contained in Chapter IV or Chapter V, shall stay the execution of the order until that amount, less any arrears of rent or costs due to the landlord from the tenant, has been paid to the Revenue-officer by the landlord.

(3) Compensation shall not be awarded under this section for an improvement made by a tenant in contravention of a written agreement between himself and the landlord, or after the institution of the suit, or the service of the notice, which resulted in the order for his ejectment.

(4) Improvements made by a tenant before this Act comes into force shall be deemed to have been made in accordance with this Act, unless, in the case of a tenant not having a right of occupancy, it is shown that the landlord forbade the tenant to make the improvement.

[New.]

Improvements not to be a ground for enhancement of rent.

42. In proceedings for the enhancement of the rent of a tenant having a right of occupancy, increase in the value of the produce of his tenancy, or in the productive powers thereof, resulting from any improvement made by him within the twenty years immediately preceding the institution of the proceedings, shall not be taken into consideration as a ground for enhancing the rent.

[Act IX, 1883, s. 31.]

Matters to be regarded in assessment of compensation for improvements.

43. In estimating the compensation to be awarded under section 41 for an improvement, the Revenue-officer shall have regard to—

(a) the amount by which the letting value of the tenancy is increased by the improvement;

[New.]

(b) the labour and capital expended by the tenant in making the improvement and the return received by him therefrom; and

(c) any reduction or remission of rent or other advantage given to the tenant by the landlord in consideration of the improvement.

[Act XXVIII, 1868, s. 39.]

Form of compensation.

44. The compensation shall be made by payment in money, unless the parties agree that it be made in whole or in part by the grant of a beneficial lease of land or in some other way.

[Act XXVIII, 1868, s. 41.]

Tender of lease for twenty years to tenant not having right of occupancy to be a bar to right to compensation.

45. If a landlord tenders to a tenant not having a right of occupancy a lease of his tenancy for a term of not less than twenty years from the date of the tender, at the rent then paid by the tenant, or at such other rent as may be agreed upon, the tender, if accepted by the tenant, shall bar any claim by him in respect of improvements previously made by him on the tenancy.

[Act IX, 1883, s. 32.]

Avoidance of provisions in records-of-rights barring right to make, or be compensated for, improvements.

46. (1) An entry in the record-of-rights of any village providing—

(a) that a landlord may prevent a tenant from making, or eject him for making, such improvements on his tenancy as he is entitled to make under this Act, or (b) that a tenant ejected from his tenancy shall not be entitled to compensation for improvements in any case in which he would under this Act be entitled to compensation for them, shall be void.

(2) A Revenue-officer shall not record in a record-of-rights or elsewhere an agreement containing any such provision as is mentioned in sub-section (1).

Compensation for Disturbance of reclaiming or clearing Tenants.

[New.]

Compensation for disturbance of reclaiming or clearing tenants.

47. (1) Any tenant, whether he has a right of occupancy or not, who has reclaimed, cleared or brought under cultivation waste land, shall, if ejected from that land, be entitled to receive from the landlord as compensation for disturbance, and in addition to any compensation for improvements, a sum calculated at the annual rent of the land from which the tenant is ejected for every year during which he has occupied that land, subject to a maximum limit of five years' rent:

Provided that if the tenant, being a tenant having a right of occupancy, is ejected on application under section 28, or, being a tenant not having a right of occupancy, is ejected on application under section 29 at a time when a decree against him for an arrear of rent due in respect of the land has remained unsatisfied for a longer period than three months, he shall not be entitled to compensation under this section.

(2) If rent has been paid for the land by a share of the produce, or if no rent, or no rent other than the land-revenue and rates and cesses, has been paid therefor, the compensation may be computed as if double the amount of the land-revenue of the land were the annual rent thereof.

[New.]

Compensation payable to those tenants before ejectment.

48. When an application is made for the ejectment of a tenant entitled to compensation under the last foregoing section, and the Revenue-officer to whom the application is made makes an order for the ejectment, he shall determine the amount of compensation payable to the tenant, and, notwithstanding anything contained in Chapter IV or Chapter V, shall stay the execution of the order until that amount, less any arrears of rent or costs due to the landlord from the tenant, has been paid to the Revenue-officer by the landlord.

Relief in case of ejectment before determination of Compensation.

Relief in case of ejectment before determination of compensation.

49. (1) If the Revenue-officer omits to determine under this Chapter the amount of compensation payable to a tenant for improvements or disturbance, and the tenant is ejected, the ejectment shall not be invalidated by reason of the omission, but, notwithstanding anything in the Code of Civil Procedure or any other enactment, XIV of 1882. the prescribed Revenue-officer may, on application made by the tenant within one year from the date of the ejectment, revise the proceedings to the extent necessary to correct the omission, and make in favour of the tenant an order for the payment to him by the landlord of such compensation as he may determine the tenant to be entitled to.

(2) An order made under sub-section (1) may be executed by the prescribed Revenue-officer in the same manner as a decree for money may be executed by a Revenue Court.

CHAPTER VII.

SUPPLEMENTAL PROVISIONS.

Power for Local Government to fix dates for certain purposes.

50. The Local Government may, for all or any of the territories under its administration, by order published in the official Gazette, fix for the purposes of sections 13, 23, 24 and 29, or of any of those sections, any other dates than those specified therein:

Provided that a notification under this section shall not have effect till after the expiration of six months from the date thereof.

Power for Financial Commissioner to make rules.

51. The Financial Commissioner may, from time to time, with the previous sanction of the Local Government, make rules for determining for the purposes of this Act the amount of the land-revenue of any land.

Provisions with respect to exercise of powers.

52. (1) All powers conferred by this Act on the Local Government may be exercised from time to time as occasion requires.

(2) The powers conferred by sections 50 and 51 on the Local Government and the Financial Commissioner, respectively, to issue orders and make rules, may be exercised at any time after the passing of this Act, but an order or rule so issued or made shall not take effect till the commencement of this Act.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

PROPOSALS for the amendment of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1868, have been made on various occasions during the last ten years. The first proposals for the amendment of the Act were made in 1876 by the Financial Commissioner with the general concurrence of the Judges of the Chief Court. But the Lieutenant-Governor (Sir Henry Davies), thinking it inexpedient to re-open questions of principle which had been fully discussed and decided when the Act was passed, confined himself to advocating a few minor modifications in the law. The Government of India, however, was unwilling to resort to legislation until its necessity had been further demonstrated.

2. More recently, during the revision of the settlement of two of the districts of the Province, facts have come to light which strongly suggest certain alterations of the law. Moreover, the Famine Commissioners have made numerous proposals for the improvement of the relations of landlord and tenant in Northern India, and effect has already been given to several of those proposals in the revised Rent or Tenancy Acts of other Provinces.

3. In one district—that of Sirsa—the question which arose between landlord and tenant was mainly one of title. The district was colonised some eighty years ago by immigrants from the surrounding Native States, where, while there was no limit to rent, there was no practice of eviction. Up to the commencement of the first regular settlement of 1852 each individual colonist was allowed to break up as much waste as he chose on condition of paying the customary rent and dues on his cultivation, and in practice each cultivator held the land reclaimed by him undisturbed so long as he made these payments. At this settlement, however, the proprietorship of each estate was held to belong exclusively either to (a) the leaders of the body of colonists who had settled in it, or to (b) the representatives of the persons who had received permission to found a village; and it was further declared by the Government that the ordinary cultivators, to whom right of occupancy in the lands occupied by them was at the same time given, would thenceforth have no right to break up land without the permission of these to whom proprietary rights had been granted. The result of this settlement was that the whole area of the district was declared to belong to 5,000 persons, while the remaining 25,000 cultivators were recorded as holding under them as tenants having a right of occupancy in all but about one-tenth of the area cultivated by them.

When this settlement came to be revised twenty years later, it was found that the area under cultivation had been largely extended, and that some 265,000 acres had been reclaimed by the persons who under the orders referred to were mere tenants-at-will as regards this new cultivation. If the district had remained under the Government of the North-Western Provinces, occupancy-rights might have accrued in those lands under Act X of 1859, but under the Punjab Tenancy Act no such right could be acquired. The landlords, nevertheless, fearing that rights of occupancy might be conferred on the tenants of these lands, just as those rights had been granted to the tenants of the lands broken up before the first settlement, began to issue notices of ejectment in great numbers. On the other hand, the tenants, expecting to be protected in the occupation of their newly reclaimed lands, contested more than half these notices, and further instituted a large number of suits to establish a right of occupancy. Thus, during the six years ending in October, 1880, notices of ejectment were served on the tenants of 61,500 acres, or about a sixth of the area held by tenants without right of occupancy. The Courts, however, felt themselves bound by the declaration of Government above referred to, and the result generally was that the claims of the tenants were dismissed, and the tenants were compelled either to leave their lands or to acknowledge themselves as holding at the will of the proprietors.

4. This state of things attracted the attention of the Government of India, which called for a report on the working of the Punjab Tenancy Act in this district. The report was furnished in October, 1881, when the Lieutenant-Governor (Sir R. Egerton), though holding that a law to enable Settlement-officers at settlement to fix rents for cultivators with right of occupancy would be an undoubted benefit, did not consider that the need of special legislation for the Sirsa district had been established. The Government of India, however, was not disposed to accept the opinion that the evils brought to light did not afford a sufficient case for legislation, and observed that if under this view the amendment of the Punjab Tenancy Act of the whole Province should seem to the Lieutenant-Governor to be required the magnitude of the question should not deter him from entering upon it.

5. Meanwhile there had arisen in the Hoshiarpur district questions between landlord and tenant relating to enhancement of rent. In that district there are some 44,000 holdings of occupancy-tenants paying at revenue-rates with or without a cash addition in the shape of málikána at a rate usually not exceeding one or two annas per rupee of land-revenue. These tenants, in the majority of cases, are liable under section 11 of the present Act to have their rents raised up to the rate of rent usually paid in the neighbourhood by tenants of the same class not having a right of occupancy for land of a similar description with similar advantages, less only a deduction of fifteen per cent. from this rate in recognition of their superior interest. Who are tenants of the same class is a moot point which could only be settled, case by case, after prolonged and harassing litigation. On the one hand, the landlords claimed, and sometimes obtained, severe enhancements by taking as the standard of comparison the heavy cash-rents paid on land usually cultivated by the owner, but let to men having, as landlords or occupancy-tenants, other land of their own, and willing to pay specially high rents for one or two additional fields to be cultivated with spare stock and at spare times. On the other hand, landlords have as a body hitherto been unable to obtain the reasonable enhancement of rent which by the legislation of 1868 they were led to expect. The Financial Commissioner (Mr. J. B. Lyall) and the Settlement Commissioner (Lieutenant-Colonel Wace) were so strongly impressed with the desirability of averting the impending flood of ruinous litigation that they urged, in the case of this district alone, the immediate application of the revised rules for the enhancement of rent which had been framed in consequence of the disputes between landlords and tenants in the Sirsa district.

6. Sir Charles Aitchison was unable to advocate special legislation of this kind, and preferred to proceed with the revision of the Tenancy Act for the Punjab generally. For the time being the old easy rents have been in most cases maintained, because they are in accordance with agreements entered in the old settlement-record; and it has been held by the Chief Court that these agreements remain in force until the new record-of-rights is handed over to the Deputy Commissioner of the district under a direction by Government on the report of the Financial Commissioner that the operations of the settlement are complete. No direction of this kind has yet been given as regards the record and settlement of the Hoshiarpur district. In other districts now under settlement the same difficulties will arise.

7. Before this, in accordance with the instructions of the Government of India, the Financial Commissioner had been asked to prepare a Bill to amend the Tenancy Act. A draft was framed repealing and re-enacting the law with numerous, and in some respects important, alterations. This draft was submitted to the Local Government in April, 1883. The Lieutenant-Governor, however, for reasons which were fully explained at the time, preferred to limit legislation, if undertaken at all, to minor modifications involving no very important principle, and required mainly for the purpose of removing ambiguities and correcting obvious omissions or mistakes, and affording protection to tenants whose successors in interest would have enjoyed it or who had earned a right to special consideration by breaking up waste land.

8. After considerable discussion and correspondence with the Government of India it was decided that legislation should proceed on the basis abovementioned, and that, reverting to the law and practice with respect to the rents of occupancy-tenants before the Act of 1868 was passed, such rents should be fixed at the time of settlement with reference to the land-revenue instead of by reference to the rents of tenants-at-will. The Financial Commissioner was accordingly asked to submit, after consultation with Lieutenant-Colonel Wace and other officers, a revised draft Bill, together with a full exposition of his own views. A number of opinions were collected, and the replies considered by a Committee consisting of Colonel Davies, Lieutenant-Colonel Wace and the Hon'ble Mr. D. G. Barkley. It seemed to this Committee that, if the Tenancy Act were amended at all, advantage should be taken of the opportunity to place the law relating to the tenancy of land before the people, and the Courts and officers who would have to administer it, in the most simple and complete form possible. The Committee therefore revised and re-submitted the Financial Commissioner's draft of April, 1883.

9. During the course of the past summer the Lieutenant-Governor has given to the proposals of the Committee and the whole subject of the amendment of the Tenancy Act his frequent and earnest attention; and, in personal consultation with the Financial Commissioners, has caused the draft Bill to be further revised.

10. It is only necessary to add, before enumerating particularly the changes now proposed, that it is not the intention of the Government to depart, from the leading principles of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1868—a measure which, whatever its defects, may justly be described as a judicious compromise between conflicting interests of great magnitude. The principal modifications are those which have been necessitated by the practical difficulties above explained. Briefly, the main features of the present Bill are six, namely:—

(1) the omission of the word "heretofore" from section 5, clause (1), of the Act (section 4, sub-section (1), clause (a), of the Bill);

(2) original settlers are placed in as good a position with reference to occupancy-right as successors of original settlers;

(3) the present scale fixed for the enhancement and reduction of the rents of occupancy-tenants has been adjusted with reference to the land-revenue (sections 15 to 17);

(4) power has been restored to Settlement-officers to fix the rents of occupancy-tenants at the time of the assessment of land-revenue (section 10);

(5) the provisions for the payment of compensation for improvements have been made more liberal (Chapter VI); and

(6) provision has been made for the compensation of reclaiming and clearing tenants on their ejectment from the lands which they have brought under cultivation (section 47).

11. The other alterations proposed with regard to tenants having a right of occupancy are of minor importance. All important changes made in the provisions of the existing Act which have not been already noticed will be explained in the following paragraphs.

CHAPTER I.—PRELIMINARY.

12. Section 2 of the Act of 1868 has been omitted. The second paragraph of that section does not apply to Chapter II of the Act; and, by section 46 of the present Bill, all entries in the record-of-rights which prevent tenants from making improvements, or provide that they shall not be entitled to compensation for improvements on ejectment, are declared void as being contrary to public policy. It is therefore proposed to do away with the highly artificial authority which the second paragraph of section 2 of the Act gave to entries in the records of regular settlements made before the 18th November, 1871. All the districts of which a regular settlement was made before that date will have been re-settled in the course of the next six years, and the paragraph, even if left on the statute-book, would then cease to operate. The first paragraph of the section, which provides that nothing in the Tenancy Act shall affect the operation of a decree of Court, or of an agreement in writing between a landlord and tenant, has also been removed on the ground that it is not needed. Decrees of Court cannot, of course, be affected by subsequent legislation which does not deal in express terms with their subject-matter; and agreements stand on their own merits, whether they are entered in a record-of-rights or not. The fact is, that the whole section was obviously enacted with reference to the subsided controversies of eighteen years ago. As the records framed by Mr. Prinsep in the Amritsar and other settlements were reversed by the legislation of 1868 in important matters relating to the status of tenants, it was thought convenient to explain, in express terms, to what extent they would be maintained. But the revision of records consequent on the passing of the Act of 1868 was carried out shortly afterwards, and the section under discussion has long ceased to be of any practical use.

13. The definitions contained in section 3 of the Bill are for the most part new. Several of them are based on the definitions contained in the Central Provinces Tenancy Act (IX of 1883), as will be seen from the marginal references on the Bill.

Clause (d) is of some importance, especially with regard to Chapters II and VI of the Bill.

Clause (i) is so drafted as to meet the case of the assessment of an owner's rate, water-advantage rate, or other similar rate upon canal-irrigated lands.

Clause (k) indicates that the procedure by which Revenue Courts and Revenue-officers acting under the Punjab Tenancy Act will be guided is that laid down for the guidance of Revenue Courts and Revenue-officers by the Land-revenue Bill which it is proposed to introduce at an early date with a view to its being passed simultaneously with this Bill. A clause in the Land-revenue Bill will remove the necessity of section 42 of the present Tenancy Act.

In clause (m) the definition of "improvement" contained in section 38 of the Act has been revised and extended.

The alteration of the wording of the Punjab Tenancy Act made in clause (n) is clearly required.

CHAPTER II.—RIGHT OF OCCUPANCY.

14. The first of the changes in this Chapter consists in the omission of the word "heretofore" from clause (a) of section 4, sub-section (1), of the Bill, corresponding with clause (1) of section 5 of the Act, and the addition of a sub-section by which on proof by the tenant of continuous occupation of his tenancy for thirty years, and payment of nothing in the shape of rent beyond land-revenue and rates and cesses, a presumption is raised in his favour that the conditions of clause (a) have been fulfilled. This alteration of the law was first proposed by the late Financial Commissioner, Mr. J. B. Lyall, in a memorandum on proposed amendments of the Act written in 1882.

Mr. Lyall wrote as follows :—

"I would certainly strike out the word 'heretofore' in clause (1) of section 5. It may be argued that this is a deviation from the great principle expressed in the first sentence of section 9. If it is so, I would allow an exception in this case. By a recent decision of the Chief Court, which is no doubt legally correct, no tenant can establish a right under clause (1) of section 5 unless the land had been held free of rent and service for three generations in 1868. Before that decision was published, many Courts had been decreeing in favour of tenants now holding in the third generation, though they did not so hold in 1868. Most Settlement-officers, I think, interpreted the law in that way. I do not think the law amended as I propose would give a tenant a right greater than he may be held to be equitably entitled to. On the other hand, very few tenants can possibly establish a right under the clause as interpreted by the Chief Court. Except in the districts of the old Delhi territory, it is almost certain that the grandfather of the tenant of 1868 must have died before annexation, perhaps long before. Few men now survive who can give evidence as to those times, and there are no records to refer to."

In forwarding to the Government of India a copy of this memorandum with a minute by the Lieutenant-Governor, the Punjab Government supported the proposed change in the following words :—

"Mr. Lyall suggests that this amendment may involve a deviation from the principle that no occupancy-right shall be acquired by mere lapse of time. It does not, however, appear that this is so; for the reasons for acknowledging the right depend not upon any particular duration of tenure (for obviously the time during which the land may pass through the hands of grandfather, father and son may vary enormously in different cases), but rather upon the custom of the country, and perhaps also on the circumstance that the proprietor stands by and sees two successions take place without interference."

The amendment, together with others proposed at the same time, was accepted by the Government of India, and when the Bill to give effect to them was drafted the sub-section already referred to was added. The object of this addition is to place a reasonable limit on the evidence to be required of a tenant claiming under this clause. It is contended that, if a tenant can show that he succeeded his father or uncle and that he and his father and uncle together have held on these favourable terms for thirty years, it is only reasonable to throw on the landowner the burden of proving that the grandfather's or grand-uncle's tenancy was of a different nature. It is not often that older evidence would be forthcoming, and, if it is obtainable, it should be for the owner to produce it.

Clauses (2), (3) and (4) of section 5 of the Act have been re-drafted in section 4 of the Bill, in order to remove difficulties which have occurred in construing them. In the matters of continuous occupation and original settlement with village-founders the burden of proof has been thrown upon the landlord when the tenant has established a primâ facie right of occupancy as far back as trustworthy evidence can be expected to go. Under clause (b) of sub-section (1) of section 4 of the Bill any landowner whose land is sold under decree of Court will retain a right of occupancy in that land. In section 5 of the Bill, which corresponds to section 6 of the Act, the date of the passing of the Act has been inserted so as to restrict the special weight given by clause (b) to admissions made before Settlement-officers to those admissions which were made previous to the passing of the Act. This is quite consistent with the history of the subject. As is well known, at the revised settlement begun in 1863 large numbers of cultivators in the Lahore and Amritsar divisions recorded as hereditary at first settlement were recorded as tenants-at-will. This proceeding was reversed by the legislature, and more than 63,000 tenants were restored by revision of the record to the occupancy-status of which the proceedings of Mr. Prinsep, then Settlement Commissioner, would have deprived them. At the same time it was thought right to give the landlords special opportunities of rebutting the presumptions raised in favour of the tenants by the revised or other records, particularly when the tenant before Mr. Prinsep or his subordinates had himself admitted that he was a tenant-at-will. Accordingly, between 1870 and 1874, the landlords brought some 3,000 suits with this object. The state of things, therefore, which the law was designed to meet has passed away; and entries relating to tenants made since the passing of the Act of 1868 may properly be left on the same footing as that of any other part of the settlement-record; that is to say, they will be presumed to be true till the contrary is established.

15. The second clause of section 9 of the Act, forbidding the acquisition of a right of occupancy in the common lands belonging to a pattidári village-community, has been repealed. It is only necessary to prevent co-sharers in an estate from asserting a right of occupancy as against each other, and this is now provided for by section 9 of the Bill.

CHAPTER III.—RENT.

16. Section 10 of the Bill provides that the rents of occupancy-tenants may be fixed when an assessment of the land-revenue is being made, and at other times on application of the landlord or tenant. It was at one time proposed to enact that rents so fixed should not be altered during the currency of the assessment of the district, but it has now been decided that this is not desirable. It is clearly expedient that tenants should get the benefit of the reductions allowed by sections 16 and 17 of the Bill whenever they are in a position to claim them. On the other hand, the enhancements, for which sections 14 and 15 provide, may well be awarded to landlords whether the relevant facts are proved at settlement or at any other time. As the land-revenue becomes the standard of the rent of occupancy-tenants, frequent and capricious enhancements will be impracticable.

17. Section 12 of the Bill provides that the prescribed Revenue-officer shall, on the application of either landlord or tenant, determine what portion of a lump sum rent is represented by the land-revenue and rates and cesses. The provision is necessary to enable a landlord to ascertain whether he is entitled to enhancement of rent, and a tenant with a right of occupancy to ascertain whether he is entitled to reduction of rent.

18. Section 13 corresponds with section 10 of the present Act. Power to vary dates for all purposes is taken under section 50 of the Bill.

19. Section 14 of the Bill is drafted to meet the case of rents taken by division of crop (batái) or cash produce-rates (zabti). Such rents cannot be subjected to the general law of enhancement and reduction, and accordingly special provision has been made regarding them in sections 14 and 16 of the Bill. Proviso (b) to section 14, and the corresponding portion of section 16, provide for cases in which rents are taken partly in kind and partly in cash, the payment in cash representing the amount of the land-revenue and rates and cesses, or a proportion of that amount.

20. Section 15 of the Bill corresponds with section 11 of the Act. The modifications made are important and constitute one of the chief features of the Bill. It has been found that it is practically impossible to work the provisions of the second and third grounds of enhancement under section 11 of the Act owing to the uncertainty inseparable from the use of such terms as "the same class of tenants," and the like; and the conclusions which have been arrived at by the Courts in deciding cases on those grounds have been very various. It is most desirable that the principles on which the enhancement or reduction of rent can be claimed should be clearly known and capable of easy application. Accordingly, it has been provided in sections 15 to 17 of the Bill that the enhancement and reduction of the rent of tenants having a right of occupancy shall be fixed with reference to the land-revenue of the tenancy, and the maximum scale proposed with reference to each class of tenants having a right of occupancy has been so graduated as to correspond generally with the existing scale under the third ground of section 11 of the Act. The Revenue-officer, it will be observed, may grant enhancement up to the full amount allowed, but is not obliged to do so.

21. Sections 12 and 13 of the Act are omitted, as they are separately provided for in the Bill. Section 12 is incorporated in section 15 of the Bill; and section 13, which, except in the case of a re-settlement, protects a tenant against whom a decree for enhancement has been passed against any further suit for enhancement for a period of five years, seems unnecessary for the reasons given in paragraph 16 above.

22. Section 16 of the Bill is the correlative of section 14, and section 17 is the correlative of section 15. Of the two new clauses which have been added to section 14 of the Act by section 17 of the Bill, the first (relating to the third ground for reduction) is obviously needed, and the second (relating to the fourth ground) has been provided to meet cases in which rents have admittedly been severely enhanced of late years. A period of six years will, it is believed, cover most of the cases of this kind, and the clause will allow of the application of a remedy in them. It is proposed, in the case of reduction of rent in these cases, that the Revenue-officer shall not reduce the rent below the maximum allowed by section 15 of the Bill.

23. Section 19 of the Bill, which empowers Revenue-officers directing a suspension or remission of the land-revenue to direct a similar suspension or remission of rent, has been inserted with reference to principles laid down by the Government of India and approved by the Secretary of State.

24. Sections 20 to 22 of the Bill correspond with sections 17 and 18 of the Act, and provide for settlement of differences arising in cases in which rent is taken by division of the produce or by estimate or appraisement of the crop.

CHAPTER IV.—RELINQUISHMENT AND EJECTMENT.

25. Chapter IV has been re-drafted with a view of clearly distinguishing between ejectment in the case of occupancy-tenants and ejectment in the case of tenants not having a right of occupancy. The procedure in both cases has been made as simple and complete as possible.

26. Ejectments are only to be made in execution of an order of a Revenue-officer (section 24), who in the case of tenants having a right of occupancy may temper the severity of the law in cases in which it appears to him to be equitable to do so.

27. Clause (2) under section 19 of the present Act has been omitted from the Bill. The power of ejectment given by this clause will shortly cease to be effective, as the thirty years of continuous occupation which make it nugatory will, in most cases, have run out already or before very long. The power given is extremely arbitrary, has hardly ever been made use of, and is not, it is believed, supported in any way by provincial custom. It has therefore been determined to omit it from the Bill.

28. Sections 29 and 30 of the Bill reproduce respectively sections 22-25 of the Act of 1868 and what is believed to be the intendment of the latter portion of section 21 of that Act.

CHAPTER V.—ALIENATION OF, AND SUCCESSION TO, RIGHT OF OCCUPANCY.

29. Section 34 of the Bill has been so framed as to remove doubts as to the exact meaning of the term "alienation," and to make it clear that the landlord's right of pre-emption is to exist in the case not only of mortgages and gifts but of sub-leases for long periods in consideration of a fine or premium. It also provides means for settling disputes as to the value of the tenancy when the right of pre-emption is claimed. It has not been thought necessary to retain the provision of the present law which enables tenants of other classes to alienate the land in their occupation with the landlord's consent. If the landlord does not object to the alienation, no statutory permission seems requisite.

30. Section 36 of the Bill is drafted with a view to the protection of the interests of a tenant having a right of occupancy who makes an invalid alienation of his right. Inasmuch, however, as the landlord is put to trouble and expense in proving an alienation to be invalid, it is considered fair that he should be allowed to purchase the occupancy-right which was improperly alienated should he desire to do so.

31. In section 37 of the Bill it is proposed to substitute the ordinary law of succession to land for the somewhat artificial rule for the devolution of a right of occupancy laid down in section 36 of the present Act. It is believed that the change made will be found to be in consonance with the general views of tenants and landlords on the subject, at all events as far as the grant of a life-interest to the widow of a deceased tenant having a right of occupancy is concerned. Whether the alteration is right in other respects is a point to which attention is specially invited. It may be that custom does not lay down the same rule for the devolution of both tenancies and lands, and evidence bearing on the matter will receive careful consideration. It will be observed that by section 38 of the Bill the provisions of the Punjab Laws Act regarding personal law and local custom are saved in this matter.

CHAPTER VI.—COMPENSATION.

32. The provisions of the Bill regarding compensation for improvements do not require any lengthy notice. They are modelled upon the provisions of the Tenancy Act of the Central Provinces and are in no way inconsistent with the spirit of the present Act. The provisions of section 46 have been inserted in accordance with the views advanced by the Famine Commissioners and approved by the Government of India and Secretary of State. As the Act is now drafted, a tenant will be entitled to compensation whether the improvement for which compensation is due to him on ejectment was made by himself or his predecessor (section 3 (d)).

33. Section 47 of the Bill is intended to afford some measure of protection to tenants-at-will who have cleared and broken up land. There is a strong feeling among tenants and landlords that cultivators of this class are entitled to special consideration.

34. Sections 41 and 48 provide that in cases in which compensation is due to a tenant for improvements or disturbance, it shall be paid to him before he is ejected, and that an omission on the part of the Revenue-officer to fix compensation before that event may be rectified at any time within one year (section 49). These provisions are very necessary in fairness to tenants.

CHAPTER VII.—SUPPLEMENTAL PROVISIONS.

35. This chapter gives the Local Government authority to alter the dates for the commencement of the agricultural year and for relinquishments and ejectments; and provides that the Financial Commissioner may make rules for determining for the purposes of the Bill the amount of the land-revenue of any land.

Definitions.

In this Part of the Schedule—

(1) "ship" means a sailing vessel, and "steamer" a steam-vessel:

(2) "coasting ship" or "coasting steamer" means respectively a ship or steamer which at any port discharges cargo exclusively from, or takes in cargo exclusively for, any port on the continent of India or in the island of Ceylon:

(3) "foreign ship" or "foreign steamer" means respectively a ship or steamer not being a coasting ship or coasting steamer.

NOTE.—As regards the levy of port-dues, each of the following pairs of ports (namely), Cocanada and Coringa, Negapatam and Nagore, Calicut and Beypore, shall be treated as if it were only one port; every vessel in respect of which such dues have been charged and taken at one of any of the said pairs being exempted from the charge on entering the other of the same pair.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE case which gives rise to this Bill is as follows. Certain steamers are engaged in the coasting trade of the Madras Presidency, but are not "coasting steamers" within the meaning of the expression as defined in Part III of the Schedule to the Indian Ports Act, 1875. Therefore they have to pay port-dues at every port they call at in a group instead of only paying them (at a rate which may be half as much again as an ordinary single rate) at the first port they call at and being free at every other port in the group for a period of thirty days. The owners of these steamers have represented to the Government that the levy of these full port-rates at every port the steamers call at is a considerable hardship and is detrimental to the trade which their steamers are fostering, and they have asked that their steamers may be treated as coasting steamers. The Government of India is of opinion that the law, as it stands at present, bears hardly not only on these steamers engaged in the coasting trade, but also on other steamers and sailing vessels, and that the law should be amended generally for all vessels calling at ports in the Madras Presidency. The present Bill has, therefore, been prepared in consultation with the local authorities and Chamber of Commerce. With the object of settling the port-dues on as fair and liberal a basis as is consistent with obtaining a sufficient income, the Bill recasts Part III of the First Schedule to the Indian Ports Act on the following lines:—

(1) It declares that the following rates of duty shall be paid in the case of vessels calling at one port only, namely:—

(a) in the case of foreign ships or steamers calling at Madras or at any port in the Eastern or Western group—a rate not exceeding three annas a ton;

(b) in the case of coasting ships calling at any port—a rate not exceeding one and a half annas a ton;

(c) in the case of coasting steamers calling at Madras (except within thirty days after visiting another port in either group, when the due is not to exceed one and a half annas a ton)—a due not exceeding four and a half annas a ton.

(2) It exempts, on payment of the above dues, foreign ships or steamers engaged in trade with the Straits Settlements and coasting ships from liability to pay dues again at the same port for a period of sixty days.

(3) It exempts the following vessels on payment of the dues specified from payment of any further due at the same or certain other ports for a fixed period:—

(a) foreign ships or steamers engaged in trade with the Straits Settlements, on payment of a due not exceeding four and a half annas a ton at the first port in the Eastern group or in the Western group called at by the ship or steamer, from liability to pay the due again at that or any other port in the group for a period of sixty days;

(b) coasting steamers, on payment of a due not exceeding three annas a ton at the first port in the Eastern group or in the Western group called at by the steamer, from liability to pay the due again at that or any other port in the group for a period of thirty days;

(c) coasting steamers, on payment of a due not exceeding four and a half annas a ton at Madras, from liability to pay the due again at Madras or at any port in the Eastern group for a period of thirty days.

Definitions.

In this Part of the Schedule—

(1) "ship" means a sailing vessel, and "steamer" a steam-vessel;

(2) "coasting ship" or "coasting steamer" means respectively a ship or steamer which at any port discharges cargo exclusively from, or takes in cargo exclusively for, any port on the continent of India or in the island of Ceylon:

(3) "foreign ship" or "foreign steamer" means respectively a ship or steamer not being a coasting ship or coasting steamer.

NOTE.—As regards the levy of port-dues, each of the following pairs of ports (namely), Cocanada and Coringa, Negapatam and Nagore, Calicut and Beypore, shall be treated as if it were only one port; every vessel in respect of which such dues have been charged and taken at one of any of the said pairs being exempted from the charge on entering the other of the same pair.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE case which gives rise to this Bill is as follows. Certain steamers are engaged in the coasting trade of the Madras Presidency, but are not "coasting steamers" within the meaning of the expression as defined in Part III of the Schedule to the Indian Ports Act, 1875. Therefore they have to pay port-dues at every port they call at in a group instead of only paying them (at a rate which may be half as much again as an ordinary single rate) at the first port they call at and being free at every other port in the group for a period of thirty days. The owners of these steamers have represented to the Government that the levy of these full port-rates at every port the steamers call at is a considerable hardship and is detrimental to the trade which their steamers are fostering, and they have asked that their steamers may be treated as coasting steamers. The Government of India is of opinion that the law, as it stands at present, bears hardly not only on these steamers engaged in the coasting trade, but also on other steamers and sailing vessels, and that the law should be amended generally for all vessels calling at ports in the Madras Presidency. The present Bill has, therefore, been prepared in consultation with the local authorities and Chamber of Commerce. With the object of settling the port-dues on as fair and liberal a basis as is consistent with obtaining a sufficient income, the Bill recasts Part III of the First Schedule to the Indian Ports Act on the following lines:—

(1) It declares that the following rates of duty shall be paid in the case of vessels calling at one port only, namely:—

(a) in the case of foreign ships or steamers calling at Madras or at any port in the Eastern or Western group—a rate not exceeding three annas a ton;

(b) in the case of coasting ships calling at any port—a rate not exceeding one and a half annas a ton;

(c) in the case of coasting steamers calling at Madras (except within thirty days after visiting another port in either group, when the due is not to exceed one and a half annas a ton)—a due not exceeding four and a half annas a ton.

(2) It exempts, on payment of the above dues, foreign ships or steamers engaged in trade with the Straits Settlements and coasting ships from liability to pay dues again at the same port for a period of sixty days.

(3) It exempts the following vessels on payment of the dues specified from payment of any further due at the same or certain other ports for a fixed period:—

(a) foreign ships or steamers engaged in trade with the Straits Settlements, on payment of a due not exceeding four and a half annas a ton at the first port in the Eastern group or in the Western group called at by the ship or steamer, from liability to pay the due again at that or any other port in the group for a period of sixty days;

(b) coasting steamers, on payment of a due not exceeding three annas a ton at the first port in the Eastern group or in the Western group called at by the steamer, from liability to pay the due again at that or any other port in the group for a period of thirty days;

(c) coasting steamers, on payment of a due not exceeding four and a half annas a ton at Madras, from liability to pay the due again at Madras or at any port in the Eastern group for a period of thirty days.

NO. 13 OF 1886.

A Bill to amend the Indian Companies Act, 1882.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Indian Companies Act, 1882, in manner hereinafter appearing; It is hereby enacted as follows :— VI of 1882.

1. After section 200 of the Indian Companies Act, 1882, the following section shall be inserted, namely :— VI of 1882. Insertion of new section after section 200.

"200A. (1) In the distribution of the assets of any company being wound up under this Act, there shall be paid in priority to all other debts— [46 & 47 Vic., c. 28, s. 4.] Wages and salaries to be preferential claims and to rank equally.

"(a) all wages or salary of any clerk or servant in respect of services rendered to the company within the four months next before the commencement of the winding up, not exceeding five hundred rupees for each clerk or servant; and [Indian Bankruptcy Bill, s. 33, cls. (b) and (c): 55 Law J. Rep. Q. B. 288.]

"(b) all wages of any labourer or workman, not exceeding five hundred rupees for each, whether payable for time or piece-work, in respect of services rendered to the company within the four months next before the commencement of the winding up.

"(2) The foregoing debts shall rank equally among themselves, and shall be paid in full, unless the assets of the company are insufficient to meet them, in which case they shall abate in equal proportions among themselves.

"(3) Subject to the retention of such sums as may be necessary for the cost of administration or otherwise, the liquidator or liquidators or official liquidator shall discharge the foregoing debts forthwith, so far as the assets of the company are and will be sufficient to meet them, as and when the assets come into the hands of the liquidator or liquidators or official liquidator." [46 & 47 Vic., c. 28, s. 6.]

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE attention of the Government of India has been drawn, by a recent decision of Mr. Justice Scott of the Bombay High Court (I. L. R. 10 Bom. 211), to the absence of any provision in the Indian Companies Act, 1882 (Act VI of 1882), similar to that contained in section 4 of the Statute 46 & 47 Vic., cap. 28, under which, in the distribution of the assets of any company being wound up, the wages of clerks and workmen are, subject to certain restrictions, given priority over other debts. With the view of remedying this defect in the Indian law, the present Bill has been prepared. While following generally the lines of the English Statute, the Bill adopts the modifications of the law regarding the priority of the wages of workmen, in the case of the bankruptcy of private employers, made by section 40 of the English Bankruptcy Act, 1883 (46 & 47 Vic., cap. 52). As these provisions of the English Bankruptcy Act have been followed in the Indian Bankruptcy Bill now before the Legislative Council of the Governor General, it seems desirable that the amendment which this Bill makes in the Indian Companies Act should be drawn so far as possible in identical terms.

(2) The provisions of this Chapter with respect to a record-of-rights for an estate shall then apply so far as they can be made applicable to a record-of-rights for a group of estates.

Other Record Operations.

(i) VILLAGE-CESSES.

[Act XVIII, 1881, s. 76; Act XIX, 1873, s. 66.]

48. (1) At any time while a record-of-rights is being made or revised and before it is confirmed the Local Government may regulate the rate and conditions of any village-cess, or altogether forbid the levy thereof, and may direct that the record be framed accordingly.

Regulation of village-cesses.

(2) A village-cess shall not be recoverable in any Court unless it is entered in the record-of-rights last made or revised, and confirmed, for the estate in which it is claimed to levy the cess.

(3) The Local Government may direct that the whole or any portion of a village-cess entered in the record-of-rights of an estate shall be expended upon conservancy, police or other objects declared by it to be for the benefit of the estate.

(4) In case of doubt the Local Government may declare what shall be deemed to be a village-cess within the meaning of this section.

(ii) PARTITION PROCEEDINGS.

49. Except with the express consent of the Financial Commissioner, to be obtained in each case, no agreement or proceedings for the partition of land held in joint ownership shall affect the joint liability of the land or of the owners thereof for the land-revenue assessed thereon, or operate to create a new estate, and, if any conditions are attached to that consent, those conditions shall be binding on the parties interested.

Restrictions on partition of estates.

[Rules under Act XXXIII, 1871, Rule 21.]

50. (1) Any joint owner of land, or any joint tenant of a tenancy in which a right of occupancy subsists, may apply to the prescribed Revenue-officer for partition of his share in the land or tenancy, as the case may be.

(2) The Revenue-officer shall admit the application if it is in accordance with—

(a) a decree of Court, or
(b) an agreement of the sharers, or
(c) an entry in the record-of-rights :

Provided that, if either or any of the sharers objects that any entry in the record-of-rights relating to their shares is incorrect or not in accord with existing facts, the Revenue-officer shall defer for three months making an order on the application.

(3) If within the period of three months the objector institutes a suit for the purpose of establishing his objection, the proceedings shall be further stayed till the final disposal of the suit.

(4) If within that period the objector does not institute a suit for that purpose, the Revenue-officer may admit the application.

(5) Subject to the foregoing provisions of this section, the Revenue-officer may dispose of any question arising in the proceedings.

(6) The Revenue-officer may for sufficient reason disallow a partition in whole or in part.

(7) The fact that a partition on the application of a joint owner of land would render necessary the severance into two or more parts of the land comprised in the tenancy of a tenant having a right of occupancy may be a sufficient reason for the disallowance of the partition unless the tenant assents to the severance. [Punjab draft of Tenancy Bill, s. 40.]

(8) A person to whom any land or portion of a tenancy is allotted in proceedings for partition shall be entitled to possession thereof as against the other parties to the proceedings and persons deriving title from them.

[Act XIX, 1873, s. 47; Act XVIII, 1881, s. 67.]

51. Re-distribution of land according to custom.

(iii) OTHER CHANGES SUBSEQUENT TO MAKING OR REVISION OF RECORD-OF-RIGHTS.

(2) If that person fails to make the report within the six months, he shall be liable, in the discretion of the prescribed Revenue-officer, to fine which may extend to one rupee for every day during which the default continues after the expiration of that period, but is not to exceed fifty rupees in any case.

[Act XXXIII, 1871, ss. 30 to 41.]

53. (1) For each estate or group of estates for which a record-of-rights has been prepared, a register of all changes affecting entries in that record with respect to rights of landowners and of tenants having a right of occupancy shall be kept by such person and in such form, and be attested by such authority and at such times and in such manner, as the Financial Commissioner may by rules in this behalf prescribe.

Register of mutations.

(2) The Local Government may fix a scale of fees for the attestation of all or any classes of entries in the register.

(Chapter V.—Assessment.—Sections 54-60.)

(3) The fee fixed in that scale for the attestation of an entry shall be payable by the person entering into possession of the land to which the entry relates.

[Act XXXIII, 1871, ss. 39 to 41.]

54. (1) Annual records shall be prepared for each estate by the village-officer appointed by the Financial Commissioner in this behalf.

Preparation of annual records.

(2) An entry at variance with the record-of-rights respecting the rights of a landowner or of a tenant having a right of occupancy shall not be made in the annual records unless an entry of the change which forms the subject of the entry in those records has been made and attested in the register kept under the last foregoing section.

(3) The Financial Commissioner may issue rules for the preparation of the annual records, for the survey of estates so far as may be necessary for the preparation of those records, for the correction of village-maps, for the survey by village-officers of land which is affected by the action of water or sand or of which the maps are found to be incorrect, and, generally, for the guidance of Revenue-officers and village-officers in these matters.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE law relating to the assessment and collection of the land-revenue and other connected subjects is contained in Act XXXIII of 1871. This Act was the first attempt to express in clear and concise language the various rules and orders—based on the "spirit" of the Bengal Regulations—by which the proceedings of Revenue and Settlement officials in the Punjab had,

up to that time, been regulated, and which had acquired the force of law under section 25 of the Indian Councils Act, 1861.

The Act under consideration was framed with great care by Sir James Stephen in consultation with the Financial Commissioner, Mr. (afterwards Sir. R.) Egerton, and the then Lieutenant-Governor, Sir R. H. Davies, both officers of large revenue and settlement experience. But subsequent experience has shown that it is incomplete in some respects and requires amendment in others. Some of the defects in it have recently formed the subject of correspondence with the Government of India, and others have been supplied in the enactments on the same subject which have since been framed for other parts of India. Moreover, the recent orders of the Government of India, based on recommendations of the Famine Commissioners, require that the continuous operations by which village-records are maintained correct to date shall be disconnected from those other occasional proceedings by which the assessment of the land-revenue is revised. And in the endeavour to recast the body of rules which have been issued under the authority of the existing law, with a view to the carrying out of those orders, technical difficulties have arisen which render the amendment of the Act a matter of necessity. The Punjab Tenancy Act, 1868, being under revision at the same time, the Bill has been so framed as to cover the entire jurisdiction of Revenue-officers, whether of a judicial, fiscal or executive character.

CHAPTER I.—PRELIMINARY.

This Chapter contains the necessary definitions—some of which are new and others have been incorporated from the Land-revenue Acts recently passed for other provinces—and a few other preliminary provisions.

CHAPTER II.—REVENUE-OFFICERS AND REVENUE COURTS.

The classification of Revenue-officers and Revenue Courts, the powers taken for the appointment of the former, and the provisions for the superintendence and control of both, differ little from the corresponding provisions of the existing law, which are scattered over three enactments—the Land-revenue Act, 1871, the Judicial Administration Act, 1875, and the Courts Act, 1884.

Section 9 gives a detail of the applications and proceedings which can be disposed of by Revenue-officers as such, and section 10 of those cases which they will deal with in their judicial capacity as Revenue Courts. The classes of cases of which particulars are given in this latter section are, with some not very important variations suggested by the experience of the last two years, taken from section 45 of the Courts Act, 1884; but the list has been supplemented by including in it suits under several new sections of the Bill now before the legislature for the amendment of the Punjab Tenancy [illegible] the Courts Act. The latter are divided into two groups, the first or more important group being reserved exclusively for trial by Deputy Commissioners. But as no such distinction existed before the passing of that Act, and as it has been found to be productive of serious inconvenience, it has been omitted from this Bill. The Local Government will by rule or notification under section 13 determine by what officers or classes of officers these cases will be heard, and the rule adopted will ordinarily, as in former years, be based mainly on the value of the suits.

Experience since the passing of the Courts Act having shown that the subordinate Civil and Revenue Courts do not always succeed in avoiding mistakes as to the respective limits of their jurisdictions, provision has been made in section 11 for obviating by a reference to the Chief Court the inconvenience and expense to the parties of setting aside the proceedings in cases where a Court has acted without jurisdiction, when neither party has been prejudiced by the mistake.

The other provisions of this Chapter which call for special notice are those relating to appeal and revision. The change in jurisdiction to try original revenue suits noted above has necessitated an alteration in the course of appeal, and in place of the somewhat complicated system of appeal laid down in sections 47 and 48 of the Courts Act, the more simple system provided in sections 19 and 20 of the Bill has been devised. Where the order in appeal confirms the original decision, there will be no further appeal; in other cases there will be a further appeal to the Financial Commissioner. By section 22 power has been given to the Financial Commissioner to call for and revise the proceedings of both Revenue-officers and Revenue Courts; as regards the former class of proceedings, this merely continues an authority which he already possesses under section 65 of the Land-revenue Act of 1871. The remaining sections of this Chapter relate to procedure, and for the most part reproduce provisions on the subjects in the Courts Act; where additions have been made, they have been taken from the revenue laws of other provinces.

CHAPTER III.—KÁNÚNGOS, ZAILDÁRS AND VILLAGE-OFFICERS.

The provisions of the existing law respecting these officers are contained in one short section. Those of the Bill are in greater detail, and provide expressly for the levy of a cess for the payment of village-officers, for the administration of the cess so levied, and for the control of these officers. Section 36, which authorizes the levy of this cess, also cures a defect in the present law by enabling the cess to be charged on the owner's and water-advantage rates.

CHAPTER IV.—RECORDS.

In framing this and the following chapter, the language of the existing law, which describes the framing of a record-of-rights and the assessment of the land-revenue by the term "settlement," has been departed from. These two chapters speak (i) of the preparation and maintenance of certain records for each village, and (ii) of the assessment of land-revenue on the basis furnished by those records. The powers necessary for these purposes are taken in the name of the ordinary Revenue-officers; and it is left open to Government to decide from time to time, as occasion arises, how much of these operations can be carried out by the ordinary district staff, and for what operations special and additional officers should be appointed under the authority provided in section 14.

A record-of-rights has now been provided for every district in the Province. Additions to these records are required from time to time as new estates come into existence. And their occasional revision is necessary, usually in connection with re-assessment operations. Under section 41 of the Bill it will be in the discretion of the Local Government to direct the undertaking of record-operations as occasion arises.

The tendency of recent experience is towards a much greater simplification of these records than any that was aimed at when the Act of 1871 was enacted, and therefore the definition of the contents of the record in section 39 of the Bill is briefer and less elaborate than that set out in section 14 of the existing Act. The existing limitations on the alteration of entries are continued by section 43. Section 44 provides for the prompt confirmation of the record. At present this confirmation is often delayed for a long time, because the operations of record and assessment cannot be dealt with separately.

The presumptions in favour of the title of the Government to waste-lands, forests, mines and minerals, which are asserted by the present law, are continued in sections 45 and 46, and words have been added to the latter section which assert the right of the Government to fisheries in navigable rivers, a right which the State has always possessed.

The provisions relating to village-cesses in section 48 give legal sanction to an authority which the Local Government often exercised in connection with the earlier settlements in the Punjab, which is still occasionally needed, and which is provided in the Land-revenue Acts of other Provinces of Upper India.

The rest of the Chapter relates to partition-proceedings, the record of mutations, and the preparation of the annual papers, and in these respects re-produces for the most part the provisions of the existing law and of the rules made under its authority. The only change of importance is the proposal to discontinue the system prescribed by section 21 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, by which all Courts are required to send to the Deputy Commissioner copies of decrees affecting rights in land or the possession thereof. No inconvenience has, it is understood, been experienced in the North-Western Provinces during the last twelve years in consequence of the removal of a provision of this kind from the law applicable to those provinces; and it is believed that, as there the reports of changes of possession which are required to be made by sections 97 and 99 of Act XIX of 1873 have produced the desired effect, so here the somewhat similar provision in section 52 of the Bill will prove equally effective.

CHAPTER V.—ASSESSMENT.

This Chapter is so drafted that while continuing all the provisions of the existing law, it supplies some important omissions in that law and expresses with clearness the procedure which has grown up under it. The opening sections of the Chapter expressly declare that the land-revenue is the first charge on the land, its rents and its produce, and they further provide security against the alienation of the rents and produce until this charge has been satisfied. The absence of any clear provision of this nature has been the cause of some inconvenience during past years. It has not uncommonly happened that a decree-holder has succeeded in attaching rents or produce due to a landowner before the latter has paid his revenue, leaving the Revenue-officers no remedy except that of proceeding against the produce of the next harvest, or against the land itself.

By the procedure laid down in sections 60 to 63 the formality of demanding from the landowners of every estate or their representatives a written engagement accepting the new assessment is dispensed with. But the landowners will still be at liberty to refuse to be liable for the assessment fixed by the Deputy Commissioner, and the consequences of refusal will be the same as those which follow from refusal to accept an assessment under the present law. Refusals of this kind, however, occur so seldom in the Punjab that the really important point in the procedure connected with the giving of effect to revised assessments lies less in the provisions dealing with these refusals than in those contained in sections 61 and 62 of the Bill, which provide for the hearing of objections and appeals, and for the modification of assessments prior to confirmation. In a country of small holdings cultivated by the owners themselves—and this is the prevailing character of Punjab tenures—an owner is very rarely in a position to decline to pay the new assessment; if he thinks that it is too heavy, the only remedy practically open to him is to appeal against it, and this is the remedy which he has almost invariably adopted.

Section 67 gives a power of converting the dues of a superior landowner, when leviable in kind or cash of varying quantity or amount, into a fixed percentage on the land-revenue. This authority existed prior to the enactment of the present law, and, in a case of some importance which recently came under consideration and was adjusted by compromise in the manner provided for in this section, the absence of this authority caused serious embarassment both to the Revenue-officers and to those who were liable for the revenue.

CHAPTER VI.—COLLECTION OF LAND-REVENUE.

No very material change has been made in this Chapter in the law relating to the recovery of arrears, but in drafting the sections which deal with this subject an attempt has been made to set forth the several processes which can be resorted to for this purpose and their results in as simple a form as possible. The following are the principal alterations made:—(a) the period during which a defaulter may be imprisoned has been reduced by section 78 from one year to one month; (b) the exemptions from attachment and sale specified in section 266 of the Code of Civil Procedure have been extended by section 79 in the case of revenue defaulters to seed-grain, and to so much of the produce of a defaulter's land as is necessary for the support of himself and his family and the maintenance of his cattle until the harvest next following the execution of the process; (c) in order to render the Chapter complete in itself, the procedure for the sale of a defaulter's land, instead of being dealt with, as in the present Act, by reference to the sections of the Code of Civil Procedure relating to the sale of immoveable property, has been set out in full by the incorporation of those sections, with some necessary modifications, in the Bill.

CHAPTER VII.—RECOVERY OF OTHER DEMANDS BY REVENUE-OFFICERS.

This Chapter contains provisions for the recovery as arrears of land-revenue of sums due to [illegible] and other village-officers, and of a number of items of miscellaneous revenue. Almost [illegible] new in this Chapter is taken from the Revenue and Rent Acts of other provinces.

CHAPTER VIII.—VILLAGE WASTE-LANDS.

The provisions of this Chapter are altogether new, but their general policy is believed to be entirely in accordance with the views of the Government of India. They have been framed with the object of securing in suitable estates the management of a portion of the waste-land for the production of timber, fuel and fodder. The area to be [illegible] treated is not to exceed one-fifth of the waste, and power is taken by section 110 to make rules for its management on the part of the landowners. Both the order directing that certain areas shall be reserved for these purposes and the rules for their [illegible] are to be issued by the Local Government, and provision is made that, before the issue of any such order, objections shall be invited and considered.

CHAPTER IX.—SURVEYS AND BOUNDARIES.

This Chapter contains the usual provisions for facilitating the survey of land for revenue purposes. Similar provisions are to be found in all the Land-revenue Acts of other provinces of Upper India, and these do not therefore seem to call for special notice. Some of the remedies for failure on the part of the landowners to erect and maintain boundary-marks, and the penalties for wilfully destroying, injuring or removing such marks after they have been set up, are of a summary nature, the object being to avoid the necessity for the institution of criminal proceedings except where really required by the gravity of the case.

CHAPTER X.—SUPPLEMENTAL PROVISIONS.

This Chapter deals with matters for which provision could not conveniently be made in other parts of the Bill. Of these the following are the most important. The first is that contained in sections 126 and 127. So long as civil, criminal and revenue jurisdiction was vested in the same officers, the subordinate revenue establishments, from the Tahsildars downwards, were at the disposal of the Courts for the execution of processes relating to land and its produce. But civil and revenue jurisdiction now vests, for the most part, in separate officers; and consequently the officers presiding over Civil Courts have no longer at their command any organized agency by which those processes can be executed. The object of these sections is to supply this deficiency by continuing the practice which existed before the passing of the Courts Act of 1884. By them the orders of Civil Courts relating to land and the rents and produce thereof will, as before, be executed by the Revenue-officers and their establishments, and the necessity for creating a separate agency for this purpose will be avoided.

By another section (128) the same power is given to a Revenue-officer, in cases of dispute, of dividing produce between co-sharers, as that which has always been possessed by him for the division of produce between landlord and tenant.

Section 129 confers the powers to make rules which are necessary for the proper working of the Act, and section 132 defines the matters in regard to which the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts will be barred. No material change has been made in respect of either of these subjects.

In section 133 provision has been made to meet the uncertainties attaching to jurisdiction in cases relating to alluvial lands on the larger rivers where they form the boundary between districts.

Lastly, section 134 declares that all records and papers which a village-officer is required by law to prepare and keep shall be the property of Government, and makes suitable provision for their production and proof. The object of this section is to render unnecessary the inconvenient practice of summoning patwáris merely for the purpose of proving the authenticity of papers prepared or kept by them.

Definitions.

In this Part of the Schedule—

(1) "ship" means a sailing vessel, and "steamer" a steam-vessel;

(2) "coasting ship" or "coasting steamer" means respectively a ship or steamer which at any port discharges cargo exclusively from, or takes in cargo exclusively for, any port on the continent of India or in the island of Ceylon:

(3) "foreign ship" or "foreign steamer" means respectively a ship or steamer not being a coasting ship or coasting steamer.

NOTE.—As regards the levy of port-dues, each of the following pairs of ports (namely), Cocanada and Coringa, Negapatam and Nagore, Calicut and Beypore, shall be treated as if it were only one port; every vessel in respect of which such dues have been charged and taken at one of any of the said pairs being exempted from the charge on entering the other of the same pair.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE case which gives rise to this Bill is as follows. Certain steamers are engaged in the coasting trade of the Madras Presidency, but are not "coasting steamers" within the meaning of the expression as defined in Part III of the Schedule to the Indian Ports Act, 1875. Therefore they have to pay port-dues at every port they call at in a group instead of only paying them (at a rate which may be half as much again as an ordinary single rate) at the first port they call at and being free at every other port in the group for a period of thirty days. The owners of these steamers have represented to the Government that the levy of these full port-rates at every port the steamers call at is a considerable hardship and is detrimental to the trade which their steamers are fostering, and they have asked that their steamers may be treated as coasting steamers. The Government of India is of opinion that the law, as it stands at present, bears hardly not only on these steamers engaged in the coasting trade, but also on other steamers and sailing vessels, and that the law should be amended generally for all vessels calling at ports in the Madras Presidency. The present Bill has, therefore, been prepared in consultation with the local authorities and Chamber of Commerce. With the object of settling the port-dues on as fair and liberal a basis as is consistent with obtaining a sufficient income, the Bill recasts Part III of the First Schedule to the Indian Ports Act on the following lines:—

(1) It declares that the following rates of duty shall be paid in the case of vessels calling at one port only, namely:—

(a) in the case of foreign ships or steamers calling at Madras or at any port in the Eastern or Western group—a rate not exceeding three annas a ton;

(b) in the case of coasting ships calling at any port—a rate not exceeding one and a half annas a ton;

(c) in the case of coasting steamers calling at Madras (except within thirty days after visiting another port in either group, when the due is not to exceed one and a half annas a ton)—a due not exceeding four and a half annas a ton.

(2) It exempts, on payment of the above dues, foreign ships or steamers engaged in trade with the Straits Settlements and coasting ships from liability to pay dues again at the same port for a period of sixty days.

(3) It exempts the following vessels on payment of the dues specified from payment of any further due at the same or certain other ports for a fixed period:—

(a) foreign ships or steamers engaged in trade with the Straits Settlements, on payment of a due not exceeding four and a half annas a ton at the first port in the Eastern group or in the Western group called at by the ship or steamer, from liability to pay the due again at that or any other port in the group for a period of sixty days;

(b) coasting steamers, on payment of a due not exceeding three annas a ton at the first port in the Eastern group or in the Western group called at by the steamer, from liability to pay the due again at that or any other port in the group for a period of thirty days;

(c) coasting steamers, on payment of a due not exceeding four and a half annas a ton at Madras, from liability to pay the due again at Madras or at any port in the Eastern group for a period of thirty days.

No. 13 OF 1886.

A Bill to amend the Indian Companies Act, 1882.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Indian Companies Act, 1882, in manner hereinafter appearing; It is hereby enacted as follows :— VI of 1882.

1. After section 200 of the Indian Companies Act, 1882, the following section shall be inserted, namely :— VI of 1882. Insertion of new section after section 200.

"200A. (1) In the distribution of the assets of any company being wound up under this Act, there shall be paid in priority to all other debts— [46 & 47 Vic., c. 28, s. 4.] Wages and salaries to be preferential claims and to rank equally.

"(a) all wages or salary of any clerk or servant in respect of services rendered to the company within the four months next before the commencement of the winding up, not exceeding five hundred rupees for each clerk or servant; and [Indian Bankruptcy Bill, s. 33, cls. (b) and (c): 55 Law J. Rep. Q. B. 288.]

"(b) all wages of any labourer or workman, not exceeding five hundred rupees for each, whether payable for time or piece-work, in respect of services rendered to the company within the four months next before the commencement of the winding up.

"(2) The foregoing debts shall rank equally among themselves, and shall be paid in full, unless the assets of the company are insufficient to meet them, in which case they shall abate in equal proportions among themselves.

"(3) Subject to the retention of such sums as may be necessary for the cost of administration or otherwise, the liquidator or liquidators or official liquidator shall discharge the foregoing debts forthwith, so far as the assets of the company are and will be sufficient to meet them, as and when the assets come into the hands of the liquidator or liquidators or official liquidator." [46 & 47 Vic., c. 28, s. 6.]

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE attention of the Government of India has been drawn, by a recent decision of Mr. Justice Scott of the Bombay High Court (I. L. R. 10 Bom. 211), to the absence of any provision in the Indian Companies Act, 1882 (Act VI of 1882), similar to that contained in section 4 of the Statute 46 & 47 Vic., cap. 28, under which, in the distribution of the assets of any company being wound up, the wages of clerks and workmen are, subject to certain restrictions, given priority over other debts. With the view of remedying this defect in the Indian law, the present Bill has been prepared. While following generally the lines of the English Statute, the Bill adopts the modifications of the law regarding the priority of the wages of workmen, in the case of the bankruptcy of private employers, made by section 40 of the English Bankruptcy Act, 1883 (46 & 47 Vic., cap. 52). As these provisions of the English Bankruptcy Act have been followed in the Indian Bankruptcy Bill now before the Legislative Council of the Governor General, it seems desirable that the amendment which this Bill makes in the Indian Companies Act should be drawn so far as possible in identical terms.

(4) Until the presumption is so rebutted, the accessory interest shall be held to belong to the Government.

(5) When the presumption is so rebutted, the accessory interest taken into account in the assessment shall be held to belong to the landowners.

[Act XVIII, 1881, s. 76; Act XIX, 1878, s. 66.]

48. (1) At any time while a record-of-rights is being made or revised and before it is confirmed the Local Government may regulate the rate and conditions of any village-cess, or altogether forbid the levy thereof, and may direct that the record be framed accordingly.

Regulation of village-cesses.

(2) A village-cess shall not be recoverable in any Court unless it is entered in the record-of-rights last made or revised, and confirmed, for the estate in which it is claimed to levy the cess.

(3) The Local Government may direct that the whole or any portion of a village-cess entered in the record-of-rights of an estate shall be expended upon conservancy, police or other objects declared by it to be for the benefit of the estate.

Except with the express consent of the Financial Commissioner, to be obtained in each case, no agreement or proceedings for the partition of land held in joint ownership shall affect the joint liability of the land or of the owners thereof for the land-revenue assessed thereon, or operate to create a new estate, and, if any conditions are attached to that consent, those conditions shall be binding on the parties interested.

Restrictions on partition of estates.

[Rules under Act XXXIII, 1871, Rule E 11.]

(3) If within the period of three months the objector institutes a suit for the purpose of establishing his objection, the proceedings shall be further stayed till the final disposal of the suit.

(4) If within that period the objector does not institute a suit for that purpose, the Revenue-officer may admit the application.

(5) Subject to the foregoing provisions of this section, the Revenue-officer may dispose of any question arising in the proceedings.

(6) The Revenue-officer may for sufficient reason disallow a partition in whole or in part.

[Punjab draft of Tenancy Bill, s. 40.]

(7) The fact that a partition on the application of a joint owner of land would render necessary the severance into two or more parts of the land comprised in the tenancy of a tenant having a right of occupancy may be a sufficient reason for the disallowance of the partition unless the tenant assents to the severance.

(8) A person to whom any land or portion of a tenancy is allotted in proceedings for partition shall be entitled to possession thereof as against the other parties to the proceedings and persons deriving title from them.

[Act XIX, 1873, s. 47; Act XVIII, 1881, s. 67.]

Preparation of annual records.

(2) An entry at variance with the record-of-rights respecting the rights of a landowner or of a tenant having a right of occupancy shall not be made in the annual records unless an entry of the change which forms the subject of the entry in those records has been made and attested in the register kept under the last foregoing section.

Provided that land shall not be sold—

(a) for any arrear which has accrued while the land was under the charge of the Court of Wards, or was so circumstanced that the Court of Wards might have exercised jurisdiction over it under the provisions of section 35 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, clause (a), (b), (c) or (d); or

IV of 1872.

(b) for any arrear which has accrued while the land was under attachment under section 81 of this Act; or

Provided that no interests save those of the defaulter alone shall be so proceeded against, and no incumbrances created or contracts entered into by him in good faith shall be rendered invalid by reason only of his interests being proceeded against.

(2) When the Deputy Commissioner determines to proceed under this section against immoveable property other than the land in respect of which the arrear is due, he shall issue a proclamation prohibiting the transfer or charging of the property.

(3) The Deputy Commissioner may at any time by order in writing withdraw the proclamation, and it shall be deemed to be withdrawn when either the arrear has been paid or the interests of the defaulter in the property have been sold for the recovery of the arrear.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE law relating to the assessment and collection of the land-revenue and other connected subjects is contained in Act XXXIII of 1871. This Act was the first attempt to express in clear and concise language the various rules and orders—based on the "spirit" of the Bengal Regulations—by which the proceedings of Revenue and Settlement officials in the Punjab had,

up to that time, been regulated, and which had acquired the force of law under section 25 of the Indian Councils Act, 1861.

The Act under consideration was framed with great care by Sir James Stephen in consultation with the Financial Commissioner, Mr. (afterwards Sir. R.) Egerton, and the then Lieutenant-Governor, Sir R. H. Davies, both officers of large revenue and settlement experience. But subsequent experience has shown that it is incomplete in some respects and requires amendment in others. Some of the defects in it have recently formed the subject of correspondence with the Government of India, and others have been supplied in the enactments on the same subject which have since been framed for other parts of India. Moreover, the recent orders of the Government of India, based on recommendations of the Famine Commissioners, require that the continuous operations by which village-records are maintained correct to date shall be disconnected from those other occasional proceedings by which the assessment of the land-revenue is revised. And in the endeavour to recast the body of rules which have been issued under the authority of the existing law, with a view to the carrying out of those orders, technical difficulties have arisen which render the amendment of the Act a matter of necessity. The Punjab Tenancy Act, 1868, being under revision at the same time, the Bill has been so framed as to cover the entire jurisdiction of Revenue-officers, whether of a judicial, fiscal or executive character.

CHAPTER I.—PRELIMINARY.

This Chapter contains the necessary definitions—some of which are new and others have been incorporated from the Land-revenue Acts recently passed for other provinces—and a few other preliminary provisions.

CHAPTER II.—REVENUE-OFFICERS AND REVENUE COURTS.

The classification of Revenue-officers and Revenue Courts, the powers taken for the appointment of the former, and the provisions for the superintendence and control of both, differ little from the corresponding provisions of the existing law, which are scattered over three enactments—the Land-revenue Act, 1871, the Judicial Administration Act, 1875, and the Courts Act, 1884.

Section 9 gives a detail of the applications and proceedings which can be disposed of by Revenue-officers as such, and section 10 of those cases which they will deal with in their judicial capacity as Revenue Courts. The classes of cases of which particulars are given in this latter section are, with some not very important variations suggested by the experience of the last two years, taken from section 40 of the Courts Act, 1884; but the list has been supplemented by including in it suits under several new sections of the Bill now before the legislature for the amendment of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1868. In the Courts Act these suits have been divided into two groups, the first or more important group being reserved exclusively for trial by Deputy Commissioners. But as no such distinction existed before the passing of that Act, and as it has been found to be productive of serious inconvenience, it has been omitted from this Bill. The Local Government will by rule or notification under section 13 determine by what officers or classes of officers these cases will be heard, and the rule adopted will ordinarily, as in former years, be based mainly on the value of the suits.

Experience since the passing of the Courts Act having shown that the subordinate Civil and Revenue Courts do not always succeed in avoiding mistakes as to the respective limits of their jurisdictions, provision has been made in section 11 for obviating by a reference to the Chief Court the inconvenience and expense to the parties of setting aside the proceedings in cases where a Court has acted without jurisdiction, when neither party has been prejudiced by the mistake.

The other provisions of this Chapter which call for special notice are those relating to appeal and revision. The change in jurisdiction to try original revenue suits noted above has necessitated an alteration in the course of appeal, and in place of the somewhat complicated system of appeal laid down in sections 47 and 48 of the Courts Act, the more simple system provided in sections 19 and 20 of the Bill has been devised. Where the order in appeal confirms the original decision, there will be no further appeal; in other cases there will be a further appeal to the Financial Commissioner. By section 22 power has been given to the Financial Commissioner to call for and revise the proceedings of both Revenue-officers and Revenue Courts; as regards the former class of proceedings, this merely continues an authority which he already possesses under section 65 of the Land-revenue Act of 1871. The remaining sections of this Chapter relate to procedure, and for the most part reproduce provisions on the subjects in the Courts Act; where additions have been made, they have been taken from the revenue laws of other provinces.

CHAPTER III.—KÁNÚNGOS, ZAILDÁRS AND VILLAGE-OFFICERS.

The provisions of the existing law respecting these officers are contained in one short section. Those of the Bill are in greater detail, and provide expressly for the levy of a cess for the payment of village-officers, for the administration of the cess so levied, and for the control of these officers. Section 36, which authorizes the levy of this cess, also cures a defect in the present law by enabling the cess to be charged on the owner's and water advantage rates.

CHAPTER IV.—RECORDS.

In framing this and the following chapter, the language of the existing law, which describes the framing of a record-of-rights and the assessment of the land-revenue by the term "settlement," has been departed from. These two chapters speak (i) of the preparation and maintenance of certain records for each village, and (ii) of the assessment of land-revenue on the basis furnished by those records. The powers necessary for these purposes are taken in the name of the ordinary Revenue-officers; and it is left open to Government to decide from time to time, as occasion arises, how much of these operations can be carried out by the ordinary district staff, and for what operations special and additional officers should be appointed under the authority provided in section 14.

A record-of-rights has now been provided for every district in the Province. Additions to these records are required from time to time as new estates come into existence. And their occasional revision is necessary, usually in connection with re-assessment operations. Under section 41 of the Bill it will be in the discretion of the Local Government to direct the undertaking of record-operations as occasion arises.

The tendency of recent experience is towards a much greater simplification of these records than any that was aimed at when the Act of 1871 was enacted, and therefore the definition of the contents of the record in section 39 of the Bill is briefer and less elaborate than that set out in section 14 of the existing Act. The existing limitations on the alteration of entries are continued by section 43. Section 44 provides for the prompt confirmation of the record. At present this confirmation is often delayed for a long time, because the operations of record and assessment cannot be dealt with separately.

The presumptions in favour of the title of the Government to waste-lands, forests, mines and minerals, which are asserted by the present law, are continued in sections 45 and 46, and words have been added to the latter section which assert the right of the Government to fisheries in navigable rivers, a right which the State has always possessed.

The provisions relating to village-cesses in section 48 give legal sanction to an authority which the Local Government often exercised in connection with the earlier settlements in the Punjab, which is still occasionally needed, and which is provided in the Land-revenue Acts of other Provinces of Upper India.

The rest of the Chapter relates to partition-proceedings, the record of mutations, and the preparation of the annual papers, and in these respects re-produces for the most part the provisions of the existing law and of the rules made under its authority. The only change of importance is the proposal to discontinue the system prescribed by section 21 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, by which all Courts are required to send to the Deputy Commissioner copies of decrees affecting rights in land or the possession thereof. No inconvenience has, it is understood, been experienced in the North-Western Provinces during the last twelve years in consequence of the removal of a provision of this kind from the law applicable to those provinces; and it is believed that, as there the reports of changes of possession which are required to be made by sections 97 and 99 of Act XIX of 1873 have produced the desired effect, so here the somewhat similar provision in section 52 of the Bill will prove equally effective.

CHAPTER V.—ASSESSMENT.

This Chapter is so drafted that while continuing all the provisions of the existing law, it supplies some important omissions in that law and expresses with clearness the procedure which has grown up under it. The opening sections of the Chapter expressly declare that the land-revenue is the first charge on the land, its rents and its produce, and they further provide security against the alienation of the rents and produce until this charge has been satisfied. The absence of any clear provision of this nature has been the cause of some inconvenience during past years. It has not uncommonly happened that a decree-holder has succeeded in attaching rents or produce due to a landowner before the latter has paid his revenue, leaving the Revenue-officers no remedy except that of proceeding against the produce of the next harvest, or against the land itself.

By the procedure laid down in sections 60 to 63 the formality of demanding from the landowners of every estate or their representatives a written engagement accepting the new assessment is dispensed with. But the landowners will still be at liberty to refuse to be liable for the assessment fixed by the Deputy Commissioner, and the consequences of refusal will be the same as those which follow from refusal to accept an assessment under the present law. Refusals of this kind, however, occur so seldom in the Punjab that the really important point in the procedure connected with the giving of effect to revised assessments lies less in the provisions dealing with these refusals than in those contained in sections 61 and 62 of the Bill, which provide for the hearing of objections and appeals, and for the modification of assessments prior to confirmation. In a country of small holdings cultivated by the owners themselves—and this is the prevailing character of Punjab tenures—an owner is very rarely in a position to decline to pay the new assessment; if he thinks that it is too heavy, the only remedy practically open to him is to appeal against it, and this is the remedy which he has almost invariably adopted.

Section 67 gives a power of converting the dues of a superior landowner, when leviable in kind or cash of varying quantity or amount, into a fixed percentage on the land-revenue. This authority existed prior to the enactment of the present law, and, in a case of some importance which recently came under consideration and was adjusted by compromise in the manner provided for in this section, the absence of this authority caused serious embarassment both to the Revenue-officers and to those who were liable for the revenue.

CHAPTER VI.—COLLECTION OF LAND-REVENUE.

No very material change has been made in this Chapter in the law relating to the recovery of arrears, but in drafting the sections which deal with this subject an attempt has been made to set forth the several processes which can be resorted to for this purpose and their results in as simple a form as possible. The following are the principal alterations made:—(a) the period during which a defaulter may be imprisoned has been reduced by section 78 from one year to one month; (b) the exemptions from attachment and sale specified in section 266 of the Code of Civil Procedure have been extended by section 79 in the case of revenue defaulters to seed-grain, and to so much of the produce of a defaulter's land as is necessary for the support of himself and his family and the maintenance of his cattle until the harvest next following the execution of the process; (c) in order to render the Chapter complete in itself, the procedure for the sale of a defaulter's land, instead of being dealt with, as in the present Act, by reference to the sections of the Code of Civil Procedure relating to the sale of immoveable property, has been set out in full by the incorporation of those sections, with some necessary modifications, in the Bill.

CHAPTER VII.—RECOVERY OF OTHER DEMANDS BY REVENUE-OFFICERS.

This Chapter contains provisions for the recovery as arrears of land-revenue of sums due to headmen and other village-officers, and of a number of items of miscellaneous revenue. Almost all that is new in this Chapter is taken from the Revenue and Rent Acts of other provinces.

CHAPTER VIII.—VILLAGE WASTE-LANDS.

The provisions of this Chapter are altogether new, but their general policy is believed to be entirely in accordance with the views of the Government of India. They have been framed with the object of securing in suitable estates the management of a portion of the waste-land for the production of timber, fuel and fodder. The area to be so treated is not to exceed one-fifth of the waste, and power is taken by section 110 to make rules for its management on the part of the landowners. Both the order directing that certain areas shall be reserved for these purposes and the rules for their management will be issued by the Local Government, and provision is made that, before the issue of any such order, objections shall be invited and considered.

CHAPTER IX.—SURVEYS AND BOUNDARIES.

This Chapter contains the usual provisions for facilitating the survey of land for revenue purposes. Similar provisions are to be found in all the Land-revenue Acts of other provinces of Upper India, and these do not therefore seem to call for special notice. Some of the remedies for failure on the part of the landowners to erect and maintain boundary-marks, and the penalties for wilfully destroying, injuring or removing such marks after they have been set up, are of a summary nature, the object being to avoid the necessity for the institution of criminal proceedings except where really required by the gravity of the case.

CHAPTER X.—SUPPLEMENTAL PROVISIONS.

This Chapter deals with matters for which provision could not conveniently be made in other parts of the Bill. Of these the following are the most important. The first is that contained in sections 126 and 127. So long as civil, criminal and revenue jurisdiction was vested in the same officers, the subordinate revenue establishments, from the Tahsildars downwards, were at the disposal of the Courts for the execution of processes relating to land and its produce. But civil and revenue jurisdiction now vests, for the most part, in separate officers; and consequently the officers presiding over Civil Courts have no longer at their command any organized agency by which those processes can be executed. The object of these sections is to supply this deficiency by continuing the practice which existed before the passing of the Courts Act of 1884. By them the orders of Civil Courts relating to land and the rents and produce thereof will, as before, be executed by the Revenue-officers and their establishments, and the necessity for creating a separate agency for this purpose will be avoided.

By another section (128) the same power is given to a Revenue-officer, in cases of dispute, of dividing produce between co-sharers, as that which has always been possessed by him for the division of produce between landlord and tenant.

Section 129 confers the powers to make rules which are necessary for the proper working of the Act, and section 132 defines the matters in regard to which the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts will be barred. No material change has been made in respect of either of these subjects.

In section 133 provision has been made to meet the uncertainties attaching to jurisdiction in cases relating to alluvial lands on the larger rivers where they form the boundary between districts.

Lastly, section 134 declares that all records and papers which a village-officer is required by law to prepare and keep shall be the property of Government, and makes suitable provision for their production and proof. The object of this section is to render unnecessary the inconvenient practice of summoning patwáris merely for the purpose of proving the authenticity of papers prepared or kept by them.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

Third publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 7th July, 1886, and was referred to a Select Committee on the 14th idem :—

NO. 13 OF 1886.

A Bill to amend the Indian Companies Act, 1882.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Indian Companies Act, 1882, in manner hereinafter appearing; It is hereby enacted as follows :— VI of 1882.

1. After section 200 of the Indian Companies Act, 1882, the following section shall be inserted, namely :— VI of 1882. Insertion of new section after section 200.

"200A. (1) In the distribution of the assets of any company being wound up under this Act, there shall be paid in priority to all other debts— [46 & 47 Vic., c. 28, s. 4.] Wages and salaries to be preferential claims and to rank equally.

"(a) all wages or salary of any clerk or servant in respect of services rendered to the company within the four months next before the commencement of the winding up, not exceeding five hundred rupees for each clerk or servant; and [Indian Bankruptcy Bill, s. 38, cls. (b) and (c): 55 Law J. Rep. Q. B. 288.]

"(b) all wages of any labourer or workman, not exceeding five hundred rupees for each, whether payable for time or piece-work, in respect of services rendered to the company within the four months next before the commencement of the winding up.

"(2) The foregoing debts shall rank equally among themselves, and shall be paid in full, unless the assets of the company are insufficient to meet them, in which case they shall abate in equal proportions among themselves.

"(3) Subject to the retention of such sums as may be necessary for the cost of administration or otherwise, the liquidator or liquidators or official liquidator shall discharge the foregoing debts forthwith, so far as the assets of the company are and will be sufficient to meet them, as and when the assets come into the hands of the liquidator or liquidators or official liquidator." [46 & 47 Vic., c. 28, s. 6.]

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE attention of the Government of India has been drawn, by a recent decision of Mr. Justice Scott of the Bombay High Court (I. L. R. 10 Bom. 211), to the absence of any provision in the Indian Companies Act, 1882 (Act VI of 1882), similar to that contained in section 4 of the Statute 46 & 47 Vic., cap. 28, under which, in the distribution of the assets of any company being wound up, the wages of clerks and workmen are, subject to certain restrictions, given priority over other debts. With the view of remedying this defect in the Indian law, the present Bill has been prepared. While following generally the lines of the English Statute, the Bill adopts the modifications of the law regarding the priority of the wages of workmen, in the case of the bankruptcy of private employers, made by section 40 of the English Bankruptcy Act, 1883 (46 & 47 Vic., cap. 52). As these provisions of the English Bankruptcy Act have been followed in the Indian Bankruptcy Bill now before the Legislative Council of the Governor General, it seems desirable that the amendment which this Bill makes in the Indian Companies Act should be drawn so far as possible in identical terms.

(3) In making any rule under sub-section (1) the Local Government may direct that a breach of it shall be punishable with fine which may extend to fifty rupees, and when the breach is a continuing breach with a further fine which may extend to ten rupees for every day after the first during which the breach continues.

(2) The assessment may be in labour or in cash or in both, and shall be subject to the approval of the Deputy Commissioner.

(3) When the assessment, or any part of the assessment, of any person consists of labour, the sum to be paid by him in cash in default of performance of the labour shall be determinable by the Deputy Commissioner as an alternative to the assessment or part.

(4) Any sum assessed or determinable under this section may be recovered by the Deputy Commissioner as an arrear of land-revenue.

(5) When an assessment is made under this section, the Deputy Commissioner may permit the notified area to be managed, under the superintendence of the prescribed Revenue-officer, by the persons paying the assessment, and the profits of the area shall be divisible among those persons in such manner as, subject to any rules under the last foregoing section, the Deputy Commissioner deems just.

Management where assessment is not made to meet the cost.

112. When an assessment is not made under the last foregoing section, the following consequences shall ensue, namely:—

(a) the notified area shall be managed by the prescribed Revenue-officer;

(b) the cost of management shall be defrayed from the proceeds of the produce of the area; and

(c) only the balance, if any, of those proceeds shall be divisible in manner aforesaid among the persons who before the publication of the notification were entitled to the profits of the area.

If a person liable to pay any sum to a headman or other landowner on account of rent, or of any liability to which that person is subject under this Act, tenders that sum to the headman or other landowner, and the sum is refused or a receipt therefor not forthwith granted, or if that person is doubtful as to the person entitled to receive the sum, he may apply to the prescribed Revenue-officer for leave to deposit the amount with the Government, and the Revenue-officer shall receive the deposit if, after such enquiry as he thinks fit, he is satisfied that the applicant has sufficient ground for making the application. (4) If the Revenue-officer is not so satisfied, he may retain the deposit pending the decision of a Court of competent jurisdiction, and shall then pay the deposit in accordance with that decision.

(5) If the deposit is not so paid within three years, it shall be repaid to the depositor or disposed of as he may desire.

(6) When a deposit has been received it shall, in any question between the depositor and the person to whose credit the deposit was placed, be deemed, while it remains with the Government or after it has been paid under sub-section (3) or sub-section (4), to be a payment made by the depositor to that person.

Saving of liability of Secretary of State and public officers.

125. No suit or other proceeding shall be instituted against the Secretary of State for India in Council, or against any officer of the Government, in respect of anything lawfully done by a Revenue-officer under the last foregoing section, but nothing in this section shall prevent any person entitled to receive the amount of any such deposit from recovering it from a person to whom it has been paid by a Revenue-officer. STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE law relating to the assessment and collection of the land-revenue and other connected subjects is contained in Act XXXIII of 1871. This Act was the first attempt to express in clear and concise language the various rules and orders—based on the "spirit" of the Bengal Regulations—by which the proceedings of Revenue and Settlement officials in the Punjab had,

up to that time, been regulated, and which had acquired the force of law under section 25 of the Indian Councils Act, 1861.

The Act under consideration was framed with great care by Sir James Stephen in consultation with the Financial Commissioner, Mr. (afterwards Sir. R.) Egerton, and the then Lieutenant-Governor, Sir R. H. Davies, both officers of large revenue and settlement experience. But subsequent experience has shown that it is incomplete in some respects and requires amendment in others. Some of the defects in it have recently formed the subject of correspondence with the Government of India, and others have been supplied in the enactments on the same subject which have since been framed for other parts of India. Moreover, the recent orders of the Government of India, based on recommendations of the Famine Commissioners, require that the continuous operations by which village-records are maintained correct to date shall be disconnected from those other occasional proceedings by which the assessment of the land-revenue is revised. And in the endeavour to recast the body of rules which have been issued under the authority of the existing law, with a view to the carrying out of those orders, technical difficulties have arisen which render the amendment of the Act a matter of necessity. The Punjab Tenancy Act, 1868, being under revision at the same time, the Bill has been so framed as to cover the entire jurisdiction of Revenue-officers, whether of a judicial, fiscal or executive character.

CHAPTER I.—PRELIMINARY.

This Chapter contains the necessary definitions—some of which are new and others have been incorporated from the Land-revenue Acts recently passed for other provinces—and a few other preliminary provisions.

CHAPTER II.—REVENUE-OFFICERS AND REVENUE COURTS.

The classification of Revenue-officers and Revenue Courts, the powers taken for the appointment of the former, and the provisions for the superintendence and control of both, differ little from the corresponding provisions of the existing law, which are scattered over three enactments—the Land-revenue Act, 1871, the Judicial Administration Act, 1875, and the Courts Act, 1884.

Section 9 gives a detail of the applications and proceedings which can be disposed of by Revenue-officers as such, and section 10 of those cases which they will deal with in their judicial capacity as Revenue Courts. The classes of cases of which particulars are given in this latter section are, with some not very important variations suggested by the experience of the last two years, taken from section 40 of the Courts Act, 1884; but the list has been supplemented by including in it suits under several new sections of the Bill now before the legislature for the amendment of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1868. In the Courts Act these suits have been divided into two groups, the first or more important group being reserved exclusively for trial by Deputy Commissioners. But as no such distinction existed before the passing of that Act, and as it has been found to be productive of serious inconvenience, it has been omitted from this Bill. The Local Government will by rule or notification under section 13 determine by what officers or classes of officers these cases will be heard, and the rule adopted will ordinarily, as in former years, be based mainly on the value of the suits.

Experience since the passing of the Courts Act having shown that the subordinate Civil and Revenue Courts do not always succeed in avoiding mistakes as to the respective limits of their jurisdictions, provision has been made in section 11 for obviating by a reference to the Chief Court the inconvenience and expense to the parties of setting aside the proceedings in cases where a Court has acted without jurisdiction, when neither party has been prejudiced by the mistake.

The other provisions of this Chapter which call for special notice are those relating to appeal and revision. The change in jurisdiction to try original revenue suits noted above has necessitated an alteration in the course of appeal, and in place of the somewhat complicated system of appeal laid down in sections 47 and 48 of the Courts Act, the more simple system provided in sections 19 and 20 of the Bill has been devised. Where the order in appeal confirms the original decision, there will be no further appeal; in other cases there will be a further appeal to the Financial Commissioner. By section 22 power has been given to the Financial Commissioner to call for and revise the proceedings of both Revenue-officers and Revenue Courts; as regards the former class of proceedings, this merely continues an authority which he already possesses under section 65 of the Land-revenue Act of 1871. The remaining sections of this Chapter relate to procedure, and for the most part reproduce provisions on the subjects in the Courts Act; where additions have been made, they have been taken from the revenue laws of other provinces.

CHAPTER III.—KÁNÚNGOS, ZAILDÁRS AND VILLAGE-OFFICERS.

The provisions of the existing law respecting these officers are contained in one short section. Those of the Bill are in greater detail, and provide expressly for the levy of a cess for the payment of village-officers, for the administration of the cess so levied, and for the control of these officers. Section 36, which authorizes the levy of this cess, also cures a defect in the present law by enabling the cess to be charged on the owner's and water-advantage rates.

CHAPTER IV.—RECORDS.

In framing this and the following chapter, the language of the existing law, which describes the framing of a record-of-rights and the assessment of the land-revenue by the term "settlement," has been departed from. These two chapters speak (i) of the preparation and maintenance of certain records for each village, and (ii) of the assessment of land-revenue on the basis furnished by those records. The powers necessary for these purposes are taken in the name of the ordinary Revenue-officers; and it is left open to Government to decide from time to time, as occasion arises, how much of these operations can be carried out by the ordinary district staff, and for what operations special and additional officers should be appointed under the authority provided in section 11.

A record-of-rights has now been provided for every district in the Province. Additions to these records are required from time to time as new estates come into existence. And their occasional revision is necessary, usually in connection with re-assessment operations. Under section 41 of the Bill it will be in the discretion of the Local Government to direct the undertaking of record-operations as occasion arises.

The tendency of recent experience is towards a much greater simplification of these records than any that was aimed at when the Act of 1871 was enacted, and therefore the definition of the contents of the record in section 39 of the Bill is briefer and less elaborate than that set out in section 11 of the existing Act. The existing limitations on the alteration of entries are continued by section 43. Section 44 provides for the prompt confirmation of the record. At present this confirmation is often delayed for a long time, because the operations of record and assessment cannot be dealt with separately.

The presumptions in favour of the title of the Government to waste-lands, forests, mines and minerals, which are asserted by the present law, are continued in sections 45 and 46, and words have been added to the latter section which assert the right of the Government to fisheries in navigable rivers, a right which the State has always possessed.

The provisions relating to village-cesses in section 48 give legal sanction to an authority which the Local Government often exercised in connection with the earlier settlements in the Punjab, which is still occasionally needed, and which is provided in the Land-revenue Acts of other Provinces of Upper India.

The rest of the Chapter relates to partition-proceedings, the record of mutations, and the preparation of the annual papers, and in these respects re-produces for the most part the provisions of the existing law and of the rules made under its authority. The only change of importance is the proposal to discontinue the system prescribed by section 21 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, by which all Courts are required to send to the Deputy Commissioner copies of decrees affecting rights in land or the possession thereof. No inconvenience has, it is understood, been experienced in the North-Western Provinces during the last twelve years in consequence of the removal of a provision of this kind from the law applicable to those provinces; and it is believed that, as there the reports of changes of possession which are required to be made by sections 97 and 99 of Act XIX of 1873 have produced the desired effect, so here the somewhat similar provision in section 52 of the Bill will prove equally effective.

CHAPTER V.—ASSESSMENT.

This Chapter is so drafted that while continuing all the provisions of the existing law, it supplies some important omissions in that law and expresses with clearness the procedure which has grown up under it. The opening sections of the Chapter expressly declare that the land-revenue is the first charge on the land, its rents and its produce, and they further provide security against the alienation of the rents and produce until this charge has been satisfied. The absence of any clear provision of this nature has been the cause of some inconvenience during past years. It has not uncommonly happened that a decree-holder has succeeded in attaching rents or produce due to a landowner before the latter has paid his revenue, leaving the Revenue-officers no remedy except that of proceeding against the produce of the next harvest, or against the land itself.

By the procedure laid down in sections 60 to 63 the formality of demanding from the landowners of every estate or their representatives a written engagement accepting the new assessment is dispensed with. But the landowners will still be at liberty to refuse to be liable for the assessment fixed by the Deputy Commissioner, and the consequences of refusal will be the same as those which follow from refusal to accept an assessment under the present law. Refusals of this kind, however, occur so seldom in the Punjab that the really important point in the procedure connected with the giving of effect to revised assessments lies less in the provisions dealing with these refusals than in those contained in sections 61 and 62 of the Bill, which provide for the hearing of objections and appeals, and for the modification of assessments prior to confirmation. In a country of small holdings cultivated by the owners themselves—and this is the prevailing character of Punjab tenures—an owner is very rarely in a position to decline to pay the new assessment; if he thinks that it is too heavy, the only remedy practically open to him is to appeal against it, and this is the remedy which he has almost invariably adopted.

Section 67 gives a power of converting the dues of a superior landowner, when leviable in kind or cash of varying quantity or amount, into a fixed percentage on the land-revenue. This authority existed prior to the enactment of the present law, and, in a case of some importance which recently came under consideration and was adjusted by compromise in the manner provided for in this section, the absence of this authority caused serious embarassment both to the Revenue-officers and to those who were liable for the revenue.

CHAPTER VI.—COLLECTION OF LAND-REVENUE.

No very material change has been made in this Chapter in the law relating to the recovery of arrears, but in drafting the sections which deal with this subject an attempt has been made to set forth the several processes which can be resorted to for this purpose and their results in as simple a form as possible. The following are the principal alterations made:—(a) the period during which a defaulter may be imprisoned has been reduced by section 78 from one year to one month; (b) the exemptions from attachment and sale specified in section 266 of the Code of Civil Procedure have been extended by section 79 in the case of revenue defaulters to seed-grain, and to so much of the produce of a defaulter's land as is necessary for the support of himself and his family and the maintenance of his cattle until the harvest next following the execution of the process; (c) in order to render the Chapter complete in itself, the procedure for the sale of a defaulter's land, instead of being dealt with, as in the present Act, by reference to the sections of the Code of Civil Procedure relating to the sale of immoveable property, has been set out in full by the incorporation of those sections, with some necessary modifications, in the Bill.

CHAPTER VII.—RECOVERY OF OTHER DEMANDS BY REVENUE-OFFICERS.

This Chapter contains provisions for the recovery as arrears of land-revenue of sums due to headmen and other village-officers, and of a number of items of miscellaneous revenue. Almost all that is new in this Chapter is taken from the Revenue and Rent Acts of other provinces.

CHAPTER VIII.—VILLAGE WASTE-LANDS.

The provisions of this Chapter are altogether new, but their general policy is believed to be entirely in accordance with the views of the Government of India. They have been framed with the object of securing in suitable estates the management of a portion of the waste-land for the production of timber, fuel and fodder. The area to be so treated is not to exceed one-fifth of the waste, and power is taken by section 110 to make rules for its management on the part of the landowners. Both the order directing that certain areas shall be reserved for these purposes and the rules for their management will be issued by the Local Government, and provision is made that, before the issue of any such order, objections shall be invited and considered.

CHAPTER IX.—SURVEYS AND BOUNDARIES.

This Chapter contains the usual provisions for facilitating the survey of land for revenue purposes. Similar provisions are to be found in all the Land-revenue Acts of other provinces of Upper India, and these do not therefore seem to call for special notice. Some of the remedies for failure on the part of the landowners to erect and maintain boundary-marks, and the penalties for wilfully destroying, injuring or removing such marks after they have been set up, are of a summary nature, the object being to avoid the necessity for the institution of criminal proceedings except where really required by the gravity of the case.

CHAPTER X.—SUPPLEMENTAL PROVISIONS.

This Chapter deals with matters for which provision could not conveniently be made in other parts of the Bill. Of these the following are the most important. The first is that contained in sections 126 and 127. So long as civil, criminal and revenue jurisdiction was vested in the same officers, the subordinate revenue establishments, from the Tahsildars downwards, were at the disposal of the Courts for the execution of processes relating to land and its produce. But civil and revenue jurisdiction now vests, for the most part, in separate officers; and consequently the officers presiding over Civil Courts have no longer at their command any organized agency by which those processes can be executed. The object of these sections is to supply this deficiency by continuing the practice which existed before the passing of the Courts Act of 1884. By them the orders of Civil Courts relating to land and the rents and produce thereof will, as before, be executed by the Revenue-officers and their establishments, and the necessity for creating a separate agency for this purpose will be avoided.

By another section (128) the same power is given to a Revenue-officer, in cases of dispute, of dividing produce between co-sharers, as that which has always been possessed by him for the division of produce between landlord and tenant.

Section 129 confers the powers to make rules which are necessary for the proper working of the Act, and section 132 defines the matters in regard to which the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts will be barred. No material change has been made in respect of either of these subjects.

In section 133 provision has been made to meet the uncertainties attaching to jurisdiction in cases relating to alluvial lands on the larger rivers where they form the boundary between districts.

Lastly, section 134 declares that all records and papers which a village-officer is required by law to prepare and keep shall be the property of Government, and makes suitable provision for their production and proof. The object of this section is to render unnecessary the inconvenient practice of summoning patwáris merely for the purpose of proving the authenticity of papers prepared or kept by them.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE object of this Bill is to declare the law in force in the territories of Upper Burma, which were annexed to British India on the 26th of February, 1886.

2. It is proposed to unite those territories in one province with the territories at present known as British Burma, but, as it is not desirable to introduce immediately into the new territories all the law at present in force in British Burma, it is necessary to distinguish between those territories and British Burma. This the Bill accordingly does (section 2) by dividing the province of Burma into two parts—Upper Burma, the lately annexed territories, and Lower Burma, corresponding to the present British Burma. As, however, in consequence of the present boundary having been aligned without regard to the limits of ancient divisions, it may be convenient to transfer some small portions of Upper Burma to Lower Burma, and of Lower Burma to Upper Burma, the Bill confers special power on the Local Government to do this, subject to the sanction of the Governor-General in Council. In order further to prevent any question being raised as to the local application of Acts at present applying to "British Burma," the Bill (section 3) declares that in enactments now in force that expression is to be construed as referring to Lower Burma.

3. Section 4 repeals some Acts which the incorporation of Upper Burma in British India renders it unnecessary to retain on the Statute-book.

4. Section 5 declares the enactments which are to come into force in Upper Burma. These enactments are enumerated in a schedule which has been prepared by the local authorities. This schedule is based primarily on the schedule to the Arakan Hill District Laws Regulation, 1874, but contains some additional laws which appear to be required by the circumstances of Upper Burma. There is also added a second part to the schedule, specifying a few enactments which are to come into force in the Mandalay district only, where a somewhat more elaborate Code of Laws is required than elsewhere. After declaring these enactments to be in force, the section bars the application of all other enactments, but saves any power of extending enactments which may be conferred by section 5 of the Scheduled Districts Act, 1874, or by any other enactment for the time being in force. Lastly, the section confers on the Local Government a power of withdrawing any enactment which is contained in the schedule or which may hereafter be extended.

5. Section 6 makes certain modifications in Acts VIII of 1851, V of 1861, and VI of 1864, which are considered necessary to adapt them to the peculiar circumstances of Upper Burma, while section 7 permits Courts in Upper Burma, when applying any enactment for the time being in force, to construe it with such alterations not affecting the substance as may be necessary or proper to adapt it to the matter before the Court. This provision, which is taken from the Zanzibar Order in Council of 1884, will, it is hoped, in conjunction with the powers conferred on the Local Government by section 6, clause (c), of the Scheduled Districts Act, 1874, be sufficient to remove any technical difficulties which might possibly be raised as to the working of any enactment in force in Upper Burma.

6. Section 8 provides an indemnity which seems necessary in order to cover possible cases that might arise with respect to the action of British officers during the reign of martial law or during the absence of all law in Upper Burma.

7. Finally, section 9, following section 25 of the Indian Councils Act, 1861, validates the Instructions to Civil Officers and other directions issued since the occupation of Upper Burma.

NO. 16 OF 1886.

A Bill to prescribe the mode of valuing certain suits for the purpose of determining the jurisdiction of Courts with respect thereto.

WHEREAS it is expedient to prescribe the mode of valuing certain suits for the purpose of determining the jurisdiction of Courts with respect thereto; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Short title, local extent and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Suits Valuation Act, 1886; and

(2) It shall extend to such local areas, and come into force therein on such dates, as the Governor-General in Council, by notification in the Gazette of India, from time to time directs.

Power for Local Government to make rules to determine value of land for purposes of jurisdiction.

2. (1) The Local Government may from time to time, with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, make rules for determining the value of land for purposes of jurisdiction in the suits mentioned in the Court-fees Act, 1870, section 7, paragraphs v and vi, and paragraph x, clause (d).

(2) The rules may determine the value of any class of land, or of any interest in land, in the whole or any part of the local area in which this Act is in force in the territories under the administration of the Local Government, and the value so determined may vary from place to place within the local area or part thereof to which the rules apply.

Value of relief sought in certain suits not to exceed value of the land to which those suits relate.

3. 5. (1) The objection that a suit was not properly valued for purposes of jurisdiction shall not be entertained by an appellate Court unless the objection was taken in the Court of first instance. [Act XII of 1881, s. 206.]

(2) If the objection was taken in the Court of first instance but the appellate Court has before it the materials necessary for the determination of the suit, it shall dispose of the appeal as if the suit had been instituted in the proper Court. [Act XII of 1881, s. 207.]

(3) If the appellate Court has not those materials before it, it shall proceed under the rules applicable to it with respect to the hearing of appeals; but if it remands the suit, or frames and refers issues for trial, or requires additional evidence to be taken, it may direct its order either to the Court prescribed in that behalf in those rules or to any Court competent, in its opinion, to entertain the suit; and the objection that the order of the appellate Court was directed to a Court which was not competent to entertain the suit shall not be taken on further appeal. [Act XII of 1881, s. 208.]

(4) Nothing in this section shall be construed to affect the provisions of section 28 of the Court-fees Act, 1870. VII of 1870.

Repeal of section 14 of the Madras Civil Courts Act, 1873.

6. On and from the date on which rules under this Act take effect in any part of the territories under the administration of the Governor of Fort Saint George in Council to which the Madras Civil Courts Act, 1873, extends, section 14 of that Act shall be repealed as regards that part: III of 1873

Provided that the repeal of that section shall not affect the jurisdiction of any Court with respect to any suit instituted in that part before the rules take effect therein.

Time and procedure for making rules.

7. (1) Rules may be made under this Act at any time after the passing thereof.

(2) A Local Government shall, before making rules under this Act, consult the High Court with respect thereto and publish a draft of the proposed rules in the official Gazette.

(3) There shall be published with the draft a notice specifying a date at or after which the draft will be taken into consideration.

(4) The Local Government shall receive and consider any objection or suggestion which may be made by any person with respect to the draft before the date so specified.

(5) A rule made under this Act shall not take effect before the Act has come into force in the local area for which the rule has been made or till the expiration of one month after the rule has been published in the local official Gazette.

(6) The publication in the Gazette of a rule purporting to be made under this Act shall be conclusive proof that it has been made as required by this section.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE principal object of this Bill is to prescribe a simple mode of valuing suits relating to land for the purpose of determining the jurisdiction of the Courts with respect to them. Most of those suits are of course cognizable exclusively by Civil Courts, but some of them, as for instance, suits in the Punjab under section 9 of the Specific Relief Act, may be tried by Revenue Courts.

2. It has been brought to the notice of the Government that, while the Civil Courts Acts of the several Provinces, with the exception of that in force in the Presidency of Madras, prescribe no special rules for fixing the value for jurisdiction of the subject-matter of land-suits, but simply define the limit of the jurisdiction of each grade of Court by the money-value of the subject-matter in suit, thus leaving the market-value to be the strictly legal criterion, a practice has sprung up, generally in the inferior Courts, of accepting, in the absence of any express provision of law to the contrary, the court-fee valuation as laid down in section 7, paragraph v, of Act VII of 1870, for purposes of jurisdiction also.

3. The generally admitted result is that land-suits are undervalued and disposed of by Courts not strictly competent to try them. In order to remedy this state of things the present Bill has been prepared. It empowers (section 2) the Local Government to frame rules, subject to the sanction of the Governor-General in Council, for determining the value of land in the territories under its administration for purposes of jurisdiction in the suits mentioned in section 7, paragraphs v and vi, and paragraph x, clause (d), of the Court-fees Act, 1870, namely, suits for possession of land, to enforce a right of pre-emption, and for specific performance of an award relating to land. These rules are to be made after consultation with the High Court; and the Bill provides (section 7) a procedure for the publication of proposed rules, so that the Courts and the public may have an opportunity of preferring any objections which they may have to them before the rules are made. The Bill further declares (section 3) that where a suit mentioned in paragraph iv of section 7, or article 17 of Schedule II, of the Court-fees Act, relates to land, the amount at which for purposes of jurisdiction the relief sought in the suit is valued shall not exceed the value of the land to which the suit relates as determined by the rules under the Act.

4. In addition to the foregoing provisions, which relate exclusively to land-suits, section 4 provides that in other suits in which court-fees are payable ad valorem, the value for purposes of jurisdiction shall be estimated in accordance with the rules which regulate the value for court-fee purposes.

5. Section 5 of the Bill is taken from sections 206-208 of the North-Western Provinces Rent Act, 1881, and has been inserted at the suggestion of Sir Charles Turner, late Chief Justice of Madras. It lays down a special procedure for cases in which the objection that a suit was not properly valued for purposes of jurisdiction is taken in an appellate Court, an objection which the Bill declares may not be entertained unless it was taken in the Court of first instance.

6. Lastly, the Bill (section 6) repeals section 14 of the Madras Civil Courts Act, 1873, which enacts the rule of valuation which it is the object of this Bill to abolish, namely, the valuation for jurisdiction in the case of land-suits shall be in accordance with the court-fee valuation prescribed by section 7, paragraph v, of the Court-fees Act, 1870. In order, however, to prevent hardship or inconvenience to suitors, it is provided that this repeal shall not affect any suit instituted before the rules under the proposed Act take effect.

[Second publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 11th August, 1886:—

NO. 17 OF 1886.

A Bill to amend the Indian Evidence Act, 1872.

WHEREAS it is expedient that Revenue-officers should not be compelled to say whence they obtain information with respect to offences against the public revenue; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

1. The following section shall be substituted for section 125 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, namely:— I of 1872.

New section substituted for section 125 of the Evidence Act.

"125. (1) No Magistrate, Police-officer or Revenue-officer shall be compelled to say whence he got any information as to the commission of any offence.

Information as to commission of offences.

(2) 'Revenue-officer' in this section means any officer employed in or about the business of any branch of the public revenue." [Act X, 1876, s. 3.]

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE object of this Bill is to prevent officers of any department concerned with any branch of the public revenue from being compelled to say whence they got any information as to the commission of any offence.

In England not only is it the case that witnesses may not be compelled to disclose, but they are not even permitted to be asked, the names of those from whom they receive information as to frauds on the revenue (Russell on Crimes and Misdemeanours, Fifth Edition, III, 553). The law on the subject is further stated in Bell's Laws of Excise as follows:—

"It is a rule of evidence applicable to criminal cases, and the same rule has always been held to apply to penal informations at the suit of the revenue, that a witness is not permitted to disclose privileged communications brought to his knowledge for the furtherance of justice. 'This is not the privilege of the witness, but may be justly called a public privilege, and is observed on a principle of public policy and from regard to public interests' (1 Phil. Ev. 272). Hence 'those questions which tend to the discovery of the channels by which the disclosure was made to the officers of justice, are not permitted to be asked' (Rex v. Hardy, 24 Howell's S. T. 753—Eyre, L. C. J.). 'If the name of the informer were to be disclosed, no man would make a discovery, and public justice would be defeated' (Id., p. 814—Buller, J.). In the case of Attorney-General v. Bryant it was held that a witness for the Crown could not be asked 'Did you give the information?' (15 M. & W. 169)."

It cannot be ascertained from the records of the Legislative Department why the English law with respect to the disclosure by Revenue-officers of the source of information as to the commission of offences against the revenue was not incorporated in the Indian Evidence Act, 1872. The omission has caused much inconvenience, and is even said to be seriously impairing the efficiency of the Excise and Salt Departments in the Presidency of Bombay.

(2) In the same section, the words "not being merely a surety for the principal debtor" are repealed.

(3) For the proviso to the same section the following shall be substituted, namely :—

"Provided that nothing in this section shall—

"(i) apply to a suit for the recovery of money from a person who is a surety merely of the principal debtor if the principal debtor was not, at the time when the cause of action arose, an agriculturist; or

"(ii) revive the right to bring any suit which would have been barred by limitation if it had been instituted immediately before this Act comes into force."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE object of this Bill is to make in the Dekkhan Agriculturists' Relief Act, 1879, certain amendments suggested by a report on the working of the Act and by the further experience gained during the four years which have elapsed since the Act last underwent revision.

2. By section 3 of the Bill it is proposed to empower the Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, to extend the Act wholly or in part to any district in the Presidency of Bombay. The effect of this provision will be to render it unnecessary for the Council of the Governor-General to undertake legislation whenever it may be deemed expedient to extend to any district either the whole of the Act or any particular provisions of it, such as those requiring the history of transactions with agriculturist-debtors to be investigated or those relating to the mode of taking accounts.

3. By section 4 the expression "lease" is defined as in the Indian Registration Act, 1877. The insertion of this definition in section 2 of the Act is deemed desirable because in section 56 the word "lease" must be taken to mean a kabuliyat or undertaking to cultivate or occupy rather than a lease in its ordinary sense.

4. Section 5 has been introduced, on the recommendation of the Special Judge, for reasons which are stated as follows :—

"Section 7 of the Act merely makes the examination of the defendant compulsory in all suits under Chapter II, which includes even non-agriculturist suits; but sections 12-14 apply to many suits which affect agriculturists only and do not fall under Chapter II, and it is even more important that the defendant should be examined as a witness in such suits than in many of the suits to which Chapter II applies. The defendant is generally the debtor, but in redemption-suits it is the plaintiff who is the debtor, and it is his examination that is most necessary. It is moreover almost impossible for the Courts to investigate the past history of an old debt in a satisfactory manner without examining both creditor and debtor as witnesses. Again, unless a provision against ex parte decrees be inserted in Chapter III, it will not be possible to guard against ex parte decrees in other districts to which the Act may hereafter be extended without also extending the other provisions of Chapter II at the same time."

5. Standing crops are usually the legitimate security for an advance for the purposes of cultivation. It is proposed, therefore, by section 6 of the Bill, to make the standing crops of an agriculturist liable to be taken in execution of a decree even though they have not been specifically mortgaged for the repayment of the debt to which the decree relates.

6. The proposal to confer on Conciliators the power to require the attendance of persons against whom applications are made under section 39 of the Act was negatived by the Council of the Governor-General in 1882. The Government of Bombay has now urged the reconsideration of the proposal on the ground that the present law deprives the Conciliator in a large proportion of cases of all chance of exercising his functions. The statistics of late years fully support this view, while they prove that, where parties have attended before Conciliators, conciliation has been annually more and more successful. It is proposed, therefore, by section 7 of the Bill, to empower selected Conciliators not only to invite, but to require, the attendance before them of persons against whom applications are made.

7. Sections 8, 9 and 10 of the Bill modify those provisions of the existing law which relate to registration, by requiring documents of which the registration is compulsory under the Indian Registration Act, 1877, to be registered by Registering-officers appointed under that Act instead of by Village-Registrars appointed under the Dekkhan Agriculturists' Relief Act, 1879. But Registering-officers under the former Act are, where the executants of those documents are agriculturists, to observe the procedure prescribed for observance by Village-Registrars under the latter Act. Village-Registrars are to continue to register documents of which the registration is not compulsory under the Indian Registration Act, 1877. They are, however, to be relieved of much of the clerical labour imposed on them by the existing law. Instead of making at least two copies of the documents which they register, they are to enter in their registers, in such form as may be prescribed, abstracts only of the documents; and provision is made for granting copies of the abstracts free of charge, and for the admission of the copies as evidence of the contents of the documents.

8. The reasons for the amendments which it is proposed by section 11 of the Bill to make in section 72 of the Act are stated by the Special Judge as follows :—

"The words 'not being merely a surety for the principal debtor' were introduced by Act XXIII of 1881, in order to prevent the anomaly of the agriculturist surety of a non-agriculturist principal being held liable for a debt, after such debt has become time-barred as against his principal; but the amendment has itself produced a converse anomaly, namely, that, when principal and surety are both of them agriculturists, the extended period of limitation applies to the principal and not to the surety. As soon as the recent decisions to this effect become generally known, the result will be that even the principal debtor will lose the supposed benefit of the extended period of limitation, because few creditors will care to wait for the extended period when such waiting will deprive them of their remedy against the surety. I may mention here that the expression suits under this Act at the beginning of section 72 is objectionable, because there are no suits properly speaking under the Act. I think the words should be suits of the description mentioned in section 3, clause (w). This would include all suits on bonds, khatas, written acknowledgments, and the like, and would exclude suits for rent, suits for damages, &c., to which there is no necessity of applying a special law of limitation."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE object of this Bill is to declare the law in force in the territories of Upper Burma, which were annexed to British India on the 26th of February, 1886.

2. It is proposed to unite those territories in one province with the territories at present known as British Burma, but, as it is not desirable to introduce immediately into the new territories all the law at present in force in British Burma, it is necessary to distinguish between those territories and British Burma. This the Bill accordingly does (section 2) by dividing the province of Burma into two parts—Upper Burma, the lately annexed territories, and Lower Burma, corresponding to the present British Burma. As, however, in consequence of the present boundary having been aligned without regard to the limits of ancient divisions, it may be convenient to transfer some small portions of Upper Burma to Lower Burma, and of Lower Burma to Upper Burma, the Bill confers special power on the Local Government to do this, subject to the sanction of the Governor-General in Council. In order further to prevent any question being raised as to the local application of Acts at present applying to "British Burma," the Bill (section 3) declares that in enactments now in force that expression is to be construed as referring to Lower Burma.

3. Section 4 repeals some Acts which the incorporation of Upper Burma in British India renders it unnecessary to retain on the Statute-book.

4. Section 5 declares the enactments which are to come into force in Upper Burma. These enactments are enumerated in a schedule which has been prepared by the local authorities. This schedule is based primarily on the schedule to the Arakan Hill District Laws Regulation, 1874, but contains some additional laws which appear to be required by the circumstances of Upper Burma. There is also added a second part to the schedule, specifying a few enactments which are to come into force in the Mandalay district only, where a somewhat more elaborate Code of Laws is required than elsewhere. After declaring these enactments to be in force, the section bars the application of all other enactments, but saves any power of extending enactments which may be conferred by section 5 of the Scheduled Districts Act, 1874, or by any other enactment for the time being in force. Lastly, the section confers on the Local Government a power of withdrawing any enactment which is contained in the schedule or which may hereafter be extended.

5. Section 6 makes certain modifications in Acts VIII of 1851, V of 1861, and VI of 1864, which are considered necessary to adapt them to the peculiar circumstances of Upper Burma, while section 7 permits Courts in Upper Burma, when applying any enactment for the time being in force, to construe it with such alterations not affecting the substance as may be necessary or proper to adapt it to the matter before the Court. This provision, which is taken from the Zanzibar Order in Council of 1884, will, it is hoped, in conjunction with the powers conferred on the Local Government by section 6, clause (c), of the Scheduled Districts Act, 1874, be sufficient to remove any technical difficulties which might possibly be raised as to the working of any enactment in force in Upper Burma.

6. Section 8 provides an indemnity which seems necessary in order to cover possible cases that might arise with respect to the action of British officers during the reign of martial law or during the absence of all law in Upper Burma.

7. Finally, section 9, following section 25 of the Indian Councils Act, 1861, validates the Instructions to Civil Officers and other directions issued since the occupation of Upper Burma.

[Third publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 11th August, 1886:—

No. 16 OF 1886.

A Bill to prescribe the mode of valuing certain suits for the purpose of determining the jurisdiction of Courts with respect thereto.

WHEREAS it is expedient to prescribe the mode of valuing certain suits for the purpose of determining the jurisdiction of Courts with respect thereto; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title, local extent and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Suits Valuation Act, 1886; and

(2) It shall extend to such local areas, and come into force therein on such dates, as the Governor-General in Council, by notification in the Gazette of India, from time to time directs.

Power for Local Government to make rules to determine value of land for purposes of jurisdiction.

2. (1) The Local Government may from time to time, with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, make rules for determining the value of land for purposes of jurisdiction in the suits mentioned in the Court-fees Act, 1870, section 7, paragraphs v and vi, and paragraph x, clause (d).

(2) The rules may determine the value of any class of land, or of any interest in land, in the whole or any part of the local area in which this Act is in force in the territories under the administration of the Local Government, and the value so determined may vary from place to place within the local area or part thereof to which the rules apply.

Value of relief sought in certain suits not to exceed value of the land to which those suits relate.

3. Where a suit mentioned in paragraph iv of section 7, or in article 17 of Schedule II, of the Court-fees Act, 1870, relates to land or an interest in land, the amount at which for purposes of jurisdiction the relief sought in the suit is valued shall not exceed the value of the land or interest to which the suit relates as determined by the rules made under the last foregoing section.

Ad valorem court-fee value in other suits to be value for purposes of jurisdiction.

4. Where in suits other than those referred to in sections 2 and 3 court-fees are payable ad valorem under the Court-fees Act, 1870, the value as determinable for the computation of court-fees shall be the value for purposes of jurisdiction. VII of 1870.

Procedure where objection is taken on appeal that suit was not properly valued for purposes of jurisdiction.

5. (1) The objection that a suit was not properly valued for purposes of jurisdiction shall not be entertained by an appellate Court unless the objection was taken in the Court of first instance. [Act XII of 1881, s. 206.]

(2) If the objection was taken in the Court of first instance but the appellate Court has before it the materials necessary for the determination of the suit, it shall dispose of the appeal as if the suit had been instituted in the proper Court. [Act XII of 1881, s. 207.]

(3) If the appellate Court has not those materials before it, it shall proceed under the rules applicable to it with respect to the hearing of appeals; but if it remands the suit, or frames and refers issues for trial, or requires additional evidence to be taken, it may direct its order either to the Court prescribed in that behalf in those rules or to any Court competent, in its opinion, to entertain the suit; and the objection that the order of the appellate Court was directed to a Court which was not competent to entertain the suit shall not be taken on further appeal. [Act XII of 1881, s. 208.]

Repeal of section 14 of the Madras Civil Courts Act, 1873.

6. On and from the date on which rules under this Act take effect in any part of the territories under the administration of the Governor of Fort Saint George in Council to which the Madras Civil Courts Act, 1873, extends, section 14 of that Act shall be repealed as regards that part: III of 1873.

Provided that the repeal of that section shall not affect the jurisdiction of any Court with respect to any suit instituted in that part before the rules take effect therein.

Time and procedure for making rules.

7. (1) Rules may be made under this Act at any time after the passing thereof.

(2) A Local Government shall, before making rules under this Act, consult the High Court with respect thereto and publish a draft of the proposed rules in the official Gazette.

(3) There shall be published with the draft a notice specifying a date at or after which the draft will be taken into consideration.

(4) The Local Government shall receive and consider any objection or suggestion which may be made by any person with respect to the draft before the date so specified.

(5) A rule made under this Act shall not take effect before the Act has come into force in the local area for which the rule has been made or till the expiration of one month after the rule has been published in the local official Gazette.

(6) The publication in the Gazette of a rule purporting to be made under this Act shall be conclusive proof that it has been made as required by this section.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE principal object of this Bill is to prescribe a simple mode of valuing suits relating to land for the purpose of determining the jurisdiction of the Courts with respect to them. Most of those suits are of course cognizable exclusively by Civil Courts, but some of them, as for instance, suits in the Punjab under section 9 of the Specific Relief Act, may be tried by Revenue Courts.

2. It has been brought to the notice of the Government that, while the Civil Courts Acts of the several Provinces, with the exception of that in force in the Presidency of Madras, prescribe no special rules for fixing the value for jurisdiction of the subject-matter of land-suits, but simply define the limit of the jurisdiction of each grade of Court by the money-value of the subject-matter in suit, thus leaving the market-value to be the strictly legal criterion, a practice has sprung up, generally in the inferior Courts, of accepting, in the absence of any express provision of law to the contrary, the court-fee valuation as laid down in section 7, paragraph v, of Act VII of 1870, for purposes of jurisdiction also.

3. The, generally admitted result is that land-suits are undervalued and disposed of by Courts not strictly competent to try them. In order to remedy this state of things the present Bill has been prepared. It empowers (section 2) the Local Government to frame rules, subject to the sanction of the Governor-General in Council, for determining the value of land in the territories under its administration for purposes of jurisdiction in the suits mentioned in section 7, paragraphs v and vi, and paragraph x, clause (d), of the Court-fees Act, 1870, namely, suits for possession of land, to enforce a right of pre-emption, and for specific performance of an award relating to land. These rules are to be made after consultation with the High Court; and the Bill provides (section 7) a procedure for the publication of proposed rules, so that the Courts and the public may have an opportunity of preferring any objections which they may have to them before the rules are made. The Bill further declares (section 3) that where a suit mentioned in paragraph iv of section 7, or article 17 of Schedule II, of the Court-fees Act, relates to land, the amount at which for purposes of jurisdiction the relief sought in the suit is valued shall not exceed the value of the land to which the suit relates as determined by the rules under the Act.

4. In addition to the foregoing provisions, which relate exclusively to land-suits, section 4 provides that in other suits in which court-fees are payable ad valorem, the value for purposes of jurisdiction shall be estimated in accordance with the rules which regulate the value for court-fee purposes.

5. Section 5 of the Bill is taken from sections 206-208 of the North-Western Provinces Rent Act, 1881, and has been inserted at the suggestion of Sir Charles Turner, late Chief Justice of Madras. It lays down a special procedure for cases in which the objection that a suit was not properly valued for purposes of jurisdiction is taken in an appellate Court, an objection which the Bill declares may not be entertained unless it was taken in the Court of first instance.

6. Lastly, the Bill (section 6) repeals section 14 of the Madras Civil Courts Act, 1873, which enacts the rule of valuation which it is the object of this Bill to abolish, namely, the valuation for jurisdiction in the case of land-suits shall be in accordance with the court-fee valuation prescribed by section 7, paragraph v, of the Court-fees Act, 1870. In order, however, to prevent hardship or inconvenience to suitors, it is provided that this repeal shall not affect any suit instituted before the rules under the proposed Act take effect.

[Third publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 11th August, 1886:—

NO. 17 OF 1886.

A Bill to amend the Indian Evidence Act, 1872.

WHEREAS it is expedient that Revenue-officers should not be compelled to say whence they obtain information with respect to offences against the public revenue; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

New section substituted for section 125 of the Evidence Act.

1. The following section shall be substituted for section 125 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, namely: 1 of 1872.

Information as to commission of offences.

"125. (1) No Magistrate, Police-officer or Revenue-officer shall be compelled to say whence he got any information as to the commission of any offence.

(2) 'Revenue-officer' in this section means any officer employed in or about the business of any branch of the public revenue." [Act X, 1876, s. 3.]

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE object of this Bill is to prevent officers of any department concerned with any branch of the public revenue from being compelled to say whence they got any information as to the commission of any offence.

In England not only is it the case that witnesses may not be compelled to disclose, but they are not even permitted to be asked, the names of those from whom they receive information as to frauds on the revenue (Russell on Crimes and Misdemeanours, Fifth Edition, III, 553). The law on the subject is further stated in Bell's Laws of Excise as follows:—

"It is a rule of evidence applicable to criminal cases, and the same rule has always been held to apply to penal informations at the suit of the revenue, that a witness is not permitted to disclose privileged communications brought to his knowledge for the furtherance of justice. 'This is not the privilege of the witness, but may be justly called a public privilege, and is observed on a principle of public policy and from regard to public interests' (1 Phil. Ev. 272). Hence 'those questions which tend to the discovery of the channels by which the disclosure was made to the officers of justice, are not permitted to be asked' (Rex v. Hardy, 24 Howell's S. T. 753—Eyre, L. C. J.). 'If the name of the informer were to be disclosed, no man would make a discovery, and public justice would be defeated' (Id., p. 814—Buller, J.). In the case of Attorney-General v. Bryant it was held that a witness for the Crown could not be asked 'Did you give the information?' (15 M. & W. 169)."

It cannot be ascertained from the records of the Legislative Department why the English law with respect to the disclosure by Revenue-officers of the source of information as to the commission of offences against the revenue was not incorporated in the Indian Evidence Act, 1872. The omission has caused much inconvenience, and is even said to be seriously impairing the efficiency of the Excise and Salt Departments in the Presidency of Bombay.

Amendment of section 72.

(2) In the same section, the words "not being merely a surety for the principal debtor" are repealed.

(3) For the proviso to the same section the following shall be substituted, namely :—

"Provided that nothing in this section shall—

"(i) apply to a suit for the recovery of money from a person who is a surety merely of the principal debtor if the principal debtor was not, at the time when the cause of action arose, an agriculturist; or

"(ii) revive the right to bring any suit which would have been barred by limitation if it had been instituted immediately before this Act comes into force."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE object of this Bill is to make in the Dekkhan Agriculturists' Relief Act, 1879, certain amendments suggested by a report on the working of the Act and by the further experience gained during the four years which have elapsed since the Act last underwent revision.

2. By section 3 of the Bill it is proposed to empower the Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, to extend the Act wholly or in part to any district in the Presidency of Bombay. The effect of this provision will be to render it unnecessary for the Council of the Governor-General to undertake legislation whenever it may be deemed expedient to extend to any district either the whole of the Act or any particular provisions of it, such as those requiring the history of transactions with agriculturist-debtors to be investigated or those relating to the mode of taking accounts.

3. By section 4 the expression "lease" is defined as in the Indian Registration Act, 1877. The insertion of this definition in section 2 of the Act is deemed desirable because in section 56 the word "lease" must be taken to mean a kabuliyat or undertaking to cultivate or occupy rather than a lease in its ordinary sense.

4. Section 5 has been introduced, on the recommendation of the Special Judge, for reasons which are stated as follows :—

"Section 7 of the Act merely makes the examination of the defendant compulsory in all suits under Chapter II, which includes even non-agriculturist suits; but sections 12-14 apply to many suits which affect agriculturists only and do not fall under Chapter II, and it is even more important that the defendant should be examined as a witness in such suits than in many of the suits to which Chapter II applies. The defendant is generally the debtor, but in redemption-suits it is the plaintiff who is the debtor, and it is his examination that is most necessary. It is moreover almost impossible for the Courts to investigate the past history of an old debt in a satisfactory manner without examining both creditor and debtor as witnesses. Again, unless a provision against ex parte decrees be inserted in Chapter III, it will not be possible to guard against ex parte decrees in other districts to which the Act may hereafter be extended without also extending the other provisions of Chapter II at the same time."

5. Standing crops are usually the legitimate security for an advance for the purposes of cultivation. It is proposed, therefore, by section 6 of the Bill, to make the standing crops of an agriculturist liable to be taken in execution of a decree even though they have not been specifically mortgaged for the repayment of the debt to which the decree relates.

6. The proposal to confer on Conciliators the power to require the attendance of persons against whom applications are made under section 39 of the Act was negatived by the Council of the Governor-General in 1882. The Government of Bombay has now urged the reconsideration of the proposal on the ground that the present law deprives the Conciliator in a large proportion of cases of all chance of exercising his functions. The statistics of late years fully support this view, while they prove that, where parties have attended before Conciliators, conciliation has been annually more and more successful. It is proposed, therefore, by section 7 of the Bill, to empower selected Conciliators not only to invite, but to require, the attendance before them of persons against whom applications are made.

7. Sections 8, 9 and 10 of the Bill modify those provisions of the existing law which relate to registration, by requiring documents of which the registration is compulsory under the Indian Registration Act, 1877, to be registered by Registering-officers appointed under that Act instead of by Village-Registrars appointed under the Dekkhan Agriculturists' Relief Act, 1879. But Registering-officers under the former Act are, where the executants of those documents are agriculturists, to observe the procedure prescribed for observance by Village-Registrars under the latter Act. Village-Registrars are to continue to register documents of which the registration is not compulsory under the Indian Registration Act, 1877. They are, however, to be relieved of much of the clerical labour imposed on them by the existing law. Instead of making at least two copies of the documents which they register, they are to enter in their registers, in such form as may be prescribed, abstracts only of the documents; and provision is made for granting copies of the abstracts free of charge, and for the admission of the copies as evidence of the contents of the documents.

8. The reasons for the amendments which it is proposed by section 11 of the Bill to make in section 72 of the Act are stated by the Special Judge as follows :—

"The words 'not being merely a surety for the principal debtor' were introduced by Act XXIII of 1881, in order to prevent the anomaly of the agriculturist surety of a non-agriculturist principal being held liable for a debt, after such debt has become time-barred as against his principal; but the amendment has itself produced a converse anomaly, namely, that, when principal and surety are both of them agriculturists, the extended period of limitation applies to the principal and not to the surety. As soon as the recent decisions to this effect become generally known, the result will be that even the principal debtor will lose the supposed benefit of the extended period of limitation, because few creditors will care to wait for the extended period when such waiting will deprive them of their remedy against the surety. I may mention here that the expression suits under this Act at the beginning of section 72 is objectionable, because there are no suits properly speaking under the Act. I think the words should be suits of the description mentioned in section 3, clause (w). This would include all suits on bonds, khatas, written acknowledgments, and the like, and would exclude suits for rent, suits for damages, &c., to which there is no necessity of applying a special law of limitation."

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[First publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 25th August, 1886:—

No. 19 OF 1886.

A Bill to annex the Town and Fort of Jhánsí and certain adjacent Territory to the Jhánsí District, and for certain other purposes.

Short title and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Jhánsí and Morar Act, 1886; and

(2) It shall come into force on a date to be appointed in this behalf by the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces, which date is in this Act referred to as the commencement of this Act.

PART I.

WHEREAS since the beginning of March, 1886, the fort and town of Jhánsí have been ceded to the British Government in full sovereignty by His Highness the Mahárájá Scindia in exchange for the cantonment of Morar which has been ceded to His Highness in full sovereignty by the British Government;

And whereas the town and fort of Jhánsí have been declared by the Governor-General in Council to be subject to the Lieutenant-Governorship of the North-Western Provinces;

And whereas it is proposed that certain lands in the neighbourhood of the town and fort of Jhánsí should be ceded to the British Government in full sovereignty by His Highness in exchange for certain other lands in that neighbourhood to be ceded to His Highness in full sovereignty by the British Government;

And whereas it is expedient that the town and fort of Jhánsí, and the lands to be ceded to the British Government, should be annexed to the Jhánsí district, and that the law in force therein should be the same as the law in force in that district;

And whereas it is also expedient that the town and fort, and the lands in the neighbourhood thereof which may be ceded to the British Government, should, for the purposes of the Scheduled Districts Act, 1874, form part of the Jhánsí district;

XIV of 1874.

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Annexation of ceded lands to Jhánsí district.

2. The town and fort of Jhánsí, and the lands in the neighbourhood thereof which may be ceded to the British Government in accordance with the proposal referred to in the preamble to this Part, shall, in the case of the town and fort, from the commencement of this Act, and, in the case of any of the lands, from the date of the cession thereof, be deemed to be part of the Jhánsí district.

Assimilation of law in force in ceded lands to law in force in Jhánsí district.

3. All enactments which at the commencement of this Act, or at the date of the cession of any of the lands referred to in the last foregoing section, are or shall be in force in the Jhánsí district and not in the town and fort of Jhánsí or those lands, shall then come into force in the town and fort or those lands, as the case may be.

Ceded lands to become part of the scheduled district of Jhánsí.

4. On and from the commencement of this Act, or the date of the cession of any of those lands, as the case may be, the town and fort of Jhánsí and the lands shall be deemed to form part of the district of Jhánsí mentioned in Part IV of the first schedule to the Scheduled Districts Act, 1874.

XIV of 1874.

Validation of acts done since the beginning of March, 1886.

[cf. Act XX of 1876, s. 3.]

5. All acts of executive authority, proceedings, decrees and sentences which have been done, taken or passed in or with respect to the town and fort of Jhánsí since the beginning of March, 1886, and before the commencement of this Act, by any officer of the Government, or by any person acting under his authority or otherwise in pursuance of an order of the Government, or which have been or shall be ratified by the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces, shall be as valid and operative as if they had been done, taken or passed in accordance with law; and no suit or other proceeding shall be maintained or continued against any person whatever on the ground that any such acts, proceedings, decrees or sentences were not done, taken or passed in accordance with law.

PART II.

And whereas it is expedient that decrees and orders passed by the Civil and Revenue Courts of His Highness in cases which would have been cognizable by the Civil and Revenue Courts of

XIV of 1882. XVIII of 1867. XII of 1881. the Jhánsí district under the Code of Civil Procedure or the Jhánsí Courts Act, 1867, or the North-Western Provinces Rent Act, 1881, if the territory ceded by His Highness had been part of the Jhánsí district at the time of the institution of the cases, should be capable of being executed as if they had been made by the Courts of the Jhánsí district; It is hereby further enacted as follows :—

Execution of decrees of Gwalior Courts.

6. (1) An application for the execution of a decree or order passed by a Civil or Revenue Court of His Highness in any such case as is referred to in the preamble to this Part may, with the previous sanction of the Deputy Commissioner, be made to any Court in the Jhánsí district subordinate to the Court of the Commissioner which may be specified by the Deputy Commissioner in that behalf in his order giving the sanction.

(2) The Deputy Commissioner may for any sufficient cause withhold his sanction to the making of the application, or permit the application to be made on any conditions which in the circumstances he deems it proper to impose.

XV of 1877. (3) The fact that an application is barred by the Indian Limitation Act, 1877, may be a sufficient cause for withholding sanction to the making of the application, but in any case in which the holder of the decree or order has been debarred from enforcing it by reason of the cession of the town and fort of Jhánsí to the British Government, and to which the Deputy Commissioner sees fit to apply the provisions of that Act, the Deputy Commissioner shall, in computing the period of limitation, exclude therefrom the time which has elapsed between the cession of the town and fort and the commencement of this Act.

(4) Subject to revision by the Commissioner of the Jhánsí Division, an order of the Deputy Commissioner sanctioning or refusing to sanction the making of an application under this section, or imposing conditions with respect thereto, shall be final.

PART III.

And whereas it is expedient that traders and others who were entitled immediately before the cession of the cantonment of Morar to institute certain suits in, or make applications for or with respect to the execution of certain decrees to, a Civil Court at Morar should be enabled to institute those suits in, and make those applications to, the Civil Courts at Jhánsí and Agra, and at any other place from time to time appointed in this behalf by the Governor-General in Council, and that the period of limitation in these cases should be extended; It is hereby further enacted as follows :—

Suits for debt formerly cognizable in a Morar Court to be cognizable in Courts at certain other places.

7. (1) Any person who at the date of the cession of the cantonment of Morar was entitled to institute in a Civil Court at Morar a suit of any of the descriptions referred to in articles 50 to 54 (both inclusive) or articles 56 to 64 (both inclusive) or articles 74 and 75 of the second schedule to the Indian Limitation Act, 1877, or to make to any XV of 1877. such Court an application for or with respect to the execution of a decree in any such suit, may institute the suit or make the application in any Civil Court at Jhánsí or Agra, or other place appointed in that behalf by the Governor-General in Council, which would have jurisdiction in the suit to be instituted, or, as the case may be, would have had jurisdiction in the suit in which the decree to be executed was passed, if the cause of action had arisen within the local limits of its jurisdiction.

(2) Notwithstanding anything in any enactment or notification to the contrary, any Civil Court at Jhánsí or Agra, or other place aforesaid, in which any such suit or application as is referred to in sub-section (1) is instituted or made, shall, subject to the provisions of that sub-section, have jurisdiction to dispose of it.

(3) In computing the period of limitation for any suit or application referred to in this section, the time which has elapsed between the date of the cession of the cantonment of Morar and the commencement of this Act shall be excluded.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

1. This Bill is drawn in three Parts.

2. The object of Part I is to incorporate in the Jhánsí district the fort and town of Jhánsí, which were lately ceded by the Mahárájá Scindia to the British Government in exchange for the cantonment of Morar. The town and fort have already been declared by proclamation under the Statute 28 & 29 Vic., c. 17, section 4, to be subject to the Lieutenant-Governorship of the North-Western Provinces, but legislation is required for the annexation of the town and fort to the Jhánsí district, and for the assimilation of the law in force therein to that in force in the district. The provisions necessary to effect these objects are contained in sections 2 and 3 of the Bill, while section 4 makes it clear that the ceded territory will be part of the scheduled district of Jhánsí; and section 5, which is taken from the corresponding provision in the Upper Burma Laws Bill now before the Legislative Council, validates all acts done since the date of the cession and before the commencement of the Act. As negotiations are at present pending for the exchange of certain lands in the neighbourhood of Jhánsí, the provisions of sections 2, 3 and 4 of the Bill are made prospective, so as to cover the lands which may be ceded.

3. The object of Part II is to give effect to certain decrees and orders of the Gwalior Courts which, by reason of cession of territory, have ceased to be enforceable in those Courts.

4. The object of Part III is to afford relief to certain traders and others formerly carrying on business within the cantonment of Morar who had money-claims enforceable in the local Courts at the time of the cession of the cantonment to the Mahárájá. As the British Courts in the cantonment have necessarily been abolished, these persons have now no means of recovering the amounts due to them at Morar, whilst to follow their debtors to the various places to which they have migrated, and proceed against them in the Civil Courts there, would,

in many cases, put the creditors to greater expenses than the amount of the debts due to them. It is proposed, therefore, by section 7 of the Bill that persons who may have been entitled to file suits of certain classes, or applications for or with respect to the execution of decrees in suits of those classes, in a Morar Civil Court at the date of the cession of the cantonment, may file the suits and applications in the Civil Courts at Jhánsí or Agra, or at any other place appointed by the Governor-General in Council in this behalf, and that the Courts having jurisdiction at those places shall dispose of the suits and applications. In order to save debts which might otherwise have become time-barred, the same section declares that in computing the period of limitation for the suits and applications, the time which has elapsed between the date of the cession of the cantonment and the commencement of the Act shall be excluded.

SCHEDULE.—ENACTMENTS REPEALED.

A Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to Native Passenger Ships.

WHEREAS it is expedient to consolidate and amend the law relating to native passenger ships; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

1. This Act may be called the Native Passenger Ships Act, 1886. — Short title.

[Act VIII, 1876, s. 2.] Extent and application.

2. (1) It extends to the whole of British India, and applies—

(a) to all subjects of Her Majesty within the dominions of Princes and States in India in alliance with Her Majesty;

(b) to all native Indian subjects of Her Majesty without and beyond British India; and,

(c) subject to the exceptions mentioned in sub-section (2), to vessels carrying more than thirty passengers being natives of Asia or Africa.

(2) But it does not apply—

(i) to any ship-of-war or transport belonging to, or in the service of, Her Majesty, or

(ii) to any ship-of-war belonging to any Foreign Prince or State, or

(iii) to any sailing-vessel not carrying as passengers more than thirty natives of Asia or Africa, or

(iv) to any steamer not carrying as passengers more than sixty such natives, or

(v) to any sailing-vessel or steamer not intended to convey passengers to or from any port in British India:

[New.] Provided, with respect to clauses (iii) and (iv) of this sub-section, that the Local Government may, with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, declare all or any of the provisions of this Act to apply to sailing-vessels, or any class of sailing-vessels, carrying as passengers more than fifteen natives of Asia or Africa, and to steamers, or any class of steamers, carrying as passengers more than thirty such natives.

[Act VIII, 1876, s. 3.] Commencement.

3. This Act shall come into force on such day as the Governor-General in Council, by notification in the Gazette of India appoints.

[Act VIII, 1876, s. 4.] Repeal.

4. (1) On and from that day the enactments mentioned in the schedule to this Act shall be repealed to the extent specified in the third column thereof.

(2) But all ports, places and officers appointed, rules, declarations and exemptions made, bonds executed, directions given and certificates granted under any of those enactments shall, so far as may be, be deemed to be respectively appointed, made, executed, given and granted under this Act; and

(3) Any enactment or document referring to any enactment hereby repealed shall be construed to refer to this Act or to the corresponding portion thereof.

[Act VIII, 1876, s. 5.] Definitions.

5. In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context,—

(1) "Magistrate" means a person exercising powers not inferior to those of a Magistrate of the second class, and includes a Justice of the Peace and, at the Port of Aden, the Resident or an Assistant Resident:

(2) "ship" includes every description of vessel used in navigation not propelled by oars:

(3) "master" includes every person (other than a pilot) having command or charge of a ship:

(4) "passenger" means a person above the age of twelve years, or two persons between the ages of one year and twelve years; but it does not include either a person in attendance on another person who is not a native of Asia or Africa, or a child under one year of age:

(5) "voyage" means the whole distance between the ship's port of departure and her final port of arrival:

(6) "long voyage" means any voyage during which the ship performing it will in ordinary circumstances be one hundred and twenty hours or upwards continuously out of port:

(7) "short voyage" means any voyage during which the ship performing it will not in ordinary circumstances be one hundred and twenty hours continuously out of port:

Illustration.

A ship starts from port A, and is destined finally to arrive at port B, between which ports the ordinary distance is ten days: but she is to touch at four intermediate ports, no one of which is in ordinary circumstances more than five days from the next one. This is a short voyage.

(8) "Chief Officer of Customs" means the executive officer of highest rank in the Department of Customs in any port to which this Act applies.

7. (1) The master, owner or agent of a ship so departing or proceeding shall give notice to an officer authorised in this behalf by the Local Government that the ship is to carry native passengers, and of her destination, and of the proposed time of sailing.

(2) The notice shall be given not less than twenty-four hours before that time.

[Act VIII, 1876, s. 8.] Power to enter and inspect ship.

8. After receiving the notice, the officer aforesaid, or a person authorized by him, shall be at liberty at all times to enter and inspect the ship and the fittings, provisions and stores therein.

[Act VIII, 1876, s. 9.] Ship not to sail without two certificates.

9. (1) A ship intended to carry passengers shall not commence a voyage from a port or place appointed under this Act, unless the master holds two certificates to the effect mentioned in the two next following sections.

[Act VIII, 1876, s. 10.] Contents of certificate A.

10. The first of the certificates (hereinafter called "certificate A") shall state that the ship is seaworthy and properly equipped, fitted and ventilated, and the number of passengers which she is capable of carrying.

[Act VIII, 1876, s. 11.] Contents of certificate B.

11. The second of the certificates (hereinafter called "certificate B") shall state—

(a) the voyage which the ship is to make and the intermediate ports, if any, at which she is to touch;

(b) that she has the proper complement of officers and seamen;

(c) that provisions, fuel and pure water, over and above what is necessary for the crew, and the other things if any, prescribed for the ship by the rules under this Act, have been placed on board, of the quality prescribed by the rules, properly packed, and sufficient to supply the passengers on board during the voyage which the ship is to make (including such detention in quarantine as may be probable), according to the scale for the time being prescribed by those rules;

[New.]

(d) that the master holds certificate A;

(e) if the ship is to make a short voyage in a season of foul weather, and to carry upper-deck passengers, that she is furnished with substantial bulwarks and a double awning or with other sufficient protection against the weather;

(f) if she is to sail to any port in the Red Sea, that she is propelled principally by steam and, if she is to carry more than one hundred passengers being natives of Asia or Africa, that she has on board a medical officer licensed in accordance with the rules under this Act; and [Act XVII, 1883, s. 2.]

(g) such other particulars, if any, as may be prescribed by those rules.

[Act VIII, 1876, s. 12.] Grant of certificates.

12. The person by whom certificate A and certificate B are to be granted shall be the officer referred to in section 7.

[Act VIII, 1876, s. 13.] Substitute for certificate A.

13. Where the master of a ship produces to that officer either of the following certificates, namely—

(b) a certificate granted under the authority of a British Indian Government on a date not more than one year before the proposed day of sailing and in force and applicable to the voyage on which the ship is to proceed or the service on which she is about to be employed, [Act VII, 1884, s. 41.]

the officer may, if the particulars required by section 10 are certified thereby, take the certificate as evidence of those particulars, and it shall then be deemed to be a certificate A for the purposes of this Act.

[Act VIII, 1876, s. 14.] Survey of ship.

14. (1) After receiving the notice required by section 7, the officer aforesaid may, if he thinks fit, cause the ship to be surveyed at the expense of the master or owner by competent surveyors, who shall report to him whether the ship is, in their opinion, seaworthy and properly equipped, fitted and ventilated for the voyage which she is to make:

Provided that he shall not cause a ship holding a certificate mentioned in section 13, clause (a) or clause (b), to be surveyed unless, by reason of the ship having met with damage or having undergone alterations, or on other reasonable ground, he considers it likely that she may be found unseaworthy or not properly equipped, fitted or ventilated for the voyage.

(2) If the officer aforesaid causes a survey to be made of a ship holding any such certificate, and the surveyors report that the ship is seaworthy and properly equipped, fitted and ventilated for the voyage, and that there was no reasonable ground why the officer aforesaid should have thought it likely that she would be found unseaworthy, or not properly equipped, fitted or ventilated for the voyage, the expense of the survey shall be paid by the Local Government.

[Act VIII, 1876, s. 15.] Discretion as to grant of certificate.

15. (1) The officer authorized to grant a certificate under this Act in respect of a ship shall not grant it unless he is satisfied that she has not on board any cargo likely from its quality, quantity or mode of stowage to prejudice the health or safety of the passengers.

The Native Passenger Ships Bill, 1886.
(Chapter II.—Rules for all Voyages.—Sections 16-17.—Chapter III.—Rules for short Voyages.—Sections 18-20.—Chapter IV.—Rules for long Voyages.—Sections 21-23.)

(2) But save as aforesaid, and subject to the provisions of sub-section (3), it shall be in the discretion of the officer aforesaid to grant or withhold a certificate under this Act.

[Act VIII, 1876, s. 16.] (3) In the exercise of that discretion that officer shall be subject to the control of the Local Government, and of any intermediate authority which that Government appoints in this behalf.

[Act VIII, 1876, s. 17.] 16. The master or owner shall post up in a conspicuous part of the ship, so as to be visible to persons on board thereof, a copy of each of the certificates granted under this Act in respect of the ship, and shall keep those copies so posted up in that part during the voyage.

SCHEDULE.

ENACTMENTS REPEALED.

(See section 4.)

Number and year.	Title.	Extent of repeal.
VIII of 1876	Native Passenger Ships Act, 1876.	The whole.
XVII of 1883	Native Passenger Ships Act, 1883.	The whole.
VII of 1884	Indian Steamships Act, 1884.	Section 41.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The law relating to native passenger ships is contained in three enactments, namely, the Native Passenger Ships Act, VIII of 1876, and the amending Acts, XVII of 1883 and VII of 1884. Further amendments having now become necessary, the opportunity has been taken to consolidate the law in a single measure.

2. The amendments are not numerous and will be noticed in the order in which they occur in the Bill—

(a) Section 2.—The primary object of the proviso to sub-section (2) of this section is to confer on the Government of Bombay the power of having certain small vessels engaged in the pilgrim-trade between Western India and the Hedjaz examined with a view to ascertaining whether or not they are seaworthy.

(b) Section 11, clause (c).—The corresponding section of the Act of 1876 requires certificate B to state that provisions, fuel and pure water sufficient for the voyage have been placed on board. It is now proposed to require the certificate to state that the supply is sufficient not only for the voyage but for any probable period of detention in quarantine. On one occasion at least the Government has had to undertake the maintenance of a shipload of pilgrims whose private stock of provisions had become exhausted.

(c) Section 41.—Cases have occurred in which pilgrims who had engaged their passages on the understanding that they would proceed direct to the Hedjaz have been taken on long coasting voyages. The deception thus practised has caused great hardship, pilgrims very frequently taking their own provisions with them (section 18, Act VIII, 1876) and very rarely taking more than is absolutely necessary for their support on the voyage which they believe themselves to have undertaken.

(d) Section 53, sub-section (1), clause (g).—It is proposed, following section 21 of the English Merchant Shipping Act, 1876, to empower the Governor-General in Council to require native passenger ships to be provided with means for making signals of distress and with life-saving apparatus.

(e) Section 53, sub-section (2).—This sub-section is designed to meet a suggestion made by Mr. T. M. Cook, of the firm of Messrs. Thomas Cook & Son, that the embarkation of pilgrims in the "Roads" at Bombay during the monsoon should be forbidden, and that pilgrim-carrying ships should be required to go into dock for the purpose of receiving their passengers during that season.

(f) Section 54.—This section requires drafts of any rules which it is proposed to make under the Act to be published for the information of the public before the rules are made.

2. By section 3 of the Bill it is proposed to empower the Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, to extend the Act wholly or in part to any district in the Presidency of Bombay. The effect of this provision will be to render it unnecessary for the Council of the Governor-General to undertake legislation whenever it may be deemed expedient to extend to any district either the whole of the Act or any particular provisions of it, such as those requiring the history of transactions with agriculturist-debtors to be investigated or those relating to the mode of taking accounts.

3. By section 4 the expression "lease" is defined as in the Indian Registration Act, 1877. The insertion of this definition in section 2 of the Act is deemed desirable because in section 56 the word "lease" must be taken to mean a kabuliyat or undertaking to cultivate or occupy rather than a lease in its ordinary sense.

4. Section 5 has been introduced, on the recommendation of the Special Judge, for reasons which are stated as follows :—

"Section 7 of the Act merely makes the examination of the defendant compulsory in all suits under Chapter II, which includes even non-agriculturist suits; but sections 12-14 apply to many suits which affect agriculturists only and do not fall under Chapter II, and it is even more important that the defendant should be examined as a witness in such suits than in many of the suits to which Chapter II applies. The defendant is generally the debtor, but in redemption-suits it is the plaintiff who is the debtor, and it is his examination that is most necessary. It is moreover almost impossible for the Courts to investigate the past history of an old debt in a satisfactory manner without examining both creditor and debtor as witnesses. Again, unless a provision against ex parte decrees be inserted in Chapter III, it will not be possible to guard against ex parte decrees in other districts to which the Act may hereafter be extended without also extending the other provisions of Chapter II at the same time."

5. Standing crops are usually the legitimate security for an advance for the purposes of cultivation. It is proposed, therefore, by section 6 of the Bill, to make the standing crops of an agriculturist liable to be taken in execution of a decree even though they have not been specifically mortgaged for the repayment of the debt to which the decree relates.

6. The proposal to confer on Conciliators the power to require the attendance of persons against whom applications are made under section 39 of the Act was negatived by the Council of the Governor-General in 1882. The Government of Bombay has now urged the reconsideration of the proposal on the ground that the present law deprives the Conciliator in a large proportion of cases of all chance of exercising his functions. The statistics of late years fully support this view, while they prove that, where parties have attended before Conciliators, conciliation has been annually more and more successful. It is proposed, therefore, by section 7 of the Bill, to empower selected Conciliators not only to invite, but to require, the attendance before them of persons against whom applications are made.

7. Sections 8, 9 and 10 of the Bill modify those provisions of the existing law which relate to registration, by requiring documents of which the registration is compulsory under the Indian Registration Act, 1877, to be registered by Registering-officers appointed under that Act instead of by Village-Registrars appointed under the Dekkhan Agriculturists' Relief Act, 1879. But Registering-officers under the former Act are, where the executants of those documents are agriculturists, to observe the procedure prescribed for observance by Village-Registrars under the latter Act. Village-Registrars are to continue to register documents of which the registration is not compulsory under the Indian Registration Act, 1877. They are, however, to be relieved of much of the clerical labour imposed on them by the existing law. Instead of making at least two copies of the documents which they register, they are to enter in their registers, in such form as may be prescribed, abstracts only of the documents; and provision is made for granting copies of the abstracts free of charge, and for the admission of the copies as evidence of the contents of the documents.

8. The reasons for the amendments which it is proposed by section 11 of the Bill to make in section 72 of the Act are stated by the Special Judge as follows :—

"The words 'not being merely a surety for the principal debtor' were introduced by Act XXIII of 1881, in order to prevent the anomaly of the agriculturist surety of a non-agriculturist principal being held liable for a debt, after such debt has become time-barred as against his principal; but the amendment has itself produced a converse anomaly, namely, that, when principal and surety are both of them agriculturists, the extended period of limitation applies to the principal and not to the surety. As soon as the recent decisions to this effect become generally known, the result will be that even the principal debtor will lose the supposed benefit of the extended period of limitation, because few creditors will care to wait for the extended period when such waiting will deprive them of their remedy against the surety. I may mention here that the expression suits under this Act at the beginning of section 72 is objectionable, because there are no suits properly speaking under the Act. I think the words should be 'suits of the description mentioned in section 3, clause (w). This would include all suits on bonds, khatas, written acknowledgments, and the like, and would exclude suits for rent, suits for damages, &c., to which there is no necessity of applying a special law of limitation."

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Second publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 25th August, 1886:—

NO. 19 OF 1886.

A Bill to annex the Town and Fort of Jhánsí and certain adjacent Territory to the Jhánsí District, and for certain other purposes.

Short title and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Jhánsí and Morar Act, 1886; and

(2) It shall come into force on a date to be appointed in this behalf by the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces, which date is in this Act referred to as the commencement of this Act.

PART I.

WHEREAS since the beginning of March, 1886, the fort and town of Jhánsí have been ceded to the British Government in full sovereignty by His Highness the Mahárájá Scindia in exchange for the cantonment of Morar which has been ceded to His Highness in full sovereignty by the British Government;

And whereas the town and fort of Jhánsí have been declared by the Governor-General in Council to be subject to the Lieutenant-Governorship of the North-Western Provinces;

And whereas it is proposed that certain lands in the neighbourhood of the town and fort of Jhánsí should be ceded to the British Government in full sovereignty by His Highness in exchange for certain other lands in that neighbourhood to be ceded to His Highness in full sovereignty by the British Government;

And whereas it is expedient that the town and fort of Jhánsí, and the lands to be ceded to the British Government, should be annexed to the Jhánsí district, and that the law in force therein should be the same as the law in force in that district;

And whereas it is also expedient that the town and fort, and the lands in the neighbourhood thereof which may be ceded to the British Government, should, for the purposes of the Scheduled Districts Act, 1874, form part of the Jhánsí district; XIV of 1874.

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Annexation of ceded lands to Jhánsí district.

2. The town and fort of Jhánsí, and the lands in the neighbourhood thereof which may be ceded to the British Government in accordance with the proposal referred to in the preamble to this Part, shall, in the case of the town and fort, from the commencement of this Act, and, in the case of any of the lands, from the date of the cession thereof, be deemed to be part of the Jhánsí district.

Assimilation of law in force in ceded lands to law in force in Jhánsí district.

3. All enactments which at the commencement of this Act, or at the date of the cession of any of the lands referred to in the last foregoing section, are or shall be in force in the Jhánsí district and not in the town and fort of Jhánsí or those lands, shall then come into force in the town and fort or those lands, as the case may be.

Ceded lands to become part of the scheduled district of Jhánsí.

4. On and from the commencement of this Act, or the date of the cession of any of those lands, as the case may be, the town and fort of Jhánsí and the lands shall be deemed to form part of the district of Jhánsí mentioned in Part IV of the first schedule to the Scheduled Districts Act, 1874. XIV of 1874.

Validation of acts done since the beginning of March, 1886.

[cf. Act XX of 1876, s. 3.]

5. All acts of executive authority, proceedings, decrees and sentences which have been done, taken or passed in or with respect to the town and fort of Jhánsí since the beginning of March, 1886, and before the commencement of this Act, by any officer of the Government, or by any person acting under his authority or otherwise in pursuance of an order of the Government, or which have been or shall be ratified by the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces, shall be as valid and operative as if they had been done, taken or passed in accordance with law; and no suit or other proceeding shall be maintained or continued against any person whatever on the ground that any such acts, proceedings, decrees or sentences were not done, taken or passed in accordance with law.

PART II.

And whereas it is expedient that decrees and orders passed by the Civil and Revenue Courts of His Highness in cases which would have been cognizable by the Civil and Revenue Courts of

XIV of 1882. XVIII of 1867. XII of 1881. the Jhánsí district under the Code of Civil Procedure or the Jhánsí Courts Act, 1867, or the North-Western Provinces Rent Act, 1881, if the territory ceded by His Highness had been part of the Jhánsí district at the time of the institution of the cases, should be capable of being executed as if they had been made by the Courts of the Jhánsí district; It is hereby further enacted as follows:—

Execution of decrees of Gwalior Courts.

6. (1) An application for the execution of a decree or order passed by a Civil or Revenue Court of His Highness in any such case as is referred to in the preamble to this Part may, with the previous sanction of the Deputy Commissioner, be made to any Court in the Jhánsí district subordinate to the Court of the Commissioner which may be specified by the Deputy Commissioner in that behalf in his order giving the sanction.

(2) The Deputy Commissioner may for any sufficient cause withhold his sanction to the making of the application, or permit the application to be made on any conditions which in the circumstances he deems it proper to impose.

XV of 1877. (3) The fact that an application is barred by the Indian Limitation Act, 1877, may be a sufficient cause for withholding sanction to the making of the application, but in any case in which the holder of the decree or order has been debarred from enforcing it by reason of the cession of the town and fort of Jhánsí to the British Government, and to which the Deputy Commissioner sees fit to apply the provisions of that Act, the Deputy Commissioner shall, in computing the period of limitation, exclude therefrom the time which has elapsed between the cession of the town and fort and the commencement of this Act.

(4) Subject to revision by the Commissioner of the Jhánsí Division, an order of the Deputy Commissioner sanctioning or refusing to sanction the making of an application under this section, or imposing conditions with respect thereto, shall be final.

PART III.

And whereas it is expedient that traders and others who were entitled immediately before the cession of the cantonment of Morar to institute certain suits in, or make applications for or with respect to the execution of certain decrees to, a Civil Court at Morar should be enabled to institute those suits in, and make those applications to, the Civil Courts at Jhánsí and Agra, and at any other place from time to time appointed in this behalf by the Governor-General in Council, and that the period of limitation in these cases should be extended; It is hereby further enacted as follows:—

Suits for debt formerly cognizable in a Morar Court to be cognizable in Courts at certain other places.

7. (1) Any person who at the date of the cession of the cantonment of Morar was entitled to institute in a Civil Court at Morar a suit of any of the descriptions referred to in articles 50 to 54 (both inclusive) or articles 56 to 64 (both inclusive) or articles 74 and 75 of the second schedule to the Indian Limitation Act, 1877, or to make to any such Court an application for or with respect to the execution of a decree in any such suit, may institute the suit or make the application in any Civil Court at Jhánsí or Agra, or other place appointed in that behalf by the Governor-General in Council, which would have jurisdiction in the suit to be instituted, or, as the case may be, would have had jurisdiction in the suit in which the decree to be executed was passed, if the cause of action had arisen within the local limits of its jurisdiction. XV of 1877.

(2) Notwithstanding anything in any enactment or notification to the contrary, any Civil Court at Jhánsí or Agra, or other place aforesaid, in which any such suit or application as is referred to in sub-section (1) is instituted or made, shall, subject to the provisions of that sub-section, have jurisdiction to dispose of it.

(3) In computing the period of limitation for any suit or application referred to in this section, the time which has elapsed between the date of the cession of the cantonment of Morar and the commencement of this Act shall be excluded.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

1. This Bill is drawn in three Parts.

2. The object of Part I is to incorporate in the Jhánsí district the fort and town of Jhánsí, which were lately ceded by the Mahárájá Scindia to the British Government in exchange for the cantonment of Morar. The town and fort have already been declared by proclamation under the Statute 28 & 29 Vic., c. 17, section 4, to be subject to the Lieutenant-Governorship of the North-Western Provinces, but legislation is required for the annexation of the town and fort to the Jhánsí district, and for the assimilation of the law in force therein to that in force in the district. The provisions necessary to effect these objects are contained in sections 2 and 3 of the Bill, while section 4 makes it clear that the ceded territory will be part of the scheduled district of Jhánsí; and section 5, which is taken from the corresponding provision in the Upper Burma Laws Bill now before the Legislative Council, validates all acts done since the date of the cession and before the commencement of the Act. As negotiations are at present pending for the exchange of certain lands in the neighbourhood of Jhánsí, the provisions of sections 2, 3 and 4 of the Bill are made prospective, so as to cover the lands which may be ceded.

3. The object of Part II is to give effect to certain decrees and orders of the Gwalior Courts which, by reason of cession of territory, have ceased to be enforceable in those Courts.

4. The object of Part III is to afford relief to certain traders and others formerly carrying on business within the cantonment of Morar who had money-claims enforceable in the local Courts at the time of the cession of the cantonment to the Mahárájá. As the British Courts in the cantonment have necessarily been abolished, these persons have now no means of recovering the amounts due to them at Morar, whilst to follow their debtors to the various places to which they have migrated, and proceed against them in the Civil Courts there, would,

in many cases, put the creditors to greater expenses than the amount of the debts due to them. It is proposed, therefore, by section 7 of the Bill that persons who may have been entitled to file suits of certain classes, or applications for or with respect to the execution of decrees in suits of those classes, in a Morar Civil Court at the date of the cession of the cantonment, may file the suits and applications in the Civil Courts at Jhánsí or Agra, or at any other place appointed by the Governor-General in Council in this behalf, and that the Courts having jurisdiction at those places shall dispose of the suits and applications. In order to save debts which might otherwise have become time-barred, the same section declares that in computing the period of limitation for the suits and applications, the time which has elapsed between the date of the cession of the cantonment and the commencement of the Act shall be excluded.

SCHEDULE.—ENACTMENTS REPEALED.

A Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to Native Passenger Ships.

WHEREAS it is expedient to consolidate and amend the law relating to native passenger ships; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

1. This Act may be called the Native Passenger Ships Act, 1886. — Short title.

[Act VIII, 1876, s. 2.] Extent and application.

2. (1) It extends to the whole of British India, and applies—

(a) to all subjects of Her Majesty within the dominions of Princes and States in India in alliance with Her Majesty;

(b) to all native Indian subjects of Her Majesty without and beyond British India; and,

(c) subject to the exceptions mentioned in sub-section (2), to vessels carrying more than thirty passengers being natives of Asia or Africa.

(2) But it does not apply—

(i) to any ship-of-war or transport belonging to, or in the service of, Her Majesty, or

(ii) to any ship-of-war belonging to any Foreign Prince or State, or

(iii) to any sailing-vessel not carrying as passengers more than thirty natives of Asia or Africa, or

(iv) to any steamer not carrying as passengers more than sixty such natives, or

(v) to any sailing-vessel or steamer not intended to convey passengers to or from any port in British India:

Provided, with respect to clauses (iii) and (iv) of this sub-section, that the Local Government may, with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, declare all or any of the provisions of this Act to apply to sailing-vessels, or any class of sailing-vessels, carrying as passengers more than fifteen natives of Asia or Africa, and to steamers, or any class of steamers, carrying as passengers more than thirty such natives. [New.]

3. This Act shall come into force on such day as the Governor-General in Council, by notification in the Gazette of India appoints. [Act VIII, 1876, s. 3.] Commencement.

4. (1) On and from that day the enactments mentioned in the schedule to this Act shall be repealed to the extent specified in the third column thereof. [Act VIII, 1876, s. 4.] Repeal.

(2) But all ports, places and officers appointed, rules, declarations and exemptions made, bonds executed, directions given and certificates granted under any of those enactments shall, so far as may be, be deemed to be respectively appointed, made, executed, given and granted under this Act; and

(3) Any enactment or document referring to any enactment hereby repealed shall be construed to refer to this Act or to the corresponding portion thereof.

5. In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context,— [Act VIII, 1876, s. 5.] Definitions.

(1) "Magistrate" means a person exercising powers not inferior to those of a Magistrate of the second class, and includes a Justice of the Peace and, at the Port of Aden, the Resident or an Assistant Resident:

(2) "ship" includes every description of vessel used in navigation not propelled by oars:

(3) "master" includes every person (other than a pilot) having command or charge of a ship:

(4) "passenger" means a person above the age of twelve years, or two persons between the ages of one year and twelve years; but it does not include either a person in attendance on another person who is not a native of Asia or Africa, or a child under one year of age:

(5) "voyage" means the whole distance between the ship's port of departure and her final port of arrival:

(6) "long voyage" means any voyage during which the ship performing it will in ordinary circumstances be one hundred and twenty hours or upwards continuously out of port:

(7) "short voyage" means any voyage during which the ship performing it will not in ordinary circumstances be one hundred and twenty hours continuously out of port:

Illustration.

A ship starts from port A, and is destined finally to arrive at port B, between which ports the ordinary distance is ten days: but she is to touch at four intermediate ports, no one of which is in ordinary circumstances more than five days from the next one. This is a short voyage.

(8) "Chief Officer of Customs" means the executive officer of highest rank in the Department of Customs in any port to which this Act applies.

(Chapter II.—Rules for all Voyages.—Sections 6-15.)

CHAPTER II.

RULES FOR ALL VOYAGES.

[Act VIII, 1876, s. 6.] Ships to sail only from ports appointed by the Government.

6. (1) A ship carrying passengers shall not depart or proceed from, or discharge passengers at, any port or place within British India other than a port or place appointed in this behalf by the Local Government.

(2) After a ship has departed or proceeded upon a voyage from a port or place so appointed, a person shall not be received on board as a passenger except at some other port or place so appointed.

[Act VIII, 1876, s. 7.] Master to give notice of day of sailing.

7. (1) The master, owner or agent of a ship so departing or proceeding shall give notice to an officer authorised in this behalf by the Local Government that the ship is to carry native passengers, and of her destination, and of the proposed time of sailing.

(2) The notice shall be given not less than twenty-four hours before that time.

[Act VIII, 1876, s. 8.] Power to enter and inspect ship.

8. After receiving the notice, the officer aforesaid, or a person authorized by him, shall be at liberty at all times to enter and inspect the ship and the fittings, provisions and stores therein.

[Act VIII, 1876, s. 9.] Ship not to sail without two certificates.

9. (1) A ship intended to carry passengers shall not commence a voyage from a port or place appointed under this Act, unless the master holds two certificates to the effect mentioned in the two next following sections.

(2) The officer of the Government whose duty it is to grant a port-clearance for the ship shall not grant it unless the master holds those certificates.

[Act VIII, 1876, s. 10.] Contents of certificate A.

10. The first of the certificates (hereinafter called "certificate A") shall state that the ship is seaworthy and properly equipped, fitted and ventilated, and the number of passengers which she is capable of carrying.

[Act VIII, 1876, s. 11.] Contents of certificate B.

11. The second of the certificates (hereinafter called "certificate B") shall state—

(a) the voyage which the ship is to make and the intermediate ports, if any, at which she is to touch;

(b) that she has the proper complement of officers and seamen;

(c) that provisions, fuel and pure water, over and above what is necessary for the crew, and the other things, if any, prescribed for the ship by the rules under this Act, have been placed on board, of the quality prescribed by the rules, properly packed, and sufficient to supply the passengers on board during the voyage which the ship is to make (including such detention in quarantine as may be probable), according to the scale for the time being prescribed by those rules; [New.]

(d) that the master holds certificate A;

(e) if the ship is to make a short voyage in a season of foul weather, and to carry upper-deck passengers, that she is furnished with substantial bulwarks and a double awning or with other sufficient protection against the weather;

(f) if she is to sail to any port in the Red Sea, that she is propelled principally by steam and, if she is to carry more than one hundred passengers being natives of Asia or Africa, that she has on board a medical officer licensed in accordance with the rules under this Act; and [Act XVII, 1883, s. 2.]

(g) such other particulars, if any, as may be prescribed by those rules.

[Act VIII, 1876, s. 12.] Grant of certificates.

12. The person by whom certificate A and certificate B are to be granted shall be the officer referred to in section 7.

[Act VIII, 1876, s. 13.] Substitute for certificate A.

13. Where the master of a ship produces to that officer either of the following certificates, namely—

(a) a valid certificate granted by the Board of Trade or by a British Colonial Government, or

(b) a certificate granted under the authority of a British Indian Government on a date not more than one year before the proposed day of sailing and in force and applicable to the voyage on which the ship is to proceed or the service on which she is about to be employed, [Act VII, 1884, s. 41.]

the officer may, if the particulars required by section 10 are certified thereby, take the certificate as evidence of those particulars, and it shall then be deemed to be a certificate A for the purposes of this Act.

[Act VIII, 1876, s. 14.] Survey of ship.

14. (1) After receiving the notice required by section 7, the officer aforesaid may, if he thinks fit, cause the ship to be surveyed at the expense of the master or owner by competent surveyors, who shall report to him whether the ship is, in their opinion, seaworthy and properly equipped, fitted and ventilated for the voyage which she is to make:

Provided that he shall not cause a ship holding a certificate mentioned in section 13, clause (a) or clause (b), to be surveyed unless, by reason of the ship having met with damage or having undergone alterations, or on other reasonable ground, he considers it likely that she may be found unseaworthy or not properly equipped, fitted or ventilated for the voyage.

(2) If the officer aforesaid causes a survey to be made of a ship holding any such certificate, and the surveyors report that the ship is seaworthy and properly equipped, fitted and ventilated for the voyage, and that there was no reasonable ground why the officer aforesaid should have thought it likely that she would be found unseaworthy, or not properly equipped, fitted or ventilated for the voyage, the expense of the survey shall be paid by the Local Government.

[Act VIII, 1876, s. 15.] Discretion as to grant of certificate.

15. (1) The officer authorized to grant a certificate under this Act in respect of a ship shall not grant it unless he is satisfied that she has not on board any cargo likely from its quality, quantity or mode of stowage to prejudice the health or safety of the passengers.

The Native Passenger Ships Bill, 1886.
(Chapter II.—Rules for all Voyages.—Sections 16-17.—Chapter III.—Rules for short Voyages.—Sections 18-20.—Chapter IV.—Rules for long Voyages.—Sections 21-23.)

(2) But save as aforesaid, and subject to the provisions of sub-section (3), it shall be in the discretion of the officer aforesaid to grant or withhold a certificate under this Act.

[Act VIII, 1876, s. 16.] (3) In the exercise of that discretion that officer shall be subject to the control of the Local Government, and of any intermediate authority which that Government appoints in this behalf.

[Act VIII, 1876, s. 17.] Copy of certificates to be exhibited.

16. The master or owner shall post up in a conspicuous part of the ship, so as to be visible to persons on board thereof, a copy of each of the certificates granted under this Act in respect of the ship, and shall keep those copies so posted up in that part during the voyage.

[Act VIII, 1876, s. 18, amended.] Supply by passengers of their own provisions.

17. If an officer appointed in this behalf by the Local Government is satisfied that a passenger has brought on board a ship for his own use provisions of the quality and in the quantity for the time being prescribed by the rules under this Act, the requirements of this Act respecting the supply of provisions for passengers shall not, except as to the supply of water, apply so far as regards the supply of provisions for that passenger.

CHAPTER III.

RULES FOR SHORT VOYAGES.

[Act VIII, 1876, s. 19.] Space to be available for passengers.

18. (1) For seasons of fair weather, a ship performing a short voyage shall contain in the between-decks at least six superficial feet and thirty-six cubic feet of space available for every between-decks passenger, and shall contain on the upper-deck at least four superficial feet available for each such passenger and six superficial feet available for each upper-deck passenger.

(2) For seasons of foul weather, a ship propelled by sails and performing a short voyage shall contain in the between-decks at least twelve superficial feet and seventy-two cubic feet of space available for every between-decks passenger, and shall contain on the upper-deck at least four superficial feet available for each such passenger and twelve superficial feet available for each upper-deck passenger.

SCHEDULE.

ENACTMENTS REPEALED.

(See section 4.)

Number and year.	Title.	Extent of repeal.
VIII of 1876	Native Passenger Ships Act, 1876.	The whole.
XVII of 1883	Native Passenger Ships Act, 1883.	The whole.
VII of 1884	Indian Steamships Act, 1884.	Section 41.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The law relating to native passenger ships is contained in three enactments, namely, the Native Passenger Ships Act, VIII of 1876, and the amending Acts, XVII of 1883 and VII of 1884. Further amendments having now become necessary, the opportunity has been taken to consolidate the law in a single measure.

2. The amendments are not numerous and will be noticed in the order in which they occur in the Bill—

(a) Section 2.—The primary object of the proviso to sub-section (2) of this section is to confer on the Government of Bombay the power of having certain small vessels engaged in the pilgrim-trade between Western India and the Hedjaz examined with a view to ascertaining whether or not they are seaworthy.

(b) Section 11, clause (c).—The corresponding section of the Act of 1876 requires certificate B to state that provisions, fuel and pure water sufficient for the voyage have been placed on board. It is now proposed to require the certificate to state that the supply is sufficient not only for the voyage but for any probable period of detention in quarantine. On one occasion at least the Government has had to undertake the maintenance of a shipload of pilgrims whose private stock of provisions had become exhausted.

(c) Section 41.—Cases have occurred in which pilgrims who had engaged their passages on the understanding that they would proceed direct to the Hedjaz have been taken on long coasting voyages. The deception thus practised has caused great hardship, pilgrims very frequently taking their own provisions with them (section 18, Act VIII, 1876) and very rarely taking more than is absolutely necessary for their support on the voyage which they believe themselves to have undertaken.

(d) Section 53, sub-section (1), clause (g).—It is proposed, following section 21 of the English Merchant Shipping Act, 1876, to empower the Governor-General in Council to require native passenger ships to be provided with means for making signals of distress and with life-saving apparatus.

(e) Section 53, sub-section (2).—This sub-section is designed to meet a suggestion made by Mr. T. M. Cook, of the firm of Messrs. Thomas Cook & Son, that the embarkation of pilgrims in the "Roads" at Bombay during the monsoon should be forbidden, and that pilgrim-carrying ships should be required to go into dock for the purpose of receiving their passengers during that season.

(f) Section 54.—This section requires drafts of any rules which it is proposed to make under the Act to be published for the information of the public before the rules are made.

[I. L. R. 3 All. 214.] III of 1880.

Partial application of this Act to Act III, 1880.

10. In the Cantonments Act, 1880, the word "soldier" shall not include a warrant-officer but shall otherwise have the meaning assigned to it by clause (13) of section 3 of this Act.

I of 1868.

Application of this Act and Act I, 1868, to Regulations under 33 Vic., c. 3, s. 1.

11. This Act and the General Clauses Act, 1868, shall apply to all Regulations which may receive the assent of the Governor-General under the Statute 33 Victoria, chapter 3, section 1, after the commencement of this Act.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THIS Bill is supplementary to the General Clauses Act, 1868, and is designed, as stated in the preamble, to further shorten the language used in Acts of the Governor-General in Council.

2. In section 3 there is nothing which calls for remark. The definitions in the section will materially shorten the defining clauses of Acts to be hereafter passed.

3. Section 4 is a repetition of a clause very generally employed by the Council of the Governor-General with the object of enabling the executive authorities, in the interval between the passing of an Act and its coming into force, to make preparations for bringing the Act into full operation as soon as it is legally possible to do so.

4. The English rule that a power given to the Crown by statute, having been once exercised, is exhausted and cannot be exercised again, has been applied by Indian Courts to powers conferred by the Indian legislature on the Governor-General in Council and Local Governments. Section 5 of the Bill is intended to remove the inconvenience resulting from the application of that rule.

5. Provisions in the terms of section 6 have been inserted in no fewer than eighteen Acts during the last three or four years and form part of several pending Bills. Their object is to give persons likely to be affected by statutory rules an opportunity, before the rules are made, of making objections and suggestions with respect to any matter which it is proposed to insert in them.

6. Section 7 is taken from the English Municipal Corporations Act, 1882, and is much needed in this country in the case of acts and proceedings to which the Indian Limitation Act, 1877, does not apply.

7. Section 8 is a repetition of a section which is very frequently inserted in Acts of the Governor-General in Council.

8. Clause (1) of section 3 of the General Clauses Act, 1868, has always been construed by the legislature as though the words "wholly or partially" were inserted before the word "repealed." It is proposed by section 9 of the Bill to insert those words in the clause and to require them to be deemed to have been there since the Act of 1868 was passed.

9. Difficulty has been experienced by some Courts in interpreting the word "soldier" in section 14 of the Cantonments Act, III of 1880. With the judgment of the High Court for the North-Western Provinces at I. L. R. 3 All. 214, to the effect that a warrant-officer is not a soldier within that section, the military authorities are content; but they consider it desirable that the word should have a wider meaning than has recently been assigned to it in Oudh, where the Judicial Commissioner has held a private in an European regiment, employed as a telegraph-signaller, not to be a soldier within the meaning of the section.

10. Section 11 of the Bill applies the General Clauses Act, 1868, and the proposed General Clauses Act, 1886, to Regulations to be hereafter made under the Statute 33 Vic., chapter 3.

The 1st September, 1886.

S. HARVEY JAMES,
Offg. Secretary to the Government of India.

(2) To section 648 the following shall be added, namely :—

[Cf. Provincial Small Cause Courts Bill, 1885, s. 19.]

"Where a person to be arrested or property to be attached under this section resides or is situate within the local limits of the ordinary original civil jurisdiction of the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal or at Madras or Bombay, or of the Recorder of Rangoon, the copy of the warrant of arrest or of the order of attachment, and the probable amount of the costs of the arrest or attachment, shall be sent to the Court of Small Causes of Calcutta, Madras, Bombay or Rangoon, as the case may be, and that Court, on receipt of the copy and amount, shall proceed as if it were the District Court."

Addition to section 652.

36. To section 652 the following shall be added namely :— [New.]

"A High Court not established under the Statute 24 and 25 Victoria, chapter 104 (an Act for establishing High Courts of Judicature in India) may from time to time, with the previous sanction of the Local Government, make, with respect to any matter other than procedure, any rule which any High Court so established might under section 15 of that Statute make with respect to any such matter for any part of the territories under its jurisdiction which is not included within the limits of a presidency-town. Rules so made shall be published in the same manner, and shall thereupon have the same force, as rules made and published under this section for the regulation of matters connected with procedure."

Amendment of the Indian Limitation Act, 1877.

37. (1) Nos. 171, 171A and 171B of the second schedule to the Indian Limitation Act, 1877, are hereby repealed. XV of 1877.

(2) In No. 171C of that schedule, for the words "of the same Code" the words and figures "or section 582 of the Code of Civil Procedure" shall be substituted.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE object of this Bill is to correct certain minor defects in the Code of Civil Procedure which have been brought to the notice of the Government of India during the four years which have elapsed since the Code was passed, and to amend that portion of the Indian Limitation Act, 1877, which relates to Chapter XXI of the Code.

The several amendments which it is proposed to make in the Code are noticed in the following remarks in the order in which they occur in the Bill :—

Section 3.—The second paragraph of section 8 of the Code, which, as the second paragraph of section 8 of Act X of 1877, was repealed by the Presidency Small Cause Courts Act, XV of 1882, was unintentionally reproduced in Act XIV of 1882. Its place has been taken by section 23 and the second schedule of the Presidency Small Cause Courts Act.

Section 4.—The Explanation which it is proposed to add to section 17 of the Code is suggested by the cases reported at I. L. R. 4 All. 423 and 5 All. 277.

Section 5.—The addition proposed by this section to be made to section 27 of the Code has been suggested by Mr. Justice Plowden of the Punjab Chief Court with reference to the remark of Pontifex J. at I. L. R. 6 Cal. 376.

Section 6.—In proposing to amend section 53 of the Code in the manner set forth in this section, the Government of India has followed the almost unanimous advice of the authorities whom it consulted in its letter Nos. 22-27, dated the 5th January, 1886.

Section 7.—In April, 1882, the Governor-General in Council published a resolution directing that postage-charges on all processes, notices and such other documents as are issued from any Court, and are required to be transmitted by post, should in future be paid by means of service postage-stamps without any additional charge being levied from the parties at whose instance the documents are issued. This resolution practically superseded the section of the Code which it is now proposed to repeal.

Section 8.—The addition to section 137 of the Code has been suggested by Bábú Brajendra Coomar Seal, the District Judge of Bankoora, on the ground of the difficulty which occurs in obtaining affidavits where the applicant under the section is a pardánashin lady.

Section 9.—The object of the amendments proposed to be made in section 141 of the Code is to remove the inconvenience caused to both public officers and private persons by the detention of their records in Civil Courts. The detention of the records of a village-accountant may bring his work to a standstill, and the Hon'ble Mr. Gibbon stated to the Select Committee on the Bengal Tenancy Bill that the inconvenience is quite as great in the case of private as of public records.

Section 10.—The addition to section 216 removes the doubt expressed in the case reported at I. L. R. 7 All. 284.

Section 11.—The circumstances which have suggested clause (a) of the proposed proviso to section 245 of the Code have been described in the Statement of Objects and Reasons of the Debtors Bill. If the clause becomes part of the Code, the Courts will be competent to require the property of a judgment-debtor to be proceeded against before proceedings are taken against his person.

Section 12.—As clause (h) of section 266 is at present drawn, half the salary of a public officer or railway servant in receipt of a monthly salary of twenty-one rupees may be attached. This was not the intention of the legislature.

The primary object of the additional clause (m) which it is proposed to insert in the section is to empower the Council of the Governor of Bombay to proceed with a Bill to declare and amend the law relating to toda girás allowances.

Section 13.—This section has been introduced at the suggestion of the Advocate General of Bombay, its object being to abolish, as regards the seizure of moveable property, the privilege conferred on debtors by the fourth resolution in Semayne's case (Smith's Leading Cases, Vol. I). At present that privilege operates mainly to enable debtors to avoid or delay payment of their just debts.

Section 14.—The necessity for the first of the proposed additions to section 320 of the Code is shown by the Full Bench judgment of the High Court for the North-Western Provinces at I. L. R. 5 All. 314. As regards the second addition, it appears to the Government of India that, if the Collector is to act effectively under section 320 and the following sections of the Code, he ought to be subject to the control of the Civil Court only to the extent expressly provided by the Code, being as to the rest subject only to the control of the higher revenue-authorities.

Section 15.—The addition to section 341 has been proposed by the High Court and Government of Madras with reference to cases which have recently occurred in Southern India. In one of these cases the debtor committed to prison was suffering from leprosy in an advanced form, and in the other the prisoner was suffering from illness so serious as in the opinion of the medical officer to render it necessary that he should be immediately released from confinement.

Section 16.—The object of sub-sections (1) to (7) is to assimilate practice under Chapter XX of the Code to that to be prescribed by the proposed Indian Bankruptcy Act.

Sub-section (8) is designed to extend the jurisdiction of subordinate Courts in matters of insolvency. Most cases under Chapter XX are of little importance and may properly be disposed of by munsifs. Where any considerable sum is involved, the District Judge, who will have concurrent jurisdiction, can transfer the case to his own Court.

Sections 17 and 37.—The amendments proposed to be made in Chapter XXI of the Code and in the second schedule to the Indian Limitation Act, 1877, have their origin in the complaints of the hardship caused by the rules of limitation required by that Chapter and schedule to be observed in the substitution of legal representatives in the place of deceased parties to suits and appeals. With respect to these portions of the Code and Limitation Act, Mr. Rattigan, the Government Advocate of the Panjab, by whom the form of the amendments has been suggested, has recorded the following remarks :—

"Considerable hardship has been experienced in the Panjab in the working of those sections of the Civil Procedure Code which deal with the procedure to be followed in the case of the death of a plaintiff or defendant. It is of course perfectly correct and desirable that in the case of the death of one of the litigant parties, where the right to sue or be sued still survives, his legal representatives should be brought on the record, for it is clear that without such a process the suit could not validly proceed. But the hardship consists in requiring the legal representatives to apply for the above purpose within a comparatively short period after the death of the deceased plaintiff or defendant. In the Panjab it frequently happens in land-suits that fifty or a hundred persons are obliged, owing to community of interests, to sue or be sued in the one suit. Now, when such a suit comes up eventually to the Chief Court, a date for hearing is fixed which is generally not less than a year, and, at present, owing to the state of the work in the Court, is not unfrequently eighteen months from the date of filing the appeal. Within this period it often happens that one or more of the litigants is or are carried off by death from disease or violence; the representatives of the deceased, or the appellants, being ignorant agriculturists and not knowing the requirements of the law, take no action to put the representatives on the record, and thus, when the appeal finally comes on for hearing, a pleader on the opposite side takes the objection that no application has been made within the prescribed period, and, this being ascertained to be the fact, the appeal abates, and the unfortunate appellants find themselves deprived of all remedy simply in consequence of a harsh limitation law of which they had no knowledge. It is true that sections 368 and 371 allow the Court to extend the period if the plaintiff (or appellant-plaintiff) adduces sufficient cause for not making the required application within the prescribed period. But in nine cases out of ten of the kind I refer to the only cause assignable is ignorance of the requirements of the law—and this of course cannot be deemed to be 'sufficient' within the meaning of the section. So that the law as it stands at present works considerable hardship, and the hardship is irremediable.

"The question therefore arises, whether it is really necessary to prescribe a hard-and-fast period of limitation within which alone an application to put the legal representatives of a deceased plaintiff or defendant on the record can be entertained.

"For my own part I cannot see that there is any such necessity. If I remember rightly, the rules framed under the English Judicature Acts do not prescribe a period for such applications, and I do not see why the Indian law should do so. It would surely be sufficient to require the legal representatives of a deceased plaintiff or defendant, where the right to sue or be sued survived, to be put on the record; and to leave it to the Court to direct this to be done within such time, and upon such terms as to costs or otherwise, as it thinks fit."

Sub-section (6) of section 15 of the Bill is intended to cure the defect noticed at I. L. R. 9 Bom. 56.

Section 18.—This section, which would restore the rule of the Code of 1859, has been proposed by Mr. Justice Straight.

Section 19.—The amendment made in section 386 of the Code by Act XII of 1879, whereby commissions to examine witnesses are required to be issued to a Court or a pleader of a High Court, has caused much inconvenience. In remote parts of the country High Court pleaders do not exist, and in few parts have Judges leisure to close their Courts and travel considerable distances for the purpose of taking the evidence of persons who cannot appear before them. Moreover, in some Provinces the Government maintains a staff of officials among whose duties is the execution of these commissions.

Section 20.—The addition which it is proposed to make to section 396 has been suggested by a gentleman of long standing at the Bombay bar. It is based on the Partition Act, 1868 (31 & 32 Vic., c. 40).

Section 21.—A Government Pleader does not exist in every Court.

Section 22.—It has been doubted whether the Government is empowered by section 432 to appoint a person generally to prosecute and defend all suits which it may from time to time be necessary to prosecute or defend on behalf of a Prince or Chief. It is obviously inconvenient that the Government should be compelled to make a special appointment in the case of each particular suit.

Sections 23 and 25.—The object of these sections is (a) to define more precisely, with reference to the definition of "Government" in section 2 of the Code, by whom consent to the institution of a suit against a Sovereign Prince, ruling Chief, ambassador or envoy may be given; (b) to make the provisions of section 433 more elastic as regards the mode of giving the consent, the cases in which the consent may be given, and the Courts to which the consent may apply; and (c) to prescribe the name in which a Prince or Chief may sue and is to be sued. To effect this last object it is proposed that a Prince or Chief may sue and shall ordinarily be sued in the name of his State.

Section 24.—Section 434 of the Code, under which execution may be had of a decree in a suit between British subjects, is out of place in a chapter relating to Suits by Aliens and by or against Foreign and Native Rulers. The section may conveniently take the place of section 651, which was repealed in March last by Act X of 1886.

Section 26.—The amendments proposed by this section to be made in Chapter XXXI of the Code are those referred to in paragraph 4 of the Statement of Objects and Reasons of the Guardians and Wards Bill. The additions to sections 443 and 446 confer on a guardian who has been appointed, or whose title has been declared, by a Civil Court, Court of Wards or other competent authority, a preferential right to be appointed next friend or guardian for the suit. The amendment of section 461 gives effect to a suggestion by Sir Charles Turner, late Chief Justice of Madras, that, when a Court makes over property to a next friend or guardian for the suit who is not a duly constituted guardian of the property of the minor, it should be required to give such directions as, having regard to the nature of the property, may sufficiently protect it from waste and secure its proper application. Section 464, as amended, saves all local laws relating to suits by or against minors or by or against lunatics or other persons of unsound mind.

Section 27.—There are two reported cases, I. L. R. 8 Cal. 32, and I. L. R. 7 All. 178, with respect to the meaning to be assigned to the words "direct interest" in section 539. It appears that the authority for the insertion of the words "having a direct interest in the trust" is In the matter of the Masters, Governors and Trustees of the Bedford Charity (2 Swanst. 470). There certain Jews, some being residents of Bedford and others being members of Dutch and German Synagogues in London, sought to establish the title of Jews to the benefit of the Bedford Charity. It was contended that under Sir Samuel Romilly's Act (52 Geo. III, c. 101), on which section 539 of the Code of Civil Procedure is based, any two or more persons might be petitioners, and therefore the Jews of the London Synagogues, who, though not interested, considered it their duty to support the claims of those of their own persuasion, might be petitioners. With respect to that contention, Lord Eldon, admitting that every person possessing the character of an inhabitant of Bedford and describing himself as an object of the charity was entitled to apply to the Court, asked how he could notice the members of the London Synagogues. "Under Sir Samuel Romilly's Act," he observed, * * * "no person can petition who has not a direct interest in the charity. The Act indeed, authorises 'any two or more persons' to present a petition, but I conceive that those words must be understood to mean persons having an interest. * * * Those who are interested in the fund, provided Sir Samuel Romilly's Act, or the Bedford Charity Act, apply to this case, namely, persons residing in Bedford, are entitled to the summary interference of the Court, but I know not on what ground these gentlemen residing in London can appear as petitioners."

The contention which Lord Eldon overruled was that any one, though he had no interest whatever, might petition. He did, no doubt, remark that "no person can petition who has not a direct interest," but he immediately qualified that remark by adding that the words of the Act "must be understood to mean persons having an interest." The case cannot, therefore, it seems, be taken as an authority for the proposition that the interest of the petitioner must be direct. On the contrary, it may be inferred from the case that an indirect interest would have been deemed sufficient; for, when, in support of the contention that the words "any persons" comprehend persons who may not have an interest, the counsel for the petitioners pointed out that, in the instance of charities for relief of the blind and the poor, it had been the practice to receive the petition of the minister of the parish, Lord Eldon observed that "the petition of the minister of the parish is received, because the poor may be burdensome to him."

It may be doubted whether the case justified the insertion of the word "direct" in the Code, where it assumes a peculiar pointedness and must have some definite meaning assigned to it; and after consultation with the High Courts it has been decided to propose the removal of the word.

Sections 28 and 31.—It is proposed, in accordance with the advice of the great majority of the authorities consulted by the Government of India in its letter of the 5th January last, to declare ex parte decrees to be appealable.

Section 29.—Section 561 has been so amended as to require the objection to be filed in the Appellate Court, and notice of the filing thereof to be given to the appellant, and to admit of the objection being filed and the notice given at any time not less than seven days before the actual date of hearing; and, on the suggestion of Bábú Brajendra Coomar Seal, it applies to the objection and notice under the provisions of section 5 of the Indian Limitation Act, 1877, applicable to an appeal.

Sections 30 and 32.—The amendments proposed to be made by these sections merely correct typographical errors in sections 568 and 588 of the Code.

Section 33.—Section 599, and the portion of section 601 which it is proposed to repeal, were repealed by Act XV of 1877 and were unintentionally reproduced in the Code of 1882.

Section 34.—This section removes a doubt which has been expressed in the cases noted on the margin of the section with respect to the construction to be placed on the word "made" in section 624.

Section 35.—Sub-section (1) of this section has been suggested by the following remarks of the Hon'ble Judges of the High Court at Fort William in their Registrar's reply to the letter of the Government of India of the 5th January last:—

"I am further to request attention to another point in this section (648) which, though not referred to in your letter, seems to the Judges to call for notice. The section gives absolute power to a Court to cause the arrest through another Court of a person summoned as a witness, and so to cause him to be sent under arrest to the Court issuing the process. The Court to which the warrant is sent has no power of hearing the person arrested or of dealing with any question except the giving of security by him. It seems to the Judges that this is a power far too great to be entrusted at any rate to the subordinate Courts in the Mufassal."

Sub-section (2) has been transferred to this Bill from the Provincial Small Cause Courts Bill, and will be of general application instead of being applicable to Courts of Small Causes only. With respect to the necessity for this addition to section 648, the District Judge of the 24-Parganas writes as follows:—

"Under section 648 I would also beg to point out that a warrant for the arrest of a person residing within the limits of the original jurisdiction must be executed through the High Court. This is very inconvenient to small suitors, and, in a case which occurred in my Court only a few weeks ago, a defendant preferred abandoning all attempts to get a recusant witness into Court to undergoing the trouble and expense of having a warrant of arrest served through the Original Side of the High Court. I would suggest that the procedure prescribed by section 86 should be made applicable to section 648, and that warrants of arrest which are to be served within the original jurisdiction should be executed by the Small Cause Court."

Section 36.—This section is designed to remove a doubt as to the extent of the powers of unchartered High Courts to make rules on matters not strictly connected with procedure.

PART V.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Third publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 25th August, 1886:—

No. 19 OF 1886.

A Bill to annex the Town and Fort of Jhánsí and certain adjacent Territory to the Jhánsí District, and for certain other purposes.

Short title and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Jhánsí and Morar Act, 1886; and

(2) It shall come into force on a date to be appointed in this behalf by the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces, which date is in this Act referred to as the commencement of this Act.

PART I.

WHEREAS since the beginning of March, 1886, the fort and town of Jhánsí have been ceded to the British Government in full sovereignty by His Highness the Mahárájá Scindia in exchange for the cantonment of Morar which has been ceded to His Highness in full sovereignty by the British Government;

And whereas the town and fort of Jhánsí have been declared by the Governor-General in Council to be subject to the Lieutenant-Governorship of the North-Western Provinces;

And whereas it is proposed that certain lands in the neighbourhood of the town and fort of Jhánsí should be ceded to the British Government in full sovereignty by His Highness in exchange for certain other lands in that neighbourhood to be ceded to His Highness in full sovereignty by the British Government;

And whereas it is expedient that the town and fort of Jhánsí, and the lands to be ceded to the British Government, should be annexed to the Jhánsí district, and that the law in force therein should be the same as the law in force in that district;

And whereas it is also expedient that the town and fort, and the lands in the neighbourhood thereof which may be ceded to the British Government, should, for the purposes of the Scheduled Districts Act, 1874, form part of the Jhánsí district; XIV of 1874.

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Annexation of ceded lands to Jhánsí district.

2. The town and fort of Jhánsí, and the lands in the neighbourhood thereof which may be ceded to the British Government in accordance with the proposal referred to in the preamble to this Part, shall, in the case of the town and fort, from the commencement of this Act, and, in the case of any of the lands, from the date of the cession thereof, be deemed to be part of the Jhánsí district.

Assimilation of law in force in ceded lands to law in force in Jhánsí district.

3. All enactments which at the commencement of this Act, or at the date of the cession of any of the lands referred to in the last foregoing section, are or shall be in force in the Jhánsí district and not in the town and fort of Jhánsí or those lands, shall then come into force in the town and fort or those lands, as the case may be.

Ceded lands to become part of the scheduled district of Jhánsí.

4. On and from the commencement of this Act, or the date of the cession of any of those lands, as the case may be, the town and fort of Jhánsí and the lands shall be deemed to form part of the district of Jhánsí mentioned in Part IV of the first schedule to the Scheduled Districts Act, 1874. XIV of 1874.

Validation of acts done since the beginning of March, 1886.

5. All acts of executive authority, proceedings, decrees and sentences which have been done, taken or passed in or with respect to [cf. Act XX of 1876, s. 3.]

the town and fort of Jhánsí since the beginning of March, 1886, and before the commencement of this Act, by any officer of the Government, or by any person acting under his authority or otherwise in pursuance of an order of the Government, or which have been or shall be ratified by the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces, shall be as valid and operative as if they had been done, taken or passed in accordance with law; and no suit or other proceeding shall be maintained or continued against any person whatever on the ground that any such acts, proceedings, decrees or sentences were not done, taken or passed in accordance with law.

PART II.

And whereas it is expedient that decrees and orders passed by the Civil and Revenue Courts of His Highness in cases which would have been cognizable by the Civil and Revenue Courts of the Jhánsí district under the Code of Civil Procedure or the Jhánsí Courts Act, 1867, or the North-Western Provinces Rent Act, 1881, if the territory ceded by His Highness had been part of the Jhánsí district at the time of the institution of the cases, should be capable of being executed as if they had been made by the Courts of the Jhánsí district; It is hereby further enacted as follows:—

XIV of 1882.
XVIII of 1867.
XII of 1881.

Execution of decrees of Gwalior Courts.

6. (1) An application for the execution of a decree or order passed by a Civil or Revenue Court of His Highness in any such case as is referred to in the preamble to this Part may, with the previous sanction of the Deputy Commissioner, be made to any Court in the Jhánsí district subordinate to the Court of the Commissioner which may be specified by the Deputy Commissioner in that behalf in his order giving the sanction.

(2) The Deputy Commissioner may for any sufficient cause withhold his sanction to the making of the application, or permit the application to be made on any conditions which in the circumstances he deems it proper to impose.

XV of 1877.

(3) The fact that an application is barred by the Indian Limitation Act, 1877, may be a sufficient cause for withholding sanction to the making of the application, but in any case in which the holder of the decree or order has been debarred from enforcing it by reason of the cession of the town and fort of Jhánsí to the British Government, and to which the Deputy Commissioner sees fit to apply the provisions of that Act, the Deputy Commissioner shall, in computing the period of limitation, exclude therefrom the time which has elapsed between the cession of the town and fort and the commencement of this Act.

(4) Subject to revision by the Commissioner of the Jhánsí Division, an order of the Deputy Commissioner sanctioning or refusing to sanction the making of an application under this section, or imposing conditions with respect thereto, shall be final.

PART III.

And whereas it is expedient that traders and others who were entitled immediately before the cession of the cantonment of Morar to institute certain suits in, or make applications for or with respect to the execution of certain decrees to, a Civil Court at Morar should be enabled to institute those suits in, and make those applications to, the Civil Courts at Jhánsí and Agra, and at any other place from time to time appointed in this behalf by the Governor-General in Council, and that the period of limitation in these cases should be extended; It is hereby further enacted as follows:—

Suits for debt formerly cognizable in a Morar Court to be cognizable in Courts at certain other places.

7. (1) Any person who at the date of the cession of the cantonment of Morar was entitled to institute in a Civil Court at Morar a suit of any of the descriptions referred to in articles 50 to 54 (both inclusive) or articles 56 to 64 (both inclusive) or articles 74 and 75 of the second schedule to the Indian Limitation Act, 1877, or to make to any such Court an application for or with respect to the execution of a decree in any such suit, may institute the suit or make the application in any Civil Court at Jhánsí or Agra, or other place appointed in that behalf by the Governor-General in Council, which would have jurisdiction in the suit to be instituted, or, as the case may be, would have had jurisdiction in the suit in which the decree to be executed was passed, if the cause of action had arisen within the local limits of its jurisdiction.

XV of 1877.

(2) Notwithstanding anything in any enactment or notification to the contrary, any Civil Court at Jhánsí or Agra, or other place aforesaid, in which any such suit or application as is referred to in sub-section (1) is instituted or made, shall, subject to the provisions of that sub-section, have jurisdiction to dispose of it.

(3) In computing the period of limitation for any suit or application referred to in this section, the time which has elapsed between the date of the cession of the cantonment of Morar and the commencement of this Act shall be excluded.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

1. This Bill is drawn in three Parts.

2. The object of Part I is to incorporate in the Jhánsí district the fort and town of Jhánsí, which were lately ceded by the Mahárájá Scindia to the British Government in exchange for the cantonment of Morar. The town and fort have already been declared by proclamation under the Statute 28 & 29 Vic., c. 17, section 4, to be subject to the Lieutenant-Governorship of the North-Western Provinces, but legislation is required for the annexation of the town and fort to the Jhánsí district, and for the assimilation of the law in force therein to that in force in the district. The provisions necessary to effect these objects are contained in sections 2 and 3 of the Bill, while section 4 makes it clear that the ceded territory will be part of the scheduled district of Jhánsí; and section 5, which is taken from the corresponding provision in the Upper Burma Laws Bill now before the Legislative Council, validates all acts done since the date of the cession and before the commencement of the Act. As negotiations are at present pending for the exchange of certain lands in the neighbourhood of Jhánsí, the provisions of sections 2, 3 and 4 of the Bill are made prospective, so as to cover the lands which may be ceded.

3. The object of Part II is to give effect to certain decrees and orders of the Gwalior Courts which, by reason of cession of territory, have ceased to be enforceable in those Courts.

4. The object of Part III is to afford relief to certain traders and others formerly carrying on business within the cantonment of Morar who had money-claims enforceable in the local Courts at the time of the cession of the cantonment to the Mahárájá. As the British Courts in the cantonment have necessarily been abolished, these persons have now no means of recovering the amounts due to them at Morar, whilst to follow their debtors to the various places to which they have migrated, and proceed against them in the Civil Courts there, would, in many cases, put the creditors to greater expenses than the amount of the debts due to them. It is proposed, therefore, by section 7 of the Bill that persons who may have been entitled to file suits of certain classes, or applications for or with respect to the execution of decrees in suits of those classes, in a Morar Civil Court at the date of the cession of the cantonment, may file the suits and applications in the Civil Courts at Jhánsí or Agra, or at any other place appointed by the Governor-General in Council in this behalf, and that the Courts having jurisdiction at those places shall dispose of the suits and applications. In order to save debts which might otherwise have become time-barred, the same section declares that in computing the period of limitation for the suits and applications, the time which has elapsed between the date of the cession of the cantonment and the commencement of the Act shall be excluded.

(b) to all native Indian subjects of Her Majesty without and beyond British India; and,

(c) subject to the exceptions mentioned in sub-section (2), to vessels carrying more than thirty passengers being natives of Asia or Africa.

(2) But it does not apply—

(i) to any ship-of-war or transport belonging to, or in the service of, Her Majesty, or

(iii) to any sailing-vessel not carrying as passengers more than thirty natives of Asia or Africa, or

(iv) to any steamer not carrying as passengers more than sixty such natives, or

(v) to any sailing-vessel or steamer not intended to convey passengers to or from any port in British India:

[New.] Provided, with respect to clauses (iii) and (iv) of this sub-section, that the Local Government may, with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, declare all or any of the provisions of this Act to apply to sailing-vessels, or any class of sailing-vessels, carrying as passengers more than fifteen natives of Asia or Africa, and to steamers, or any class of steamers, carrying as passengers more than thirty such natives.

[Act VIII, 1876, s. 4.] Repeal. 4. (1) On and from that day the enactments mentioned in the schedule to this Act shall be repealed to the extent specified in the third column thereof.

(2) But all ports, places and officers appointed, rules, declarations and exemptions made, bonds executed, directions given and certificates granted under any of those enactments shall, so far as may be, be deemed to be respectively appointed, made, executed, given and granted under this Act; and

(2) After a ship has departed or proceeded upon a voyage from a port or place so appointed, a person shall not be received on board as a passenger except at some other port or place so appointed.

[Act VIII, 1876, s. 7.] Master to give notice of day of sailing. 7. (1) The master, owner or agent of a ship so departing or proceeding shall give notice to an officer authorised in this behalf by the Local Government that the ship is to carry native passengers, and of her destination, and of the proposed time of sailing.

(2) The notice shall be given not less than twenty-four hours before that time.

[Act VIII, 1876, s. 8.] Power to enter and inspect ship. 8. After receiving the notice, the officer aforesaid, or a person authorized by him, shall be at liberty at all times to enter and inspect the ship and the fittings, provisions and stores therein.

[Act VIII, 1876, s. 9.] Ship not to sail without two certificates. 9. (1) A ship intended to carry passengers shall not commence a voyage from a port or place appointed under this Act, unless the master holds two certificates to the effect mentioned in the two next following sections.

(2) The officer of the Government whose duty it is to grant a port-clearance for the ship shall not grant it unless the master holds those certificates.

[Act VIII, 1876, s. 10.] Contents of certificate A. 10. The first of the certificates (hereinafter called "certificate A") shall state that the ship is seaworthy and properly equipped, fitted and ventilated, and the number of passengers which she is capable of carrying.

[Act VIII, 1876, s. 11.] Contents of certificate B. 11. The second of the certificates (hereinafter called "certificate B") shall state—

(a) the voyage which the ship is to make and the intermediate ports, if any, at which she is to touch;

(b) that she has the proper complement of officers and seamen;

(c) that provisions, fuel and pure water, over and above what is necessary for the crew, and the other things, if any, prescribed for the ship by the rules under this Act, have been placed on board, of the quality prescribed by the rules, properly packed, and sufficient to supply the passengers on board during the voyage which the ship is to make (including such detention in quarantine as may be probable), according to the scale for the time being prescribed by those rules;

[New.]

(d) that the master holds certificate A;

(e) if the ship is to make a short voyage in a season of foul weather, and to carry upper-deck passengers, that she is furnished with substantial bulwarks and a double awning or with other sufficient protection against the weather;

the officer may, if the particulars required by section 10 are certified thereby, take the certificate as evidence of those particulars, and it shall then be deemed to be a certificate A for the purposes of this Act.

[Act VIII 1876, s. 14.] Survey of ship. 14. (1) After receiving the notice required by section 7, the officer aforesaid may, if he thinks fit, cause the ship to be surveyed at the expense of the master or owner by competent surveyors, who shall report to him whether the ship is, in their opinion, seaworthy and properly equipped, fitted and ventilated for the voyage which she is to make:

Provided that he shall not cause a ship holding a certificate mentioned in section 13, clause (a) or clause (b), to be surveyed unless, by reason of the ship having met with damage or having undergone alterations, or on other reasonable ground, he considers it likely that she may be found unseaworthy or not properly equipped, fitted or ventilated for the voyage.

(2) If the officer aforesaid causes a survey to be made of a ship holding any such certificate, and the surveyors report that the ship is seaworthy and properly equipped, fitted and ventilated for the voyage, and that there was no reasonable ground why the officer aforesaid should have thought it likely that she would be found unseaworthy, or not properly equipped, fitted or ventilated for the voyage, the expense of the survey shall be paid by the Local Government.

[Act VIII, 1876, s. 15.] Discretion as to grant of certificate. 15. (1) The officer authorized to grant a certificate under this Act in respect of a ship shall not grant it unless he is satisfied that she has not on board any cargo likely from its quality, quantity or mode of stowage to prejudice the health or safety of the passengers.

SCHEDULE.

ENACTMENTS REPEALED.

(See section 4.)

Number and year.	Title.	Extent of repeal.
VIII of 1876	Native Passenger Ships Act, 1876.	The whole.
XVII of 1883	Native Passenger Ships Act, 1883.	The whole.
VII of 1884	Indian Steamships Act, 1884.	Section 41.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The law relating to native passenger ships is contained in three enactments, namely, the Native Passenger Ships Act, VIII of 1876, and the amending Acts, XVII of 1883 and VII of 1884. Further amendments having now become necessary, the opportunity has been taken to consolidate the law in a single measure.

2. The amendments are not numerous and will be noticed in the order in which they occur in the Bill—

(a) Section 2.—The primary object of the proviso to sub-section (2) of this section is to confer on the Government of Bombay the power of having certain small vessels engaged in the pilgrim-trade between Western India and the Hedjaz examined with a view to ascertaining whether or not they are seaworthy.

(b) Section 11, clause (c).—The corresponding section of the Act of 1876 requires certificate B to state that provisions, fuel and pure water sufficient for the voyage have been placed on board. It is now proposed to require the certificate to state that the supply is sufficient not only for the voyage but for any probable period of detention in quarantine. On one occasion at least the Government has had to undertake the maintenance of a shipload of pilgrims whose private stock of provisions had become exhausted.

(c) Section 41.—Cases have occurred in which pilgrims who had engaged their passages on the understanding that they would proceed direct to the Hedjaz have been taken on long coasting voyages. The deception thus practised has caused great hardship, pilgrims very frequently taking their own provisions with them (section 18, Act VIII, 1876) and very rarely taking more than is absolutely necessary for their support on the voyage which they believe themselves to have undertaken.

(d) Section 53, sub-section (1), clause (g).—It is proposed, following section 21 of the English Merchant Shipping Act, 1876, to empower the Governor-General in Council to require native passenger ships to be provided with means for making signals of distress and with life-saving apparatus.

(e) Section 53, sub-section (2).—This sub-section is designed to meet a suggestion made by Mr. T. M. Cook, of the firm of Messrs. Thomas Cook & Son, that the embarkation of pilgrims in the "Roads" at Bombay during the monsoon should be forbidden, and that pilgrim-carrying ships should be required to go into dock for the purpose of receiving their passengers during that season.

(f) Section 54.—This section requires drafts of any rules which it is proposed to make under the Act to be published for the information of the public before the rules are made.

9. The words "wholly or partially" shall be inserted before the word "repealed" in clause (1) of section 3 of the General Clauses Act, 1868, and shall be deemed to have been there from the commencement of that Act. I of 1868.

[I. L. R. 3 All. 214.] III of 1880.

Partial application of this Act to Act III, 1880.

10. In the Cantonments Act, 1880, the word "soldier" shall not include a warrant-officer but shall otherwise have the meaning assigned to it by clause (13) of section 3 of this Act.

I of 1868.

Application of this Act and Act I, 1868, to Regulations under 33 Vic., c. 3, s. 1.

11. This Act and the General Clauses Act, 1868, shall apply to all Regulations which may receive the assent of the Governor-General under the Statute 33 Victoria, chapter 3, section 1, after the commencement of this Act.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THIS Bill is supplementary to the General Clauses Act, 1868, and is designed, as stated in the preamble, to further shorten the language used in Acts of the Governor-General in Council.

2. In section 3 there is nothing which calls for remark. The definitions in the section will materially shorten the defining clauses of Acts to be hereafter passed.

3. Section 4 is a repetition of a clause very generally employed by the Council of the Governor-General with the object of enabling the executive authorities, in the interval between the passing of an Act and its coming into force, to make preparations for bringing the Act into full operation as soon as it is legally possible to do so.

4. The English rule that a power given to the Crown by statute, having been once exercised, is exhausted and cannot be exercised again, has been applied by Indian Courts to powers conferred by the Indian legislature on the Governor-General in Council and Local Governments. Section 5 of the Bill is intended to remove the inconvenience resulting from the application of that rule.

5. Provisions in the terms of section 6 have been inserted in no fewer than eighteen Acts during the last three or four years and form part of several pending Bills. Their object is to give persons likely to be affected by statutory rules an opportunity, before the rules are made, of making objections and suggestions with respect to any matter which it is proposed to insert in them.

6. Section 7 is taken from the English Municipal Corporations Act, 1882, and is much needed in this country in the case of acts and proceedings to which the Indian Limitation Act, 1877, does not apply.

7. Section 8 is a repetition of a section which is very frequently inserted in Acts of the Governor-General in Council.

8. Clause (1) of section 3 of the General Clauses Act, 1868, has always been construed by the legislature as though the words "wholly or partially" were inserted before the word "repealed." It is proposed by section 9 of the Bill to insert those words in the clause and to require them to be deemed to have been there since the Act of 1868 was passed.

9. Difficulty has been experienced by some Courts in interpreting the word "soldier" in section 14 of the Cantonments Act, III of 1880. With the judgment of the High Court for the North-Western Provinces at I. L. R. 3 All. 214, to the effect that a warrant-officer is not a soldier within that section, the military authorities are content; but they consider it desirable that the word should have a wider meaning than has recently been assigned to it in Oudh, where the Judicial Commissioner has held a private in an European regiment, employed as a telegraph-signaller, not to be a soldier within the meaning of the section.

10. Section 11 of the Bill applies the General Clauses Act, 1868, and the proposed General Clauses Act, 1886, to Regulations to be hereafter made under the Statute 33 Vic., chapter 3.

The 1st September, 1886.

(Procedure in case of death of sole or sole surviving plaintiff.)

(3) In section 366 the words "within the time limited by law" are hereby repealed.

(4) In the third paragraph of section 368, between the words "the plaintiff may" and the words "make an application" the words "at any time before an order for the abatement of the suit is passed" shall be inserted.

"The dismissal shall not be set aside unless the plaintiff has served the defendant with notice in writing of his application.

"(2) Such consent may be given with respect to a specified suit or to several specified suits, or with respect to all suits of any specified class or classes, and may specify, in the case of any suit or class of suits, the Court in which the Prince, Chief, ambassador or envoy may be sued; but it shall not be given unless the Prince, Chief, ambassador or envoy—

"(3) No such Prince, Chief, ambassador or envoy shall be arrested under this Code, and, except with the consent of the Governor-General in Council certified as aforesaid, no decree shall be executed against the property of any such Prince, Chief, ambassador or envoy."

24. Section 434 shall become section 651. [Act X, 1886, s. 24 (2).] (Transposition of section 434.)

25. After section 433 the following section shall be inserted, namely :— (Insertion of new section 434.)

"Provided that in giving the consent referred to in the last foregoing section the Governor-General in Council may direct that any such Prince or Chief shall be sued in the name of an agent or in any other name."

26. (1) After the first paragraph of section 443 the following shall be inserted, namely :— (Amendment of Chapter XXXI.)

[Cf. paragraph 4 of the Statement of Objects and Reasons of the Guardians and Wards Bill, 1886.]

(2) After section 446 the following shall be added, namely :—

(3) For section 461 the following shall be substituted, namely :—

Receipt by next friend or guardian ad litem of property under decree for minor.

"461. (1) A next friend or guardian for the suit shall not receive any money or other moveable property under a decree or order in favour of a minor without the leave of the Court.

"(2) Where the next friend or guardian for the suit has not been appointed or declared by competent authority to be guardian of the property of the minor, or, having been so appointed or declared, is not thereby entitled to receive the money or other moveable property under the decree or order, the Court shall, if it grants him leave to receive the property, require such security and give such directions as will, in its opinion, sufficiently protect the property from waste and ensure its proper application."

(4) For section 464 the following shall be substituted, namely :—

Saving of local laws.

"464. Nothing in this Chapter shall be construed to affect, or in any way derogate from, the provisions of any local law for the time being in force relating to suits by or against minors or by or against lunatics or other persons of unsound mind."

(2) To section 648 the following shall be added, namely :—

XIV of 1882.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE object of this Bill is to correct certain minor defects in the Code of Civil Procedure which have been brought to the notice of the Government of India during the four years which have elapsed since the Code was passed, and to amend that portion of the Indian Limitation Act, 1877, which relates to Chapter XXI of the Code.

The several amendments which it is proposed to make in the Code are noticed in the following remarks in the order in which they occur in the Bill :—

Section 3.—The second paragraph of section 8 of the Code, which, as the second paragraph of section 8 of Act X of 1877, was repealed by the Presidency Small Cause Courts Act, XV of 1882, was unintentionally reproduced in Act XIV of 1882. Its place has been taken by section 23 and the second schedule of the Presidency Small Cause Courts Act.

Section 4.—The Explanation which it is proposed to add to section 17 of the Code is suggested by the cases reported at I. L. R. 4 All. 423 and 5 All. 277.

Section 5.—The addition proposed by this section to be made to section 27 of the Code has been suggested by Mr. Justice Plowden of the Punjab Chief Court with reference to the remark of Pontifex J. at I. L. R. 6 Cal. 376.

Section 6.—In proposing to amend section 53 of the Code in the manner set forth in this section, the Government of India has followed the almost unanimous advice of the authorities whom it consulted in its letter Nos. 22-27, dated the 5th January, 1886.

Section 7.—In April, 1882, the Governor-General in Council published a resolution directing that postage-charges on all processes, notices and such other documents as are issued from any Court, and are required to be transmitted by post, should in future be paid by means of service postage-stamps without any additional charge being levied from the parties at whose instance the documents are issued. This resolution practically superseded the section of the Code which it is now proposed to repeal.

Section 8.—The addition to section 137 of the Code has been suggested by Bábú Brajendra Coomar Seal, the District Judge of Bankoora, on the ground of the difficulty which occurs in obtaining affidavits where the applicant under the section is a purdánashin lady.

Section 9.—The object of the amendments proposed to be made in section 141 of the Code is to remove the inconvenience caused to both public officers and private persons by the detention of their records in Civil Courts. The detention of the records of a village-accountant may bring his work to a standstill; and the Hon'ble Mr. Gibbon stated to the Select Committee on the Bengal Tenancy Bill that the inconvenience is quite as great in the case of private as of public records.

Section 10.—The addition to section 216 removes the doubt expressed in the case reported at I. L. R. 7 All. 284.

Section 11.—The circumstances which have suggested clause (a) of the proposed proviso to section 245 of the Code have been described in the Statement of Objects and Reasons of the Debtors Bill. If the clause becomes part of the Code, the Courts will be competent to require the property of a judgment-debtor to be proceeded against before proceedings are taken against his person.

Section 12.—As clause (h) of section 266 is at present drawn, half the salary of a public officer or railway servant in receipt of a monthly salary of twenty-one rupees may be attached. This was not the intention of the legislature.

The primary object of the additional clause (m) which it is proposed to insert in the section is to empower the Council of the Governor of Bombay to proceed with a Bill to declare and amend the law relating to toda girás allowances.

Section 13.—This section has been introduced at the suggestion of the Advocate General of Bombay, its object being to abolish, as regards the seizure of moveable property, the privilege conferred on debtors by the fourth resolution in Semayne's case (Smith's Leading Cases, Vol. I). At present that privilege operates mainly to enable debtors to avoid or delay payment of their just debts.

Section 14.—The necessity for the first of the proposed additions to section 320 of the Code is shown by the Full Bench judgment of the High Court for the North-Western Provinces at I. L. R. 5 All. 314. As regards the second addition, it appears to the Government of India that, if the Collector is to act effectively under section 320 and the following sections of the Code, he ought to be subject to the control of the Civil Court only to the extent expressly provided by the Code, being as to the rest subject only to the control of the higher revenue-authorities.

Section 15.—The addition to section 341 has been proposed by the High Court and Government of Madras with reference to cases which have recently occurred in Southern India. In one of these cases the debtor committed to prison was suffering from leprosy in an advanced form, and in the other the prisoner was suffering from illness so serious as in the opinion of the medical officer to render it necessary that he should be immediately released from confinement.

Section 16.—The object of sub-sections (1) to (7) is to assimilate practice under Chapter XX of the Code to that to be prescribed by the proposed Indian Bankruptcy Act.

Sub-section (8) is designed to extend the jurisdiction of subordinate Courts in matters of insolvency. Most cases under Chapter XX are of little importance and may properly be disposed of by munsifs. Where any considerable sum is involved, the District Judge, who will have concurrent jurisdiction, can transfer the case to his own Court.

Sections 17 and 37.—The amendments proposed to be made in Chapter XXI of the Code and in the second schedule to the Indian Limitation Act, 1877, have their origin in the complaints of the hardship caused by the rules of limitation required by that Chapter and schedule to be observed in the substitution of legal representatives in the place of deceased parties to suits and appeals. With respect to these portions of the Code and Limitation Act, Mr. Rattigan, the Government Advocate of the Panjab, by whom the form of the amendments has been suggested, has recorded the following remarks :—

"Considerable hardship has been experienced in the Panjab in the working of those sections of the Civil Procedure Code which deal with the procedure to be followed in the case of the death of a plaintiff or defendant. It is of course perfectly correct and desirable that in the case of the death of one of the litigant parties, where the right to sue or be sued still survives, his legal representatives should be brought on the record, for it is clear that without such a process the suit could not validly proceed. But the hardship consists in requiring the legal representatives to apply for the above purpose within a comparatively short period after the death of the deceased plaintiff or defendant. In the Panjab it frequently happens in landsuits that fifty or a hundred persons are obliged, owing to community of interests, to sue or be sued in the one suit. Now, when such a suit comes up eventually to the Chief Court, a date for hearing is fixed which is generally not less than a year, and, at present, owing to the state of the work in the Court, is not unfrequently eighteen months from the date of filing the appeal. Within this period it often happens that one or more of the litigants is or are carried off by death from disease or violence; the representatives of the deceased, or the appellants, being ignorant agriculturists and not knowing the requirements of the law, take no action to put the representatives on the record, and thus, when the appeal finally comes on for hearing, a pleader on the opposite side takes the objection that no application has been made within the prescribed period, and, this being ascertained to be the fact, the appeal abates, and the unfortunate appellants find themselves deprived of all remedy simply in consequence of a harsh limitation law of which they had no knowledge. It is true that sections 368 and 371 allow the Court to extend the period if the plaintiff (or appellant-plaintiff) adduces sufficient cause for not making the required application within the prescribed period. But in nine cases out of ten of the kind I refer to the only cause assignable is ignorance of the requirements of the law—and this of course, cannot be deemed to be 'sufficient' within the meaning of the section. So that the law as it stands at present works considerable hardship, and the hardship is irremediable.

"The question therefore arises, whether it is really necessary to prescribe a hard-and-fast period of limitation within which alone an application to put the legal representatives of a deceased plaintiff or defendant on the record can be entertained.

"For my own part I cannot see that there is any such necessity. If I remember rightly, the rules framed under the English Judicature Acts do not prescribe a period for such applications, and I do not see why the Indian law should do so. It would surely be sufficient to require the legal representatives of a deceased plaintiff or defendant, where the right to sue or be sued survived, to be put on the record; and to leave it to the Court to direct this to be done within such time, and upon such terms as to costs or otherwise, as it thinks fit."

Sub-section (6) of section 15 of the Bill is intended to cure the defect noticed at I. L. R. 9 Bom. 56.

Section 18.—This section, which would restore the rule of the Code of 1859, has been proposed by Mr. Justice Straight.

Section 19.—The amendment made in section 386 of the Code by Act XII of 1879, whereby commissions to examine witnesses are required to be issued to a Court or a pleader of a High Court, has caused much inconvenience. In remote parts of the country High Court pleaders do not exist, and in few parts have Judges leisure to close their Courts and travel considerable distances for the purpose of taking the evidence of persons who cannot appear before them. Moreover, in some Provinces the Government maintains a staff of officials among whose duties is the execution of these commissions.

Section 20.—The addition which it is proposed to make to section 396 has been suggested by a gentleman of long standing at the Bombay bar. It is based on the Partition Act, 1868 (31 & 32 Vic., c. 40).

Section 21.—A Government Pleader does not exist in every Court.

Section 22.—It has been doubted whether the Government is empowered by section 432 to appoint a person generally to prosecute and defend all suits which it may from time to time be necessary to prosecute or defend on behalf of a Prince or Chief. It is obviously inconvenient that the Government should be compelled to make a special appointment in the case of each particular suit.

Sections 23 and 25.—The object of these sections is (a) to define more precisely, with reference to the definition of "Government" in section 2 of the Code, by whom consent to the institution of a suit against a Sovereign Prince, ruling Chief, ambassador or envoy may be given; (b) to make the provisions of section 433 more elastic as regards the mode of giving the consent, the cases in which the consent may be given, and the Courts to which the consent may apply; and (c) to prescribe the name in which a Prince or Chief may sue and is to be sued. To effect this last object it is proposed that a Prince or Chief may sue and shall ordinarily be sued in the name of his State.

Section 24.—Section 434 of the Code, under which execution may be had of a decree in a suit between British subjects, is out of place in a chapter relating to Suits by Aliens and by or against Foreign and Native Rulers. The section may conveniently take the place of section 651, which was repealed in March last by Act X of 1886.

Section 26.—The amendments proposed by this section to be made in Chapter XXXI of the Code are those referred to in paragraph 4 of the Statement of Objects and Reasons of the Guardians and Wards Bill. The additions to sections 443 and 446 confer on a guardian who has been appointed, or whose title has been declared, by a Civil Court, Court of Wards or other competent authority, a preferential right to be appointed next friend or guardian for the suit. The amendment of section 461 gives effect to a suggestion by Sir Charles Turner, late Chief Justice of Madras, that, when a Court makes over property to a next friend or guardian for the suit who is not a duly constituted guardian of the property of the minor, it should be required to give such directions as, having regard to the nature of the property, may sufficiently protect it from waste and secure its proper application. Section 464, as amended, saves all local laws relating to suits by or against minors or by or against lunatics or other persons of unsound mind.

Section 27.—There are two reported cases, I. L. R. 8 Cal. 32, and I. L. R. 7 All. 178, with respect to the meaning to be assigned to the words "direct interest" in section 539. It appears that the authority for the insertion of the words "having a direct interest in the trust" is In the matter of the Masters, Governors and Trustees of the Bedford Charity (2 Swanst. 470). There certain Jews, some being residents of Bedford and others being members of Dutch and German Synagogues in London, sought to establish the title of Jews to the benefit of the Bedford Charity. It was contended that under Sir Samuel Romilly's Act (52 Geo. III, c. 101), on which section 539 of the Code of Civil Procedure is based, any two or more persons might be petitioners, and therefore the Jews of the London Synagogues, who, though not interested, considered it their duty to support the claims of those of their own persuasion, might be petitioners. With respect to that contention, Lord Eldon, admitting that every person possessing the character of an inhabitant of Bedford and describing himself as an object of the charity was entitled to apply to the Court, asked how he could notice the members of the London Synagogues. "Under Sir Samuel Romilly's Act," he observed, * * * "no person can petition who has not a direct interest in the charity. The Act indeed, authorises 'any two or more persons' to present a petition, but I conceive that those words must be understood to mean persons having an interest. * * * Those who are interested in the fund, provided Sir Samuel Romilly's Act, or the Bedford Charity Act, apply to this case, namely, persons residing in Bedford, are entitled to the summary interference of the Court, but I know not on what ground these gentlemen residing in London can appear as petitioners."

The contention which Lord Eldon overruled was that any one, though he had no interest whatever, might petition. He did, no doubt, remark that "no person can petition who has not a direct interest," but he immediately qualified that remark by adding that the words of the Act "must be understood to mean persons having an interest." The case cannot, therefore, it seems, be taken as an authority for the proposition that the interest of the petitioner must be direct. On the contrary, it may be inferred from the case that an indirect interest would have been deemed sufficient; for, when, in support of the contention that the words "any persons" comprehend persons who may not have an interest, the counsel for the petitioners pointed out that, in the instance of charities for relief of the blind and the poor, it had been the practice to receive the petition of the minister of the parish, Lord Eldon observed that "the petition of the minister of the parish is received, because the poor may be burdensome to him."

It may be doubted whether the case justified the insertion of the word "direct" in the Code, where it assumes a peculiar pointedness and must have some definite meaning assigned to it; and after consultation with the High Courts it has been decided to propose the removal of the word.

Sections 28 and 31.—It is proposed, in accordance with the advice of the great majority of the authorities consulted by the Government of India in its letter of the 5th January last, to declare ex parte decrees to be appealable.

Section 29.—Section 561 has been so amended as to require the objection to be filed in the Appellate Court, and notice of the filing thereof to be given to the appellant, and to admit of the objection being filed and the notice given at any time not less than seven days before the actual date of hearing; and, on the suggestion of Bábú Brajendra Coomar Seal, it applies to the objection and notice under the provisions of section 5 of the Indian Limitation Act, 1877, applicable to an appeal.

Sections 30 and 32.—The amendments proposed to be made by these sections merely correct typographical errors in sections 568 and 588 of the Code.

Section 33.—Section 599, and the portion of section 601 which it is proposed to repeal, were repealed by Act XV of 1877 and were unintentionally reproduced in the Code of 1882.

Section 34.—This section removes a doubt which has been expressed in the cases noted on the margin of the section with respect to the construction to be placed on the word "made" in section 624.

Section 35.—Sub-section (1) of this section has been suggested by the following remarks of the Hon'ble Judges of the High Court at Fort William in their Registrar's reply to the letter of the Government of India of the 5th January last:—

"I am further to request attention to another point in this section (648) which, though not referred to in your letter, seems to the Judges to call for notice. The section gives absolute power to a Court to cause the arrest through another Court of a person summoned as a witness, and so to cause him to be sent under arrest to the Court issuing the process. The Court to which the warrant is sent has no power of hearing the person arrested or of dealing with any question except the giving of security by him. It seems to the Judges that this is a power far too great to be entrusted at any rate to the subordinate Courts in the Mufassal."

Sub-section (2) has been transferred to this Bill from the Provincial Small Cause Courts Bill, and will be of general application instead of being applicable to Courts of Small Causes only. With respect to the necessity for this addition to section 648, the District Judge of the 24-Parganas writes as follows:—

"Under section 648 I would also beg to point out that a warrant for the arrest of a person residing within the limits of the original jurisdiction must be executed through the High Court. This is very inconvenient to small suitors, and, in a case which occurred in my Court only a few weeks ago, a defendant preferred abandoning all attempts to get a recusant witness into Court to undergoing the trouble and expense of having a warrant of arrest served through the Original Side of the High Court. I would suggest that the procedure prescribed by section 86 should be made applicable to section 648, and that warrants of arrest which are to be served within the original jurisdiction should be executed by the Small Cause Court."

Section 36.—This section is designed to remove a doubt as to the extent of the powers of unchartered High Courts to make rules on matters not strictly connected with procedure.

Amendment of section 3 (1), Act I, 1868.

[I. L. R. 3 All. 214; III of 1880.

Partial application of this Act to Act III, 1880.

10. In the Cantonments Act, 1880, the word "soldier" shall not include a warrant-officer but shall otherwise have the meaning assigned to it by clause (13) of section 3 of this Act.

I of 1868.

Application of this Act and Act I, 1868, to Regulations under 33 Vic., c. 3, s. 1.

11. This Act and the General Clauses Act, 1868, shall apply to all Regulations which may receive the assent of the Governor-General under the Statute 33 Victoria, chapter 3, section 1, after the commencement of this Act.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THIS Bill is supplementary to the General Clauses Act, 1868, and is designed, as stated in the preamble, to further shorten the language used in Acts of the Governor-General in Council.

2. In section 3 there is nothing which calls for remark. The definitions in the section will materially shorten the defining clauses of Acts to be hereafter passed.

3. Section 4 is a repetition of a clause very generally employed by the Council of the Governor-General with the object of enabling the executive authorities, in the interval between the passing of an Act and its coming into force, to make preparations for bringing the Act into full operation as soon as it is legally possible to do so.

4. The English rule that a power given to the Crown by statute, having been once exercised, is exhausted and cannot be exercised again, has been applied by Indian Courts to powers conferred by the Indian legislature on the Governor-General in Council and Local Governments. Section 5 of the Bill is intended to remove the inconvenience resulting from the application of that rule.

5. Provisions in the terms of section 6 have been inserted in no fewer than eighteen Acts during the last three or four years and form part of several pending Bills. Their object is to give persons likely to be affected by statutory rules an opportunity, before the rules are made, of making objections and suggestions with respect to any matter which it is proposed to insert in them.

6. Section 7 is taken from the English Municipal Corporations Act, 1882, and is much needed in this country in the case of acts and proceedings to which the Indian Limitation Act, 1877, does not apply.

7. Section 8 is a repetition of a section which is very frequently inserted in Acts of the Governor-General in Council.

8. Clause (1) of section 3 of the General Clauses Act, 1868, has always been construed by the legislature as though the words "wholly or partially" were inserted before the word "repealed." It is proposed by section 9 of the Bill to insert those words in the clause and to require them to be deemed to have been there since the Act of 1868 was passed.

9. Difficulty has been experienced by some Courts in interpreting the word "soldier" in section 14 of the Cantonments Act, III of 1880. With the judgment of the High Court for the North-Western Provinces at I. L. R. 3 All. 214, to the effect that a warrant-officer is not a soldier within that section, the military authorities are content; but they consider it desirable that the word should have a wider meaning than has recently been assigned to it in Oudh, where the Judicial Commissioner has held a private in an European regiment, employed as a telegraph-signaller, not to be a soldier within the meaning of the section.

10. Section 11 of the Bill applies the General Clauses Act, 1868, and the proposed General Clauses Act, 1886, to Regulations to be hereafter made under the Statute 33 Vic., chapter 3.

The 1st September, 1886.

"(2) Where the next friend or guardian for the suit has not been appointed or declared by competent authority to be guardian of the property of the minor, or, having been so appointed or declared, is not thereby entitled to receive the money or other moveable property under the decree or order, the Court shall, if it grants him leave to receive the property, require such security and give such directions as will, in its opinion, sufficiently protect the property from waste and ensure its proper application."

(4) For section 464 the following shall be substituted, namely :—

"464. Nothing in this Chapter shall be construed to affect, or in any way derogate from, the provisions of any local law for the time being in force relating to suits by or against minors or by or against lunatics or other persons of unsound mind."

32. In section 588, clause (9), for the word "or" the word "for" shall be substituted.

Amendment of section 588.

[Gazette of India, 19th August, 1882, Part I, page 355.]

33. Section 599, and in section 601 the words "within thirty days from the date of the order", are hereby repealed.

Repeal of section 599 and part of section 601.

34. To section 626 the following proviso shall be added, namely :—

Addition to section 626.

"and

"(c) an application made under section 624 to the Judge who delivered the judgment may, if that Judge has ordered notice to issue under proviso (a) to this section, be disposed of by his successor."

[I. L. R. 1 Cal. 80 and 4 All. 276.]

35. (1) For the third paragraph of section 648 the following shall be substituted :—

Amendment of, and addition to, section 648.

"and the Court making an arrest under this section shall send the person arrested to the Court by which the warrant of arrest was issued, unless he shows cause to the satisfaction of the former Court why he should not be sent to the latter Court, or unless he furnishes sufficient security for his appearance before the latter Court or (where the case is one under Chapter XXXIV) for satisfying any decree that may be passed against him by that Court, in either of which cases the Court making the arrest shall release him."

(2) To section 648 the following shall be added, namely :—

[Cf. Provincial Small Cause Courts Bill, 1885, s. 19.]

"Where a person to be arrested or property to be attached under this section resides or is situate within the local limits of the ordinary original civil jurisdiction of the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal or at Madras or Bombay, or of the Recorder of Rangoon, the copy of the warrant of arrest or of the order of attachment, and the probable amount of the costs of the arrest or attachment, shall be sent to the Court of Small Causes of Calcutta, Madras, Bombay or Rangoon, as the case may be, and that Court, on receipt of the copy and amount, shall proceed as if it were the District Court."

36. To section 652 the following shall be added namely :—

[New.]

Addition to section 652.

"A High Court not established under the Statute 24 and 25 Victoria, chapter 104 (an Act for establishing High Courts of Judicature in India) may from time to time, with the previous sanction of the Local Government, make, with respect to any matter other than procedure, any rule which any High Court so established might under section 15 of that Statute make with respect to any such matter for any part of the territories under its jurisdiction which is not included within the limits of a presidency-town. Rules so made shall be published in the same manner, and shall thereupon have the same force, as rules made and published under this section for the regulation of matters connected with procedure."

Amendment of the Indian Limitation Act, 1877.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE object of this Bill is to correct certain minor defects in the Code of Civil Procedure which have been brought to the notice of the Government of India during the four years which have elapsed since the Code was passed, and to amend that portion of the Indian Limitation Act, 1877, which relates to Chapter XXI of the Code.

The several amendments which it is proposed to make in the Code are noticed in the following remarks in the order in which they occur in the Bill :—

Section 3.—The second paragraph of section 8 of the Code, which, as the second paragraph of section 8 of Act X of 1877, was repealed by the Presidency Small Cause Courts Act, XV of 1882, was unintentionally reproduced in Act XIV of 1882. Its place has been taken by section 23 and the second schedule of the Presidency Small Cause Courts Act.

Section 4.—The Explanation which it is proposed to add to section 17 of the Code is suggested by the cases reported at I. L. R. 4 All. 423 and 5 All. 277.

Section 5.—The addition proposed by this section to be made to section 27 of the Code has been suggested by Mr. Justice Plowden of the Punjab Chief Court with reference to the remark of Pontifex J. at I. L. R. 6 Cal. 376.

Section 6.—In proposing to amend section 53 of the Code in the manner set forth in this section, the Government of India has followed the almost unanimous advice of the authorities whom it consulted in its letter Nos. 22-27, dated the 5th January, 1886.

Section 7.—In April, 1882, the Governor-General in Council published a resolution directing that postage-charges on all processes, notices and such other documents as are issued from any Court, and are required to be transmitted by post, should in future be paid by means of service postage-stamps without any additional charge being levied from the parties at whose instance the documents are issued. This resolution practically superseded the section of the Code which it is now proposed to repeal.

Section 8.—The addition to section 137 of the Code has been suggested by Bábú Brajendra Coomar Seal, the District Judge of Bankoora, on the ground of the difficulty which occurs in obtaining affidavits where the applicant under the section is a pardánashin lady.

Section 9.—The object of the amendments proposed to be made in section 141 of the Code is to remove the inconvenience caused to both public officers and private persons by the detention of their records in Civil Courts. The detention of the records of a village-accountant may bring his work to a standstill, and the Hon'ble Mr. Gibbon stated to the Select Committee on the Bengal Tenancy Bill that the inconvenience is quite as great in the case of private as of public records.

Section 10.—The addition to section 216 removes the doubt expressed in the case reported at I. L. R. 7 All. 284.

Section 11.—The circumstances which have suggested clause (a) of the proposed proviso to section 245 of the Code have been described in the Statement of Objects and Reasons of the Debtors Bill. If the clause becomes part of the Code, the Courts will be competent to require the property of a judgment-debtor to be proceeded against before proceedings are taken against his person.

Section 12.—As clause (h) of section 266 is at present drawn, half the salary of a public officer or railway servant in receipt of a monthly salary of twenty-one rupees may be attached. This was not the intention of the legislature.

The primary object of the additional clause (m) which it is proposed to insert in the section is to empower the Council of the Governor of Bombay to proceed with a Bill to declare and amend the law relating to toda girds allowances.

Section 13.—This section has been introduced at the suggestion of the Advocate General of Bombay, its object being to abolish, as regards the seizure of moveable property, the privilege conferred on debtors by the fourth resolution in Semayne's case (Smith's Leading Cases, Vol I). At present that privilege operates mainly to enable debtors to avoid or delay payment of their just debts.

Section 14.—The necessity for the first of the proposed additions to section 320 of the Code is shown by the Full Bench judgment of the High Court for the North-Western Provinces at I. L. R. 5 All. 314. As regards the second addition, it appears to the Government of India that, if the Collector is to act effectively under section 320 and the following sections of the Code, he ought to be subject to the control of the Civil Court only to the extent expressly provided by the Code, being as to the rest subject only to the control of the higher revenue-authorities.

Section 15.—The addition to section 341 has been proposed by the High Court and Government of Madras with reference to cases which have recently occurred in Southern India. In one of these cases the debtor committed to prison was suffering from leprosy in an advanced form, and in the other the prisoner was suffering from illness so serious as in the opinion of the medical officer to render it necessary that he should be immediately released from confinement.

Section 16.—The object of sub-sections (1) to (7) is to assimilate practice under Chapter XX of the Code to that to be prescribed by the proposed Indian Bankruptcy Act.

Sub-section (8) is designed to extend the jurisdiction of subordinate Courts in matters of insolvency. Most cases under Chapter XX are of little importance and may properly be disposed of by munsifs. Where any considerable sum is involved, the District Judge, who will have concurrent jurisdiction, can transfer the case to his own Court.

Sections 17 and 37.—The amendments proposed to be made in Chapter XXI of the Code and in the second schedule to the Indian Limitation Act, 1877, have their origin in the complaints of the hardship caused by the rules of limitation required by that Chapter and schedule to be observed in the substitution of legal representatives in the place of deceased parties to suits and appeals. With respect to these portions of the Code and Limitation Act, Mr. Rattigan, the Government Advocate of the Panjab, by whom the form of the amendments has been suggested, has recorded the following remarks :—

"Considerable hardship has been experienced in the Panjab in the working of those sections of the Civil Procedure Code which deal with the procedure to be followed in the case of the death of a plaintiff or defendant. It is of course perfectly correct and desirable that in the case of the death of one of the litigant parties, where the right to sue or be sued still survives, his legal representatives should be brought on the record, for it is clear that without such a process the suit could not validly proceed. But the hardship consists in requiring the legal representatives to apply for the above purpose within a comparatively short period after the death of the deceased plaintiff or defendant. In the Panjab it frequently happens in land-suits that fifty or a hundred persons are obliged, owing to community of interests, to sue or be sued in the one suit. Now, when such a suit comes up eventually to the Chief Court, a date for hearing is fixed which is generally not less than a year, and, at present, owing to the state of the work in the Court, is not unfrequently eighteen months from the date of filing the appeal. Within this period it often happens that one or more of the litigants is or are carried off by death from disease or violence; the representatives of the deceased, or the appellants, being ignorant agriculturists and not knowing the requirements of the law, take no action to put the representatives on the record, and thus, when the appeal finally comes on for hearing, a pleader on the opposite side takes the objection that no application has been made within the prescribed period, and, this being ascertained to be the fact, the appeal abates, and the unfortunate appellants find themselves deprived of all remedy simply in consequence of a harsh limitation law of which they had no knowledge. It is true that sections 368 and 371 allow the Court to extend the period if the plaintiff (or appellant-plaintiff) adduces sufficient cause for not making the required application within the prescribed period. But in nine cases out of ten of the kind I refer to the only cause assignable is ignorance of the requirements of the law—and this of course cannot be deemed to be 'sufficient' within the meaning of the section. So that the law as it stands at present works considerable hardship, and the hardship is irremediable.

"The question therefore arises, whether it is really necessary to prescribe a hard-and-fast period of limitation within which alone an application to put the legal representatives of a deceased plaintiff or defendant on the record can be entertained.

"For my own part I cannot see that there is any such necessity. If I remember rightly, the rules framed under the English Judicature Acts do not prescribe a period for such applications, and I do not see why the Indian law should do so. It would surely be sufficient to require the legal representatives of a deceased plaintiff or defendant, where the right to sue or be sued survived, to be put on the record; and to leave it to the Court to direct this to be done within such time, and upon such terms as to costs or otherwise, as it thinks fit."

Sub-section (6) of section 15 of the Bill is intended to cure the defect noticed at I. L R. 9 Bom, 56.

Section 18.—This section, which would restore the rule of the Code of 1859, has been proposed by Mr. Justice Straight.

Section 19.—The amendment made in section 386 of the Code by Act XII of 1879, whereby commissions to examine witnesses are required to be issued to a Court or a pleader of a High Court, has caused much inconvenience. In remote parts of the country High Court pleaders do not exist, and in few parts have Judges leisure to close their Courts and travel considerable distances for the purpose of taking the evidence of persons who cannot appear before them. Moreover, in some Provinces the Government maintains a staff of officials among whose duties is the execution of these commissions.

Section 20.—The addition which it is proposed to make to section 396 has been suggested by a gentleman of long standing at the Bombay bar. It is based on the Partition Act, 1868 (31 & 32 Vic., c. 40).

Section 21.—A Government Pleader does not exist in every Court.

Section 22.—It has been doubted whether the Government is empowered by section 432 to appoint a person generally to prosecute and defend all suits which it may from time to time be necessary to prosecute or defend on behalf of a Prince or Chief. It is obviously inconvenient that the Government should be compelled to make a special appointment in the case of each particular suit.

Sections 23 and 25.—The object of these sections is (a) to define more precisely, with reference to the definition of "Government" in section 2 of the Code, by whom consent to the institution of a suit against a Sovereign Prince, ruling Chief, ambassador or envoy may be given; (b) to make the provisions of section 433 more elastic as regards the mode of giving the consent, the cases in which the consent may be given, and the Courts to which the consent may apply; and (c) to prescribe the name in which a Prince or Chief may sue and is to be sued. To effect this last object it is proposed that a Prince or Chief may sue and shall ordinarily be sued in the name of his State.

Section 24.—Section 434 of the Code, under which execution may be had of a decree in a suit between British subjects, is out of place in a chapter relating to Suits by Aliens and by or against Foreign and Native Rulers. The section may conveniently take the place of section 651, which was repealed in March last by Act X of 1886.

Section 26.—The amendments proposed by this section to be made in Chapter XXXI of the Code are those referred to in paragraph 4 of the Statement of Objects and Reasons of the Guardians and Wards Bill. The additions to sections 443 and 446 confer on a guardian who has been appointed, or whose title has been declared, by a Civil Court, Court of Wards or other competent authority, a preferential right to be appointed next friend or guardian for the suit. The amendment of section 461 gives effect to a suggestion by Sir Charles Turner, late Chief Justice of Madras, that, when a Court makes over property to a next friend or guardian for the suit who is not a duly constituted guardian of the property of the minor, it should be required to give such directions as, having regard to the nature of the property, may sufficiently protect it from waste and secure its proper application. Section 464, as amended, saves all local laws relating to suits by or against minors or by or against lunatics or other persons of unsound mind.

Section 27.—There are two reported cases, I. L. R. 8 Cal. 32, and I. L. R. 7 All. 178, with respect to the meaning to be assigned to the words "direct interest" in section 539. It appears that the authority for the insertion of the words "having a direct interest in the trust" is In the matter of the Masters, Governors and Trustees of the Bedford Charity (2 Swanst. 470). There certain Jews, some being residents of Bedford and others being members of Dutch and German Synagogues in London, sought to establish the title of Jews to the benefit of the Bedford Charity. It was contended that under Sir Samuel Romilly's Act (52 Geo. III, c. 101), on which section 539 of the Code of Civil Procedure is based, any two or more persons might be petitioners, and therefore the Jews of the London Synagogues, who, though not interested, considered it their duty to support the claims of those of their own persuasion, might be petitioners. With respect to that contention, Lord Eldon, admitting that every person possessing the character of an inhabitant of Bedford and describing himself as an object of the charity was entitled to apply to the Court, asked how he could notice the members of the London Synagogues. "Under Sir Samuel Romilly's Act," he observed, * * * "no person can petition who has not a direct interest in the charity. The Act indeed, authorises 'any two or more persons' to present a petition, but I conceive that those words must be understood to mean persons having an interest. * * * Those who are interested in the fund, provided Sir Samuel Romilly's Act, or the Bedford Charity Act, apply to this case, namely, persons residing in Bedford, are entitled to the summary interference of the Court, but I know not on what ground these gentlemen residing in London can appear as petitioners."

The contention which Lord Eldon overruled was that any one, though he had no interest whatever, might petition. He did, no doubt, remark that "no person can petition who has not a direct interest," but he immediately qualified that remark by adding that the words of the Act "must be understood to mean persons having an interest." The case cannot, therefore, it seems, be taken as an authority for the proposition that the interest of the petitioner must be direct. On the contrary, it may be inferred from the case that an indirect interest would have been deemed sufficient; for, when, in support of the contention that the words "any persons" comprehend persons who may not have an interest, the counsel for the petitioners pointed out that, in the instance of charities for relief of the blind and the poor, it had been the practice to receive the petition of the minister of the parish, Lord Eldon observed that "the petition of the minister of the parish is received, because the poor may be burdensome to him."

It may be doubted whether the case justified the insertion of the word "direct" in the Code, where it assumes a peculiar pointedness and must have some definite meaning assigned to it; and after consultation with the High Courts it has been decided to propose the removal of the word.

Sections 28 and 31.—It is proposed, in accordance with the advice of the great majority of the authorities consulted by the Government of India in its letter of the 5th January last, to declare ex parte decrees to be appealable.

Section 29.—Section 561 has been so amended as to require the objection to be filed in the Appellate Court, and notice of the filing thereof to be given to the appellant, and to admit of the objection being filed and the notice given at any time not less than seven days before the actual date of hearing; and, on the suggestion of Bábú Brajendra Coomar Seal, it applies to the objection and notice under the provisions of section 5 of the Indian Limitation Act, 1877, applicable to an appeal.

Sections 30 and 32.—The amendments proposed to be made by these sections merely correct typographical errors in sections 568 and 588 of the Code.

Section 33.—Section 599, and the portion of section 601 which it is proposed to repeal, were repealed by Act XV of 1877 and were unintentionally reproduced in the Code of 1882.

Section 34.—This section removes a doubt which has been expressed in the cases noted on the margin of the section with respect to the construction to be placed on the word "made" in section 624.

Section 35.—Sub-section (1) of this section has been suggested by the following remarks of the Hon'ble Judges of the High Court at Fort William in their Registrar's reply to the letter of the Government of India of the 5th January last:—

"I am further to request attention to another point in this section (648) which, though not referred to in your letter, seems to the Judges to call for notice. The section gives absolute power to a Court to cause the arrest through another Court of a person summoned as a witness, and so to cause him to be sent under arrest to the Court issuing the process. The Court to which the warrant is sent has no power of hearing the person arrested or of dealing with any question except the giving of security by him. It seems to the Judges that this is a power far too great to be entrusted at any rate to the subordinate Courts in the Mufassal."

Sub-section (2) has been transferred to this Bill from the Provincial Small Cause Courts Bill, and will be of general application instead of being applicable to Courts of Small Causes only. With respect to the necessity for this addition to section 648, the District Judge of the 24-Parganas writes as follows:—

"Under section 648 I would also beg to point out that a warrant for the arrest of a person residing within the limits of the original jurisdiction must be executed through the High Court. This is very inconvenient to small suitors, and, in a case which occurred in my Court only a few weeks ago, a defendant preferred abandoning all attempts to get a recusant witness into Court to undergoing the trouble and expense of having a warrant of arrest served through the Original Side of the High Court. I would suggest that the procedure prescribed by section 86 should be made applicable to section 648, and that warrants of arrest which are to be served within the original jurisdiction should be executed by the Small Cause Court."

Section 36.—This section is designed to remove a doubt as to the extent of the powers of unchartered High Courts to make rules on matters not strictly connected with procedure.

3. In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context,—

(1) "village" means any collection of ten or more houses not being either a municipality to which the British Burma Municipal Act, 1874, or the Burma Municipal Act, 1884, for the time being extends, or a town, village or hamlet in which a house-tax or a cess on houses is for the time being leviable under section 5 or section 6 of the Burma District Cesses and Rural Police Act, 1880; but it does not include a village of which members of indigenous tribes are not the majority of the residents; VII of 1874. XVII of 1884. II of 1880.

(2) "prescribed" means prescribed by rules under this Act.

When resident or intending resident of a village may be ejected or excluded therefrom.

4. (1) If not fewer than half of the cultivating householders of a village desire to eject or exclude from the village a resident or intending resident thereof, they may record that desire in the prescribed manner.

(c) to prescribe the mode in which the compensation to which an ejected resident is entitled under this Act is to be ascertained and given; and

(d) generally to carry out the purposes of this Act.

(2) When making any rule under this Act the Local Government may direct that a breach of it shall be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees, or with imprisonment which may extend to three months, or with both.

(4) A rule made under this Act shall not take effect until it has been published in the local official Gazette.

(5) The publication in that Gazette of a rule purporting to be made under this Act shall be conclusive proof that it has been duly made.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE object of this Bill is to provide for the ejection or exclusion in certain circumstances of strangers from village-sites occupied by Karens and other indigenous tribes of Burma.

2. It would seem that Burman, Shan or Chinese strangers occasionally settle in Karen villages and cause very great annoyance to the Karens, who, in some cases, from shyness or timidity, do not resist the intruders, whilst in others they have been goaded into acts of lawlessness. The missionaries, who know more of the Karens than any English or Burman Government officers, are very persistent in urging that power must be taken to preserve the Karens, especially the wilder Karens in secluded tracts, from intruders. Mr. Crosthwaite, when officiating as Chief Commissioner of British Burma, proposed to issue rules providing for the ejection of intruders from Karen villages; but it was found on further consideration that no rules of the kind could be enforced without legal sanction. The present Chief Commissioner, sharing Mr. Crosthwaite's views has urged on the Government the necessity for legislation, in the absence of which he fears that the Karen and similar tribes may either be driven out of their settlements or resort to lawless means of getting rid of intruders.

3. In these circumstances, the present Bill has been prepared. Though of a somewhat exceptional nature, it appears to the Government of India to be warranted by the peculiarities of the relations of these indigenous tribes and their neighbours. Further, it is supported by the analogy of the provisions of section 4 of the Garo Hills Regulation, I of 1882, which prohibit the acquisition of interests in land in those hills by strangers except under special sanction.

4. The provisions of the Bill are very simple. Section 1, sub-section (3), empowers the Chief Commissioner to apply the proposed Act to such local areas as he may by notification prescribe, while section 3 defines the term village so as to restrict the operation of the proposed law to purely rural tracts. Section 4 declares the circumstances under which a resident or intending resident may be excluded or ejected from a village. These are that the majority of the residents of the village belong to some indigenous tribe and that not less than one-half of the cultivating householders of the village desire ejection or exclusion of the resident or intending resident, who must not be of the same tribe as the majority of the residents of the village, or cultivate land within three miles of the village or have resided in the village for twelve years or upwards. The section further provides for compensation to persons who have been compelled to vacate any land or house in a village in consequence of their ejection therefrom. Under section 5, the Chief Commissioner has power to make rules with the sanction of the Governor-General in Council prescribing the mode in which the desire of the cultivating householders of a village to eject or exclude any one therefrom is to be ascertained and recorded, empowering certain persons to eject or exclude persons in pursuance of the recorded desire and on behalf of the cultivating householders, and prescribing the procedure to be followed in such cases, and the mode in which compensation under the proposed Act is to be ascertained. The section further enables the Local Government to direct in any rule that a breach of it shall be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees, or with imprisonment which may extend to three months, or with both. Lastly, section 6 contains the usual formal matter as to the procedure for making and publishing rules.

What to be deemed an arrear of revenue or rent.

Provided that, unless the proprietor and under-proprietor have otherwise agreed in writing, the rent payable to the former by the latter shall be held to become due one month before the date fixed for the payment of the revenue on account of the village in which the land in respect of which the rent is payable is situate, and to be payable in the same number of instalments as the revenue; and the amount of each instalment of the rent shall bear the same proportion to the whole of the rent payable for the year as the amount of each instalment of the revenue bears to the whole of the revenue payable for the year.

Power to pay into Court amount of revenue or rent due.

(2) The deposit shall, so far as regards the co-sharer, under-proprietor or tenant, and all persons claiming through or under him, operate as a payment then made to the lambardár or landlord of the amount so deposited.

[Bill, s. 15.] 15. (1) The Court shall receive the deposit on the written application of the co-sharer, under-proprietor or tenant, or his recognized agent; and on the applicant making a declaration in the form set forth in Schedule A to this Act, or as near thereto as circumstances will admit, the Court shall give him a receipt for the deposit.

[Bill, s. 18.] 17. (1) If payment of rent or of any sum in excess of the rent legally claimable is illegally enforced, and any under-proprietor or tenant institutes a suit to recover compensation for the illegal enforcement of the payment, the Court may award to him compensation, not exceeding the sum of two hundred rupees, in addition to any amount for which it makes a decree in respect of the payment itself.

Compensation to under-proprietor or tenant for illegal enforcement of payment.

(2) An award of compensation under sub-section (1) shall not bar any prosecution to which the person illegally enforcing the payment may be liable under any law for the time being in force.

Abatement of Rent.

[Bill, s. 19.] 18. Save as provided by section 29, sub-section (4), a suit for an abatement of the rent of a holding shall not be brought by an under-proprietor or tenant except on the ground that the area of the holding has diminished, or on some ground specified in a lease, agreement or decree under which he holds:

Suit for abatement of rent by under-proprietor or tenant.

Provided that, if the under-proprietor holds a sub-settlement in a revenue-paying estate, an abatement shall not be allowed to the under-proprietor unless a remission of revenue has been allowed on the same ground and by competent authority in the same estate.

Remission of Rent.

[Bill, s. 20.] 19. (1) Notwithstanding anything in the last foregoing section, a Court, when it makes a decree for an arrear of rent, may, with the previous sanction of the Deputy Commissioner, allow such remission from the rent payable by any under-proprietor or tenant as appears equitable, if the area of the land in his occupation has been materially diminished by diluvion or otherwise, or if the produce of that land has been diminished by drought, hail or other calamity beyond his control, to such an extent that the full amount of rent payable by him cannot, in the opinion of the Court, be paid.

Remission of rent by order of Court.

(2) Where a remission of rent under this section causes a material diminution of the assets of the landlord in the village in which the remission is given, the revenue-authorities shall take into consideration any claim made by the landlord for a remission of revenue.

[New.] (3) A remission shall not be allowed under this section to an under-proprietor holding a sub-settlement, or to a tenant having a right of occupancy, unless a remission of revenue has been allowed on the same ground and by competent authority in the same village.

Relinquishment of Land.

[Bill, s. 21.] 20. (1) A tenant shall continue liable for the rent of the land in his holding unless on or before the fifteenth day of March in any year he gives to the landlord or to the recognized agent of the landlord notice in writing of his desire to relinquish that land, and relinquishes it accordingly.

Relinquishment of land by tenant.

(2) If the landlord or his recognized agent refuses to receive the notice or to sign and deliver a receipt therefor, the tenant may, before the latest date prescribed for giving the notice, apply on plain paper to the tahsildár or proper officer, and written notice of the desire of the tenant to relinquish the land shall then be served on the landlord at the expense of the tenant.

(3) A tenant cannot without the consent of his landlord relinquish a part only of his holding. [New.]

(4) Nothing in this section shall entitle a tenant holding under a registered document under section 69 to relinquish his holding otherwise than in accordance with the terms of that document. [New.]

[Bill, s. 21A.] 21. (1) If a tenant abandons his holding without informing his landlord and without arranging for the cultivation of the holding, the landlord may at any time after the fifteenth day of May enter on the holding.

Abandonment of holding.

(2) Before a landlord enters on a holding under sub-section (1), he shall file a notice in the prescribed form at the office of the tahsildár for service on the tenant stating that he has treated the holding as abandoned and is about to enter on it accordingly.

(3) When a landlord enters on a holding under sub-section (1), the tenant may institute a suit under this Act to recover possession of the holding, and the Court shall, on being satisfied that the tenant did not voluntarily abandon the holding, order recovery of possession on such terms with respect to the time of delivery of possession, the payment of arrears of rent, if any, and, if injury has been caused by the wrongful act, neglect or default of any party to the proceeding, with respect also to the payment of compensation by that party, as to the Court may seem just.

Compensation for Tenants' Improvements.

[Bill, s. 22.] 22. (1) If a tenant, or a person from whom he has inherited, has made any such improvement on his holding as is hereinafter in this Chapter mentioned, neither he nor his representative shall be ejected from the holding unless and until he or his representative, as the case may be, has received compensation for the improvement:

[Bill, s. 23.] 23. Except as provided in the next following section, a tenant shall not be entitled to claim compensation for an improvement made subsequently to the passing of this Act without the written consent of the landlord.

Landlord's consent to tenant's improvement.

[Bill, s. 24.] 24. (1) If a tenant applies for the written consent of his landlord to the making of an improvement on his holding, and the landlord omits or refuses to grant it, the tenant may apply to the Deputy Commissioner for permission to make the improvement.

Reference to Deputy Commissioner when consent is refused.

(2) When an application is made to the Deputy Commissioner under sub-section (1), he shall take into consideration any objections which the landlord may have to urge on either of the following grounds, namely:—

S. HARVEY JAMES,
Offg. Secy. to the Govt. of India.

The following Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to Rent in Oudh was presented to the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 24th September, 1886:—

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

WE, the undersigned, Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to Rent in Oudh was referred, have considered the Bill and the papers noted on the margin and have now the honour to submit this our Report.

From the Chief Secretary to the Government of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, No. $\frac{2156R.}{08-60}$, dated the 6th September, 1886.
Memorandum by Bábú Ram Saran Das, Fyzabad, dated 1st August, 1886.
Opinion of Seth Jaidayal, Sitapur, dated 23rd August, 1886.
Minute by Thakur Mansbar Baksh Singh, Taluqdár, Rampur Mathra, Sitapur.
Memorials from Zamindárs of Lucknow, Unao, Fyzabad, Barabanki and Sultanpur.

2. We append copy of the Bill as amended by us, and have in this Report cited the sections of that Bill in brackets after those of the Bill as introduced. The portions of the amended Bill which differ from the corresponding portions of the Bill as introduced are printed in italics.

3. Since the Bill was introduced, the Lieutenant-Governor and Chief Commissioner of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh has consulted selected local officers and held repeated conferences with the Taluqdárs of Oudh at Lucknow, and most of the alterations which we propose to make in the Bill have been approved by his Honour, and proposed or assented to by the Taluqdárs.

4. These alterations will be noticed in the following paragraphs of this Report as nearly as may be in the order of the sections in which they occur.

5. Section 1 (1).—We recommend an addition to this section, bringing the proposed Act into force with effect from the 1st of January, 1887. It is desirable that the Revenue Courts should have time to examine the details of the new law before bringing them into practice. One effect of deferring the operation of the law till the 1st January next will be to prevent the issue of ejectment-notices in November for the agricultural season of 1887; but after the unprecedented number of recent evictions, due in part to the uncertainties and discussions of the last three years, it is not undesirable that the notices should be suspended for one season, and that landlords should have time thoroughly to consider the effects of the law before the new procedure is brought into force. Statutory enhancement at the end of the current season, whenever the seven years' term shall have expired, will not be interfered with.

We have also, by an addition to this section, proposed to authorise the Chief Commissioner to exercise between the passing and the commencement of the Act any power conferred upon him by the Act to make rules or issue orders.

6. Section 3 (3).—The definitions of "Oudh" and "Assistant Commissioner" are rendered unnecessary by the form in which we have re-drawn sections 1 (1) and 85 (110).

We have assimilated the definition of "land" to the description of that expression in section 1 of the North-Western Provinces Rent Act, 1881. The definition in the Oudh Rent Act of 1868 has been held to exclude from the jurisdiction of Revenue Courts suits for the rent of land which at the time of settlement was comprised in a village-site, jhil or grove, and therefore excluded from assessment, but which has since settlement been brought under cultivation.

In the definition of "revenue" we have omitted the article "the" before the word "money," in order to remove any doubt as to whether cesses are included in "revenue."

In the definition of "tenant" the references to sections 7 (8), 10 (11) and 116, in connection with thekadárs, have been omitted as unnecessary.

The Oudh Land-revenue Act, 1876, renders the definition of "lambardár" superfluous.

We have added definitions of the words "registered", "signed" and "value."

7. Section 4 (4).—The Hon'ble Rana Shankar Baksh Singh Bahadur in his speech in the Council of the Governor-General on the 9th June, 1886, and he and other Taluqdárs since that date, have represented the grave inconvenience which may result from the application of all the provisions of the Act to jungle (forest), nai'or (land given on clearance-lease), bekar (old fallow), parti (new fallow), land rendered cultumbhut at the expense of the landlord, and alluvial land. There appears to us to be ground for the contention of the Taluqdárs that the terms of section 4 (4) should be relaxed in the case of some of these lands. We have therefore made to this section an addition providing that the section shall not be construed to affect any contract relating to reclaimed land till the expiration of fourteen years from the date of the reclamation, and to Schedule D an addition which, read with section 181 (157), will exclude alluvial mahals from the operation of the sections respecting statutory tenancy and enhancement of rent. We have included in the description of reclaimed land brought into cultivation after lying fallow for seven years, and have made it clear that the provisions of section 4 (4) respecting reclaimed land apply to past as well as to future contracts relating to that land. Those contracts may be either oral or written.

8. Section 5A. (6)—We have, in accordance with the wish of the Taluqdárs, provided that the conferment of occupancy-rights under this section must be by registered document.

9. Section 7 (8).—On the suggestion of the Taluqdárs, we have added to this section a clause to the effect that a patta may contain any special conditions not inconsistent with the Act.

10. Section 10 (11).—Also on their suggestion, we have declared the landlord who grants a patta to be entitled to receive a counterpart signed by or on behalf of the tenant.

11. Section 13 (13).—Also on their suggestion, we have removed from this section and section 83 (108) all references to "acknowledgments of the tender of rent."

12. Section 15 (15).—We have proposed that applications for the repayment of deposits of revenue or rent may be on plain paper.

13. Section 17.—The Taluqdárs ask for some modification of this section. As the section has never been acted on, and may, in the opinion of His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor and Chief Commissioner, be entirely omitted, we propose to remove it from the Bill.

14. Section 19 (18).—The words "by diluvion" have been omitted. A holding may be diminished by other causes, such as the acquisition of land for public purposes or a landlord's improvement. We have prefixed to the section a saving of the provisions of section 26 (29) as redrawn by us.

15. Section 20 (19).—We have, with the concurrence of His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor and Chief Commissioner, made the sanction of the Deputy Commissioner a condition precedent to the remission of rent under this section, and have made the actual power of the tenant to pay in the circumstances of the case the test of remission. We have restored the proviso to the corresponding section of the present law so far as it affects under-proprietors holding a sub-settlement and tenants having a right of occupancy. We have provided that where a remission of rent under this section causes a material diminution of the assets of the landlord in the village in which the remission is given, the revenue-authorities shall take into consideration any claim made by the landlord for a remission of revenue. Lastly, we have by a section added after section 95 (119) made an order of a Deputy Commissioner sanctioning a remission of rent subject to appeal to the Commissioner.

16. Section 21 (20).—We have, in accordance with the wish of the Taluqdárs, added to this section a sub-section, to the effect that a tenant cannot, without the consent of his landlord, relinquish a part only of his holding. We have also provided, on the advice of His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor and Chief Commissioner, that the application of a tenant for the service of a notice of intended relinquishment on his landlord may be on plain paper.

17. Section 21A (21).—We propose to omit the word "voluntarily" in the first clause of the section. When the landlord proposes to enter on the holding, he has to deal with the question of fact as to whether or not the holding has been abandoned. The question as to whether or not the abandonment was voluntary is one for decision, should the tenant claim restoration.

In the second sub-section it is proposed to substitute, in accordance with official opinion and the proposals of the Taluqdárs, the tahsíldár for the supervisor-kanungo as the officer to receive notices under this section. It is represented that the supervisor-kanungo, being engaged on field inspections over a considerable area, may not be readily found, and that it will be on the whole more convenient to lodge the notice at the office of the tahsíldár.

We have, with a view to obviating cases of hardship and preventing future litigation, inserted a provision adopted from the Bengal Tenancy Act, VIII of 1885, enabling the Court to award compensation to any party injured.

We have added after section 105 (130) a section prescribing three months from the date on which the landlord has entered upon a holding as the period within which the tenant may institute a suit for the recovery of the holding.

18. Section 22 (22).—We have provided that compensation shall not be payable for any improvement made thirty years or more before the date of an ejectment.

We have also provided for the case, reported to be frequent in some parts of the Province, in which an improvement is made by a tenant, not actually on his holding, but on adjacent land belonging to his landlord. The arrangement is convenient. Patches of waste land often adjoin cultivation, on which a well can be built without reducing the cultivated area. Where advantage has been taken of this outlying land by an improving tenant in the past, it has been with the consent, express or tacit, of the landlord.

19. Section 24 (24).—We have added after this section a section providing for the determination and registration of the outlay on an improvement made by a tenant with the permission of the Deputy Commissioner. We have also provided by a section added after section 95 (119), on the suggestion of the Taluqdárs, that an order of a Deputy Commissioner granting or refusing an application of a tenant for permission to make an improvement, or determining and registering the amount of the outlay on an improvement, shall be subject to appeal to the Commissioner.

20. Section 26 (29).—We have added three sub-sections to this section—the first providing that a landlord making an improvement on the holding of a tenant without a right of occupancy shall be liable to compensate the tenant for any loss which he may cause to the tenant when making it; the second providing for the abatement of the tenant's rent when the effect of the improvement is to impair the productive powers of his holding; and the third providing that a landlord may not make an improvement on the holding of a tenant with a right of occupancy without the consent of the tenant.

21. Section 35 (36).—This section has been so amended as to exclude shikmi tenants from the acquisition of statutory privileges. It would go very far beyond the declared objects of the Bill to permit any statutory privileges to be conveyed by sub-letting.

We have added here and elsewhere words intended to meet the case of tenants occupying holdings in the rent or area of which there has been no change during their tenancy.

22. Section 35A (37).—We have, in accordance with the wish of the Taluqdárs, added an explanation not strictly necessary, but possibly useful, to the effect that sections 35 (36) and 35A (37) have effect subject to the provisions of section 4 (4) relating to land not previously cultivated, and subject also to the provisions of section 131 (157) excluding certain classes of land from the operation of certain sections of the proposed Act.

23. Section 36 (38, 39 and 40).—We have broken up this section into three sections. By the first of these new sections we provide for the enhancement of the rent of a statutory tenant within certain limits by contract or by notice: by the second we prescribe the time when the enhancement may be made: and by the third we fix the time for the service of the notice of enhancement. We also provide by these sections that enhancement may be made in consideration of an improvement effected or acquired by the landlord in the same manner as the statutory enhancement, by contract or notice, as the case may be, with the exception that enhancement under section 36*K* (50) may take place in any year of the tenancy.

24. Section 36C (43).—We have added a sixth ground of objection, in consequence of the proposal to allow enhancement for a landlord's improvement to be governed by the same procedure as that of statutory enhancement.

25. Sections 36D (44) and 36E (45).—We have recast the form of these sections, leaving their substance unaltered.

26. Section 36G (47).—We have added to this section a sub-section providing for the case in which an in-coming tenant by agreement with the landlord commutes to a cash-rent the grain-rent paid by his predecessor.

27. Section 36I (48).—We have added to this section a sub-section limiting the term "heir" in accordance with the principle of section 9 of the North-Western Provinces Rent Act, 1881.

28. Section 36K (50).—In accordance with the wish of the Taluqdárs, we have inserted words enabling the landlord to enhance rent during the currency of a tenancy when the landlord has acquired by purchase the improvement of a tenant.

29. Section 36J (51).—We have provided for orders under this section applying to specified areas only.

30. Section 37 (52).—We have, in accordance with the wish of the Taluqdárs, made the proviso to section 41 of the Act of 1868 apply to tenants holding under special agreements or decrees of Court as well as to tenants having a right of occupancy.

31. Section 38A (54).—With respect to this section the Government of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh writes as follows:—

"This section in the Bill contains the substantive provisions of the proposed law in regard to compensation for disturbance. This was one of the two points in the entire measure to which the Taluqdárs in their Association took strong exception. They argued that the concession to the tenantry of a right to compensation for disturbance assumed and recognized the existence of a right to possession; that this assumption was opposed to the conclusion elicited by the enquiries and correspondence of 1866; that eviction was a necessary remedy against bad characters; and that they had a reasonable objection to remunerating tenants for a course of conduct which in the interests of their fellow-villagers made expulsion necessary, and that the rate of compensation, a year's rent, operated as a practical bar to the landlord's use of his admitted authority.

The Lieutenant-Governor cannot admit that the argument which would connect compensation for disturbance with the creation or recognition of tenant-right is sustainable. Nevertheless it is clear that the proprietary body are much averse to be placed under the liability to make payments of this nature to their tenants; and after much discussion and debate the Taluqdárs have themselves tendered an alternative. They recognize the necessity of some check on eviction. The landlords of the Province have been accustomed for the last eighteen years to use the eviction-notice as a lever for enhancement; and if the system continues under the new Act, the provisions for the limitation of enhancement might be very extensively evaded. The Association ask, then, that while the notice of enhancement is on plain paper, the notice of ejectment shall bear a stamp-duty.

They further propose that the stamp-duty shall be the equivalent of a half-year's rent on the holding.

The plan of substituting a stamp-duty for compensation is undoubtedly open to criticism. So far as this Government is concerned, there is no desire whatever to increase the stamp-revenue at the landlord's expense, or to impose any additional costs of this kind upon transactions between landlord and tenant. The Lieutenant-Governor would certainly not have proposed, for his own part, to turn compensation into a tax; and he has no doubt that it would, on principle, have been better to adhere to the simple and logical provision which would prevent a landlord from ejecting a tenant until he also gave him some indemnity.

Nevertheless, when this alternative is put forward and supported by the Association, and since it has become clear that the Taluqdárs unanimously prefer to pay stamp-duty rather than compensation to the tenant, while undoubtedly the stamp-duty would answer the purpose of a check on ejectment as effectively as compensation-payment at the same rate, the Lieutenant-Governor feels bound to accept and submit to His Excellency the Governor General in Council this proposal as an admissible compromise upon an important and closely-debated provision of the Bill. It is to be understood that the landlords are even more strenuously averse to the 129th section of the Bill, which vests the Government with a general statutory power of interfering with the management of their estates than they are to the levy of compensation on disturbance.

The Lieutenant-Governor, moreover, after consulting many officers of experience, is disposed to accept a half-year's rent as probably a sufficient check upon inconsiderate and injurious eviction. He is further of opinion that a varying duty, such as that proposed, is better than a fixed one. Any fixed duty of considerable value would be prohibitive of the removal of the smaller tenants who possess least means of developing and improving their holdings, and among whom, if bad character is a genuine motive for eviction, bad characters will ordinarily be found.

The Lieutenant-Governor therefore recommends that the Government of India should accept the proposal of the Association, and that, instead of the compensation for disturbance provided by section 38A of the published Bill, the law should impose a stamp-duty of the value of a half-year's rent on notices of ejectment. If the character of the duty as a check on eviction is to be maintained, it must be provided that the duty cannot be recovered from the tenant as a cost of Court, should the notice of ejectment, to which it is affixed, be contested.

As it is manifestly desirable, however, that the duty should be no higher than the least amount necessary for its purpose, the maximum limit may be placed at Rs. 25; and when notice issues on the heir of a deceased tenant, no stamp-duty should be imposed. The Bill gives the landlord the right to introduce a new tenant at the market-rate of rent, and expressly excludes the heir of the deceased tenant from any claim to re-entry. There need, therefore, be no restraint on the landlord's power to remove him.

I am to remark that in this and other cases, for example, the tenant's notice of relinquishment, no stamp-fees will be levied upon proceedings that are taken for the information of landlord and tenant. This may be taken as to some extent a set-off against the duty leviable upon ejectment notices. It may be added that if, as is anticipated, the imposition of a stamp proves an effective check upon the issue of the notices, the landlord's costs under this head ought not to be usually heavy."

We accept the proposal of the Taluqdárs on the grounds on which it is supported by His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor and Chief Commissioner, and have recommended that effect be given to it in section 39 (55) of the Bill.

32. Section 41 (59).—We have, in accordance with the wish of the Taluqdárs, inserted the words "in writing" for the word "expressly" in this section.

33. Section 42 (60).—Where the Court has been merely applied to for assistance to eject, it seems undesirable to impose on it an elaborate inquiry as to whether or not compensation for improvements is due. We have altered the section accordingly.

34. Section 43A (62).—The Taluqdárs have proposed several additional grounds for ejectment, but the only one of those grounds which we have been able to accept is one relating to sub-letting, and we have adopted that only in a modified form. It seems to us sufficient to allow ejectment during the currency of a statutory period only when the entire holding has been sublet.

We have inserted a special clause to meet the case of tenants of reclaimed lands.

35. Section 44 (63).—We have, on the suggestion of the Taluqdárs, extended the period for ejectment from the fifteenth to the thirtieth of June.

36. Section 45 (64).—We have added after this section a section allowing a tenant in a suit for his ejectment to file any claim for compensation which he may have on account of improvements, and requiring the decree to be made contingent on the payment into Court of any sum found due to him on that account.

37. Section 46 A (67).—Under-proprietary communities as well as proprietary communities have to be provided for, and we have provided for both.

38. Section 46 B (68).—We have added to this section words to prevent shikmi tenants from acquiring statutory privileges by the occupation of land.

39. We have added after section 46 B (68) a section proposed by the Government of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh with respect to long leases. As regards this new section that Government writes as follows:—

"In the minute of the 15th January, 1886, forwarded with my letter No. 178 of the same date, the Lieutenant-Governor recommended that the Bill should expressly permit the execution of special agreements for a term longer than seven years, with the effect that upon the expiry of such agreements the landlord would not be liable for compensation if he disturbed the tenant, although the rule limiting enhancement on the next tenant would prevail. His Excellency the Governor General in Council, in his speech on the reference of the Bill to a Select Committee, referred to this proposition as a remedy in the landlord's power for neutralizing the liability to compensation; and the Association, in their letter of the 28th August, have asked that this authority be expressly recognized in the Bill.

A proviso has been added to meet the possible case of an arrangement by which a lease of eight years might be made to include the statutory enhancement in the eighth year, and so permit a second enhancement in the ninth."

40. After the new section referred to in the last foregoing paragraph we have added a section requiring changes in the rent, and alterations in the area, of the holdings of statutory tenants to be recorded, and a further section limiting the application of the expressions "special agreement" and "decree of Court" to agreements and decrees made and passed before the passing of the proposed Act.

41. Chapter VI (VII).—The amendments which we have made in this Chapter are verbal and do not call for remark.

42. Section 83 (108).—We have added to clause (2) words suggested by the case at I. L. R. 1 All. 217, and now to be found in clause (a) of section 93, Act XII, 1881.

43. Section 84 (109).—There have been hitherto three grades of Courts subordinate to the Court of the Collector. It is proposed to eliminate the Court of the Deputy Collector and, as in the North-Western Provinces, to have only two Courts subordinate to the Court of the Collector, namely:—

(1) the Court of the Assistant Collector of the second class; and

(2) the Court of the Assistant Collector of the first class; and to assign to the latter Court the jurisdiction given to the Court of the Deputy Collector by section 90 of the Act of 1868 in addition to that which the Court of an Assistant Collector of the first class does now enjoys.

It was further the intention of that Act that from all decrees and orders passed by Assistant Collectors an appeal should lie to the Collector, and such has been the practice hitherto. Now, however, that the jurisdiction of the Assistant Collector of the first class is to be extended, it will be necessary that appeals from his decrees should lie, as did appeals from the Court of the Deputy Collector, to the Court of the Commissioner. A certain number of petty appeals will in this way be added to the files of Commissioners; but as the work which now falls to their share will be considerably lightened by a reduction in the number of ejectment and enhancement cases, this change will be attended with no inconvenience.

No alteration in the forum of appeal is to be made as regards orders.

44. Sections 85—93 (110—117).—The alterations made in these sections are consequent on the amendments of sections 3 (3) and 84 (109) referred to in paragraphs 6 and 43 of this Report.

45. Section 94 (118).—This section reproduces section 94 of the Act of 1868, with the exception that the period for an appeal to the Commissioner has been extended from forty-two to sixty days.

46. Section 95 (119).—We have added after this section a section providing for an appeal to the Commissioner from orders passed by Deputy Commissioners as such and not as Collectors under the Act.

47. Section 96 (121).—We have altered the form of this section to that of section 58 of the Punjab Courts Act, 1884.

48. Section 101 (126).—We have, at the request of the Taluqdárs, added to this section a sub-section to the effect that nothing in the section shall be construed to affect any local custom or special contract.

49. Section 103 (128).—We have modified the expression of this section with reference to that of section 207 of the North-Western Provinces Land-revenue Act, 1873.

50. Section 105 (130).—The addition of the section inserted after section 105 (130) is explained in paragraph 17 of this Report.

51. Section 106 (132).—We have amended this section in accordance with the wishes of the Taluqdárs. One of the amendments has been referred to in paragraph 42 of this Report. The other was suggested to the Taluqdárs by Schedule III to the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885.

52. Section 109 (135).—After this section we have inserted a section prescribing the mode of service of notices under the Act. The new section renders it possible to dispense with the very numerous directions of Act XIX of 1868 in this matter.

53. Section 113 (140).—After this section we have, at the request of the Taluqdárs, inserted a section in the terms of section 34 of the North-Western Provinces Rent Act, 1881.

54. Section 127 (154).—To this section we have added a sub-section to the effect that, where after the passing of the Act an under-proprietor transfers his rights or any part thereof in land, and the transferee enters into possession, the transferee shall, subject to any written agreement with the proprietor to the contrary, be liable to pay to the proprietor any arrears of rent due in respect of the land at the date of the transfer. The "rent" of an under-proprietor in Oudh is really the land-revenue for which his land is responsible.

55. Section 128 (155).—We have, on the suggestion of the Taluqdárs, provided that, where land sold in execution of a decree under the Act is a proprietary tenure, a claim to pre-emption may be preferred by an under-proprietor.

56. Section 129.—We propose to omit this section with reference to the following remarks of the Government of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh:—

"Section 129 reserves to the Local Government power to appoint an officer for the revision of the rents of an estate which is suffering from grave mismanagement. After careful consideration of all the circumstances the Lieutenant-Governor is of opinion that, in view of the safeguards to be provided by the amended law against oppressive enhancement, it is unnecessary that he should press the legislature to arm the executive Government with this authority by special enactment. The Taluqdárs are understood to desire earnestly that a provision which is particularly unpalatable to them should be withdrawn; and as the conditions of the sanad will still remain in full force, the Lieutenant-Governor hopes the Government of India may be pleased to make the concession."

57. Section 131 (157).—The entries in Schedule D are based on the following remarks of the Government of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh:—

"In Schedule D, on the advice of the Commissioner of Sitapur, the Lieutenant-Governor proposes to enter as subject to section 131 of the Bill the parganas of Aukra Mailani, Bhur, Srinagar, Nighasan, Palia, Khairigarh, Dhaurahra, and Firozabad in the district of Kheri. They are all in the Tarai and are characterized by a cultivation which fluctuates with every season, and the rent-customs are adapted to a state of agriculture in which the rules suited for a settled system of cultivation are inapplicable. * * * * *

"The alluvial lands on all the great rivers partake of the same character as the Tarai parganas of Kheri. Cultivation depends on the accidents of river-action, and varies in extent and productiveness with every year. By rules framed and published under the Land-revenue Act, these have been formed into alluvial mahals and separately registered: for the most part they are the subject of quinquennial re-assessment, and are all examined and surveyed every five years. The Lieutenant-Governor proposes, therefore, that all alluvial mahals so registered under G. O. No. 2037R., dated 30th September, 1878, shall, on being so registered, be held to be scheduled in Schedule D.

"Thirdly, the Lieutenant-Governor is of opinion that all waste-land grants, whether granted on lease or in perpetuity, should be also included in Schedule D. The conditions on which these grants were made by the Government are special. In leased grants the grantee is under an engagement to bring a specified area under cultivation within a specified period; and the grants in perpetuity were also made upon the anticipation of a similar gradual extension of cultivation. In such circumstances, to place any statutory restriction upon the power of the grantee to deal freely with the tenants whom he may have induced to settle upon the land, might be tantamount to a subsequent alteration of the original terms of the contract entered into between the grantees and the Government, might hinder the breaking up of the land, and might impose upon the grantee unforeseen embarrassment in the fulfilment of his engagements."

We have so amended section 131 (157) as to enable the Chief Commissioner to add to Schedule D if occasion require.

58. Section 132 (158).—We have added to this section sub-sections prescribing the procedure to be followed in making rules under the section.

The 23rd September, 1886. RANA SHANKAR BAKSH SINGH.*

*I HAVE signed the Report subject to reservation on the following points:—

1. (1) As Government is entitled to a share of the produce of each bighá of land, and as it does not only take as revenue one-half of the rent realized by the landlord from his tenant, but also levies from the former many cesses like the Road-cess, the Dák-cess, contributions to Public Hospitals, the New cess and the local rate, and as in consequence of these cesses and of the cost of management and the various losses entailed upon the landlord by the tenant abandoning his holding, by his death or by his having no assets, the landlord's share is reduced to about one-third of the rent, there is no reason why he alone should be made to bear the whole loss. It is only when the Government grants a remission of the revenue that the landlord may be required to remit a portion of his rent. The rule as laid down in section 23, Act XII of 1881, is just and reasonable.

Section 19, providing for remission of rent.

(2) The rule about the remission of rent as laid down in the Oudh Rent Act, XIX of 1868, section 20, having worked well during the last 18 years, and no complaint having been brought against it, need not be altered or modified. The statutory privileges of seven years' lease and of the limitation of enhancement to one anna in the rupee are stronger grounds for making the tenant alone liable to accidental losses. For instance, a tenant who suffers from a diminution of the produce caused by hail in one year may recoup himself for the loss thus sustained during the succeeding years by improved cultivation or high market-rates. But, if the landlord is made to share with the tenant such accidental losses, he cannot be expected to compensate himself by sharing the profits of a more abundant crop in better years; and, as he can only make a limited enhancement even after seven years, he has no prospect of making up for such losses.

(3) The limitation of enhancement will place the Oudh tenant in a better position than that of his brother-tenant in the North-Western Provinces.

(4) Generally speaking, the average rent taken from tenants in Oudh is lower than that taken in the North-Western Provinces.

(5) The landlords of Oudh are less wealthy than those of the North-Western Provinces, for Oudh has enjoyed the blessings of peace for the last 28 years only, while the North-Western Provinces have enjoyed those inestimable blessings for the last 100 years. The indebtedness of the taluqdárs and the passing of Act XXIV of 1870 are evidence of their not being wealthy. If there are a few large taluqdárs in Oudh, there are more such Rájás and wealthy Málguzárs in the North-Western Provinces.

2. The mode of estimating compensation for improvements laid down in this section is based on very uncertain grounds. Landlords have good reasons to suspect that the estimated cost exceeds the original outlay. The taluqdárs had stated their reasons for doubting the propriety of a section so vaguely worded, and His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor had recommended the addition of certain words in this section which might make it impossible for the estimated compensation to exceed the original outlay in any case. I think the recommendation of His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor may be adopted, and no loss or damage to the tenant can possibly be apprehended from the insertion of a proviso to that effect.

Section 27.—Principle on which compensation is to be estimated.

3. The provisions of sub-sections (3) and (4), section 29, making the landlord liable to compensate the tenant, are, in my humble opinion, quite inexpedient. They will greatly discourage landlords from making improvements; for, when they come to know that they will have to pay a compensation to the tenant for any loss he may sustain when the improvement is made in his holding, besides the actual cost or outlay, they will naturally shrink from such an ungracious task. Ever since the annexation of the Province, tenants in Oudh have never shown themselves unwilling to allow their landlord to make improvements in their holdings, and have never apprehended from them any loss or damage, nor can evidence be obtained from the report of a Judicial or a Revenue Officer to show that such has ever been the case. Wells are usually sunk in May or June, when the heat is intense and water is at its lowest depth; and when there are no crops there can be no ground for the tenant complaining of any loss or damage.

Section 29 (3) and (4).—Improvement by the landlord.

The effect of an improvement cannot possibly be to impair the productive powers of land. The construction of wells cannot lead to a deterioration of the soil. Even if a well produces salt water, the tenant can use it in raising a tobacco crop and other crops of a similar nature to which irrigation with salt water is beneficial; but if he raises some other crop to the growth of which such water is not favourable, he need not use the water of such a well for purposes of irrigation. If sub-section (4) has been added in order to prevent the construction of an embankment which might possibly cause a loss to the tenant, it may be said that as a matter of fact embankments are seldom constructed in cultivated areas, and that, if constructed, they will tend to increase rather than diminish the productive powers of land. It is only at the repeated request of a large number of tenants that the landlord undertakes to construct an embankment, or he is compelled to construct one when the want of an embankment seems to him to be highly detrimental to cultivation. It must not be overlooked that, while the landlord is made liable to compensate the tenant for an accidental loss arising from any improvement he makes on his own land, the tenant, who has no right whatever in the land he cultivates, is not required to pay any compensation for any improvement made by him the effect of which is to impair the productive powers of the land comprised in his own holding or those of other tenants. In such cases the law affords no protection to the party which suffers from a tenant's improvement. Such losses are extremely improbable, and, if an improvement effected by the landlord in good faith causes accidental loss to the tenant, this cannot be sufficient ground for making the former liable to pay compensation to the latter. The landlord ought to be exempted from payment of such compensation in the same way and for the same reasons as the tenant is not made liable to pay any such compensation.

4. The Committee of the British Indian Association had submitted their objections to the extension of the privileges of the statutory tenancy and the statutory enhancement to pahí-kashts or non-resident tenants. Their objections were sufficiently strong and could not justly be rejected or over-ruled—firstly, because land is let to non-resident tenants in those cases only in which resident tenant cannot be obtained; and whenever a resident tenant desires to cultivate land in his own village, or a new tenant from a neighbouring village settles therein, the landlord is obliged to oust the non-resident and give the land to the resident or the incoming tenant, who undoubtedly possesses a preferential title;

secondly, because the pahíkasht is prevented by local custom and the terms of the Wajib-ul-arz from getting water and manure for purposes of cultivation, nor is he allowed to remove those essentials of cultivation from the village in which he resides: he cannot therefore improve the productive powers of the land he cultivates;

thirdly, because it is impossible for the incoming tenant to settle in a new village unless and until he gets some land there for cultivation, nor can he afford to wait for seven years;

fourthly, because rent cannot be realized from a non-resident tenant with as much certainty as from a resident one. He may abandon the village in which he resides, leaving no assets wherefrom the rent due may be realized by a decree of the Court;

fifthly, because non-resident tenants cannot work in their fields with all the members of their family, male and female; while resident tenants cultivate their holdings with the assistance of all their male and female relatives; sixthly, because resident tenants who have lived in the village for some generations should be supported and encouraged as they increase in numbers and it becomes necessary to extend the area of their cultivation. It would be a great hardship to them if the landlord could not give them the support they so urgently need.

Section 69.—Long leases.

5. The words "by registered document" in this section appear to be quite unnecessary, considering that no right or title is intended to be conveyed thereby. Under the proposed law the tenant is entitled to hold for seven years, and, if he gets a longer lease, it need not be by a registered document; because, if no mention of the eighth year were made in the patta, the tenant could still legally retain his holding on the same rent with the consent of his landlord for one or more years; nor, as regards the stamp duty on the notice of ejectment, can the tenant enter into an engagement with his landlord for exemption from what is not payable to him. Such exemption has been especially provided for, and is the natural consequence of an eight years' lease, which need not, and should not, be registered.

The restriction as to registration will operate more injuriously to the tenant, who will find it extremely difficult to go a long way out of his village to get the document registered, while it will be highly inconvenient to landlords generally, and to taluqdárs especially, to repair to the Registrar's office for the purpose of registration. Under these circumstances tenants will rarely benefit by continuing to hold one year longer than the statutory period of seven years. They will lose the benefits of a whole year's cultivation; and the main object of the Bill in extending the period of their tenancy will thus be defeated. In my humble opinion registration should not be made compulsory, and the eight years' patta should be exempted from registration in the same way as seven years' pattas are exempted therefrom, or it may be made optional, that is, the parties concerned may or may not have the patta registered.

PART V.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Second publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 24th September, 1886, and was referred to a Select Committee:—

NO. 24 OF 1886.

A Bill to provide for the Protection of Indigenous Tribes in Burma.

WHEREAS it is expedient to provide means for protecting Karens and other indigenous tribes in Burma from the intrusion of strangers into their villages; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title, commencement and local extent.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Burma Indigenous Tribes Protection Act, 1886.

(2) It shall come into force at once; and

(3) It shall extend to such local areas within the limits of Lower Burma as the Local Government may from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, specify in this behalf.

Definition of "indigenous tribes."

2. (1) The Karens are an indigenous tribe within the meaning of this Act.

(2) With the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, the Local Government, by notification in the official Gazette, may from time to time declare of any other class of persons in Lower Burma that that class is or forms part of an indigenous tribe, and may at any time cancel the declaration.

(3) While a declaration under sub-section (2) is in force, it shall be conclusive proof of the matter stated therein.

Definitions of "village" and 'prescribed.'

3. In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context,—

(1) "village" means any collection of ten or more houses not being either a municipality to which the British Burma Municipal Act, 1874, or the Burma Municipal Act, 1884, for the time being extends, or a town, village or hamlet in which a house-tax or a cess on houses is for the time being leviable under section 5 or section 6 of the Burma District Cesses and Rural Police Act, 1880; but it does not include a village of which members of indigenous tribes are not the majority of the residents; VII of 1874. XVII of 1884. II of 1880.

(2) "prescribed" means prescribed by rules under this Act.

When resident or intending resident of a village may be ejected or excluded therefrom.

4. (1) If not fewer than half of the cultivating householders of a village desire to eject or exclude from the village a resident or intending resident thereof, they may record that desire in the prescribed manner.

(2) When the cultivating householders of a village have recorded under sub-section (1) their desire to eject or exclude a resident or intending resident, the prescribed authority may, in the prescribed manner, eject or exclude him from the village:

Provided that a resident or intending resident of a village shall not be ejected or excluded therefrom, if he—

(a) is of the same indigenous tribe as the majority of the residents of the village, or

(b) cultivates land within three miles of the village, or

(c) has resided in the village for twelve years or upwards:

Provided also that a resident of a village who is ejected under this Act shall be entitled to compensation for any immoveable property belonging to him in the village.

5. (1) The Local Government may from time to time, with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, make rules—

Power for Local Government to make rules.

(a) to define the mode in which the desire of the cultivating householders of a village to eject or exclude therefrom a resident or intending resident is to be ascertained and recorded;

(b) to declare the authority for carrying into effect the recorded desire of the cultivating householders of a village to eject or exclude a resident or intending resident therefrom, and to prescribe the procedure to be followed by that authority in ejecting or excluding him;

(c) to prescribe the mode in which the compensation to which an ejected resident is entitled under this Act is to be ascertained and given; and

(d) generally to carry out the purposes of this Act.

(2) When making any rule under this Act the Local Government may direct that a breach of it shall be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees, or with imprisonment which may extend to three months, or with both.

6. (1) The Local Government shall, before making rules under this Act, publish a draft of the proposed rules in such manner as may, in its opinion, be sufficient for the information of persons likely to be affected thereby.

Procedure for making and publication of rules.

(2) There shall be published with the draft a notice specifying a date at, or after which, the draft will be taken into consideration.

(3) The Local Government shall receive and consider any objection or suggestion which may be made by any person with respect to the draft before the date so specified.

(4) A rule made under this Act shall not take effect until it has been published in the local official Gazette.

(5) The publication in that Gazette of a rule purporting to be made under this Act shall be conclusive proof that it has been duly made.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE object of this Bill is to provide for the ejection or exclusion in certain circumstances of strangers from village-sites occupied by Karens and other indigenous tribes of Burma.

2. It would seem that Burman, Shan or Chinese strangers occasionally settle in Karen villages and cause very great annoyance to the Karens, who, in some cases, from shyness or timidity, do not resist the intruders, whilst in others they have been goaded into acts of lawlessness. The missionaries, who know more of the Karens than any English or Burman Government officers, are very persistent in urging that power must be taken to preserve the Karens, especially the wilder Karens in secluded tracts, from intruders. Mr. Crosthwaite, when officiating as Chief Commissioner of British Burma, proposed to issue rules providing for the ejection of intruders from Karen villages; but it was found on further consideration that no rules of the kind could be enforced without legal sanction. The present Chief Commissioner, sharing Mr. Crosthwaite's views has urged on the Government the necessity for legislation, in the absence of which he fears that the Karen and similar tribes may either be driven out of their settlements or resort to lawless means of getting rid of intruders.

3. In these circumstances, the present Bill has been prepared. Though of a somewhat exceptional nature, it appears to the Government of India to be warranted by the peculiarities of the relations of these indigenous tribes and their neighbours. Further, it is supported by the analogy of the provisions of section 4 of the Garo Hills Regulation, I of 1882, which prohibit the acquisition of interests in land in those hills by strangers except under special sanction.

4. The provisions of the Bill are very simple. Section 1, sub-section (3), empowers the Chief Commissioner to apply the proposed Act to such local areas as he may by notification prescribe, while section 3 defines the term village so as to restrict the operation of the proposed law to purely rural tracts. Section 4 declares the circumstances under which a resident or intending resident may be excluded or ejected from a village. These are that the majority of the residents of the village belong to some indigenous tribe and that not less than one-half of the cultivating householders of the village desire ejection or exclusion of the resident or intending resident, who must not be of the same tribe as the majority of the residents of the village, or cultivate land within three miles of the village or have resided in the village for twelve years or upwards. The section further provides for compensation to persons who have been compelled to vacate any land or house in a village in consequence of their ejection therefrom. Under section 5, the Chief Commissioner has power to make rules with the sanction of the Governor-General in Council prescribing the mode in which the desire of the cultivating householders of a village to eject or exclude any one therefrom is to be ascertained and recorded, empowering certain persons to eject or exclude persons in pursuance of the recorded desire and on behalf of the cultivating householders, and prescribing the procedure to be followed in such cases, and the mode in which compensation under the proposed Act is to be ascertained. The section further enables the Local Government to direct in any rule that a breach of it shall be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees, or with imprisonment which may extend to three months, or with both. Lastly, section 6 contains the usual formal matter as to the procedure for making and publishing rules.

In this respect the law enacted nearly half a century ago for the Indian army is more severe than Parliament has seen fit to enact for the other branches of Her Majesty's regular forces or than the Council of the Governor-General would now enact.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[First publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 21st October, 1886:—

No. 26 OF 1886.

A Bill to regulate the supply of electricity for lighting and other purposes.

WHEREAS it is expedient to regulate the supply of electricity for lighting and other purposes; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title, extent and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Electricity Supply Act, 1887.

(2) It shall extend to the whole of British India; and

(3) It shall come into force at once.

Definitions.

2. In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context,—

(1) "electricity" includes galvanism, magnetism, magneto-electricity and electro-magnetism:

(2) "telegraph", "message", "telegraph line", "post", "telegraph authority" and "local authority" have the meanings respectively assigned to those expressions in the Indian Telegraph Act, 1885: and

(3) "purpose" includes any purpose except the transmission of a message or the use of electricity in medical treatment.

Prohibition of supply of electricity without license.

3. Save as provided in this Act, electricity shall not be supplied for a price by any person for any purpose without a license from the Governor-General in Council authorizing the person in that behalf.

Grant and contents of license.

4. (1) The Governor-General in Council may from time to time license any person to supply electricity for any purpose, and in any local area, specified in the license.

(2) The license may prescribe the duties of the licensee and provide for the revocation of the license on his failure to perform any of those duties, and generally may contain such regulations and conditions as the Governor-General in Council thinks expedient.

(3) By a license granted under this section the Governor-General in Council may, subject to such conditions as he thinks fit to impose, confer on the licensee, with respect to the placing of appliances and apparatus for the supply of electricity, any of the powers which the telegraph authority possesses under the Indian Telegraph Act, 1885, with respect to the placing of telegraph lines and posts for the purposes of a telegraph established or maintained by the Government or to be so established or maintained.

(4) The Governor-General in Council may from time to time amend, add to or cancel any of the regulations and conditions contained in a license, and withdraw any of the powers conferred by a license or impose amended or additional conditions with respect to the exercise of those powers.

Supply of electricity by certain persons without license.

5. (1) Section 3 shall not apply to any person supplying electricity for any purpose in any local area at the time of the passing of this Act so far as regards the supply of electricity for that purpose within that area.

(2) If any question arises with respect to the purpose or the local area for or in which electricity was being supplied at that time, it shall be decided by an authority to be appointed by the Governor-General in Council in that behalf, and the decision of that authority on the question shall be final.

Grant of licenses to those persons.

6. (1) Notwithstanding anything in the last foregoing section, the Governor-General in Council may, on the application of any person supplying electricity for any purpose in any local area at the time of the passing of this Act, grant to the person a license for that purpose in that area under the provisions of section 4.

(2) Where a license is granted under sub-section (1), it shall supersede any engagement between the person to whom it is granted and any local authority with respect to the conditions on which electricity may be supplied by that person for the purpose, and in the local area, specified in the license.

Penalty for supplying electricity without license or contravening license.

7. If a person does either of the following things, namely,—

(a) being a person to whom section 3 is applicable, supplies electricity for a price without a license, or,

(b) having a license under this Act, commits or suffers to be committed a breach of any duty prescribed in the license or of any regulation or condition contained therein,

he shall be punished with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, and, in the case of a continuing offence, with a further fine which may extend to two hundred rupees for every day during which the electricity is supplied or the breach of the duty, regulation or condition continues.

Power to make rules.

8. (1) The Governor-General in Council may from time to time make such rules as he thinks expedient for protecting the public in person and property from injury by reason of contact with, or the proximity of, appliances or apparatus used in the supply of electricity, and for preventing telegraph lines from being injuriously affected by any of those appliances or apparatus.

(2) A rule under this section may apply to the appliances and apparatus of a person not having a license under this Act as well as to those of a person having a license thereunder.

(3) In making a rule under this section, the Governor-General in Council may direct that a breach of it shall be punishable with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees and, in the case of a continuing breach, with a further fine which may extend to two hundred rupees for every day during which the breach continues.

Procedure for making rules.

9. (1) The Governor-General in Council shall, before making rules under the last foregoing section, publish, in such manner as he deems sufficient, a draft of the proposed rules for the information of persons likely to be affected thereby.

(2) There shall be published with the draft a notice specifying a date at or after which the draft will be taken into consideration.

(3) The Governor-General in Council shall receive and consider any objection or suggestion which may be made by any person with respect to the draft before the date so specified.

(4) The publication in the Gazette of India of a rule purporting to be made under the last foregoing section shall be conclusive proof that it has been duly made.

(5) Rules under that section may from time to time be amended, added to or cancelled by the Governor-General in Council.

Saving of prosecutions under other laws.

10. Nothing in this Act shall prevent any person from being prosecuted under any other law for any act or omission which constitutes an offence under section 7 or against a rule under section 8, or from being liable under that other law to any other or higher punishment or penalty than that provided by section 7 or a rule under section 8:

Provided that a person shall not be punished twice for the same offence.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE primary object of this Bill is to empower the Governor-General in Council to make rules (a) for protecting the public in person and property from injury by reason of contact with, or the proximity of, appliances or apparatus used in the supply of electricity for lighting, and (b) for preventing telegraph-lines from being injuriously affected by any of those appliances or apparatus.

2. The danger to the public from electric light connections arises from the fact that currents of great strength are used in the production of the light, the currents being powerful enough to cause death to any person, or set fire to any inflammable material, coming in contact with the wires while the currents are passing, that is to say, while the lamps are being used. Protection may be afforded either by placing these wires or connections in such a position that contact with them is impossible, or by so covering them with insulating material that contact with them is innocuous.

Interference with telegraph and telephone signals is caused by obstructive currents being induced in the telegraph and telephone wires when the electric light wires pass within a certain distance of them. The remedy is to arrange that the electric light wires shall be placed sufficiently far off. It is impossible of course to determine what the safe distance is without knowing the strength of the current employed for the electric light, which again varies with the number of lamps in circuit, but the distance can be determined from time to time with reference to the maximum current to be used in any particular local area.

3. A company desiring to supply electricity in any local area for any purpose must, if the company was not supplying it in that area for that purpose at the time of the passing of the Act, obtain a license from the Governor-General in Council. By this license the Governor-General in Council may impose such regulations and conditions as he thinks expedient, and confer on the licensee, with respect to the placing of appliances and apparatus for the supply of electricity, any of the powers which the telegraph-authority possesses under the Indian Telegraph Act, 1885, with respect to the placing of telegraph lines and posts for the purposes of a telegraph established or maintained by the Government or to be so established or maintained.

Companies which were supplying electricity in any local area for any purpose at the time of the passing of the Act may elect to continue supplying it without a license, and therefore without the obligations which may be imposed, or the privileges which may be conferred, by a license.

The 21st October, 1886.

The following Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend the law relating to Civil Courts in Bengal, the North-Western Provinces and Assam was presented to the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 21st October, 1886 :—

Preliminary Report on the Bengal Civil Courts Bill, 1881.

THE Bill to amend the law relating to Civil Courts in Bengal, the North-Western Provinces and Assam was introduced into the Council of the Governor-General by the Hon'ble Mr. Stokes in 1881, was referred to a Select Committee and was circulated for opinion, but its further progress was suspended in consequence of a proposal to establish appellate benches in Bengal. That proposal having been abandoned for the present, the opinions on the Bill of 1881 have been examined, and most of the recommendations in them incorporated in the amended copy of the Bill which accompanies this Report.

The few recommendations which have not been adopted have reference to the relation of Courts of Small Causes to District Courts, and will be best considered in connection with the Provincial Small Cause Courts Bill, 1885. I propose therefore to move at the next meeting of Council that all members of the Select Committee appointed to consider and report on that Bill who are residents of, or are or have been officially connected with, Bengal, the North-Western Provinces or Assam be added to the Select Committee on the Courts Bill to which this Preliminary Report relates.

2. The following portions of the amended Bill seem to call for remark :—

(a) Section 5.—A sub-section has been added on the advice of the Government of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh for the purpose of removing any doubt there may be as to the competence of a Local Government to appoint a Judge of a Court of Small Causes to be a Subordinate Judge, or to appoint a District Judge or Subordinate Judge to discharge temporarily the functions of another District Judge or Subordinate Judge, as the case may be, in addition to the performance of his own duties.

(b) Section 7.—The powers vested in the High Courts at Fort William and Allahabad by the Statute 24 & 25 Vic., cap. 104, section 15, seem to render it unnecessary to provide in this and other sections of the Bill that a District Judge is in all matters connected with the administration of the Courts to act under the control of the High Court, the District Judge being already in those matters under the obligation of obeying any instructions which the High Court may be pleased to issue.

(c) Section 8.—It has been objected that the provision of the Act of 1871 which requires an Additional Judge or Subordinate Judge in charge of the office of a District Judge to discharge "such of the current duties thereof as are connected with the filing of suits and appeals, the issue of processes and the like functions," is too indefinite, and has in practice resulted in inconvenience and loss to parties. An attempt is made in sub-section (2) of section 8 of the revised Bill to define more particularly the powers which an Additional Judge or Subordinate Judge in charge of the office of a District Judge may exercise.

(d) Section 9.—Objection has been taken by the High Court for the North-Western Provinces to the words "on leave" in section 9 of the Act of 1871, and to the words in the same section which empower the District Judge to transfer cases only to his own Court or to the Court of a Subordinate Judge. The High Court points out that a Subordinate Judge may be absent from his district otherwise than on leave, as, for instance, on deputation to another district, and that, where, as occasionally happens, the Court of a Subordinate Judge is for any tract of country the Court of lowest jurisdiction, it may be convenient to transfer cases from his Court to that of a Munsif. The section has in these respects been amended, and two sub-sections (3) and (4) have been added, the former being supplementary to the amendment of sub-section (1), and the latter designed to remove a difficulty which has been felt in the North-Western Provinces.

(e) Section 10.—The expression of this section, which was inaccurate in the Act of 1871, has been amended in the manner proposed by Mr. Justice Prinsep.

(f) Section 11.—This section has been modified in accordance with the recommendations of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, the Chief Commissioner of Assam and Mr. Justice Prinsep.

(g) Section 16.—A sub-section has, on the suggestion of Mr. Justice Prinsep, been added to meet the case of officers in the territories referred to in section 11 who dispose of civil business while on tour at any place within the local limits of their jurisdiction.

(h) Section 17.—On the suggestion of Mr. Justice Field, a sub-section has been added to the effect that a judicial act shall not be invalid by reason only of its having been done on a holiday.

(i) Section 18.—This section has been so drawn as to remove difficulties experienced in Bengal, the North-Western Provinces and Assam in the working of the corresponding section of the Act of 1871.

(j) Section 21.—A sub-section has been added with reference to the cases at 13 B. L. R. 376; 10 B. L. R., App., 30; 19 W. R. 201; and 8 C. L. R. 6.

(k) Section 22.—Sub-section (2) of this section has been re-drawn with advertence to the cases at 18 W. R. (F. B.) 261; 18 W. R. 316; and 19 W. R. 131.

Sub-section (3) has been added on the suggestion of Mr. Justice Prinsep.

(l) Section 23.—The case at I. L. R. 7 All. 775 suggests an expansion of this section.

(m) Section 25.—Sub-section (1) will empower the District Judge to transfer appeals from orders of Munsifs, as well as from their decrees, to Subordinate Judges.

Sub-section (2) has, on the suggestion of Mr. Justice Prinsep, been so drawn as to enable the District Judge to transfer to any other competent Court under his control an appeal withdrawn from the Court of a Subordinate Judge.

Sub-section (3) is suggested by the cases at 16 W. R. 235 and 18 W. R. 292.

(n) Section 26.—This section has been amended in several particulars. It is proposed, on the suggestion of Mr. Justice Field, that the order of the High Court may be either general or special; on the suggestion of Mr. Justice Prinsep, that the High Court may authorise a Subordinate Judge or Munsif to take cognizance of the proceedings mentioned in the section; on the suggestion of the Government of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, that references by Collectors under section 322C of the Code of Civil Procedure should be added to the list of proceedings; and on the suggestion of the same Government and of Mr. Justice Field and Mr. Justice Maclean, that several of the proceedings specified in section 26 of the Bill of 1881 should be excluded therefrom.

(o) Section 27.—On the suggestion of Mr. Justice Prinsep, it is proposed that appeals from orders passed by Subordinate Judges in proceedings mentioned in section 26 shall, when appeals are permitted, lie to the High Court.

(p) Section 34.—With respect to section 35 of the Bill of 1881, Mr. C. J. Daniell, District Judge of Moradabad, recorded the following remarks:—

"I consider it essential to the efficiency of the ministerial officers of the subordinate Civil Courts in a judgeship that a stream of promotion should be maintained from the lowest to the highest grade of these officials throughout the judgeship. If this is secured, every hard-working man knows that there are several appointments to which he can aspire, the field for his promotion is widened, and he is more encouraged to do his work well than if he had only to look to the rare vacancies in a single munsifi for advancement. On the other hand, the Judge can promote any man from any one of several situations to any other that he may be qualified for in the whole judgeship, and a stimulus is provided to efficient and industrious work which is entirely absent if the Judge can promote no one but the officials of his own office, or if, in order to promote a deserving man in a munsifi, he is obliged to place him over the heads of other men in his own office, without being at the same time able to provide any of his own officials with a step on promotion in any of the munsifis subordinate to him.

"There can, I think, be no doubt that better men are obtainable and better work done in a wide than in a narrow field of work; but this section (35), as in stands, reduces the area over which a subordinate official's career extends within the most confined limits.

* * * * * * * * * * *

"In former times, when the subordinate Civil Courts were never inspected, something might be said in favour of allowing Munsifs to nominate and promote the officials of their own Courts; but in these days Munsifs are frequently changed, while Judges are seldom changed, and a judgeship is becoming more and more the unit of judicial administration. It is as well that this should be so, for such a condition is an incentive to a more careful supervision on the part of a Judge over his subordinates, and consequently to better work on the part of all below him. This incentive, however, will fail to act if the area of nomination and selection in a judgeship is confined to single munsifis instead of extending to all the Courts in the judgeship."

The Government of the North-Western Provinces expressed concurrence in Mr. Daniell's remarks, as the Government of Bengal did in similar remarks recorded by Mr. Justice Field.

(q) Section 35.—This section provides for the case of Civil Court amins and the joint process-serving establishments now maintained throughout Bengal and the North-Western Provinces under the superintendence of central nazirs and the control of the District Judge.

(r) Section 38.—The addition to this section was suggested by Mr. Justice Oldfield.

(s) Section 40.—This section seems to be required for the purposes of applications under section 108 of the Code of Civil Procedure and other proceedings not referred to in sections 623 and 649 of that Code.

[Act VI of 1871, s. 4.]

Number of Munsifs.

4. The Local Government may, subject to the control of the Governor-General in Council, alter the number of Munsifs now fixed:

[Act VI of 1871, s. 5.]

Vacancies in District or Subordinate Judgeships.

5. (1) Whenever the office of District Judge or Subordinate Judge is vacant by reason of the death, resignation or removal of the Judge or other cause, or whenever the Governor General in Council has sanctioned an increase of the number of District Judges or Subordinate Judges, the Local Government shall fill up the vacancy or appoint the additional District Judges or Subordinate Judges, as the case may be.

(2) Nothing in this section shall be construed to prevent a Local Government from appointing any Judge of a Court of Small Causes to be also a Subordinate Judge, or from appointing a District Judge or Subordinate Judge to discharge, for such period as it thinks fit, in addition to the functions devolving on him as such District Judge or Subordinate Judge, all or any of the functions of another District Judge or Subordinate Judge, as the case may be.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Second publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 21st October, 1886:—

No. 26 OF 1886.

A Bill to regulate the supply of electricity for lighting and other purposes.

WHEREAS it is expedient to regulate the supply of electricity for lighting and other purposes; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

1. (1) This Act may be called the Electricity Supply Act, 1887.

Short title, extent and commencement.

(2) It shall extend to the whole of British India; and

(3) It shall come into force at once.

2. In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context,—

Definitions.

(1) "electricity" includes galvanism, magnetism, magneto-electricity and electro-magnetism:

(2) "telegraph", "message", "telegraph line", "post", "telegraph authority" and "local authority" have the meanings respectively assigned to those expressions in the Indian Telegraph Act, 1885; and

XIII of 1885.

(3) "purpose" includes any purpose except the transmission of a message or the use of electricity in medical treatment.

3. Save as provided in this Act, electricity shall not be supplied for a price by any person for any purpose without a license from the Governor-General in Council authorizing the person in that behalf.

Prohibition of supply of electricity without license.

4. (1) The Governor-General in Council may from time to time license any person to supply electricity for any purpose, and in any local area, specified in the license.

Grant and contents of license.

(2) The license may prescribe the duties of the licensee and provide for the revocation of the license on his failure to perform any of those duties, and generally may contain such regulations and conditions as the Governor-General in Council thinks expedient.

(3) By a license granted under this section the Governor-General in Council may, subject to such conditions as he thinks fit to impose, confer on the licensee, with respect to the placing of appliances and apparatus for the supply of electricity, any of the powers which the telegraph authority possesses under the Indian Telegraph Act, 1885, with respect to the placing of telegraph lines and posts for the purposes of a telegraph established or maintained by the Government or to be so established or maintained.

(4) The Governor-General in Council may from time to time amend, add to or cancel any of the regulations and conditions contained in a license, and withdraw any of the powers conferred by a license or impose amended or additional conditions with respect to the exercise of those powers.

5. (1) Section 3 shall not apply to any person supplying electricity for any purpose in any local area at the time of the passing of this Act so far as regards the supply of electricity for that purpose within that area.

Supply of electricity by certain persons without license.

(2) If any question arises with respect to the purpose or the local area for or in which electricity was being supplied at that time, it shall be decided by an authority to be appointed by the Governor-General in Council in that behalf, and the decision of that authority on the question shall be final.

6. (1) Notwithstanding anything in the last foregoing section, the Governor-General in Council may, on the application of any person supplying electricity for any purpose in any local area at the time of the passing of this Act, grant to the person a license for that purpose in that area under the provisions of section 4.

Grant of licenses to those persons.

(2) Where a license is granted under sub-section (1), it shall supersede any engagement between the person to whom it is granted and any local authority with respect to the conditions on which electricity may be supplied by that person for the purpose, and in the local area, specified in the license.

Penalty for supplying electricity without license or contravening license.

7. If a person does either of the following things, namely,—

(a) being a person to whom section 3 is applicable, supplies electricity for a price without a license, or,

(b) having a license under this Act, commits or suffers to be committed a breach of any duty prescribed in the license or of any regulation or condition contained therein,

he shall be punished with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, and, in the case of a continuing offence, with a further fine which may extend to two hundred rupees for every day during which the electricity is supplied or the breach of the duty, regulation or condition continues.

Power to make rules.

8. (1) The Governor-General in Council may from time to time make such rules as he thinks expedient for protecting the public in person and property from injury by reason of contact with, or the proximity of, appliances or apparatus used in the supply of electricity, and for preventing telegraph lines from being injuriously affected by any of those appliances or apparatus.

(2) A rule under this section may apply to the appliances and apparatus of a person not having a license under this Act as well as to those of a person having a license thereunder.

(3) In making a rule under this section, the Governor-General in Council may direct that a breach of it shall be punishable with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees and, in the case of a continuing breach, with a further fine which may extend to two hundred rupees for every day during which the breach continues.

Procedure for making rules.

9. (1) The Governor-General in Council shall, before making rules under the last foregoing section, publish, in such manner as he deems sufficient, a draft of the proposed rules for the information of persons likely to be affected thereby.

(2) There shall be published with the draft a notice specifying a date at or after which the draft will be taken into consideration.

(3) The Governor-General in Council shall receive and consider any objection or suggestion which may be made by any person with respect to the draft before the date so specified.

(4) The publication in the Gazette of India of a rule purporting to be made under the last foregoing section shall be conclusive proof that it has been duly made.

(5) Rules under that section may from time to time be amended, added to or cancelled by the Governor-General in Council.

Saving of prosecutions under other laws.

10. Nothing in this Act shall prevent any person from being prosecuted under any other law for any act or omission which constitutes an offence under section 7 or against a rule under section 8, or from being liable under that other law to any other or higher punishment or penalty than that provided by section 7 or a rule under section 8 :

Provided that a person shall not be punished twice for the same offence.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE primary object of this Bill is to empower the Governor-General in Council to make rules (a) for protecting the public in person and property from injury by reason of contact with, or the proximity of, appliances or apparatus used in the supply of electricity for lighting, and (b) for preventing telegraph-lines from being injuriously affected by any of those appliances or apparatus.

2. The danger to the public from electric light connections arises from the fact that currents of great strength are used in the production of the light, the currents being powerful enough to cause death to any person, or set fire to any inflammable material, coming in contact with the wires while the currents are passing, that is to say, while the lamps are being used. Protection may be afforded either by placing these wires or connections in such a position that contact with them is impossible, or by so covering them with insulating material that contact with them is innocuous.

Interference with telegraph and telephone signals is caused by obstructive currents being induced in the telegraph and telephone wires when the electric light wires pass within a certain distance of them. The remedy is to arrange that the electric light wires shall be placed sufficiently far off. It is impossible of course to determine what the safe distance is without knowing the strength of the current employed for the electric light, which again varies with the number of lamps in circuit, but the distance can be determined from time to time with reference to the maximum current to be used in any particular local area.

3. A company desiring to supply electricity in any local area for any purpose must, if the company was not supplying it in that area for that purpose at the time of the passing of the Act, obtain a license from the Governor-General in Council. By this license the Governor-General in Council may impose such regulations and conditions as he thinks expedient, and confer on the licensee, with respect to the placing of appliances and apparatus for the supply of electricity, any of the powers which the telegraph-authority possesses under the Indian Telegraph Act, 1885, with respect to the placing of telegraph lines and posts for the purposes of a telegraph established or maintained by the Government or to be so established or maintained.

Companies which were supplying electricity in any local area for any purpose at the time of the passing of the Act may elect to continue supplying it without a license, and therefore without the obligations which may be imposed, or the privileges which may be conferred, by a license.

The following Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend the law relating to Civil Courts in Bengal, the North-Western Provinces and Assam was presented to the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 21st October, 1886 :—

Preliminary Report on the Bengal Civil Courts Bill, 1881.

THE Bill to amend the law relating to Civil Courts in Bengal, the North-Western Provinces and Assam was introduced into the Council of the Governor-General by the Hon'ble Mr. Stokes in 1881, was referred to a Select Committee and was circulated for opinion, but its further progress was suspended in consequence of a proposal to establish appellate benches in Bengal. That proposal having been abandoned for the present, the opinions on the Bill of 1881 have been examined, and most of the recommendations in them incorporated in the amended copy of the Bill which accompanies this Report.

The few recommendations which have not been adopted have reference to the relation of Courts of Small Causes to District Courts, and will be best considered in connection with the Provincial Small Cause Courts Bill, 1885. I propose therefore to move at the next meeting of Council that all members of the Select Committee appointed to consider and report on that Bill who are residents of, or are or have been officially connected with, Bengal, the North-Western Provinces or Assam be added to the Select Committee on the Courts Bill to which this Preliminary Report relates.

2. The following portions of the amended Bill seem to call for remark :—

(a) Section 5.—A sub-section has been added on the advice of the Government of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh for the purpose of removing any doubt there may be as to the competence of a Local Government to appoint a Judge of a Court of Small Causes to be a Subordinate Judge, or to appoint a District Judge or Subordinate Judge to discharge temporarily the functions of another District Judge or Subordinate Judge, as the case may be, in addition to the performance of his own duties.

(b) Section 7.—The powers vested in the High Courts at Fort William and Allahabad by the Statute 24 & 25 Vic., cap. 104, section 15, seem to render it unnecessary to provide in this and other sections of the Bill that a District Judge is in all matters connected with the administration of the Courts to act under the control of the High Court, the District Judge being already in those matters under the obligation of obeying any instructions which the High Court may be pleased to issue.

(c) Section 8.—It has been objected that the provision of the Act of 1871 which requires an Additional Judge or Subordinate Judge in charge of the office of a District Judge to discharge "such of the current duties thereof as are connected with the filing of suits and appeals, the issue of processes and the like functions," is too indefinite, and has in practice resulted in inconvenience and loss to parties. An attempt is made in sub-section (2) of section 8 of the revised Bill to define more particularly the powers which an Additional Judge or Subordinate Judge in charge of the office of a District Judge may exercise.

(d) Section 9.—Objection has been taken by the High Court for the North-Western Provinces to the words "on leave" in section 9 of the Act of 1871, and to the words in the same section which empower the District Judge to transfer cases only to his own Court or to the Court of a Subordinate Judge. The High Court points out that a Subordinate Judge may be absent from his district otherwise than on leave, as, for instance, on deputation to another district, and that, where, as occasionally happens, the Court of a Subordinate Judge is for any tract of country the Court of lowest jurisdiction, it may be convenient to transfer cases from his Court to that of a Munsif. The section has in these respects been amended, and two sub-sections (3) and (4) have been added, the former being supplementary to the amendment of sub-section (1), and the latter designed to remove a difficulty which has been felt in the North-Western Provinces.

(e) Section 10.—The expression of this section, which was inaccurate in the Act of 1871, has been amended in the manner proposed by Mr. Justice Prinsep.

(f) Section 11.—This section has been modified in accordance with the recommendations of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, the Chief Commissioner of Assam and Mr. Justice Prinsep.

(g) Section 16.—A sub-section has, on the suggestion of Mr. Justice Prinsep, been added to meet the case of officers in the territories referred to in section 11 who dispose of civil business while on tour at any place within the local limits of their jurisdiction.

(h) Section 17.—On the suggestion of Mr. Justice Field, a sub-section has been added to the effect that a judicial act shall not be invalid by reason only of its having been done on a holiday.

(i) Section 18.—This section has been so drawn as to remove difficulties experienced in Bengal, the North-Western Provinces and Assam in the working of the corresponding section of the Act of 1871.

(j) Section 21.—A sub-section has been added with reference to the cases at 13 B. L. R. 376; 10 B. L. R., App., 30; 19 W. R. 201; and 8 C. L. R. 6.

(k) Section 22.—Sub-section (2) of this section has been re-drawn with advertence to the cases at 18 W. R. (F. B.) 261; 18 W. R. 316; and 19 W. R. 131.

Sub-section (3) has been added on the suggestion of Mr. Justice Prinsep.

(l) Section 23.—The case at I. L. R. 7 All. 775 suggests an expansion of this section.

(m) Section 25.—Sub-section (1) will empower the District Judge to transfer appeals from orders of Munsifs, as well as from their decrees, to Subordinate Judges.

Sub-section (2) has, on the suggestion of Mr. Justice Prinsep, been so drawn as to enable the District Judge to transfer to any other competent Court under his control an appeal withdrawn from the Court of a Subordinate Judge.

Sub-section (3) is suggested by the cases at 16 W. R. 235 and 18 W. R. 292.

(n) Section 26.—This section has been amended in several particulars. It is proposed, on the suggestion of Mr. Justice Field, that the order of the High Court may be either general or special; on the suggestion of Mr. Justice Prinsep, that the High Court may authorise a Subordinate Judge or Munsif to take cognizance of the proceedings mentioned in the section; on the suggestion of the Government of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, that references by Collectors under section 322C of the Code of Civil Procedure should be added to the list of proceedings; and on the suggestion of the same Government and of Mr. Justice Field and Mr. Justice Maclean, that several of the proceedings specified in section 26 of the Bill of 1881 should be excluded therefrom.

(o) Section 27.—On the suggestion of Mr. Justice Prinsep, it is proposed that appeals from orders passed by Subordinate Judges in proceedings mentioned in section 26 shall, when appeals are permitted, lie to the High Court.

(p) Section 34.—With respect to section 35 of the Bill of 1881, Mr. C. J. Daniell, District Judge of Moradabad, recorded the following remarks :—

"I consider it essential to the efficiency of the ministerial officers of the subordinate Civil Courts in a judgeship that a stream of promotion should be maintained from the lowest to the highest grade of these officials throughout the judgeship. If this is secured, every hard-working man knows that there are several appointments to which he can aspire, the field for his promotion is widened, and he is more encouraged to do his work well than if he had only to look to the rare vacancies in a single munsifi for advancement. On the other hand, the Judge can promote any man from any one of several situations to any other that he may be qualified for in the whole judgeship, and a stimulus is provided to efficient and industrious work which is entirely absent if the Judge can promote no one but the officials of his own office, or if, in order to promote a deserving man in a munsifi, he is obliged to place him over the heads of other men in his own office, without being at the same time able to provide any of his own officials with a step on promotion in any of the munsifis subordinate to him.

"There can, I think, be no doubt that better men are obtainable and better work done in a wide than in a narrow field of work; but this section (35), as in stands, reduces the area over which a subordinate official's career extends within the most confined limits.

* * * * * * * * * * *

"In former times, when the subordinate Civil Courts were never inspected, something might be said in favour of allowing Munsifs to nominate and promote the officials of their own Courts; but in these days Munsifs are frequently changed, while Judges are seldom changed, and a judgeship is becoming more and more the unit of judicial administration. It is as well that this should be so, for such a condition is an incentive to a more careful supervision on the part of a Judge over his subordinates, and consequently to better work on the part of all below him. This incentive, however, will fail to act if the area of nomination and selection in a judgeship is confined to single munsifis instead of extending to all the Courts in the judgeship."

The Government of the North-Western Provinces expressed concurrence in Mr. Daniell's remarks, as the Government of Bengal did in similar remarks recorded by Mr. Justice Field.

(q) Section 35.—This section provides for the case of Civil Court amins and the joint process-serving establishments now maintained throughout Bengal and the North-Western Provinces under the superintendence of central nazirs and the control of the District Judge.

(r) Section 38.—The addition to this section was suggested by Mr. Justice Oldfield.

(s) Section 40.—This section seems to be required for the purposes of applications under section 108 of the Code of Civil Procedure and other proceedings not referred to in sections 623 and 649 of that Code.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Third publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 21st October, 1886:—

NO. 26 OF 1886.

A Bill to regulate the supply of electricity for lighting and other purposes.

WHEREAS it is expedient to regulate the supply of electricity for lighting and other purposes; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title, extent and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Electricity Supply Act, 1887.

(2) It shall extend to the whole of British India; and

(3) It shall come into force at once.

Definitions.

2. In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context,—

(1) "electricity" includes galvanism, magnetism, magneto-electricity and electro-magnetism;

(2) "telegraph", "message", "telegraph line", "post", "telegraph authority" and "local authority" have the meanings respectively assigned to those expressions in the Indian Telegraph Act, 1885; and

XIII of 1885.

(3) "purpose" includes any purpose except the transmission of a message or the use of electricity in medical treatment.

Prohibition of supply of electricity without license.

3. Save as provided in this Act, electricity shall not be supplied for a price by any person for any purpose without a license from the Governor-General in Council authorizing the person in that behalf.

Grant and contents of license.

4. (1) The Governor-General in Council may from time to time license any person to supply electricity for any purpose, and in any local area, specified in the license.

(2) The license may prescribe the duties of the licensee and provide for the revocation of the license on his failure to perform any of those duties, and generally may contain such regulations and conditions as the Governor-General in Council thinks expedient.

(3) By a license granted under this section the Governor-General in Council may, subject to such conditions as he thinks fit to impose, confer on the licensee, with respect to the placing of appliances and apparatus for the supply of electricity, any of the powers which the telegraph authority possesses under the Indian Telegraph Act, 1885, with respect to the placing of telegraph lines and posts for the purposes of a telegraph established or maintained by the Government or to be so established or maintained.

XIII of 1885.

(4) The Governor-General in Council may from time to time amend, add to or cancel any of the regulations and conditions contained in a license, and withdraw any of the powers conferred by a license or impose amended or additional conditions with respect to the exercise of those powers.

Supply of electricity by certain persons without license.

5. (1) Section 3 shall not apply to any person supplying electricity for any purpose in any local area at the time of the passing of this Act so far as regards the supply of electricity for that purpose within that area.

(2) If any question arises with respect to the purpose or the local area for or in which electricity was being supplied at that time, it shall be decided by an authority to be appointed by the Governor-General in Council in that behalf, and the decision of that authority on the question shall be final.

6. (1) Notwithstanding anything in the last foregoing section, the Governor-General in Council may, on the application of any person supplying electricity for any purpose in any local area at the time of the passing of this Act, grant to the person a license for that purpose in that area under the provisions of section 4.

Grant of licenses to those persons.

(2) Where a license is granted under sub-section (1), it shall supersede any engagement between the person to whom it is granted and any local authority with respect to the conditions on which electricity may be supplied by that person for the purpose, and in the local area, specified in the license.

7. If a person does either of the following things, namely,—

Penalty for supplying electricity without license or contravening license.

(a) being a person to whom section 3 is applicable, supplies electricity for a price without a license, or,

(b) having a license under this Act, commits or suffers to be committed a breach of any duty prescribed in the license or of any regulation or condition contained therein,

he shall be punished with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, and, in the case of a continuing offence, with a further fine which may extend to two hundred rupees for every day during which the electricity is supplied or the breach of the duty, regulation or condition continues.

8. (1) The Governor-General in Council may from time to time make such rules as he thinks expedient for protecting the public in person and property from injury by reason of contact with, or the proximity of, appliances or apparatus used in the supply of electricity, and for preventing telegraph lines from being injuriously affected by any of those appliances or apparatus.

Power to make rules.

(2) A rule under this section may apply to the appliances and apparatus of a person not having a license under this Act as well as to those of a person having a license thereunder.

(3) In making a rule under this section, the Governor-General in Council may direct that a breach of it shall be punishable with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees and, in the case of a continuing breach, with a further fine which may extend to two hundred rupees for every day during which the breach continues.

9. (1) The Governor-General in Council shall, before making rules under the last foregoing section, publish, in such manner as he deems sufficient, a draft of the proposed rules for the information of persons likely to be affected thereby.

Procedure for making rules.

(2) There shall be published with the draft a notice specifying a date at or after which the draft will be taken into consideration.

(3) The Governor-General in Council shall receive and consider any objection or suggestion which may be made by any person with respect to the draft before the date so specified.

(4) The publication in the Gazette of India of a rule purporting to be made under the last foregoing section shall be conclusive proof that it has been duly made.

(5) Rules under that section may from time to time be amended, added to or cancelled by the Governor-General in Council.

10. Nothing in this Act shall prevent any person from being prosecuted under any other law for any act or omission which constitutes an offence under section 7 or against a rule under section 8, or from being liable under that other law to any other or higher punishment or penalty than that provided by section 7 or a rule under section 8:

Saving of prosecutions under other laws.

Provided that a person shall not be punished twice for the same offence.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE primary object of this Bill is to empower the Governor-General in Council to make rules (a) for protecting the public in person and property from injury by reason of contact with, or the proximity of, appliances or apparatus used in the supply of electricity for lighting, and (b) for preventing telegraph-lines from being injuriously affected by any of those appliances or apparatus.

2. The danger to the public from electric light connections arises from the fact that currents of great strength are used in the production of the light, the currents being powerful enough to cause death to any person, or set fire to any inflammable material, coming in contact with the wires while the currents are passing, that is to say, while the lamps are being used. Protection may be afforded either by placing these wires or connections in such a position that contact with them is impossible, or by so covering them with insulating material that contact with them is innocuous.

Interference with telegraph and telephone signals is caused by obstructive currents being induced in the telegraph and telephone wires when the electric light wires pass within a certain distance of them. The remedy is to arrange that the electric light wires shall be placed sufficiently far off. It is impossible of course to determine what the safe distance is without knowing the strength of the current employed for the electric light, which again varies with the number of lamps in circuit, but the distance can be determined from time to time with reference to the maximum current to be used in any particular local area.

3. A company desiring to supply electricity in any local area for any purpose must, if the company was not supplying it in that area for that purpose at the time of the passing of the Act, obtain a license from the Governor-General in Council. By this license the Governor-General in Council may impose such regulations and conditions as he thinks expedient, and confer on the licensee, with respect to the placing of appliances and apparatus for the supply of electricity, any of the powers which the telegraph-authority possesses under the Indian Telegraph Act, 1885, with respect to the placing of telegraph lines and posts for the purposes of a telegraph established or maintained by the Government or to be so established or maintained.

Companies which were supplying electricity in any local area for any purpose at the time of the passing of the Act may elect to continue supplying it without a license, and therefore without the obligations which may be imposed, or the privileges which may be conferred, by a license.

The 21st October, 1886.

[Third publication.]

The following Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend the law relating to Civil Courts in Bengal, the North-Western Provinces and Assam was presented to the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 21st October, 1886 :—

Preliminary Report on the Bengal Civil Courts Bill, 1881.

THE Bill to amend the law relating to Civil Courts in Bengal, the North-Western Provinces and Assam was introduced into the Council of the Governor-General by the Hon'ble Mr. Stokes in 1881, was referred to a Select Committee and was circulated for opinion, but its further progress was suspended in consequence of a proposal to establish appellate benches in Bengal. That proposal having been abandoned for the present, the opinions on the Bill of 1881 have been examined, and most of the recommendations in them incorporated in the amended copy of the Bill which accompanies this Report.

The few recommendations which have not been adopted have reference to the relation of Courts of Small Causes to District Courts, and will be best considered in connection with the Provincial Small Cause Courts Bill, 1885. I propose therefore to move at the next meeting of Council that all members of the Select Committee appointed to consider and report on that Bill who are residents of, or are or have been officially connected with, Bengal, the North-Western Provinces or Assam be added to the Select Committee on the Courts Bill to which this Preliminary Report relates.

2. The following portions of the amended Bill seem to call for remark :—

(a) Section 5.—A sub-section has been added on the advice of the Government of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh for the purpose of removing any doubt there may be as to the competence of a Local Government to appoint a Judge of a Court of Small Causes to be a Subordinate Judge, or to appoint a District Judge or Subordinate Judge to discharge temporarily the functions of another District Judge or Subordinate Judge, as the case may be, in addition to the performance of his own duties.

(b) Section 7.—The powers vested in the High Courts at Fort William and Allahabad by the Statute 24 & 25 Vic., cap. 104, section 15, seem to render it unnecessary to provide in this and other sections of the Bill that a District Judge is in all matters connected with the administration of the Courts to act under the control of the High Court, the District Judge being already in those matters under the obligation of obeying any instructions which the High Court may be pleased to issue.

(c) Section 8.—It has been objected that the provision of the Act of 1871 which requires an Additional Judge or Subordinate Judge in charge of the office of a District Judge to discharge "such of the current duties thereof as are connected with the filing of suits and appeals, the issue of processes and the like functions," is too indefinite, and has in practice resulted in inconvenience and loss to parties. An attempt is made in sub-section (2) of section 8 of the revised Bill to define more particularly the powers which an Additional Judge or Subordinate Judge in charge of the office of a District Judge may exercise.

(d) Section 9.—Objection has been taken by the High Court for the North-Western Provinces to the words "on leave" in section 9 of the Act of 1871, and to the words in the same section which empower the District Judge to transfer cases only to his own Court or to the Court of a Subordinate Judge. The High Court points out that a Subordinate Judge may be absent from his district otherwise than on leave, as, for instance, on deputation to another district, and that, where, as occasionally happens, the Court of a Subordinate Judge is for any tract of country the Court of lowest jurisdiction, it may be convenient to transfer cases from his Court to that of a Munsif. The section has in these respects been amended, and two sub-sections (3) and (4) have been added, the former being supplementary to the amendment of sub-section (1), and the latter designed to remove a difficulty which has been felt in the North-Western Provinces.

(e) Section 10.—The expression of this section, which was inaccurate in the Act of 1871, has been amended in the manner proposed by Mr. Justice Prinsep.

(f) Section 11.—This section has been modified in accordance with the recommendations of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, the Chief Commissioner of Assam and Mr. Justice Prinsep.

(g) Section 16.—A sub-section has, on the suggestion of Mr. Justice Prinsep, been added to meet the case of officers in the territories referred to in section 11 who dispose of civil business while on tour at any place within the local limits of their jurisdiction.

(h) Section 17.—On the suggestion of Mr. Justice Field, a sub-section has been added to the effect that a judicial act shall not be invalid by reason only of its having been done on a holiday.

(i) Section 18.—This section has been so drawn as to remove difficulties experienced in Bengal, the North-Western Provinces and Assam in the working of the corresponding section of the Act of 1871.

(j) Section 21.—A sub-section has been added with reference to the cases at 13 B. L. R. 376; 10 B. L. R., App., 30; 19 W. R. 201; and 8 C. L. R. 6.

(k) Section 22.—Sub-section (2) of this section has been re-drawn with advertence to the cases at 18 W. R. (F. B.) 261; 18 W. R. 316; and 19 W. R. 131.

Sub-section (3) has been added on the suggestion of Mr. Justice Prinsep.

(l) Section 23.—The case at I. L. R. 7 All. 775 suggests an expansion of this section.

(m) Section 25.—Sub-section (1) will empower the District Judge to transfer appeals from orders of Munsifs, as well as from their decrees, to Subordinate Judges.

Sub-section (2) has, on the suggestion of Mr. Justice Prinsep, been so drawn as to enable the District Judge to transfer to any other competent Court under his control an appeal withdrawn from the Court of a Subordinate Judge.

Sub-section (3) is suggested by the cases at 16 W. R. 235 and 18 W. R. 292.

(n) Section 26.—This section has been amended in several particulars. It is proposed, on the suggestion of Mr. Justice Field, that the order of the High Court may be either general or special; on the suggestion of Mr. Justice Prinsep, that the High Court may authorise a Subordinate Judge or Munsif to take cognizance of the proceedings mentioned in the section; on the suggestion of the Government of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, that references by Collectors under section 322C of the Code of Civil Procedure should be added to the list of proceedings; and on the suggestion of the same Government and of Mr. Justice Field and Mr. Justice Maclean, that several of the proceedings specified in section 26 of the Bill of 1881 should be excluded therefrom.

(o) Section 27.—On the suggestion of Mr. Justice Prinsep, it is proposed that appeals from orders passed by Subordinate Judges in proceedings mentioned in section 26 shall, when appeals are permitted, lie to the High Court.

(p) Section 34.—With respect to section 35 of the Bill of 1881, Mr. C. J. Daniell, District Judge of Moradabad, recorded the following remarks :—

"I consider it essential to the efficiency of the ministerial officers of the subordinate Civil Courts in a judgeship that a stream of promotion should be maintained from the lowest to the highest grade of these officials throughout the judgeship. If this is secured, every hard-working man knows that there are several appointments to which he can aspire, the field for his promotion is widened, and he is more encouraged to do his work well than if he had only to look to the rare vacancies in a single munsifi for advancement. On the other hand, the Judge can promote any man from any one of several situations to any other that he may be qualified for in the whole judgeship, and a stimulus is provided to efficient and industrious work which is entirely absent if the Judge can promote no one but the officials of his own office, or if, in order to promote a deserving man in a munsifi, he is obliged to place him over the heads of other men in his own office, without being at the same time able to provide any of his own officials with a step on promotion in any of the munsifis subordinate to him.

"There can, I think, be no doubt that better men are obtainable and better work done in a wide than in a narrow field of work; but this section (35), as it stands, reduces the area over which a subordinate official's career extends within the most confined limits.

* * * * * * * * * * *

"In former times, when the subordinate Civil Courts were never inspected, something might be said in favour of allowing Munsifs to nominate and promote the officials of their own Courts; but in these days Munsifs are frequently changed, while Judges are seldom changed, and a judgeship is becoming more and more the unit of judicial administration. It is as well that this should be so, for such a condition is an incentive to a more careful supervision on the part of a Judge over his subordinates, and consequently to better work on the part of all below him. This incentive, however, will fail to act if the area of nomination and selection in a judgeship is confined to single munsifis instead of extending to all the Courts in the judgeship."

The Government of the North-Western Provinces expressed concurrence in Mr. Daniell's remarks, as the Government of Bengal did in similar remarks recorded by Mr. Justice Field.

(q) Section 35.—This section provides for the case of Civil Court amins and the joint process-serving establishments now maintained throughout Bengal and the North-Western Provinces under the superintendence of central nazirs and the control of the District Judge.

(r) Section 38.—The addition to this section was suggested by Mr. Justice Oldfield.

(s) Section 40.—This section seems to be required for the purposes of applications under section 108 of the Code of Civil Procedure and other proceedings not referred to in sections 623 and 649 of that Code.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Bengal Civil Courts Act, 1887.

(2) It extends to the territories for the time being respectively administered by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces and the Chief Commissioner of Assam, except such portions of those territories as for the time being are not subject to the ordinary civil jurisdiction of the High Courts and except the Jhánsí Division; and

(3) It shall come into force on the first day of April, 1887.

(4) Except this section and sections 17, 23, 28, 40 and 41, nothing in this Act applies to Courts of Small Causes established under the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, 1887.

VI of 1871. Repeal.

2. (1) The Bengal Civil Courts Act, 1871, and Act No. XIX of 1877 (to enable certain District Judges to suspend and remove certain ministerial officers, and for other purposes), section 1, are hereby repealed:

(2) But all appointments, nominations, rules and orders made, jurisdiction and powers conferred, and lists published under the Bengal Civil Courts Act, 1871, or any enactment thereby repealed, shall be deemed to be respectively made, conferred and published under this Act; and

(3) Any enactment or document referring to the Bengal Civil Courts Act, 1871, or to any enactment thereby repealed, shall be construed to refer to this Act or to the corresponding portion thereof.

CHAPTER II.

CONSTITUTION OF CIVIL COURTS.

[Act VI of 1871, ss. 3 & 4.] Number of District Judges and Subordinate Judges.

3. The Local Government may reduce, and, with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, increase, the number of District Judges and Subordinate Judges now fixed.

[Act VI of 1871, s. 4.] Number of Munsifs.

4. The Local Government may, subject to the control of the Governor-General in Council, alter the number of Munsifs now fixed:

Provided that, except in the case of Munsifs of a grade the salary of which does not exceed two hundred and fifty rupees per mensem, an increase of the number of Munsifs now fixed shall not be made by the Local Government without the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council.

[Act VI of 1871, s. 5.] Vacancies in District or Subordinate Judgeships.

5. (1) Whenever the office of District Judge or Subordinate Judge is vacant by reason of the death, resignation or removal of the Judge or other cause, or whenever the Governor General in Council has sanctioned an increase of the number of District Judges or Subordinate Judges, the Local Government shall fill up the vacancy or appoint the additional District Judges or Subordinate Judges, as the case may be.

(2) Nothing in this section shall be construed to prevent a Local Government from appointing any Judge of a Court of Small Causes to be also a Subordinate Judge, or from appointing a District Judge or Subordinate Judge to discharge, for such period as it thinks fit, in addition to the functions devolving on him as such District Judge or Subordinate Judge, all or any of the functions of another District Judge or Subordinate Judge, as the case may be.

[Act VI of 1871, s. 6.] Vacancies in Munsifships.

(2) Additional Judges so appointed shall discharge any of the functions of a District Judge which the District Judge may assign to them, and, in the discharge of those functions, they shall exercise the same powers and be subject to the same control as the District Judge.

(2) The list shall be published in the local official Gazette.

(3) A judicial act done by a Civil Court on a day specified in the list shall not be invalid by reason only of its having been done on that day.

CHAPTER III.

ORDINARY JURISDICTION.

[Act VI of 1871, s. 18. Power to fix local limits of jurisdiction.

18. (1) The Local Government shall fix, and may vary, the local limits of the jurisdiction of any Court under this Act.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE [illegible]

[First Publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 17th December, 1886:—

NO. 27 OF 1886.

A Bill to amend the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1882.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1882; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Amendment of section 4.

1. In the definition of "Officer in charge of a Police-station" in section 4, clause (o), of the said Code there shall be substituted for the word "therefrom" the words "from the station-house", and for the words "present at the Police-station" the words "present at the station-house".

Amendment of section 312.

2. In section 312 of the said Code the word "four" shall be substituted for the word "two".

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The primary object of this Bill is to amend section 312 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1882, the Hon'ble the Chief Justice and Judges of the High Court at Fort William having represented that, as the law at present stands, owing to the numerous absences from Calcutta of gentlemen whose names are on the special jury list, and to the necessity of excusing special jurors from attendance on sufficient grounds, it is found necessary to summon the same gentlemen very frequently, to their manifest inconvenience and to serious interference with their business avocations.

2. A Bill to amend the Code having thus become necessary, the opportunity has been taken to cure a defect which has been noticed by the Government of Bombay in the definition of the expression "Officer in charge of a Police-station."

ANDREW R. SCOBLE.

The 17th December, 1886.

S. HARVEY JAMES,
Offg. Secretary to the Government of India.
