Appearances, Applications and Acts by Parties.

12. (1) The Court may in its discretion, for any sufficient reason, permit any appearance, application or act, required to be made or done by a party under this Law, to be made or done by the party through an authorized agent, or through a legal practitioner having authority from the Agent to the Governor General to plead and act for parties with the permission of the Court under this sub-section.

17. If upon the examination it appears that there is no substantial cause of action, or that the claim is one which from its nature is not a proper subject of litigation in a Civil Court, the Court may dismiss the suit.

(2) When a suit is dismissed under sub-section (1), the plaintiff may bring a fresh suit, or, if within a period of thirty days from the date of the dismissal of the suit he satisfies the Court that there was sufficient cause for his failure to appear, the Court may issue a fresh summons upon the plaint already filed.

31. (1) If the plaintiff appears and the defendant does not appear, and it is proved to the satisfaction of the Court that the summons was duly served, the Court shall proceed to hear the suit ex parte.

32. (1) If the plaintiff appears and the defendant does not appear, and it is not proved to the satisfaction of the Court that the summons was duly served in any of the modes of service provided by this Law, the Court may direct a second summons to the defendant to be issued in any of those modes.

Procedure on non-appearance of defendant when summons was not duly served or not served in due time.

(2) If the plaintiff appears, and it is proved to the satisfaction of the Court that the summons was served on the defendant, but was served on him too late to admit of his appearing and answering at the time fixed in the summons, the Court shall postpone the hearing of the suit to a future time to be fixed by the Court and may direct notice of that time to be given to the defendant.

33. (1) If the defendant appears and the plaintiff does not appear, the Court shall pass judgment against the plaintiff by default, unless the defendant admits the claim, in which case the Court shall pass judgment against the defendant upon the admission.

"If the requisition relates to a person already convicted, it must be accompanied by the sentence of condemnation passed against the convicted person by the competent Court of the State that makes the requisition for extradition.

"A sentence passed in contumaciam is not to be deemed a conviction, but a person so sentenced may be dealt with as an accused person.

"La demanda para la extradición se hare por medio de los Agentes Diplomáticos dá las Altas Partes Contratantes respectivamente.

"La demanda para la extradición de un acusado debe ir accompañada de la orden de arresto expedida pour la autoridad competente del Estado que exija la extradición, y de aquellas pruebas que, conforme á las leyes del lugar donde se encuentre el acusado, hubieran de justificar su aprehensión si el delito hubiese sido cometido allí.

"Si la demanda se refiere á un reo rematado, debe ir acompañada del fallo condenatorio dictado contra la persona convicta por el tribunal competente del Estado que hace la demanda de extradición.

"La sentencia dictada in contumaciam no le considerará como fallo condenatorio: pero as persona sentenciada de esta manera pueda tratarse como cualquier individuo acusado.

"ARTICLE X.

"A fugitive criminal may be apprehended under a warrant issued by any Police Magistrate, Justice of the Peace, or other competent authority in either country, on such information or complaint, and such evidence, or after such proceedings as would, in the opinion of the authority issuing the warrant, justify the issue of a warrant if the crime had been committed, or the person convicted, in that part of the dominions of the two Contracting Parties in which the Magistrate, Justice of the Peace, or other competent authority exercises jurisdiction; provided, however, that in the United Kingdom the accused shall, in such case, be sent as speedily as possible before a Police Magistrate in London. He shall, in accordance with this Article, be discharged, as well in Colombia as in the United Kingdom, if, within the term of thirty days a requisition for extradition shall not have been made by the Diplomatic Agent of his country, in accordance with the stipulations of this Treaty.

"The same rule shall apply to the cases of persons accused or convicted of any of the crimes or offences specified in this Treaty, and committed on the high seas on board any vessel of either country which may come into a port of the other.

"ARTICULO X.

"Un criminal fugitivo puede ser aprehendido por orden expedida por cualquier magistrado de policia, juez de paz, ú otra autoridad competente en ambos paises, por informes ó quejas, y por pruebas, ó después de procedimientos que, en opinión de la autoridad que dió la orden, justificarían la expedición de ésta, si el delito hubiese sido cometido ó el criminal condenado en aquella parte del territorio de los dos paises contratantes en la cual el magistrado, el juez, ú otra autoridad competente ejerzan jurisdicción; con tal, sin embargo, que en ese caso, en el Reino Unido el accusado sea enviado con la brevedad posible á un magistrado de policia en Londres. De acuerdo con este Articulo, el acusado será puesto en libertad, tanto en Colombia como en el Reino Unido, si en el término de treinta dias no se solicitare su extradición por el Agente Diplomático de su pais conforme á las estipulaciones de este Tratado.

"La misma regla se aplicará en los casos de personas acusadas ó convictas de los delitos especificados en este Tratado, y cometidos en alta mar, á bordo de algún buque de cualquiera de los dos Estados que llegue á un puerto del otro.

"ARTICLE XI.

"The extradition shall take place only if the evidence be found sufficient according to the laws of the State applied to, either to justify the committal of the prisoner for trial, in case the crime had been committed in the territory of the same State, or to prove that the prisoner is the identical person convicted by the Courts of the State which makes the requisition, and that the crime of which he has been convicted is one in respect of which extradition could, at the time of such conviction, have been granted by the State applied to; and no criminal shall be surrendered until after the expiration of fifteen days from the date of his committal to prison to await the warrant for his surrender.

"ARTICULO XI.

"La extradición solo tendrá lugar si las pruebas fueren suficientes conforme á las leyes del Estado de quien se solicita, bien sea para justificar el sometimiento del procesado á juicio, caso que el delito haya sido cometido en el territorio del mismo Estado, ó bien para probar que el reo es la misma persona sentenciada por los Tribunales del Estado que hace la demanda, y que el delito de que ha sido convicta es de aquellos respecto de los cuales podria haber sido concedida la extradición al tiempo de la sentencia, por el Estado de quién se solicita. Ningun criminal será entregado antes de haber trascurrido quince dias desde la fecha en que fué reducido á prisión en espera de la orden de entrega.

"ARTICLE XII.

"In the examinations which they have to make in accordance with the foregoing stipulations, the authorities of the State applied to shall admit as valid evidence the sworn depositions or statements of witnesses taken in the other State, or copies thereof, and likewise the warrants and sentences issued therein, and certificates of, or judicial documents stating, the fact of a conviction, provided the same are authenticated as follows:—

"1. A warrant must purport to be signed by a Judge, Magistrate, or officer of the other State.

"ARTICULO XII.

"En la investigación que hayan de hacer, conforme á las anteriores estipulaciones, las autoridades del Estado demandado admitirán como pruebas las declaraciones juradas ó las deposiciones de testigos tomadas en el otro Estado, ó sus copias, así como también los autos y sentencias producidos allí, y los certificados que acrediten el hecho de la condenación, ó los documentos judiciales que la establezcan, con tal de que tales piezas se hallen autenticadas como sigue:—

"1. Toda orden debe llever la firma de un Juez, Magistrado, ó agente público del otro Estado.

"2. Depositions or affirmations, or the copies thereof, must purport to be certified under the hand of a Judge, Magistrate, or officer of the other State, to be the original depositions or affirmations, or to be true copies thereof, as the case may require.

"3. A certificate of, or judicial document stating, the fact of a conviction must purport to be certified by a Judge, Magistrate, or officer of the other State.

"4. In every case, such warrant, deposition, affirmation, copy, certificate, or judicial document must be authenticated either by the oath of some witness, or by being sealed with the official seal of the Minister of Justice, or some other Minister of the other State; but any other mode of authentication for the time being permitted by law where the examination is taken may be substituted for the foregoing.

"2. Las declaraciones ó atestaciones ó sus copias deben ser certificadas de puño y letra del luez, Magistrado ó agente público del otro Estado, con expresión de que son declaraciones originales, ó sus copias fieles según el caso.

"3. Todo certificado de condenacion, ó todo documento judicial en que conste el fallo condenatorio, debe ser certificado por un Juez, Magistrado, ó agente público del otro Estado.

"4. En cada caso, la orden, declaración atestación, copia, certificado, ó documento judicial, debe ser autenticado, ora por el juramento de algun testigo, ora por el sello oficial del Ministro de Justicia ó de algún otro Ministro del otro Estado; pero cualquiera otro modo de autenticación permitido por las leyes vigentes al tiempo de la investigación puede sustituirse por el anterior.

"ARTICLE XIII.

"If the individual claimed by one of the two High Contracting Parties in pursuance of the present Treaty should be also claimed by one or several other Powers, on account of other crimes or offences committed upon their respective territories, his extradition shall be granted to that State whose demand is earliest in date.

"ARTICULO XIII.

"Si el individuo reclamado por una de las dos Altas Partes Contratantes conforme al presente Tratado fuere asimismo reclamado por otro ú otros Gobiernos, con motivo de otros delitos cometidos en sus respectivos territorios, la extradición se concederá al que primero haya hecho la demanda.

"ARTICLE XIV.

"If sufficient evidence for the extradition be not produced within two months from the date of the apprehension of the fugitive, or within such further time as the State applied to, or the proper Tribunal thereof, shall direct, the fugitive shall be set at liberty.

"ARTICULO XIV.

"Si dentro de dos meses contados desde la fecha de la aprehensión del prófugo no se hubieren producido pruebas suficientes, ó dentro de la prórroga que ordene el Estado de quien se solicita la extradición ó el Tribunal competente de él, entónces el detenido será puesto en libertad.

"ARTICLE XV.

PART II.—GENERAL LAW.

5. All Her Majesty's jurisdiction exerciseable in Siam for the judicial hearing and determination of matters in difference between British subjects, or between foreigners and British subjects, or for the administration or control of the property or persons of British subjects, or for the repression or punishment of crimes committed by British subjects, or for the maintenance of order among British subjects, shall be exercised under and according to the provisions of this Order, and not otherwise.

6.—(1.) Subject to the other provisions of this Order, the civil and criminal jurisdiction aforesaid shall, so far as circumstances admit, be exercised upon the principles of and in conformity with the substance of the law for the time being in force in and for England, and with the powers vested in and according to the course of procedure and practice observed by and before Courts of Justice and Justices of the Peace in England, according to their respective jurisdictions and authorities.

(2.) Except as to offences made or declared such by this Order, or by any regulation or rule made under it, any act other than an act that would by a Court of Justice having criminal jurisdiction in England be deemed a crime making the person doing such act liable to punishment in England shall not, in the exercise of criminal jurisdiction under this Order, be deemed a crime making the person doing such act liable to punishment.

7. Crimes, wrongs, and breaches of contract against or affecting the person, property, or rights of natives of Siam or other foreigners as herein defined, committed by persons subject to this Order, are punishable or otherwise cognizable under the provisions of this Order, with the consent of such natives or foreigners, in the same manner as if they were committed against or affected the person, property, or rights of British subjects.

PART III.—CONSTITUTION OF COURTS.

8. A District Court shall be held in Bangkok, and other District Courts shall be held at such other places as may from time to time be appointed under this Order.

A District Court is held by a Consular officer, and may be styled the Consular Court at Bangkok or elsewhere as the case may be.

9. It shall be lawful for the Consul-General from time to time, by order in writing, with the previous or subsequent authority or approval of the Secretary of State, to appoint places at which District Courts shall be held, and to assign the district in and for which each such Court shall act, and to designate the Consular officer who is to hold each such Court, and to determine the description and number of the officers to be attached to any such Court, and the mode of their appointment and removal, and their duties and remuneration, and any matters incident to any of the above-mentioned purposes.

A printed copy of any such order purporting to bear the seal of the Consul-General or of a District Court shall in all causes and matters be admitted as evidence of the contents and due making and publication thereof.

Each District Court shall have such seal as may be prescribed by any such order as aforesaid.

10. The Consul General shall have, in all matters, civil and criminal, an extraordinary original jurisdiction throughout Siam concurrent with the jurisdiction of the several District Courts, such extraordinary jurisdiction to be exercised by him as a District Court subject and according to the provisions of this Order, and subject to appeal to the Supreme Court in the same manner as from an ordinary District Court.

The Consul-General shall also have jurisdiction to try in Siam crimes which cannot under this Order be tried by a District Court, and for that purpose shall have the power of the Supreme Court.

The Consul-General may, from time to time, visit in a magisterial or judicial capacity any District Court, and there inquire of, or hear and determine, any case, civil or criminal, pending in that Court, or arising within its district.

A District Court may, of its own motion, or on the application of any person concerned, report to the Consul-General the pendency of any case, civil or criminal, which appears to the District Court fit to be heard and determined by the Consul-General.

The Consul-General shall thereupon direct in what mode and where the case shall be heard and determined, and (notwithstanding anything in this Order) the same shall be so heard and determined accordingly.

11.—(1.) The Supreme Court shall have appellate jurisdiction under this Order.

The appellate jurisdiction of the Supreme Court shall be exercised by the full Supreme Court sitting in the Straits Settlements in such manner and according to such procedure as, subject to the provisions of this Order and of any Rules made under this Order, the Supreme Court from time to time determines.

Judgments or orders of the Supreme Court in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction shall be certified by the Supreme Court to the District Court in Siam from which the appeal is brought, or, when the appeal is from the judgment or order of a Judge of the Supreme Court acting in Siam or in the Straits Settlements, then to such District Court in Siam as the Supreme Court thinks fit, and (subject to any appeal to Her Majesty in Council) that District Court may and shall execute and give effect to the same in like manner as to its own judgments or orders.

(2.) The Supreme Court, on petition presented to it in accordance with any rules to be made under this Order, or in such manner as the Supreme Court directs, and alleging that any order of a District Court or of the Consul-General has the effect of a refusal of justice to any suitor or complainant, may, after such inquiry (if any) as it thinks fit to direct, issue an order directing the proper Court to take cognizance of the matter and may, if satisfied that such order has not been properly complied with, entertain and determine the matter of the suit or complaint, and shall certify its determination to the proper Court, which shall give effect thereto.

(3.) Except as provided by this Order the Supreme Court shall not exercise any control over a District Court or the Consul-General, whether by way of mandamus, prohibition, certiorari, writ of habeas corpus, or otherwise.

12. The Supreme Court shall, for the purposes of this Order, have original jurisdiction as follows:—

(1.) When, under this Order, a person accused of crime is sent for trial to the Straits Settlements the Supreme Court shall have the like jurisdiction, and may proceed in the same manner as if the crime had been committed in the Straits Settlements, except that the criminality of the act charged and the punishment to be inflicted must be determined according to the law applicable under this Order in Siam.

(2.) On the request of the Consul-General, made with the consent of the Government of the King of Siam, the Supreme Court may exercise in Siam in relation to any civil or criminal matter any original jurisdiction which can be exercised by the Consul-General, and all the provisions of this Order shall apply accordingly (mutatis mutandis), and any appeal shall be to the full Supreme Court.

(3.) On the like request made with the like consent, the Supreme Court may hear and determine at Bangkok, or elsewhere in Siam, any criminal case which could under this Order be sent for trial to the Straits Settlements, and for that purpose shall have the like jurisdiction and may proceed in the same manner as nearly as may be as if it were trying the same case in the Straits Settlements, or as if it were the Consul-General trying in Siam a criminal case within the jurisdiction of a District Court.

(4.) The Supreme Court may hear and determine within the Straits Settlements any civil case arising in Siam, with the consent of the parties and of the Consul-General, and for that purpose may adopt any procedure proper either in the Straits Settlements or in Siam. In such case any appeal shall be to the full Supreme Court.

(5.) For the purposes of the exercise of original jurisdiction under this Article, such Judge or Judges of the Supreme Court as the Chief Justice of the Straits Settlements from time to time nominates shall exercise the powers of the Supreme Court.

(6.) Every District Court in Siam may and shall, according to its powers, execute, enforce, and give effect to any judgment or order of the Supreme Court in the exercise of its original jurisdiction, and may and shall, for the purposes of anything to be done preliminary to a sitting of the Supreme Court—as, for instance, the summoning of a jury, or of Assessors, or of witnesses—exercise (mutatis mutandis) all the powers which such District Court has for any purpose under this Order in a case or matter pending before itself.

PART IV.—GENERAL POWERS OF COURTS AND GENERAL PROCEDURE.

13.—(1.) All Her Majesty's jurisdiction, civil and criminal, exercisable in Siam, shall, except as otherwise provided by this Order, be exercisable by the District Courts each for and within its own district.

(2.) Every District Court in Siam and the Supreme Court shall be auxiliary each to the other in all particulars relative to the administration of justice, civil or criminal, under this Order.

(3.) Every Court shall, in the exercise of every part of its respective jurisdiction under this Order, be a Court of Record, and a Court of Law and of Equity.

(4.) In any matter, civil or criminal, a District Court within whose district (in civil matters) the matter of complaint wholly or in part arose or happened, or the subject in dispute is wholly or partly situate, or the contract in question was wholly or partly made, or the breach thereof wholly or partly occurred, or the defendant resides or carries on business, or (in criminal matters) the crime was wholly or partly committed, or the accused person happens to be, shall have jurisdiction, and may deal with the case, as if every material fact or thing had happened or was situate within its district; but any such Court, if, in its opinion, justice or convenience so requires, may decline or suspend the exercise of jurisdiction, and may, if it thinks necessary or just, require security from the defendant or accused person for his appearance before some other Court having jurisdiction in the matter, and for obedience to any judgment or order of such other Court, and further, in a criminal case, if necessary, may arrest and commit the accused person, and cause him to be removed under warrant and in custody, to be dealt with by such other Court.

(5.) Every Court acting under this Order, shall have power to rehear any civil matter, and to review its judgments or orders in any civil case in which, in the opinion of the Court, justice so requires, on such terms as to costs and otherwise as the Court thinks just.

14. In every case, civil or criminal, heard in a District Court, proper minutes of the proceedings shall be drawn up, and shall be signed by the Judge or officer before whom the proceedings are taken, and sealed with the seal of the Court, and shall, where Assessors are present, be open for their inspection and for their signature if concurred in by them.

The minutes, with depositions of witnesses and notes of evidence taken at the trial by the Judge or officer, shall be preserved in the public office of the Court.

15. Each District Court shall, every six months, furnish to the Consul-General a report respecting every case, civil and criminal, brought before it, in such form as the Consul-General from time to time directs.

16. Any Registrar of a Court, or person acting as Registrar, and any other officer of the Court designated in this behalf by the Consul-General, may administer oaths, and take affidavits, declarations, and affirmations.

The Judge of any Court shall be, and act as, the Registrar of the Court, if there is no other person appointed to be Registrar there.

17.—(1.) In a civil case, any Court may order such costs, charges, and expenses as to the Court seem reasonable, to be paid by any party to the proceedings, or out of any fund to which the proceeding relates.

(2.) All costs, and all charges and expenses of witnesses, prosecutions, punishments, and deportations, and other charges and expenses, and all fees, fines, forfeitures, and pecuniary penalties payable under this Order, and all judgments, may be levied or enforced by distress and seizure and sale of ships, goods, and lands, and in default of sufficient distress by imprisonment; and no bill of sale, or mortgage, or transfer of property made with a view to security in regard to crimes committed, or to be committed, shall be of any avail to defeat any provision of this Order.

(3.) Imprisonment in default of distress shall not, except as may be provided by rules of procedure made under this Order, operate as a discharge or satisfaction.

(4.) Where money ordered by the Court to be paid is due for seamen's wages, or is other money recoverable under the Merchant Shipping Acts or other law relating to ships, and the person ordered to pay has not paid as ordered, the Court, in addition to other powers for compelling payment, shall have power to direct that the amount unpaid be levied by seizure and sale of the ship.

18.—(1.) The Consul-General shall have all the powers and authorities of the Sheriff of a county in England, with all the privileges and immunities of the office, and as such Sheriff shall be charged with the execution of all decrees, orders, and sentences made and passed by a Court, on the requisition in that behalf of the Court. He shall not be liable to any action or proceeding for anything done or purporting to be done or anything omitted by him as such Sheriff.

(2.) A District Court shall execute any writ, order, or warrant directed by a Consul-General to a District Court; and may take security from any person named therein for his appearance personally or by attorney, according to the writ, order, or warrant; or may cause such person to be taken, in custody or otherwise, to a Court, or elsewhere in Siam, according to the writ, order, or warrant.

19. A District Court may promote reconciliation and encourage and facilitate the settlement in an amicable way of any suit or proceeding pending before it.

A District Court may, with the consent of the parties, refer to arbitration the final determination of any suit or proceeding pending before it, or of all or any matters in difference between the parties, on such terms, and with such directions, as to appointment of an Arbitrator and other things, as may seem fit, and may, if it thinks fit, take from the parties or any of them, security to abide by the result of the reference.

In any such case the award shall be final and conclusive.

On the application of any party a decree of the Court may be entered in conformity with the award, and such decree shall not be open to any appeal or rehearing whatever, except on the ground that it is not in conformity with the award.

Every agreement for reference to arbitration or submission to arbitration by consent may, on the application of any party, be made a rule of a Court having jurisdiction in the matter of the reference or submission, which Court shall thereupon have power and authority to enforce the agreement or submission and the award made thereunder, and to control and regulate the proceedings before and after the award in such manner, and on such terms, as may be just.

20. No proceeding under this Order shall be invalidated by any informality, mistake, or omission, so long as, in the opinion of the Court before which any question arises, the essential requisites of law and justice have been complied with, or may be met by amendment.

PART V.—SPECIAL POWERS (BANKRUPTCY, PROBATE, &C.)

21. A District Court shall be a Court of Bankruptcy, and as such shall, as far as circumstances admit, have for and within its own district, with respect to British subjects and to their debtors and creditors, being either British subjects or foreigners submitting to the jurisdiction of the Court, all such jurisdiction as for the time being belongs to any judicial authority having for the time being jurisdiction in bankruptcy in England.

22. A District Court shall have, and may exercise, for and within its own district, with respect to British subjects, all the powers, rights, and duties appertaining to the office of Coroner in England, but it shall not be necessary to summon a jury in holding any inquest.

23. The District Court at Bangkok shall be a Vice-Admiralty Court, and as such shall, for and within Siam, and for vessels and persons coming to and within Siam, have all such jurisdiction as for the time being ordinarily belongs to Vice-Admiralty Courts in Her Majesty's possessions abroad.

The said Court shall have all powers and jurisdiction which can be exercised by Justices or a Vice-Admiralty Court under or for the purposes of the Acts relating to merchant shipping or the Passenger Acts, or relating to quarantine.

24. The District Court at Bangkok shall, so far as circumstances admit, have for and within Siam, with respect to British subjects, all such jurisdiction relative to the custody and management of the persons and estates of persons of unsound mind as for the time being belongs to the Lord Chancellor or other person or persons in England intrusted with the care and commitment of the custody of the persons and estates of persons found, by inquisition in England, idiot, lunatic, or of unsound mind.

25.—(1.) The District Court at Bangkok shall be a Court of Probate, and as such shall, as far as circumstances admit, have for and within Siam, with respect to the property of British subjects having at the time of death their fixed places of abode in Siam, all such jurisdiction as for the time being belongs to the Probate Division of Her Majesty's High Court of Justice in England.

(2.) Every District Court shall also have power to grant probate or administration where there is no contention respecting the right to the grant, and it is proved on oath that the deceased had at the time of his death his fixed place of abode within the jurisdiction of the District Court.

26. Probate or administration granted by a Court shall have effect over all the property of the deceased within Siam, and shall effectually discharge persons dealing with an executor or administrator thereunder, and that notwithstanding any defect afterwards appears in the grant.

Such a grant shall not be impeachable by reason only that the deceased had not at the time of his death his fixed place of abode within the particular jurisdiction.

27. Any person having in his possession or under his control any paper or writing of a deceased British subject, being or purporting to be testamentary, shall forthwith deliver the original to the District Court within the district whereof such person is at the time of his first knowledge of the death of the deceased and deposit it there.

Any person neglecting to do so for fourteen days after having knowledge of the death of the deceased shall be liable to such penalty, not exceeding fifty pounds, as the Court thinks fit to impose.

28. From the death of a British subject, having at the time of death his fixed place of abode in Siam, intestate, until administration granted, his personal property in Siam shall be vested in the Consul-General.

29. If any person, other than one of Her Majesty's Consular officers, takes possession of or in any manner administers any part of the personal property of any person deceased without obtaining probate or administration within three months after the death of the deceased, or within one month after the termination of any suit or dispute respecting probate or administration (if there is any such which is not ended within two months after the death of the deceased), he shall be liable to such penalty, not exceeding one hundred pounds, as the Court having jurisdiction in the matter of the property of the deceased thinks fit to impose; and in every such case the same fees shall be payable by the person so administering as would have been payable by him if he had obtained probate or administration.

30. Where a British subject, not having at the time of death his fixed place of abode in Siam, dies there, the District Court within whose district he dies shall, where the circumstances of the case appear to the Court so to require, forthwith on the death of the deceased, or as soon after as may be, take possession of his personal property within the particular jurisdiction, or put it under the seal of the Court (in either case, if the nature of the property or other circumstances so require, making an inventory), and so keep the property until it can be dealt with according to law.

31.—(1.) In a case of apparent intestacy, where the circumstances of the case appear to the Court so to require, for reasons recorded in the minutes, the Court having probate jurisdiction may, if it thinks fit, of its own motion, or otherwise, grant administration to an officer of the Court.

(2.) Any officer so appointed shall act under the direction of the Court, and shall be indemnified thereby.

(3.) A commission of 2½ per cent. may be charged on an estate administered under this Article.

(4.) All expenses incurred on behalf of the Court in the execution of this Article, and the said commission, shall be the first charge on the personal property of the deceased in Siam; and the Court shall, by sale of part of that property or otherwise, provide for the discharge of those expenses and the payment of the said commission.

32. Where it appears to the Court having probate jurisdiction that the value of the property or estate of a deceased person does not exceed one hundred pounds, the Court may, without any probate or letters of administration, or other formal proceeding, pay thereout any debts or charges, and pay, remit, or deliver any surplus to such persons in such manner as a Secretary of State from time to time directs, and shall not be liable to any action, suit, or proceedings in respect of anything done or purporting to be done under this Article.

PART VI.—CRIMINAL LAW AND PROCEDURE.

33. The crimes punishable under this Order are:—

(1.) Any acts or omissions which are for the time being punishable in England, on indictment, by death, penal servitude, or imprisonment, as treasons, felonies, or misdemeanours.

(2.) Acts or omissions by this Order, or by any regulations made by virtue of this Order declared to be punishable as offences against this Order.

In case an act or omission is punishable both as a crime under the law in force in England and as an offence against this Order, the accused person may be tried and punished for such act or omission either as a crime, as aforesaid, or as an offence against this Order, but he shall not be liable to be tried or punished in both ways.

34. Any British subject being in Siam may be proceeded against, tried, and punished under this Order for the crime of piracy wherever committed.

If the Court before which a British subject charged with the crime of piracy is brought is a District Court, the Court shall report to the Consul-General the pendency of the case.

The Consul-General shall thereupon direct in what mode and where the case shall be heard and determined, and (notwithstanding anything in this Order) the case shall be so heard and determined accordingly.

35.—(1.) If any British subject does any of the following things without Her Majesty's authority, that is to say:—

Levies war, or takes any part in any operation of war against, or aids or abets any person in carrying on war, insurrection, or rebellion against the Kings of Siam,

Every person so offending shall be deemed guilty of an offence against this Order, and on conviction thereof shall be liable (in the discretion of the Court before which he is convicted) to be punished by imprisonment for any term not exceeding one year, with or without hard labour, and with or without a fine not exceeding one thousand pounds, or by a fine not exceeding one thousand pounds, without imprisonment.

In addition to such punishments, every such conviction shall of itself, and without further proceedings, make the person convicted liable to deportation; and the Court before which he is convicted may order that he be deported from Siam to such place as the Court directs.

(2.) If any British subject, without the authority of Her Majesty (proof whereof shall lie on the party accused), takes part in any operation of war in the service of the Kings of Siam against any persns enogaged in carrying on war, insurrection, or rebellion against the Kings of Siam, he shall be deemed guilty of an offence against this Order, and on conviction thereof shall be liable (in the discretion of the Court before which he is convicted) to be punished by imprisonment for any term not exceeding one year, with or without had labour, and with or without a fine not exceeding one thousand pounds, or by a fine not exceeding one thousand pounds, without imprisonment.

(3.) If the Court before which any person charged with having committed such a misdemeanour as in this Article mentioned is brought is a District Court, the Court shall report to the Consul-General the pendency of the case.

The Consul-General shall thereupon direct in what mode and where the case shall be heard and determined, and (notwithstanding anything in this Order) the case shall be so heard and determined accordingly.

36. If any British subject is guilty of publicly deriding, mocking, or insulting any religion established or observed in Siam, or of publicly offering any insult to any religious service, feast, or ceremony established or kept in any part of Siam, or to any place of worship, tomb, or sanctuary belonging to any such religion, or to the ministers or professors thereof, or of wilfully committing any act tending to bring any such religion, or its ceremonies, mode of worship, or observances into hatred, ridicule, or contempt, and thereby to provoke a breach of the public peace, he shall be deemed guilty of an offence against this Order, and shall be liable (in the discretion of the Court before which he is convicted) to imprisonment for any term not exceeding six months, with or without hard labour, and with or without a fine not exceeding one hundred pounds, or to a fine not exceeding one hundred pounds, without imprisonment.

Notwithstanding anything in this Order, every charge against a British subject of having committed any such offence shall be heard and determined in a summary way, and any District Court shall have power to impose the punishment aforesaid.

Her Majesty's Consular officers shall take such precautionary measures as seem to them proper and expedient for the prevention of such offences.

37. If any person subject to the criminal jurisdiction of any Court exercising jurisdiction in Siam under this Order does any of the following things, namely:—

(i.) Wilfully by act or threat obstructs any officer of or person executing any process of the Court in the performance of his duty; or

(ii.) Within or close to the room or place where the Court is sitting, wilfully misbehaves in a violent, threatening, or disrespectful manner to the disturbance of the Court, or to the intimidation of suitors or others resorting thereto; or

(iii.) Wilfully insults any member of the Court, or any juror or Assessor, or any person acting as a clerk or officer of the Court during his sitting or attendance in Court, or in his going to or returning from Court; or

(iv.) Does any act in relation to the Court, or a Judge thereof, or a matter pending therein, which, if done in relation to a Superior Court in England, would be punishable as a contempt of such Court, or as a libel on such Court, or the Judges thereof, or the administration of justice therein;

Such person shall be liable to be apprehended by order of the Court, with or without warrant, and on inquiry and consideration, and after the hearing of any defence which such person may offer, without further process or trial, to be punished with a fine not exceeding ten pounds, or with imprisonment not exceeding twenty-four hours.

A minute shall be made and kept of every such case of punishment, recording the facts of the offence and the extent of the punishment, and a copy of the minute shall be forthwith sent to the Consul-General in the case of punishment so inflicted by a District Court, or to the Secretary of State in the case of punishment so inflicted by the Consul-General.

Provided that, if the Court thinks fit, instead of proceeding under the preceding provisions, it may direct or cause the offender to be tried in a separate criminal prosecution or proceeding, in which the offender shall be liable to be tried and punished for his offence as an offence against this Order.

Nothing herein shall interfere with the power of the Court to remove or exclude persons who interrupt or obstruct the proceedings of the Court.

38. If any person in Siam does any act or makes any publication of such kind, and under such circumstances, that, in the opinion of the Consul-General, grave danger to public order is thereby occasioned, the Consul-General shall have the same powers as under this Order a District Court has in relation to apprehended breaches of the peace.

39. If any clerk or officer of any Court acting under this Order in Siam, acting under pretence of the process or authority of the Court, is charged with extortion, or with not duly paying any money levied, or with other misconduct, the Court may (without prejudice to any other liability or punishment to which the clerk or officer would in the absence of the present provision be liable) inquire into the charge in a summary way, and for that purpose summon and enforce the attendance of all necessary persons, in like manner as the attendance of witnesses and others may be enforced in a suit, and may make such order thereupon for the repayment of any money extorted, or for the due payment of any money levied, and for the payment of such damages and costs as the Court thinks just, and the Court may also, if it thinks fit, impose such fine upon the clerk or officer, not exceeding one hundred pounds for each offence, as seems just.

40. Any act which, if done in the United Kingdom or in a British possession, would be an offence against any of the following Statutes of the Imperial Parliament, or Orders in Council, that is to say:—

"The Merchandise Marks Act, 1887;"

The Patents, Designs, and Trade Marks Acts, 1883 to 1888;

Any Act, Statute, or Order in Council, for the time being in force relating to copyright, or to inventions, designs, or trade-marks;

Any Statute amending or substituted for any of the above-mentioned Statutes—

Shall, if done by a British subject in Siam, be punishable as an offence against this Order, whether such Act is done in relation to any property or right of a British subject or of a foreigner, or otherwise:

Provided—

(1.) That a copy of any such Statute or Order in Council shall be published by the Consul-General in his public office at Bangkok, and shall be there open for inspection by any person at all reasonable times; and a person shall not be punished under this Article for anything done before the expiration of one month after such publication, unless the person offending is proved to have had express notice of the Statute or Order:

(2.) That a prosecution by or on behalf of a prosecutor who is not a British subject shall not be entertained without the consent in writing of the Consul-General, who may withhold such consent, unless he is satisfied that effectual provision exists for the punishment in Consular or other Courts in Siam of similar acts committed by the subjects of the State or Power of which such prosecutor is a subject, in relation to or affecting the interests of British subjects.

41. A District Court shall have jurisdiction to make an order requiring a person to contribute, in such manner as the Court directs, to the support of his wife or child, whether legitimate or not, being in the opinion of the Court under the age of 16 years. Any such Order may be made in a summary way, as if the neglect to provide for the support of such wife or child were an offence against this Order, and a failure to comply with any such order shall be deemed to be an offence against this Order, and shall be punishable accordingly, and the Court may direct any penalty imposed for such offence to be applied for the support of such wife or child in such manner as the Court thinks fit.

42. Where any act or omission is, by virtue of this Order, or of any regulation made under this Order, an offence against this Order, and no penalty or punishment is specified in respect thereof, such offence shall be punishable with imprisonment for not exceeding three months, or fine not exceeding one hundred pounds, or both.

43. A District Court may cause to be apprehended and brought before it any British subject being within the district of the Court, and charged with having committed a crime in Siam, and may deal with the accused according to the jurisdiction of the Court, and in conformity with the provisions of this Order; or where the crime is triable, and is to be tried, in Her Majesty's dominions, may take the preliminary examination, and commit the accused for trial, and cause or allow him to be taken to the place of intended trial.

44.—(1.) Where a person is charged with an offence on a summons or warrant issuing out of a Court, he shall be brought before the Court within forty-eight hours after service of the summons or execution of the warrant, unless, in any case, circumstances unavoidably prevent his being brought before the Court within that time, which circumstances shall be recorded in the minutes.

(2.) In every case he shall be brought before the Court as soon as circumstances reasonably admit, and the time and circumstances shall be recorded in the minutes.

45.—(1.) Where an accused person is in custody he shall not be remanded at any time for more than seven days, unless circumstances appear to the Court to make it necessary or proper that he should be remanded for a longer time, which circumstances, and the time of remand, shall be recorded in the minutes.

(2.) In no case shall a remand be for more than fourteen days at one time, unless in case of illness of the accused person or other case of necessity.

46.—(1.) Except in cases of murder, an accused person may be admitted to bail at any stage of the proceedings.

(2.) Where the offence charged is one of the following, it shall be in the discretion of the Court before whom such person appears or is tried to admit the accused to bail or not, according to the circumstances, namely:—

Felony (not being murder);

Riot;

Assault on an officer of a Court in the execution of his duty, or on any person acting in his aid;

Neglect or breach of duty by an officer of a Court.

(3.) In all other cases except murder the Court shall admit the accused to bail, unless in any instance, the Court, having regard to the circumstances, see good reason to the contrary, which reason shall be recorded in the minutes.

(4.) The Consul-General may, if he thinks fit, admit to bail a person charged with any offence except murder, although any other Court, in the exercise of its discretion, has not thought fit to admit the accused to bail.

47. Crimes punishable under this Order are to be tried as follows (subject to the provisions of this Order as to the powers of the Consul-General and of the Supreme Court or a Judge thereof):—

(1.) Crimes by this Order directed to be tried in a summary way are to be tried by a District Court without a jury or Assessors.

(2.) Crimes which are not punishable with a longer term of imprisonment than three months, nor punishable with fine exceeding fifty pounds, shall be tried in a summary way by a District Court without a jury or Assessors.

(3.) Crimes other than as aforesaid, and except crimes punishable with death or with penal servitude for seven years or upwards, shall be tried on indictment by a District Court with Assessors or a jury. Provided that if the accused person desires to be tried in a summary way, and the Court is of opinion that the case is such that, if proved, it can be adequately punished under the powers of a District Court, the Court may hear and determine the case in a summary way.

(4.) Every case of crime punishable with death, or with penal servitude for seven years or upwards, shall, before the committal of the accused person for trial, be specially reported to the Consul-General, who shall direct to what Court the accused person shall be committed for trial. Such Court shall be either the Supreme Court acting in the Straits Settlements, or acting in Siam, or the Consul-General acting in Siam with the powers of the Supreme Court; and the trial shall be by such Court with a jury if the trial takes place in the Straits Settlements, or if the accused person at the time of his being committed for trial in Siam so requires: provided that, in case of inability to obtain a jury, or if the accused person does not require a jury, the Court may try the case with Assessors.

(5.) Whenever a District Court commits a person for trial, it shall take all proper steps by commitment, bail, or otherwise for securing the attendance of the accused person to take his trial, and by recognizance or otherwise for securing the attendance at the trial of the prosecutor and of the witnesses for the prosecution and for the defence respectively, and shall transmit to the proper Court the depositions and any documents, recognizances, or things necessary for the purpose of the trial, with a certificate under the seal of the District Court specifying the depositions, documents and things so transmitted. Such certificate shall be primâ facie evidence of all the matters stated therein to have been done by or before the District Court, and that the depositions transmitted therewith were duly taken.

48. A District Court may impose the punishment of imprisonment for any term not exceeding six months, with or without hard labour, and with or without a fine not exceeding two hundred pounds, or the punishment of a fine not exceeding two hundred pounds, without imprisonment.

49. Every Court and authority in imposing and inflicting punishments under this Order shall have regard, so far as circumstances admit, and subject to the other provisions of this Order, to the punishments imposed by the law of England in like cases, and to the mode in which the same are inflicted in England.

50. Any Court acting under this Order (but, in the case of a District Court, subject to the approval of the Consul-General) may order any person convicted before it of any crime or offence to pay all or any part of the expenses of or preliminary to his trial and of his imprisonment or other punishment.

Where it appears to any Court that any charge made before it is malicious, or is frivolous and vexatious, the Court may order all or any part of the expenses of the prosecution to be paid by the person making the charge.

In either of the two last-mentioned cases the amount ordered to be paid shall be deemed a debt due to the Crown, and may, by virtue of the Order, without further proceedings, be levied on the property of the person convicted or making the charge, as the case may be, or may be enforced by imprisonment for not exceeding one month or until payment.

51.—(1.) A Court may, if it thinks fit, order a person convicted of an assault to pay to the person assaulted, by way of damages, any sum not exceeding twenty pounds.

(2.) Damages so ordered to be paid may be either in addition to or in lieu of a fine, and shall be recoverable in like manner as a fine.

(3.) Payment of such damages shall be a defence to an action for the assault.

52.—(1.) If, on a trial, a Court is of opinion that the accused attempted to commit the offence with which he is charged, but did not complete it, he shall not be therefore acquitted, but the Court may find him guilty of the attempt, and may adjudge him to be punished as if he had been charged with the attempt.

He shall not be liable to be afterwards prosecuted for the offence.

(2.) If, on the trial of a person charged with robbery, a Court is of opinion that the accused committed an assault with intent to rob, but did not commit robbery, he shall not be therefore acquitted, but the Court may find him guilty of the assault, and may adjudge him to be punished as if he had been charged with the assault.

He shall not be liable to be afterwards prosecuted for the assault.

(3.) If, on a trial for any of the following offences, namely, burglary, or stealing in a dwelling-house, or breaking and entering and stealing in a shop, warehouse, or counting-house, or a building within the curtilage of a dwelling-house, or larceny, or feloniously receiving property stolen, embezzled, or otherwise felloniously taken, obtained, or disposed of, the facts proved authorise a conviction for one of those offences, not being the offence charged, the Court may find the accused guilty of that other offence, and may adjudge him to be punished as if he had been charged with that other offence.

He shall not be liable to be afterwards prosecuted for that other offence.

(4) If any person procures, or endeavours to procure or incites any other person to commit a crime or offence, he shall be punishable on conviction in the same manner as if he were convicted of an attempt to commit that crime or offence. If the crime or offence is actually committed in pursuance of the procurement or incitement, both persons may be tried and punished for that crime or offence as principal offender.

53. Where a person charged with having committed a crime or offence in the district of one Court escapes or removes from that district and is found within the district of another Court, the Court within the district of which he is found may proceed in the case to examination, indictment, trial, and punishment, or in a summary way (as the case may require), in the same manner as if the crime or offence had been committed in its own district; or may on the requisition or with the consent of the Court of the district in which the crime or offence is charged to have been committed, send him in custody to that Court, or require him to give security for his surrender to that Court, there to answer the charge and be dealt with according to law.

Where any person is to be so sent in custody a warrant shall be issued by the Court within the district of which he is found and such warrant shall be sufficient authority to any person to whom it is directed to receive and detain the person therein named, and to carry him to, and deliver him up to, the Court of the district within which the crime or offence was committed, according to the warrant.

54. Where any person is charged with the commission of a crime or offence the cognizance whereof appertains to any of Her Majesty's Courts in Siam, and it is expedient that the crime or offence be enquired of, tried, determined, and punished within Her Majesty's dominions, the accused may, in accordance with the 4th section of "The Foreign Jurisdiction Act, 1843," be sent for trial to a British possession to which under the next following Article he could be sent for execution of a sentence of imprisonment.

The Consul-General may where it appears expedient, by warrant under his hand and seal, cause the accused to be taken for trial accordingly.

55.—(1.) Sentences of imprisonment shall ordinarily be carried into effect in such prisons within Siam as the Consul-General directs, either by any general directions or in any particular case. A warrant of the Consul-General, or of a Court before which a person is convicted, shall be sufficient authority for the removal of the person to the prison named in the warrant, and for his detention there.

(2.) Where any offender convicted before a Court in Siam is sentenced to imprisonment in respect of the crime or offence of which he is convicted, and it appears to the Consul-General to be expedient that the sentence be carried into effect within Her Majesty's dominions, the offender may, in accordance with the 5th section of "The Foreign Jurisdiction Act, 1843," be sent for execution of his sentence as follows:—

(a.) In the case of a prisoner who is, or who appears to the person signing the warrant under the said 5th section to be, a native of Burmah or of any other part of British India, and not of European descent, to Her Majesty's possession of Burmah or some other part of British India.

(b.) In the case of any other prisoner, to the Colony of the Straits Settlements, or to some other part of Her Majesty's dominions out of the United Kingdom the Government whereof consents that offenders may be sent thither under this Article.

And the Consul-General shall have authority for the purposes of the said section.

56.—(1) In cases of murder or manslaughter, if either the death or the criminal act which wholly or partly caused the death happened within the jurisdiction of a Court acting under this order, such Court shall have the like jurisdiction over any person, being a British subject who is charged either as the principal offender or as accessory before the fact to murder, or as accessory after the fact to murder or manslaughter, as if both such criminal act and the death had happened within such jurisdiction.

(2) In the case of any crime committed on the high seas, or within the Admiralty jurisdiction, by any British subject on board a British ship, or on board a foreign ship to which he did not belong, a Court acting under this Order shall have jurisdiction as if the crime had been committed within the district of such Court. In cases tried under this provision no different sentence can be passed from the sentence which could be passed in England if the crime were tried there.

(3) The foregoing provisions of this Article shall be deemed to be adaptations for the purposes of this Order and of "The Foreign Jurisdiction Act, 1878," of the following enactments described in the first Schedule to that Act (that is to say):—

"The Admiralty Offences (Colonial) Act, 1849."
"The Admiralty Offences (Colonial) Act, 1860."
"The Merchant Shipping Act, 1867," section 11.

And the said enactments shall so far as they are repeated and adapted by this Article (but not further or otherwise), extend to Siam.

57. "The Fugitive Offenders Act, 1881," shall apply to Siam as if Siam were a British possession, subject to the conditions, exceptions, and qualifications following:—

(i.) The said Act shall apply only in the case of British subjects.

(ii.) The Consul-General is, for the purposes of the said Act, substituted for the Governor of a British possession, and for a Superior Court, or a Judge thereof, in a British possession, and for a Magistrate or Justice of the Peace in a British possession.

(iii.) So much of the 4th and 5th sections of the said Act as relates to the sending a report of the issue of a warrant, together with the information, or a copy thereof, or to the sending of a certificate of committal and report of a case, or to the information to be given by a Magistrate to a fugitive, shall be excepted.

(iv.) So much of the 6th section of the said Act as relates to habeas corpus, and as requires the expiration of fifteen days before issue of a warrant, shall be excepted.

(v.) The said Consul-General shall not be bound to return a fugitive offender to a British possession unless satisfied that the proceedings to obtain his return are taken with the consent of the Governor of that possession.

(vi.) For the purposes of Part II of the said Act, Siam and the Colony of the Straits Settlements shall be deemed to be one group of British possessions.

58. "The Colonial Prisoners Removal Act, 1884," shall apply to Siam as if Siam were a British possession, and part of Her Majesty's dominions, subject as follows:—

The Consul-General shall, in relation to Siam, be substituted for the Governor of a British possession.

59. The Consul-General shall, when required by the Secretary of State, send to the Secretary of State a report of the sentence passed in every case not heard and determined in a summary way, with a copy of the minutes of proceedings and notes of evidence, and may send with such report any observations he thinks fit.

Every Court (other than the Consul-General) shall forthwith send to the Consul-General a report of the sentence passed by it in Siam in every case not heard and determined in a summary way, with a copy of the minutes of proceedings and notes of evidence, and with any observations the Court thinks fit. The Consul-General shall, when required by the Secretary of State, transmit the same to the Secretary of State, and may send therewith any observations he thinks fit.

60.—(1.) Where any person is sentenced in Siam to suffer the punishment of death, the Court pronouncing the sentence shall forthwith send a report of the sentence, with a copy of the minutes of the proceedings and notes of the evidence in the case, and with any observation the Court thinks fit to make, to the Governor in Council of the Straits Settlements.

(2.) The sentence shall not be carried into execution without the order of the Governor of the Straits Settlements in Council.

(3.) In any such case, if the said Governor in Council does not order that the sentence of death be carried into execution, he shall direct what punishment in lieu of the punishment of death is to be inflicted on the person convicted, and the person convicted shall be punished accordingly.

61. The Governor in Council of the Straits Settlements shall have power, in the name of Her Majesty, to remit or commute in whole or in part any sentence passed by a Court exercising criminal jurisdiction under this Order, and every such Court shall give effect to any such remission.

62. Nothing in this Order shall be deemed to affect Her Majesty's prerogative of pardon.

PART VII.—APPEALS.

63.—(1.) Where any decision of a District Court, sitting with or without Assessors, or a decision or a Judge of the Supreme Court acting under this Order, with or without Assessors, either in Siam or in the Straits Settlements, is given in a civil case in respect of a sum or matter at issue of the amount or value of fifty pounds or upwards, or determines directly or indirectly, any claim or question respecting property of the amount or value of fifty pounds or upwards, any party aggrieved by the decision may apply to the Court for leave to appeal to the Supreme Court, and shall be entitled to leave on the terms prescribed by rules made under this Order, and subject to any restrictions and exceptions therein contained.

In any other case the Court or Judge may, if it seems just and expedient, give leave to appeal on like terms.

In any case the Supreme Court may give leave to appeal on such terms as seem just.

(2.) In any matter in which an appeal lies, as of right or otherwise, to the Supreme Court, it shall be lawful for the Supreme Court, by special leave, to enlarge the time for appealing, or to permit an appeal to be brought on such terms as to costs or otherwise as it thinks fit, although the time limited for appeal has elapsed, or any other formal requisite for an appeal has not been complied with.

(3.) The said Supreme Court, on the hearing of any appeal, may admit fresh evidence in such cases and on such terms as he or they think just, subject to any rules to be made under this Order.

64.—(1.) Where any final decree or order of the Supreme Court on appeal under this Order is made in a civil case in respect of a sum or matter at issue of the amount or value of five hundred pounds or upwards, or determines directly or indirectly any claim or question respecting property of the amount or value of five hundred pounds or upwards, any party aggrieved by the decree or order may, within fifteen days after the same is made, apply by motion to the Supreme Court for leave to appeal to Her Majesty in Council.

(2.) If leave to appeal is applied for by a party adjudged to pay money or perform a duty, the Supreme Court shall direct either that the decree or order appealed from be carried into execution, or that the execution thereof be suspended, pending the appeal, as the said Court considers to be in accordance with substantial justice.

(3.) If the said Court directs the decree or order to be carried into execution, the party in whose favour it is made shall, before the execution of it, give security to the satisfaction of the said Court for the due performance of such order as Her Majesty in Council may think fit to make.

(4.) If the said Court directs the execution of the decree or order to be suspended pending the appeal, the party against whom the decree is made shall, before any order for suspension of execution, give security to the satisfaction of the said Court for the due performance of such order as Her Majesty in Council may think fit to make.

(5.) In all cases security shall also be given by the appellant to the satisfaction of the said Court, to an amount not exceeding five hundred pounds, for the prosecution of the appeal, and for payment of all such costs as may be awarded to any respondent on appeal to Her Majesty in Council.

(6.) If the last mentioned security is given within one month from the filing of the motion-paper for leave to appeal, then, and not otherwise, the said Court shall give leave to appeal.

(7.) In any case other than the cases hereinbefore described, the Supreme Court may give leave to appeal on the terms and in the manner aforesaid, if it considers it just or expedient to do so.

(8.) In every case where leave to appeal is given as aforesaid, the appellant shall be at liberty to prefer and prosecute his appeal to Her Majesty in Council according to the rules for the time being in force respecting appeals to Her Majesty in Council from Her Colonies, or such other rules as Her Majesty in Council from time to time thinks fit to make concerning appeals from the Supreme Court.

(9.) Nothing in this Order shall affect the right of Her Majesty at any time, on the humble petition of a party aggrieved by any decision of the Supreme Court, to admit his appeal thereon on such terms and in such manner as Her Majesty in Council may think fit, and to deal with the decision appealed from in such manner as may be just.

65. In any case in which an appeal lies under this Order from a District Court to the Supreme Court as of right, or leave to appeal is given by the District Court, the parties may agree that the appeal shall be to the Consul-General, and upon any such agreement in writing being filed in the District Court, or upon such agreement being made in open Court and embodied in any Order of the District Court, the appeal shall be to the Consul-General, who shall hear and dispose of the appeal in a summary way in such manner as he thinks fit, and may make any Order which could have been made by the District Court, and shall certify his Order to the District Court, and that Court shall give effect thereto.

Any such Order shall be final, and shall not be subject to any further appeal, either to the Supreme Court or to Her Majesty in Council.

This Article does not apply to cases which are in the first instance heard by the Consul-General, as such, in the exercise of any original jurisdiction under this Order.

66.—(1.) Where any person is convicted otherwise than in a summary way of a crime or offence, the Court trying the case may, if it seems fit, upon or without written application by the prosecutor or defendant, reserve for the consideration of the full Supreme Court any question of law arising on the trial.

The Court shall then state a special case, setting out the question reserved, with the facts and circumstances on which it arose, and shall send the case to the Supreme Court.

(2.) Where any person is convicted in a summary way of a crime or offence, and is dissatisfied with the conviction as being erroneous in point of law, the Court trying the case may, on his application in writing, and on compliance by him with any terms prescribed by the rules made under this Order, state a special case, setting out the facts and the grounds of the conviction, for the opinion of the Supreme Court.

(3.) Where a special case is stated, the Court stating it shall, as seems fit, either postpone judgment on the conviction, or respite execution of the judgment, and either commit the person convicted to prison, or take proper security for him to appear and receive judgment or to render himself in execution (as the case may require), at an appointed time and place.

(4.) The Supreme Court shall hear and determine the matter, and thereupon shall reverse, affirm, or amend the judgment, conviction, or sentence in question; or set aside the same and order an entry to be made in the minutes of proceedings to the effect that in the judgment of the Supreme Court the person convicted ought not to have been convicted, or arrest the judgment, or order judgment to be given at a subsequent sitting of the Court stating the case, or order a new trial, or make such other order as justice requires, and shall also give the necessary and proper consequential directions.

(5.) The judgment of the Supreme Court shall be delivered in open Court after the public hearing of any argument offered on behalf of the prosecution or of the person convicted.

(6.) Before delivering judgment, the Supreme Court may, if necessary, cause the special case to be amended by the Court stating it.

(7.) If on an application for a special case the Court refuses to state a case, the Court so refusing shall forthwith send to the Supreme Court a report of the sentence, with a copy of the minutes of proceedings and notes of evidence, and any observations the Court thinks fit and with a copy of the application for a special case.

(8.) The Supreme Court shall examine the report and documents so sent, and may, on the application in that behalf of the appellant, if made within one month after the refusal of a special case, proceed to hear and determine the matter according to the foregoing provisions, as nearly as may be as if a special case has been stated.

(9.) In this Article expressions referring to the Court which tries a case include a District Court or a Judge or Judges of the Supreme Court acting under this Order either in Siam or in the Straits Settlements, or the Consul-General acting with the power of the Supreme Court.

PART VIII.—EVIDENCE.

67.—(1.) In any case, criminal or civil, and at any stage thereof, a District Court, either of its own motion, or on the application of any party, may summon a British subject to attend to give evidence, or to produce documents, or to be examined.

(2.) If the person summoned, having reasonable notice of the time and place at which he is required to attend, fails to attend and be sworn, and give evidence, or produce documents, or submit to examination accordingly, and does not excuse his failure to the satisfaction of the Court, he shall be guilty of an offence against this Order.

(3.) A person punished under this Article shall not be liable to an action in respect of the same matter; and any such action, if begun, shall be stayed by the Court in such manner and on such terms as the Court thinks fit.

(4.) In a criminal case, where it is proved that a British subject is likely to give material evidence, either for the prosecution or for the defence, and that he will not voluntarily attend to give evidence, the Court may issue a summons for his attendance.

(5.) If he does not obey the summons, and does not excuse his failure to the satisfaction of the Court, then, after proof of service of the summons, the Court may issue a warrant to compel his attendance.

(6.) Where it is proved that he will not attend to give evidence unless compelled to do so, the Court may issue a warrant in the first instance.

(7.) In civil cases, any Court may, where the circumstances appear to justify it, order that the expenses of a witness, on his appearing to give evidence, shall be defrayed by the parties, or any of them.

68.—(1.) Any person appearing before a District Court to give evidence in any case, civil or criminal, may be examined or give evidence on oath in the form or with the ceremony that he declares to be binding on his conscience.

(2.) Any British subject wilfully giving false evidence in any suit or proceeding, civil or criminal, or on any arbitration, or in any affidavit, shall be deemed guilty of wilful and corrupt perjury.

69.—(1.) Judicial notice shall be taken of this Order, and of the commencement thereof, and of the appointment of Consular or other officers, and of the constitution and limits of any jurisdiction, Court, or district, and of Consular seals and signatures, and of any rules or regulations made or in force under this Order, and no proof shall be required of any of such matters.

(2.) Every signature or seal affixed to any instrument purporting to be the signature of any Consular officer or person acting under this Order, or to be the seal of any Court, shall, for all purposes under this Order, without any proof thereof, be presumed to be genuine, and shall be taken as genuine until the contrary is proved.

70. A person attending to give evidence before a District Court shall not be compelled or allowed to give any evidence, or produce any document, if, in the opinion of the Consul-General, signified by him personally or in writing to the Court, the giving or production thereof would be injurious to Her Majesty's service.

71—(1.) The provisions of "The Evidence Act, 1851" (14 & 15 Vict., cap. 99), sections 7 and 11, relating to the proof of judicial and other documents, shall extend and be applied for all purposes as if the district were in a British Colony.

(2.) The following Acts, namely:—

"The Foreign Tribunals Evidence Act, 1856,"

"The Evidence by Commission Act, 1885,"

or so much thereof as is for the time being in force, and any enactment for the time being in force amending or substituted for the same, are hereby extended to all places and Courts to which this Order applies, with the adaptations following, namely;—

In the said Acts the Consul-General is hereby substituted for a Supreme Court or the Judge of a Court in a Colony.

"The Foreign Law Ascertainment Act, 1861,"

or so much thereof as is for the time being in force, and any enactment for the time being in force amending or substituted for the same, are hereby extended to all places and Courts to which this Order applies, with the adaptations following, namely:—

In the said Acts the Consul-General is hereby substituted for a Superior Court in a Colony.

PART IX.—JURIES AND ASSESSORS.

Juries.

72.—(1.) Every male British subject resident in Siam, being of the age of 21 years or upwards, being able to speak and read English, having or earning a gross income at the rate of not less than fifty pounds, a-year, not having been attainted of treason or felony, or convicted of any crime that is infamous (unless he has obtained a free pardon), and not being under outlawry, shall be qualified to serve on a jury.

(2.) All persons so qualified shall be liable so to serve, except the following:—

Persons in Her Majesty's Diplomatic, Consular, or other Civil Service in actual employment;

Officers, clerks, keepers of prisons, messengers, and other persons attached to or in the service of any of Her Majesty's Courts;

Officers and others on full pay in Her Majesty's navy or army, or in actual employment in the service of any Department connected therewith;

Persons holding appointments in the Civil Service of the Kings of Siam, and commissioned officers in the Naval or Military Service of the Kings of Siam;

Clergymen and ministers in the actual discharge of professional duties;

Advocates snd attorneys in actual practice;

Physicians, surgeons, and apothecaries in actual practice;

And except persons disabled by mental or bodily infirmity.

73. On or before the 14th day of January in every year each District Court shall make out a list of the persons so qualified and liable resident within its district.

The list shall, on or before the 21st day of the same respective month, be affixed in some conspicuous place in the Court, and shall be there exhibited until the end of that month, with a notice annexed that on a day specified, not being sooner than the 7th or later than the 14th day of the then next month, the Court will hold a special sitting for the revision of the list.

The Court shall hold such special sitting accordingly, and at such sitting, or at some adjournment thereof (of which public notice shall be given), shall revise the list by striking out the name of any person appearing to be not qualified or not liable to serve, and by inserting the name of any person omitted, and appearing to be so qualified and liable, either on the application of the person omitted, or on such notice to him as the Court thinks fit.

The list shall be finally revised and settled not later than the 21st day of February in every year, and when settled shall be affixed in some conspicuous place in the Court, and be there exhibited during not less than two months.

Such list, as settled, shall be brought into use on the 1st day of March, and shall be used as the Jury List of the Court until the 1st day of March next after the time of its being brought into use.

74. Where, in pursuance of this Order, a jury is ordered, the Court before which the trial is to be had shall summon so many of the persons comprised in the Jury List, not fewer than seven, as seems requisite.

Any person failing to attend according to such summons shall be liable to such fine, not exceeding ten pounds, as the Court thinks fit to impose.

Any such fine shall not be levied until after the expiration of fourteen days. The proper officer of the Court shall forthwith give to the person fined notice in writing of the imposition of the fine, and require him within six days after receipt of the notice to file an affidavit excusing his non-attendance, if he desires to do so. The Court shall consider the affidavit, and may, if it seems proper, remit the fine.

75. Where a suit relates to money, goods, or other property, or any matter at issue appearing to the Court to be of the amount or value of three hundred pounds or upwards, or is brought for recovery of damages of the amount of three hundred pounds or upwards, the suit shall, on the demand of either party, be under order of the Court before which the trial is to be had, tried with a jury.

In any case a suit may be tried with a jury, if the Court, of its own motion or on the application of either party, thinks fit so to order.

76.—(1.) The foregoing provisions relating to the preparation of jury lists and the summoning of juries shall not, as regards any District Court other than the District Court at Bangkok, come into operation until the Consul-General so directs by order in writing published in such manner as he thinks fit.

He may from time to time by any such order, as regards any district, alter the number of jurors to be summoned or the quorum of a jury;

He may suspend the operation of any such order from time to time, or revoke any order.

(2.) If, in any civil or criminal case where a jury is ordered, or is required by this Order or by any rules of procedure, a sufficient jury cannot be obtained, the Court before which the trial is to be had may either hear the case without a jury, or with a jury of less than the proper number, or postpone it in order to obtain a jury or Assessors, as the Court thinks just.

77.—(1.) Subject to the other provisions of this Order, the number of the jury shall be five.

(2.) In criminal cases tried with a jury, the verdict of the jury must be unanimous. In civil cases the verdict must be unanimous unless the parties otherwise agree.

(3.) No challenge shall be allowed except for cause shown to the satisfaction of the Court.

(4.) No grand jury shall be summoned.

78. Where a District Court proceeds, in pursuance of this Order, to hear and determine any case, civil or criminal, with Assessors, the Court shall nominate and summon as Assessors not less than two and not more than four indifferent British subjects of good repute, resident in the district of the Court, or belonging to a British ship.

Where, by reason of local circumstances, the Court is able to obtain the presence of one fit person only as Assessor, the Court may sit with him alone as Assessor; and where, for like reasons, the Court is not able to obtain the presence of any fit person as Assessor, the Court may (notwithstanding anything in this Order) sit without an Assessor; but in every such case the Court shall record in the minutes of proceedings its reasons for sitting with one Assessor only, or without an Assessor.

An Assessor shall not have voice or vote in the decision of the Court in any case, civil or criminal; but an Assessor dissenting in a civil case from any decision of the Court, or in a criminal case from any decision of the Court, or the conviction, or the amount of punishment awarded, may record in the minutes of proceedings his dissent and the grounds thereof; and an Assessor dissenting shall be entitled to receive gratis a certified copy of the minutes.

79. In civil cases, any party who has a right to demand a trial with a jury may, in lieu thereof, demand a trial with Assessors, unless a trial with a jury is ordered, and can be had. If no party demands a jury or Assessors, the Court before whom the trial is to be had may, if it thinks fit, summon Assessors.

80. If any person summoned to act as Assessor fails, without lawful excuse, to attend at the trial, or at any adjournment thereof, or to continue to serve throughout the trial, he shall be liable under a summary order of the Court to a fine not exceeding ten pounds, to be levied by attachment and sale of his goods within the district, and in default of recovery thereby of the fine, to be imprisoned for any time not exceeding six days, if the fine is not sooner paid.

PART X.—RULES OF PROCEDURE.

81.—(1.) The Consul-General, with the approval of the Chief Justice of the Straits Settlements, may from time to time frame rules for any purpose for which it is in this Order expressed or implied that rules of procedure or practice are to be made for the execution of judgments or orders, and for the regulation of appeals in civil and in criminal cases, and of rehearings, and generally for the purpose of making any provision proper or necessary for the proper or effectual exercise of the jurisdiction of Courts under this Order, and may thereby impose reasonable penalties, and may provide for the enforcement of any judgment or order by imprisonment for not exceeding one month.

(2.) Rules affecting the conduct of civil suits shall be so framed as to secure, as far as may be, that cases shall be decided on their merits according to substantial justice, without excessive regard to technicalities of pleading or procedure, and without unnecessary delay.

(3.) Rules framed under this Article shall not have effect unless and until they are approved by the Secretary of State, save that in case of urgency declared in any rules framed by the Consul-General the same shall have effect unless and until they are disapproved by the Secretary of State, and notification of such disapproval is received and published by the Consul-General.

(4.) Provision may, amongst other things, be made by rules under this Article authorizing any Court to grant and enforce search-warrants, and to enforce awards, and to enforce by distress, or by attachment or commitment, judgments or orders of any Court, or payment of any damages, costs, penalties, fines, or forfeitures, and for the sale of things forfeited, and for garnishee process, and for attachments of property in order to compel appearance or submission to the jurisdiction or process of any Court, and authorizing any Court to compel, by fine, distress, or recognizance, or in default of security by commitment, the attendance of witnesses before any Court, or before a Colonial Court to which a case is sent for trial, and to fix and enforce the fees to be taken in respect of any proceedings under this Order, not exceeding, as regards any matters provided for by the Act of 6 Geo. IV, cap. 87, fees fixed and allowed from time to time by any Order in Council made under that Act, and to take and transmit depositions of witnesses for use at trials in a Colony or in England, and to appoint forms of indictment or charge in criminal proceedings, and for regulating the conditions on which persons may be admitted to practise as barristers, advocates, or solicitors in proceedings in any Court and for suspending or excluding such persons from practice in case of misconduct: Provided that the scales of all fees fixed under the provisions of this Order shall have been sanctioned by the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury.

82. A copy of the rules for the time being in force shall be kept exhibited conspicuously in each District Court and Consulate.

Printed copies shall be provided and sold at such reasonable price as the Consul-General from time to time directs.

No penalty shall be enforced in any District Court for the breach of any rule until the rule has been so exhibited in the Court for one month, unless the person offending is proved to have had express notice of the rule.

A printed copy of any rule purporting to be certified under the hand of the Consul-General shall be for all purposes conclusive evidence of the due framing, approval, and publication of the contents thereof.

From and after the commencement of any rules made under this Order, all rules and regulations theretofore in force in the district in respect of any matter in respect whereof rules are made under this Order shall cease to operate.

PART XI.—TREATIES AND QUEEN'S REGULATIONS.

83. If any British subject violates or fails to observe any stipulation of any Treaty made with or by or on behalf of Her Majesty, for the time being in force, in respect of the violation whereof any penalty is stipulated for in the Treaty, he shall be deemed guilty of an offence against the Treaty, and on conviction thereof under this Order shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding the penalty stipulated for in the Treaty.

84.—(1.) The Consul-General may, from time to time, subject and according to the provisions of this Order, make, on behalf of Her Majesty, such Regulations as to him seem fit for the peace, order, and good government of British subjects resident in, or resorting to, Siam.

(2.) The power aforesaid extends to the making of Regulations for securing observance of the stipulations of Treaties between Her Majesty, Her heirs and successors, and the Kings of Siam, and for enforcing any local law or customs, whether relating to trade, commerce, revenue, or any other matter, and for maintaining friendly relations between British subjects and Siamese subjects and authorities, and for requiring Returns to be made of the nature, quantity, and value of articles exported from or imported into Siam, by or on account of any British subject or in any British ship, and for prescribing the times and manner at or in which, and the persons by whom, such Returns are to be made.

(3.) The Consul-General may, as he thinks fit, make any Regulation under this Order extend either throughout Siam, or to some one or more only of the Consular districts in Siam.

(4.) The Consul-General, in the exercise of the powers aforesaid, may, if he thinks fit, join with the Ministers or Representatives of any foreign Powers in amity with Her Majesty in making or adopting Regulations for the municipal government of any foreign Concession or Settlement in Siam; and, as regards British subjects, joint Regulations so made shall be as valid and binding as if they related to British subjects only.

(5.) The Consul-General may, by any Regulation made under this Order, repeal or alter any Regulation made under any Order in Council relating to Siam.

(6.) Regulations made under this Order shall not have effect unless and until they are approved by Her Majesty, that approval being signified through the Secretary of State, save that, in case of urgency declared in any such Regulations, the same shall take effect before that approval, and shall continue to have effect unless and until they are disapproved by Her Majesty the Queen, that disapproval being signified through the Secretary of State, and until notification of that disapproval has been received, and published by the Consul-General.

That approval, where given, shall be conclusive, and the validity or regularity of any Regulations so approved shall not be called in question in any legal proceeding whatever.

85. Any Regulations made under this Order may, if the Consul-General thinks fit, impose penalties for offences against the same.

Penalties so imposed shall not exceed the following, namely: for any offence, imprisonment for three months, with or without hard labour, and with or without a fine of one hundred pounds, or a fine of one hundred pounds, without imprisonment; with or without a further fine, for a continuing offence, of ten pounds for each day during which the offence continues after the original fine is incurred.

Regulations imposing penalties shall be so framed as to allow in every case of part only of the highest penalty being inflicted.

In addition to or in lieu of penalties, such Regulation may provide for forfeiture of any goods, receptacles, or things in relation to which, or to the contents of which, any breach is committed of such Regulations, of any Treaty, or any Siamese Law or Ordinance the observance of which is provided for by such Regulations.

86. All Regulations made under this Order, whether imposing penalties or not, shall be printed, and a printed copy thereof shall be affixed, and be at all times kept exhibited conspicuously in the public offices of each Consulate in Siam.

Printed copies of the Regulations shall be kept on sale at such reasonable price as the Consul-General from time to time directs.

Where a Regulation imposes a penalty or forfeiture, the same shall not be enforceable in any Consular district until a printed copy of the Regulation has been affixed in the public office of the Consulate for that district, and has been kept exhibited conspicuously there during one month, unless the person offending is proved to have had express notice of the Regulation.

A printed copy of a Regulation purporting to be made under this Order, and to be certified under the hand of the Consul-General, shall be conclusive evidence of the due making of the Regulation and of its contents.

87. A charge of an offence against a Regulation made under this Order imposing a penalty or forfeiture shall be inquired of, heard, and determined as an ordinary criminal charge under this Order, except that where the Regulation is one for securing observance of the stipulations of a Treaty, the charge shall be heard and determined in a summary way, and (where the proceeding is before a District Court) without Assessors.

88. The respective powers aforesaid extend to the making of Regulations for the governance, visitation, care, and superintendence of prisons in Siam, and for the infliction of corporal or other punishment on prisoners committing offences against the rules or discipline of a prison; but the provisions of this Order respecting penalties, and respecting the printing, affixing, exhibiting, and sale of Regulations, and the mode of trial of charges of offences against Regulations, do not apply to Regulations respecting prisons and offences of prisoners.

PART XII.—FOREIGNERS AND FOREIGN COURTS.

89.—(a.) Where a foreigner desires to institute or take a suit or proceeding of a civil nature against a British subject, or a British subject desires to institute or take a suit or proceeding of a civil nature against a foreigner, a District Court may entertain the suit or proceeding, and hear and determine it (and if all parties desire, or the Court directs a trial with a jury or Assessors, then with a jury or Assessors) at a place where such a trial might be had if all parties were British subjects, and in all other respects according to the ordinary course of the Court.

(b.) Provided that the foreigner (i) first files in the Court his consent to the jurisdiction of the Court; and (ii) also, if required by the Court, obtains and files a certificate in writing from a competent authority of his own Government to the effect that no objection is made by that Government to the foreigner submitting in the particular cause or matter to the jurisdiction of the Court; and (iii) also, if required by the Court, gives security to the satisfaction of the Court, to such reasonable amount as the Court directs, by deposit of money or otherwise, to pay fees, costs, damages, and expenses, and to abide by and perform the decision to be given by the Court or on appeal.

(c.) A counter-claim or cross-suit cannot be brought or instituted in the Court against a plaintiff, being a foreigner, who has submitted to the jurisdiction, by a defendant, except by leave of the Court first obtained.

(d.) The Court, before giving leave, shall require proof from the defendant that his claim arises out of the matter in dispute, and that there is reasonable ground for it, and that it is not made for vexation or delay.

(e.) Nothing in this article prevents the defendant from instituting or taking in the Court against the foreigner, after the termination of the suit or proceeding in which the foreigner is plaintiff, any suit or proceeding that the defendant might have instituted or taken in the Court against the foreigner if no provision restraining counter-claims or cross-suits had been inserted in this Order.

(f.) Where a foreigner obtains in the Court an order against a defendant being a British subject, and in another suit that defendant is plaintiff and the foreigner is defendant, the Court may, if it thinks fit, on the application of the British subject, stay the enforcement of the order pending that other suit, and may set off any amount ordered to be paid by one party in one suit against any amount ordered to be paid by the other party in the other suit.

(g.) Where a plaintiff, being a foreigner, obtains in the Court an order against two or more defendants, being British subjects, jointly, and in another suit one of them is plaintiff, and the foreigner is defendant, the Court may, if it thinks fit, on the application of the British subject, stay the enforcement of the order pending that other suit, and may set off any amount ordered to be paid by one party in one suit against any amount ordered to be paid by the other party in the other suit, without prejudice to the right of the British subject to require contribution from his co-defendants under the joint liability.

(h.) Where a foreigner is co-plaintiff in a suit with a British subject who is within the particular jurisdiction, it is not necessary for the foreigner to make deposit or give security for costs unless the Court so directs; but the co-plaintiff British subject is responsible for all fees and costs.

90.—(a.) Where it is shown to a District Court that the attendance of a British subject to give evidence, or for any other purpose connected with the administration of justice, is required in a Siamese Court, or before a judicial officer in Siam of any State in amity with Her Majesty, the Court may, in cases and under circumstances which would require the attendance of that British subject before one of Her Majesty's Courts in Siam, and if it seems to the Court just and expedient so to do, make an order for the attendance of the British subject in such Court or before such judicial officer, and for such purpose as aforesaid, but so that a District Court shall not have power to make an order for such attendance of a British subject at any place beyond the particular jurisdiction of the Court.

The order may be made subject to conditions as to payment or tender of expenses or otherwise.

(b.) If the person ordered to attend, having reasonable notice of the time and place at which he is required to attend, fails to attend accordingly, and does not excuse his failure to the satisfaction of the Court, or if he refuses to give evidence or wilfully gives false evidence, or fails to produce documents which he is properly required to produce, he is, independently of any other liability, guilty of an offence against this order, and for every such offence, on conviction thereof, by summary trial, is liable to a fine not exceeding one hundred pounds, or to imprisonment for not exceeding one month, in the discretion of the Court.

91. Where, in pursuance of the IXth Article of the Treaty between Great Britain and Siam, dated the 3rd September, 1883, an appeal is brought to Bangkok from any Siamese Judge or Judges, Commissioner or Commissioners, the Consul-General shall take such steps as may be directed by the Secretary of State, in order that the final decision on appeal may be recorded at Bangkok and duly transmitted to the Court from which the appeal is brought, and in order that effect may be given thereto by such Court.

PART XIII.—DEPORTATION AND REMOVAL.

92.—(1.) Where it is shown on oath to the satisfaction of a District Court that there is reasonable ground to apprehend that any British subject within the district of such Court is about to commit a breach of the public peace, or that the acts or conduct of any British subject are or is likely to produce or excite to a breach of the public peace, the Court may cause him to be brought before it and require him to give security to the satisfaction of the Court to keep the peace or for his future good behaviour, as the case may require.

(2.) Where any British subject is convicted under this Order of any crime or offence, a District Court within the jurisdiction whereof he happens to be may require him to give security to the satisfaction of the Court for his future good behaviour.

(3.) In either of these cases, if the person required to give security fails to do so, the Court may order that he be deported from Siam to such place as the Court directs.

(4.) The place shall be a place in some part of Her Majesty's dominions prescribed by the Secretary of State, or a place the Government whereof consents to the reception therein of persons deported under this Order. The order for deportation may, in any case with reference to which the Secretary of State by any general or special directions so directs, provide for the deportation of the person to whom it refers in the first instance to any place, as above mentioned, and also for his further deportation from that place to any other place to which he could lawfully have been deported in the first instance.

(5.) A District Court shall forthwith report to the Consul-General any order of deportation made by it, and the grounds thereof.

The Consul-General may reverse the order, or may confirm it with or without variation, and in case of confirmation shall direct it to be carried into effect.

(6.) The person to be deported shall be detained in custody until a fit time and opportunity for his deportation arrives.

(7.) The Consul-General shall (and in the case of a person convicted, either after execution of the sentence or while it is in course of execution), by warrant, cause the person to be taken to the place of deportation.

(8.) The Consul-General may order that the person to be deported do pay all or any part of the expenses of, or preliminary to, his deportation.

(9.) The Consul-General shall forthwith report to the Secretary of State any order of deportation made or confirmed by him, and the grounds thereof.

(10.) Where any person is deported to Singapore, he shall, on his arrival there, be delivered, with the warrant under which he is deported, into the custody of the Superintendent of Prisons of Singapore, or other officer of Her Majesty there lawfully acting as such, who, on receipt of the person deported, with the warrant, shall detain him, and shall forthwith report the case to the Governor or person administering the Government of the Straits Settlements, who shall either, by warrant (if the circumstances of the case appear to make it expedient), cause the person so deported to be taken to England, and in the meantime to be detained in custody (so that the period of such detention do not exceed three months), or else shall discharge him from custody.

(11.) If any person deported returns to Siam without the permission of the Secretary of State or of the Consul-General, in writing under his hand, he shall be guilty of an offence against this Order, and shall be liable, on conviction thereof, to punishment (in the discretion of the Court before which he is convicted) by imprisonment for any term not exceeding one month, with or without hard labour, and with or without a fine not exceeding forty pounds, or by a fine not exceeding forty pounds, without imprisonment, and also to be forthwith again deported in manner hereinbefore provided.

93.—(1.) Whenever under this Order any person is to be taken in custody or otherwise for trial or imprisonment, or by way of deportation, or for any other purpose, to Bangkok or elsewhere in Siam or to Singapore or elsewhere, the Court or other authority by this Order authorized to cause him to be so taken may for that purpose (if necessary) cause him to be embarked on board one of Her Majesty's vessels of war, or if there is no such vessel available, then on board any British or other fit vessel, at any port or place whether within or beyond the particular jurisdiction or district of that Court or authority, and in order to such embarkment may (if necessary) cause him to be taken, in custody or otherwise, by land or by water, from any place to the port or place of embarkment.

(2.) The writ, order, or warrant of the Consul-General, or of a District Court in Siam, or of the Supreme Court, or the warrant of the Governor or person administering the Government of the Straits Settlements (as the case may be), by virtue whereof any person is to be so taken, shall be sufficient authority to every constable, officer, or other person acting thereunder, and to the commander or master of any vessel of war, or other vessel (whether the constable, officer, or other person, or the vessel or the commander or master thereof is named therein or not), to receive, detain, take, and deliver up such person, according to the writ, order, or warrant.

(3.) Where the writ, order, or warrant is executed under the immediate direction of the Court or authority issuing it, the writ, order, or warrant shall be delivered to the constable, officer, or other person acting thereunder, and a duplicate thereof shall be delivered to the commander or master of any vessel in which the person to whom the writ, order, or warrant relates is embarked.

(4.) Where the writ, order, or warrant is made or issued by the Consul-General, and is executed by a District Court in Siam, and where the writ, order, or warrant issues from the Supreme Court of the Straits Settlements, and is executed by any of Her Majesty's Courts in Siam, a copy thereof certified under the seal of the Court executing the same shall be delivered to the constable, officer, or other person acting thereunder, and to the commander or master of any vessel in which the person taken is embarked; and any such copy shall be for all purposes conclusive evidence of the order of which it purports to be a copy.

PART XIV.—REGISTRATION.

94.—(1.) Every British subject resident in Siam, being of the age of twenty-one years or upwards, or being married, or a widower or widow, though under that age shall, in the month of January in the year 1889, and every subsequent year, register himself in a register to be kept at the Consulate of the Consular district within which he resides, subject to this qualification, that the registration of a man shall be deemed to include the registration of his wife (unless she is living apart from him), and that the registration of the head of a family, whether male or female, shall be deemed to include the registration of all females, being relatives of the head of the family (in whatever degree of relationship), living under the same roof with the head of the family at the time of his registration.

(2.) Every British subject not so resident arriving after the commencement of this Order at any place in Siam where a Consular officer is maintained, unless borne on the muster-roll of a British vessel there arriving, shall, within one month after his arrival, register himself in a register to be kept at the Consular office, but so that no such person shall be required to register himself more than once in any year, reckoned from the 1st day of January.

(3.) Any person failing so to register himself, and not excusing his failure to the satisfaction of the Consular officer, shall not be entitled to be recognized or protected as a British subject in Siam, and shall be liable to a fine not exceeding two pounds for each instance of such failure; but he shall nevertheless be subject to the jurisdiction of the Courts for all purposes.

(4.) Every person shall, on every registration of himself, pay a fee of two shillings and sixpence.

(5.) The Consular officer shall issue to every person so registered a certificate of registration under his hand and Consular seal; and the name of a wife (unless living apart from her husband) shall be endorsed on her husband's certificate; and the names and descriptions of females whose registration is included in that of the head of the family shall be endorsed on the certificate of the head of the family.

PART XV.—MORTGAGES AND BILLS OF SALE.

95.—(1.) A deed or other instrument of mortgage, legal or equitable, of lands or houses in Siam, executed by a British subject, may be registered at any time after its execution at the District Court of the district wherein the property mortgaged is situate.

(2.) Registration is made as follows: The original and a copy of the deed or other instrument of mortgage, and an affidavit verifying the execution and place of execution thereof, and verifying the copy, are brought into the Court; and the copy and affidavit are left there.

(3.) If a deed or other instrument of mortgage is not registered at the Court within the respective time following (namely):—

(i.) Within fourteen days after its execution, where it is executed in the district wherein the property mortgaged is situate;

(ii.) Within two months after its execution, where it is executed in Siam, elsewhere than in that district;

(iii.) Within six months after its execution, where it is executed elsewhere than in Siam; then, and in every such case, the mortgage debt secured by the deed or other instrument and the interest thereon shall not have priority over judgment or simple contract debts contracted before the registration of that deed or other instrument.

(4.) Registered deeds or other instruments of mortgage, legal or equitable, of the same lands or houses have, as among themselves, priority in order of registration.

(5.) The provisions of this Order do not apply to a deed or other instrument of mortgage executed before the commencement of this Order.

96. The power given by this Order for framing Rules from time to time is hereby extended to the framing of Rules for prescribing and regulating the making and keeping of indexes, and of a general index to the register of mortgages, and searches in those indexes, and other particulars connected with the making, keeping, and using of those registers and indexes, and for authorizing and regulating the removal from the register of any deed or other instrument of mortgage, or the registering of any lease or satisfaction in respect thereof.

97. The provisions of this Order relating to bills of sale—

(i.) Apply only to such bills of sale executed by British subjects as are intended to affect chattels in Siam;

(ii.) Do not apply to bills of sale given by Sheriffs or others under or in execution of process authorizing seizure of chattels.

98.—(a) Every bill of sale must conform with the following rules (namely):—

(1.) It must state truly the name, description, and address of the grantor.

(2.) It must state truly the consideration for which it is granted.

(3.) It must have annexed thereto or written thereunder an inventory of the chattels intended to be comprised therein.

(4.) Any defeasance, condition, or declaration of trust affecting the bill not contained in the body of the bill must be written on the same paper as the bill.

(5.) The execution of the bill must be attested by a credible witness, with his address and description.

(b.) Otherwise, the bill is void to the extent following, but not further (that is to say):

(i.) In the case of failure to conform with the rule respecting an inventory, as far as regards chattels omitted from the inventory; and

(ii.) In any other case, wholly.

(c.) The inventory, and any defeasance, condition or declaration as aforesaid, respectively, is for all purposes deemed part of the bill.

99. A bill of sale conforming, or appearing to conform, with the foregoing rules, may be registered at the Court of the district wherein the chattels are; within the respective time following, and not afterwards (namely):—

(i.) Within fourteen days after its execution, where it is executed in the district wherein the chattels are;

(ii.) Within two months after its execution, where it is executed in Siam, elsewhere than in that district;

(iii.) Within six months after its execution, where it is executed elsewhere than in Siam.

100.—(1.) Registration is made as follows: The original and a copy of the bill of sale, and an affidavit verifying the execution, and the time and place of execution, and the attestation thereof, and verifying the copy, are brought into the proper office of the Court; and the copy and affidavit are left there.

(2.) If a bill of sale is not registered at a place and within the time by this Order appointed and allowed for registration thereof, it is, from and after the expiration of that time, void to the extent following, but not further (that is to say):

(i.) As against trustees or assignees of the estate of the grantor, in or under bankruptcy, liquidation, or assignment for benefit of creditors; and

(ii.) As against all Sheriffs and others seizing chattels under process of any Court, and any person on whose behalf the seizure is made; but only

(iii.) As regards the property in, or right to, the possession of such chattels comprised in the bill as, at or after the filing of the petition for bankruptcy or liquidation, or the execution of the assignment, or the seizure, are in the grantor's possession, or apparent possession.

101. Registered bills of sale affecting the same chattels have as among themselves priority in order of registration.

Chattels comprised in a registered bill of sale are not in the possession, order, or disposition of the grantor within the law of bankruptcy.

102. If in any case there is an unregistered bill of sale, and within or on the expiration of the time by this Order allowed for registration thereof, a subsequent bill of sale is granted affecting the same or some of the same chattels, for the same or part of the same debt, then the subsequent bill is, to the extent to which it comprises the same chattels and is for the same debt, absolutely void, unless the Court is satisfied that the subsequent bill is granted in good faith for the purpose of correcting some material error in the prior bill, and not for the purpose of unlawfully evading the operation of this Order.

The registration of a bill of sale must be renewed once at least every twelve months.

103. Renewal of registration is made as follows: An affidavit stating the date of and parties to the bill of sale, and the date of the original registration, and of the last renewal, and that the bill is still a subsisting security, is brought in to the proper office of the Court of original registration, and is left there.

If the registration of a bill of sale is not so renewed in any period of five years, then on and from the expiration of that period the bill cannot be again registered.

104. A transfer or assignment of a registered bill of sale need not be registered; and renewal of registration is not necessary by reason only of such a transfer or assignment.

105.—(1.) Where the time for registration or renewal of registration of a bill of sale expires on a Sunday, or other day on which the office for registration is closed, the registration or renewal is valid if made on the first subsequent day on which the office is open.

(2.) If in any case the Court is satisfied that failure to register or to renew the registration of a bill of sale in due time, or any omission or mis-statement connected with registration or renewal, was accidental or inadvertent, the Court may, if it thinks fit, order the failure, omission, or mis-statement to be rectified in such manner and on such terms, if any, respecting security, notice by advertisement or otherwise, or any other matter, as the Court thinks fit.

(3.) The provisions of this Order do not apply to a bill of sale executed before the commencement of this Order.

106. The power conferred by this Order for framing Rules from time to time is hereby extended to the framing of Rules for prescribing and regulating the making and keeping of indexes, and of a general index, to the registers of bills of sale, and searches in those indexes, and other particulars connected with the making, keeping and using of those registers and indexes, and for authorizing and regulating the removal from the register of any bill of sale, or the registering of any release or satisfaction in respect thereof.

PART XVI.—PARTNERS.

107.—(1.) Persons claiming or being liable as partners may sue or be sued in the firm name, if any.

(2.) Where partners sue in the firm name, they must, on demand in writing on behalf of any defendant, forthwith declare the names and addresses of the partners.

(3.) Otherwise, all proceedings in the suit may, on application, be stayed on such terms as the Court thinks fit.

(4.) When the names of the partners are so declared, the suit proceeds in the same manner, and the same consequences in all respects follow, as if they had been named as the plaintiffs in the petition.

(5.) All subsequent proceedings, nevertheless, continue in the firm name.

(6.) Where partners are sued in the firm name, the petition must be served either on one or more of the partners within the jurisdiction, or at the principal place of the partnership business within the jurisdiction, or some person having then and there control or management of the partnership business.

(7.) Where one person, carrying on business in the name of a firm apparently representing more persons than one, is sued in the firm name, the petition may be served at the principal place of the business within the jurisdiction on some person having then and there control or management of the business.

(8.) Where patners are sued in the firm name they must appear individually in their own names.

(9.) All subsequent proceedings, nevertheless, continue in the firm name.

(10.) Where a person, carrying on business in the name of a firm apparently representing more persons than one, is sued in the firm name he must appear in his own name.

(11.) All subsequent proceedings, nevertheless, continue in the firm name.

(12.) In any case not hereinbefore provided for, where persons claiming or being liable as partners sue or are sued in the firm name, any party to the suit may, on application to the Court, obtain a statement of the names of the persons who are partners in the firm, to be furnished and verified on oath or otherwise, as the Court thinks fit.

(13.) Where a judgment is against partners in the firm name, execution may issue—

(i.) Against any property of the partners as such; and

(ii.) Against any person who has admitted in the suit that he is a partner, or who has been adjudged to be a partner; and

(iii.) Against any person who has been served in the suit as a partner and has failed to appear.

(14.) If the party who has obtained judgment claims to be entitled to issue execution against any other person, as being a partner, he may apply to the Court for leave so to do; and the Court, if the liability is not disputed, may give such leave, or if it is disputed may order that the question of the liability be tried and determined as a question in the suit, in such manner as the Court thinks fit.

(15.) The provisions of Part XVI may be from time to time varied by Rules made under this Order.

PART XVII.—OFFICIAL.

108. Notwithstanding anything in this Order, a District Court shall not exercise any jurisdiction in any proceeding whatsoever over Her Majesty's Minister, or his official or other residences, or his official or other property.

109. Except as in this Order expressly provided, nothing in this Order shall preclude any of Her Majesty's Consular officers from performing any act, not of a judicial character, which Her Majesty's Consular officers might by law, or by virtue of usage or sufferance, or otherwise, have performed if this Order had not been made.

110. Whenever an Acting Consular officer has commenced the hearing of any cause or matter, civil or criminal, he may unless the Consul-General otherwise directs, continue and complete the hearing and determination thereof, notwithstanding that his authority to act as such Consular officer has otherwise ceased by reason of the expiration of the time for which he was appointed to act, or by reason of the happening of any event by which his authority is determined.

111. Any suit or proceeding shall not be commenced in any Court in Siam or the Straits Settlements against any person for anything done, or purporting to be done, or anything omitted in pursuance, or execution, or intended execution of this Order, or of any Regulation or Rule made under it, unless notice in writing is given by the intended plaintiff or prosecutor to the intended defendant one clear month before the commencement of the suit or proceeding, nor unless it is commenced within three months next after the act or omission complained of, or in case of a continuation of damage within three months next after the doing of such damage has ceased.

The plaintiff in any such suit shall not succeed if tender of sufficient amends is made by the defendant before the commencement thereof; and if no tender is made, the defendant may, by leave of the Court, at any time pay into Court such sum of money as he thinks fit, whereupon such proceedings and order shall be had and made in and by the Court as may be had and made on the payment of money into Court in an ordinary suit.

PART XVIII.—FEES AND EXPENSES.

112. All fees, fines, forfeitures, confiscations and pecuniary penalties, and all commissions levied or received under this Order shall be accounted for, paid, and applied as the Secretary of State, with the concurrence of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, from time to time directs.

113. Subject to the other provisions of this Order, all expenses of removal of prisoners and others, and the expenses of deportation and of the sending of any person to England, or to the Straits Settlements, or India, or British Burmah, including expenses of maintenance, shall be defrayed in such manner as the Secretary of State, with the concurrence of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, from time to time directs.

115. Sums of money, fines, forfeitures, penalties, or fees payable under this Order shall be calculated and paid in English money, or, with the consent of the Court, in its equivalent in local currency or produce, or bills of exchange, approved by the Court.

117. Nothing in this Order or in any Rules made under it shall apply to or in any manner affect any suit or proceeding, either of a civil or of a criminal nature, pending

(2.) In any suit or proceeding, whether of a civil or of a criminal nature, the Court before which the same is pending at the commencement of this Order, after hearing the parties, or of its own motion, or on the application of either party, or by consent, may, if it seems fit, from time to time direct that the procedure and practice prescribed by this Order, or by any Rule made under it, be followed in any respect.

(3.) Nothing in this Order shall take away any right of appeal in any suit of a civil nature pending at the commencement of this Order, or interfere with the bringing or prosecution of any appeal in any such suit that might have been brought or prosecuted if this Order had not been made, or take away or abridge any jurisdiction, power, or authority of any Court, Judge, officer, or any person in relation to any appeal in any such suit, or to the execution or enforcement of any judgment, decree, or order, made before or after the commencement of this Order, in or respecting any appeal in any such suit; and, notwithstanding this Order, any appeal in any such suit shall lie and may be brought and presented, and any such judgment, decree or order may be made, executed, and enforced in like manner and with the like effect and consequences in all respects as if this Order had not been made.

118. This Order shall commence and have effect as follows:—

(2.) As to the framing of Rules or Procedure or Regulations, and the approval thereof by the Secretary of State, immediately from and after the date of this Order.

(3.) As to all other matters and provisions comprised and contained in this Order, immediately from and after the expiration of one month after this Order is first exhibited in the public office of the Consul-General; for which purpose he is hereby required forthwith, on receipt by him of a copy of this Order, to affix and exhibit the same conspicuously in his public office, and he is also hereby required to keep the same so affixed and exhibited during one month from the first exhibition thereof; and notice of the time of such first exhibition shall, as soon thereafter as practicable, be published in every Consular district in Siam, in such manner as the Consul-General directs; and, notwithstanding anything in this Order, the time of the expiration of the said month shall be deemed to be the time of the commencement of this Order.

(4.) Proof shall not in any proceeding or matter be required that the provisions of this Article have been complied with, nor shall any act or proceeding be invalidated by any failure to comply with any of such provisions.

119. A copy of this Order shall be kept exhibited conspicuously in each Court and Consulate in Siam.

Printed copies shall be provided and sold at such reasonable price as the Consul-General directs.

And the Most Honourable the Marquess of Salisbury, the Right Honourable Lord Knutsford, and the Right Honourable Viscount Cross, three of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, and the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, are to give the necessary directions herein as to them may respectively appertain.

NOW, THEREFORE, Her Majesty, by virtue and in exercise of the powers in this behalf by the Foreign Jurisdiction Acts, 1843 to 1878, or otherwise in Her Majesty vested, is pleased, by and with the advice of Her Privy Council, to order, and it is hereby ordered, as follows:—

1. This Order may be cited as the Somali Order in Council, 1889.

2. This Order shall come into operation on such day, not being earlier than the day on which the Persian Coast and Islands Order in Council of 1889 comes into operation, as a Secretary of State appoints by notification published in the London Gazette and in the Gazette of India.

3.—(i.) Subject as hereinafter provided, this Order shall apply to the places and territories for the time being comprised in the Protectorate of the Somali Coast

(ii.) The places to which this Order for the time being applies are hereinafter described as the "limits of this Order."

Provided that a Secretary of State, by instructions addressed to a principal Consular officer or Resident acting within the said limits, may from time to time direct that any place or district within the said limits shall not be subject to this Order, or shall be subject thereto with any restrictions or modifications.

(iv.) In case of dispute or doubt whether any place is within the limits of this Order, or whether any place within the limits of this Order is excluded from the operation thereof under any such instructions as aforesaid, a principal Consular officer or Resident acting within the said limits may, by any writing under his hand, determine such dispute or doubt, and his determination shall, as to all cases and matters arising under or depending on this Order, be conclusive unless and until a Secretary of State otherwise directs.

7.—(1) Subject to the other provisions of this Order, and to any Treaties for the time being in force relating to the Persian coast and islands, Her Majesty's criminal and civil jurisdiction within the Persian coast and islands shall, so far as circumstances admit, be exercised on the principles of, and in conformity with, the enactments for the time being applicable as hereinafter mentioned of the Governor-General of India in Council, and of the Governor of Bombay in Council, and in accordance with the powers vested in, and the course of procedure and practice observed by and before, the Courts in the Presidency of Bombay beyond the limits of the ordinary original jurisdiction of the High Court of Judicature at Bombay according to their respective jurisdiction and authority, and, so far as such enactments, powers, procedure and practice are inapplicable, shall be exercised in accordance with justice, equity, and good conscience.

(3) Any other existing or future enactments of the Governor-General of India in Council, or of the Governor of Bombay in Council shall also be applicable to the Persian coast and islands, but shall not come into operation until such times as may, in the case of any of such enactments respectively, be fixed by the Secretary of State, or, with his previous or subsequent assent, by the Governor-General of India in Council.

(4) For the purpose of facilitating the application of any such enactments as before mentioned—

(a) Any of the Courts established under this Order may construe any such enactment, with such alterations not affecting the substance, as may be necessary or proper to adapt the same to the matter before the Court;
(b) The Secretary of State, or, with his previous or subsequent assent, the Governor-General of India in Council, may, by order from time to time, direct by what authority any jurisdiction, powers or duties incident to the operation of any such enactment, and for the exercise or performance of which no convenient provision has been ortherwise made, shall be exercised or performed;

PART IV.—CRIMINAL MATTERS.

8. Subject to the other provisions of this Order, the Code of Criminal Procedure and the other enactments relating to the administration of criminal justice in British India for the time being applicable to the Persian coast and islands, shall have effect as if the Persian coast and islands were a district in the Presidency of Bombay, and the Judicial Assistant shall be deemed to be the District Magistrate; the Consul-General shall be deemed to be the Sessions Judge, the High Court of Judicature at Bombay (hereinafter called the High Court of Bombay) shall be deemed to be the High Court; and the powers both of the Governor-General in Council and of the Local Government under those enactments shall be exerciseable by the Secretary of State, or, with his previous or subsequent assent, by the Governor-General of India in Council.

9. When any person is committed to the High Court of Bombay for trial, the Consul-General may, under, and in accordance with, the provisions of section 4 of "the Foreign Jurisdiction Act, 1843," send him to Bombay for trial, and may, if he thinks fit, bind over such of the proper witnesses as are British subjects, or any of them, in their own recognizances to appear and give evidence on the trial.

10. If a British subject smuggles or imports into or exports from the Persian coast and islands any goods whereon any duty is charged or payable to the Government of Persia, with intent to evade payment of the duty, he shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to two months, or with fine which may extend to 1,000 rupees (459·77 dollars), or with both.

11.—(1) The Consul-General may, if he thinks fit, from time to time, by General Order, prescribe the manner in which, and the places within the Persian coast and islands at which, sentences of imprisonment are to be carried into execution.

(2) The Consul-General may, if he thinks fit, in any case, by warrant signed by him and sealed with his seal, cause an offender convicted and sentenced to imprisonment before a Criminal Court established under this Order to be sent and removed to, and imprisoned in, any place within the Persian coast and islands.

12. Where an offender convicted before any Court established under this Order is sentenced to imprisonment, and the Consul-General proceeding under section 5 of "The Foreign Jurisdiction Act, 1843," authority in that behalf being hereby given to him, considers it expedient that the sentence should be carried into effect within Her Majesty's dominions, and the offender is accordingly sent for imprisonment to a place in Her Majesty's dominions, the place shall be either a place in the Presidency of Bombay, or a place in some other part of Her Majesty's dominions out of the United Kingdom, the Government whereof consents that offenders may be sent thither under this Article.

13.—(1) In cases of murder or culpable homicide, if either the death or the criminal act which wholly or partly caused the death happened within the Persian coast and islands, a Court acting under this Order shall have the like jurisdiction over any British subject who is charged either as a principal offender or as an abettor as if both such criminal act and the death had happened within the Persian coast and islands.

(2) In the case of any crime committed on the high seas or within the Admiralty jurisdiction by any British subject who at the time of committing such crime was on board a British ship, or on board a foreign ship to which he did not belong, a Court, acting under this Order, shall have jurisdiction as if the crime had been committed within the Persian coast and islands.

(3) In cases tried under this Article no different sentence can be passed from the sentence which could be passed in England if the crime were tried there.

(4) The foregoing provisions of this Article shall be deemed to be adaptations, for the purposes of this Order and of "The Foreign Jurisdiction Act, 1878," of the following enactments described in the first Schedule to that Act, namely:—

(a) "The Admiralty Offences (Colonial) Act, 1849;"
(b) "The Admiralty Offences (Colonial) Act, 1860;" and (c) "The Merchant Shipping Act, 1867," section 11;

and the said enactments shall, so far as they are repeated and adapted by this Article (but not further or otherwise), extend to the Persian coast and islands.

14. "The Fugitive Offenders Act, 1881," shall apply to the Persian coast and islands as if the same were a British possession, subject, so far as regards matters to be done in the Persian coast and islands, to the conditions, exceptions, and qualifications following:—

(i.) The said Act shall apply only in the case of British subjects.
(ii.) The Consul-General is, for the purposes of the said Act, substituted for the Governor of a British possession, and for a Superior Court, or a judge thereof, in a British possession, and for a Magistrate or Justice of the Peace in a British possession.
(iii.) So much of the 4th and 5th sections of the said Act as relates to the sending a report of the issue of a warrant, together with the information, or a copy thereof, or to the sending of a certificate of committal and report of a case, or to the information to be given by a Magistrate to a fugitive, shall be excepted.
(iv.) So much of the 6th section of the said Act as relates to habeas corpus, and as requires the expiration of fifteen days before issue of a warrant, shall be excepted.
(v.) The said Consul-General shall not be bound to return a fugitive offender to a British possession unless satisfied that the proceedings to obtain his return are taken with the consent of the Governor of that possession.

15. "The Colonial Prisoners Removal Act, 1884," shall apply to the places to which this Order applies as if such places were a British possession, subject to the following qualifications:—

(1) It shall apply with respect to British subjects only.
(2) Anything to be done by or in relation to the Governor or Government of a British possession shall be done by or in relation to the Consul-General or other officer or person designated from time to time in this behalf by a Secretary of State.

16. Where a warrant or order of arrest is issued by a competent Consular authority in inland Persia for the apprehension of a person who is accused of crime committed in inland Persia, and who is, or is supposed to be, within the limits of this Order, and such warrant or order is produced to any Court acting under this Order, the Court may back the warrant or order, and the same, when so backed, shall be sufficient authority to any person to whom it was originally directed, and also to any constable or officer of the Court by which it is backed, and to any person named on the back of the warrant or order, to apprehend the accused person at any place within the limits of this Order, and to carry him to and deliver him up within the jurisdiction of the authority issuing the warrant or order.

17. Where a British subject is convicted of an offence, the Court before which he is convicted may, if it thinks fit, require him to give security to the satisfaction of the Court for his future good behaviour, and for that purpose may, if it thinks fit, cause him to come or be brought before the Court.

18.—(1) If a British subject, required by an order under the last foregoing Article of this Order, or under the law relating to criminal procedure for the time being in force, to give security for good behaviour or for keeping the peace, fails to do so, the Court making the order may, if it thinks fit, order that he be deported from the Persian coast and islands to a place to be named by the Consul-General.

(2) The Court, on making an order of deportation, shall forthwith report to the Consul-General the order, and the grounds thereof.

(3) Thereupon the person ordered to be deported shall, if the Consul-General thinks fit, be, as soon as practicable, and in the case of a person convicted, either after execution of the sentence or while it is in course of execution, removed in custody under the warrant of the Consul-General to the place named in the warrant.

(4) The place shall be either a place in the Presidency of Bombay, or a place in some other part of Her Majesty's dominions out of the United Kingdom, the Government whereof consents to the reception therein of persons deported under this Order.

(5) The Court, on making an order of deportation, may, if it thinks fit, order the person to be deported to pay all or any part of the expenses of his deportation, to be fixed by the Court in the order. Subject thereto, the expenses of deportation shall be defrayed as the Secretary of State, with the concurrence of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, directs.

(6) The Consul-General shall forthwith report to the Secretary of State every order of deportation made under this Order, and the grounds thereof, and the proceedings thereunder.

(7) If a person deported under this Order returns to the Persian coast and islands without permission in writing of the Consul-General, or the Governor-General of India in Council, or the Secretary of State, he shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to two months, or with a fine which may extend to 1,000 rupees (459·77 dollars), or with both.

(8) He shall also be liable to be forthwith again deported under the original or a new order, and a fresh warrant of the Consul-General.

19. If any person subject to criminal jurisdiction under this Order does any of the following things, namely:—

(i.) Wilfully by act or threat obstructs any officer of or person executing any process of the Court in the performance of his duty; or

(ii.) Within or close to the room or place where the Court is sitting wilfully misbehaves in a violent, threatening, or disrespectful manner to the disturbance of the Court, or to the intimidation of suitors or others resorting thereto; or

(iii.) Wilfully insults any member of the Court, or any assessor, or any person acting as a Clerk or Officer of the Court during his sitting or attendance in Court, or in his going to or returning from Court; or

(iv.) Does any act in relation to the Court or a Judge thereof, or a matter pending therein, which, if done in relation to a Superior Court in England, or in India, would be punishable as a contempt of such Court, or as a libel on such Court, or the Judges thereof, or the administration of justice therein;

such person shall be liable to be apprehended by order of the Court with or without warrant, and, on inquiry and consideration, and after the hearing of any defence which such person may offer, without further process or trial, to be punished with a fine not exceeding 100 rupees (45·97 dollars), or with imprisonment not exceeding twenty-four hours.

A Minute shall be made and kept of every such case of punishment, recording the facts of the offence and the extent of the punishment, and a copy of the Minute shall be forthwith sent to the Governor-General of India in Council

Provided that, if the Court thinks fit, instead of proceeding under the preceding provisions, it may direct or cause the offender to be tried in a separate criminal prosecution or proceeding in which the offender shall be liable to any punishment to which he would be liable if the offence were committed in relation to the Court of a Sessions Judge in India.

Nothing herein shall interfere with the power of the Court to remove or exclude persons who interrupt or obstruct the proceedings of the Court.

20. Where a person entitled to appeal to the High Court of Bombay from any judgment or order passed in the exercise of criminal jurisdiction under this Order desires so to appeal, he shall present his petition of appeal to the Court which passed the judgment or order; and the petition shall with all practicable speed be transmitted by or through the Consul-General to the High Court, with certified copies of the charge (if any) and proceedings, of all documentary evidence admitted or tendered, of the depositions, of the notes of the oral testimony, and of the judgment or order, and any argument on the petition of appeal that the appellant desires to submit to the High Court.

21. The Court against whose judgment or order the appeal is preferred shall postpone the execution of the sentence pending the appeal, and shall, if necessary, commit the person convicted to prison for safe custody, or detain him in prison for safe custody, or shall admit him to bail, and may take security, by recognizance, deposit of money, or otherwise, for his payment of any fine.

22.—(1) Where under this Order a person is to be sent or removed or deported from the Persian coast and islands, he shall, by warrant of the Consul-General under his hand and seal, be detained, if necessary, in custody, or in prison, until a fit opportunity for his removal or deportation occurs, and then be put on board a vessel belonging to, or in the service of, Her Majesty, or if no such vessel is available, then on board some other British or other fit vessel.

(2) The warrant of the Consul-General shall be sufficient authority to the person to whom it is directed or delivered for execution, and to the Commanding Officer or master of the vessel, to receive and detain the person therein named, in the manner therein prescribed, and to send or remove and carry him to the place therein named, according to the warrant.

(3) In case of sending or removal for any purpose other than deportation, the warrant of the Consul-General shall be issued in duplicate, and the person executing it shall, as soon as practicable after his arrival at the place therein named, deliver, according to the warrant, with one of the duplicates of the warrant, to a constable, or proper officer of police, or keeper of a prison, or other proper authority or person there, the person named in the warrant, to be produced on the order of the proper Court or authority there, or to be otherwise dealt with according to law.

PART V.—CIVIL MATTERS.

23. Subject to the other provisions of this Order, the Code of Civil Procedure, "The Bombay Civil Courts Act, 1869," "The Indian Succession Act," and the other enactments relating to the administration of civil justice and to insolvency and bankruptcy for the time being applicable to the Persian coast and islands, shall have effect as if the Persian coast and islands were a district in the Presidency of Bombay; the Consul-General shall be deemed to be the District Judge of the district, and his Court the District Court or Principal Civil Court of Original Jurisdiction in the district; the High Court of Bombay shall be deemed to be the highest Civil Court of Appeal for the district and the Court authorized to hear appeals from the decisions of the District Court; and the powers, both of the Governor-General in Council and the Local Government, under those enactments, shall be exerciseable by the Secretary of State, or, with his previous or subsequent assent by the Governor-General of India in Council.

24.—(1) The Consul-General shall endeavour to obtain, as early as may be, notice of the deaths of all British subjects dying within the Persian coast and islands leaving property to be administered, and all such information as may serve to guide him with respect to the securing and administration of their property.

(2) On receiving notice of the death of such a person, the Consul-General shall put up a notice thereof at his office, and shall keep the same there until probate or administration is granted, or, where it appears to the Consul-General that probate or administration will not be applied for or cannot be granted, for such time as he thinks fit.

(3) The Consul-General shall, where the circumstances of the case appear to him so to require, as soon as may be, take possession of the property within the Persian coast and islands of the deceased, or put it under his seal (in either case, if the nature of the property or other circumstances so require, making an inventory), and so keep it until it can be dealt with according to law.

(4) All expenses incurred on behalf of the Consul-General in so doing shall be the first charge on the property of the deceased, and the Consul-General shall, by sale of part of that property, or otherwise, provide for the discharge of these expenses.

(5) The Consul-General may, by an order under his hand, delegate to any officer subordinate to him, whether as Consul-General or as Political Resident in the Persian Gulf, the exercise of the powers and performance of the duties conferred and imposed on the Consul-General by this Article.

(6) The Consul-General, or any officer or person acting under this Article, shall not be responsible for anything done in good faith in execution, or intended execution, of this Article.

25. If a person who has been named executor in a will, and to the establishment of whose title, as such, it is necessary to obtain probate of that will, takes possession of and administers or otherwise deals with any part of the property of the deceased, and does not obtain probate within one month after the death or after the termination of any proceeding respecting probate or administration, he shall be punished with fine, which may extend to 1,000 rupees (459·77 dollars).

26. If any person, other than the person named executor, or the administrator, or a person entitled to represent the deceased without obtaining probate or letters of administration, or an officer subordinate to the Consul-General, either as such or as Political Resident in the Persian Gulf, takes possession of and administers or otherwise deals with any part of the property of the deceased, he shall, as soon as practicable, notify the fact and the circumstances to the Consul-General, and shall furnish to the Consul-General all such information as the Consul-General requires, and shall conform to any direction of the Consul-General in relation to the custody, disposal, or transmission of the property or the proceeds thereof, and, in case of any contravention of this Article, he shall be punished with fine, which may extend to 1,000 rupees (459·77 dollars).

27.—(1) When the peculiar circumstances of the case appear to the Court having jurisdiction to grant letters of administration so to require for reasons recorded in its proceedings, the Court may, if it thinks fit, of its own motion or otherwise, grant letters of administration to an officer of the Court.

(2) The officer so appointed shall act under the direction of the Court, and shall be indemnified thereby.

(3) He shall publish such notices, if any, as the Court thinks fit, within the Persian coast and islands, Bombay, the United Kingdom, and elsewhere.

(4) The Court shall require and compel him to file in the proper office of the Court his accounts of his administration, at intervals not exceeding three months, and shall forthwith examine them and report thereon to the Consul-General.

(5) The accounts shall be audited under the direction of the Consul-General.

(6) All expenses incurred on behalf of the Court in execution of this Article shall be the first charge on the estate of the deceased within the Persian coast and islands and the Court shall, by the sale of that estate or otherwise, provide for the discharge of those expenses.

28.—(1) Where any person entitled to appeal to the High Court of Bombay from any decree or order made in the exercise of civil jurisdiction under this Order desires so to appeal, he shall present his memorandum of appeal to the Court which made the decree or order, and, subject to the provisions hereinafter contained, that Court shall receive the same for transmission to the High Court in manner hereinafter provided.

(2) The appellant shall give security to the satisfaction of the Consul-General, and to such amount as the Consul-General thinks reasonable, for prosecution of the appeal, and for payment of any costs which may be ordered by the High Court of Bombay on the appeal, to be paid by the appellant to any person.

(3) The appellant shall pay into the proper office of the Court which passed the decree or order such sum as the Consul-General thinks reasonable, to defray the expense of the making up and transmission to the High Court of Bombay of the record.

29. The appellant may with his memorandum of appeal file any argument which he desires to submit to the High Court of Bombay in support of the appeal.

30.—(1) The memorandum of appeal and the argument (if any) shall be served on such persons as respondents as the Court in which they are filed direct.

(2) A respondent may, within fourteen days after service, file in that Court a Memorandum (if any) of cross-appeal, and such arguments as he desires to submit to the High Court of Bombay against the appeal, or in support of the cross-appeal.

(3) Copies thereof shall be furnished by the Court in which they are filed to such persons as the Court thinks fit.

31.—(1) On the expiration of the time for the respondent filing his argument, the Court shall, without the application of any party, make up and send to the Consul-General the record of appeal, which shall consist of the memorandum of appeal and the arguments (if any), and certified copies of the following, namely, the plaint, written statements (if any), all proceedings, all written and documentary evidence admitted or tendered, the notes of the oral evidence, the judgment, and the decree or order.

(2) The several pieces shall be fastened together consecutively numbered, and the whole shall be secured by the seal of the Consul-General, and be forthwith forwarded by him to the High Court of Bombay.

(3) The Consul-General may if for special reasons he thinks fit, send any portion of the documentary evidence, in original, to the High Court.

PART VI.—VICE-ADMIRALTY.

32. The Consul-General shall, for and within the Persian coast and islands, and for vessels and persons coming within the Persian coast and islands, and in regard to vessels captured on suspicion of being engaged in the Slave Trade, have all such jurisdiction as for the time being ordinarily belongs to Courts of Vice-Admiralty in Her Majesty's possessions abroad.

PART VII.—PERSIAN AND FOREIGN SUBJECTS AND TRIBUNALS.

33.—(1) Every suit in which a British subject is a defendant, and a Persian subject is a plaintiff, shall within the Persian coast and islands be heard by a Court established under this Order.

(2) The High Court of Bombay shall not exercise jurisdiction in any such suit, but where a decree or order in any such suit has been passed by any Court subordinate to the Consul-General, the Consul-General may call for the proceedings, and pass thereon such order as he may think fit, and any order so passed by him shall be final.

34.—(1) Where a foreigner desires to bring in a Court established under this Order a suit against a British subject, or a British subject desires to bring in such a Court a suit against a foreigner not being a subject of a Mahommedan Power, the Court shall entertain the same and shall hear and determine it.

(2) Provided that the foreigner, if required by the Court, first obtains and files in the proper office of the Court the consent, in writing, of the competent authority (if any), on behalf of his own nation to his submitting, and that he does submit by writing, to the jurisdiction of the Court, and, if required by the Court, gives security to the satisfaction of the Court, and to such reasonable amount as the Court thinks fit, by deposit or otherwise, to pay fees, costs, and damages, and abide by, and perform, the decision to be given by the Court or on appeal.

(3) A cross-suit shall not be brought in the Court against a plaintiff, being a foreigner, who has submitted to the jurisdiction, by a defendant, without leave of the Court first obtained.

(4) The Court, before giving leave, may require proof from the defendant that his claim arises out of the matter in dispute, and that there is reasonable ground for it, and that it is not made for vexation or delay.

(5) Nothing in this Article shall prevent the defendant from bringing in the Court against the foreigner, after the termination of the suit in which the foreigner is plaintiff, any suit which the defendant might have brought in the Court against the foreigner if no provision restraining cross-suits had been inserted in this Order.

(6) Where a foreigner obtains, in a Court established under this Order, a decree or order against a defendant being a British subject, and in another suit that defendant is plaintiff and the foreigner is defendant, the Court may, if it thinks fit, on the application of the British subject, stay the enforcement of the decree or order pending that other suit, and may set off any amount decreed or ordered to be paid by one party in one suit against any amount decreed or ordered to be paid by the other party in the other suit.

(7) Where a plaintiff, being a foreigner, obtains a decree or order, in a Court established under this Order, against two or more defendants, being British subjects, jointly, and in another suit one of them is a plaintiff and the foreigner is defendant, the Court may, if it thinks fit, on the application of the British subjects, stay the enforcement of the decree or order pending that other suit, and may set off any amount decreed or ordered to be paid by one party in one suit against any amount decreed or ordered to be paid by the other party in the other suit, without prejudice to the right of the British subject to obtain contribution from his co-defendants under the joint liability.

(8) Where a foreigner is co-plaintiff in a suit with a British subject who is within the Persian coast and islands, it shall not be necessary for the foreigner to give security under this Article as regards fees and costs, unless the Court so directs; but the co-plaintiff British subject shall be responsible for all fees and costs.

35.—(1) Where it is proved that the attendance of a British subject to give evidence, or for any other purpose connected with the administration of justice, is required before a Persian or foreign Court, the Consul-General may, if he thinks fit, in a case and in circumstances in which he would, if acting in his judicial capacity, require the attendance of that person before himself, ordered that he do attend as required.

(2) If the person ordered to attend, having reasonable notice of the time and place at which he is required to attend, fails to attend accordingly and does not satisfactorily excuse his failure, he shall, independently of any other liability, be liable to be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to two months, or with fine which may extend to 1,000 rupees (459·77 dollars), or with both.

36.—(1) If a British subject wilfully gives false evidence in a proceeding before a Persian or foreign Court, or in an arbitration between a British subject on the one hand, and a Persian subject or foreigner on the other hand, he shall, on conviction before a competent Court of Criminal Jurisdiction, be liable to be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to two months, or with fine which may extend to 1,000 rupees (459·77 dollars), or with both.

(2) Nothing in this Article shall exempt a person from liability under any other British or British Indian Law to any other or higher punishment or penalty:

Provided that no person shall be punished twice for the same offence.

37.—(1) Every agreement for reference to arbitration between a British subject on the one hand, and a Persian subject or a foreigner on the other hand, may, on the application of any party, be filed for execution in the proper office of a Court established under this Order.

(2) The Court shall thereupon have authority to enforce the Agreement, and the award made thereunder, and to control and regulate the proceedings before and after the award, in such manner and on such terms as the Court may think fit:

(3) Provided that the Persian subject or foreigner, if so required by the Court, first obtains and files, in the proper office of the Court, the consent, in writing, of the competent authority (if any) on behalf of his own nation to his submitting, and that he does submit by writing, to the jurisdiction of the Court, and, if required by the Court, gives security to the satisfaction of the Court, and to such reasonable amount as the Court thinks fit, by deposit or otherwise, to pay fees, costs, damages and expenses, and abide by and perform the award.

PART VIII.—REGISTRATION OF BRITISH SUBJECTS.

38.—(1) Every resident British subject, being of the age of 21 years or upwards, or being married or a widower or widow, though under that age, shall, unless already registered, register himself or herself at an office appointed by the Consul-General in that behalf for the local area within which the British subject is resident.

(2) Every such British subject, not resident, arriving at a place within the Persian coast and islands where there is an office as aforesaid, unless borne on the muster-roll of a British or foreign vessel there arriving, shall, within one month after arrival, register himself or herself at the office. But this provision shall not be deemed to require any person to register himself or herself oftener than once in a year reckoned from the 1st day of January.

(3) The registration of a man shall, nevertheless, comprise the registration of his wife, if living with him; and

(4) The registration of the head, male or female, of a family, shall be deemed to comprise the registration of all females being his or her relatives, in whatever degree, living under the same roof with him or her at the time of his or her registration.

(5) The officer in charge of the office shall give to each person registered by him a certificate of registration signed by him and sealed with his seal.

(6) The name of a wife, if her registration is comprised in her husband's, shall, unless in any case the Consul-General sees good reason to the contrary, be indorsed on the husband's certificate.

(7) The names and descriptions of females, whose registration is comprised in that of the head of the family, shall, unless in any case the Consul-General sees good reason to the contrary, be indorsed on the certificate of the head of the family.

(8) Every person shall, on every registration of himself, pay a fee of 2 rupees 8 annas (1·15 dollar), or such other amount as the Secretary of State, or, with his previous or subsequent assent, the Governor-General of India in Council from time to time appoints.

(9) The amount of the fee either may be uniform for all persons, or may vary according to the position and circumstances of different classes, as the Secretary of State or the Governor-General of India in Council, as the case may be, from time to time thinks fit, but shall not in any case exceed 2 rupees 8 annas (1·15 dollar).

(10) Every person by this Order required to register himself at an office shall, unless excused by the officer in charge of the office, or unless such person is a woman who, by the custom of the class to which she belongs, is prevented from appearing in public, attend personally for that purpose at the office on each occasion for registration.

(11) If any person fails to comply with the provisions of this Order respecting registration, and does not satisfactorily excuse his failure, the Courts established and officers appointed under this Order may, in any case in which they think fit, decline to recognize him as a British subject.

PART IX.—PROCEDURE.

39. Subject to the control of the Secretary of State, the Consul-General may, from time to time, with the previous sanction of the Governor-General of India in Council, make Rules of Procedure and other Rules, consistent with this Order, for the better execution of the provisions herein contained in respect of any matter arising in the course of any civil or criminal case, including insolvency and bankruptcy proceedings.

40. Sections 7 and 11 of "The Evidence Act, 1851" (relating to proof of judgments and other documents), are hereby extended to the Persian coast and islands.

41. PART X.—SUPPLEMENTAL PROVISIONS.

43.—(1) Subject to the control of the Secretary of State acting with the concurrence of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, the Consul-General may, from time to time, with the previous sanction of the Governor-General of India in Council, make rules imposing fees leviable in respect of any proceedings in, or processes issued out of, any Court established under this Order.

(2) But a Court before which any matter is pending may, in any case, if it thinks fit, on account of the poverty of a party, or for any other reason, dispense in whole or in part with the payment of any fees chargeable in respect of such matter.

(3) Nothing in this Order shall affect any Order in Council for the time being in force under the Act of the 6 Geo. IV, cap. 87, or any Act amending that Act for prescribing a Table of fees to be taken by Consular Officers; and where a fee is taken under that Order, no fee shall be taken in respect of the same matter under this Order.

44.—(1) All fees, charges, expenses, costs, fines, damages, and other money payable under this Order, or under any Law made applicable by this Order, may, if no provision is made by any Law for the time being in force for the recovery of the same, be recovered by the Consul-General, or under his orders, by attachment and sale of the moveable property of the person by whom they are payable, and in case of deficiency by imprisonment in the civil gaol for a term not exceeding one month.

(2) Any bill of sale or mortgage, or transfer of property, made with the view of avoiding such attachment or sale, shall not be effectual to defeat the provisions of this Order.

(3) All fees, penalties, fines and forfeitures levied under this Order shall be paid to the public account, and shall be applied in such manner as the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury may direct.

45. Whenever an Acting Consul-General or Acting Judicial Assistant has commenced the hearing of any cause or matter, civil or criminal, he may, unless the Consul-General otherwise directs, continue and complete the hearing and determination thereof, notwithstanding that his authority to act as Consul-General or as Judicial Assistant has otherwise ceased by reason of the expiration of the time for which he was appointed to act, or by reason of the happening of any event by which his authority is determined.

46.—(1) If an officer of any Court established under this Order, employed to execute a decree or order, loses, by neglect or omission, the opportunity of executing it, then, on complaint of the person aggrieved and proof of the fact alleged, the Court may, if it thinks fit, order the officer to pay the damages sustained by the person complaining, or part thereof.

(2) The order may be enforced as an order directing payment of money.

47.—(1) If a clerk or officer of any such Court, acting under pretence of the process or authority of the Court, is charged with extortion, or with not paying over money duly levied or with other misconduct, the Court may, if it thinks fit, inquire into the charge in a summary way, and may for that purpose summon and enforce the attendance of all necessary persons as in a suit, and may make such order for the repayment of any money extorted, or for the payment over of any money levied, and for the payment of such damages and costs as the Court thinks fit.

(2) The Court may also, if it thinks fit, on the same inquiry, impose on the clerk or officer such fine, not exceeding 50 rupees (22·99 dollars) for each offence, as the Court thinks fit.

(3) A clerk or officer punished under this Article shall not, without the leave of the Court, be liable to a civil suit in respect of the same matter; and any such suit, if already or afterwards begun, may be stayed by the Court in such manner and on such terms as the Court thinks fit.

(4) Nothing in this Article shall be deemed to prevent any person from being prosecuted under any other British or British Indian law for any act or omission punishable under this Article, or from being liable under that other law to any other or higher punishment or penalty than that provided by this Article:

Provided that no person shall be punished twice for the same offence.

48. The Court shall have jurisdiction from time to time to make an order requiring a person to contribute, in such manner as the Court directs, to the support of his wife, or to the support of his or her child, whether legitimate or not, being, in the opinion of the Court, under the age of 16 years. Any such order may be made in a summary way, as if the neglect to provide for the support of such wife or child were an offence, and any failure to comply with any such order shall be deemed to be an offence, and shall be punishable with a fine not exceeding 10 rupees (4·59 dollars) for any one default, and the Court may direct any penalty imposed for such offence to be applied for the support of such wife or child in such manner as the Court thinks fit.

49. The Consul-General under this Order shall have power to make and alter Regulations (to be called Queen's Regulations) for the following purposes (that is to say):—

(1) For securing the observance of any Treaty or arrangement, for the time being in force, relating to any place to which this Order applies.

(2) For the peace, order, and good government of British subjects or British protected persons (so far as subject to this Order) within any such place in relation to matters not provided for by this Order.

(3) For requiring Returns to be made of the nature, quantity, and value of articles exported from, or imported into, his district, or any part thereof, by or on account of any British subject or British-protected person who is subject to this Order, or in any British ship, and for prescribing the times and manner at or in which, and the persons by whom, such Returns are to be made.

Any Regulations made under this Article shall, when allowed by a Secretary of State, and published as he directs, have effect as if contained in this Order; and any breach thereof shall be an offence punishable by fine not exceeding 100 rupees (45·97 dollars).

50. Any acts which, if done in the United Kingdom or in a British possession, would be an offence against any of the following Statutes of the Imperial Parliament, or Orders in Council, that is to say:—

"The Merchandize Marks Act, 1887."

"The Patents, Designs, and Trade-marks Acts, 1883 to 1888."

Any Act, Statute, or Order in Council for the time being in force relating to copyright, or to inventions, designs, or trade-marks.

Any Statute amending or substituted for either of the above-mentioned Statutes—

Shall, if done by a British subject, within the limits of this Order, be punishable as an offence against this Order, whether such act is done in relation to any property or right of a British subject, or of a foreigner or Persian subject, or otherwise, however:

Provided—

(1) That a copy of any such Statute or Order in Council shall be published by the Consul-General in his public office, and shall be there open for inspection by any person at all reasonable times; and a person shall not be punished under this Article for anything done before the expiration of one month after such publication, unless the person offending is proved to have had express notice of the Statute or Order in Council.

(2) That a prosecution by or on behalf of a prosecutor who is not a British subject shall not be entertained without the consent in writing of the Consul-General, who may withhold such consent unless he is satisfied that effectual provision exists for the punishment in Consular or other Courts of similar acts committed by the subjects of the State or Power of which such prosecutor is a subject, in relation to or affecting the interests of British subjects.

51. Where, by virtue of this Order or otherwise, any Imperial Act, or any Law in force in India, is applicable in any place to which this Order applies, such Act or Law shall be deemed applicable so far only as the constitution and jurisdiction of the Courts acting under this Order and the local circumstances permit, and for the purpose of facilitating the application of any such Act or Law, it may be construed with such alterations and adaptations not affecting the substance as may be necessary, and anything by such Act or Law required to be done by or to any Court, Judge, officer, or authority may be done by or to a Court, Judge, officer, or authority having the like or analogous functions, or by any officer designated by the Court for that purpose, and the seal of the Court may be substituted for any seal required by any such Act or Law; and in case any difficulty occurs in the application of any such Act or Law, it shall be lawful for a Secretary of State to direct by and to whom, and in what manner, anything to be done under such Act or Law is to be done, and such Act or Law shall, in its application to matters arising within the limits of this Order, be construed accordingly.

52. Judicial notice shall be taken of this Order, and of the commencement thereof, and of the appointment of the Consul-General or judicial assistant, and of the constitution and limits of the Courts and districts, and of Consular seals and signatures, and of any Rules and Regulations made or in force under this Order, and no proof shall be required of any of such matters.

53. Nothing in this Order shall deprive the Consul-General, or any officer subordinate to him, either as such or as Political Resident in the Persian Gulf, of the right to observe, and to enforce the observance of, or shall deprive any person of the benefit of any reasonable custom existing within the Persian coast and islands, unless this Order contains some express and specific provision incompatible with the observance thereof.

54. Nothing in this Order shall—

(i.) Affect any power or jurisdiction conferred by, or referred to in, the Act of the Governor-General of India in Council, entitled "The Foreign Jurisdiction and Extradition Act, 1879 (Act XXI of 1879);" or

(ii.) Affect any jurisdiction for the time being exerciseable by the Consul-General under any Act of the British Parliament other than the Foreign Jurisdiction Acts, 1843 to 1878; or

(iii.) Prevent any Consular Officer of Her Majesty within the Persian coast and islands from doing anything which Her Majesty's Consuls in the dominions of any State in amity with Her Majesty are, for the time being, by law, usage, or sufferance, entitled or enabled to do.

55. Criminal or civil proceedings pending at the commencement of this Order shall, from and after that time, be regulated by the provisions of this Order as far as the nature and circumstances of each case admit.

56. All judicial acts done before the passing of this Order within the Persian coast and islands by the Political Resident in the Persian Gulf, or by any officer subordinate to him and acting by his direction or with his approval, shall be deemed to be, and to have always been, as valid to all intents as if they had been done in accordance with law.

57. The Consul-General may exercise any power conferred on any Justice of the Peace within Her Majesty's dominions by any Act of Parliament for the time being in force regulating merchant seamen or the mercantile marine.

58. If a question arises whether any place is or is not within the Persian coast and islands for the purposes of this Order, it shall be referred to the Consul-General, and a certificate under his hand and seal shall be conclusive on the question, and shall be taken judicial notice of by the High Court of Bombay, and by any Court established under this Order.

59. Not later than the 31st day of March in each year, or such other day as the Secretary of State directs from time to time, the Consul-General shall send to the Governor-General of India in Council, for transmission to the Secretary of State, a Report on the operation of this Order up to the 31st day of December in the previous year, or such other date as the Secretary of State directs from time to time, showing for the last twelve months the number and nature of the proceedings, criminal and civil, taken under this Order, and the result thereof, and the number and amount of fees received, and containing an abstract of the list of registered British subjects and such other information, and being in such form as the Secretary of State from time to time directs.

60.—(1) A printed copy of this Order, and of all Rules of Procedure and other Rules for the time being in force under this Order, shall be kept open to inspection free of charge in the office of the Consul-General, and of each Court established under this Order.

(2) Printed copies thereof shall be sold within the Persian coast and islands at such reasonable price as the Consul-General from time to time directs.

And the Most Honourable the Marquis of Salisbury, and the Right Honourable Viscount Cross, two of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, and the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, are to give the necessary directions herein as to them may respectively appertain.

No. 615-I.—The Governor-General in Council is pleased to declare that the provisions (so far as they are applicable) of Act XVIII of 1886 and Act XX of 1889 (amending Act XXXVI of 1858, relating to Lunatic Asylums), apply to the Hyderabad Assigned Districts.

The 21st February, 1890.

No. 634-I.—The Governor-General in Council is pleased to publish the following rules made under sections 25, 27 and 33 of the Hyderabad Assigned Districts Births, Deaths and Marriages Registration Law, 1888 :—

1. In these rules, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context,—
   (1) "the Law" means the Hyderabad Assigned Districts Births, Deaths and Marriages Registration Law, 1888 :
   (2) "schedule" means a schedule to these rules :
   (3) "Registrar-General" and "Registrar" mean, respectively, a Registrar-General of Births, Deaths and Marriages and a Registrar of Births and Deaths appointed under the Law : and
   (4) "sign," used with reference to a person who is unable to write his name, includes mark.

2. Notices of births and deaths shall be in the forms set forth in schedule A and Schedule B respectively.

3. Every such notice shall be signed by the person giving it, and shall specify the capacity in which the person claims to be authorized to give it.

4. Every such notice shall ordinarily be presented to the Registrar for the local area in which the birth or death occurred within three months of the date of the birth or death to which it refers, as the case may be :

Provided that the Registrar may, of his own authority, for any reason which he considers sufficient, accept notice of a birth or death at any time within six months from the date of its occurrence, and with the special sanction in writing of the Registrar-General after that time.

5. An appeal against an order of a Registrar refusing to register a birth or death on any other ground than that referred to in proviso (a) to section 18 of the Law shall lie to the Registrar-General, who may, in his discretion, either confirm the order of the Registrar, or direct him to register the birth or death.

6. Registers of births and deaths shall be kept in the forms set forth in Schedule C and Schedule D respectively.

7. When a birth or death has occurred during a journey, or when the person giving notice of a birth or death was compelled by duty, or urgent necessity, or unavoidable accident, to leave the local area in which such birth or death occurred so soon after its occurrence that he was unable to give the prescribed notice to the Registrar for that local area, any Registrar may receive notice of such birth or death, and register the same as if it were a birth or death which had occurred within the local area for which he has been appointed.

8. The provisions of Rule 4, as to the time within which notice of a birth or death must be given, shall apply to every notice of a birth or death given under the circumstances described in the last foregoing rule.

9. In every case of a birth or death admitted to registration under Rule 7, the Registrar to whom the notice of the birth or death is given shall record in his register the reason why the notice was not given to the Registrar of the local area within which the birth or death occurred, and shall within one week from the date of the registration of the birth or death forward to the Registrar-General, and to the Registrar of the local area within which the birth or death occurred, a copy of the entry in the register relating to the birth or death.

Every Registrar shall paste into a book kept by him for the purpose all copies of entries received by him under this rule, and the book containing the copies shall be, at all reasonable times, open to inspection by any person desiring to inspect it.

10. Every certificate of registration of a birth or death given by a Registrar under section 22 of the Law shall be in the form set forth in Schedule E.

11. At the foot of every copy of an entry given under section 9 or section 24 of the Law, there shall be written a certificate, dated and subscribed by the Registrar-General or officer authorized under section 9, or by the Registrar, as the case may be, that the copy is a true copy of the entry.

12. Every Registrar shall keep, in the form set forth in Schedule F, a register of all certificates of registration and copies of entries given by him.

The Registrar-General shall keep a register in a similar form of all copies given by him of entries in the certified copies of the registers sent to his office.

13. The copies of entries of births and deaths which Registrars are required by section 23 of the Law to send to the Registrar-General shall be certified in the form set forth in Schedule G, and shall be sent at intervals of three months, on or as nearly as possible after the 1st January, April, July, and October in each year.

Should no entries be made in a register during the preceding three months, a certificate to this effect shall be sent to the Registrar-General.

14. The indexes which are required by section 7 of the Law to be made of the certified copies of registers of births, deaths and marriages sent to the office of the Registrar-General shall be in the forms set forth in Schedule H, Schedule I and Schedule J, respectively.

Every entry in an index shall be made alphabetically with reference to the initial letter of the name of the person indicated by the entry.

In the index of certified copies of entries of marriages, the names of both the husband and the wife must be indexed.

In the case of a person of European descent, the initial letter will be the first letter of the surname; and in the case of any other person, the first letter of his name, and not that of his rank, title or class.

15. A Registrar may, of his own motion, correct, in manner prescribed in section 27 of the Law, any error in form made in an entry of a birth or death in a register of births or register of deaths kept by him under the Law.

In every case in which an entry is corrected under this rule, intimation thereof shall (if practicable) be communicated, within one week from the date of the correction being made, to the person who gave the notice of the birth or death.

16. When an error in substance in any entry of a birth or death in a register of births or register of deaths is asserted to have been made, the Registrar may correct the error, in manner prescribed in section 27 of the Law, on application made in writing, and signed in the presence of two witnesses attesting the signature, by any person authorised under section 19 or 20, as the case may be, to give notice of the birth or death to which the entry relates:

Provided that the Registrar is satisfied that the application is well founded.

An appeal against an order of a Registrar under this rule refusing to correct an asserted error in an entry in a register shall lie to the Registrar-General who may, in his discretion, either confirm the order of the Registrar, or direct him to correct the error.

17. Without the special sanction in writing of the Registrar-General, an application for the correction of an entry in a register of births or register of deaths shall not be entertained after the expiration of one year from the date on which the notice of the birth or death was given.

18. The sums specified in Schedule K shall be the fees payable under the sections of the Law there referred to:

Provided that soldiers and non-commissioned officers of Her Majesty's Regular Forces, and all seamen, shall be exempted from the payment of any fees.

19. The Registrar-General and every Registrar shall keep a register, in the form set forth in Schedule L, of all fees realised under these rules, and shall forward the fees at the end of each month to the nearest treasury to be credited to Government. The treasury officer shall give the Registrar a certificate of the amount so credited, and the Registrar shall send a copy of the certificate to the Registrar-General.

Provided that the Registrar is satisfied that the application is well founded.

7. The rule (Article 266, Clause (a), Army Regulations, India, Volume I, Part I) requiring commandants to vacate on completion of seven years' tenure will not for the present be applied to the commandants of the corps now formed.

8. The pay and allowances of the British officers of these corps will be the same as those allowed for the Native Infantry of the Indian Army, but in consideration of the circumstances of local service in Burma, each British officer will receive, in addition, a local allowance of ₹100 per mensem, and will also be eligible for the indulgence of three months' privilege leave in each year.

9. The British officers of these corps, as belonging to the Madras Army, will be eligible for general staff employment in the same way as all other officers of the Army. Exchanges will be permitted between the officers of the Burma battalions and those of the ordinary line regiments of the Madras Army and transfers between these corps will be allowed to take place, at the discretion of the Commander-in-Chief.

10. Probationers for the Madras Staff Corps may be appointed direct to these corps in succession to vacancies, without first going through a course of duty with other regiments of the Madras Army.

12. The following rates of pay are sanctioned for the Native ranks of these corps, viz.—

13. Good-conduct pay will be given as laid down in Articles 85 and 86 of the regulations above quoted.

14. The conditions of service as regards enlistment, kit money, clothing, half-mounting, discharge, pensions and free quarters will be the same as those now in force for regiments of the Madras Army in Burma.

15. Former service in the police battalions and in the Army will count towards the period of service required for the grant of good-conduct pay and pension.

16. All ranks, including Native officers, will be granted free rations as in Army Regulations, India, Volume V, paragraph 522.

17. Furlough and leave will be granted under the regulations in force in the Bengal Army.

18. The indulgences conceded to the military police in regard to families will be continued on the transfer of these corps to the Madras line, viz. :—

19. Soldiers serving in one battalion will be liable to transfer to either of the other two local battalions, as the exigencies of the service may require.

20. These corps will be brought up to the strength shown in paragraph 5 as early as practicable by volunteers from other police battalions, and by the enlistment of recruits under the conditions herein laid down, care being taken to bring into each corps only men of the classes of which the corps will be composed, as shown below.

Hereafter Karens, Shans and Kachins may be enlisted for these corps

22. Having in view the excess of senior officers at present in the Madras Army, and the impossibility of finding employment for the commandants to be displaced, three commandants of the Madras Army, or officers of that standing, to be selected by the Commander-in-Chief in that Presidency, will be eligible to retire on a pension of £150 per annum, in addition to the pension to which they are entitled under the regulations.

23. The Native officers, non-commissioned officers and men now serving in the regiments of Madras Infantry which are to be thus localized, will cease to be borne on the rolls thereof from the 15th April next, and will be disposed of as follows :—

(a) Native officers, non-commissioned officers and men who have served for pension for 25 years and upwards will be transferred to the pension establishment on the superior rate of pension of their rank (irrespective of the period they may have served therein), plus rice compensation.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT for 1890-91.

IMPERIAL REVENUE AND EXPENDITURE.

Preliminary.

THE Financial Statement for the coming year has been divided into two Parts: Part I deals with the financial position of the Government of India and takes into account only the Imperial Revenue and Expenditure as distinguished from that which is Provincial or Local; Part II contains an explanation of the Indian Budget as a whole. This change has been made with the object of presenting an outline of the financial position which will be sufficient for the ordinary reader. Such an outline will be found in Part I. Those who desire fuller information will find it in the second Part of the Statement.

Section I.—Accounts of 1888-89.

2. Since the last Financial Statement was made the Accounts of the year 1888-89 have been finally closed. They show a surplus of Rx. 37,000.

The Budget Estimate of that year, framed in March 1888, showed a deficit of Rx. 698,000. The Revised Estimate of the year, framed in March 1889, showed a reduced deficit of Rx. 201,700; the Accounts, as I have just said, show that the year has closed with a surplus of Rx. 37,000.

The improvement in the financial position during 1888-89 is satisfactory, but the important question of to-day is the position of the finances during the current and the coming year.

Section II.—Financial position of 1889-90 and 1890-91.

3. The Estimate of the current year, as framed in March last, showed a surplus of Rx. 106,300.

The Revised Estimate, if compiled in the same way as the Budget Estimate, would now show a surplus of Rx. 2,733,200, and the Estimate of the coming year would show a surplus of Rx. 304,900. Certain special arrangements are proposed which will affect the surplus of 1889-90 and of 1890-91, but it will be convenient to keep these arrangements out of sight until it has been explained how it happens that the Budget surplus of the current year has grown into Rx. 2,733,200, while the Estimate of the year 1890-91, if compiled on the same basis, would show a surplus of only Rx. 304,900. Indian finance is subject from year to year to disturbing causes which have a serious temporary effect, and for this reason a surplus in any year can no more be said to prove that the finances are in a sound state, than a deficit in a single year can be held to prove that their condition is unsound. It is important that it should be clearly understood whether the high or low surplus, or, it may be, deficit, of any year is due to permanent or temporary causes, and I shall endeavour to explain to what extent the improvement in the financial position is due to lasting influences and to what extent it is only temporary.

4. In the first place I propose to offer a few remarks on the subject of Exchange, so as to clear that question out of the way at the beginning. I have seen it stated that the improvement in the current year is largely or mainly due to the rise in the rate of Exchange. This is not the case. The rate of Exchange taken in the Budget Estimate was 1*s.* 4·38*d.*—one rupee. Although the rate of Exchange is now considerably higher than that rate, it was lower during a large portion of the year, and the average rate of Exchange for the whole year 1889-90 is now taken at only 1*s.* 4·552*d.* per rupee. The rise is therefore only slightly greater than one sixth of a penny per rupee. The rate of Exchange affects so many of our transactions that it would be a difficult and tedious task to calculate precisely the amount of improvement which a rise of one-sixth of a penny per rupee has produced. For present purposes it will be sufficient to put the improvement at Rx. 200,000 in round numbers. In the explanation I am about to give I shall distribute this improvement of Rx. 200,000 among the several heads affected.

5. Although the improvement in the position has not been mainly due to the rise in Exchange, the cessation of the long continued fall in the gold value of the rupee has been a most welcome relief to the finances. From 1873 to 1890 there have only been two other years (1879-80 and 1883-84) in which the actual rate of Exchange exceeded or was equal to the rate taken in the Budget, and the average yearly fall from 1873-74 to 1889-90 has been ·36 of a penny per rupee or more than twice the rise in the current year.

Although the cessation of the hitherto continuous fall in the value of the rupee measured in gold has greatly improved the financial position for the time being, the uncertainty as to the future relations of the precious metals constitutes a very serious danger, and one which it would be worth our while to make great sacrifices to escape. The future of the Currency question appears to rest at the present time in the hands of the United States of America.

6. The chief improvement in the current year appears under the head of Opium. There is an increase of Rx. 286,400 in Opium Revenue; there is a decrease of Rx. 708,800 in Opium Expenditure. The total improvement under Opium is consequently Rx. 995,200. In the Budget Estimate the price of Bengal Opium was taken at ₹1,070 a chest. It has proved to be ₹1,136; this accounts for the improvement in Opium Revenue, an improvement which I regret to say is not likely to be maintained during the coming year, as the price of Bengal opium at this month's sale was only ₹1,040 a chest, though the market price has since risen.

The decrease in Expenditure is due to a poor crop of Bengal opium. The total crop of Bengal opium is purchased by Government at a fixed price per seer. A good crop means heavy expenditure in the purchase of opium; a poor crop means a saving in expenditure. The quantity of opium produced in any season does not immediately affect the quantity of opium which is sold, as some time elapses before the new crop comes into the market, and Government maintains a reserve with the object of equalizing the quantity sold from year to year. As it happens, the bad crop of the year has not done us material injury, because the reserve of opium was very high and is still sufficient. The improvement under Opium in the current year must be considered as merely temporary. In a series of years we shall no doubt get average crops, and the present selling price of opium is much below the average price of the year about to close.

7. In addition to the improvement under Opium, there has been, during the current year, a very satisfactory increase of revenue under what is known as the other Principal Heads of Revenue, which include Land Revenue, Salt, Excise, Stamps, Provincial Rates, Customs, Assessed Taxes, Forests, Registration, and Tributes from Native States. This increase is partly Imperial, partly Provincial, partly Local.

The large improvement in Revenue which is shown under the Principal Heads of Civil Revenue (excluding Opium) is of a permanent nature, or in other words, we can safely reckon on obtaining the same increase in future years. If there is any falling-off under some heads it will be balanced by increase under other heads. This improvement amounts to Rx. 766,500 on Imperial account and is mainly due to an increase of Rx. 298,400 under Land Revenue, of Rx. 149,600 under Salt, of Rx. 79,100 under Excise, of Rx. 31,500 under Stamps, of Rx. 69,600 under Customs, and of Rx. 112,700 under Forests.

The improvement under Opium and the growth of Revenue under the other Principal Heads accounts in all for an improvement of Rx. 1,761,700 in 1889-90, of which more than 40 per cent. is a permanent increase of the public revenue, the rest being temporary.

8. On Special Defences, there has been a reduction of expenditure amounting to Rx. 344,500, which merely represents postponement of charges which will be incurred hereafter, and under Interest not charged against Railways and Canals there has been a net improvement of Rx. 230,900. The improvement in the net Interest charge is due to the high rate of interest obtained by the Secretary of State on that portion of his cash balance which he was able to invest, to the saving from the issue of a loan of 2 crores very nearly at par last year as compared with the estimated charge for the issue of a loan of 2½ crores at a discount, to the rise in Exchange, and to other causes.

There has also been a net improvement of Rx. 118,600 under Army, notwithstanding the expenditure on the Chin-Lushai Expedition, and of Rx. 73,900 in the Railway Account. Under all other heads there is a net improvement of Rx. 97,300. The total net improvement of the year is Rx. 2,626,900.

9. The explanation of the large surplus in 1889-90 may then be briefly stated as follows: in the current year Opium has given a net improvement of Rx. 995,200; other Principal Heads of Revenue have given an improvement of Rx. 766,500; Special Defences show a reduction of expenditure amounting to Rx. 344,500; Interest gives an improvement of Rx. 230,900. All other heads give a further net improvement of Rx. 289,800. The total net improvement of the year is Rx. 2,626,900, and adding the Budget surplus of Rx. 106,300, the surplus with which the year is expected to close is estimated at Rx. 2,733,200. Of this net improvement of Rx. 2,626,900, about Rx. 200,000 has been caused by the rise in Exchange, which has favourably affected Revenue and Expenditure under various heads. As the Accounts almost invariably show a better result than the Revised Estimate, I have little doubt that this surplus will be found to have been exceeded when the accounts of the year are finally closed.

10. We are now in a position to explain in a few words why the surplus of 1890-91 is so small as compared with that of 1889-90. In the first place, we lose the temporary increase from Opium to which I have just referred; the loss on this account is actually Rx. 992,400; in the next place, we receive in 1889-90 a special contribution from Local Governments of Rx. 490,000; there is no such contribution in 1890-91; in the third place the Budget Estimate of net Military Expenditure in 1890-91 shows an increase over the Revised Estimate of no less than Rx. 611,000. On these three accounts—Opium, Contribution from Local Governments, and Military Expenditure—the financial position of 1890-91 is worse than that of 1889-90 by no less than Rx. 2,093,400. Adding to this a net falling-off under Interest of Rx. 113,400 and an increase of expenditure amounting to Rx. 133,900 under Special Defences, we get a falling-off of Rx. 2,340,700. The surplus of 1889-90 being Rx. 2,733,200 this deterioration of Rx. 2,340,700 would of itself be sufficient to cause the large surplus of 1889-90 to be replaced by a surplus of Rx. 392,500. It so happens that under all other heads there is a net deterioration of Rx. 87,600, which reduces the surplus to Rx. 304,900.

11. Although the net deterioration under the heads to which I have just referred is only Rx. 87,600, there are considerable fluctuations under particular heads. Thus the increase of Revenue under Principal Heads, excluding Opium, is no less than Rx. 171,500, of which nearly Rx. 100,000 is due to the raising of the duty on imported spirit and the imposition of a duty on beer brewed in India. There is also a moderate increase of net revenue from Railways and Irrigation while there is an increase in expenditure of Rx. 85,000 on account of the coming Census, and a reduction in Miscellaneous receipts of Rx. 53,500.

12. The increased expenditure on the Army in 1890-91 is due to the purchase of Magazine rifles and ammunition for them, to the cost of 21 more batteries of 12-pr. breech-loading guns, to the purchase of machinery for making ammunition for the guns in India, and to the provision of Rx. 200,000 for the Chin-Lushai expedition and of Rx. 60,000 to complete the arrangements for prompt mobilisation of the 1st Army Corps. The total cost on the accounts I have stated is no less than Rx. 1,361,300.

13. Summing up the whole case, and putting aside all matters of minor importance, it may be said that in 1889-90 we have a large surplus owing to a temporary improvement under Opium, to a general growth of revenue which will be maintained and will affect future years, to short expenditure on Special Defences, and in connection with the Army, to reduction in the Interest charge, to improvements in the Railway Revenue Account, and to a rise in the rate of Exchange. In 1890-91 we have only a moderate surplus, because we lose the temporary improvement under Opium, because we no longer receive the special contribution of Rx. 490,000 from Local Governments, because there are special demands in connection with the equipment of the Army, and because there is an increase in the net Interest charge, as well as an increase in the expenditure on Special Defences.

Section III.—Proposals in connection with the Grant for Famine Relief and Insurance.

14. It will be seen from what I have just said, that the estimates for next year would have shown a very considerable surplus but for the heavy and special demands that have fallen on them in connection with the Army. These special demands come to no less than Rx. 1,361,300, exclusive of a provision of Rx. 892,300 on account of Special Defences. It is reasonably certain that there will be special demands of a somewhat similar nature in 1891-92, but it is not probable that they will be so heavy as in the coming year. Nor are the finances of 1891-92 exposed to any special dangers, so far as can now be seen, other than those vicissitudes which must always attend Indian finance. On the other hand, we may look forward during 1890-91 to the normal growth of revenue. There are, therefore, strong grounds for holding that in 1891-92 we shall at least find ourselves in a position of comparative ease, with a surplus in hand, moderate in amount, but sufficient to allow of some improvement in financial conditions.

15. In view of this comparatively favourable prospect the Government of India has decided to anticipate the future to some extent and to take immediate steps for the partial restoration of the Famine Grant. This can be done by measures which I shall now explain; but in the first place I propose to refer briefly to the nature of the Famine Grant and its history.

The policy of strengthening the finances in connection with Famine was originally adopted in order to protect the country against the financial effects of Famine. It was calculated that Famine would cost, either directly in expenditure intended to relieve distress, or indirectly through loss of revenue, no less than Rx 15,000,000 every ten years, and it was therefore decided that in ordinary years the Government should take measures for providing a surplus of Rx. 1,500,000. This surplus would be used either to reduce debt directly by buying up and cancelling public obligations, or to indirectly reduce debt by diminishing borrowing.

16. It has been sometimes assumed that the object of this policy was the provision of funds for the actual relief in time of famine of persons who were in distress, and it was argued that when the money so provided was no longer available, the people could not be relieved in case of famine, and must perish. This was not the case. Whether a surplus exists or not the Government recognises its obligations in case of famine, and the actual amount of cash in the treasury is regulated from time to time by considerations which are quite independent of the absorption or maintenance of the Famine Grant. The objects which the Famine Grant is intended to secure are purely financial. So long as it is maintained we have in ordinary years a surplus of Rx. 1,500,000, and this surplus of Rx. 1,500,000 in ordinary years will, it may reasonably be hoped, balance the deficits which must occur from time to time in a country of which the financial conditions are so uncertain. The policy of maintaining a surplus in ordinary years was devised with special reference to the injurious effect on the finances which is produced by famine, but in practice it is an insurance against temporary financial disaster of any kind, because to strengthen the finances by creating a surplus has precisely the same effect whatever may be the object of those who take measures to strengthen them. In any case the finances are strengthened and are able to better meet any special demands on them.

17. The misapprehension as to the nature and effects of the Famine Grant seems to have arisen, to some extent, from the manner in which the policy was carried out in years subsequent to its first adoption. The Famine surplus was intended, in the first instance, to operate in the direction of reducing debt. At a subsequent period it was decided to use one half of it for the construction of Railways and Canals which would protect the country from famine. I think this was, under the circumstances of the case, a wise and prudent measure, but it was a slight departure from the objects of the original policy. These were, as I have said, purely financial. In so far as the Protective Canals and Railways constructed from the Famine Grant returned a fair profit, or lessened the cost of relieving famine, in so far the original purpose of strengthening the finances was maintained. In so far as they failed to return this profit the original purpose was departed from. On the other hand it was an important consideration that the construction of these Railways and Canals might have the effect of mitigating famine to the extent of preserving human life, which would otherwise have been lost.

18. The Government of India was willing in past years to go further in the direction of using the Famine Grant for the construction of Protective Works, than was actually done, and would have appropriated it to meet any loss that might arise on Protective Railways constructed by means of borrowed money; in 1886 the Secretary of State did actually agree that the interest charge on the Indian Midland and the Bengal-Nagpur Railways should be a charge against the Famine Grant. These Railways were held to be of importance for the protection of the country against famine, and it was only on the understanding I have stated that their construction was sanctioned. The decision of the Secretary of State is contained in a Despatch which is published as an Appendix to this Statement. This matter has somewhat fallen out of sight in recent years, because shortly after the decision of the Secretary of State was given, the financial difficulties of the Government became so great that the Famine Grant was practically abolished for the time, and there was no special reason for calling attention to the fact that a portion of it went to meet the loss on the Indian Midland and Bengal-Nagpur Railways.

19. The Government of India and the Secretary of State have, however, always attached importance to the maintenance of the Grant for Famine Relief and Insurance. If the Indian finances show bare equilibrium in normal years, the deficits of bad years can only be met by borrowing; such borrowing must in time lead to a large growth of debt incurred for non-productive purposes.

The provision of what is really a yearly surplus of Rx. 1,500,000 is the most effective means of preventing the growth of debt of this character.

20. The manner in which it is proposed to partially restore the Famine Grant at once will now be explained.

We receive this year a special contribution of Rx. 490,000 from Local Governments. This transaction is carried out by debiting the amount to the balances of Local Governments and crediting it to the Government of India. It is practically the same thing to all parties whether the transaction is carried out this month or next month. The credit is therefore postponed till next month, and the effect on the finances is to diminish our surplus of this year by Rx. 490,000 and to increase that of next year by an equal amount.

After this change is made there will be a surplus of Rx. 2,243,200 in 1889-90 and of Rx. 794,900 in 1890-91. In both these years a certain amount of expenditure is already shown under the Grant for Famine Relief and Insurance, partly on account of the construction of Protective Canals and partly for relief of distress. Of the surplus of 1889-90, a sum of Rx. 433,500 will be utilised to raise the total Famine Grant to Rx. 600,000; of the surplus of 1890-91, a sum of Rx. 524,500 will be utilised to raise the Famine Grant of that year to a like amount. The surplus of the Revised Estimate will then stand at Rx. 1,809,700 and the surplus of the Budget Estimate of 1890-91 will be Rx. 270,400.

The amount provided to meet the net charge on account of the Indian Midland Railway and the Bengal-Nagpur Railway is Rx. 458,100 in 1889-90, and Rx. 432,800 in 1890-91.

The final result then of the policy which the Government of India has decided to adopt is that in the current year we have provided in all Rx. 1,058,100 (Rx. 600,000 plus Rx. 458,100) on account of the Famine Grant, that in the coming year we have provided Rx. 1,032,800 (Rx. 600,000 plus Rx. 432,800), on the same account, and that we have nevertheless a surplus of Rx. 1,809,700 in 1889-90 and of Rx. 270,400 in 1890-91; these surpluses are available for the reduction of borrowing and will in practice be used for that purpose.

The sums provided under the Grant for Famine Relief and Insurance plus the sums that go to meet the net charge on the Indian Midland and Bengal-Nagpur Railways, together with the surpluses of the current and coming years, amount to Rx. 4,171,000 in the aggregate, so that, practically, the Famine Grant has been more than restored for the years 1889-90 and 1890-91, as we have in the two years a sum of Rx. 4,171,000 available for the purposes for which the policy of the yearly grant of Rx. 1,500,000 for Famine Relief and Insurance was adopted.

Section IV.—Practical Results of the Policy now adopted.

21. The general effect on our borrowing of the surpluses of 1889-90 and 1890-91, which amount to Rx. 2,080,100, and of the sums now set aside for Reduction of Debt, amounting to Rx. 958,000, making Rx. 3,038,100 in all, is shown by the following facts.

The Government of India has arranged to spend in 1890-91 the sum of Rx. 3,750,000 on the construction of Railways and Canals, not chargeable against Revenue.

Under ordinary circumstances we must have borrowed largely in the open market on this account. As our balances now stand we expect to be able to find this sum of Rx. 3,750,000 in addition to Rx. 907,000, on account of loans to be made by Government for local purposes, without raising a loan this year. This result is mainly due to the existence of the sum of Rx. 3,038,100 to which I have just referred, which enables us to avoid borrowing a like amount and in this way effects a permanent saving of about Rx. 120,000 yearly in interest. To this extent the finances of the country have been strengthened.

22. A further advantage of the improvement that has occurred in the financial position is that it is unnecessary at the present time to revise the financial relations between the Imperial Government and the Provincial Governments. The present contracts can be left to run their course, and the relations between the Local and Imperial Governments can be settled in 1892 and included in the contracts that will then be made.

Section V.—Financial Prospects in the Future.

23. In the Statement of last year I made the following remarks on the financial position of the Government of India: "My deliberate conclusion is, that while there is every need for economy and for husbanding our revenue, there is no ground for despondent or pessimist views. Unless some unforeseen disaster occurs, there is every reason to hope that the lapse of two or three years will show a decided improvement in the financial position of the Government of India. It is true that the surplus which we have been able to show in the Estimates is only Rx. 106,300, but the Estimates have been framed with great moderation, and if the Indian revenues continue to exhibit their usual elasticity and no unforeseen disaster occurs, I anticipate that the Financial Statement of 1890-91 will show decided improvement." These remarks were not universally accepted: those who had previously taken a pessimist view of Indian finance were not prepared to admit that there were signs of improvement. The progress made in the current year, however, confirms the soundness of the opinion I expressed in March last. Only twelve months have elapsed since I ventured to make that prophecy, and the signs of improvement are unmistakable.

In 1889-90 and 1890-91 we have partially restored the grant for Famine Relief and Insurance; we have a large surplus in 1889-90, and a moderate surplus in 1890-91 after making provision for altogether special demands for the equipment of the Army. Although the coming year is unlikely to prove so prosperous from a financial point of view as 1889-90, I look forward, in the absence of unforeseen disaster, to still further improvement in 1891-92.

24. But my remarks regarding the signs of improvement in the finances had another effect which I did not anticipate at the time. It was assumed in some quarters that I was of opinion that the financial position was in all respects thoroughly satisfactory, and that the Government of India might at once with safety enter upon schemes which their promoters held would have the best effects on the country, but which certainly involved very heavy expenditure at the outset. Nothing was further from my intention than to convey any such impression, or to give the slightest encouragement to those who wish to mortgage the future of our finances for the sake of entering upon hazardous speculations.

I said last year that there were signs of improvement. I say now that my forecast has been borne out by the facts of the year about to close, and that there are good grounds for expecting further improvement in the coming year, but I fully recognise that we have difficulties of no slight magnitude still to meet, thatt he finances are exposed to many dangers, and that unforeseen disaster might for a time upset our calculations. There is every need for caution and for economy, and I should greatly regret if anything I now say, or have said in the past, conveyed the impression that the Government of India is in a position to embark on a policy of adventure of any description.

PART II.

IMPERIAL, PROVINCIAL, AND LOCAL FINANCE.

Section I.—Accounts of 1888-89.

In the Revised Estimates of 1888-89 prepared in March last the Revenue of that year was taken at Rx. 81,585,500 and the Expenditure, including outlay on Special Defence Works, at Rx. 81,787,200, the net result being an anticipated deficit of Rx. 201,700.

As the accounts were compiled, it was seen that the year would close with a small surplus, and this fact was brought to notice in the Financial Statement presented to Parliament by the Under-Secretary of State for India.

2. The actual figures of the accounts for 1888-89 as now finally closed, are—Revenue Rx. 81,696,678 and Expenditure Rx. 81,659,660, showing a surplus of Rx. 37,018. The following statement compares the Actuals for 1888-89 with the Revised Estimate, and complete details will be found in the Appropriation Audit Report published in the Gazette of India of 8th March 1890.

It will be seen from the figures in this statement that, compared with the estimate framed in March 1889, there was an improvement in the Total Revenue in India (Imperial, Provincial, and Local) of Rx. 106,110 and a saving in the Total Expenditure in India of Rx. 128,515. The sum of these two amounts, less the increase of Rx. 82,018 in the Provincial adjustment, or Rx. 152,607, represents the net Imperial improvement in the Indian portion of the accounts of 1888-89, excluding Exchange; adding to this figure the net improvement in England and also the improvement in Exchange, we get a total improvement of Rx. 238,718, which accounts for the difference between the deficit of Rx. 201,700 expected in the Revised Estimate and the surplus of Rx. 37,018 with which the accounts of the year have closed. It may be mentioned that the increase in the Provincial adjustment means that the surplus of Provincial and Local Revenue over Provincial and Local Expenditure was more by Rx. 82,018 than was anticipated when the Revised Estimate was prepared.

3. The increases of Revenue result chiefly from improved receipts aggregating Rx. 234,700 under State Railways, Irrigation, and Army, counterbalanced by a falling off in Land Revenue of Rx. 185,896 due to scanty harvests in some provinces and to suspensions. Of the saving of Rx. 94,384 in Imperial Expenditure, Rx. 50,528 occurred under Opium and Rx. 27,409 under Army. There was an excess of Rx. 45,440 under Guaranteed Railways, chiefly due to a change in the date of payment of surplus profits, which brought into the accounts of the year expenditure which, under the previous practice, would have fallen into the following year. The reduction in Provincial and Local Expenditure occurred principally under Land Revenue, Police, and Education, and the gain in the English Account was chiefly due to reduced expenditure under Army and Special Defence Works.

4. The difficulties which stand in the way of preparing in March an accurate Estimate of the Revenue and Expenditure of they ear which is about to close have been explained more than once, but I do not think that attention has been specially called to the remarkable fact that the Actuals almost invariably show better results than the Revised Estimate.

In every year since, and including, 1882-83, the Accounts have shown an improvement over the Revised Estimates. For 1882-83 the improvement was Rx. 646,800; for 1883-84 it was Rx. 1,116,100; for 1884-85 it was Rx. 566,500; for 1885-86 it was Rx. 89,100; for 1886-87 it was Rx. 177,900; for 1887-88 it was Rx. 987,900; for 1888-89, as I have just explained, it was Rx. 238,700.

The explanation is simple. The latest figures of receipts and disbursements under the different heads can always be obtained from the Treasuries. Under certain heads the Treasury receipts and issues correspond closely with the Revenue and Expenditure, and if we know the Receipts and Issues to the end of February, or even of January, and the head be one under which transactions occur with regularity throughout the year, we have no difficulty in calculating with great precision the probable Revenue and Expenditure of the remaining portion of the year.

But in other cases transactions do not proceed with the same regularity throughout the year, and the receipts and issues of the Treasuries afford a very imperfect guide. Such heads are Land Revenue, Public Works of all kinds, and the expenditure under the head of Army. For Public Works and Army the receipts and issues at the Treasuries are only an imperfect guide to the Revenue and Expenditure.

In the case of the important heads I have just mentioned, as well as of others, we have to depend on the judgment of local officers, and, on the whole, the forecasts of these officers are marked by caution. No officer, apparently, will estimate for more revenue than he feels sure he will obtain, and every officer puts down the very maximum of expenditure which he may possibly incur. The inevitable result is that in nine cases out of ten the total Revenue of the year exceeds, and the total Expenditure of the year falls short of, the amounts that have been entered in the Revised Estimate.

5. There was also a saving in expenditure not charged against Revenue. The Capital Expenditure on Railways was Rx. 1,178,111 and on Productive Irrigation Works Rx. 459,890 against Rx. 1,364,800 and Rx. 493,000 provided in the Revised Estimate, the saving being Rx. 186,689 and Rx. 33,110 respectively. The former was chiefly due to reduced expenditure in England on stores for Railways. These reductions do not, of course, affect the surplus of the year 1888-89, which, as stated before, was Rx. 37,018, after including in the expenditure the sum of Rx. 789,595, spent on Special Defence Works.

Section II.—Revised Estimates of 1889-90 and Budget Estimates of 1890-91.

6. The Budget Estimate of Revenue for the current year was Rx. 82,935,300, and of Expenditure Rx. 83,469,800. Of the latter, Rx. 640,800 was chargeable to accumulated Provincial and Local balances, and not against the revenue of the year. The expenditure chargeable against revenue was therefore Rx. 82,829,000, and the resulting surplus was estimated at Rx. 106,300.

The surplus is now expected to be Rx. 1,809,700, and the following table shows how much of it is due to increase of Revenue and how much to decrease of Expenditure:—

	Budget Estimate.	Revised Estimate.	Revised Estimate + Better —Worse than Budget.
	Rx.	Rx.	Rx.
Revenue	82,935,300	84,636,300	+1,701,000
Expenditure	83,469,800	82,474,100	+ 995,700
Provincial deficit	—640,800	+352,500	—993,300

7. The improvement of Rx. 1,701,000 in Revenue occurs mainly under Land Revenue, Opium, Salt, Stamps, Excise, Provincial Rates, Customs, Assessed Taxes, Forest, Interest, Miscellaneous, State Railways, and Irrigation, while there is a considerable falling off in receipts from Exchange, and a heavy one under Guaranteed Railways, owing to the great and sudden diminution of traffic on the Great Indian Peninsula Line. The contribution of Rx. 490,000 from Provincial to Imperial revenues, for which credit was taken in the Budget Estimate of 1889-90, has also been transferred, for reasons explained in Part I, to the Estimates of 1890-91. It will be understood that this transaction has no effect on the total revenue of the year; what is lost by the Imperial Government being gained by the Local Governments. The main increases and decreases in Revenue are as follows:—

Land Revenue	425,600
Opium	286,400
Salt	162,600
Stamps	101,000
Excise	110,100
Provincial Rates	87,800
Customs	68,900
Assessed Taxes	51,800
Forests	176,800
Interest	133,500
Miscellaneous	98,400
State Railways	256,800

Worse than Estimate.	Rx.
Exchange	73,900
Guaranteed Railways	460,000

8. The decrease in expenditure is mainly due to the rise in the rate of Exchange, and to less expenditure under Opium production and manufacture, Interest, Police, Education, Working Expenses of State Railways, Surplus profits of Guaranteed Railways, and Defence works. The chief increases of expenditure occur under Marine, Famine Relief and Insurance, Miscellaneous, Railway Expenditure, and Irrigation. The meaning of the large excess under Famine Relief and Insurance is that the improvement in the financial position has enabled the Government to take measures for gradually restoring the Famine Insurance Grant, which has been in abeyance since 1885-86.

The Budget Estimate of net expenditure in England was £14,956,100, and the Exchange on it, Rx. 6,954,500; the Revised Estimate of that expenditure is £14,751,200, and the Exchange on it, Rx. 6,638,000. In the Budget the rate of Exchange was taken at 1*s.* 4·38*d.* = R1; in the Revised it is taken at 1*s.* 4·552*d.* = R1 (R145 = £10).

Better than Estimate.	Rx.
Opium	708,800
Interest	96,300
Police	58,800
Education	51,000
State Railways—Working Expenses	78,400
Surplus profits of Guaranteed Companies	182,100
Defence works	344,500

Worse than Estimate.	Rx.

9. The Budget Estimate of 1890-91 is framed for, Revenue Rx. 84,932,100 and Expenditure 85,419,400, of which Rx. 757,700 is chargeable against Provincial and Local balances. The expenditure chargeable to Revenue is therefore Rx. 84,661,700 and the estimated surplus is Rx. 270,400.

The following table compares the Revenue and Expenditure as estimated at an interval of a year:—

	Budget Estimate, 1889-90.	Budget Estimate, 1890-91.	Budget, 1890-91 + better —worse than Budget, 1889-90.
	Rx.	Rx.	Rx.

Surplus	+106,300	+270,400	+164,100

10. As explained last year, the extension of railways and the changes in their status involve considerable additions annually to both Revenue and Expenditure. In 1889-90 the gross transactions of the Oudh and Rohilkhand Railway came on both sides of the Estimates, whereas, while it was a Guaranteed line, only the net earnings were shown as Revenue and the interest charged as Expenditure. In 1890-91 a re-arrangement of the same nature is necessary, as from the 31st December 1890 it is expected that the South Indian Railway will become a State line. In 1890-91 Railway Revenue is estimated higher by Rx. 464,900 than it was a year ago and Railway Expenditure Rx. 304,800 higher. The transfer of the Provincial contribution mentioned above adds Rx. 490,000 to the Imperial Revenue of the year, though, as explained above, it does not mean that the total revenues are increased by that amount. The further improvement in Revenue occurs mainly under Land Revenue, Salt, Stamps, Excise, Provincial Rates, Customs, Forests, Interest, and Irrigation, while lower receipts than those estimated a year ago are expected under Opium, Exchange, and Guaranteed Railways. The following statement indicates generally in what respect the position has changed in the course of twelve months:—

Better than Budget Estimate of 1889-90.	Rx.	Worse than Budget Estimate of 1889-90.	Rx.
Land Revenue	482,700	Opium	56,700

11. The very large increase in the Estimates of Expenditure is mainly the result of the following variations:—

Less than Budget Estimate of 1889-90.	Rx.	More than Budget Estimate of 1889-90.	Rx.
Opium	59,500	Land Revenue collection	84,300

The Estimates of both years are examined in detail in the remaining paragraphs of this section.

LAND REVENUE.

12. The Estimates are—

	Budget Estimate, 1889-90.	Revised Estimate, 1889-90.	Budget Estimate, 1890-91.	Increase of Revised Estimate over Budget Estimate of 1889-90.	Increase of Budget Estimate, 1890-91, over Revised Estimate, 1889-90.

NET	20,392,000	20,853,800	20,849,100	461,800	—4,700

With the exception of the districts directly administered by the Government of India, in which a small decrease is anticipated, and Assam, where the original Estimate has undergone no alteration, all Provinces participate in the improvement of Rx. 465,600 in Revenue expected in the Revised Estimate of 1889-90. Of this improvement, Rx. 142,600, or nearly 31 per cent., has been contributed by Burma, in the proportion of Rx. 70,900 by Lower and Rx. 71,700 by Upper Burma. With the restoration of order, cultivation has greatly extended, and assessments and collections are being made with more regularity. It may also be mentioned that Rx. 20,000 of the increase in Upper Burma represents the first instalment of rent paid by the Ruby Mines Company for its lease. After Burma, the greatest increase is expected from the temporarily-settled zemindari provinces, namely, the Central Provinces, the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, and the Punjab, which, between them, account for an improvement of Rx. 125,900, or 27 per cent. of the whole. In these Provinces the settlements are falling in, and fresh settlement operations, the effect of which is reflected in the gradual increase in the revenue demand, are in active progress. Of the remaining increases, Bombay furnishes Rx. 76,100, due to large sales of waste lands, the introduction of revised settlements, and a favourable season; Madras finds Rx. 69,500, and Bengal Rx. 55,000, most of which represents the recovery of arrears.

13. The Estimate of Revenue for next year provides for a further increase of Rx. 75,800, towards which Upper Burma contributes Rx. 54,000 and Lower Burma Rx. 50,000. In Bengal there is a decrease of Rx. 37,100, and in Bombay of Rx. 37,200, the explanation of which is that there have been special and non-recurring receipts in the current year, as explained above.

It should be mentioned that it is possible that the failure of the winter rains in Upper India and the scanty north-east monsoon in Madras may to some extent interfere with the realisation of these estimates.

14. The increase of the Revenue demand in one year from Rx. 24,021,100 to Rx. 24,562,500 or by Rx. 541,400 is remarkable, as hitherto the growth of this branch of revenue has been slow and has scarcely responded to the large outlay incurred by Government on canals and railways.. The relation of the settlements now in progress in the three temporarily-settled Provinces of Northern India to the improvement in the revenue will be seen from the following statement, which contrasts the revenue demand of 1890-91 as measured by the Budget Estimate of that year, with the revenue demand of four years ago ascertained from the average receipts of the three years 1884-85 to 1886-87:—

	Demand of 1886.	Demand of 1890-91.	Increase in 1890-91.
	Rx.	Rx.	Rx.
Central Provinces	612,700	665,300	+52,600
Punjab	2,148,500	2,286,900	+138,400
North-Western Provinces and Oudh	5,812,200	5,935,000	+122,800

The figure Rx. 122,800 does not represent the full measure of increase in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, for in two of the years (1884-85 and 1886-87) from which the demand of 1886 is calculated, the receipts were unusually high. The figures, however, sufficiently illustrate the effect, now beginning to be felt, of the revision of the settlements.

15. The total of the Revised Estimate of Expenditure agrees very closely with that of the original Estimate, the difference between them being only Rx. 3,800; but the following important variations are noticeable in the details. An increase of Rx. 12,900 is provided for in Upper Burma to meet additional expenditure on surveys of (what used to be) Royal lands, and of Rx. 36,300 in Madras owing to the introduction of a revised scale of allowances to Subordinate Revenue Officers; while a decrease of Rx. 17,800 is expected in Bombay. For 1890-91 the estimate is framed for an increase of Rx. 80,500, which is distributed among all Provinces except the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, where the expenditure is expected to be less by Rx. 6,300. The principal increases occur in the Central Provinces, Upper and Lower Burma, Bengal, and Punjab, and, except in Bengal where the excess arises from revision of establishments, are due generally to the extension of survey and settlement operations.

OPIUM.

16. The following are the figures :—

	Budget Estimate, 1889-90.	Revised Estimate, 1889-90.	Budget Estimate, 1890-91.
	Rx.	Rx.	Rx.
Revenue	8,260,000	8,546,400	8,203,300
Expenditure	2,364,300	1,655 500	2,304,800
Net .	5,895,700	6,890,900	5,898,500

The net receipt in the current year is expected to exceed the Estimate made a year ago by no less than Rx. 995,200. Of this sum, Rx. 286,400 represents improvement in Revenue, and Rx. 708,800 saving in Expenditure. The increase in Revenue is entirely due to the high average price obtained at the Calcutta sales. The estimated average was ₹1,070 a chest, whereas, till the sale held in February, the price was always much higher. The highest figure was reached in September when the price realised was ₹1,215 a chest and the lowest in the present month when it was ₹1,040. The average price of the year was ₹1,136.

These violent fluctuations indicate how difficult it is to make any satisfactory estimate, and it may be noted that, so long as the number of chests sold is maintained at the present figure, a difference of ₹100 a chest in the price of Bengal opium represents a difference of Rx. 570,000 in revenue.

The revenue from the pass duty on Malwa opium was estimated at Rx. 1,953,000 on 30,000 chests. The general course of the weighments has coincided with our expectations, but owing to a slackness recently observed the estimate of revenue has been reduced to Rx. 1,850,000.

The expenditure charged under Opium is—except to a very inconsiderable extent—incurred in Bengal. The estimate is based on the forecasts of produce of the standing crop rendered by the Opium Agents in January and February, and it amounted to Rx. 2,358,800 for an expected production of 58,800 chests. Almost immediately after the publication of the Financial Statement, it was reported that, in consequence of unfavourable weather, the produce would be far short of the Estimate. The actual production has been 38,305 chests, and the saving in expenditure will be Rx. 708,800.

In view of the low prices that prevail at present and the prospect of better crops in Malwa and China, it has been decided to adopt the ₹1,060 as the estimate of the average price for Bengal opium next year.

Owing to the favourable crop expected in the current season in Central India, the estimate for receipts from pass duty on Malwa Opium has been placed higher than the sum taken for the Revised Estimate, namely, at Rx. 1,950,000 as against Rx. 1,850,000.

Turning to the Expenditure, the Opium Agents give, as their latest estimate of production, opium sufficient to make about 55,000 chests. The estimated expenditure has been taken at Rx. 2,300,000.

'Before last year's manufacture the reserve on 31st December 1890 was estimated at the inconveniently large figure of 51,505 chests. The short crop of last year has largely reduced the reserve. Assuming the forecast of the current year's crop to be fulfilled, the reserve will stand as follows :—

18. The figures in the following statement give the consumption (in thousands of maunds) (excluding Burma), for the four years previous to the present one, for the periods 1st April to 28th February, and 1st to 31st March, and also for the whole year, of salt on which duty at the full rate, ₹2-8 a maund, was paid.

1889-90	28,110	2,900 Estimate	31,010

The yearly totals differ materially from those shown in paragraph 78 of the Financial Statement of 1889-90, which dealt with consumption only and did not therefore distinguish between salt paying varying rates of duty. The salt produced at the Kohat mines across the Indus is taxed at 8 annas only on each 102 lbs., which is equal to 6·4 annas a maund of 82⅔ lbs.; and the incidence of the British share of the duty on the salt produced in the Mandi State and imported under treaty into British Territory, is 5 annas a maund. The aggregate consumption of both these descriptions was about 775,000 maunds in 1888-89. Clearly, for the purpose of testing the estimate of revenue by the progress of consumption, this lightly-taxed salt must be separated from the salt which bears the full duty. The estimate for 1889-90 as shown above should be increased by 800,000 maunds, as representing the consumption of the Kohat and Mandi salt, for the purpose of ascertaining the consumption of the whole of India.

In Burma an import of about 1,150,000 maunds is indicated by the latest figures. The estimate of consumption in Burma of locally produced salt is placed, by the most competent authorities, at about 560,000 maunds.

19. It was explained in the Financial Statements for 1888-89 and 1889-90 that the increase in the duty in January 1888 was followed by a general falling off in the revenue. But it is not clear that there was a decrease in salt actually consumed proportional to the reduction in the quantity of salt cleared for consumption. It is certain that to some extent the dealers in salt deferred making new purchases, on which the higher rate of duty had to be paid, until they had exhausted the stocks on which the lower duty had been paid, and had secured the profit to be obtained by selling them at a price which was increased in full proportion to the increase in the duty.

20. The following figures for Burma, where the duty was raised from 3 annas to Re 1 a maund from the 19th January 1888, are, for imported salt only :—

	To 28th February.	From 1st to 31st March.	Total.
1884-85	1,594	93	1,687
1885-86	954	169	1,123
1886-87	1,249	325	1,574
1887-88	1,841	90	1,931
1888-89	253	61	314
1889-90	1,060	90 Estimate	1,150

The decline following on the rise in the duty is remarkable, but the explanation is simple.

Very large importations had been made towards the end of the previous year, some knowledge or suspicion of the intention of Government to raise the duty having probably been circulated, and the stocks were therefore abnormally large. Local manufacture also received a stimulus from the increase of the import duty; for the duty on locally manufactured salt is light and is levied by means of a half yearly fee, and until July last year, when this fee was doubled, the local manufacturer had a substantial advantage over the importer of salt. These two circumstances combined to reduce the apparent consumption of imported salt in Burma to a very low level. A revival in the demand for imported salt, which was doubtless due to the approaching exhaustion of the imported stocks, set in about the commencement of the current financial year. The competition of locally-produced salt was also regulated by the doubling of the fee. The question of the measures to be taken for equalising the incidence of the duty on locally-made and imported salt is one of importance. The question is surrounded by difficulties, as the manufacture of salt in Burma is carried on at places and under conditions which practically render any effective check on production impossible. A specially qualified officer of the Northern India Salt Department was deputed last year to investigate the matter on the spot, and his report is now under consideration.

21. In Northern India also there was a pause in consumption in the year following the increase of duty, but the reduction was so slight that it was probably caused by the action of holders of stocks. In the present year there has been a substantial increase, the consumption of both Sambhar salt and the rock salt of the Punjab Mines having been large.

In Madras in 1888-89 prices rose to a high level, the rise being ascribed, at least in part, to a combination of manufacturers. Partial resumption of manufacture by the State was begun and prices have since fallen, while consumption shows a satisfactory increase.

22. The only province in which consumption has not fully recovered is Bengal, and there the imposition of the increased duty has not been the only cause of the falling off, which is largely attributable to the increase in price resulting from the action of the English Salt Syndicate and the higher level of freights. The average maximum prices in Calcutta of Liverpool salt (exclusive of duty) have been as follows per 100 maunds since January 1888 :—

	1888.	1889.	1890.
January	88·2	97·8	102
February	149·	96·25	97
March	154·25	94·25
April	138·75	94·
May	137·4	90·
June	133·5	92·2
July	94·63	94·25
August	94·	94·4
September	74·25	99·75
October	83·	111·83
November	91·25	105·75
December	96·75	105·6

Before January 1888 the average highest price varied between 61 and 72 rupees; prices rose after the increase of the duty to a high point, falling again to almost their normal level, but the formation of the Salt Syndicate raised them towards the end of the year, and they have remained high ever since. The increase in price (exclusive of duty) may be taken to be from four to five annas a maund.

The falling off in the imports into Bengal does not, however, imply an equivalent falling off in consumption. Both Sambhar salt and rock salt from the Punjab Mines have found a market in a wider zone in Bengal, since the increased price of Liverpool salt has enabled them to compete with it lower down the railway line. The competition would have been more active and effective but for the action of the East Indian and Oudh and Rohilkhand Railway lines in raising the rate of freight. The question of these higher rates of freight is under consideration.

23. The Revised Estimate provides for a consumption in India (excluding Burma) of—

	Maunds.
Fully taxed salt	31,010,000
Lightly taxed salt (about)	800,000
TOTAL	31,810,000

This is the figure with which those of paragraph 78 of last year's Financial Statement are comparable. The figures are continued up to 1890-91 below—

	Consumption of Salt in Maunds.
1882-83	28,720,000
1883-84	29,338,000
1884-85	31,348,000
1885-86	30,606,000
1886-87	32,200,000
1887-88	31,186,000
1888-89	30,600,000
1889-90 Estimate	31,810,000
1890-91 „	31,930,000

The Revised Estimate also takes into account a consumption in Burma of—

	Maunds.
Imported Salt	1,150,000
Locally-made Salt	560,000
TOTAL	1,710,000

The Budget Estimate of Revenue is Rx. 8,233,500 or Rx. 41,000 in excess of the Revised, and provides for an increased consumption of about 200,000 maunds in India and Burma.

The estimates of expenditure for both years are on a higher scale than previously, principally in Burma, Bengal, and Madras. In Burma, the imposition of fees at higher rates on locally-made salt involves a proportionate increase in the commission payable on collections. In Bengal, provision has been made for payments on account of new scales of an improved type. In Madras, the opening of new salt works on account of Government will involve increased expenditure.

24. The Estimates are—

	Budget Estimate, 1889-90	Revised Estimate, 1889-90.	Budget Estimate, 1890-91.
	Rx.	Rx.	Rx.

Net	3,825,200	3,925,800	3,891,800

The Revenue promises to be better than the Estimate by Rx. 101,000, the improvement being contributed by Burma (Upper and Lower), Assam, the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, Madras, and Bombay. The increases in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh and Madras are considerable, namely, Rx. 25,000 and Rx. 35,000, and the slight falling away in the estimated revenue of 1890-91 is due to the fact that it is not thought desirable to reckon on these increases being maintained.

The variations in the Expenditure are unimportant and are mainly due to the charges in England. A larger quantity of Stamps is to be supplied in 1890-91, and this accounts for the increased charge.

The question has been a good deal discussed in recent years whether the revenue derived from the sale of Court-fee Stamps did or did not greatly exceed the cost of the Administration of Civil Justice. An enquiry was undertaken in 1886 with the view of ascertaining and putting beyond question what the true facts are. The result of this enquiry was published in a Resolution in the Gazette of India of the 11th January last, in which it was shown that including all India there was a yearly loss of Rx. 125,100, and that instead of surpluses there were deficits in every Province except (1) Bengal, and (2) Madras, where the receipts and charges were practically equal.

NET	4,573,100	4,683,200	4,671,900

In the current year the improvement in Revenue is Rx. 110,100, and the Revenue is better than the Estimate in all Provinces except Bengal, where the decrease is Rx. 30,000 and in Upper Burma where it is Rx. 13,400. The large increases occur in Madras, Rx. 60,000, and Lower Burma, Rx. 31,400.

The Excise question has been discussed at great length in the collection of papers published in the Gazette of India of 1st March, and nothing more need be said on the subject in this place. It was to be expected that the changes in system which are being made in Bengal would be attended at first with some loss of revenue, though the falling off is also largely due to bad seasons. The falling off in Upper Burma is due to the fact that the estimate first made was a mere conjecture. The Revenue Officers had no facts to guide them and they framed their estimates too high.

The rapid advance in the Madras Revenue is worthy of notice. It is due to better management, to an efficient preventive service, to the gradual and systematic enhancement of the rate of taxation which has now in some districts reached the tariff rate, and to the extension of the Bombay system of taxing the trees from which toddy for consumption or manufacture into spirit is drawn. In Lower Burma the increase is due to raising the duty on spirits locally manufactured.

The estimate of Revenue for 1890-91 varies only slightly from the Revised Estimate. A decrease is expected in Bombay owing to a partial modification of the method hitherto followed in fixing the "minimum guarantee," and a further increase is expected in Madras and Lower Burma.

The Expenditure is increasing mainly in Bengal and Madras. In Bengal the re-establishment of Central Distilleries under proper supervision, with a considerable strengthening of the Excise establishments, accounts for the growth of expenditure. In Madras, as the tree-tax system extends, the preventive establishment necessarily expands also.

The rates and cesses credited under this head are assessed at varying percentages on Land Revenue; and as a large increase in Land Revenue is estimated for in both years, the Estimates of the rates necessarily respond. This is the general explanation of the increase, but the following special items deserve notice. In Madras an increase of Rx. 52,400 is expected, the bulk of which is due to the fact that the original Estimate, which was prepared on a consideration of the actual receipts of past years, was too low. In the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, the Patwari cess promises to produce Rx. 6,300 more than the Estimate.

The variations in the Estimates of Expenditure are comparatively trifling, and the only point which requires notice is that in the Punjab the discontinuance, with effect from 1st October 1889, of the payment of fees to Patwaris for the collection of the rates and cesses causes a reduction of Rx. 7,500 in the Revised Estimate, and of a further sum of Rx. 9,300 in the Budget Estimate for 1890-91. It must also be borne in mind that the Expenditure recorded under this head represents only the cost of collection of the cesses.

The Revised Estimate provides for an improvement of Rx. 68,900 over the Budget, most of which is contributed by Burma. In Bengal the estimate will not be realised.

28. For the ten months ending 31st January the receipts from import duty and their distribution among the dutiable articles have been :—

	1886-87.	1887-88.	1888-89.	1889-90.
	Rx.	Rx.	Rx.	Rx.
Arms, &c. .	18,500	18,200	20,200	19,500

	416,500	446,900	576,600	607,900

In the export revenue there has been a considerable increase in the ten months of the present year. The figures are :—

	Rx.
1886 87	411,000
1887-88	453,000
1888-89	363,000
1889-90	458,000

This increase is due to the unusually large export of rice from Burma, the export of rice from Bengal having declined materially in consequence of high prices following on unsatisfactory crops.

29. In the estimate for 1890-91 the continuance of the favourable conditions of the current year is not fully reckoned on, though a recovery is looked for in Bengal. The increase estimated for is wholly due to the additional revenue which will be yielded by the enhanced tax on imported spirits. At ₹5 a gallon the average net receipts from the duty on spirits are about Rx. 480,000. We therefore estimate the additional revenue, due to the increase of the duty by ₹1, at about Rx. 92,500. The reasons which have influenced the Government in deciding to raise the duty have been explained in introducing the Bill to amend the Tariff Act, and in this place it will suffice to give a very brief recapitulation of them.

The reasons are :—

(1) On general grounds, it is desirable to increase, within reasonable limits, the cost to the consumer of intoxicating liquors, by increasing the duty on them.

(2) It is an accepted principle of Excise administration in India to endeavour to gradually raise the duty on spirits made in India to the tariff rate, which practically sets a limit to the increase. It has been found possible in some places to increase the duty to the tariff rate, so that the occasion for a further increase of that rate has arrived.

(3) It is hoped that the increase may check the increasing import of cheap deleterious foreign spirit.

(4) The increased duty will make a substantial addition to the public revenue.

The estimates of expenditure and refunds are fairly constant and call for no remarks.

Expenditure	28,800	28,000	31,200

The Revised Estimate provides for an increase in Revenue of Rx. 51,800, to which all Provincesc ontribute except the districts directly administered by the Government of India. The chief increases are, Rx. 11,300 in the Punjab, due to revision of assessments, and Rx. 10,000 in Madras, to realisation of arrears.

The variations of the receipts from year to year are necessarily small, and the Budget for 1890-91 virtually repeats the Revised Estimate for 1889-90.

The variations in the estimate of expenditure are trifling, the increase occurring in Bengal and representing provision for a separate assessing establishment.

The net collections amounted to Rx. 1,477,514 in 1888-89, or more by Rx. 94,706 than the collections of the previous year. The following table shows how this increase is distributed :—

More than half of the total increase occurred in Burma, to portions of which the tax was extended from 1st April 1888. Leaving that Province out of account, the collections in India shew an increase of Rx. 44,699, or 3·23 per cent., of which rather more than a third occurred in Calcutta.

FORESTS.

31. The following statement shows the present state of the Forest Revenue :—

	Budget, 1889-90.	Revised, 1889-90.	Budget, 1890-91.
	Rx.	Rx.	Rx.
Revenue	1,269,600	1,446,400	1,414,400
Expenditure	801,300	815,700	847,900
Surplus	+468,300	+630,700	+566,500

The increase of gross revenue indicated in the Revised Estimate is Rx. 176,800, of which the greater part is due to an exceptionally favourable season for floating down timber and to rising prices in Upper and Lower Burma, the improvement having produced Rx. 45,100 in Upper and Rx. 91,500 in Lower Burma. Bombay shows an advance of Rx. 17,100, due to increased operations, and the North-Western Provinces, the Punjab, and Bengal between them contribute an additional revenue of about Rx. 19,300, due to sale of railway sleepers in the first Province, supply of fuel for railways in the second, and improved sales of timber in the third.

The increased expenditure involved by these more active operations is expected to be only Rx. 14,400. The surplus for the current year is expected to be Rx. 73,700 better than that of 1888-89, which was about Rx. 157,000 higher than that of any previous year.

The Budget Estimate of Revenue is Rx. 32,000 less than the sum expected in the current year. There is a general increase in all Provinces except Burma, where the falling off means that the continuance of the exceptionally favourable conditions of the current year cannot be reckoned on. The proportion of expenditure to income has fallen from 59 per cent. in 1888-89 to 56 per cent. in the current year.

INTEREST ON DEBT.

32. The Estimates are—

	Budget Estimate, 1889-90.	Revised Estimate, 1889-90.	Budget Estimate, 1890-91.
	Rx.	Rx.	Rx.
Receipts	734,200	867,700	789,900

Net	3,624,400	3,394,600	3,506,400

The explanation of the expected increase in the receipts in the current year is that the Secretary of State has had control of a high cash balance and has been able to invest a large portion of it temporarily at a high rate of interest. The explanation of the reduction in the expenditure is (1) that the Budget provided for a loan in India of 2½ crores at a discount, whereas a loan of only 2 crores was raised at about par; (2) that no temporary loans were required in England; (3) that a loan of only £3,500,000 was raised in sterling in place of one of £3,750,000 anticipated at the time the Budget was framed; (4) because the charges transferred from this head to the Railway Revenue Account for interest on advances to Companies were larger than anticipated, on account of advances being made at earlier dates, and (5) because the rate of Exchange on the sterling payments is better than the Estimate.

33. The following figures show in thousands of £ the amount of the sterling debt of the Government of India at the end of each year from 1881-82, the amount of interest paid during the year, and the distribution of the total amounts between ordinary debt and that held on account of Railways :—

It will be seen from these figures that in nine years the debt on ordinary account has increased by £7,261,000, while the Railway debt has increased by £29,223,000. The addition to the ordinary debt really represents the cost of Railway Construction, the Public Works loans in 1885-86 and 1886-87 having been raised in England, but as the transfer from ordinary to Railway account is always made in the Indian portion (that is, the rupee portion) of the Accounts whether the debt is created in England or India, the amounts raised in England have been added to the ordinary sterling debt, while a corresponding reduction has been made in the ordinary rupee debt. The conversion of £53,261,820 four per cent. into three and a half per cent. stock resulted in a net saving of £266,310 a year.

Of the total increase in the Railway portion of the sterling debt a sum of £3,500,000 has been raised in the current year under the Oudh and Rohilkhand Railway Purchase Act for making advances to Railway Companies, and it is proposed to raise a similar loan of £1,700,000 next year. The practice is obviously economical, as the Secretary of State can borrow at less than 3 per cent. while the Companies have to pay higher rates for their debentures. The rest of the increase in the nine years represents the purchase money paid for the Oudh and Rohilkhand and South Indian Railways and the redemption of liabilities incurred by the acquisition of the Sind, Punjab and Delhi, the Eastern Bengal, and the East Indian Railways. It will thus be seen that the greater portion of the increase to the debt is only nominal, having been incurred to extinguish existing liabilities which were shown in the Railway Revenue Account under other heads than Interest on Debt. The charges on account of interest have correspondingly increased, but there has been a much larger reduction under other heads, notably under Interest payable to Guaranteed Companies.

34. The following are the details of the debt in India :—

A large portion of the public debt has been incurred for the purpose of advancing funds on easy terms to Municipalities and other Public Bodies, and to Native States. Rx. 6,250,000 of it also represents the investment of the currency reserve. The following figures show the net charge in India on account of interest on ordinary account, as well as the interest on the Capital expenditure on Railways and Irrigation Works :—

The net charge on ordinary account in 1887-88 was unusually low, partly because about Rx. 90,000 of the charges remained unpaid at the end of the year and were paid in the following years, and partly because about Rx. 40,000 were received during the year on account of arrears of interest on the Kidderpore Dock loan. The singular and interesting fact which this statement reveals, is that there is now an actual net receipt on account of the ordinary rupee debt. In other words the interest on the investments held on account of Government, and on the advances made to Public Bodies and others by Government, exceeds the interest payable on that portion of the rupee debt which is not actually represented by Railways and Irrigation Works.

POST OFFICE, TELEGRAPH, AND MINT.

35. The net result of the working of these three quasi-Commercial Departments will be apparent from the following figures :—

NET	121,171	125,500	148,000	135,800

These figures do not profess to give a complete account of the profit and loss of the Departments, but merely show the difference between the revenue and expenditure as recorded in the accounts and estimates. As regards the Post Office, the somewhat unfavourable result of the current year is mainly due to a change in the system of accounting. Hitherto it has been the practice to credit as revenue, (1) the cost of Postage Stamps sold by Treasuries to Postmasters, whether disposed of to the public within the year or not, and (2) all postage due on articles remaining undelivered at the end of the year, by debit to advances. In future only the sum received for stamps actually sold to the public and postage actually realized will be credited as revenue of the year. The effect of this change has been to reduce the revenue of the current year by about Rx. 41,000.

The Revenue Account of the Telegraph Department indicates a gradual expansion of traffic and a slowly increasing surplus. The increase in the capital expenditure is due to the contemplated construction of new lines, most of which are necessitated by the extension of Railway communications.

The imports and coinage of silver during the three closing months of the current year will be very heavy. This large coinage, and the higher gain on the copper coinage resulting from the reduced price of copper, account for the improvement shown under Mint.

CIVIL DEPARTMENTS.

36. The Estimates of the several heads which fall into this group are compared below:—

	Budget Estimate, 1889-90.	Revised Estimate, 1889-90.	Budget Estimate, 1890-91.	Revised Estimate, 1889-90, Better + Worse — than Budget Estimate of 1889-90.	Budget Estimate, 1890-91, Better + Worse — than Revised Estimate of 1889-90.

Net Expenditure .	11,827,000	11,763,800	12,075,300	+63,200	—311,500

The improvement in Revenue does not call for special notice, as, with few exceptions, it results from a number of minor variations.

The Revised Estimate of Expenditure approximates closely in the aggregate to the original Estimate for 1889-90, but the following variations call for a few words of explanation:—

	Expenditure less.	Expenditure more.
	Rx.	Rx.
18. General Administration	25,800	...
20. Police	58,800	...
21. Marine	...	92,600
22. Education	51,000	...
25. Political	...	37,000
TOTAL .	+135,600	—129,600

Of the improvement under Administration, Rx. 16,600 is the result chiefly of economies effected in the offices of the Government of India, and Rx. 13,400 occurs in England and Exchange. The smaller expenditure under Police is almost entirely due to savings in the District Executive Force and Special Police charges in Burma, rendered possible by the restoration of order and decrease of crime in that Province. The considerable increase in Marine Expenditure is due to provision having been made for the purchase of a steamer for the Andamans and a steam launch for the Port Officer, Calcutta, to the payment of the balance of the purchase-money of a steamer to replace the Undaunted, and to a large supply of Stores from England. The improvement under Education is distributed in small amounts over all Provinces, and the increase under Political is chiefly due to the payment of arrears of subsidy to the Amir of Afghanistan.

37. The increase of expenditure provided for in the Budget Estimate for 1890-91 is expected under all heads except Marine, where the absence of provision for the special items of expenditure referred to above results in a reduction of Rx. 55,400 from the amount provided in the Revised Estimate. The following are the principal items of increase: Courts of Law, Rx. 51,300, owing chiefly to provision having been made for additional Judicial Establishments in Burma and in Bengal; Jails Rx. 35,300; Police, Rx. 63,000, of which 29,300 is provided in Lower Burma principally on account of additional Police to be entertained in place of men under training, and the balance in the Punjab, Madras, and Bombay as the result of revision of establishments, contemplated or in progress; Education, Rx. 92,400, in consequence generally of an increase in the number of Government Schools and in the grants-in-aid to private Educational Institutions in all Provinces; and Scientific and Other Minor Departments, Rx. 64,100, resulting almost entirely from the provision for the forthcoming Census.

MISCELLANEOUS.

38. The Estimates are as follows:—

	1888-89, Accounts.	Budget.	1889-90, Revised.	1890-91, Budget.	Increase (+) or Decrease (—) of Revised, as compared with Budget Estimates, 1889-90.	Increase (+) or Decrease (—) of Budget, 1890-91, as compared with Revised Estimates, 1889-90.

Expenditure .	4,884,000	4,823,200	4,848,700	4,945,400	+25,500	+96,700

The variations in revenue occur mainly in the receipts under Exchange, which were Rx. 951,500 in 1888-89, and are estimated at Rx. 527,300 and Rx. 453,400 in the Budget and Revised Estimates of 1889-90, and Rx. 443,500 in the Budget Estimate of 1890-91. It has been explained in previous years that these receipts accrue almost entirely in connection with the capital transactions of the subsidised Railways, the most important of which are the Southern Mahratta, Indian Midland, and Bengal-Nagpur Railways. The gradual falling off in the receipts is due to the smaller capital expenditure on these Railways, some of which have already been completed and others are approaching completion. Excluding Exchange, the revenue under this group amounted to Rx. 841,300 in 1888-89, and is estimated at Rx. 813,000 and Rx. 872,100 in the Budget and Revised Estimates of 1889-90, and at Rx. 799,500 in the Budget Estimate of 1890-91. The balance of the deposits of the Military Orphan Fund having been exhausted in 1888-89, the credit which used to be taken to revenue from this balance on account of the net payments made for the Fund, ceased in that year and accounts for a falling off of about Rx. 35,000. In the current year, however, this falling off has been more than compensated by special receipts, of which the principal are, a fine of Rx. 20,000 from a Karen Chief, and a recovery of Rx. 21,900 from the Bombay Port Trust on account of their non-interest-bearing debt, which represents the value of land purchased, and buildings constructed, from revenue and taken over by the Trust.

The increase in Expenditure is chiefly attributable to increasing superannuation allowances and to increased demands for Stationery and Printing, following on the growth of public business and the multiplication of public offices.

FAMINE RELIEF AND INSURANCE.

39. The Estimates are:—

	Budget, 1889-90.	Revised.	Budget, 1890-91.
	Rx.	Rx.	Rx
Famine Relief	20,500	100,000	10,500
Construction of Protective Irrigation Works .	80,000	74,000	65,000
Reduction of Debt	...	433,500	524,500
TOTAL .	100,500	607,500	600,000

In the Budget Estimate for the current year Rx. 20,000 were provided for the relief of the scarcity in Behar. When the estimates were prepared it was not thought that the scarcity in Ganjam would be of a nature to require expenditure on direct relief. It is well known that in both districts the scarcity turned out to be more serious than was at first anticipated. Rx. 50,000 were spent on direct relief operations in Behar and the same sum in Madras. An outlay of Rx. 32,500 was also incurred on the Rushikuliya Canal and helped to alleviate the distress in Ganjam. Most of the rest of the outlay on the irrigation works charged to this head represents the cost of construction of the Nira Canal in Bombay. Next year's grants provide for further progress on the two works mentioned above, and a precautionary provision of Rx. 10,000 is made for direct relief in Bengal.

It has been explained elsewhere that the great improvement in the financial outlook has enabled the Government to take steps for the gradual restoration of the Famine Insurance Grant, and no detailed explanation is therefore required of the entries against Reduction of Debt.

Of the various items of Revenue which enter into the Estimates, Land Revenue alone furnishes a larger contribution to the Treasury than the gross Railway Revenue; and the Expenditure on the working of Railways and in paying the interest on the money spent in constructing them, is second only to that incurred on the Army.

41. For the current year, the Revised Estimate compares with the Budget as follows:—

Receipts.

	Budget.	Revised.	Better + Worse —.
	Rx.	Rx.	Rx.
State Railways (gross Traffic Receipts) .	13,103,500	13,360,300	+256,800
Guaranteed Railways (net Traffic Receipts) .	3,560,000	3,100,000	—460,000
Subsidized Companies (Repayment of advances of interest)	23,000	43,000	+20,000
Total .	16,686,500	16,503,300	—183,200

Expenditure.

	Budget.	Revised.	Better + Worse —.
	Rx.	Rx.	Rx.
State Railways	14,454,000	14,310,700	+143,300
Guaranteed Railways (Surplus Profits, Land and Supervision and Interest) . . .	4,089,100	3,866,900	+222,200
Subsidized Companies	87,500	74,100	+13,400
Miscellaneous Railway Expenditure . .	82,500	155,200	—72,700
		Net	+306,200

The receipts are therefore expected to be Rx. 183,200 worse, and the expenditure Rx. 306,200 better, than the estimate, the whole of the deterioration in Receipts and most of the improvement in Expenditure appearing against "Guaranteed Railways." Low earnings of course mean that low surplus profits have to be paid; in other words, that a part of the loss of Revenue comes back to us in the shape of reduction of Expenditure.

42. State Railways' Traffic Receipts and Working Expenses.—The most marked variations from the receipts as originally estimated occur on the following lines:—

	Rx.
North-Western Railway	265,000	better.
Eastern Bengal	75,000
Rajputana-Malwa	60,000
Oudh and Rohilkhand	45,000
Tounghoo-Mandalay	42,500
Tirhoot	40,000
Indian Midland	180,000	worse.
Bengal-Nagpur	52,500
Southern Mahratta	25,000

	Rx.
North-Western Railway, by	50,000
Rajputana-Malwa	47,500
Tounghoo-Mandalay	23,500
Burma	22,500
Bengal-Nagpur	21,000

but fall short of the Estimate on the—

Indian Midland, by	132,500
East Indian	75,000
Sindhia	14,600

The large increase in the receipts on the North-Western Railway is due to a very favourable grain traffic. The Rajputana-Malwa line has carried more grain and cotton, and the Eastern Bengal Railway an exceptional quantity of jute. The failure to realise the estimates in the case of the three State lines leased to Companies is due partly to the conjectural nature of the estimates, as there were no data available for framing them; and partly to various sections of the lines not having been opened to traffic as early as anticipated.

Heavy traffic leads to increased working expenses, and this is the explanation generally of the increased expenditure. The original estimate for the East Indian Railway provided for a larger renewal of locomotives than was made; and the saving on the Sindhia line is due to the fact that the provision made for the settlement of a long outstanding claim preferred by the Bombay, Baroda and Central India Railway was not utilised, as the claim is yet under consideration.

43. Guaranteed Railways.—As already explained, the failure of the estimate of receipts and also most of the saving in Expenditure have occurred in connection with the guaranteed lines. The falling off occurs almost entirely on the Great Indian Peninsula Railway, the gross receipts being now estimated at Rx. 510,000 below the Budget figure. This is due mainly to a decrease in the wheat traffic, resulting from (1) poor crops in the localities served by the Railway, (2) a reduced demand for export owing to favourable crops in Europe and America, and (3) unusually large exports from the Punjab. There was also a falling off in the linseed traffic, and in the carriage of materials for Railway construction owing to the completion of the Indian Midland line.

The Madras Railway has, without any sensible increase in its expenditure, improved its receipts by Rx. 70,000 over the Estimate.

44. Miscellaneous Railway Expenditure.—The increase from Rx. 82,500 to Rx. 155,200 is principally due to the cost of material for a few miles of an experimental railway (the Abt) with a rack rail, and also to a large outlay on surveys, among which may be mentioned the Bikanir Desert Survey, the East Coast Survey, the Hyderabad-Umarkot Survey, Surveys in the Shan Hills, and on the Chindwin, and also on the North-West Frontier.

CAPITAL EXPENDITURE.

45. Construction of State Railways (not charged against Revenue).—The Budget Estimate provided for an outlay of Rx. 3,562,000. The present estimate is for Rx. 3,066,200, or a reduction of Rx. 495,800. The greater portion of the reduction occurs in the sterling expenditure in England which is now expected to be less than the estimate by £236,500. No progress has been made on the Peshawar-Jumrood or Burrakar lines or on the Kistna Bridge, for which Rx. 200,000 were provided in the Estimates. The year's record of construction is as follows :—

The Assam-Behar Railway, the Tounghoo-Mandalay Railway, the Sind-Sagar Railway, and the Chenab Bridge have been practically completed; considerable progress has been made with the Villapuram-Dharmaveram line, and with the Chaman Tunnel and extension. The Mu Valley line has been commenced, and the Jammu-Kashmir line is in progress.

BUDGET ESTIMATE, 1890-91.

46. The Budget Estimate for 1890-91 compares with the Revised Estimate of the current year as follows :—

RECEIPTS.

	Revised.	Budget, 1890-91.	Better + Worse—.
	Rx.	Rx.	Rx.
State Railways (gross Traffic Receipts)	13,360,300	13,777,300	+417,000
Guaranteed Railways (net Traffic Receipts)	3,100,000	3,342,000	+242,000
Subsidized Companies (Repayment of advances of interest)	43,000	32,100	—10,900

EXPENDITURE.

	Revised.	Budget, 1890-91.	Better + Worse—.
	Rx	Rx	Rx.
State Railways	14,310,700	14,841,900	—531,200
Guaranteed Railways (Surplus Profits, Land and Supervision and Interest)	3,866,900	4,012,700	—145,800
Subsidized Companies	74,100	52,000	+22,100
Miscellaneous Railway Expenditure	155,200	111,300	+43,900
TOTAL	18,406,900	19,017,900	—611,000

An increase of Rx. 648,100 in receipts and of Rx. 611,000 in expenditure is, therefore, estimated for, the net improvement being Rx. 37,100.

47. State Railways, Traffic Receipts and Working Expenses.—The chief improvements in receipts are expected on the following lines :—

	Rx.
South Indian (owing to change of status)	132,500
Midland	130,000
Bengal-Nagpur	102,500
Southern Mahratta	70,000
Oudh and Rohilkhand	35,000
Burma	30,000
Tounghoo-Mandalay	22,500
East Indian	10,000
Villapuram-Guntakal (Nellore Branch)	7,100

and the only material falling off on the

North Western	165,000

The improvement in the Midland and Bengal-Nagpur lines is anticipated for the reason that the former will be completely open for traffic throughout the year, and the latter for a portion of it. The estimates are, however, to some extent conjectural, and it is well to bear in mind that the results of the current year have not accorded with the anticipations on which the estimates were framed a year ago. The completion of the Southern Mahratta system explains the expected increase of Rx. 70,000 on that line. The traffic on the Oudh and Rohilkhand line is developing in a satisfactory manner, and both the Burma lines have done remarkably well and promise to continue to do so. The following figures for the Upper Burma line have some interest :—

	Budget, 1889-90.	Revised.	Budget, 1890-91.
	Rx.	Rx.	Rx.
Receipts	115,000	157,500	180,000
Working Expenses	100,000	123,500	130,000
Net	15,000	34,000	50,000

The improvement on the Villapuram-Guntakal (Nellore Branch) line is not altogether real, as owing to the change of status of the South Indian Railway, through which agency this line is at present worked, the receipts will be adjusted monthly instead of half-yearly, thust hrowing the transactions of 15 months into the accounts of 1890-91. A falling off on the North-Western line of Rx. 165,00 is expected; in the current year the grain traffic has been unusually heavy, and with the failure of the winter rains in the Punjab its continuance on the same scale cannot be looked for.

In Working Expenses the increase is estimated at Rx. 300,300, and may be stated generally to be proportionate to the increased traffic expected.

The addition to the Interest charge is Rx. 230,900. This, of course, represents the interest on the additional outlay on construction and on the additional capital deposited by the Assisted Companies during the year.

48. Guaranteed Railways.—In consequence of its change of status on 31st December 1890, the net earnings of the South Indian line for nine months only come into the Estimates. On the Madras and Bombay, Baroda and Central India lines slight increases aggregating Rx. 20,000 are expected. The increase of Rx. 242,000 is due to the more favourable view taken of the prospects of the Great Indian Peninsula line. The partial collapse of the traffic, and the special reasons for it, have already been alluded to. A recovery set in in November, and as it is understood that the wheat crop in the Central Provinces is a fair one, there is reason to hope that the improvement may be maintained. The Estimate provides for Gross Earnings at Rx. 4,000,000 and working expenses at Rx. 1,960,000, giving net earnings of Rx. 2,040,000 and a net increase of Rx. 260,000. The following figures show that with ordinary conditions this is not a sanguine estimate :—

Net earnings (actual)—

		Rx.
1886-87		2,114,300
1887-88		2,142,400
1888-89		2,209,100
Budget Estimate	1889-90	2,270,000
Revised Estimate	1889-90	1,780,000
Budget	1890-91	2,040,000

The Surplus profits and Interest are more by Rx. 145,800 than in the current year; the greater portion of which is the consequence of the higher estimate of earnings, and the rest of additional capital outlay on which interest has to be paid.

49. Under Miscellaneous Railway Expenditure the improvement of Rx. 43,900 is nominal, as the current year bears the exceptional charge for the Abt experimental material. The provision of Rx. 111,300 is for surveys.

Before leaving the subject of Railway Revenue and Expenditure it is desirable to call attention to the magnitude of the transactions and to the impossibility of framing a close estimate of the probable traffic earnings. The Budget Estimates for the current year promise to be fulfilled within an inconsiderable margin; but this is not because each estimate has proved a good one: on the contrary, the variations from expectation, on the Great Indian Peninsula line in particular, and on the Midland and Bengal-Nagpore in a less degree, indicate the perplexing nature of the task. This liability to fluctuation in the net earnings of our great Railway system adds one more cause of uncertainty to those which already affect Indian finance.

CAPITAL EXPENDITURE.

50. The provision in 1890-91 for construction of Railways not charged to Revenue is Rx. 362,000 less than the original provision of the current year thus :—

	India.	England.	Exchange.	Total.
	Rx.	£	Rx.	Rx.
1889-90	1,697,100	1,273,000	591,900	3,562,000
1890-91	1,960,200	855,000	384,800	3,200,000

The works on the Chaman Extension, for which a heavy grant was made in 1889-90, are now far advanced and require a very much smaller grant in 1890-91 to provide for their completion. The Chenab Bridge is practically completed. The Sind-Pishin, Sind-Sagar, and Assam-Behar Railways and the Mandalay Extension, on which considerable sums were expended during the past year, are now finished, and the expenditure next year will be restricted to requirements which the exigencies of traffic or safe working may prove to be necessary.

The expenditure on the Villupuram-Guntakul Railway, under construction on behalf of the State by the South Indian Railway, will still be high, and provision to the extent of Rx. 968,600 has been made in the estimates. It is expected that 160 miles of this line will be sufficiently far advanced to be open for traffic about January next.

During the current year, the Mu Valley Railway, the Durbhunga-Bairagnia Branch of the Tirhoot State Railway, and an extension of the Sind-Sagar Railway from Mianwali to Mari were sanctioned, and work on them is now in progress. The grants allotted to these projects in 1890-91 are Rx. 500,000, Rx. 75,400, and Rx. 195,000, respectively. The allotments to the two last named projects provide for their completion during the coming year.

Provision to the extent of Rx. 250,000 is made for either the Panchpara Ganjam or East Coast project now under investigation. Other important grants are, Rx. 63,600 for improving the gradients on the North-Western Railway between Jhelum and Rawalpindi, and Rx. 62,800 for completing the reserve of material which it has been decided to maintain for future possible extensions of the Frontier Railways.

51. The following figures shew the rate at which Railways have been constructed at the cost, or on the responsibility, of the Government since 1880 :—

Date.	Number of miles open.
31st March 1880	8,382
,, 1881	9,134
,, 1882	9,437

,, 1887	12,000
,, 1888	12,915
,, 1889	13,648
,, 1890 (Revised Estimate)	14,437

Between March 1880 and March 1890 the number of miles open has increased from 8,382 to 14,437, or by more than 72 per cent.

The following Table gives the Total Capital outlay on Railway Construction up to date :—

IRRIGATION.

52. The Irrigation revenue makes satisfactory progress. The figures are—

	Budget, 1889-90.	Revised, 1889-90.	Budget, 1890-91.
	Rx.	Rx.	Rx.
Revenue	1,889,300	1,985,300	2,035,000
Expenditure	2,614,700	2,709,300	2,739,400
Net	—725,400	—724,000	—704,400

It must be recollected that these figures include the transactions classed as "minor works" as well as the revenue transactions of the productive or 'major works." The broad distinction between the two classes is that the Capital cost of minor works is charged against Revenue, while the cost of construction of major works is charged to Debt. The distinction is not absolute, for there are works classed as "Major Works" on which there has been large capital expenditure from Revenue, that is, charged against the grant for Famine Insurance. In the current year most of the improvement in revenue arises through the extension of irrigation in the Punjab, and is mainly due to the approaching completion of the distributaries of the Sirhind Canal. In 1890-91, the increase is shared between the Punjab and the North-Western Provinces, the former contributing Rx. 58,700 more than the estimate of a year ago, and the latter Rx. 21,300. Extension of distributaries and an advance in popular favour are the general explanation of the increase in both cases. There is, however, a special influence in the case of the North-Western Provinces. It may be recollected that in 1886, the irrigation from the Lower Ganges Canal system was stopped by the collapse of the Nadrai aqueduct. The reconstruction of the aqueduct has now been completed and therewith a large area is again brought within reach of canal water.

53. Construction of Irrigation Works (not charged against Revenue).—The Estimates are—

Budget, 1889-90.	Revised, 1889-90.	Budget, 1890-91.
527,500	401,900	550,000

The reduction of the Estimate from Rx. 527,500 to Rx. 401,900 in the current year is due to the postponement of the construction of the Jhelum Canal. The conversion of the Chenab Inundation Canal into a perennial Canal has taken the place of the Jhelum project for the present.

In 1890-91 the outlay will be almost entirely in the Punjab (Rx. 191,200), Madras (Rx. 130,000), and the North West Provinces and Oudh (Rx. 105,000). In the Punjab, the Chenab and Sirsa Canals will be proceeded with; the outlay in Madras represents the progress on the Perriar project, and in the North-Western Provinces it is distributed over the Ganges and Jumna Canals.

It may be mentioned that it has been arranged to apply a fixed sum of Rx. 550,000 from loan funds to construction for each of the next few years, in addition to construction charged under "minor works" and against the Famine Grant.

BUILDINGS AND ROADS.

54. This head comprises both Military and Civil Works. The Estimates are :—

Receipts.

	Budget, 1889-90.	Revised, 1889-90.	Budget, 1890-91.
	Rx.	Rx.	Rx.
Military and Civil Works	603,700	649,200	589,400

	Budget, 1889-90.	Revised, 1889-90.	Budget, 1890-91.
	Rx.	Rx.	Rx.
Military Works	1,157,400	1,158,000	1,160,700
Civil Works	4,325,000	4,281,400	4,556,600

In the Revised Estimate the expected improvement in revenue, Rx. 45,500, is almost entirely due to the sale of the Burrakur iron-works to a Company. The price was Rx. 45,000, which was received and credited in the current year.

The Military Works expenditure is composed of a grant of Rx. 1,000,000 which has been regularly made for several years, plus Rx. 150,000 for Burma, with an addition for Exchange on the small English expenditure.

55. By far the greatest portion of the Civil Works Expenditure is Provincial and Local. The Imperial share is only Rx. 822,500 in the Revised Estimate, and a large part of this, namely, Rx. 304,000, represents the cost of the progress made during the year in equipping Upper Burma with Jails, Court-houses, and Roads. The expenditure classified as Local, that is, incurred mainly through the agency of District and Local Boards, amounts to Rx. 1,493,300 and is not far short of the sum spent by Provincial Governments.

The Provincial expenditure is largely determined by the state of the Provincial balances. The increase in the total grant for Civil Works is considerable, but it only means that Local Governments have abundant balances, and having arranged their programmes for utilising their surplus funds, are now carrying them out. Provincial expenditure on Civil Works was estimated at a high figure in the Budget of the current year, but a considerably higher provision is made for next year. The figures are :—

	Budget, 1889-90.	Budget, 1890-91.	Increase.

TOTAL .	20,974,700	20,933,600	21,505,100

The increase in the Revised Estimate of receipts represents increased sales of stores to Civil Hospitals and Dispensaries and to the forces engaged in the Sikkim and Chin-Lushai Expeditions.

Notwithstanding the heavy outlay on the Chin-Lushai Expedition, the Revised Estimate of expenditure in India is expected to be appreciably less than the Budget grant for the year. The main causes of this somewhat unexpected result are the following: considerable economies have been effected in the Upper Burma charges; the rate of exchange for the conversion of the pay of British troops is $\frac{1}{2}d.$ better than that provided in the Budget; and the actual strength of the Army was less than that provided for.

In the English expenditure there is a considerable increase, but it is an increase which will give relief to the Estimates of future years. A special payment of £150,000 to the War Office has been provided for on account of arrears of what are technically described as "Home Charges on account of British troops serving in India—effective," and a provision of £70,000 on the same account has been made in the Estimates of 1890-91. These charges represent the amount payable by India on account of the raising and equipment of the British Army in India; the method of assessing them has been under discussion for many years, and is at present being considered by a Committee over which Lord Northbrook presides. It is understood that the payment of this £220,000 will extinguish, or almost extinguish, all liabilities on this account other than current ones.

57. It will be noticed that in 1890-91 there is a decrease of expenditure in India, but a very large increase in the English expenditure. The decrease in India, however, requires explanation. The Estimates of both 1889-90 and of 1890-91 include provision for considerable expenditure of a special and temporary nature. The decrease expected in 1890-91 is not a decrease in the ordinary charges for the Army, but merely means that the Estimates are burthened with a smaller sum for exceptional services. Next year shows an improvement over the current one in the following respects—

(a) Better Exchange for payment of British troops, i.e., 1*s.* 5*d.* in place of 1*s.* 4*d.*
(b) Less expenditure on Commissariat requirements.
(c) Reduced provision on account of troops in Sikkim.
(d) Reduced expenditure in Upper Burma.
(e) Reduction in mobilisation charges.

The aggregate improvement on these accounts is not far short of Rx. 700,000, so that for purposes of comparison the ordinary charges included in the Budget Estimate of 1889-90 may be reckoned at about Rx. 14,400,000 as compared with the actual Estimate of Rx. 15,107,000 in all. The Budget of 1890-91 provides for an expenditure of Rx. 14,806,000, and the difference between that figure and Rx. 14,400,000 or Rx. 406,000 may be taken roughly as the measure of the special charges to be met in the coming year. The greater portion of this is due to a provision of Rx. 200,000 made for operations in the Chin-Lushai country, Rx. 60,000 for mobilization, and the rest to numerous causes, of which may be mentioned (1) extra grants for Volunteer Corps, and (2) the disbandment of certain Madras Regiments and the substitution for them of corps for local service in Burma.

58. The increase in the English charges is very great, namely, £614,800, and practically represents the cost of re-arming the British troops throughout with the new rifle, and of supplying 21 more batteries of 12-pounder breech-loading guns. The increase in the estimated cost of Ordnance stores over the actual cost in 1888-89 is no less than £745,600 [945,800—200,200]. The re-arming of the Army is a reform that had to be undertaken sooner or later and which could not safely be postponed. The increase in the Home charges is thus not permanent, but incidental and temporary, and we may hope for some reduction in liabilities in the Budget of 1891-92.

SPECIAL DEFENCES.

59. The Estimates are :—

	Budget, 1889-90.	Revised.	Budget, 1890-91.
	Rx.	Rx.	Rx.
	1,102,900	758,400	892,300

In the current year the expenditure is much below the grant in both India and England. The grant for India was Rx. 545,000 and the lapse is expected to be no less than Rx. 139,000. The lapse on the English grant, due to the slower supply of heavy ordnance and stores than was reckoned on, is £137,800, and the resulting saving in Exchange Rx. 67,700. The grant for next year is Rx. 425,800 for India, the highest expenditure in India in one year hitherto having been Rx. 447,800.

Section III.—Progress in Upper Burma.

60. The recent financial progress of Upper Burma may appropriately be noticed.

The following statement shows the Revenue and Expenditure as they were estimated in the Budget Statements of 1888-89 and 1889-90, and as they are estimated in 1890-91 :—

REVENUES.

	1888-89.	1889-90.	1890-91.

Civil Revenue	547,000	755,200	901,100

Army Special Expenditure	824,000	600,000	450,000
TOTAL	2,422,000	2,495,500	2,434,700

Thus the deficit in 1888-89 was estimated at Rx. 1,875,000, in 1889-90 at Rx. 1,625,300, and in 1890-91 it is expected to be Rx. 1,353,600. The actual results have recently turned out considerably better tha nthe anticipations of them, and we may hope for a considerable reduction in the expected deficit of Rx. 1,353,600 by the end of the year. The increase of revenue is remarkable, and has been referred to in the remarks on Land Revenue in paragraphs 12 and 13 and in those on Railways in paragraph 47.

Section IV.—Ways and Means—Home Treasury.

61. The Secretary of State's Revised and Budget Estimates of the transactions at the Home Treasury for 1889-90 compare as follows :—

Add Closing Balance	2,146,697	4,503,833
TOTAL	22,804,697	23,703,533

The most important variations from the Budget Estimate have occurred in Council Bills, in the amount of debt created for making advances to Railway Companies, and in the Capital Receipts from, and the net issues to, them for expenditure. These variations are briefly explained below :—

COUNCIL BILLS.

Throughout the current year the demand for remittances from England to India has been strong, and it is expected that the Secretary of State will sell bills for a considerably larger amount than that anticipated. The excess drawing gives a corresponding relief to next year, in which the drawings would otherwise have been unusually high, in consequence of the large increase in the net expenditure in England.

DEBT INCURRED, AND CAPITAL RECEIPTS FROM, AND ADVANCES MADE TO, RAILWAY COMPANIES.

It was explained in paragraph 95 of last year's Financial Statement that the Secretary of State proposed to borrow, under the powers conferred by the Oudh and Rohilkhand Railway Purchase Act, for the purpose of advancing funds to the "Aided" Railway Companies, and that provision had been made for a loan of £3,750,000 for this purpose. Soon after the Financial Statement was issued, it was found that the requirements of the Railway Companies had been overestimated and that a loan of £3,500,000 would be sufficient. It will be understood that this sum provides for Capital outlay by the Companies (Southern Mahratta, Indian Midland, Bengal-Nagpur, and Bengal Central) receiving the advances, both in England and India. Three per cent. stock for this amount was accordingly issued in May 1889 at a premium of £1—1s. 5d. per cent. The large increase in the amount received from Companies is due chiefly to £600,300 raised by the Great Indian Peninsula Railway Company and £583,200 by the Indian Midland Railway Company which, it was expected, would be raised in 1888-89. The issues to Companies in England on Capital account were overestimated; the Revised Estimate of £2,258,200 on this account includes £600,000 for discharge of debentures, the balance representing purchase of Stores, &c.

62. The following is the Secretary of State's Budget Estimate of Ways and Means for 1890-91 :—

Net Receipts.	£
Council Bills	14,989,000
Permanent Debt for Advances to Companies and discharge of Oudh and Rohilkhand Railway Debentures	2,200,000
Permanent Debt for Purchase of the South Indian Railway	3,200,000
Capital Receipts from Railway Companies	2,732,300
Deposits and Advances	2,200
Add Opening Balance	4,503,833
TOTAL	27,627,333
Net Outgoings.
Excess of expenditure over Revenue	15,674,300
Capital expenditure of Government in England	857,800
Permanent Debt—Discharge of the Oudh and Rohilkhand Railway Debentures	500,000
Issues to Railway Companies on Capital Account	4,045,600
Capital charge involved in redemption of liabilities	3,200,000
On account of Remittances from India	1,197,200
Add Closing Balance	2,152,433
TOTAL	27,627,333

The most important feature of this Estimate is the provision for the proposed purchase of the South Indian Railway. The terms have not yet been finally settled, but it should be noted that in the case of this Company the purchase can only be effected under the contract by actual payment and not by an annuity. Under the contract, the Secretary of State has to pay the equivalent of the mean market value of the share capital of the Company during the three years ending on the 1st March 1890, and to accept the liability for the debentures and debenture stock issued by the Company which now amounts to £1,495,000. But as it is proposed that the management of the Railway, after its acquisition by the State, shall be entrusted to a Company which will provide a small portion of the capital, it will not be necessary to provide for the redemption of the whole existing share capital. It is accordingly proposed to raise only £3,200,000 on account of the purchase, although the capital of the Company amounts to £3,208,952, the mean value of which, according to the terms of the contract, would be about £4,200,000. The entries on account of the transfer of liability of the debentures and debenture stock are omitted from both sides of the abstract account given above. They appear on both sides of the account in Statement C of the Appendix. The Secretary of State also proposes to raise a loan of £2,200,000 for advances to Railway Companies in India and England under the Oudh and Rohilkhand Railway Purchase Act and for the discharge of debentures for £500,000 of the Oudh and Rohilkhand Railway. Of the payments to Companies on Capital Account £1,804,300 represent discharge of debentures. He also proposes to draw £14,989,000 by Council Bills during the year. It should be understood that, in stating these as the present intentions of the Secretary of State, no sort of pledge is given that he will adhere to the programme thus explained, and that the amounts to be raised by bills or by loans may be varied from time to time as may seem expedient.

Ways and Means—India.

63 The Ways and Means Estimate of India is as follows :—

		39,158,901	39,843,089	39,608,489

The headings in italics are connected with and explained by the corresponding figures of the Secretary of State's account in England. The others refer to purely Indian transactions.

64. In the Budget Estimate, provision was made for a loan of Rx. 2,500,000 in India. By the 29th June, on which date the Notification calling for tenders was issued, the partial failure of the opium crop was known and the consequent saving in Expenditure was assured. The Revenue receipts also indicated an improvement over the Estimate. Under these circumstances it was determined to reduce the amount of the loan offered for subscription to Rx. 2,000,000. This was taken up at an average rate of R99-14-11·5 per 100 rupees yielding Rx. 1,998,697.

In 1890-91 it is not proposed to raise any loan in India, notwithstanding a contemplated Capital Expenditure on Railways and Canals of Rx. 3,750,000. The large surplus expected in the current year, both on Imperial and Provincial account, and the provision made under Famine Insurance for reduction of debt in both years, and which appears against item No. 4 in the statement above, will enable us, we hope, to avoid borrowing in 1890-91. This is the present intention of the Government, but full liberty is reserved to modify this intention to any extent that circumstances may require.

SAVINGS BANKS.

65. The influences which determined Government to reduce the limits of deposits in Savings Banks were mentioned in paragraph 101 of last year's Financial Statement. It was to be expected that for the first year the effect of this change would be marked, as deposits, which at the date of change were in excess of the new maximum (₹2,000), had to be reduced below that sum before further sums could be received to credit of the same account. The effect of the change of rule will be evident from the following figures :—

Year.	Net addition to deposits in the year (cash).	Interest.	Total net addition.
	Rx.	Rx.	Rx.
1887-88	+656,300	+224,000	+880,300
1888-89	685,200	+261,800	+947,000
1889-90 } Estimates { . . .	—320,500	+281,500	—39,000
1890-91 } { . . .	—34,400	+288,800	+254,400

The objections which might be taken to an alteration of rule which leads to such results are obvious. But it was impossible for the Government to continue a system under which the sum held at call had approached to an amount nearly equal to the minimum cash balance necessary for the discharge of public business, and which promised to further increase at the rate of nearly a crore a year.

Loans to Municipalities and Presidency Corporations.

66. The net figures for Local loans in 1889-90 and 1890-91 are Rx. 709,900 and Rx. 907,000, of which Rx. 300,000 and Rx. 370,000 represent the balances of the advances made by Local Governments under the system described in paragraphs 114 to 118 of last year's Financial Statement. Judged from the demands made by Local Governments, the system has proved very acceptable to them.

In the current year a total sum of Rx. 420,000 will be advanced to the Port Commissioners on account of the Kidderpore Docks, and in 1890-91 a sum of Rx. 553,200. The Bombay Port Trust only asks for Rx. 20,000, and that in the current year.

The advances made to these two Corporations on account of the Docks will stand thus :—

	Calcutta.	Bombay.
	Rx.	Rx.
Up to 1888-89	1,377,600	848,600
Advanced in 1889-90 } Estimates { . .	420,000	20,000
,, 1890-91 } { . .	553,200	...
Total .	2,350,800	868,600

67. Owing to the favourable nature of the year the closing balance on 31st March 1890, which was estimated at Rx. 12,553,000 a year ago, is now expected to be Rx. 14,597,000, notwithstanding provision for an increase of Secretary of State's drawings of £818,400. In 1890-91 provision is made for payments of Secretary of State's Bills to the extent of £14,922,000, and the year is expected to close with a balance of Rx. 13,094,000.

Section V.—Summary.

68. The principal features in this Statement are :—

(a) The Accounts for 1888-89 have closed with a surplus of Rx. 37,018 after including in the Expenditure Rx. 789,595 spent on Defence Works.

(b) The Revised Estimates of 1889-90 show a surplus of Rx. 1,809,700 after restoring the Famine Grant to Rx. 600,000 (or Rx. 1,058,100 including the net charge on the revenues on account of the Protective Railways constructed through the Agency of Companies), and postponing the contribution of Rx. 490,000 from Provincial resources for which credit was taken in the Budget Estimate, to 1890-91. All the main Revenue heads have contributed to this improvement. The saving in Opium expenditure, owing to a scanty crop, is Rx. 708,800. The Estimate of Exchange, which was taken in the Budget at 1*s.* 4·38*d.*=₹1, is placed at 1*s.* 4·552*d.*=₹1, and yields a saving of about Rx. 200,000. Rx. 758,400 spent on Defence Works are included in the Expenditure.

(c) The Budget Estimates show a surplus of Rx. 270,400. Exchange is taken at 1*s.* 4·552*d.* as in the Revised Estimate. Extra taxation has been imposed on imported spirits and Indian brewed beer has been made subject to the same tax as is levied on imported beer, the expected addition to the revenues being estimated at about Rx. 100,000. Credit has been taken for the contribution of Rx. 490,000 from Provincial Revenues, originally estimated for as a receipt of 1889-90. The Famine Relief and Insurance Grant has been maintained at Rx. 600,000. Including the net charge on the revenues on account of the Protective Railways the grant is Rx. 1,032,800. Army Expenditure is unusually heavy, being estimated at about Rx. 1,203,300 more than the expenditure in 1888-89, chiefly owing to the contemplated re-armament to be carried out next year. The Estimate of Expenditure includes Rx. 892,300 for Defence Works. In view of the heavy charges that fall on the revenues of the year in connection with the re-armament, the result is considered satisfactory.

(d) The Capital outlay on Railways and Irrigation Works is estimated at Rx. 3,468,100 in 1889-90 and at Rx. 3,750,000 in 1890-91.

(e) The Secretary of State proposes to sell £14,989,000 of Council Bills, also to borrow £5,400,000 for purchase of the South Indian Railway, for making advances to Companies engaged in constructing Railways for the State, and for paying off debentures. This announcement is accompanied by the usual reserve that, though these are the present intentions of the Secretary of State, he will remain entirely at liberty to vary the amounts to be raised by bills or by loans as he may find occasion.

(f) Although the estimates provide for a Capital outlay of Rx. 3,750,000 on Railways and Canals and for Rx. 907,000 to be advanced to Port Commissioners and Local Governments for local purposes, it is not expected that a loan will be necessary in India in 1890-91. It is mainly owing to the partial restoration of the Famine Insurance Grant, and the high cash balances resulting from the surplus of 1889-90, and the estimated surplus of 1890-91, that the Government expects to be able to find funds for the Capital outlay on Public Works without having recourse to borrowing. No pledge is, however, given that Government will not borrow in India during the year.

(g) The warning against desponding and pessimist views in connection with Indian Finance given last year is justified by the course of events. Further improvement in the financial position is anticipated, but prudence and economy are needed to meet the dangers and difficulties of the future.

NORTH WESTERN RAILWAY.

Completion of the bridge over the Chenab Rives at Sher Shah.

RESOLUTION.—The bridge near Sher Shah over the Chenab River having been completed, the Governor-General in Council desires to record his appreciation of the successful manner in which this important work has been carried out.

2. This bridge, the last link which connects the Sind-Sagar Railway with the North Western Railway, consists of 17 spans of 200 feet with a head-way of 14 feet above high flood level. The 16 piers are founded on double wells sunk about 77 feet below low water. There is a combined roadway for cart and railway traffic, the rails being flush with the roadway.

3 The cost of the bridge itself is estimated at ₹25,39,156. In addition to this, ₹8,00,000 have been provided for the protective works necessary for training the river, and ₹8,98,000 for the approaches to the bridge and the junction with the North Western Railway at Mozufferabad. The total cost, inclusive of the military defences of the bridge, is ₹42,70,000.

4 The bridge was begun in September 1888, and finished at the end of 1889, so that the time spent in construction was only 16 months. The rapidity with which the work was carried out reflects the highest credit on the officers and subordinates employed.

The Finance and Revenue Accounts for 1888-89 and the Comptroller-General's Appropriation Report on these Accounts.

Instead of the deficit of Rx. 698,000 anticipated in the Budget Estimate, the accounts of the year closed with a surplus of Rx. 37,018, this improvement of Rx. 735,018 being the net result of an increase in the total revenue of Rx. 1,686,178, of which Rx. 1,459,010 occurred in India, and an increase in the total expenditure of Rx. 951,160, which occurred chiefly under Provincial Adjustment (Rx. 768,718) and Exchange on expenditure in England (Rx. 583,236).

The increase of Rx. 1,459,010 in revenue in India occurred chiefly under Exchange (Rx. 536,453), Guaranteed Railways (Rx. 245,808), Forest (Rx. 177,447), Army (Rx. 130,076), and Opium (Rx. 108,419), while there was a decrease of Rx. 446,866 under Salt.

It was anticipated in the Budget Estimate that the balances at credit of the Provincial Governments and Local Funds would be reduced during the year by Rx. 483,600, but the actual accounts show that they have increased by Rx. 285,118, thus causing the actual Provincial Adjustment to vary from the estimate of it by Rx. 768,718. The increase in Provincial and Local Revenue was Rx. 480,187, and the decrease in Provincial and Local Expenditure was Rx. 288,531.

The increase of Rx. 583,236 in Exchange on English expenditure is the result of the fall in the rate of exchange, which was assumed at 16·9*d.* per rupee in the Budget Estimate, while the rate actually realised was 16·38*d.* per rupee, or £1 = R14·65.

The leading features of the comparison between the Estimates and Accounts will now be more fully noticed.

PRINCIPAL HEADS OF REVENUE.

Land Revenue.—The collections of the year followed very closely the anticipations of the Budget Estimate, and were only Rx. 172,900 less than those of the previous year. The decrease occurred (1) in Madras, where the revenue of 1887-88 was unusually high and included some advance collections; (2) in Bengal owing to suspensions in districts where scarcity prevailed; and (3) in Burma as the result of the postponement of dates of collection in the Akyab and Kyoukphyoo districts. The actuals of the past five official years (including Land Revenue due to Irrigation) and that of the five revenue years ending 30th September are as follows:

1888	23,791,800	23,924,700
1889	23,687,000	23,961,300

It was stated in the review of the Accounts for 1887-88 that the considerable variations from Estimates in the credits on account of alienated Land Revenue in Bombay, which were noticed in past years, should not appear in future owing to the completion of the revision of the system of assessment of these lands. The following figures, which show the credits, confirm this statement:

	Rx.
Budget Estimate	877,800
Revised Estimate	878,700
Accounts	886,500

Opium.—The Bengal opium revenue of the year exceeded that realised in 1887-88 by Rx. 346,000, and the amount provided in the Budget Estimate by Rx. 444,600. The number of chests sold was the same as in the previous year, viz., 57,000, but the average price realised was R1,120 per chest against R1,059 in the previous year and R1,042 taken in the Budget. revenue, on the contrary, was less than that of 1887-88 by Rx. 303,000, and than the estimate by Rx. 332,500. There was a partial failure of the opium crops in Malwa, owing to which the weighments of the year were 29,154 chests only—the smallest number in any year since 1866. The revenue from Excise opium was slightly less than the Estimate, being Rx. 213,800 against an estimate of Rx. 217,500.

The production of Bengal opium during 1888-89 was 69,500 chests, which is the largest on record. This made the fifth successive favourable season, and notwithstanding the increased number of chests sold during 1887-88 and 1888-89, the balance in stock on 1st April 1889 stood at 92 455 chests.

Salt.—The salt revenue of the year was Rx. 1,004,900 higher than that of 1887-88 in consequence of the enhancement of the salt duty in January 1888. It was explained in the review of the Accounts for 1887-88 that the revenues of that year were not benefited by this measure, because the sales of the higher taxed salt were restricted until the old stocks, which had paid the former rate of duty, were exhausted. The large falling off in the collections of 1888-89 compared with the Budget Estimate is due (1) to the Budget Estimate having been framed without reference to the fact that the dutiable salt in India paid duty at varying rates; (2) to the high prices prevailing in Calcutta during the year, which adversely affected the imports; and (3) to the large falling off in the imports into Burma in consequence of the abnormally high imports of the previous year.

Stamps and Excise.—These are heads of revenue which tend to increase, and the receipts in any year are generally greater than in the preceding year. It will be sufficient to mention therefore that the improvement under Stamps arose chiefly from increased litigation, while that under Excise is distributed among all Provinces, and is due to improved administration and to the growth of population and prosperity of the country.

Customs: Import duties.—The increase over the receipts of 1887-88 as shown below was derived mainly from the tax on petroleum imposed in January 1888, from which Rx. 13,700 were realised in 1887-88 and Rx. 117,400 in 1888-89:

Export duties.—Comparing the receipts of the two official years 1887-88 and 1888-89, the collections in the latter show a falling off of Rx. 143,500, owing to reduced exports of rice from Burma, Bengal, and Bombay. Taking the year from 1st October to 30th September as in the case of Land Revenue, the total duties during the last five years compare as follows:

Assessed Taxes.—The increase over the receipts of 1887-88 arose mainly from the revenue realised in Burma in consequence of the partial introduction of the income tax into that Province from 1st April 1888.

Forest Revenue.—The considerable improvement of revenue over that of 1887-88 and the Budget Estimate of it occurred chiefly in Burma, and is due to the following circumstances:—(1) the restoration of order and consequent impetus to business; (2) an exceptionally favourable season for floating down timber, in consequence of which an unexpectedly large amount of timber was removed from the forests; (3) large clearances of teak timber made in order to avoid the enhanced duty levied thereon at Khado from 1st April 1889; (4) the acquisition by Government of the Yaw Forest in Upper Burma after the Estimate had been framed. There was an increase over the previous year's actuals also (1) in the Punjab owing to heavy floods having facilitated the floating down of timber, and to the realisation of arrears of grazing dues; and (2) in Madras owing to the settlement of a long pending claim for firewood supplied to the Bellary-Kistna Railway. In Bombay there was a decrease owing to a smaller demand for timber and firewood for Railways.

Tributes.—The decrease compared with Budget Estimate was chiefly due to the non-realisation of certain tributes in the Shan States of Upper Burma, and to the payment in advance in 1887-88 by the Bhopal State of a portion of the contribution on account of the Bhopal Levy.

Land Revenue.—The expenditure of the year does not differ materially from that of 1887-88, but is Rx. 170,100 less than that provided for in the Budget Estimate. The saving occurs in all Provinces except Bombay, and is principally due (1) to a delay in the introduction of contemplated administrative changes and revisions of establishment in Burma, and to the postponement of similar measures in Madras; (2) to the survey and settlement operations in the Central Provinces, the North-Western Provinces, and the Punjab having been conducted on a less extensive scale than was anticipated; and (3) to a saving in commission on collections of revenue in Burma.

Opium.—It has been stated in the remarks on page 3 that the amount of Bengal opium manufactured and paid for in 1888-89 was the largest on record, and this in itself would account for the large increase of Rx. 173,300 over the previous year's expenditure. It may however be explained that the opium year being the period from 1st September to 31st August, the expenditure brought to account under this head in each official year contains (1) the final payments made to cultivators for the produce of the preceding official year; (2) the manufacturing and other charges of the current season; and (3) the advances to cultivators in respect of the next year's crop. In the year under notice, owing to the exceptionally large production of the season 1887-88, the charges on the first two accounts were as much as Rx. 286,700 in excess of those of the previous year; but on the other hand the restriction of cultivation reduced the payments on the third account by Rx. 114,200, and the difference between these, Rx. 172,500, represents almost exactly the increase of expenditure in the official year 1888-89 over that of the official year 1887-88. The expenditure and production of each opium year are contrasted below:

Year ending 31st August.	Rx.	Chests.

Salt.—Owing to an unfavourable season for operations at the Sambhar Lakes and Pachbadra and to small purchases of salt in Bombay, the actuals proved Rx. 37,900 less than the Budget Estimate.

Expenditure.—The increase in Interest on Ordinary Debt in India resulted from the payment of the sum of Rx. 90,000 referred to in last year's Review as remaining unclaimed at the end of 1887-88, and that in the amount charged to Railways and Irrigation from the extension of Railways and Irrigation Works. The large decrease in England compared with the actuals of 1887-88 is due to a special payment of £745,700 connected with the conversion of 4 per cent. into 3½ per cent. Stock having been made in 1887-88.

Post Office.—The revenue continued to improve. The excess of expenditure over revenue was only Rx. 60,900 in 1888-89 against Rx. 161,000, Rx. 196,000, and Rx. 189,500 in the three previous years.

Telegraph.—The receipts of 1887-88 were abnormally large owing to the high State message revenue realised in connection with the military operations in Burma. The Budget Estimate for 1888-89 provided for a large falling off on this account, but the general improvement of revenue, which resulted from the extension of combined Post and Telegraph Offices and from the Military Expeditions undertaken during the year, led to an increase over the Estimate of Rx. 42,800.

Mint.—Owing to a smaller quantity of silver having been tendered for coinage than in 1887-88, the receipts from seignorage duty fell off by Rx. 10,900. The gain on copper coinage was also less than in the previous year by Rx. 26,600, as the action of a French syndicate raised the price of the metal, and the coinage was accordingly restricted.

CIVIL DEPARTMENTS.

RECEIPTS.

The improvement in Revenue resulted from minor improvements in all the heads which are included in this group, except Education and Scientific and other Minor Departments, the actuals under which were less than in 1887-88. The decrease under Education was due to the special adjustments with District Boards on account of expenditure of previous years effected in 1888-89 having been much less than in 1887-88, and to a portion of the income of the year not having been realised; and that under Minor Departments to a change in the system of accounting for the receipts of the Mathematical Instrument Factory, under which they are now deducted from Expenditure instead of being credited as Revenue.

Police.—The increase in Expenditure is more than accounted for by the increase in the Upper Burma Police charges, which amounted to Rx. 795,100 in 1888-89 against Rx. 709,200 in 1887-88. Owing chiefly to excessive Estimates in the Punjab, Madras, and Bombay, there was a saving of Rx. 21,900 in the Budget grant.

Marine.—The decrease in India was due to the requirements of Upper Burma having been much less than in 1887-88; to the late arrival of new torpedo boats, whereby the grants sanctioned for them were only partially utilised; and to the sale of the steamer Undaunted. The excess in England over the Estimate arose from the supplies of stores having been larger than was expected.

MISCELLANEOUS RECEIPTS.

Superannuation Receipts.—The falling off in the receipts resulted from a considerable reduction in the amount appropriated annually from the Capital Account of the Military Orphan Fund, as the balance at credit of the Fund was almost entirely exhausted in the previous year. On the other hand, there was a large increase in contributions for pensions and gratuities owing to the levy of contributions for the first time in 1888-89 on account of British officers serving in the Hyderabad Assigned Districts.

The balance was due partly to the net withdrawals by the Railway Companies having been greater than expected in the Budget, and partly to the actual rate of Exchange having been over half a penny lower than was estimated.

Other Expenditure.—The variations in the figures are confined almost entirely to the surplus profits of Guaranteed Railways.

IRRIGATION.

MAJOR WORKS.

Net Earnings, excluding Land Revenue.—The increase over the receipts of 1887-88 was due to the extension of irrigation in all Provinces, and particularly to larger recoveries of amounts outstanding in Bombay; and in Bengal to the subsidence of the recent agitation in connection with the irrigation system of the Sone Canal, and to an increase in the irrigated area and the navigation receipts.

Interest.—The increase merely represents the additional outlay on construction.

1888-89	Budget	154,300
	Revised	166,100
	Accounts	167,900

Expenditure.—The increase occurred principally (1) in Madras, where a large amount was spent during the year on tank restoration; and (2) in Burma, where it was due to extensive outlay on construction and repairs.

1887-88	Accounts	766,500

BUILDINGS AND ROADS.

Receipts.—The increase in the receipts was due to more buildings having been sold and to the ferry tolls having been more productive than in 1887-88, or than was anticipated in the Estimate.

		Rx.
1887-88	Accounts... ...	592,300
1888-89	Budget	555,100
	Revised	588,700
	Accounts	604,700

Expenditure.—The considerable decrease occurred entirely in the Imperial portion of the expenditure, and was due to the completion of Frontier Roads in Baluchistan and the Punjab; to reduced outlay on Military and Civil Works in Upper Burma; to the transfer to Native States in Central India and Rajputana of the responsibility for the construction and maintenance of roads within their territories; and to the amalgamation of Public Works establishments in Central India and Rajputana. The saving in the Budget Estimates was owing to the grants for establishment charges of the Inspector-General of Military Works and for Buildings and Roads in Bombay and Bengal having been fixed too high; to the transfer of roads to Native States, and the amalgamation of establishments referred to above; to savings in the grants for Military and Civil Works in Upper Burma; to an overestimate of the outlay on Provincial and Local buildings and roads in Bombay and Bengal; and to the postponement of a large number of similar works in the Central Provinces and Madras.

ARMY.

RECEIPTS.

The actuals of the year agree closely with those of 1887-88, and have proved somewhat better than the Estimates, chiefly owing to unforeseen receipts from the Sikkim, Hazara, and Lushai Expeditions.

EXPENDITURE.

India.—The reduction of Rx. 292,300 in the total charges as compared with those of 1887-88 is made up of a decrease of Rx. 469,400 in special and an increase of Rx. 177,100 in ordinary expenditure. The former is the result of a reduction of Rx. 843,700 in the expenditure in connection with Burma, counterbalanced by additional outlay to the extent of Rx. 374,300 on account of the three expeditions referred to above. The ordinary expenditure increased (1) owing to the fall in the rate of exchange which augmented the rupee payments to British troops, and also because there were smaller debits to other departments for stores supplied to them; and (2) on account of the Mobilisation Committee. On the other hand, there was a saving in Commissariat Supplies and Services. The excess of the actuals over the Estimate is the net result mainly of a saving of Rx. 188,400 in the amount provided for operations in Upper Burma, and of additional expenditure of Rx. 374,300 on account of the expeditions undertaken during the year, for which no provision was made.

England.—The variations in the sterling amounts are unimportant considering the magnitude of the amounts involved

SPECIAL DEFENCE WORKS.

The increase over the expenditure of 1887-88 is due to the more rapid progress of the coast defences at Rangoon, Karachi, and Bombay, and to increased outlay in England on armaments. The saving on the Estimate was due to the non-delivery of ordnance as arranged for.

Irrigation.—The decrease in the actuals as compared with the Estimates is due to (1) the transfer of the outlay on the Khushdil Khan reservoir from this head to Minor Works and Navigation; (2) to a saving in the amounts provided for expenditure on the Jani escape, Ganges Canal, the Nadrai aqueduct of the Lower Ganges Canal, and canals in Madras; and (3) to the postponement of certain works in Bombay.

Provision was not made in the Budget Estimate, as the nature of the offer to be made to the Company had not then been finally determined.

4. For the purposes of this Order, the word "Persia", or any term or expression referring to Persia, does not (except as in this Order expressly provided) include or apply to any place for the time being included within the limits to which any other Order in Council for the time being in force relating to the Persian coasts and islands applies, which limits are in this Order referred to as the limits of the Persian coasts.

In case of dispute or doubt whether any place is within the limits of Persia for the purposes of this Order, or is within the limits of the Persian coasts, the Consul-General may provisionally determine such dispute or question in such manner as he thinks fit, and his determination, unless and until the Secretary of State otherwise directs, shall be conclusive in all causes and matters arising under this Order.

Any provision of this Order referring to a country or place out of Persia includes any place within the limits of the Persian coasts.

II.—GENERAL PROVISIONS.

5. All Her Majesty's civil jurisdiction exercisable in Persia for the judicial hearing and determination of matters in difference, or for the administration or control of property or persons, and all Her Majesty's criminal jurisdiction there exercisable for the repression or punishment of crimes or offences, or for the maintenance of order, shall be exercised under and according to the provisions of this Order, and not otherwise.

6. Subject to the other provisions of this Order, the civil and criminal jurisdiction aforesaid shall, as far as circumstances admit, be exercised on the principles of and in conformity with the Common Law, the doctrines of equity, the Statute Law, and other law for the time being in force in and for England, and with the powers vested in and according to the course of procedure and practice observed by and before Courts of Justice and Justices of the Peace in England, according to their respective jurisdictions and authorities.

7. Nothing in this Order shall deprive Her Majesty's Consular officers of the right to observe and to enforce the observance of, or shall deprive any person of the benefit of, any reasonable custom existing in Persia, except where this Order contains some express and specific provision incompatible with the observance thereof.

8. In any case in the decision of which, under any Treaty, any of Her Majesty's Consuls may or ought to concur, a Consular officer exercising jurisdiction under this Order shall alone act on the part and on behalf of Her Majesty.

9. Crimes, offences, wrongs, breaches of contract against or affecting the person, property, or rights of natives or other foreigners as herein defined, committed by persons subject to this Order, are punishable or otherwise cognizable under the provisions of this Order, with the consent of such natives or foreigners, in the same manner as if the same were committed against or affected the person, property, or rights of British subjects.

III.—COURTS.

10. Courts for the purposes of this Order shall be held as follows:

(1) Courts of First Instance, in this Order called Provincial Courts, shall be held by such Consular officers in and for such districts as the Secretary of State from time to time directs.

(2) The Consul-General shall at such place as the Secretary of State directs hold a Court, in this Order called the Court of the Consul-General, for the purposes of his appellate and other jurisdiction under this Order.

(3) The Provincial Court for the district in which the Court of the Consul-General is held may be held either by the Consul-General, or Vice-Consul, or by such other Consular officer as the Secretary of State or the Consul-General directs.

If it be held by the Consul-General, the provisions of this Order relating to appeals from a Provincial Court to the Consul-General are inapplicable, and the provisions of this Order with respect to appeals to Her Majesty in Council shall have effect as if the judgment, order, decree, or sentence of the Consul-General were a judgment, order, decree, or sentence of a Provincial Court affirmed on appeal by the Consul-General, and no other appeal shall lie.

11. In any matter, civil or criminal, a Court within whose district (in civil matters) the matter of complaint wholly or in part arose or happened, or the subject in dispute is wholly or partly situate, or the contract in question was wholly or partly made, or the breach thereof wholly or partly occurred, or the defendant resides or carries on business, or (in criminal matters) the crime was wholly or partly committed, or the accused person happens to be, shall have jurisdiction, and may deal with the case, as if every material fact or thing had happened, or was situate, within its district; but any such Court, if, in its opinion, justice or convenience so requires, may decline or suspend the exercise of jurisdiction, and may, if it thinks necessary or just, require security from the defendant or accused person for his appearance before some other Court having jurisdiction in the matter, and for obedience to any judgment or order of such other Court, and further, in a criminal case, if necessary, may arrest and commit the accused person, and cause him to be removed under warrant and in custody, to be dealt with by such other Court.

IV.—REGISTRATION.

12. Every resident British subject (except a native Indian subject), being of the age of 21 years or upwards, or being married, or a widower or widow, though under that age, shall, in January in every year, register himself in a register to be kept at the Consulate of the Consular district within which he resides, subject to this qualification, that the registration of a man shall be deemed to comprise the registration of his wife (unless she is living apart from him), and that the registration of the head of a family, whether male or female, shall be deemed to comprise the registration of all females being relatives of the head of the family (in whatever degree of relationship) living under the same roof with the head of the family at the time of his registration.

Every non-resident British subject (except a native Indian subject) arriving in Persia at a place where a Consular office is maintained, unless borne on the muster-roll of a British vessel, shall, within one month after his arrival, register himself in a register to be kept at the Consular office there, but so that no person shall be required to register himself more than once in any year, reckoned from the 1st January.

Any person failing so to register himself, and not excusing his failure to the satisfaction of the Consular officer, shall be deemed guilty of an offence against this Order, and shall be liable to a fine of not more than 5*l*, and any Court or authority acting under this Order may, if it thinks fit, decline to recognise him as a British subject.

13. A native Indian subject resident in, or resorting to, Persia, may, if he thinks fit, register himself at the times and in manner aforesaid.

A native Indian subject not so registering himself shall not be entitled to sue in the Court, or to receive the support or protection of a Consular officer with respect to any suit or proceeding to which he is a party in a Court or before a judicial officer of Persia, or in a Court or before a judicial officer in Persia of a State in amity with Her Majesty.

14. The Consular officer shall give to every person registered under this Order a certificate of registration under his hand and Consular seal; and the name of a wife (unless she is living apart from her husband) shall be indorsed on her husband's certificate; and the names and descriptions of females whose registration is comprised in that of the head of the family shall be indorsed on the certificate of the head of the family.

15. Every person shall on every registration of himself be liable to pay a fee of 2s. 6d.

V.—ASSESSORS.

16. An Assessor shall be a competent and impartial British subject of good repute, resident in the district of the particular Court, and nominated and summoned by the Court for the purpose of acting as Assessor.

17. There shall ordinarily be not fewer than two, and not more than four, Assessors. Where, however, by reason of local circumstances, the Court is able to obtain the presence of one Assessor only, the Court may, if it thinks fit, sit with one Assessor only; and where, for like reasons, the Court is not able to obtain the presence of any Assessor, the Court may, if it thinks fit, sit without an Assessor—the Court, in every case, recording in the minutes its reasons for sitting with one Assessor only or without an Assessor.

18. An Assessor shall not have any voice in the decision of the Court in any case, civil or criminal; but an Assessor dissenting, in a civil case, from any decision of the Court, or, in a criminal case, from any decision of the Court or the conviction or the amount of punishment awarded, may record in the minutes his dissent, and the grounds thereof, and shall be entitled to receive, without payment, a certified copy of the minutes.

VI.—GENERAL JURISDICTION AND PROCEDURE.

19. The Consul-General shall have in all matters, civil and criminal, an original jurisdiction concurrent with the jurisdiction of the several Provincial Courts, to be exercised subject and according to the provisions of this Order.

20. The Consul-General may, if and when he thinks fit, visit, in a magisterial or judicial capacity, any place in Persia, and there inquire of, or hear and determine, any case, civil or criminal.

21. A Provincial Court may, of its own motion, or on the application of any person concerned, report to the Consul-General the pendency of any case, civil or criminal, which appears to the Provincial Court fit to be heard and determined by the Consul-General.

The Consul-General shall thereupon direct in what mode and where the case shall be heard and determined, and the same shall be so heard and determined accordingly.

22. Every Court held under this Order shall, in the exercise of every part of its jurisdiction, be a Court of Record.

23. Each Court shall be auxiliary to every other Court in all particulars relative to the administration of justice, civil or criminal.

24. Each Provincial Court shall every twelve months furnish to the Consul-General a report of every case, civil and criminal, brought before it, in such form as the Consul-General from time to time directs.

25. A suit or proceeding shall not be commenced against any person for anything done or omitted under this Order, unless notice in writing is given by the intending plaintiff or prosecutor to the intended defendant one month at least before the commencement of the suit or proceeding, nor unless it is commenced within three months next after the act or omission complained of, or in case of a continuation of damage within three months next after the ceasing of the damage.

The plaintiff in such a suit shall not succeed if tender of sufficient amends is made by the defendant before the commencement thereof; and if no tender is made, the defendant may, by leave of the Court, at any time pay into Court such sum of money as he thinks fit; and thereupon such proceeding and order shall be had and made in and by the Court as the Court thinks just.

26. The forms set forth in the First Schedule to this Order, or forms to the like effect, may be used, with such variations as circumstances require.

27. The fees specified in the Second Schedule to this Order shall be paid.

28. In civil cases the Court and its officers shall, as far as there is proper opportunity, promote reconciliation among persons over whom the Court has jurisdiction, and encourage and facilitate the settlement in an amicable way, and without recourse to litigation, of matters in difference among them.

In criminal cases, the Court may promote reconciliation, and encourage and facilitate the settlement in an amicable way of proceedings for assault or for any other offence not amounting to felony, and being of a private or personal character, on terms of payment of compensation or other terms approved by the Court, and may thereupon order the proceedings to be stayed.

29. Every summons, order, and other document issuing from the Court shall be in English, or in English and Persian.

Every petition, answer, and other document filed in the Court in a civil or criminal proceeding by a party thereto shall be in English, or French, or Persian.

Every affidavit used in the Court shall be in English, or in the ordinary language of the person swearing it.

An affidavit in any language other than English, or French, or Persian shall be accompanied by a sworn translation into English, or French, or Persian, procured by and at the expense of the person using the affidavit.

30. Summonses, orders, and other documents issuing from the Court shall be sealed with the seal of the Court.

31. In every case, civil or criminal, minutes of the proceedings shall be drawn up, and shall be signed by the Consular officer before whom the proceedings are taken, and shall, where the suit is heard with Assessors, be open for their inspection and for their signature if concurred in by them.

These minutes, with the depositions of witnesses, and the notes of evidence taken at the hearing or trial by the Consular officer, shall be preserved in the office of the Court.

32. Every person doing an act or taking a proceeding in the Court as plaintiff in a civil case, or as making a criminal charge against another person, or otherwise, shall do so in his own name and not otherwise, and either—

(a) by himself; or

(b) by his counsel or attorney; or

(c) by his procurator or agent thereunto lawfully authorised in writing.

Where the act is done or proceeding taken by an attorney, procurator, or agent, the power of attorney, or instrument constituting the procurator or agent, or an authenticated copy thereof, shall be first filed in the Court.

Where the authority has reference only to the particular proceeding, the original document shall be filed.

Where the authority is general, or has reference to other matters in which the attorney, procurator, or agent is empowered to act, an authenticated copy of the document may be filed.

If any person does not act or takes a proceeding in the Court in the name or on behalf of another person, not being lawfully authorised thereunto, and knowing himself not to be so authorised, he shall be deemed guilty of a contempt of Court.

Where in this Order appearance is referred to, appearance in person, or by counsel, attorney, procurator, or agent as aforesaid, is meant, unless it is otherwise expressed.

33. Service of a petition, notice, summons, order, or other document of which service is required by this order, or according to the course of the Court, shall be made by an officer of the Court, unless in any case the Court thinks fit otherwise to direct.

Service shall not be made except under an order of the Court, indorsed on or subscribed or annexed to the document to be served, which order is for the purposes of this order deemed part of the document to be served.

Unless in any case the Court thinks it just or expedient otherwise to direct, service shall be personal, that is, the document to be served shall be delivered to the person to be served, himself.

Where it appears to the Court (either after or without an attempt at personal service) that for any reason personal service cannot be conveniently effected, the Court may order that service be effected either—

(i) by delivery of the document to some adult inmate at the usual or last known place of abode or business within the particular jurisdiction of the person to be served; or

(ii) by delivery thereof to some person being an agent of the person to be served, or to some other person within the particular jurisdiction on it being proved that there is reasonable probability that the document will, through that agent or other person, come to the knowledge of the person to be served; or

(iii) by advertisement in some newspaper circulating within the particular jurisdiction; or

(iv) by notice put up at the Court, or at some other place of public resort within the particular jurisdiction.

An order for service may be varied from time to time with respect to the mode of service directed by the order.

Service not required to be personal shall be made before 5 o'clock in the evening.

If made after that hour on any day but Saturday, it shall be considered as made on the following day.

If made after that hour on Saturday, it shall be considered as made on the following Monday.

Service shall not be made on Sunday.

Ordinarily, service shall not be made out of the particular jurisdiction except under an order for that purpose made by the Court within whose jurisdiction service is to be made, which order may be made on the request of any other Court, and shall in each case direct in what mode service is to be made.

Where, however, the urgency or other peculiar circumstances of the case appear to any Court so to require (for reasons recorded in the minutes), the Court may order that service be made out of its particular jurisdiction.

34. Where by this Order, or any order of the Court, or the course of the Court, any limited time from or after any date or event is appointed or allowed for the doing of any act, or the taking of any proceeding, and the time is not limited by hours, the following rules shall apply:

(i) The limited time does not include the day of the date or of the happening of the event, but commences at the beginning of the day next following that day;

(ii) The act or proceeding must be done or taken at latest on the last day of the limited time;

(iii) Where the limited time is less than six days, Sundays shall not be reckoned as part of the time.

35. Notwithstanding anything in this Order, the Court (for reasons recorded in the minutes) may at any time, and from time to time, do any of the following things as the Court thinks just:

(i) Defer or adjourn the hearing or determination of any suit, matter, proceeding or application;

(ii) Order or allow any amendment of any petition, answer, notice, or other document;

(iii) Appoint or allow a time for, or enlarge or abridge the time appointed or allowed for, or allow further time for the doing of any act or the taking of any proceeding.

36. The Court on making any order which it is in its discretion to make, may make the order on such terms respecting time, coasts, and other matters as the Court thinks fit.

37. If an officer of the Court employed to execute an order, by neglect or omission, loses the opportunity of executing it, then on complaint of the person aggrieved, and proof of the fact alleged, the Court may, if it thinks fit, order the officer to pay the damages sustained by the person complaining, or part thereof, and the order shall be enforced as an order directing payment of money.

38. If a clerk or officer of the Court, acting under pretence of the process or authority of the Court, is charged with extortion, or with not duly paying over money, or with other misconduct, the Court, if it thinks fit, may (without prejudice to any other liability or punishment to which the clerk or officer would, in the absence of the present provision, be liable) inquire into the charge in a summary way, and may for that purpose summon and enforce the attendance of all necessary persons as in a suit, and may make such order for the repayment of any money extorted, or for the payment over of any money and for the payment of such damages and costs as the Court thinks just; and the Court may also, if it thinks fit, impose on the clerk or officer such fine, not exceeding 10*l.* for each offence, as the Court thinks just.

39. All costs and all charges and expenses of witnesses, prosecutions, punishments, and deportations, and other charges and expenses, and all fees, fines, forfeitures, and pecuniary penalties payable under this Order, may be levied by distress and seizure and sale of ships, goods, and lands; and any bill of sale, or mortgage, or transfer of property, made with the view of avoiding such distress, seizure, or sale, shall not be permitted to defeat the provisions of this Order.

40. All fees, fines, forfeitures, and pecuniary penalties levied under this Order shall be carried to the public account, and be applied as the Secretary of State, with the concurrence of the Commissioners of the Treasury, from time to time directs.

41. In any case, civil or criminal, and at any stage thereof, the Court, either of its own motion, or on the application of any party, may summon a British subject, being within the particular jurisdiction, to attend to give evidence, or to produce documents, or to be examined.

If the person summoned, having reasonable notice of the time and place at which he is required to attend, fails to attend accordingly, and does not excuse his failure to the satisfaction of the Court, he shall (independently of any other liability) be deemed guilty of an offence against this Order, and be liable to a fine of not more than 100*l.*, or to imprisonment for not more than one month in the discretion of the Court.

42. In a criminal case, where the Court is satisfied that a British subject within the particular jurisdiction may be able to give material evidence, either for the prosecution or for the defence, and that he will not voluntarily attend to give evidence, the Court may issue a summons for his attendance.

If he does not obey the summons, and does not excuse his failure to the satisfaction of the Court, then (after proof of service of the summons) the Court may issue a warrant to compel his attendance.

Where it is proved to be probable that a person who might be so summoned will not attend to give evidence unless compelled to do so, then the Court, instead of issuing a summons, may issue a warrant in the first instance.

If any such person on his appearance, either in obedience to a summons, or on being brought up under a warrant, refuses to take an oath, or having taken an oath to answer any question put to him, and does not excuse his refusal to the satisfaction of the Court, then the Court may, by warrant, commit him to prison, there to remain for not more than seven days, unless he in the meantime consents to answer duly on oath.

43. If in any case, civil or criminal, a British subject wilfully gives false evidence on oath in the Court, or on a reference, he shall be deemed guilty of wilful and corrupt perjury.

44. In a civil case, the Court may, if it thinks fit, order that the expenses of a witness on his appearing to give evidence be defrayed by the parties, or any of them.

45. In any case, civil or criminal, and at every stage thereof, the Court, on the application of either party, or of its own motion, may order witnesses on both sides to be kept out of Court until they have respectively given their evidence; but this provision does not extend to the parties themselves, or to their respective legal advisers, although intended to be called as witnesses.

46. In every case, civil or criminal, and at every stage thereof, the Court shall take a note of the substance of all oral evidence taken before it in a narrative form, but shall put down the terms of any particular question or answer, if there appears reason for doing so.

No person shall be entitled as of right, at any time or for any purpose, to inspection or a copy of the Court's notes of evidence.

47. In every case, civil or criminal, and at every stage thereof, each witness, after examination-in-chief, is subject to be cross-examined, and to be re-examined, and after re-examination may be questioned by the Court, and shall not be recalled or further questioned save through and by leave of the Court.

48. In a civil case, where evidence taken by affidavit, or by commission, or on deposition, is offered, the party offering it may read it before or after the oral evidence on his part is concluded.

49. In every case, civil or criminal, and at every stage thereof, any objection to the reception of evidence shall be made at the time the evidence is offered, and shall be argued and decided at the time.

Where a question proposed to be put to a witness is objected to, the Court, unless the objection appears frivolous, shall, if required by either party, take a note of the question and objection, and mention on the notes whether the question was allowed to be put or not, and the answer to it if put.

50. In a civil case, where a person whose evidence would have been admissible is dead or insane, or, for any reason appearing sufficient to the Court, is not present to give evidence, the Court may, if it thinks fit, receive proof of any evidence given by him in any former judicial proceeding; provided that the subject-matter of the former proceeding was substantially the same as that of the pending proceeding, and that the parties to the pending proceeding were parties to the former proceeding or bound by it, and had an opportunity in it of cross-examining the person of whose evidence proof is so to be given.

51. In a criminal case, if it is proved that a person whose deposition has been taken is dead, or is so ill as not to be able to travel, and that his deposition was taken in the presence of the accused, and that the accused had full opportunity of cross-examining the witness, the deposition may be given in evidence.

52. In a criminal case, any statement made by the accused at the preliminary examination, in answer to the questions put to him by the Court, as prescribed by this Order, may be given in evidence against him on the trial.

53. In a criminal case, nothing in this Order shall prevent the prosecutor from giving in evidence at the trial any admission or confession, or other statement of the accused made at any time, which would, by law, independently of this Order, be admissible as evidence against him.

54. In a civil case, where the circumstances of the case appear to the Court so to require, for reasons recorded in the minutes, the Court may, when a suit or application is pending, take the evidence of any witness at any time as preparatory to the hearing, and the evidence so taken may be used at the hearing, subject to just exceptions.

Any Court or Consular officer shall, on the request in writing of any Court before which a suit or application is pending, so take evidence for purposes of the suit or application.

The evidence shall be taken in like manner, as nearly as may be, as evidence at the hearing of a suit is to be taken, and then the note of the evidence shall be read over to the witness and tendered to him for signature, and if he refuses to sign it, the Court shall add a note of his refusal, and the evidence may be used as if he had signed it.

Evidence may be taken in like manner on the application of any person, although no suit or application is pending, where it is proved that the person applying has good reason to apprehend that a proceeding will be taken against him in the Court, and that some person within the particular jurisdiction at the time of application can give material evidence respecting the subject of the apprehended proceeding, but that he is about to leave the particular jurisdiction, or that from some other cause the person applying will lose the benefit of his evidence if it is not at once taken.

55. Before an affidavit is used in the Court for any purpose, the original shall be filed in the Court; and the original or an office copy shall alone be recognized for any purpose in the Court.

An affidavit sworn before a Consular officer of Her Majesty authorised to take affidavits in any country, or before a Judge, or other person in the United Kingdom or in a British Colony or possession authorised to take affidavits, or before a Mayor or other Magistrate in a foreign country authorised to administer an oath, or in the case of a foreigner being in Persia before his own proper Consular or native authority may be used in the Court, subject to the rules of evidence.

An affidavit shall not be admitted if it is proved that it has been sworn before a person on whose behalf it is offered, or before his attorney, or before a partner or clerk of his attorney.

An affidavit may be used, notwithstanding any defect in form, if it is proved that it has been sworn before a person duly authorised, and that the form thereof and that of the attestation thereto are in accordance with the law and custom of the place where it has been sworn, or with any law applying to the deponent.

A defective or erroneous affidavit may be amended or re-sworn, by leave of the Court in which it is to be used.

The Court may, if it thinks fit, for reasons recorded in the minutes, admit an affidavit in evidence, although it is shown that the party against whom the affidavit is offered in evidence had no opportunity of cross-examining the person making the affidavit.

56. Every affidavit used in the Court shall contain only a statement of facts and circumstances in which the witness deposes, either from his own personal knowledge, or from information which he believes to be true.

It shall not contain extraneous matter, by way of objection, or prayer, or legal argument, or conclusion.

Where a witness deposes to his belief in any matter of fact, and his belief is derived from any source other than his own personal knowledge, he shall set forth explicitly the facts and circumstances forming the ground of his belief.

Where his belief is derived from information received from another person, the name of his informant shall be stated and reasonable particulars shall be given respecting the informant, and the time, place, and circumstances of the information.

57. The following regulations shall be observed by Consular officers before whom affidavits are taken.

Every affidavit taken in the matter of a suit or proceeding shall be headed in the Court, and in the suit or proceeding.

Every affidavit shall state the full name, trade or profession, address, and nationality of the witness.

It may be in the first or in the third person, and may be divided into convenient paragraphs numbered consecutively.

Any erasure, interlineation, or alteration, made before the affidavit is sworn, shall be attested by the Consular officer, who shall affix his signature or initials in the margin immediately opposite to the interlineation, alteration, or erasure.

Where an affidavit proposed to be sworn is illegible, or difficult to read, or is, in the judgment of the Consular officer, so written as to facilitate fraudulent alteration, he may refuse to swear the witness, and may require the affidavit to be re-written.

The affidavit when sworn shall be signed by the witness (or, if he cannot write, marked by him with his mark) in the presence of the Consular officer.

The jurat shall be written, without interlineation, alteration, or erasure, immediately at the foot of the affidavit, and towards the left side of the paper, and shall be signed by the Consular officer, and be sealed by him with his Consular seal.

It shall state the date of the swearing, and the place where it is sworn.

It shall state that the affidavit was sworn before the Consular officer.

Where the witness is blind or illiterate, it shall state that fact, and that the affidavit was read over to him in the presence of the Consular officer, and that the witness appeared to understand it.

Where the witness makes a mark instead of signing, the jurat shall state that fact, and that the mark was made in the presence of the Consular officer.

Where two or more persons join in making an affidavit, their several names shall be written in the jurat, and it shall appear by the jurat that each of them has been sworn to the truth of the several matters stated by him in the affidavit.

The Consular officer shall not allow an affidavit, when sworn, to be altered in any manner without being re-sworn.

If the jurat has been added and signed, he shall add a new jurat on the affidavit being re-sworn; and in the new jurat he shall mention the alteration.

He may refuse to allow the affidavit to be re-sworn, and may require a fresh affidavit.

58. In a civil case any party may call on any other party by notice filed and served to admit any document, subject to just exceptions.

In case of refusal or neglect to admit, the costs of proof of the document shall be paid by the party neglecting or refusing, unless the Court is of opinion that the refusal to admit was reasonable.

No costs of proof of any document shall be allowed unless notice to admit has been given, except in cases where the omission to give notice has, in the opinion of the Court, produced a saving of expense.

Every document offered as evidence, and not objected to, shall be put in and read, or taken as read by consent.

Every document put in evidence shall be marked by the Court at the time, and shall be retained by the Court during the hearing, and returned to the party who put it in, or from whose custody it came, immediately after the judgment, unless it is impounded by order of the Court.

59. The Consul-General may, if he thinks fit, order that a Commission do issue for examination of witnesses at any place out of Persia, on oath, by interrogatories or otherwise, and may from time to time, by order, give such directions touching the time, place, and manner of the examination, or anything connected therewith, as to the Court appear reasonable and just.

60. Where a foreigner desires to institute or take in the Court a suit or proceeding of a civil nature against a British subject—or a British subject desires to institute or take in the Court a suit or proceeding of a civil nature against a foreigner—the Court shall entertain the same, and shall hear and determine it, either without Assessors, or, if all parties desire, or the Court thinks fit to direct, a trial with Assessors, then at a place where such a trial might be had if all parties were subjects, with Assessors, but in all other respects according to the ordinary course of the Court.

Provided that the foreigner, if so required by the Court, first obtains and files in the Court the consent in writing of the competent authority on behalf of Persia or of his own nation (as the case may be) to his submitting, and does submit, to the jurisdiction of the Court, and, if required by the Court, gives security to the satisfaction of the Court, by deposit or otherwise, to pay fees, damages, costs, and expenses, and abide by and perform such decision as shall be given by the Court originally or on appeal (as the case may require).

61. A cross-suit shall not be instituted in the Court against a plaintiff, being a foreigner who has submitted to the jurisdiction, by a defendant, without leave of the Court first obtained.

The Court before giving leave shall require proof from the defendant that his claim arises out of the subject-matter in dispute, and that there is reasonable ground for it, and that it is not made for vexation or delay.

Nothing in this provision shall prevent the defendant instituting or taking in the Court any suit or proceeding against the foreigner after the termination of the suit or proceeding in which the foreigner is plaintiff.

62. Where a foreigner obtains in the Court an order against a defendant being a British subject, and in another suit that defendant is plaintiff, and the foreigner is defendant, the Court may, if it thinks fit, on the application of the subject, stay the enforcement of the order pending that other suit, and may set off any amount ordered to be paid by one party in one suit against any amount ordered to be paid by the other party in the other suit.

Where a plaintiff, being a foreigner, obtains an order in the Court against two or more defendants being British subjects jointly, and in another suit one of them is plaintiff, and the foreigner is defendant, the Court may, if it thinks fit, on the application of the subject, stay the enforcement of the order pending that other suit, and may set off any amount ordered to be paid by one party in one suit against any amount ordered to be paid by the other party in the other suit, without prejudice to the right of the subject to require contributions from his co-defendants under the joint liability.

63. Where a foreigner is co-plaintiff in a suit with a British subject who is within the particular jurisdiction, it shall not be necessary for the foreigner to make deposit or give security for costs, unless the Court so directs, but the co-plaintiff British subject shall be responsible for all fees and costs.

64.—(1) Where it is shown to a Court that the attendance of a British subject to give evidence, or for any other purpose connected with the administration of justice, is required in a native or foreign Court, or before a native or foreign judicial officer, or in a Court, or before a judicial officer of any State in amity with Her Majesty, the Court may, if it thinks fit, in a case and in circumstances in which it would require his attendance before itself, order that he do attend and give evidence, and produce documents as so required. The order may be made subject to conditions as to payment or tender of expenses or otherwise.

(2) A Court, however, cannot so order attendance at any place beyond its particular jurisdiction.

(3) If the person ordered to attend, having reasonable notice of the time and place at which he is required to attend, fails to attend accordingly, and does not excuse his failure to the satisfaction of the Court, or if he refuses to give evidence, or wilfully gives false evidence, or fails to produce documents which he is properly required to produce, he is, independently of any other liability, guilty of an offence against this Order, and for every such offence, or conviction thereof, by summary trial, is liable to a fine not exceeding one hundred pounds, or to imprisonment for not exceeding one month, in the discretion of the Court.

65.—(1) The provisions of "The Evidence Act, 1851," 14 & 15 Vict., cap. 99, secs. 7 and 11, relating to the proof of judicial and other documents, shall extend and be applied for all purposes as if Persia were a British Colony.

(2) The following acts, namely—

"The Foreign Tribunals Evidence Act, 1856,"

"The Evidence by Commission Act, 1885,"

or so much thereof as is for the time being in force, and any enactment for the time being in force amending or substituted for the same, are hereby extended to all places and Courts to which this Order applies, with the adaptations following, namely:

In the said Acts the Court is hereby substituted for a Supreme Court or a Judge of a Court in a Colony.

(3) The following Acts, namely:

"The Foreign Law Ascertainment Act, 1861,"

or so much thereof as is for the time being in force, and any enactment for the time being in force amending or substituted for the same, are hereby extended to all places and Courts to which this Order applies, with the adaptation following, namely:

In the said Acts the Court is hereby substituted for a superior Court in a Colony.

66. No proceeding under this Order shall be invalidated by any informality, mistake, or omission, so long as, in the opinion of any Court before which any question arises, the essential requisites of law and justice have been complied with.

VII.—CIVIL JURISDICTION AND PROCEDURE.

67. Each Court shall be a Court of Law and of Equity; and (subject to the provisions of this Order) shall have and may exercise all jurisdiction, power, and authority, legal, equitable, or other, which any Consul of Her Majesty by custom has or may exercise in Persia.

BANKRUPTCY.

68. Each Court shall be a Court of Bankruptcy, and as such shall, as far as circumstances admit, have, for and within its own district, with respect to resident British subjects, and to their debtors and creditors, being either resident British subjects or natives or foreigners submitting to the jurisdiction of the Court, all such jurisdiction as for the time being belongs to any judicial authority having for the time being jurisdiction in Bankruptcy in England.

LUNACY.

69. The Consul-General shall, as far as circumstances admit, have for and within Persia, with respect to resident British subjects, all such jurisdiction relative to the custody and management of the persons and estates of persons of unsound mind as for the time being belongs to the Lord Chancellor or other person or persons in England entrusted by virtue of Her Majesty's Sign-Manual with the care and commitment of the custody of the persons and estates of persons found by inquisition in England idiot, lunatic, or of unsound mind.

MATRIMONIAL CAUSES.

70. The Consul-General shall, as far as circumstances admit, have within Persia, with respect to resident British subjects, all such jurisdiction, except the jurisdiction relative to dissolution or nullity or jactitation of marriage, as for the time being belongs to any Court exercising jurisdiction in Divorce and Matrimonial Causes in England.

PROBATE.

71. The Consul-General shall, as far as circumstances admit, have, for and within Persia, with respect to the property of deceased resident British subjects, all such jurisdiction as for the time being belongs to any Court exercising probate jurisdiction in England.

A Provincial Court shall, however, also have power to grant probate or letters of administration where there is no contention respecting the right to the grant, and it is proved that the deceased was resident at his death within the particular jurisdiction. That probate or administration shall have effect over all the property of the deceased within Persia, and shall effectually discharge persons dealing with an executor or administrator thereunder, notwithstanding that any defect afterwards appears in the grant. The grant shall not be impeachable by reason only that the deceased was not at the time of his death resident within the particular jurisdiction.

72. A British subject may in his lifetime deposit for safe custody in the Court, of his own will, sealed up under his own seal and the seal of the Court.

ARBITRATION.

73. The Court may, with the consent of the parties, refer to arbitration the final determination of any suit or proceeding pending, or of all matters in difference between the parties, on such terms and with such directions as to appointment of an Arbitrator and other things as the Court thinks fit, with or without security from the parties, or any of them, that they will abide by the result of the reference.

In any such case the award shall be final and conclusive.

On the application of any party a decree of the Court may be entered in conformity with the award, and the decree shall not be open to appeal or re-hearing except on the ground that it is not in conformity with the award.

74. Every agreement for reference to arbitration or submission to arbitration by consent between or by British subjects, or to which a British subject is a party, may, on the application of any party, be made a rule of the Court having jurisdiction in the matter of the reference or submission; and that Court shall thereupon have authority to enforce the agreement of submission and the award made thereunder, and to control and regulate the proceedings before and after the award, in such manner and on such terms as the Court thinks just.

The following provisions respecting arbitration apply exclusively to cases where the agreement for reference to arbitration or submission to arbitration by consent is so made a rule of Court.

75. The Arbitrators shall make their award within one month after they have entered on the reference or have been called on to act by a notice in writing from any party, unless the document authorising or making the reference contains a different limit of time.

76. The Court may, if it thinks fit, on reasonable notice to all parties, from time to time enlarge the time for making the award for such time as the Court thinks just, the reasons for enlargement being recorded in the minutes.

77. An Umpire may enter on the reference in lieu of the Arbitrators, if the Arbitrators have allowed their time, or their extended time, to expire without making an award, or have filed in the Court a notice in writing that they cannot agree.

78. The authority of Arbitrators or an Umpire is not revocable except by the Court.

79. Where it appears to the Arbitrators or Umpire that any difficult question of law is involved in or raised by the facts as finally ascertained by them or him, they or he may, if it seems to them or him fit, state the award (as to the whole or any part thereof) in the form of a case for the opinion of the Court having jurisdiction in the matter, or of the Consul-General.

The Court shall consider and deliver judgment on the case, and shall be at liberty to draw inferences of fact from the facts stated, and to amend any irregularity, mistake, or imperfection in the case.

80. The Arbitrators or Umpire shall have power to award how the costs of the reference shall be borne, in whole or in part.

But an award respecting costs shall not preclude a party against whom costs are awarded from applying to the Court to tax the costs; and on that application the costs, including the remuneration (if any) of the Arbitrators and Umpire, or any of them, shall be taxed at a reasonable rate by the Court; and the Court shall make such order respecting the costs of taxation as the Court thinks just.

81. The award shall be in writing signed by the Arbitrators or Umpire making it.

It shall contain a conclusive finding, and may not find on the contingency of any matter of fact being afterwards substantiated or deposed to. It shall comprehend a finding on each of the several matters referred.

82. The Arbitrators or Umpire making an award shall, within the time limited, deposit the award in Court, inclosed in a sealed cover, and indorsed with the names of the parties to the reference, and with a note of the amount claimed by the Arbitrators and Umpire for remuneration.

Notice of the award having been deposited shall be served by the Court on the parties, who shall be at liberty to read the award, and to have copies of it.

83. Any person interested may, within seven days after the notice of the award, apply to the Court to prevent the execution of the award, or of any specified part of it.

In default of any such application, the Court shall proceed, on reasonable notice to all parties, to make such order for carrying into effect the award, or any part thereof, and as to costs and other things, as the Court thinks just.

84. The Court may at any time, and from time to time, remit the matters referred, or any of them, to the reconsideration and redetermination of the Arbitrators or Umpire, on such terms as to costs and other things as the Court thinks just.

85. The Court shall not refuse to execute an award merely on the ground of irregularity in the submission, or during the reference, where the irregularity has not been substantially prejudicial to the party applying to prevent the execution of the award.

DECISION ON FACT OR LAW, WITHOUT SUIT.

(a) Question of Fact.

86. Where persons between whom a suit might be instituted agree that there is a question of fact to be determined between them, they may, by consent and by order of the Court, which order the Court may make on being satisfied that the parties have a real interest in the determination of the question, and that it is fit to be tried, state the question for trial in an issue, and the issue may be tried as if the question were to be determined at the hearing of a suit.

The issue and proceedings and decree shall be recorded, and the decree shall have the same effect as a decree in a suit.

The parties may, if they think fit, enter into an agreement in writing, embodied in an order of the Court, that, on the finding of the Court, a sum of money, fixed in the agreement, or to be ascertained by the Court on a question inserted in the issue for that purpose, shall be paid by one of the parties to the other, with or without any costs. On the finding, a decree may be entered for the sum so agreed or ascertained, with or without costs, as the case may be.

Where there is no agreement respecting costs, the costs of the whole proceedings shall be in the discretion of the Court.

(b) Question of Law.

87. Where persons between whom a suit might be instituted agree that there is a question of law to be determined between them, they may by consent and by order of the Court,—which order the Court may make on being satisfied that the parties have a real interest in the determination of the question, and that it is fit to be determined,—state any question of law in a case for the opinion of the Consul-General, without petition presented or other pleading.

Where the case is stated under order of a Court other than the Consul-General, the Court shall send the case to the Consul-General.

The Consul-General may direct the case to be re-stated or to be amended, or may refuse to determine it if the facts are not sufficiently stated, or if the question is not properly raised, or if the parties cannot agree on an amended case.

The Consul-General may draw inferences of fact from facts stated in the case.

The case and proceedings and decree shall be recorded, and the decree shall have the same effect as a decree in a suit.

The parties may, if they think fit, enter into an agreement in writing, embodied in an order of the Court, that on the judgment of the Consul-General being given, a sum of money, fixed in the agreement, or to be ascertained by the Consul-General, or in such manner as he may direct, shall be paid by one of the parties to the other with or without any costs. On the judgment of the Consul-General, a decree of the Court under whose order the case was stated may be entered for the sum so agreed or ascertained, with or without costs, as the case may be.

Where there is no agreement respecting costs, the costs of the whole proceedings shall be in the discretion of the Consul-General.

BILLS OF EXCHANGE AND PROMISSORY NOTES.

88. A suit on a bill of exchange or promissory note, instituted within six months after it becomes due and payable, may be commenced by summons, and may be heard and determined in a summary way.

An appeal shall not lie from any order in the suit.

89. The Court shall, on application within seven days from the service of the summons give the defendant leave to defend the suit on his paying into Court the sum indorsed on the summons, or on proof of a good legal or equitable defence, or such facts as would make it incumbent on the holder to prove consideration, or such other facts as appear to the Court sufficient to support the application, and on such terms as to security and other things as the Court thinks fit; and in that case the Court may direct proceedings to be taken and carried on by petition

If the defendant does not so obtain leave to defend, the plaintiff, on proof of service of the summons, shall be entitled as of course at any time after the expiration of those seven days to an immediate absolute order for any sum not exceeding that indorsed on the summons with interest at the rate specified (if any) to the date of the order, and a sum for costs to be fixed by the Court in the order.

90. The holder of a bill or note may, if he thinks fit, obtain one summons against all or any of the parties to the bill or note; and subsequent proceedings shall be carried on, as far as the Court thinks fit, as if separate summonses had been issued.

But the summons or its indorsement shall set forth the claims against the several parties, according to their respective alleged liabilities, with sufficient precision and certainty to enable each to set up any defence on which he individually may desire to rely.

91. The Court may, if it thinks fit, order that the bill or note be forthwith deposited in the Court, and that all proceedings be stayed until the plaintiff gives security for costs.

92. The holder of a dishonoured bill or note shall have the like remedies for the recovery of the expenses incurred in the noting of the same for non-acceptance or non-payment, or incurred otherwise by reason of the dishonour, as for recovery of the amount of the bill or note.

93. After order made, the Court may, if it thinks fit, for reasons recorded in the minutes, set aside the order or execution, and give leave to defend.

94. Where the claim which any person desires to enforce by proceedings in the Court either—

(i) relates to money, goods, or other property, or any civil right or other matter, at issue, of a less amount or value than 20*l.*; or

(ii) is instituted for the recovery of damages of a less amount than 20*l.*, proceedings shall be commenced by summons and the suit shall (subject to the provisions of this Order) be heard and determined in a summary way.

95. The summons shall issue without application in writing.

It shall be addressed to the person, as respondent, against whom the claim is made.

It shall state briefly and clearly the nature and particulars of the claim and the amount sought to be recovered.

It shall be served on the respondent within the time and in the manner directed by the Court.

A respondent shall not be bound to attend personally to answer the summons unless required expressly by the summons so to do, but he shall attend personally if summoned as a witness.

The proceedings on the summons shall (except as far as the Court, in any case for the avoiding of delay and the furtherance of substantial justice, thinks fit otherwise to direct) be governed by the provisions of this Order regulating claims for 20*l.* or upwards.

96. Where, either on the application for a summons, or before or at the hearing thereof, it appears to the Court (for reasons recorded in the minutes) that the nature and circumstances of the case make it unjust or inexpedient to hear and determine the claim in a summary way, the Court may direct that proceedings be taken and carried on by petition.

CLAIMS FOR £20 OR UPWARDS.

A.—Ordinary Provisions.

97. Subject to the foregoing provisions of this Order (where the claim which any person desires to enforce by proceedings in the Court is not such as hereinbefore directed to be commenced by summons), proceedings shall be commenced by the filing of a petition.

98. The petition shall contain a narrative of the material facts on which the plaintiff relies.

The narrative shall be divided into paragraphs numbered consecutively, each paragraph containing, as nearly as may be, a separate statement or allegation.

The petition shall pray for the specific relief to which the plaintiff conceives himself entitled, and also for general relief.

The petition shall be as brief as is consistent with a clear statement of the facts on which the prayer is sought to be supported, and with information to the defendant of the nature of the claim set up.

Documents shall not be unnecessarily set out in full in the petition, but so much only of them as is pertinent and material shall be set out.

Dates and sums shall be expressed in the petition in figures, and not in words.

99. Where there is only one defendant, one copy of the petition, and of any schedule thereto, for service, shall be left with the Court, together with the original.

Where there are two or more defendants, as many copies as there are parties to be served shall be left, together with the original.

100. The plaintiff shall obtain an order for service of the petition on the defendant.

101. The order for service of the petition shall specify a reasonable time after service, ordinarily not more than eight days, within which the defendant shall put in his answer.

102. The Court may, if it thinks fit, on the application of the defendant, allow him further time for putting in his answer.

103. A defendant failing to answer within the time, or further time, allowed, shall not be at liberty to put in an answer without leave of the Court.

104. The answer shall show the nature of the defendant's defence to the claim set up by the petition.

It shall not introduce matter irrelevant to the suit, and the provisions of this Order relating to the setting out of documents and the contents of a petition generally shall be observed in an answer, as far as they are applicable.

It shall deny all such material allegations in the petition as the defendant intends to deny at the hearing.

Where the answer denies an allegation of fact, it shall deny it directly and fully (as, for example, if a petition alleges that the defendant has received a sum of money, and the defendant denies this, his answer shall deny that he has received that sum or any part thereof, or else set forth what part he has received. And so, where a matter of fact is alleged in the petition, with certain circumstances, the answer shall not deny it literally as it is alleged, but shall answer the point of substance positively and certainly).

The answer shall specifically admit such material allegations in the petition as the defendant knows to be true or desires to be taken as admitted.

The answer shall allege any fact not stated in the petition whereon the defendant intends to rely in his defence (as establishing, for instance, fraud on the part of the plaintiff, or showing that the plaintiff's right to relief has not yet accrued, or is released, or barred, or otherwise gone).

105. The Court may, if it thinks fit, order the defendant to put in an answer on oath.

106. The Court may, if it thinks fit, on the application of the plaintiff, examine the defendant, on oath or otherwise, on written interrogatories, allowed by the Court, and take down the answers of the defendant in writing.

Those answers shall be treated as forming part of the answer to the petition.

107. A defendant not putting in any answer shall not, on that ground, be taken as admitting the allegations of the petition or the plaintiff's right to the relief sought.

108. No replication or other pleading after answer shall be allowed.

109. The plaintiff may, on considering the answer, amend his petition.

Notice of the amendment shall be served on the defendant.

110. A suit shall not be set down for hearing without an order of the Court for that purpose, which the plaintiff may obtain at any time after the expiration of the time allowed to the defendant for answering.

111. The sittings of the Court for the hearing of suits shall, where the amount of business so requires, be held on stated days.

They shall ordinarily be public, but the Court may, for reasons recorded in the minutes, hear any particular suit or matter in the presence only of the parties and their legal advisers and the officers of the Court.

112. A Provincial Court shall (subject to the provisions of this Order) hear with an Assessor, or with Assessors, every suit which either—

(i) relates to money, goods, or other property, or any civil right, or other matter, at issue, of the amount or value of 300*l* or upwards; or

(ii) is instituted for recovery of damages, of the amount of 300*l.* or upwards.

In all other cases, subject as aforesaid, a Court may, if it thinks fit, hear the suit either with or without an Assessor or Assessors.

113. The order of proceeding at the hearing shall, subject to any directions given by the Court, be as follows:

The party on whom the burden of proof is thrown by the nature of the material questions between the parties has the right to begin: he shall address the Court and open his case.

He shall then call his evidence and examine his witnesses in chief.

When he has concluded his evidence he shall ask the other party if he intends to call evidence (in which term is included evidence taken by affidavit or deposition, or under commission, and documentary evidence not already read or taken as read); and, if answered in the negative, the party beginning shall be entitled to sum up the evidence already given, and comment thereon; but if answered in the affirmative he shall wait for his general reply.

When the party beginning has concluded his case, the second party shall be at liberty to address the Court and to call evidence, and to sum up and comment thereon.

If no evidence is called or read by the second party, the party beginning (saving the right of the Crown) shall have no right to reply unless he has been prevented from summing up his case by the statement of the second party of his intention to call evidence.

The case on both sides shall then be considered closed.

If the second party calls or reads evidence, the party beginning shall be at liberty to reply generally on the whole case, or he may call fresh evidence in reply to the evidence given on the other side, on points material to the determination of the issues, or any of them, but not on collateral matters.

Where evidence in reply is tendered and allowed to be given, the second party shall be at liberty to address the Court, and the party beginning shall be entitled to the general reply.

114. The answer of a defendant shall not debar him at the hearing from disproving any allegation of the petition not admitted by his answer, or from giving evidence in support of a defence not expressly set up by the answer, except where in the opinion of the Court the defence is such as ought to have been expressly set up by the answer, or is inconsistent therewith.

115. The decision or judgment given at the hearing shall be delivered in open Court.

Where the Court reserves judgment at the hearing, parties to the suit shall be served with notice to attend and hear judgment, unless the Court at the hearing states the day on which judgment will be delivered; in which case there shall be no further notice.

All parties shall be deemed to have notice of the decision or judgment, if pronounced at the hearing.

All parties served with notice to attend and hear judgment shall be deemed to have notice of the judgment when pronounced.

116. In every suit, the costs of the whole suit and of each particular proceeding therein, and the costs of every proceeding in the Court, are in the discretion of the Court as regards the person by whom they are to be paid, and shall be ascertained, fixed, or taxed in such manner as may be prescribed by any Rules of Procedure, or in any particular case, directed by the Court.

But the Court shall not order the successful party in a suit to pay to the unsuccessful party the costs of the whole suit; although the Court may order the successful party, notwithstanding his success in the suit, to pay the costs of any particular proceeding therein.

The Court may order any costs to be paid out of any fund or property to which a suit or proceeding relates.

Where the Court orders costs to be paid by any party, the Court may, if it thinks fit, order all proceedings by or on behalf of that party in the same suit or proceeding, or connected therewith, to be stayed until the costs are paid accordingly.

B.—Exceptional Provisions.

117. On proof of extreme urgency or other peculiar circumstances, the Court may, if it thinks fit, without petition filed, and without notice, make an order of injunction, or an order to sequester money or goods, or to stop a passport, or the clearances of a ship, or to hold to bail.

Before making the order, the Court shall require the person applying for it to enter into a recognizance, with or without a surety or sureties as the Court thinks fit, as security for his being answerable in damages to the person against whom the order is sought.

The order shall not remain in force more than twenty-four hours, and shall, at the end of that time, wholly cease to be in force, unless within that time a suit is regularly instituted, by petition, by the person obtaining the order.

The order shall be dealt with in the suit as the Court thinks just.

An order to hold to bail shall state the amount (including costs) for which bail is required.

It shall be executed forthwith.

The person arrested under it shall be entitled to be discharged from custody under it on bringing into Court the amount stated in the order, to abide the event of such suit as may be instituted, or on entering into a recognizance, with or without a surety or sureties as the Court thinks fit, as a security that he will abide by the orders of the Court in any suit instituted.

He shall be liable to be detained in custody under the order for not more than seven days, if not sooner discharged: but the Court may, from time to time, if it thinks fit, renew the order.

No person, however, shall be kept in custody under any such order and renewed order for a longer time, in the whole, than thirty days.

118. Where a person filing a petition, either alone or jointly with any other person, is out of the particular jurisdiction, or is only temporarily therein, he shall file in the Court, at or before the filing of the petition, a written statement of a fit place within the particular jurisdiction where notices and other papers issuing from the Court, may be served on him.

He shall also give security for costs by deposit of the sum of £50, or by bond in the penal sum of £100.

The Court may at any time, either of its own motion or on the application of any defendant, order the plaintiff to give further or better security to the amount aforesaid for costs, and may direct proceedings to be stayed in the meanwhile.

119. Persons entitled to sue and suing on behalf of others as guardians, executors, or administrators, or on behalf of themselves and others (as creditors in a suit, for administration), shall state the character in which they sue.

120. Where a person has jointly with other persons a ground for instituting a suit, all those other persons shall, unless the Court otherwise allows, be made parties to the suit, either as plaintiffs or defendants.

But where a person has a joint and several demand against more persons than one, either as principals or as sureties, it is not necessary for him to bring before the Court as parties to a suit concerning that demand all the persons liable thereto, and he may proceed against any one or more of the persons severally liable.

If a person not joined as plaintiff or as defendant ought to be so joined, or a person joined as plaintiff or as defendant ought not to be so joined, the Court may order the petition to be amended. But no person shall be so joined as plaintiff without proof to the Court of his consent thereto. Nor shall the name of a plaintiff be so struck out unless he was originally joined as plaintiff without his consent, or he consents to his name being struck out.

121. Where a person sues another as agent for a third person, not seeking to fix the agent with personal liability, the Court, on the fact coming to its knowledge, shall, if the third person is within the particular jurisdiction, forthwith order his name to be substituted, and stay proceedings until the order is complied with.

But if he is not within the particular jurisdiction, the Court shall refuse to proceed further in the matter, unless and until the person sued as agent undertakes, by writing filed in the Court, to defend the suit, and personally to satisfy any order for debt or damages and costs therein. In that case the person sued as agent shall further, within such time as the Court orders, and before the hearing of the suit, procure and file with the proceedings a sufficient authority in writing to him from his principal to substitute the name of the principal as defendant for that of the agent, and to defend the suit, or otherwise act in it on behalf of the principal.

The agent shall not, however, be deemed to be thereby discharged from his personal undertaking and liability to satisfy any order in the suit.

122. Proceedings by or on behalf of or against a partnership solely or jointly shall be taken in the several names of the partners as individuals, and not in the name of the firm or otherwise.

123. Where the plaintiff's claim is for money payable in respect of a contract expressed or implied, or to recover the possession or the value of goods wrongfully taken and detained, or wrongfully detained, by the defendant from the plaintiff, it shall be sufficient for the plaintiff to state his claim in the petition in a general form, and to annex to the petition a schedule stating the particulars of his demand, in any form which shall give the defendant reasonably sufficient information of the details of the claim.

An application for further or better particulars may be made by the defendant before answer.

The plaintiff shall not, at the hearing, obtain an order for any sum exceeding that stated in the particulars, except for subsequent interest and cost of suit, notwithstanding that the sum claimed in the petition for debt or damages exceeds the sum stated in the particulars.

Particulars of demand shall not be amended except by leave of the Court, and the Court may, if it thinks fit on an application for leave to amend, grant the same, on it appearing that the defendant will not be prejudiced by amendment.

Where the Court orders particulars to be amended, or further or better particulars to be given, the order shall state the time within which the thing ordered is to be done.

The order for service of the amended or further or better particulars shall state the time which the defendant is to have to put in his answer.

Any variance between the items contained in the particulars and the items proved at the hearing may be amended at the hearing, if the Court thinks fit.

124. Where the plaintiff seeks (with or without an order for payment of money)—

(i) to obtain a general or special declaration of his rights under a contract or instrument; or

(ii) to set aside a contract; or

(iii) to have a bond, bill, note, or instrument in writing delivered up to be cancelled; or

(iv) to restrain a defendant by injunction; or

(v) to have an account taken between himself and any other or others, he may in his petition refer to and briefly describe any documents on the contents whereof he intends to rely, and may annex copies thereof to the petition.

125. A plaintiff, not giving sufficient information to enable the defendant to understand the plaintiff's claim, may be ordered, on the application of the defendant, to amend his petition.

126. A petition may be amended at any time before answer by leave of the Court, on an application of the plaintiff without notice.

Notice of amendment shall be given to the defendant.

127. If a petition contains libellous or needlessly offensive expressions, the Court may, if it thinks fit, either of its own motion, or on application of the defendant, order it to be amended.

128. Where a petition is defective on the face of it by reason of non-compliance with the provisions of this Order, the Court may, if it thinks fit, either of its own motion, or on application by a defendant, make an order to stay proceedings until the petition is amended.

129. A plaintiff may be ordered to produce for inspection and other purposes of the suit such documents in his possession or power as are referred to in the petition, or such other documents, if any, as the defendant is entitled to inspect in the suit.

130. A petition implies an offer to do equity in the suit, and admits of any equitable defence.

The plaintiff may obtain at the hearing any such equitable relief as the facts stated and proved entitle him to, though not specifically asked.

Where a defendant in his answer raises a defence of an equitable nature, and it appears to the Court that, on this defence being established, the defendant may be entitled to some equitable relief against the plaintiff in respect of the subject-matter of the suit, the Court may, if it thinks fit, on the application of the defendant, either before or at the hearing, give liberty to him to file a cross-petition asking for that relief, and may make such order for the hearing of the suit and cross-suit, together or otherwise as the Court thinks just.

131. Where a defendant conceives that he has a good defence in law or equity to the petition, so that even if the allegations of fact in the petition were admitted or clearly established, yet the plaintiff would not be entitled to any order against him (the defendant), he may raise this defence by an application that the petition be dismissed without an answer being required from him.

The application shall be made within the time allowed for answering.

The summons or motion-paper on which the application is made shall state briefly the grounds of law or equity on which the defendant relies.

The application shall be heard and disposed of at as early a time as may be.

For the purposes of the application the defendant shall be taken as admitting the truth of the allegations of fact in the petition; and no evidence respecting matter of fact, and no discussion of questions of fact, shall be allowed.

The Court, on hearing the application, shall either dismiss the petition or order the defendant to put in an answer within a short time to be named in the order, and may, if the Court thinks fit, give leave to the plaintiff to amend his petition.

Where, on the hearing of the application, any grounds of law or equity are urged in support of it other than those stated in the summons or motion-paper, and the grounds stated therein are disallowed, the defendant shall be liable to pay the same costs as if the application were wholly refused, although the grounds newly urged are allowed, unless the Court thinks fit in any case to order otherwise.

132. A defendant may at any time (but where he is required to answer not until after he has put in a sufficient answer) file in the Court interrogatories for the examination of a plaintiff.

There shall be prefixed to those interrogatories a concise statement of the subjects on which a discovery is sought.

A plaintiff shall answer the interrogatories, subject to just exceptions.

133. A defence of set-off to a claim for money shall be accompanied by a statement of particulars of set-off.

A defence of partial set-off shall also be accompanied by payment into Court of the amount to which, on the defendant's showing, the plaintiff is entitled, unless the plaintiff's claim to that amount is resisted on some other ground of defence.

In default of that payment the defendant shall be liable to bear the costs of the suit, even if he succeeds in his defence to the extent of the set-off on which he relies.

Where a defendant in his answer raises a defence of set-off which, in the opinion of the Court, is not admissible in that form, the Court may, if it thinks fit, either before or at the hearing, on his application, give him liberty to withdraw the defence and to file a cross-petition, and may make such order for the hearing of the suit and cross-suit together or otherwise, as the Court thinks just.

A counter-claim shall not be admitted otherwise than as a defence of set-off.

A defendant, raising by his answer a counter-claim by way of defence, shall not be entitled to any order against the plaintiff for any sum of money other than his costs of the suit.

134. A defence alleging tender by the defendant shall be accompanied by payment into Court of the amount alleged to have been tendered.

135. Payment into Court by the defendant shall be accompanied by an answer or affidavit. The answer or affidavit shall state distinctly that the money paid in is paid in in satisfaction of the plaintiff's claim generally, or (as the case may be) in satisfaction of some specific part of the plaintiff's claim, where the claim is stated in the petition for distinct sums or in respect of distinct matters.

Payment into Court, whether made in satisfaction of the plaintiff's claim generally or in satisfaction of some specific part thereof, operates as an admission of liability to the extent of the amount paid in and no more, and for no other purpose.

Where the defendant pays money into Court the plaintiff shall be at liberty to accept the same in full satisfaction and discharge of the cause of suit in respect of which it is paid in; and in that case the plaintiff may forthwith apply for payment of the money out of Court to him, and on the hearing of the application the Court shall make such order respecting stay of further proceedings in the suit in whole or in part, and respecting costs and other matters, as the Court thinks just.

If the plaintiff does not so apply, he shall be considered as insisting that he has a claim against the defendant to a greater amount than the sum paid in; and in that case the Court, in determining the suit and disposing of costs, shall have regard to the fact of the payment into Court having been made and not accepted.

136. The Court, on proof that there is good reason to believe that a defendant means to abscond in order to avoid the orders of the Court, after suit or other proceedings instituted, may, if it thinks fit, make an order to hold him to bail, and may require of him such security as it thinks fit for his remaining within the particular jurisdiction and abiding by any order to be made in the suit or proceeding.

137. Where, on default made by a defendant in answering or otherwise defending the suit after service of the petition, it appears to the Court that he is an infant or a person of weak or unsound mind, so that he is unable of himself to defend the suit, the Court may, if it thinks fit, on the application of the plaintiff, or of its own motion, appoint by order some fit person to be guardian of the defendant for the purposes of the suit, by whom he may defend it.

Before such an order is made, the Court shall cause such notice as it thinks reasonable to be served on or left at the dwelling-house of the person with whom or under whose care the defendant is; and also, unless the Court sees good reason to the contrary, in the case of an infant not residing with or under the care of his father or guardian, to be served on or left at the dwelling-house of his father or guardian.

138. The Court may, by order, allow facts occurring after the institution of a suit to be introduced by way of amendment into the petition or answer at any stage of the proceedings.

139. Where, after the institution of a suit, any change or transmission of interest or liability occurs in relation to any party to the suit, or any party to the suit dies, or (being a woman) marries, or the suit in any other way becomes defective or incapable of being carried on, any person interested may obtain from the Court any order requisite for curing the defect, or enabling or compelling proper parties to carry on the proceedings.

But any person served with such an order may, within such time, not exceeding fourteen days, as the Court in the order directs, apply to the Court to discharge the order.

140. At any time after answer the Court may, if it thinks fit, on the application of any party, or of its own motion, proceed to ascertain the material questions in controversy between the parties, and may reduce those questions into writing, and settle them in the form of issues, which issues, when settled, shall, for the purposes of the subsequent proceedings, supersede the petition and answer, except that the petition and answer may be used, as containing issues or otherwise, for purposes of evidence on the trial of the issues.

141. Where the plaintiff does not obtain an order for setting down the suit for hearing within three months from the time at which he might first apply for it, the defendant may apply to the Court for an order to dismiss the petition for want of prosecution.

The Court thereupon, if it thinks fit, may make an order dismissing the petition, or may make such other order or impose such terms as it thinks fit.

142. If at the hearing, the plaintiff does not appear, the Court shall, unless the Court sees good reason to the contrary, strike out the suit, and make such order respecting costs in favour of any defendant appearing as the Court thinks just.

If the plaintiff a second time in like manner fails to appear, the Court shall, unless it sees good reason to the contrary, dismiss the petition, which dismissal shall have the like effect as a dismissal on the merits at the hearing.

143. If, at the hearing, the plaintiff appears, but the defendant or any of the defendants does not appear, the Court shall, before hearing the suit, inquire into the service of the petition and of notice of hearing on the absent party or parties.

The Court, if not satisfied respecting service on every party, shall order that further service be made as the Court directs, and shall adjourn the hearing for that purpose.

The Court, on being satisfied respecting service on every party, may, if it thinks fit, proceed to hear the suit, notwithstanding the absence of the defendant or any of the defendants.

144. If the Court hears the suit and makes an order against the defendant in his absence, the Court may afterwards, on such terms as the Court thinks fit, rehear the suit on proof that his absence was excusable, and that he has a defence on the merits.

145. The Court shall, at the hearing, order all such amendments as the Court thinks necessary or proper for bringing to a determination in the suit the real questions in controversy between the parties.

146. Where it appears to the Court that the matter in dispute in a suit consists either wholly or in part of matters of mere account, the Court may, according to the amount of public business pending, either decide at once the matters of account, or order that they be referred, either wholly or in part, to some person agreed on by the parties, or, in case of their non-agreement, appointed by the Court.

The referee shall enter into the account and hear evidence and report on it to the Court, according to the order, and the Court, after hearing the parties, may adopt the conclusions of the report, either wholly or in part, or may direct a further report to be made by the referee, and may grant any necessary adjournment for that purpose.

147. In any Court other than that of the Consul-General, any decision or judgment may be given, or verdict taken, subject to a case to be stated for the opinion of the Consul-General.

148. An application made by motion shall not be entertained until the party moving has filed in the Court a written motion-paper stating the terms of the order sought.

There shall be filed with the motion-paper all affidavits on which the person moving intends to rely. No other evidence shall be used in support of the motion except by leave of the Court.

No paper accompanying the motion-paper other than an affidavit shall be received.

A motion may be made without notice in the first instance or on notice of motion.

149. An application for a summons may be made in writing, or in person.

If the Court thinks fit, it may issue a summons ordering the person to whom it is directed, as respondent, to appear at the time and place specified therein, and stating the nature of the application to be made.

On the return day of the summons, if the respondent attends, or in his absence on proof of service, the Court may, on the application of the person obtaining the summons, consider and deal with the application in a summary way.

150. Where an order is made without service of notice of the application, an office copy of the affidavit or deposition on which the order is made shall be served on the person affected by the order, with the order.

Any person affected by the order may, within seven days after service of it, but not later except by leave of the Court, apply to the Court to vary or discharge it; and the Court, on notice to the person obtaining the order, may make such order as the Court thinks just.

151. An order to show cause shall specify a day when cause is to be shown, called the return-day to the order, which shall ordinarily be not less than four days after service.

A person served with an order to show cause may, before the return-day, file affidavits in order to contradict the evidence used in obtaining the order, or setting forth other facts.

On the return-day, if the persons served do not appear, and service is not proved, the Court may enlarge the time and direct further service, or make such other order as it thinks just.

If the persons served appear, or service is proved, the Court may proceed with the matter, and make such order as it thinks just.

152. Where a person not a party to a suit obtains an order, or has an order made in his favour, he is entitled to enforce obedience thereto by the same process as if he were a party to the suit.

A person not a party to a suit against whom obedience to an order may be enforced is liable to the same process for enforcing obedience thereto as if he was a party to the suit.

153. All money ordered by the Court to be paid by any person shall be paid into Court, unless the Court otherwise directs.

154. An order shall be drawn up in form only on the application of some party to the suit, and shall then be passed and be certified by the seal of the Court, and be entered, and shall then form part of the record.

An order shall not be enforced or appealed from, nor shall an office copy of it be granted, until it is part of the record.

An order shall be dated on the day of the delivery of the decision or judgment on which the order is founded.

Any party to an application or suit is entitled to obtain an office copy of any order made therein.

155. Ordinarily, an order, other than an order of the Consul-General, shall not be enforced out of the particular jurisdiction.

Where, however, the Court making the order thinks that the urgency or other peculiar circumstances of the case so require, the Court (for reasons recorded in the minutes) may order it to be enforced out of the particular jurisdiction.

156. When an order orders a person to pay money, or do any other act, the same or some subsequent order shall state the precise time within which the payment, or other act, is to be made or done, reckoned from the date or service of the order in which the time is stated, or from some other point of time, as the Court thinks fit.

The time stated may be immediately after service of the order, if the Court thinks fit.

A person ordered to pay money, or do any other act, is bound to obey the order on being served with it, and without any demand for payment or performance.

157. The Court may, if it thinks fit, order that money ordered to be paid, be paid by instalments specified.

158. Where an order orders payment of money, there shall be indorsed on the copy of it served on the person required to obey it, a memorandum of the words, or to the effect following:

If you, the within-named A. B., neglect to obey this order by the time therein appointed, you will be liable to have a writ of execution issued against your goods, under which they may be seized and sold; and you will also be liable to be summoned by the Court, and to be examined respecting your ability to make the payment directed by this order, and to be imprisoned in case of your not answering satisfactorily on that examination.

159. Where an order orders payment of money, and the person ordered to pay refuses or neglects to do so according to the order, a person entitled to the benefit of the order may apply to the Court for execution against the goods of the disobedient person.

Thereupon the Court shall, unless it sees good reason to the contrary, issue an order of execution (in this Order called an execution order), ordering and empowering an officer of the Court, therein named, to levy the money ordered to be paid, by distress and sale of the goods of the disobedient person (in this Order called the "execution debtor"), wheresoever they may be found within the particular jurisdiction.

On the order there shall be indorsed the sum of money and cost adjudged, and the further sum to be levied for costs of the execution.

160. Where an order orders payment of money by instalments, execution shall not issue until after default in payment of some instalment according to the order; and execution, or successive executions, may then issue for the whole money then remaining unpaid, or for such portion thereof as the Court orders, either when making the original order or at any subsequent time.

161. The officer executing the order may, by virtue thereof, seize any of the goods of the execution debtor, except the wearing apparel and bedding of himself and his family, and the tools and implements of his trade, to the value of 5*l.*, all which shall to that extent be exempted from seizure.

162. The sale of the goods seized shall be made by order of the Court, and shall be conducted under the direction of the Court and by a person nominated by the Court.

But no steps shall be taken therein without the demand of the person obtaining the execution order (in this Order called the execution creditor), and the execution creditor shall be liable for any damage ensuing from any proceeding taken at his instance.

The sale shall not be made until after the end of five days at least next following the day of seizure, unless the goods are of a perishable nature, or on the request in writing of the execution debtor.

Until sale, the goods shall be deposited by the officer in some fit place, or they may remain in the custody of a fit person approved by the Court and put in possession by the officer.

163. The Court shall not order the sale of the goods seized unless it is proved that they belong to the execution debtor, and are in a place where the Court has jurisdiction.

Where a claim is made by a third party to the goods or part thereof, the same, if made by a British subject, shall be decided by the Court in a summary way, as between the claimant and the execution creditor.

If the claim is made by a native or foreigner, the Court may, if it thinks fit, either oblige the execution creditor to establish his claim before selling the goods, or sell the goods and require the execution creditor to defend any claim.

164. The officer executing an execution order may, by virtue thereof seize any money, bank notes, cheques, bills of exchange, promissory notes, bonds, or securities for money belonging to the execution debtor.

The Court shall hold the same (other than money and securities immediately convertible into money) as security for the amount directed to be levied, or so much thereof as is not otherwise levied, for the benefit of the execution creditor.

The execution creditor may sue in the name of the execution debtor, or in the name of any person in whose name the execution debtor might have sued, for recovery of the money secured or made payable thereby, when the time for suing arrives.

165. If before or after seizure the execution debtor, by payment into Court or to the officer executing the order, satisfies the execution, the order shall be superseded, and the goods and property seized shall be released and delivered up.

166. Where an order ordering payment of money remains wholly or in part unsatisfied (whether an execution order has been made or not), the person prosecuting the order (in this Order called the judgment creditor) may apply to the Court for an order ordering the person by whom payment is to be made (in this Order called the judgment debtor) to appear and be examined respecting his ability to make the payment; and the Court shall, unless it sees good reason to the contrary, make an order accordingly.

167. On the appearance of the judgment debtor, he may be examined on oath by or on behalf of the judgment creditor, and by the Court, respecting his ability to pay the money directed to be paid, and for discovery of property applicable thereto, and respecting his disposal of any property.

He shall produce, on oath or otherwise, all books, papers, and documents in his possession or power relating to any property applicable to payment.

He may be examined respecting the circumstances under which he contracted or incurred the debt or liability in respect of which the payment of money is ordered to be made, and respecting the means or expectation he then had of paying or discharging the debt or liability.

He shall sign his examination as taken down in writing.

Whether the judgment debtor appears or not, the judgment creditor, and any witness whom the Court thinks requisite, may be examined, on oath, or otherwise, respecting the same matters.

The Court may, if it thinks fit, adjourn the examination from time to time, and require from the judgment debtor such security for his appearance as the Court thinks fit, and in default of his finding security, may, by order, commit him to the custody of an officer of the Court, there to remain until the adjourned hearing, unless sooner discharged.

168. If it appears to the Court by the examination of the judgment debtor or other evidence—

(i) that the judgment debtor has then, or has had since the making of the order, sufficient means to pay the money directed to be paid by him, and he refuses or neglects to pay the same according to the order; or

(ii) that, with intent to defraud his creditors, or any of them, he had made or suffered any gift, delivery, or transfer of any property, or charged, removed, or concealed any property; or

(iii) that the debt or liability in question has been contracted or incurred by him by or by reason of fraud, or false pretence, or breach of trust committed by him; or

(iv) that forbearance thereof was obtained by him by fraud or false pretence; or

(v) that the debt or liability was wilfully contracted or incurred by him without his having had at the same time a reasonable expectation of being able to pay or discharge it, then and in any such case the Court may, if it thinks fit, by order, commit him to prison for any time not exceeding forty days.

169. On the examination the Court, if it thinks fit, whether it makes an order for commitment or not, may rescind or alter any order for the payment of money by instalments or otherwise, and may make any further or other order, either for payment of the whole amount forthwith, or by instalments, or in any other manner, as the Court thinks just.

170. In places where there is no other place for the detention of a debtor in custody than the prison of the authorities, the Court shall not commit the debtor to prison if it appears that that prison is unfit, regard being had to the requirements of health and decency for the confinement of a British subject under civil process.

171. The expenses of the judgment debtor's maintenance in prison shall be defrayed, in the first instance, by the judgment creditor, and may be recovered by him as the Court directs.

The expenses shall be estimated by the Court, and shall be paid by the judgment creditor at such times and in such manner as the Court directs. In default of payment, the judgment debtor may be discharged if the Court thinks fit.

172. Imprisonment of a judgment debtor under the foregoing provisions shall not operate as a satisfaction or extinguishment of the debt or liability to which the order relates, or protect the debtor from being anew imprisoned for any new fraud or other default making him liable to be imprisoned, or deprive the judgment creditor of any right to have execution against his goods, as if there had not been such imprisonment.

173. The judgment debtor, on paying at any time the amount ordered to be paid, and all costs and expenses, shall be discharged.

174. Where the order is one ordering some act to be done other than payment of money, there shall be indorsed on the copy of it served on the person required to obey it a memorandum in the words, or to the effect following:

If you, the within-named A. B., neglect to obey this order within the time therein appointed, you will be liable to be arrested, and to have your property sequestered.

175. Where the person directed to do the act refuses or neglects to do it according to the order, the person prosecuting the order may apply to the Court for another order for the arrest of the disobedient person.

Thereupon the Court shall, unless it sees good reason to the contrary, make an order ordering and empowering an officer of the Court therein named to take the body of the disobedient person, and detain him in custody until further order.

He shall be liable to be detained in custody until he has obeyed the order in all things that are to be immediately performed, and given such security as the Court thinks fit to obey the order in other respects (if any) at the future times thereby appointed, or in case of his no longer having the power to obey the order, then until he has been imprisoned for such time, or until he has paid such fine, as the Court thinks just.

176. In case the person against whom an order of arrest issues is not and cannot be found, or is taken and detained in custody without obeying the order, then the person prosecuting the order may apply to the Court for an order of sequestration against his property.

177. The Court may admit a person to sue as a pauper, on his poverty, and his having a case proper for some relief in the Court, being proved; and may admit a person to defend as a pauper on his poverty being proved.

The Court may, if it thinks fit, by order, assign a counsel or attorney to assist a person, admitted to sue or defend as a pauper, and the counsel or attorney so assigned shall not be at liberty to refuse his assistance, unless he satisfies the Court of some good reason for refusing.

If a person admitted to sue or defend as a pauper gives or agrees to give any fee, profit, or reward for the conduct of his business in the Court, he shall be deemed guilty of a contempt of Court, and he shall also be forthwith dispaupered, and shall not be afterwards admitted again in that suit to sue or defend as a pauper.

A person admitted to sue or defend as a pauper may be dispaupered by order of the Court, on it being proved that he was not when admitted, or no longer is, of sufficient poverty, or that he is abusing his privilege by vexatious proceedings.

178. The Court may, if it thinks fit, at any time, on the application of any party, order a re-hearing of a suit.

The provisions of this order respecting a hearing with Assessors shall extend to a re-hearing.

VIII.—PROCEEDINGS ON DEATH.

179. The Court shall endeavour to obtain, as early as may be, notice of the death of every British subject dying within the particular jurisdiction, whether resident or not, and all such information respecting his affairs as may serve to guide the Court with respect to the securing and administration of his property.

On receiving notice of the death, the Court shall put up a notice thereof at the place where its sittings are ordinarily held, and shall keep the same there until probate or administration is granted, or where it appears to the Court that probate or administration will not be applied for or cannot be granted, for such time as the Court thinks fit.

180. Where a British subject resident dies in Persia intestate, then, until administration is granted, his personal property shall be vested in the Consul-General.

181. Where a British subject not resident dies in Persia, the Court within whose particular jurisdiction he dies shall, where the circumstances of the case appear to the Court so to require, forthwith on his death, or as soon after as may be, take possession of his personal property within the particular jurisdiction, or put it under the seal of the Court (in either case if the nature of the property or other circumstances so require, making an inventory), and so keep it until it can be dealt with according to law.

182 If any person, other than the person named executor or an administrator or an officer of the Court, takes possession of and administers or otherwise deals with any part of the personal property of a British subject dying in Persia, whether resident or not, he shall be deemed guilty of a contempt of Court, and shall be liable to such fine, not exceeding 50*l.*, as the Court having jurisdiction over the property of the deceased thinks fit to impose.

183. Where a British subject dies in Persia, whether resident or not, then any person having in his possession or under his control any paper or writing of the deceased, being or purporting to be testamentary, shall forthwith bring the original to the Court within whose particular jurisdiction the death happens, and deposit it there.

If any person fails to do so for fourteen days after having knowledge of the death of the deceased, he shall be deemed guilty of a contempt of Court, and shall be liable to a fine, not exceeding £50, as the Court thinks fit to impose.

184. Where it is shown to the Court that any paper of the deceased, being or purporting to be testamentary, is in the possession or under the control of a British subject, the Court may, in a summary way, whether a suit or proceeding respecting probate or administration is pending or not, order him to produce the paper and bring it into court.

Where it appears to the Court that there are reasonable grounds for believing that any such person has knowledge of any paper being or purporting to be testamentary (although it is not shown that the paper is in his possession or under his control), the Court may, in a summary way, whether a suit or proceeding for probate or administration is pending or not, order that he be examined respecting it in open Court or on interrogatories, and that he do attend for that purpose, and after examination that he do produce the paper and bring it into Court.

185. Probate or letters of administration with will annexed shall not issue for seven days from the death of the deceased, except under the direction of the Consul-General, or in case of great urgency.

Letters of administration (not with will annexed) shall not issue for fourteen days from the death of the deceased, except under the direction of the Consul-General, or in case of great urgency.

186. If any person, named executor in the will of the deceased, takes possession of and administers or otherwise deals with any part of the personal property of the deceased, and does not obtain probate within one month after the death, or after the termination of any suit or dispute respecting probate or administration, he shall be deemed guilty of a contempt of Court, and shall be liable to such fine, not exceeding £50, as the Court thinks fit to impose.

187. The Court may, of its own motion, or on the application of any person claiming an interest under a will, give notice to the executors (if any) therein named, to come in and prove the will or to renounce probate, and they, or some or one of them, shall, within fourteen days after notice, come in and prove or renounce accordingly.

188. Where probate or administration is, for the first time, applied for after three years from the death of the deceased, a grant shall not be made except under the direction of the Consul-General.

189. Where, in a Court other than that of the Consul-General, a dispute or question arises in relation to the grant or the application for it, or it appears to the Court doubtful whether or not the grant should be made, the Court shall communicate with the Consul-General.

The Consul-General shall direct the other Court to proceed in the matter according to such instructions as the Consul-General thinks fit, or shall, by order, remove the matter to the Court of the Consul-General.

190. A Court, other than the Consul-General, before proceeding on an application, shall ascertain that the deceased was, at his death, resident in the particular jurisdiction, and shall not for this purpose consider itself bound to rest satisfied with the evidence offered by the applicant.

191. The Court shall require evidence, in addition to that offered by the applicant, of the identity of the deceased, or of the applicant, where additional evidence in that behalf seems to the Court necessary or desirable.

192. The Court shall ascertain the value of the property of the deceased as correctly as circumstances allow.

193. In no case shall the Court issue probate or letters of administration until all inquiries which the Court sees fit to institute have been answered to its satisfaction.

The Court shall, however, afford as great facility for the obtaining of probate or administration as is consistent with due regard to the prevention of error and fraud.

194. In the following cases a grant shall not issue except from the Court of the Consul-General, namely:

Probate or administration with will annexed, where the will was executed before the 1st January 1838, and there is no testamentary paper of a date later than the 31st December 1837;

Probate or administration with will annexed, the will being merely an execution of a special power, or being the will of a married woman made by virtue of a power;

Administration for the use or benefit of a minor or infant, or of a lunatic or person of unsound mind;

Administration (with or without will annexed) of the property of a bastard dying either a bachelor or spinster, or a widower or widow without issue, or of a person dying without known relative;

Limited administration;

Administration to be granted to a person not resident in Persia.

195. Revocation or alteration of a grant of probate or administration shall not be made except by the Consul-General.

196. A notice to prohibit a grant of probate or administration may be filed in any Court.

Immediately on such a notice being filed, a copy thereof shall be sent to the Court of the district (if any) in which it is alleged the deceased was resident at his death, and to any other Court to which it appears to the Consul-General expedient to send a copy.

Immediately on such a notice being filed the Court shall send a copy thereof to the Consul-General, and also to the Court of any other district in which it is known or alleged the deceased had, at his death, a place of abode.

The notice shall remain in force for three months only from the day of filing; but it may be renewed from time to time.

The notice shall not affect a grant made on the day on which the notice is filed, or on which a copy thereof is received, as the case may be.

The person filing the notice shall be warned by a warning in writing, under the seal of the Court delivered at the place mentioned in the notice as his address.

After the notice has been filed, a grant of probate or administration shall be made only by the Consul-General.

197. Notices in the nature of citations shall be given by publication in such newspapers, or in such other manner, as the Court in each case thinks fit.

198. Suits respecting probate or administration shall be instituted by petition; and the provisions of this Order respecting proceedings in other suits instituted by petition shall extend and apply thereto.

199. Every original will, of which probate or administration, with will annexed is granted, shall be filed and kept in the public office of the Court from which the grant issues, in such manner as to secure at once the due preservation and the convenient inspection of the same.

No original will shall be delivered out for any purpose without the direction in writing of the Consul-General.

An office copy of the whole or any part of a will, or an official certificate of a grant of administration, may be obtained from the Court where the will is proved or the administration granted, on payment of the proper fees.

200. On the 1st February and the 1st August in every year, every Provincial Court shall send to the Consul-General—

A list of the grants of probate and administration made by the Court up to the last preceding 1st January and 1st July respectively, not included in any previous list;

And a copy, certified by the Court to be a correct copy, of every will to which each probate or administration relates.

201. On receiving an application for probate or for administration with will annexed, the Court shall inspect the will and see whether it appears to be signed by the testator, or by some other person in his presence and by his direction, and to be subscribed by two witnesses, according to the enactments relative thereto, and shall not proceed further if the will does not appear to be so signed and subscribed.

If the will appears to be so signed and subscribed, the Court shall then refer to the attestation clause (if any), and consider whether the wording thereof states the will to have been, in fact, executed in accordance with those enactments.

If there is no attestation clause, or if the attestation clause is insufficient, the Court shall require an affidavit from at least one of the subscribing witnesses, if either of them is living, to prove that the will was, in fact, executed in accordance with those enactments.

The affidavit shall be engrossed and form part of the probate, so that the probate may be a complete document on the face of it.

If, on perusal of the affidavit, it appears that the will was not, in fact, executed in accordance with those enactments, the Court shall refuse probate.

If, on perusal of the affidavit, it appears to the Court doubtful whether or not the will was, in fact, executed in accordance with those enactments, the Court, if other than the Court of the Consul-General, shall communicate with him for directions.

If both the subscribing witnesses are dead, or if, from other circumstances, such an affidavit cannot be obtained from either of them, resort for such an affidavit shall be had to other persons (if any) present at the execution of the will; but if no such affidavit can be obtained, proof shall be required of that fact and of the handwritings of the deceased, and of the subscribing witnesses, and also of any circumstances raising a presumption in favour of the due execution of the will.

202. Where the testator was blind or illiterate, the Court shall not grant probate of the will, or administration with the will annexed, unless the Court is first satisfied, by proof or by what appears on the face of the will, that the will was read over to the deceased before its execution, or that he had at that time knowledge of its contents.

Where this information is not forthcoming, the Court, if other than the Court of the Consul-General, shall communicate with him for directions.

203. The Court, on being satisfied that the will was duly executed shall carefully inspect it to see whether there are any interlineations or alterations or erasures or obliterations appearing in it, and requiring to be accounted for.

Interlineations, alterations, erasures, and obliterations are invalid unless they existed in the will at the time of its execution, or unless, if made afterwards, they have been executed and attested in the mode required by the said enactments, or unless they have been made valid by the re-execution of the will, or by the subsequent execution of some codicil thereto.

Where interlineations, alterations, erasures, or obliterations appear in the will (unless duly executed or recited in or otherwise identified by the attestation clause), an affidavit in proof of their having existed in the will before its execution shall be filed.

If no satisfactory evidence is adduced respecting the time when an erasure or obliteration was made, and the words erased or obliterated are not entirely effaced, and can, on inspection of the will, be ascertained, they shall form part of the probate.

Where words have been erased which might have been of importance, an affidavit shall be required.

If reasonable doubt exists in regard to any interlineation, alteration, erasure, or obliteration, the Court, if other than the Court of the Consul-General, shall communicate with him for directions.

204. Where a will contains a reference to any document, of such a nature as to raise a question whether it ought or ought not to form a constituent part of the will, the Court shall require the production of the document, with a view to ascertaining whether or not it is entitled to probate; and if it is not produced, a satisfactory account of its non-production shall be proved.

A document cannot form part of a will unless it was in existence at the time when the will was executed.

If there are vestiges of sealing-wax or wafers or other marks on the will, leading to the inference that some document has been at some time annexed or attached thereto, a satisfactory account of them shall be proved, or the production of the document shall be required; and if it is not produced, a satisfactory account of its non-production shall be proved.

If doubt exists whether or not a document is entitled to probate as a constituent part of a will, the Court, if other than that of the Consul-General, shall communicate with him for directions.

205. Where a person appointed executor in a will survives the testator, but either dies without having taken probate, or, having been called on by the Court to take probate, does not appear, his right in respect of the executorship wholly ceases; and, without further renunciation, the representation to the testator, and the administration of his property shall go and may be committed as if that person had not been appointed executor.

206. Every will or copy of a will to which an executor or an administrator, with will annexed, is sworn, shall be marked by the executor or administrator, and by the person before whom he is sworn.

207. The Court shall take care that the copies of wills to be annexed to probates or letters of administration are fairly and properly written, and shall reject any not so written.

208. The Court in granting letters of administration shall proceed, as far as may be, as in cases of probate.

The Court shall ascertain the time and place of the deceased's death, and the value of the property to be covered by the administration.

The person to whom administration is granted shall give bond with two or more responsible British subjects, as sureties, to the Consul-General, to ensure to the Consul-General for the time being, conditioned for duly collecting, getting in, and administering the personal property of the deceased.

Where, however, the property is under the value of £50, the Court may, if it thinks fit, take one surety only.

The bond shall be in a penalty of double the amount under which the personal estate of the deceased is sworn, unless the Court in any case thinks it expedient to reduce the amount, for reasons to be forthwith certified to the Consul-General.

The Court may also in any case direct that more bonds than one shall be given, so as to limit the liability of any surety to such amount as the Court thinks reasonable.

The Consul-General may, on being satisfied that the condition of the bond has been broken, assign the same to some person, and that person may thereupon sue on the bond in his own name, as if it had been originally given to him instead of to the Consul-General, and may recover thereon, as trustee for all persons interested, the full amount recoverable in respect of any breach of the condition of the bond.

209. Where administration is applied for by one or some of the next-of-kin only, there being another or other next-of-kin equally entitled thereto, the Court shall require proof that notice of the application has been given to the other next-of-kin.

210. A person claiming to be a creditor or legatee, or the next-of-kin, or one of the next-of-kin, of a deceased person, may apply for and obtain, without petition filed or other preliminary proceeding, a summons from the Court requiring the executor or administrator (as the case may be) of the deceased to attend before the Court and show cause why an order for the administration of the property of the deceased should not be made.

On proof of service of the summons, or on appearance of the executor or administrator, and on proof of all such other things (if any) as the Court thinks fit, the Court may, if it thinks fit, make an immediate order for the administration of the property of the deceased, and the order so made shall have the force of an order to the like effect made on the hearing of a suit between the same parties.

The Court shall have full discretionary power to make or refuse any such order, or to give any special directions respecting the carriage or execution of it, and in the case of applications for such an order by two or more different persons, or classes of persons, to grant the same to such one or more of the claimants, or classes of claimants, as the Court thinks fit.

If the Court thinks fit, the carriage of the order may subsequently be given to such person, and on such terms, as the Court thinks fit.

On making such an order, or at any time afterwards, the Court may, if it thinks fit, make any further or other order for compelling the executor or administrator to bring into Court, for safe custody, all or any part of the money, or securities, or other property of the deceased, from time to time coming to his hands, or otherwise for securing the safe keeping of the property of the deceased, or any part thereof.

If the extreme urgency or other peculiar circumstances of the case appear to the Court so to require (for reasons recorded in the minutes), the Court may, of its own motion, issue such a summons, and make such an order or such orders, and cause proper proceedings to be taken thereon.

211.—(a) Where probate, administration, or confirmation is granted in England, Ireland, or Scotland, and therein, or by a memorandum thereon signed by an officer of the Court granting the same, the testator or intestate is stated to have died domiciled in England, Ireland, or Scotland (as the case may be), and the probate, administration, or confirmation is produced to, and a copy thereof is deposited with the Court, the Court shall write thereon a certificate of that production and deposit; and thereupon the probate, administration, or confirmation shall, with respect to the personal property in Persia of the testator or intestate, have the like effect as if he had been resident in those dominions at his death, and probate or administration to his personal property there had been granted by the Consul-General.

(b) Any person who, in reliance on an instrument purporting to be a probate, administration, or confirmation granted in England, Ireland, or Scotland, and to bear such a certificate of the Court as in this Article prescribed, makes or permits any payment or transfer, in good faith, shall be, by virtue of this Order, indemnified and protected in respect thereof, in Persia, notwithstanding anything affecting the validity of the probate, administration, or confirmation.

(c) The following shall be the terms of the certificate of the Court in this Article prescribed, (namely):

This probate has [or these letters of administration have, or this confirmation has] been produced to this Court, and a copy thereof has been deposited with this Court.

212.—(1) In a case of apparent intestacy, where the circumstances of the case appear to the Court so to require, for reasons recorded in the minutes, the Court may, if it thinks fit, of its own motion, or otherwise, grant administration to the Judge or an officer of the Court.

(2) Any officer so appointed shall act under the direction of the Court, and shall be indemnified thereby.

(3) A commission of 5 per cent., or such less amount as a Secretary of State directs, may be charged on an estate administered under this Article, and the amount thereof shall be calculated and applied as a Secretary of State directs.

(4) All expenses incurred on behalf of the Court in the execution of this Article, and the said commission, shall be the first charge on the personal property of the deceased in the district of the Court; and the Court shall, by sale of part of that property or otherwise, provide for the discharge of those expenses and the payment of the said commission.

213. Where it appears to the Court that the value of the property or estate of a deceased British subject does not exceed £100, the Court may, without any probate or letters of administration, or other formal proceeding, pay thereout any debts or charges, and pay, remit, or deliver any surplus to such persons in such manner as a Secretary of State from time to time directs, and shall not be liable to any action, suit, or proceedings in respect of anything done under this Act.

IX.—APPEAL TO CONSUL-GENERAL.

1.—GENERAL PROVISIONS.

214. Where in a civil suit or proceeding a decision of a Provincial Court, sitting with or without Assessors—

(i) is given in respect of a sum of £50 or upwards; or

(ii) determines, directly or indirectly, a claim or question respecting money, goods, or other property, or any civil right or other matter of the amount or value of £50 or upwards, any party aggrieved by the decision may apply to the Court (in this Order referred to as the Court below) for leave to appeal to the Consul-General.

The applicant shall give security to the satisfaction of the Court below, to an amount not exceeding £100, for prosecution of the appeal, and for payment of all such costs as may be awarded to any respondent by the Consul-General.

He shall also pay into the Court below a sum estimated by that Court to be the amount of the expense of the making-up and transmission to the Consul-General of the record.

If security and payment are so given and made within fourteen days after application made, then and not otherwise the Court below shall (subject to the provisions of this Order) give leave to appeal.

In any other case the Court below may, if that Court think fit, give leave to appeal on like terms.

In any case the Consul-General may give leave to appeal on such terms as he thinks just.

215. After six months from the date of an order, application for leave to appeal against it shall not be entertained by the Court below.

After twelve months from the date of an order, application for leave to appeal against it shall not be entertained by the Consul-General.

216. Where leave to appeal is applied for by a person ordered to pay money, or do any other act, the Court below shall direct either that the decision to be appealed from be carried into execution, or that the execution thereof be suspended pending the appeal, as that Court thinks just.

If the Court directs the decision to be carried into execution, the person in whose favour it is given shall, before the execution of it, give security to the satisfaction of the Court for performance of such order as shall be made on appeal.

If the Court directs the execution of the decision to be suspended, the person against whom it is given shall, before an order for suspension is made, give security to the satisfaction of the Court for performance of such order as shall be made on appeal.

217. An appeal shall not lie from an order made without notice.

If any person thinks himself aggrieved by an order so made, he may apply to the Court below to vary or discharge it, and an appeal lies from the decision on that application.

218. An appeal from an order made at the hearing of a suit shall be made by petition.

Other appeals shall be made by motion.

2.—APPEALS BY PETITION.

219. In case of an appeal by petition, the appellant shall file his petition of appeal in the Court below within fourteen days after leave to appeal is given.

220. The petition shall contain an exposition of the appellant's case as supported by evidence already before the Court and by the record as it stands.

It shall set forth the grounds of appeal and the particulars in which the order appealed from is considered by the appellant to be erroneous or defective, and shall pray that the order may be reversed or varied, and that the Consul-General may make the particular order to which, on the record and evidence as it stands, the appellant conceives himself entitled, or such other order as the Court shall think just.

It may contain any matter by way of argument in support of the appeal.

The petition of appeal shall be served on such persons as respondents as the Court below directs.

221. A respondent may, within fourteen days after service, file in the Court below an answer to the petition, including petition of cross appeal.

The answer shall contain an exposition of his case as supported by the evidence already before the Court and by the record as it stands.

It may contain any matter by way of argument against the appeal, or in support of the cross appeal.

Copies of the answer shall be furnished by the Court below to such persons as the Court of Appeal thinks fit.

222. An objection to an appeal as being out of time, or on any ground other than on the merits, shall be substantially raised by the party desiring to rely thereon in and by his answer.

Where an answer is not filed, or such an objection is not raised in the answer, no such objection shall be admitted at the hearing of the appeal.

But the absence of an answer shall not preclude any person interested in supporting the order from supporting it on the merits at the hearing of the appeal.

223. On the expiration of the time for answering, the Court below shall, without receiving any further pleading in appeal, and without the application of any party, make up the record of appeal, which shall consist of the petition, answer, orders, and proceedings, a certified copy of all written and documentry evidence admitted or tendered, and the notes of the oral evidence, the petition of appeal, and the answer.

The several pieces shall be fastened together, consecutively numbered, and the whole shall be secured by the seal of the Court below, and be forthwith forwarded by that Court to the Consul-General.

The Court below shall not, except for some special cause, take on itself the responsibility of the charge or of the transmission to the Consul-General of original letters or documents produced in evidence. They shall be returned to the parties producing them, and they shall produce the originals if required by the Consul-General, at or before the hearing of the appeal.

224. After the record of appeal is transmitted, until the appeal is disposed of, the Consul-General shall be in possession of the whole suit as between the parties to the appeal.

Every application in the suit shall be made to the Consul-General, and not to the Court below, but any application may be made through the Court below.

225. The Consul-General shall, after receiving the record of appeal, fix a day for the hearing thereof, and shall give notice thereof through the Court below to the parties to the appeal, such a day being fixed as will allow of the parties attending in person, or by counsel or attorney, if they so desire.

But if all the several parties to an appeal appear in person, or appoint persons there to represent them as their counsel or attorneys in the appeal, and cause the appearance or appointment to be notified to the Consul-General, the Court shall dispose of the appeal without giving notice through the Court below of the day fixed for the hearing thereof.

226. The Consul-General may, if he thinks fit, require a party to an appeal to appear personally on the hearing of the appeal, or on any occasion pending the appeal.

227. It is not open, as of right, to a party to an appeal to adduce new evidence in support of his original case, but a party may allege any facts essential to the issue that have come to his knowledge after the decision of the Court below, and may adduce evidence in support of his allegations.

The Consul-General may allow or require new evidence to be adduced.

228. The Consul-General may, from time to time, make any order necessary for determining the real question in controversy in the appeal, and for that purpose may amend any defect or error in the record of appeal.

The Consul-General may direct the Court below to inquire into and certify its finding on any question which he thinks fit to determine before final judgment in the appeal.

Generally, the Consul-General shall have as full jurisdiction over the whole suit as if it had been originally instituted and prosecuted before him, and may re-hear the whole case, or may remit it to the Court below to be re-heard, or to be otherwise dealt with as he directs.

3.—APPEALS BY MOTION.

229. In case of an appeal by motion, the appellant shall file his appeal motion-paper in the Court below within seven days after leave to appeal is given.

He may at the same time file any argument which he desires to submit to the Consul-General in support of the appeal.

The motion-paper and the argument (if any) shall be served on such persons as respondents as the Court below directs.

A respondent may, within seven days after service, file in the Court below such argument as he desires to submit to the Consul-General against the appeal.

Copies thereof shall be furnished by the Court below to such persons as the Consul-General directs.

On the expiration of the time for the respondent filing his argument, the Court below shall make up the record of appeal as nearly as may be as on an appeal by petition.

Where a party to the appeal notifies his desire to attend in person, or by counsel or attorney, when the motion is being disposed of, he shall be at liberty to do so, and the Court shall hear him, or his counsel or attorney, before disposing of the motion.

X.—APPEAL TO HER MAJESTY IN COUNCIL.

230. Where in a civil suit or proceeding a final order of the Consul-General, or a rule or order having the effect of a final or definitive judgment, decree or sentence—

(i) is made or given in respect of a sum of £500 or upwards; or

(ii) determines, directly or indirectly, a claim or question respecting money, goods, or other property, or any civil right or other matter at issue, of the amount or value of £500 or upwards, any party aggrieved thereby may, within fifteen days after the same is made or given, apply by motion to the Consul-General for leave to appeal to Her Majesty the Queen in Council.

The applicant shall give security to the satisfaction of the Consul-General to an amount not exceeding £500 for the prosecution of the appeal, and for payment of all such costs as may be awarded to any respondent by Her Majesty in Council, or by the Lords of the Judicial Committee of Her Majesty's Privy Council.

He shall also pay a sum estimated to be the amount of the expense of the making-up and transmission to England of the transcript of the record.

If security and payment are so given and made within one month from the filing of the motion-paper for leave to appeal, then, and not otherwise, the Consul-General shall give leave to appeal, and the appellant shall be at liberty to prefer and prosecute his appeal to Her Majesty in Council according to the rules for the time being in force respecting appeals to Her Majesty in Council from Her Colonies, or such other rules as Her Majesty in Council from time to time thinks fit to make concerning appeals.

In any case the Consul-General, if he considers it just or expedient to do so, may give leave to appeal on the terms and in the manner aforesaid.

231. Where leave to appeal is applied for by a person ordered to pay money, or do any other act, the Consul-General shall direct either that the order appealed from be carried into execution, or that the execution thereof be suspended pending the appeal, as he thinks just.

If he directs the order to be carried into execution, the person in whose favour it is made shall, before the execution of it, give security for performance of such order as Her Majesty in Council may think fit to make.

If the execution of the order is directed to be suspended, the party against whom it was made shall, before an order for suspension is made, give security for performance of such order as Her Majesty in Council may think fit to make.

232. This Order shall not affect the right of Her Majesty at any time on the humble petition of a person aggrieved by a decision of the Consul-General, to admit his appeal thereon on such terms and in such manner as Her Majesty in Council may think fit, and to deal with the decision appealed from in such manner as may be just.

XI.—CRIMINAL AUTHORITY AND PROCEDURE.

1.—GENERAL PROVISIONS.

233. Except as regards offences against any Treaties between Her Majesty the Queen and Persia, or against any Rules and Regulations for the observance thereof, or for the maintenance of order among British subjects in Persia, made by or under the authority of Her Majesty, or against any of the provisions of this Order—

Any act done by a British subject in Persia that would not by a Court of Justice having criminal jurisdiction in England, be deemed a crime or offence making the person doing the act amenable to punishment in England, shall not, in the exercise of criminal jurisdiction under this Order, be deemed a crime or offence making the person doing the act amenable to punishment.

234. If a British subject is guilty—

(i) of publicly deriding, mocking, or insulting any religion established or observed within Persia; or

(ii) of publicly offering insult to any religious service, feast, or ceremony established or kept in any part of Persia, or to any place of worship, tomb, or sanctuary belonging to any religion established or observed there, or belonging to the ministers or professors thereof; or

(iii) of publicly and wilfully committing any act tending to bring any religion established or observed within Persia, or its ceremonies, mode of worship, or observances, into hatred, ridicule, or contempt, and thereby to provoke a breach of the public peace, he shall be deemed guilty of an offence against this Order, and shall for every such offence be liable, in the discretion of the Court, to imprisodment for not more than two years, with or without hard labour, and with or without a fine of not more than 100*l*., or to a fine of not more than 100*l*. alone.

Notwithstanding anything in this Order, every charge against a British subject of having committed an offence under this provision shall be heard and determined by summary trial; and any Provincial Court shall have power to impose the punishment aforesaid.

Consular officers shall take such precautionary measures as seem to them proper and expedient for the prevention of such offences.

235. Every Court shall have authority to cause to be apprehended and brought before it any British subject being within the district of the Court and charged with having committed a crime or offence within Persia, and to deal with the accused according to the jurisdiction of the Court and in conformity with the provisions of this Order.

236. Where a British subject charged with a crime or offence escapes or removes from the Consular district within which the crime or offence was committed and is found within another Consular district, the Court within whose district he is found may proceed in the case to examination, trial on indictment, and punishment, or to summary trial (as the case may require), in like manner as if the crime or offence had been committed in its own district; or may, on the requisition or with the consent of the Court within whose district the crime or offence was committed, send him in custody to that Court, or require him to give security for his surrender to that Court, there to answer the charge and to be dealt with according to law.

Where any person is to be so sent in custody, a warrant shall be issued by the Court within whose district he is found, and that warrant shall be sufficient authority to any person to whom it is directed to receive and detain the person therein named, and to carry him to and deliver him up to the Court within whose district the crime or offence was committed, according to the warrant.

237. Where a warrant or order of arrest is issued by a competent authority within the limits of the Persian coast for the apprehension of a British subject who is accused of having committed a crime or offence within the jurisdiction of the authority issuing the warrant or order, and who is, or is supposed to be, in Persia, and the warrant or order is produced to the Court, the Court may back the warrant or order, and the same, when so backed, shall be sufficient authority to any person to whom it was originally directed, and also to any constable or any other officer of the Court by which it is backed, to apprehend the accused at any place in Persia where the Court backing the warrant or order has jurisdiction, and to carry him to and deliver him up within the limits of the Persian coast, according to the warrant or order.

238. Where a person is charged with the commission of a crime or offence the cognizance whereof appertains to the Court, and it is expedient that the crime or offence be inquired of, tried, determined, and punished within Her Majesty's dominions elsewhere than in England, the accused may (under "The Foreign Jurisdiction Act," sec. 4) be sent for trial, as follows, namely, with respect to native Indian subjects, to Bombay; and with respect to other British subjects, to Malta, or in the case of a native of, or person domiciled in, Cyprus, to Cyprus.

The Consul-General may, where it appears so expedient, by warrant under his hand and seal, cause the accused to be sent for trial to Bombay or to Malta or Cyprus (as the case may require) accordingly.

The warrant shall be sufficient authority to any person to whom it is directed to receive and detain the person therein named, and to carry him to and deliver him up to Bombay or to Malta or Cyprus (as the case may be), according to the warrant.

Where any person is to be so sent to Bombay or to Malta or Cyprus, the Court before which he is charged shall take the preliminary examination, and shall bind over such of the proper witnesses as are British subjects in their own recognizances to appear and give evidence on the trial.

2.—COURT OF THE CONSUL-GENERAL.

239. All crimes which in England are capital shall, subject to the provisions of this Order, be tried by the Consul-General, with an Assessor or Assessors.

The Consul-General shall have an original jurisdiction to try all other crimes and offences. Where penal servitude or imprisonment for more than one year can be inflicted, the Consul-General shall, if practicable, try the case with an Assessor or Assessors.

240. The Consul-General may impose the punishment of imprisonment for not more than five years, with or without hard labour, and with or without a fine of not more than 500*l*., or the punishment of a fine alone of not more than 500*l*.

241. Where an accused person is convicted of murder, the proper officer of the Court shall, in open Court, require the offender to state if he has anything to say why judgment of death should not be recorded against him.

If the offender does not allege anything that would be sufficient in law to prevent judgment of death if the offence and trial had been committed and had in England, the Court may order that judgment of death be entered on record.

Thereupon the proper officer shall enter judgment of death on record against the offender, as if judgment of death had been actually pronounced on him in open Court.

The Court shall forthwith report the case, with the minutes and notes of evidence, to the Secretary of State, for his direction respecting the punishment to be actually imposed.

The punishment actually imposed in Persia shall not in any case exceed the measure of imprisonment and fine which the Consul-General is empowered by this Order to impose.

3.—PROVINCIAL COURTS.

242. Where the crime or offence with which a person is charged before a Provincial Court is any crime or offence other than assault endangering life, cutting, maiming, arson, or housebreaking, and appears to the Court to be such that, if proved, it would be adequately punished by imprisonment, with or without hard labour, for not more than three months, or by a fine of not more than 20*l*., the Court shall hear and determine the case by summary trial and without Assessors.

In other cases the Court shall, subject to the provisions of this Order, hear and determine the case on indictment and with Assessors.

The Court may impose the punishment of imprisonment for not more than twelve months, with or without hard labour and with or without a fine of not more than 50*l*., or the punishment of a fine alone of not more than 50*l*.

243. In any case pending, the Consul-General may, on application of either party, order that the case be sent up to him, to be heard and determined by him, and the case shall be so heard and determined accordingly.

244. Where the crime or offence with which an accused person is charged before a Provincial Court appears to the Court to be such that, if proved, it would not be adequately punished by such punishment as the Court has power to impose, and the accused is not to be sent for trial to a British possession, the Court shall reserve the case to be heard and determined by or under the direction of the Consul-General.

The Court shall take the depositions, and forthwith send them, with a minute of other evidence, if any, and a report on the case, to the Consul-General.

The Consul-General shall direct in what mode and where, consistently with the provisions of this Order, the case shall be heard and determined, and the same shall be so heard and determined accordingly.

4.—PRELIMINARY PROCEDURE.

245. In every case, whether the charge is or is not such as must or may be heard and determined by summary trial, the Court shall proceed, if the accused is not already in custody, either by way of summons to him, or by way of warrant for his apprehension in the first instance, according to the nature and circumstances of the case.

For the issuing of a summons the charge need not be put in writing or be sworn to unless the Court so directs.

The person effecting service shall attend at the time and place mentioned in the summons to prove service.

Notwithstanding the issuing of a summons, a warrant may be issued at any time before or after the time appointed in the summons for the appearance of the accused.

A warrant shall not be issued in the first instance unless the charge is in writing on the oath of the person laying the charge or of some witness.

If a person summoned does not obey the summons, the Court may (after proof of service of the summons) issue a warrant for his apprehension.

A warrant need not be made returnable at any particular time, but may remain in force until executed.

It may be executed by the apprehension of the accused at any place within the particular jurisdiction, and in case of fresh pursuit it may be executed at any place in another Consular district, without application to the Court for that district.

246. Where it is proved that in fact or according to reasonable suspicion anything on, by, or in respect of which a crime or offence cognizable by the Court has been committed is in a house or place of a British subject, the Court may, by warrant (called a search-warrant), authorise an officer of the Court therein named to search the house or place (which shall be named or described in the order), and if anything searched for be found, to seize it, and apprehend the occupier of the house or place.

A general search-warrant shall not be granted.

The officer named in the warrant shall alone execute it, but he may be accompanied by any persons necessary to assist him.

If the house or place is closed, and the officer is denied admission, after demanding admission and disclosing his authority and the object of his visit, it may be forced open.

Where there is suspicion only, the warrant shall so state, and then it shall be executed in the day-time; otherwise it may be executed in the night-time.

247. A search-warrant, or a warrant for apprehension or commitment, or other purpose, may be issued and executed on Sunday, where the urgency of the case so requires.

248. The Court may order a person convicted before it, by summary trial or on indictment, to pay all or any specified part of the expenses of his prosecution, or of his imprisonment or other punishment, or of both.

Where it appears to the Court that a charge is malicious, or frivolous and vexatious, the Court may order the prosecutor to pay all or any specified part of the expenses of the prosecution.

In these respective cases the Court may order that the whole, or such portion as the Court thinks fit, of the expenses so paid be paid over to the prosecutor or to the accused (as the case may be).

In all cases the reasons of the Court for making or refusing any such order shall be recorded in the minutes.

249. The Court may, if it thinks fit, order a person convicted before it, by summary trial or on indictment, of an assault, to pay to the person assaulted, by way of damages, a sum not exceeding £10.

Damages so ordered to be paid may be either in addition to or in lieu of a penalty, and shall be recoverable in like manner as a penalty.

5.—SUMMARY TRIAL.

250. The following provisions, under the head of Summary Trial, apply exclusively to cases where the charge is heard and determined by summary trial.

251. Where the accused comes before the Court on summons, or warrant, or otherwise, either originally or on adjournment, then, if the prosecutor, having had notice of time and place appointed for the hearing or adjourned hearing of the charge, does not appear, the Court shall dismiss the charge, unless for some reason, recorded in the minutes, it thinks fit to adjourn or further adjourn the hearing.

If both parties appear, the Court shall proceed to hear and finally determine the charge.

252. The room or place in which the Court sits to hear and determine the charge is an open and public Court, and the public generally may have access thereto as far as it can conveniently contain them.

253. The substance of the charge shall be stated to the accused, and he shall be asked if he admits or denies the truth of the charge.

If he admits the truth of the charge, the Court may convict him thereof.

If he denies the truth of the charge, the Court shall proceed to hear the prosecutor and his witnesses and other evidence.

At the close of the prosecutor's evidence, if it appears to the Court that the case is made out against the accused sufficiently to require him to make a defence, the Court shall ask him if he wishes to say anything in answer to the charge, or has any witnesses to examine or other evidence to adduce in his defence; and the Court shall then hear the accused and his witnesses and other evidence, if any.

254. The prosecutor shall be at liberty to conduct the charge, and to have witnesses examined and cross-examined by counsel or attorney on his behalf.

255. The accused shall be at liberty to make his full answer and defence to the charge, and to have witnesses examined and cross-examined by counsel or attorney on his behalf, and if he does not employ counsel or attorney the Court shall, at the close of the examination of each witness for the prosecution, ask the accused whether he wishes to put any questions to that witness.

If he puts any question to a witness, that witness may be re-examined by or on behalf of the prosecutor.

256. If the accused adduces in his defence any evidence other than evidence to character, the prosecutor may, if the Court thinks fit, adduce evidence in reply.

But the prosecutor shall not in any case be allowed to make any observations by way of reply to the evidence adduced by the accused, nor shall the accused in any case be allowed to make any observations on evidence adduced by the prosecutor in reply.

257. A variance between the charge and the evidence adduced in support of it with respect to the time at which the alleged crime or offence was committed shall not be deemed material, if it is proved that the charge was in fact made within the time (if any) limited by law for the making thereof.

But if any variance between the charge and the evidence appears to the Court to be such that the accused has been thereby deceived or misled, the Court may adjourn the hearing.

258. At any time before or during the hearing of the charge the Court may, if it thinks fit, for reasons recorded in the minutes, adjourn the hearing.

An adjournment ordered for any cause shall be made to a certain time and place, appointed and stated at the time of adjournment in the presence and hearing of the parties or their respective counsel or attorneys.

During an adjournment the Court may, in its discretion, according to the nature and circumstances of each case, either suffer the accused to go at large or commit him by warrant to such prison or other place of security, or to such other safe custody, as the Court thinks fit, or may discharge him on his entering into a recognizance, with or without a surety or sureties, at the discretion of the Court, for his appearance at the time and place of adjournment.

If at any time and place of adjournment of a trial which has once begun the accused does not appear, the Court may, if it thinks fit, proceed with the further hearing as if he was present.

259. The Court having heard what each party has to say as aforesaid, and the witnesses, and the evidence adduced, shall consider the whole matter and finally determine the same, and shall either convict the accused or dismiss the charge.

In case of conviction, an order of conviction shall be drawn up in form and shall be preserved among the records of the Court.

In case of dismissal, the Court shall, on the application of the accused, make an order of dismissal, an office copy whereof shall, on being produced, without further proof, be a bar to any subsequent charge against him for the same matter.

260. Where the Court orders money to be paid by a person convicted, or by a prosecutor, for penalty, compensation, expenses, or otherwise, the money may be levied on the goods of the person ordered to pay the same, by distress and sale under warrant.

That person may pay or tender to the officer having the execution of the warrant the sum therein mentioned, with the amount of the expenses of the distress up to the time of payment or tender, and thereupon the officer shall cease to execute the same.

261. If the officer having the execution of the warrant returns that he could find no goods, or not sufficient goods, whereon to levy the money mentioned in the warrant, with expenses, the Court may by warrant commit the person ordered to pay to prison for a time specified in the warrant, unless the money, and all expenses of the distress, commitment, and conveyance to prison, to be specified in the warrant, are sooner paid.

Where it is proved that distress and sale of goods would be ruinous to the person ordered to pay the money and his family, or (by his confession or otherwise) that he has no goods whereon a distress may be levied, then the Court, if it thinks fit, may, instead of issuing a warrant of distress, commit him to prison, with or without hard labour, for a time specified in the warrant, unless the money, and all expenses of the commitment and conveyance to prison, to be specified in the warrant, are sooner paid.

The person committed may pay the sum mentioned in the warrant, with the amount of expenses therein mentioned (if any), to the person in whose custody he is, and that person shall thereupon discharge him, if he is in custody for no other matter.

The commitment, in case of a Provincial Court, shall not be for more than fourteen days, and in any other case shall not be for more than two months.

262. Where a conviction does not order the payment of money, but orders that the offender be imprisoned, the Court shall issue a warrant of commitment accordingly.

6.—TRIAL ON INDICTMENT.

263. The following provisions, under the head of Trial on Indictment, apply exclusively to cases where the charge is not heard and determined by summary trial.

264. Where the accused comes before the Court on summons or warrant, or otherwise, the Court shall, in his presence, take the statements on oath of those who know the facts and circumstances of the case, and put them in writing (called the depositions).

The accused may put questions to each witness produced against him, and the witness's answer thereto shall be part of his deposition.

The deposition of each witness shall be read over to the witness, and shall be signed by him.

265. No objection to a charge, summons, or warrant, for defect in substance or in form, or for variance between it and the evidence for the prosecution, shall be allowed; but if a variance appears to the Court to be such that the accused has been thereby deceived or misled, the Court may on his application adjourn the examination.

266. The Court may by warrant, from time to time, if it thinks fit, on account of the absence of witnesses or for any other reason (recorded in the minutes), remand the accused for a reasonable time, not exceeding eight days, to some prison or other place of security.

Or if the remand is for not more than three days the Court may, by word of mouth, order the officer or person in whose custody the accused is, or any other fit officer or person, to continue or keep the accused in custody and to bring him up at the time appointed for commencement or continuance of the examination.

During remand the Court may, nevertheless, order the accused to be brought before it.

Or the Court may admit the accused to bail on the remand.

267. At the close of the evidence for the prosecution, if the Court considers it not sufficient to put the accused on his trial, the Court shall forthwith order him, if in custody, to be discharged.

268. Otherwise the Court shall (without requiring the attendance of the witnesses) read over to the accused the depositions, and shall then say to him these words:

Having heard the evidence, do you wish to say anything in answer to the charge? You need not say anything unless you wish. You have nothing to hope from any promise of favour, and nothing to fear from any threat, held out to you to induce you to make any admission or confession. Whatever you say will be written down, and may be given in evidence against you.

Whatever the accused then says shall be written down, and shall be read over to him, and shall be kept with the depositions.

269. If the Court considers the evidence sufficient to put the accused on his trial, the Court shall order that he be tried on indictment, and shall until the trial either admit him to bail or send him to prison for safe keeping.

270. Where the accused is charged with—

Felony;
Assault with intent to commit felony;
Attempt to commit felony;
Obtaining or attempting to obtain property by false pretences;
Receiving stolen property or property obtained by false pretences;
Perjury, or subordination of perjury;
Concealing the birth of a child by secret burying or otherwise;
Indecent exposure of the person;
Riot;

Assault on a constable or officer of the Court in the execution of his duty, or on any person acting in his aid;

Neglect or breach of duty as a constable or officer of the Court, the Court may, if it thinks fit, admit him to bail.

Where he is charged with an indictable misdemeanour, not before in this provision specified, the Court shall admit him to bail, unless the Court sees good reason to the contrary (recorded in the minutes).

If he is charged with murder or treason, he shall not be admitted to bail except by the Consul-General.

The Consul-General may, if he thinks fit, admit any person to bail, although the Court before which the charge is made has not thought fit to do so.

A person may be admitted to bail at any time after he has been ordered to be tried on indictment.

271. The accused who is to be admitted to bail, either on demand or on or after trial ordered, shall produce such surety or sureties as in the opinion of the Court will be sufficient to insure his personal appearance as and when required, and shall with him or them enter into a recognizance accordingly.

272. The Court shall bind by recognizance the prosecutor and every witness to appear personally at the trial to prosecute, or to prosecute and give evidence, or to give evidence (as the case may be).

If a person refuses to enter into a recognizance the Court may send him to prison, there to remain until after the trial, unless in the meantime he enters into a recognizance.

But if afterwards, from want of sufficient evidence or other cause, the accused is discharged, the Court shall order that the person imprisoned for so refusing be also discharged.

273. The room or place in which the preliminary examination is held is not an open or public Court for that purpose, and the Court may, if it thinks that the ends of justice will be best answered by so doing, order that no persons have access to, or be or remain in, that room or place without the express permission of the Court.

274. A person who has been ordered to be tried on indictment shall be entitled to have a copy of the depositions, on payment of a reasonable sum, not exceeding 6*d*. for every 100 words, or, if the Court thinks fit, without payment.

The Court shall, at the time of ordering the trial, inform him of the effect of this provision.

275. The written charge (if any), the depositions, the statement of the accused, the recognizances of prosecutor and witnesses, and the recognizances of bail (if any), shall be carefully transmitted in proper time to the Court before which the trial is to be held.

276. The Consul-General shall, when required by the Secretary of State, send to him a report of the sentence of the Consul-General in any case tried on indictment, with a copy of the minutes and notes of evidence, and with any observations which the Consul-General thinks fit to make.

The Provincial Court shall forthwith send to the Consul-General a report of the sentence of the Court in every case tried on indictment, with a copy of the minutes and notes of evidence, and with any observations which the Court thinks fit to make.

7.—APPEAL ON LAW TO CONSUL-GENERAL.

277. Where a person is convicted, either by summary trial or on indictment, before a Court other than the Consul-General (in this provision referred to as the Court below)—

(i) if he considers the conviction erroneous in law, then on his application (unless it appears merely frivolous, when it may be refused); or the Court below shall state a case, setting out the facts and the ground of the conviction, and the question of law, and send it to the Consul-General.

(ii) if the Court below thinks fit to reserve for consideration of the Consul-General any question of law arising on the trial,

Thereupon the Court below shall, as it thinks fit, either postpone judgment on the conviction, or respite execution of the judgment and either commit the person convicted to prison, or take security for him to appear personally and receive judgment or to deliver himself for execution of the judgment (as the case may require) at an appointed time and place.

The Consul-General shall hear and finally determine the matter and thereupon shall reverse, affirm, or amend the judgment given, or set it aside, and order an entry to be made in the minutes that in the judgment of the Consul-General the person ought not to have been convicted, or order judgment to be given at a subsequent sitting of the Court below; or make such other order as the Consul-General thinks just, and shall also give all necessary and proper consequential directions.

The judgment of the Consul-General shall be delivered in open Court, after the public hearing of any argument offered on behalf of the prosecution or of the person convicted.

8.—PUNISHMENT.

278. The Consul-General may, if he thinks fit, by warrant under his hand and seal, cause an offender convicted before any Court, and sentenced to imprisonment, to be sent to and imprisoned at any place in Persia, approved for that purpose by the Secretary of State.

The warrant shall be sufficient authority to any person to whom it is directed to receive and detain the person therein named, and to carry him to and deliver him up at the place named, according to the warrant.

279. Where an offender convicted before any Court is sentenced to imprisonment, and it appears to the Consul-General expedient that the sentence be carried into effect within Her Majesty's dominions, the offender may (under the Foreign Jurisdiction Act, section 5) be sent for imprisonment as follows, namely, with respect to native Indian subjects to Bombay, and with respect to other persons, to Malta or Gibraltar.

The Consul-General may, by warrant under his hand and seal, cause the offender to be sent to Bombay or to Malta or Gibraltar (as the case may require), in order that the sentence may be there carried into effect accordingly.

The warrant shall be sufficient authority to any porson to whom it is directed to receive and detain the person therein named, and to carry him to and deliver him up at the place named, according to the warrant.

280. The Consul-General may, if he thinks fit, report to the Secretary of State recommending a mitigation or remission of any punishment awarded by any Court; and thereupon the punishment may be mitigated or remitted.

But such a recommendation shall not be made with respect to a punishment awarded by a Court other than the Consul-General, except on a recommendation of that other Court, or on the dissent of the Assessors or Assessor, if any, from the conviction or from the amount of punishment awarded.

9.—DEPORTATION OF OFFENDERS.

281.—(i) Where it is proved that there is reasonable ground to apprehend that a British subject is about to commit a breach of the public peace, or that the acts or conduct of a British subject are or is likely to produce or excite a breach of the public peace, the Court may, if it thinks fit (for reasons recorded in the minutes), cause him to be brought before it and require him to give security, to the satisfaction of the Court, to keep the peace, or for his future good behaviour, as the case may require.

(ii) Where a British subject is convicted of a crime or offence before the Court, or before a Court in the sentence of which one of Her Majesty's Consular officers concurs, the Court for the district in which he is, may, if it thinks fit, require him to give security to the satisfaction of the Court for his future good behaviour, and for that purpose may (if need be) cause him to be brought before the Court.

In either of these cases, if the person required to give security fails to do so, the Court may order that he be deported from Persia to any British possession the Government of which consents to receive such person, or failing such consent, to such place as the Court directs.

The Court shall not, however, without the consent of the person to be deported, direct the deportation of a native Indian subject to any place other than Bombay, or of a native of Malta or of any of its dependencies to any other place than Malta, or of a native of Gibraltar to any place other than Gibraltar, or of a person not being a native Indian subject and being a native of any part of Her Majesty's dominions other than Malta, its dependencies, or Gibraltar, to any place other than England, or a British possession the Government of which consents to receive such person.

A Court, other than the Consul-General, shall report to the Consul-General any order of deportation made by it, and the grounds thereof, before the order is executed. The Consul-General may reverse the order, or may confirm it with or without variation, and in case of confirmation shall direct it to be carried into effect.

The person to be deported shall be detained in custody until a fit opportunity for his deportation occurs.

He shall, as soon as is practicable—and in the case of a person convicted, either after execution of the sentence or while it is in course of execution—be embarked in custody, under the warrant of the Consul-General, on board one of Her Majesty's vessels of war, or, if there is no such vessel available, then on board any British or other fit vessel bound to the place of deportation.

The warrant shall be sufficient authority to the commander or master of the vessel to receive and detain the person therein named, and to carry him to and deliver him up at the place named, according to the warrant.

Where a warrant of deportation provides for further deportation from the place to which the person is first deported to some other place, the person shall, on his arrival at such first mentioned place, be delivered with the warrant into the custody of the Chief Magistrate or Officer of police at that place, who shall detain him, and shall forthwith report the case to the Governor or person administering the Government at that place, who shall either cause him to be further deported, with and in accordance with the warrant, and in the meantime to be detained in custody for any necessary period not exceeding three months, or, if the circumstances of the case appear to render his discharge expedient, shall discharge him from custody.

The Court may order the person to be deported to pay all or any part of the expenses of his deportation. Subject thereto, the expenses of deportation shall be defrayed in such manner as the Secretary of State, with the concurrence of the Commissioners of the Treasury, from time to time directs.

The Consul-General shall forthwith report to the Secretary of State any order of deportation made or confirmed by him, and the grounds thereof.

If any person deported under this or any former order returns to Persia without permission in writing of the Secretary of State (which permission the Secretary of State may give), he shall be deemed guilty of an offence against this Order, and shall, for every such offence, be liable to imprisonment for not more than one month, with or without hard labur, and with or without a fine of not more than 10*l*., or to a fine of not more than 20*l*., alone; and he shall also be liable to be forthwith again deported, and shall not be again entitled to registration under this Order.

XII.—MISCELLANEOUS.

282. If any person subject to the criminal jurisdiction of a Court does any of the following things, namely—

(1) wilfully by act or threat obstructs any officer of, or person executing any process of the Court in the performance of his duty; or

(2) within or close to the room or place where the Court is sitting, wilfully misbehaves in a violent, threatening, or disrespectful manner to the disturbance of the Court, or to the intimidation of suitors or others resorting thereto; or

(3) wilfully insults any member of the Court, or any Assessor, or any person acting as a clerk or officer of the Court during his sitting or attendance in Court, or in his going to or returning from Court; or

(4) does any act in relation to the Court or a Judge thereof, or a matter pending therein, which, if done in relation to a Superior Court in England, would be punishable as a contempt of such Court, or as a libel on such Court, or the Judges thereof, or the administration of justice therein, such person shall be liable to be apprehended by order of the Court, with or without warrant, and on inquiry and consideration, and after the hearing of any defence which such person may offer, without further process or trial, to be punished with a fine not exceeding 5*l.*, or with imprisonment not exceeding twenty-four hours.

A minute shall be made and kept of every such case of punishment, recording the facts of the offence, and the extent of the punishment, and a copy of the minute shall be forthwith sent to the Secretary of State.

Provided that, if the Court thinks fit, instead of proceeding under the preceding provisions, it may direct or cause the offender to be tried in a separate criminal prosecution or proceeding, in which the offender shall be liable to be tried and punished for his offence as an offence against this Order.

Nothing herein shall interfere with the power of the Court to remove or exclude a person who interrupts or obstructs the business of the Court.

283. If any person subject to the criminal jurisdiction of a Court does any act or makes any publication of such kind, and under such circumstances that, in the opinion of the Court, great danger to public order is thereby occasioned, the Court shall have the same powers as it has in relation to apprehended breaches of the peace.

284. Where any act or omission is, by virtue of this Order, or of any regulation made under this Order, an offence against this Order, and no penalty or punishment is specified in respect thereof, such offence shall be punishable with imprisonment for not exceeding three months, or fine not exceeding 100*l.*, or both.

285. 291. A Court shall have jurisdiction to make an order requiring a British subject to contribute in such manner as the Court directs to the support of his wife or child, whether legitimate or not, being in the opinion of the Court under the age of 16 years. Any such order may be made in a summary way as if the neglect to provide for the support of such wife or child were an offence against this Order, and a failure to comply with any such order shall be deemed to be an offence against this Order, and shall be punishable accordingly, and the Court may direct any penalty imposed for such offence to be applied for the support of such wife or child in such manner as the Court thinks fit.

(2) That a prosecution by or on behalf of a prosecutor who is not a British subject shall not be entertained without the consent in writing of the Consul-General, who may withhold such consent, unless he is satisfied that effectual provision exists for the punishment in Consular or other Courts of similar acts committed by the subjects of the State or Power of which such prosecutor is a subject, in relation to or affecting the interests of British subjects.

293. Where, by virtue of any Imperial Act, of this Order, or otherwise, any provisions of any Imperial Acts, or of any Law, or of any Orders in Council other than this Order, are applicable under this Order, or any form, Regulation, procedure, prescribed or established under any such Act or Law, are, or is, so applicable, the same shall be deemed applicable so far only as the constitution and jurisdiction of the Courts acting under this Order and the local circumstances permit, and for the purposes of facilitating application may be construed or used, with such alterations and adaptations as may be necessary, and anything required to be done by or to any Court, Judge, officer, or authority may be done by or to a Court, Judge, officer, or authority having the like or analogous functions, or by any officer designated by a Secretary of State, or by the Court (as the case may require) for that purpose, and the seal of the Court may be substituted for any other seal: and in case any difficulty occurs in the application, it shall be lawful for a Secretary of State to direct by, and to whom, and in what manner, anything is to be done, and such Act, Law, order, form, Regulation, or procedure shall be construed accordingly.

296. A person attending to give evidence before the Court shall not be compelled or allowed to give any evidence or produce any documents if, in the opinion of the principal Consular officer having authority in the district in which the Court is held, signified by him personally or in writing to the Court, the giving or production thereof would be injurious to Her Majesty's service.

297. Whenever an acting Consular officer has commenced the hearing of any cause or matter, civil or criminal, he may, unless the Consular officer otherwise directs, continue and complete the hearing and determination thereof, notwithstanding that his authority to act as such Consular officer has otherwise ceased by reason of the expiration of the time for which he was appointed to act, or by reason of the happening of any event by which his authority is determined.

(4) Proof shall not in any proceeding or matter be required that the provisions of this Article have been complied with, nor shall any act or proceeding be invalidated by any failure to comply with any of such provisions.

299. A copy of this Order shall be kept exhibited conspicuously in each Consular Court.

Printed copies shall be provided and sold at such reasonable price as a Consular officer, subject to any direction of a Secretary of State, may fix.

,, ,, letter No. 900-M. W., dated 17th April 1890.

RESOLUTION.—The attention of the Government of India had for some time been drawn to the question of reducing the amount of office work required from executive officers, and thereby enabling them to devote a greater portion of their time to the practical duties of their profession, which lie to a great extent out of doors, and of throwing such accounts as could not be dispensed with, into a shape that should be as far as possible simple and intelligible to the officers who had to render them. In order to carry out these objects, the Government of India, by resolution No. 374-A. G., dated the 22nd October 1888, deputed the following officers of the Public Works Department to constitute a Committee to enquire into the system of accounts in force in the Buildings and Roads and Irrigation Branches of the Department.

President:

Mr. R. G. Macdonald, Deputy Accountant General.

Members:

Lieutenant-Colonel E. Harvey, R.E., Executive Engineer, 1st Grade.

Mr. R. A. Cordner, Executive Engineer, 1st Grade.

2. In the resolution quoted, instructions were issued for the guidance of the Committee, in accordance with which they held sittings and examined witnesses in various parts of the country. The conclusions arrived at were embodied in a report which was submitted to Government with the President's letter No. 65, dated the 18th July 1889.

3. Summarising in the briefest manner the result of the Committee's deliberations as expressed in the report, it appears that it was found that there was a general consensus of opinion among the executive officers of the Department that the accounts which they were required to submit were over-elaborated; that there were numerous cases in which, in system or in details, forms and procedure could be simplified and account work lessened, without the loss of any really useful check or valuable record and while maintaining that strict control over expenditure which is essential in the case of a large expending department like the Public Works; that a system of check and counter-check was carried out to an annoying extent; and that the Examiner's province had in certain cases been extended beyond the necessary requirements of account and audit.

4. In the circulars and letters quoted at the head of this resolution, action has been taken on most of the recommendations of the Committee: the decision in regard to a few others, which do not appear to require separate resolutions, will be found in paragraph 6 below.

5. The principal recommendations of the Committee which have been accepted by the Government of India are the following:

I. The abolition of audit by sub-heads and the giving of facilities to Superintending Engineers to watch outlay by sub-heads on works in progress.—Circular No. 9-P.W. of 1889.

6. The subjects upon which it has not been thought necessary to issue separate orders are these—

I. Count of Cash, &c., paras. 152-161 of the Report.—The Government of India prefers to adhere to the existing procedure; it is, however, not necessary for the Executive Engineer or Accountant to sign the consolidated receipt.

II. Payments into Treasury, paras. 162-167.—In this case also the Government of India has decided to make no change in the present practice.

III. Rent roll, para. 292.—It is not deemed expedient to relax the monthly watch over outstandings in the manner suggested.

IV. Workshops, paras. 357-366.—A system of accounts for workshops of the Buildings and Roads and Irrigation Branches, will be sketched in the next revision of Vols. I and II of the Code.

7. The cordial thanks of the Government of India are given to Mr. Macdonald, the President of the Committee, and to Colonel Harvey and Mr. Cordner, the officers associated with him, for the thorough and careful way in which they have handled the subject. In the course of their preliminary enquiries they travelled over the whole of India and took a large quantity of evidence bearing on the different reforms suggested from various quarters. Their recommendations are characterized by prudence, by a desire to go no further in the direction of change than can be shown to be distinctly desirable, and by a complete mastery of the subject, and have been for the most part approved by the Government of India. On Mr. Macdonald has also fallen the greater part of the labour of dealing with the report and drawing up the orders and circulars giving effect to the decisions of the Government of India.

No. 137.—The following translation of the Special Regulations of the Ottoman Board of Health applicable to the Mecca Pilgrimage of 1890, received through Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India, is published for general information.

Special Regulations applicable to Mecca Pilgrimage of 1890.

ARTICLE 1.—From the beginning of the month of Redjeb until the end of the month of Zilhidjé (20th February to 16th August), the Lazaretto of Camaran will be open to receive arrivals by sea subject to quarantine.

ARTICLE 2.—During the period of six months above mentioned (Redjeb, Shaban, Ramazan, Shawwál, Zilcadé, Zilhidjé) pilgrim-ships arriving from beyond the Straits of Bab-el-Mandeb, whether their Bill of Health is clean or foul, must go direct to the Island of Camaran without touching at any other port on the Red Sea Coast.

ARTICLE 3.—The expression 'pilgrim-ships' means ships expressly chartered for the conveyance of pilgrims going to Mecca.

ARTICLE 4.—Vessels bound to the Red Sea having on board not more than one pilgrim for every 100 tons of registered tonnage are not included in the definition of pilgrim-ships. Such vessels will be dealt with according to the character of their Bills of Health, conformably to the provisions of the General Regulation of 1867 applicable to vessels coming from cholera-infected places.

ARTICLE 5.—Mail-boats and vessels carrying not more than five pilgrims for every 100 tons register can proceed to Abu-Saad, where they will discharge, subject to quarantine, their pilgrims and merchandise destined for the Hedjaz.

For this purpose, a Lazaretto is established at Abu-Saad as a branch of the Camaran Lazaretto, which will be open to arrivals specified in Articles 4 and 5 of the present Regulation throughout the year.

Merchandise destined for Yemen not susceptible of infection can be landed at Hodeida under the supervision of the Sanitary Authority.

ARTICLE 6.—Arrivals from Egyptian ports, sambouks and other coasters subject to quarantine, proceeding from one port to another of the Red Sea Coast, will also perform quarantine at Abu-Saad.

ARTICLE 7.—Indian or Malayan pilgrims who take the indirect route viá Suez to the Hedjaz will be subjected to quarantine unless they can prove, on their arrival at Jedda, by their passports or other official documents, that they have come from beyond the Suez Canal, or that they have spent at least ten days in Egypt in free pratique and in good health.

ARTICLE 8.—Captains of ships carrying pilgrims are bound to conform strictly to the instructions mentioned below regarding the measurement of pilgrim-ships.

ARTICLE 9.—The embarkation on pilgrim-ships of living animals as well as hides, animal remains, rags of all kinds, coal, petroleum and all other inflammable or explosive material, except such coal and animals as are necessary for the service and provisioning of the ship during the voyage, is strictly prohibited.

ARTICLE 10.—On the arrival of a pilgrim-ship in Camaran Harbour or Abu-Saad, as the case may be, all pilgrims will be disembarked and undergo the usual medical examination. If the health of the ship is good and no suspicious case has occurred on the voyage, the ship and the pilgrims will undergo five full days' quarantine, clothes and effects will be disinfected, the ship will be washed and purified, but the cargo will not be landed nor purified nor taxed.

ARTICLE 11.—Pilgrim-ships which arrive from infected ports, but have had no cholera case during the voyage or after arrival, will undergo (ships and pilgrims) a quarantine of ten days. Merchandise coming from a cholera-infected port will remain on board the ship, if there have been no cholera cases during the voyage or after arrival, but will be exempt from disinfection and from sanitary fees, except in the case of old personal effects and stuffs already used, unwashed wool, old cottons, hair and feathers, raw hides, and other raw animal remains, and rags of all kinds.

ARTICLE 12.—Ships upon which cases of cholera or suspicious cases have occurred during the voyage, or after arrival, will be subjected (ships and pilgrims) to a quarantine of at least fifteen days. This quarantine will be renewed each time a cholera case occurs among crew or passengers after their arrival in the Lazaretto and will date from the day of the last case of sickness. In such cases the provisions of the Regulation of 1867 for Cholera will be strictly applied.

ARTICLE 13.—No pilgrim-ship shall leave finally Camaran without having re-shipped, at the expiration of the quarantine, all the pilgrims brought by her. Vessels which have completed their quarantine without cholera cases or suspected cases among the persons on board will be entitled to free pratique.

ARTICLE 14.—Sambouks coming from beyond Cape Bab-el-Mandeb with pilgrims will be subject to the same rules as vessels specially chartered for pilgrims. They must go direct to the Camaran anchorage, and will be refused admission at all other Arabian ports of the Red Sea.

Vessels coming from Bassora with pilgrims on board, bound for the Hedjaz, will also have to go direct to Camaran, but will be treated according to the tenor of their Bill of Health and the General Regulations of 1867 for Cholera.

The same exceptional treatment is applicable to arrivals from Muscat, Zanzibar, and Bushire, provided such vessels are furnished with a regular Bill of Health indicating a good sanitary condition of the port of departure, and also if they have not touched at any intermediate port in the course of the voyage.

ARTICLE 15.—Every pilgrim-ship which does not conform to the provisions of the present Regulation will be held to have contravened sanitary rules and be liable to extreme measures regarding quarantine.

Read at the Board of Health and approved at the Sitting of the 14th January 1890.

Rules regarding the measurement of Pilgrim-ships, referred to above in Article 8.

1. Only steamers and ships propelled partly by steam and partly by sail are authorised to carry pilgrims on voyages beyond Bab-el-Mandeb or the Suez Canal.

2. The space to be given to each pilgrim, irrespective of age or sex, shall be at least 9 superficial feet and 54 cubic feet between-decks. No passenger shall be accommodated in the ship's hold, and the deck, free of all goods, shall be reserved for the use of the crew and the passengers travelling between-decks.

3. Any ship which can produce an official certificate, furnished by the authority on which it is dependent, proving its capacity with regard to the number of passengers that can be embarked, shall not be liable to a second measurement, except in the event of the size, capacity and arrangements of the ship being found by the Sanitary authority not to be in accord with the number of passengers shown in the certificate.

4. Any ship sailing under the Turkish flag which is unable to produce an official certificate of measurement shall be measured by a competent officer of the Imperial Marine, to be appointed by the local authority, with the assistance of the Sanitary and Medical authority of the port where the ship happens to be: the service rendered by the Sanitary authority in such a case is gratuitous.

As regards ships belonging to a foreign marine and not possessing official certificates of measurement, the Sanitary authority shall give them the opportunity of producing the documents required in communication with their respective Consuls. The Consul can, if he so desires, cause the measurement in question to be made by the competent local authority, in accordance with the requirements of Article 2 above.

5. The Sanitary authority shall refuse to give a Bill of Health to any ship which has embarked pilgrims without the necessary certificate.

Simla, the 12th May, 1890.

No. 2355.—Ordered, that the following be published in the Gazette of India for general information:

REVENUE,
No. 25.

INDIA OFFICE,
London, 27th March, 1890.

To His Excellency the Most Honourable the Governor-General of India in Council.

MY LORD MARQUIS,—I have considered in Council Your Excellency's letter No. 29 (Separate Revenue), dated the 4th February, with enclosures, concerning the Excise Administration in different parts of India. When I forwarded a copy of the Resolution passed by the House of Commons on the 30th April 1889, I expressed my belief that the Government of India and the Local Governments accepted and were carrying out the principles recited in my Despatches, and approved by the House of Commons, for the guidance of all authorities concerned with Excise affairs in India. The full and interesting accounts contained in your present letter, and in the enclosed papers, confirm the view taken in my Despatch of the 16th May 1889. The detailed information now furnished places, in important particulars, a different complexion on some of the matters mentioned during the debate in the House of Commons on the 30th April; and steps have already been taken to procure the presentation of these papers to Parliament.

2. I shall not trouble Your Excellency with a detailed review of all the many topics discussed in your comprehensive letter, which affords valuable evidence of the careful consideration given, both recently and in past times, by the Government of India and by the subordinate Governments to the intricate problems of Indian Excise Administration. I consider these papers demonstrate among other things—

(1) that total prohibition of all traffic in intoxicating spirits and liquors is not possible in India;
(2) that while absolute local option in Excise matters is not feasible, weight can be, should be, and is given to local opinion in regard to licensing liquor shops;
(3) that the only practicable way of repressing intemperance among the drinking classes of India is to restrict opportunities for drinking, and to levy on intoxicants as high a revenue as may be possible without promoting smuggling;
(4) that by reason of the circumstances of the country, and according to actual experience in many parts, illicit dealings in and consumption of liquor occur when vigilance is relaxed, or when restrictions on lawful trade are pressed too far;
(5) that diversities of circumstances and of tastes in the many countries which compose India render differences of practice and of results in the several Provinces unavoidable, even though the same principles are everywhere followed;
(6) that, so far as information is available, the Excise system or practice of Native States is less stringent, and tends less to check intemperance than the system and practice of adjacent British districts with similar inhabitants;
(7) that the increase of the Excise revenue during the past twenty years, though in part due to enhanced consumption caused by the growth of population and by the general increase of earnings, is yet largely, and in some localities mainly, the result of improved Excise administration, which doubled or trebled the rates of liquor duty, and has at the same time restricted the use of illicit intoxicants;
(8) that there has been of late years much reduction in the number of licensed liquor shops, notably in Bengal, where there are now 4,539 licensed spirit shops as compared with 8,937 licensed in the year 1871-72, but that there is room for further reduction in some Provinces;
(9) that the action of Indian public servants in Excise affairs is not warped, and their evidence on such topics is not vitiated by the duty which lies upon them to administer the public revenue to the best advantage on the principles and under the rules laid down for their guidance.

3. I fully accept the general principles stated at the 103rd paragraph of Your Excellency's letter as those which should guide the Local Governments and their revenue officers in administering Excise affairs. I consider that, save under very exceptional circumstances and in strictly limited areas, the central distillery system of Excise management should be preferred to the farming system or the outstill system. The former system provides that all licit spirit shall pay a still-head duty per gallon proportionate to its alcoholic strength, whereas the other two systems permit, if they do not stimulate, the production and sale of large quantities of comparatively cheap spirit, even when effort is made to limit the capacity of stills, and to prescribe a minimum retail price.

4. I am confident that, as I stated in May 1889, Your Excellency's Government and the Local Governments are fully as desirous as I am, or as the House of Commons can be, to prevent the increase of drinking habits and of intemperance among the people of India; and I anticipate that the discussions of the past two years,—even though aspersions, which I believe to be incorrect, have fallen upon Indian Excise arrangements,—will have done good by strengthening the hands of your officers, and of the people themselves, in their efforts to restrict within the narrowest limits the evils that are unhappily inseparable from the popular use of intoxicating liquors and drugs.

I have, &c.,
CROSS.

Estimates and Accounts.

The 16th May, 1890.

Approximate Results of 1889-90 compared with the Revised Estimates.

No. 2395.—The following table shows the variations from the Revised Estimates for 1889-90, which are indicated by the receipts and issues of the treasuries during the month of March. The figures now published are not final, as the receipts and issues of the treasuries are only an imperfect guide in framing a forecast of some of the most important heads of Revenue and Expenditure, and the numerous cross transactions between the disbursing officers of the several Departments cannot be finally settled for some time.—

SURPLUS	1,809,700	2,569,000	+ 759,300

2. The Revised Estimates of the year showed an expected surplus of Rx. 1,809,700. The information now received indicates a net improvement on Imperial Account of Rx. 759,300, giving a surplus of Rx. 2,569,000 for the year. There has been an improvement in the total revenue of Rx. 397,700 and a saving in the total expenditure of Rx. 656,200, or a total improvement of Rx. 1,053,900, of which a sum of Rx. 294,600 represents the addition to the Provincial and Local balances, leaving for the Imperial share, as already stated, Rx. 759,300, by which sum the surplus of the year will be increased. In revenue, almost the whole of the improvement, of which the Imperial share is Rx. 217,200, occurred in India; in expenditure, the saving on Imperial Account is Rx. 542,100, of which Rx. 184,800 occurred in India, £233,600 in England, and Rx. 123,700 in exchange, due mainly to the reduction in sterling expenditure in England.

3. The chief variations have occurred under the following heads of account:

REVENUE.

Land Revenue.—The collections of March have been unusually high, and the improvement over the Estimate is Rx. 174,500. The greater portion of this has been realised in Madras, where the collections have exceeded those of any previous year. The receipts in Burma and Bombay were also larger than expected.

Opium.—About 600 chests of Malwa opium in excess of the Estimate having passed the scales, there has been an improvement of Rx. 43,700 in the revenue under this head.

Salt.—The Revised Estimate has been very nearly realised, the deficiency of Rx. 24,800 being due to a slight falling off in the consumption of Northern India salt.

Stamps and Excise give improvements of Rx. 25,700 and Rx. 53,900. The former occurred chiefly in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh and Madras, and the latter in Burma, Bengal, and Madras.

Under Other Principal Heads of Revenue there is an improvement of Rx. 97,100, of which Rx. 77,400 has occurred under Provincial Rates (chiefly in Bengal and Madras), Rx. 15,500 under Customs (chiefly in Bengal and Bombay), and Rx. 21,600 under Assessed Taxes (chiefly in Bengal). There has been a falling off of Rx. 17,400 under Tributes.

Post Office, Telegraph, and Mint.—The Postal revenue is expected to fall short of the Estimate by Rx. 10,000, and that of the Telegraph Department by Rx. 4,200.

Railways.—The gross earnings of State Railways will probably exceed the Estimate by Rx. 40,700, and the net traffic receipts of Guaranteed Railways by Rx. 47,000.

Irrigation.—The falling off of Rx. 30,000 in the revenue under this head occurs chiefly under Major Works.

EXPENDITURE.

Direct Demands on the Revenues—Civil Departments and Miscellaneous.—The Preliminary Accounts indicate a saving of Rx. 37,100 in the expenditure on opium production, the cause of which is that the payments for produce did not commence as early as was expected. There will also probably be a saving in Marine Expenditure of about Rx. 14,300. In the case of other heads, the issues from the treasuries do not furnish data for framing an accurate forecast of the final results, as large transactions are brought to account in the final adjustments between the Departments. It is however expected that there will be savings of about Rx. 60,000, of which about Rx. 40,000 will be Imperial and Rx. 20,000 Provincial.

Interest.—The payments in India in March on account of interest on Government Securities have fallen short of the Revised Estimate by about Rx. 20,000.

Railway Revenue Account.—There will be an excess of Rx. 11,100 in the payments of surplus profits of Guaranteed Lines, but this excess will probably be more than counterbalanced by savings on other accounts.

Irrigation.—Savings of about Rx. 54,300 are indicated in the estimated expenditure on Minor Works and Navigation.

Buildings and Roads.—A saving of Rx. 154,600 is expected in the expenditure under this group. Of this about Rx. 73,500 will be Imperial and Rx. 81,100 Provincial and Local.

Army.—The Military receipts in India will probably fall short of the estimate, but there is no reason to anticipate that in the case of the expenditure in India there will be much deviation from the estimate. In the English expenditure however there will be a saving of £168,600, and a consequent saving in Exchange of Rx. 80,800. This saving is due almost entirely to the postponement to the current year of a portion of the estimated payment for Military Stores.

Special Defence Works.—The greater portion of the expected saving under this head also has occurred in England, and arises chiefly from smaller payments for stores for works both in India and at Aden than were anticipated when the Revised Estimates were framed.

Secretary to the Government of India.

STATEMENT.

(See section 10.)

After you have served for three years in the military division of the Assam police-force, you may at any time when not on active service apply for your discharge, through the Subadar to whom you may be subordinate, to a Commandant of Military Police, or to the Deputy Commissioner of the district in which you may be serving, and you will be granted your discharge after two months from the date of your application, unless your discharge would cause the vacancies in the military division to exceed one-tenth of the sanctioned strength: in that case you must remain until this objection is waived by competent authority or removed. But when on active service you have no claim to a discharge, and you must remain and do your duty until the necessity for retaining you in the military division ceases, when you may make your application in the manner hereinbefore prescribed. In the event of your re-enlistment after you have been discharged, you will have no claim to reckon for pension or any other purpose your service previous to your discharge.

Signature of police-officer in acknowledgment of the above having been read to him. } A. B.

Signed in my presence after I had ascertained that A. B. understood the purport of what he signed. } C. D., Magistrate or Commandant.

Sir William Field.

Whereas by the Extradition Acts, 1870 and 1873, it was, amongst other things, enacted, that where an arrangement has been made with any foreign State with respect to the surrender to such State of any fugitive criminals, Her Majesty may, by Order in Council, direct that the said Acts shall apply in the case of such foreign State; and that Her Majesty may, by the same or any subsequent Order, limit the operation of the Order, and restrict the same to fugitive criminals who are in or suspected of being in the part of Her Majesty's dominions specified in the Order, and render the operation thereof subject to such conditions, exceptions, and qualifications as may be deemed expedient; and that if, by any law made after the passing of the Act of 1870 by the Legislature of any British possession, provision is made for carrying into effect within such possession the surrender of fugitive criminals who are in or suspected of being in such British possession, Her Majesty may, by the Order in Council applying the said Acts in the case of any foreign State, or by any subsequent Order, suspend the operation within any such British possession of the said Acts, or of any part thereof so far as it relates to such foreign State, and so long as such law continues in force there and no longer:

And whereas by an Act of the Parliament of Canada passed in 1886, and entitled "An Act respecting the Extradition of Fugitive Criminals," provision is made for carrying into effect within the Dominion the surrender of fugitive criminals:

And whereas by an Order of Her Majesty the Queen in Council, dated the seventeenth day of November, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-eight, it was directed that the operation of the Extradition Acts, 1870 and 1873, should be suspended within the Dominion of Canada so long as the provision of the said Act of the Parliament of Canada of 1886 should continue in force and no longer:

And whereas a Convention was concluded on the twelfth day of July, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-nine, between Her Majesty and the United States of America, for the mutual extradition of fugitive criminals, which Convention is in the terms following:

"No person surrendered by either of the High Contracting Parties to the other shall be triable or tried, or be punished for any political crime or offence, or for any act connected therewith, committed previously to his extradition.

"If any question shall arise as to whether a case comes within the provisions of this Article, the decision of the authorities of the Government in whose jurisdiction the fugitive shall be at the time shall be final.

"ARTICLE III.

"No person surrendered by or to either of the High Contracting Parties shall be triable or be tried for any crime or offence committed prior to his extradition, other than the offence for which he was surrendered, until he shall have had an opportunity of returning to the country from which he was surrendered.

Nevertheless, the rights of third parties with regard to the articles aforesaid shall be duly respected.

"ARTICLE V.

"If the individual claimed by one of the two High Contracting Parties, in pursuance of the present Convention, should also be claimed by one or several other Powers on account of crimes or offences committed within their respective jurisdictions, his extradition shall be granted to that State whose demand is first received.

No. 2763.—In exercise of the powers conferred upon him by Act II of 1886, and of all other powers enabling him in this behalf, and in supersession of the Notifications in the Department of Finance and Commerce,—

No. 593, dated the 5th February 1886,
" 674 " " 7th May 1886,
" 2635 " " 19th August 1886,
" 3438 " " 30th September 1886,
" 2373 " " 5th May 1887,
" 4678 " " 31st August 1887, the Governor-General in Council is pleased to make the following rules under the said Act:

1. The time within which amounts deducted from salary, annuity, pension, or gratuity paid by a Local Authority under section 8, sub-section (1), of the Act must be paid to the credit of the Government of India is fixed at one week from the date of payment of the salary, pension, annuity, or gratuity. The payment to the credit of the Government shall be made by remitting the amount to the Collector with a statement giving the following particulars for each person from whom the tax has been realised :

(1) Name.
(2) Period for which the salary, pension, or annuity has been paid.
(3) Amount of salary, pension, annuity, or gratuity paid.
(4) Amount of tax.

2. The return required by section 10 of the Act shall be in Form A hereto appended.

The name of any person who is receiving, at the date of the return prescribed by section 10 of the Act, a salary, pension, or annuity which does not amount to Rs. 300 per annum, or has received during the year ending on that date a gratuity which does not amount to that sum, need not be shown in the return.

3. Any sums, such as payments to regimental mess or band funds or the like, compulsorily stopped from salary by the orders, or with the approval, of the Government, shall be deducted from the salary previous to assessment.

A portion of salary withheld in pursuance of an order of a Court is not a sum compulsorily stopped from salary within the meaning of this rule.

4. When a deduction is made from the amount of salary, pension, or annuity liable to assessment on account of a payment made to a Life Insurance Company, the sum deducted shall, if the premium is payable in sterling, be the actual cost of remittance as stated by the assessee; or, if the assessee is unable to state such actual cost, the equivalent in rupees of the sterling payment calculated at the official rate of exchange for the year in which the deduction is made.

5. A deduction such as is mentioned in the preceding rule must be supported either—

(1) by the original receipt of the Insurance Company; or
(2) (in the case of a deduction claimed by a servant of the Government or of a Local Authority) by a copy of the same presented, together with the original, to the officer who pays the salary, pension, or annuity, and attested by that officer, who should, after such attestation, return the original; or
(3) by a duplicate receipt given by the Insurance Company; or
(4) by a certificate of payment given by the Insurance Company.

In cases (1), (3), and (4), the receipt or certificate should be returned as soon as the fact of payment is admitted in the due course of audit.

Where the Collector is satisfied that none of the above prescribed documents can be produced without an amount of delay, expense, or inconvenience which, under the circumstances of the case, would be unreasonable, he may accept such other proof of payment of the premium as he may deem sufficient.

6. The amounts exempted from the tax by section 5, sub-section (1), clause (g), of the Act, and referred to in rule 4 of these rules, shall not be deducted from income for the purpose of determining whether the income is liable to the tax, or of determining under Part I of the second Schedule of the Act the rate at which the tax shall be levied.

7. The amount to be assessed under section 24, sub-section (1), of the Act on account of a building occupied by the owner thereof shall not in any case exceed 10 per cent. of the aggregate income of the owner derived from all sources. It must not, however, be understood from this that a maximum of 10 per cent. of the aggregate income of the owner is to be assumed in every case as equivalent to the letting-value of his house. The letting-value should in all cases be ascertained on the best data available in view of the circumstances of the locality in which the house is situated.

8. After the close of the year of assessment, each Accountant-General or other auditing officer shall submit Return No. I, in the form hereto appended, to such officer as the Local Government may direct.

9. The certificates referred to in the second column of Part III of the second Schedule of the Act shall be in Form B or in Form C hereto appended.

10. Any claim under section 5, sub-section (1), clause (e), of the Act to exemption from the levy of the tax on the interest of securities employed solely for religious or public charitable purposes within the meaning of that clause must be supported by a certificate from the Collector, which shall be in Form D hereto appended.

11. In the case of securities the interest on which is payable by the Government of India, the amount deducted on account of the tax under section 13, sub-section (1), of the Act shall be paid to the credit of the Government on the same day as the payment of the interest is made.

12. In the case of securities the interest on which is not payable by the Government of India, the amount so deducted shall be paid to the credit of the Government within one week from the date on which interest is paid. The person deducting the amount should pay it to the credit of the Government by remitting the amount to the Collector, with a statement showing the following particulars :

(1) Name of owner.
(2) Description of security.
(3) Number of security.
(4) Date of security.
(5) Amount of security.
(6) Period for which interest is drawn.
(7) Amount of interest.
(8) Amount of tax.

13. After the close of the year of assessment, each Accountant-General and Comptroller shall submit Return No. II, in the form hereto appended, to such officer as the Local Government may direct.

14. In calculating the amount of tax payable, the amount due on a fraction of a rupee shall be neglected. Thus the tax to be realised on a monthly salary of Rs. 166-10-8 is Rs. 4-5-2 only.

15. All public servants are forbidden to make public or disclose, except for the purpose of the working of the Act, any information contained in documents delivered or produced with respect to assessments under Part IV of the second Schedule of the Act, and any public servant committing a breach of this rule shall be deemed to have committed an offence under section 166 of the Indian Penal Code.

All public servants are further enjoined to be most careful to regulate their proceedings as far as practicable in such manner as to prevent information which should be kept secret from becoming known. It should be noted that information of this nature is to be withheld by officers administering the Act from persons in the employment of assessees.

16. Power to make further rules is hereby delegated to the several Local Governments, and no rules already made by Local Governments, under authority given by the Governor-General in Council, shall be deemed to be cancelled by the supersession of any of the notifications quoted in the present Notification.

17. Each Local Government will prescribe forms of registers to be maintained by Collectors and others for the purpose of showing the demand and collections of the tax, the various classes of incomes assessed, and the working of the several provisions of the Act.

18. After the close of the year of assessment, each Local Government will submit to the Government of India in the Finance and Commerce Department a report on the working of the Act.

19. The following returns in the forms hereto appended will be submitted with that report :

PENSIONS AND GRATUITIES.

No. 3122.

The 26th June, 1890.

ORDER—By the Government of India, Finance and Commerce Department.

Read—

Despatch from Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India, No. 3, Financial (Funds), dated the 15th May 1890, and enclosures.

ORDERED, that a copy be published in the Gazette of India for general information, with the remark that, in accordance with the Regulations, the payment of donations on birth of children will cease with effect from the 1st July 1890.

FINANCIAL (FUNDS). INDIA OFFICE,

No. 3. London, 15th May 1890.

To His Excellency the Most Honourable the Governor-General of India in Council.

MY LORD MARQUIS,—I forward herewith, for the information of Your Excellency's Government, a Report and Abstract of Valuation by Mr. Willis Browne, F.I.A., of the Assets and Liabilities under Indian Civil Service Family Pension Regulations as at 30th September 1888.

Indian Civil Service Family Pensions. Valuation as at 30th September 1888.

2. Bearing in mind the limited period which has elapsed since the regulations came into force, and the small number of subscribers contributing for pensions for their families at the date of the valuation, it is impossible to form any trustworthy conclusions as to the financial prospects in connection with the regulations in the future.

3. Mr. Browne is of opinion that the surplus of 3,945*l.* brought out at the date of the valuation may be attributed to the fact that the annual income derived from the contributions of bachelor members has in a great measure exceeded the sum required as a rate in aid to provide pensions for children. This fact, he states, does not of itself prove that the unmarried rates of subscription are too high, but arises from the circumstance that, whilst the number of unmarried officers is abnormally large, the number of children is at present abnormally small. The contributions of married officers are, it appears, no more than adequate, and there is, therefore, no reason for making any alteration in the general rates of contribution at the present time.

4. Mr. Browne states his reasons for believing that the rate of subscription for unmarried men after retirement must have been inadvertently inserted in the rules, and that so high a rate as 35*l.* per annum is not necessary. I have consequently sanctioned a reduction in the rate of subscription payable by bachelors from 35*l.* to 25*l.* per annum.

5. Mr. Browne further proposes that the payment of donations on birth should be abolished. These donations were strongly objected to by the Government of India in their letter dated 15th October 1883, No. 295; and as the rates of subscription in force are in themselves sufficient to meet the liability incurred on account of the prospective pensions of children, I sanction their abolition.

6. The sum charged for expenses of management for the year ended 30th September 1888 was 344*l.* 11*s.* 2*d.*, representing the value of Rs. 5,000 at the average rate of exchange obtained for bills on India. The charge was fixed at Rs. 5,000 in Financial (Funds) Despatch dated 11th March 1886, and there seems to be no reason for increasing the amount (which now represents about 10 per cent. on the total receipts) for some time to come. I have however decided, with a view to facilitate the valuation of this charge, that it shall in future be entered in the pro formâ account in sterling, and be taken for the present at 350*l.* per annum. This will render any further entry in rupees in the account in India unnecessary.

7. The rate of exchange at which the sterling contributions are now converted into rupees is 1*s.* 8*d.* the rupee; and Mr. Browne states that, in view of the abnormally large influx of unmarried subscriptions that may be expected for some years to come, "the Fund will still be in a position to maintain its present financial equilibrium," should it be determined to continue the rate now in force. I therefore authorize your Excellency's Government to notify to the subscribers that for the present the rate of exchange fixed to determine the contributions in India will be taken at 1*s.* 8*d.* the rupee.

8. I am not however satisfied that the principle of using a surplus to lessen the effect on the payments in India of a fall in the value of silver is a sound one, and the question of adopting the principle originally advocated by Mr. Sutton, viz., that the rupee payments in India should vary annually according to the value of the rupee, in order that the equivalent of the fixed contributions in sterling may be paid by the subscribers in India, will be considered in connection with the reports of the Actuaries on the Military Service Family Pensions, which are now under my consideration in Council.

9. A copy of the regulations, revised in accordance with the terms of this Despatch, is forwarded herewith. You will observe that the contributions and payments are given throughout in sterling, and although for the present the sterling contributions are to be recovered in India at an exchange of 1*s.* 8*d.* the rupee, the pensions, when paid in that country to annuitants residing there, must be issued at the official rate of exchange. The option of receiving the pensions in sterling in England may however be granted to annuitants residing in India, but this option having once been exercised, any subsequent change can only be permitted at the commencement of the official year.

I have, &c.,

INDIAN CIVIL SERVICE FAMILY PENSION FUND.

Valuation as at 30th September 1888.

This Fund was opened in the year 1881, and it cannot therefore be considered to have passed through the period of its infancy. Having regard to this circumstance, and to the principles upon which the scheme is based, it is unnecessary to remark that the abstract of valuation discloses but very little information of material value. The results therein shown will, in consequence, be accepted as not more than a faint indication of the Fund's future prospects.

It may be convenient to refer to one or two of the chief features of the scheme.

The first, and perhaps the most important, is that the obligation of the Fund in respect to any individual officer may be said to commence at the date of the officer's marriage. There is of course a potential liability at the date when he becomes a subscriber, but the construction of the scheme is such that all potential liabilities have a corresponding potential asset in the form of equivalent contributions. It follows that if on the one side of a valuation account there appear an item for potential liabilities, there would necessarily appear on the other side a corresponding potential asset of exactly equivalent estimated value. At the time of an officer's marriage he at once pays a donation and commences to pay subscription, which together are estimated to be equivalent to the value of his wife's contingent pension.

Then there is the principle, as in the Military Fund, of the contributions of bachelor members forming a rate in diminution of the subscriptions of married officers for the purpose of providing pensions for their children.

Again, there is the principle, for which I am responsible, by which promotion from class to class takes place after certain specified periods of service, irrespective of the officer's rank.

Unlike the Military Fund, which at its inception embraced a large body of officers, married and unmarried, this Fund was opened in 1881 with the 23 members who entered the Service in that year. It is no matter of surprise therefore that the number of married members now subscribing represents but a small proportion of the total number of subscribers.

The following statement shows the number of subscribers, together with their ages:

	Married Officers.		Bachelors.
	Age.	No.	Age.	No.
Class IV.	28	6	27	2
				12
Class V	23	2	21	2
	25	6	22	20
	26	5	23	35
	27	3	24	42
	28	1	25	25
			27	12
		17		159
	Total married	23	Total unmarried	171

Thus it is seen that the number of married officers represents somewhat under 12 per cent. of the total number of subscribers. In Class V the married members represent between 9 and 10 per cent. of the officers in that class, whilst in Class IV the percentage of married subscribers is about 33.

Of the 23 married officers,—

3 contracted marriage at an age between 21 and 22 years.
3 " " " " 22 " 23 "
6 " " " " 23 " 24 "
6 " " " " 24 " 25 "
2 " " " " 25 " 26 "
1 " " " " 26 " 27 "
2 " " " " 27 " 28 "

From the age of 25 upwards there are at the present time 21 married and 72 unmarried members, the former representing not far short of 23 per cent. of the total number, viz., 93.

I am inclined to think that the above facts, when considered in connection with the scale of pay obtaining in India, indicate in some measure that the marriage rate among Indian Civil servants will not fall short of that hitherto ruling. In estimating therefore the aid to be derived hereafter from bachelors, I have not adopted the proportion of married to unmarried members shown above, but one based on a full service, thereby avoiding the possibility of over estimating its value. Were I to base my calculations on the numbers as they now obtain, no subscriptions whatever would be shown to be required from married officers on account of their children. The present numbers however will not be relatively maintained; and as the proportion of married to unmarried increases so will the rate in aid decrease, until, eventually, it will have reached a point at which it may be expected to remain. In the meanwhile, until that point is reached, the yearly amount received over and above the rate assigned will help to form a fund to meet the charges of management.

General Hannyngton, in his report on the scheme, wrote: "In the early years of the new arrangement the proportion derivable from unmarried members will be larger than that herein assigned. This will have a favourable effect on assets for some time to come."

The number of married members as shown above = 23, and the number of unmarried members = 171, making together 194. For a full service it is estimated that the proportion of married to single will be 848 : 537.

At the present time the subscriptions of bachelors are derived from members of the junior classes only. As the proportion of married to unmarried members, and also the average number of children to each married member, have been estimated on a full service, it follows that a full service must be taken for the purpose of estimating the amount of annual subscriptions to be received from unmarried members, that is, at a time when their members shall be distributed throughout the several classes. To ascertain this I have taken the combined services of the three Presidencies as they existed in 1875. For that year only do we possess accurate data. These data were furnished in connection with the transfer to Government of the three Presidency Funds, the service being then in a condition as near normal as we may expect it to be at any future date.

The number of married members at the time referred to was 848, and the number of unmarried members, including widowers, who subscribe at bachelor rates was 537. These figures give the proportion shown above. Applying the present rates of subscription to the 537 unmarried officers, and assuming that the present rules governing promotion from class to class were then in force, I find that the numbers subscribing in the several classes and the amount of annual subscription would have been as follows:

Class.	Numbers.	Yearly Subscription.	Amount.
V	147	15	2,205
IV	112	21	2,352

Retired members	135	25	3,375
	537		£14,446

It will be observed that I have taken the subscription of an unmarried retired officer at 25*l.* instead of 35*l.* per annum as laid down in the rules. The reason for this I have explained hereinafter.

Thus the annual subscription derived from 537 bachelors, had the present rates been in force, would have amounted to 14,446*l.*

I am not certain however that a greater proportion of bachelors than hitherto will not, under the present regulations, withdraw from the Fund on retirement, and I have considered it advisable therefore to assume that the proportion of retired bachelor subscribers will, in future, be only half that shown above. By this assumption the amount will be reduced from 14,446*l.* to 12,759*l.*

For the purpose of estimating the number of children, widowers must be included among the married members, thus increasing their number from 848 to 935.

It has been generally assumed that, after excluding sons who have attained their majority, and daughters who have contracted marriage, the number of children, with fathers living, gives an average of about 2½ to each married member, and statistics confirm the correctness of this assumption in respect to some of the Services. According, however, to the records of the three Presidency Funds for 1875, I find that the number of children with fathers living was 2,450, and the number of married members, including widowers, 935. The average obtained from these figures is 2·62. It would seem desirable however to leave a small margin for safety, and I have consequently assumed an average of 2¾ to each family, or 11 children to four families.

Taking the proportion of married members as above, viz., 935, the number of children would be 935 × 2¾ = 2,571. The proportion hitherto existing between the number of daughters and the number of sons was found to be 562 : 438. This proportion applied to the number of children shown above, viz., 2,571, would give—

Daughters	1,445
	2,571

Taking into account the amount of annual subscription payable by married members for daughters and sons respectively, and the relative proportions of the values of the joint life annuities of father and daughter and father and son, also the relative values of the contingent pensions, I find that the amount of rate in aid to daughters and sons should be in the following proportion:

Daughters	·6029
	1·0000

So that, of the annual sum shown above, viz., 12,759*l.*, the amount to be appropriated towards the subscriptions on account of 1,445 daughters = 12,759*l.* × ·6029 = . . . £7,692

And on account of 1,126 sons = 12,759*l.* × ·3971 = ... „ 5,067

£12,759

These rates I have adopted in the valuation.

In respect to the charges for management no special provision was made in the scheme, but in estimating the contributions, the exact amounts calculated as necessary to meet the liabilities were slightly increased, but only in a degree sufficient to avoid fractions. This, together with the aid derivable in the earlier years of the Fund's existence from the subscriptions of bachelors over and above the amount assigned for children, was considered at the time to be sufficient, and there is now every indication of the opinion then formed proving to be correct. The value which I have placed upon these charges appears of course very great as compared with the value of the assets, or of the contingent liabilities, representing, as it does, between 20 and 21 per cent. of the latter; but as marriages occur, thereby increasing the value of the assets and liabilities, so will the value of the charges represent a decreasing proportion. Had the Fund been valued at the date of its establishment, the only item that would have appeared in the abstract of valuation would have been a debit on account of management charges. For the first few years the charges in India varied, but in March 1886 the Government of India were informed that the Secretary of State was of opinion that a sum of Rs. 5,000 per annum would prove sufficient for the first quinquennial period. For the years 1881 and 1882 no charge whatever was made. The charges for 1883 and subsequent years are given below, together with the percentages that they represent upon the total annual receipts:

	Charges for Management.	Percentage on Total Receipts.
Year ending—	£
31st March 1883	410·6	106·9
„ „ 1884	406·8	42·9
„ „ 1885	403·3	28·9
Half year ending—
30th September 1885	195·4	25·5
31st March 1886	188	19·3
30th September 1886	177	15·7
31st March 1887	184·4	13·7
30th September 1887	176·4	13·6
31st March 1888	175·7	10·9
30th September 1888	168·9	9·9

The percentage will of course continue to diminish year by year so long as the annual charge is not increased.

The following statement is interesting, as showing the amount debited to the Fund account for management charges in each of the years from 1882-83 to 1887-88, as compared with the amount of interest allowed by the Secretary of State on the accumulated capital:

Year.	Interest at 4½ per cent. on Accumulated Capital.	Management Charges.
1882-83	1 3 9	410 12 1
1883-84*	Nil.	406 16 3
1884-85	22 14 6	403 5 7
1885-86	80 3 6	383 7 5
1886-87	149 14 5	361 8 3
1887-88	248 8 0	352 0 9
Half year to 30th September 1888	169 1 1	168 18 1

It will be seen that there was no credit for interest in the year 1883-84. The reason for this is apparent. In the previous year, 1882-83, the amount charged on account of expenses of management not only exhausted the whole of the capital, but actually left the Fund in debt to the extent of 36*l.* 12*s.* 4*d.* On the 31st March 1888 the capital had accumulated to an amount such that the interest allowed thereon was just sufficient in the succeeding half year to meet the charge made for office expenses.

The total amount debited to the Fund on account of these charges up to 30th September 1888 was 2,186*l.*, and the total amount of interest credited thereto was 671*l.*

The sum debited to the Fund account for the year ended 30th September 1888 was 344*l.* 11*s.* 2*d.*, representing the value of Rs. 5,000 at the average rate of exchange obtained for bills on India. In estimating the value of the management charges, the calculation is based on life annuities for the periods intervening between the date of valuation and the dates at which the officers at present in the Service may be expected to retire. On the average, these intervening periods may each be taken at 25 years. Thus the impossibility of correctly estimating in sterling the value of the charge is manifest, for it would entail an assumption of an annual average rate of exchange for 25 years following the date of valuation. But the motive for fixing the charge in Indian currency is not apparent. All the contributions and benefits are specified in sterling money, and I am not aware of any reason why this charge should form the one exception. It is, I think, improbable that any objection would be raised to the charge of management being specified in the same currency as are all the other charges appertaining to the Fund; and, in anticipation of an instruction to this effect, I have, for the purposes of valuation, assumed an annual charge of 350*l.* In due time, perhaps at the date of the next valuation, when the present charge may be expected to represent a fair percentage on the receipts and disbursements, the question of increasing the charge will have to be considered. But the prospect of an increase in no way affects the value which I have arrived at. The present valuation appertains only to existing members in their present state, and any increase that may hereafter be determined upon should be proportionate to the additional receipts arising from the altered position of the present members, and from the contributions of new entrants. It follows that the value of any additional charge would appertain to assets and liabilities, which, as affecting the valuation, are at present non-existent.

In the earlier years of a Fund's existence the charges of management must of necessity appear exorbitant, but after a term, say of from 12 to 15 years, when a considerable income may be anticipated, the charges should, I think, be so fixed as to represent a fair percentage on the receipts and disbursements.

In these circumstances I estimate the value of the office charges at 4,208*l.*

The value of future subscriptions for existing wives is estimated at 17,008*l.*, being 1,359*l.* less than the value of their contingent pensions, which is estimated at 18,367*l.*

The value of the future subscriptions for existing children is estimated at 2,502*l.*, being in excess by 455*l.* of the value of their contingent pensions.

The capital in hand amounts to 9,057*l.*, which, added to the value of the contingent assets, brings the total up to 28,567*l.* On the other side of the account the total value of the liabilities, including 4,208*l.* for management charges, amounts to 24,622*l.*, leaving a balance in favour of the Fund of no less than 3,945*l.*, which represents about 16 per cent. of the value of the liabilities.

There are at present no incumbent pensioners. The death of but one married officer might reduce the surplus by about 2,500*l.*

In dealing with the question of the "rate-in-aid," I mentioned the fact that I had assumed the rate of unmarried retired subscription to be 25*l.*, instead of 35*l.* per annum as laid down in the rules.

* No capital.

A reduction in this respect is, I think, worthy of consideration; and I would venture to express a hope that it may receive the sanction of the Secretary of State in Council. There are two reasons which may be urged in favour of this reduction. Firstly, in the scheme devised by the late General Hannyngton, that officer fixed the subscriptions at such rates as to represent on the average about 2½ per cent. on salaries, but in the rules the rate of retired subscription is stated at 35*l.* per annum, representing 3½ per cent. on the full annuity of 1,000*l.* There are many officers who retire on smaller annuities, and it would press very heavily upon that class. In General Hannyngton's scheme there is no mention of a retired subscription for bachelors, and I think that the rate, as laid down in the rules, must have been inserted inadvertently. Secondly, so high a rate of subscription is not required. In fact, the calculations upon which the scheme was based were made irrespective of any subscription whatever from retired unmarried members.

There is another question that I would desire to bring prominently to notice, viz., that relating to the payment of birth donations for children. Their abolition would, I think, be in every respect desirable. It happens that these donations are payable just at a time when their burden is most felt, and moreover, in individual cases, they become not only a hardship to the officer, but also an unnecessary gain to the Fund. As an illustration I will refer to a case that has but recently occurred, and compare the amount that was paid by the officer with the amount that he would have been called upon to pay had no donation been required, but in lieu thereof an increased subscription of exactly equivalent estimated value. For the first few months after birth the life of a child is very uncertain. It is laid down in the rules that the donation will not be required should the child die before attaining the age of thirty days; but this period of grace is really quite inadequate in its effect as a safeguard against loss arising from the abnormally high rate of mortality that obtains during the first year of a child's existence. A donation is in reality the commuted value of a portion of subscription, and it might be argued with some reason that an officer is placed at an undue disadvantage in being compelled to commute at a time when the state of his child's health is unusually precarious. No injury would be sustained by the Fund if the subscription were fixed at a rate such that its value would be equivalent to that of the contingent pension. The case I desire to refer to is that of a subscriber, not to this, but to a sister Fund. A son was born to him on the 8th April, and died on the 8th of the following month. Consequently, the child having lived just thirty days, the officer was required under the regulations to pay the specified donation, viz., 15*l.* This sum represents the commuted value of a subscription of 3*s.* 2*d.* per mensem payable during the joint life of father and son. Had, then, this portion of the subscription not been converted into a lump sum payable at birth, the father would have been required to pay 3*s.* 2*d.* plus 1*s.* 11*d.*, instead of 15*l.* plus 1*s.* 11*d.* The value of the risk borne by the Fund in the interim on account of the child's contingent pension is calculated to be less than one shilling.

The above is not my only reason for desiring the abolition of birth donations. In the scheme devised by the late General Hannyngton, that officer calculated the aid to be obtained from bachelor members on the rates of subscription hitherto paid by them, and not on the rates fixed for the future. This was clearly a mistake. He also took no account of the subscriptions payable by retired unmarried members. I believe that at the time he constructed the scheme he had not entertained the idea of requiring retired unmarried members to subscribe. The result was that he obtained an average annual payment of 4·279*l.* in aid of the contributions for each daughter, and of 3·334*l.* in aid of the contributions for each son. The rates obtained by me for the daughters and sons respectively are 5·323*l.* and 4·5*l.* as hereinbefore shown. These rates added to the subscriptions payable by married officers on account of their children give an annual subscription for each daughter of 18·073*l.*, and for each son of 11·35*l.* The value at the date of the child's birth of the former subscription is 163·2*l.* as against 161·87*l.*, the value of a daughter's contingent pension; and the value of the latter is 93·524*l.* as against 93·51*l.*, the value of a son's contingent pension. Thus it is seen that the rates of subscription now in force are, in themselves, sufficient to meet the liability incurred on account of the prospective pensions of children.

The abolition of the birth donations, if sanctioned, should not be considered as an ordinary adjustment due to the existence of a substantial surplus arising, say, from the fact of the rate of mortality proving not so high as predicted, or from other such causes, but one rather of an exceptional character, due to the correction of an error in the original scheme.

It will probably be desired that I should state the amount of liability already incurred by the Government of India, over and above that arising from the concession of a favourable rate of interest. I apprehend that I am not expected to show the value of potential liabilities, i.e., liabilities which have not yet commenced, but those only which appertain to existing wives and children. It will of course be understood that the liability of Government will increase year by year in the same manner as that for which the subscribers are responsible.

The benefits conceded by Government are as follow:

Pensions of Widows.

Class of Husband at date of death.	Amount of Pension per annum.
V.	150
IV.	110
III.	120
II.	66

Pensions of Orphan Children.

Additional Pensions to Motherless Orphans.

Age.	Amount of Pension per annum. £

These benefits I value as under:

Sons' contingent pensions	314
Daughters' contingent pensions (if motherless)	27
Sons' contingent pensions (if motherless)	26
Daughters' marriage donations	170
	£6,275

Financially, the abstract of valuation may be considered to indicate a not unprosperous future. The result, namely a very considerable surplus, may be attributed to the fact that the annual income derived from the contributions of bachelor members has in a great measure exceeded the sum required for the purpose of affording the necessary assistance to married officers in the matter of providing pensions to their children. It must not however be inferred that, for this reason, the unmarried rates of subscription are excessive. They are certainly at the present time greater than is requisite to accomplish their object, but they will not ultimately be so, should the Life Tables now in use prove hereafter to be fairly correct. The excess income is due entirely to the circumstance that, whilst the number of unmarried officers is abnormally large, the number of children, on the contrary, is abnormally small—a circumstance which in the earlier years of the Fund's existence is unavoidable, and which indeed must continue, and with beneficial effect, for yet a very considerable period. In substantiation of the above statement as to the source from which the surplus is derived, I have deemed it expedient to submit a valuation of the assets and liabilities appertaining to married officers only. In this view I have carefully investigated the accounts of the Fund up to the 30th September 1888, and I find that, after apportioning to the credit of the married members so much of the capital as properly belongs to them, including the assigned "rate in aid" from bachelors, but less a proportionate share of the charges made on account of office expenses, the following results obtain:

Liabilities.	£	Assets.	£
Contingent pensions (present values):		Capital in hand	2,218
Wives	18,367	Subscriptions for wives	17,008
Sons	942	„ „ sons	1,173
Daughters	1,105	„ „ daughters	1,329
Office charges	618
	21,032
Surplus	696
	£21,728		£21,728

From this statement it will be seen that the contributions of married officers, assuming the correctness of the tables, are no more than adequate, and that the surplus is due to the cause indicated above.

The rate of exchange at which the contributions are converted in India at the present time is 1*s.* 8*d.* per rupee. It now becomes necessary for the Secretary of State in Council to determine the rate for the next quinquennial period. In view of the abnormally large influx of unmarried subscriptions that may be expected for some years to come, I am of opinion that, should it be determined to continue the rate now in force, the Fund will still be in a position to maintain its present financial equilibrium.

The tables of the Fund are incomplete, and are so constructed as to render them almost useless for valuation purposes. I have, in consequence been under the necessity of making a special calculation for each individual. At the earliest available opportunity it will be my duty to prepare tables similar in form to those constructed by the late General Hannyngton for the Indian Military Service Family Pension Fund.

THE INDIAN CIVIL SERVICE FAMILY PENSION REGULATIONS.

The following regulations are designed to secure suitable provisions for the widows and orphans of members of the Covenanted Indian Civil Service not being subscribers to the Bengal, Madras, or Bombay Civil Funds.

The Secretary of State for India in Council reserves to himself the absolute right to regulate from time to time the contributions to be required from Civil Servants under these regulations, and to make any alterations in the regulations themselves that may appear to him equitable: provided always, that the scale of pensions fixed thereby shall not be reduced in the case of actual incumbents. The Secretary of State in Council will endeavour to adjust the contributions to be levied from officers exactly, so that they shall neither be too large nor too small to supply the pensions provided for by these regulations. But if it should appear on experience that they have been fixed too low, the Government will not require any supplementary retrospective payments; and if they are found to have been fixed too high, no claim to refund will be admitted.

No insurance fund is established by these regulations. The contributions will be credited and the pensions charged directly to the Indian revenues as civil receipts and charges. But in order to adjust the rates of contribution from time to time to what is necessary to supply the pensions provided for by these regulations and no more, a separate pro formâ account will be kept of all contributions levied and all payments made under these regulations, and of the interest which would have been allowed upon such contributions if a mutual insurance fund had actually been established.

In accordance with the principle announced in this notification, that the Government does no intend that the pensions provided by these regulations shall bring any charge on the Indian revenues in excess of the amount specially sanctioned for the purpose, the rates of interest and of exchange with England, to be allowed in this pro formâ account, will be the rates which may be fixed from time to time by the Secretary of State in Council, upon a consideration of the market rates of the day.

All needful statistics of ages, births, deaths, and marriages will be carefully registered, and these statistics, with the pro formâ accounts, will be submitted at such periods as may be determined by the Secretary of State in Council to such actuary or actuaries as he may select, with instructions to investigate and ascertain whether the rates of contribution are such as will, at the rate of interest and exchange then to be reconsidered and refixed, supply the pensions payable under these regulations, and no more. The expense of such actuarial inquiries and reports shall be debited in the pro formâ accounts reported upon.

Upon the report of the actuary or actuaries the Secretary of State in Council will order any necessary alterations in the rates of contribution.

The report of the actuary or actuaries, with the orders of the Secretary of State in Council there upon, shall be published in the Gazette of India, and no alteration ordered in the rates of contribution will take effect before the beginning of the month following the date of such publication. No retrospective adjustments will be made.

The benefits provided at the cost of the State are shown in the regulations; but should it at any time appear from a valuation that the aggregate liabilities on account of those benefits, when the pension list shall have reached a normal state, will exceed 35,000*l.* per annum, they will be subject to such reduction as may be necessary to restrict the annual assistance to 35,000*l.* per annum, but the reduction shall in no case affect the benefits payable to incumbent annuitants.
