5. All Her Majesty's jurisdiction exercisable in Brunei for the judicial hearing and determination of matters in difference between British subjects, or between foreigners and British subjects, or for the administration or control of the property or persons of British subjects, or for the repression or punishment of crimes committed by British subjects, or for the maintenance of order among British subjects, shall be exercised under and according to the provisions of this Order, and not otherwise.

6.—(1) Subject to the other provisions of this Order, the civil and criminal jurisdiction aforesaid shall, so far as circumstances admit, be exercised upon the principles of and in conformity with the substance of the law for the time being in force in and for England, and with the powers vested in and according to the course of procedure and practice observed by and before Courts of Justice and Justices of the Peace in England, according to their respective jurisdictions and authorities.

(2) Except as to offences made or declared such by this Order, or by any regulation or rule made under it, any act other than an act that would by a Court of Justice having criminal jurisdiction in England be deemed a crime, making the person doing such act liable to punishment in England, shall not, in the exercise of criminal jurisdiction under this Order, be deemed a crime making the person doing such act liable to punishment.

7. Crimes, wrongs, and breaches of contract against or affecting the person, property, or rights of natives of Brunei or other foreigners as herein defined, committed by persons subject to this Order, are punishable or otherwise cognizable under the provisions of this Order, with the consent of such natives or foreigners, in the same manner as if they were committed against or affected the person, property, or rights of British subjects.

PART III.—CONSTITUTION OF COURTS.

8. A District Court shall be held at Brunei by the Consul or such other Consular officer as he directs, and other District Courts shall be held at such other places as may from time to time be appointed under this Order.

A District Court is held by a Consular officer, and may be styled the Consular Court at Brunei or elsewhere, as the case may be.

9. It shall be lawful for the Consul from time to time, by order in writing, with the previous or subsequent authority or approval of the Secretary of State, to appoint places at which District Courts shall be held, and to assign the district in and for which each such Court shall act, and to designate the Consular officer who is to hold each such Court, and to determine the description and number of the officers to be attached to any such Court, and the mode of their appointment and removal, and their duties and remuneration, and any matters incident to any of the above-mentioned purposes.

A printed copy of any such order purporting to bear the seal of the Consul or of a District Court shall, in all causes and matters, be admitted as evidence of the contents and due making and publication thereof.

Each District Court shall have such seal as may be prescribed by any such order as aforesaid.

10. The Consul shall have, in all matters, civil and criminal, an extraordinary original jurisdiction throughout Brunei concurrent with the jurisdiction of the several District Courts: such extraordinary jurisdiction to be exercised by him as a District Court, subject and according to the provisions of this Order, and subject to appeal to the Supreme Court in the same manner as from an ordinary District Court.

The Consul shall also have jurisdiction to try in Brunei crimes which cannot under this Order be tried by a District Court, and for that purpose shall have the power of the Supreme Court.

The Consul may, from time to time, visit in a magisterial or judicial capacity any District Court, and there inquire of, or hear and determine, any case, civil or criminal, pending in that Court, or arising within its district.

A District Court may, of its own motion, or on the application of any person concerned, report to the Consul the pendency of any case, civil or criminal, which appears to the District Court fit to be heard and determined by the Consul.

The Consul shall thereupon direct in what mode and where the case shall be heard and determined, and (notwithstanding any thing in this Order) the same shall be so heard and determined accordingly.

11.—(1) The Supreme Court shall have appellate jurisdiction under this Order.

The appellate jurisdiction of the Supreme Court shall be exercised by the full Supreme Court sitting in the Straits Settlements in such manner and according to such procedure as, subject to the provisions of this Order and of any Rules made under this Order, the Supreme Court from time to time determines.

Judgments or orders of the Supreme Court in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction shall be certified by the Supreme Court to the Court in Brunei from which the appeal is brought, or, when the appeal is from the judgment or order of a Judge of the Supreme Court acting in Brunei or in the Straits Settlements, then to such District Court in Brunei as the Supreme Court thinks fit, and subject to any appeal to Her Majesty in Council) that District Court may and shall execute and give effect to the same in like manner as to its own judgments or orders.

(2) The Supreme Court, on Petition presented to it in accordance with any rules to be made under this Order, or in such manner as the Supreme Court directs, and alleging that any order of a District Court or of the Consul has the effect of a refusal of justice to any suitor or complainant, may, after such inquiry (if any) as it thinks fit to direct, issue an order directing the proper Court to take cognizance of the matter, and may, if satisfied that such order has not been properly complied with, entertain and determine the matter of the suit or complaint, and shall certify its determination to the proper Court, which shall give effect thereto.

(3) Except as provided by this Order, the Supreme Court shall not exercise any control over a District Court or the Consul, whether by way of mandamus, prohibition, certiorari, writ of habeas corpus, or otherwise.

12. The Supreme Court shall, for the purposes of this Order, have original jurisdiction as follows:—

(1) When, under this Order, a person accused of crime is sent for trial to the Straits Settlements, the Supreme Court shall have the like jurisdiction, and may proceed in the same manner as if the crime had been committed in the Straits Settlements, except that the criminality of the act charged and the punishment to be inflicted must be determined according to the Law applicable under this Order in Brunei.

(2) On the request of the Consul, made with the consent of the Government of the Sultan of Brunei, the Supreme Court may exercise in Brunei in relation to any civil or criminal matter any original jurisdiction which can be exercised by the Consul, and all the provisions of this Order shall apply accordingly (mutatis mutandis), and any appeal shall be to the full Supreme Court.

(3) On the like request made with the like consent, the Supreme Court may hear and determine at any place within the limits of this Order any criminal case which could under this Order be sent for trial to the Straits Settlements, and for that purpose shall have the like jurisdiction and may proceed in the same manner as nearly as may be as if it were trying the same case in the Straits Settlements, or as if it were the Consul trying in Brunei a criminal case within the jurisdiction of a District Court.

(4) The Supreme Court may hear and determine within the Straits Settlements any civil case arising in Brunei, with the consent of the parties and of the Consul, and for that purpose may adopt any procedure proper either in the Straits Settlements or in Brunei. In such case any appeal shall be to the full Supreme Court.

(5) For the purposes of the exercise of original jurisdiction under this Article, such Judge or Judges of the Supreme Court, as the Chief Justice of the Straits Settlements from time to time nominates, shall exercise the powers of the Supreme Court.

(6) Every District Court in Brunei may and shall, according to its powers, execute, enforce, and give effect to any judgment or order of the Supreme Court in the exercise of its original jurisdiction, and may and shall, for the purposes of anything to be done preliminary to a sitting of the Supreme Court—as, for instance, the summoning of a jury, or of assessors, or of witnesses,—exercise (mutatis mutandis) all the powers which such District Court has for any purpose under this Order in a case or matter pending before itself.

PART IV.—GENERAL POWERS OF COURTS AND GENERAL PROCEDURE.

13.—(1) All Her Majesty's jurisdiction, civil and criminal, exercisable in Brunei, shall, except as otherwise provided by this Order, be exercisable by the District Courts each for and within its own district.

(2) Every District Court in Brunei and the Supreme Court shall be auxiliary each to the other in all particulars relative to the administration of justice, civil or criminal, under this Order.

(3) Every Court shall, in the exercise of every part of its respective jurisdiction under this Order, be a Court of Record, and a Court of Law and of Equity.

(4) In any matter, civil or criminal, a District Court, within whose district (in civil matters) the matter of complaint wholly or in part arose or happened, or the subject in dispute is wholly or partly situate, or the contract in question was wholly or partly made, or the breach thereof wholly or partly occurred, or the defendant resides or carries on business, or (in criminal matters) the crime was wholly or partly committed, or the accused person happens to be, shall have jurisdiction, and may deal with the case, as if every material fact or thing had happened or was situate within its district; but any such Court, if, in its opinion, justice or convenience so requires, may decline or suspend the exercise of jurisdiction, and may, if it thinks necessary or just, require security from the defendant or accused person for his appearance before some other Court having jurisdiction in the matter, and for obedience to any judgment or order of such other Court, and further, in a criminal case, if necessary, may arrest and commit the accused person, and cause him to be removed under warrant and in custody, to be dealt with by such other Court.

(5) Every Court acting under this Order shall have power to rehear any civil matter, and to review its judgments or orders in any civil case in which, in the opinion of the Court, justice so requires, on such terms as to costs and otherwise as the Court thinks just.

14. In every case, civil or criminal, heard in a District Court, proper Minutes of the proceedings shall be drawn up, and shall be signed by the Judge or officer before whom the proceedings are taken, and sealed with the seal of the Court, and shall, where Assessors are present, be open for their inspection and for their signature if concurred in by them.

The Minutes, with depositions of witnesses and notes of evidence taken at the trial by the Judge or officer, shall be preserved in the public office of the Court.

15. Each District Court held by any Consular officer other than the Consul shall, every six months, furnish to the Consul a Report respecting every case, civil and criminal, brought before it, in such form as the Consul from time to time directs.

16. Any Registrar of a Court, or person acting as Registrar, and any other officer of the Court designated in this behalf by the Consul, may administer oaths, and take affidavits, declarations, and affirmations.

The Judge of any Court shall be, and act as, the Registrar of the Court, if there is no other person appointed to be Registrar there.

17.—(1) In a civil case, any Court may order such costs, charges, and expenses as to the Court seem reasonable, to be paid by any party to the proceedings, or out of any fund to which the proceeding relates.

(2) All costs, and all charges and expenses of witnesses, prosecutions, punishments and deportations, and other charges and expenses, and all fees, fines, forfeitures, and pecuniary penalties payable under this Order, and all judgments, may be levied or enforced by distress and seizure and sale of ships, goods, and lands, and, in default of sufficient distress, by imprisonment; and no bill of sale, or mortgage, or transfer of property made with a view to security in regard to crimes committed, or to be committed, shall be of any avail to defeat any provision of this Order.

(3) Imprisonment in default of distress shall not, except as may be provided by rules of procedure made under this Order, operate as a discharge or satisfaction.

(4) Where money ordered by the Court to be paid is due for seamen's wages, or, is other money recoverable under the Merchant Shipping Acts or other Law relating to ships, and the person ordered to pay has not paid as ordered, the Court; in addition to other powers for compelling payment, shall have power to direct that the amount unpaid be levied by seizure and sale of the ship.

18.—(1) The Consul shall have all the powers and authorities of the Sheriff of a country in England, with all the privileges and immunities of the office, and as such Sheriff shall be charged with the execution of all decrees, orders, and sentences made and passed by a Court, on the requisition in that behalf of the Court; he shall not be liable to any action or proceeding for anything done, or purporting to be done, or anything omitted by him as such Sheriff.

(2) A District Court shall execute any writ, order, or warrant directed by a Consul to a District Court; and may take security from any person named therein for his appearance personally or by attorney, according to the writ, order, or warrant; or may cause such person to be taken in custody or otherwise to a Court, or elsewhere, in Brunei, according to the writ, order, or warrant.

19. A District Court may promote reconciliation, and encourage and facilitate the settlement in an amicable way of any suit or proceeding pending before it.

A District Court may, with the consent of the parties, refer to arbitration the final determination of any suit or proceeding pending before it, or of all or any matters in difference between the parties, on such terms, and with such directions, as to appointment of an Arbitrator and other things, as may seem fit, and may, if it thinks fit, take from the parties, or any of them, security to abide by the result of the reference.

In any such case, the award shall be final and conclusive.

On the application of any party a decree of the Court may be entered in conformity with the award, and such decree shall not be open to any appeal or rehearing whatever, except on the ground that it is not in conformity with the award.

Every agreement for reference to arbitration or submission to arbitration by consent may, on the application of any party, be made a rule of a Court having jurisdiction in the matter of the reference or submission, which Court shall thereupon have power and authority to enforce the agreement or submission and the award made thereunder, and to control and regulate the proceedings before and after the award in such manner, and on such terms, as may be just.

20. No proceeding under this Order shall be invalidated by any informality, mistake, or omission, so long as, in the opinion of the Court before which any question arises, the essential requisites of law and justice have been complied with or may be met by amendment.

PART V.—SPECIAL POWERS (BANKRUPTCY, PROBATE, &C.).

21. A District Court shall be a Court of Bankruptcy, and as such shall, as far as circumstances admit, have, for and within its own district, with respect to British subjects and to their debtors and creditors, being either British subjects or foreigners submitting to the jurisdiction of the Court, all such jurisdiction as for the time being belongs to any judicial authority having for the time being jurisdiction in bankruptcy in England.

22. A District Court shall have, and may exercise, for and within its own district, with respect to British subjects, all the powers, rights, and duties appertaining to the office of Coroner in England, but it shall not be necessary to summon a jury in holding any inquest.

23. The District Court at Brunei shall be a Vice-Admiralty Court, and as such shall, for and within the limits of this Order, and for vessels and persons coming to and within those limits, have all such jurisdiction as for the time being ordinarily belongs to Vice-Admiralty Courts in Her Majesty's possessions abroad.

The said Court shall have all powers and jurisdiction which can be exercised by Justices or a Vice-Admiralty Court under or for the purposes of the Acts relating to Merchant Shipping or the Passenger Acts, or relating to quarantine.

24. The District Court at Brunei shall, so far as circumstances admit, have, for and within the limits of this Order, with respect to British subjects, all such jurisdiction relative to the custody and management of the persons and estates of persons of unsound mind as for the time being belongs to the Lord Chancellor or other person or persons in England intrusted with the care and commitment of the custody of the persons and estates of persons found, by inquisition in England, idiot, lunatic, or of unsound mind.

25.—(1) The District Court at Brunei shall be a Court of Probate, and as such shall, as far as circumstances admit, have, for and within the limits of this Order, with respect to the property of British subjects having at the time of death their fixed places of abode in those limits, all such jurisdiction as for the time being belongs to the Probate Division of Her Majesty's High Court of Justice in England.

(2) Every District Court shall also have power to grant probate or administration where there is no contention respecting the right to the grant, and it is proved on oath that the deceased had at the time of his death his fixed place of abode within the jurisdiction of the District Court.

26. Probate or administration granted by a Court shall have effect over all the property of the deceased within the limits of this Order, and shall effectually discharge persons dealing with an executor or administrator thereunder, and that notwithstanding any defect afterwards appears in the grant.

Such a grant shall not be impeachable by reason only that the deceased had not at the time of his death his fixed place of abode within the particular jurisdiction.

27. Any person having in his possession or under his control any paper or writing of a deceased British subject, being or purporting to be testamentary, shall forthwith deliver the original to the District Court within the district whereof such person is at the time of his first knowledge of the death of the deceased, and deposit it there.

Any person neglecting to do so for fourteen days after having knowledge of the death of the deceased shall be liable to such penalty, not exceeding fifty pounds, as the Court thinks fit to impose.

28. From the death of a British subject, having at the time of death his fixed place of abode in Brunei, intestate, until administration granted, his personal property in Brunei shall be vested in the Consul.

29. If any person, other than one of Her Majesty's Consular officers, takes possession of or in any manner administers any part of the personal property of any person deceased without obtaining probate or administration within three months after the death of the deceased, or within one month after the determination of any suit or dispute respecting probate or administration (if there is any such which is not ended within two months after the death of the deceased), he shall be liable to such penalty, not exceeding 100*l.*, as the Court having jurisdiction in the matter of the property of the deceased thinks fit to impose; and in every such case the same fees shall be payable by the person so administering as would have been payable by him if he had obtained probate or administration.

30. Where a British subject, not having at the time of death his fixed place of abode in Brunei, dies there, the District Court within whose district he dies shall, where the circumstances of the case appear to the Court so to require, forthwith on the death of the deceased, or as soon after as may be, take possession of his personal property within the particular jurisdiction, or put it under the seal of the Court (in either case, if the nature of the property or other circumstances so require, making an inventory), and so keep the property until it can be dealt with according to law.

31.—(1) In a case of apparent intestacy, where the circumstances of the case appear to the Court so to require, for reasons recorded in the Minutes, the Court having probate jurisdiction may, if it thinks fit, of its own motion, or otherwise, grant administration to an officer of the Court.

(2) Any officer so appointed shall act under the direction of the Court, and shall be indemnified thereby.

(3) A commission of 2½ per cent. may be charged on an estate administered under this Article.

(4) All expenses incurred on behalf of the Court in the execution of this Article, and the said commission, shall be the first charge on the personal property of the deceased in Brunei; and the Court shall, by sale of part of that property or otherwise, provide for the discharge of those expenses and the payment of the said commission.

32. Where it appears to the Court having probate jurisdiction that the value of the property or estate of a deceased person does not exceed 100*l.*, the Court may, without any probate or letters of administration, or other formal proceedings, pay thereout any debts or charges, and pay, remit, or deliver any surplus to such persons in such manner as a Secretary of State from time to time directs, and shall not be liable to any action, suit, or proceedings in respect of anything done, or purporting to be done, under this Article.

PART VI.—CRIMINAL LAW AND PROCEDURE.

33. The crimes punishable under this Order are:—

(1) Any acts or omissions which are for the time being punishable in England, on indictment, by death, penal servitude, or imprisonment, as treasons, felonies, or misdemeanours.

(2) Acts or omissions by this Order, or by any regulations made by virtue of this Order, declared to be punishable as offences against this Order.

In case an act or omission is punishable both as a crime under the Law in force in England and as an offence against this Order, the accused person may be tried and punished for such act or omission either as a crime, as aforesaid, or as an offence against this Order, but he shall not be liable to be tried or punished in both ways.

34. Any British subject being in Brunei may be proceeded against, tried, and punished under this Order for the crime of piracy, wherever committed.

If the Court before which a British subject charged with the crime of piracy is brought is a District Court held by a Consular officer other than the Consul, the Court shall report to the Consul the pendency of the case.

The Consul shall thereupon direct in what mode and where the case shall be heard and determined, and (notwithstanding anything in this Order) the case shall be so heard and determined accordingly.

35.—(1) If any British subject does any of the following things without Her Majesty's authority, that is to say:—

Levies war, or takes any part in any operation of war, against, or aids or abets any person in carrying on war, insurrection, or rebellion against the Sultan of Brunei;

Every person so offending shall be deemed guilty of an offence against this Order, and on conviction thereof shall be liable (in the discretion of the Court before which he is convicted) to be punished by imprisonment for any term not exceeding one year, with or without hard labour, and with or without a fine not exceeding 1,000*l.*, or by a fine not exceeding 1,000*l.*, without imprisonment.

In addition to such punishments, every such conviction shall of itself, and without further proceedings, make the person convicted liable to deportation; and the Court before which he is convicted may order that he be deported from Brunei to such place as the Court directs.

(2) If any British subject, without the authority of Her Majesty (proof whereof shall lie on the party accused), takes part in any operation of war in the service of the Sultan of Brunei against any persons engaged in carrying on war, insurrection, or rebellion against the Sultan of Brunei, he shall be deemed guilty of an offence against this Order, and on conviction thereof shall be liable (in the discretion of the Court before which he is convicted) to be punished by imprisonment for any term not exceeding one year, with or without hard labour, and with or without a fine not exceeding 1,000*l.*, or by a fine not exceeding 1,000*l.*, without imprisonment.

(3) If the Court before which any person charged with having committed such a misdemeanour as in this Article mentioned is brought is a District Court, held before a Consular officer other than the Consul, the Court shall report to the Consul the pendency of the case.

The Consul shall thereupon direct in what mode and where the case shall be heard and determined, and (notwithstanding anything in this Order) the case shall be so heard and determined accordingly.

36. If any British subject is guilty of publicly deriding, mocking, or insulting any religion established or observed in Brunei, or of publicly offering any insult to any religious service, feast, or ceremony established or kept in any part of Brunei, or to any place of worship, tomb, or sanctuary belonging to any such religion, or to the ministers or professors thereof, or of wilfully committing any act tending to bring any such religion, or its ceremonies, mode of worship, or observances into hatred, ridicule, or contempt, and thereby to provoke a breach of the public peace, he shall be deemed guilty of an offence against this Order, and shall be liable (in the discretion of the Court before which he is convicted) to imprisonment for any term not exceeding six months, with or without hard labour, and with or without a fine not exceeding 100*l.*, or to a fine not exceeding 100*l.*, without imprisonment.

Notwithstanding anything in this Order, every charge against a British subject of having committed any such offence shall be heard and determined in a summary way, and any District Court shall have power to impose the punishment aforesaid.

Her Majesty's Consular officers shall take such precautionary measures as seem to them proper and expedient for the prevention of such offences.

37. If any person subject to the criminal jurisdiction of any Court exercising jurisdiction in Brunei under this Order does any of the following things, namely:—

(i) Wilfully by act or threat obstructs any officer of or person executing any process of the Court in the performance of his duty; or

(ii) Within or close to the room or place where the Court is sitting, wilfully misbehaves in a violent, threatening, or disrespectful manner to the disturbance of the Court, or to the intimidation of suitors or others resorting thereto; or

(iii) Wilfully insults any member of the Court, or any juror or assessor, or any person acting as a clerk or officer of the Court during his sitting or attendance in Court, or in his going to or returning from Court; or

(iv) Does any act in relation to the Court, or a Judge thereof, or a matter pending therein which if done in relation to a Superior Court in England would be punishable as a contempt of such Court, or as a libel on such Court, or the Judges thereof, or the administration of justice therein;

Such person shall be liable to be apprehended by order of the Court, with or without warrant, and on inquiry and consideration, and after the hearing of any defence which such person may offer, without further process or trial, to be punished with a fine not exceeding 10*l.*, or with imprisonment not exceeding twenty-four hours.

A Minute shall be made and kept of every such case of punishment, recording the acts of the offence and the extent of the punishment, and a copy of the Minute shall be forthwith sent to the Consul in the case of punishment so inflicted by a District Court held by any Consular officer other than the Consul, or to the Secretary of State in the case of punishment so inflicted by the Consul.

Provided that, if the Court thinks fit, instead of proceeding under the preceding provisions, it may direct or cause the offender to be tried in a separate criminal prosecution or proceeding, in which the offender shall be liable to be tried and punished for his offence as an offence against this Order.

Nothing herein shall interfere with the power of the Court to remove or exclude persons who interrupt or obstruct the proceedings of the Court.

38. If any person in Brunei does any act or makes any publication of such kind, and under such circumstances, that, in the opinion of the Consul, grave danger to public order is thereby occasioned, the Consul shall have the same powers as under this Order a District Court has in relation to apprehended breaches of the peace.

39. If any clerk or officer of any Court acting under this Order in Brunei, acting under pretence of the process or authority of the Court, is charged with extortion, or with not duly paying any money levied, or with other misconduct, the Court may (without prejudice to any other liability or punishment to which the clerk or officer would in the absence of the present provision be liable) inquire into the charge in a summary way, and for that purpose summon and enforce the attendance of all necessary persons in like manner as the attendance of witnesses and others may be enforced in a suit, and may make such Order thereupon for the repayment of any money extorted, or for the due payment of any money levied, and for the payment of such damages and costs as the Court thinks just; and the Court may also, if it thinks fit, impose such fine upon the clerk or officer, not exceeding 100*l.*, for each offence, as seems just.

40. Any act which, if done in the United Kingdom or in a British possession, would be an offence against any of the following statutes of the Imperial Parliament or Orders in Council, that is to say:—

"The Merchandize Marks Act, 1887;"

"The Patents, Designs, and Trade Marks Acts, 1883 to 1888;"

Any Act, Statute, or Order in Council for the time being in force relating to copyright, or to inventions, designs, or trade marks;

Any Statute amending or substituted for any of the above mentioned Statutes—

Shall, if done by a British subject in Brunei, be punishable as an offence against this Order whether such act is done in relation to any property or right of a British subject, or of a foreigner, or otherwise;

Provided—

(1) That a copy of any such Statute or Order in Council shall be published by the Consul in his public office, and shall be there open for inspection by any person at all reasonable times; and a person shall not be punished under this Article for anything done before the expiration of one month after such publication, unless the person offending is proved to have had express notice of the Statute or Order:

(2) That a prosecution by or on behalf of a prosecutor who is not a British subject shall not be entertained without the consent, in writing, of the Consul who may withhold such consent, unless he is satisfied that effectual provision exists for the punishment in Consular or other Courts in Brunei of similar Acts committed by the subjects of the State or Power of which such prosecutor is a subject, in relation to or affecting the interests of British subjects.

41. A District Court shall have jurisdiction to make an order requiring a person to contribute, in such manner as the Court directs, to the support of his wife or child, whether legitimate or not, being in the opinion of the Court under the age of 16 years. Any such order may be made in a summary way, as if the neglect to provide for the support of such wife or child were an offence against this Order, and a failure to comply with any such order shall be deemed to be an offence against this Order, and shall be punishable accordingly, and the Court may direct any penalty imposed for such offence to be applied for the support of such wife or child in such manner as the Court thinks fit.

42. Where any act or omission is, by virtue of this Order, or of any regulation made under this Order, an offence against this Order, and no penalty or punishment is specified in respect thereof, such offence shall be punishable with imprisonment for not exceeding three months, or fine not exceeding 100*l.*, or both.

43. A District Court may cause to be apprehended and brought before it any British subject being within the district of the Court, and charged with having committed a crime in Brunei, and may deal with the accused according to the jurisdiction of the Court and in conformity with the provisions of this Order; or, where the crime is triable, and is to be tried, in Her Majesty's dominions, may take the preliminary examination, and commit the accused for trial, and cause or allow him to be taken to the place of intended trial.

44. (1) Where a person is charged with an offence on a summons or warrant issuing out of a Court, he shall be brought before the Court within forty-eight hours after service of the summons or execution of the warrant, unless, in any case, circumstances unavoidably prevent his being brought before the Court within that time, which circumstances shall be recorded in the Minutes.

(2) In every case he shall be brought before the Court as soon as circumstances reasonably admit, and the time and circumstances shall be recorded in the Minutes.

45. (1) Where an accused person is in custody he shall not be remanded at any time for more than seven days, unless circumstances appear to the Court to make it necessary or proper that he should be remanded for a longer time, which circumstances, and the time of remand, shall be recorded in the Minutes.

(2) In no case shall a remand be for more than fourteen days at one time, unless in case of illness of the accused person or other case of necessity.

46. (1) Except in cases of murder, an accused person may be admitted to bail at any stage of the proceedings.

(2) Where the offence charged is one of the following, it shall be in the discretion of the Court before whom such person appears or is tried to admit the accused to bail or not, according to the circumstances, namely:—

Felony (not being murder).

Riot.

Assault on an officer of a Court in the execution of his duty, or on any person acting in his aid.

Neglect or breach of duty by an officer of a Court.

(3) In all other cases, except murder, the Court shall admit the accused to bail, unless, in any instance, the Court, having regard to the circumstances, see good reason to the contrary, which reason shall be recorded in the Minutes.

(4) The Consul may, if he thinks fit, admit to bail a person charged with any offence, except murder, although any other Court, in the exercise of its discretion, has not thought fit to admit the accused to bail.

47. Crimes punishable under this Order are to be tried as follows (subject to the provisions of this Order as to the powers of the Consul, and of the Supreme Court, or a Judge thereof):—

(1) Crimes by this Order directed to be tried in a summary way are to be tried by a District Court without a jury or assessors.

(2) Crimes which are not punishable with a longer term of imprisonment than three months, nor punishable with fine exceeding 50*l.*, shall be tried in a summary way by a District Court without a jury or assessors.

(3) Crimes other than as aforesaid, and except crimes punishable with death or with penal servitude for seven years or upwards, shall be tried on indictment by a District Court with assessors or a jury: Provided that if the accused person desires to be tried in a summary way, and the Court is of opinion that the case is such that, if proved, it can be adequately punished under the powers of a District Court, the Court may hear and determine the case in a summary way.

(4) In every case of crime punishable with death, or with penal servitude for seven years or upwards, the Consul shall direct to what Court the accused person shall be committed for trial. Such Court shall be either the Supreme Court acting in the Straits Settlements, or acting in Brunei, or the Consul acting in Brunei with the powers of the Supreme Court; and the trial shall be by such Court with a jury if the trial takes place in the Straits Settlements, or if the accused person at the time of his being committed for trial in Brunei so requires: provided that, in case of inability to obtain a jury, or if the accused person does not require a jury, the Court may try the case with assessors.

(5) Whenever a District Court commits a person for trial, it shall take all proper steps by commitment, bail, or otherwise for securing the attendance of the accused person to take his trial, and by recognizance or otherwise for securing the attendance at the trial of the prosecutor and of the witnesses for the prosecution and for the defence respectively, and shall transmit to the proper Court the depositions and any documents, recognizances, or things necessary for the purpose of the trial, with a certificate under the seal of the District Court specifying the depositions, documents, and things so transmitted. Such certificate shall be primâ facie evidence of all the matters stated therein to have been done by or before the District Court, and that the depositions transmitted therewith were duly taken.

48. A District Court may impose the punishment of imprisonment for any term not exceeding six months, with or without hard labour, and with or without a fine not exceeding 200*l.*, or the punishment of a fine not exceeding 200*l.*, without imprisonment.

49. Every Court and authority in imposing and inflicting punishments under this Order shall have regard, so far as circumstances admit, and subject to the other provisions of this Order, to the punishments imposed by the Law of England in like cases, and to the mode in which the same are inflicted in England.

50. Any Court acting under this Order (but, in the case of a District Court held by a Consular officer other than the Consul, subject to the approval of the Consul) may order any person convicted before it of any crime or offence to pay all or any part of the expenses of or preliminary to his trial and of his imprisonment or other punishment.

Where it appears to any Court that any charge made before it is malicious, or is frivolous and vexatious, the Court may order all or any part of the expenses of the prosecution to be paid by the person making the charge.

In either of the two last-mentioned cases the amount ordered to be paid shall be deemed a debt due to the Crown, and may, by virtue of the order, without further proceedings, be levied on the property of the person convicted or making the charge, as the case may be, or may be enforced by imprisonment for not exceeding one month, or until payment.

51. (1) A Court may, if it thinks fit, order a person convicted of an assault to pay to the person assaulted, by way of damages, any sum not exceeding 20*l*.

(2) Damages so ordered to be paid may be either in addition to or in lieu of a fine, and shall be recoverable in like manner as a fine.

(3) Payment of such damages shall be a defence to an action for the assault.

52. (1) If, on a trial, a Court is of opinion that the accused attempted to commit the offence with which he is charged, but dit not complete it, he shall not be therefore acquitted, but the Court may find him guilty of the attempt, and may adjudge him to be punished as if he had been charged with the attempt.

He shall not be liable to be afterwards prosecuted for the offence.

(2) If, on the trial of a person charged with robbery, a Court is of opinion that the accused committed an assault with intent to rob, but did not commit robbery, he shall not be therefore acquitted, but the Court may find him guilty of the assault, and may adjudge him to be punished as if he had been charged with the assault.

He shall not be liable to be afterwards prosecuted for the assault.

(3) If, on a trial for any of the following offences, namely, burglary, or stealing in a dwelling-house, or breaking and entering and stealing in a shop, warehouse, or counting-house, or a building within the cartilage of a dwelling-house or larceny, or feloniously receiving property stolen, embezzled, or otherwise feloniously taken, obtained, or disposed of, the facts proved authorize a conviction for one of those offences, not being the offence charged, the Court may find the accused guilty of that other offence, and may adjudge him to be punished as he had been charged with that other offence.

He shall not be liable to be afterwards prosecuted for that other offence.

(4) If any person procures, or endeavours to procure, or incites any other person to commit a crime or offence, he shall be punishable on conviction in the same manner as if he were convicted of an attempt to commit that crime or offence. If the crime or offence is actually committed in pursuance of the procurement or incitement, both persons may be tried and punished for that crime or offence as principal offenders.

53. Where a person charged with having committed a crime or offence in the district of one Court, escapes or removes from that district and is found within the district of another Court, the Court within the district of which he is found may proceed in the case to examination, indictment, trial and punishment, or in a summary way (as the case may require), in the same manner as if the crime or offence had been committed in its own district; or may, on the requisition or with the consent of the Court of the district in which the crime or offence is charged to have been committed, send him in custody to that Court, or require him to give security for his surrender to that Court, there to answer the charge, and be dealt with according to law.

Where any person is to be so sent in custody a warrant shall be issued by the Court within the district of which he is found, and such warrant shall be sufficient authority to any person to whom he is directed to receive and detain the person therein named, and to carry him to, and deliver him up to, the Court of the district within which the crime or offence was committed, according to the warrant.

54. Where any person is charged with the commission of a crime or offence the cognizance whereof appertains to any of Her Majesty's Courts in Brunei, and it is expedient that the crime or offence be inquired of, tried, determined, and punished within Her Majesty's dominions, the accused may, in accordance with "The Foreign Jurisdiction Act, 1890," be sent for trial to a British possession to which under the next following Article, he could be sent for execution of a sentence of imprisonment.

The Consul may, where it appears expedient, by warrant under his hand and seal, cause the accused to be taken for trial accordingly.

55. (1) Sentences of imprisonment shall ordinarily be carried into effect in such prisons within Brunei as the Consul directs, either by any general directions or in any particular case. A warrant of the Consul, or of a Court before which a person is convicted, shall be sufficient authority for the removal of the person to the prison named in the warrant, and for his detention there.

(2) Where any offender convicted before a Court in Brunei is sentenced to imprisonment in respect of the crime or offence of which he is convicted, and it appears to the Consul to be expedient that the sentence be carried into effect within Her Majesty's dominions, the offender may, in accordance with "The Foreign Jurisdiction Act, 1890," be sent for execution of his sentence as follows:—

(a) In the case of a prisoner who is, or who appears to the person signing the warrant under the said 5th section to be, a native of Burma or of any other part of British India, and not of European descent, to Her Majesty's possession of Burma or some other part of British India.

(b) In the case of any other prisoner, to the Colony of the Straits Settlements, or to some other parts of Her Majesty's dominions out of the United Kingdom, the Government whereof consents that offenders may be sent thither under this Article.

And the Consul shall have authority for the purposes of the said section.

56. (1) In cases of murder or manslaughter, if either the death or the criminal act which wholly or partly caused the death happened within the jurisdiction of a Court acting under this Order, such Court shall have the like jurisdiction over any person, being a British subject, who is charged either as the principal offender, or as accessory before the fact to murder, or as accessory after the fact to murder or manslaughter, as if both such criminal act and the death had happened within such jurisdiction.

(2) In the case of any crime committed on the high seas, or within the Admiralty jurisdiction, by any British subject on board a British ship, or on board a Foreign ship to which he did not belong, a Court acting under this Order shall have jurisdiction as if the crime had been committed within the district of such Court. In cases tried under this provision, no different sentence can be passed from the sentence which could be passed in England if the crime were tried there.

(3) The foregoing provisions of this Article shall be deemed to be adaptations, for the purposes of this Order, and of "The Foreign Jurisdiction Act, 1890," of the following enactments described in the first Schedule to that Act (that is to say):—

"The Admiralty Offences (Colonial) Act, 1849."

"The Admiralty Offences (Colonial) Act, 1860."

"The Merchant Shipping Act, 1867," section 11.

And the said enactments shall, so far as they are repeated and adapted by this Article (but not further or otherwise) extend to Brunei.

57. "The Fugitive Offenders Act, 1881," shall apply to Brunei as if Brunei were a British possession, subject to the conditions, exceptions, and qualifications following:—

(i) The said Act shall apply only in the case of British subjects.

(ii) The Consul is, for the purposes of the said Act, substituted for the Governor of a British possession, and for a Superior Court, or a Judge thereof, in a British possession, and for a Magistrate or Justice of the Peace in a British possession.

(iii) So much of the 4th and 5th sections of the said Act as relates to the sending of a report of the issue of a warrant, together with the information, or a copy thereof, or to the sending of a certificate of committal and report of a case, or to the information to be given by a Magistrate to a fugitive, shall be excepted.

(iv) So much of the 6th section of the said Act as relates to habeas corpus, and as requires the expiration of fifteen days before issue of a warrant, shall be excepted.

(v) The said Consul shall not be bound to return a fugitive offender to a British possession unless satisfied that the proceedings to obtain his return are taken with the consent of the Governor of that possession.

(vi) For the purposes of Part II of the said Act, Brunei and the Colony of the Straits Settlements shall be deemed to be one group of British possession.

58. "The Colonial Prisoners Removal Act, 1884," shall apply to Brunei as if Brunei were a British possession, and part of Her Majesty's dominions, subject as follows:—

The Consul shall, in relation to Brunei, be substituted for the Governor of a British possession.

59. The Consul shall, when required by the Secretary of State, send to the Secretary of State a report of the sentence passed in every case heard and determined by him, with a copy of the Minutes of proceedings and notes of evidence, and may send with such report any observations he thinks fit.

Every Court (other than the Consul) shall forthwith send to the Consul a report of the sentence passed by it in Brunei in every case not heard and determined in a summary way, with a copy of the Minutes of proceedings and notes of evidence, and with any observations the Court thinks fit. The Consul shall, when required by the Secretary of State, transmit the same to the Secretary of State, and may send therewith any observations he thinks fit.

60. (1) Where any person is sentenced in Brunei to suffer the punishment of death, the Court pronouncing the sentence shall forthwith send a report of the sentence, with a copy of the Minutes of the proceedings and notes of the evidence in the case, and with any observation the Court thinks fit to make, to the Governor in Council of the Straits Settlements.

(2) The sentence shall not be carried into execution without the order of the Governor of the Straits Settlements in Council.

(3) In any such case, if the said Governor in Council does not order that the sentence of death be carried into execution, he shall direct what punishment in lieu of the punishment of death is to be inflicted on the person convicted, and the person convicted shall be punished accordingly.

61. The Governor in Council of the Straits Settlements shall have power, in the name of Her Majesty, to remit or commute in whole or in part any sentence passed by a Court exercising criminal jurisdiction uuder this Order, and every such Court shall give effect to any such remission.

62. Nothing in this Order shall be deemed to affect Her Majesty's prerogative of pardon.

PART VII.—APPEALS.

63. (1) Where any decision of a District Court, sitting with or without assessors, or a decision of a Judge of the Supreme Court acting under this Order, with or without assessors, either in Brunei or in the Straits Settlements, is given in a civil case in respect of a sum or matter at issue of the amount or value of 50*l.* or upwards, or determines, directly or indirectly, any claim or question respecting property of the amount or value of 50*l.* or upwards, any party aggrieved by the decision may apply to the Court for leave to appeal to the Supreme Court, and shall be entitled to leave on the terms prescribed by rules made under this Order, and subject to any restrictions and exceptions therein contained.

In any other case the Court or Judge may, if it seems just and expedient, give leave to appeal on like terms.

In any case the Supreme Court may give leave to appeal on such terms as seem just.

(2) In any matter in which an appeal lies, as of right or otherwise, to the Supreme Court, it shall be lawful for the Supreme Court, by special leave, to enlarge the time for appealing, or to permit an appeal to be brought on such terms as to costs or otherwise as it thinks fit, although the time limited for appeal has elapsed, or any other formal requisite for an appeal has not been complied with.

(3) The said Supreme Court, on the hearing of any appeal, may admit fresh evidence in such cases and on such terms as he or they think just, subject to any rules to be made under this Order.

64. (1) Where any final decree or order of the Supreme Court on appeal under this Order is made in a civil case in respect of a sum or matter at issue of the amount or value of 500*l.* or upwards, or determines, directly or indirectly, any claim or question respecting property of the amount or value of 500*l.* or upwards, any party aggrieved by the decree or order may, within fifteen days after the same is made, apply by motion to the Supreme Court for leave to appeal to Her Majesty in Council.

(2) If leave to appeal is applied for by a party adjudged to pay money or perform a duty, the Supreme Court shall direct either that the decree or order appealed from be carried into execution or that the execution thereof be suspended, pending the appeal, as the said Court considers to be in accordance with substantial justice.

(3) If the said Court directs the decree or order to be carried into execution, the party in whose favour it is made shall, before the execution of it, give security to the satisfaction of the said Court for the due performance of such Order as Her Majesty in Council may think fit to make.

(4) If the said Court directs the execution of the decree or order to be suspended pending the appeal, the party against whom the decree is made shall, before any order for suspension of execution, give security to the satisfaction of the said Court for the due performance of such Order as Her Majesty in Council may think fit to make.

(5) In all cases security shall also be given by the appellant to the satisfaction of the said Court, to an amount not exceeding 500*l.*, for the prosecution of the appeal, and for payment of all such costs as may be awarded to any respondent on appeal to Her Majesty in Council.

(6) If the last-mentioned security is given within one month from the filing of the motion paper for leave to appeal, then, and not otherwise, the said Court shall give leave to appeal.

(7) In any case other than the cases hereinbefore described, the Supreme Court may give leave to appeal on the terms and in the manner aforesaid, if it considers it just or expedient to do so.

(8) In every case where leave to appeal is given as aforesaid, the appellant shall be at liberty to prefer and prosecute his appeal to Her Majesty in Council according to the Rules for the time being in force respecting appeals to Her Majesty in Council from Her Colonies, or such other Rules as Her Majesty in Council from time to time thinks fit to make concerning appeals from the Supreme Court.

(9) Nothing in this Order shall affect the right of Her Majesty at any time, on the humble petition of a party aggrieved by any decision of the Supreme Court, to admit his appeal thereon on such terms and in such manner as Her Majesty in Council may think fit, and to deal with the dicision appealed from in such manner as may be just.

65. In any case in which an appeal lies under this Order from a District Court to the Supreme Court as of right, or leave to appeal is given by the District Court, the parties may agree that the appeal shall be to the Consul, and upon any such agreement in writing being filed in the District Court, or upon such agreement being made in open Court and embodied in any order of the District Court, the appeal shall be to the Consul, who shall hear and dispose of the appeal in a summary way in such manner as he thinks fit, and may make any order which could have been made by the District Court, and shall certify his order to the District Court, and that Court shall give effect thereto.

Any such order shall be final, and shall not be subject to any further appeal, either to the Supreme Court or to Her Majesty in Council.

This Article does not apply to cases which are in the first instance heard by the Consul in the exercise of any jurisdiction under this Order.

66. (1) Where any person is convicted otherwise than in a summary way of a crime or offence, the Court trying the case may, if it seems fit, upon or without written application by the prosecutor or defendant, reserve for the consideration of the full Supreme Court any question of law arising on the trial.

The Court shall then state a special case, setting out the question reserved, with the facts and circumstances on which it arose, and shall send the case to the Supreme Court.

(2) Where any person is convicted in a summary way of a crime or offence, and is dissatisfied with the conviction as being erroneous in point of law, the Court trying the case may, on his application in writing, and on compliance by him with any terms prescribed by the Rules made under this Order, state a special case, setting out the facts and the grounds of the conviction, for the opinion of the Supreme Court.

(3) Where a special case is stated, the Court stating it shall, as seems fit, either postpone judgment on the conviction, or respite execution of the judgment, and either commit the person convicted to prison, or take proper security for him to appear and receive judgment, or to render himself in execution (as the case may require) at an appointed time and place.

(4) The Supreme Court shall hear and determine the matter, and thereupon shall reverse, affirm, or amend the judgment, conviction, or sentence in question, or set aside the same, and order an entry to be made in the Minutes of proceedings to the effect that in the judgment of the Supreme Court the person convicted ought not to have been convicted, or arrest the judgment, or order judgment to be given at a subsequent sitting of the Court stating the case, or order a new trial, or make such other order as justice requires, and shall also give the necessary and proper consequential directions.

(5) The judgment of the Supreme Court shall be delivered in open Court after the public hearing of any argument offered on behalf of the prosecution or of the person convicted.

(6) Before delivering judgment the Supreme Court may, if necessary, cause the special case to be amended by the Court stating it.

(7) If on an application for a special case the Court refuses to state a case, the Court so refusing shall forthwith send to the Supreme Court a report of the sentence, with a copy of the Minutes of proceedings and notes of evidence, and any observations the Court thinks fit, and with the copy of the application for a special case.

(8) The Supreme Court shall examine the report and documents so sent, and may, on the application in that behalf of the appellant, if made within one month after the refusal of a special case, proceed to hear and determine the matter according to the foregoing provisions, as nearly as may be, as if a special case had been stated.

(9) In this Article expressions referring to the Court which tries a case include a District Court or a Judge or Judges of the Supreme Court acting under this Order either in Brunei or in the Straits Settlements, or the Consul acting with the power of the Supreme Court.

PART VIII.—EVIDENCE.

67. (1) In any case, criminal or civil, and at any stage thereof, a District Court either of its own motion, or on the application of any party, may summon a British subject to attend to give evidence, or to produce documents, or to be examined.

(2) If the person summoned, having reasonable notice of the time and place at which he is required to attend, fails to attend and be sworn, and give evidence, or produce documents, or submit to examination accordingly, and does not excuse his failure to the satisfaction of the Court, he shall be guilty of an offence against this Order.

(3) A person punished under this Article shall not be liable to an action in respect of the same matter; and any such action, if begun, shall be stayed by the Court in such manner and on such terms as the Court thinks fit.

(4) In a criminal case, where it is proved that a British subject is likely to give material evidence, either for the prosecution or for the defence, and that he will not voluntarily attend to give evidence, the Court may issue a summons for his attendance.

(5) If he does not obey the summons, and does not excuse his failure to the satisfaction of the Court, then, after proof of service of the summons, the Court may issue a warrant to compel his attendance.

(6) Where it is proved that he will not attend to give evidence unless compelled to do so, the Court may issue a warrant in the first instance.

(7) In civil cases any Court may, where the circumstances appear to justify it, order that the expenses of a witness, on his appearing to give evidence, shall be defrayed by the parties, or any of them.

68. (1) Any person appearing before a District Court to give evidence in any case, civil or criminal, may be examined or give evidence on oath in the form or with the ceremony that he declares to be binding on his conscience.

(2) Any British subject wilfully giving false evidence in any suit or proceeding, civil or criminal, or on any arbitration, or in any affidavit, shall be deemed guilty of wilful and corrupt perjury.

69. (1) Judicial notice shall be taken of this Order, and of the commencement thereof, and of the appointment of Consular or other officers, and of the constitution and limits of any jurisdiction, Court, or district, and of Consular seals and signatures, and of any Rules or Regulations made or in force under this Order, and no proof shall be required of any of such matters.

(2) Every signature or seal affixed to any instrument purporting to be the signature of any Consular officer or person acting under this Order, or to be the seal of any Court, shall, for all purposes under this Order, without any proof thereof, be presumed to be genuine, and shall be taken as genuine until the contrary is proved.

70. A person attending to give evidence before a District Court shall not be compelled or allowed to give any evidence, or produce any document, if, in the opinion of the Consul signified by him personally or in writing to the Court, the giving or production thereof would be injurious to Her Majesty's service.

71. (1) The provisions of "The Evidence Act, 1851" (14 & 15 Vict., cap. 99), sections 7 and 11, relating to the proof of judicial and other documents, shall extend and be applied for all purposes as if the district were in a British Colony.

(2) The following Acts, namely:—

"The Foreign Tribunals Evidence Act, 1856,"
"The Evidence by Commission Act, 1859,"
"The Evidence by Commission Act, 1885,"

or so much thereof as is for the time being in force, and any enactment for the time being in force, amending or substituted for the same, are hereby extended to all places and Courts to which this Order applies, with the adaptations following, namely:—

In the said Acts, the Consul is hereby substituted for a Supreme Court, or the Judge of a Court in a Colony.

(3) The following Acts, namely:—

"The British Law Ascertainment Act, 1859,"
"The Foreign Law Ascertainment Act, 1861,"

or so much thereof as is for the time being in force, and any enactment for the time being in force amending or substituted for the same, are hereby extended to all places and Courts to which this Order applies, with the adaptations following, namely:—

In the said Acts the Consul is hereby substituted for a Superior Court in a Colony.

PART IX.—JURIES AND ASSESSORS.

Juries.

72. (1) Every male British subject resident in Brunei, being of the age of 21 years or upwards, being able to speak and read English, having or earning a gross income at the rate of not less than 50*l.* a year, not having been attainted of treason or felony, or convicted of any crime that is infamous (unless he has obtained a free pardon), and not being under outlawry, shall be qualified to serve on a jury.

(2) All persons so qualified shall be liable so to serve, except the following:—

Persons in Her Majesty's Diplomatic, Consular, or other Civil Service in actual employment.
Officers, clerks, keepers of prisons, messengers, and other persons attached to, or in the service of, any of Her Majesty's Courts.
Officers and others on full pay in Her Majesty's Navy or Army, or in actual employment in the service of any department connected therewith.
Clergymen and ministers in the actual discharge of professional duties.
Advocates and attorneys in actual practice.
Physicians, surgeons, and apothecaries in actual practice.
And except persons disabled by mental or bodily infirmity.

73. On or before the 14th day of January in every year each District Court shall make out a list of the persons so qualified and liable resident within its district.

The list shall, on or before the 21st day of the same respective month, be affixed in some conspicuous place in the Court, and shall be there exhibited until the end of that month, with a notice annexed that on a day specified, not being sooner than the 7th or later than the 14th day of the then next month, the Court will hold a special sitting for the revision of the list.

The Court shall hold such special sitting accordingly, and at such sitting, or at some adjournment thereof (of which public notice shall be given), shall revise the list by striking out the name of any person appearing to be not qualified or not liable to serve, and by inserting the name of any person omitted, and appearing to be so qualified and liable, either on the application of the person omitted, or on such notice to him as the Court thinks fit.

The list shall be finally revised and settled not later than the 21st day of February in every year, and when settled shall be affixed in some conspicuous place in the Court, and be there exhibited during not less than two months.

Such list, as settled, shall be brought into use on the 1st day of March, and shall be used as the Jury List of the Court until the 1st day of March next after the time of its being brought into use.

74. Where, in pursuance of this Order, a jury is ordered, the Court before which the trial is to be had shall summon so many of the persons comprised in the Jury List, not fewer than seven, as seems requisite.

Any person failing to attend according to such summons shall be liable to such fine not exceeding 10*l.* as the Court thinks fit to impose.

Any such fine shall not be levied until after the expiration of fourteen days. The proper officer of the Court shall forthwith give to the person fined notice in writing of the imposition of the fine, and require him within six days after receipt of the notice to file an affidavit excusing his non-attendance if he desires to do so. The Court shall consider the affidavit, and may, if it seems proper, remit the fine.

75. Where a suit relates to money, goods, or other property, or any matter at issue appearing to the Court to be of the amount or value of 300*l.* or upwards, or is brought for recovery of damages of the amount of 300*l.* or upwards, the suit shall, on the demand of either party, be, under order of the Court before which the trial is to be had, tried with a jury.

In any case a suit may be tried with a jury, if the Court, of its own motion or on the application of either party, thinks fit so to order.

76. (1) The foregoing provisions relating to the preparation of Jury Lists and the summoning of juries shall not, as regards any District Court, come into operation until the Consul so directs by order in writing, published in such manner as he thinks fit.

He may from time to time by any such order, as regards any district, alter the number of jurors to be summoned, or the quorum of a jury.

He may suspend the operation of any such order from time to time, or revoke any order.

(2) If, in any civil or criminal case where a jury is ordered, or is required by this Order or by any Rules of Procedure, a sufficient jury cannot be obtained, the Court before which the trial is to be had may either hear the case without a jury, or with a jury of less than the proper number, or postpone it in order to obtain a jury or assessors, as the Court thinks just.

77. (1) Subject to the other provisions of this Order, the number of the jury shall be five.

(2) In criminal cases tried with a jury, the verdict of the jury must be unanimous. In civil cases the verdict must be unanimous unless the parties otherwise agree.

(3) No challenge shall be allowed except for cause shown to the satisfaction of the Court.

(4) No grand jury shall be summoned.

78. Where a District Court proceeds, in pursuance of this Order, to hear and determine any case, civil or criminal, with assessors, the Court shall nominate and summon as assessors not less than two and not more than four indifferent British subjects of good repute, resident in the district of the Court, or belonging to a British ship.

Where, by reason of local circumstances, the Court is able to obtain the presence of one fit person only as assessor, the Court may sit with him alone as assessor; and where, for like reasons, the Court is not able to obtain the presence of any fit person as assessor, the Court may (notwithstanding anything in this Order) sit without an assessor; but in every such case the Court shall record in the Minutes of proceedings its reasons for sitting with one assessor only, or without an assessor.

An assessor shall not have voice or vote in the decision of the Court in any case, civil or criminal; but an assessor dissenting in a civil case from any decision of the Court, or in a criminal case from any decision of the Court, or the conviction, or the amount of punishment awarded, may record in the Minutes of proceedings his dissent and grounds thereof; and an assessor dissenting shall be entitled to receive gratis a certified copy of the Minutes.

79. In civil cases any party who has a right to demand a trial with a jury may, in lieu thereof, demand a trial with assessors, unless a trial with a jury is ordered, and can be had. If no party demands a jury or assessors, the Court before whom the trial is to be had may, if it thinks fit, summon assessors.

80. If any person summoned to act as assessors fails, without lawful excuse, to attend at the trial, or at any adjournment thereof, or to continue to serve throughout the trial, he shall be liable under a summary order of the Court to a fine not exceeding 10*l.*, to be levied by attachment and sale of his goods within the district, and in default of recovery thereby of the fine, to be imprisoned for any time not exceeding six days, if the fine is not sooner paid.

PART X.—RULES OF PROCEDURE.

81. (1) The Consul, with the approval of the Chief Justice of the Straits Settlements, may from time to time frame Rules for any purpose for which it is in this order expressed or implied that Rules of Procedure or practice are to be made for the execution of judgments or orders, and for the regulation of appeals in civil and in criminal cases, and of rehearings, and generally for the purpose of making any provision proper or necessary for the proper or effectual exercise of the jurisdiction of Courts under this Order, and may thereby impose reasonable penalties, and may provide for the enforcement of any judgment or order by imprisonment for not exceeding one month.

(2) Rules affecting the conduct of civil suits shall be so framed as to secure, as far as may be, that cases shall be decided on their merits according to substantial justice, without excessive regard to technicalities of pleading or procedure, and without unnecessary delay.

(3) Rules framed under this Article shall not have effect unless and until they are approved by the Secretary of State, save that in case of urgency declared in any Rules framed by the Consul the same shall have effect unless and until they are disapproved by the Secretary of State, and notification of such disapproval is received and published by the Consul.

(4) Provision may, amongst other things, be made by Rules under this Article, authorising any Court to grant and enforce search warrants, and to enforce awards, and to enforce by distress, or by attachment, or commitment, judgments or orders of any Court, or payment of any damages, costs, penalties, fines, or forfeitures, and for the sale of things forfeited, and for garnishee process, and for attachments of property in order to compel appearance or submission to the jurisdiction or process of any Court, and authorizing any Court to compel, by fine, distress, or recognizance, or, in default of security by commitment, the attendance of witnesses before any Court, or before a Colonial Court to which a case is sent for trial, and to fix and enforce the fees to be taken in respect of any proceedings under this Order, not exceeding, as regards any matters provided for by the Act of 6 Geo. IV., cap. 87, fees fixed and allowed from time to time by any Order in Council made under that Act, and to take and transmit depositions of witnesses for use at trials in a Colony or in England, and to appoint forms of indictment or charge in criminal proceedings, and for regulating the conditions on which persons may be admitted to practise as barristers, advocates, or solicitors in proceedings in any Court, and for suspending or excluding such persons from practice in case of misconduct: Provided that the scales of all fees fixed under the provisions of this Order shall have been sanctioned by the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury.

82. A copy of the Rules for the time being in force shall be kept exhibited conspicuously in each District Court and Consulate.

Printed copies shall be provided and sold at such reasonable price as the Consul from time to time directs.

No penalty shall be enforced in any District Court for the breach of any Rule until the Rule has been so exhibited in the Court for one month, unless the person offending is proved to have had express notice of the Rule.

A printed copy of any Rule purporting to be certified under the hand of the Consul shall be for all purposes conclusive evidence of the due framing, approval, and publication of the contents thereof.

From and after the commencement of any Rules made under this Order, all Rules and Regulations theretofore in force in the district in respect of any matter in respect whereof Rules are made under this Order shall cease to operate.

PART XI.—TREATIES AND QUEEN'S REGULATIONS.

83. If any British subject violates or fails to observe any stipulation of any Treaty made with, or by, or on behalf of, Her Majesty, for the time being in force, in respect of the violation whereof any penalty is stipulated for in the Treaty, he shall be deemed guilty of an offence against the Treaty, and on conviction thereof under this Order shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding the penalty stipulated for in the Treaty.

84. (1) The Consul may from time to time, subject and according to the provisions of this Order, make, on behalf of Her Majesty, such Regulations as to him seem fit, for the peace, order, and good government of British subjects resident in, or resorting to, Brunei.

(2) The power aforesaid extends to the making of Regulations for securing observance of the stipulations of Treaties between Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, and the Sultan of Brunei, and for enforcing any local law or customs, whether relating to trade, commerce, revenue, or any other matter, and for maintaining friendly relations between British subjects and Native subjects and authorities, and for requiring returns to be made of the nature, quantity, and value of articles exported from or imported into Brunei, by or on account of any British subject or in any British ship, and for prescribing the times and manner at or in which, and the persons by whom, such returns are to be made.

(3) The Consul may, as he thinks fit, make any Regulation under this Order extend either throughout Brunei, or to some one or more only of the Consular districts in Brunei.

(4) The Consul in the exercise of the powers aforesaid may, if he thinks fit, join with the Ministers or Representatives of any foreign Powers in amity with Her Majesty in making or adopting Regulations for the municipal government of any foreign Concession or Settlement in Brunei; and as regards British subjects, joint Regulations so made shall be as valid and binding as if they related to British subjects only.

(5) The Consul may, by any Regulation made under this Order, repeal or alter any Regulation made under any Order in Council relating to Brunei.

(6) Regulations made under this Order shall not have effect unless and until they are approved by Her Majesty, that approval being signified through the Secretary of State, save that in case of urgency declared in any such Regulations, the same shall take effect before that approval, and shall continue to have effect unless and until they are disapproved by Her Majesty the Queen, that disapproval being signified through the Secretary of State, and until notification of that disapproval has been received and published by the Consul.

That approval, where given, shall be conclusive, and the validity or regularity of any Regulations so approved shall not be called in question in any legal proceeding whatever.

85. Any Regulations made under this Order may, if the Consul thinks fit, impose penalties for offences against the same.

Penalties so imposed shall not exceed the following, namely; for any offence, imprisonment for three months, with or without hard labour, and with or without a fine of 100*l.*, or a fine of 100*l.* without imprisonment; with or without a further fine, for a continuing offence of 10*l.* for each day during which the offence continues after the original fine is incurred.

Regulations imposing penalties shall be so framed as to allow in every case of part only of the highest penalty being inflicted.

In addition to or in lieu of penalties, such Regulation may provide for forfeiture of any goods, receptacles, or things in relation to which, or to the contents of which, any breach is committed of such Regulations, of any Treaty, or any native Law or Ordinance the observance of which is provided for by such Regulations.

86. All regulations made under this Order, whether imposing penalties or not, shall be printed, and a printed copy thereof shall be affixed, and be at all times kept exhibited conspicuously in the public offices of each Consulate in Brunei.

Printed copies of the Regulations shall be kept on sale at such reasonable price as the Consul from time to time directs.

Where a Regulation imposes a penalty or forfeiture, the same shall not be enforceable in any Consular district until a printed copy of the Regulation has been affixed in the public office of the Consulate for that district, and has been kept exhibited conspicuously there during one month, unless the person offending is proved to have had express notice of the Regulation.

A printed copy of a Regulation purporting to be made under this Order, and to be certified under the hand of the Consul, shall be conclusive evidence of the due making of the Regulation and of its contents.

87. A charge of an offence against a Regulation made under this Order imposing a penalty or forfeiture shall be inquired of, heard, and determined as an ordinary criminal charge under this Order, except that where the Regulation is one for securing observance of the stipulations of a Treaty, the charge shall be heard and determined in a summary way, and (where the proceeding is before a District Court) without Assessors.

88. The respective powers aforesaid extend to the making of Regulations for the governance, visitation, care, and superintendence of prisons in Brunei, and for the infliction of corporal or other punishment on prisoners committing offences against the rules or discipline of a prison; but the provisions of this Order respecting penalties, and respecting the printing, affixing, exhibiting, and sale of Regulations, and the mode of trial of charges of offences against Regulations, do not apply to Regulations respecting prisons and offences of prisoners.

PART XII.—FOREIGNERS AND NATIVES.

89.—(a) Where a foreigner desires to institute or take a suit or proceeding of a civil nature against a British subject, or a British subject desires to institute or take a suit or proceeding of a civil nature against a foreigner, a District Court may entertain the suit or proceeding, and hear and determine it (and if all parties desire, or the Court directs a trial with a jury or Assessors, then with a jury or Assessors) at a place where such a trial might be had if all parties were British subjects, and in all other respects according to the ordinary course of the Court.

(b) Provided that the foreigner (i) first files in the Court his consent to the jurisdiction of the Court; and (ii) also, if required by the Court, obtains and files a certificate in writing from a competent authority of his own Government to the effect that no objection is made by that Government to the foreigner submitting in the particular cause or matter to the jurisdiction of the Court; and (iii) also, if required by the Court, gives security to the satisfaction of the Court, to such reasonable amount as the Court directs, by deposit money or otherwise, to pay fees, costs, damages, and expenses, and to abide by and perform the decision to be given by the Court or on appeal.

(c) A counter-claim or cross-suit cannot be brought or instituted in the Court against a plaintiff, being a foreigner who has submitted to the jurisdiction, by a defendant, except by leave of the Court first obtained.

(d) The Court, before giving leave, shall require proof from the defendant that his claim arises out of the matter in dispute, and that there is reasonable ground for it, and that it is not made for vexation or delay.

(e) Nothing in this Article prevents the defendant from instituting or taking in the Court against the foreigner, after the termination of the suit or proceeding in which the foreigner is plaintiff, any suit or proceeding that the defendant might have instituted or taken in the Court against the foreigner if no provision restraining counter-claims or cross-suits had been inserted in this Order.

(f) Where a foreigner obtains in the Court an order against a defendant being a British subject, and in another suit that defendant is plaintiff and the foreigner is defendant, the Court may, if it thinks fit, on the application of the British subject, stay the enforcement of the order pending that other suit, and may set off any amount ordered to be paid by one party in one suit against any amount ordered to be paid by the other party in the other suit.

(g) Where a plaintiff, being a foreigner, obtains in the Court an order against two or more defendants, being British subjects, jointly, and in another suit one of them is plaintiff and the foreigner is defendant, the Court may, if it thinks fit, on the application of the British subject, stay the enforcement of the order pending that other suit, and may set off any amount ordered to be paid by one party in one suit against any amount ordered to be paid by the other party in the other suit, without prejudice to the right of the British subject to require contribution from his co-defendants under the joint liability.

(h) Where a foreigner is co-plaintiff in a suit with a British subject who is within the particular jurisdiction, it is not necessary for the foreigner to make deposit or give security for costs unless the Court so directs; but the co-plaintiff British subject is responsible for all fees and costs.

90.—(a) Where it is shown to a District Court that the attendance of a British subject to give evidence, or for any other purpose connected with the administration of justice, is required in a native Court, or before a judicial officer in Brunei of any State in amity with Her Majesty, the Court may, in cases and under circumstances which would require the attendance of that British subject before one of Her Majesty's Courts in Brunei, and if it seems to the Court just and expedient so to do, make an order for the attendance of the British subject in such Court or before such judicial officer, and for such purpose as aforesaid, but so that a District Court shall not have power to make an order for such attendance of a British subject at any place beyond the particular jurisdiction of the Court.

The order may be made subject to conditions as to payment or tender of expenses or otherwise.

(b) If the person ordered to attend, having reasonable notice of the time and place at which he is required to attend, fails to attend accordingly, and does not excuse his failure to the satisfaction of the Court, or if he refuses to give evidence, or wilfully gives false evidence, or fails to produce documents which he is properly required to produce, he is, independently of any other liability, guilty of an offence against this Order, and for every such offence on conviction thereof, by summary trial, is liable to a fine not exceeding 100*l.*, or to imprisonment for not exceeding one month, in the discretion of the Court.

91. When, pursuant to the Agreement dated the 17th September, 1888, between Her Majesty and the Sultan of Brunei, a civil proceeding is brought by a native against a British subject, an officer appointed by the Government of the Sultan shall be entitled to be present at, and to take part in, the proceedings, but shall have no voice in the decision.

PART XIII.—DEPORTATION AND REMOVAL.

92.—(1) Where it is shown on oath to the satisfaction of a District Court that there is reasonable ground to apprehend that any British subject within the district of such Court is about to commit a breach of the public peace, or that the acts or conduct of any British subject are or is likely to produce or excite to a breach of the public peace, the Court may cause him to be brought before it and require him to give security to the satisfaction of the Court to keep the peace, or for his future good behaviour, as the case may require.

(2) Where any British subject is convicted under this Order of any crime or offence, a District Court within the jurisdiction whereof he happens to be may require him to give security to the satisfaction of the Court for his future good behaviour.

(3) In either of these cases, if the person required to give security fails to do so, the Court may order that he be deported from Brunei to such place as the Court directs.

(4) The place shall be a place in some part of Her Majesty's dominions prescribed by the Secretary of State, or a place the Government whereof consents to the reception therein of persons deported under this Order. The order for deportation may, in any case with reference to which the Secretary of State by any general or special directions so directs, provide for the deportation of the person to whom it refers in the first instance to any place, as above mentioned, and also for his further deportation from that place to any other place to which he could lawfully have been deported in the first instance.

(5) A District Court shall forthwith report to the Consul any order of deportation made by it, and the grounds thereof.

The Consul may reverse the order, or may confirm it with or without variation, and in case of confirmation shall direct it to be carried into effect.

(6) The person to be deported shall be detained in custody until a fit time and opportunity for his deportation arrives.

(7) The Consul shall (and in the case of a person convicted, either after execution of the sentence, or while it is in course of execution), by warrant, cause the person to be taken to the place of deportation.

(8) The Consul may order that the person to be deported do pay all or any part of the expenses of, or preliminary to, his deportation.

(9) The Consul shall forthwith report to the Secretary of State any order of deportation made or confirmed by him, and the grounds thereof.

(10) Where any person is deported to Singapore, he shall, on his arrival there, be delivered, with the warrant under which he is deported, into the custody of the Superintendent of Prisons of Singapore, or other officer of Her Majesty there lawfully acting as such, who, on receipt of the person deported, with the warrant, shall detain him, and shall forthwith report the case to the Governor or person administering the Government of the Straits Settlements, who shall either, by warrant if the person is a native of the United Kingdom and if the circumstances of the case appear to make it expedient, cause the person so deported to be taken to England, and in the meantime to be detained in custody (so that the period of such detention do not exceed three months), or else shall discharge him from custody.

(11) If any person deported returns to Brunei without the permission of the Secretary of State or of the Consul in writing under his hand, he shall be guilty of an offence against this Order, and shall be liable, on conviction thereof, to punishment (in the discretion of the Court before which he is convicted) by imprisonment for any term not exceeding one month, with or without hard labour, and with or without a fine not exceeding 40*l.*, or by a fine not exceeding 40*l.*, without imprisonment, and also to be forthwith again deported in manner hereinbefore provided.

93.—(1) Whenever under this Order any person is to be taken into custody or otherwise, for trial or imprisonment, or by way of deportation, or for any other purpose, any place in or out of Brunei, the Court or other authority by this Order authorized to cause him to be so taken may for that purpose (if necessary) cause him to be embarked on board one of Her Majesty's vessels of war, or if there is no such vessel available, then on board any British or other fit vessel, at any port or place whether within or beyond the particular jurisdiction or district of that Court or authority, and in order to such embarkment may (if necessary) cause him to be taken, in custody or otherwise, by land or by water, from any place to the port or place of embarkment.

(2) The writ, order, or warrant of the Consul, or of a District Court in Brunei, or of the Supreme Court, or the warrant of the Governor or person administering the Government of the Straits Settlements (as the case may be), by virtue whereof any person is to be so taken, shall be sufficient authority to every constable, officer, or other person acting thereunder, and to the commander or master of any vessel of war, or other vessel (whether the constable, officer, or other person, or the vessel, or the commander or master thereof, is named therein or not), to receive, detain, take, and deliver up such person, according to the writ, order, or warrant.

(3) Where the writ, order, or warrant is executed under the immediate direction of the Court or authority issuing it, the writ, order, or warrant shall be delivered to the constable, officer, or other person acting thereunder, and a duplicate thereof shall be delivered to the commander or master of any vessel in which the person to whom the writ, order, or warrant relates is embarked.

(4) Where the writ, order, or warrant is made or issued by the Consul, and is executed by a District Court in Brunei, and where the writ, order, or warrant issues from the Supreme Court of the Straits Settlements, and is executed by any of Her Majesty's Courts in Brunei, a copy thereof certified under the seal of the Court executing the same shall be delivered to the constable, officer, or other person acting thereunder, and to the commander or master of any vessel in which the person taken is embarked; and any such copy shall be for all purposes conclusive evidence of the order of which it purports to be a copy.

PART XIV.—REGISTRATION.

94.—(1) Every British subject resident in Brunei, being of the age of twenty-one years or upwards, or being married, or a widower or widow, though under that age, shall, in the month of January in the year 1891, and every subsequent year, register himself in a register to be kept at the Consulate of the Consular district within which he resides, subject to this qualification, that the registration of a man shall be deemed to include the registration of his wife (unless she is living apart from him), and that the registration of the head of a family, whether male or female, shall be deemed to include the registration of all females, being relatives of the head of the family (in whatever degree of relationship), living under the same roof with the head of the family at the time of his registration.

(2) Every British subject not so resident arriving after the commencement of this Order at any place in Brunei where a Consular officer is maintained, unless borne on the muster-roll of a British vessel there arriving, shall, within one month after his arrival, register himself in a register to be kept at the Consular office, but so that no such person shall be required to register himself more than once in any year, reckoned from the 1st day of January.

(3) Any person failing so to register himself, and not excusing his failure to the satisfaction of the Consular officer, shall not be entitled to be recognized or protected as a British subject in Brunei, and shall be liable to a fine not exceeding two pounds for each instance of such failure; but he shall nevertheless be subject to the jurisdiction of the Courts for all purposes.

(4) Every person shall, on every registration of himself, pay a fee of 2*s.*.6*d.*

(5) The Consular officer shall issue to every person so registered a certificate of registration under his hand and Consular seal; and the name of a wife (unless living apart from her husband) shall be indorsed on her husband's certificate; and the names and descriptions of females whose registration is included in that of the head of the family shall be indorsed on the certificate of the head of the family.

PART XV.—MORTGAGES AND BILLS OF SALE.

95.—(1) A deed or other instrument of mortgage, legal or equitable, of lands or houses in Brunei, executed by a British subject, may be registered at any time after its execution at the District Court of the district wherein the property mortgaged is situate.

(2) Registration is made as follows: The original and a copy of the deed or other instrument of mortgage, and an affidavit verifying the execution and place of execution thereof, and verifying the copy, are brought into the Court, and the copy and affidavit are left there.

(3) If a deed or other instrument of mortgage is not registered at the Court within the respective time following (namely):—

(i) Within fourteen days after its execution, where it is executed in the district wherein the property mortgaged is situate;

(ii) Within two months after its execution, where it is executed in Brunei, elsewhere than in that district;

(iii) Within six months after its execution, where it is executed elsewhere than in Brunei;

then, and in every such case, the mortgage debt secured by the deed or other instrument, and the interest thereon, shall not have priority over judgment or simple contract debts contracted before the registration of that deed or other instrument.

(4) Registered deeds or other instruments of mortgage, legal or equitable, of the same lands or houses, have, as among themselves, priority in order of registration.

(5) The provisions of this Order do not apply to a deed or other instrument of mortgage executed before the commencement of this Order.

96. The power given by this Order for framing Rules from time to time is hereby extended to the framing of Rules for prescribing and regulating the making and keeping of indexes, and of a general index to the register of mortgages, and searches in those indexes, and other particulars connected with the making, keeping, and using of those registers and indexes, and for authorising and regulating the removal from the register of any deed or other instrument of mortgage, or the registering of any lease or satisfaction in respect thereof.

97. The provisions of this Order relating to bills of sale—

(i) Apply only to such bills of sale executed by British subjects as are intended to affect chattels in Brunei;

(ii) Do not apply to bills of sale given by Sheriffs or others under or in execution of process authorizing seizure of chattels.

98.—(a) Every bill of sale must conform with the following Rules (namely) :—

(1) It must state truly the name, description, and address of the grantor.

(2) It must state truly the consideration for which it is granted.

(3) It must have annexed thereto or written thereunder an inventory of the chattels intended to be comprised therein.

(4) Any defeasance, condition, or declaration of trust affecting the bill not contained in the body of the bill must be written on the same paper as the bill.

(5) The execution of the bill must be attested by a credible witness, with his address and description.

(b) Otherwise, the bill is void to the extent following, but not further (that is to say) :—

(i) In the case of failure to conform with the Rule respecting an inventory, as far as regards chattels omitted from the inventory; and

(ii) In any other case, wholly.

(c) The inventory, and any defeasance, condition, or declaration as aforesaid, respectively, is for all purposes deemed part of the bill.

99. A bill of sale conforming, or appearing to conform, with the foregoing Rules may be registered at the Court of the district wherein the chattels are, within the respective time following, and not afterwards (namely) :—

(i) Within fourteen days after its execution, where it is executed in the district wherein the chattels are;

(ii) Within two months after its execution, where it is executed in Brunei, elsewhere than in that District;

(iii) Within six months after its execution, where it is executed elsewhere than in Brunei.

100.—(1) Registration is made as follows: The original and a copy of the bill of sale, and an affidavit verifying the execution, and the time and place of execution, and the attestation thereof, and verifying the copy, are brought into the proper office of the Court; and the copy and affidavit are left there.

(2) If a bill of sale is not registered at a place and within the time by this Order appointed and allowed for registration thereof, it is, from and after the expiration of that time, void to the extent following, but not further (that is to say) :—

(i) As against trustees or assignes of the estate of the grantor, in or under bankruptcy liquidation, or assignment for benefit of creditors; and

(ii) As against all Sheriffs and others seizing chattels under process of any Court, and any person on whose behalf the seizure is made; but only

(iii) As regards the property in, or right to, the possession of such chattels comprised in the bill as, at or after the filing of the Petition for bankruptcy or liquidation, or the execution of the assignment, or the seizure, are in the grantor's possession, or apparent possession.

101. Registered bills of sale affecting the same chattels have as among themselves priority in order of registration.

Chattels comprised in a registered bill of sale are not in the possession, order, or disposition of the grantor within the law of bankruptcy.

102. If in any case there is an unregistered bill of sale, and, within or on the expiration of the time by this Order allowed for registration thereof, a subsequent bill of sale is granted affecting the same or some of the same chattels, for the same or part of the same debt, then the subsequent bill is, to the extent to which it comprises the same chattels and is for the same debt, absolutely void, unless the Court is satisfied that the subsequent bill is granted in good faith for the purpose of correcting some material error in the prior bill, and not for the purpose of unlawfully evading the operation of this Order.

The registration of a bill of sale must be renewed once at least every twelve months.

103. Renewal of registration is made as follows: An affidavit stating the date of and parties to the bill of sale, and the date of the original registration, and of the last renewal, and that the bill is still a subsisting security, is brought into the proper office of the Court of original registration, and is left there.

If the registration of a bill of sale is not so renewed in any period of five years, then on and from the expiration of that period the bill cannot be again registered.

104. A transfer or assignment of a registered bill of sale need not be registered, and renewal of registration is not necessary by reason only of such a transfer or assignment.

105.—(1) Where the time for registration or renewal of registration of a bill of sale expires on a Sunday, or other day on which the office for registration is closed, the registration or renewal is valid if made on the first subsequent day on which the office is open.

(2) If in any case the Court is satisfied that failure to register or to renew the registration of a bill of sale in due time, or any omission or mis-statement connected with registration or renewal was accidental or inadvertent, the Court may, if it thinks fit, order the failure, omission, or mis-statement to be rectified in such manner and on such terms, if any, respecting security, notice by advertisement, or otherwise, or any other matter, as the Court thinks fit.

(3) The provisions of this Order do not apply to a bill of sale executed before the commencement of this Order.

106. The power conferred by this Order for framing Rules from time to time is hereby extended to the framing of Rules for prescribing and regulating the making and keeping of indexes, and of a general index, to the registers of bills of sale, and searches in those indexes, and other particulars connected with the making, keeping, and using of those registers and indexes, and for authorising and regulating the removal from the register of any bill of sale, or the registering of any release or satisfaction in respect thereof.

PART XVI.—PARTNERS.

107.—(1) Persons claiming or being liable as partners may sue or be sued in the firm name, if any.

(2) Where partners sue in the firm name, they must, on demand in writing on behalf of any defendant, forthwith declare the names and addresses of the partners.

(3) Otherwise, all proceedings in the suit may, on application, be stayed on such terms as the Court thinks fit.

(4) When the names of the partners are so declared, the suit proceeds in the same manner, and the same consequences in all respects follow as if they had been named as the plaintiffs in the Petition.

(5) All subsequent proceedings, nevertheless, continue in the firm name.

(6) Where partners are sued in the firm name, the Petition must be served either on one or more of the partners within the jurisdiction, or at the principal place of the partnership business within the jurisdiction, on some person having then and there control or management of the partnership business.

(7) Where one person, carrying on business in the name of a firm apparently representing more persons than one, is sued in the firm name, the Petition may be served at the principal place of the business within the jurisdiction on some person having then and there control or management of the business.

(8) Where partners are sued in the firm name, they must appear individually in their own names.

(9) All subsequent proceedings, nevertheless, continue in the firm name.

(10) Where a person, carrying on business in the name of a firm apparently representing more persons than one, is sued in the firm name, he must appear in his own name.

(11) All subsequent proceedings, nevertheless, continue in the firm name.

(12) In any case not hereinbefore provided for, where persons claiming or being liable as partners sue or are sued in the firm name, any party to the suit may, on application to the Court, obtain a statement of the names of the persons who are partners in the firm to be furnished and verified on oath or otherwise, as the Court thinks fit.

(13) Where a judgment is against partners in the firm name, execution may issue—

(i) Against any property of the partners as such; and

(ii) Against any person who has admitted in the suit that he is a partner, or who has been adjudged to be a partner; and

(iii) Against any person who has been served in the suit as a partner and has failed to appear.

(14) If the party who has obtained judgment claims to be entitled to issue execution against any other person, as being a partner, he may apply to the Court for leave so to do; and the Court, if the liability is not disputed, may give such leave, or, if it is disputed, may order that the question of the liability be tried and determined as a question in the suit, in such manner as the Court thinks fit.

(15) The provisions of Part XVI may be from time to time varied by Rules made under this Order.

PART XVII.—OFFICIAL.

108. Notwithstanding anything in this Order, a District Court shall not exercise any jurisdiction in any proceeding whatsoever over the Consul, or his official or other residences, or his official or other property.

109. Except as in this Order expressly provided, nothing in this Order shall preclude any of Her Majesty's Consular officers from performing any act, not of a judicial character, which Her Majesty's Consular officers might, by law, or by virtue of usage or sufferance, or otherwise, have performed if this Order had not been made.

110. Whenever an Acting Consular officer has commenced the hearing of any cause or matter, civil or criminal, he may, unless the Consul otherwise directs, continue and complete the hearing and determination thereof, notwithstanding that his authority to act as such Consul or officer has otherwise ceased by reason of the expiration of the time for which he was appointed to act, or by reason of the happening of any event by which his authority is determined.

111. Any suit or proceeding shall not be commenced in any Court in Brunei or the Straits Settlements against any person for anything done, or purporting to be done, or anything omitted in pursuance, or execution, or intended execution of this Order, or of any Regulation or Rule made under it, unless notice in writing is given by the intended plaintiff or prosecutor to the intended defandant one clear month before the commencement of the suit or proceeding, nor unless it is commenced within three months next after the act or omission complained of, or in case of a continuation of damage, within three months next after the doing of such damage has ceased.

The plaintiff in any such suit shall not succeed if tender of sufficient amends is made by the defendant before the commencement thereof; and if no tender is made the defendant may, by leave of the Court, at any time pay into Court such sum of money as he thinks fit, whereupon such proceedings and order shall be had and made in and by the Court as may be had and made on the payment of money into Court in an ordinary suit.

PART XVIII.—FEES AND EXPENSES.

112. All fees, fines, forfeitures, confiscations, and pecuniary penalties, and all commissions, levied or received under this Order, shall be accounted for, paid, and applied as the Secretary of State, with the concurrence of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, from time to time directs.

113. Subject to the other provisions of this Order, all expenses of removal of prisoners and others, and the expenses of deportation and of the sending of any person to England, or to the Straits Settlements, or India or British Burmah, including expenses of maintenance, shall be defrayed in such manner as the Secretary of State, with the concurrence of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, from time to time directs.

PART XIX.—SUPPLEMENTAL.

114. Where, by virtue of any Imperial Act or of this Order, or otherwise, any provisions of any Imperial Acts, or of any Law or of any Orders in Council other than this Order are applicable in Brunei, or any Form, Regulation, or Procedure prescribed or established by or under any such Act or Law or Order, are made applicable for any purpose of this Order, such Act, Law, Order, Form, Regulation, or Procedure shall be deemed applicable, so far only as the constitution and jurisdiction of the Courts and the local circumstances permit; and, for the purpose of facilitating application, may be construed or used with such alterations and adaptations as may be necessary, and anything required to be done by or to any Court, Judge, officer, or authority may be done by or to a Court, Judge, officer, or authority having the like or analogous functions, or by any officer designated by the Secretary of State or by the Court (as the case may require) for that purpose; and the seal of the Court may be substituted for any other seal; and in case any difficulty occurs in the application, it shall be lawful for the Secretary of State to direct by and to whom and in what manner anything is to be done, and such Act, Law, Order, Form, Regulation, or Procedure shall be construed accordingly.

115. Sums of money, fines, forfeitures, penalties, or fees payable under this Order shall be calculated and paid in English money, or, with the consent of the Court, in its equivalent in local currency or produce, or bills of exchange approved by the Court.

(4) Proof shall not in any proceeding or matter be required that the provisions of this Article have been complied with, nor shall any act or proceeding be invalidated by any failure to comply with any of such provisions.

117. A copy of this Order shall be kept exhibited conspicuously in each Court and Consulate in Brunei.

Printed copies shall be provided and sold at such reasonable price as the Consul directs.

And the Most Honourable the Marquess of Salisbury, the Right Honourable Lord Knutsford, and the Right Honourable Viscount Cross, three of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, and the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, are to give the necessary directions herein as to them may respectively appertain.

INDIA OFFICE,
London, 5th February, 1891.

MILITARY,
No. 21.

To His Excellency The Most Honourable the Governor General of India in Council.

MY LORD MARQUIS,

I have received and considered in Council your Military Despatch No. 111, of the 9th June 1890.

2. Concurring in the opinion of your Government as to the desirability of amalgamating into one the Staff Corps of the three Presidencies, I submitted your proposal for Her Majesty's approval.

3. Her Majesty was pleased to approve of the amalgamation, and I forward herewith copies of a Royal Warrant, dated 28th January 1891, carrying it into effect.

4. You will observe that I do not propose, for the present, to discontinue the use of the title "Staff Corps." It appears to me that, so long as there remain any officers of the Local Service or of the General List, the change of name would be inconvenient. The Secretary of State for War and His Royal Highness the Commander-in-Chief concur in this view.

I have the honour to be,

MY LORD MARQUIS,

Your Lordship's most obedient humble Servant,

(Signed) CROSS.

VICTORIA R. I.

WHEREAS We deem it expedient that the Staff Corps in the Presidencies of Our Indian Dominions shall be amalgamated:

OUR WILL AND PLEASURE is that, with effect from the date of this Our Warrant, the Bengal, Madras, and Bombay Staff Corps shall be formed into one Corps, to be denominated Our Indian Staff Corps.

The names of the officers who entered the Staff Corps after the 12th September, 1866, and before the 1st July, 1881, shall continue to be borne on three separate lists for the purpose of regulating their succession to Colonels' allowances.

Given at Our Court at Osborne, this Twenty-eight day of January, 1891, in the Fifty-fourth year of Our Reign.

FIELD OPERATIONS.

No. 214.—The Governor-General in Council is pleased to direct the publication, for general information, of the subjoined correspondence and despatch, relating to the operations of the Zhob Field Force, under the command of Major-General Sir G. S. White, K.C.B., K.C.I.E., V.C., in October and November last:—

Letter from the Secretary to the Government of India, Military Department, to the Adjutant-General in India,—No. 671-B, dated Fort William, 2nd March, 1891.

I am directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 763-A, dated the 2nd February, 1891, forwarding, for the information of the Government of India, a despatch from Major-General Sir G. S. White, K.C.B., K.C.I.E., V.C., describing the operations of the Zhob Field Force, under his command, in the valleys of the Kundar and Gomal rivers, and against the Kidarzais and other sections of the Sherani tribe, in October and November last.

2. In reply I am to say that the Governor-General in Council has read Sir George White's report with much satisfaction, and cordially appreciates the good work done by the troops under trying circumstances, and the ability, judgment and vigour with which the operations have been conducted by Sir George White.

From Major-General W. GALBRAITH, C.B., Adjutant-General in India, to the Secretary to the Government of India, Military Department,—No. 763-A, dated Army Head-Quarters, Fort William, 2nd February, 1891.

I have the honor, by direction of the Commander-in-Chief, to submit, for the information of the Government of India, the accompanying despatch from Major-General Sir G. S. White, K.C.B., V.C., describing the operations of the Zhob Field Force, recently under his command.

2. The first phase of the expedition, although explorative rather than militant, demanded from all ranks exertions of a character very unusual even in a protracted campaign: and the final operations undertaken for the coercion of the Kidarzai gave fresh examples of the endurance and enterprise of the troops and their commander. The excellent dispositions made by the latter resulted in the speedy submission of the recalcitrant tribe, which, relying on the inaccessibility of its mountain fastnesses, had hitherto maintained a defiant attitude.

3. His Excellency has much pleasure in again bringing to notice the services of Major-General Sir G. S. White, whose distinguished conduct of operations in the field has so often obtained the approval of Government.

From Major-General Sir G. S. WHITE, K.C.B., K.C.I.E., V.C., late Commanding Zhob Field Force, to the Adjutant-General in India,—dated Quetta, 16th January, 1891.

With reference to your telegram No. 4881 of 21st August, 1890, I have the honor to report that, in obedience to the instructions therein contained, I took personal command of the Zhob Field Force at Kanozai on the 30th September, 1890.

2. The force was made up of the following corps and sections:—

No. 7 Mountain Battery, Royal Artillery.
2nd Battalion, King's Own Yorkshire Light Infantry.
18th Bengal Lancers.
No. 1 Company, Bombay Sappers and Miners.
29th Bombay Infantry (2nd Baluch Battalion).
30th " " (3rd " ").
2 Sections, 23rd British Field Hospital.
2 " 24th } Native " "
3 " 25th }

3. The operations of this force divide themselves naturally into two phases:—

1st.—The march from the Zhob Valley into the valleys of the Kundar and Gomal rivers, and thence to Appozai.

2nd.—The operations against the Kidarzais and other sections of the Sherani tribe.

4. With a view to learning as much geography as possible, and extending our political influence as widely as our opportunities would admit, the march from the Zhob Valley across the hills that form its nothern boundary was carried out in three columns.

5. The head-quarters column, under my personal command, left the Zhob Valley on the 9th October by the Toi river route, and marched on Thanishpa. No. 2 column consisting of—

2 guns, No. 7 Mountain Battery,
1 company, King's Own Yorkshire Light Infantry,
1 troop, 18th Bengal Lancers,
2 companies, 30th Bombay Infantry, under the command of Colonel M. H. Nicolson, Commandant of the 30th Bombay Infantry, left the Zhob Valley at a point north-east of Shina Khula, and marching viâ Maidan, Kach, Barak Shazai, crossed the Khaisor plain and moved on Thanishpa. No. 3 was a small column under the command of Captain A. H. Mason, R.E., Deputy Assistant Quartermaster-General for Intelligence, with whom went Captain R. J. H. L. Mackenzie, R.E., of the Survey, and moved from camp Shina Khula in the Zhob Valley in a northerly direction viâ the Marghakai Kotal (8,700 feet) to Babu-China in the Rod Valley, and crossing the Lunda Kotal (8,300 feet) traversed the Khaisor plain and joined the rest of the force at Thanishpa.

6. The movement of No. 2 or Colonel Nicolson's column had the greatest political significance, as it escorted the Agent to the Governor-General in Baluchistan.

7. Thanishpa was a point of some military and of considerable political importance, as the neighbourhood had for some time been dominated by an outlaw named Bangal Khan, son of Dost Mahomed Khan, a leader reputed to be enterprising and courageous. A concentration of force was therefore arranged here, as resistance was expected.

8. At our approach Bangal Khan, with a few followers, took up a position on a peak over 8,000 feet high and immediately above Thanishpa, which presented some difficulty to an assailant, and declared his intention of holding it to the last. He changed his mind, however, and fled the day before our arrival, getting safely off, although a very spirited effort was made by Lieutenant K. Chesney, 18th Bengal Lancers, with whom went Captain I. MacIvor, Political Officer, and a small party of the 18th Bengal Lancers, to run him down.

9. A short halt was made at Thanishpa, both to give time to bring up supplies for the further forward movements, and also to enable Sir Robert Sandeman, K.C.S.I., to arrange the political affairs of the district on a more satisfactory and lasting basis,—a result attained by him with characteristic rapidity and decision.

10. The advance was continued from Thanishpa in two columns. Colonel Nicolson's column marched on the 16th October, and, acting as escort to the Governor-General's Agent, moved to Nigungi on the Kundar, and thence viâ the Chukan and Sharan routes to Gustoi War, crossing the Narai Kotal.

11. The head-quarters column marched to Nigungi on the 17th October, and thence along the banks of the Kundar to Gustoi War, where a junction was effected with Colonel Nicolson's column on the 22nd October, as previously arranged.

12. Previous to leaving Thanishpa the force had been somewhat reduced, as the onward march presented great difficulty of supply, even forage for horses and mules having to be carried on camels. All details not actually required were sent back to Appozai.

13. A small column was also sent for survey purposes viâ Kuria Wasta, along the head of the Khaisor Valley. This column marched to Appozai by the Shahgula route.

14. On the 23rd October the head quarters and Colonel Nicolson's columns both marched along the Kundar from Gustoi War to Husein Ziarat. At Husein Ziarat a convoy of supplies sent across the Gardao plain replenished the commissariat stores of both columns. From Husein Ziarat the two columns marched by separate routes on Appozai.

15. The head-quarters column moved down the Kundar to its junction with the Gomal at Domandi; thence down the valley of the Gomal to Gul-Kach or Kurma. From Kurma its route lay for some distance nearly due south up the bed of the Kurma stream, and afterwards across the Gardao plain to the valley of the Sir-i-Toi. From the junction of the Sir-i-Toi with the Zhob the road into Appozai runs up the valley of the latter river. The head-quarters column arrived at Appozai on the 29th October.

16. Colonel Nicolson's column, acting as escort to the Agent to the Governor-General, marched from Husein Ziarat on the 24th October, and moved viâ Inzar and the Gardao plain to the valley of the Sir-i-Toi, and thence followed the same route into Appozai, as taken by the head-quarters column, arriving on the 28th October.

17. This concluded the first phase of the operations.

2nd Phase.

18. Sir Robert Sandeman having notified to me at Appozai that no satisfactory agreement had been arrived at with the Sheranis, and that he was ready to proceed, I ordered an advance of the whole force, with a view to occupying the country of the Sheranis and dominating them.

19. A reference to the map which accompanies this despatch will show at a glance that the British occupation of the Zhob Valley (in 1889-90) offered greatly increased military facilities for reducing these tribesmen to submission, as it enabled us to advance into their hills not only in front from the Derajat, but also in rear from the Zhob Valley. In order that full advantage should be taken of this double base, His Excellency the Commander-in Chief in India placed the following troops of the Punjab Frontier Force under my command, to act against the Sheranis from the east, based on the Derajat:—

4 guns, No. 1 (Kohat) Mountain Battery.
2 " " 7 (Bengal) " " "
1 troop, 1st Punjab Cavalry.
2 troops, 3rd " "
½ battalion, 1st Sikh Infantry.
½ " 2nd " "
½ " 2nd Punjab Infantry.

Colonel A. G. Ross, C.B., Commandant of the 1st Sikh Infantry, commanded this force.

20. The Kidarzai Sept of the Sherani tribe had been the chief offenders in the outrages perpetrated in British territory. In order to isolate this section as much as possible from the rest of the tribe, I directed Colonel Ross to occupy Drazand, the principal town of the Sheranis. This was done with the two-fold purpose of containing them in a military sense, and also of affording them the plea of force majeure against the tribal obligation of making common cause against the advance of the British.

21. Colonel Ross occupied Drazand on the 1st November, so that the restraining hand might be applied before the general advance. His force met with some show of resistance from some fanatics, but nothing worth detailing in a military despatch. On the 4th November Lieutenant-Colonel A. H. Turner, of the 2nd Punjab Infantry, occupied Domandi with a detachment of the Punjab Frontier Force contingent. Domandi is an important strategical position at the junction of the Kidarzai and Chua Khel dhanas or passes, and marks, approximately, the south-east angle of the theatre of operations,—Drazand being at the north-east angle.

22. Having established these two forces as stops at the eastern outlets of the Sherani country, the advance was continued from the west viâ the Chua Khel Dhana, a very direct pass from Baluchistan to the Derajat, which had been closed for some years by landslips and huge boulders blocking the river-bed at some of its narrowest points. The task of making a camel road through this pass was entrusted to Colonel Nicolson's column, which also acted as escort to the Governor-General's Agent Major J. F. Garwood, Commanding Engineer, and the sapper company also accompanied it.

23. Nmur Kalan, the capital of the Kidarzais, nestles at the foot of, and between three and four thousand feet below, the Mura Muzh heights. These heights tower almost perpendicularly above Nmur Kalan, and cover it with a back wall most difficult to scale. I had been informed by the political officers that the defiant attitude of the Kidarzais was based upon the idea that this higher approach to their capital was inaccessible to a British force, and that consequently they could retire unmolested with their flocks and herds to these heights and adjoining grazing grounds on the precipitous spurs of the Takht-i-Suliman before our advance from the easier or eastern line of approach. I determined therefore to march a small but picked force over these heights and to descend upon Nmur Kalan, while Colonel Nicolson was making a practicable road through the Chua Khel Dhana. In pursuance of this plan I left the Chua Khel route on the 3rd November, marched over the hills by a mountain path impracticable for camels, and reached Walla, where the force bivouacked. On the 4th November I moved from Walla in fighting order, intending to gain possession of the heights of Mura Muzh (8,100 feet), where our information led us to believe the Kidarzais would make a stand.

While the force was in full march on these heights, the Kidarzai maliks hailed us, and, laying down their arms, made their submission. I took these maliks with us as prisoners at large, and reconnoitred the heights. From the crest of the Mura Muzh the whole Kidarzai country lay in panorama beneath us, and we opened heliographic communication with the columns co-operating with us below. This bird's-eye view of the whole situation and the heliographic communication established between the forces occupying the opposite corners of the Sheran, country brought home to the maliks, very graphically, the plan of their environment, and impressed them much. I then ascertained that there was no track from Mura Muzh to Nmur Kalan practicable for animals. I accordingly sent all these back from Walla to the Chua Khel Dhana route, and on the 6th November, taking 130 men of the Yorkshire Light Infantry under Major H. C. Symons, and 170 of the 29th Bombay Infantry under Major O'Moore Creagh, V.C., descended to Nmur Kalan, which we occupied. The men carried their rifles, forty rounds of ammunition, their bedding, three days' rations (including preserved meat and flour to make chapatis) and their cooking pots. The ascent to the Mura Muzh from Walla was about 2,500 feet, and the descent to Nmur Kalan 3,300, so it will readily be understood that this day's march, carried out under the conditions I have described, was a very trying one. None but willing men in high training could have accomplished it.

24. On the 7th November I effected a junction, which had been arranged by heliograph on the previous day, with Colonel Ross' force, a part of which advanced from Drazand to a village called Athol Kahan Khol or Nishpa, to join hands with the force escorting me. This last-named village is situated in the Kidarzai Dhana, and is covered from the east by a position of great natural strength The advance of Colonel Ross' column was here resisted by some fanatical dissentients from the tribal policy of submission, and one sepoy of the 2nd Sikh Infantry was killed.

25. By the same day (7th November) Colonel Nicolson had made a practicable road through the Chua Khel Dhana. A squadron of the 18th Bengal Lancers, under Captain G. A. Money, pressed through, and effected a junction with the detachment of the Punjab Frontier Force at Domandi.

26. Sir Robert Sandeman, escorted by Colonel Nicolson's column, then passed through the Chua Khel Dhana, which may be described as a stupendous defile, bounded by perpendicular rocks rising 3,000 feet on each side of a rift, which in some places narrows to a width of only eight feet. Sir Robert Sandeman, escorted as above, then moved viâ Mogul Kot and Parwara to Kuram, in the heart of the Sherani country.

27. By this time all the principal men of the different sections of the Sherani tribe, with the exception of Murtaza Khan, who, of all, was most wanted, had come in to one or other of the political officers with the columns operating in their country. At Kuram, therefore, Sir Robert Sandeman and Mr. R. J. Bruce, C.I.E., the Commissioner of the Derajat, who was acting with him, were enabled to arrange satisfactory conditions. These included the payment of a fine by the Sherani tribe, and the surrender or expulsion of Murtaza Khan. This fine has since been paid in full, and Murtaza Khan, who had been for many years an avowed and active enemy of the British Government, surrendered himself to the Commissioner of the Derajat after the troops had been withdrawn from the Sherani hills,—a result, I submit, due entirely to the strong policy of Sir Robert Sandeman in insisting upon the responsibility of the tribe for the acts of its individual representatives, and a conclusive proof that the Sheranis no longer believe in the impregnability of their position to shield them from the long arm of England's power.

28. On learning from Sir Robert Sandeman that the political objects of the expedition had been attained, I thought it would be a useful lesson to the people to march troops to the top of the Takht-i-Suliman, ascending it by the eastern or most precipitous face, and thus effectually roll up the curtain of obscurity which has hitherto shrouded this fabled throne. In pursuance of this aim, I marched from Nmur Kalan with 50 picked men of the King's Own Yorkshire Light Infantry under Captain P. W. A. A. Milton, and 50 selected sepoys from the 29th Bombay Infantry under Major Creagh V.C., and on the third day out succeeded in reaching the summit. From this point we opened heliographic communication with Colonel Ross' column, which had fallen back to Drazand.

The ascent of the Takht-i-Suliman was by far the most difficult operation, in a physical point of view, I have ever called upon soldiers to perform, and the fact that British soldiers and Baluchi sepoys, fully accoutred, scaled these dangerous heights, will not be lost on the Sheranis.

29. The objects for which the Zhob Field Force had been organised having been successfully accomplished, there remained but to send the different corps composing it to their several destinations, utilising their return marches to open out as many lines of communication between the Derajat and Baluchistan as possible.

With this view the 30th Bombay Infantry, with a party of No. 1 Company, Bombay Sappers and Miners, were sent back to Appozai through the Zao Pass. Colonel Nicolson commanded this party, and the orders he received were to make a practicable camel road through this defile. The work was successfully accomplished under most unfavourable conditions of weather, which made the work not only heavy but also dangerous. Owing to the continuous rainfall a cliff was loosened and fell, burying beneath it and killing twenty men of this party, including four sepoys,—the rest being camp followers.

30. The King's Own Yorkshire Light Infantry and No. 1 Company, Bombay Sappers and Miners, under the command of Major Symons, were ordered to open up the Vihowa Pass. To carry this out the party moved back through the Chua Khel Dhana to its western debouche, and marched on the 24th November from Vihowa-Toi-Sir through the Vihowa Pass, making a practicable camel road under great difficulties on account of continued rain and consequent heavy floods, and entered the Derajat at Vihowa on the 3rd December. The officer commanding this party and Major Garwood, Commanding Engineer, who accompanied it, report that a good road could be easily and cheaply made through this pass.

31. The work of the Zhob Field Force here terminated. It may be said to have been employed for two months During that time the columns composing it marched in the aggregate 1,800 miles. Of this distance, 828 miles were over new routes which had never before been followed by a British force, and to traverse which the troops had often to make their own roads. The details of each day's march and the military intelligence collected have been very fully given in the diaries which, with maps, have been periodically forwarded to Army Head-Quarters. The results of the operations have been rather political than military. All arrangements in the first phase were made with the studied object of making friends and not of conquering enemies.

In the operations against the Sheranis the strength of the force, together with the dominating positions which it gained on all sides, left no alternative to the tribesmen but submission. It has, however, been ascertained with certainty that, before our approach they had sat in jirga, and the various sections of the tribe had bound themselves to oppose the British advance into their country with their united strength.

32. The operations entailed upon officers and men exertions and exposure of an exceptional kind. The character of the country, in some instances, prevented the use of transport animals; the men had then to carry bedding, rations, and cooking pots for themselves, and to sleep without tents in a temperature of from 13° to 20° of frost. The marching was always over rocks and stones, and often in river-beds where the water ruined boots and clothing, entailing heavy expense on the soldiers, both British and native.

33. I would beg to bring to the favourable notice of the Commander in-Chief the following officers who commanded corps:—

Colonel M H Nicolson, commanding the 30th Bombay Infantry (3rd Baluch Battalion), who, throughout nearly all the operations, commanded a separate column, and who opened a road through both the Chua Khel and Zao dhanas.

Lieutenant-Colonel H R. L. Morgan, Royal Artillery, commanding No. 7 Mountain Battery

Major O'M. Creagh, V.C., commanding the 29th Bombay Infantry (2nd Baluch Battalion).

Major H. C. Symons, commanding the 2nd Battalion, King's Own Yorkshire Light Infantry, and who commanded the column that established communication through the Vihowa Pass.

Major G. L. R. Richardson, commanding the 18th Bengal Lancers.

34. Of the departmental officers, Deputy Surgeon-General S. A. Lithgow, C.B., D.S.O., an officer of great experience in the field, did much to promote the success of the expedition

Lieutenant Colonel J. R. Burlton-Bennet, Chief Commissariat Officer, did all that forethought and arrangement could do to equip the force with transport and commissariat supplies, and to stock the magazines in the field, but as he was at the same time carrying on the duties of Chief Commissariat Officer of the Quetta District, it was not for the interest of the service that he should be present with the Field Force throughout. The executive commissariat charge therefore fell on Lieutenant J W. G. Tulloch.

Major J. F. Garwood, Royal Engineers, was Commanding Engineer of the force. Owing to the nature of the country marched over, his work was most important. He opened roads practicable for camels through the Chua Khel Dhana and Vihowa Pass, and was constantly employed in minor works of the same character. His services were most valuable Surgeon-Major G. J. H. Evatt had charge of two sections of the 23rd British Field Hospital, and worked with characteristic zeal, ability, and powers of organisation.

35. Of the officers serving on my immediate staff I would name the following:—

Lieutenant-Colonel P. D Jeffreys, Assistant

Adjutant-General of the force, was my chief staff officer and right-hand man throughout, and proved himself as valuable a staff officer in the field as I have invariably found him in quarters. I commend him to the special notice of His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief as an officer whose advancement would be a benefit to the service.

Captain A. H. Mason, Royal Engineers, Deputy Assistant Quartermaster-General for Intelligence, and Captain J. Lamb, Deputy Assistant Adjutant-General, rendered me willing and valuable assistance.

36. I have reserved for special mention two officers not at the head of corps or departments, whose individual services have earned special recognition from me:—

Lieutenant J. W. G. Tulloch, Executive Commissariat Officer to the force. I consider that no officer rendered such valuable service to the State as this most promising young commissariat officer. The numerous detachments into which I divided the force were often placed in positions where ordinary pack animals could not carry supply, and in a country destitute of provision of all kinds, the supply question was thus a very difficult one. I cannot speak too highly of the way in which Lieutenant Tulloch carried out his duties. He is worthy of a higher post in his department.

Captain P. W. A. A. Milton, King's Own Yorkshire Light Infantry, was with me in all the operations in which I had to call upon the officers and men for exceptional efforts, and to his irresistible example, careful arrangement, and capacity for command I owe, in a great measure, the complete success which attended them. He is one of the few officers I have met endowed equally with dash to lead an advanced guard and patience to bring in a rear-guard. He served under me in Burma in command of mounted infantry, where his services were also most valuable.

37. Colonel A. G. Ross, C.B., commanding the contingent of the Punjab Frontier Force placed under my command, co-operated with me most effectively, and made very careful and well-considered arrangements throughout.

38. Lastly, I would beg to record my acknowledgment of the great assistance which I have invariably met with from Colonel Sir Robert Sandeman, K.C.S.I., and the political officers serving under him. I would especially name—

Captain I. MacIvor, Political Agent, Zhob.

Major G. Gaisford, Political Agent, Quetta.

Mr. J. S. Donald, in political charge of the Gomal.

Where the work to be done was so largely political, it was of the first importance that the military and civil should work together harmoniously and whole-heartedly. Sir Robert Sandeman's high status and great political experience made his position with a field force one of exceptional weight and importance, and I recognise very fully the consideration which he has invariably shown to me as military commander.

No. 111.—In supersession of Public Works Department Notification No. 343, dated the 12th August 1890, the Governor General in Council is pleased to publish the following rules under section 22 of the Indian Railways Act, 1890, defining the cases in which, and in those cases the extent to which, the procedure prescribed in sections 17 to 20 (both inclusive) of the Act may be dispensed with :—

1. For the following works mentioned in section 20, namely, deviation lines, stations, junctions and crossings on the level, and any alteration or reconstruction materially affecting the structural character of any work, when the works named form part of, or are directly connected with, a railway used for the public carriage of passengers, and have been constructed after the inspection which preceded the first opening of the section of railway in which they are situated, only such notice will be required from the Railway Administration, in lieu of the notice prescribed in section 17 (1), as may from time to time be prescribed by the Inspector concerned, it being understood that in no case are such works to be opened by the Railway Administration concerned without giving the required notice, and without receiving in writing the permission of the Inspector to open the work, whether the Inspector considers an inspection of the work necessary or not.

2. With reference to sections 18 and 25 of the Indian Railways Act, 1890, power is hereby conferred on all Inspectors of Railways to dispense with the notice required under section 17 (1) and, without previous report, under section 19, to sanction the opening for passenger traffic of the following works, when forming part of, or directly connected with, a railway used for the public carriage of passengers, if, on careful inspection, it is found that provisions (b), (c) and (f) of sub-section (1) of section 19 have been duly fulfilled :—

(a) temporary diversions,* including temporary bridges and their approaches, when the waterway is considerable or the approaches are steep and tortuous ;
(b) new bridges of 40 feet span and over on a line already opened ;
(c) extensions of existing bridges of 40 feet span and over on open lines ;
(d) any interlocking apparatus to be used for the working of points and signals in connection with passenger trains ;
(e) any extensive alterations in the arrangements for signalling ;
(f) any crossing of one line by another by means of a diamond crossing on the level.

Provided that in the case of emergency the Inspector may authorize the opening of any of the works mentioned in this rule, without inspection and without previous notice, if he is of opinion that such opening will not be attended with danger to the public travelling on the railway, and further that any delay in opening the work or works will cause grave public inconvenience. Works so opened must, however, be duly inspected at the earliest possible date.

In all cases coming under this rule, the Inspector will, on authorizing the opening of the work, report in full detail to the Government of India, through the Director General of Railways, in regard to the work thus permitted to be opened.

3. In the case of minor works other than those named in the preceding rule, and which form part of, or are directly connected with, a railway already opened for the public carriage of passengers, the Inspector will exercise his discretion as to carrying out an inspection or not.

Power is also conferred on all Inspectors of Railways to sanction the opening of such minor works, not only without inspection in any cases in which the Inspector considers such inspection to be unnecessary, but also without previous report under section 19, provided that the Inspector is otherwise satisfied that such opening will not be attended with danger to the public.

The authority for opening such works will be communicated in writing by the Inspector to the Railway Administration.

* NOTE.—Temporary diversions may, in cases of accident, be opened under section 21 on the responsibility of the Railway Administration ; but the Inspector should, if the use of the temporary diversion be likely to be extended for more than three days, take the earliest possible opportunity of inspecting the temporary diversion.

Lieutenant W. H. Simpson, Wing Officer, 43rd (Gurkha) Regiment of Bengal Light Infantry.

The rules have effect from the 28th ultimo, as a temporary measure, in the ports of Aden, Perim, and the Somáli Coast:

I.—The Commander of every vessel, including buggalows or other native craft, arriving from the coast of Yemen from Leith to Lohaiya shall, before entering the harbour, indicate by signal the port from which such vessel has come.

II.—Such Commander shall not, except as hereinafter provided, allow any communication, either with the pilot boat, except orally, or with the shore, or with any other vessel or boat in the harbour.

III.—Immediately on any such arrival being signalled, the Health Officer of the Port shall go alongside the vessel and ascertain by enquiry from the Commander whether any person on board is suffering, or has during the voyage suffered, from plague; and if the Health Officer is satisfied by such enquiry that no person on board is suffering, or during the voyage has suffered, from plague, he shall direct the Commander to take the vessel to the quarantine anchorage duly appointed and notified in that behalf by the Resident, there to remain for a period of seven days from the date of arrival in the harbour. The Health Officer shall also direct the Commander to prohibit during the period for which the vessel remains at the quarantine anchorage as aforesaid all communication, except such as is hereinafter provided for between such vessel and the shore, or other vessels and boats in the harbour.

IV.—If the Health Officer shall have reason to believe at the time when the vessel arrives in the harbour that any person on board is suffering, or during the voyage has suffered, from plague, he shall direct the Commander to take the vessel to the quarantine anchorage as aforesaid, and there to remain for a period of fifteen days from the day of arrival in the harbour; and shall further direct that during such fifteen days intercourse between the said vessel and the shore or other vessels and boats in the harbour shall be prohibited as provided in Rule III.

V.—If during the period a vessel is at the quarantine anchorage aforesaid any case or cases of plague should occur on board, the said vessel shall remain in quarantine for a period of fifteen days from the date of the last case occurring, and be subject to all the prohibitions provided for in Rules III and IV.

VI.—When any vessel has been placed in quarantine as aforesaid, the Health Officer may direct the removal of so many of the passengers and crew as may not be suffering from illness, and whose services may not be required on board the vessel, to such particular spots as may from time to time be selected by the Resident as places of quarantine, there to remain for a period of seven days, or, if the vessel has been placed in quarantine for fifteen days, for a period of fifteen days. If a case of plague occurs among such passengers and crew during any such period, they shall remain in a place of quarantine for a period of fifteen days from the date of the occurrence of the last case of such illness.

VII.—Any mails or cargo which may be brought by any vessel so arriving shall be landed under such precautions as the Health Officer may deem necessary to prevent the spread of the disease.

VIII.—It will be the duty of the Port Officer to facilitate the conveyance to all vessels in quarantine of such supplies of provisions, stores, and other articles as may be required by those on board. Such supplies will be placed on the boats of the vessels in quarantine to be subsequently removed by members of their crews.

IX.—All vessels arriving at Aden, Perim, and the Somáli Coast which may have communicated with vessels coming from the coast of Yemen from Leith to Lohaiya shall be subjected to the same quarantine as vessels arriving at Aden, Perim, and the Somáli Coast from the coast of Yemen from Leith to Lohaiya.

No. 16.—The following Statute is published for general information:

ARMY (ANNUAL) ACT, 1891.

[54 VICTORIA, CHAPTER 5.]

An Act to provide, during twelve months, for the Discipline and Regulation of the Army.

[26TH MARCH, 1891.]

WHEREAS the raising or keeping of a standing army within the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland in time of peace, unless it be with the consent of Parliament, is against law:

And whereas it is adjudged necessary by Her Majesty and this present Parliament that a body of forces should be continued for the [illegible] of the United Kingdom and the defence of the possessions of Her Majesty's Crown, and that the whole number of such forces should consist of one hundred and fifty-three thousand six hundred and ninety-six men, including those to be employed at the depôts in the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland for the training of recruits for service at home and abroad, but exclusive of the numbers actually serving within Her Majesty's Indian possessions:

And whereas it is also judged necessary for the safety of the United Kingdom and the defence of the possessions of this realm that a body of Royal Marine forces should be employed in Her Majesty's fleet and naval service under the direction of the Lord High Admiral of the United Kingdom, or the Commissioners for executing the office of Lord High Admiral aforesaid:

And whereas the said marine forces may frequently be quartered or be on shore, or sent to do duty or be on board transport ships or vessels, merchant ships or vessels, or other ships or vessels, or they may be under other circumstances in which they will not be subject to the laws relating to the government of Her Majesty's forces by sea:

And whereas no man can be forejudged of life or limb, or subjected in time of peace to any kind of punishment within this realm by martial law, or in any other manner than by the judgment of his peers and according to the known and established laws of this realm; yet nevertheless it being requisite for the retaining all the before-mentioned forces and other persons subject to military law in their duty that an exact discipline be observed, and that persons belonging to the said forces who mutiny or stir up sedition, or desert Her Majesty's service, or are guilty of crimes and offences to the prejudice of good order and military discipline, be brought to a more exemplary and speedy punishment than the usual forms of the law will allow:

And whereas the Army Act will expire in the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one on the following days: 44 & 45 Vict. c. 58.

(a) In the United Kingdom, the Channel Islands, and the Isle of Man on the thirtieth day of April; and

(b) Elsewhere in Europe, inclusive of Malta, also in the West Indies and America, on the thirty-first day of July; and

(c) Elsewhere, whether within or without Her Majesty's dominions, on the thirty-first day of December:

Be it therefore enacted by the Queen's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:

Short title.

1. This Act may be cited as the Army (Annual) Act, 1891.

Army Act (44 & 45 Vict. c. 58) to be in force for specified times.

2. (1) The Army Act shall be and remain in force during the periods hereinafter mentioned, and no longer, unless otherwise provided by Parliament; that is to say,

(a) Within the United Kingdom, the Channel Islands, and the Isle of Man, from the thirtieth day of April one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one to the thirtieth day of April one thousand eight hundred and ninety-two, both inclusive; and

(b) Elsewhere in Europe, inclusive of Malta, also in the West Indies and America, from the thirty-first day of July one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one to the thirty-first day of July one thousand eight hundred and ninety-two, both inclusive; and

(c) Elsewhere, whether within or without Her Majesty's dominions, from the thirty-first day of December one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one to the thirty-first day of December one thousand eight hundred and ninety-two, both inclusive; and the day from which the Army Act is continued in any place by this Act is in relation to that place referred to in this Act as the commencement of this Act.

(2) The Army Act, while in force, shall apply to persons subject to military law, whether within or without Her Majesty's dominions.

(3) A persons subject to military law shall not be exempted from the provisions of the Army Act by reason only that the number of the forces for the time being in the service of Her Majesty, exclusive of the marine forces, is either greater or less than the number hereinbefore mentioned.

Prices in respect of billeting.

3. There shall be paid to the keeper of a victualling house for the accommodation provided by him in pursuance of the Army Act the prices specified in the schedule to this Act.

Amendments of Army Act.

Amendment of 44 & 45 Vict. c. 58. s. 73 as to confession by soldier of desertion or fraudulent enlistment.

4. Whereas it is expedient that general or other officers commanding military districts should be competent military authorities for awarding forfeitures and deductions on confessions of desertion or fraudulent enlistment by soldiers; be it therefore enacted that—

In section seventy-three of the Army Act, after the words "commander-in-chief or adjutant-general," shall be inserted the words "or any general or other officer commanding a military district."

Explanation of 44 & 45 Vict. c. 58. s. 90 as to discharge or transfer to the reserve.

5. Whereas by section ninety, sub-section five, of the Army Act it is enacted as follows:

"A soldier of the regular forces who is discharged on the completion of the term of his original enlistment or his re-engagement, as mentioned in the second sub-section of this section, or is transferred to the reserve, shall be entitled to be conveyed, free of cost, from the place in the United Kingdom where he is discharged or transferred to the place in which he appears from his attestation paper to have been attested, or to any place at which he may at the time of his discharge or transfer decide to take up his residence, and to which he can be conveyed without greater cost," and doubts have been entertained as to the application of this provision in the case of soldiers transferred to the reserve, and it is expedient to remove such doubts; be it therefore enacted that—

To the said sub-section the following proviso shall be added:

"Provided that in the case of transfer to the reserve he shall not be entitled to be so conveyed to any place out of the United Kingdom."

Amendment of 44 & 45 Vict. c. 58. s. 91 as to lunatic soldiers.

6. Whereas the enactment referred to in sub-section three of section ninety-one of the Army Act has been superseded by the Lunacy Act, 1890, and it is expedient to substitute a reference to that Act; be it therefore enacted that—

In section ninety-one of the Army Act for the words "an order by a justice within the meaning of section seventy-two of the Act of the session of the sixteenth and seventeenth years of the reign of Her present Majesty, chapter ninety-seven, intituled 'An Act to consolidate and amend the laws for the provision and regulation of lunatic asylums for counties and boroughs, and for the maintenance and care of pauper lunatics in England,'" shall be substituted the words "a summary reception order within the meaning of the Lunacy Act, 1890." 53 & 54 Vict. c. 5.

Amendment of 44 & 45 Vict. c. 58. s. 145 as to liability of soldier for maintenance of wife or child.

7. Whereas by section one hundred and forty-five of the Army Act provision is made for the enforcement of orders for payment by a soldier of the cost of maintenance of his wife or child or of any bastard child of whom he is the putative father, or of the cost of any relief to his wife or child given by way of loan, and doubts have been entertained as to the application of this provision in cases where a man becomes a soldier subsequently to the making of the order, and it is expedient to remove such doubts; be it therefore enacted that—

In sub-section two of section one hundred and forty-five of the Army Act for the words "for payment by a soldier of the regular forces" shall be substituted the words "for payment by a man who is or subsequently becomes a soldier of the regular forces."

Amendment of 44 & 45 Vict. c. 58. s. 146 as to qualification of officer for county council.

8. To section one hundred and forty-six of the Army Act (which disqualifies officers of the regular forces for holding certain offices) the following proviso shall be added:

"Provided that nothing in this section shall disqualify any officer for being elected to or being a member of a county council."

Amendment of 44 & 45 Vict. c. 58. s. 156 as to certificates of military pensioners and of members of army reserve.

9. Whereas it is expedient to provide penalties for the detention of certificates of military pensioners and of men belonging to the army reserve; therefore to section one hundred and fifty-six of the Army Act the following sub-section shall be added:

"(9) Every person who receives, detains, or has in his possession the identity certificate or life certificate of a person entitled to a military pension or to reserve pay as a pledge or security for a debt, or with a view to obtain payment from the pensioner or person entitled to the pay of a debt due either to himself or to any other person, shall be liable on summary conviction to the like penalty as for an offence under sub-section one of this section, and the certificate shall be deemed to be property within the meaning of this section."

Amendment of 44 & 45 Vict. c. 58. s. 183 as to army schoolmasters.

10. Whereas by section one hundred and eighty-three of the Army Act it is provided that an army schoolmaster shall not be liable to be reduced to the ranks, but it is expedient that an army schoolmaster transferred from the ranks should be capable of being reduced to the rank which he held at the date of his transfer; be it therefore enacted that—

In section one hundred and eighty-three of the Army Act after the words "An army schoolmaster shall not be liable to be reduced to the ranks" shall be inserted the words "(unless he has been transferred from the ranks, in which case he may be reduced to the rank which he held at the date of transfer)."

2. The total Revenue in India exceeded the Budget Estimate by Rx. 1,977,160, and the total Expenditure in India fell short of the Estimate by Rx. 833,691. Of this total improvement of Rx. 2,810,851, Rx. 1,189,796 occurred in the Provincial and Local section of the Accounts, the improvement in the Imperial section being Rx. 1,621,055. The Revenue in England also exceeded the Estimate by £121,668, and the Exchange on it by Rx. 51,075; while the Expenditure in England was less by £321,277, and the Exchange on it by Rx. 390,658. The total improvement in England and Exchange was thus Rx. 884,678, which, with the improvement of Rx. 1,621,055 which occurred in the Imperial section of the accounts in India, raised the surplus of Rx. 106,300 anticipated in the Budget Estimate to Rx. 2,612,033.

3. The improvement of Rx. 1,977,160 in the Revenue in India occurred chiefly under the Principal Heads of Revenue, the total of which exceeded the Estimate by Rx. 1,918,000. Of this amount, Rx. 589,699 occurred under Land Revenue and Rx. 323,056 under Opium, the prices obtained at the monthly sales of Bengal opium having been higher than expected; and the remainder was fairly equally distributed over the other heads, with the exception of Tributes from Native States, the realisations of which were slightly less than the Budget Estimate. Of the other groups of heads, Irrigation and Civil Departments showed improvements of Rx. 101,778 and Rx. 92,151, while Miscellaneous and Railways showed decreases of Rx. 85,686 and Rx. 81,023. The variations in the other groups are unimportant.

4. The saving of Rx. 833,691 in the Expenditure in India occurred chiefly under the group Direct Demands on the Revenues, under which the decrease was Rx. 818,297, being almost entirely due to the partial failure of the opium crop. The other decreases were—Salaries and Expenses of Civil Departments, Rx. 73,828; Railway Revenue Account, Rx. 171,836; Army, Rx. 162,905; and Special Defence Works, Rx. 144,564; while there was an increase of Rx. 499,500 under Famine Relief and Insurance owing to the partial restoration of the Famine Insurance Grant.

5. The improvement of Rx. 1,189,796 in the Provincial and Local sections of the Accounts was the net result of an increase in the Revenue of Rx. 1,256,336, Rx. 490,000 arising from a postponement to 1890-91 of the special contribution from Provincial to Imperial revenues, and an excess in the total estimated expenditure of Rx. 66,540.

6. The increase of £121,668 in the Revenue in England occurred mainly under Interest, £105,633, and the decrease in expenditure, £321,277, chiefly under Army and Special Defence Works.

7. The saving of Rx. 390,658 in the Exchange on Expenditure in England arose partly from a smaller sterling expenditure and partly from the actual average rate of the year having been higher than that adopted in the Budget Estimate, namely, 1*s.* 4·566*d.* as against 1*s.* 4·38*d.*

8. In the following paragraphs the several heads of Revenue and Expenditure are noticed in detail.

PRINCIPAL HEADS OF REVENUE.

9. Land Revenue.—The collections of the year considerably exceeded both the Budget Estimate of the year and the collections of the previous year. The causes are:—(1) Extended cultivation in Burma following the establishment of order in the country; (2) changes in the dates for payment of instalments in some districts in Burma which had the effect of transferring collections from 1888-89 to 1889-90: this was provided for in the Budget Estimate; (3) the realisation in Bengal, the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, and the Punjab of the Revenue due in 1888-89, but not collected in that year on account of scarcity, and other reasons; (4) revision of settlements in some districts of the North-Western Provinces, the Punjab, the Central Provinces, and Bombay; (5) the collection in March 1890 in some districts of Madras and the Central Provinces of Revenue not due till the following month; (6) large sales of land in Bombay for cultivation, and extensive rabi cultivation in Sind in consequence of good floods and an abundant water-supply.

The actual collections of the past five official years (including Land Revenue due to Irrigation) and those of the last five revenue years ending with 30th September are as follows:

	Year ending 31st March.	Year ending 30th September.
1885-86	23,155,000	23,021,000
1886-87	23,653,200	23,402,400

1889-90	24,671,200	24,782,300

10. Opium.—The Bengal Opium Revenue of 1889-90 exceeded that of the previous year by Rx. 89,600, and the Budget Estimate of the year by Rx. 374,600. The number of chests sold was the same as in 1888-89, namely, 57,000, but the average price realised was Rs. 1,136 per chest against 1,120 realised in 1888-89 and Rs. 1,070 assumed in the Budget. The Bombay Opium Revenue was less than that of 1888-89 by Rx. 77,600, and than the Budget Estimate by Rx. 63,100. The number of chests weighed in the year for export to China was 29,042 chests against 29,154 chests in the previous year. The difference is not great, and the falling off in revenue is due to hundis for Rx. 71,143, being the duty on 1,094½ chests weighed in 1887-88, having been realised in 1888-89. The revenue from Excise Opium and other Miscellaneous receipts slightly exceeded that of the previous year and the Budget Estimate, being Rx. 222,500 against Rx. 213,800 in 1888-89, and Rx. 211,000 provided in the Budget Estimate.

1889-90	Budget ...	8,260,000

	Accounts ...	8,583,000

After five successive years of bumper opium crops in Bengal the crops seriously failed in 1889-90, the production in the year being only 38,305 chests. The reserve stock, which amounted to 31,010 chests on the 31st December 1890, will be 18,770 chests only on the 31st December 1891.

1887-88	57,500
1889-90	38,305

11. Salt.—The special causes which unfavourably affected the Salt Revenue in 1888-89 did not operate in 1889-90, and there was a considerable increase in the Salt Revenue in the year, larger than was anticipated in the Budget Estimate.

1889-90	Budget ...	8,029,900
	Revised ...	8,192,500
	Accounts ...	8,187,700

12. Stamps and Excise.—The revenue under these heads continues to increase. A small part of the increase under Stamps was due to the change made in the law affecting Succession Certificates by Act VII of 1889. In one Province only, Bengal, did the Excise Revenue decrease; the decrease there was due partly to the scarcity prevailing in some districts, and partly to the re-establishment in some districts of central distilleries in place of outstills. The Excise Revenue in all the other provinces increased in consequence partly of general prosperity, and partly of more efficient administration.

13. Provincial Rates.—The variations in the revenue under this head generally follow those under Land Revenue. The most important matter affecting this head was the re-imposition of the patwari cess in the North-Western Provinces, with effect from the 1st April 1889. The receipts from it in 1889-90 amounted to Rx. 228,600 against the estimate of Rx. 200,000.

14. Customs.—Import duties.—The receipts of 1889-90 exceeded the Budget Estimate and the receipts of 1888-89 by Rx. 50,100 and Rx. 53,600 respectively. The increase over the Budget Estimate is ascribed to larger importations of kerosine oil generally, of arms and ammunition in Bengal, and of spirits in Bombay.

1889-90	Budget ...	1,418,400
	Revised ...	1,487,300
	Accounts ...	1,506,700

Export duties.—The receipts from Export duties show an increase of Rx. 107,600 over those of 1888-89, and of Rx. 26,400 over the Budget Estimates. The increase is due to an exceptionally good rice crop and consequent large exports from Burma. In Bombay also the exports increased; while in Bengal a poor crop and consequent high prices diminished the exports.

15. Assessed Taxes.—The collections in almost all the provinces showed a satisfactory improvement, due almost entirely to revision of assessments. In Burma a part of the increase is ascribed to increase of Government establishments in the country, and the extended area over which the tax was levied in Lower Burma.

		Rx.
1888-89	Accounts	1,520,900
1889-90	Budget	1,515,300
	Revised	1,567,100
	Accounts	1,595,300

16. Forest Revenue.—The considerable improvement of the revenue over that of 1888-89 and the Budget Estimate occurred chiefly in Burma, and is due generally to rising prices and an exceptionally favourable season for floating down timber. There were increases over the actuals of the previous year and the Budget Estimates also (1) in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh owing to the closing of the Nepal forests, a larger demand for railway sleepers and scantlings and for other timber, and the prevalence of higher prices for timber; (2) in Bombay owing to indents for firewood by certain owners of cotton mills newly established in the Hyderabad District, and to larger supplies of firewood to the North-Western Railway; and (3) in Bengal owing to an unexpected demand for timber in Jalpaiguri and the Sundarbuns. The variations in the other provinces were unimportant.

1889-90	Budget	1,269,600
	Revised	1,446,400
	Accounts	1,486,300

17. Registration.—The Revenue under this is slowly progressive. The only province in which the receipts were less than those of the previous year and than the Budget Estimate is the Punjab, the decrease there being small.

		Rx.
1888-89	Accounts	331,700
1889-90	Budget	331,100
	Revised	346,700
	Accounts	353,800

18. Tributes.—The decrease compared with the Budget was due mainly to the non-realisation of tribute from the Shan States in Burma. The decrease was partially counterbalanced by larger receipts in other Provinces, some being due to changes in the dates of payment or method of adjustment of the tribute, and others to the recovery of arrears.

		Rx.
1888-89	Accounts	745,200

1889-90	Budget	221,100
	Revised	239,000
	Accounts	241,000

20. Assignments and Compensations.—The excess of the payments in 1889-90 over those of 1888-89 was due partly to the grant of new or increased compensations, and partly to the payment of arrears from previous years.

		Rx.
1888-89	Accounts	1,486,200
1889-90	Budget	1,541,400
	Revised	1,551,400
	Accounts	1,544,400

21. Land Revenue.—The charges of 1889-90 exceeded those of the previous year by Rx. 110,200. The excess occurred mainly (1) in Burma owing to the employment of larger establishments, to more extended survey operations in the country, and to larger collections of Land Revenue necessitating larger payments of commission; and (2) in the Punjab and Madras owing to larger payments on account of allowances to district and village officers. The charges also exceeded the Budget Estimate in Burma and Madras owing to the causes mentioned above, but the excesses were more than counterbalanced by savings in other Provinces, chiefly under Charges of District Administration and Survey and Settlement.

		Rx.
1888-89	Accounts	3,514,000
1889-90	Budget	3,629,100
	Revised	3,632,900
	Accounts	3,624,200

22. Opium.—It has been explained in previous years that the expenditure under this head depends on the quantity of opium produced in Bengal. As stated in paragraph 10, the production of Bengal opium in 1889-90 was exceptionally low, and the expenditure was accordingly smaller than that of the previous year by Rx. 992,800, and than the Budget Estimate by Rx. 759,200.

		Rx.
1888-89	Accounts	2,597,900
1889-90	Budget	2,364,300
	Revised	1,655,500
	Accounts	1,605,100

23. Salt.—An unfavourable season for operations at the Sambhar lakes, smaller excavations in the Punjab mines on account of the existence of large stocks at the beginning of the year, smaller purchases of salt in Bombay, and the manufacture of only a small portion of the quantity of salt of which the Madras Government contemplated the manufacture account for the saving of Rx. 49,200 as compared with the Budget Estimate of expenditure. The expenditure in the year was practically the same as in 1888-89.

		Rx.
1888-89	Accounts	413,000
1889-90	Budget	462,000
	Revised	490,900
	Accounts	412,800

24. Stamps, Provincial Rates, Customs, Assessed Taxes, and Registration.—The fluctuations are unimportant, and do not call for special notice, except that the supplies of stamps from England were smaller in 1889-90 than in 1888-89, and that the discontinuance, with effect from the 1st October 1889, of the allowances formerly paid to lambardars and patwaris in the Punjab for collecting the local rate has slightly reduced the charges under Provincial Rates.

		Rx.
1888-89	Accounts	568,300
1889-90	Budget	556,600
	Revised	544,900
	Accounts	545,400

25. Excise.—Larger establishments necessitated by the re-establishment of central distilleries in Bengal and the extension of the tree-tax system in Madras, a portion of these only having been provided for in the Budget Estimate, account for the increase in the expenditure in 1889-90 compared with both the Budget Estimate and the actuals of the previous year.

		Rx.
1888-89	Accounts	137,900
1889-90	Budget	154,200
	Revised	154,200
	Accounts	156,700

26. Forest.—The expenditure under this head increases with the increase in revenue. The following are the figures of expenditure of the last five years:

		Rx.
1888-89	Accounts	792,000
1889-90	Budget	801,300
	Revised	815,700

	Rx.
1885-86	680,900
1886-87	719,800
1887-88	719,800
1888-89	792,000
1889-90	780,000

In 1888-89 special payments were made to the Bombay-Burma Trading Corporation, Limited, in satisfaction of their claims against the late Native Government of Upper Burma.

INTEREST.

27. Revenue.—The excess over the Budget Estimate occurred in England, and was due to the investment of the cash balances which were much higher than anticipated when the Budget Estimate was framed, and to the receipt of a premium on the 3 per cent. stock issued. In India the receipts fell short of the estimate on account of smaller receipts from Guaranteed Railway Companies for interest

		Rx.
1888-89	Accounts	841,800
1889-90	Budget	734,200

on overdrawn capital. The sterling Revenue in England was practically the same as in 1888-89. The Revenue in India exceeded that of 1888-89 chiefly because of the additions to the loans to the Calcutta and Bombay Port Trusts.

28. Expenditure.—The expenditure in India was less by Rx. 42,700 than the Estimate mainly because a loan of Rx. 2,000,000 only was raised during the year, whereas provision was made in the Estimates for a loan of Rx. 2,500,000; and the Estimate also allowed for a discount of 2 per cent. on the loan, whereas it was raised at about par. The excess over the payments of 1888-89 is due to the additions to the public debt of the loans raised in 1888-89 and 1889-90. It would have been larger by Rx. 101,900 but for the payment for 1888-89 of arrears amounting to Rx. 54,900, and the reduction of the payments in 1889-90 by Rx. 47,000 owing to a change in the dates fixed for payment of interest on the Gwalior Loan. The expenditure in England was less than the Budget Estimate by £18,900. This was due to temporary loans not being required, for the interest on which £10,000 was provided, and to less 3 per cent. stock than was estimated having been issued. The expenditure in England was higher than that of 1888-89 by £22,500. This is the net result of the increase caused by the additional interest payable on the loan raised in 1888-89 for the purchase of the Oudh and Rohilkhand Railway, and on that raised in 1889-90 for advances to Railway Companies, and of the decrease caused by the non-recurrence of the exceptional payments of 1888-89 connected with the conversion of India 4 per cent. stock into 3½ per cent. stock, and with the raising of the loan for the purchase of the Oudh and Rohilkhand Railway, and by the reduction of the interest charges by the conversion operations mentioned. The excess on account of these special payments was to some extent counterbalanced by an increase in 1889-90 on account of interest.

29. Interest on other Obligations.—The interest on Savings Bank Deposits is the most important item coming under this head. The interest on them paid in 1889-90 was Rx. 11,600 more than in 1888-89; but this was more than counterbalanced by decreases in the payments for the King of Oudh's charities and for Railway Funds; and the total charges were slightly less than in the previous year. The charges were Rx. 19,600 less than the Budget Estimate. This was due to the balances in the Savings Banks having been reduced to a greater extent than was anticipated by the reduction of the maximum and yearly limits of these deposits made with effect from the 1st April 1889; the transactions of the year resulted in a net withdrawal of Rx. 362,900 against net deposits of Rx. 656,300, and Rx. 685,200 in 1887-88 and 1888-89.

REVENUE.

30. Post Office.—The Revenue under this head is steadily increasing. The falling off in the Accounts as compared with the Budget Estimate is apparent only, being due to a change in the date for crediting as revenue in the accounts (1) the value of postage stamps sold to the public through Postmasters; and (2) the amount of postage due on articles remaining undelivered at the end of the year.

31. Telegraph.—The Revenue under this head increases slowly with the gradual expansion of traffic.

32. Mint.—The imports and coinage of silver during the last part of the year were large. The increase in the receipts over those of the previous year and the Budget Estimate is due to the large coinage of silver, and to the higher gain on copper coinage resulting from the reduced price of copper consequent on the collapse of the syndicate which kept up the price of copper, and from an increase in the amount of copper coin passed into circulation.

EXPENDITURE.

33. Post Office.—The Expenditure in India, like the Revenue, increases yearly with the extension of the operations of the Post Office. The saving on the Budget Estimate occurred in England, and was caused partly by a reduction on the annual payment to the English Treasury in connection with the Mail Subsidies, but chiefly by the supplies of stores being smaller than anticipated.

EXPENDITURE.

37. Administration.—The Expenditure in India agreed closely with the Budget Estimate, but there was a saving of Rx. 15,100, including Exchange, in the Expenditure in England. The increase over the actuals of 1888-89 is distributed over all the Provinces, except the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, where the charges were less, the tour charges having been abnormally high in 1888-89.

39. Law and Justice—Jails.—The increase in the expenditure was due chiefly to higher expenditure on jail manufactures, to the opening of new jails in Burma, to an increase in the jail population in Bengal, the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, and Bombay, and to the high price of food-grains in Bengal and the North-Western Provinces during the year.

The excess over the previous year occurred chiefly in Upper Burma owing to the employment of a larger number of punitive Police, to the arrival during the year of larger levies recruited in India, and generally to the greater strength of the force actually on duty; and in Bengal to the transfer of the Presidency and Suburban Police to Government from the Municipality. The saving in the Budget Estimate occurred principally in Burma and Madras.

Excluding this, the expenditure in India exceeded the actuals of 1888-89 by Rx. 10,500, but fell short of the estimate by Rx. 16,300. The excess over the estimate in England resulted principally from a larger demand for stores.

43. Political.—The charges of 1889-90 were smaller than those of 1888-89 by Rx. 101,000, and than the Budget Estimate by Rx. 26,800. This is accounted for by the fact that in 1888-89 large arrears of the Amir's subsidy were drawn, while in 1889-90 a portion of the subsidy due was not drawn during the year. The saving in the Budget Estimate on this account was, however, to some extent counterbalanced by the expenditure on account of the Anglo-Siamese Mission, for which no provision was made in the estimates.

44. Scientific and other Minor Departments.—The excess over the actuals of the previous year and the Budget Estimate occurred chiefly in England owing to the adjustment under this head of the cost of stallions purchased in England, formerly treated as a Military charge, and to a larger demand for stores from Calcutta. In India the Budget Estimate for survey charges was exceeded owing to the transfer of survey parties from the Central Provinces to Burma, where the scale of expenditure is higher, and to the organisation of new parties to accompany the Anglo-Siamese Boundary Commission and the Chin-Lushai Expedition.

MISCELLANEOUS RECEIPTS.

45. Superannuation Receipts.—The Budget Estimate of the Receipts in India included a sum of Rx. 38,200 on account of "Appropriation from the Capital account of the Military Orphan Fund" by mistake, as the balance at credit of the fund had been exhausted in 1888-89. Excluding this item, the receipts in India fell short of the Budget Estimate and the actuals of the previous year by Rx. 9,400 and Rx. 13,700. The decrease occurred in the subscriptions to the Military, Military Orphan, and Medical Retiring Funds, which are declining with the retirement of old subscribers, the funds being closed to new members. The increase in the Budget Estimate of the receipts in England occurred mainly in the receipts on account of the Military funds.

RAILWAYS.

56. Net Earnings.—There was a considerable improvement in the net earnings of State Railways compared with both the Budget Estimate and the actuals of the previous year. It was due mainly to a large increase in the traffic on the North-Western Railway and to smaller increases on the Eastern Bengal and the Rajputana-Malwa Railways. A part of the improvement over the actuals of the previous year was also due to additions to the open mileage of the Railways. There was, however, a considerable decline in the net earnings of the Guaranteed Railways compared both with the actuals of the previous year and with the Budget Estimate. The decline occurred on the Great Indian Peninsula Railway, the decrease on that line being counterbalanced to a small extent by an increase on the other lines.

Under Miscellaneous Railway Expenditure there was an increase of Rx. 78,500 and Rx. 66,600 over the actuals of the previous year and the Budget Estimate owing to the commencement of the survey of several new projects, notably the East Coast Railway, and to the adjustment under this head of Rx. 42,400 representing the payment of Abt engines and permanent-way material obtained for the Bolan high level line.

63. Expenditure.—The expenditure of 1889-90 was more than that of the previous year by Rx. 101,500, due mainly (1) to larger grants having been assigned from Provincial Funds in the Central Provinces, Lower Burma, and the Punjab for expenditure on roads and buildings; (2) to increased expenditure in the Military Works Department on fortifications, lines of military communications, and buildings for Native troops; and (3) to the expenditure from Incorporated Local Funds in Bengal having increased considerably in consequence of famine relief works having been undertaken in certain districts. The charges for Imperial Civil Works decreased by Rx. 116,500 owing to the completion of frontier roads in the Punjab, the Surveyor General's Office in Calcutta, and the Viceregal Residence at Simla.

As compared with the Budget Estimate, the actuals show a decrease of Rx. 70,200, which was principally due to the expenditure on English stores having been over-estimated, and to the progress on a number of works not having been so great as was anticipated. There was an excess of Rx. 33,700 over the Budget of Incorporated Local Funds owing mainly to famine relief works undertaken in some districts in Bengal after the estimate had been prepared.

These account for a decrease of Rx. 140,900 in 1889-90 compared with the previous year. Excluding these, the expenditure in 1889-90 exceeded that of 1888-89 by Rx. 272,400 chiefly on account of an expenditure of Rx. 209,700 for mobilisation purposes. A portion of the excess was also due to the purchase of additional remounts and country-bred young stock and of the premises occupied by the Remount Depôt at Garden Reach, while there were some reductions under Commissariat Supplies and Services and Ordnance Stores supplied to other departments.

As compared with the Budget Estimate, the actuals showed a saving of Rx. 164,200 in the Upper Burma charges and of Rx. 317,900 in other charges chiefly owing to the rate of exchange for the payment of British troops having been $\frac{1}{32}d.$ higher than that assumed in the Budget, and to both the British and Native armies being below their expected strength; but there was an excess of Rx. 319,200 on account of the Chin-Lushai and other expeditions.

SPECIAL DEFENCE WORKS.

67. The decrease of Rx. 100,100 in the total expenditure compared with that of the previous year was mainly due to several works having approached completion, in particular the Baleli-Regi-Ghazaband defensive works; to smaller payments in England on account of armaments for defensive purposes, and the consequent reduction in the charges for loss by exchange. The actuals fell short of the Budget Estimate by Rx. 413,400 owing chiefly to smaller payments in England on account of armaments and stores than had been anticipated, and to the postponement of certain works pending consideration of estimates submitted.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

NOTIFICATION.

Simla, the 19th May, 1891.

No. 17.—Whereas by Resolutions passed by the Secretary of State for India in Council on the nineteenth day of September, 1872, and the fourth day of June, 1874, respectively, the provisions of the 33rd of Vict., Chap. 3, Section 1, were declared applicable to the territories under the administration of the Chief Commissioner of Assam;

And whereas the Chief Commissioner of Assam has proposed to the Governor General in Council a draft of the following Regulation, together with the reasons for proposing the same;

And whereas the Governor General in Council has taken the draft and reasons into consideration, and has approved of the draft, and the same has received the Governor General's assent on the sixteenth day of May, 1891;

In pursuance of the direction contained in the said section, the said Regulation is now published in the Gazette of India:

REGULATION No. III OF 1891.

A Regulation to provide for the commutation of the rights, if any, corresponding to the jhum, tippera, gurkati and pani-sikka assets of certain permanently-settled estates in the district of Sylhet.

WHEREAS the officers who effected the permanent settlements of certain estates in the district of Sylhet included for the purposes of assessment among the assets of those estates, under the designations of jhum, tippera, gurkati and pani-sikka, the income then derived by the proprietors of those estates from shifting cultivation carried on by them or their dependents beyond the limits of those estates, and from tolls levied by them on forest-produce cut, gathered or enjoyed in places beyond the limits of those estates, and, in the case of pani-sikka, from some source now unknown:

And whereas, inasmuch as the said cultivation and the operations of those who cut, gathered or enjoyed the said forest-produce shifted from year to year over immense and altogether undefined areas, the tracts of land over which they extended were not specified at the time of the settlement, and, in consequence of this, rights of various, and in some cases vague, descriptions are from time to time asserted by the said proprietors over immense and undefined areas;

And whereas it is thus impossible for any person to obtain a safe and clear title to land in those areas, and the extension of cultivation is in consequence impeded;

And whereas it is expedient that the rights, if any, corresponding to the said jhum, tippera, gurkati and pani-sikka assets should be commuted;

It is hereby enacted as follows:

1. (1) This Regulation may be called the Sylhet Jhum Regulation, 1891.

Title, extent and commencement.

(2) It shall apply to such local areas in the district of Sylhet as the Chief Commissioner may, by notification in the local official Gazette, direct; and

(3) It shall come into force in each such area on such day, not being less remote than one month from the date of the notification, as the Chief Commissioner may by the notification fix in this behalf.

(4) Every notification under this section applying this Regulation to any local area and fixing the day on which it is to come into force in the local area shall, as soon as may be, in addition to the publication in the local official Gazette, be further published—

(a) by the posting, in the manner prescribed for the posting of copies of statements under section 72, sub-section (5), of the Assam Land and Revenue Regulation, 1886, of a copy of the notification, with a copy or summary of this Regulation appended thereto, on or in the vicinity of every estate of which the whole or any part is comprised in the local area, and

(b) in such other manner, if any, as the Chief Commissioner may prescribe.

Extinction of certain rights.

2. All rights (if any) in respect of which jhum, tippera, gurkati or pani-sikka assets were assessed in any permanent settlement of land, or which have been at any time acquired by virtue of or under cover of such assessment, shall be deemed to have been extinguished, and no person shall in any suit or proceeding instituted, whether before or after this Regulation comes into force, make or support any claim on the ground of such rights:

CHAPTER I.—Preliminary.

1. These rules shall come into force throughout British India on the date of this Notification.

2. All words and expressions used in these rules and defined in the Indian Stamp Act, 1879, shall be deemed to have the meanings attached to them respectively by the said Act.

3. There shall be two kinds of stamps for indicating the payment of duty on instruments under the Indian Stamp Act, 1879, namely—

(a) Impressed stamps, including—

Impressed sheets,—that is to say, sheets of paper bearing the impression of stamps of different values engraved thereon, and sold to the public for use by them in accordance with these rules; and Impressed labels, to be affixed and impressed by Government officers as directed in Chapter III of these rules.

(b) Adhesive stamps sold to the public for use by them in accordance with these rules.

CHAPTER II.—Of Impressed Sheets.

4. (a) Hundis, other than hundis which can be stamped with an adhesive stamp under section 10 of the said Act, shall be written as follows:

(1) Hundis payable otherwise than on demand, but not more than one year after date or sight, and for amounts not exceeding Rs. 30,000 in individual value, on impressed sheets bearing the word "Hundi";

(2) Hundis exceeding Rs. 30,000 in individual value, and hundis payable at more than one year after date or sight, on paper supplied for sale by the Government, and to which labels have been affixed by one of the officers mentioned in rule 10 (b), or by the Superintendent of Stamps, Calcutta, and impressed by him in manner provided by rule 10.

(b) Every sheet of such stamped paper shall be of a size not less than $8\frac{3}{8} \times 5\frac{3}{8}$ inches, and no plain paper shall be joined to it.

(c) The provisions in rule 7 (a) as to the use of two or more sheets of stamped paper when a single stamp of the required value is not procurable apply also to hundi stamps used under this rule.

(c) When any instrument of transfer of shares in a company or association is written on an impressed sheet, and the value impressed thereon is subsequently (in consequence of a rise in the market value of such shares) found to fall short of the amount of duty chargeable under article 60 (a), schedule I of the Act, one or more adhesive "Share Transfer Stamps" hereinafter mentioned may be used to make up the required amount.

8. The duty payable on any instrument chargeable with a duty of one anna may be denoted by a coloured impression marked on a skeleton form of such instrument by the Superintendent of Stamps at Calcutta, Bombay, Madras, Rangoon, or Lahore, or by the Commissioner of Stamps at Allahabad.

AT THE COURT AT WINDSOR.

The 20th day of March, 1891.

PRESENT:

The Queen's Most Excellent Majesty.

Lord President.

Duke of Rutland.

Lord Chamberlain.

Whereas by the Extradition Acts, 1870 and 1873, it was amongst other things enacted that, where an arrangement has been made with any foreign State with respect to the surrender to such State of any fugitive criminals, Her Majesty may, by Order in Council, direct that the said Acts shall apply in the case of such foreign State; and that Her Majesty may, by the same or any subsequent Order, limit the operation of the Order, and restrict the same to fugitive criminals who are in or suspected of being in the part of Her Majesty's dominions specified in the Order, and render the operation thereof subject to such conditions, exceptions, and qualifications as may be deemed expedient; and that if, by any law made after the passing of the Act of 1870 by the Legislature of any British possession, provision is made for carrying into effect within such possession the surrender of fugitive criminals who are in or suspected of being in such British possession, Her Majesty may, by the Order in Council applying the said Acts in the case of any foreign State, or by any subsequent Order, suspend the operation within any such British possession of the said Acts, or of any part thereof, so far as it relates to such foreign State, and so long as such law continues in force there and no longer:

And whereas by an Act of the Parliament of Canada passed in 1886, and entitled "An Act respecting the Extradition of Fugitive Criminals," provision is made for carrying into effect within the Dominion the surrender of fugitive criminals:

And whereas by an Order of Her Majesty the Queen in Council, dated the seventeenth day of November, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-eight, it was directed that the operation of the Extradition Acts, 1870 and 1873, should be suspended within the Dominion of Canada so long as the provision of the said Act of the Parliament of Canada of 1886 should continue in force and no longer:

And whereas a Treaty was concluded on the twentieth and twenty-fifth days of June, one thousand eight hundred and ninety, between Her Majesty and the President of the Orange Free State for the mutual extradition of fugitive criminals, which Treaty is in the terms following:

"Her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, Empress of India, and his Honour the President of the Orange Free State, in the name of the Government of that Republic, having judged it expedient, with a view to the better administration of justice and to the prevention of crime within the two countries and their jurisdictions, that persons charged with or convicted of the crimes or offences hereinafter enumerated, and being fugitives from justice, should under certain circumstances be reciprocally delivered up;

"His Excellency Sir Henry Brougham Loch, Knight Grand Cross of the Most Distinguished Order of Saint Michael and Saint George, Knight Commander of the Most Honourable Order of the Bath, Governor and Commander-in-Chief of the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope, Her Majesty's High Commissioner for South Africa, &c., acting on behalf and in the name of Her said Majesty;

"And his Honour Francis William Reitz, President of the Orange Free State, acting on behalf and in the name of the Government of the Orange Free State,

"Have agreed upon and concluded the following Articles:

"ARTICLE I.

"The High Contracting Parties engage to deliver up to each other, under the circumstances and conditions stated in the present Treaty, those persons who, being accused or convicted of any of the crimes or offences enumerated in Article II committed in the territory of the one party, shall be found within the territory of the other party.

"6. Indecent assault.

"7. Kidnapping and false imprisonment; child stealing.

"8. Abduction.

"9. Bigamy.

"10. Maliciously wounding or inflicting grievous bodily harm.

"(d) Assault on board a ship on the high seas, with intent to destroy life or to do grievous bodily harm.

"23. Dealing in slaves in such manner as to constitute a criminal offence against the laws of both States.

"The extradition is also to be granted for participation in any of the aforesaid crimes, provided such participation be punishable by the laws of both Contracting Parties.

"Extradition may also be granted at the discretion of the State applied to in respect of any other crime for which, according to the laws of both the Contracting Parties for the time being in force, the grant can be made.

"ARTICLE III.

"Either Government may in its absolute discretion refuse in any case to deliver up its own subjects to the other Government.

"ARTICLE IV.

"The extradition shall not take place if the person claimed on the part of Her Majesty's Government, or the person claimed on the part of the Government of the Orange Free State, has already been tried and discharged or punished, or is still under trial in the territory of the Orange Free State or in the United Kingdom respectively for the crime for which his extradition is demanded.

"If the person claimed on the part of Her Majesty's Government, or on the part of the Government of the Orange Free State, should be under examination for any other crime in the territory of the Orange Free State or in the United Kingdom respectively, his extradition shall be deferred until the conclusion of the trial and the full execution of any punishment awarded to him.

"ARTICLE V.

"The extradition shall not take place if, subsequently to the commission of the crime, or the institution of the penal prosecution or the conviction thereon, exemption from prosecution or punishment has been acquired by lapse of time according to the laws of the State applied to.

"ARTICLE VI.

"A fugitive criminal shall not be surrendered if the offence in respect of which his surrender is demanded is one of a political character, or if he prove that the requisition for his surrender has, in fact, been made with a view to try or punish him for an offence of a political character.

"ARTICLE VII.

"A person surrendered can in no case be kept in prison, or be brought to trial in the State to which the surrender has been made for any other crime, or on account of any other matters, than those for which the extradition shall have taken place, until he has been restored, or has had an opportunity of returning, to the State by which he has been surrendered. This stipulation does not apply to crimes committed after the extradition.

"ARTICLE VIII.

"The requisition for extradition shall be made through Her Majesty's High Commissioner for South Africa on behalf of the United Kingdom and Her Majesty's Colonies or foreign possessions not excluded from this Treaty by Article XVIII, and through the Consul-General of the Orange Free State at London on behalf of the Government of the said State.

"The requisition for the extradition of an accused person must be accompanied by a warrant of arrest issued by the competent authority of the State requiring the extradition, and by such evidence as, according to the laws of the place where the accused is found, would justify his arrest if the crime had been committed there.

"If the requisition relates to a person already convicted, it must be accompanied by the sentence of condemnation passed against the convicted person by the competent Court of the State that makes the requisition for extradition.

"A sentence passed in contumaciam is not to be deemed a conviction, but a person so sentenced may be dealt with as an accused person.

"ARTICLE IX.

"If the requisition for extradition be in accordance with the foregoing stipulations, the competent authorities of the State applied to shall proceed to the arrest of the fugitive.

"ARTICLE X.

"A fugitive criminal may be apprehended, under a warrant issued by any Police Magistrate, Justice of the Peace, or other competent authority in either country, on such information or complaint, and such evidence or after such proceedings as would, in the opinion of the authority issuing the warrant, justify the issue of a warrant if the crime had been committed or the person convicted in that part of the dominions of the two Contracting Parties in which the Magistrate, Justice of the Peace, or other competent authority exercises jurisdiction; provided, however, that in the United Kingdom the accused shall in such case be sent as speedily as possible before a Police Magistrate in London. The criminal shall in accordance with this Article be discharged, as well in the Orange Free State as in the United Kingdom, if within the term of forty-five days a requisition for extradition shall not have been made by the Diplomatic Agent of his country in accordance with the stipulations of this Treaty.

"The same rule shall apply to the cases of persons accused or convicted of any of the crimes or offences specified in this Treaty, and committed on the high seas on board any vessel of either country which may come into a port of the other.

"ARTICLE XI.

"The extradition shall take place only if the evidence be found sufficient, according to the laws of the State applied to, either to justify the committal of the prisoner for trial in case the crime had been committed in the territory of the same State, or to prove that the prisoner is the identical person convicted by the Courts of the State which makes the requisition, and that the crime of which he has been convicted is one in respect of which extradition could at the time of such conviction have been granted by the State applied to; and no criminal shall be surrendered until after the expiration of fifteen days from the date of his committal to prison to await the warrant for his surrender.

"ARTICLE XII.

"In the examinations which they will have to make in accordance with the foregoing stipulations, the authorities of the State applied to for said extradition shall admit as valid evidence the depositions or statements of witnesses taken in the other State, under oath or under solemn affirmation to tell the truth, according as its legislation may provide, or the copies of these depositions or statements, and likewise the warrants issued and sentences pronounced in the State which demands the extradition, the certificates of the fact of the condemnation, or the judicial documents which prove it, provided the same are authenticated as follows:

"1. A warrant must purport to be signed by a Judge, Magistrate, or officer of the other State.

"2. Depositions or affirmations, or the copies thereof, must purport to be certified, under the hand of a Judge, Magistrate, or officer of the other State, to be the original depositions or affirmations, or to be true copies thereof, as the case may require.

"3. A certificate of, or a judicial document stating the fact of, a conviction must purport to be certified by a Judge, Magistrate, or officer of the other State.

"4. In every case such warrant, deposition, affirmation, copy, certificate, or judicial document must be authenticated either by the oath of some witness, or by being sealed with the official seal of the Minister of Justice, or some other Minister of the other State; but any other mode of authentication for the time being permitted by law in the State where the examination is taken may be substituted for the foregoing.

"ARTICLE XIII.

"If the individual claimed by one of the two High Contracting Parties, in pursuance of the present Treaty, should be also claimed by one or several other Powers on account of other crimes or offences committed upon their respective territories, his extradition shall be granted to that State whose demand is earliest in date.

"ARTICLE XIV.

"If sufficient evidence for the extradition be not produced within two months from the date of the apprehension of the fugitive, or within such further time as the State applied to, or the proper Tribunal thereof, shall direct, the fugitive shall be set at liberty.

"ARTICLE XV.

"All articles seized which were in the possession of the person to be surrendered at the time of his apprehension shall, if the competent authority of the State applied to for the extradition has ordered the delivery of such articles, be given up when the extradition takes place; and the said delivery shall extend not merely to the stolen articles, but to everything that may serve as a proof of the crime.

"ARTICLE XVI.

"All expenses connected with extradition shall be borne by the demanding State.

"ARTICLE XVII.

"The present Treaty shall apply to crimes and offences committed prior to the signature of the Treaty.

"ARTICLE XVIII.

"The stipulations of the present Treaty shall not be applicable to the South African Colonies and possessions of Her Britannic Majesty.

"ARTICLE XIX.

"With the exceptions mentioned in the preceding Article, the stipulations of the present Treaty shall be applicable to all the Colonies and foreign possessions of Her Britannic Majesty, so far as the laws for the time being in force in such Colonies and foreign possessions respectively will allow.

"The requisition for the surrender of a fugitive criminal who has taken refuge in any of such Colonies or foreign possessions shall be made to the Governor or chief authority of such Colony or possession by the Chief Consular Officer of the Orange Free State in such Colony or possession.

"Such requisition may be disposed of, subject always as nearly as may be, and so far as the law of such Colony or foreign possession will allow, to the provisions of this Treaty by the said Governor or Chief Authority, who, however, shall be at liberty either to grant the surrender or to refer the matter to his Government.

"Her Britannic Majesty shall, however, be at liberty to make special arrangements in the British Colonies and foreign possessions for the surrender of Orange Free State criminals who may take refuge within such Colonies and foreign possessions on the basis, as nearly as may be, and so far as the law of such Colony or foreign possession will allow, of the provisions of the present Treaty.

"Requisitions for the surrender of a fugitive criminal emanating from any such Colony or foreign possession of Her Britannic Majesty shall be governed by the rules laid down in the preceding Articles of the present Treaty.

"ARTICLE XX.

"The present Treaty shall come into force ten days after its publication in conformity with the forms prescribed by the laws of the High Contracting Parties. It may be terminated by either of the High Contracting Parties by a notice not exceeding one year and not less than six months.

"The Treaty shall be ratified, and the ratifications shall be exchanged at Bloemfontein as soon as possible.

"In witness whereof the respective plenipotentiaries have signed the same, and have affixed thereto the seal of their arms.

"Done in duplicate, at Cape Town, this twentieth day of June, one thousand eight hundred and ninety.

"(L.S.) (Signed) HENRY B. LOCH,
"High Commissioner.

"Done in duplicate at Bloemfontein this twenty-fifth day of June, one thousand eight hundred and ninety.

"(L.S.)

"State President."

And whereas the ratifications of the said Treaty were exchanged at Bloemfontein on the sixteenth day of December, one thousand eight hundred and ninety;

Now, therefore, Her Majesty, by and with the advice of Her Privy Council, and in virtue of the authority committed to Her by the said recited Acts, doth order, and it is hereby ordered, that from and after the sixth day of April, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one, the said Acts shall apply in the case of the Orange Free State pursuant to the arrangement made by the said Treaty with the President of the Orange Free State.

Provided always, and it is hereby further ordered that the operation of the said Extradition Acts, 1870 and 1873, shall be suspended within the Dominion of Canada so far as relates to the Orange Free State and to the said Treaty, and so long as the provisions of the Canadian Act aforesaid of 1886 continue in force, and no longer; and provided also that the operation of the said Extradition Acts, 1870 and 1873, shall not extend to the South African Colonies and possessions of Her Majesty so far as relates to the Orange Free State and to the said Treaty.

ORGANIZATION.

NATIVE ARMY.

No. 537.—With the sanction of Her Majesty's Government, the Governor-General in Council is pleased to notify that it has been decided to localize two native battalions of the Bombay army in Baluchistan, and to change the composition of these corps by the substitution of men recruited from the border tribes inhabiting the country above the passes.

2. The two regiments selected for conversion are the 24th and 26th Bombay Infantry, which will in future be designated "The 24th (Baluchistan) Regiment of Bombay Infantry," and "The 26th (Baluchistan) Regiment of Bombay Infantry."

3. The Native officers, non-commissioned officers and men now serving in these corps will be disposed of in the manner hereinafter stated.

4. The conversion of the 24th Bombay Infantry will be proceeded with immediately, and the 26th Bombay Infantry will be similarly dealt with on a date to be fixed hereafter.

5. These corps will be enlisted for general service, but, except on emergency or when required for field service, they will only be required to serve above the passes in Baluchistan or trans-frontier country. The head-quarters station of the 24th Bombay Infantry will be Quetta; that of the 26th will be determined hereafter.

6. Both the 24th and 26th Bombay Infantry will be recruited from Pathans and other tribes within the limits and on the borders of the Baluchistan Agency.

7. The strength of each of the two regiments above-mentioned will be as follows, organized in eight companies:

1 Commandant.
2 Wing Commanders (the senior to be 2nd-in-command).
5 Wing Officers, of whom one will be Adjutant and one Quartermaster.
1 Medical Officer.
8 Subadars (one of whom will be Subadar-Major).
8 Jemadars (one of whom will be Native Adjutant).
40 Havildars.
40 Naicks.
16 Drummers.
800 Sepoys.

8. The British officers, including the Commandants, will be selected by the Commander-in-Chief of the Bombay Army. Any officers appointed to the new corps will be posted provisionally only, on the understanding that, except under very exceptional circumstances, they must pass in the language of the men composing the corps within eighteen months of joining. They will be eligible for general staff employ, and will be allowed to exchange into other corps of the Bombay army, or will be transferred at the discretion of the Commander-in-Chief, Bombay. This rule will apply to officers now serving in these regiments, if retained therein, on the re-formation taking place.

9. The pay and allowances of the British officers will be the same as those allowed for the Native Infantry of the Indian Army, and they will be eligible under paragraph 630 of Army Regulations, India, vol. I, part I, for three months' privilege leave in each year.

10. Probationers for the Indian Staff Corps may be appointed direct to these corps in succession to vacancies without first going through a course of duty with other regiments of the Bombay army.

11. The pay and allowances for the Native ranks will be the same as for the rest of the Bombay army, and they will receive in addition the money allowance now granted in lieu of free rations to Native troops serving in Baluchistan.

12. Good-conduct pay will be given as laid down in articles 85 and 86 of Army Regulations, India, vol. I, part II.

13. The conditions of service as regards enlistment, kit money, clothing, half-mounting, discharge, pensions, and free quarters will be the same as those now in force for regiments of the Bombay army. Batta and hutting money will not be given. Free carriage will be provided, and the regiments will be hutted by Government.

14. Furlough and leave will be granted according to the rules in force for the 27th, 29th, and 30th Regiments of Bombay Infantry.

15. Soldiers serving in one battalion will be liable to transfer to any battalion to which they may hereafter be linked, as the exigencies of the service may require.

16. The Native officers, non-commissioned officers and men now serving in the 24th Bombay Infantry will cease to be borne on the rolls thereof from the 30th June 1891, and will be disposed of as follows:

(a) Native officers, non-commissioned officers and men who have served for pension for 25 years and upwards will be transferred to the pension establishment on the superior rate of pension of their rank (irrespective of the period they may have served therein).

(b) Native officers, non-commissioned officers and men of 15 years' service and upwards will be transferred to the pension establishment on the ordinary pension of their rank (irrespective of the period they may have served therein).

(c) Native officers, non-commissioned officers and men of more than 10 and less than 15 years' service will be transferred to the pension establishment on two-thirds of the ordinary rate of pension of their rank (irrespective of the period they may have served therein).

(d) Non-commissioned officers and men of more than five years' and less than ten years' service will receive a gratuity of one month's pay (including good-conduct pay) for each year of service, and will be given the option of retirement, or of continuing their service by transfer either to the active reserve or to the colors of some other regiment.

(e) Non-commissioned officers and men of less than five years' service will have the option of joining the active reserve, or of being transferred to other regiments.

17. Free passes by rail to their homes will be given to all Native officers, non-commissioned officers and men discharged on pension or gratuity under these orders.

18. The certified cost involved in change of uniform and equipment will be allowed to soldiers transferred to other regiments.

19. The restriction as to the number of men (160) to be permitted to join the active reserve of any one battalion is temporarily suspended in regard to the battalions to be mustered out, and non-commissioned officers may be accepted for the active reserve of those battalions without regard to the number of privates therein.

20. Reservists of the battalions to be mustered out will be allowed the option of joining the reserves of the battalions linked to the one to which they belong.

21. The British officers now serving with these regiments, unless previously transferred to the new battalions, or to other regiments, will be eligible to draw their present allowances up to the 31st July 1891.

22. The band and other regimental institutions of the two regiments to be re-formed will pass to the new corps with the British officers.

23. The uniform of the new regiments will be the same as that now laid down for the Baluch battalions, a drab coat and pagri being substituted for those now worn.

24. The re-formed regiments will be armed with Martini-Henry rifles.

25. A band and pipers is sanctioned for each corps.

26. The Reserve Regulations will not be made applicable to these corps for the present.

27. Any subsidiary orders that may be necessary to carry into effect the arrangements set forth above will be issued by the Government of Bombay and His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief of the Bombay Army.

SECTION I.

GENERAL.

1. Telegraph Offices in India are distinguished as follows:

(a) Government Telegraph Offices.—These include the Telegraph Departmental Offices and Postal Combined Offices.

(b) Railway Telegraph Offices.—These include State Railway Offices and Railway Offices not the property of the State, which are licensed for working under Section 4, Act XIII of 1885. Under this head are also included Telegraph Offices on Canals.

2. Business hours.—Telegrams are accepted at all Government Telegraph Offices during the hours they are open for business according to their classification notified in the List of Offices published in the Telegraph Guide.

II. Telegraph Offices of the 1st class are open day and night.

III. Telegraph Offices of the 2nd class are open 14 hours daily, or from 7 A.M. to 9 P.M. (local time), except on Sundays, Christmas Day, New Year's Day, Good Friday, and the Queen's Birthday, when they are open only from 7 to 9 A.M., and from 4 to 9 P.M. These hours are subject to modification to suit local requirements.

IV. Telegraph Offices of the 3rd class are open about seven hours daily, and usually from 10 A.M. to 5 P.M. (local time), except on Sundays, Christmas Day, New Year's Day, Good Friday, and the Queen's Birthday, when they are open only from 7 to 9 A.M and 4 to 6 P.M. These hours are subject to modification to suit local requirements.

V. Railway Telegraph Offices accept telegrams at such hours as they may be open for business, but always subject to the necessities of Railway traffic.

3. Telegram forms are supplied free at all Telegraph and Post Offices.

4. Translation of telegrams.—At Telegraph Offices in places other than the Presidency towns and Rangoon every assistance possible is to be afforded to natives in the translation of their telegrams into English, and of telegrams in English addressed to them into the Vernacular.

5. Complaints.—All complaints should be addressed to the Superintendent of the Check Office, Government Telegraph Department, Calcutta.

SECTION II.

RULES FOR INLAND TELEGRAMS.

General.

1. Definition, &c.—Inland telegrams are those which are sent to or received from places within Indian limits. Such telegrams are subject to the regulations laid down from time to time by the Government of India.

2. The accuracy of telegrams is not guaranteed, and the Sender and Receiver must accept all risks arising from non-delivery, errors, or delays.

3. Offices where accepted.—Inland telegrams are accepted at all Telegraph Offices in India, also at all Post Offices, except some Branch Offices.

4. Post Offices in telegraph connection with other Telegraph Offices are called Postal Combined Offices.

5. Post Offices which are not in telegraph connection with Telegraph Offices, but which receive Inland telegrams and despatch them by post to a Telegraph Office, are called Postal Receiving Offices. Such telegrams are sent registered and postage-free by first post.

6. Inland telegrams may also be posted to the nearest Telegraph Office, together with Telegraph or Postage stamps sufficient for their payment, and in this case a receipt for the amount will be returned post-free to the Sender. In the case of a telegram sent by post to a Telegraph Office with an insufficient number of stamps, the deficiency will be recovered from the Addressee.

7. Railway Offices.—A telegram can be sent from any Government Telegraph Office to any Railway Telegraph Office, or vice versâ, without additional charge.

8. Objectionable telegrams.—Telegraph Offices are required to refuse to transmit any telegram which may be of a decidedly objectionable or alarming character. Should the character of a telegram be open to doubt, the matter shall be referred to a Secretary to Government if the telegram be tendered at a seat of Government, or to the chief Civil or Military Officer if tendered at another place.

9. General Division.—Inland telegrams are divided into the following:

(a) State (or Government) telegrams (Rules 23 to 28).

(b) Service telegrams (Rule 29).

(c) Private telegrams.

Note.—State telegrams have no priority over Private telegrams, and take their turn with the latter according to class (Rule 45) in the order in which tendered.

MODE OF WRITING, &C.

10. Characters.—Inland telegrams must be written legibly in characters which have their equivalents in telegraphic signals. These characters or signals are the following:

A, B, C, D, E, É, F, G, H, I, J, K, L, M, N, O, P, Q, R, S, T, U, V, W, X, Y, Z.

1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 0.

Note.—There are no telegraphic signals for Roman numerals, such as I, II, &c.

(c) Stops and other signs.

Full-stop (.), Comma (,), Semicolon (;), Colon (:), Note of interrogation (?), Note of exclamation (!), Apostrophe ('), Hyphen (-), Brackets or signs of a parenthesis (), Inverted commas (" "), Bar of division (/), Underline.

(d) Conventional signs.

RP .	. Reply-paid telegram (Rule 82).
TC .	. Collated or repeated telegram (Rule 91).
CR .	. Telegram with Advice of delivery (Rule 92).
RO .	. Telegram to be delivered open (Rule 63).
MP .	. Telegram to be delivered into the hands of the Addressee himself (Rule 62).
BPD.	. Boat paid (Rule 76).
BPDN	. Boat paid double (Rule 76).

11. Language, &c.—Subject to the above limitation, telegrams may be sent in English or in the Vernaculars, or in any foreign language, or in cipher if written in Arabic numerals. Fictitious words, i.e., words not recognised in any language (such as Anglerlog, Brutaster, &c.), and wrongly spelt words, are inadmissible.

Note.—Groups of letters not forming words ("Letter cipher") cannot be transmitted in Private telegrams unless they represent Trade or Commercial marks, or are among the abbreviations sanctioned by Rule 43.

12. Legibility and Forms.—To secure accuracy and rapidity of transmission, Senders of telegrams are advised to write them in a clear and unmistakeable hand, and on the proper forms, which can be obtained free of charge at all Telegraph and Post Offices. Telegrams written on plain paper are, however, accepted at all Offices.

Note.—Books containing 100 forms for Inland telegrams with counterfoils can be purchased at the principal Government Telegraph Offices. (Price 4 annas each.)

13. Erasures, &c.—Every interlineation, reference, erasure, or alteration of words must be authenticated by the Sender of the telegram or by his representative.

14. Parts of a telegram.—The different parts of which an Inland telegram is composed should be written down as follows:

(b) The Address.

(c) Name of Office of origin.

(d) Sender's name.

(e) The Text.

15. Special Instructions.—The Sender must write upon the form* his Special Instructions (if any) regarding delivery at destination, prepayment of reply, Advice of delivery, Collation (or repetition), open delivery or delivery only to the Addressee himself, &c.

16. In the case of a Multiple telegram, the Special Instructions which concern each Addressee should be written immediately before his name.

17. These Special Instructions should be written in the abbreviated forms given in Rule 10 (d) and between signs of parenthesis, and are not charged for.

Note.—Examples to illustrate the application of these rules about the Sender's instructions will be found in Rules 62, 63, 76, 82, 91, 92, &c.

18. Address.—The Address includes the Addressee's name and address and the name of the Office to which the telegram is to go. Care should be taken that the latter is written as given in the List of Telegraph Offices published in the Telegraph Guide. The Address must contain all the information necessary to ensure delivery without search or enquiry. The Sender in all cases has to bear the consequence of insufficiency in the Address, which, after the telegram has been despatched, can neither be completed nor altered, except by a paid Service Advice (Rule 79).

19. The Addressee's name and address may be written in a preconcerted or abbreviated form. However, in order that a telegram so addressed may be delivered, the Addressee must have registered the Abbreviated Address at the Telegraph Office to which the telegram is addressed (Rule 69).

20. Sender's name.—This means the actual name or designation of the Sender. Name and designation cannot both be admitted unless it would otherwise be obviously impossible for the Addressee to identify the Sender. A telegram cannot be sent by several persons in their separate names; it must be in the name of only one individual or firm; it may, however, be sent by a party acting jointly having a recognized collective capacity, but the designation or style of such party must be used, not their several names. If the Sender of a telegram desire his own address to be telegraphed, it must be paid for. The Sender's name and address may, however, be transmitted free in a preconcerted or abbreviated form if registered under Rule 69.

21. Text.—No Private telegram or series of telegrams containing more than five hundred words can be sent at any one time by any individual or firm, and no subsequent telegram by the same individual or firm till after the lapse of three hours, unless the telegraph lines be free of all other traffic.

Note.—Regarding the length of Press telegrams, see Rule 110.

22. Signature.—The true signature and address of the Sender must always be written at the foot of the telegram. The Sender of a private telegram can always be called upon to prove that the signature attached to it is genuine.

STATE TELEGRAMS.

23. Definition.—A State telegram is defined to be one sent by an official of the British Government on British Government business.

Note.—Municipal Commissioners and the officials and servants of a Municipality or of a Guaranteed or Private Railway are not entitled to send State telegrams, nor are the officials and servants of Native States.

24. Principles to be observed.—The Government of India has laid down the following principles to be observed in State telegrams, but their application rests with the Sender, not with the Telegraph Official:

"(1) When it is not necessary that a reply (by post or wire) should be despatched within office hours of the same day, the message should be sent 'Deferred.' (2) When it is considered essential that the reply should be sent the same day, the message should be sent 'Ordinary.' (3) 'Urgent' messages should be used only—(a) in cases of real emergency; (b) in cases where the despatching officer knows that the line is blocked, and considers his message sufficiently important to take precedence of ordinary traffic. (4) Telegrams should, except when extreme precision is important, be expressed in as few words as are consistent with clearly conveying the intended meaning; and mere auxiliary or connective words, which can obviously be filled in by the receiver, should be omitted."

25. Payment, &c.—State telegrams must be marked State by the Sender, and as a rule paid for in cash or stamps prior to despatch. The charges are the same for State as for Private telegrams. The rule regarding prepayment will be relaxed in case of great emergency. Whenever an Urgent or Ordinary State telegram is tendered for transmission under this permission, the Sender must take the necessary steps to ascertain the charges on it, and pay them into the Telegraph Office within 24 hours. The rule cannot be relaxed in case of Deferred State telegrams.

26. At Railway Offices.—State telegrams are not accepted at Railway Offices at places where there is also a Government Office, except in cases of emergency or when the Sender's Office or residence is much closer to a Railway Office than to a Government Office.

27. Abbreviated titles.—In Inland State telegrams abbreviations of the titles of Government Officials are used. A list of the abbreviations sanctioned is published in the Telegraph Guide.

28. Clear Line Telegrams.—On emergent occasions of great importance, the public functionaries named below have power to "clear the line" within Indian limits, i.e., to suspend the receipt and despatch of all telegrams until the one for which the line is cleared is passed on:

(1) The Governor General of India.
(2) The Governors of Madras and Bombay.
(3) Commanders-in-Chief, India, Madras, and Bombay.
(4) Lieutenant-Governors of Bengal and the Punjab, Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces, and Chief Commissioner of Oudh.
(5) Secretaries to the Government of India.
(6) Secretaries to the Governments of Madras, Bombay, Bengal, the North-Western Provinces, and the Punjab.
(7) Chief Commissioners of the Central Provinces, British Burma, and Assam.
(8) Agents to the Governor General, Rajputana, Central India, and Baluchistan.
(9) Commissioners of Sind and Peshawar.
(10) The Residents at Hyderabad (Deccan) and Mysore.
(11) The Maharaja of Patiala from the Patiala Office only.
(12) Director General of Telegraphs.

The telegrams so sent are, however, to be paid for as other State (Urgent) telegrams. The words Clear Line should be written before the Text.

SERVICE TELEGRAMS.

29. Service telegrams are the following:

(a) Those on the service of the Government Telegraph and Postal Departments, which are sent free to and from any Telegraph Office, except in the cases specified in Rule 79.

(b) Those sent free on the service of certain Foreign Governments, regarding which the Government of India defines special rules in each case.

COUNTING WORDS.

30. Chargeable words.—All that the Sender writes in his telegram to be transmitted is included in calculating the charge, with the exception of the Special Instructions referred to in Rule 15, the address (as defined in Rule 18), the name of the Telegraph Office of origin, and the Sender's name or designation. No other words can be transmitted unless paid for as part of the Text, and Telegraph Officials are authorised to omit from the Address any words not essential for the correct delivery of the telegram.

31. Words, numbers, and signs added by Telegraph Officials for official purposes are not charged for. The day, hour, and minute (Madras time) at which a telegram is booked, when tendered for despatch, are added by the Telegraph Office, and telegraphed free. Senders may date or time their telegrams if they desire, but in such case their dates or times will be charged for.

32. The maximum length of a word is fixed at six syllables. The excess is counted as a word.

33. Every isolated character, letter, or figure is counted as a word. The same applies to an underline.

34. The initials of persons and such abbreviations as B.S.C. or R.A. are treated as isolated letters, however written by the Sender.

35. Expressions joined by a hyphen are counted according to the number of words which serve to form them.

36. Words separated by an apostrophe are counted as so many isolated words, unless they are nouns in the possessive case, as General's, Charles', brother's.

37. Compound words.—Any compound word properly so called, which is generally recognised as such, and can on occasion be shewn in a dictionary to be written as a single word (i.e., joined up without a hyphen or apostrophe), is charged as a single word when so written (i.e., joined up without hyphen or apostrophe), provided that the whole is of six or less than six syllables. Halfpenny, twopence, threepence, &c., up to elevenpence, when written as a single word, count as one word only. The following are examples of admissible compound words:—Rapeseed, Gingellyseed, Sheepskin, Cowhide.

Combinations and alterations of words contrary to usage are not allowed. Nevertheless proper names of towns and countries, family names, names of places, streets, &c., the names of ships, and also numbers written in words, are counted according to the number of words employed by the Sender to express them. All such names and numbers may be written as a single word, and, if so written, will be counted as one word for each six or portion of six syllables—see Rules 33 and 44.

Note.—To avoid error, Senders of telegrams are invited to write numbers in words rather than in figures.

38. Examples of combinations inadmissible as single words:—

Tapestrypatterns.	Sugarrefineries.
Counteroffer.	Pigiron.
Bankaction.	Beerboxes.
Wireanswer.	Dischargingday.
Innerharbour.	Steamercargo.
Boursecredit.	Coastsailing.
Sailinsurance.	Hullsteamer.
Steamcoals.	Allright.
Tuesdaymorning.	Alright.
Wheatcargo.	Motherinlaw.

39. Figures, letters, and Trade Marks.—Numbers written in figures are counted as follows:—The number of words to which a group of figures corresponds is obtained by dividing the number of figures and signs by three and adding a word for the excess, if any. The same rule is applicable to groups of letters not forming words in State telegrams and letters and figures and signs employed as Trade (or Commercial) Marks.

Note.—When Trade marks form part of the Text of a telegram, the Sender should certify them to be such at the foot of the form.

40. Stops, &c.—Signs of punctuation, hyphens, and apostrophes are not counted or signalled; but the decimal points and commas used with figures, and also the bars used in expressing fractions, are each counted as a figure, and signalled. The two brackets or signs of parenthesis, which inclose a passage, count as one word for the pair. The pair of inverted commas (double or single) which inclose a passage count also as a word.

41. Ordinal numbers.—The letters added to figures to form ordinal numbers are each counted as a figure.

Note.—It is not obligatory to put the conventional number of letters after numbers to convert them into ordinal numbers; thus, twenty-second may be expressed by 22nd, twenty-fifth, by 25th, &c.

42. Letter Cipher.—Groups of letters not forming words ("Letter Cipher") cannot be transmitted in Private telegrams.

43. Abbreviations.—Common titles, which in their full form are expressed by a single word, such as Captain, Reverend, and Esquire, may be written in their usual abbreviated forms, such as Capt., Rev., and Esq., each of which counts as one word. Similarly common abbreviations of single words, such as Rs. (for Rupees) and lbs. (for pounds), are admissible, and count each as one word. F.O.B., C.F.I., A.M., and P.M., when written as separate letters, are each counted as three and two words respectively; but these specified abbreviations when written fob, cfi, am, and pm are accepted each as one word. The abbreviations B/L, C/O, and O/O are also counted each as one word. No other abbreviations of compound words or expressions except those specified in this rule are accepted as one word.

44. Examples of counting.—The following examples show how the rules for counting the words are to be interpreted:

(d) At Railway Telegraph Offices in cash or Telegraph stamps at the option of the Sender.

(e) Telegrams sent by post to any Telegraph Office from a place where there is no Telegraph Office may be paid for in Telegraph stamps or Postage stamps.

51. Telegraph stamps are double headed. The upper half is returned on the Receipt (whereby the Sender receives a guarantee that his telegram has not been suppressed for the sake of the stamps), and the lower half is affixed to the telegram as a voucher to Government that it has been prepaid. The following are the Telegraph stamps in use:—One anna, two annas, four annas, eight annas, one rupee, R2½, R5, R10, R25, R50. They can be purchased at all Treasuries and Government Telegraph Departmental Offices.

52. Affixing stamps, &c.—Telegraph stamps must be affixed on the spaces left blank for the purpose on the telegram form—the upper half on the Receipt, the lower half on the telegram—and the Sender should see that the stamps are defaced with the Office stamp which bears the name of the Office and the date. When Telegraph stamps are used only in part payment of the cost of a telegram at a Government Office, as, for instance, in the case of a telegram paid for partly by a Reply-Pass (Rule 83), or at a Post Office in the case of a telegram paid for partly in Postage stamps, the entire stamps must be affixed lengthways on the telegram and no portion on the Receipt.

53. Damaged Stamps.—Telegraph stamps which have been cut in two before being sent into a Telegraph Office, or are in any way defaced, discolored, or damaged, are not accepted.

The value of damaged Telegraph stamps will ordinarily be refunded on application to the Superintendent, Check Office, Government Telegraph Department, Calcutta, if such application be accompanied by a statement of the cause of damage, and if no doubt exists that the damaged stamps are genuine and that the damage was not intentional.

54. Receipts are given for telegrams at all Telegraph and Post Offices, but the upper halves of Telegraph stamps are not returned upon the receipts at Railway Offices in any case, or at other Offices in the cases named in the latter part of Rule 52.

55. Telegrams from ships.—Telegrams are sent without prepayment from seaports when received for despatch by mail steamers or other vessels; but no such telegram, prepaid or not prepaid, will be transmitted until the name of the vessel from which it is received is known at the Telegraph Office. Telegrams transmitted without prepayment will not be delivered to the Addressees until they have paid the charges on them.

56. Undercharges made in error and charges and expenses not recovered from the Addressee in consequence of his refusal to pay them, or the impossibility of finding him, must be made good by the Sender.

57. Overcharges made in error are returned. No refund, however, is made of the value of stamps in excess affixed by the Sender unless he applies for it to the Superintendent of the Check Office, Telegraph Department, Calcutta, and sends with his application the Receipt granted for the telegram.

CANCELLATION.

58. If the Sender of an Inland telegram wishes to cancel it before transmission has begun, he can do so; but the charges upon it will not be returned if the stamps have been obliterated. If the telegram is in course of transmission, or has already been despatched, it can only be cancelled by a Paid Service telegram (Rule 79) to the Terminal Office. If in addition the Sender wishes to be informed by telegraph in what manner his request has been acted upon, he must deposit the cost of the return telegram; otherwise he is informed by post.

DELIVERY.

59. Free Delivery.—Telegrams are delivered free of charge within five miles of a Telegraph Office. Deferred telegrams are usually delivered through the Post Office of the place of destination. Beyond the free-delivery circle, telegrams will be sent by post without charge or (if not Deferred) by such other means as the Sender may arrange and pay for (Rule 100).

60. Readdressing.—Should the Addressee of a telegram have left the place to which it is addressed, it will, if returned unopened with definite instructions as to the new Address, be retransmitted without extra charge. Similarly it will be retransmitted immediately to any new destination, without being sent out for delivery at the first address, if the Addressee has left written instructions at the Telegraph Office, or if his new address is known. Inland telegrams are also retransmitted to Ceylon if the Addressee has left for that country, but in that case the full tariff to Ceylon is collected from the Addressee just as it would have been collected from the Sender if the telegram had been addressed to Ceylon in the first instance.

61. Reply given to messenger.—Save in the case of a postman delivering a Deferred or other telegram in the ordinary course of postal delivery, the messenger who delivers a telegram may be entrusted with the Reply, provided he be not detained for this purpose more than five minutes. The fact of the Reply having been given to the messenger and the amount paid to him should be mentioned on the receipt given for the original telegram.

62. Delivery to Addressee himself.—A telegram taken to place of residence may be delivered either to the Addressee, to any adult member of his family, to any of his employés, lodgers, or guests, or to the porter of the hotel or house, unless the Addressee has named in writing a special person, or the Sender has requested by writing on the form * the instructions (M P) as in Rule 10 (d) that the telegram may be delivered only into the hands of the Addressee himself. In this case the Office at destination writes the request in full form upon the envelope, and gives the necessary instructions to the messenger.

63. Open Delivery.—The Sender can also request the telegram to be delivered open by writing on the form * the instructions (R O) as in Rule 10 (d). This request is reproduced on the copy handed to the Addressee, which is delivered without an envelope, simply folded up with the Address written on the back.

* In the space marked Official Instructions.

64. Undelivered Telegrams.—When an Urgent or Ordinary telegram cannot be delivered, the Office at destination sends a Service telegram to that effect, and the Sender is informed. No such Report is sent in the case of Deferred telegrams unless Reply-Paid (Rule 88).

65. When in consequence of an inexact or insufficient Address, or of the Addressee's absence or refusal, Bearing charges have not been paid at destination, the amount of these charges is mentioned in the Service telegram, and the Sender is bound to make them good.

66. If the messenger finds no one at the Address given who will consent to receive a telegram for the Addressee, a notice is left at the house, and the telegram is brought back to the Office to be delivered to the Addressee, when he claims it.

67. Telegrams to be kept till called for.—When the telegram is addressed to be kept at the Telegraph Office till called for or care of Telegraph Office, or such like, it is only delivered to the Addressee himself or to a person duly appointed by him.

68. Unclaimed telegrams.—Telegrams unclaimed under Rules 66 and 67 are not kept over six weeks.

69. Registered addresses.—Any firm or individual expecting to receive Inland or Foreign telegrams can register an Abbreviated Address at the Government Telegraph Office from which such telegrams have to be delivered. The fee for registration of each Abbreviated Address is R10 per calendar year payable in advance on the 1st January, or R50 for all time, with an additional fee of R5 for every change of the word or words selected.

70. An Abbreviated Address may be registered on any date; thus if on 1st November an Address is registered, ten rupees are charged, and a second charge of ten rupees is made if the Address is renewed on 1st January following. The additional fee of five rupees is charged for every change of the word or words selected, or transfer to another Telegraph Office, but not for change of residence within the delivery limits of the registering Office, or for change of name or title of firm or person, so long as the identity is the same, and it is not a case of transfer from one firm to another: if it is a case of transfer, a fee of ten rupees is charged.

71. Abbreviated Addresses are considered confidential.

72. No Abbreviated Address can be accepted which has already been registered locally by another firm or individual.

73. The Government Telegraph Department accepts no responsibility in respect of the delivery of any telegram having an Abbreviated Address, if such Address has not been registered, or for delay in delivering such telegram. Registration is essential in all cases of persons who frequently receive telegrams addressed to them by an abbreviated name, and Telegraph Officials can decline to deliver such telegrams if, after notice has been given, the Address has not been registered.

74. For Abbreviated Addresses only real words or names may be registered. Combinations of Christian names and surnames, combinations of parts of two names, combinations of two separate words, misspelt abbreviations of one or more words are all inadmissible.

75. The following are examples of inadmissible compounds:

Granotel for Grand Hotel;
Willsmith for William Smith;
Brooksons for Brook and Sons;
Macmeth for Macdowell, Methven & Co.;
Fitzpatric for Fitzpatrick;

Persons wishing to register Abbreviated Addresses are invited to choose uncommon words, not their own names, to avoid all risk of telegrams being misdelivered to other persons of the same name.

76. Delivery by boat.—When an Inland telegram has to be delivered on board a ship which cannot be reached without a boat (i.e., when the ship is not alongside a wharf, pier, or jetty), or at a place which cannot be reached without a boat, the Sender must prepay boat-hire; otherwise the telegram will be handed to the Post Office by the Terminal Telegraph Office for delivery at the Sender's risk. The indication (Bpd.) (Boat-hire paid) or (Bpdn.) (Boat-hire paid double, if the Sender wants the telegram sent on board at night) should be entered before the Address.* Boat-hire cannot be prepaid on Deferred telegrams, as they are usually delivered through the post. Boat-hire prepaid, but not expended, will be refunded on application being made by the Sender to the Superintendent, Check Office, Government Telegraph Department, Calcutta.

77. Instructions about delivery.—All instructions which persons leave at Telegraph Offices regarding the delivery or retransmission of their telegrams should be renewed at intervals of at most six months.

RECTIFYING TELEGRAMS.

78. The Sender and the Receiver may within seventy-two hours of despatch or arrival, as the case may be, call for information or give instructions by telegraph regarding a telegram in the course of transmission or already transmitted. They can also, in order to make or obtain corrections, cause a telegram which they have sent or received to be repeated entirely or in part. In all these cases they have to pay the following:

(a) The cost of the telegram making the request.

(b) The cost of the telegram for the reply, if a reply by telegraph is wanted.

79. All rectifying, completing, or cancelling telegrams, and all communications relating to a telegram already transmitted or in course of transmission, exchanged between Telegraph Offices at the request of the Sender or Addressee are treated as Service telegrams, but charged for.

80. The charges made for Rectifying telegrams are refunded in full on application (supported by Receipts granted) to the Superintendent of the Check Office, Telegraph Department, Calcutta, if the repetition shows that the word or words were transmitted incorrectly at first. However, when some of the words have been transmitted correctly and others incorrectly, the charge is not refunded for the words, which, in the Paid Service telegram making the enquiry and in the Paid Service telegram containing the Reply, point out the words correctly transmitted in the first instance.

81. No refund is made for the telegram which has given occasion to a request for correction, nor are any refunds made for rectifying or completing telegrams exchanged direct as Private telegrams between the Sender and Addressee.

SPECIAL TELEGRAMS.

82. The Sender of a Private telegram or of a State telegram addressed to a person other than a British Government official can prepay a reply, but the payment must not be less than eight annas or more than two rupees, or contain any fraction of an anna. The Sender of a Reply-paid telegram should write the instructions (R P) (see Rule 10 (d)) followed by the amount paid thus (R P ten annas) on the form.* These words are not charged for.

83. At destination the Telegraph Office delivers to the Addressee an Order or Pass which entitles him to send free of charge from any Telegraph or Receiving Office in India, and within the limits of the amount prepaid, a telegram to any destination in India. The telegram, if sent, must be accompanied by the Pass.

Note.—A Pass issued for a Reply to an Inland telegram cannot be used to frank a Foreign Telegram, or vice versâ, nor can a Pass be used to frank a Reply-paid Telegram. Two or more Inland Passes may be used to frank one Inland telegram, but one Pass may not be used to frank two or more telegrams. A Pass cannot be used to frank a telegram on which advice of delivery (Rule 92) is prepaid, nor can Passes be used in payment of Express or other Delivery charges, which must always be paid in cash or stamps.

84. When the charge for a telegram paid for by a Pass exceeds the value of the Pass, the difference must be paid in cash or stamps (Rule 50). If, on the other hand, the value of the Pass exceeds that of the Reply, no refund of the difference will under any circumstances be given.

85. The Pass is only available for thirty days (date of issue included), after which it lapses. When the Addressee does not use the Pass, its value will be refunded by the Superintendent of the Check Office, Telegraph Department, Calcutta, if application be made within thirty days as above.

* In the space marked Official Instructions.

86. If the Addressee refuses the Pass, the Office of destination at once sends a telegram to that effect, and the Sender is informed. This telegram takes the place of the Reply paid for.

87. Should it be impossible to effect delivery of a Reply-Paid telegram, the Terminal Office sends a telegram to that effect to the Sender, and the amount deposited will be refunded on application being made to the Superintendent, Check Office, Government Telegraph Department, Calcutta.

88. When a telegram to which a Reply is prepaid is addressed to a place where there is no Telegraph Office, the telegram and Pass are forwarded to destination from the nearest Telegraph Office by ordinary post free of charge.

89. It is not compulsory on the Addressee to send a Reply. The duty of the Terminal Office consists simply in the delivery of the Pass for the amount prepaid, and the Addressee is at liberty to do what he pleases with it.

90. The Sender of a State telegram addressed to a Government official cannot prepay a reply. And in the case of a State telegram addressed to other than a Government official, any sum deposited by the Sender under Rule 82 must be intended for no other purpose than to cover the cost of a return telegram.

(B) Collated (or repeated) telegrams.

91. The Sender of any telegram can require it to be "Collated," i.e., repeated back by each Office engaged in its transmission to insure correctness. In this case he must write the instructions (T C) as in Rule 10 (d) on the form.* The charge for this repeating is equal to one-fourth the charge for the telegram. In calculating the charge, fractions of an anna are disregarded.

(C) Advice of delivery.

92. The Sender of an Urgent or Ordinary (but not of a Deferred) telegram can require that a notice shall be telegraphed to him of the date and hour of its delivery. He should write on the form * the instructions (C R) as in Rule 10 (d). The charge for such notice or acknowledgment is one rupee. This Advice of Delivery may be addressed to him at any place he may name.

93. If the telegram cannot be delivered, the return telegram indicates the circumstances which prevented delivery, and, if possible, gives the information necessary to enable the Sender to cause his telegram to reach its destination. The Advice has priority in transmission over Ordinary telegrams.

(D) Multiple Telegrams.

94. Addressed to one Telegraph Office.—A telegram addressed to several persons in one locality, or to the same person at several places of residence in one locality, with or without transmission by post, is charged for as a single telegram; but a copying fee of four annas per 100 words, plus four annas for the excess, is charged for each destination after the first.

95. Addressed to more than one Telegraph Office.—A telegram addressed to several persons, or to the same person in localities where delivery is to be effected by different Offices, is charged for as so many separate telegrams.

96. If the Sender wishes each copy of the telegram to bear only the Address of the person to whom it is to be delivered, he should write on the form* the word Addresses. If, on the other hand, he desires that each Addressee shall be made aware to what other persons the telegram has been addressed, he should write the words All Addresses on each copy. In the absence of such special instructions, it will be assumed that he wishes only one Address to appear on each copy. In either case these instructions are not charged for.

97. Replies cannot be prepaid on Multiple telegrams.

(E) Telegrams for places where there are no Telegraph Offices

98. Telegrams addressed to places where there are no Telegraph Offices can be sent to destination according to the Sender's request by post. Urgent and Ordinary (but not Deferred) telegrams can also be sent by such other means as the Sender may arrange and pay for.

99. The Address of telegrams to be so despatched should be written as follows:—

(a) John Doe, Esq., Sherghotty. Post Barun.

The name of the Terminal Telegraph Office is always entered last as in the two examples above.

100. Express Charges must be prepaid by the Sender. If the precise amount necessary is not known, the Sender must pay such sum as he thinks sufficient. If this is not found sufficient at the Terminal Office, the telegram is posted.

101. Postage.—No charge is made for postage on a telegram addressed to a place in India where there is no Telegraph Office, or to a place out of India to which Indian Inland Postal rates apply; but on a telegram to be posted to a place beyond the limits of the Indian Inland Postal Tariff, six annas must be paid as an additional charge to cover postage and registration.

102. Inland telegrams posted from Indian Ports.—Under the last rule Inland telegrams can be telegraphed to any Indian ports to be posted to places beyond Indian limits.

Example—

Mrs. Johnson, 20, Cambridge Terrace, Hyde Park, London, Post registered Bombay.

Text—Afraid my letter missed mail. Am quite well.

The charge for the above telegram is the usual Inland rate according to the Class (Deferred, Ordinary, or Urgent, at Sender's choice), plus six annas for postage, registration, &c.

Note.—Telegrams to be forwarded by post registered are received at the General Post Office, Bombay, up to 11-30 A.M. (Madras time) on Saturdays, the day of sailing of the Homeward Mail.

* In the space marked Official Instructions.

103. Telegrams as above may also be Multiple, i.e., addressed to more than one person, but in such case the Sender must pay a copying fee (Rule 94) for each additional Address, and also an additional postage and registration fee (six annas) for each. But such telegrams cannot be addressed partly to persons beyond the sea, and partly to persons at the port itself. If the Sender wants a copy delivered to a person at the port itself, he must send a separate telegram.

104. Inland telegrams posted from Negapatam, &c., for places in Ceylon.—Inland telegrams can be telegraphed to Negapatam, from which place they are despatched by post to Point Calimere, whence a daily mail boat goes to Ceylon.

Example—

Address—J. Young,

From—W. Collins, Oriental Hotel, Colombo, Post Negapatam.

Text.—Start by first steamer.

The charge for the above telegram is the usual Inland rate according to Class (Deferred, Ordinary, or Urgent, at Sender's choice), and nothing extra is charged for postage.

Note.—Telegrams for places in Ceylon can also be addressed to and posted from Tuticorin, from Pondicherry, and from Madras and Bombay, to be despatched respectively by the steamers of the British India Steam Navigation Company (from Tuticorin), of the Messageries Maritimes (from Pondicherry), and of the Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Company (from Madras and Bombay). In the case of Tuticorin, there is no extra charge for postage; in the case of Pondicherry, Madras, and Bombay, there is an extra charge of six annas for postage and registration.

105. Employment of post.—In case of telegrams for destinations over five miles distant from the Terminal Telegraph Office, that Office has the right to post such telegrams—

(a) In the absence of directions in the telegram as to the means of delivery to be employed.

(b) Whenever there is an unpaid claim against the Addressee for porterage on a previous telegram which he has refused to pay.

Telegrams for destinations over five miles distant from the Terminal Telegraph Office must be posted by that Office—

(a) When such has been the request expressly made by the Sender (Rule 99) or the Addressee.

(F) Semaphoric Telegrams.

106. Semaphoric telegrams are telegrams exchanged with ships by means of semaphores.

107. Semaphore Stations.—The following are the Government Telegraph Offices which are Semaphore stations:

Achipur.	Elephant Point.
Amherst.	False Point Light-house.
Budge Budge.	Hooghly Point.
Diamond Harbour.	Mud Point.
Diamond Island.	Saugor Island.

108. Charges, &c.—The word Semaphoric should be written on telegrams* to be so signalled to ships. The charge for Semaphoric telegrams is the usual Urgent or Ordinary charge, plus a fixed fee of eight annas. Semaphoric telegrams cannot be classed Deferred. In case of Semaphoric telegrams addressed to ships, the charges must be paid by the Sender; in case of such telegrams received from ships, the charges must be paid by the Addressee before delivery.

PRESS TELEGRAMS.

109. Rates.—The following are the rates charged for Press telegrams:

	First 32 words or groups of three figures.	Every 4 additional words or groups of three figures.	REMARKS.
	R. a.	R. a.
Urgent	2 0	0 4	Between any two Government Telegraph Offices in India.
Ordinary	1 0	0 2
Deferred	0 8	0 1

110. Conditions.—A Press telegram to be accepted at Press rates must fulfil the following conditions:

I.—It must be addressed to a newspaper the name of which has been registered by the Director General of Telegraphs. A list of such registered newspapers is published in the Telegraph Guide. Applications for the registration of newspapers should be made on forms to be obtained at Government Telegraph Department Offices.

II.—It must be addressed to the newspaper in accordance with its registered title, and to the town at which the newspaper is registered as being printed and published.

III.—It must, except as provided hereafter in Condition V, contain only intelligence which is clearly intended for publication in the strict sense of the term, and must not contain commercial news of any kind.

IV.—It must be written in plain English so as to be intelligible to the transmitting Offices, and must contain nothing of concealed meaning either in Preconcerted language or Cipher.

V.—It may also be a telegram sent from or to the newspaper by its registered title (but not in the name of the editor, publisher, manager, or any other person), to or from its correspondents or employés on the subject of a telegram published or to be published, or to an official of the Government Telegraph Department on matters of Press business.

VI.—If a Press telegram be addressed to the editor, publisher, manager, or any other person connected with the newspaper by name or designation, it is chargeable at the full Inland rates (see Condition II).

VII.—Whenever demanded, a copy of every newspaper in which a Press telegram is published must be furnished to the Telegraph Office from which that Press telegram was delivered.

VIII.—A single Press telegram must not exceed 256 words (8 units of charge). Long news messages must be broken up into separate telegrams, all of which must be numbered, and each of which, except the last, must contain the words More to follow. These words and the numbers should be written by the Sender in the space left in the telegram for Official Instructions, and they will not be charged for.

Example.—A long news message of 1,000 words would require at least 4 telegrams numbered in the space set apart for Official Instructions, 1, 2, 3, and 4, and Nos. 1, 2, and 3 would also bear the words More to follow in the Official Instructions.

111. The Press telegram rates apply only to telegrams which satisfy all the conditions of Rule 110, and any subsequent claim made by the Government Telegraph Department for the difference between Press and full Inland rates must be satisfied immediately on demand.

112. Bearing Press telegrams.—Press telegrams may be accepted Bearing from correspondents, provided that any newspaper which may desire the facility obtains previous special sanction from the Director General of Telegraphs.

113. Railway Offices.—The Press Telegram Rules do not apply to Railway Telegraph systems. Press telegrams at reduced rates cannot be accepted at Railway Offices.

114. Delivery.—Press telegrams of all classes, Urgent, Ordinary, or Deferred, are sent out for delivery as soon as received, by day or by night.

RECORDS.

115. Time kept.—The originals and copies of telegrams are kept for three days only in Government Telegraph Offices, after which time they are sent to the Check Office, Telegraph Department, Calcutta, where they are preserved for four months, and then destroyed.

116. Secrecy.—The originals and copies of telegrams can only be communicated to the Sender and Addressee on proof of identity, or to a person properly authorised by one of the two.

117. Copies.—The Sender and Addressee of a telegram or their authorised representatives can be given certified copies of the telegram or of the copy delivered if they apply to the Telegraph Office within three days, or to the Superintendent of the Check Office within four months. For every such copy a copying fee of 4 annas per 100 words or fraction of 100 words must be paid in advance. Copies cannot be given unless the date and description of the telegrams are given.

118. Preservation.—Application may be made by an interested party to the Government Telegraph Check Office for the preservation of specified telegrams exchanged between other persons on the ground of pending or contemplated judicial proceedings. Such application must be made within four months of the dates of the telegrams, and such telegrams will then be preserved for a further period of four months, at the expiration of which time they will, in default of a renewed application, be destroyed. It must be understood that the duty of the Telegraph Department in the matter is confined to making the search and preserving the telegrams if found. No information as to the result of the search will be furnished, and any telegrams answering the description given, which may be found, will only be produced on the order of a competent Court of law or other competent authority.

119. Fees for searching for telegrams.—Should the particulars furnished be insufficient to enable the Check Office to at once trace the telegrams applied for under either Rule 117 or Rule 118, the cost of searching for them must be deposited by the applicant. A fee of one rupee is charged for searching through the telegrams of any Telegraph Office for one day: thus if it be required to examine the telegrams of two Telegraph Offices over a period of five days, the searching fee will be ten rupees.

REFUNDS.

120. If an Ordinary or Urgent Private telegram be not delivered, or be subjected to serious delay, through the fault of any Telegraph Administration in India, the whole charge made for it will be returned to the Sender.

121. If an Ordinary or Urgent Private telegram be delivered wholly or partially in an unintelligible state, a refund will be made only when it is a Collated telegram (Rule 91).

122. No refund will under any circumstances be made for a State telegram of any Class or for a Deferred Private telegram.

123. Applications for refunds, as also all complaints respecting telegrams, should be addressed to the Superintendent, Check Office, Telegraph Department, Calcutta. Such claims for refund must be made within one month from the date of the telegram; but this period is extended to two months in the case of a Collated telegram (Rule 91), or of a telegram on which the cost of a Reply or an Advice of Delivery has been prepaid.

124. When no doubt exists as to an overcharge having been made on an Inland Private telegram by the mistake of an official at any Telegraph Office, such overcharge is to be at once refunded by such Office (Rule 57).

2. Offices where Foreign Telegrams are accepted.—Foreign telegrams for Ceylon are accepted at all Telegraph Offices in India (except Field Offices), also at a few Postal Receiving Offices. Foreign telegrams for other countries are accepted at all Offices of the Government Telegraph Department (except Field Offices), also at a certain number of Postal Combined Offices and Railway Offices.

Note.—Foreign Telegrams, except for Ceylon, cannot be accepted at any Railway Office at places where there is also a Government Office.

3. Objectionable Telegrams.—The parties to the Convention reserve to themselves the right of stopping the transmission of every Private telegram which appears dangerous to the security of the State or contrary to the laws of the country, to public order, or decency. The Terminal or any Intermediate Office may exercise this power on condition of immediately advising the Office of origin.

4. Telegraph Offices in India are required to refuse to transmit any telegram which appears to be of the above character. Should the character of a telegram be open to doubt, the matter will be referred to a Secretary to Government if the telegram be tendered at a seat of Government, or to the chief Civil or Military Officer if tendered at another place.

5. General Division.—Foreign telegrams are divided into the following:

(a) State (or Government) telegrams (Rule 33).

(b) Service telegrams (Rule 38).

(c) Private telegrams.

Note.—In transmission State telegrams have priority over other telegrams, and Service telegrams have priority over Private telegrams.

MODE OF WRITING, &c.

6. Language.—State and Service telegrams may be written in Secret language. Private telegrams may also be written in Secret language, unless addressed to a country in which the use of Secret language in telegrams is prohibited.

7. Foreign telegrams may be written in Plain language (langage clair) or in Secret language. Secret language is divided into Preconcerted* language (langage convenu), Cipher (or Figure) language† (langage chiffre), and language in letters ‡ having a secret meaning.

8. Private telegrams of which the Text is composed wholly or partly of letters having a secret meaning cannot be accepted.

9. State and Service telegrams may be composed of letters having a secret signification.

10. Plain language.—By "telegrams in Plain language" are meant those which offer an intelligible sense in any one of the languages

* Sometimes known as "Code language" or simply as "Code."

† Sometimes known as "Figure Cipher."

‡ Sometimes known as "Letter Cipher."

authorised for International telegraphic correspondence.

Note.—The following are the languages so authorised:

Arabic.	Italian.
Armenian.	Latin.
Bohemian.	Malay.
Bulgarian.	Norwegian.
Croatian.	Persian.
Danish.	Polish.
Dutch.	Portuguese.
English.	Roumanian.
Flemish.	Russian.
French.	Ruthenian.
German.	Servian.
Greek.	Siamese.
Hebrew.	Slavonic.
Hungarian.	Spanish.
Illyrian.	Swedish.
Turkish.

Telegrams from India to Ceylon, and vice versâ, may be in the Vernaculars or any Foreign language. The Indian Vernaculars are absolutely inadmissible in Foreign telegrams, except in the case of Ceylon.

11. Preconcerted language.—By "telegrams in Preconcerted language" are meant those made up of words, each of which has an intrinsic sense, but which do not form phrases intelligible to the Telegraph Offices concerned. The words used in Preconcerted language must not contain more than ten characters, and they must be genuine recognised words belonging to one or more of the following languages:—German, English, Spanish, French, Dutch, Italian, Portuguese, and Latin. These words may be taken from Vocabularies (or "Codes") authorised for International correspondence, or from an Official Vocabulary drawn up by the International Office at Berne.

Note.—Telegrams from India to Ceylon, and vice versâ, may be in the Vernaculars or any Foreign language.

12. Proper names of every description are absolutely inadmissible in a secret sense, unless such names are contained in the Official Vocabulary referred to above. They are, however, admitted in telegrams in Preconcerted language when not used in a secret sense.

Note.—In such case the Sender should explain in writing on the telegram below his signature what they represent. The explanations are not transmitted or charged for. Example:—

[Text of telegram] Comilla Critical Marseilles Ecliptic Duration Robinson. [Signature.]

Comilla (vessel); Marseilles (port); Robinson (consignee).

13. Code Books.—The Telegraph Office at which a telegram in Preconcerted language is presented has a right to insist, when necessary, that the Vocabulary or Code-Book be produced for inspection in order to see that the preceding rules are observed, and to verify the authenticity of the words employed.

Note.—Senders of telegrams are warned against the use of Vocabularies or Code Books containing proper names or words not recognised in the eight languages named in Rule 11. Among such books are certain editions of:—Lindo's Latin Combination Code, Verini's Code, the Nonpareil Code, the ABC Code, and the Exchange Telegraph Code, which amid admissible words contain combinations of letters which, though they have the semblance of words, are not recognised words of the eight languages.

14. Cipher.—By "telegrams in Cipher (or Figure) language" are meant those of which the Text is wholly or partially formed of groups or series of figures having a secret meaning. The Cipher part of Private telegrams must be composed exclusively of Arabic figures.

15. Characters.—Telegrams must be written legibly in characters which have their equivalents in telegraphic signals. These characters or signals are the following:

A, B, C, D, E, F, G, H, I, J, K, L, M, N, O, P, Q, R, S, T, U, V, W, X, Y, Z.

1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 0.

Note.—There are no telegraphic signals for Roman numerals, such as I, II, &c.

(c) Stops and other signs.

Full stop (.), Comma (,), Semicolon (;), Colon (:), Note of interrogation (?), Note of exclamation (!), Apostrophe ('), Hyphen (-), Brackets or signs of a parenthesis ( ), Inverted commas (" "), Bar of division (/), Underline.

Note.—With the exceptions given in the Rules 44 and 50, the above stops and other signs are not counted or transmitted in Foreign telegrams.

(d) Conventional Signs.

French.	Abbreviated form.	English meaning.
Télégramme avec réponse payée	RP.	Reply-paid telegram (Rule 90).
Télégramme avec collationnement.	TC.	Collated (or Repeated) telegram (Rule 98).
Télégramme avec accusé de réception.	CR.	Telegram with Advice of Delivery (Rule 101).
Télégramme à faire suivre	FS.	Telegram to follow Addressee (Rule 103).
Poste payée	PP.	Post paid (Rule 118).
Poste recommandée	PR.	Post registered (Rule 123).
Exprès payée	XP.	Express paid (Rule 118).
Télégramme à remettre ouvert	RO.	Telegram to be delivered open (Rule 76).
Télégramme à remettre en mains propres.	MP.	Telegram to be delivered into the hands of the Addressee himself (Rule 75).

16. Legibility and Telegram Forms.—To secure accuracy and rapidity of transmission, Senders of telegrams are advised to write them in a clear and unmistakeable hand and on the proper forms, which can be obtained free of charge at all Telegraph Offices. Telegrams written on plain paper are, however, accepted at all Offices.

Note.—Books containing 100 forms for Inland or for Foreign telegrams with counterfoils can be purchased at the principal Government Telegraph Offices. (Price 4 annas each).

17. Erasures, &c.—Every interlineation, reference, erasure, or alteration must be authenticated by the Sender or by his representative.

18. Parts of a Telegram.—The different parts of which a foreign telegram is composed should be written down in the following order:

(a) Special Instructions, if any (Rule 19).
(b) The Address (Rule 22).
(c) The Sender's name (Rule 31).
(d) The Text (Rule 29).

19. Special Instructions.—The Sender should write upon the form immediately before the Address his Special Instructions, if any, regarding delivery at destination, prepayment of reply, Advice of delivery, Collation (or repetition), or regarding the telegram being one "to follow," to be delivered open, or only to the Addressee himself, &c.

20. In the case of a Multiple telegram, the Special Instructions which concern each Addressee should be written immediately before his name; however, if the Multiple telegram is also a Collated (or repeated) one, it is sufficient if the Special Instructions for Collation (Rule 98) precedes the first Address.

21. These Instructions may be written in the abbreviated forms allowed in Rule 15. In this case they must be put between signs of parenthesis, and so written they are counted each as one word only. When they are written in full, they should be in French.

Note.—For further particulars regarding the Sender's Instructions, see Rules 75, 76, 90, 98, 103, &c.

22. Address.—Every Address must contain at least two words, the first indicating the Receiver, the second indicating the name of the Telegraph Office of destination. The latter should be spelt as in the Official List of Offices (Rule 44).

23. The Address should contain all the information necessary to insure the delivery of the telegram. This information, with the exception of names of persons, should be written in French or in the language of the country to which the telegram is addressed.

24. The address of Private telegrams should be such that delivery can be effected without search or enquiry. In the case of large towns, it ought to contain the name of the street and the number of the house, or, in the absence of these particulars, to specify the profession of the Addressee or any other useful information. Even for small towns, the name of the Addressee ought to be, as much as possible, accompanied by additional particulars to guide the Delivering Office in case of alteration of the proper name.

25. The country or the territorial sub-division for which the telegram is intended must be added whenever there is room for doubt as to the direction in which the telegram is to go. This is especially necessary in the case of places of the same name.

26. Telegraph Offices in neighbourhood of London.—In telegrams addressed to the following Telegraph Offices, all of which are in the neighbourhood of London, it is not necessary to add the word London in the Address:

Acton.	Edmonton.	Leytonstone.
Anerley.	Finchley.	Mortlake.
Balham.	Hampstead.	South gate.
Blackheath.	Hanwell.	Tooting.
Catford.	Hendon.	Walthamstow.
Chingford.	Hornsey.	Whetstone.
Chiswick.	Lewisham.
Ealing.	Leyton.

Telegrams for places in London itself, the names of which do not appear in the Official List of Foreign Offices (Rule 44), cannot be accepted unless addressed London as the name of the Terminal Office. For instance, a telegram for Paddington in London must be addressed to London as the Terminal Office; otherwise it will be missent to Paddington in Australia, which Office is the only one of the name given in the Official List.

27. Insufficient Address.—Telegrams, the Address of which does not satisfy the conditions laid down in the preceding rules, are nevertheless accepted and transmitted at the Sender's risk. In every case the Sender has to bear the consequences of an insufficient Address.

28. Preconcerted Addresses.—The Address may be written in a Preconcerted or abbreviated form. However, in order that a telegram so addressed may be delivered, the Addressee must have registered the Preconcerted or Abbreviated Address at the Telegraph Office to which the telegram is addressed (see Rule 83).

Note.—Senders of Foreign telegrams to England under Abbreviated Addresses are warned that unless such Addresses are registered, not only with the Indo-European and Eastern Telegraph Companies, but also with the British Post Office, there is a risk of non-delivery, especially in the event of interruptions on one Route requiring telegrams to be diverted to another. Registration at the Eastern or Indo-European Companies' Offices is not recognised by the British Post Office or by the Submarine Telegraph Company, London. Telegrams should not be sent vid Turkey to Abbreviated Addresses in England unless such Addresses have been registered by the British Post Office. Claims for refunds on telegrams are rejected by the authorities in England when Addresses have not been duly registered.

29. Text.—Telegrams can be sent without Text. The Sender may limit his telegram to the words given in the Address (Rule 22), i.e., the telegram need not contain either Text or Sender's name.

30. The Text of a Private Telegram can only be composed in Secret language, if the country to which it is addressed allows this mode of correspondence. The Text of a Private telegram intended for a country which allows secret correspondence may contain passages in Plain language and passages in Secret language.

31. The Sender's name may be in an abbreviated form or be omitted.

32. Signature.—Every telegram must be authenticated by the signature of the Sender, which is not charged for or transmitted. The Sender of a Private telegram is bound to prove his identity when requested to do so by the Telegraph Department.

STATE TELEGRAMS.

33. Definition.—State (or Government) telegrams are defined in the Convention to be those which emanate from the Chief of the State, Ministers, Commanders-in-Chief of Land or Sea Forces, and Diplomatic or Consular Agents of the Contracting Governments; also the replies to these same telegrams.

34. From British Officials.—The only British Government Officials in India who are allowed to send Foreign State telegrams are those who have been specially authorised to do so by the Government of India. A complete list of these officials will be published in the Telegraph Guide. Telegrams classed State tendered by officials, not named in that list, will be treated as Private telegrams. State Telegrams to Ceylon will, however, be accepted from all British Government Officials.

35. From Diplomatic or Consular Agents.—The Diplomatic or Consular Agents in India of the States which are parties to the Convention (Rule 1) are entitled to send Foreign State telegrams, but if such persons are engaged in trade or commerce, their telegrams cannot be considered State telegrams unless they fulfil the following conditions:—(a) They must be on the business of the Agent's Government, (b) sent in his official capacity, and (c) addressed to an official personage.

36. Replies to State telegrams.—The addressee of a Foreign State telegram is allowed to send the reply as a State telegram on his shewing the telegram received.

37. Letter Cipher.—The Text of State telegrams in Secret language may be made up of figures or letters with a secret meaning, but a mixture of figures and letters is not allowed.

SERVICE TELEGRAMS.

38. Service telegrams are defined in the Convention to be those which emanate from the Telegraph Administrations of the Contracting States, and which relate either to the service of the International telegraphs or to objects of public interest agreed upon between the said Administrations. They are divided into Service telegrams properly so called and Service Advices. They are transmitted free, except in the cases specified in Rule 87.

COUNTING WORDS.

39. What is counted.—All that the Sender writes in his telegram to be transmitted is included in calculating the charge, with the exception of instructions as to Route (Rule 63), signs of punctuation, apostrophes, and hyphens (Rule 15).

40. Preamble.—The words, numbers, or signs forming the Preamble and added by the Telegraph Office for official purposes are not charged for. The name of the Office of origin, the day of the month, the hour and the minute the telegram was booked, which form this Preamble, are transmitted free, and entered on the copy delivered to the Addressee. In India all telegrams are booked by Madras time. The Sender may insert these particulars in the Text of his telegram. They then are counted among the words charged for.

41. Original counting decisive.—The counting of the words by the Office of origin is decisive. Nevertheless the Office at destination, when the telegram is composed in its language, and contains combinations of words contrary to the usage of that language, is empowered to recover from the Addressee the amount undercharged. In this case the telegram is only delivered to the Addressee after payment of the undercharge. In case of non-payment by the Addressee, the Office of origin, duly advised by a Service Advice, informs the Sender that the refusal of payment has prevented the telegram being delivered.

Note.—In applying this rule in India, the language of the country is considered to be English. It applies also to the Vernaculars in case of telegrams from Ceylon (Rules 10 and 11).

42. Maximum length of a word.—In Plain language the maximum length of a word is fixed at ten letters; every ten letters or fraction of ten letters in excess is also counted as one word.

II. In Preconcerted language the maximum length of a word is fixed at ten letters, and words exceeding this limit are absolutely inadmissible.

43. Mixed telegrams.—Words in Plain language inserted in the Text of a mixed telegram, composed of words in Plain language and words in Preconcerted language, are counted as in Rule 42 I. The same Rule applies to proper names used without secret meaning in the Text of telegrams in Preconcerted language. If the mixed telegram contains in addition a portion in Cipher, the Cipher passages are counted according to Rule 49. If it is composed partly of Plain language and partly of Cipher language, the parts in Plain language are counted as in Rule 42 I, and the parts in Cipher language as in Rule 49.

44. In all languages the following are each counted as only one word:

(a) The name of the Telegraph Office of destination, the name of the country, and the name of the territorial sub-division of destination, but only in the Address, whatever be the number of words and characters employed to express them, on condition that these words are spelt as given in the official list of Telegraph Offices issued by the International Office at Berne (Nomenclature des Bureaux télégraphiques).

(b) every isolated character, letter, or figure;

(c) each underline;

(d) the two signs of parenthesis at the beginning and end of a passage;

(e) the pair of double or single inverted commas at the beginning and end of a single passage.

45. Hyphens and apostrophes.—Expressions joined by a hyphen are counted according to the number of words which serve to form them. Words separated by an apostrophe are counted as so many separate words.

46. Compound words.—Nevertheless, any compound word, properly so called, which is admitted as such in English and French, and can on occasion be shewn to be so admitted by reference to a dictionary, may be written as a single word, and so written the stipulations of Rule 42 apply to it.

47. Inadmissible combinations.—Combinations and alterations of words contrary to the usage of a language are not allowed. Fictitious and wrongly spelt words are inadmissible.

48. Proper names, &c.—Nevertheless, proper names of towns and countries, family names, names of places, boulevards, streets, &c., the names of ships, and also numbers written in words, are counted according to the number of words employed by the Sender to express them.

49. Numbers written in figures are counted as follows:—The number of words to which a group of figures corresponds is obtained by dividing the number of figures by 3, and adding a word for the excess, if any. The same rule is applicable to groups of letters in State telegrams and figures and letters employed as Trade (or Commercial) marks or in Semaphoric telegrams (Rule 129).

Note.—When Trade Marks form part of the Text of a telegram, the Sender should certify them to be such at the foot of the form.

50. Signs used with figures.—The decimal points and commas used with figures, and also the bars used in expressing fractions, are each counted as a figure. The letters added to figures to form ordinal numbers are each counted as a figure.

51. Inadmissible groups or words accidentally included.—When contrary to Rules 10, 11, or 14 a Private telegram accidentally contains an unauthorised group of letters or a word not belonging to any of the languages admitted in Foreign telegrams, this group of letters or this word is counted according to Rule 49, i.e., at the rate of three characters per word. When telegrams containing such groups or words have been inadvertently accepted, the Sender is bound to pay the difference of charge whenever the undercharge is subsequently detected.

52. Examples of counting.—The following examples shew how the rules for counting the words are to be interpreted:

Note.—The abbreviations fab, cfi, eit, B L, Co, and % are also counted each as one word.

* The signal for parenthesis is transmitted before and after each passage or word put in parenthesis.

† The signal for inverted commas is transmitted before and after each passage marked by inverted commas.

* The telegraph is not able to reproduce such expressions as 30 a, 15 × 6, &c. Senders of telegrams must, therefore, replace them by the full signification, thus—30 raised to the power of a, 15 multiplied by 6, &c.

† The signal for an underline is transmitted before and after each word or passage underlined.

TARIFFS.

53. Changes in Tariffs.—The Tariffs for Foreign telegrams are made up of the shares of the different Administrations concerned, which may alter them from time to time. The Tariffs vary also according to the Route employed (Rules 63 to 65). The franc is the monetary unit employed in Foreign Tariffs; and as all accounts with Foreign Administrations have to be settled in gold, the charges in India are subject to alteration in accordance with changes in the rate of exchange.

54. Charge by the word.—The charge for a Foreign telegram is by the word or group of figures, and the minimum charge is for a telegram of two words (Rules 22 and 29).

Note.—Tables showing the rates per word to Foreign countries will be published in the Telegraph Guide.

55. Tariff areas.—For Tariff purposes India is divided into two areas, namely, India proper and Burma. When in the course of transmission a telegram has to traverse both of these areas, the charge per word is always two annas higher than when it has to traverse only one.

56. Frontier Offices.—The Frontier Offices, or Offices which directly exchange telegrams with Foreign Administrations, are as follows:

(a) Bombay, Karachi, and Madras in the Indian area, which exchange telegrams with the Eastern Telegraph Company, the Indo-European Telegraph Department, and the Eastern Extension, Australasia and China Telegraph Company respectively. Madras is also ordinarily the Frontier Office for Ceylon.

(b) Moulmein in the Burma area, which exchanges telegrams with the Siamese Administration.

All Foreign telegrams originating in India or Burma have to pass through one or other of these Frontier Offices.

PAYMENT OF CHARGES.

57. All charges must be prepaid, with the exception of the supplementary charge for Telegrams "to follow" (Rule 108), Express charges (Rule 119), and the charge for telegrams originating at Semaphore stations (Rule 132), all of which are collected by the Terminal Office. In every case where charges have to be collected on arrival, the telegram is only delivered to the Addressee upon payment of the amount due.

58. Receipts.—The Sender of a Foreign telegram can claim a receipt shewing the amount paid.

59. State telegrams.—The rule about prepayment is relaxed in case of telegrams of great emergency from British Government Officials who have been duly authorised (Rule 34) to send Foreign State telegrams. Whenever a telegram is sent without prepayment under this rule, the Sender must take the necessary steps to ascertain the charges on it, and pay them into the Telegraph Office within twenty-four hours.

60. Cash or Stamps.—At Offices authorised to receive Foreign telegrams (Rule 2), the charges must be paid in cash or Telegraph stamps. As regards the use of Telegraph stamps, see the Rules for Inland telegrams, Nos. 51 to 53.

61. Undercharges made in error, and charges and expenses not recovered from the Addressee in consequence of his refusal to pay them or the impossibility of finding him, must be made good by the Sender.

62. Overcharges made in error are returned. No refund, however, is made of the value of the stamps in excess affixed by the Sender unless he applies for it to the Superintendent, Check Office, Telegraph Department, Calcutta, and sends with his application the Receipt granted for the telegram.

ROUTE.

63. The different Routes to be given to telegrams are indicated in the Tariff Tables published in the Telegraph Guide. The Sender who wishes to prescribe the Route should write it himself on the telegram. He may specify the actual Route to be followed or mark the telegram Best Route or Cheapest Route. Instructions as to Route are transmitted free.

64. When the Sender has prescribed the Route to be followed, the Telegraph Offices concerned are bound to carry out his wishes, unless the Route named be interrupted, or transmission by it seems likely to involve serious delay, in which cases the Sender cannot raise any objection to the change.

65. If the Sender specifies no Route, the telegram is sent by the least expensive one, but, if all the Routes are equal as to cost, the Offices where Routes diverge will decide by which to send it.

66. When the Sender has requested his telegram to be transmitted by telegraph as far as the Office which he names, and thence by post to destination, the Offices must carry out his instructions.

INTERRUPTION OF TELEGRAPH COMMUNICATION.

67. When in the course of transmission of a telegram an interruption takes place in the regular telegraph communications, the Office beyond which the interruption has taken place at once sends the telegram by post (registered) or by some more rapid means, such as, for instance, by an alternative telegraph Route. As soon as communication is re-established, the telegram is again transmitted by telegraph, unless its receipt has been previously acknowledged, or unless, on account of an exceptional accumulation of traffic, this retransmission would be clearly injurious to the total traffic. Telegrams cannot, however, be diverted to a more expensive Route until the Sender has paid the additional cost.

CANCELLATION OF TELEGRAMS BY SENDER.

68. Before transmission.—The Sender of a telegram, by proving his identity, can stop its transmission if in time. When he withdraws or stops it before transmission has begun, the charges are returned, less a fee of four annas. If the stamps have already been defaced, the refund can only be made by the Superintendent of the Check Office, Telegraph Department, Calcutta, to whom the Receipt should be sent with an application.

69. After transmission.—If the telegram has already been transmitted, he can only cancel it by a Paid Service Advice in accordance with Rule 86. As far as possible, this Service Advice is transmitted to the Offices (one after another) to which the telegram in question has been transmitted until it has caught it up. The Sender must also pay for a reply if he wishes to be informed by telegraph that his request has been carried out, and the Office which cancels the telegram replies to that effect by telegraph to the Office of origin. If no reply has been paid for, it sends this advice as an unpaid letter.

70. Refunds of the cost of the first telegram and of the Paid Service Advice cancelling it can be obtained from the Check Office for the portions of the Route not traversed, less the expense of postage, if incurred.

DELIVERY AT DESTINATION.

71. According to address and order.—Telegrams are delivered, according to their address, either at residence or Poste restante (to be kept at the Post Office till called for) or Télégraphe restant (to be kept at the Telegraph Office till called for). They are in all cases delivered at or sent to their destinations in the order of their receipt and of their priority.

72. Free delivery limits.—Telegrams addressed to the place of residence in the localities served by the Telegraph Office are delivered to their address. In India they are delivered free of charge within 5 miles of a Telegraph Office. Beyond the free-delivery limit telegrams received in India are sent by post (registered) without charge.

73. Reply given to messenger.—In India the Telegraph messenger who delivers a Foreign telegram may be entrusted with the Reply, provided he be not detained for this purpose more than five minutes. The fact of the Reply having been given to the messenger, and the amount paid to him, should be mentioned on the Receipt given for the telegram.

74. Delivery by post.—Telegrams addressed Poste restante are posted immediately by the Terminal Telegraph Office. If the telegrams are marked Poste or (PT), they are posted as paid letters without any charge for postage to Sender or Addressee. If they are marked Poste recommandée or (PR), they are posted as registered letters, and the Sender must pay a fee of four annas for registration.

Note.—In India all Foreign telegrams which have to be posted to destination are posted as registered letters (see also Rule 123).

75. Persons to whom telegrams are delivered.—A telegram taken to place of residence may be delivered either to the Addressee, to any adult member of his family, to any of his employés, lodgers, or guests, or to the porter of the hotel or house, unless the Addressee has named in writing a special person, or the Sender has requested by writing before the Address the instructions (Rule 15) A remettre en mains propres or (MP) that the telegram may be delivered only into the hands of the Addressee himself. In this case the Delivery Office writes the request upon the envelope, and also gives the necessary orders to the messenger.

76. Open delivery.—The Sender can also request the telegram to be delivered open by writing before the Address the instructions (Rule 15) A remettre ouvert or (RO). This request is reproduced in the copy delivered. In India such telegrams are delivered without an envelope.

77. Telegrams to Offices not authorised to do Foreign business.—Telegrams arriving in India and addressed to places served by Postal, Combined, or Railway Offices which are not authorised to accept Foreign telegrams (Rule 2) are posted to destination as registered letters from the nearest Office so authorised. This restriction does not apply to telegrams from Ceylon.

78. Undelivered telegrams.—As soon as it has been ascertained that a telegram cannot be delivered, the Office of destination sends a Service Advice to the Office of origin, announcing the cause of non-delivery, and repeating the Address exactly as received. The Office of origin immediately verifies the correctness of the Address as repeated back; and if it has been altered in transmission, it rectifies it at once by a Service Advice. If the Address has not been altered, the Office of origin communicates the Advice as soon as possible to the Sender. The Sender is not allowed to complete, alter, or confirm the Address except by a paid telegram in the shape of a Paid Service Advice (Rule 86.) If the telegram happens to be delivered after transmission of the Non-delivery Advice, the Office at destination is bound to send a second Service Advice announcing the fact.

79. When, in consequence of an inexact or insufficient address, or of the Addressee's absence or refusal, Express charges have not been paid at destination, the amount of these charges is mentioned in the Service Advice, and the Sender is bound to make them good.

80. If the messenger finds no one at the address given who will consent to receive the telegram for the Addressee, a notice is left at the house, and the telegram is brought back to the Office to be delivered to the Addressee, when he claims it.

81. Poste restante : Télégraphe restant.—When the telegram is addressed Poste restante (to be kept at the Post Office) or Télégraphe restant (to be kept at the Telegraph Office), it is only delivered to the Addressee himself or to a person duly appointed by him.

82. Unclaimed Telegrams.—Telegrams unclaimed under Rules 80 and 81 are not kept over six weeks.

83. Registered Addresses.—Any firm or person expecting to receive telegrams can register a Preconcerted or Abbreviated Address at the Government Telegraph Office in India from which such telegrams have to be delivered. For further details, see the Rules for Inland telegrams, Nos. 69 to 75. Preconcerted Addresses used in Foreign telegrams must be real names or genuine words of the eight languages specified in Rule 11.

84. Delivery on ships.—When a Foreign telegram in India has to be delivered on board a ship which cannot be reached without a boat (i.e., when not alongside a wharf, pier, or jetty), the cost of boat hire must be paid by the Addressee.

Note.—On telegrams to Ceylon addressed to persons on board ships in Ceylon ports, the Sender must prepay twelve annas for boat hire. He should write the abbreviation XP (which is counted and charged as one word) before the Address to indicate that boat hire has been prepaid.

85. Directions about delivery.—All directions which persons leave at Telegraph Offices regarding the delivery or retransmission of their telegrams should be renewed at intervals of at most six months.

RECTIFYING TELEGRAMS.

86. The Sender and the Addressee may within seventy-two hours of despatch or arrival, as the case may be, call for information or give instructions by telegraph regarding a telegram in the course of transmission or already transmitted. They can also, in order to make or obtain corrections, cause a telegram which they have sent or received to be repeated entirely or in part by the Office at destination or by the Office of origin or any intermediate Office. In all such cases they have to pay the following:

(a) The cost of the telegram making the request.

(b) The cost of a telegram for the reply, if a reply by telegraph is wanted.

87. All rectifying, completing, or cancelling telegrams, and all communications relating to a telegram already transmitted or in course of transmission, exchanged between Telegraph Offices at the request of the Sender or Addressee are treated as Service Advices (Rule 38), but charged for.

88. The charges made for rectifying telegrams are refunded in full on application (supported by Receipts granted) to the Superintendent, Check Office, Government Telegraph Department, Calcutta, if the repetition shews that the word or words repeated were transmitted incorrectly at first. However, when some of the words have been transmitted correctly and others incorrectly, the charge is not refunded for the words which, in the Service Advice making the enquiry and in the Service Advice containing the Reply, point out the words correctly transmitted in the first instance.

89. No refund is made for the telegram which has given occasion to a request for correction, nor are any refunds made for rectifying or completing telegrams exchanged direct as Private telegrams between the Sender and Addressee.

SPECIAL TELEGRAMS.

90. The Sender of a telegram can prepay a reply; but the payment must not exceed the cost of a telegram of 30 words by the same Route, unless it be to obtain the repetition of a telegram previously transmitted, in accordance with Rule 86.

91. If the Sender writes before the Address and pays for the Instructions Réponse payée or (RP) (Rule 15), it is assumed that a reply of ten words is desired. Should the number of words for which a Reply is prepaid be greater or less than ten, the Sender must add the actual number, thus Réponse payée 15 or (RP 15). A reply of less than two words (Rule 29) cannot be prepaid.

92. At destination the Office delivers to the Addressee an order or Pass which entitles him to send free of charge, and within the limits of the amount prepaid, a telegram to any destination whatever.

Note.—A pass issued for a Reply to an Inland telegram cannot be used to frank a Foreign telegram, and vice versâ. Two or more Foreign Passes may be used to frank one Foreign telegram, but one Pass may not be used to frank more than one telegram.

93. When the charge for a telegram paid for by a Pass exceeds the amount of the value of this Pass, the difference must be paid in cash or stamps (see Rule 60). If, on the other hand, the value of the Pass exceeds that of the Reply, the difference is refunded by the Superintendent of the Check Office, Telegraph Department, Calcutta, to whom the Sender of the Reply should apply, supporting his claim by the Receipt granted for the telegram.

94. The Pass is only available for six weeks from date of issue, after which period it is considered null and void.

95. When the Addressee does not use the Pass, the amount paid for the Reply can be refunded to the Sender. In case of a Pass delivered in India, the Addressee should, before the expiration of three months from the date of issue, send the Pass to the Check Office as above, accompanied by a claim for refund in favour of the Sender.

96. If the Addressee refuses the Pass, the Office of destination at once informs the Sender by a Service Advice, which takes the place of the Reply, and is transmitted as a Private telegram.

97. When a Reply-paid telegram cannot be delivered, a Non-delivery Report is sent as a Service Advice as prescribed by Rule 78. If the Address is not rectified, and if the enquiries made to find the Addressee remain fruitless, a second Non-delivery Report is sent at the end of eight days or even sooner as a Private telegram, and this takes the place of the Reply paid for.

(B) Collated (or Repeated) Telegrams.

98. The Sender of any telegram can require it to be "collated," i.e., repeated back by each Office engaged in its transmission to insure correctness. In this case, he writes before the Address the word Collationnement or (T C), which indications are charged for respectively as two words or one word (Rule 21).

99. The additional charge for this repeating is equal to one-fourth of the normal charge. In calculating the charge, fractions of an anna are disregarded.

100. State telegrams in Secret language or in figures or in letters are thus repeated in every case, and without additional charge.

(C) Advice of Delivery.

101. The Sender of a telegram can require that a notice shall be telegraphed to him of the date and hour of its delivery immediately after such delivery. He should write before the Address the words Accusé de réception or (C R), which are charged for as in Rule 21. The charge for an Advice of Delivery is equal to the cost of a telegram of ten words by the same Route. The Advice of Delivery has precedence over Private telegrams.

102. In case of non-delivery, a free Service Advice is sent as in Rule 78. The Advice of Delivery paid for is transmitted afterwards, either after the delivery of the telegram, if it has become possible, or after twenty-four hours, if delivery has not taken place, and the cause of non-delivery is stated in it.

103. The Sender can require by writing before the Address the words Faire Suivre or (FS), the Office of destination to cause his telegram to follow the Addressee to different addresses, if necessary, within the limits of the countries working under the European régime.

Note.—The International Telegraphs are divided into two régimes or systems—namely, the European régime and the extra-European régime. The former includes all Europe, also the Canary Islands, Algeria, Senegal, Tunis, Tripoli, and Egypt.

104. The Sender of a telegram "to follow" cannot in any case prepay a reply.

105. When a telegram simply bears the words Faire Suivre or (FS) without any further instructions, the Office of destination, after having presented it at the address given, retransmits it immediately, if need be, to the new address given at the residence of the Addressee. This new address is inserted in the telegram after the first one. If no new address is furnished, the Office keeps the telegram, and reports non-delivery as in Rule 78. The Sender has to make good Express charges, if any, not recovered from the Addressee. If the telegram is retransmitted and the second Office does not find the Addressee at the new address, the telegram is kept by that Office.

106. If the remark Faire Suivre or (FS) is accompanied by successive addresses, the telegram is transmitted to each of the destinations mentioned until the last, if need be, and if the last Office does not find the Addressee, it keeps the telegram and reports non-delivery as above.

107. The original contents of a telegram "to follow" are transmitted in full to the successive Offices of destination, and reproduced in the copy delivered to the Addressee

108. The charge to be paid by the Sender for a telegram "to follow" is simply the charge up to the first destination, all the Addresses being counted in the number of words charged for. The charges for readdressing from the first destination are collected from the Addressee.

109. In case of telegrams addressed to places included in the European régime (Rule 103), the Addressee, by explaining the necessity, can arrange for telegrams which may arrive at a Telegraph Office, and are intended for delivery to him within the delivery limits of that Office, to follow him to a new address or new addresses, as in Rule 103. His requests to this effect must be made in writing.

110. Telegrams readdressed in India.—The rules for telegrams "to follow" do not apply to telegrams received for delivery in India. Should, however, the Addressee of a Foreign telegram received in India have left the place to which it is addressed, it will, if returned unopened with definite instructions as to the new Address, be retransmitted within Indian limits. It will also (subject to the conditions laid down in Rule 77) be transmitted immediately to any new Address without being sent out for delivery at the first Address, if the Addressee has left written instructions at the Office, or if his new Address is known. The charge for such readdressing is the Ordinary rate for Inland telegrams (i.e., one rupee for the first eight words and two annas for each additional word; Address and Sender's name free), and it must be paid by the Addressee before the telegram is delivered.

111. Telegrams readdressed to Ceylon.—Foreign telegrams arriving in India can also be readdressed to Ceylon if the Addressee has left for that country. In such case the readdressing charge recovered from the Addressee is the usual charge between India and Ceylon.

Note.—No Foreign telegram arriving in India can be readdressed to any Foreign country except Ceylon.

(E) Multiple Telegrams.

112. Foreign telegrams may be Multiple, i.e., addressed to several persons in one and the same locality or in different localities, but served by the same telegraph Office, or to one and the same person at several residences in the same locality with or without retransmission by post or by express.

113. The Address of a Multiple telegram, if it includes Special Instructions, must be drawn up in conformity with Rule 26.

114. A Multiple telegram is charged for as a single telegram; but a copying fee of four annas per telegram not exceeding one hundred words is charged for all the Addresses, less one. Above one hundred words, an additional fee of four annas is charged for each series or fraction of a series of one hundred words. In calculating this fee, the total number of words in the Text, Sender's Name, and Address are counted, the charge for each copy being reckoned separately.

115. In transmitting a Multiple telegram, the number of the Addresses is mentioned in the Preamble, and transmitted free.

116. In the first case specified in Rule 112, each copy of the telegram will only bear its own particular Address when delivered, unless the Sender has requested the contrary. The latter request must be included in the number of words charged for and entered before the Address as follows:—Communiquer toutes adresses.

(F) Telegrams for places where there are no Telegraph Offices.

117. Post or Express.—Telegrams addressed to places where there are no Telegraph Offices can be sent to destination, according to the Sender's request, by post. They can also be sent by Express when addressed to Offices in countries where a more rapid mode of delivery than the post has been organised for telegrams.

118. The Address of telegrams to be sent beyond the telegraph lines should be written as follows:—Poste (or Exprès) M. Muller, Johannisthal, Berlin, the name of the Terminal Telegraph Office being entered last.

119. Express charges as a rule are recovered from the Addressee, but in the case of offices belonging to Administrations working under the extra-European system (Rule 103), which have fixed and notified the charges for delivery by express, such charges must be prepaid by the Sender, and the word Exprès payé charged at two words, or the abbreviation (XP) charged as one word, should be written before the address.

II. The following is a list (subject to future alterations) of the charges which have been fixed and notified as above:

Place.	Country.	From what Telegraph Office.	Nature of Express.	Express charge per telegram.
				R.
Bassadore .	Persia .	Jask . .	Special boat .	30
Bunder Abbas.	Do. .	Do. .	Ditto .	20

[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Ditto . .	Do. .	Gensan .	Ditto .	40

120. Employment of post.—The Terminal Telegraph Office has the right to send a telegram addressed to a place where there is no Telegraph Office to its destination by post:

(a) In the absence of directions in the telegram as to the means of delivery to be employed.

(b) When the means indicated differ from the mode adopted and notified by the Terminal Administration (Rule 119).

(c) Whenever there is an unpaid claim against the Addressee for porterage on a previous telegram which he has refused to pay. In this last case, the telegram can be posted as an unpaid letter.

121. Telegrams for places where there is no Telegraph Office must be posted by the Terminal Office:

(a) When such has been the request expressly made by the Sender (Rule 117) or by the Addressee.

(b) When the Terminal Office has no more rapid means at disposal.

122. Telegrams of all kinds which have to be transmitted to destination by post are posted by the Terminal Office without expense to the Sender or Receiver, except in the cases provided for in Rules 120 (c), 122, 125, and 127.

123. Post Registered.—On telegrams which have to be posted in a Foreign country as Registered letters, the Sender must pay a fee of four annas. The Special Instructions Poste recommandée or (PR), charged respectively as three words and one word, must be written before the Address (Rule 21).

Note.—All Foreign telegrams which have to be posted to destination in India are sent by post registered (Rule 74).

Note.—Foreign telegrams delivered by His Highness the Nizam's State are delivered in duplicate. The first copy is posted unregistered by the Terminal Telegraph Office, and then that office telegraphs the second copy marked Duplicate to Hyderabad (Deccan), where it is posted registered through the British Post Office.

124. Telegrams too late to be posted registered.—When a telegram intended to be forwarded as a registered letter cannot be immediately registered without losing a post, it is posted first as an ordinary letter, and a duplicate is sent as a registered letter as soon as possible.

Note.—This applies to all Foreign telegrams posted in India. The second copy will always be marked Duplicate.

125. Telegrams to be posted by Sea post.—On telegrams which have to be posted in a Foreign country for transmission by Sea post, the Sender must pay a fee of one rupee for postage and four annas more if he wants the telegram sent as a registered letter. The special instructions Poste or (PP) or Poste recommandée or (PR), as the case may be, must be written before the Address, and are charged for (Rule 21).

126. Examples of telegrams to be posted to destination by Sea post from a port in a foreign country:

From—Bombay.
Special Instructions—PP.
Address—John Doe, Yokohama, Japan, Colombo.
Text.—Start first steamer.

This telegram contains eleven chargeable words, and the cost is that of eleven words to Ceylon, plus one rupee for postage.

(b) A telegram from India to Mauritius to be posted at Durban (in Natal) as a registered letter:

From—Madras.
Route—Viâ Bombay-Aden.
Special Instructions—PR.
Address—John Doe, Mauritius, Durban.
Text.—Start first steamer.

This telegram contains ten chargeable words, and the cost is that of ten words to Natal viâ Bombay-Aden, plus one rupee for postage and four annas more for registration.

127. Telegrams to be posted from Offices near a Frontier.—Telegrams transmitted to a Telgraph Office situated near a frontier, in order to be sent by post for delivery in the neighbouring territory, are posted as unpaid letters, and the postage is payable by the Addressee.

(G) Semaphoric Telegram.

128. Semaphoric Telegrams are telegrams exchanged with ships at sea by means of Semaphores.

Note.—For list of Semaphore Offices in India, see the Rules for Inland Telegrams, No. 107.

129. Language.—They should be written in the language of the country in which the Semaphore station which has to signal them is situated, or in signals of the Universal Commercial Code. In the latter case they are considered as Cipher telegrams.

130. Address.—When they are for ships at sea, the Address should contain, in addition to the ordinary direction, the name or official number of the vessel and its nationality.

131. Preamble.—In every Semaphoric telegram the word Sémaphorique is signalled free in the Preamble.

132. The charge for telegrams exchanged with ships at sea by Semaphores is fixed at eight annas per telegram. This charge is added to the cost of its transmission by the electric telegraph, calculated according to the ordinary rules. The total is collected from the Sender for telegrams addressed to ships at sea and from the Addressee for telegrams signalled from ships at sea (Rule 57).

133. Transmission.—Telegrams from a ship at sea are transmitted to their destination in signals of the Commercial Code when the ship requests it. When the ship does not request it, they are translated into ordinary language by the Chief of the Semaphore station and transmitted to destination.

134. Non-delivery.—Telegrams which it has been impossible to signal from Semaphore stations to the ships to which they are addressed within 30 days of their original date (original date not included) are considered as dead letters. In case the ship to which a Semaphoric telegram is addressed does not arrive within twenty-eight days, the Semaphore station forwards a Service Advice to the Sender on the morning of the 29th day. The Sender has the power, on paying the ordinary cost of a telegram of 10 words, to request the retention of his telegram for another 30 days, and so on. If this request is not made, the telegram is treated as a dead letter on the 30th day.

COMBINATION OF SPECIAL TELEGRAMS.

135. In applying Rules 90 to 134, the facilities given to the public for Prepaid replies, Collated telegrams, Advice of delivery, Telegrams "to follow," Multiple telegrams, and Telegrams to places where there are no Telegraph Offices can be combined, the instructions in Rules 19 to 21 being duly observed.

Exception.—A reply cannot be prepaid in case of a telegram "to follow."

FOREIGN PRESS TELEGRAMS AT REDUCED RATES.

136. United Kingdom.—Telegrams in plain English containing news or intelligence for publication in newspapers are transmitted viâ Teheran or viâ Suez from the United Kingdom to India and Burma, and from Government Telegraph Offices in India and Burma to the United Kingdom at approximately one-third of the rate per word for private telegrams, subject to the following conditions:

I.—The newspapers, their correspondents or agents, are required to address their telegrams to a registered newspaper, and such newspaper is prohibited from selling, distributing, or communicating such telegrams to clubs, exchanges, or newsrooms, or disposing of them for any purpose whatsoever, either directly or indirectly, other than for publication in registered newspapers.

II.—Telegrams at the reduced rate shall not be allowed to interfere with the transmission of telegrams at full rates, and, in order to ensure this, the transmission of such News telegrams may be deferred or suspended or interrupted until any State telegram or any Private or Press telegram at full rates, which may be on hand, shall have been transmitted and completed. On the lines of the Indian Telegraph Department such telegrams will take precedence with Ordinary Inland telegrams.

III.—No telegrams shall be transmitted at the reduced rate except for publication in a newspaper, and they must be written in plain English so as to be intelligible to the transmitting Offices. Telegrams containing news or information not for publication, or containing Code words or words of concealed meaning, or groups of figures or ciphers, shall be paid for at the full tariff rates.

IV.—The news transmitted in such telegrams at the reduced rate must be duly published in the newspapers to which they may be addressed or satisfactory reasons be given for non-publication, in the absence of which full tariff rates will be chargeable.

V.—All Press telegrams at the reduced rate must be prepaid, except under special arrangements made by an authorised newspaper for a specially nominated correspondent.

VI.—The reduced rate for Foreign Press telegrams applies only when all the above conditions have been satisfied, and any subsequent claim made for the difference between the reduced and full rates must be satisfied immediately on demand.

137. Other places.—On exactly the same conditions Press telegrams can be sent to or from—

(a) Aden viâ Bombay.

(b) Penang and Singapore viâ Madras.

(c) Australia, Tasmania, and New Zealand viâ Madras.

(d) Souakim viâ Aden or viâ Suez.

(e) France viâ Suez. Telegrams to French newspapers must be in French.

138. Cannot be Multiple.—A Press telegram sent as above at reduced rates cannot be Multiple; in other words, it must be addressed to only one newspaper.

139. How marked, &c.—Foreign Press telegrams must be marked Press by the Senders, and the benefit of Press rates must be claimed by them at the time the telegrams are tendered for despatch.

140. Except as provided in the four preceding Rules, Foreign Press telegrams to and from the above named places at reduced rates come under the general rules for Private Foreign telegrams.

141. Press Telegrams for Ceylon are accepted at reduced rates under the same general rules and conditions as Inland Press telegrams (see the Rules for Inland telegrams, Nos. 110 and 111). The reduced rates are as follows:

From Offices in	First 32 words or groups of three figures.	Every four additional words or groups of three figures.
	R. a. p.	R. a. p.
India . . .	1 8 0	0 3 0
Burma	2 4 0	0 4 6

In other respects Press telegrams for Ceylon come under the general rules for Private Foreign telegrams.

RECORDS.

142. Time kept.—The originals and copies of telegrams are kept for three days only in Government Telegraph Offices, after which time they are sent to the Check Office, Government Telegraph Department, Calcutta, where they are preserved for twelve months, and then destroyed.

143. Secrecy.—The originals and copies of telegrams can only be communicated to the Sender and Addressee on proof of identity, or to a person properly authorised by one of the two.

144. Copies.—The Sender and Addressee of a telegram or their authorised representatives can be given certified copies of the telegram or of the copy delivered if they apply to the Telegraph Office within three days or to the Superintendent of the Check Office at Calcutta within twelve months. For every such copy, a copying fee of four annas per 100 words or fraction of 100 words must be paid in advance. Copies cannot be given unless the date and description of the telegram are given.

145. Preservation.—Application may be made by an interested party to the Government Telegraph Check Office for the preservation of specified telegrams exchanged between other persons on the ground of pending or contemplated judicial proceedings. Such application must be made within twelve months of the dates of the telegrams, and such telegrams will then be preserved for a further period of four months, at the expiration of which time they will, in default of a renewed application, be destroyed. It must be understood that the duty of the Telegraph Department in the matter is confined to making the search and preserving the telegrams, if found. No information as to the result of the search will be furnished, and any telegrams answering the description given, which may be found, will only be produced on the order of a competent court of law or other competent authority.

146. Fees for searching for telegrams.—Should the particulars furnished be insufficient to enable the Check Office to at one trace the telegrams applied for under either Rule 144 or Rule 145, the cost of searching for them must be deposited by the applicant. A fee of one rupee is charged for searching through the telegrams of any Telegraph Office for one day: thus, if it be required to examine the telegrams of two Telegraph Offices over a period of five days, the searching fee will be ten rupees.

REFUNDS.

147. The Sender can claim a refund of—

(a) The full cost of every telegram which has suffered serious delay or failed to reach its destination through the fault of the Telegraph service.

(b) The full cost of every Collated (or Repeated) telegram which in consequence of errors in transmission has clearly failed to effect its object.

Note.—No refund is given for errors made in the transmission or uncollated telegrams.

(c) The charge for every word omitted in transmission through fault of the Telegraph service. This rule, however, is not applicable when the Addressee has discovered the omission, and had it rectified under Rule 86.

148. In case of interruption of a sub-marine line, the Sender of a telegram can claim a refund of the portion of the charge belonging to the distance not traversed, deduction being made of the expenses incurred, if any, in sending the telegram by any other mode of transport.

149. These refund rules do not apply to telegrams transmitted by the lines of States which are not parties to the Convention, or of Telegraph Administrations which do not observe its regulations.

150. The refund rules only apply to the cost of the actual telegrams lost, delayed, or mutilated, including any supplementary charges collected, and to the charges for rectifying telegrams (Rule 88), but not to telegrams necessitated or rendered useless by the loss, delay, or mutilation.

151. Every claim for refund should be made under penalty of rejection within six months of the date of the telegram.

152. Every claim should be addressed by the Sender to the Telegraph Administration under which the telegram originated (in India, to the Superintendent of the Check Office, Telegraph Department), accompanied by documentary evidence, namely, in case of non-delivery by a written statement from the Terminal Office or the Addressee, and in case of delay or error by the copy of the telegram delivered to him. In case of telegrams sent from India, the claim should be accompanied by the Receipt (Rule 58). In case of telegrams received in India, the Addressee may send the claim to the Superintendent of the Check Office, who will decide whether the necessary action should be taken by the Check Office or by the Sender.

153. When a claim is admitted to be well founded by the Administrations interested, the refund is made to the Sender by the Telegraph Administration under which the telegram originated (in India by the Check Office). No refunds are made to the Addressee in any case.

154. If the Sender does not reside in the country where he deposited his telegram for transmission, he can have his claim forwarded to the original Telegraph Administration through the medium of another administration. In this case, the latter is deputed to make the refund, if need be.

155. No claim is admitted when a telegram is in question which, not being in accordance with the conditions prescribed for observance by the public with regard to composition, language, legible writing, address, instructions for transport beyond the lines, &c., has been accepted for transmission at the Sender's risk.

156 In case of delay, the claim for refund is absolute if the telegram did not reach its destination sooner than it would have done by post, or when the delay exceeds 144 hours.

157 When a telegram is stopped under Rule 3 or 4, the charge is returned to the Sender, if he claims it.

The Rules have effect from the 28th May 1891, as a temporary measure, in the ports of Aden, Perim, and the Somáli Coast:

VI.—When any vessel has been placed in quarantine as aforesaid, the Health Officer may direct the removal of so many of the passengers and crew as may not be suffering from illness, and whose services may not be required on board the vessel, to such particular spots as may from time to time be selected by the Resident as places of quarantine, there to remain for a period of seven days. If a case of cholera occurs among such passengers and crew during any such period, they shall remain in a place of quarantine for a period of fifteen days from the date of the occurrence of the last case of such illness.

FIELD OPERATIONS.

MANIPUR.

No. 585.—His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor-General in Council is pleased to direct the publication of the subjoined letter from the Adjutant-General in India, submitting, under the orders of the Commander-in-Chief in India, despatches from Major-General H. Collett, C.B., commanding the Manipur Field Force, and from Major-General T. Graham, C.B., and Lieutenant-Colonel R. H. F. Rennick, commanding respectively the Tamu and Silchar Columns of the force. These despatches report the particulars of the simultaneous advance on Manipur of the three columns from Kohima, Tamu, and Silchar, which were sent to restore order in Manipur and to exact retribution for the murder of the Chief Commissioner of Assam and other British officers in March last.

2. The Governor-General in Council cordially endorses the approval expressed by the Commander-in-Chief in India of the indomitable energy displayed by the troops in overcoming the difficulties and hardships of an advance without tents through a mountainous and unhealthy country, exposed as they were to much suffering from intense heat and heavy rain. The association with the regular troops of the volunteer soldiers of the Calcutta Rifle Corps and Surma Valley Light Horse in this expedition is a matter of especial gratification to His Excellency in Council, who also notices with much satisfaction the services of the Assam Military Police with the Kohima and Silchar Columns. The Governor-General also wishes to record his appreciation of the good work done by the Commissariat-Transport Department.

3. The services of Major H. St. P. Maxwell, Deputy Commissioner, Kachar, Mr. A. W. Davis, C.S., Deputy Commissioner, Kohima, and Mr. C. A. Soppitt, Political Officer with General Graham, have been especially valuable, while Mr. Dalrymple-Clark has done good work in connection with the transport on the Nigriting-Nichuguard road.

4. His Excellency in Council desires to convey to Major-General Collett, the Officers Commanding the Tamu and Silchar Columns, and to all the officers and troops the acknowledgments of the Government of India for the excellent manner in which the expedition was carried out.

No. 375-M—"Field Operations—Manipur,"—dated Simla, 11th June 1891.

From—MAJOR-GENERAL W. GALBRAITH, C.B., Adjutant-General in India,

To—MAJOR-GENERAL E. H. H. COLLEN, C.I.E., Secretary to the Government of India, Military Department.

I have the honor, by direction of the Commander-in-Chief, to submit for the information of the Government of India, despatches from Major-General H. Collett, C.B., commanding the Manipur Field Force, and Major-General T. Graham, C.B., and Lieutenant-Colonel R. H. F. Rennick, commanding respectively the Tamu and Silchar Columns.

2. On receipt of authentic intelligence of the seizure by the Durbar of the Chief Commissioner of Assam, orders were issued on the 29th and 30th March for the formation of three columns at Kohima, Tamu, and Silchar, and for their simultaneous advance on Manipur.

3. Considerable difficulty was experienced in the concentration and advance of the force, the troops for the Tamu and Silchar Columns being furnished from Burma and India, whilst the movements of the Kohima Column were seriously retarded by the difficulty of obtaining cooly transport.

4. The columns moved from their respective bases at Silchar, Kohima, and Tamu on the 5th, 20th, and 23rd April. The advance of the Tamu force was preceded by a gallant attempt on the part of Lieutenant C. J. W. Grant of the 12th Regiment (2nd Burma Battalion) of Madras Infantry to rescue the captives, a detailed report of which has already been submitted for the information of Government.

On the 13th April Captain Presgrave, 12th Madras Infantry, routed 300 of the enemy near Palel, Lieutenant Grant having his charger shot under him while leading the mounted infantry in pursuit.

On the 25th April an advanced reconnoitring party from the Tamu Column encountered a considerable number of Manipuris strongly posted near the village of Bapam. On the arrival of a reinforcement of 200 rifles and two mountain guns under Captain F. M. Rundall, 4th Gurkha Rifles, the position was stormed and carried after an obstinate hand-to-hand combat with a loss of one Native officer and one sepoy killed, and four British officers,* two Native officers, two non-commissioned officers, and five sepoys wounded. A report by Captain Rundall of this brilliant affair is attached for the information of Government.†

* Captain F. M. Drury, Captain P. M. Carnegy — 2nd Battalion, 4th Gurkha Regiment.
Lieutenant C. J. W. Grant, Lieutenant F. W. H. Cox — 12th Madras Infantry.

The other two columns met with no serious opposition from the enemy, and the whole force arrived before Manipur on the 27th April, the date appointed for the concentration.

5. His Excellency heartily endorses the high opinion expressed by Major-General Collett and the commanders of the Tamu und Silchar Columns of the indomitable energy and cheerfulness displayed by the troops in overcoming the difficulties and discomforts of an advance through unhealthy country without tents, and exposed to much suffering from intense heat and heavy rain.

6. Sir Frederick Roberts desires to bring to the notice of the Government of India the services of Major-General Collett, C.B., commanding the Field Force, Major-General Graham, C.B., commanding the Tamu Column, Lieutenant-Colonel Rennick, commanding the Silchar Column, and the officers mentioned by them, especially Major H. St. P. Maxwell, Deputy Commissioner, Kachar, and Mr. A. W. Davis, C.S., Deputy Commissioner, Kohima, whose hearty co-operation and personal influence were invaluable in procuring transport for the Silchar and Kohima Columns, and facilitating their advance.

No. 59, dated the Palace, Manipur, the 2nd May 1891.

From MAJOR-GENERAL H. COLLETT, C.B., Commanding the Manipur Field Force,

To—The Adjutant-General in India.

I have the honor to report, for the information of His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief, that the Kohima Column of the Manipur Field Force, strength as detailed in the margin, marched from Kohima under my command on the 20th April.

3 guns, No. 8 (Bengal) Mountain Battery, under Captain A. H. C. Birch, R.A.
100 rifles, 13th Bengal Infantry, under Lieutenant A. [illegible]iles.
200 rifles, 42nd Gurkha Rifles, under Captain H. W. Priestley, 44th Gurkha Rifles.
400 rifles, 43rd Gurkha Rifles, under Colonel H. M. Evans.
300 rifles, 44th Gurkha Rifles, under Major R. K. Ridgeway, V.C.
200 rifles, Assam Military Police, Naga Hills Battalion, under Captain D. C. F. Macintyre.

2. The column arrived at Manipur at ten o'clock on the 27th April, having experienced no opposition on the way except a few shots, which were fired at the advanced guard on the 24th April.

3. The only stockade which the Manipuris had erected on the road was at Kaithimabi, and this was found deserted.

4. We arrived at Sengmai, a small village at the northern end of the Manipur Valley, and eleven miles from the capital, on the 26th April, and I endeavoured to get into communication with the Burma and Silchar Columns, then supposed to be at Thobal and Bishenpur, but owing to unfavourable weather was unsuccessful. I also sent letters by messengers (both of which reached their destination) to the commanders of these columns informing them that I would take up a position about 9 A.M. the next morning on the Ching Maikong Ridge, about 2,000 yards north of and commanding the palace enclosure, and requesting them to halt at a suitable distance from the palace walls, and get into communication with me with a view to concerting any further operation that might appear necessary.

5. During the night of the 26th information was received that the Regent with the three princes, his brothers, had fled from Manipur that evening.

6. The three columns of attack, viz., the Burma Column under the command of Brigadier-General T. Graham, C.B., the Silchar Column under Lieutenant-Colonel R. H. F. Rennick, and the Kohima Column, arrived at Manipur by 11 A.M. on the 27th April, the date which had been previously fixed for the concentration.

7. The villages in the immediate neighbourhood of the capital, the city itself, and the palace enclosure were deserted.

8. The sixty-two British subjects (natives) who had been held in captivity by the Regent were found safe and well.

9. Ample accommodation for the troops of the three columns was found in the palace and the adjacent buildings. This was very acceptable, as it had been raining heavily since the early morning.

10. The spirit and behaviour of the troops have been throughout excellent. Much rain fell during the march, and as we had no tents the men suffered considerable discomfort in bivouac, but it was cheerfully borne as became good soldiers. The only complaint I ever heard was that the enemy did not stay to fight.

11. The transport of the Kohima Column consisted of Naga coolies, and it is entirely owing to the unremitting exertions of Mr. A. W. Davis, C.S., Deputy Commissioner of Kohima, and to the personal influence which he exercises over these wild people, that the column was enabled to concentrate at Kohima and march to Manipur.

I venture to hope that His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief may be pleased to bring the very valuable services rendered to us by this officer to the special notice of the Government of India.

12. I enclose a despatch, dated Manipur, 29th April, from Brigadier-General T. Graham, C.B., commanding the Burma Column, detailing the events which occurred on his march from Tamu; and I beg most cordially to endorse the terms of praise in which he writes of the officers and troops engaged in the brilliant action of the 25th April near Palel. I also enclose a report by Captain F. M. Rundall, 2-4th Gurkha Regiment, describing that action.*

13. Brigadier-General Graham has throughout this short campaign handled his command in a thoroughly satisfactory manner, and I recommend this distinguished officer, and the officers and troops he has named in his despatch, to the particular notice of His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief.

14. Lieutenant-Colonel Rennick brought up his column from Silchar to Manipur, in spite of the serious sickness and great natural difficulties he had to overcome, with admirable energy and promptitude.

15. The following guns, ammunition, &c., were captured in the palace arsenal:

Four 7-pounder rifled muzzle-loading guns, presented to the Maharaja by the British Government.
Eight 3-pounder smooth-bore bronze guns.
One 2-pounder muzzle-loading bronze gun.
Four 2-pounder " iron guns.
One 4½" mortar.
A large number of jinjals.
1,290 fire-arms of various patterns, chiefly smooth-bore.
150,000 rounds of Government manufacture; remainder local manufacture.
940,000† rounds smooth-bore balled musket ammunition, in boxes.
972,000 percussion caps for smooth-bore muskets in box.
180 barrels of powder.
Elephant gear for the four seven-pounder mountain guns.

16. Fire-arms are still in course of collection. I have issued a proclamation disarming the population of the Manipur Valley and of the neighbouring hill tracts formerly subject to the Manipur Durbar, the penalty for the possession of arms without a license being death or transportation. There are a very large number of fire-arms in this district, and I hope that after a few weeks the greater proportion of them will have been got in.

17. We have also obtained possession of 26 elephants, the property of the Durbar, which have been made over to the Transport Department, and about fifty ponies.

18. I beg to bring the services of the following officers to the favorable consideration of His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief:

Deputy Surgeon-General C. P. Costello.—Has done good administrative work in organising the medical service on the Silchar line. His advice and assistance are always valuable.

Major F. S. Gwatkin, Assistant Adjutant-General.—His given me much valuable assistance and advice. Has great field experience. Particularly recommended for favorable consideration.

Captain G. C. Kitson, The King's Royal Rifle Corps, Deputy Assistant Adjutant-General.—An able staff officer. Has been of great use to me.

Captain C. M. Fitzgerald, Chief Commissariat Officer.—A thoroughly competent and experienced officer. Has managed his departmental business to my entire satisfaction.

Captain R. F. Allen, Royal Engineers, Field Engineer.—Has made an excellent report on the Kohima-Manipur road, and is now engaged in arranging for the accommodation of the troops at Manipur. A very capable officer.

Captain J. Willcocks, D.S.O., Leinster Regiment, Chief Transport Officer.—A very energetic and intelligent officer; of good tact. His former experience in transport work in these hills has been most valuable.

Lieutenant L. G. N. Eales, East Kent Regiment, Signalling Officer.—The circumstances of the march from Kohima and the unfavorable weather have not allowed much scope for signalling. Lieutenant Eales is zealous and energetic.

Mr. J. H. W. Dalrymple-Clark, Assam Police Department.—Was placed at my disposal by the Assam Government to organise and work the cart train on the Nigriting-Nichuguard road. In this work he has been indefatigable, and has succeeded admirably. A very intelligent and zealous officer.

Surgeon H. C. Banerji, Indian Medical Service, Civil Surgeon of Sibsagar.—Was temporarily placed at my disposal by the Assam Government to organise the medical arrangements from the river base to Nichuguard. His services have been most useful.

Surgeon-Major C. H. Beatson, Indian Medical Service.—Took over charge from Surgeon Banerji on the 19th April, and is now doing good service as Principal Medical Officer on the Kohima line.

* Not published.

Surgeon H. C. Hudson, Indian Medical Service.—Was senior medical officer with the Kohima Column on the march to Manipur. An able officer, with considerable field experience and power of organisation.

The following officers commanded their respective battalions and detachments with great credit to themselves and to my entire satisfaction in every respect:

Colonel H. M. Evans, 43rd Gurkha Rifles.

Major R. K. Ridgeway, V.C., 44th Gurkha Rifles.

Captain H. W. Priestley, 44th Gurkha Rifles, temporarily commanding the 42nd Gurkha Rifles.

Captain A. H. C. Birch, No. 8 (Bengal) Mountain Battery.

Captain D. C. F. Macintyre, Assam Military Police.

Lieutenant A. Giles, 13th Bengal Infantry.

The advice and assistance I received from Colonel Evans and Major Ridgeway in particular were most useful.

19. I leave to Brigadier-General Graham, C.B., and Lieutenant-Colonel Rennick the duty of bringing to His Excellency's notice the services rendered by the officers and others in their respective columns.

20. It is a subject of much regret to me that, owing to the pressure on supplies and transport, I was unable to bring up the 36th (Sikh) Regiment of Bengal Infantry under the command of Colonel J. Cook in time to march from Kohima with the column of advance.

21. For the same reason, I was unable to take more than 100 rifles of the 13th Bengal Infantry with the column. The remainder of the regiment under the command of Major Bingham did very useful work at Kohima and at Nichuguard. Both regiments were eager to be taken, and both were in every respect thoroughly fit for field service.

No. 181-M, dated Camp Manipur, the 29th April 1891.

From—BRIGADIER-GENERAL T. GRAHAM, C.B., Commanding the Tamu Column, Manipur Field Force,

To—The Assistant Adjutant-General, Manipur Field Force.

I have the honor to submit the following report of the operations of the Tamu Column for the information of the Major-General Commanding the Manipur Field Force.

2. A report was received from Tamu on the 25th March that the telegraph wire had been cut 25 miles from Tamu, and that the Manipuris were rising. On the 27th March a detachment of the 43rd Gurkha Rifles arrived at Tamu from Manipur, and stated that a revolt had taken place in Manipur, and that the Chief Commissioner of Assam and many other officers were prisoners in the hands of the Manipuri Durbar.

3. Lieutenant Grant, 12th (Burma) Madras Infantry, who was commanding at Tamu, communicated this information by telegraph, and requested permission to take 50 rifles of his own regiment and the detachment of the 43rd Gurkha Rifles (35 rifles), and proceed at once towards Manipur to endeavour to render assistance to the prisoners. His proposal having been sanctioned, he left Tamu on the 28th March. On arriving near Thobal, he found about 800 Manipuris in position there to arrest his advance. Lieutenant Grant immediately attacked the enemy and drove them out, killing about 50 of them. He then established himself in a defensible position, where he was attacked by 2,000 of the enemy with two guns, whom he defeated, inflicting heavy loss, and held his position until ordered to retire from it on the 9th April.

4. In the meantime Captain Presgrave, 12th (Burma) Madras Infantry, with 100 rifles, had been pushed up from Auktaung to Tamu, and was sent out to enable Lieutenant Grant to withdraw his small force. Captain Presgrave having relieved Lieutenant Grant, the whole party started for Tamu; but Major Sir C. H. Leslie, Bart., 2-4th Gurkha Regiment, having arrived at Tamu with his regiment, was ordered to push on, and also to direct Captain Presgrave to go back and occupy Palel, and to hurry up to that place himself. During Captain Presgrave's second advance on Palel he came across the enemy, who were evidently following up Lieutenant Grant's detachment. He attacked and defeated the enemy with heavy loss. In the pursuit which followed, Lieutenant Grant's charger was shot under him. Captain Presgrave then occupied Palel, where he was joined subsequently by Major Sir Charles Leslie with the 2-4th Gurkha Regiment, and this place was held as the advanced position till the arrival of the remainder of the Tamu Column on the 25th April 1891.

5. Orders had been received on the 31st March for a force from the Myingyan District, Upper Burma, to proceed to Manipur to cooperate with columns from Silchar and Kohima. The constitution of the Tamu Column was as follows:

Four guns, No. 2 Mountain Battery, Royal Artillery.

Head-quarters and wing, 4th Battalion, King's Royal Rifles.

2-4th Gurkha Regiment.

12th (Burma) Madras Infantry.

With the 32nd (Burma) Madras Infantry in reserve at Tamu.

The main body of the column concentrated at Tamu on the 21st April, and advanced on the 23rd April, it having been arranged that the columns from Kohima, Silchar, and Tamu should concentrate on Manipur on the 27th April 1891.

6. The column advanced without opposition to Palel. On the 24th April, while the main body was at Tinghaphul, information was received from Palel that the enemy had entrenched themselves in a position about six miles north of Palel, and orders were issued for a reconnaissance to be made on the 25th April to ascertain their strength, &c. On the arrival of the head-quarters of the column at Palel on the 25th April, information was received from Captain Drury, 2-4th Gurkha Regiment, who was commanding the reconnaissance party, that he had hemmed in a large number of the enemy in their entrenchment about six miles north of Palel, so that they could not escape, and asking permission to turn them out. As Captain Drury had only 100 rifles of the 2-4th Gurkha Regiment, 50 rifles of the 12th (Burma) Madras Infantry, and 44 mounted infantry of the 12th (Burma) Madras Infantry with him, and as I did not think this force strong enough for the purpose, I ordered two guns of No. 2 Mountain Battery and 200 rifles of the 2-4th Gurkha Regiment, the whole under the command of Captain Rundall, 2-4th Gurkha Regiment, to reinforce Captain Drury. Captain Rundall, on arrival at the scene of action, placed his guns on a hill about 1,000 yards from the entrenchment, and commenced to shell it. In the meantime Captain Drury with his detachment of the 2-4th Gurkha Regiment and Lieutenant Grant with the 12th (Burma) Madras Infantry gradually approached the entrenchment from the north, while Captain Carnegy with his Gurkhas approached it from the south. The guns ceased firing as the infantry approached, and finally both Captain Drury's and Captain Carnegy's parties, the former accompanied by the detachment of the 12th (Burma) Madras Infantry under Lieutenant Grant, rushed the entrenchment. A regular hand-to-hand fight ensued, when most of the enemy in the work were killed. The mounted infantry of the 12th (Burma) Madras Infantry under Lieutenant Cox cut off the retreat of those who tried to escape, and killed many of them.

Our losses were as follow:

Jemadar Kiruram Gurúng, 2-4th Gurkha Regiment, killed.

No. 939, Sepoy Dalia Thapa, 2-4th Gurkha Regiment, killed.

Captain Drury and Captain Carnegy, 2-4th Gurkha Regiment, severely wounded.

Lieutenant Grant and Lieutenant Cox, 12th (Burma) Madras Infantry, severely wounded.

Subadar-Major Kalpatti Gurúng, 2-4th Gurkhas, severely wounded.

Jemadar Bírbal Nagarkoti, 43rd Gurkhas, severely wounded.

No. 112, Havildar Jítman Rai, 2-4th Gurkhas, severely wounded.

No. 523, Naik Pirthidhan Rai, 2-4th Gurkhas, severely wounded.

No. 656, Sepoy Mahadal Limbu, 2-4th Gurkhas, severely wounded.

No. 575, Sepoy Dán Singh Chand, 2-4th Gurkhas, severely wounded.

No. 290, Sepoy Dhan Singh Khattri, 2-4th Gurkhas, severely wounded.

No. 637, Sepoy Dayál Singh, 12th (Burma) Madras Infantry, severely wounded.

No. 271, Sepoy Bhola Singh, 12th (Burma) Madras Infantry, severely wounded.

Of the enemy, 76 dead bodies were found in the entrenchment and 52 outside, while the mounted infantry killed many more. Amongst the killed were two Minzawraws, named Meah and Senna Mypa (a prince), who are stated by the Manipuris of all the adjacent villages to have been among the actual murderers of the late Mr. Quinton.

The force remained for the night in huts close to the scene of the fight.

The enemy on this occasion made a most stubborn resistance, which may be accounted for by the fact that they had no loophole for escape left them.

The behaviour of the troops was magnificent.

7. On the 26th April the head-quarters of the column marched to Thobal, picking up Captain Rundall's column en route. No opposition was met with on the way, and the force was all in quarters in the Thobal village by about 12 noon. The bridge made by Lieutenant Grant over the Arong stream had to be made stronger to allow the battery and transport animals to cross, and this delayed the column for about an hour. Heavy rain fell during the afternoon and night.

8. The column started for Manipur at 4-30 A.M. on the 27th April, and, meeting with no opposition on the way, arrived at the pát at 11 A.M., having been delayed by the very bad state of the roads and bridges. Heavy rain fell throughout the march, which made the road very slippery.

The villagers along the route seemed friendly, and in no way seemed to object to the passage of the column.

9. The behaviour of the troops has on all occasions been all that could be desired; severe marches and intense heat have been endured in a most cheerful manner, and all ranks appeared to be only too anxious to get a chance of showing their metal.

10. In conclusion, I would beg to mention the following officers:

Lieutenant-Colonel A. G. B. Ternan, my Assistant Adjutant-General, whose knowledge of all details, promptness in meeting all difficulties, and great experience have been of the most invaluable assistance to me.

Lieutenant C. J. Sackville-West, King's Royal Rifles, my Orderly Officer, has shewn himself to be a most useful and intelligent officer.

Lieutenant G. Rippon, Staff Corps, officiating Deputy Assistant Adjutant-General, took up his work at Kendat, and by his hard work and the quick way in which he has acquired a knowledge of his duties has proved himself most useful.

Lieutenant F. H. S. Thomas, Staff Corps, Chief Commissariat Officer, has had very heavy and trying work in arranging for and getting up supplies for the column, and has earned my thanks.

Major H. E. C. Kitchener, Duke of Cornwall's Light Infantry, Chief Transport Officer, has had very hard work, and by his tact and judgment, especially in the management of the Panthay mule-drivers, has proved himself very useful

To Mr. C. A. Soppitt, Political Officer with my column, my warmest thanks are due for the great assistance he rendered me all through the march from Kendat to Manipur in obtaining guides and interpreters, and inducing the villagers of deserted villages to come in, thus reassuring the inhabitants of the country passed through.

Major O. S. Smyth, D.S.O., commanded No. 2 Mountain Battery, Royal Artillery, and throughout the trying march from Kendat to Manipur showed himself able to overcome all difficulties. Two guns of his battery were engaged in the affair of the 25th April north of Palel, and made excellent shooting.

Lieutenant-Colonel R. Chalmer, commanding the 4th Battalion, King's Royal Rifles, has by his disregard of all difficulties and excellent example of cheerfulness to his men been of the greatest assistance to me. The march to Manipur has been a very trying one; the heat between Kendat and Tamu was intense, and the men under his command suffered much from it, but there was no diminution in the eagerness of the men to get to the front, and I am very sorry this well disciplined and keen regiment had no opportunity of showing the enemy what the British soldier can do.

Major Sir Charles H. Leslie, Bart., commanding the 2-4th Gurkha Regiment, was in command of the advanced post at Palel for some days before the head-quarters of the column arrived there, and by his tact in the treatment of the villagers and promptness in dispersing all gatherings of the enemy in the vicinity of the post showed great judgment.

Captain F. M. Rundall, 2-4th Gurkha Regiment, commanded the troops operating north of Palel on the 25th April, and (as he has done in many previous instances in the Chin Hills) proved himself a most excellent officer and fit for any command.

Captain P. M. Carnegy, 2-4th Gurkha Regiment, led the attack of his men on the 25th April with great gallantry, and was severely wounded.

Captain F. M. Drury, 2-4th Gurkha Regiment, led the attack of his men on the 25th April with great pluck, and was badly wounded in a hand-to-hand fight with the enemy inside their entrenchment.

Subadar-Major Kalpatti Gurúng, 2-4th Gurkha Regiment, a very fine old soldier of upwards of forty years' service, ably seconded his officers in the attack on the 25th April, and was severely wounded.

Jamadar Bírbal Nagarkoti, 43rd Gurkha Rifles, took part in the attack on the 25th April, and was badly wounded.

Major A. Howlett, commanding the 12th (Burma) Madras Infantry, under great difficulties pushed on his men from the Kubo Valley, and by his promptness enabled me to reinforce Captain Presgrave and Lieutenant Grant on the frontier and hold our advanced posts. The discipline and good tone of this new regiment reflect great credit on him.

Lieutenant C. J. W. Grant, 12th (Burma) Madras Infantry.—This officer has already been reported upon for the excellent service done by him on and after the 28th March, when he held his own at Thobal against 2,000 of the enemy and two guns, although his detachment numbered only about 80 men, having previously turned 800 of them out of the entrenchment he afterwards held. Again at Palel he had his pony shot under him whilst pursuing the enemy on the 13th April, and he also led his men to the attack on the 25th April, when he was badly wounded.

Lieutenant F. W. H. Cox, 12th (Burma) Madras Infantry, was in command of the mounted infantry of his regiment on the 25th April, and in his pursuit of the enemy did excellent service, killing many of them, being badly wounded by one of the fugitives.

Surgeon R. O. Cusack, Medical Staff, has been senior medical officer with the column, and has carried out all his duties very satisfactorily.

Dated Nongba, the 3rd May 1891.

From—LIEUTENANT-COLONEL R. H. F. RENNICK, Commanding the Silchar Column, Manipur Field Force,

To—The Assistant Adjutant-General, Manipur Field Force.

I have the honor to submit, for the information of the General Officer Commanding the Manipur Field Force, a brief report on the Silchar Column from the 6th April to the 27th April 1891. Its composition and strength is given in the margin.

2. On arrival at Silchar on the 6th April, I found the 18th Bengal Infantry holding the frontier posts of Jirighat, Baladhan, and the Barak bridge.

From that time until the 15th April, in conjunction with Major Maxwell, Deputy Commissioner of Kachar, who afforded me most cordial and invaluable assistance, I was engaged in collecting carriage, storing rations, repairing bridges, and other subsidiary arrangements.

3. On the 8th April, as the 3rd Bengal Infantry, who were approaching Silchar, were suffering badly from cholera, I considered it prudent to push forward the detachments of 42nd, 43rd, and 44th Gurkha Rifles, as well as the Surma Valley Military Police, as a pioneer force to open up the road, construct shelters, &c.

4. The guns of the mountain battery arrived at Silchar on the afternoon of the 12th April, and left the following morning. The 1-2nd Gurkha Regiment and half the Pioneer Company of the Calcutta Volunteers arrived at Silchar on the 13th April, halted the 14th April, and marched out with me on the 15th April. My advanced party under Captain Cowley, 43rd Gurkha Rifles, had, on the previous day surprised a party of Kukis engaged in cutting down the suspension bridge over the Irang river.

After exchanging a few shots, the bridge was seized. The floating bridge had already been cut adrift.

5. On the 20th April I occupied a position two miles and a half east of the Kaopam valley with—

2 guns, No. 8 Mountain Battery.
100 rifles, 18th Bengal Infantry.
100 ,, 42nd Gurkha Rifles.
283 ,, 43rd Gurkha Rifles.
180 ,, Surma Valley Military Police.

I held the Irang bridge with 100 rifles of the 18th Bengal Infantry and 100 rifles of the 44th.

6. On the 21st April, having reconnoitred towards the Kaopam ridge, I decided to occupy the Laimatak and the Kaopam valleys respectively with the above-mentioned details, while the 1-2nd Gurkha Regiment held the Irang bridge.

7. On the 23rd April, being anxious to visit the 1-2nd Gurkha Rifles at Kaopam, who were directed to halt as they were suffering very severely from cholera, I entrusted to Captain Boileau the task of forcing the Laimatak defile with the afore-mentioned details, 100 rifles of the 18th Bengal Infantry being told off to escort the commissariat convoy and reserve ammunition. Starting at 6 A.M., this operation was successfully carried out by 3 P.M., three stockades as well as several positions being successfully turned without loss to ourselves. The enemy lost ten men, their commander, who was wounded, being taken prisoner. The same evening I occupied Naraingaon, a village four miles from Bishenpur.

8. On the 25th April from Bishenpur the Foyging river and adjacent villages were reconnoitred.

9. On the 26th April the troops were served out with rations for the 27th, and in the afternoon the column moved on Foyging. Having failed to communicate with either General Collett or General Graham, I determined to advance on Manipur at 3 A.M. the following morning.

10. On the 25th April, the 1-2nd Gurkhas, who had halted for a couple of days to shake off their attack of cholera, having come up, I advanced against Manipur. I occupied the gateways of the pát, secured the temple and magazine from being exploded, and drove the Manipuri incendiaries from the enclosure. I then received the copy of a letter in French addressed by General Collett to the General Officer Commanding the Tamu Column. I thereupon sent Lieutenant-Colonel Michell towards Kohima to communicate with him.

11. The Pioneer Company of the Calcutta Volunteers having left half their strength footsore at Silchar, and having been attacked with cholera, nevertheless did most useful work on the line of communications. The Surma Valley Light Horse did excellent service in carrying despatches, escorting officers, mails, &c.

12. The line of communications from Godamghat to Irang bridge was held by detachments of the 18th Bengal Infantry, and from the Irang bridge to Bishenpur by detachments of the Surma Valley Military Police, under Lieutenant-Colonel Browne. Signalling stations were opened at Silchar, Namota, Jirighat, Kalanaga, Nongba, and Laimatak ridge by Captain Thomson. A base hospital was established at Silchar, with cholera and rest hospitals at Dilkush, Godamghat, Kalanaga, and Nongba.

13. In conclusion, I wish to place on record my appreciation of the splendid behaviour of both officers and men of the Silchar Column under the most trying circumstances. Exposed throughout the march to the inclemencies of the season, to hardship, sickness, and privation, all answered cheerfully to the call of duty, and worked with a zeal and energy rarely surpassed.

Where the conduct of all was admirable, it is difficult to single out any particular officers or men with a view to bring forward their names for the favorable notice of His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief. I would, however, beg leave to mention specially the following in connection with the advance:

Major H. St. P. Maxwell	Chief Political Officer.
Captain E. W. Dun, D.S.O.	Assistant Quartermaster-General (Intelligence).
Captain St. G. L. Steele, 2nd Bengal Lancers.	Brigade-Major.
Lieutenant H. W. Iles, Royal Artillery.	Commanding division of guns of No. 8 (Bengal) Mountain Battery.
Captain J. W. Cowley	Commanding the 43rd Gurkha Rifles.
Lieutenant H. W. G. Cole.	Commanding the Surma Valley Military Police.
Captain A. J. M. MacLaughlin.	Commanding the detachment of the Surma Valley Light Horse.
Mr. D. J. Clancey, C.E.	Executive Engineer, Silchar.

No. 586.—With reference to G. G. O. No. 581, dated the 12th June 1891, notifying the rewards which the Governor-General in Council had been pleased to bestow upon the Native officers, soldiers, and followers of the detachment under the command of Lieutenant (now Major) C. No. 597 of this date republishing the London Gazette of the 26th May 1891, in which it is notified that the Queen has been graciously pleased to signify Her intention to confer the decoration of the Victoria Cross upon that officer for his conduct on the same occasion, His Excellency in Council is pleased to direct the publication of the subjoined letter from the Adjutant-General in India, with which is submitted a report from Lieutenant Grant describing the operations of the detachment under his command from the 28th of March to the 10th April 1891.

No. 369-M—"Field Operations—Manipur,"—dated Simla, the 5th June 1891.

From—MAJOR-GENERAL W. GALBRAITH, C.B., Adjutant-General in India,

To—MAJOR-GENERAL E. H. H. COLLEN, C.I.E., Secretary to the Government of India, Military Department.

I have the honor, by direction of the Commander-in-Chief, to forward a letter from His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief of the Madras Army, enclosing a report from Lieutenant C. J. W. Grant, 12th Regiment (2nd Burma Battalion) of Madras Infantry, describing the operations of the detachment under his command from the 28th March to the 10th April 1891.

2. The Commander-in-Chief has already noted in this office letter No. 236-M, dated 24th April 1891, his high opinion of Lieutenant Grant's conspicuous personal daring and unfailing resource, and of the endurance and heroism displayed by all ranks under his leading, and this estimate is fully borne out by the enclosed report, which, in His Excellency's opinion, may be published as an example of what it is possible for one British officer with a handful of devoted Native soldiers to accomplish by prompt initiative, resolute courage, and soldier-like skill.

3. Sir Frederick Roberts trusts that the rewards already recommended for the Native officers, rank and file, and followers in this office letter above quoted may, as a special case, be granted, and notified at an early date.

No. 2132-W—"Field Operations—Burma,"—dated Ootacamund, the 26th May 1891.

From—HIS EXCELLENCY LIEUTENANT-GENERAL THE HON'BLE SIR J. C. DORMER, K.C.B., Commander-in-Chief, Madras Army,

To—The Adjutant-General in India.

In forwarding Lieutenant Grant's report of his operations, as called for in your telegram No. 303-M of the 11th instant, I beg to enclose copy of letter No. 2079-W, dated the 7th April last, to the Secretary to Government, Military Department, and to say that I cordially agree with the remarks of the Brigadier-General Commanding the Tamu Field Force and of the General Officer Commanding the Burma District recorded on the report.

2. I consider that the admirable conduct of the expedition by Lieutenant Grant marks that young officer out as a soldier of rare military acquirements, and I strongly recommend him for the rewards specified in my letter to the Government of Madras referred to above.

3. I trust, moreover, that the promotions and rewards recommended by Lieutenant Grant for all the Native officers and non-commissioned officers mentioned in his despatch may be approved, and that every man of the small force under his command who fought so splendidly may be given some signal reward.

Dated Palel, the 13th April 1891.

From—LIEUTENANT C. J. W. GRANT, 12th (Burma) Regiment of Madras Infantry, Commanding Advanced Party, Manipur,

To—The Adjutant, 12th Madras Infantry.

I have the honor to submit this, my report of operations from 28th March 1891 to 10th April 1891.

In consequence of my telegrams of 27th March 1891, I received orders from the Assistant Adjutant-General, Myingyan, at 10-30, 27th March 1891, to march on Manipur with all speed.

At 5-30 A.M., 28th March 1891, I marched from Tamu, strength as per margin. About four miles a small party of Chins tried to ambush us, but my advanced guard flanked them, and their shots did no harm. They escaped in jungle. Arrived at Lockchau river at 5 P.M., the elephants unable to carry their 600 lbs. faster than 1 mile an hour.

43rd Gurkha Rifles.
1 jemadar, 30 rifles, 60 rounds per man.
12th (Burma) Madras Infantry.
1 subadar, 50 rifles, 160 rounds per man.

29th March 1891.—Marched at 2 A.M., arriving at Kogaung; signal shots were fired by enemy, who retired over ridge near Tunglebun. About 20 shots were fired at us by Manipuri picket. Arrived at water at 2 P.M., 12 hours' march. Found camp burnt and prepared for defence, but not held. Elephant useless in these hills with over 300 lbs. load.

Marched at 11 P.M., moon rise. Order of march,—Gurkha Light Infantry 10; 12th Burma 30; fighting party,—Gurkha Light Infantry 20; 12th Burma 20; baggage guard and reserve. Found wire cut and twisted across road all along, causing great delay; 8 or 10 shots fired from hills at 12 midnight. Found road blocked by number of trees felled across; impassable for elephants and ponies. The 10 Gurkhas cut away with kukris, while 20 of 12th Burma scrambled over and through for covering party; suddenly heavy fire broke out above, but we were too close under to be hurt; covering party going to right front took enemy on their left flank, and after few shots we rushed them. But the Manipuri sepoys were too quick for us, and they bolted into thick jungle, and we couldn't find them in the moonlight. Found ourselves in a shelter trench 90 yards long commanding the road below. While in trench were fired on from above; rushing up found two small trenches empty. Hunted about, finding three guns, lots of ammunition, and eight or nine rough pharwas, which we took along. Heard what we supposed to be wounded moving in thick jungle below, but it was pitch dark, and found nothing. Found traces of a considerable camp. Enemy must have been all asleep and surprised. Marched on at 1 A.M.

30th March 1891.—Passed deserted Naga village Aimool down to Manipur plain, arriving in sight Palel 6 A.M. Extended fighting party of 40 as company, and advanced over open plain, with high grass here and there. But the Manipuri sepoys retreated after emptying their guns, and we did them little damage; though we pursued for three miles, we couldn't catch them up; only found one sepoy in long grass and a man who stated he was cook to the "Apprai Minga" or "Maja," the member of the Durbar who ranks next to the princes, and who has charge of the country from Manipur to Tamu. He states:—Maja got letter from capital stating 5 British officers and 30 sepoys killed and 2 sahibs and 10 sepoys prisoners of Maharaja; that Mrs. Grimwood had escaped for the present, and that all the British army had fled to Assam; could not say whether or not they had made a stand anywhere; that his Maja had been sent with 6 officers, 35 havildars, and 150 men to stop us coming from Tamu, and these men were in the trenches above Tunglebun (or Tignoban). Marched from Palel at 11 P.M., and made fair pace in moonlight for 4 or 5 miles at foot of hills, and then on to an embankment road across swampy field till 12·30 A.M. on the—

31st March 1891,—when we came to a bridge over a bit of jhil, where an elephant trying to cross got bogged, and we had to go into the water up to our breasts to unload him. Hearing of a track 2 miles back along the foot of hills to east, I sent the elephant back and round by it with 30 men, while we waited till they rejoined us again on the road half a mile beyond the bridge. At 5-30 A.M. came to some villages of the usual Manipur sort, i.e., a good wattle-and-daub thatched house about 30′ × 20′, with 4 or 5 straw huts near surrounded by a wall, ditch, and hedge, about 200 yards by 100 yards or smaller. Sometimes compounds like this stretch for miles 2 or 3 deep along a stream. We met with slight resistance from behind these walls, but soon flanked and passed through. Beyond these compounds an open plain on each side of road 1,000 yards wide. Beyond we saw a bridge burning and a line of hedges stretching away from the bridge to the south-west, the road now running north-west, and country to right of road quite open. We advanced across the plain with two sections, 10 men each, firing line; two sections, 10 rifles each, on flanks in support; remainder (40 rifles) 600 yards behind with baggage. We advanced rapidly to save the bridge, and were met by a heavy fire from the opposite bank of the stream when within 300 yards. Halting and lying down, we opened section volleys, and advanced by alternate rushes to within 100 yards, losing one man. Then the supports reinforced to the flanks, and we all rushed to the bank of the river and poured in a heavy fire on the enemy, who were perfectly concealed on their right behind loopholes and on their left in deep trenches. Then the old firing line dashed into the water, covered by the fire of the support, and to my utter astonishment the enemy began to give way. Some of us went in over our heads in the water and weeds, but others found places with water only up to their chests, and were across and into the enemy's trenches with a splendid dash twenty minutes after their first shot. Our left hunted them from wall to wall, covered by flanking fire from our right, till we crossed five lines of walls and hedges, the enemy making very little stand. On arrival at the further line of walls we rallied, and saw a line of the Manipur sepoys in white jackets and black turbans and dhotis mostly—some in red jackets and white turbans—in full retreat to the hills and villages 1,000 and 800 yards away. The enemy's line was 1½ miles long, and I estimated them at from 800 to 1,000 in number. I did not follow up my advantage, as all my baggage and half my men were on the other side of the river, and 200 or so of the enemy in the villages 800 yard to my right rear; but from what I now know of the enemy I might have put aside all caution, and taken the hills 1,000 yards in front with little further expenditure of ammunition. Leaving the 40 men at the line of walls, I went back and put the rear party into the compound at the east corner of the village, carrying the baggage over on the men's heads.

The enemy's loss was 8 shot through the head in the trenches during our advance, 6 bayonetted in the trenches on their left, and 6 shot during their retreat. Our loss—No. 399 Muhammad Hayát shot through the head with a snider bullet; none wounded; I only grazed by bullet, which gave me no trouble. Expenditure of ammunition 1,200 rounds up to date. Spent evening preparing "12th Burma Fort" for defence and clearing field of fire, making abattis, and collected over a ton of dhan and five or six chattis of gúr, and put men on half atá and dal; told off stations, &c., &c. Night passed quietly; pickets did not fire a shot.

The men's conduct was simply splendid; they required no leading at any time, and paid the closest attention to orders under the hottest fire.

1st April 1891, 6 A.M.—Enemy advancing in force. Sent out 30 men to meet them in front at the line of walls to the picket there. We only fired three shots at a group on the road and dropped two. They bolted behind hill and walls. Measured ranges up to 600 yards in front of fort; found blood all about from yesterday's action. Some countrymen from south came, and we called to them, but they only shouted not to burn their houses, and we could get no information. Yesterday I had written a letter to Tamu for reinforcements, but put nothing in it which could help the enemy in event of their capturing it. I sent it by the Apprai Maja's cook, swearing him on a sword, promising him Rs. 20, and telling him that if he did not deliver it, I would kill the other prisoners. They gave him minute directions as to roads. They were released on my return to Palel. I sent him off at dark, and he delivered the letter faithfully, but was captured on return and taken to the Maharaj (Regent), who sent him on to me with the orders to retire on Presgrave, which I got on 9th.

At 3 P.M. on 1st, patrols reporting enemy advancing, we occupied the line of walls 400 yards in front of fort. The enemy opened a hot fire from Martinis, Sniders, and Enfield rifles from a line over a mile long. We reserved our fire till they came to 600 yards, and drove them back with a few volleys at their densest parts. Then from the low hill, 1,000 yards from the line of walls, two guns opened fire,—at first with five common shell, time and percussion fuze, and then with 20 or 25 shrapnel. At first their practice was very good, the first bursting overhead, and the third on striking the wall. Then we got the range by "sound," and concentrated our fire on the guns (muzzle-loading 9 lbs rifled guns), and in 30 minutes both guns retired; only one turned up again on the further hill, 1,500 yards from the line of walls, and made wilder practice, only running the gun up to the crest to fire and wasting no time over laying, as the Martinis reached them there. All this time the enemy kept up a hot fire, but were always driven off on reaching 600 yards. At dark they were working round to our left flank, and when nearly quite dark I closed in on our fort, the men being sent back one by one, 50 yards between each, not one doubling. The behaviour of the men, all but ten of mine eight months' recruits, and the Gurkhas, also very young soldiers, was simply magnificent. I cannot express my admiration of them.

The scream and bursting report of the shells was most unpleasant to me, who knew the small loss they could inflict, but the men, who must have had a greatly exaggerated idea of their powers, paid most careful attention to their aim, and obeyed all directions as to sighting and wind when firing on the guns.

We spent the night behind our walls in the main fort, the enemy keeping up a long range fire till 2 A.M., which was not replied to. We tied white rags to our foresights, but the enemy did not close.

2nd April 1891.—At 3 A.M. in moonlight we commenced work, strengthening position with large dhan baskets of earth, ration-sack and pillow-case sand-bags, and making abattis, and continued hard at work making cover for transport till evening. At 3 P.M. I went with the patrol to the line of walls. Enemy all in position. Saw a man signalling with white flag. Went to meet him with white flag. Turned out to be a Gurkha of the 44th Gurkha Light Infantry with letter from babu prisoners imploring me to retire or they would all be killed. If I retired, prisoners would be released and sent to Cachar. Answered that if all the prisoners who wished to go with me were given to me, I would retire to Tamu. Asked for letter from Maharaj. Returned saying Maharaj would send letter. Said till I got letter I would not attack.

3rd, 4th, and 5th.—Negociated for prisoners, I demanding at least all Gurkha prisoners, saying as all babus and civilians wouldn't come to Burma, they could go to Cachar and Gurkhas must come with me, and I would never retire empty-handed. Then they said all the prisoners had started for Assam, and I must retire. Refused to retire without a Maja (or one of the four wasirs) as hostage for prisoners. They offered me a subadar as hostage. Refused, demanding Apprai Maja (whose flag we captured at Thobal), who is in charge of country from Manipur to Tamu. Two babus of Manipur came to meet me. Said 500 lbs. of ata and 50 lb. of dal and ghi were ready for me to take. Refused to take without the hostage. Said I had lots to eat. Babus said Samoan Juba, Regent's fourth brother, had commanded Thobal when I took it, and third brother, Senapati, Commander-in-Chief, commanded attack on 1st: That 800 men had held Thobal on 31st and 2,000 attacked on 1st, and I had killed four of their gunners.

6th April 1891.—On 6th the enemy attacked at dawn, and I closed in on my fort, which by now was greatly strengthened. At 8 A.M. their shell fire ceased, and enemy had gained the hedges and walls from 1 to 200 yards on my front and left. Crept out with ten Gurkhas, and attacked the enemy on my left on their right flank and drove them off with loss, killing six or seven, and bolted back to fort without loss. At 11 A.M. crept out to front under my right wall and up to enemy with one havildar and six Gurkhas, and, after driving enemy from one hedge, found a party of about 60 in a corner behind a wall 20 yards off. After a very hot two minutes we got to wall, and drove them out of their corner, leaving ten or eleven dead. A double-barrelled gun with buck-shot most effective on their heads as they showed up to fire. Then we bolted in again, but the 43rd Gurkha Light Infantry havildar, Gunbir Rai, had his hand shot through; no other loss to us.

I now found we had only 50 rounds per man left and the Gurkhas only 30, and we had to submit to a purely passive defence. The men lay down behind walls, one in every six keeping a watch. I gave orders that not a man was to fire till the enemy were half way across our field of fire, but they preferred to remain behind hedges, where they kept up their fire till dark; but it was very wild, and they dare not show themselves to aim after one or two crack shots had hit their heads. At dark they retired, and we had a quiet night in the trenches.

I think it was after 12 noon on this day that the men really showed the best soldier's qualities, lying down to be fired at (and the few men on two sides were exposed to reverse fire), and one of each six taking his half hour's watch more or less exposed.

7th April 1891.—Enemy all retired behind hill, but large parties seen going to our right rear: busy strengthening defences.

Our loss on 6th—Havildar Gunbir Rai, 43rd Gurkha Light Infantry, wounded by rifle; Private Mirán-bakhsh, 12th Burma Regiment, wounded by shell (slightly); 1 driver by bullet slightly; 1 pony killed, 2 wounded, and 2 elephants wounded (one severely and one slightly).

On 7th with patrol found in "11 A.M. counter-attack corner" 20 Martini cartridges and one ·500 express cartridge and lot of blood, but no bodies.

9th April 1891.—At 12 noon the enemy brought out a white flag, and, putting a letter on a stick on road, retired. Brought it in, and found orders to retire on Presgrave forwarded by the Maharaj. Started at 7 P.M., bringing away 20 enemies' guns and rifles, but we drowned about 1,000 rounds of their ammunition, all of Government make. An awful night, dark except for lightning, pouring with rain, but perfect for retreat. At 2 P.M. met Presgrave with 75 men and nine boxes ammunition coming to Thobal without kits or rations. We returned to Palel, not reaching there till 6 A.M., about one mile an hour, but unmolested, and having brought off everything.

I recommend every man of the party for the Order of Merit. I think they have all well earned it, not only in attack and defence, but also by their cheerfulness in the fort for 13 days on 6 days' rations and every man on guard every night. I never heard a complaint or doubt; they only asked to be allowed to take those guns, and they would have done it with another 100 rounds a man, all to make a "name" for regiment.

I recommend Subadar Shaik Mahtáb Din in addition for the title of Sirdar Bahadur.

I recommend Havildar Chaughatta in addition for early promotion. He was first across the river, and his experience in five former compaigns, beginning with the Afghan, and his example to the men, were most valuable.

I recommend Naik Taliamand for early promotion. He suffered from fever most of the time, but would not go sick, and many other men suffering severely from Chin fever followed his example.

I recommend Lance-Naik Fazl Ahmad for early advancement. He has all the best qualities of the Pathan.

I recommend Hospital-Assistant Govindu Swamy Pillai to the notice of the Surgeon-General. He attended to Private Muhammad Hayát as soon as he was hit on the 31st under a hot fire from the enemy, who were under cover, and he was always cheerful and active. His conduct was most gallant.

I recommend Jemadar Birbal Nagarkoti, "H" Company, 43rd Gurkha Light Infantry, to the notice of his commanding officer. His conduct of the retreat from Langthobal and in subsequent operations was perfect.

Havildar Gunbir Rai was wounded in a most valuable counter-attack, but stuck to his rifle with his broken hand. I think all the men deserve reward.

A great reason of our success was the fact of the enemy wearing white coats. Every movement could be seen from afar and anticipated. Their musketry is, of course, contemptible.

I attach rough sketches herewith.

Forwarded. I consider that Lieutenant Grant and the men under his command have done such excellent service as will, I trust, be recognised by the Government of India. I would specially bring to notice Lieutenant Grant's own services, which show that he is an officer far above the average and deserving of reward.

I trust that the Major-General will also be able to submit the names of some of the men mentioned for Order of Merit for the favorable consideration of His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief.

I have called upon Lieutenant Grant to submit the names of such men as in his opinion particularly distinguished themselves.

I most cordially endorse every word General Graham has said in praise of Lieutenant Grant and his detachment.

I think his resolution to advance against all opposition to what he then considered was the relief or the assistance of the prisoners, his gallantry in action, and his fortitude in holding on to his position is only equalled by the modesty with which he relates his story. I think him worthy of the Victoria Cross, or of any reward the Government chose to give him.

I trust some mark of the approbation of Government may be given to every man who was with Lieutenant Grant.

Subject to the provisions of the foregoing section, the duty on articles assessed ad valorem shall be levied according to the invoice value. If after the duty is so paid the goods actually become Government property, the duty shall be refunded on a certificate to that effect signed by the departmental officer of Government concerned. Such certificate must be presented at the office of the Secretary to the Cantonment Committee within one week of the date on which it was granted by the departmental officer.
Ditto, No. VI ...	Grant of receipts for payment of octroi duty.	7. This Examination will be held at the close of the year of probation, and will be called the "Final Examination."

The Civil Service Commissioners are authorized by the Secretary of State for India in Council to make the following announcements:

(i) As regards the distribution of the selected Candidates to the several Presidencies and Provinces mentioned in Regulation 1, the selected Candidates will be divided into four groups, each containing 8 Candidates, according to the order in which they stand on the list resulting from the Open Competition (the first 8 in order of merit composing Group No. 1, the next 8 in order of merit composing Group No. 2, and so on), and the members of each group will be allowed in the order in which they stand, each to choose, so long as a choice remains, one of the appointments allotted to that group, as indicated in the following table:

	Appointments allotted to—
	1st Group, 1—8.	2nd Group, 9—16.	3rd Group, 17—24.	4th Group, 25—32.	Total.

(iii) No exchange of appointments will be permitted between selected Candidates who under para. I have made their choice of Presidency or Province, except between those who are members of the same group or of two adjoining groups, or who are separated by not more than 14 others in the order of merit on the result of the Open Competition. Application for permission to exchange appointments must be made to the Secretary of State within one month after the date of choice made under para. I, and in no case will an exchange be permitted unless it is, in the opinion of the Secretary of State, desirable in the public interest that it should be made.

(iv) The giving or receiving directly or indirectly any money or other valuable consideration for an exchange will be deemed to vacate the selection and appointment of the Candidates interested.

(v) Selected Candidates will be required to report their arrival in India within such period after the grant of their Certificate of Qualification as the Secretary of State may in each case direct.

(vi) The seniority in the Civil Service of India of the Selected Candidates will be determined according to the order in which they stand on the list resulting from the combined marks of the Open Competitive and Final Examinations. Candidates selected under these Regulations in 1892 will, in view of the alteration in the limits of age, have seniority over the Candidates selected under the previous Regulations in 1891.

(vii) An allowance amounting to £100 will be given to all Candidates who pass their probation at one of the Universities or Colleges which have been approved by the Secretary of State, viz., the Universities of Oxford, Cambridge, Dublin, Glasgow, Edinburgh, St. Andrew's, and Aberdeen; University College, London; and King's College, London: provided such Candidates shall have passed the Final Examination to the satisfaction of the Civil Service Commissioners, and shall have complied with such rules as may be laid down for the guidance of Selected Candidates.

(viii) The allowance of £100 will not be paid to any Selected Candidate until he has been certified by the Civil Service Commissioners to be entitled to be appointed to the Civil Service of India; and every Certificate Candidate must, before receiving his allowance, attend at the India Office and give a written undertaking to refund the amount in the event of his failing to proceed to India.

(ix) All Candidates obtaining Certificates will be also required to enter into covenants, by which, amongst other things, they will bind themselves to agree to such Regulations for the provision of pensions for their families as may be approved by the Secretary of State for India in Council. The stamps payable on these covenants amount to £1.

(x) Candidates rejected at the Final Examination of 1893 will in no case be allowed to present themselves for re-examination.

(i) These forms should be accompanied by evidence on the points mentioned in Regulation 2, and by a list of the subjects in which the Candidate desires to be examined. Evidence of health and character must bear date not earlier than 1st May 1892. Applications for leave to alter or add to the list of subjects named will not be entertained unless received on or before the 5th July 1892.

EXAMINATIONS FOR THE CIVIL SERVICE OF INDIA.

SYLLABUS

Showing the extent of the Examination in certain subjects at the Open Competition for admission into the Indian Civil Service in 1892.

The Regulations governing the Open Competition for admission into the Indian Civil Service have been framed with a view to the principle regarded by Lord Macaulay's Committee in 1854 as essential, viz., that the object of the Competition should be to secure for the Indian Civil Service officers who "have received the best, the most liberal, the most finished education that their native country affords." The scheme of examination has accordingly been made to embrace most of the subjects of the Honour Schools in the Universities of Great Britain and Ireland. In administering the scheme, the Civil Service Commissioners, concurring with Lord Macaulay's Committee in the opinion "that no Candidate who may fail should, to whatever calling he may betake himself, have any reason to regret the time and labour which he has spent in preparing himself to be examined," desire to avoid all disturbance of the general course of University studies, and to render it possible, with due regard for the principle of Open Competition, for those who have graduated with honours at the Universities, to attend the examination for the Indian Civil Service with good prospects of success. The appended Syllabus shows in outline the intentions of the Commissioners with regard to the extent and character of the examination in those subjects which seem to require further definition. The scope of the examination in the subjects not mentioned in the Syllabus is sufficiently defined in the scheme published in the Regulations themselves. The Examiners will be instructed to keep the standard in each subject up to the level of the highest course of study pursued in the Universities.

English Composition.—An Essay to be written on one of several subjects specified by the Civil Service Commissioners on their Examination Paper.

English Language and Literature.—The Examination will be in two parts. In the one the Candidates will be expected to show a general acquaintance with the course of English Literature, as represented (mainly) by the following writers in verse and prose, between the reign of Edward III and the accession of Queen Victoria:

Verse—Chaucer, Langland, Spenser, Shakespeare, Milton, Dryden, Pope, Gray, Collins, Johnson, Goldsmith, Crabbe, Cowper, Campbell, Wordsworth, Scott, Byron, Coleridge, Shelley, Keats.

Prose—Bacon, Sir Thomas Browne, Milton, Swift, Defoe, Addison, Johnson, Burke, Scott, Southey.

A minute knowledge of the works of these authors will not be looked for in this part of the Examination, which will, however, test how far the Candidates have studied the chief productions of the greatest English writers in themselves, and are acquainted with the leading characteristics of their thought and style, and with the place which each of them occupies in the history of English literature. Candidates will also be expected to show that they have studied in these authors the history of the English language in respect of its vocabulary, syntax, and prosody.

The other part of the Examination will relate to one of the periods named below, which will follow each other year by year in the order indicated:

1.	A.D. 1340 to A.D. 1600
(1892)	[Chaucer to Spenser]
2.	A.D. 1600 to A.D. 1700
(1893)	[Shakespeare to Dryden]
3.	A.D. 1700 to A.D. 1800
(1894)	[Pope to Cowper]
4.	A.D. 1800 to A.D. 1832
(1895)	[Nineteenth Century writers to the death of Scott.]

The examination in this part will require from Candidates a more minute acquaintance with the history of the English language and literature as illustrated in the chief works produced in each period, and will be based to a considerable extent, but by no means exclusively, on certain books specified each year by the Commissioners.* The names placed under the dates are intended to suggest the general character

* The books for 1892 are:—
Chaucer: Prologue to the Canterbury Tales; The Flower and the Leaf; The Assembly of Foules Minor Poems.
Langland: Vision of Piers Plowman.
Spenser: Faery Queen, Books I, II; Shepherd's Kalendar.
Sir John Mandeville's Travels.
Sir Thomas More's Utopia.

of the literary development of the period, and consequently the natural limits of the Examination. All the works of Shakespeare, for example, will be regarded as falling within the second period; all the works of Swift within the third; all the works of Scott and Wordsworth within the last.

French Language and Literature.—Translation from French into English and from English into French; Critical questions on the French Language and Literature.

German Language and Literature.—As in French.

Latin Language and Literature.—Translation from Latin into English; Composition in Prose and Verse (in the place of the latter may be taken, by those who prefer it, a paper of critical questions on the style of the Latin orators and poets, based on Cicero, De Oratore, and Quintilian, Institutiones Oratoriæ Lib. X.); Critical Questions on the Latin Language and Literature.

Greek Language and Literature.—Translation from Greek into English. Composition in Prose and Verse (in the place of the latter may be taken, by those who prefer it, a paper of critical questions on the style of the Greek orators and poets, based on Aristotle's Rhetoric (Book iii) and Poetic). Critical Questions on the Greek Language and Literature.

Sanskrit Language and Literature.—Translation from Sanskrit into English and from English into Sanskrit. History of Sanskrit Literature (including knowledge of such Indian history as bears upon the subject); Sanskrit Grammar; Vedic Philology.

Arabic Language and Literature.—Translations as in Sanskrit; History of Arabic Literature; Arabic Grammar; Arabic Prosody.

English History.—General questions on English History from A.D. 800 to A.D. 1848; questions on the Constitutional History of England from A.D. 800 to A.D. 1848.

Questions covering the whole period named will be set, but Candidates will be allowed to attempt only a limited number of them.

General Modern History.—Candidates may, at their choice, be examined in any one of the following periods:

1. From the accession of Charlemagne to the Third Crusade. [A.D. 800 to A.D. 1193.]
2. From the Third Crusade to the Diet of Worms. [A.D. 1193 to A.D. 1521.]
3. From the Diet of Worms to the end of the reign of Louis XIV. [A.D. 1521 to A.D. 1715.]
4. From the accession of Louis XV to the French Revolution of 1848. [A.D. 1715 to A.D. 1848.]

Periods 3 and 4 will include Indian History.

Greek History.—Questions on the General History of Greece to the death of Alexander; questions on the Constitutional History of Greece during the same period.

Roman History.—Questions on the General History of Rome to the death of Vespasian; questions on the Constitutional History of Rome during the same period.

In Greek and Roman History candidates will be expected to show a knowledge of the original authorities. Questions covering the whole period named will be set, but candidates will be allowed to attempt only a limited number of them.

Mathematics.—Pure Mathematics:—Algebra, Geometry (Euclid and Geometrical Conic Sections), Plane Trigonometry, Plane Analytical Geometry (less advanced portions), Differential Calculus (Elementary), Integral Calculus (Elementary).

Applied Mathematics:—Statics, Dynamics of a Particle, Hydrostatics, Geometrical Optics; all treated without the aid of the Differential or Integral Calculus.

Logic and Mental Philosophy (Ancient and Modern).—Logic will include both Deductive and Inductive Logic.

MIRANZAI.

No. 632.—The Most Hon'ble the Viceroy and Governor-General in Council is pleased to direct the publication of the following letters from the Adjutant-General in India, dated the 16th March and the 22nd June 1891, together with the despatches of Brigadier-General Sir William Lockhart, K.C.B., reporting the operations of the first and second Miranzai Expeditions.

The object of the first expedition was to inflict upon certain sections of the Orakzai tribe the punishment they justly deserved for raids into British territory and outrages upon British subjects; penalties were imposed upon the offenders in the shape of the destruction of fortified towers and the infliction of fines, but the expedition encountered practically no opposition. The march of the columns was made over a mountainous country presenting great physical obstacles, in the depth of winter, and in heavy rain or snow, and His Excellency in Council desires to express his opinion that these difficult operations were conducted with ability by the General Officer Commanding, and carried out by all ranks with endurance and soldier-like spirit.

The object of the second expedition was to punish the Orakzais for treacherously attacking, on the 4th April 1891, the guards of the 29th Bengal Infantry which were covering the working parties employed in making roads and posts within British territory on the Samana Range, and to take measures to ensure, as far as possible, the future peace of the border. The troops were quickly concentrated, and on the 17th April and following days the Samana Range was carried, the enemy, who occupied strong positions, being driven therefrom with great loss.

In the further operations the force was entirely successful; it marched through the countries of the offending tribes; terms of peace were imposed upon and accepted by them, and the previous rights of the British Government to occupy the crest of the Samana, for the purpose of affording protection to its subjects in the Miranzai Valley, were enforced.

The Governor General in Council heartily concurs with the Commander-in-Chief in India in his high appreciation of the vigour and ability with which Sir William Lockhart has conducted these operations, and of the gallantry of the troops under his command. In Sir William Lockhart's despatch the services of the Commanders of the columns, and of the staff and regimental officers, are brought to notice, and mention is also made of several warrant officers, native officers, non-commissioned officers and men. His Excellency in Council congratulates them on the honourable distinction they have thus received.

The Viceroy is glad to have an opportunity of expressing his sense of the valuable services rendered by Mr. R. Udny, Commissioner of the Peshawar Division, and by Major H. P. P. Leigh, Political Officer, assisted by the other officers, British and Native, alluded to by Sir William Lockhart.

His Excellency in Council is pleased to notice the efficiency of the Commissariat-Transport Department both in the field and in the preparation and concentration of the force, when many difficulties of time and distance had to be overcome in furnishing supplies and transport. That these difficulties were successfully surmounted is greatly due to the power of organization displayed by Lieutenant-Colonel R. Patch, Commissary-General of the Western Circle, and by the officers working under him. It is also a source of satisfaction to His Excellency to observe that Sir William Lockhart has commended in appreciative terms the services of the Public Works, Telegraph, and Postal Departments.

The Governor-General in Council desires, in conclusion of this General Order, to express his sincere acknowledgments to the head of the Government of the Punjab, the Honorable Sir James Lyall, K.C.S.I., and to the civil officers concerned for the assistance given by them, and for the readiness with which the resources of the Provincial administration were placed at the disposal of the military authorities, not only in this campaign, but in the other expeditions which have been undertaken within the last three years on the frontiers of that province.

No. 1810-A—"Field Operations—Miranzai,"—dated Fort William, 16th March 1891.

From—MAJOR-GENERAL W. GALBRAITH, C.B., Adjutant-General in India,

To—The Secretary to the Government of India, Military Department.

I have the honor to submit, for the consideration of the Government of India, a despatch from Brigadier-General Sir W. S. A. Lockhart, K.C.B., C.S.I., recently commanding the Miranzai Field Force.

2. The force was practically unopposed; but the country was extremely difficult, and the labours of the troops were much enhanced by the rigour of an unusually severe winter, many of the men being attacked by pneumonia and frost-bite, the result of toilsome marches in rain and heavy snow-storms.

3. The General Officer Commanding has brought to the favorable notice of the Commander-in-Chief the good services rendered by all staff and regimental officers, making special mention of the Assistant Adjutant-General, the three Commanders of columns, the Principal Medical Officer, and the Political Officer with the force.

4. I am desired to add that His Excellency considers much credit due to Brigadier-General Sir William Lockhart for the skill and energy he displayed in the conduct of operations, and to all ranks under his command for the soldier-like spirit with which they encountered hardships of no ordinary kind.

No. 309-C-M—"Field Operations—Miranzai,"—dated Camp Kohat, 2nd March 1891.

From—BRIGADIER-GENERAL SIR W. S. A. LOCKHART, K.C.B., C.S.I., Commanding the Punjab Frontier Force, and the late Miranzai Field Force,

To—The Adjutant-General in India.

I have the honor to report on the late operations north of the Samana Range.

I.—The object of the expedition was to punish five sections of the Orakzai tribe for offences committed against British subjects, and to bring them to submission.

II.—The Miranzai Field Force was concentrated at Kohat by the 12th January, and its advance across the border was ordered for the 19th. Heavy rain, however, delayed the forward movement, which did not take place until the 26th.

A reconnaissance in force was made on the 24th January up the Khanki Valley as far as the villages of Gwada and Jandasam, the reconnoitring party being fired on from those villages, and from others east of them, without suffering loss.

III.—The field force consisted of three columns, viz.:

FIRST COLUMN.

Colonel A. McC. Bruce, 4th Punjab Infantry, Commanding.

Troops.

No. 4 (Hazara) Mountain Battery.
5th Punjab Cavalry, (head-quarters and three troops.)
Half of No. 5 Company, Bengal Sappers and Miners.
23rd Bengal Infantry (Pioneers),—head-quarters and half-battalion.
29th (Punjab) Bengal Infantry.
1st Punjab Infantry.
4th Punjab Infantry.

SECOND COLUMN.

Lieutenant-Colonel A. H. Turner, 2nd Punjab Infantry, Commanding.

Troops.

No. 3 (Peshawar) Mountain Battery.
Half of No. 5 Company, Bengal Sappers and Miners.
2nd Punjab Infantry.
5th Punjab Infantry.

THIRD COLUMN.

Lieutenant-Colonel C. C. Brownlow, 4th Sikh Infantry, Commanding.

Troops.

23rd Bengal Infantry (Pioneers),—half battalion.
3rd Sikh Infantry.

IV.—The First Column advanced from Shahu Khel to Khaori, in the Khanki Valley, on the 26th January, with orders to reach Gwada on the following day.

The Second Column marched from Togh to Darband on the 25th January, with orders to cross the Samana on the 26th, and to reach Saifalmela, whence it was to cover the passage of the First Column through the defile east of that place on the 27th, and to go on to Gwada the same day.

The Third Column marched from Hangu to Darband on the 26th January, with orders to reach Gwada next day viâ Tsalai, and thence by any path found practicable, sending the baggage by the Saifaldarra route.

These movements were carried out as ordered, except in the case of the Third Column, whose baggage could not cross the Samana owing to the Saifaldarra route having become impassable from heavy rain.

The Third Column accordingly marched to Tsalai on the Samana crest on the 27th January; left in that place a garrison of Border Police; destroyed the towers and hamlet of Serimela in co-operation with the Second Column; and returned to Darband the same day, joining the remainder of the force at Gwada viâ the Saifaldarra route on the 29th January, after halting the night of the 28th at Saifalmela.

V.—The next few days were devoted to reconnoitring to the north and west; to destroying towers and villages belonging to the principal Rabia Khel offenders, Makhmuddin and his associates; to improving the Saifaldarra road over the Samana; to sending away the sick under escort of such troops (5th Punjab Cavalry and 5th Punjab Infantry) as could now be spared, and whose removal from the Khanki Valley would make the strain on the Commissariat Department less severe; and, finally, to the laying in of supplies for a projected march into the Shekhan country, and for the garrison to be left at Gwada.

The weather hitherto had been as a rule bad. The field force had crossed the frontier in rain which soon turned into snow, the result being that frost-bite and chest complaints began to attack the troops.

VI.—On the 4th February the towers of Gwada were blown up, and the Second Column, under Colonel Turner, marched down the Khanki Valley for the Shekhan country. This column had been joined by the second half of No. 5 Company Bengal Sappers and Miners, and a half battalion of the 23rd Pioneers, whilst the 3rd Sikh Infantry was added to replace the 5th Punjab Infantry.

The route followed was—4th February, Khaori; 5th, Mir Asghar Mela; 6th, Drand. Three miles short of Drand word was brought to the column that Makhmuddin's family and cattle had just left the village, going westwards. Parties were sent in pursuit by the two western routes (towards Torsamatz and Daradar respectively), but returned without success in the evening. The people and cattle had in reality had many hours' start. An extra fine of Rs. 500 was placed on the village for having harboured them, and the inhabitants were told that their tower should be blown up if the fine were not paid by noon on the following day.

On the 7th February security for the amount of the fine was given before noon, when the return march of the column began. No Shekhan towers, therefore, were destroyed.

The Second Column reached Shahu Khel on the 8th, and Hangu on the following day.

VII.—On the 9th Colonel Brownlow marched from Shahu Khel to Barmarai with—

Two guns of No. 3 (Peshawar) Mountain Battery.
No. 5 Company, Bengal Sappers and Miners.
2nd (Punjab) Bengal Infantry (from Kohat).
23rd Bengal Infantry (Pioneers).
3rd Sikh Infantry.

On the 10th he crossed the Zara Pass (4,450 feet above the sea), and encamped in the Mastura Valley, near the village of Zara, whose inhabitants belong to the Sipah section, and were friendly. The sappers and pioneers worked hard at the road all day, but snow fell from noon until dark, and mules could with difficulty keep their footing on the north slope, where the path soon became a slide.

The march from Barmarai had begun at 11-30 A.M., and although the entire distance was but five miles, and although every available man was placed on baggage guard, the last of the baggage did not reach Zara until 5 A.M. next day (11th), the rear guard with commissariat stores arriving at 1-30 P.M.

Early in the morning of the 10th two reconnoitring parties, consisting of three and two companies of infantry, had been sent across the Zara Pass with orders to go as far as possible into the eastern and western defiles respectively from Zara,—the first leading to the Bazoti settlements and the Ublan Pass, the latter to the Sturi Khel settlements.

The reconnoissance was in each case unopposed, and information of value was obtained.

The Sturi Khel had, just before the column crossed the pass into their country, given security for the payment of the fine imposed on them, so that no punitive measures were necessary in respect of that section. It was all the same necessary to visit their valley, and accordingly a detachment was marched as far as the western limit of Sturi Khel territory. The valley was all under snow, and the people were in their villages.

[illegible] leaving Gwada with the Second Column, ordered the First Column to march on the 5th February for Darband viâ Shahu Khel, leaving a garrison at Gwada of two guns of No. 4 (Hazara) Mountain Battery and the 1st Punjab Infantry, under Colonel Howell, in an entrenched camp. At Darband Colonel Bruce was to have the Samana Range between Tsalai and Mastan thoroughly examined and reported on. He was at the same time to furnish covering parties for road-makers employed by the Executive Engineer on the latter's requisition. Similarly, Colonel Turner on reaching Hangu from the Shekhan country was ordered to have the range from Lakka to Tsalai examined and reported on, and he also was to furnish covering parties on the Executive Engineer's requisition. All this was done. The Samana from Lakka to Mastan has been thoroughly examined, and the communications have already been improved by civil labour.

IX.—On the 16th February I moved field force head-quarters to Kohat.

X.—On the 18th the 29th Bengal Infantry was ordered to march across the Samana to Gwada, and, with the exception of the troops at that place, the field force was recalled to Kohat, and finally broken up on the 1st March.

XI.—I trust that the valuable work of Major Leigh, my political adviser, may be favorably regarded by the Government of India, and that the services of his assistants may also be recognised.

XII.—Commanders and staff officers did their work well in every respect, and I have the honor to commend to the favorable notice of His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief in India the following officers:

1. Major C. C. Egerton, Bengal Staff Corps, Assistant-Adjutant-General.
2. Lieutenant-Colonel A. H. Turner, Bengal Staff Corps, commanding the Second Column.
3. Colonel A. McC. Bruce, Bengal Infantry, commanding the First Column.
4. Lieutenant-Colonel C. C. Brownlow, Bengal Staff Corps, commanding the Third Column.
5. Brigade-Surgeon R. Harvey, M.D., Indian Medical Service, Principal Medical Officer.

No. 232-M-M—"Field Operations—Miranzai,"—dated 22nd June 1891.

From—MAJOR-GENERAL W. GALBRAITH, C.B., Adjutant-General in India,

To—The Secretary to the Government of India, Military Department.

I have the honor, by direction of the Commander-in-Chief, to submit, for the information of the Government of India, a despatch from Brigadier-General Sir W. S. A. Lockhart, K.C.B., C.S.I., describing the operations of the Miranzai Field Force under his command in April and May 1891.

2. As recently as last February the Orakzais had pledged themselves to maintain peace on the border, but on the 4th April they treacherously attacked some guards of the 29th Bengal Infantry employed in covering working parties.

3. Orders were at once issued for the concentration of a punitive force at Kohat, and General Lockhart, who was with the Reserve Brigade of the Hazara Field Force, was directed to assume command.

4. Arriving at Kohat on the 7th April, he completed his preparations with the greatest expedition, and on the 17th and 18th attacked and drove the enemy with loss from strongly held positions on the Samana Range, following up his advantage with a series of successful actions, which speedily reduced the hostile tribes to submission.

5. The Commander-in-Chief feels that he cannot speak too highly of the energy and skill displayed by General Lockhart and the endurance and gallantry of the troops under his command. Not only was immediate opposition crushed by the vigour and celerity of the movements of the force, but a formidable combination of the most powerful frontier tribes was effectually checked, and the conduct of operations has left an impression which His Excellency feels confident will tend to the establishment of security and friendly relations on the Miranzai border.

6. A list of officers recommended for special reward will be submitted separately.

Dated Camp Mastan, 8th June 1891.

From—BRIGADIER-GENERAL SIR W. S. A. LOCKHART, K.C.B., C.S.I.,

To—The Adjutant-General in India.

I have the honor to make the following report on the operations against the Orakzai tribes carried out by the force under my command for the information of His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief in India.

2. On the withdrawal of the troops at the termination of the previous expedition against the Orakzai Samil clans in February last, the 29th Bengal Infantry, subsequently reinforced by a wing of the 3rd Sikh Infantry, was left to cover the working parties making roads and posts on the Samana. On the 4th April a treacherous and unexpected attack was made on the guards furnished by the 29th Bengal Infantry. These were promptly reinforced from below, and fighting took place all along the Samana Range between Tsalai and Gulistan. Our losses during the day were 14 men killed and 7 wounded, all of the 29th Bengal Infantry. The enemy consisted of men of all the Orakzai tribes of the Khanki Valley, and were under the leadership of Zaman Shah, Rabia Khel. On the 5th April it was found necessary to evacuate Tsalai, the only post on the Samana still held by our troops, the enemy following up as far as the low hills near Darband.

3. On the morning of the 6th reinforcements began to arrive from Kohat, and on the evening of the following day I arrived myself at that station, and assumed command of the field force. Further reinforcements were meanwhile being pushed up from India as quickly as possible, the 6th Punjab Infantry marching from Bannu to Kohat, 80 miles, in as many hours, and No. 5 Company, Bengal Sappers and Miners, covering the 56 miles from Khushalgarh to Hangu in 40 hours. There was some delay, however, in pushing on the troops beyond Kohat, as transport and supplies had to be collected from a distance. On the 9th the detachment at Baliamin was withdrawn to the camp near Darband, and an attack was made on that camp on the night of the 10th, but was beaten off without loss on our side, and the enemy did not subsequently venture down from the crest of the Samana.

4. The orders given to me were "to clear the Samana Range of the enemy, put down the hostile coalition of the tribes, and protect the working parties making the proposed roads and posts."

5. By the 16th April the whole force as per margin, divided into three columns, had been concentrated at Hangu and Darband.

At the former place there were also the 19th Bengal Lancers (471 of all ranks), two squadrons of the 5th Punjab Cavalry (311 of all ranks), and three guns of the Punjab Garrison Battery (47 of all ranks).

6. I advanced in the following manner on the morning of the 17th:

The First Column, accompanied by myself and the field force head-quarters, marched from Hangu at daybreak, and reached the foot of the range at 6 A.M. This column was accompanied by three guns of the Punjab Garrison Battery, which, with the guns of No. 3 Mountain Battery, Royal Artillery, took up a position to cover the advance on Lakka. The cavalry, under Colonel Biscoe, 19th Bengal Lancers, consisting of two squadrons of the 5th Punjab Cavalry and the 19th Bengal Lancers, acted as escort to the guns. The advance up to the crest was then carried out, and Lakka was reached at 8-30 A.M. without opposition. From here I heliographed to the Second Column to advance to the Darband Kotal. This column had been ordered to make a false attack to distract the enemy's attention should he have attempted to hold Lakka. At the same time that the Second Column advanced, I ordered the Third Column, which was also at Darband, to move rapidly to Pat Darband and ascend to the crest at Sangar.

7. These orders having been given, I continued my advance along the crest from Lakka, meeting the Second Column at Darband Kotal. This column I strengthened by the 27th Bengal Infantry, and Lieutenant-Colonel Turner was ordered to descend to Gwada by the Saifaldarra road. This road, as well as that on the crest near the Darband Kotal, was found to have been broken up by the enemy. From the kotal I continued the advance, at 11 A.M., along the crest, with the First Column, towards Tsalai. That place was found to be occupied by the enemy, who opened fire on the troops as they advanced. I accordingly ordered up the guns of No. 3 Mountain Battery, Royal Artillery, and under their fire the place was assaulted and captured at 12-30 P.M., the King's Royal Rifles leading the attack. During this operation Colonel Cramer, commanding the King's Royal Rifles, and Major Egerton, Assistant-Adjutant-General, were both severely wounded. Besides these casualties, the King's Royal Rifles had one man dangerously, one severely, and two slightly wounded; and Major Egerton's orderly, a lance-duffadar of the 3rd Punjab Cavalry, was also severely wounded.

8. I next carried Gogra and Sangar without further loss, and reached the latter place at 2 P.M., simultaneously with the Third Column, advancing up the Pat Darband spur. This column was opposed during its advance, but succeeded in inflicting some loss on the enemy without any casualties to itself. On reaching Sangar, I decided to bivouac there for the night, as the enemy were reported to be holding Sartop in strength, and the men were completely knocked up by the intense heat and the want of water. They, however, behaved admirably, and only one man fell out during the day. In the meanwhile the Second Column had established itself at Gwada, which is immediately below Sangar and in sight of it. Lieutenant-Colonel Turner had, however, to fight his way, and lost one man killed and four wounded—one dangerously. The cavalry had also moved round by Shahu Khel after the First Column had gained the crest at Lakka, and had advanced up the Khanki Valley and joined hands with Lieutenant-Colonel Turner. On the Second Column reaching the Khanki at Saifaldarra, the cavalry returned to Hangu by the Darband Kotal. They were fired on during the day, but suffered no loss. The position of my force on the evening of the 17th was therefore as follows:—The First and Third Columns holding the crest at Sangar, and the Second Column in the Khanki Valley at Gwada.

9. At 7 o'clock on the morning of the 18th I advanced along the crest from Sangar towards Sartop, which was held by the enemy. The advance was covered by the fire of the guns of No. 3 Mountain Battery, Royal Artillery, and the three guns of No. 2 (Derajat) Mountain Battery. The Third Column advanced straight along the crest, the First Column moving round by the left, and attacking the enemy's position from that flank. The village was cleared of the enemy at 8 A.M. by the 1st and 6th Punjab Infantry, leading their respective columns. Our loss in the attack was one man killed and one officer (Lieutenant Patch, Royal Artillery) and seven men wounded. After the enemy had been driven off and the place occupied by our troops, I ordered a halt to be made at the spring below Sartop to enable the troops to get water, as some of them had been twenty-four hours without it, and they were exhausted by the heat of the sun.

10. At 11 A.M. I continued the advance, and occupied the Mastan plateau after slight opposition, entailing no loss. This plateau is the key of the Samana Range, and I left the Third Column to occupy it, the First Column returning to Sangar. I ordered the Second Column also to move to Sangar to take the place of the Third Column in order to simplify the question of supplies previous to a further advance. This column on the 18th had been employed in destroying the tower and defences of the Rabia Khel village of Dzond. During that day they lost one man killed and five men wounded,—four dangerously.

11. In carrying out the above operations, the troops underwent severe hardships and fatigue in a spirited and cheerful manner. The young soldiers of the King's Royal Rifles, fresh to this country, suffered especially from heat and thirst, but showed great endurance.

12. On the evening of the 19th Lieutenant-Colonel Brownlow reported that he was suffering annoyance from large bodies of the enemy who had collected in the neighbourhood of his camp, and during that day and the following night he lost one native officer and two men killed, and one officer, one native officer, and three men wounded. Early on the morning of the 20th I sent reinforcements from Sangar to Mastan, consisting of the Peshawar Mountain Battery, the King's Royal Rifles, the 2nd Punjab Infantry, and the 5th Gurkha Regiment, with orders to Lieutenant-Colonel Brownlow to attack and disperse the enemy. That officer, having made good dispositions, advanced against the enemy's position about 2 P.M. The main attack on the village of Saragarhi was carried out by the King's Royal Rifles and the 5th Gurkha Regiment, and the enemy was soon flying in all directions, the Gurkhas getting to close quarters with them as they made off. Simultaneously with this attack the 6th Punjab and the 19th Bengal Infantry, under cover of the guns of the Derajat Mountain Battery, carried the village of Ghuztang, the enemy making no stand, but flying towards the Khanki. Some 60 dead bodies were left on the ground, and, from reports subsequently received, it appears that the enemy's losses amounted to nearly 300 killed and wounded. Our casualties were only one man of the King's Royal Rifles killed, and one officer and six men of other corps wounded. All sections of the Orakzai tribe were represented in this engagement, and the Akhel and Mamuzai were reported especially to have suffered.

13. On the 21st I advanced to Gulistan with the Second Column under Lieutenant-Colonel Turner, reinforced by the 1st Punjab and the 27th Bengal Infantry, and on the following day I advanced into the Akhel (or Chagru) Valley. Retaining the guns and the 27th Bengal Infantry on the crest of the high hill overlooking the Akhel settlements, I sent the 1st Punjab Infantry along the ridge to the Chagru Kotal with orders to work down the valley, while the 2nd Punjab Infantry, followed by the 3rd Sikh Infantry, descended towards the Khanki, with orders to work up and meet the 1st Punjab Infantry. The enemy opened fire on the 1st Punjab Infantry as it advanced, but that regiment, aided by the guns on the crest, soon cleared out the villages in their front. The 2nd Punjab Infantry reached the bed of the Chagru Nala under cover of a spur running down from the crest, and surprised the enemy before they were able to escape, inflicting heavy punishment. This regiment then moved up the nala, covered by the 3rd Sikh Infantry on the right bank, and cleared out the villages, destroying towers and defences. The enemy was prevented from following up by the fire of the guns, which I had moved to a point commanding the opposite side of the valley, and the troops returned to camp without molestation. Large bodies of tribesmen were seen about the hills and down in the valley, but these were dispersed by the fire of the guns and by infantry volleys. Our losses during the day were one man killed and 13 wounded. The enemy was reported to have lost between 50 and 60 killed.

14. On the morning of the 23rd a large gathering, with three standards, having collected near the village of Margharu, I moved out of camp to attack their position. Sangars had been erected at a point just beyond the village, and from here the enemy opened fire on the advancing troops, but after an engagement lasting half an hour the position was carried by the 15th (Sikh) Bengal Infantry, who led the attack, the enemy dispersing down the reverse slopes of the hill under a heavy artillery and infantry fire. I then ordered Lieutenant-Colonel Turner to move down the spur and destroy the tower and defences of the village of Talli, out of which the enemy had advanced with standards on the previous day. This was satisfactorily done, and the troops returned to camp without a shot being fired as they retired. Our losses during the day were one man killed and one native officer and five men wounded. A strong contingent of Afridis fought in the ranks of the enemy on this occasion, but after the action they, as well as the Akhel and Ali Khel, sent me a message asking if I would receive their deputations. Permission having been granted, jirgas arrived in camp on the 24th and were received by Major Leigh, who, however, reported that they were in no sense representative of their tribes.

15. Meanwhile the punishment of the Rabia Khel continued. On the 21st Lieutenant-Colonel Brownlow blew up the towers of the Ibrahim Khel hamlets, and on the 23rd a small column under Lieutenant-Colonel Reid, 29th Bengal Infantry, destroyed the defences of Bazai.

16. The post at Chilibagh was fired into on the night of the 22nd, and an attack was made on the morning of the 23rd upon a convoy near the Darband Kotal, in which we lost four men killed and three wounded, and at the same time a number of mules were killed, others being carried off. I therefore determined to move a column into the country of the Shekhan and Mamazai (Daradar), as those tribes were principally concerned in the above attacks. Accordingly, on the 27th, I marched to Hangu, where the First Column, troops as per margin, under Colonel Sym, C.B., was concentrated on the 28th. On the following day I advanced with this column to Mir Asghar Mela, and on the 30th I reached Dran, the head-quarters of the Shekhan tribe. This village was occupied after slight opposition, one sepoy being wounded. The towers of the villages of Laghardarra and Dran were all blown up, and the force advanced on the 1st May to the Kharai Kotal. On the way I was met by the jirgas of the Samil clans, but declined to receive them until all Government property in their possession should have been restored. On the 2nd May I advanced to Starkili (generally called Daradar), the principal village of the Mamazai (Daradar). From here I detached a column, consisting of the 1st Punjab and the 27th Bengal Infantry, to visit Torsmatz and Takhtak, belonging to the Shekhan tribe, the towers of which were blown up, as also the tower of the village of Nakatta on the pass between those places. On this day fourteen of the rifles taken from the 29th Bengal Infantry were brought in to me. On the 3rd May I returned to Sangar, destroying en route the towers of Daradar, Miru Khel, and Adu Garhi, belonging to the Mamazai (Daradar), and the towers of Inzaur, the property of Zaman Shah, Rabia Khel, the principal instigator of the recent outbreak.

17. On the 5th May a half-battalion of the Manchester Regiment, which I had ordered up from Kohat, arrived at Mastan. Mr. Udny, the Peshawar Commissioner, also arrived on the same date at my invitation. I advanced to Gulistan on the 6th, and on the following day the jirgas of all the Samil clans—Rabia Khel, Mishti, Shekhan, Malla Khel, and Mamazai (Daradar)—came into camp, bringing with them the Government property in their possession. Their attitude was thoroughly submissive, and they expressed their readiness to accept all my conditions relative to the Samana, acknowledging our right to build posts on the crest, and undertaking to pay revenue for all lands possessed by them on the southern side of the range.

18. As, however, the Mishti clan had not received any punishment for their share in the outbreak, the Samil jirgas were informed that I intended to destroy the towers of Kandi Mishti, and they were directed to accompany me to witness the punishment. I therefore advanced on the 10th May, taking with me the troops as per margin under Lieutenant-Colonel Turner, and following the route by the Akhel Valley to Karappa. The Akhel, who had previous to this made their submission, were all back in their villages. From Karappa I advanced the same day to Kandi Mishti and blew up its towers without opposition, thus clearing off all accounts with the Samil clans. On returning in the evening to Karappa, I found the jirgas of the Ali Khel, Mamuzai, and Alisherzai sections awaiting me. These Gar clans were informed that I intended to visit their country, and that if any opposition were offered they should receive severe punishment. I accordingly advanced to Sadarai, a Khaibai village, on the 12th, and the following day to Khanki Bazar, the head-quarters of the Mamuzai, passing en route Starkili, the principal village of the Alisherzai. From Khanki Bazar I ascended to the crest of the pass between the Khanki and Kurmana valleys. No opposition was offered throughout the day. The survey of the country being completed, I left Khanki Bazar on the 14th and returned to the Samana on the 15th May, and there received the Daulatzai and Sturi Khel jirgas, which had been summoned to meet me. Their attitude was satisfactory; and as there were no cases outstanding against them, their jirgas were dismissed.

19. I am thus in a position to report that the work entrusted to me is finished. The tribes who opposed us on the Samana have been punished, their countries have been visited, and they have all submitted and accepted the terms imposed upon them. The construction of roads and posts is now being rapidly pushed on, and, until these shall have been completed, a force consisting of one Native mountain battery and three native infantry battalions should, in my opinion, be kept on the Samana.

20. I forward herewith a map showing the routes followed by the force; also a detail of staff and troops,* and a return of casualties.

21. The conduct of all ranks of the field force under my command has been admirable as regards discipline, and also as regards the cheerful endurance of fatigue, exposure, and hardship generally.

22. I have the honor to bring to the special notice of His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief in India the services of the following officers:

Major C. C. Egerton, 3rd Punjab Cavalry, Assistant-Adjutant-General, was wounded on the 17th April, and I was thus deprived of a staff officer of exceptional ability, whose services during the Miranzai expedition of January and February last I have already brought to notice. He was invaluable to me during the concentration of the field force and its advance to the Samana. I have never known a better staff officer.

Major V. Jenkins, West Riding Regiment, succeeded Major Egerton as Assistant-Adjutant-General, and joined me at Sangar on the 20th April. During the subsequent operations I have found him all that a staff officer should be.

Captain D. W. Hickman, 34th Bengal Infantry (Pioneers), Deputy-Assistant-Adjutant-General, has been with me throughout. He is a most capable and energetic officer.

Captain A. H. Mason, Royal Engineers, has a second time this year been my Deputy-Assistant-Quartermaster-General for Intelligence in the Orakzai country. This talented officer is an expert as regards frontier tribes and topography, and I attribute a great deal of my success to the accurate information he has always been able to give me on those points. In any other field his clear head and sound judgment would make him conspicuously valuable.

Lieutenant-Colonel E. J. de Lautour, Royal Artillery, commanded the artillery of the field force to my complete satisfaction.

Major J. D. Cunningham was the senior Royal Artillery officer previous to Lieutenant-Colonel de Lautour's arrival at field force head-quarters on the 18th April, and commanded that arm during the capture of the Samana. The high opinion I have formed of this officer is endorsed by Lieutenant-Colonel de Lautour in his report submitted separately.

* Not published.

Major W. T. Shone, D.S.O., Commanding Royal Engineer, has for the second time this year admirably filled that post under my command in the Orakzai country. I could not wish for a more able Commanding Engineer in the field.

Lieutenant H. F. Kays, Highland Light Infantry, has superintended the signalling of the force since its concentration. The management of this important service has left nothing to be desired. I wish to record here my high appreciation of the work done by all ranks of signallers, who have been by far the hardest worked men in the field force.

Brigade-Surgeon R. Harvey, M.D., Indian Medical Service, has for the second time this year been my Principal Medical Officer in the field, and I again desire to express my indebtedness to him and to the other officers of the department which he has so ably conducted for the admirable state of efficiency in which it has been maintained, often under very unfavorable conditions.

Captain E. C. C. Sandys, Staff Corps, Chief Commissariat Officer, has, as on the occasion of the first Miranzai expedition this year, given me complete satisfaction. Thanks to him and his subordinate officers, the troops have wanted for nothing in spite of many difficulties.

Captain H. Wharry, Staff Corps, Divisional Transport Officer, has likewise for the second time this year proved himself a thoroughly efficient officer of his department.

Captain R. J. H. L. Mackenzie, Royal Engineers, has satisfactorily conducted the survey work of the expedition. He has been successful in extending the survey of the Orakzai country to the Tsappar Range, south of Tirah, and to the Marghan pass between the Khanki and Kurmana valleys, thus completing the excellent work of Captain Wahab, Royal Engineers, whose name I brought to notice at the end of the last expedition.

Lieutenant the Hon'ble C. G. Bruce, 5th Gurkha Regiment, my orderly officer in the Hazara Field Force, accompanied me in the same capacity to the Miranzai Valley, but I regret that ill-health prevented him taking part in the capture of the Samana. He rejoined his regiment at his own request, and was present with it in the subsequent operations.

Lieutenant G. P. Brasier Creagh, 9th Bengal Lancers, who began as extra orderly officer, succeeded Lieutenant the Hon'ble C. G. Bruce, and has been my very efficient orderly officer throughout. He was present at every engagement on the Samana.

Captain O. S. W. Nugent, King's Royal Rifles, succeeded Lieutenant Brasier Creagh as my extra orderly officer. A keen and excellent officer, he has been of much assistance to me.

Colonel J. M. Sym, C.B., 5th Gurkha Regiment, commanded the First Column, and maintained his reputation as a good soldier in the field. His ability and war experience have always made me feel that any work entrusted to him would be thoroughly and satisfactorily carried out.

Lieutenant-Colonel A. H. Turner, 2nd Punjab Infantry, who commanded the Second Column, I have already had the honor to bring to favorable notice for his services in January and February last. He is an officer of great resource and dash, and I am glad the Government of India has shown its confidence in him by nominating him to command the Samana posts until the final reduction of the garrison.

Lieutenant-Colonel C. C. Brownlow, 4th Sikh Infantry, I also mentioned favorably at the close of the last expedition. He has again done excellent service, and, by the good disposition of his troops at Mastan on the 20th April, he inflicted heavier loss on the enemy than the latter has sustained in any other engagement.

Colonel W. W. Biscoe, 19th Bengal Lancers, has commanded the cavalry of the field force throughout, rendering valuable service during the first advance, when he co-operated in the Khanki Valley, and since then on the communications along the southern base of the Samana.

I beg also to mention Lieutenant-Colonel W. J. Vousden, V.C., 5th Punjab Cavalry, who commanded the cavalry in January and February, and has again done good service in command of his regiment.

23. In a separate letter I shall have the honor to submit reports by column commanders and heads of departments. I endorse the favorable mention therein made of the following officers :

Captain F. H. J. Birch, Royal Artillery, commanding No. 3 (Peshawar) Mountain Battery.

Lieutenant L. W. P. East, Royal Artillery, No. 2 (Derajat) Mountain Battery.

Captain H. S. King, Royal Engineers, commanding No. 5 Company, Bengal Sappers and Miners.

Lieutenant S. H. Powell, Royal Engineers, Assistant Intelligence Officer.

Major B. J. C. Doran, Royal Irish Regiment, Brigade-Major, First Column.

Colonel C. P. Cramer, commanding the King's Royal Rifles.

Captain C. F. Gambier, 5th Punjab Cavalry, Brigade-Major, Third Column.

Major H. A. Abbott, commanding the 15th (Sikh) Bengal Infantry.

Lieutenant-Colonel W. O. Thompson, commanding the 3rd Sikh Infantry.

Captain E. J. N. Fasken, 3rd Sikh Infantry.

Lieutenant-Colonel H. Howell, commanding the 1st Punjab Infantry.

Captain A. Daniell, 1st Punjab Infantry.

Captain R. R. N. Sturt, commanding the 2nd Punjab Infantry.

Captain W. du G. Gray, 4th Punjab Infantry, Brigade-Major, Second Column.

Lieutenant-Colonel A. N. Sandilands, commanding the 6th Punjab Infantry.

Brevet-Lieutenant-Colonel R. A. Swetenham, commanding the 27th Bengal Infantry.

Brevet-Lieutenant-Colonel A. J. F. Reid, commanding the 29th Bengal Infantry.

Captain F. C. Maisey, 29th Bengal Infantry.

Captain A. R. Martin, commanding the 1-5th Gurkha Regiment.

Captain H. P. Picot, Staff Corps, Commissariat Department.

Lieutenant G. H. Bretherton, Staff Corps, Commissariat Department.

Surgeon-Major J. T. B. Bookey, Indian Medical Service.

Surgeon L. T. M. Nash, Medical Staff.

Conductor W. Cliff, Commissariat Department.

Conductor L. Manley, Commissariat Department.

Sub-Conductor L. Walters, Transport Department.

Sergeant H. Long, Military Works Department.

Sergeant J. M'Niven, Highland Light Infantry, Army Signaller.

Private W. Charlton, Wilts Regiment, Military Signaller, who distinguished himself during the attack on the convoy at the Darband Kotal on the 23rd April.

Jemadar Sobha Singh, No. 3 (Peshawar) Mountain Battery.

Havildar Ramzán Khan, 3rd Sikh Infantry.

Sepoy Búr Sing, 1st Punjab Infantry.

Sepoy Maha Singh, 1st Punjab Infantry.

Sepoy Tajbír Gurúng, 1-4th Gurkha Regiment.

Subadar Ghulám Kadir, 19th Bengal Infantry.

Jemadar Amán Khan, 19th Bengal Infantry.

Subadar-Major Bhagwán Singh, 29th Bengal Infantry.

Subadar Harsa Singh, 29th Bengal Infantry.

Havildar Akbar Khan, 29th Bengal Infantry.

24. His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of the Punjab had suggested to me that the presence of Mr. R. Udny, Commissioner and Superintendent, Peshawar Division, might be advantageous when discussing matters in which tribes other than Orakzai should be involved. I readily accepted the suggestion and invited Mr. Udny to join me, which he did at Mastan on the 5th May. His presence at once cleared away difficulties which had threatened to interrupt my programme ; measures were adoptd for allaying the suspicions of the Afridis as to our intentions with regard to Tirah, and I was enabled to visit the Mamuzai and Alisherzai countries without producing any external complications. Mr. Udny accompanied me, and I wish to record my sense of the great public service he rendered in a difficult and delicate situation.

25. In March last I expressed the hope that Major H. P. P. Leigh's services during January and February might be favorably regarded by the Government of India, and that the services rendered by his assistants, Lieutenant C. M. Dallas and Messrs. F. B. R. Spencer and D. Donald, might also be recognised. Major Leigh has again been my political adviser throughout the recent operations, and again I desire to record my sense of the great value of his work. His intimate knowledge of border matters and his talent in dealing with the tribes seem to fit him pre-eminently for a responsible position on the frontier, and to point to his advancement being for the public good. Lieutenant Dallas has been selected to remain as civil officer on the Samana after the reduction of the garrison. He has again proved himself a most capable officer, and I am sure that his selection is a good one. Messrs. Spencer and Donald have also again assisted Major Leigh, and have in all respects upheld the good opinion I formed of them during the operations at the beginning of the present year. I trust that the native gentlemen mentioned by Major Leigh may receive the recognition of Government for the loyal assistance they have given him.

26. The Telegraph Department under Mr. O. Burne, Assistant Superintendent, was thoroughly efficient in the field, and I quite agree in the terms of commendation employed by him with regard to those working under him in the report which I submit separately.*

27. Mr. A. Bean, of the Postal Department, carried on his duties to my satisfaction.

28. The excellent work done by the Public Works Department under Mr. W. Macdonald, Executive Engineer, especially in the matter of road-making, merits my warm acknowledgments.

The Rules have effect from the 18th July 1891 as a temporary measure in the ports of Aden, Perim, and the Somáli Coast:

I.—The Commander of every vessel, including buggalows or other native craft, arriving from the Arabian Coast of the Red Sea between Tor and Cape Babelmandeb shall, before entering the harbour, indicate by signal the port from which such vessel has come.

II.—Such Commander shall not, except as hereinafter provided, allow any communication, either with the pilot boat, except orally, or with the shore, or with any other vessel or boat in the harbour.

III.—Immediately on arrival the Commander shall cause the letter R of the Commercial Signal Code to be hoisted, and shall keep the said flag flying during his stay in port or until authorized by the Health Officer to haul it down. If communication with the shore is not desired, the vessel shall anchor at such place as may be pointed out by the Port authorities, having regard to the season of the year. If communication with the shore is desired, the Health Officer shall go alongside the vessel, and, after all necessary enquiries, shall direct the Commander to take the vessel to the quarantine anchorage duly appointed and notified in that behalf by the Resident, there to remain for a period of seven days from the date of arrival or for the shorter period prescribed in Rule IV, and undergo disinfection, which should apply as well to crew, passengers, effects, and susceptible goods.

IV.—If the Health Officer of the Port has sufficient evidence that no cases of a suspicious nature have taken place on board during the voyage, and if the vessel is besides in good hygienic condition, the duration of the quarantine will be diminished according to the following scale :

After eight days of voyage	.	.	Six days of quarantine.

V.—If during the period a vessel is at the quarantine anchorage aforesaid any case or cases of cholera should occur on board, the said vessel shall remain in quarantine for a period of seven days from the date of the last case occurring, and be subject to all the prohibitions provided for in Rule III.

VI.—When any vessel has been placed in quarantine as aforesaid, the Health Officer may direct the removal of so many of the passengers and crew as may not be suffering from illness, and whose services may not be required on board the vessel, to such particular spots as may from time to time be selected by the Resident as places of quarantine, there to remain for a period of seven days. If a case of cholera occurs among such passengers and crew during any such period, they shall remain in a place of quarantine for a period of 15 days from the date of the occurrence of the last case of such illness.

VII.—Any mails or cargo which may be brought by any vessel so arriving shall be landed under such precautions as the Health Officer may deem necessary to prevent the spread of the disease.

No. 428-M, dated Simla, 17th July 1891.

Memo. by the Adjutant-General in India.

The following is submitted for the information of the Government of India in the Military Department, in continuation of this office No. 375-M, dated 11th June 1891.

No. 411-M, dated Camp Manipur, 3rd July 1891.

From—The General Officer Commanding the Manipur Field Force,

To—The Adjutant-General in India.

When I had the honor of submitting, for the information of His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief, my letter (No. 59-M, dated 2nd May) reporting the occupation of Manipur, I made no references to the services rendered by the Telegraph Department and by the Postal Department, because up to that date it had not been possible for either department to get into working order.

2. I beg permission now to record that the Telegraph Department opened office at Manipur on 11th May, and that in my opinion great credit is due to Mr. H. T. Pinhey, Assistant Superintendent in charge, and to his subordinates, for the energy and resource they displayed in effecting so rapid a reconstruction of the line.

3. Up to Kairong (two marches within Manipur territory) the wire was found nearly intact, and an office was opened at that place on the 24th April, the morning after our arrival; but between Kairong and Manipur it had been almost entirely destroyed, many of the posts even having been broken down or pulled up.

4. The Postal Department was somewhat longer in perfecting its arrangements on the lines of communication; but it is now working very well, and I am glad to acknowledge the services rendered by Mr. F. P. Williams, the Superintendent in charge, and by Mr. J. W. Pilkington, the Deputy Postmaster-General, Assam.

No. 773.—Lieutenant L. G. N. Eales, East Kent Regiment, held the appointment of Assistant Superintendent of Army Signalling with the Kohima Column of the Manipur Field Force from the 18th April to the 2nd May 1891.

Captain W. D. Thomson, 1st Bengal Cavalry, who was gazetted by G. G. O. No. 340 of 1891 as Superintendent of Army Signalling to the Kohima Column of that force, eventually accompanied the Silchar Column.

No. 774.—Lieutenant C. S. Williams, Wing Officer, 43rd Gurkha (Rifle) Regiment of Bengal Infantry, to be Provost Marshal, Manipur Field Force, with effect from the 27th April 1891.

MIRANZAI.

No. 282-M-W, dated Simla, 27th July 1891.

From—The Adjutant-General in India,

To—The Secretary to the Government of India, Military Department.

I have the honor, by direction of the Commander-in-Chief, to submit, for the information of the Government of India, a letter, No. 479-B, dated the 17th July 1891, in which the General Officer lately commanding the Miranzai Field Force brings to notice the services of First-Class Veterinary-Surgeon Crow and Lieutenant J. L. Parker, Royal Artillery.

2. His Excellency endorses the General Officer's favorable opinion.

No. 479-B, dated Thandiani, Abbottabad, 17th July 1891.

From—BRIGADIER-GENERAL SIR W. S. A. LOCKHART, K.C.B., C.S.I., late Commanding the Miranzai Field Force,

To—The Adjutant-General in India.

I regret to have made two omissions in my despatch dated the 8th June last on the operations of the Miranzai Field Force, and, if not too late, I shall be extremely obliged if His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief in India will permit me to rectify this now.

The omissions are:

(a) At the end of paragraph 22 should have followed—"First-Class Veterinary-Surgeon W. A. Crow carried on the work of his department very satisfactorily."

(b) In paragraph 23, and after the name of Captain F. H. J. Birch, Royal Artillery, should have followed—"Lieutenant J. L. Parker, Royal Artillery, Commanding three guns of No. 2 (Derajat) Mountain Battery."

MAXWELL, Chief Political Officer in Manipur, No. 32, dated the 29th May, No. 37, dated the 2nd June, No. 48, dated the 14th June, No. 58, dated the 20th June, No. 67, dated the 24th June, No. 91, dated the 8th July, and No. 132, dated the 31st July 1891; also letter from MAN MOHAN GHOSE, Esq., dated the 28th July, and enclosures.

RESOLUTION.

In March last the Manipur State openly resisted by force of arms the troops of Her Majesty the Queen, Empress of India; and, while this resistance was in progress, Her Majesty's Representative and other British officers were seized and put to death. The Manipur State was thereupon occupied by a British force; and the officer commanding was instructed to place upon their trial all persons suspected of murder or abetment of murder or of having acted as leaders or instigators of revolt. In pursuance of this order the Regent, Kula Chandra Singh, and his brothers, Tikendrajit Singh and Angao Singh, and other persons, were made prisoners and placed upon their trial.

Having regard to the great importance of the question raised in these cases, His Excellency the Governor-General in Council has resolved to draw up a statement of the reasons which have led him to the conclusion that all the accused have committed heinous offences against the State, and deserve exemplary punishment.

2. It is true that these accused persons were with one exception not amenable for the acts charged against them to the municipal law of British India, and that the Courts by which they were tried derived their authority solely from the special Commission under which they were constituted. This Commission issued, as has been correctly apprehended by Mr. Man Mohan Ghose, in the exercise of the prerogative of the Government of India as the Sovereign Power, "for the purpose of bringing to justice persons accused of grave offences, but who not being British subjects were not triable by British Courts," and in consequence of the anxious desire of the Government "to secure to all persons, whether subjects or aliens, that fairness of treatment and that strict justice which a public trial, conducted according to civilised methods and principles, can alone ensure." The Court by which the Regent and his brothers were tried was composed of two of the senior Military Officers on the spot, aided by a civil officer with judicial experience as Deputy Commissioner, and the Governor-General in Council expressly reserved to himself the final determination of the sentences to be passed upon the accused in the event of their being adjudged guilty. The other accused were tried by the Chief Political Officer in Manipur, his sentences being subject to confirmation by the General Officer Commanding the Manipur Field Force. The Government of India called for a report on each case.

3. The Regent, Kula Chandra Singh, was convicted of waging war against the Queen, and was sentenced to death.

Tikendrajit Singh, the Senapati, was convicted both of waging war against the Queen and of abetting the murder of the Chief Commissioner of Assam and other officers, and was sentenced to death.

Angao Singh was convicted of waging war against the Queen and of abetting the murder of the Chief Commissioner and other officers, and was also sentenced to death.

These sentences were submitted to the Government of India for confirmation.

The following were the persons tried by the Chief Political Officer:—

Tongal Singh alias Tongal General.
Kajao Manipuri.
Niranjan, Subadar.
Samu Singh alias Luang Ningthao, Colonel.
Nilmoni Singh, alias Aiya Parel, Major.
Miya Singh, Major.
Lokendra Birjit Singh alias Wang Khai Lakpa.
Uroo Singh Usurba.
Abungjao Yenkorba.
Chowbi Hider Machahal.
Ghun Singh Kangdra.
Kumba Singh Laisraba.
Dhojo Singh Myenba.
Noni Singh Nepra Machahal.
Trilok Singh Nongtholba Sutwal.
Dhan Singh Sugol Senba.

Tongal Singh was convicted of the murder of the Chief Commissioner and other officers, and was sentenced to death.

Kajao Manipuri was convicted of the murder of Mr. Grimwood, and was sentenced to death.

Samu Singh, Colonel, and Aiya Parel, Major, were convicted of waging war against the Queen and of abetment of murder, and were sentenced to death.

Miya Singh, Major, and Niranjan, Subadar, a British subject and an ex-sepoy of Her Majesty's Native Army, were convicted of waging war against the Queen, and were sentenced to death.

Lokendra Birjit Singh alias Wangkhailakpa was convicted of waging war against the Queen, and was sentenced to transportation for life.

Uroo Singh Usurba, Abungjao Yonkorba, Chowbi Hider Machahal, Ghun Singh Kangdra, Kumba Singh Laisraba, Dhojo Singh Myenba, Noni Singh Nepra Machahal, Trilok Singh Nongtholba Sutwal, and Dhon Singh Sugol Senba were convicted of the murder of the Chief Commissioner and other officers, and were sentenced to death.

4. After being sentenced to death, two of the accused, namely, the Regent, Kula Chandra Singh, and the Senapati, Tikendrajit, asked and received permission to submit petitions to the Governor-General in Council under legal advice, and the Government of India also agreed to receive from their legal adviser a statement of arguments in their defence. These petitions and arguments, together with the records of the various trials mentioned above, have now been before the Governor-General in Council.

5. It has been urged on behalf of the Regent and the Senapati that they had no opportunity of being defended by Counsel. This is an error. Special instructions were given by the Government of India that they should have all reasonable opportunity in this respect, but no application was made by them for professional assistance before their trials began. Since then ample time has been allowed them to represent their case by Counsel, and the papers prepared by Mr. Man Mohan Ghose have brought before the Government of India everything that can be urged in their defence.

6. Mr. Man Mohan Ghose, as Counsel for the accused, has complained that the language of the written statement of defence put in on behalf of the Senapati has been revised and altered by a British officer since it was signed by him, and has commented upon the inquisitorial character of his oral examination.

The revision of the statement, if it took place as described, was certainly irregular, but the Government of India were careful to understand the passages which are said to have been altered in the sense which they were intended to convey, and Tikendrajit Singh has in no way suffered by the alleged alterations. As regards the oral examination, His Excellency in Council observes that the law of British India not only permits, but requires, that an accused person shall be questioned "for the purpose of enabling him to explain any circumstances appearing against him." The questions were scrupulously recorded, and most of them put before the accused some fact which was either proved or generally known in Manipur, and which, if not explained, might have borne hardly against him. The case against the Senapati, however, in no way depends on anything extracted from himself.

7. It has been urged by the Counsel for the accused that the State of Manipur was independent, and that its rulers were not liable to be tried for waging war against the Queen-Empress, and it is contended that they were justified in repelling an attack made upon the Senapati's house "without even a declaration of war by the British Government."

The Governor-General in Council cannot admit this argument. The degree of subordination in which the Manipur State stood towards the Indian Empire has been more than once explained in connection with these cases; and it must be taken to be proved conclusively that Manipur was a subordinate and protected State which owed submission to the Paramount Power, and that its forcible resistance to a lawful order, whether it be called waging war, treason, rebellion, or by any other name, is an offence, the commission of which justifies the exaction of adequate penalties from individuals concerned in such resistance as well as from the State as a whole. The principles of international law have no bearing upon the relations between the Government of India as representing the Queen-Empress on the one hand, and the Native States under the suzerainty of Her Majesty on the other. The paramount supremacy of the former presupposes and implies the subordination of the latter. In the exercise of their high prerogative, the Government of India have, in Manipur as in other protected States, the unquestioned right to remove by administrative order any person whose presence in the State may seem objectionable. They also had the right to summon a Darbar through their Political representative for the purpose of declaring their decision upon matters connected with the expulsion of the ex-Maharaja, and if their order for the deportation of the Senapati were not obeyed, it was their officer's duty to take proper steps for his forcible apprehension. In the opinion of the Governor-General in Council any armed and violent resistance to such arrest was an act of rebellion, and can no more be justified by a plea of self-defence than could resistance to a police officer armed with a Magistrate's warrant in British India.

8. The Governor-General in Council holds, therefore, that the accused persons were liable to be tried for waging war against the Queen; that they had full opportunity of being represented by Counsel; and that their trial was not prejudiced by any irregularity of procedure.

9. It remains to state the conclusions formed by the Governor-General in Council as to the propriety of the several convictions upon the evidence adduced.

10. The Regent, Kula Chandra Singh, has been convicted of what is in fact rebellion, though acquitted of any complicity in the murders. He was the recognized ruler of Manipur when the occurrences in question took place. He had been the Jubraj or heir-apparent, and, whatever may have been the Maharaja's secret intentions, the evidence clearly shows that His Highness went through a process which was understood by every body to signify abdication, giving up his sword of State and robes which were made over to the accused. Thereupon the accused undertook the management of the State. He assumed the title and authority of Maharaja, and with the title and authority he undertook the responsibilities of the head of the State. All that can be said in his favour is that in practice he subordinated himself to a younger brother possessing greater force of character than himself. He acquiesced in the decision to resist, and, though he left it to others to carry that decision into effect, he allowed them to act under the authority of his name. Further, he accepted the consequences of their acts, and tried to screen them by making false statements to the Government of India.

He was therefore rightly convicted; but nevertheless, in view of the fact that he was a man of weak character and notoriously under the influence of his brother Tikendrajit Singh, His Excellency has determined to commute the sentence into one of transportation, accompanied by forfeiture of private property.

11. The Senapati, Tikendrajit Singh, was the real leader of the revolt, and undoubtedly the most powerful personage in the State. It is not denied that he led the Manipuri troops against those of Her Majesty the Queen-Empress, and used artillery at close quarters against an unfortified building, the official residence of the Representative of the Indian Government, having amongst its inmates an English lady as well as several wounded men. He also appears to admit the truth of the following facts, which have been established by the evidence, with regard to the murder. The Chief Commissioner and those with him were received into the fort for a parley. The Senapati met them and peremptorily insisted that the British troops should surrender their arms. This demand not being acceded to, the Senapati left without taking any precautions for the safe return of the Chief Commissioner and those with him, although they were surrounded by a dangerous and excited crowd. He did, however, on being appealed to by the witness Angao Mingto, give him permission to escort them to the Residency if he were able to do so; and when they were attacked, and Mr. Grimwood had been speared, he returned, drove back the mob, and had them placed in the Darbar Hall. He then betook himself to the parapet of the fort, and was found there half an hour later by the witnesses Usurba and Jatra Singh, who told him that the Tongal General had ordered that the officers should be put to death. He replied that he would come and speak to the General, and, after making a circuit of the parapet, he returned to the top-guard, where he had a conversation with the Tongal General on the question whether the officers should or should not be put to death. Within half an hour a distinct order for the officers' execution was given by the Tongal General, standing in the same room where the Senapati was lying down; and thereupon the subordinates who had refused to act on the Tongal General's own order sent for the State executioners and had the officers beheaded.

The Senapati's defence is that he opposed the Tongal General's proposal, and that, being ill and exhausted, and believing the Tongal General was convinced by his arguments, he fell asleep and was only awakened after the murder by the sudden resumption of firing. A careful examination of the evidence, however, shows that the alleged illness did not prevent the Senapati from doing anything which he had a mind to do; while, as regards the resumption of firing, it is proved beyond all reasonable doubt that the Senapati had himself resumed it, and brought a cannon to bear upon the Residency before he held his consultation with the Tongal General. At this time he knew the officers were in his power in the Darbar Hall. It is in evidence that one of them had written a note showing that they regarded themselves as treacherously entrapped, and it is also established that before fire was re-opened under the Senapati's directions, some one had called out from the parapet where he was engaged that the Chief Commissioner would not return.

The Government of India are unable to believe that the Tongal General would have ventured to order the execution of high British officials against the wishes of the Senapati, and they are satisfied upon the whole evidence that the order was really and in truth what the subordinates considered it to be, viz., the joint order of the Tongal General and the Senapati himself.

The Government of India were, therefore, convinced that he was rightly convicted on both counts of the charge. The sentence in his case has therefore been confirmed and carried into execution.

12. The third case is that of Angao Singh, who seems to have assumed the title of Senapati. On his own admission he was in command at Thobal; it appears also that he took charge of the west gate at Manipur on the night of the 24th March. Though there is no evidence that he gave any specific order, he was acting throughout as a leader, if not as the Commander-in-Chief, of the forces resisting the representative of the Supreme Government, and there can be no doubt that he waged war against the Queen. It is not to be supposed that the whole truth has been told as to what happened on that eventful night, but there is no evidence from which it can be safely concluded that he abetted the murder of the officers. The Government of India have therefore determined that his conviction on this count cannot be upheld, and the capital penalty will not be inflicted. He has been sentenced to transportation, with forfeiture of property.

13. The cases of the other accused persons presented no difficulties.

The evidence against Tongal Singh was such as to leave no doubt whatever that he ordered the execution of the officers, and has been rightly convicted. The sentence in his case was therefore carried into execution.

Kajao Manipuri admitted that he murdered Mr. Grimwood; and Niranjan, Subadar, a British subject, and formerly a soldier in the British army, was clearly shown to have participated in armed opposition to Her Majesty's troops. In both these cases the sentences of death were carried into execution.

In the cases of Samu Singh and Nilmoni Singh, who were leading men in Manipur, the Government of India did not uphold the conviction on the charge of abetment of murder, but the charge of waging war against the Queen was clearly established. Nevertheless, having regard to the fact that they were acting under orders, the Governor-General in Council commuted the sentences of death to sentences of transportation and forfeiture of property.

The accused Miya Singh and Lokendra Birjit, also leading men in Manipur, admitted that they had taken an active part in the armed resistance offered to Her Majesty's troops. In their case also, as they had acted under orders, sentences of transportation with forfeiture of property were considered sufficient.

In the cases of Uru Singh Usurba, Abungjao Yonkorba, Chowbi Hider Machahal, Ghun Singh Kangdra, Kumba Singh Laisraba, Dhojo Singh Myenba, Noni Singh Nepra Machahal, Trilok Singh Nongtholba Sutwal, and Dhon Singh Sugol Senba, it was clear that the accused, though on their own statements guilty of murder, were persons in subordinate positions, and acted under the orders of others. They were, therefore, sentenced to transportation.

PROCLAMATION.

Whereas the State of Manipur has recently been in armed rebellion against the authority of Her Majesty the Queen, Empress of India; and whereas, during such rebellion, Her Majesty's Representative and other officers were murdered at Imphal on the 24th of March last: and whereas by a Proclamation bearing date the 19th April 1891 the authority of the Regent, Kula Chandra Singh, was declared to be at an end, and the administration of the State was assumed by the General Officer Commanding Her Majesty's forces in Manipur territory:

It is hereby notified that the Manipur State has become liable to the penalty of annexation, and is now at the disposal of the Crown:

It is further notified that Her Majesty the Queen, Empress of India, has been pleased to forego Her right to annex to Her Indian Dominions the territories of the Manipur State; and has graciously assented to the re-establishment of Native rule under such conditions as the Governor-General in Council may consider desirable, and in the person of such ruler as the Governor-General in Council may select.

Her Majesty has been moved to this act of clemency by the belief that the punishment inflicted upon the leaders of the revolt, together with the imposition upon the State of suitable conditions of regrant, will afford an adequate vindication of Her authority.

The Governor-General in Council will make known hereafter the name of the person selected to rule the State, and the conditions under which he will be invested with power.

H. M. DURAND,

Secretary to the Government of India.

NOTIFICATION.

No. 1701-E.—The following telegrams and despatch connected with the late outbreak in Manipur, which have been published by Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India, are reprinted for general information:

Manipur punishments. It is essential to the security of our position in India that the subjects of Native States should understand that the murder of British officers renders the murderers and their abettors liable to punishment of death whatever orders they may have received from the authorities of the State concerned. It has been clearly laid down that no Native State has capital jurisdiction over European British subjects. I regard maintenance of this principle as of the utmost importance, but, where a murder has been committed under compulsion, sufficient weight should be given to this fact.

Your Lordship's telegram of 28th May, Manipur punishment. I agree.

Manipur.—We wish to draw special attention to the following points:

First.—It is the right and duty of the British Government to settle successions in subordinate Native States. Every succession must be recognised by the British Government, and no succession is valid until recognition has been given. This principle is fully understood and invariably observed.

Second.—Manipur is a subordinate Native State. We rendered it independent of Burma. We have recognised successions in Manipur, and have asserted suzerainty in many ways; and Manipur ruling family have repeatedly acknowledged their position of dependence. For example, in 1874 Maharaja presented nazar to Viceroy and received khilat. Again ex-Maharaja now in Calcutta was recognised as future successor by us during his father's lifetime at his father's request; and similarly, at ex-Maharaja's request, we recognised as his successor present Jubraj. Ex-Maharaja and even Regent and Senapati since revolt have all admitted dependent position of State (see

I am to say that the Governor-General in Council agrees with you that the formal investiture of a Chief should, if possible, be performed by a British officer. Such a course may not always be practicable; but I am to observe that the succession to a Native State is invalid until it receives in some form the sanction of the British authorities. Consequently an ad interim and unauthorised ceremony carried out by the people of a State, such as that which occurred in the present instance, cannot be recognised, though the wishes of the ruling family and the leading persons in a State would naturally in all cases receive full consideration.

I also considered that I was ruling my State under the protection of the British Government, whose representative, the Political Agent, always resided at my capital, and the Government had made a public avowal of their determination to uphold my father's authority and punish those who would attempt to dispossess him; that I had the right to expect that a similar course would be followed in my case, and that this policy would never be departed from or its benefits denied to me when occasion arose; that any attempt at disturbance which would be a clear defiance of the authority of the Indian Government would be, therefore, at once put down with a strong hand, as had been done even during my time twice—once when Bara Chauba rose against me, and again when Jogendra Singh did so.

Hitherto the British Government has been protecting this petty State of Manipur in a friendly manner. I cannot understand why, in spite of repeated remonstrances on the present occasion, the Chief Commissioner broke that friendly relation and acted with such injustice and cruelty. I cannot believe that he acted so unjustly under the guidance of the Honourable Governor-General.

He* states that he was always submissive to the paramount power, and is yet willing to surrender if the Government be graciously pleased to grant a kind hearing of his long felt grievances, and instead of awarding punishment would allow favourable consideration on his valour which a valiant nation is naturally inclined to adore and esteem. He* further states that as a Khatri by birth, the offspring of the famous family of Babrubahun, he has only done the duty of his fighting race in self-defence; and yet in case the Government deem it expedient to ruin him, he is least afraid of his mortal life, but it would add discredit on the Government of such superior strength to ruin a feudatory State of much inferior position.

Several attempts previous to that which gave rise to this correspondence have been made to upset the Maharaja's rule since his accession—two of Bara Chauba in 1886, which were finally suppressed only by the employment of the Cachar Frontier Police under a British officer (see paragraph 3, General Summary of Administration Report for 1886-87). These were followed by two attempts in 1887—one, three months after the Maharaja's accession, headed by the Wang Khairakpa, who was shot through the head while making a rush at the Maharaja's private residence; the other of Jogendra Singh, heading a party of exiles from Manipur, which also called for the employment of Military Police from Cachar and British troops from Manipur.

It must, moreover, be remembered that the present occurrences are not the result of a revolution in which the people of the State have any interest, of foreign aggression, or of any ascendancy gained by rival Chiefs, but are merely the outcome of a family quarrel between the brothers of a nominal ruler.

10. Extract from a letter from F. ST. C. GRIMWOOD, Esq., Political Agent, Manipur, to the Secretary to the Chief Commissioner of Assam, No. 351-C., dated the 4th December, 1890.

The Maharaja was not unpopular, and naturally he has some adherents; but the people were not very enthusiastic about him, and they cordially disliked the Pucca Sena.

Third.—It is our right and duty to uphold Native Chiefs recognised by us, except in case of gross misrule, and to punish unlawful revolt against their authority. We have accordingly more than once upheld Manipur Chiefs by force, and punished rebels against their authority (see Aitchison's Treaties, Vol. I, page 248, and recent cases of Bara Chauba and Jogendra Singh referred to in Maharaja's letter of 14th November).

Fourth.—The rising against Maharaja in September 1890 was unlawful revolt, and we should have been justified in putting it down by force and punishing rebels. But for Maharaja's abdication, which was somewhat hastily accepted by Grimwood without reference to us, we should probably have done so. Chief Commissioner offered Grimwood armed assistance from Kohima (see Quinton's telegrams to Cuningham, 22nd and 24th September 1890, and Grimwood's letter 25th September, paragraphs 10 to 14, and Cuningham's letter to Quinton of 24th January, paragraph 6).

11. Telegram, dated the 22nd September, 1890.

From—The Chief Commissioner of Assam, Silchar,

To—The Foreign Secretary, Simla.

Following telegrams received this morning from Manipur Political Agent:—"22nd, No. 4.—Maharaja's brothers attacked Palace during night. Maharaja fled to Residency. Shall defend him as long as possible if attacked; 22nd, No. 5.—Senapati and two brothers in possession of Palace. Jubraj and three brothers with Maharaja at Residency; only 65 rifles besides escort. Please instruct how to act. Do not anticipate attack on Residency at present, but Maharaja and brothers are preparing to attack Senapati if they can collect men. No loss of life as Maharaja fled." Chief Commissioner has sent the following reply, having arranged with the General Officer Commanding now here to move a detachment from Kohima if necessary:—"Your telegrams of today. Protect the Residency. Endeavour to mediate between the parties, and, if necessary, wire for troops to Kohima. Commanding Officer has been authorized to send you 200 rifles. Defend yourself, but do not assume the offensive without informing me of the reasons on which you recommend it, and obtaining orders."

From—The Chief Commissioner of Assam, Badarpur,

To—The Foreign Secretary, Simla.

Your 1994-E of 22nd. Political Agent wires:—Begins: "Maharajah has formally abdicated in favour of Jubraj, and goes to Brindaban as a fakir. This is his own wish. I told him I could guarantee his personal safety at Residency, but refused to allow him to collect armed men in Residency ground; also told him, if once abdicated, he could not return to Manipur or Cachar; but he persists in his resolve. The Senapati agrees to supply Maharaja with all necessaries for journey. This seems to me best solution. Jubraj has held aloof from both sides, and could therefore be acknowledged Maharaja if you approve. Maharaja leaves to-night. Am sending escort 41 rifles; also insisting on Pucca Sena going too. He is the primary cause of all the trouble."—Ends. I have replied as follows:—Begins: "Yours of yesterday. Jubraj may be acknowledged as Regent till sanction of Government is received. Send full report of all the circumstances, and wire if Maharaja and Pucca Sena have gone."—Ends.

10. On the next morning (Tuesday) the Maharaja told me he had fully made up his mind to leave the country and go on a pilgrimage and settle at Brindaban. He begged that I would arrange this, and entreated he should not be sent to Hazaribagh (thinking no doubt of the Bara Chauba). I told him I would arrange it to be so if he had really made up his mind, but he must understand he could never return to Manipur, Cachar, or Sylhet, and I also said that the Pucca Sena must go with him, but that the others might stay or not as they liked.

11. The Maharaja then wrote a letter to the Senapati to tell him his determination to leave and resign the gadi to the Jubraj; and when I went to the Palace the Senapati and his brothers were evidently very pleased at the Maharaja's resolution, and the former promised to make all the arrangements for the journey of the Maharajah and his brothers to Cachar in a proper manner, and that those who chose to stay in Manipur would not be molested. He also said he would send for the Jubraj, who, it appears, was about 8 miles away of the Cachar road. The Jubraj arrived 2 or 3 hours after, and at once proclaimed himself Maharaja.

12. As soon as the Maharaja's intention of leaving the country was known, numbers of Manipuris flocked to the Residency to see him, most of them bringing various sums of money to present to him. To judge from the way the people wept, one would say the Maharaja was popular and every one seemed sorry at his departure.

* * * * *

14. The Maharaja and his brothers left in the evening at about 7-30 P.M. I sent an escort of 35 rifles of the 44th Gurkha Light Infantry to accompany them to Cachar. It was best for several reasons for the Maharaja to leave at once. It was very awkward his being at the Residency; he would eat nothing here, and he seemed afraid to go into any of the Manipuri houses near by; he was even alarmed at my leaving the house for a short time, and begged I would not do so. His staying here also entailed heavy duty on the men of my escort, and besides there was always the chance that something might happen, and the minds of the people would be disturbed till he left. I accordingly decided to take the responsibility without waiting for orders, and did not object to his leaving; and in this way was ended one more change of rulers in Manipur which have so frequently occurred in the previous history of the country. This time fortunately there has been no bloodshed.

6. At the same time, when Mr. Grimwood received your telegram directing him to mediate and assuring him of military assistance from Kohima, the proper course for him to pursue was to have gone to the Senapati at the Palace, to have ascertained the reason of the disturbances, and to have communicated with you. It would then in all probability have become apparent before the Political Agent had committed himself to assenting to the Maharaja's flight, and thereby admitted the success of the Senapati's revolt, that the Maharaja was entirely in our hands, and that the Senapati, a declared traitor in open mutiny, could have been dealt with by us according as circumstances demanded.

Having thus abdicated and left the country, the Maharaja changed his mind, and wishes now to repudiate his previous action and resume his position as ruler of the State. This course cannot, in the Chief Commissioner's opinion, be adopted, unless the Government of India is prepared to support the Maharaja on the gadi with British troops.

The restoration of the Maharaja.—I am still doubtful whether the principles of justice call for this step, and I am certain that it would not be for the benefit of good government in Manipur. * * * * *

Again, there is nothing in the character or previous conduct of the Maharaja which warrants the conclusion that his restoration would be for the benefit of good government in Manipur. * * * * *

I am making arrangements for a visit to Manipur next month in view of the Government of India determining that the question of the return of the Maharaja should be re-opened; but, if I am right in supposing that the point is one on which I am asked for an opinion, I would strongly advise against it.

* * * * *

As regards the first of these two points, I stated in my letter of the 9th of February the reasons against the restoration based on the weakness of the Maharaja's character as shown by his conduct since his accession.

* * * * *

Constant interference will be no less necessary in the internal affairs of the country; the weakness of the Maharaja, already dwelt upon, will leave him a ready tool in the hands of the people round him who have no direct responsibility for the consequences of their advice, and the Political Agent cannot allow abuses of authority, which at present might be held not to give grounds for interference, to be indulged in by a ruler set up and maintained by ourselves. Under the circumstances described, I do not think that good administration can be secured without constant interference. * *

Fifth.—When Maharaja wished to recall abdication, we were disposed to restore him and re-assert his authority. We gave way on this point to objections earnestly pressed by Quinton both in letters and in personal communication with the Viceroy and Council. Grimwood also was opposed to Maharaja's restoration (see Quinton's letters to Cuningham, 9th and 19th February 1891, and Grimwood's letter, 4th December, paragraph 26).

* * * * *

26. If the Maharaja returns to Manipur, in my opinion he has no chance of regaining his throne unless brought back by British troops. I would certainly not advise the return of the Maharaja, but, if he does come back, he should be accompanied by a force of our troops sufficient to overawe all opposition; but even then, I believe, the Jubraj and Senapati would fight in preference to being sent into exile in India, which would be necessary, as after late events the eight brothers could never live peaceably here again altogether.

I have heard nothing of the revolution but the meagre details given in the Times telegrams, but I never doubted that Koirang, the late Maharaja's fourth son, a man of infamous character, was the instigator of it. I never also doubted that Sur Chandra would again try for the throne. I take it that he was frightened into leaving, and now intends claiming the promise to support him.

4. As soon as it was daylight, I learnt that the Senapati, the Dolarai Hanjaba, and the Zillah Singh, the fifth and seventh brothers of the Maharaja, were in the Palace, and in the possession of the four mountain guns and the magazine. The Jubraj had left his house and gone down the Cachar road. Of the Ministers who have seats in Darbar, only one was with Senapati, viz., the Aiya Parel. The others, including the Tongal General and his sons, all came to the Residency.

* * * * *

11. The Maharaja then wrote a letter to the Senapati to tell him his determination to leave and resign the gadi to the Jubraj; and when I went to the Palace the Senapati and his brothers were evidently very pleased at the Maharaja's resolution, and the former promised to make all the arrangements for the journey of the Maharaja and his brothers to Cachar in a proper manner, and that those who chose to stay in Manipur would not be molested. He also said he would send for the Jubraj, who, it appears, was about 8 miles away on the Cachar road. The Jubraj arrived 2 or 3 hours after, and at once proclaimed himself Maharaja.

* * * * *

19. This seems to have satisfied the Maharaja, and he certainly had no suspicion of any outbreak being probable. But the Dolarai Hanjaba and Zillah Singh say they were afraid that they would be punished by being banished or in some other way, so the Zillah Singh took the initiative by attacking the inner enclosure of the Palace in which the Maharaja lives. To this he gained access by climbing over the wall with ladders; and the shots fired, though they hit nobody, so frightened the Maharaja that he fled precipitately. The Senapati then arrived and took possession of everything, and proceeded to strengthen the Palace defences against any attempt to retake it.

21. Extract from a letter from F. St. C. GRIMWOOD, Esq., C.S., Political Agent in Manipur, to the Secretary to the Chief Commissioner of Assam,—No. 351-C., dated the 4th December, 1890.

* * * * *

The magazine is a good defensible post, on the south side of the Palace, and if that and the ammunition in it had been seized and held at once, then at daybreak my escort could probably have retaken the Palace without much difficulty; but it would have been madness to have sent 85 Gurkhas to attack the Palace when the Senapati and his brothers had possession of all the guns and ammunition.

14. I suggested that the Maharaja should retire to Kohima, as I knew our troops would come from there, and he could have met them; but I certainly never said there was personal danger to the Maharaja. I did not think it likely the Senapati would attack the Residency, and I repeatedly told the Maharaja he was quite safe at the Residency. The Maharaja appears in his letter to assume that because I refused to take the offensive with troops (85 rifles) at my disposal, I also declined to protect him. But this is quite wrong. * * * *

Sixth.—Nevertheless we could not permit a revolt against a Chief recognised by us to remain wholly successful and unpunished and virtual authority in Manipur to pass into hands of Senapati, who, as lately described by Johnstone in a letter, is "a man of infamous character," and who was notoriously turbulent and the real leader of the revolution of September 1890. See paragraphs 4, 11, and 19 of Grimwood's letter of 25th September, and paragraphs 5, 14, 17, 19 and 27 of his letter of 4th December; also correspondence of 1881 and 1888 as to Senapati's antecedents and occasions on which he incurred the displeasure of Government.

Under these circumstances we decided that Senapati should be removed from the State, and Quinton, while at Calcutta, did not question propriety of this decision.

17. My own feeling was that such a course would be more honourable, and I thought that I should be able to make the Senapati agree to such terms. I am sure the Maharaja did not misunderstand me, and the three Ministers got up and solemnly shook hands with me. They were entirely of my opinion, but the Maharaja said "No." He was determined to become a pilgrim. In the end I told him not to decide till next morning, the 23rd; but then he was of the same opinion, and not only sent the letter to the Senapati, a copy of which was given me by the Darbar, and which is annexed to this letter, but he also sent his State sword and State coat he was wearing. * * * *

27. I annex a copy of the letter asked for in paragraph 3 of your letter, and I also return the original representation sent with your letter.

4. As I have already in my letter above cited informed you, the Governor-General in Council considers that it will be desirable that the Senapati should be removed from Manipur and punished for his lawless conduct. I am to enquire where you would recommend that he should be interned, and what steps you consider necessary for carrying out his removal without affording him the chance, which his position as head of the Manipur forces might possibly give him, of making any forcible opposition.

23. Telegram No. 252-M., dated the 8th May, 1891.

From—The Secretary to the Chief Commissioner of Assam, Shillong,

To—The Foreign Secretary, Simla.

Your telegram 905-E. of 6th May. Following, dated 7th, received from Gurdon:—Begins: "Your 250-M. Arrangement was orders of India were to be announced at Darbar, and Senapati was to be told to surrender. If he refused, Colonel Skene was to arrest him at Darbar. Troops were kept in readiness round Residency where Darbar was held in case of resistance. Made following communication to Grimwood beforehand:—First, informed him of intention to deport Senapati. Asked him best way to arrest him without affording him an opportunity of forcibly resisting. Grimwood's reply was Senapati personally would resist to the utmost. Grimwood could suggest no means of arresting Senapati as described. Grimwood never mentioned extent of Senapati's followers in Palace or general rising likely; second, asked Grimwood whether he could bring pressure to bear on Regent to arrest Senapati. Grimwood's answer—'No.' Other communications less important. Colonel Skene

Seventh.—We did not indicate to Quinton method in which deportation was to be effected. We asked him what steps he considered necessary for carrying out removal without affording Senapati the chance of making forcible resistance. No instructions other than those contained in letter No. 360 of 21st February were given to Quinton on this point either by letter or by word of mouth.

Eighth.—Quinton did not immediately consult Grimwood on subject doubtless for reasons given in demi-official letter to Cuningham of 22nd February. Following is extract from this letter:—Begins: "It is of importance that the decision of the Government of India which I am going to Manipur to announce and enforce should not be divulged prematurely, and it is scarcely possible to guard against its leaking out if I use the telegraph at Manipur or even write: so many persons are interested in knowing what is about to happen. The Political Agent has no cypher code."—Ends. No doubt Darbar would have tried hard to get message or letter from Telegraph or Post Office, and might have succeeded. Some of the Agency establishment are suspected of having been in the habit of supplying information to Darbar, and Quinton must have known this. These facts explain alleged studious concealment from Grimwood of Quinton's intentions.

Ninth.—Quinton's desire to consult Grimwood as far as circumstances permitted is shown by Gurdon's special mission to Manipur a week in advance of Quinton. On that occasion Gurdon gave Grimwood clear information of intended removal of Senapati, and consulted him as to the method of arrest. Grimwood could suggest no way for effecting arrest without affording Senapati opportunity of making forcible resistance. Gurdon's Italian telegram to Quinton reporting on situation was seen and approved by Grimwood (see Gurdon's telegram, 7th May, and his report forwarded with our despatch No. 81 of 26th May).

was told in Golaghat on 6th March objects of expedition. Have not seen Englishman of 4th yet."—Ends.

24. Extract from a report by LIEUTENANT P. R. GURDON, B.S.C., without date, received by the Secretary to the Chief Commissioner of Assam on the 16th May, 1891.

The discussion between us then came to an end, and I wrote out a telegram to the Chief Commissioner, which contained the following information, and which represented the Political Agent's final opinion :—

(1) The Senapati might be deported if he was granted an assurance that he would be allowed to return to Manipur eventually.

(2) It was not necessary to deport the Princes Dolarai Hanjaba and Zilla Singh.

(3) The Pucca Sena and the other Princes of the ex-Maharaja's party should on no account be allowed to return to Manipur.

Mr. Grimwood saw and approved of this telegram.

25. Telegram, dated the 18th March, 1891.

From—The Chief Commissioner of Assam, Camp Kairong,

To—The Foreign Secretary, Calcutta.

Your No. 360-E. of the 21st ultimo. Expect to reach Manipur on Sunday with the escort described in my demi-official letter of the 22nd idem. Have communicated with the Political Agent through Lieutenant Gurdon, whom I sent on in advance. Your paragraph 4. I propose requiring Regent and the Darbar to meet me on arrival; announce decision of Government; arrest Senapati, and inform him that length of his exile and return depend on his conduct and the tranquillity of the country; and order the Maharaja to place a gun with the escort during my stay. To prevent any disturbance, the Senapati comes with me on the 25th. Officer Commanding concurs in this. India, not Assam, should be the place of his detention, the cost of which will be Rs. 50. Paragraph 7. Conditions :—Site three hundred troops and acceptance by the Maharaja of the advice of the Political Agent. Paragraph 8. Maharaja's residence Brindaban and allowance Rs. 100. Pucca Sena must not return to Manipur, and his detention will cost Rs. 40. The younger brothers may remain in Manipur. If no reply reaches me by Saturday, I will act as above.

26. Extract from a report by LIEUTENANT P. R. GURDON, B.S.C., without date, received by the Secretary to the Chief Commissioner of Assam on the 16th May, 1891.

I suggested that the Chief Commissioner should send for Mr. Grimwood, and then the Chief Commissioner could hear himself what he had to say. This Mr. Quinton did, and on the 21st Mr. Grimwood joined us at Sengmai. Immediately he arrived he had a long private interview with the Chief Commissioner. What transpired I cannot say, but I presume the Chief Commissioner explained the whole situation. When this interview was over, there was a consultation between Mr. Quinton, Colonel Skene, Mr. Grimwood, and Mr. Cossins (Assistant Secretary). At this consultation I was not present. After it had gone on for about half an hour, I saw Mr. Grimwood leave and walk some little distance away. Judging from his manner, he appeared annoyed. Shortly after I saw Mr. Grimwood thus, the Chief Commissioner sent for me and told me that the Senapati would be arrested at the Darbar next day, and that after his arrest it would be my duty to at once proceed with him that same afternoon from Manipur to Sengmai. From this I conclude that it had been settled at the Council I have above referred to that the Senapati should be arrested in Darbar the next day. I may here mention that this was the first mention I had heard of the plan.

Tenth.—On Gurdon's return from Manipur, Quinton sent his telegram of 18th March to Cuningham. This telegram was the only reply received to enquiry mentioned in section 7 above, except demi-official letter of 22nd February mentioned in section eight. In that letter Quinton expressed intention of consulting with General Collett before submitting his recommendations officially.

Eleventh.—We did not know, and we had no reason to infer from Quinton's telegram of 18th March, that Quinton contemplated summoning a formal Darbar or public assembly for the purpose of arresting Senapati. The words "Regent and the Darbar" in that telegram mean Regent and Court or entourage. The word Darbar is habitually used in this sense.

Twelfth.—The decision to arrest in Darbar or public assembly was apparently arrived at on 21st March in conference at Sengmai between Quinton, Skene, Cossins, and Grimwood. Gurdon, who was in Quinton's confidence, informs us, in report cited in section 9 above, that after this conference Quinton told him the Senapati would be arrested at Darbar next day. Gurdon adds :—Begins : "This was the first mention I had heard of the plan."—Ends. Until Gurdon's telegram of 7th May reached us, we did not know precisely what Quinton had intended.

Thirteenth.—Grimwood was opposed to removal of Senapati, and doubtless also to his arrest.

Fourteenth.—As to merits of Quinton's proposed action, there was certainly nothing unusual in announcing our orders in formal Darbar, including the order for removal of Senapati. Under ordinary circumstances this would have been the natural and proper course. No question as to exact time and method of arrest would have arisen, because ordinarily there would have been no thought of resistance, and any person to be deported would have considered himself at Quinton's disposal from the time that orders of Government were announced.

Fifteenth.—The anticipation of possible resistance to such orders is so rare that comparatively few instances of formal arrest in Darbar are on record; but the following cases may be cited : Sandeman lately arrested in open Darbar the Naib of Kej, who had attended at his summons. In 1879 General Roberts made formal entry into Bala Hissar, and read out proclamation to

Appendix to paragraph 16.

27. Extract paragraph 1 from a letter from KULA DHUJA SINGH, Regent of Manipur, to His Excellency the Viceroy,—dated the 25th March, 1891.

At the time having shaken hands with me, he informed me that on that very day at 12 A.M. he would hold a Darbar in the Residency, and that the Governor-General had sent certain intimation which will be communicated to me at the Darbar, and that I should attend it at 12 with my brothers.

assembled notables. After doing so, he informed principal Ministers, whom he suspected of using their influence against us, that it was necessary to detain them. In these cases idea of treachery never occurred to anyone concerned.

Sixteenth.—It cannot be too clearly understood that the proposed Darbar at Manipur was not a conference between equals, or anything of the nature of a hospitable reception. It was an assemblage summoned by the Representative of the Paramount Power to declare the orders of the British Government in a case of disputed succession, upon which both ex-Maharaja and Regent had addressed us, and upon which, in accordance with custom, we were entitled to decide, and they were bound to accept our decision. Quinton in telegram of 18th March says :—"I propose requiring Regent and the Darbar to meet me," and Regent's letter 25th March, first paragraph, shows Regent understood that he was required to attend with his brothers to hear what our decision was. There was nothing of the nature of allurement. The Senapati, like the Regent, was bound to attend and accept our orders. The Regent was to be recognised as Maharaja, and the Senapati was to be banished. In the meantime Quinton was right in treating both with ordinary politeness. Though Senapati was to be banished, the immediate cause of his banishment was political, rather than criminal misconduct.

Seventeenth.—To say that Quinton was bound to give Senapati previous warning of the orders of Government, and of the fact that he would be forcibly arrested unless he submitted to them, is in effect to say that because Senapati was known to be a man of violent character and likely to give trouble, it was therefore Quinton's duty to show him special consideration, and give him special opportunity of preparing for mischief. The necessity for forcible arrest could not arise unless Senapati refused to accept our orders. It could only, therefore, be the result of his own misconduct and revolt against our paramount authority, which authority he himself subsequently acknowledged in letter referred to above, section 2.

Eighteenth.—We do not know Quinton's motive for arrest in Darbar. He probably desired to announce and carry out our orders in most formal and open manner. Statement that Darbar was delayed in order to give time for translation of Quinton's speech supports this view. Arrest of Senapati could apparently have been effected with less difficulty by summoning him to private interview; but Quinton probably thought this would not have been as suitable to the occasion. In any case there was nothing of the nature of treachery involved.

Nineteenth.—If Quinton had been willing to stoop to treachery, there would have been no difficulty in the matter. He could certainly and easily have allayed Senapati's suspicions by friendly assurances, and have seized him on occasion of friendly visit.

Twentieth.—Suspicion of treachery, which arises primarily from misapprehension of nature of proposed Darbar, may perhaps be secondarily due to special circumstances for which Quinton was not responsible; for example, Grimwood and Simpson's shooting expedition with

In the opinion of the Government of India, it is advisable that you should visit Manipur and make known on the spot the decision which the Governor-General in Council desires you to enforce. You should take with you a sufficient force even though opposition may not be expected, and you should report, for the orders of the Government of India, the conditions which you propose to attach to the recognition as Maharaja of Manipur of the present Jubraj.

29. Extract from a letter from BRIGADIER-GENERAL COLLETT, C.B., to the Adjutant-General in India,—No. 3-M., dated the 31st March, 1891.

The universal opinion in this province was that the Chief Commissioner had, an escort of overpowering strength, and no one dreamed of the terrible disaster which has occurred. It seems that an escort of 400 Gurkhas added to the permanent garrison of 100 Gurkhas, and supported by 200 Gurkhas en route from Silchar, would be ample to overawe malcontents. Colonel Skene, an experienced officer, who has spent his life in Assam, and has seen much service, never gave me a hint that he considered the escort too weak for the work the Chief Commissioner had in hand, and he knew what this was, for I had myself written confidentially to him explaining the mission on which Mr. Quinton was going.

Senapati after orders of Government had been communicated to Grimwood.

Twenty-first.—As to military questions involved, we would rather not offer any opinion until the receipt of the proceedings of the Court of Enquiry held at Manipur, which were posted there on the 31st May and are due here on the 14th instant. We can only say that both by letter and in personal communication with Quinton we instructed him to take care that he had a sufficient force. From the papers that have come before us, it is evident that Quinton and the responsible military authorities in Assam considered the escort ample to overcome any resistance that could reasonably be expected.

Twenty-second.—To sum up. It was our duty to settle disputed succession in Manipur. We accepted opinion of local authorities, and decided in favour of acknowledging Jubraj instead of restoring Maharaja; but we stipulated that Senapati, who had led revolt against Maharaja, and was a man of turbulent and infamous character, must leave the State. We did not prescribe method of his deportation, and we did not know Quinton intended to arrest him in Darbar; but we consider that Darbar was suitable place for announcement of our orders, including order for banishment of Senapati, and we see no treachery whatever in Quinton's intention to arrest Senapati there and then if he declined to submit to those orders which as subject of a subordinate Native State he was bound to obey. As to question of escort, we desired Quinton to take sufficient force, and he took the full force which was considered necessary by him and the local military authorities.

(SECRET.)
No. 25.

INDIA OFFICE;
London, 24th July, 1891.

To His Excellency the Most Honourable the Governor-General of India in Council.

MY LORD MARQUIS,—The letter of Your Lordship's Government, No. 36 (Secret), dated 4th March last, has received my careful consideration, and has been the subject of discussion in both Houses of Parliament. I am now in a position to express an opinion on the policy adopted by your Government in regard to the revolution which led to the expulsion and abdication of the Maharaja Sur Chandra Singh of Manipur, and on the measures which you ordered to be adopted in consequence of those events.

Approval by Her Majesty's Government of the policy of the Government of India in regard to Manipur.

2. I propose in the present Despatch to deal with this part of the correspondence only; for while the papers before me are adequate in regard to the policy adopted by your Government and to the instructions which you issued, the case is otherwise in regard to the action taken by the local authorities in giving effect to your instructions. Until I shall have received the proceedings of the Committee of Inquiry which you have constituted at Manipur and your orders on those proceedings, I am not in a position to comment on the later phases of the question and their results.

3. It is needless to recapitulate at any length the events of the 22nd and 23rd September last. It is sufficient to say that the Maharaja fled from the palace owing to a rising of two of his younger brothers; that the Senapati seized the palace and magazine and placed them in a condition of defence against recapture by the Maharaja, who, finding himself unequal to a contest with his younger brother, determined, in opposition to the advice of the Political Agent, Mr. Grimwood, and his own Ministers, to abdicate and proceed to a place of pilgrimage.

4. On this the Jubraj, or heir apparent, who had been absent during the revolution, returned to Manipur and assumed the Raj. The Maharaja, however, changed his mind on reaching British territory, and telegraphed to the Chief Commissioner of Assam that he proposed to forward a memorial, and asked for assistance to reoccupy Manipur. Mr. Quinton, who had already informed you by telegraph of the circumstances, and of his having acknowledged the Jubraj as Regent, but only pending your orders, requested you on 9th October to defer passing any orders in regard to the succession of the Jubraj till the Maharaja's representation should be received.

5. This representation was not forwarded to Mr. Quinton till the middle of November, and it was not laid before you, with the comments of the Political Agent and the Chief Commissioner, till the following January. This delay, for which your Government was not responsible, is none the less to be regretted, as the consequence of it, and of the time occupied by subsequent discussions with the Chief Commissioner, was to allow a state of things which had been accepted only provisionally to endure for a period of six months.

6. Mr. Quinton's report of 31st December was addressed mainly to the question of the Maharaja's claim to restoration; and he, following the opinion of Mr. Grimwood, recommended that the Maharaja should not be restored, but that the Jubraj should be accepted by Government as his successor. He recognized that the attack on the palace was apparently unjustifiable, but otherwise made no remarks on the conduct of the Senapati or other leaders of the rebellion.

7. In your letter of 24th January to the Chief Commissioner of Assam, you recapitulated the facts of the case, and, after commenting on certain deficiencies in the steps taken by Mr. Grimwood for dealing with the crisis, you pointed out that the rebellion owed its success to the action of the Senapati, whose violent conduct had previously incurred your displeasure; and that, if the British Government should acquiesce in the present state of affairs and recognize the Jubraj as ruler of Manipur, the Senapati would wield the real power of the State. You explained that the Government of India had now a very close interest in maintaining tranquillity in Manipur, and could not tolerate disorder there, and you inclined at that time to the opinion that if the Maharaja was likely to receive a reasonable amount of support from the people of Manipur, he should be reinstated, and that in any case the Senapati should be removed. But before acting on these views you asked the Chief Commissioner for an early expression of his own opinion on the proposed course.

8. Mr. Quinton expressed his opinion on the 9th February that the Maharaja should not on account of his weakness and inability to rule be restored, but that the Jubraj should be recognized as ruler, and that the Senapati might at the same time after due inquiry be adequately punished. After further conferring personally with Your Excellency in Council, Mr. Quinton repeated these views in his letter of 19th February, and your final instructions to him were issued on the 21st February.

9. You then repeated your opinion that, "while the Senapati remains in Manipur unpunished for his treachery against his eldest brother, the Maharaja, the real power in the State will be in the Senapati's hands," and that it would not be to the credit of the British power any more than to the interests of the people of Manipur itself that the Government of India should acquiesce in such a settlement of the case. You accepted Mr. Quinton's opinion that, in view of the Maharaja's character, it would be to the advantage of Manipur and to the furtherance of British interests to recognize the Jubraj rather than to restore the Maharaja, and you adhered to your decision that the Senapati should be removed from Manipur on account of his lawless conduct. You asked where he should be interned, and what steps were considered necessary for removing him without affording him the opportunity of making any forcible opposition; and, finally, you directed the Chief Commissioner to visit Manipur, and to make known on the spot the decision of the Government of India, taking with him a sufficient force, even though opposition might not be expected.

10. It only remains to add that Mr. Quinton decided, in communication with the Officer Commanding the North-East Frontier District, to take an escort of 400 men from Golaghat, to be further strengthened by the addition of 200 men from Cachar; and that on the 18th March he telegraphed proposing to require the Regent and the Durbar to meet him on arrival, to announce the decision of Government, to arrest the Senapati, and bring him away with him on the 25th March. These proposals you approved, having already communicated to the ex-Maharaja your decision to acknowledge the Jubraj as Maharaja, and to punish the persons directly responsible for the insurrection.

11. Of the right of the Government of India to interfere after the forcible dispossession of the Maharaja there can be no question. It is admittedly the right and duty of the Government to settle successions in the protected States of India generally, and this is in a very marked way the case in regard to Manipur, which indeed owes its existence to our intervention. In 1851 the Government of India gave a somewhat special undertaking "to uphold the present Rajah, and to "punish any parties attempting to dispossess him," and both before and since that period, and even during the reign of Maharaja Sur Chandra Singh, the history of Manipur is replete with instances of your Government having interfered forcibly to suppress attempts at usurpation, and of your having interned rebellious princes in British India at a safe distance from Manipur.

12. Your Government would undoubtedly have been justified in restoring the Maharaja by force in September, when the revolution took place, and had he not fled precipitately this course would probably have been adopted; nor, in my opinion, would either the delay that occurred or the fact that the local officers were content to accept the results of the revolution without comment have justified you in abstaining from considering the ex-Maharaja's application when it came before you, and vindicating the right of the Paramount Power to decide the question of succession on its merits. Your interference was necessary, not only in the interest of the Manipur State, where the character of the Senapati and the traditions of the succession indicated the probability of this attempt, if allowed to go unpunished, being frequently repeated; it was necessary also in the interests of the British Government, which has of late years been brought into much closer relations with the State and its subject tribes than was formerly the case, and cannot safely tolerate disorders therein; but, above all, it was necessary in the interests of the other protected States of India, for every Chief would have felt that the stability of his power was compromised had you passed over without notice an unprovoked and successful rebellion proceeding only from family quarrels.

13. I am satisfied, therefore, that your Government were right in deciding to interfere. I am equally satisfied that no interference which left the successful head of the rebellion—a man notorious for his turbulent and violent character—in possession of the real power of the State would have been adequate, and that your decision to remove the Senapati from Manipur and intern him in India was sound and politic.

14. The question whether the ex-Maharaja should be restored, or whether the Jubraj should be acknowledged as Maharaja, was by no means so clear as that of the Senapati's removal. Your Government were at first inclined to restore him, and only yielded to the strong remonstrances which the Chief Commissioner urged against that course. I have very carefully considered the subject in the light of the objections urged by Mr. Quinton to the restoration of the expelled Maharaja, and am of opinion that your Government was justified in yielding to those objections. The obligations imposed on you by the declaration of the Government of India in 1851, though not limited to Maharaja Kirti Chandra, were necessarily dependent on the Maharaja's capacity to govern, and on his willingness to abide by our advice. In this case the Maharaja's abandonment of his throne and territory (for I am satisfied that his abdication was deliberate and complete), and his unreadiness to follow the advice of your Government, absolved you from looking to any other considerations than those demanded by the interests of peace and good government, while the representations of the local authorities, as well as the Maharaja's previous history, indicated that these interests would in all probability be better served by the acknowledgment as Maharaja of the heir apparent than by the forcible restoration of one who had shown himself incapable of properly exercising the authority conferred upon him.

15. The decision to accept the Jubraj as Maharaja if Sur Chandra Singh was not to be restored followed as a matter of course. He had not taken part in the insurrection; he was the heir apparent; he was supposed to be capable; he had shown himself amenable to advice, and there was practically no other competitor.

16. So far then as the policy of your Government is concerned, I am glad that Her Majesty's Government have been able to afford it their full support. It was honourable; it asserted the rights of the Government of India, and it was calculated to give assurance to feudatory Chiefs. Nor do I doubt that you were right in leaving to the discretion of the Chief Commissioner the details of the method of enforcing your decision.

17. One question remains, which I think may be better dealt with in considering the orders of your Government than in considering the action of your subordinates. I refer to Mr. Quinton's intention for causing the Senapati, should he not surrender, to be arrested in Durbar. I have considered this subject very carefully in the light of your telegram of 11th May last, in which you explained that you had no specific information on this point until the receipt of Mr. Gurdon's telegram of 7th May, and I am satisfied that in giving your sanction to the proposals formulated in Mr. Quinton's telegram of 18th March, you had no reason to contemplate, and in fact did not contemplate, this action. I fully concur with you that nothing like treachery can be imputed to Mr. Quinton in this matter, but care should be taken that persons summoned to attend Durbars, which are almost universally understood to be held for ceremonial purposes, should not be subjected therein to measures of personal restraint.

I have, &c.,

CROSS.

H. M. DURAND,

Secretary to the Government of India.

FIELD OPERATIONS.

HAZARA.

No. 816.—The Most Hon'ble the Viceroy and Governor-General in Council is pleased to direct the publication of the following letter from the Adjutant-General in India, dated the 8th of July 1891, submitting, under the orders of the Commander-in-Chief in India, a despatch from Major-General W. K. Elles, C.B., reporting the operations of the Hazara Field Force between the 12th March and the 17th June 1891.

2. The Governor-General in Council, in concurrence with the Commander-in-Chief, desires to record his entire approval of the careful and thorough manner in which the work of the expedition was carried out by Major-General Elles, and of the good discipline and soldierlike conduct displayed by the troops on various occasions in the presence of the enemy.

His Excellency in Council has perused with much satisfaction the favorable mention of the various officers whose good services during the campaign have been brought to notice.

3. The Viceroy is glad to have an opportunity of expressing his sense of the valuable services rendered by Mr. A. F. D. Cunningham, C.I.E., C.S., as Chief Political Officer to the Force, and His Excellency notices with pleasure the efficiency of the arrangements made by the Medical, Commissariat-Transport, and other Army Departments in connection with the expedition, and by the Postal and Telegraph services under Mr. W. T. Van Someren and Mr. R. C. Barker, C.I.E., respectively:

No. 244-H—"Field Operations—Hazara,"—dated Simla, 8th July 1891.

From—The Adjutant-General in India,

To—The Secretary to the Government of India, Military Department.

I have the honor, by direction of the Commander-in-Chief, to submit, for the information of the Government of India, a despatch from Major-General Elles, C.B., describing the operations of the Hazara Field Force between the 12th March and the 17th June 1891.

2. The objects of the expedition were as stated in the second paragraph of Major-General Elles' letter, and, as far as it is possible to judge at present, these objects have been fully accomplished; the submission of the offending tribes has been more complete than on any former occasion; they have assented to the construction of roads and dominating posts upon the frontier and to the permanent expatriation of their chief, Hashim Ali, who for years has been the moving spirit in all border outrages; and a small force remains in their country to observe the fulfilment of their pledges

3. The Commander-in-Chief considers that great credit is due to Major-General Elles for the careful and thorough manner in which he has carried out the orders of the Government of India, and His Excellency commends this distinguished officer to the favorable notice of the Government; also the officers mentioned by him as well as those included in his supplementary list of officers brought to notice by Brigadier-Generals Williamson and Hammond and heads of departments.

In endorsing these selections, His Excellency has much pleasure in bringing to notice the good discipline of the troops and their soldierlike conduct in the presence of the enemy in the affairs of the 23rd, 25th, and 26th of March at Diliári, Darbandrái, and Sarmal Ferry, and more particularly in the gallant defence of Gházikot by the Dogra company of the 4th Sikh Infantry against a fanatical night attack on the 19th March.

4. The health of both fighting men and followers throughout the expedition was phenomenal, the average daily sick having been less than one per cent. of the force.

No. 305-H, dated Murree, 22nd June 1891.

From—MAJOR-GENERAL W. K. ELLES, C.B., late commanding the Hazara Field Force,

To—The Adjutant-General in India.

I have the honor to submit, for the information of the Commander-in-Chief in India, the following report of the operations of the Hazára Field Force, 1891.

2. The objects of the expedition were defined as follows:

First, to carry out the purpose for which the movement of troops was made last October,—namely, to assert our right to move along the crest of the Black Mountain without molestation; and next, and more particularly, to inflict punishment on the tribes concerned for the hostility practised on that occasion. The occupation of the country to be entered will be prolonged until the tribes concerned have made complete submission, and have carried out whatever conditions may be imposed upon them.

The whole of the Hasanzái and Akazái clans are held to be responsible for the hostility displayed towards the force.

It was directed that "to accomplish the above object the force will advance from Darband into the enemy's country in two columns,—one moving viá Baradar and Pailam to Tilli, and the other along the river route viá Kotkái and Kunhar. Further movements are left to the General Officer Commanding."

It was, however, subsequently directed, during the progress of the advance, that operations were not to be extended beyond the Hasanzái and Akazái country without the sanction of Government.

3. The concentration of the force was at first ordered to take place by the 1st March, but owing to bad weather the despatch of the expedition was postponed to the 10th March. The River and Tilli Columns, afterwards designated the 1st and 2nd Brigades, were commanded respectively by Brigadier-Generals R. F. Williamson and A. G. Hammond, V.C., D.S.O. The weather remained very unsettled, but both columns were able to move from Darband with reduced field service scale of equipment and without tents on the 12th March. The roads on both routes had been previously opened out as far as the British frontier. Beyond the frontier little or no trace of the roads constructed in 1888 could be found. The river route presented no difficulties as far as Kotkái, which was occupied without opposition on the 12th, the 1st Brigade bivouacking on the Towára plain. The 2nd Brigade reached Pailam on the frontier on the same day.

4. To give effect to the objects mentioned in paragraph 2, I proposed, after the occupation of Kunhár and Tilli as directed, to push forward both columns,—the 1st Brigade to occupy the Lower Hasanzái country on both banks and the Diliári peninsula of the Akazái country, and the 2nd Brigade to pass through the middle levels of the mountain by Ril and Kungar and occupy the Khan Khel country. Thereafter the two brigades to work up and down on the north of the Shal Nala through the Akazái country till they met. On a junction being effected, the occupation of the whole country of the two tribes would be completed. As regards punishment, the Hasanzáis who had submitted were, in the event of their return to their villages, to be mulcted in one-fourth of their standing crops. In other cases the troops would subsist on the country, as far as their requirements could be met, until submission took place.

5. The rain continued to fall, and from Brigadier-General Hammond's reports it soon became apparent that, owing to the unusual lateness of the season, some modification of this plan was necessary. The crops in the middle levels were scarcely above ground, and forage had to be brought up from below, even to the comparatively low level of Tilli. The continued wet rendered the clay soil almost impassable, and convoys were with difficulty brought to the front. Transport could not be subsisted in the Khan Khel country for at least a month to come. It was accordingly arranged that the 1st Brigade should occupy the plain of Palosi and the Diliári peninsula, where fodder was abundant, while Brigadier-General Hammond, after making a flying expedition to Seri, was to withdraw his brigade from the higher levels, and leaving posts at Ril, Tilli, Kunarái, and Makranái, and turning the obstacle of the Shal Nala at its mouth, proceed to extend the line of the 1st Brigade upwards through the Akazái country. As forage became available on the higher levels, the troops would be moved up until the Khan Khel country was reached.

6. This plan was carried out. The upper line of communication from Darband through Pailam was abandoned, and all supplies were brought through Kotkái, where an advance depôt was established. Brigadier-General Williamson proceeded to occupy Kunhár and the Palosi plain. The boat-bridge was established at Kotkái on the 16th March and reconnaissances were pushed out on both banks of the river. The bridge-head post and the defence of the advanced depôt and communications at Kotkái was entrusted to Colonel Rivaz and the 37th (Dogra) Bengal Infantry. His dispositions were very satisfactory.

Up to the 19th March but little opposition was met with. A few shots had been fired from the right bank on the boats coming up to Towára, but a company of the Corps of Guides cleared the ground. On the morning of the 13th March the picquets of the same regiment under Lieutenant Rich, taking up fresh ground, found the village of Nadrái occupied. Fire being opened on them, the village was rushed with some loss to the enemy.

On the morning of the 19th March a most determined attack was made on the village of Gházikot, our advanced post on the left bank, held by a company (Dogras) of the 4th Sikh Infantry. The attacking force consisted principally of Hindústani fanatics, numbering over 100, assisted by tribesmen. Under cover of the darkness, the Hindústanis collected in front of the village among rocks, and charged sword in hand. They passed by an advanced picquet undeterred by its fire, and the picquet retired in good order by order of Subadar Dheru, who commanded the main body of the company holding the village. The defenders, being outnumbered, were forced back through the village, disputing every wall and street until the last house, the masjid, was reached. Here a stand was made until the arrival of the first reinforcement from Kunhár under Lieutenant Maconchy, 4th Sikh Infantry. The whole company behaved with the greatest gallantry. Subadar Dheru, Havildar Wazíru, Naik Ganesha Singh, and Lance-Naik Alam Khan have been rewarded with the Order of Merit. Jemadar Darshanu fought bravely until his sword broke and he was cut down. I now beg to bring to the notice of His Excellency the good service of Lieutenant Maconchy, who arrived on the scene at a critical moment, and was himself wounded. Colonel Sir B. P. Bromhead, Bart., 32nd Bengal Infantry (Pioneers), came up shortly after with further reinforcements of his regiment. The enemy left 25 bodies on the field, and their loss amounted to at least 50. The casualties among the defenders were—4th Sikhs, 4 killed, 18 wounded; 32nd Pioneers, 3 wounded.

7. On the 19th March the village of Kunhár, held and covered by picquets of the 4th Sikh Infantry and 32nd Pioneers, was attacked during the whole night from the hill above. The enemy at one time succeeded in entering the upper portion of the village, but were cleared out, and retired firing to the crest of the hills, which they occupied till daylight. Three of the 32nd Pioneers were wounded, and one follower killed and one wounded.

8. On the occupation of the Palosi plain on the 21st March, the move having been delayed by bad weather, it became apparent that the possession of the Diliári peninsula would be disputed. This ridge fills a loop in the Indus, and forms a barrier between the Palosi plain on the south and the Kanách plain in Chagarzái territory on the north. The village of Bakrái and the heights of Diliári were seen to be occupied, and were shelled. On the 22nd March boats were brought up from Kotkái through some bad rapids, and on the morning of the 23rd a flying bridge was established at Bakrái, at the mouth of the Shal Nala. The operation was covered by the 4th Sikh Infantry under the command of Lieutenant-Colonel Gaselee.

9. The Diliári hill rises rapidly from Bakrái to a height of about 2,000 feet. During the morning the village of Diliári was visited by Lieutenant-Colonel Gaselee, who selected positions for the picquets lower down. About 3 P.M. the enemy began to collect about the picquets, and opened a desultory fire. Lieutenant R. Harman was in command of the picquets, consisting of two companies of the 4th Sikh Infantry (one Sikh and one Pathan), and, finding the enemy increasing, he decided to drive them off. This he did with great dash, ably assisted by Lieutenant F. H. Taylor (3rd Sikh Infantry,—attached to the 4th Sikh Infantry), upon whom the command devolved when Lieutenant Harman was wounded by a sword-cut. Towards evening the enemy became more pressing, and began to collect in large numbers. Lieutenant-Colonel Gaselee had himself assumed command at the front, and a wing of the Guides Infantry, under Lieutenants G. M. MacHutchin and H. W. Codrington, arrived as a reinforcement, despatched by Brigadier-General Williamson. Finding the enemy still increasing, Lieutenant-Colonel Gaselee decided to attack the heights and occupy the village of Diliári. This was effected with complete success, the enemy being entirely cleared from the field. It should be mentioned that the action being witnessed from Palosi, a well directed fire was opened on the heights just before the final advance by Lieutenant Colonel Morgan's guns under the orders of Brigadier-General Williamson. As the fire ceased, the 4th Sikh Infantry were seen in the dusk ascending the terraces and crowning the hill on which the village is situated. The enemy, whose loss was about 30 killed and wounded, asked permission to reclaim and bury their dead. The 4th Sikh Infantry had 5 wounded. Lieutenant-Colonel Gaselee mentioned with special commendation Lieutenant Harman, 4th Sikh Infantry, Lieutenant Taylor, 3rd Sikh Infantry, and Lieutenant Codrington, Queen's Own Corps of Guides; also Subadar Lehna Singh and Jemadar Mír Hasan, 4th Sikh Infantry. He further brings to notice the conduct of Naik Abdul Ahmad, 4th Sikh Infantry, who displayed great personal gallantry in leading on his section, when he engaged in single combat with two fanatics, of whom he killed one, but was wounded by the second. Brigadier-General Williamson, in reporting the action, states:—"The affair reflects the highest credit on the soldierly ability displayed by Lieutenant-Colonel Gaselee." I beg to support this commendation, and to bring this able officer, as well as the fine regiment he commands, to the notice of the Commander-in-Chief.

10. In the meantime, Brigadier-General Hammond had been continuing his advance, but, owing to the rain and the badness of the track, was able to reach Tilli with a portion only of his brigade on the 13th March. During the following days the men suffered much from exposure to weather and difficulty in cooking, but work on the roads was proceeded with cheerfully, and the Brigadier-General speaks with special approval of the exertions of Lieutenants Badcock and Anderson in bringing in a large convoy when he thought the work was almost impossible. On the 21st March he was able to start for Ril, en route for Seri, with 700 men from the 1st Battalion Royal Welsh Fusiliers, 2-5th Gurkha Regiment, 32nd Pioneers, and Khaibar Rifles,—carrying four days' cooked rations, blankets being carried by coolies. No mules could be taken, as the track had been destroyed in several places. A few shots were fired from Abu, which was ascended and held by the 2-5th Gurkha Regiment under Lieutenant-Colonel Molloy and the Khaibar Rifles. The remainder of the column bivouacked at Ril. During the night a violent storm occurred, and Lieutenant-Colonel Muhammad Aslam Khan, C.I.E., was severely injured by the falling of a hut. He was obliged to return to Darband, and afterwards to Peshawar, and the force was deprived of his valuable services, much to the regret of Brigadier-General Hammond and myself. On the 22nd Seri was occupied without opposition, and on the 23rd the place was blown up and destroyed, and the column marched back to Tilli, posts being left at Ril and Makranái. On the 24th the 2nd Brigade moved by Kotkai to Palosi and Bakrái. On the morning of the 25th Brigadier-General Hammond crossed the river by the flying bridge and ascended the Shal Nala to occupy Darbanái.

11. The track up the nala was a most difficult one. The movement was covered by Lieutenant-Colonel Gaselee, who advanced along the ridge with a wing of the 4th Sikh Infantry, three guns of the Derajat Battery, and the Khaibar Rifles (under Lieutenant Barton, Corps of Guides). On the 2nd Brigade leaving the nala, about half a mile from Darbanái, the enemy opened fire from the village and the spur above. Brigadier-General Hammond disposed his force as follows:—The Khaibar Rifles to ascend the hill on the right, the Gurkhas to the left, and the Royal Welsh Fusiliers and the 11th Bengal Infantry to advance direct. The enemy left the village before it was reached, and retired down the slope of the hill towards Lower Sarmal, the Royal Welsh Fusiliers following closely. Second-Lieutenant Doughty of that regiment was here severely wounded in the knee. One sepoy of the Khaibar Rifles was also wounded. The enemy's loss was about 40. The village of Darbanái stands on a small plateau, about 1,000 feet above the Indus, and commands the Lower Chagarzái country and a long stretch of river, including the ferry at Sarmal. No. 9 Mountain Battery made good practice on the retreating enemy. The operations of the 2nd Brigade between the 21st and 26th of March exhibit much hard work and endurance in the troops, as well as skilful leading on the part of the Commander, and I submit Brigadier-General Hammond's dispositions as worthy of the favorable notice of His Excellency.

12. On the 26th March a force was seen collecting at Lower Sarmal, and on the 27th Brigadier-General Hammond moved out to attack them, covered by the fire of Major Bowles's battery. The Khaibar Rifles ascended the hill to the right, the 2-5th Gurkhas made a closer flank movement to the right, and the Royal Welsh Fusiliers, with the 11th Bengal Infantry in reserve, had to cross a nala and ascend to Sarmal, in and about which 400 or 500 of the enemy were collected. The Gurkhas reached the spur first, and dislodged the enemy under a very heavy fire from both Gurkhas and Fusiliers, who came up at once. The Khaibar Rifles and a company of Gurkhas had met and dislodged an equally large body of the enemy. The enemy lost severely,—not less than 120 or 130,—while on our side the casualties amounted only to 3 wounded. Brigadier-General Hammond speaks very highly of the conduct of the troops engaged, and observed "that no troops could have behaved more steadily or shown more eagerness to get to close quarters than the Royal Welsh Fusiliers and the 2-5th Gurkhas under Lieutenant-Colonels Norman and Molloy."

13. Up to this point it appeared that the active opposition offered to the expedition emanated from (1) the Hindustani fanatics; (2) the Chagarzai tribe and their foreign allies from the north; and (3) that portion of the Khan Khel who had followed Hashim Ali Khan. The Hasanzáis as a tribe had unconditionally submitted, and abstained from hostilities throughout. The Akazáis had not submitted, but as a tribe had not appeared in arms. The Mada Khel, who were only indirectly concerned in the expedition as owing allegiance to Hashim Ali Khan, kept quiet and offered no opposition. But from the 22nd March it had become apparent that there was a movement of trans-Indus tribes to the Buner frontier under the direction of Miyán Gúl, the Akhúndzáda of Swát. The gathering was visible at and about Báio, a village on the watershed between Chamla and the Indus Valley, and had been gradually increasing in numbers. In view of this movement, troops were moved up from Nowshera to Mardán in the Peshwar Valley, but it was the desire of Government that collision with the trans-Indus tribes should be avoided. The attitude of the gathering seemed to indicate that the intention of its leaders was to watch the Buner frontier, with which country there was no intention to interfere. Negotiations were entered into with Miyán Gúl under the orders of superior authority, partly through me and partly through Peshawar, with the result that the Akhúndzáda disclaimed any intention of making war against Government, and withdrew his following. The duty of showing a front to Miyán Gúl's gathering fell to the Seaforth Highlanders and the Corps of Guides, and I cannot speak too highly of the admirable discipline of these two fine regiments, and of the judgment displayed by Brigadier-General Williamson in directing their movements. Simultaneously with the retirement of Miyán Gúl, the gatherings of armed men in the Chagarzái territory dispersed, and by the 6th April there were no hostile bodies to be seen. On the 4th April a reconnaissance was made along the right bank of the Indus round the Diliari peninsula by Brigadier-General Williamson with portions of the Seaforth Highlanders and the Corps of Guides as far as the Chagarzái border. No opposition was met with. A few parties of the enemy were moving to the north, and were dispersed by shell fire from the Diliári heights. The route lay between the river and the precipitous slopes of the Duma range, and was found to be quite impracticable for animals. The march occupied the whole day, and was a trying one owing to the heat.

14. As soon as the movement in Buner had been ascertained, the Reserve Brigade at Rawal Pindi was mobilised, and by the 31st March the additional troops as per margin had been concentrated at Darband. On the 7th April the corps marked * were withdrawn, and marched for Kohát.

3 guns of No. 1 Mountain Battery, Royal Artillery.
* 3 guns of No. 2 (Derajat) Mountain Battery (from Oghi).
* 1st Battalion, King's Royal Rifles.
* 19th Bengal Infantry.
* 27th Bengal Infantry.

15. The two brigades had on the 25th March acquired the positions referred to in paragraph 5, and, having regard to the orders noted in paragraph 2, further instructions with respect to the attitude of the Chagarzái tribe had been solicited on the 27th March. On the 6th April orders were received to move the whole force to the left bank with the least possible delay, and proceed with the occupation of the Hasanzái and Akazái territory. The further movements of the force were accordingly directed with this view. The roads on the left bank had been pushed on, enabling the transfer of the force to be effected simultaneously in two columns,—one viá Bakrái and the flying bridge to Ril, and the other viá the bridge at Kotkái to Tilli. The movement was carried out on the 8th April. Before this date the road connecting Kunhár with Bakrái along the precipitous slopes of the left bank, a very difficult section across the mouth of the Khappa Nala, had been completed. The 15th April had been fixed as the latest date up to which it would be safe to retain the bridges in position. The river had already risen considerably, and a flood might be expected at any time. There was, however, no further occasion for them, as the trans-Indus Hasanzáis were re-occupying their villages. The bridges were accordingly broken up on the date named, and the boats returned to India. Brigadier-General Hammond remained in occupation of the Lower Akazái country extending from the Diliári peninsula to Darbanái. The Bimbal plain was kept clear of the Akazáis (who endeavoured to cut their crops) by the 11th Bengal Infantry under Lieutenant-Colonel Stead, D.S.O. This work in May was hot and trying.

16. General Williamson proceeded to occupy the Khan Khel country, and his head-quarters were established at Seri on the 12th April. Forage at this elevation (6,000 feet) was still backward, but supplies were drawn from the lower level of Maira in the Shal Nala. A road connecting the two brigades through Maira was taken in hand, and opened on the 17th April. A road into the Upper Akazái country was completed on the 22nd April, on which date the two Kans were occupied by the 37th Bengal Infantry. Before the end of April the whole of the Upper Akazái and Khan Khel territory had been either occupied or frequently explored by parties of the Seaforth Highlanders and the Corps of Guides, and later by the 37th Bengal Infantry. Snow still lay thickly at elevations above 8,000 feet. The country was found deserted, but a few raiders hung about the heights and ravines, approaching the camps at night, and occasionally firing shots. On one occasion, watching an opportunity, a small party waylaid an insufficiently protected foraging convoy in a rocky glen near Kan, and killed one sepoy of the 37th. Colonel Rivaz had previously laid a trap for and succeeded in killing a raider, who proved to be the son of an influential adherent of Hashim Ali Khan.

17. By the middle of April the heat in the Indus Valley had become oppressive. Arrangements were accordingly made to transfer the base to Oghi, and Darband was evacuated on the 24th of April. Communication was then established across the Pabal Gali Pass, and through Tilli and Ril. Pabal Gali had been occupied, as soon as the state of the snow permitted, by a detachment of the 28th Bengal Infantry from Oghi. The new route proved unsatisfactory owing to its length and the difficulty of the sections of road passing under and around the cliffs of Abu. Accordingly, as soon as the snow cleared, a shorter and much more convenient line was opened through Panji Gali. This route was made practicable by the 1st May, and opened for regular traffic on the 7th, and the distance between Oghi and Seri was reduced from 30 to 17 miles. As this is in every respect the best line of route across the mountain from Oghi to Seri, considerable labour has been expended on the road. It is probable that in ordinary winters it could be kept clear of snow by working parties. Káim Gali remained deep in snow until May, but was occupied in April by a post of the Corps of Guides, and communication was established by this route across the mountain for the use of the mails.

18. After opening up the upper portion of the Shal glen, it remained only for the force to occupy its position until the Akazáis submitted as a tribe. Representatives of the several sections made offers of surrender from time to time, but unconditional submission of the whole tribe could alone be accepted. Internal jealousies and dissensions, and the influence of Hashim Ali Khan, for a time prevented them from agreeing, but eventually their full jirga attended, and gave in the unconditional submission of the tribe. The Hasanzáis had been allowed to return to their villages from the first, and had gradually taken advantage of that permission. The Akazáis were now allowed to do the same. The united jirgas of the two tribes were assembled on the 28th May, and subscribed to the full terms imposed by Government. The Mada Khel jirga attended a few days later, and subscribed to those clauses of the agreement which concerned them. A full jirga of the Parári Saiyads also came in, and signed an agreement to the terms applicable to them.

19. The objects of the expedition having now been accomplished, the force was reduced to the detail named in the margin, half being located on the crest and in British territory, and the other half at Seri on Hashim Ali Khan's land.

The jirgas were informed that the occupation of their country was not intended to be permanent, and would continue only until Hashim Ali Khan surrendered, or until Government was satisfied that the tribes were sufficiently strong to themselves give effect to the terms of their agreement. Under instructions from head-quarters, Brigadier-General Hammond took over command of the reduced force from me on the 17th instant.

20. The conduct of the troops throughout the expedition has been admirable. All ranks have borne with equal cheerfulness exposure to wet, cold, and heat, and have worked with a will in any service they were called upon to perform. Their discipline has been exemplary. In action with the enemy they have shown themselves worthy of the traditions of the British and Native armies. There was little sickness to speak of in the force either among British or Native troops or among followers. I believe I am within the mark in stating that at no time did the sick state much exceed one per cent. of the force in the field. Major E. R. Evans, Royal Welsh Fusiliers, died from pneumonia, and was much regretted. He was unremitting in his attention to the welfare of his men, and never spared himself.

21. A return of casualties during the above operations is attached.

22. In addition to the names specially distinguished in paragraph 9, I would now beg to bring to the notice of His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief the officers who, in my opinion, are most deserving of mention :—

Brigadier-Generals R. F. Williamson and A. G. Hammond have afforded me the most loyal support throughout. I have already referred to their services in describing the operations of their brigades, and I now commend them both to His Excellency as thoroughly trustworthy Commanders. To the unceasing care and direction of Brigadier-General Williamson, a thoroughly practical soldier, I attribute in great measure the remarkable immunity from sickness and disease in that part of the force which came most under my personal observation. Brigadier-General Hammond in his detached operations exhibited an energy and resource worthy of all praise.

Lieutenant-Colonel J. Keith, commanding the Royal Artillery, is an officer well experienced in mountain artillery in the field, and was specially fitted for his appointment. The service of the guns was most efficient on all occasions.

The engineering operations were most admirably conducted under the superintendence of Major W. L. Greenstreet, Commanding Royal Engineer. This officer worked most indefatigably, never sparing himself, and displayed both energy and ability. The pontoon section of the Bengal Sappers and Miners was commanded by Major P. T. Buston, Royal Engineers, and it was entirely due to this officer's indomitable energy and perseverance that the standing and flying bridges were established exactly when required. It was no light task to bring up the heavy boats from Attock through shallows and over rapids, dangerous in many places, with very little loss of material and no loss of life, and his successful accomplishment of the task is worthy of all praise. The movements and communications of the force were entirely dependent on its constructive capacity in road-making. No. 4 Company, Bengal Sappers and Miners, did excellent service under Captain F. J. Aylmer, Royal Engineers, and Major Greenstreet speaks highly of him. He also acknowledges the cordial co-operation of the 32nd Bengal Infantry (Pioneers). The wings worked separately under Colonel Sir B. P. Bromhead, Bart., C.B., and Captain W. H. Jameson, and both did most valuable work. The Coolie Corps under Lieutenant H. C. I. Birdwood, Royal Engineers, was also of the greatest use.

The Medical Department was very efficiently supervised by Deputy-Surgeon-General A. F. Bradshaw, Medical Staff, whose excellent sanitary advice was most valuable. His arrangements in regard to the dispositions of the field hospitals and the transport of the sick and wounded were also extremely good and judicious. The department throughout was most efficient.

Under the able direction of Captain H. F. Lyons-Montgomery, Chief Commissariat Officer, everything connected with the Commissariat Department was entirely satisfactory. In this department forethought and pre-arrangement are specially required. Captain Lyons-Montgomery never failed in this respect, and I had every confidence in his calculations and assurances as to supplies. The transport was supervised by Lieutenant J. W. G. Tulloch, a most valuable officer, far beyond his years in knowledge and experience, and possessed of high administrative ability. I would also beg to express my acknowledgments of Lieutenant-Colonel R. Patch, Commissary-General, Western Circle, for the readiness with which all demands on him were met.

In connection with the transport, I have to acknowledge the services of First-Class Veterinary-Surgeon W. R. Hagger and his assistants. The veterinary arrangements of the force, including the lines of communication in India, were so well conducted that there was no epidemic sickness of any sort.

The postal arrangements were complete in every respect, and to Mr. W. T. Van Somerset's care and attention in noting the changes in the disposition of troops the force is much indebted for the prompt delivery of their correspondence.

The telegraph service was conducted with the greatest efficiency by Mr. R. C. Barker, C.I.E., and a very capable staff. Mr. Barker is an officer of marked ability and energy, and he succeeded in inspiring the whole department with his own good qualities. The organisation of the field telegraph now leaves little, if anything, to be desired. The incorporation of the military telegraphs with the Telegraph Department of India has been shown to work successfully in the field both as regards matériel and personnel. The rapidity with which lines were laid down behind advancing columns, over very difficult ground, and taken up when no longer required augurs well for the successful construction of field lines in more ordinary conditions of warfare. I beg to bring Mr. Barker and his staff most prominently to notice.

The force was fortunate in having the services of Captain E. O. F. Hamilton, Royal West Surrey Regiment, Inspector of Army Signalling, whose experience was invaluable. All branches of this service worked most efficiently, and Captain Hamilton succeeded in bringing his stations into complete correspondence with the field telegraphs.

Major E. Balfe's duties as Provost-Marshal were light in respect to the administration of discipline. In the matter of sanitation they were more arduous. I am indebted to him for acting as my Judge Advocate and legal adviser.

Captain R. A. Wahab, Royal Engineers, was able to make a finished survey on a large scale of a considerable tract of country hitherto imperfectly delineated. He is an accomplished military surveyor.

Captain W. H. Young's arrangements in charge of the treasure chest were all that could be desired.

To Mr. A. F. D. Cunningham, C.I.E., C.S., I am much indebted for his able assistance as Chief Political Officer attached to the force. His intimate knowledge of Hazara and the frontier tribes, which he was always ready to impart, was of the greatest value, and his linguistic attainments enabled him to conduct negotiations and business generally with the tribesmen with ease and precision. I beg that His Excellency will bring his services to the favorable notice of the Government of India.

I desire to record my appreciation of the services of the officers of my immediate and personal staff.

Colonel G. R. J. Shakespear, Assistant Adjutant-General, has throughout given me the most loyal and unremitting assistance. He is possessed of sound judgment, and is a thoroughly trustworthy staff officer.

Captain F. C. Carter, Northumberland Fusiliers, Deputy Assistant Adjutant-General, was also a most valuable assistant. He is quick and ready, and never wanting in resource.

Both these officers were employed in the preliminary work of organising and despatching the force, and I am greatly indebted to them for their exertions during many months.

Captain A. H. Mason, Royal Engineers, was of great assistance as Deputy-Assistant Quartermaster-General for Intelligence in procuring information, and his previous knowledge of the country was most valuable. I would here refer to Captain (now Major) Leslie Rogers, a commanding officer of Volunteers, who was deputed by His Excellency for employment with the force. He was attached to Captain Mason, and showed great zeal in acquiring information as to the working of troops in the field. The advantage to the Volunteer Force in the widening of the experience of its officers cannot but be productive of the best results, and I beg to recommend the extension on future occasions of the privilege here accorded to one of their number.

Captain A. E. Sandbach, Royal Engineers, Aide-de-Camp, and Lieutenants H. W. Wilberforce, 2nd Dragoon Guards, and His Highness Prince Christian Victor of Schleswig-Holstein, G.C.B., King's Royal Rifles, orderly officers, rendered me much ready help. Captain Sandbach has already seen considerable and varied service in the field, and was specially useful. Lieutenant Wilberforce is a most promising officer in every way. Prince Christian Victor of Schleswig-Holstein was most zealous in the performance of all duties that fell to him, and takes great interest in his profession. On his battalion being ordered for service in the field elsewhere, he requested and obtained permission to rejoin it.

23. A supplementary selected list of officers brought to notice by Brigadier-Generals and heads of departments is attached.

24. Before concluding I beg to acknowledge the obligations of the force to the Nawáb of Amb. He rendered much valuable service in furnishing boats and supplies as well as guides. He accompanied the force during active operations, and was always ready to meet demands on his resources.

(2) The Order shall recite or embody the terms of the Convention, and may be varied or revoked by Order in Council, but shall not continue in force for any longer period than the Convention.

(3) Every Order in Council under this Act shall be laid before both Houses of Parliament forthwith after it is made, or, if Parliament be not then sitting, after the then next meeting of Parliament, and shall also be notified in the London Gazette, and published under the authority of Her Majesty's Stationery Office.

Conveyance of letters by crew or passengers of mail ships forbidden.

2. (1) Where this section applies to a Convention with a Foreign State, the master of a British mail ship to which this section applies when carrying mails to or from any port of the Foreign State, and the master of a mail ship of the Foreign State to which this section applies when carrying mails to or from any port of the United Kingdom, shall not, nor shall any person on board the ship, whether a passenger or belonging to the ship or any other person, convey in the ship for delivery to another person in the Foreign State or United Kingdom, as the case may be, any letter, other than the letters contained in mail bags entrusted to the master by a postal officer of the United Kingdom or of any Foreign State, or than the despatches sent by the Government either of the United Kingdom or of any Foreign State.

(2) If a person on board such ship acts in contravention of this section, or refuses or fails on demand to give up to a postal officer, or, if such person is not the master, to the master, any letter so conveyed by him, he shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding five pounds.

(3) It shall be the duty of the master of the ship to secure the observance of this section by all persons on board the ship, and to inform the proper authorities at the port at which the ship arrives of any breach of this section by any of those persons, and if he wilfully fails to perform that duty, he shall be liable to a fine not exceeding five pounds.

(4) Provided that a person shall not be liable under this section to a fine for any offence for which he has been punished by the law of the Foreign State.

(5) Nothing in this section shall apply to any letters which, if sent from the United Kingdom, would be exempted from the exclusive privilege of the Postmaster-General under the Act of the session of the seventh year of King William the Fourth and the first of Her present Majesty, chapter thirty-three, intituled "An Act for the management of the Post Office." 7 Will. 4 & 1 Vict., c. 33.

Regulation as to giving of security for ships engaged in postal service.

3. (1) Where the owner of any ships, British or foreign, applies to the High Court in England, and

(a) produces a certificate of a Secretary of State that such owner is subsidised for the execution of any postal service within the meaning of a Convention with a Foreign State to which this Act applies by reason of receiving from the Foreign State or from the Government of the United Kingdom or of a British Possession a bonâ fide subsidy for the postal service mentioned in the certificate, and

(b) produces sufficient evidence of the nature of the said service and the number of, and the prescribed particulars respecting, the ships engaged therein, and

(c) gives notice of the application to the Board of Trade, the High Court, after hearing the owner, and the Board of Trade if they wish to be heard, shall fix the nature and amount of the security which the owner ought to place under the control of the court for the purposes of this Act as respects the ships engaged in that postal service, and fix the maximum number and tonnage of the ships to which the security is to apply.

(2) The security shall be the bond of the owner guaranteed either—

(a) by the personal security of a surety, accompanied by an adequate real security given by the surety; or

(b) by the payment or transfer into court of cash or of securities of the Government of the United Kingdom.

(3) If the owner gives such security to the satisfaction of the High Court, then so long as the security is maintained and is sufficient to the satisfaction of the Court, and the number and tonnage of the ships for the time being actually engaged in carrying mails for the postal service in respect of which the security is given does not exceed the number and tonnage of the ships to which the security applies, the ships actually engaged in carrying mails for the said service shall be deemed to be exempted mail ships, and be entitled to the exemptions and privileges given by this Act to exempted mail ships; and the Board of Trade shall give the prescribed notices for informing the arresting authorities that the ships actually engaged in carrying the mails for the said postal service are exempted mail ships.

(4) Notice of every application respecting any security given in pursuance of this section shall be given to the Board of Trade.

(5) If at any time it appears to the Board of Trade that a security given as respects ships engaged in any postal service is from any cause (whether pending claims, variation of the conditions of the service, or otherwise) insufficient, the Board of Trade shall apply to the High Court, and that Court, if satisfied of such insufficiency, shall require the security to be made sufficient to the satisfaction of the Court within a reasonable time, and direct that in default the ships engaged in the postal service shall cease to be exempted mail ships, and that the Board of Trade shall give the prescribed notices for informing the arresting authorities of such cesser.

(6) The amount and nature of the security may be varied and the whole security may be withdrawn, and the income of the security may be disposed of by order of the High Court from time to time on such application either of the shipowners or of the Board of Trade, or of any person appearing to be interested, and in such manner and after such notice, and upon such terms and conditions as may be prescribed by rules of court, or, so far as the rules do not extend, as the Court may think just.

(7) Provided that before the security is actually withdrawn, the High Court shall be satisfied—

(a) that the prescribed notice of the order for withdrawal has been given to the arresting authorities; and

(b) that there is no pending claim for the purposes of which the security may be required; and upon the prescribed notice of the order for withdrawal being given to an arresting authority, the ships shall, as respects that authority, cease, after the date specified in the notice, to be exempted ships.

(8) Rules of court may be made for carrying this section into effect, and in particular for regulating the nature, amount and value of the security to be given, and the mode of giving security, and of giving notices to the arresting authorities, and for providing for the evidence of the exemption of ships under this section, and for the information to be given from time to time to the High Court respecting the ships to which the security applies, and for the jurisdiction of the High Court under this Act being exercised in chambers.

Arrest and execution of process on board exempted mail ships.

4. (1) Where this section applies to a convention with a Foreign State, and an exempted mail ship to which this section applies is in a port in the United Kingdom, no person shall be arrested without warrant on board such ship, and before any process, civil or criminal, authorising the arrest of any person who is on board such ship is executed against that person, the following provisions of this section shall be observed; that is to say,—

(a) written notice of the intention to arrest a person who is, or is suspected to be, on board the ship, stating the hour at which, if necessary, the ship will be searched, shall, if it is a ship of a Foreign State and there is at the port a consulate of that State, be left at the consulate, addressed to the consular officer:

(b) it shall be the duty of the master upon demand, if the said person is on board his ship, to enable the proper officer to arrest him:

(c) if the officer is unable to arrest the said person, he may, but if it is a foreign ship, only after the expiration of such time after notice was left at the consulate as is specified in the Convention search the ship for such person, and if he is found may arrest him.

(2) The ship may be delayed for the purposes of this section for the time specified in the Convention, but not for any longer time.

(3) If the master of a ship refuses to permit a search of the ship in accordance with this section, any officer of customs may detain the ship, and such master shall be liable to a fine of five hundred pounds.

(4) This section shall apply to the arrest of the master in like manner as in the case of any other person.

Exemption from seizure of exempted mail ship.

5. (1) An exempted mail ship to which this section applies shall not, subject as in this Act mentioned, be liable to be arrested or detained by any arresting authority either for the purpose of founding jurisdiction in any Court of Admiralty, or of enforcing the payment of any damages, fine, debt, or other claim or sum, or enforcing any forfeiture, whether arising from the misconduct of the master or any of the crew or otherwise, but every court of the United Kingdom by the process of which the ship could have been under the circumstances arrested or detained shall have the same jurisdiction as if the ship had been so arrested or detained, and any legal proceeding in relation to any such matter as aforesaid may be commenced by such service in the United Kingdom of any writ or process as may be prescribed by rules of court, and the High Court on application shall, in accordance with rules of court, cause the security to be applied in discharge of any such damages, fine, debt, claim, sum or forfeiture.

(2) Provided that nothing in this section shall render invalid the arrest or detention of a ship before the prescribed notice has been given to the arresting authority, but such authority, on proof that the ship is an exempted mail ship, shall release the ship. Where the Commissioners of Customs, in pursuance of any Act or as a condition of waiving any forfeiture, require a deposit to be made by any exempted mail ship to which this section applies, the amount of such deposit shall, on notice from the Commissioners of Customs, and without any further proceeding, be set apart out of the security as money belonging to the said Commissioners, and shall be paid and applied as they direct, and any rules of court relating to such notice, payment or application shall be made with the consent of the Treasury.

Application of Act to public ships.

6. (1) Where the Convention with a Foreign State provides that any provisions of the Convention similar to those contained in this Act shall in any cases apply to a public ship of a Foreign State when employed as a mail ship, it shall be lawful for Her Majesty the Queen to agree that the like provisions shall apply to a public ship of Her Majesty in the like cases when employed as a mail ship, and to give effect to such agreement.

(2) An Order in Council applying this Act as regards a Convention with a Foreign State may, if it seems to Her Majesty in Council to be consistent with the Convention so to do, apply this Act as regards a public ship of that Foreign State when employed as a mail ship in the cases authorised by the Convention, and this Act shall apply accordingly as if such ship were an exempted mail ship belonging to a private owner, and any person may be arrested on board such ship accordingly.

Legal proceedings.

7. (1) Every fine under this Act, if exceeding fifty pounds, may be recovered by action in the High Court in England or Ireland or in the Court of Session in Scotland, and the court in which it is recovered may reduce the amount of such fine, and a fine under this Act not exceeding fifty pounds may be recovered on summary conviction, provided that every offence for which a fine exceeding fifty pounds can be imposed under this Act may be prosecuted on summary conviction, but the fine imposed on such conviction shall not exceed fifty pounds.

(2) In the case of a summary conviction, any person who thinks himself aggrieved by such conviction may appeal to quarter sessions. In Scotland such person may appeal in manner provided by the Summary Prosecutions Appeals (Scotland) Act, 1875.

(3) Service of any summons or other matter in any legal proceeding under this Act shall be good service if made by leaving the summons for the person to be served on board the ship to which he belongs with the person being or appearing to be master of the ship.

(4) If a fine under this Act imposed on the master of a ship is not paid, and cannot be recovered out of any security given in pursuance of this Act, the Court may, in addition to any other power for enforcing payment of the fine, direct the amount to be levied by distress or poinding and sale of the ship, her tackle, furniture or apparel. An officer of customs in detaining a ship or releasing a ship after detention in pursuance of this Act shall act upon such requisition or authority and under such regulations as the Commissioners of Customs may make with the consent of the Treasury.

8. (1) An Order in Council may for the purpose of a Convention with a Foreign State apply this Act, subject to any exceptions or modifications not inconsistent with the provisions of this Act, to any British Possession, and this Act when so applied shall, subject to those exceptions and modifications, and subject as hereinafter mentioned, have effect as if it were re-enacted with the substitution of such British Possession for the United Kingdom;

Provided that before it is applied to any British Possession named in the schedule to this Act, the Government of such Possession shall have adhered to the Convention.

(2) Where this Act applies to a British Possession, it shall not be necessary for the owner of any mail ship to give security in any court in that Possession, and the provisions of this Act with respect to the jurisdiction of any court of the United Kingdom, other than any jurisdiction relating to the application of the security, shall apply as if a court in the British Possession were substituted for a court of the United Kingdom.

(3) It shall be lawful for Her Majesty in Council to make rules for carrying into effect, as respects British Possessions, the provisions of this Act with respect to the security given by mail ships, and in particular with respect to the commencement of a legal proceeding by service of a writ or process in the Possession, and to the notices to be given to arresting authorities in the Possession, and the evidence to be receivable by such authorities of the security having been given or withdrawn, and the application of the security in discharge of any damages, fine, debt, claim, sum or forfeiture, where the same are or is recovered or payable either in the British Possession, or under proceedings pending concurrently in that British Possession and in any other British Possession or the United Kingdom.
