Letter—from G. B. H. FELL, Esq., Deputy Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department (Education).
To—the Secretary to the Government of Madras, Educational Department.
Dated—Simla, the 2nd July 1907.
No.—524.

In continuation of the Home Department letter No. 240, dated the 21st March 1907, I am directed to forward for the information of the Governor in Council a copy of the despatches noted on the margin regarding the reorganization of training schools for primary teachers in the Madras Presidency.

2. With reference to paragraph 6 of the despatch to the Secretary of State of the 7th March 1907 and to paragraph 8 of your letter No. 496, dated the 25th July 1906, I am to express the hope that the necessity for the improvement of the institutions for training teachers to take charge of upper primary schools may receive early attention. The Government of India would in particular urge upon the Governor in Council the importance of extending the period of training from one to two years.

ENCLOSURES.

Despatch—from the Government of India, Finance Department (Salaries, Establishments, etc.—Education).
To—His Majesty's Secretary of State for India.
Dated—Calcutta, the 7th March 1907.
No.—80.

We have the honour to forward for your consideration proposals submitted by the Government of Madras for the improvement of some of the training schools for primary teachers in the Madras Presidency.

2. There are two grades of such schools in Madras, differentiated according to the educational standard reached by the students before undergoing training, and by the standard of the school of which they are considered qualified, after training, to take charge. Training schools of the higher grade are called lower secondary, and their passed students are qualified to take charge of upper primary schools, that is to say of vernacular schools having four classes above the infants. Those of the lower grade are called primary, and their passed students are qualified to take charge of lower primary schools, that is to say of schools having two classes above the infants. The chief defects of both kinds of training school are that the course is too short, being for one year instead of for two; that the students receive little or no general instruction there, but only attend lectures and practise the art of teaching; that the staff are ill-qualified; and that the practising schools have no staff at all, but are taught entirely by the students under training and by the staff of the training establishment. The training institutions for primary teachers are also insufficient to provide the number of trained teachers required for the primary schools of the presidency.

3. In respect of the training of teachers to take charge of upper primary schools, the training establishments of Madras are in our opinion below the standard which prevails in other provinces, and we are not satisfied that any good reason exists for the continuance of this inferiority. But for the training of teachers for lower primary schools Madras has made more provision than has until recently been made elsewhere.

4. The present proposals relate to the improvement of the training of teachers for lower primary schools, and are—

- (1) that the course shall be lengthened to two years;
- (2) that it shall include the improvement of the general education of the students, as well as their training in the art of teaching; and
- (3) that teachers shall be provided for the practising schools.

No provision is made for the increase in the number of teachers to be trained, nor for the improvement of the training of teachers for upper primary schools. As will be seen from the correspondence, we should have preferred a complete scheme for the improvement of the training of teachers for all primary schools, and for an increase in the total number under training. Such a scheme would, in our opinion, have provided institutions of a kind that do not at present exist in Madras, but have been found to succeed elsewhere, in which the students are collected in comparatively large numbers and are taught by well-educated and well-paid teachers in well-equipped buildings. But we have deferred to the urgent request of the Local Government that the present scheme, which they have termed a modest instalment of reform, shall not be delayed pending the approval of other plans for the improvement of training schools, and we therefore submit it for your approval.

5. The cost of appointing teachers for the practising schools, and of reorganizing the staff of the training schools, is estimated at Rs. 29,396 per annum, as shown in the proposition statement accompanying the Local Government's letter No. 185, dated the 27th March 1905. Of this sum, Rs. 276 represents the cost of a few minor changes in the organization of the existing staff of the training schools referred to in paragraphs 5 to 8 of the letter quoted above, and the balance (Rs. 29,120) the expenditure involved in the provision of a cadre of teachers for the 28 practising schools mentioned in paragraph 9 of that letter on the scale detailed in the proposition statements attached thereto. The scheme aims at providing the practising schools, which have hitherto been dependent upon the training school staff for their tuitional work, with a separate staff sufficiently numerous and well paid to convert them into model schools such as will attract suitable pupils and also contemplates the enlargement of the curriculum of the training schools themselves by combining general education with instruction in management, organization and method of teaching. With regard to the rest of the scheme, it will be seen that the Local Government in their letter, dated the 20th December 1906, have computed the cost of lengthening the course of primary students from one to two years at Rs. 43,800, at the existing rate of stipends (viz., Rs. 5 per mensem) which it has been decided to leave unchanged. This calculation is based on the assumption that the total number of primary teachers under training will not exceed 730. As explained in paragraph 4 of the Local Government's letter, dated the 25th July 1906, it is anticipated that a large portion of this item of expenditure will fall permanently upon local funds, and that for some time, at any rate, the remainder, which will be a charge against Provincial revenues, will not be fully worked up to.

6. We propose to address the Local Government again regarding the improvement of the institutions for training teachers to take charge of upper primary schools.

Despatch—from His Majesty's Secretary of State for India.

To—His Excellency the Right Honourable the Governor-General of India in Council.

Dated—India Office, London, the 10th May 1907.

No.—70, Public.

I have considered in Council the letter of Your Excellency's Government, No. 80 (Finance), dated the 7th March last, in which you forwarded for my consideration proposals submitted by the Government of Madras for the improvement of some of the training schools for primary teachers in the Madras Presidency.

2. I accept the view urged upon you by the Local Government that it is undesirable to delay the present instalment of reform, affecting only the training of teachers for lower primary schools, pending the consideration of a more comprehensive scheme.

3. I therefore sanction the present proposals as detailed in the fourth paragraph of your letter.

Order—No. 519, Educational, dated 8th August 1907.

With reference to his letter R.C. No. 5187, dated 3rd August 1904, the Director of Public Instruction will be informed that the Secretary of State has sanctioned the scheme for the reorganization of training schools for masters. The scheme comprises—

(1) the extension of the course of training in the primary training schools from one to two years ;

(2) the remodelling of the course of study in the primary training schools so as to include general studies in addition to training in the art of teaching; and

(3) the provision of a cadre of teachers for the practising schools attached to the training schools.

2. A copy of the proposition statement as now sanctioned will be forwarded to the Director of Public Instruction with the request that the reorganization may be introduced with effect from the 1st of September next. It is understood that the portion of the scheme relating to the extension of the course of training has already been introduced.

from the Government of India, Home Department (Education), No. 521, dated 2nd July 1907.The statements in the despatch to Secretary of State should be carefully verified in submitting the note.

G. S. F[ORRES]—13-7-07.

There are two statements in the despatch to the Secretary of State, which seem to call for remarks :—

(1) In paragraph 2 it is stated that there are two grades of training schools for primary teachers in Madras called lower secondary and primary and that the students who are trained in the primary training schools are qualified to take charge of lower primary schools, that is to say, of schools having two classes above the infants. The statement that the lower primary schools are schools having only two classes above the infants appears to be incorrect as under rule 6 of the Madras Educational Rules, 4th edition, lower primary schools are schools having three classes above the infants. Under the new Educational Rules, there is no classification of schools into "upper primary" and "lower primary."

(2) In paragraph 3, the Government of India state that no institution exists at present in Madras for the training of teachers for upper primary schools. By upper primary schools, the Government of India seem to refer to lower secondary vernacular schools—vide paragraph 7 of Home Department letter No. 509, dated 3rd August 1905. If so, the statement made in the despatch seems to be correct. In this connection attention is invited to paragraph

3 of Dr. Bourne's note, dated 19th June 1906, on pages 4 and 5 of K.W. G.O., Nos. 495-96, Educational, dated 25th July 1906. Dr. Bourne stated—

"We have nothing worth speaking of in the way of lower secondary vernacular schools."

Rule 85 on page 69 of the Madras Educational Rules, 4th edition.

Under the old classification in force prior to 1st April 1906 there were three classes of training schools in Madras—

- (1) Upper secondary.
- (2) Lower secondary.
- (3) Primary.

In upper secondary training schools students who had passed the Matriculation examination, the Upper Secondary examination, the late Higher Examination for Women or other corresponding test were trained and these were eligible for employment as teachers of lower secondary forms. In lower secondary training schools, students who had passed the Lower Secondary examination or had reached a corresponding stage of instruction were trained and these were eligible for employment as teachers of upper primary classes. In the primary training schools, teachers who had passed the primary examination or had reached a corresponding stage of instruction were trained and these were eligible for employment as teachers in lower primary classes.

Under the revised Educational Rules there are only two classes of training schools—secondary and primary. In the former, persons who have passed the Matriculation examination, the Upper Secondary examination, the late higher examination for women or other corresponding test are trained and these are eligible for employment as teachers of lower classes of secondary schools and in elementary schools. In the primary training schools persons who have reached some lower stage of instruction are trained and these are eligible for employment in elementary schools only.

It will thus be seen that at present there are no training schools in this Presidency for training teachers for lower secondary vernacular schools (upper primary schools) and in G.O., No. 437, Educational, dated 9th July 1907, the Director of Public Instruction has been requested to submit proposals for the organization of such schools.

2. In paragraph 2 of their letter the Government of India express the hope that the necessity for the improvement of the institutions for training teachers to take charge of upper primary schools may receive early attention. They lay particular stress on the importance of extending the period of training from one to two years. As noted in the previous paragraph, this matter has already been dealt with by this Government—vide G.O., No. 437, Educational, dated 9th July 1907. A copy of this order has been forwarded to the Government of India.

3. The Director of Public Instruction may be informed that the Secretary of State has sanctioned the scheme for the reorganization of the training schools for masters and he may be requested to arrange to introduce the scheme with effect from the 1st September next. A provision of Rs. 15,000 to meet the cost of the scheme for six months has been made in the current year's budget.

4. The draft placed below is submitted for approval.

T.K.—22-7-07.

Please see the Honourable Member's remarks on pages 4, 8 and 11 of the Budget notes for 1907-1908. From paragraph (vi) (b) of the Financial note on page 13 of the Budget notes, it is observed that the lump provision of Rs. 15,000 made in the current year's budget represents the additional expenditure on account of this scheme for six months. The sooner the scheme is brought into force the better.

K. RANGASWAMI AIYANGAR—23-7-07.

C. A. SOUTER—23-7-07.

India were wrong in their despatch in stating that lower primary schools contained only two classes above the infants. Under the classification in the fourth edition of the Educational Rules (page 3), lower primary schools included three standards above the infants. The distinction has disappeared with the new Educational Rules (fifth edition). There is a general line drawn between secondary and elementary schools, but there is still a distinction in that capitation allowance in elementary schools under public management is allowed for schools with the four lower standards only (rule 83).

2. The draft may issue. No further specific orders are necessary. The matter has already been dealt with in G.O., Nos. 437-38, dated 9th July 1907.

H. D. TAYLOR—24-7-07.

The file better go to Director of Public Instruction so that he may see the full despatch and the above notes and the draft G.O. before we issue formal orders as proposed. I think we should in a letter to India correct the mistakes in their despatch.

G. S. F[ORBES]—25-7-07.

To the Director of Public Instruction.

H. D. TAYLOR—26-7-07.

OFFICE OF THE DIRECTOR OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION.

Noted and returned.

T. T. LOGAN—29-7-07.

EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT.

Orders are solicited whether the draft order may now issue.

2. A draft letter to India pointing out the mistake in their despatch to the Secretary of State is also submitted for approval.

K. RANGASWAMI AIYANGAR—3-8-07.

C. A. SOUTER—5-8-07.

(1) Please put up the notes with G.O., No. 437, Educational, dated 9th July 1907.

(2) Is it true, as stated in the despatch, that no institutions for training of teachers for "higher elementary" schools at present exist?

(3) Do not the lower secondary training schools (13 in number?) provide for this?

H. D. TAYLOR—6-8-07.

(1) A proof copy of the notes connected with G.O., No. 437, Educational, dated 9th July 1907, is put up.

(2) The statement made in paragraph 4 of the Government of India despatch that no institutions for training teachers for higher elementary schools at present exist in Madras is correct. Please see paragraph 3 of Dr. Bourne's note, dated 19th June 1906, on pages 4 and 5 of K.W.G.O., Nos. 495-96, Educational, dated 25th July 1906; also paragraphs 6 and 7 of Mr. Logan's note K.W.G.O., No. 437, Educational, dated 9th July 1907.

(3) The lower secondary training schools train those who have passed the Lower Secondary examination in English or have reached a corresponding stage of instruction for employment as teachers of English upper primary classes.

T.K.—7-8-07.

C.A.S.—7-8-07.

With reference to the Honourable Member's note of 25th July 1907, the Director of Public Instruction has no remarks to offer on the proposed draft G.O. which may now issue.

2. A draft letter to India is also submitted for approval.
