C. No. 2869 From the Registrar, High Court No. 2364, dated 27-11-1907.

SUBJECT.

Permanent exemption of certain clerks in the Bellary District Court from the exam. rules.

The application is for the exemption from the exam. rules of certain persons for appointment as clerks in the and in some of the District Courts in the District. St. Court of Bellary. The reasons adduced by the District Judge are (1) that there is a dearth of men qualified under the examination rules to fill the many permanent clerical appointments in the Civil Courts of the District, (2) that though gazette advertisements inviting applications from passed men had been published on and off since 1903, yet on account of the recurrence of plague for the last 5 or 6 years, candidates from other districts do not offer themselves. (The advertisements are stated to have been published in the St. George Gazette and in the Bellary & Anantapur St. Gazette). (3) that the schools and colleges of the district do not turn out a sufficient number of passed men to fill the vacancies in the various Government departments. (4) that the backward condition of the district necessitates some relaxation of the Public service rules, as has been recognised by Govt. 3. The District Judge of Bellary further states that endeavours have been made not to employ the same unpassed men for such periods

as would require further sanction and that in some cases the High Court has granted further temporary exemptions to men who have been working for years as clerks and as he sees no prospect of replacing them by passed men he recommends their permanent exemption.

24. In these circumstances, orders are submitted
whether the clerks recommended may be permanently exempted from the examination rules.

If the proposal to raise, from Rs 15 to Rs 20,
the minimum salary of the appointments ~~for~~ ~~which~~ general educational tests is carried out,
no examination qualification will be necessary for the posts now under reference.

~~A draft order granting the exemption~~
~~is submitted for approval.~~

It is submitted that the papers

Department for remarks.
