Permanent Exemption of C. Ranganatha Mudali from passing the department test in Police orders & practice.

The Inspector General of Police (Mr. Cowie) recommends C. ^{Rukmangada} Ranganatha Mudali for permanent exemption from passing the Police Departmental Orders and practice, for employment as a shorthand reporter in the office of the Dy Inspector General of Police for Criminal Intelligence and Railways. The candidate for exemption is a permanent Inspector of Police. He was formerly a clerk and has put in a service of 8½ years.

2. Under item (1) ^{heading} of the table on page 6 of the Public Service Notification, all Police Inspectors are required to pass, after appointment, the departmental test above referred to. The Inspector General states that the candidate is qualified, except for the departmental examination, which it does not appear necessary for him to pass. From items (9) & (10) of the table referred to in para. 1, however, it will be seen that the candidate is not required to pass the departmental test for employment in the office of the Dy Inspector General of Police for Criminal Intelligence and Railways.

The work of the man as a reporter will require no special knowledge of Police orders & it is not easy to get well-educated reporters.

There seems to be no reason why the man should not be exempted as long as he is employed as a reporter.

Of course the usual game will be played. Once he is exempted he will after a short interval apply to go back as a Pol. Insp. in the regular line ~~and~~ his exemption for this one purpose will be used.

Now is he a "Permanent Insp. of Police" if he has not passed this depart. test.?

For order. If the condition that the exemption should have effect only as long as the man is employed as a short is laid down & strictly enforced, I do not think there is any danger in this case

I don't think he can be apptd.
as a "permanent Inspector" under the Act referred to unless he is fully qualified to be an Inspector of Police.

The Shorthand Reporter if not so qualified can be only graded as an Inspⁿ for disciplinary purposes while so employed.
