HOME DEPARTMENT;
Calcutta, the 21st January 1909.

My dear Taylor.

In paragraph 6 of the Home Department letter no. 1000, dated the 20th November 1907, the Government of India impressed upon local Governments and Administrations the importance of State technical scholars arriving in England prior to the commencement of the session of the institution at which they proposed to study, and issued certain general instructions with a view to ensuring the arrival of scholars at their destination in due time.

A complaint regarding the late date at which these scholars continued to arrive in England has recently been received through the India Office, and would seem to indicate that, in some instances, delay occurs in the transmission to a candidate of the orders of the Government of India awarding him a scholarship. I am therefore to request that, with the permission of the Governor in Council, the communication of final orders to a successful candidate may, in future, be effected as rapidly as possible, and to suggest that, in order to obviate any delay on the part of a scholar in starting, the local Government should in each case fix the latest date on which he should leave India, and should inform him, at the same time, that if he fails to sail by that date he will be liable to forfeit his scholarship.

I am also to say that, in future, recommendations for scholarships which do not reach the Government of India by the 15th April will not ordinarily be taken into consideration.

Yours sincerely,
H. Altman

It is submitted that the orders of the Government of India awarding the State Technical Scholarship to V. Govindan Nair in 1908, were received on 26th May 1908 and the sanction was communicated to the Director of Public Instruction on the 1st June 1908. In his letter dated 1st July 1908, the Director of Public Instruction stated that Govindan Nair was ready to leave for England on any date after the 15th August 1908, and the usual letter of introduction to the Under Secretary of State for India was furnished to Govindan Nair on 1st July 1908. From the telephonic message placed below it is observed that the scholar was provided with a passage by the steamer which was to have left Bombay on the 22nd August 1908. Under Home Department letter No. 415 dated 20th May 1908, the scholar should have reached England not later than the middle of September.

We seem to have done all right in fixing the date for reporting himself in Govindan's case.
