I have passed the draft with a remark.

I think there are several pieces of apparatus quite beyond the needs of the course, or at any rate more elaborate apparatus has been ordered when simpler types w. do. E.g. take the Heliotat £20 with its accessories. Seele's work is most accurate but expensive & the Heliotat ordered w.

office for ^{use in} required astronomical observations: while a Heliotat costing £50 & £6 w. do. in class demonstration. However as the college is to pay the actual half I am not prepared to cut down estimates

Thept. W.D. Hornum's remark that some of the physical apparatus seem to be of an unnecessarily refined character & consequently more expensive than is needed for class demonstration
