The local boards contributed nothing towards the expense of any of the 431 women under training.

The following reply may be given:-

On the 31st March 1909 431 women were undergoing training in the 19 Training Schools for Mistresses.

In the 5 of these which are managed by the Government the entire expenditure was met from provincial revenues.

The other 14 schools were aided institutions under private management and out of a total cost for the official year 1908-09 of Rs 47651 provincial revenues provided Rs 28120

Local boards did not devote any funds during the year to the training of mistresses.

Of the 431 women under training 53 were caste Hindus (Brahmins 4 and non-Brahmins 49)

~~There~~ in the proposals to add to the number of training institutions for mistresses have been received. The existing institutions afford accommodation for a larger number of students than is at present forthcoming.
