Letter—from M.R.Ry. Rao Bahadur M. RANGACHARIYAR Avargal, M.A., Curator, Government Oriental Manuscripts Library, Madras.

To—the Director of Public Instruction, Madras.

Dated—the 3rd May 1910.

No.—105.

I have the honour to submit the following report on the working of the Government Oriental Manuscripts Library for the year 1909–1910.

2. Staff.—The Assistant Librarian K. Venkateswara Sastri had suddenly to take privilege leave for a month from the 25th of August to perform the various ceremonies connected with the death of his father who was living in Palghat. During this period D. S. Sadagopachari, the other pandit in the library, acted for him. No one was appointed in the place of D. S. Sadagopachari, as no suitable substitute was readily available just then. K. Gopala Rao, the Telugu clerk, who had been for five years engaged in the preparation of the slips for the Descriptive Catalogue of the Telugu manuscripts in the library, resigned his appointment about the middle of November last. His resignation was accepted, and he was relieved on the 25th of November. The post of the Telugu clerk remained vacant for nearly a month afterwards, and then it was filled up by the appointment of one S. Srinivasa Aiyar, who had been for some years working in the library as a copyist. He joined duty on the 27th of December. Thus the library had to be short-handed twice during the year under report.

3. Contingent and travelling expenses.—In addition to the manuscripts that had to be transcribed for the library, three big manuscripts of the Śatapathabrāhmaṇa were ordered by Government to be copied for Doctor Caland of the Netherlands, with instructions that the copying charges thereof should be paid from the provision in the budget under the head of transcription of manuscripts. Consequently the Director was addressed with a view to have more funds placed at the disposal of the library under this head of expenditure; and it was accordingly done in Director's Proceedings, Dis. No. 366, dated 22nd January 1910. Thus to the original budget allotment of Rs 755 a sum of Rs. 100 was added, making a total of Rs. 855 available for the transcription of manuscripts; and it will be seen from statement No. 1, appended to this report that the sum of Rs. 846–11–7 was actually utilized for the purpose. Out of Rs. 250 shown as expenditure in statement No. 1, a sum of Rs. 100 was spent in connection with the preparation and the revision of the manuscript matter needed for bringing out the Padyacūdāmaṇi, which is being got ready to be printed as a Government publication. The remaining sum of Rs. 150 was utilized partly in connection with the work relating to the bringing out of the Gaṇitasārasaṅgraha and its translation, and partly in connection with the revision and re-writing of the slips relating to the Descriptive Catalogue of the Tamil manuscripts in the library.

4. Visitors and manuscripts consulted.—There is a fall in the number of visitors and also in the number of manuscripts consulted by them during the year, as compared with those of the previous year, while the total number of granthas copied and supplied to outside applicants is noticeably larger than in the previous year. In 1908–1909 the number of visitors was 1,738, and the number of manuscripts consulted by them was 2,332. The corresponding figures for the year 1909–1910 are 1,132, 2,057, respectively. From this decrease in the number of visitors and of the manuscripts consulted by them, it cannot be concluded that the library has in any way suffered in popularity. On the other hand it tends to confirm what has more than once struck me, viz., that casual curiosity visitors, whose interest in conning manuscripts is not at all serious, have gradually become less and less. The session of the National Congress in Madras in 1908 probably tended to increase to some extent the number of visitors to the library during the year preceding the one under report. Although the number of manuscripts consulted is somewhat less in the year under report than in the previous year, yet it compares favourably enough with the figures of some of the still earlier years. In fact more manuscripts were consulted during the year under report than during any of the years between 1904–1905 and 1907–1908, as may be seen from the figures given below :—

1904–1905	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	1,760
1905–1906	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	1,875
1906–1907	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	1,886
1907–1908	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	1,935
1909–1910	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	2,057

As required by Government in G.O., No. 491, dated 25th August 1909, the figures relating to the works consulted in each of the languages by the visitors to the library are given in statement No. III. The preponderance of the Sanskrit manuscripts in this statement is what may well have been expected; and it is noteworthy that the number of Telugu manuscripts is less only by 92, indicating that even students of vernacular literature are beginning to appreciate the usefulness of this library. Nearly 32,000 granthas of manuscript matter were supplied by the library to scholars and publishers of oriental works, as against 25,000 granthas supplied during the previous year. Of these 32,000 granthas, 26,600 granthas were copies from Sanskrit manuscripts, the Telugu and Tamil manuscripts in the library being responsible only for 3,400 and 2,000 granthas respectively. As already stated in the second paragraph of this report, the manuscripts of the Śatapathabrāhmaṇa are being copied in the library for Doctor Caland. In connection with this work, the total number of granthas copied and paid for within the last official year amounts to 10,600; and owing to the fact that this work is being carried out in accordance with a special order of Government, these 10,600 granthas have not been included in the figure 32,000 given above, which represents the number of granthas supplied to outside applicants.

5. Tours for the collection of manuscripts.—I availed myself of the summer vacation of the Presidency College to go on a tour to the Mysore province, having ascertained beforehand that certain collections of manuscripts were available there for examination. I left Madras taking with me a pandit and a peon of the library, and the total number of days spent on tour was 22. In Bangalore, 4 private libraries containing 500 manuscripts were examined; and out of these, 3 manuscripts were received for purchase and 40 were received on loan. While I was at Bangalore, I made arrangements to have a collection of manuscripts brought to me from Tumkur; and out of 50 manuscripts so brought, 8 were selected to be purchased for the library. In Malur four private collections containing about 600 manuscripts in all were examined, and 18 manuscripts were therefrom chosen for the library. Of these 16 were purchased for the library, the remaining 2 were taken on loan, and have to be returned after transcription. In Melkote 450 manuscripts were examined in all, and 49 were purchased for the library. No other tour was undertaken by me afterwards: and none of the other members on the staff could be conveniently sent out on tour without detriment to the current work of the library.

6. Manuscripts acquired.—Besides the manuscripts collected by me while on tour, arrangements were also made to purchase certain Tamil and Sanskrit manuscripts in Madras. Additions have also been made to the library by the transcription of certain rare manuscripts, which their owners were not willing to part with ; and these have had to be copied outside the library as in the previous years. A list of the works contained in the manuscripts added to the library during the year is as usual given in appendix B attached to the report.

In reference to G.O., No. 491, Educational, dated 25th August 1909, passed on the report of this library for the year 1908-1909, I request to be permitted to state here that in purchasing manuscripts for the library, it is inevitable that their character is determined by their availability, which again is determined by the extensiveness or otherwise of any particular literature as well as by the popular regard and attention which that literature has been able to command in the country. The Curator's choice being strictly limited by these conditions, the preponderance or otherwise of the manuscripts in any particular language cannot be attributed to any partiality or want of interest on his part. From the mere fact that more Sanskrit manuscripts happen to be purchased almost year after year, it need not follow that sufficient attention has not been paid to the purchase of Dravidian manuscripts. As a matter of fact, quite enough of attention is paid for obtaining these manuscripts also ; but unfortunately it so happens that there is very little in the way of tangible results to show. It is a well known fact that Sanskrit literature is very much more varied and extensive than the literature which is to be found in any of the Dravidian languages ; and the private collections of manuscripts that have been and are available for examination indicate distinctly that the interest taken in the preservation and transmission of Sanskrit manuscripts has been and is much larger and much wider than that in relation to manuscripts in any of the Dravidian languages. Wherever I go on tour, I find Sanskrit manuscripts readily available, and sometimes in plenty, for examination. I have toured in Tamil, Telugu, Kanarese and Malayalam lands in search of manuscripts, and I have nowhere been able to alight upon anything like a decent collection of vernacular manuscripts. It is evident that my predecessors in office should have made their collections of manuscripts under similar conditions. A more systematic and sustained search for Dravidian manuscripts than is now possible with the existing staff of the library may possibly enable us to come upon a larger number of such manuscripts ; and it shall be my endeavour to see that no trouble is spared in the matter of collecting these manuscripts, and giving them their place in the library.

That, in the annual additions of manuscripts to the library, a preponderance is observable in regard to those which relate to religion and philosophy is again due as much to the nature of Indian literature itself, as to the very naturally greater care and attention, with which such manuscripts are preserved and reproduced, than other kinds of manuscripts. There is so very little of what may be called historical writing in Indian literature ; and what are called local records in this library are mainly transcriptions of inscriptions and collections of statements and documents of various kinds on various topics given by various persons of about a hundred years ago. Obviously these records cannot be obtained in the manner of religious, literary and philosophical manuscripts. After all, in a manuscript library it is inevitable that the collections naturally turn out to be as nearly as possible representative of the character and the extent of the old literature which is still cherished and preserved in the land. It may also be pointed out here that the visitors to the library take a noticeable interest in consulting religious and philosophical works, as may be seen from the annual statistics of manuscripts consulted by them. In the report relating to the official year 1908-1909, it may be seen that nearly one-fourth of the manuscripts consulted by visitors came under the heads of religion and philosophy ; and in the year under report the proportion is a little over one-fifth.

I desire to be permitted to mention further that very great attention and care are being bestowed on the choice of the manuscripts that are purchased for the library, and that scrupulous economy is being observed in utilizing the allotment for the purchase of manuscripts. Manuscripts which are not of much use to the library on account of their incompleteness, or injured condition, or want of intrinsic merit and value, are rarely purchased ; and duplicates are not allowed to be unnecessarily multiplied. In the matter of manuscripts, however, duplicates are often very necessary ; and those, who have edited works with the aid of manuscripts, know that very often a large number of them is of very great use in commanding completeness and accuracy in regard to the text of works. Long after bringing out his monumental edition of the Rgvēda, the late Professor Max Müller wrote to me asking me to interest myself in the collection of South Indian manuscripts of the Rgvēda written in the Grantha alphabet. I mention this to show the value of having duplicates in Manuscript Libraries. Moreover, it often happens that, in a single manuscript offered for sale, more than one work is to be found ; and for the sake of securing what is valuable in the manuscript, the whole of it has to be purchased, even though some of the works therein are already in the library. In such cases, the price of the manuscript is mostly determined by what happens to be valuable and really needed for the library.

7. Descriptive catalogues—(a) Of the Sanskrit manuscripts.—In the beginning of the year, to which the report relates, portions of the catalogue comprising the description of works from No. 5452 to No. 5560 were in several stages of proof ; and nearly 900 revised and mostly re-written slips were sent to the press in sixteen batches in the course of ten months from April 1909 to January 1910. Thus the total number of slips which had been placed at the disposal of the Government Press before the end of January was a little over 1,000 : and out of these, although 950 slips relating to as many works from No. 5452 to No. 6401 had been put in type by the Superintendent, Government Press, in the course of the year, it was found possible to return to the press with strike order the proofs relating to only 668 slips before the close of the year, the remaining 282 slips having been left behind in several stages of imperfect proof. If the Superintendent of the Government Press had co-operated with me as in the previous years, certainly much more work could have been turned out in the matter of printing this catalogue. I brought to your notice officially about the middle of October last that the Superintendent of the Government Press was very slow in carrying out the printing work connected with this catalogue, and that at the rate of progress he was permitting, it would not be possible to print the same large number of slips this year as in some of the previous years. A great deal of work has, however, been done in the matter of the publication of the already printed portions of the descriptive catalogue. The index and table of contents for volume VII of the Catalogue, which deals with Dharma-śāstra, were prepared and sent to the Government Press. The Index and table of contents of the previous volume dealing with the same subject, which were in the proof-stage at the beginning of the year, were, along with those of volume VII, passed for striking. These two volumes contain 650 pages and cover 829 slips, as may be seen from the volumes themselves, which have been issued. The proofs of the title page, table of contents and index of volume VIII, which deals with Arthaśāstra, Kāmaśāstra and the Nyāya system of philosophy, were sent to the press with strike order on the 24th March. This volume contains 294 pages and covers 462 slips. Thus it was made possible to issue out of the press over 1,200 printed slips in three volumes in the course of the year. Besides this, the indexes and the table of contents of the next volume of the catalogue were in the proof-stage at the end of the year under report. Indexes and tables of contents have still to be furnished for only 954 pages of printed matter, which, in the nature of the case, cannot all be issued at once.

(b) Of the Tamil manuscripts.—Descriptive slips from No. 334 to No. 353 were in several stages of proof in the beginning of the year, and 118 fresh slips were sent to the press before the end of December. Thus the total number of slips at the disposal of the Government Press before December last was 138. Out of these, only 40 slips could be returned with strike order to the press, 24 slips were in advanced proof-stage, and 30 slips in early proof-stage before the close of the official year.

It is very much to be regretted that, in spite of the intercession of the Director of Public Instruction and my repeated requests, the Superintendent of the Government Press could not see his way to push on the printing of the Descriptive Catalogues of this Library, for the reason that too much printed matter relating to them had already become accumulated in the press. To go on with the preparation of tables of contents and indexes side by side with the revision, rewriting and printing of descriptive slips is hardly possible ; and considering the time and trouble involved in the preparation of the indexes, and considering also that it is not desirable to issue the catalogues mechanically as soon as a certain number of slips is printed, the Superintendent of the Press must be prepared to put up with some inconvenience of this sort occasionally, in order that there may be smooth and steady progress in bringing out these catalogues.

(c) Of the Telugu manuscripts.—As many as 445 works were examined, and descriptive slips were prepared for them during the year. The number of slips prepared in the corresponding portion of the previous year was 486. The slight decrease here is due to the fact that this work had to be in abeyance for nearly a month consequent on the resignation of the Telugu clerk, and that the new incumbent appointed in his place progressed somewhat slowly in the beginning owing to want of experience. The total number of manuscripts for which Descriptive Catalogue slips have yet to be prepared is not 58 as shown in statement No. VI, but is really 520. This discrepancy has arisen out of the failure of the original supposition that, as indicated by the alphabetical index published in 1893, only 2,860 slips had to be prepared for the description of the Telugu manuscripts in the Library. Since many of these manuscripts have been found to contain more than one work, and since each of these works so found has had to be described in a slip, the number of slips prepared does not indicate exactly the number of manuscripts examined and described. This has been explained in detail already in the letters of this office, Nos. 54 and 63 of 1910, relating to my application for the retention of the Telugu clerk's post for a further period of one year.

8. Publication of works.—The Sarva-siddhānta-saṅgraha of Śaṅkarācārya with its English translation was published this year. Good progress was made in connection with the translation of the Gaṇitasārasaṅgraha, which may now be regarded to have been fairly finished. It is expected to have this work issued out of the press before the end of the current official year. It has appeared to me to be desirable not to take on hand the printing of the Padyacūdāmaṇi, till the work connected with the printing of the Gaṇitasāra-saṅgraha is completed.

9. Preservation of manuscripts.—Much attention has as usual been bestowed on the care-taking and the preservation of the manuscripts in the library. As many as 448 manuscripts were cleaned and coated with naphtha oil. The Tamil, Telugu and Marathi manuscripts were all dusted.

10. Printed books.—Some Indian publications were purchased for the library. A few were also received as presents. Doctor Von Negelin of Germany, for whom the Jyautiṣa Śāstra of Brhaspati had been copied out and sent from here at the instance of Government, presented the library in return with a copy of the Paṇiṣṭas of the Atharva-vēda recently edited by him.

11. Conclusion.—There is ample scope for more and more of good work being done in connection with this library; and if my modest proposals for the improvement of the institution receive the sanction of Government, there is every probability that its value and usefulness will go on growing steadily in the coming years. With the staff and the resources now available, the work done during the year under report may well be considered to be satisfactory; and the way in which earnest students and enquirers are being drawn to the library is indeed encouraging.

Proceedings, Dis. No. 3925 of 1910.

Recorded.

2. The outturn of work done in connection with the printing of the descriptive catalogue was less than normal during the year under report. This decrease in quantity is due partly to the natural objection of the Superintendent, Government Press to print fresh matter before the printed descriptive catalogue slips which had for some years past accumulated at the press were cleared out and partly to the staff of the library having been engaged in consequence in the preparation of the index and table of contents relating to the matter already in the press in order to facilitate the issue of bound volumes of the catalogue and the removal of the congestion complained of by the Superintendent in the binding rooms of the press. The Curator has however been instructed to arrange for the work of index preparation being taken up side by side with that of the preparation of descriptive catalogue slips. The changes in the staff reported in paragraph 2 of the report seem also to have interfered to some extent with the progress of the above work.

3. The Curator's proposals for the improvement of the library called for in paragraph 3 of G.O., No. 491, Educational, dated 25th August 1909 are now before Government. The question of improving the accommodation of the library is now under correspondence with the Curator and proposals in this respect will be submitted on receipt of definite particulars from that officer.

4. The Curator's explanation of the fall in the number of visitors and in the number of manuscripts consulted is noted.

5. There has again been a delay in the submission of the report by the Curator. The text of the report reached this office on the 5th May and the appendices on the 20th idem, while the complete report was due here on the 1st. The Director must insist on the punctual submission of the Curator's annual report in future.
