Honourable member noted in 1909 that it appeared to him that the College of Engineering would really benefit if it could get rid of the subordinate classes and devote its attention to the higher branches of engineering education, and that it would be well if the Madura Technical Institute and another industrial school in the north at Rameswaram or Rajamundry and the Chengalvaraya Naicker's school in Madras could be organized so as to qualify pupils to be foremen and mechanics - men who would be able to take up posts as foremen in workshops and

2. Accordingly the Chengalvaraya Naicker's

Technical Institute at Madras is being developed with Government aid for the purpose of training mechanical foremen, fitters, etc.; a scheme for the re-organization of the Madura Technical Institute is being prepared by the Superintendent of Industrial Education; a scheme has been approved for the enlargement and development of the St. Aloysius' Industrial school at Vizag-patam and proposals have been called for for the development of the St. Joseph's Industrial school at Coimbatore and the opening of an

The question and answer as finally approved are as follows:—

Opening of training schools for Public Works
subordinates.

Question 106. Will Government be pleased to consider the desirability of opening two or three schools auxiliary to the Engineering College in selected mufassal stations to train some of the lower ranks of Public Works Department officers?

Answer 106—

The Honourable Member's attention is invited to the following published orders of Government which indicate the action already taken in the direction suggested:—

G.O., No. 3072, Revenue, dated 12th November 1909.

" " 565 " " 19th February 1910.

" " 2734 " " 18th August 1910.

The proposal to establish a school for the training of blacksmiths, oil-engine drivers, etc., at the Agricultural College has recently been negatived, but the Government have under consideration suggestions for the provision of similar technical training in industrial schools or technical institutes in Coimbatore, Malabar and the Northern Circars.

2. A draft order recording the papers is submitted for approval.
