Page 70 of the Medical College calendar for 1910-11; also page 25 of it. The apothecary (assistant surgeon) department of the Medical College, Madras, consists of—

- (a) Military assistant surgeon pupils,
- (b) Colonial apprentices and
- (c) Female students.

The minimum education qualification for admission to this class differs in the different classes of pupils referred to above. The Military assistant surgeon pupils are admitted on the results of a public competitive examination, while in the case of the Colonial apprentices, who are selected by the respective Governments, some pass the senior or junior Cambridge local examinations and others the various Government educational standards. In the case of the female students, the qualification for admission is a pass in the late Higher examination for women, the Matriculation examination or the High school examination (European).

2. The Director of Public Instruction now proposes that female candidates holding completed secondary school leaving certificates considered by the Principal as satisfactory, may also be admitted into the class. The secondary school leaving certificate has already been recognized as qualifying for entrance into the public service and also as a qualification for admission to the secondary training schools, to the College of Engineering and to the Medical school, Rayapuram. There appears to be no objection to the Director's proposal.

3. A draft order is submitted for approval. If approved, it may issue with the concurrence of the Public department.
