There are no Home Education classes in the Presidency which are maintained by Government. The National Indian Association and the United Free Church Mission are maintaining some classes. There were four of them working during 1910-1911, two at Madras, one at Coimbatore and one at - - Cuddalore. Submitted that the D.P.I. may be consulted u.o. as to the utility of Government's starting such classes.

Re
3.2.12. Hon'd the D.P.I. accept his answer ! —

" No such classes are at present maintained by Govt. The proposal of instituting them will be considered.

Something a little if not much more discouraging might be advisable - I very much doubt whether Government is a suitable agency for this work and whether it is worth that the Government ought to undertake although there is of course no objection to aiding private agencies

If home education classes were thrown open to all Castes and classes they would differ little from schools

I should be inclined to refuse straight away and say that the Government do not consider it desirable to institute such classes under public management

Received from the D. S. Camp on 9.2.12.

There are no Home Education classes maintained by Govt: But there are four such classes under private management — two in Madras, one in Cuddalore & one in Coimbatore.

The following draft answer which has been approved by the D.P.D. with whom the Secy discussed the matter is submitted for approval

"(a) There are no Home Education classes under Govt management.
 "(b) ~~The point will be considered.~~
 The government do not consider it advisable or feasible to start such classes in every principal town of the District.

This answer is based on a pencil note which I made after discussing the case with D. Bawa last Sunday. Just before he went on tour. A no. file asking his advice was then on the way to him, but is now pursuing him. D. Bawa has. The answer may be adopted without waiting for its return.

women.

(b) If not, will the Government be pleased to consider the utility of starting such classes in every principal town in this Presidency?

Answer 107—

(a) There are no home education classes under Government management.

(b) The Government do not consider it advisable or possible to start such classes in every principal town of the Presidency. If home classes are started by private agency, the question of aiding them will of course be considered.

2. A draft order is submitted for approval. This ^{answer} is being communicated to the D.P.D. separately.
