Draft answer to Question No.36.

It is the case that the sanctioned scheme for the reorganization of training schools for masters, which was drawn up some years ago, involves the abolition of the training school at Badagara, but owing to the present pressing need for more trained teachers the Government, as a tentative measure, authorized the continuation of the school for a year; the question of its permanent retention will receive consideration in due course.

The question & answer as finally settled are as follows:

Question 46. Is it a fact that as a result of the scheme for the re-organization of the Government training schools for masters recently sanctioned, the Government elementary training school at Badagara in North Malabar is to be abolished? If so, will the Government be pleased to re-consider the position and sanction its permanent retention?

Badagara
training school,
Malabar.

Answer 46—

It is the case that the sanctioned scheme for the re-organization of training schools for masters, which was drawn up some years ago, involves the abolition of the training school at Badagara, but owing to the present pressing need for more trained teachers the Government have as a tentative measure authorized the continuation of the school for a year; the question of its permanent retention will receive consideration in due course.

The question of retaining the training school at Badagara permanently will be considered later on along with the general question of retaining ~~the~~ the other training schools whose temporary ~~sanction~~ retention was sanctioned in G.O. No. 1066 Bd. G. 3rd Decr 1912. These papers may therefore now be recorded. The draft below is for approval.
