107. (a) Is it a fact that during 1913-14, 104 candidates applied for admission to the Engineering class of the Engineering College and only 27 have been admitted and only 111 have been admitted into the probationary subordinate class out of 365 applicants ?

(b) Will the Government be pleased to state how many of the rejected candidates have been refused admission owing to insufficient accommodation and what additional accommodation is proposed to be made in the new College of Engineering ?

Educational Department

The facts mentioned in clause (a) of the question are correct - please see para. 4 of the report on page 4 of G.O. no. 841 Edl., dated the 18th July 1914.

(R)

2. As regards the number of Students who were refused admission for want of accommodation, it is submitted that ^{admission} ~~that~~ is regulated by rule 29 of the College rules, under which the ordinary limit is 20 for the engineers class and 90 for the probationary subordinate class. The Principal of the College, who was asked by telephone to report the number of candidates not admitted owing to insufficient accommodation, states that, owing to the demand for men, he admitted under special sanction all he could find room for, that selection was made on the record shown by the Secondary School Leaving Certificate, no hard and fast ~~rule~~ line being drawn, but that a large majority of those rejected were not fit for admission. He adds that for the probationary class the last selections were pretty poor and hardly qualified to take the courses.
