His Excellency The Governor of Madras
Madras.

May it please your Excellency ^{by paid book post}

a copy is put up

In respectfully submitting herewith 2 copies of the pamphlet entitled "The Indian Muslims' attitude towards the British Government" for your Excellency's kind perusal and opinion, the compiler most respectfully sheweth that :—

It has been compiled with the object of enlightening the subjects of the British Indian Empire with the clear and forcible injunctions for the maintenance of loyalty and faithfulness towards the British Government. The injunctions mentioned in the pamphlet, though quoted from the Muslim religious books, contain such moral lessons that by following them both Muslims and non-Muslims cannot but become good citizens and loyal and faithful supporters of the Crown and Constitution. It is, therefore, the earnest hope of the Compiler, that your Excellency will be graciously pleased to encourage him by taking suitable steps, as far as practicable, for the wide circulation of the pamphlet.

2 The compiler will think his labour amply rewarded if the pamphlet succeeds in meeting with your Excellency's kind appreciation, and fulfilling the object kept in view of the compiler.
