SENATE HOUSE, 30 APR 1913

FROM

Francis Dewsbury Esq., B.A., LL.B.

Registrar, University of Madras,

TO

The Secretary to Government,

Educational Department.

Sir,

X
With reference to Government Order, Educational No. 296 Misc: dated 9th April 1913, referring to the Syndicate for remarks a suggestion regarding the establishment of a University for Oriental Languages in the Tanjore Palace buildings, I have the honour to inform you, by direction, that the Syndicate is not in favour of establishing a University for Oriental studies in Tanjore, but has no objection to the foundation of an Oriental Institute as an approved institution for Oriental studies under the Regulations of the University; in the opinion of the Syndicate, Madras is the proper centre for University teaching in this as well as other subjects, and such teaching should be available to students following the ordinary University courses.

I have the honour to be,

Sir,

Your most obedient servant,

Francis Dewsbury

Registrar.

SUBJECT

Establishment of a University of Oriental Languages in the Tanjore Palace buildings

Please see the notes and orders with nos 296 & 9-4-13. In this order the suggestion of Mr. Wood, the Collector of Tanjore, for the establishment of a University for Oriental Languages in the Tanjore Palace buildings was referred to the University of Madras for remarks. The Registrar ^{now} reports that the Syndicate is not in favour of establishing such a university, but that it has no objection to the foundation of a Oriental Institute in Madras as an approved institution for Oriental Studies under the regulations of the University.

2. A suggestion to start such an institution for Dravidian languages was made by the Director

Mr. Wood's scheme hinges around the question of the utilization of the Paldar buildings.
An institute in Madras even if one is started will not be in furtherance of his scheme.

in May 1912; but it was not accepted by Govt. In these circumstances it does not appear that any orders are called for on Mr Wood's suggestion. If the papers may be simply recorded, after perusal by the D.P. & Ins. Political will have to be made aware of the final decision in the matter.
