 We recently received a letter from our London Office asking us to let them know what Universities, Colleges and Technical Institutes were in existence in India where Electrical Engineering or Electric Wiring Classes were held. Our London Office are quite willing to supply Showcases or Showboards containing samples of our different classes of wire and cable where they would be of interest and value to the Lecturers and Students, and stated that they have supplied many of these to similar institutions at Home where the suggestions they should do so was received with enthusiasm.

Our motive in approaching you in the matter is, that we may obtain accurate information re. these Institutes in India, it is difficult for us to get such information and there are no doubt Technical Institutes in existence of which we have no knowledge.

We do not propose sending Showboards and Showcases to Institutes with the object only to get the name of our Company known, but rather that our London Office consider it is of great importance from the Imperial point of view that students and young Engineers should be accustomed to work with British Materials and later on in their career to specify British Materials; it is for this reason that we should be glad to enlist your sympathy and interest.
