It has been suggested that a more liberal provision of table telephones will enable officers in ~~the~~ Madras City to consult each other more freely on matters affecting their departments, thus avoiding the necessity for formal references. The Officer in charge of the Department of Industries is requested to state whether he requires a table telephone for his use.

From (Name) C.A. Innes, Esq., I.C.S., (Designation) Director of Industries.

To The Secretary to the Government of Madras, HOME (Education) Department.

Sir,

In reply to Government Memorandum No. 394-1 dated the 10th instant, I have the honour to report that I have an office telephone at present. It is however downstairs, and when, as often happens, I am wanted on the telephone, a certain amount of delay ensues and I am also put to a certain amount of inconvenience. A table telephone, though not absolutely necessary, would be a convenience to me.

I have the honour to be,

Sir,

Your most obedient servant,

Director of Industries.

In connection with the question relating to the centralisation of Public Offices in Chepauk, it was decided that the heads of departments should be provided with table telephones ~~communications~~ in their office rooms & His Excellency ordered that the Director of Industries should be consulted as to his requirements. In reply to Memo No 394-1 & 10.2.17, the Director states that a ^{table} telephone ~~is~~ not absolutely necessary would be a convenience to him.

2 In his letter No 198/76 & 20.1.17 the Director, Telegraph Engineering, Southern Circle Bombay stated that requests for telegraph lines & telephone connections which have no direct bearing on the war or which are not required for urgent political work are not likely to be complied with now. If the present proposal is approved it seems very doubtful if the work will be carried out in the near future. The proposal may therefore lie over till the return of normal times. With these remarks the file may be returned to Home (Ed) co.
