Sir,

Although accidents such as bleeding and fracture of the bones burns and scalds poisoning and drowning are of frequent occurrence and every moments delay in rendering the necessary first aid to the sufferer is fraught with grave consequences, yet such first aid is rarely or never available immediately and on the spot. Thus till the sufferer is taken to the nearest hospital or doctor he has to be in perilous suspense, during which the life may even become extinct. It was therefore long my desire to impart to the masses a knowledge of the first aid to be rendered and by such knowledge to combat the complications. I accordingly brought out a small book entitled "First Aid in Accidents" in English, Tamil, Telugu Canarese and Malayalam. The English Edition with a preface by the Honble Surgeon General W.B. Bannerman is dedicated to H.E. Lord Pentland, Governor of Madras.

2 The Directors of Public Instruction Bombay, Bengal, Central Provinces and the N.W. Frontier Province have sanctioned the inclusion of the book in the list of approved prize and library books. From the Surgeon Generals preface you will observe that the proceeds go in aid of the Hospital Ship Madras and the Madras Ambulance Corps. May I therefore request you to popularise the book in your offices and thus help in a noble and patriotic cause and spread a useful knowledge. On hearing from you I shall be glad to send a specimen copy for your perusal.

Yours faithfully
U Rama Rau
