Dated London, the 16th August 1919, @ 1-50 P.M.

Recd. the 18th August 1919, @ 12 Noon.

In spite of repeated warnings to Advisory Committee as to the overcrowding of British Universities at present owing to number of demobilised men applying for admission, many Indian students are arriving here without having secured admission before leaving India and are consequently likely to be disappointed. Moreover lodgings have become much more expensive and exceedingly difficult to obtain. Please insert a formal communique in the principal newspapers throughout India as soon as possible pointing out conditions existing at British Universities and Colleges at present and urging students to make sure of admission before leaving India. Position especially difficult as regards study of medicine, engineering and agriculture.

Simla, the 19th August 1919.

Communique.

The Government of India have learnt from the Secretary of State that many Indian students are now proceeding to the United Kingdom for the purpose of prosecuting their studies at British Universities without first securing their admission and that they are most likely to meet with disappointment as the Universities in that country are at present being overcrowded by men demobilised from the army. Moreover lodgings have become very expensive and exceedingly difficult to obtain. The Government of India therefore desire to warn all students intending to proceed to the United Kingdom, and especially those who wish to study medicine, engineering or agriculture, that, in order to avoid disappointment, they should in all cases make sure of being admitted to the institution they may desire to join before leaving this country.
