Subject. Distribution of copies of texts of inscriptions

Extract from notes to G.O. No. 1403, Home (Education), dated 1st November 1918.

X X X

4. In regard to the A.A.S.'s proposal for the distribution of copies of the texts of inscriptions, when published, it may be observed that Sir John Marshall's suggestion was that 600 copies of each text should be printed, of which 50 copies should be circulated to scholars, the remaining 550 copies being kept in stock pending a fuller publication of the inscription. The A.A.S. who was asked to submit proposals for the distribution of copies states that the distribution may be the same as that of Archaeological publications. The latter is a pretty long list consisting of 450 items roughly - vide G.O. 1369, Public, dated 19th July 1916. This distribution was also mainly adopted in the case of Mr. Ranga Achari's "Topographical list of inscriptions in the Madras Presidency". The A.A.S. proposes the inclusion of further names also, numbering about 25. If this suggestion is approved, the distribution will exhaust about 475 copies out of the 600 proposed to be printed. It does not appear that Sir John Marshall contemplates such a wide distribution; and as the publication is to be only of the texts it would appear sufficient if the distribution is confined to real scholars and institutions who would really advance the cause of research. In this view it seems desirable to draw the attention of the A.A.S. to Sir John Marshall's opinion and to ask him to revise his proposals for distribution and furnish Govt. with a definite revised list.

2. The distribution list, as revised above, seems also inadequate. Except for the names of Drs. Barnett and Thomas, it does not include western scholars: institutes of research in the west are also left out of account. The D.G. of Archaeology and the Provincial Archaeological Supdts. have likewise been ignored. For orders whether in passing orders the attention of the A.A.S. may be drawn to these omissions and he be asked to revise his list with a view to distribute 50 copies of the publication, when printed, to deserving gentlemen and institutions both in India and in the West.

2. The applications from the Secretary Telugu Manuscript Library, Lithapur, the President Karanthai Tamil Sangam, Tanjore and The Editor of the South Indian Research for free supply of the texts of the inscriptions have also to be considered in this connection.

Telugu Manuscript Library, Lithapur

The A.A.S. has recommended the inclusion of the name of this library in the free supply of copies of texts of inscriptions. This may be agreed to.

Karanthai Tamil Sangam, Tanjore.

The President of the Sangam has been informed that his request for the free supply of copies of texts of inscriptions will be considered along with the question of general distribution. The Sangam requires six copies. The Secretary has observed in this connection, "I should say, on first consideration that I see no reason whatever to issue these books and publications free to the Sangam". Perhaps one copy may be supplied free of cost.

[Office of the Editor]

A Complete and satisfactory distribution must necessarily follow the list appended to G.O. No. 818 Pub. dated 2nd July 1913.

I do not know of any western institutions or scholars other than Drs. Barnett and Thomas who take interest in texts of South-Indian inscriptions. To the list already sent by me may be added the names of Dewar Bahadur L. D. Swamikannu Pillai and Mr. H. J. Richards. The volumes

(i.e. Dravidian)
H. 7-8 of G.O. No. 1403 extant at P. 22.11.18

may also be supplied to the Director General of Archaeology, the Govt Epigraphist for India, the Superintendents and Assistant Superintendents of all the Archaeological Circles in British India and Native States.

I have been receiving a number of applications from individuals and institutions in South India for copies of texts of the South-Indian inscriptions and I intend submitting a list of these to Government later on as the volume gets ready for issue. Thus the distribution list for the 50 copies will finally stand thus:—

The A.A.S. for Epigraphy has submitted a revised list of distribution of texts of inscriptions, which includes the names of the D.C. of Archaeology, the Provincial Superintendents of Archaeology and Assist. Ant. Archaeological Superintendents for Epigraphy. He states that he does not know the names of any western scholars other than Dr. Barnett and Thomas who take interest in South Indian Inscriptions. If it is decided to restrict the number of texts ^{to be} distributed gratis to 50 as suggested by Sir John Marshall, the list submitted by the A.A.S. does not seem to be capable of improvement. If however the number may be increased, say to 100, some of the institutions and individuals mentioned in the annexure to G.C. no 818 Public of 2. 7. 13 may perhaps be included in the list. Secretary has remarked in the ^{linked} ~~annex~~ file that it would be better to charge a reduced price in the case of societies and academies which supply for the copies of the texts. The price ~~can~~ ^{when copies of texts of inscriptions are ready.} be ascertained only ~~after the texts are ready.~~ ^{are ready.} Further the A.A.S. proposes to

to furnish later on a list of individuals and institutions applying for copies of the texts. This list may include some scholars to whom it ^{maybe} desirable to supply the copies gratis and also some institutions in the case of which a special reduced price may be charged. It is for order whether the question of distribution may be over pending receipt of the list promised by the A. A. S.

9.12.18 For the present we may fix the number for free supply at 50 and approve the list proposed by the A. A. S. ~~with the above~~ 10.12.18

I rather think we should consider the list when the first volume approaches publication. By that time the public will have learnt about it and if any we shall have a large number of applications. I still think we might fix a reduced price to be charged to the numerous institutions which are now interesting themselves in research

The A. S. is not able to give more than half a dozen names for further incorporation in the distribution list. This raises the no. to 55 as against 50 copies suggested by Sir John Marshall for distribution. It is however doubtful whether copies should be supplied free.

Better

2 The expectation in Dinsan Bahadur Swamikannu Pillai's note of the 11th Dec. 1918 that we "have a large no. of applications" not having been realized as yet, there is perhaps no great need now to change a reduced price for the work. It had since been ascertained from the Press that the sale price of the 1st Vol. of the texts of inscriptions will approximately be Rs 9 and not Rs 4 as previously stated (p. 6, c. f.). We may therefore ^{continue} the free distribution to 60 copies and fix the ~~sale~~ price of each Vol. at Rs 9.
