ENCLOSURES

(1)

Despatch—from the Government of India, Finance Department (Salaries, Establishments, etc.—Education).

To—His Majesty's Secretary of State for India.

Dated—Simla, the 27th September 1918.

No.—206.

In their Financial despatch No. 67, dated the 9th March 1911, Lord Hardinge's Government asked for sanction to a scheme for the improvement of secondary education in the Madras Presidency. The main feature of the scheme was the provincialization of a certain number of high schools maintained by local bodies and private agency with a view to the establishment of a Government model school in each district. But owing to the opposition raised by representative missionaries and in the Provincial Legislative Council, the Marquess of Crewe in his Public despatch No. 106, of the 28th June 1912, remitted the scheme for further consideration. Accordingly the Government of Madras were invited to re-examine their proposals in the light of the criticisms which were directed against them and to submit a further report on the subject.

2. After protracted consideration, the Government of Madras have formulated a revised scheme which is calculated to obviate the various objections which were taken to the original proposals. The whole question has been discussed at a private conference with representatives of the educational interests concerned and the present proposals are the result of the conclusions arrived at thereat. The present intention is to add to the existing four model schools only four more institutions of this class, which should serve to set the standard for the secondary schools under private management, and also to provide the requisite facilities for practical instruction in educational methods and opportunities for more advanced study in six secondary training institutions in the chief language areas of the Presidency. You will thus observe that the original scheme for a model school in each district has been abandoned in favour of a more restricted project.

3. The details of the present scheme are set forth in the local Government's letter No. 537, dated the 16th May 1916 which also explains the discrepancy in the number of secondary schools noticed in paragraph 10 (1) of Lord Crewe's despatch under reply. There were a few points on which we felt some doubt and in regard to which we were obliged to make a further reference to the local Government. The Government of Madras have accepted our suggestions in some instances and in others their further explanations have satisfactorily cleared up the position. On its general merits, the present scheme represents, in our opinion, a reasonable compromise. While meeting the objections raised to the original model school scheme, it will effect a very desirable improvement in the provision for practical training of teachers of the secondary grade. We feel no hesitation therefore in commending the local Government's present proposals to your favourable consideration.

4. The additional annual cost of the scheme is estimated to amount to Rs. 53,228 as shown in paragraph 6 of the local Government's letter, No. 129, dated the 4th February 1918. There will also be a capital outlay of Rs. 60,000 which will be spread over the first three years after the introduction of the scheme. The local Government have provided for the expenditure involved in the current year's budget estimates, and in the event of the proposal meeting with your approval we shall have no objection to its being brought immediately into effect.

5. In submitting the present scheme for your orders, we desire to explain that we appreciate the importance of the considerations urged by the missionaries in their representation against the original model-school scheme and could, if necessary, examine their contentions in detail; but in view of the fact that an agreement has already been reached as regards the essentials of the present case we refrain from doing so. Moreover, as Lord Crewe pointed out, the bulk of the points raised have already been sufficiently met by the decision reached in the correspondence which preceded the publication of our Education Department Resolution No. 301-C.D., dated the 21st February 1913. There remain, however, the two matters which were specially referred to us for consideration, viz., (i) the question of affording facilities for religious instruction in public institutions and (ii) the expediency of an assurance by the local Government as to the increased expenditure contemplated in respect of aided schools. As regards the former, the whole question of religious and moral education in public institutions is at present under our separate consideration in consultation with local Governments, while as regards the latter, the rules governing capital grants-in-aid have been largely relaxed in Madras, and in view of the existing financial stringency, and the altered circumstances we feel reluctant to press the local Government at the present moment to furnish any estimate of the nature desired by Lord Crewe.

6. Finally, as regards the general principle involved, viz., the policy of the Government of India in relation to secondary education, we do not consider it necessary to discuss its merits on the present occasion. We merely enclose with this despatch certain statistics from which it will be seen that it has been loyally adhered to throughout India and more especially in the Madras Presidency. The number of model schools proposed (8) is quite insignificant in comparison to the total number of secondary schools in the Presidency (170). Moreover, of the eight schools concerned four are already owned by Government, three are managed by local boards, whose relief in respect of their maintenance is in keeping with the policy laid down in paragraph 10 of our Education Department circular letter No. 873, dated the 19th September 1916 (vide the correspondence ending with Mr. Chamberlain's Public despatch No. 131, dated the 18th August 1916), and the remaining one is a private institution which receives Government aid. The managing bodies of the four schools which will be provincialised have experienced difficulties in securing the necessary funds for their efficient management and are willing to transfer their rights, entirely and unconditionally, to Government. In the circumstances the local Government's present proposal cannot be regarded as calculated to discourage private effort or to constitute any departure from accepted policy.

Dated—London, the 4th February 1919 (Received 6th February 1919).

Your despatch No. 206, dated 27th September. Madras Secondary School. I sanction your proposal.

Order—No. 498, Home (Education), dated 17th April 1919.

The Director of Public Instruction is informed that the Secretary of State has sanctioned a scheme for the establishment of four additional Government secondary schools in the Presidency which, together with the existing four model institutions of this class, should serve to set the standard for secondary schools under private management and also provide the requisite facilities for practical instruction in educational methods and opportunities for more advanced study in the six secondary training institutions in the chief language areas of the Presidency.

The Secretary of State has also sanctioned the proposals for the revision of the establishments in the undermentioned Government institutions :—

- (1) The model school attached to the Teachers' College, Saidapet.
- (2) The model school attached to the Government Training College, Rajahmundry.
- (3) The Government College, Mangalore.
- (4) The Government Madrasa-i-azam.

2. In pursuance of the scheme, the undermentioned institutions will be taken over under departmental control :—

- (1) The Board High School, Chittoor.
- (2) Do. Tiruvalur.
- (3) The second grade college (with school department) under the management of the Municipal Council, Tellicherry.
- (4) The second grade college (with school department) at Coimbatore, at present, an aided institution.

The secondary training classes now at Saidapet, Tanjore and Calicut will be transferred to Chittoor, Tiruvalur and Tellicherry, respectively.

3. The new scales of establishment sanctioned for all the eight institutions in question are exhibited in the proposition statement annexed to these proceedings. The scheme will come into force with effect from the 1st June 1919. This sanction has been registered as No. 43 of 1919-20.

4. The subordinate establishments employed in the institutions will be eligible for War allowance at the rates admissible to those who, prior to January 1919, were ineligible for grain compensation allowance. Such of the existing incumbents as may be adversely affected by the arrangement will be granted personal allowances which will not count for leave allowance and pension and will be extinguished in due course as provided in article 61 of the Civil Service Regulations.

Attention is solicited to Mr. (now Sir Henry) Stone's note on page 5 of G.O. No. 1204, L. & M., dated the 31st July 1918, wherein he suggested that the model school scheme now approved by the Secretary of State might be dropped altogether. The proposal was not, however, entertained for the reasons set out in this department's note on pages 5 to 8 of the Government Order. Every year with the opening of new high and middle schools, the need for trained teachers of the secondary grade increases; and the Secretary of State has recently drawn attention to the necessity for making adequate provision for the training of teachers so as to ensure that the quality of instruction imparted in the schools does not deteriorate. One of the objects with which the present scheme was framed is to secure an increase in the output of trained teachers of the secondary grade, but the institutions comprised in the scheme will not themselves turn out the requisite number of trained teachers needed for employment in the secondary schools in the Presidency. It will therefore be necessary for Government to continue the policy recently initiated of opening secondary training classes in aided institutions with the help of Government grants—vide G.O. No. 419, dated 3rd April 1919.

2. The draft below may be circulated to Honourable Member for approval.

I spoke to Sir Henry Stone subsequent to his note and he told me that his reluctance was chiefly due to a fear that the proposal would not be sanctioned. When I suggested to him to wait for the decision, he welcomed the proposal. This is a long-pending matter and highly necessary.

No. 206 OF 1918.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

FINANCE DEPARTMENT.

SALARIES, ESTABLISHMENTS, &c.
Education.

To

THE RIGHT HONOURABLE EDWIN MONTAGU,

His Majesty's Secretary of State for India.

Simla, the 27th September 1918.

SIR,

In their Financial despatch no. 67, dated the 9th March 1911, Lord Hardinge's Government asked for sanction to a scheme for the improvement of secondary education in the Madras Presidency. The main feature of the scheme was the provincialisation of a certain number of high schools maintained by local bodies and private agency with a view to the establishment of a Government model school in each district. But owing to the opposition raised by representative missionaries and in the Provincial Legislative Council, the Marquess of Crewe in his Public despatch no. 106, of the 28th June 1912, remitted the scheme for further consideration. Accordingly the Government of Madras were invited to re-examine their proposals in the light of the criticisms which were directed against them and to submit a further report on the subject.

2. After protracted consideration, the Government of Madras have formulated a revised scheme which is calculated to obviate the various objections which were taken to the original proposals. The whole question has been discussed at a private conference with representatives of the educational interests concerned and the present proposals are the result of the conclusions arrived thereat. The present intention is to add to the existing four model schools only four more institutions of this class, which should serve to set the standard for the secondary schools under private management, and also to provide the requisite facilities for practical instruction in educational methods and opportunities for more advanced study in six secondary training institutions in the chief language areas of the presidency. You will thus observe that the original scheme for a model school in each district has been abandoned in favour of a more restricted project.

3. The details of the present scheme are set forth in the local Government's letter no. 537, dated the 16th May 1916 (enclosure no. 2), which also explains the discrepancy in the number of secondary schools noticed in paragraph 10 (1) of Lord Crewe's despatch under reply. There were a few points on which we felt some doubt and in regard to which we were obliged to make a further reference (enclosure no. 4) to the local Government. The Government of Madras have accepted our suggestions in some instances and in others their further explanations (enclosure no. 5) have satisfactorily cleared up the position. On its general merits, the present scheme represents, in our opinion, a reasonable compromise. While meeting the objections raised to the original model-school scheme, it will effect a very desirable improvement in the provision for practical training of teachers of the secondary grade. We feel no hesitation therefore in commending the local Government's present proposals to your favourable consideration.

4. The additional annual cost of the scheme is estimated to amount to Rs. 53,228 as shown in paragraph 6 of the local Government's letter no. 129, dated the 4th February 1918 (enclosure no. 5). There will also be a capital outlay of Rs. 60,000 which will be spread over the first three years after the introduction of the scheme. The local Government have provided for the expenditure involved in the current year's budget estimates, and in the event of the proposal meeting with your approval we shall have no objection to its being brought immediately into effect.

5. In submitting the present scheme for your orders, we desire to explain that we appreciate the importance of the considerations urged by the missionaries in their representation against the original model-school scheme and could if necessary, examine their contentions in detail; but in view of the fact that an agreement has already been reached as regards the essentials of the present case we refrain from doing so. Moreover, as Lord Crewe pointed out, the bulk of the points raised have already been sufficiently met by the decision reached in the correspondence which preceded the publication of our Education Department resolution no. 301-C.D., dated the 21st February 1913. There remain, however, the two matters which were specially referred to us for consideration, viz., (i) the question of affording facilities for religious instruction in public institutions and (ii) the expediency of an assurance by the local Government as to the increased expenditure contemplated in respect of aided schools. As regards the former, the whole question of religious and moral education in public institutions is at present under our separate consideration in consultation with local Governments, while as regards the latter, the rules governing capital grants-in-aid have been largely relaxed in Madras, and, in view of the existing financial stringency, and the altered circumstances we feel reluctant to press the local Government at the present moment to furnish any estimate of the nature desired by Lord Crewe.

6. Finally, as regards the general principle involved, viz., the policy of the Government of India in relation to secondary education, we do not consider it necessary to discuss its merits on the present occasion. We merely enclose with this despatch (enclosure no. 6) certain statistics from which it will be seen that it has been loyally adhered to throughout India and more especially in the Madras Presidency. The number of model schools proposed (8) is quite insignificant in comparison to the total number of secondary schools in the presidency (170). Moreover, of the eight schools concerned four are already owned by Government, three are managed by local Boards, whose relief in respect of their maintenance is in keeping with the policy laid down in paragraph 10 of our Education Department circular letter no. 873, dated the 19th September 1916 (vide the correspondence ending with Mr. Chamberlain's Public despatch no. 131, dated the 18th August 1916), and the remaining one is a private institution which receives Government aid. The managing bodies of the four schools which will be provincialised have experienced difficulties in securing the necessary funds for their efficient management and are willing to transfer their rights, entirely and unconditionally, to Government. In the circumstances the local Government's present proposal cannot be regarded as calculated to discourage private effort or to constitute any departure from accepted policy.

We have the honour to be,

SIR,

Your most obedient, humble Servants,

(Signed) CHELMSFORD.

The Director of Public Instruction is informed that the Secretary of State has sanctioned a scheme for the establishment of four additional Government secondary schools in the Presidency which, together with the existing four model institutions of this class, should serve to set the standard for secondary schools under private management and also provide the requisite facilities for practical instruction in educational methods and opportunities for more advanced study in the six secondary training institutions in the chief language areas of the Presidency.

The Secretary of State has also sanctioned the proposals for the revision of the establishments in the undermentioned Government institutions:—

- (1) The model school attached to the Teachers' College, Saidapet.
- (2) The model school attached to the Government Training College, Rajahmundry.

- (3) The Government College, Mangalore.
- (4) The Government Madrasa-i-azam.

2. In pursuance of the scheme, the undermentioned institutions will be taken over under departmental control:—

- (1) The Board High School, Chittoor.
- (2) Do. Tiruvallur.
- (3) The second grade college (with school department) under the management of the Municipal Council, Tellicherry.
- (4) The second grade college (with school department) at Coimbatore, at present, an aided institution.

The secondary training classes now at Saidapet, Tanjore and Calicut will be transferred to Chittoor, Tiruvallur and Tellicherry, respectively.

3. The new scales of establishment sanctioned for all the eight institutions in question are exhibited in the proposition statement annexed to these proceedings. The scheme will come into force with effect from the 1st June 1919. This sanction has been registered as No. 43 of 1919-20.

4. The subordinate establishments employed in the institutions will be eligible for War allowance at the rates admissible to those who, prior to January 1919, were ineligible for grain compensation allowance. 4. The additional annual cost of the scheme is estimated to amount to Rs. 53,228 as shown in paragraph 6 of the local Government's letter, No. 129, dated the 4th February 1918 (Enclosure No. 5). There will also be a capital outlay of Rs. 60,000 which will be spread over the first three years after the introduction of the scheme. The local Government have provided for the expenditure involved in the current year's budget estimates, and in the event of the proposal meeting with your approval we shall have no objection to its being brought immediately into effect.

5. In submitting the present scheme for your orders, we desire to explain that we appreciate the importance of the considerations urged by the missionaries in their representation against the original model-school scheme and could, if necessary, examine their contentions in detail; but in view of the fact that an agreement has already been reached as regards the essentials of the present case we refrain from doing so. Moreover, as Lord Crewe pointed out, the bulk of the points raised have already been sufficiently met by the decision reached in the correspondence which preceded the publication of our Education Department Resolution No. 301-C.D., dated the 21st February 1913. There remain, however, the two matters which were specially referred to us for consideration, viz., (i) the question of affording facilities for religious instruction in public institutions and (ii) the expediency of an assurance by the local Government as to the increased expenditure contemplated in respect of aided schools. As regards the former, the whole question of religious and moral education in public institutions is at present under our separate consideration in consultation with local Governments, while as regards the latter, the rules governing capital grants-in-aid have been largely relaxed in Madras, and, in view of the existing financial stringency, and the altered circumstances we feel reluctant to press the local Government at the present moment to furnish any estimate of the nature desired by Lord Crewe.

6. Finally, as regards the general principle involved, viz., the policy of the Government of India in relation to secondary education, we do not consider it necessary to discuss its merits on the present occasion. We merely enclose with this dispatch (Enclosure No. 6) certain statistics from which it will be seen that it has been loyally adhered to throughout India and more especially in the Madras Presidency. The number of model schools proposed (8) is quite insignificant in comparison to the total number of secondary schools in the Presidency (170). Moreover, of the eight schools concerned four are already owned by Government, three are managed by local boards, whose relief in respect of their maintenance is in keeping with the policy laid down in paragraph 10 of our Education Department circular letter No. 873, dated the 19th September 1916 (vide the correspondence ending with Mr. Chamberlain's Public dispatch No. 131, dated the 18th August 1916), and the remaining one is a private institution which receives Government aid. The managing bodies of the four schools which will be provincialised have experienced difficulties in securing the necessary funds for their efficient management and are willing to transfer their rights, entirely and unconditionally, to Government. In the circumstances the local Government's present proposal cannot be regarded as calculated to discourage private effort or to constitute any departure from accepted policy.

Telegram—from His Majesty's Secretary of State for India.
To—His Excellency the Viceroy (Finance Department).

Dated—London, the 4th February 1919 (Received 6th February 1919).

Your dispatch No. 206, dated 27th September. Madras Secondary School. I sanction your proposal.

Order—No. 498, Home (Education), dated 17th April 1919.

The Director of Public Instruction is informed that the Secretary of State has sanctioned a scheme for the establishment of four additional Government secondary schools in the Presidency which, together with the existing four model institutions of this class, should serve to set the standard for secondary schools under private management and also provide the requisite facilities for practical instruction in educational methods and opportunities for more advanced study in the six secondary training institutions in the chief language areas of the Presidency.

The Secretary of State has also sanctioned the proposals for the revision of the establishments in the undermentioned Government institutions:—

- (1) The model school attached to the Teachers' College, Saidapet.
- (2) The model school attached to the Government Training College, Rajahmundry.
- (3) The Government College, Mangalore.
- (4) The Government Madrasa-i-azam.

2. In pursuance of the scheme, the undermentioned institutions will be taken over under departmental control:—

- (1) The Board High School, Chittoor.
- (2) Do. Tiruvalur.
- (3) The second grade college (with school department) under the management of the Municipal Council, Tellicherry.
- (4) The second grade college (with school department) at Coimbatore, at present an aided institution.

The secondary training classes now at Saidapet, Tanjore and Calicut will be transferred to Chittoor, Tiruvalur and Tellicherry, respectively.

3. The new scales of establishment sanctioned for all the eight institutions in question are exhibited in the proposition statement annexed to these proceedings. The scheme will come into force with effect from the 1st June 1919. This sanction has been registered as No. 43 of 1919-20.

4. The subordinate establishments employed in the institutions will be eligible for War allowance at the rates admissible to those who, prior to January 1919, were ineligible for grain compensation allowance. Such of the existing incumbents as may be adversely affected by the arrangement will be granted personal allowances which will not count for leave allowance and pension and will be extinguished in due course as provided in article 61 of the Civil Service Regulations.

(d) This slip should be returned by the Press to the Secretariat when proofs are furnished; it will be sent back to the Press when proofs are returned corrected and should be finally returned to the Secretariat when struck-off copies are supplied.
