This ~~provision~~ ^{rule} has since been modified. [vide paras 3 and 4 of G.O. a qualified ^{architect} ~~man~~ & approved by Govt, the officers of the P.W.D. will not be required to inspect a building while under construction or to pass it on completion." It is further laid down that "where however private qualified professional advice is not available, the responsibilities of the P.W.D. will continue to be as ^{at present} ~~at present~~." This ~~appears to~~ ^{seems to be} ~~meaningless~~ in such cases, the inspection by ~~an~~ ^{an} officer of the P.W.D. will be necessary. In this connection, attention is invited to the note on pp 17-18 of the notes attached to the G.O. As pointed out therein, the point will ~~become~~ become clear when the amendments to the grant-in-aid Code referred to in para A of the G.O. are passed by the Educational Dept. and communicated to the P.W.D.

I do not quite see why if the P.W.D. should be relieved of the responsibility for the satisfactory construction of the building, ~~was~~ in cases where plans have been prepared by a recognized agency, they should still be responsible in cases where the plans have not been prepared by such agency.

In the latter case though the plans may initially have been prepared by incompetent agency, yet I think we are entitled to assume that when such plans actually arrive at the stage of being sanctioned by competent authority, they are then ~~as~~ as plans on an equal footing with those initially prepared by recognized agency, and that the P.W.D.

ought to be relieved of the responsibility for their construction as well —

The inherent excellence of a plan has little connection with its subsequent execution —
