Extract ^{from} of d.c. from the Private Secretary to H.E. the Governor to the Hon'ble Mr.H.G.Stokes, C.I.E.
 I.C.S., dated 8th July 1919.

With reference to my conversation with you this morning I add below a few words about His Excellency's interviews at Cuddapah.

X X X
 A suggestion was made by Mr.Parasurama Rao that a training school for girl teachers should be established, which should be situated in one locality for a period of three years and then move on to some other place, the object being to train girl teachers in the neighbourhood of their own homes and obviate the objection which parents have to sending their girls to distant places for training.

2. He also spoke very disparagingly of the grant-in-aid schools in the district. He would apparently have them all abolished and board schools substituted for them. He says that they often have no accommodation, no furniture and are really not worth grants.

A training school for teachers requires a staff of women teachers, a practicing or model school of girls, accommodation for both students under training and girls in the model school and pedagogical equipment. It is extremely difficult for us to obtain a qualified staff of teachers for our training schools which are located in large centers of population, it would be impossible to obtain a qualified staff as a pre-requisite basis of employment. A model school is not available in every large town, though no doubt arrangements could be made for the use of a local school as a practicing school. It is scarcely feasible to rent accommodation for the location of the training school and for such of the students as are compelled to live in a hostel, for ^{short} periods, and then move on to another place where fresh accommodation has to be sought. Accommodation has also

The available for the staff employed.
 However the number of women available, living in, and prepared to take up teaching in any centre - even at district headquarters - is insufficient to fill a training school.
 The suggestion appears to have been made by some one who is quite out of touch with the actual conditions of female education as it exists in the Ceded District. It is the endeavour of this Dept. to establish at least one Secondary School and one training school for women teachers in each District, and the district headquarters will be, in general, the most suitable place for the schools.

The comprehensive statement in para 2 refers apparently to elementary schools, since there are only two secondary schools in the District. It is well known that ~~the~~ ^{many} of the small teacher-manager schools are not well-run, that their accommodation is poor, that their furniture is meagre and that it is doubtful whether the teachers really earn the grants that are awarded to them.
 But a large number of schools are under mission management, and a very few are under some ^{other} responsible body as managers, and the statement of para 2 cannot be applied generally to these schools.

It cannot indeed be said that all teacher-manager schools are worse than schools under local bodies. A local board school is an out of the way place which is not often visited by responsible officials is apt to degenerate into a worse school than a teacher manager school situated in a large centre. What is needed is not the abolition of teacher manager schools, but effective supervision and local interest in the teacher and in the school, and I repeat to have to note that the placing of a school under a local board does not inevitably induce that local interest which would tend towards efficiency.

The question of establishing a secondary school for girls in the Ceded districts was raised in the Finance Committee also - please see papers at Slip (VII). The Director has the subject already under his consideration please see portion marked A in his note on the previous page. No further action appears to be immediately required on Mr. Parasarama Rao's suggestion on page 10 for orders whether the file may be circulated to and H. E. the Governor for perusal and return
