of the order, I have as far as possible supplied these copies also of the higher rate edition.
As a sufficient number of copies of the higher rate edition of these back numbers was not available, I had in some cases to send the lower rate edition and I am therefore charging for all back numbers (before November) only at the lower rate.
That Government were not aware of the fact that there was a better paper edition, came to my knowledge only recently when the Superintendent of Stationery informed me of the lower rate of subscription, viz., Rs. 6/-.

In view of these circumstances and also of the fact that I have embarked on an enterprise in which I cannot expect suitable encouragement from the public, I beg to request that you will be so good as to recommend to Government their sanction to the payment at the higher rate for the 21 copies subscribed for in the G.O. quoted

Supply of the journal "The South Indian Research"

[C no 668] From the A.P.D. R. No 6750 of 9.1.19
For the Reg.

(K)

In their order no 1342 Home (G.O.) of 11. X. 1918, the Govt sanctioned the supply of 21 copies of "The South Indian Research", at Rs 6 per annum per copy, to the A.P.D. for distribution to certain educational officers and institutions, and directed that the question of the continuance of the supply of the journal should be taken up for consideration before the next year's subscription was made in. This direction was inserted at the suggestion of the Financial Dept. in order to see whether the journal is likely to prove useful. The Director is recommending the continuance of its supply for a further period of one year does not say definitely whether the journal ~~is~~ ^{is} ~~useful~~ ^{useful}. As the journal was started only in August last it appears rather too soon now to ~~decide~~ ^{come to a final decision in the matter}. It is for consideration whether its progress may be watched sometime longer, and the Director requested to report a few months hence - say in June next, on the need for the continuance of its supply.

2/ In this connection, the Director forwards for consideration an application from the Editor soliciting sanction to the payment of the enhanced subscription of Rs 12 per annum per copy, as copies of the edition at the higher rate are now being supplied by him under some misapprehension. There are two editions of the journal - one printed on ordinary paper and the other ^{on} a better class ^{of paper}. The annual subscription for the latter is Rs 12, while that of the former is only Rs 6. The existence of an edition on a better class of paper was ~~not~~, however, ^{not} specially considered when it was brought to our notice and when its first supply was considered. It was therefore apparently thought unnecessary to give the higher rate for the copies subscribed for by the Govt. In view of the fact that a better paper edition may not be undesirable will be welcomed by the Educational Institution where these copies will generally be given and preserved in their libraries, and also in the special circumstances explained by the Editor it is for orders as to whether sanction may be accorded for the payment of the subscription at the higher rate, beginning with the November issue, for the 21 copies now subscribed for.

From the D.I.'s proposal itself the usefulness of the journal may be assumed. Otherwise the D.I. would not have proposed its purchase for a further period. We may pay the higher rate especially as the better edition is being supplied. We will require that edition as the journal will be handled by a number of persons.

In the circumstances explained, the draft order may be accepted in the Financial Dept. In the circumstances explained, the proposal to continue to subscribe for 21 copies of the Journal for another year at Rs 6/- a copy may be accepted in this Dept. From page 4 of CF, it appears that the Editor has already supplied the Cattle's etc. for Nov., December (presumably for January also), and it will only be reasonable to allow him increased payments for these months. ~~As per many the proposals submitted, he added to the draft order for the effect.~~ But this question may perhaps be considered when the Editor actually applies for it. The draft order may be accepted in the Dept. and the file returned to Home (Secy).
