PANINI OFFICE

BAHADURGANJ, ALLAHABAD,

No. 559

Dated 8. Feb.

191

To

The Hon'ble Minister for Education

Government of Madras, Madras.

SIR,

This office publication entitled "Indian Medicinal Plants" has received the patronage of His Imperial Majesty's Secretary of State for India, and, in appreciation of its usefulness, the Government of India has brought it to the notice of all the Local Governments and administrations of this country. Several educational institutions have purchased it, as it has been found useful for educational purposes. I beg to ask if you will be so good as to purchase a few complete sets for the use of the educational institutions in the province under your jurisdiction.

Regarding the price, etc., of this work, you will find it on the pages iii and iv of the cover of the catalogue of books published by this office a copy of which is enclosed herewith.

Yours faithfully

R. S. S.
Manager, Panini Office.

PANINI OFFICE,

Ashram.

BAHADURGANJ,

Allahabad

Sir,

This office has lately published at great cost, a work on Indian Medicinal plants, a prospectus of which is enclosed. It has been patronised by His Majesty's Secretary of State for India, Governments of India, Bengal, Bombay, United Provinces of Agra and Oudh, Behar, Central Provinces, Panjab, some of the ruling princes of leading Indian States and a few educational Institutions. The work deserves encouragement at the hands of every Well-wisher of India.

Mr. S. S. Nehru, I.C.S., Under-Secretary to Government, United Provinces, writes to me, in his letter dated 23rd June 1919, "that His Majesty's Secretary of State for India is desirous of purchasing ten copies of the work.....I am also to inform you that the Government of India has been pleased to bring the work to the notice of all the other Local Governments and Administrations."

I hope you will be so good as to purchase a copy of it for your own use or of some public institution with which you are connected.

Yours faithfully,

Manager.

INDIAN MEDICINAL PLANTS

Dedicated to the Medical profession of India.

PRICE 250 (two hundred and fifty) Rupees only.

"The study of the Ayurvedic and the Unani drugs has been greatly helped by the publication in recent years of a very valuable book on Indian Medicinal Plants. We are indeed very grateful to Lt Col. Kirtikar and Major Basu for the valuable services they have rendered to the cause of medicine."

From the Address of the Chairman of the Reception Committee of the Second All-Indian Medical Conference.

New India says:—

"To all investigators in this field (of indigenous systems of medicine) the monumental work on Indian Medicinal Plants published by the "Panini Office, Allahabad," ought to be indispensable. It is the life work of the two doctors, Major B. D. Basu, I.M.S., and Lieutenant Colonel K. R. Kirtikar, F.L.S., I.M.S., and assisted by an I.C.S., both of whom are also Sanskrit scholars of repute. Apart from the value of the book to the medical profession, it is helpful also in tapping the resources of the country for the manufacture of drugs."

The Modern Review, in reviewing this work, writes:—

"This very valuable work is neatly printed on thick art paper. The illustrations are clear and lithographed on good paper. The portfolios are beautiful.

In a learned introduction the Editor, Major B. D. Basu, dwells, among other things, on the knowledge of medicinal plants which the ancient Hindus possessed at different periods of their history. From introduction it will also be clear that a work like the present one was a desideratum and it will be of great use to students of economic botany, medical men, manufacturers of medicine, agricultural and forest officers and all who are interested in the development of the economic resources of India.

The Imperial and Provincial Agricultural and Forest Departments of British India should make use of the information brought together in this monumental work. All Native States should have medicinal plant gardens and pharmaceutical laboratories, and their Agricultural and Forest Departments should be provided with copies of this work. Now that it has been published, the educated section of the public should insist that all indigenous physicians of repute and all the leading pharmaceutical factories should be able to scientifically identify the plants they use."

Or PANINI'S Grammatical Aphorisms, as arranged and explained

By BHATTOJI DIKSITA :

Sanskrit Text and English Translation,

By SRISA CHANDRA VIDYARNAVA

and VAMANA DASA VASU.

Complete in three Volumes, in 2,400 pages, Royal 8vo.

CONTENTS.

VOLUME I—Nouns and Substantives, pages 1,028.

Do. II—Part I. Verbs and their Conjugation, pages 714.

Do. II— „ II. Kridanta, or Making of Nouns from Roots, pages 408.

Do. III—Vaidika Grammar, pages 247.

It contains 4,000 Sūtras of Pāṇini, 900 Sūtras of Sakatāyana (Unādi), 200 Sūtras on accent (Phit Sūtras), 2,000 verbal roots and their conjugation—incorporating the whole of the Mādāhaviya Dhātuvṛtti, with copious explanatory extracts from Kāśikā, Mābhāṣya, Tattvabodhini, Manoramā, &c., &c.

Indian rate, exclusive of postage, Rs. 45.

Foreign rate, exclusive of postage, £5.

“This is a standard work on Sanskrit grammar, and Sanskrit scholars spend at least a dozen years in mastering its intricacies.  It may be mentioned that the Oriental Translation Fund of England advertised about three quarters of a century ago as under preparation the English translation of the Siddhanta Kaumudi by Professor Horace Hayman Wilson. But, perhaps, he found the work too laborious for him, for the advertised translation was never published.”—(The Indian Mirror, The Hindoo, and the Indian People.)

It has been patronised by His Majesty's Secretary of State for India, the Government of India, and several other Local Administrations, and Rulers of Indian States of India.

This work has been found very useful by University Students.

The Ri Hon'ble F. Max Muller, Oxford, 30th April, 1899.—“* * Allow me congratulate you on your successful termination of Pāṇini's Grammar. It was a great undertaking, and you have done your part of the work most admirably. I say once more what should I have given for such an edition of Pāṇini when I was young, and how much time would it have saved me and others. Whatever people may say, no one knows Sanskrit, who does not know Pāṇini.”

This work has been patronised by His Majesty's Secretary of State for India, the Government of India, and several other Local Administrations and Rulers of Native States of India.

The Panini Office has tried to make the study of religions popular with the educated public of India. Professor Benoy Kumar Sarkar, M.A., one of the distinguished Scholars associated with this Office, went to China to study the different religions of that ancient land and the influence of India on them. He has produced a work which is indispensable to students of comparative religion, namely,

I. The Chinese Religion through Hindu Eyes—A study in the tendencies of Asiatic mentality, with an introduction by Wu Ting-fang, LL.D., late Chinese Minister to U.S.A., Spain, Peru, Mexico and Cuba. Price Rs. 6.

II. The Bible in India, is a well-known work greatly appreciated by students of religions. It was long out of print and so this office has lately reprinted it at great cost, and priced it so low as Rs. 3 only.

There is no safer and better Hand-book to the study of Hindu Philosophy, especially the Vedānta, than the

III. Leaves from the Diary of a Hindu Devotee, by Zero, who is a well-known Scholar and Thinker. Price, one Rupee only.

It has been pronounced by a very competent critic, "as one of the choicest publications of the Panini Office."

IV. The Least of God, By Zero (in the press).

INDIAN MEDICINAL PLANTS.

In the Tropical Diseases Bulletin for April 1920, in the course of a lengthy review of this work, A. T. G. writes :—

"This work on Indian Medicinal Plants has appeared opportunely
.....The writer (of the review) recently identified a medicinal plant —of which only the vernacular name was available—by consulting this work after he had hunted elsewhere in vain.....The book is well got up, printed on good paper with broad margins.....for those individuals and libraries, more particularly in India, that can afford it, the book should form a very useful work of reference."

In their Bibliography on the development of Indigenous drugs, Prof. M. J. Gajjar & Mr. M. R. Engineer of the Chemical and Technical Laboratory, Gwalior Government, write that this work "is the latest publication on the subject especially useful for general information and identification of plants. The chief feature of the work is the illustration of all possible plants by rare and original botanical drawings."

From Address of the Chairman of the Reception Committee of the Second All-India Medical Conference.

"The study of the Ayurvedic and the Unani drugs has been greatly helped by the publication in recent years of a very valuable book on Indian Medicinal Plants. We are indeed very grateful to Lt.-Col. Kirtikar and Major Basu for the valuable services they have rendered to the cause of medicine."

New India says :—

"To real investigators in this field (of indigenous systems of medicine) the monumental work on Indian Medicinal Plants published by the "Panini Office, Allahabad," ought to be indispensable.
It is the life-work of the two doctors, Major B. D. Basu, I.M.S., and Lieutenant-Colonel K. R. Kirtikar, F.L.S., I.M.S., and assisted by an I.C.S., both of whom are also Sanskrit scholars of repute.
Apart from the value of the book to the medical profession, it is helpful also in tapping the resources of the country for the manufacture of drugs."

The Modern Review, in reviewing this work, writes :—

"This very valuable work is neatly printed on thick art paper.
The illustrations are clear and lithographed on good paper. The portfolios are beautiful.

The Imperial and Provincial Agricultural and Forest Departments of British India should make use of the information brought together in this monumental work. All Native States should have medicinal plant gardens and pharmaceutical laboratories, and their Agricultural and Forest Departments should be provided with copies of this work. Now that it has been published, the educated section of the public should insist that all indigenous physicians of repute and all the leading pharmaceutical factories should be able to scientifically identify the plants they use."
