Refce. G.O. No. 1427 Law (Edn.) d. 28.7.26. Will you kindly let me know whether my surmise that contribution to the above fund is compulsory on the part of the entire power house staff from 7.7.26, that is, the date of the orders of the Government of India, is correct even though the individuals holding the posts have not been made permanent.

Under the General Provident Fund rules even temporary employees may* contribute. But the fund is optional and the Govt. pay only interest ~~of~~. The special provident fund instituted for the benefit of the power house staff is a compulsory fund sanctioned in lieu of pension, and ~~to the~~ Govt. have to contribute a half yearly bonus at the rate of 75 per cent of the subscriptions by the officer for the half year. It does not, therefore, appear that temporary employees ~~neither staff~~ can be permitted to contribute to the fund. If they are made to contribute, it will involve extra liability on provincial funds. ~~Temporary employees are not eligible for pension~~

It is stated that such members of the staff as have not been made permanent are not eligible to contribute to the fund. May I therefore take it that contribution to the fund is obligatory on the part of permanent members of the power house staff.
