ORDER—No. 3540 W., dated 20th December 1900.

The papers read above relate to a proposal to attach a class to the Consulting Architect's division for the training of maistries in place of the Artisan class at the College of Engineering which is to be abolished from 1st January 1902.

2. A class consisting, for the present, of six pupils, drawn, if possible, from all parts of the Presidency, will be started by the Consulting Architect. Instruction will be given in brickmaking, bricklaying, masonry, concrete, carpentry, smith and foundry work, and will be purely practical. The class will be held primarily for the benefit of the department, and indoor work will form no part of the course.

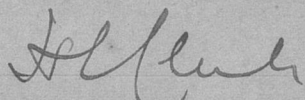

3. Those who pass the Primary examination taking up "Drawing" and "Mensuration" as their optional subjects will be eligible for admission to the class, and no fee will be charged.

4. Those who complete the course satisfactorily will be granted certificates by the Consulting Architect, and will be eligible for appointment as maistries. Any student who is not likely to prove a competent maistry will be summarily dismissed by the Consulting Architect.

5. If the class proves a popular one, the number of students to be admitted will be increased, and the Consulting Architect will be provided with extra establishment.

6. The students will be sent by batches to the Public Works Workshops and Stores for a part of their course; and each will maintain a note-book which will be submitted periodically for inspection by the Consulting Architect.
