GOVERNMENT OF MADRAS.

EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT.

Read—the following paper:—

From Diwan Bahadur V. KRISHNAMA CHARIAR, Registrar of Books, to the Director of Public Instruction, dated Madras, 20th March 1901, No. 31.

In submitting the accompanying catalogue for the fourth or last quarter of 1900, I have the honour to explain that an unavoidable delay of more than a month has occurred owing to certain changes made under instructions from the Educational Secretariat, in the method of filling in the column headed the "Title of book and contents of title page" in the catalogue. Besides entering the names or titles of books as usual in the Roman character, an endeavour has been made to reproduce the vernacular titles and names of authors and other particulars of the contents exactly as they stand in the leading title pages of pure vernacular publications. The vernacular title will be found entered first, followed by an English transliteration within square brackets, and where the title of a book is given both in English and in a vernacular, the English title is printed first, followed by the vernacular one in round brackets. This procedure involved some correspondence, and being quite new to the printers, unexpected mistakes naturally occurred and more than one proof had to be corrected.

The object of all these changes, as Mr. Assistant Secretary Pringle has pointed out, is to enable the Librarians of the India Office and the British Museum and others interested to identify the books catalogued when copies of the same reach their hands. This method of cataloguing is similar to that of the catalogue of the Imperial Library published at the Government Press in Calcutta, and this method is again said to follow the plan of cataloguing books in the general Library of the British Museum.

2. The publications delivered for registration during the quarter is 289 in all, of which 202 may be classed as "books" and 87 "periodicals."

3. Another classification of the registered works according to languages shows that 88 are in English, 69 in Tamil, 65 in Telugu, 9 in Malayalam, 8 in Kanarese, 1 in Uriya, 2 in Hindustani, and 45 in Sanskrit including those published in Nagari and Grandha characters, besides 2 Polyglot publications.

4. A little over 21 per cent. of the entire number catalogued consists of works designed for educational purposes.

5. As usual brief notes on the contents of several of the registered books are entered in the column of remarks.

6. During the quarter, 65 works have been copyrighted and the statement herewith annexed contains an extract of entries of such optional registration including two publications which appertain to the works registered during the first quarter of 1899 and the second quarter of the following year, but whose copyright has only been secured by their proprietors during the period to which the present catalogue relates.

Krishnasámi Aiyar, B.A., Printer; S. P. Rámakrishna Naidu, Publisher.	24th Aug.	73	12mo	1st..	1,000	Do.	0 4 0	....	This dramatic piece in English is written in a slipshod style, while the story is all about the folly of a young man of a respectable family who is enamoured of a girl of low birth, whom he evidently marries in spite of the determined opposition of his kith and clan.
5	3	The Romance of a Zenana by G. Arnold Fernandez.	Do.	G. A. Fernandez ..	Fiction ..	The Premier Press, Madras.	Messrs. Hoe & Co., Printers; Mr. G. A. Fernandez, Publisher.	8th Sept.	484	8vo.	1st..	1,000	Do.	3 0 0	....	This is an ambitious Anglo-Indian novel written in somewhat bombastic style, and the picture of the state of society in Hyderabad is but feebly drawn, with an apparently poor knowledge of English life and thought in India. The scene opens in a zenana in Hyderabad where a beautiful girl, the daughter of a wealthy nobleman, looking out of a window on a street procession sees in the crowd streaming past a handsome young man named Afzul, with whom she falls hopelessly in love. This youth, educated in England, has promised to marry an English lady named Kirkpatrick, who qualifies as a lady doctor, and following him to India, makes a great name for herself; but becoming highly jealous of the young man on account of his intimacy with the zenana girl, she has a serious quarrel with him, and on an attempt being made to poison this girl, she accuses him of the crime and has him arrested and condemned by a court, though he was guiltless. The life of the girl is however saved by the English lady's medical skill, and her father gives a grand entertainment to the whole station in celebration of her recovery, at which the Nizam and other notable men are present as well as the English society; and Miss Kirkpatrick is made much of. This brings matters to a crisis; and Miss Kirkpatrick is arrested for forgery and proved to be a divorced woman and carried off to prison, shrieking out vituperative words on Afzul and telling him exultingly that she has set fire to the zenana. He bursts through the flames and rescues the zenana lady; and in the end they are happily married.
6	186	Tales of Tennáli Ráma ..	Do.	Pandit S. M. Natésa Sástri, B.A.	Do. ..	G. A. Natésan & Co.'s Press, No. 10, Esplanade, Madras.	Messrs. G. A. Natésan & Co.	15th Nov.	46	16mo	1st..	2,000	Do.	0 8 0	....	A collection of short stories which are very popular and amusing in their ingenuity, and which therefore particularly want telling in English as a type of native wit and humour to foreigners.
7	137	Siam and its Peoples; with an account of French Indo-China, compiled from Young, Grindrod, Bowring, Leonowens, Mouhot and others.	Do.	C.L. Society ..	History ..	S.P.C.K. Press, No. 18, Church Road, Vepery, Madras.	C.K. Society, Printers; C.L. Society, Publishers.	25th Oct.	64	8vo.	1st..	3,000	Do.	0 2 6	....	Describes the interesting Buddhist kingdom of Siam and the neighbouring Hindu state of Combaria and the manners and customs of the various races that inhabit them, and contains some twenty-six illustrations and map.
8	187	Malabar and its Folk ..	Do.	T. K. Gopál Panikkar, B.A.	Miscellaneous.	G. A. Natésan & Co.'s Press, No. 10, Esplanade, Madras.	Messrs. G. A. Natésan & Co.	20th Nov.	215	16mo	1st..	1,000	Do.	1 0 0	....	Sets forth the social, legal and religious life of the people of Malabar and attempts a comparative study of what the writer considers to be parallels in nations of other times and places with the peculiar institutions of the Nairs the most prominent section of the people of Malabar.
9	101	A Treatise on Hindu Law and Usage. By J. D. Mayne. Revised and enlarged.	Do.	John D. Mayne ..	Law ..	Higginbotham & Co.'s Press, Madras.	Messrs. Higginbotham & Co.	October..	986	8vo	6th..	4,000	Do.	20 0 0	Messrs. Higginbotham & Co., Mount Road, Madras.	This edition is a bulky volume, being a distinct advance on its predecessors, presenting a mine of information about the domestic customs and usages of the numerous peoples of India. Several important decisions of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council are given, but no reference is made to the Gains of Learning Bill and the Malabar Marriage Law. In spite of these and other omissions, this treatise is regarded by competent Judges as a valuable addition to every law library in the country. Copyright registered.

This is an essay on Shakespeare's King Lear, and its striking feature is not textual or linguistic criticism but the discussion of the moral and political lessons to be drawn from the action of "King Lear" and the undeveloped state of society, and the principles on which India of to-day needs to be ruled, or the force of "love" which to the critic seems necessary to bear the Indian community through the dangers of its present state of transition. Copyright registered.

30th Aug.	41	Do.	1st..	500	Do.	0 4 0	....	This is another of the monthly rush of ephemeral fictions in imitation of European Novels on love-making and marriage. The plot turns upon the effort of an old fashioned father to marry his daughter to a youth of his own choice, but the girl worthy of a different parent prefers to marry her beloved cousin. The moral drawn is that nothing takes place which God did not preordain, and thus illustrates the Hindu doctrine of predestination.
18th Sept.	146	16mo	1st..	1,000	Do.	0 6 0	....	In this novel we have the account of a well-read man who, controlling his passions and forsaking the world, writes on ethical topics on the basis of old texts, and illustrates with suitable examples each vice or virtue spoken of in such texts.
30th do.	128	8vo	1st..	1,000	Do.	0 12 0	Messrs. S. B. Rájárám & Co., No. 34, Árimuttu Méstri Street, Chúlai, Madras.	This is apparently the first Tamil translation of the Mahratta story of Prince Gopichand who suspects his mother Mainávati of want of chastity. This suspicion leads to the crime of throwing into a well the priest to whom she was devoted. Gopichand discovers his mistake at last, and his repentance and the contemplation of virtue and innocence both of his mother and the stoicism and supernatural power of the priest, and other exciting incidents, go to make on the whole an engaging little story of Gopichand and Mainávati. Copyright registered.
1st Nov.	124	Do.	1st..	1,000	Do.	0 10 0	V. A. Gopálakrishna Aiyar, Sub-Editor, "The Swadésa Mitran", No. 16, Perumál Koil Garden Street, Peddu Naickspét, Madras.	The plot of this story is constructed on the familiar lines of a love episode in which a gentle princess named Sánta makes Guna Sílan, the son of her father's minister the object of her affection. The situations arising from this circumstance are perilous for a time and a charge of murder is unjustly brought against Guna Sílan, who suffers therefrom but who is rescued by his father. There are other adventures. The characters in this novel are easily realised, and their distinctions especially in the language spoken by each are well maintained. The style is often florid and there are some mistakes in spelling. Copyright registered.

Brahmánanda Rao.	6th do.	56	Do.	1st..	500	Do.	0 4 0	....	A curious but interesting contribution to the history of fiscal burdens imposed by Native Chiefs in the olden time. It contains an account of a Native Minister named Ráyana Bháskara, a Niyogi Brahmin, who is said to have interfered by his administrative skill with the fiscal system of the old Asvapati, Gajapati and Narapati, chiefs of Telugu country, and brought about the abolition of such obnoxious taxes as rate on cows, a rate per Brahmin according to his facial marks, on widows who kept the hair on their heads to grow, on the income for each of the seasons, a poll-tax on grown-up girls, and a marriage tax on occasions of all propitious ceremonies, besides a tax on each caste. After carrying out their reductions of taxes under native rule, this Bháskara got a scale of fees adopted for the privilege of using music, procession horses, palanquins and tonjon, flags and other honorary badges, defining who may use these and who should not, on marriage occasions. The third item of local relief he sought with success was the Firman issued by the Mussalman ruler of Golconda or Badshaw or Alungar to abolish all taxes on mats and beds, on the privilege of throwing in the street ashes and other garbage of the house, on iron styles with which clerks and copyists wrote for their masters and the like imposts. This financial reformer got the abolition of taxes and removal of disabilities by bribing the chiefs concerned with money, which he is said to have obtained by some mysterious way from his devotion to the goddess Kanchi Kámákshi and made the best use of his opportunities for the good of the public that had been oppressed by arbitrary taxes under native rule.

Contains a biographical sketch of one of the Vaishnava apostles of Southern India named Amalanádhipirán, who chose to live among and preach to Panchamas and all others the doctrine of "Salvation by Love." His was like the life of Saiva Saint Nandanár of humble origin—one of the canonized saints spoken of in the sacred literature of the Sivites. The saint was ordered to be brought to the Srírangam temple, and was absorbed in the form of a streak of light into the Almighty's figure by his divine grace, as Nandanár was at the Siva temple in Chidambaram.

Catalogue of Books.

Ordering the publication in the Fort St. George Gazette of the — registered during the fourth quarter of 1900 and transmitting copies to the Secretary of State and the Government of India.

GOVERNMENT OF MADRAS.

EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT.

Read—the following paper: —

From Diwan Bahadur V. KRISHNAMA CHARIAR, Registrar of Books, to the Director of Public Instruction, dated Madras, 20th March 1901, No. 31.

In submitting the accompanying catalogue for the fourth or last quarter of 1900, I have the honour to explain that an unavoidable delay of more than a month has occurred owing to certain changes made under instructions from the Educational Secretariat, in the method of filling in the column headed the "Title of book and contents of title page" in the catalogue. Besides entering the names or titles of books as usual in the Roman character, an endeavour has been made to reproduce the vernacular titles and names of authors and other particulars of the contents exactly as they stand in the leading title pages of pure vernacular publications. The vernacular title will be found entered first, followed by an English transliteration within square brackets, and where the title of a book is given both in English and in a vernacular, the English title is printed first, followed by the vernacular one in round brackets. This procedure involved some correspondence, and being quite new to the printers, unexpected mistakes naturally occurred and more than one proof had to be corrected.

The object of all these changes, as Mr. Assistant Secretary Pringle has pointed out, is to enable the Librarians of the India Office and the British Museum and others interested to identify the books catalogued when copies of the same reach their hands. This method of cataloguing is similar to that of the catalogue of the Imperial Library published at the Government Press in Calcutta, and this method is again said to follow the plan of cataloguing books in the general Library of the British Museum.

2. The publications delivered for registration during the quarter is 289 in all, of which 202 may be classed as "books" and 87 "periodicals."

3. Another classification of the registered works according to languages shows that 88 are in English, 69 in Tamil, 65 in Telugu, 9 in Malayalam, 8 in Kanarese, 1 in Uriya, 2 in Hindustani, and 45 in Sanskrit including those published in Nagari and Grandha characters, besides 2 Polyglot publications.

4. A little over 21 per cent. of the entire number catalogued consists of works designed for educational purposes.

5. As usual brief notes on the contents of several of the registered books are entered in the column of remarks.

6. During the quarter, 65 works have been copyrighted and the statement herewith annexed contains an extract of entries of such optional registration including two publications which appertain to the works registered during the first quarter of 1899 and the second quarter of the following year, but whose copyright has only been secured by their proprietors during the period to which the present catalogue relates.

Enclosure.
