C. No. 626 of 1901

SUBJECT.

Exemption from the examination rules.

FOR ORDERS.

In G.O. no. 667 Ed. dated the 20th Dec. 1900, the High court was requested to give a list of the appointments made in contravention of the examination rules since 1st January 1896 and the names of persons so appointed in view to their special exemption.

2. With the current read above the High court furnishes two lists. The list marked A shows, it is said, the appointments made under a misinterpretation of note 1 to the public service notification; the list marked B shows the appointments made in contravention of the examination rules generally.

3. G.O. no. 667 Ed. & 20th Dec. 1900 had reference to the appointments of officers who had not passed the special test or tests newly prescribed.

scribed for certain posts. The list A shows only six such appointments; or four, excluding those subsequently cancelled by the High Court. The remaining appointments are of persons who have not passed the required general test.

4. Apparently all these appointments have now to be approved. Orders are however solicited as to whether the two irregular appointments (nos 3 & 6 in the list) which have been cancelled and are no longer in force should be approved.

5. The promotion of Ramamurti Aiyar, who has passed the old general test, from a clerkship on Rs 25 to one on Rs 300 appears to be regular, as it is not barred by any previous rules. No exemption in this case is therefore necessary.

6. The persons shown in list B, may be exempted from the examination rules so far as concerns their present appointments.

21-5-01

Exemption from the rules is not necessary in the case of Ramamurti Aiyar; and in regard to the persons whose names are shown in list B., the Government are not prepared to do more than exempt them in respect to their present appointments. In all other cases, permanent exemptions will be sanctioned as recommended by the High court.
