2. The building in which this school and the Local Fund Technical Institute are located is a two-storied building open on all sides. The Training School occupies the upper rooms and the northern portion of the ground floor while the southern portion below stairs is occupied by the Technical Institute. The nightwatchman attached to the latter institution has to devote all his attention to the workshops of the Institute and the valuable property contained therein. His services, therefore, are not available for other parts of the building. Further it is reported that for want of room the black-boards and other articles of furniture belonging to the training school have to be kept out at night in open verandahs upstairs and that these verandahs are easily accessible from without by means of an adjoining open terrace. The property of the school under these circumstances is very insecure and it seems to be very necessary that a separate nightwatchman should be employed for the Training School.
