ENCLOSURES.

DESPATCH from His Majesty's Secretary of State for India, to His Excellency the Right Honourable the Governor-General of India in Council, dated India Office, London, 20th June 1902, No. 57 Public (Education).

Referring to the despatch of Your Excellency's Government, No. 2 (Home Department—Education) of the 17th April, I forward a copy of a letter from the Board of Education conveying the decision of the Board to recognise a period of not less than eighteen months' approved service in elementary schools in India under Government inspection as qualifying certificated teachers under article 63 of the Code to receive their parchment certificates upon the recommendation of a Government Inspector.

From the Board of Education, London, to the Under Secretary of State for India, dated Whitehall, London, S.W., 3rd June 1902, No. J. and P. 853.

Adverting to Sir H. Walpole's letter, dated the 21st ultimo, I am directed to state that, after considering the letter from the Government of India, dated the 17th April last, with its enclosure, the Board of Education have decided that they will recognise a period of not less than eighteen months' approved service in elementary schools in India under Government inspection as qualifying certificated teachers under article 63 of the Code to receive their parchment certificates upon the recommendation of a Government Inspector.

The Board of Education agree with the suggestion contained in paragraph 2 of the letter of the Government of India that due notice should be given to the local Inspector of Schools, when a teacher from an English training college proposes to serve the probationary period of eighteen months in an Indian school. It would appear that such notice should be given by the teacher, or better still by the responsible managers of the school in which he or she is employed.
