FURTHER PAPERS.

Educational Rules all the stipends in training colleges and schools are sanctioned by the Director on the recommendations of the Principals in the case of the former and of the Inspectors or the Inspectresses, as the case may be, in respect of the latter. Similarly the award of scholarships under the Government scholarship notification is made by the Director on the recommendations of heads of colleges and the Inspectors of schools and the Inspectresses of girls' schools. So far as I can see there is no advantage gained by this centralisation. In the case of stipends in Training Colleges and schools the selection is virtually made by the Principals of the Colleges and the Inspectors of schools and the only check that I exercise is to see that the budget allotment is not exceeded, or where the expenditure falls short of the allotment, that the surplus provision is either otherwise utilized or surrendered. In the case of scholarships Inspectors send on all the applications that they receive provided that the preliminary conditions are satisfied with the result, that this office is flooded with applications with which it cannot deal on any principle. It is for instance quite impossible for me to distinguish between the merits and needs of two boys in different schools, both of whom have passed the primary examination and who are both described as "very poor". Inspectors of schools and Inspectresses of girls' schools are now empowered to make appointments on Rs. 30 and less in their own circles, and they may safely therefore be made responsible for the distribution of
