Letter, No. 761, Educational, 11th December 1902.

DECEMBER.

REQUESTING that sanction may be accorded to the proposal to raise the pay of the assistant to the professor of hygiene and bacteriology at the Madras Medical college from Rs. 100—10—200 to Rs. 200—20—300.

EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT.

From

M. HAMMICK, Esq., C.I.E., I.C.S.,
Secretary to the Government of Madras,
Educational Department,

To

THE SECRETARY TO THE GOVERNMENT OF INDIA,
HOME DEPARTMENT,
Dated Fort St. George, 11th December 1902.

SIR,

I am directed to address you on the subject of raising the pay of the assistant to the professor of hygiene and bacteriology at the Madras Medical college.

2. The appointments of assistant professors of the Medical college are, as a rule, held by members of the subordinate medical service and these officers are in receipt of their grade-pay and a teaching allowance of Rs. 100 or Rs. 50 per mensem, according as they are assistant surgeons or apothecaries, or hospital assistants. The assistantship to the professor of hygiene and bacteriology is, however, held by a graduate in medicine who is not connected with the Medical department. This exception was made with the view of securing and retaining a graduate of high and special attainments who, being free from liability to transfer, would give the college the full benefit of his knowledge and experience for a number of years.

3. The present occupant of the post has requested that the appointment may be included in the Provincial Educational service, but there are objections to the course being taken. The appointment being a special one requiring special qualifications, it will never be advisable to assign any general educational appointment to the holder of it. The emoluments of this assistant are however at present lower than those to which the other assistant professors can attain, and the introduction of bacteriology into the curriculum of the Medical college has caused an increase in his duties, which were already more arduous and of a higher quality than those falling on the other assistant professors. The appointment of the new Provincial officer, who will have charge of bacteriology and also of the vaccine institute, will not relieve the assistant to the professor of any of his present duties. It will continue to be necessary that he should perform experiments, collect materials and give personal attention to the practical work of the students. This work, indeed, is likely to become more onerous in the future than it is at present. The Surgeon-General and the Director of Public Instruction both consider that the emoluments of the assistant professor should be increased; the former officer recommends that the pay may be fixed at Rs. 200—400. While not prepared to recommend the increase proposed by the Surgeon-General, His Excellency the Governor in Council considers, for the reasons given above, that the pay of the appointment should be raised from Rs. 100—10—200 to Rs. 200—20—300 a month, and I am to request that the Government of India will be pleased to accord their sanction to the proposition statement which accompanies this letter.

I have the honour to be,

Sir,

Your most obedient servant,

M. HAMMICK,
Secretary to Government.

The appointment being a special one requiring special qualifications it will never be advisable to assign any general educational appointment to the holder of it. His special qualifications make it desirable that he should be retained in the post, but the pay of Rs.700, the highest salary attached to any appointment in the Provincial service, is too high for the duties of the post of Asstt. Professor of hygiene at the Medical college. The emoluments of this assistant are however at present lower than those to which the other asstt. professors can attain, & the introduction of bacteriology into the curriculum of the Medical college has caused an increase in his duties, which were already more arduous and of a higher quality than those falling on the other asstt. professors.
