GOVERNMENT OF MADRAS.

EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT.

READ—the following paper:—

From the Hon'ble Mr. G. H. STUART, M.A., Director of Public Instruction, to the Secretary to Government, Educational department, dated Madras, 1st December 1902, Ref. on C. No. 4184.

Referring to paragraph 4 of G.O., No. 390, Educational, dated 8th July 1902, I have the honour to suggest that the consideration of the question of the transfer of the carpet-weaving department of the School of Arts to Ellore may, for the reasons stated in my letter, Ref. on C. No. 5640, dated 29th August 1902, read in G.O., Mis. No. 1094 M., dated 10th September 1902, be deferred to a future date and that the jewellery department of the school be abolished with effect from 1st April next. This class is in charge of two maistries on the temporary establishment, one on Rs. 20 and the other on Rs. 12, and contains seven paid apprentices and one probationer. The maistries may be transferred to the metal work department and the apprentices may also join that department if they so wish.

ORDER—No. 4, Educational, dated 9th January 1903.

EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT.

NOTES CONNECTED WITH G.O., No. 4, EDUCATIONAL, DATED
9TH JANUARY 1903.

[SUBJECT.—Carpet-weaving and jewellery departments of the School of Arts.]

From the Director of Public Instruction, No. 4184, dated 1st December 1902.

In reviewing the report on the working of the School of Arts for 1901-1902, the Director advocated the abolition of the jewellery department and the transfer of the carpet-weaving department to Ellore and he was asked to submit the proposals in separate communications for the consideration of Government—vide paragraph 4 of G.O., No. 390, Educational, dated 8th July 1902.

2. The Director now proposes—

(1) that the consideration of the question of transferring the carpet-weaving department to Ellore may be postponed to a future date, and

(2) that the jewellery department may be abolished with effect from 1st April next.

He gives no reasons whatever in his present letter in support of the abolition of the jewellery department. Perhaps he has nothing to add to what he said in his review above referred to. There appears to be no hurry about the matter and the consideration of the question may be taken up in connection with the reorganization of the school—vide G.O., No. 614, Educational, dated 4th October 1902.

T. KANAKASUNDARAM PILLAI—4-12-02.

It is unlikely that when orders are passed on the report of the committee on industrial education that the metal department which Mr. Chatterton desires to strengthen by the abolition of the jewellery department will be allowed to remain at all. It seems therefore better to leave matters alone for the present.

P. T. THARYAN—4-12-02.

What is stated at A is correct. There is, I believe, very little to be said in favour of the jewellery department, but piecemeal reforms are in present circumstances undesirable, and I think the Government should defer passing orders on the proposal until they are in possession of the views of the Government of India on the whole question of art schools.

A. T. PRINGLE—23-12-02.

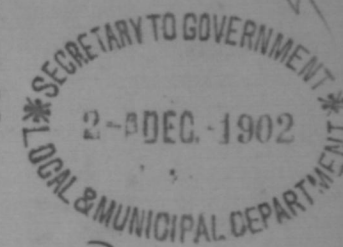

I do not see that anybody is to gain anything by the abolition of the jewellery department as the maistries are to be transferred to the metal department and the apprentices too. The truth is the "jewellery" department does not exist—making kaisar-i-hind medals is hardly jewellery. It is simply part of the metal department which does finer metal work than the rest of the department.

M. HAMMICK—24-12-02.
