To

The Director of Public Instruction,

Madras.

Sir,

Under the sanction of the Government of India communicated with your endorsement No 1275, dated 8th February 1900, the revision of McNally's Sanitary Handbook for India was entrusted to Captain (now Major) A.E. Grant, M.D., I.M.S. on an honorarium of Rs. 700. After some correspondence between this office and Major Grant on the progress of the work, he promised to complete the revision "as soon as possible" after he proceeded on leave in the early part of last year. Not having received any further communication on the subject from him I gathered that the work had not been completed and as the matter is one of urgency, I addressed an enquiry to him at the beginning of last month as to whether he intended to complete the work at once, pointing out the serious inconvenience caused by the prolonged delay in carrying out the revision. It was also pointed out that the classes suffered for want of a suitable text-book and that if he could not undertake the revision at once, Captain J.W. Cornwall, M.D., I.M.S. was prepared to do so and to complete it in about four months time. In reply Major Grant has written to say that he is agreeable to the transfer of the work to Captain Cornwall, I.M.S. In these circumstances, I have the honour to request you will kindly take the necessary action to obtain the early orders of Government to transfer the revision of the book in question to Captain J.W. Cornwall, M.D., I.M.S. Acting Professor of Hygiene, Medical College with the sanctioned honorarium of Rs. 700. As the matter is a very urgent one, I beg that the settlement of this question may be undertaken as speedily as possible.
