Quinquennial report on Education.

Communicating to the Director of Public Instruction letter from the Government of India regarding the preparation of the — and asking him to make an application about the beginning of August 1907 for the services of an officer to assist him in the preparation of the next report.

GOVERNMENT OF MADRAS.

EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT.

Read—the following paper :—

Letter—from H. H. Risley, Esq., c.s.i., c.i.e., Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department (Education).
To—the Secretary to the Government of Madras, Educational Department.
Dated—Simla, the 25th June 1906.
No.— 450.

The Government of India desire to invite the attention of the Government of Madras to the subject of the preparation of the quinquennial reports on education for the period ending 31st March 1907. In the letter from this department numbered $\frac{2730}{2746}$, dated the 26th March 1901, it was requested that the educational reports should contain a general but condensed summary, in narrative form, of the educational work done in each province during the period dealt with, indicating the salient features in each division of educational work, and the tendencies shown in various directions of educational development. The response which has been made, especially in Bombay and the United Provinces, to this demand for improved reports deserves acknowledgment; but taking as a whole the quinquennial reports for the period ending March 1902, the Governor-General in Council considers that they failed to do justice to the work of the Education Department which they were intended to record. The worst of these quinquennial reports consisted of 73 pages of letterpress, the whole of which was mechanically compiled according to a routine form, and was composed almost entirely of reproductions of figures from the tables, with bald statements of the differences between them and those of previous years. No other report was so barren of intelligence as this, but matter of the same kind was also permitted to appear in the reports of some other provinces. The Government of India consider that of the statistics contained in the tables only those should be quoted in the text to which the Director wishes to call attention, upon which he thinks it necessary to comment, or which illustrate his descriptions. Any further citation of figures would serve no useful purpose, for when statistics are required in the ordinary course of official business they are invariably taken from the tables and not from the text of the annual reports. A series of routine reports upon individual institutions, recording unimportant variations in the numbers and personnel, is equally uninstructive.

2. The Government of India are aware of the excellent work which is being done by the Education Departments, and they fear that the chief cause why this work was so inadequately represented in the last quinquennial reports was the onerous character of the duties incumbent upon the Directors of Public Instruction and the consequent lack of leisure to record in general terms the salient points which called for treatment. The Government of India therefore hope that if it will facilitate the production of the quinquennial report in the Madras Presidency for the period 1902—1907 to place an officer on special duty for a short time to assist the Director in its production, the Governor in Council will be able to afford him that assistance. They agree with the remark made by one local Government in its review of the last quinquennial report that "the recent orders make it more than ever necessary that much personal care should be devoted to the preparation of the report".

From the Court of Directors of the East India Company to the Governor-General of India in Council, No. 49, dated 19th July 1854, paragraph 19.

3. It was laid down in the despatch of 1854 that reports by the inspectors should be embodied in the annual reports of the heads of departments. The Government of India desire that this practice, wherever it has been discontinued, should be resumed and they trust that there will be time to give the necessary instructions for the inclusion of such matter in the next quinquennial report. The contributions from the inspectors here referred to should not consist of matter having only local interest, but should record their own observations upon important educational developments, and should be cast in a general form, with particular illustrations, rather than in the form of reports upon single institutions. It is unnecessary that each of the inspectors should cover all the ground in each report, but a selection of topics and a rotation of reporting should be arranged.

4. I am also to take this opportunity of inviting attention to the practice which is followed in the report of the Director of Public Instruction, Madras, of including a paragraph (numbered 18 in the report for 1904–1905) which reconciles the figures of expenditure given in the appended educational tables with the net expenditure shown by the Accountant-General under the head "22. Education." The Government of India consider this information useful, and would be glad if it could be furnished in the other reports.

Order—No. 502, Educational, dated 27th July 1906.

Communicated to the Director of Public Instruction with the request that instructions may be issued for the preparation of the next quinquennial report on Education on the lines laid down by the Government of India. Provision should be made in the budget estimates under 22. Education for 1907–1908 for the deputation of an officer on special duty for two months to assist the Director in the preparation of the report, and application should be made for the services of such an officer about the beginning of August 1907.

EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT.

NOTES CONNECTED WITH G.O., No. 502, EDUCATIONAL, DATED 27TH JULY 1906.

[SUBJECT.—Instructions for the preparation of the quinquennial report on education for the quinquennium 1902–1903 to 1906–1907.]

From the Government of India, Home Department, No. 450, dated 25*th June* 1906.

The last quinquennial report was for the quinquennium 1897–1898 to 1901–1902 and the review of the reports was prepared by Mr. R. Nathan, I.C.S.

2. The Madras report for the quinquennium was prepared by the late Mr. Stuart and was issued in 1902. It consisted of 63 pages of letter-press. The Government observed in this connection "the report "is however longer than is necessary and "a great deal of it is occupied by lists of "figures from which it is difficult to extract definite conclusions. In many cases "the progress of the past year and that of the quinquennium are dealt with in the same "paragraph without sufficient clearness of distinction. The almost complete absence of "tables from the body of the report, though in accordance with the orders upon the "subject, does not tend to make it easier "of comprehension. The recent orders "make it more than ever necessary that "much personal care should be devoted "to the preparation of the report."

Paragraph 1 of G.O., No. 783, Educational, dated 22nd December 1902.

The last sub-para. of paragraph 4 of the letter from the Government of India on page 5 of G.O., No. 355, Educational, dated 26th June 1901.

3. The Government of India now say that the worst of the last quinquennial reports "consisted of 73 pages of letter-"press the whole of which was mechani-"cally compiled according to a routine "form and was composed almost entirely of reproductions of figures from the tables, "with bald statements of the differences between them and those of previous years. "No other report was barren of intelligence as this but matter of the same kind was "also permitted to appear in the reports of some other provinces."

Our report was 63 pages.
H. D. TAYLOR.

Although the Madras report which contained only 63 pages is not the one singled out by the Government of India, it seems to be among "the reports of some other "provinces" referred to.

The Government of India agree with the remark in the last sentence of the quotation in paragraph 2 supra that "the recent orders make it more than ever "necessary that much personal care should be devoted to the preparation of the "report."

4. The next quinquennial report is for the quinquennium 1902–1903 to 1906–1907 and has to be issued about the close of 1907. The Government of India now issue certain instructions for its preparation, which may be summarized as follows:—

"(1) The report should contain a general but condensed summary in narrative "form of the educational work done, indicating the salient features in each division "of educational work and the tendencies shown in various directions of educational "development."

(2) "Of the statistics contained in the tables only those should be quoted in the "text to which the Director wishes to call attention, upon which he thinks it necessary "to comment or which illustrate his descriptions. Any further citation of figures

"would serve no useful purpose. A series of routine reports upon individual institutions recording unimportant variations in the numbers and personnel is equally "uninstructive."

(3) If necessary an officer should be placed on special duty for a short time to assist the Director in the production of the report.

(4) Reports by Inspectors should be embodied in the Director's future reports and in the next quinquennial report. These reports of Inspectors "should record their "own observations upon important educational developments and should be cast in a "general form," a selection of topics and a rotation of reporting for each Inspector being arranged.

(5) The figures of expenditure given in the appended tables should continue to be reconciled with the net expenditure shown by the Accountant-General under 22. Education.

5. Submitted that the letter from the Government of India may be communicated in full to the Director of Public Instruction with the remark that the necessary instructions may be issued at once for the preparation of the next quinquennial report on the lines chalked out by the Government of India. The Director may also be asked to bring up at the proper time the question of placing an officer on special duty to assist him if he considers such a step necessary.

P. T. Tharyan—7-7-06.

The file had better go in the first instance to the Director of Public Instruction u.o. for remarks as to the necessity for placing an officer on special duty. This point should be decided now as provision will have to be made in the budget of 1907-1908. It will also be for consideration whether the officer so deputed for special duty should be an officer of the Educational Department or a junior civilian. It seems very doubtful whether any officer of the Educational Department could be spared.

H. D. Taylor—10-7-06.

G. S. F[orbes]—10-7-06.

To Director of Public Instruction for remarks.

Office of the Director of Public Instruction.

It is peculiarly important that the report in question should be as well done as possible, as it will deal with a period of special activity. I should be very glad indeed if an officer could be put on special duty to assist me in the literary part of the work. Two months should suffice, from about the middle of August or even the six weeks preceding the 1st of October in which case perhaps it might be the officer deputed to prepare the general administration report.

2. It had already occurred to me that it would be a good thing to revert to Inspectors' reports and I called for such some time ago.

3. The real difficulty about the annual report is in getting time to work at it oneself. The statistics are always delayed but I have done all I could to get them earlier and we were a little better off last year. We have to depend upon so many private managers who will not get the figures ready before they go off for their summer holiday.

A. G. Bourne—13-7-06.

Educational Department.

The file will now be sent to the Public and Financial Departments for remarks as to the deputation of an officer on special duty and the provision of funds.

If an Indian Civil Service officer is required he will be wanted in August 1907. This Department may, it is submitted, agree to an Indian Civil Service officer being placed on deputation then. Educational will doubtless apply for the officer a month or two in advance.

Financial Department.

The Education Department may be asked to include the necessary provision or to direct the Director of Public Instruction to do so in the budget estimate under Education for 1907-1908. The allotment can only be approximate.
