Read—the following paper :—

Letter—from J. C. Fergusson, Esq., Under Secretary to the Government of India Home Department (Medical).
To—the Secretary to the Government of Madras, Educational Department.
Dated—Simla, the 21st July 1906.
No.—633 (Medical).

No. 1235-T.M., dated the 21st June 1906.

I am directed to forward a copy of the letter from the Government of Bengal noted on the margin, submitting a proposal to increase the allowance attached to the appointment of Professor of Dental Surgery at the Medical College, Calcutta, from Rs. 200 to Rs. 300 a month, and to request that, with the permission of the Governor in Council, the Government of India may be informed of the reasons which led to the pay of the similar appointment at the Madras Medical College being fixed at Rs. 400 instead of Rs. 200 a month.

Enclosures.

Letter—from H. J. McIntosh, Esq., I.C.S., Officiating Secretary to the Government of Bengal.
To—the Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department.
Dated—Darjeeling, the 21st June 1906.
No.—1235-T.M.

I am directed to submit, for the consideration and orders of the Government of India, a representation, dated 21st January 1905, from Mr. G. O. Ranger, Professor of Dental Surgery at the Medical College, Calcutta, regarding the pay of that appointment.

2. Under the medical warrant of 1867 the Professorship of Dental Surgery is treated as a Minor Professorship, and the staff salary of the appointment is fixed in all the Presidencies at Rs. 200 a month. This allowance is under the orders contained in Resolution No. 679, dated 7th February 1880, of the Government of India, Department of Finance and Commerce, regarded as a local allowance when the Lecturer or Professor holds no substantive public appointment. In Bengal the appointment has been filled by private dental practitioners who have drawn the allowance of Rs. 200 a month for the duties performed by them.

3. The present holder of the appointment, Mr. G. O. Ranger, has represented that the allowance which he receives is inadequate, as compared with that drawn by the Professor of Dental Surgery in the Madras Medical College, and he has urged that in view of the greater importance of the Calcutta appointment it should be increased so as to exceed that of the corresponding appointment in Madras.

4. The Lieutenant-Governor understands that the pay of the Professor of Dental Surgery, Madras, is Rs. 400 a month, though he is not aware of the reasons which have led to its being fixed at this amount. The duties of the Madras officer, the Lieutenant-Governor is informed, comprise the delivery of a systematic course of lectures on Dental Surgery every autumn session, i.e., from July to December, twice a week, one hour each day, and he also attends patients at the Out-patients department of the General Hospital three days a week from 7-30 to 9 A.M. The Professor of Dental Surgery, Calcutta, delivers two lectures a week during a course of twenty lectures for the session which extends from June to August. He attends the out-door Dental department of the Medical College Hospital twice a week from 7-30 to 9 A.M. and treats dental patients in the hospital. He also gives practical instruction to the Military students in the Out-patient department.

5. Although the Madras Professor delivers 34 lectures a year as compared with 20 delivered by the Calcutta Professor it is reported that the latter has very much more practical work to perform, and that, as will be seen from the statement attached, his class is nearly four times as large as that at Madras. The greater number of military pupils at Calcutta involves far heavier work in the matter of practical instruction, and the number of patients treated and of operations performed in Calcutta is also considerably greater than in Madras, as will appear from the statement in the margin. The Calcutta Professor also does a large amount of mechanical work for Surgical patients.

6. For the above reasons the Principal of the Medical College is of opinion that the claim of the Professor of Dental Surgery, Medical College, Calcutta, to increased remuneration deserves consideration, and the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals, Bengal, has recommended that the allowance attached to the appointment should be raised to Rs. 300 a month. The Lieutenant-Governor desires to support this recommendation more especially in view of the fact that the work has largely increased since the allowance was first fixed at Rs. 200, and I am accordingly to request that the Government of India may be moved to accord their sanction to the increase of the allowance from Rs. 200 to Rs. 300.

Letter—from G. O. Ranger, Esq., Professor of Dental Surgery, Medical College, Calcutta.
To—the Principal, Medical College, Calcutta.
Dated—Calcutta, the 21st January 1905.

I have the honour to call your attention to the matter of pay of my appointment at the Medical College, Calcutta, as Professor of Dental Surgery. When I assure you that the pay of the Professor of Dental Surgery in the Madras Medical College is double that which I receive, and point out that the work of my appointment is considerably heavier I would beg to ask you to recommend to the Government of Bengal that the pay of the Professor of Dental Surgery in the Medical College, Calcutta, should certainly in view of its greater importance, be increased above that of the Madras appointment.

Endorsement by F. J. Drury, Major, I.M.S., Principal, Medical College, Calcutta, dated 13th February 1905, No. 190.

Forwarded to the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals, Bengal.

Order—No. 551, Educational, dated 18th August 1906.

The following letter will be despatched to the Government of India.

H. D. Taylor,
Ag. Secretary to Government.

Letter—from H. D. TAYLOR, Esq., I.C.S., Acting Secretary to the Government of Madras, Educational Department.
To—the Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department.
Dated—Ootacamund, the 18th August 1906.
No.—552, Educational.

I am directed to acknowledge receipt of Mr. Fergusson's letter No. 633 (Medical), dated 21st July 1906, in which the Government of India request that they may be informed of the reasons which led to the pay of the Professor of Dental Surgery at the Madras Medical College being fixed at Rs. 400 a month.

2. In reply, I am to invite attention to Mr. Price's letter No. 666, Educational, dated 19th November 1888, and to state that the Professorship of Dental Surgery at the Madras Medical College created under the general orders of the Governor-General, No. 370 of the 4th April 1867, remained unfilled till 1883 when the sanction was revived in Home department letter No. 85, dated 13th February 1883, and Mr. H. J. Gould was appointed on a salary of Rs. 200 per mensem. He was selected in England for the post as no member of the Indian Medical Service then serving in Madras was found qualified to discharge the duties of the Professorship.

3. On appointment he was required to lecture on dentistry at the Medical College during the summer session of three months and to perform dental operations at the public hospitals of Madras on four days a week. After a period of five years it was decided that the course of instruction in dentistry should be extended to six months, the subjects taught being Dental Anatomy and Physiology and Dental Surgery, and that the students should be given a course of practical training in the latter branch, taught how to administer nitrous oxide gas, and be instructed as to the simpler appliances of mechanical dentistry. In consideration of the additional work thus entailed it was proposed to raise Mr. Gould's pay from Rs. 200 to Rs. 400 per mensem, without claim to leave or pension allowances, and this proposal was sanctioned by Lord Cross in his Public Despatch, No. 40, dated 9th May 1889, communicated with Home department endorsement No. 277 (Education), of the 20th June 1889. When Mr. Gould resigned in 1894 Mr. C. F. Badcock was appointed Professor of Dental Surgery by the Secretary of State on the same salary.

NOTES CONNECTED WITH G.O., Nos. 551, 552, EDUCATIONAL, DATED 18th AUGUST 1906.

[Subject.—Reasons which led to the pay of the Professor of Dental Surgery at the Madras Medical College being fixed at Rs. 400.]

From the Government of India, dated 21st July 1906, No. 633.

In the general orders of the Government of India, No. 370 of 1867—the first paper in the stock file No. IV placed below—a revised scale of consolidated salaries was fixed for officers of the Indian Medical Service, in which the professorship of Dental Surgery in the several Presidencies was considered as a minor professorship and a staff salary of Rs. 200 per mensem was fixed for it. An officer of the Indian Medical Service holding this professorship could thus draw the pay of his rank plus Rs. 200.

2. In Madras, however, the appointment was never filled up till September 1883—G.O., No. 680, Educational, dated 10th October 1883—also paragraph 4 of the Surgeon-General's letter on page 2 of G.O., No. 372, Educational, dated 27th November 1882. In November 1882 the Surgeon-General reported that the sanction conveyed in the general orders of the Government of India referred to in the foregoing paragraph had lapsed and that no member of the Indian Medical Service then serving in Madras was competent to discharge the duties of the Professor—paragraphs 8 and 9 of his letter on page 3 of G.O., No. 372, Educational, dated 27th November 1882. The sanction of the Government of India was then requested to revive the Professorship and application made for the selection of a suitable person to fill up the post—Letter No. 373, Educational, dated 27th November 1882.

3. The creation of the appointment on Rs. 200 per mensem was sanctioned in the letter from the Government of India printed with G.O., No. 96, Educational, dated 27th February 1883, and the first Professor, Mr. H. J. Gould, arrived in Madras on the 11th September 1883—G.O., No. 680, Educational, dated 10th October 1883—on a five years' agreement. The agreement will be found with G.O., Nos. 511, 512, Educational, dated 6th August 1883, in the volume of proceedings for that month.

4. Mr. Gould, it seems, was then bound only "to give lectures on dentistry "during the summer session of three months" and was "under no obligation to give "clinical instruction to the students although he very kindly undertook the latter "duty"—paragraph 4 of the Surgeon-General's letter on page 3 of G.O., Nos. 665, 666, Educational, dated 19th November 1888. He was also giving dental aid at the public hospitals of Madras on four days a week—twice a week at the General Hospital, once a week at the Women and Children's Hospital and once a week at the Native Infirmary—paragraph 3 of the Surgeon-General's letter with G.O., No. 680, Educational, dated 27th September 1883.

5. At the end of the first five years of service he suggested an extended course of lectures whereupon the Surgeon-General thought that "the course of lectures on "dentistry for medical students should extend over six months as proposed by the "Professor, the subjects being Dental Anatomy and Physiology and Dental Surgery. "Along with this, they should receive a course of practical training in the several "operations of the Dental Surgery, be taught how to administer nitrous oxide gas and "get hints as to the simpler appliances of mechanical dentistry"—paragraph 5 of the Surgeon-General's letter on page 3 of G.O., Nos. 665, 666, Educational, dated 19th November 1888. The Government approved of these proposals and "in consideration "of the enlarged course of teaching" they offered Mr. Gould a fixed salary of Rs. 400 a month without leave or pension liability (he demanded Rs. 500—50—1,000)—G.O.,

No. 509, Educational, dated 30th August 1888, on page 3 of G.O., Nos. 665, 666, Educational, dated 19th November 1888. Mr. Gould having accepted the offer application was made to the Government of India for sanction to the increase of pay in Letter No. 666, Educational, dated 19th November 1888. The proposal was eventually sanctioned by the Secretary of State in his despatch with G.O., No. 399, Educational, dated 5th July 1889.

6. Mr. Gould resigned with effect from 1st October 1894—Despatch to the Secretary of State, No. 5, dated 11th June 1894—and Mr. C. F. Badcock was brought out to succeed him. His agreement will be found with G.O., No. 849, Educational, dated 7th November 1894, under clause 3 of which "he will deliver lectures at the "College on Dental Anatomy and Physiology and Dental Surgery, put the students "through a course of practical training in the several operations of Dental Surgery, "attend patients who apply to be treated for dental diseases at the hospitals in Madras "and generally perform all such duties as may be required of him from time to time."

7. The Government of India now desire to know the reasons which led to the pay of the Professor of Dental Surgery in the Madras Medical College being fixed at Rs. 400 instead of Rs. 200 a month. Submitted that they may be informed of the reasons as given in paragraphs 2 to 5 supra and their attention invited to the correspondence ending with our letter No. 666 of the 19th November 1888.

It is to be observed that both the letter of the Madras Government, page 4 of G.O., No. 666, Educational, dated 19th November 1888, and the despatch of the Secretary of State referred specifically to the payment of the enhanced allowance to Mr. Gould, but did not sanction it generally as the pay of the appointment.

Simla, the 21st July 1906.

Sir,

I am directed to forward a copy of the letter from the Government of Bengal noted on the margin, submitting a proposal to increase the allowance attached to the appointment of Professor of Dental Surgery at the Medical College, Calcutta, from Rs. 200/- to Rs. 300/- a month, and to request that, with the permission of the Governor in Council, the Government of India may be informed of the reasons which led to the pay of the similar appointment at the Madras Medical College being fixed at Rs. 400/- instead of Rs. 200 /- a month.

No. 1235 T.M., dated the 21st June 1906.

I have the honour to be,

Sir,

Your most obedient servant,

Under Secretary to the Govt. of India.

To

The Secretary to the Government of India,
Home Department.

Sir,

I am directed to submit for the consideration and orders of the Government of India a representation dated 21st January 1905 from Mr. G. O. Ranger, Professor of Dental Surgery at the Medical College, Calcutta , regarding the pay of that appointment.

2. Under the medical warrant of 1867 the Professorship of Dental Surgery is treated as a Minor Professorship, and the staff salary of the appointment is fixed in all the Presidencies at Rs. 200/- a month. This allowance is under the orders contained in Resolution no. 679, dated 7th February 1880 of the Government of India Department of Finance and Commerce regarded as a local allowance when the Lecturer or Professor holds no substantive public appointment. In Bengal the appointment has been filled by private Dental Practitioners who have drawn the allowance of Rs. 200/- a month for the duties performed by them.

3. The present holder of the appointment Mr. G.O.Ranger, has represented that the allowance which he receivs is inadequate, as compared with that drawn by the Professor of Dental Surgery in the Madras Medical College, and he has urged that in view of the greater importance of the Calcutta appointment it should be incresed so as to exceed that of the corresponding appointment in Madras.

4. The Lieutenant-Governor understands that the pay of the Professor of Dental Surgery, Madras, is Rs. 400/- a month, though he is not aware of the reasons which have led to its being fixed at this amount. The duties of the Madras Officer, the Lieutenant-Governor is informed comprise the delivery of a systematic course of lectures on Dental Surgery every Autum Session i.e. from July to December, twice a week, one hour each day, and he also attends patients at the out-patients Department of the General Hospital three days a week from 7-30 to 9 A.M. The Professor of Dental Surgery, Calcutta, delivers two lectures a week during a course of twenty lectures for the Session which extends from June to August. He attends the out-door Dental Department of the Medical College Hospital twice a week from 7-30 to 9 A.M. and treats Dental patients in the Hospital. He also gives practical instruction to the Military students in the out-patient Department.

5. Although the Madras Professor delivers 34 lectures a year as compared with 20 delivered by the Calcutta Professor it is reported that the latter has very much more practical work to perform, and that, as will be seen from the statement attached, his class is nearly four times as large as that at Madras. The greater number of military pupils at Calcutta involves far heavier work in the matter of practical instruction, and the number of patients treated and of operations performed in Calcutta is also considerably greater than in Madras, as will appear from the statement in the margin. The Calcutta Professor also does a large amount of mechanical work for Surgical patients.

6. For the above reasons the Principal of the Medical College is of opinion that the claim of the Professor of Dental Surgery, Medical College, Calcutta, to increased remuneration deserves consideration, and the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals, Bengal, has recommended that the allowance attached to the appointment should be raied to Rs.300/- a month. The Lieutenant-Governor desires to support this recommendation more especially in view of the fact that the work has largely increased since the allowance was first fixed at Rs. 200/-, and I am accordingly to request that the Government of India may be moved to accord their sanction to the increase of the allowance from Rs. 200/- to Rs. 300.

Dated Calcutta, the 21st January 1905.

Sir,

I have the honour to call your attention to the matter of pay of my appointment at the Medical College, Calcutta, as Professor of Dental Surgery. When I assure you that the pay of the Professor of Dental Surgery in the Madras Medical College is double that which I receive, and point out that the work of my appointment is considerably heavier I would beg to ask you to recommend to the Government of Bengal that the pay of the Professor of Dental Surgery in the Medical College, Calcutta, should certainly in view of its greater importance be increased above that of the Madras appointment.

C. No. 1253 From the Govt. of India No. 633, dated 21-7-1906.

SUBJECT.

Reasons which led to the pay of the Professor of Dental Surgery at the Madras Medical College being fixed at Rs 400

In the general orders of the Govt. of India No 370 of 1867 – the first paper in the Stock file No IV placed below – a revised scale of ~~salaries~~ consolidated salaries was fixed for Officers of the Indian Medical service, in which the Professorship of Dental Surgery in the several Presidencies was considered as a Minor Professorship and a staff salary of Rs 200 per mensem was fixed for it. An officer of the Indian Medical Service holding this Professorship could thus draw the pay of his rank + Rs 200.

2. In Madras however the appointment was never filled up till September 1883 – G.O. No 680 Edl dt 10th October 1883. A. In November 1882 the Surgeon General reported that the sanction conveyed in the general orders of the Govt. of India referred to in the foregoing paragraph had lapsed, & that no member of the Indian Medical Service then serving in Madras was competent to discharge the duties of the Professor – paras 8 & 9 of his letter on page 3 of G.O. No 372 Edl dt 27th November 1882. B. The sanction of the Govt. of India was then requested to revive the Professorship and application made for the selection of a suitable person to fill up the post. Letter No 373 Edl dt 27th November 1882. C.

Also para. 4 of the Surgeon's letter on page 2 of G.O. No 372 Edl dt 27th November 1882. B.

3. The creation of the appointment (on Rs 200 per mensem) was sanctioned in the letter from the Govt. of India printed with G.O. No 96 Edl dt 27th February 1883. D and the first Professor, Mr. H. J. Gould, arrived in Madras

A on the 11th September 1883 – G.O. No 680 Edl dt 10th October 1883 – on a five years agreement. The agreement will be found with G.O. Nos 511-512 Edl dt 3rd August 1883 in the volume of Proceedings for that month.

4. Mr. Gould, it seems, was then bound only "to give lectures " on dentistry during the summer session of 3 months" and was "under no obligation to give clinical instruction to the " students although he very kindly undertook the latter duty" –
E. para. 4 of the Surgeon General's letter on page 3 of G.O. Nos 665-666
Edl. dt 19th November 1888. He was also giving dental aid at the public hospitals of Madras on 4 days a week – twice a week at the General Hospital, once a week at the Women
& Children's Hospital and once a week at the Native Infirmary –
A. para. 3 of the Surgeon General's letter with G.O. No 680 Edl dt 27th September 1883.

5. At the end of the first five years of service he suggested an extended course of lectures whereupon the Surgeon General thought ~~that~~ " the course of lectures ~~on~~ on dentistry for medical " students should extend over six months (as proposed by the Professor), the subjects being
" Dental Anatomy and Physiology and Dental Surgery. Along
" with this, they should receive a course of practical training
" in the several operations of Dental Surgery, be taught how to " administer Nitrous oxide gas and get hints as to the simpler
" appliances of mechanical dentistry" – para. 5 of the Surgeon
E. General's letter on page 3 of G.O. Nos 665-666 Edl dt 19th November 1888. The Govt. approved of these proposals and " in consideration " of the enlarged course of teaching" they offered Mr. Gould

a fixed salary of Rs 400 a month without leave or pension liability (He demanded Rs 500-50-1000) — G.O. No 509 Edl dt 30th August 1888 on page 3

E. of G.O. No 665-666 Edl dt 19th November 1888. Mr. Gould having accepted the offer application was made to the Govt. of India for sanction to the increase of pay in Letter No 666 Edl dt 19th November 1888. ~~and~~ The proposal was eventually sanctioned by the Secretary of State in his despatch with

F. G.O. No 399 Edl dt 5th July 1889.

G. 6. Mr. Gould resigned with effect from 1st October 1894 — despatch to the Secretary of State No 5 dt 11th June 1894 — and Mr. C. F. Badcock was brought out to succeed him. His

H agreement will be found with G.O. No 849 Edl dt 7th November 1894, under Clause 3 of which "he will deliver lectures at the College
" on Dental Anatomy and Physiology and Dental Surgery,
" put the Students through a course of practical training in
" the several operations of Dental Surgery, attend patients who
" apply to be treated for Dental diseases at the Hospitals in Madras
" and generally perform all such duties as may be required
" of him from time to time."

7. The Govt. of India now desire to know the reasons which led to the pay of the Professor of ~~Dentistry~~ Dental Surgery in the Madras Medical College being fixed at Rs 400 instead of Rs 200 a month. Submitted that they may be informed of the reasons as given in paras 2 to 5

E. supra and their attention invited to the correspondence ending with our letter No 666 of ~~the~~ 19th November 1888.
