2. A good educational journal in the vernacular has been for some time a desideratum and is more so now that the aim and scope of elementary education as distinct from secondary have come to be clearly recognized. The existing elementary school masters have to be taught much of what they have to teach and a journal devoted to this object among others as the proposed journal is likely to be, will largely supplement what efforts are made by the inspecting officers to secure the same at Teachers' Associations and central classes. I consider M.E.Ry. Narasimharoyudu competent to undertake the work.

2. It is for consideration whether the permission may be given to MR. V. Narasimha Rayudu for editing & publishing the journal without detriment to public interests.

21/1/07

Neither the Principal of the College nor the D.P.G. has stated whether the publication of the Magazine will interfere with the teacher's ordinary duties.

duties. ~~But~~ Perhaps the D.P.G. has satisfied himself that the magazine will not interfere with the legitimate work of the teacher. For orders whether the permission asked for maybe granted.

Secy.

Permission may be submitted be granted on condition that the assistant attend to his work in his leisure time & that the work does not interfere with his official duties.

22.1.07

An Educational Magazine is very different from a Text Book, a Book of reference. I do not think that permission to publish a Magazine should be granted. In Narasimha Raju's would then have a grievance if he were transferred from Rajahmundry to some other institution. The Magazine might be taken to be the impress of official authority.

Mr. Ganapati Iyer, ~~former~~ of the Law College was permitted to edit the Law Journal - but then he is not a full time officer. Put up those papers please

Please see G.O. no. 61 Educational, dated 2nd Febry 1906, in which ^{permission} ~~sanction~~ was accorded to Ganapati Aiyar, of the Madras Law College, to edit the Law Journal. Attention is solicited to the Hon's remarks on pages 10 and 11 of the G.O.

Not with standing the B.D.'s recommendation I am very doubtful as to the propriety of granting the permission in this case. It is very different from the mere editing of a Law Magazine by a part time officer.
