Memorandum No. 573, Educational, dated 22nd November 1906.

The Director of Public Instruction is requested to be so good as to report—

- (1) the number of hours for which the Principal and Senior Professor, the Junior Professor and the Assistant Professors of the Madras Law College lecture daily and weekly;
- (2) whether any tutorial assistance is given to the students and, if so, when and of what character; and
- (3) whether periodical class examinations are held to test the progress of the students and their understanding of what is taught them.

II

Letter—from the Hon'ble Mr. T. T. LOGAN, B.A., Acting Director of Public Instruction.

To—the Secretary to Government, Educational Department.

Dated—Madras, the 29th November 1906.

No.—Ref. on Cur. No. 8666.

With reference to Government Memorandum No. 573, Educational, dated 22nd November 1906, I have the honour to submit the following details furnished to me by the Principal of the Law College:—

(i) Time-table.—The Principal has pure lecture work for 8 hours a week on Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays.

The Junior Professor has nine hours work a week, viz., pure lecture work for 6 hours and tutorial work in class for 3 hours.

The Assistant Professors each work ten hours a week—Mondays to Fridays. Some hours are devoted to lectures and some to tutorial classes.

(ii) Tutorial assistance to students.—In addition to the above tutorial work provided for, students bring points of difficulty arising from the lectures or from their private reading to the Principal and Professors for elucidation after lecture hours.

(iii) Examinations.—It is reported that class examinations are held when deemed necessary. The practice of holding periodical examinations which existed under the old rules was given up on the introduction of the reduced course of two years.

III

Memorandum No. 612, Educational, dated 17th December 1906.

With reference to his letter No. 8666, dated 29th November 1906, the Director of Public Instruction is requested to be so good as to furnish information on the following points:—

- (1) Under what rule does the Principal of the Law College fail to lecture on Wednesdays.
- (2) Does the Junior Professor lecture on Wednesdays and, if so, for how many hours.
- (3) How in consideration of paragraph 2 of G.O., No. 538, Educational, dated 26th October 1900, did the Principal reduce his hours from 10 to 8 and the Assistant Professor from 10 to 9.
- (4) Is the Junior Professor's tutorial work of 3 hours at definitely assigned hours and the tutorial work of a definite character or merely of a casual conversational nature.
- (5) Of the ten hours a week during which the Assistant Professors attend the College, how many hours are devoted to lectures and how many to tutorial classes. Is the tutorial work at definitely assigned hours and of a definite character.

(By Order.)

IV

Letter—from the Hon'ble Mr. T. T. LOGAN, B.A., Acting Director of Public Instruction.

To—the Secretary to Government, Educational Department.

Dated—Madras, the 17th January 1907.

No.—R.C. No. 8666 of 1906.

I have the honour to submit the following replies to the queries contained in Memorandum No. 612, Educational, dated 17th December 1906:—

- (1) The time-tables submitted by the Principal at the commencement of each term show that no lecture or class work has ever been taken by him on Wednesdays. Mr. Nelson reports that he, however, attends College on Wednesdays, reserving that day for the disposal of office work, and that he is not aware of any rule requiring him to lecture on specific days of the week.
- (2) The Junior Professor has two hours' lecture work on Wednesdays.
- (3) In G.O., No. 651, Educational, dated 15th December 1900, the Principal was permitted to devote six hours a week to lectures and four hours to the holding of classes. In 1903 Mr. Nelson, however, proposed to deliver two extra lectures a week in lieu of the four classes, with a view to finish the subjects by the end of the term. The proposal was accepted by Mr. Stuart (the then Director of Public Instruction), and the Principal has since been lecturing for eight hours a week instead of devoting six hours to lectures and four hours to classes. This arrangement was also brought to the notice of Government in Dr. Bourne's letter embodied in G.O., No. 604, Educational, dated 7th December 1903.

The time-tables * for the latter portion of the Autumn term of last year, which were submitted by Mr. Nelson soon after his return from leave, show that the Junior Professor had only nine hours work in the week. But it is reported that the reduction (from ten to nine hours) was in the tutorial class work, and not in lectures, and that it was only for a portion of the term. During the Spring term and the earlier portion of the Autumn term his lecture and class work amounted to eleven hours and twelve hours per week, respectively, and there has therefore been in effect no reduction in the minimum amount of work required to be done by the Junior Professor.

(4) Is the Junior Professor's tutorial work of three hours at definitely assigned hours and the tutorial work of a definite character or merely of a casual conversational nature?

(4) The Junior Professor's tutorial work is at definitely assigned hours—3 to 4 P.M. on Mondays, Tuesdays and Fridays. I am informed that his work in the classes is divided as follows:—

- (a) The History of Real Property.
- (b) The Existing Law of Real Property.
- (c) The Indian Law of Real Property.

Under each of these heads the work is divided into three:—

I. Matters either not mentioned or only referred to generally in the lectures.

II. The prescribed text-books. Difficulties therein are explained and if necessary compared with the statements of other text-writers on the subject.

III. Questions and answers in class. This is to test the progress of each student individually as far as possible. It enables the Professor to see how far they understand the subject and what has been said to them in lectures, and it also trains them in the correct expression of the legal terms used.

(5) Of the ten hours a week during which the Assistant Professors attend the College, how many hours are devoted to lectures and how many to tutorial classes? Is the tutorial work at definitely assigned hours and of a definite character?

(5) The first Assistant Professor devotes five hours to lectures and five hours to tutorial classes, and the latter are held from 10 to 11 A.M. on Mondays to Fridays.

During the Spring terms the second Assistant Professor devotes five hours per week to tutorial work in the junior B.L. class and five hours to lectures in the Pledership class. The tutorial classes are held from 11 A.M. to 12 noon on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays and from 12 noon to 1 P.M. on Tuesdays and Thursdays. During the Autumn terms he is solely engaged in lecture work with the Pledership class.

The first Assistant Professor's tutorial work consists in putting questions to students (for the purpose of ascertaining whether they have intelligently followed the lectures) eliciting answers from the students and explaining to them any doubts which they may have. Sometimes the tutorial work takes the shape of illustrating in detail the principles which the students learn during lecture hours.

Second Assistant Professor.—As to the nature of the tutorial work in Jurisprudence, the Principal lectures to the whole of the F.L. class four times a week. The class when it goes to the second Assistant Professor is divided into four sections, each section containing about 40 students. The four sections go to him in turns during the first four days of the week, and on the fifth day the sections are taken alternately, so that in four consecutive weeks each section gets an additional hour. During each of the first four days he puts questions to the students on the portions dealt with in the Principal's lectures, and expounds also the same subject with special reference to Markby's Elements of Law, one of the text-books prescribed for the F.L. examination and assigned to him. The hour on the fifth day, when the sections attend alternately, is devoted by him entirely to questions on Austin and Markby (i.e., on the subject of Jurisprudence generally)—the prescribed text-books on the subject—without any independent exposition during that hour.

[Memorandum No. 573, Educational, dated 22nd November 1906.]

From the Director of Public Instruction, dated 29th November 1906, No. 8666.

The Director of Public Instruction reports that—

(a) the Principal lectures 8 hours in a week—on Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays,

(b) the Junior Professor has 9 hours' work in a week—lecture work 6 hours and tutorial work 3 hours,

(c) the Assistant Professors have ten hours' work each in a week—lecturing and tutorial.

2. In addition to the tutorial work given above the Principal and Professors clear points of difficulties felt by students after lecture hours.

3. No periodical class examinations are held to test the progress of the students.

T.K.—5-12-06.

Under rule XII (iii) of the old rules of the Law College the Principal had to work for at least 15 hours a week in delivering lectures and taking classes, not less than 8 hours a week in delivering lectures and not less than 7 hours a week in taking classes. Mr. Nelson did not however conform to the rule from 1896 and the Director had to remonstrate with him on six occasions. During the first term of 1899 Mr. Nelson devoted only 7 hours a week to teaching. In 1900 the Government requested the Director to call upon Mr. Nelson to report how he proposed to comply with the rule. Mr. Nelson then reported that 15 hours' work a week was too much for the Principal of a Professional College and in this the Director agreed with him. The minimum work of the Principal was then reduced to 10 hours a week, but Mr. Nelson seems to have reduced it to 8 hours. Under G.O., No. 538, Educational, 26th October 1900, the Vice-Principal has to lecture for not less than 10 hours a week, but Mr. Odgers lectures for only 9 hours.

2. Under rule 11 of the Law College rules as it now stands "The Principal and the Junior Professor shall devote their whole time to the work of the College and shall be debarred from pursuing their profession except in consulting or chamber practice."

Under rule 12 "the duties of the Professors, Assistant Professors and Special Lecturers shall from time to time be determined by the Principal."

3. Under the agreements of the Principal and the Junior Professor also they have to devote their whole time to the duties of their office.

4. The Assistant Professors are not full time men—G.O., No. 114, dated 26th February 1906 also G.O., No. 59, Educational, dated 4th February 1902.

P. T. THARYAN—8-12-06.

C. G. MACKAY—10-12-06.

H. D. TAYLOR—11-12-06.

Under what rule does the Principal fail to lecture on Wednesdays. Does the Junior Professor lecture on that day or not.

1. Is Saturday a holiday at the Presidency College and Civil Engineering College?

2. Ask the Director to explain or get an explanation how in face of Government Order, dated 26th October 1900, the Principal reduced his hours from 10 to 8 and the Assistant Professor from 10 to 9.

3. Is the Assistant Professor's tutorial work of 3 hours at definitely assigned hours, and the tutorial work of a definite character, or merely of a casual conversational nature.

4. What was the old rule referred to under which class examinations were held, and was the cessation of the practice sanctioned, if so where is the order or did it simply lapse, and if so what justification is put forward.

G. S. F[ORBES]—12-12-06.

H. D. TAYLOR—13-12-06.

The draft placed below is submitted for approval. The Honourable Member has not asked for the information referred to in clause (5), but when information is called for in respect of the Junior Professor similar information in regard to Assistant Professors may be required.

2. With regard to the reduction of the Principal's hours of instruction referred to in clause (3), attention is solicited to paragraph 2 of Dr. Bourne's letter printed on page 3 of G.O., No. 601, Educational, dated 7th December 1903. The late Mr. Stuart allowed Mr. Nelson to substitute two hours' lecture work for four hours' tutorial work, but it seems doubtful whether this arrangement was not intended to hold good for 1903 only.

3. Saturday is a holiday at the Presidency and Engineering Colleges. Please see time-table at page 21 of the Presidency College Calendar for 1906 and Standing Order 16 for the students of the College of Engineering on page 103 of that College Calendar for the same year.

4. The old rule about class examination was rule XV on page 7 of G.O., No. 850, Educational, dated 28th October 1895. Under clause (i) of that rule the B.L. classes were to have class examinations at the end of the second and fifth terms. There were then six terms and the F.L. had to be passed at the end of the third and the B.L. at the end of the sixth term—rule IV. Under the new rules sanctioned in G.O., No. 483, Educational, dated 15th August 1902, the course now extends to four terms, the F.L. being passed at the end of the second term and the B.L. at the end of the fourth term—rule 113. The class examinations of the old rule are thus no longer necessary, but in other colleges there are other periodical class examinations and it will be an advantage to have such examinations in the Law College also.

P. T. THARYAN—13-12-06.

C. G. MACKAY—15-12-06.

Issue the memorandum please.

H. D. TAYLOR—16-12-06.

[Memorandum No. 612, dated 17th December 1906.]

From the Director of Public Instruction, dated 17th January 1907.

The Director of Public Instruction now furnishes the information called for in memorandum No. 612, dated 17th December 1906.

2. Principal and the Junior Professor.—With reference to clauses (1) and (2) of the memorandum enquiring under what rule the Principal of the Law College fails to lecture on Wednesdays and whether the Junior Professor lectures on Wednesdays and if so for how many hours, the Director of Public Instruction states that from the time-tables submitted by the Principal at the commencement of each term, it is observed that no lectures or class work has ever been taken by the Principal on Wednesdays, but that the Junior Professor has two hours' lecture work on Wednesdays. The Director of Public Instruction adds that Mr. Nelson reports that he attends College on Wednesdays, reserving that day for the disposal of office-work and that he (Mr. Nelson) is not aware of any rule requiring him to lecture on specific days of the week.

3. As regards clause (3) of the memorandum enquiring how in consideration of G.O., No. 538, Educational, dated 26th October 1900, did the Principal reduce his hours from 10 to 8 and the Junior Professor from 10 to 9, the Director of Public Instruction states that in G.O., No. 651, Educational, dated 15th December 1900, the Principal was permitted to devote six hours to lectures and four hours for the holding of classes, that in 1903, Mr. Nelson proposed to deliver two extra lectures a week in lieu of the four classes, with the view of finishing the subjects by the end of the term, that this proposal was accepted by Mr. Stuart (the then Director of Public Instruction) and that the Principal has since been lecturing for eight hours a week instead of devoting six hours to lectures and four hours to classes. Mr. Logan adds that this arrangement was also brought to the notice of Government in Dr. Bourne's letter embodied in G.O., No. 604, Educational, dated 7th December 1903.

4. As regards the Junior Professor, the Director of Public Instruction points out that the time-tables for the latter portion of the autumn term of last year, which were submitted by Mr. Nelson soon after his return from leave, show that the Junior Professor had only nine hours' work in the week, that the reduction from ten to nine hours was in the tutorial class work and not in lectures, and that it was only for a portion of the term. It is stated that during the spring term and the earlier part of the autumn term his lecture and class work amounted to 11 hours and 12 hours per

I asked Mr. Odgers distinctly whether his nine hours included both lectures and tutorial work and he told me that it was so and that if an hour were given to tutorial work there was an hour's less lecturing. I may have misunderstood but I asked 2 or 3 questions to make the point clear.

G. S. F[ORRES].

the lectures and of difficulties in the prescribed text-books, and also of questions and answers in the class.

5. Assistant Professors.—The First Assistant Professor devotes five hours to lectures and five hours to tutorial classes, the latter being held from 10 to 11 A.M. on Mondays to Fridays, and the tutorial work consists of questions and answers and of illustrating in detail the principles which the students learn during lecture hours. The Second Assistant Professor has five hours' lecturing work and five hours' tutorial work in the spring terms, while during the autumn terms he is solely engaged in lecture work with the Pleaders' class. I think it would be a better arrangement for the Principal to do some class work and explain his own lectures?

H. D. TAYLOR.

I have proposed two hours' lectures a day (i.e. ten hours a week) and 2 hours on each day of tutorial and class work.

G. S. F[ORRES].

week respectively and that there has therefore been in effect no reduction in the minimum amount of work required of the Junior Professor. The Junior Professor's tutorial work is said to be at definitely assigned hours (3 to 4 P.M. on Mondays, Tuesdays and Fridays) and to consist of explanations of matters either not mentioned or only referred to generally in

The tutorial work consists of questions and answers and of explanations of difficult points in the lectures delivered by the Principal.

Madras

To The Secretary to the Government of Madras, Educational Department.

Sir,

With reference to Government Memorandum No. 573 Educational dated 22nd November 1906 I have the honour to submit the following details furnished to me by the Principal of the Law College:-

(i) Time-Table.

The Principal has pure lecture work for 8 hours a week-on Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays.

The Junior Professor has nine hours work a week viz., pure lecture work for 6 hours and tutorial work in class for 3 hours.

The Assistant Professors each work 10 hours a week- Mondays to Fridays- . Some hours are devoted to lectures and some to tutorial classes.

(ii) Tutorial assistance to students.

In addition to the above tutorial work provided for, students bring points of difficulty arising from the lectures or from their private reading to the Principal and Professors for elucidation after lecture hours.

(iii) Examinations.

It is reported that class examinations are held when deemed necessary. The practice of holding periodical examinations which existed under the old rules, was given up on the introduction of the reduced course of two years.

I have the honour to be,

Sir,

Your most obedient servant,

Educational, dated 26th October 1900, did the Principal reduce his hours from 10 to 8 and the Assistant Professor from 10 to 9?

(x should apparently be 'Junior')

December 1900, the Principal was permitted to devote six hours a week to lectures and four hours to the holding of classes. In 1903 Mr. Nelson, however, proposed to deliver two extra lectures a week in lieu of the four classes, with a view to finish the subjects by the end of the term. The proposal was accepted by Mr. Stuart (the then Director of Public Instruction), and the Principal has since been lecturing for 8 hours a week instead of devoting 6 hours to lectures and 4 hours to classes. This arrangement was also brought to the notice of Government in Dr. Bourne's letter embodied in G.O. No. 604, Educational, dated 7th December 1903.

+ copies enclosed

The time-tables⁺ for the latter portion of the autumn term of last year, which were submitted by Mr. Nelson soon after his return from leave, shew that the Junior Professor had only 9 hours work in the week. But it is reported that the reduction (from 10 to 9 hours) was in the tutorial class work, and not in lectures, and that it was only for a portion of the term. During the Spring term and the earlier portion of the autumn term his lecture and class work amounted to 11 hours and 12 hours per week, respectively, and there has therefore been in effect no reduction in the minimum amount of work required to be done by the Junior Professor.

(4) The Junior Professor's tutorial work is at definitely assigned hours - 3 to 4 P.M. on Mondays, Tuesdays and Fridays. I am informed that his work in the classes is divided as follows:-

- (a) The History of Real Property.
- (b) The Existing Law of Real Property.
- (c) The Indian Law of Real Property.

Under each of these heads the work is divided into three:-

- I. Matters either not mentioned or only referred to generally in the Lectures.
- II. The prescribed text-books. Difficulties therein are explained and if necessary compared with the statements of other text-writers on the subject.
- III. Questions and answers in class. This is to test the progress of each student individually as far as possible. It enables the Professor to see how far they understand the subject and what has been said to them in Lectures, and it also trains them in the correct expression of the legal terms used."

(5) The First Assistant Professor devotes 5 hours

(5) Of the ten hours a week during which the Assistant Professors attend the College, how many hours are devoted to lectures and how many to tutorial classes? Is the tutorial work at definitely assigned hours and of a definite character?

to lectures and 5 hours to tutorial classes, and the latter are held from 10 to 11 A.M. on Mondays to Fridays.

During the Spring terms the Second Assistant Professor devotes 5 hours per week to tutorial work in the Junior E.L. class and 5 hours to lectures in the Pleadership class. The tutorial classes are held from 11 A.M. to 12 noon on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays and from 12 noon to 1 P.M. on Tuesdays and Thursdays. During the Autumn terms he is solely engaged in lecture work with the Pleadership class.

The First Assistant Professor's tutorial work consists in putting questions to students (for the purpose of ascertaining whether whether they have intelligently followed the lectures) eliciting answers from the students and explaining to them any doubts which they may have. Sometimes the tutorial work takes the shape of illustrating in detail the principles which the students learn during lecture hours.

Second Assistant Professor.- As to the nature of the tutorial work in Jurisprudence, the Principal lectures to the whole of the F.L. class four times a week. The class when it goes to the Second Assistant Professor is divided into four sections, each section containing about 40 students. The four sections go to him in turns during the first four days of the week, and on the fifth day the sections are taken alternately, so that in four consecutive weeks each section gets an additional hour. During each of the first four days he puts questions to the students on the portions dealt with in the Principal's lectures, and expounds also the same subject with special reference to Markby's Elements of Law, one of the text-books prescribed for the F.L. examination and assigned to him. The hour on the fifth day, when the sections attend alternately, is devoted by him entirely to questions on Austin and Markby (i.e. on the subject of Jurisprudence generally) - the prescribed text-books on the subject - without any independent exposition during that hour.

I have the honour to be,

Sir,

Your most obedient servant,

Under rule XII(iii) of the old rules of the Law College the Principal had to work for at least 15 hours a week ^{delivering} in lectures and ^{taking} classes - not less than 8 hours a week ^{delivering} in lectures and not less than 7 hours a week ^{taking} in classes. Mr. Nelson did not however conform to the rule from 1896 and the Director had to remonstrate with him on six occasions. During the first term of 1899 Mr. Nelson devoted only 7 hours a week to teaching. In 1900 the Government requested the Director to call upon Mr. Nelson to report how he proposed to comply with the rule. Mr. Nelson then reported that 15 hours work a week was too much for the Principal of a Professional College and in this the Director agreed with him. The minimum work of the Principal was then reduced to 10 hours a week, but Mr. Nelson seems to have reduced it to 8 hours.

agreed

Under 42. no 53891 d1 26th October 1900 the Vice-Principal has to lecture for not less than 10 hours a week. (later) Other lectures for 9 hours.

2. Under rule 11 of the Law College rules as it now stands "The Principal and the Junior Professor shall devote their whole time to the work of the College and shall be debarred from pursuing their profession except in consulting or chamber practice."

Under rule 12 "the duties of the Professors, Assistant Professors and Special Lecturers shall from time to time be determined by the Principal."

3. Under the agreements of the Principal and the Junior Professor also they have to devote their whole time to the duties of their office.

4. The Assistant Professors are not full time men. 42. no 1144 d1 26th February 1906 - also 42. no 59 191 d1 16th February 1902.

Wednesdays. The D.P.G. adds that Mr. Nelson reports that he attends College on Wednesdays, reserving that day for the disposal of office work and that he (Mr. Nelson) is not aware of any rule requiring him to lecture on specific days of the week.

3. As regards clause 3 of the memorandum enquiring ^{how} in ~~class~~ Consideration of G.O. No. 538 Vol. Q dated 26th October 1900, did the Principal reduce his hours from 10 to 8 and the ~~Assistant~~ Junior Professor from 10 to 9, the D.P.G. states that in G.O. No. 651, Educational, dated 15th December 1900, the Principal was permitted to devote six hours to lectures and four hours for the holding of classes, that in 1903, Mr. Nelson proposed to deliver two extra lectures a week in lieu of the four classes, with the view of finishing the subjects by the end of the term, that this proposal was accepted by Mr. Stuart (then Director of Public Inst^{ns}) and that the Principal has since been lecturing for eight hours a week instead of devoting six hours to lectures and four hours to classes. Mr. Logan adds that this arrangement was also brought to the notice of Government in Dr. Bourne's letter embodied in G.O. No. 604 Vol. Q dated 7th December 1903.

4. As regards the Junior Professor the D.P.G. however points out that the time-table time-tables for the latter portion of the autumn term of last year, which were submitted by Mr. Nelson soon after his return from leave, show that the Junior Professor had only nine hours work in the week, that the reduction from ten to nine hours was in the tutorial Class work not in lectures, and that it was only for a portion of the term. It is stated that during the Spring term and the earlier part of the autumn term his lecture and classwork amounted to 11 hours and 12 hours per week respectively and that there has therefore been in effect no reduction of in the minimum amount of work required of the Junior Professor. The Junior Professor's tutorial work is, at definitely assigned hours, (3 to 4 P.M. on Mondays, Tuesdays and Fridays) and to consist of explanation of matters either not mentioned or only referred to generally in the lectures and of difficulties in the prescribed text-books, and of questions and answers in the class.

Assistant Professors -
5. The first Assistant Professor devotes five hours to lectures and five hours to tutorial classes, the latter being held from 10 to 11 A.M. on Mondays to Fridays, and the tutorial work consists of questions and answers and of illustrating in detail the principles which the students learn during lecture hours. The second
