Letter—from A. L. WRIGHT, Esq., Examiner, Public Works Accounts, Madras and Coorg.

To—the Secretary to Government, Public Works Department.

Dated—Madras, the 23rd April 1907.

No.—330-A.E.

Reference.—G.O., No. 77, Educational, dated 15th February 1907, communicated with your Memorandum No. 1733-C., dated 16th March 1907.

I beg to point out that no orders have been passed by Government in the Educational Department regarding the Précis-writing Examination referred to in paragraph 3 of my office-note No. 942 A/E., dated 23rd November 1906, and to enquire whether that examination is to be treated as obligatory.

No. 249 D., dated 20th May 1907.

Transferred to the Educational Department.

A. G. ROMILLY,
Under-Secretary to Govt., P.W.D.

Order—No. 312, Educational, dated 22nd May 1907.

The Précis-writing Test is no more obligatory than any other special test, i.e., it is a test which is a necessary antecedent condition of holding certain posts. The examination in question should not therefore be treated as obligatory for the purpose of article 1116 of the Civil Service Regulations.

Attention is invited to page 5 of K.W. G.O., No. 77, Educational, dated 15th February 1907, as to why the Précis-writing test was not referred to in the order.

T. KANAKASUNDARAM PILLAI—10-5-07.

The Précis-writing test was omitted under orders. It certainly is an obligatory test for all Government servants (except those specially exempted) who desire to hold posts carrying Rs. 60 or more.

C. A. SOUTER—10-5-07.

Yes, but the point is that it is optional with candidates to enter for this examination, and they do so for their own advantage. It is the same in regard to every special test, and I do not think that it should be treated as an obligatory departmental examination for the purposes of article 1116, Civil Service Regulations.

H. D. TAYLOR—11-5-07.

Point out that it is no more obligatory than any other special test, i.e., it is a test which is a necessary antecedent condition of holding certain posts. If the person does not hold the qualification he is not entitled to hold or be promoted to the post.
