Sir,

I have the honour to invite a reference to the correspondence ending with G.O. No. 368 Edl., dated 31st May 1905, ordering that remuneration of Rs. 75-0-0 sanctioned in G.O. No. 1914 M., dated 10th December 1894, for the Asstt Professor of Hygiene in the Madras Medical College for his work in connection with the class for training Sanitary Inspectors, should be discontinued and to enquire whether the remuneration of Rs. 25 sanctioned for the attendants in the same G.O. should be continued to be disbursed to them.
In the order of 1905 as well in G.O. No. 522 Edl., dated 22 delivered by the Asstt. Professor of Hygiene in connection with the Sanitary Inspectors' training class should be considered a part of his regular duties and I feel doubtful whether the work of the attendants should not also be viewed in the same manner. Pending reply to this reference, the payment of the bill for the session 1906-07 has been kept in abeyance. The favour of early orders on the subject is solicited.

I have the honour to be, the sanitary inspectors class. In G.O. No. 718 dated 21st November 1902, the Govt. held that the Professor of Hygiene should not claim any separate remuneration for delivering a course of lectures on hygiene to the sanitary inspectors class, as this formed part of the duties of the professor of Hygiene under the scheme for the reorganisation of the medical college sanctioned in G.O. No. 371 dated 2nd July 1901. For a similar reason the allowance to the Professor of Physiology was also discontinued - vide G.O. No. 450 dated 17th September 1903. In the case of the Assistant Professor of Hygiene and Bacteriology, the allowance was stopped, as his salary was raised from Rs 100-10-200 to Rs 200-20-300 owing to the addition of bacteriological work - vide G.O. No. 368 dated 31st May 1905, and the notes thereon. It is not clear what the duties of these attendants are and whether there is any necessity for the continuance of the additional remuneration of Rs 25 sanctioned in G.O. No. 1914 M. dated 10th Decr. 1894. It is not also known what pay these attendants get and among how many of them, the remuneration of Rs 25 is distributed. The servants employed in the class are an attendant who is paid Rs 15 out of the allowance and two lascars who are paid Rs 5 each. The Principal whom I consulted reports:—

"These servants have been drawing the same pay since the establishment of the Hygiene laboratory about 15 years ago, although their work has subsequently increased with the commencement of the Sanitary Inspectors' class in 1895 and more so again with the institution in 1901 of the Bacteriological Courses for the College department and the addition in 1903 to the Curriculum of the Class for the Sanitary Inspectors of bacteriological demonstrations. The deprivation of the allowance under these circumstances should, it appears to me, inflict a hardship on the servants."

The orders of the Government of India regarding fees for extraneous work are not aimed at menial servants -but the receipt of separate fees in a case like this is best avoided. It would be better to to increase the pay of the men -the attendant by Rs.

The Government are unable to ^{authorize} permit the continuance beyond the year 1907-08 of the remuneration of Rs.25 per annum sanctioned to the menial servants of the Medical College for their work in connection with the training of Sanitary Inspectors. The payment of this remuneration should therefore cease from 1st April 1908.

2. In order to compensate the menial servants who are now in receipt of this remuneration, namely, the attendant and two lascars, the Government consider that their pay should be increased, the pay of the attendant by Rs.1-8-0 per mensem and that of the lascars by eight annas per mensem each.
