gates, 1650 boys plus 684 girls belonged to the scheduled castes and the rest were non-scheduled castes. The Government Labour Department maintained 44 schools, while the aided managements maintained 16 schools for depressed classes. There were altogether 2911 boys plus 987 girls of the scheduled castes reading in all the schools in the District during 1937-38 while the corresponding numbers on 31-3-1937 were 2744 boys plus 927 girls.

The rise in the number of general schools admitting scheduled class children and the number of such children reading in general schools is not much inspite of all efforts on the part of the Departmental Officers, and the general body of the teachers who may now said to be quite alive to the necessity of admitting depressed class children into general schools. Poverty, and the uneconomic/dependence on the local conditions
