In continuation of my letter of even number dated 22-8-47 forwarding to you a copy of the Convocation Procedure for 1946, I have the honour to inform you that the Syndicate at its meeting held on 12-9-47 resolved to invite the attention of the Government to the fact that at the Convocation in this University, there are no oaths extracted but certain promises, the field of which is entirely cultural and humanitarian, are required to be made. It is not known how the allegation that the cries of 'no' at the Andhra University Convocation, came to be made, since it is not a fact. A The Syndicate would be obliged if the person who made the complaint, would after going through the Promises, point out what exactly offends his nationalistic sentiments. The Syndicate is of opinion that no change need be made in the Andhra University.

GRADUATES' OATHS

Sir,—The declarations and promises, which the University authorities demand of the new graduates—as they (the promises) are now,—are not to the general liking of the Nationalist pupils. It is disgraceful to hear murmurs of 'No' from corners of the Convocation Hall, in answer to some of the questions put to them.

I suggest that the University authorities should take steps to amend the declarations and promises demanded of the graduates so as to satisfy the sentiments of the young graduates in the future.

As the ensuing Convocation will be held only after the date of transfer of power to Indian hands, there will not be any difficulty in effecting the amendments.

Please see the letters from the Registrars of the three Universities on pp. 3,5 and 11 cf. and their enclosures on pp. 7 - 9 cf. at (Q). The procedure to be observed in convocations of the Madras University is given on pp. 276-287 of the Madras University Calendar, 45-46, Vol. I. Part I. The procedure obtaining in the Annamalai University is laid down on pp. 7-9 cf. and that in the Andhra University is given in pamphlet at (Q). The oaths to be observed are more or less the same all the three Universities. The singing of the National Anthem of Britain by the Band is observed only in the Annamalai University. The Registrar, Madras University states that no change of procedure appears necessary. The Registrar, Annamalai University, states that there is nothing derogatory for any graduate of the University to take the prescribed oaths, and that however, the question of revision of these oaths will be placed before the syndicate and its views communicated to Govt. The Registrar, Andhra University has not stated anything on the question of revision of the oaths. Presumably, he is also of the opinion that no change in the present form of oaths is necessary. The file may now be circulated to H.M(Education) with reference to his minutes on pp. 1-3-ante.

I have seen the oaths taken in the Madras University and I think there is nothing to which objection can be taken. The singing of the National Anthem of Britain by the band should be asked to be stopped in the Annamalai University and I think ~~xxxxxxx~~/'God Save the King' is sung in the Madras University also. If it is so, that may be stopped and something more suitable may be substituted.
