I have the honour to invite your attention to paragraph (1) of the Government order referred to above and to state, that, on a detailed examination of the question of time required for training teachers for deaf-mutes, done recently in consultation with the correspondents of the Schools for the Deaf-mutes in the Province, it has been ascertained that, the minimum time required for the training is two years. Though all the Correspondents hold the view that teachers for the blind can be trained in one year, they have unanimously stated that in the interest of efficiency the minimum period of training for teachers of the deaf-mutes should be two years.

2. When the Budget Estimate is prepared during 1949-50 this will be kept in view and the estimates will be prepared taking into account any charges that may be necessitated in the figures due to raising the minimum period of training from one to two years for teachers of deaf-mutes.

Yours faithfully,

K. S. Kannan

For Director of Public Instruction

Schools. Special - Deaf and Dumb - Training of teachers.
Extension of the period of training from one to two years

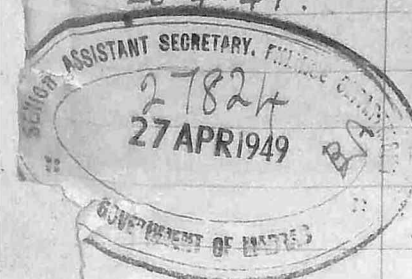

From the DP. RC. 40 22/48 & 10.2.49

In order to enable the opening of new schools for the deaf & dumb, the Govt have sanctioned the training of six teachers (Three Tamil & Three Telugu) for the deaf & dumb in the existing aided schools, but it was not possible to give the training. The Govt have agreed to sanction the training of six teachers for the deaf & dumb in the current year. As in the case of teachers for the blind, it was considered that the period of training may be for one year and provision has been made for the period of training of 10 months in the current year. The DP & also reports that the requisite period of training for teachers for the deaf & dumb is two years and that necessary provision will be included in the BE for 1950-51 for the continuance of the training of the teachers in that year.

According to the present proposal, the ultimate cost on account of the training of six teachers for the deaf & dumb will be doubled but in view of the necessity to train teachers, the Director's proposal may be accepted.

The remarks of Finance may be invited.
